

Annual FFA and 4-H Fat Stock Show April 8

WATCH EAST WARD GROW!

To the teachers of reading in grades four through eight:

I would like to discuss with you the problem of helping your very poor readers. We have been devoting some time and energy to improving our slow readers in Seminole, Lamesa, Big Spring, Andrews, Denver City, and Sundown; and we have seen some marked improvement.

In general we find that these pupils do not like to read, that they spend very little time reading except when actually called upon to read in class, and that they have a pronounced sense of failure and discouragement in connection with the whole business of reading. Our point of beginning is to remove this sense of failure and to build up confidence and a strong feeling of success. Are you thinking, "How nice, but please tell me how such a thing can be done." Fine! That is just what I want to do.

We use primers, first readers, second readers, and third readers with these pupils. We searched for new, attractive, colorful, interesting books at this level which our pupils had never seen before. We found them in the better sets of readers which have been published in recent years, but which have not been adopted for use in Texas. The books that we have found are all that we could desire. I am enclosing a list of these books with publishers and prices. The prices quoted may be somewhat higher now. If your funds will not permit purchasing all of these books, you can probably get enough to see how the idea works in your school. If you have not any money at all, you may use a collection of old books which you have on hand. These old readers will not provide the interest and the enthusiasm that the new ones will, but they are better than nothing.

We use these easy books to give our pupils an abundance of material for easy, independent reading. It has been surprising to even the most optimistic of us how our slow readers take to this kind of reading. They seem to enjoy reading page after page in the easy books, which we give them, without experiencing any difficulty. We do our part to make their success seem very much worthwhile. We say, "That's fine! I am proud of you. You don't mean to say you have read all the way over to page 50 already? Read some for me; I want to see how well you are reading." It sometimes helps to write the pupil's mother saying how well her child is doing in his new reading material. As you see, we are doing our best to give these pupils a strong stimulus of success—something that is more or less new to most of them. When you get it to working you will be surprised at what happens.

In addition to using the stimulus of success it also helps to do a little stage setting. Make the arrival of the new books something to look forward to. When the package arrives unpack it in the room and do some exclaiming. Show the books and talk about how very interesting they look. Just a little of this kind of business will do wonders. The only trouble will be that all the other pupils will want to usurp the privilege of reading the books and they will not be available for the slow children for whom they were ordered.

It might be well to point out that along with the abundance of easy, independent reading which the slow reader does every day it is well to teach him the initial consonant sounds. He will probably already know many of them, but very few of our poor readers know as much about phonics as they need to know. I am enclosing a list of the 53 initial consonant sounds and consonant blends that should be taught.

This letter has been about ways to help slow readers in grades four through eight. We have advocated giving them an abundance of easy, independent reading everyday in new, attractive, interesting books. We want them to come to feel confidence and feel welcome and to help us. They have gone through four and a half years of war and know what rationing is. Yet you never hear any complaints. They know how to take it. They know very little about the history of the USA, but in recent years have taken to making a study of it and are now issuing books about us. I am highly pleased with the people, admire them a lot. Of course, there is no one that takes the place of a good Texan, but that's another story. The UK is ruled over by a king, who has little power, but is somewhat of a symbol and HIGHLY respected. Mr. Churchill, the prime minister, really is

F. F. A. News

The officers of the Future Farmers of America held a meeting in the V. A. room Tuesday, March 21, and set the date for the annual Father-Son banquet to be held April 21, in the high school gymnasium. Committees were appointed to make plans and arrangements for this occasion.

Those appointed were as follows: Program committee, Donald Delisle, chairman, Harold Casey, Kenneth Carlisle; guest committee, Dub Rumfield, chairman, Lane Ericson; finance and purchase, Jimmie Brysen, chairman, David McAteer, Wendell Parker; arrangements, Orville Robinson, chairman, Elmer Gannon, Dewie Watson, Pete Adcock, James Swanner; clean-up, Charles Harris, chairman, Warren Kooner, J. D. Elkins, Leonard Calvert; wood supply, Charles Kimbell, Clark Gregston, Cleston Pritchett.

success, and when the fires of enthusiasm are burning brightly we feed them one good book after another and check up on them daily to see how well they are progressing and to lend encouragement. A streamlined course in phonics is also suggested.

This plan is not theoretical. It is proving successful RIGHT NOW in our classrooms. I hope that you can make it work. Believe me, it is lots of fun when you can get your pupils fired up. I wish that I could drop in on you and help you to do it.

Sincerely yours,

Field Studies in Education.

with its seat in London and county or shire government. England and Wales are more closely connected than England is with Scotland and Northern Ireland, but there is little difference. England has 40 shires (a shire is a county) and Wales 12 shires. The three main parties, Labor, Liberal and Conservative parties, select their candidates to run for parliament. The party in power selects the prime minister. If a man fails to be selected to run by either of the parties, he can run as an independent and sometimes is elected. Salary for the house of commons is 600 pounds or $2,400 a year, but the member of the house of commons usually is helped out financially by funds from his party. Lords draw no salary.

Counties or shires are run by a county council composed of many members who draw no pay. This council is divided into various committees such as a road committee, school committee, etc. Cities, likewise, are run by councils much the same way. Highest law enforcement officer in the shire is the chief constable who is head of the city and county police. The high sheriff is appointed mostly because he is a big land owner or stands high in the shire and he draws no salary and has no duties much except to see that the circuit judges have means of travel from county to county. If a town is of a certain size and has a cathedral in it, it is a city, otherwise it is a corporation. Senior members of a city council are called aldermen.

England has no federal constitution as we have one, although they have somewhat of a tradition.

District 9 Baptist Convention Meets In Petersburg March 28

To the Voters of Dickens County: At this time I want to announce my candidacy for sheriff and tax assessor-collector of Dickens county.

I have been in the county all my life. A lot of you people know me and a lot of you do not. I am entering this race strictly on my own merits and not on any demerits of the other boys. A petition signed by 21 voters of the Duck Creek common school district have petitioned the county judge to call a special election for the purpose of raising the school tax of that district from 50 cents to $1.00 for maintenance purposes. The election will be held at the time of the trustee election which will be Saturday, April 1.

Governor Starts Easter Seal Sale

Governor Coke Stevenson this week formally launched the annual Easter Seal Sale of the Texas Society for Crippled Children by the purchase of the first sheet of seals and announcement of the necessity of the campaign through official proclamation. The Governor bought the first seals sold this year in Texas from pretty little Joanne Frost, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Frost, 4233 Cole Avenue, Dallas. Joanne, who was a victim of poliomyelitis when only nine months of age, attends the special class for crippled children at the Ben Milam School in Dallas, sponsored by the Dallas Society for Crippled Children, a unit of the Texas Society for Crippled Children.

Bigger and Better Exhibits In Offing For Club Exhibits

Saturday, April 8, was set for the date of the annual FFA and 4-H club Fat Stock show at a meeting Tuesday night in the office of Postmaster O. C. Arthur.

The show promises to be bigger this year than any yet held, according to Oscar McGinty, county FFA and 4-H Cub chairman. More entries and finer stock will be on exhibit this year, according to McGinty. McGinty was elected county chairman at the meeting Tuesday night; Charley Taylor was elected secretary, and O. C. Arthur elected treasurer.

Other committee members are Johnnie Koonsman, David McAteer, Byrum Haney and Mr. Fox of McAdoo.

In the exhibits this year there will be one class of fat Herefords, light and heavies; one class of Jersey heifers; one class of cross-bred steers; two classes of fat barriers in the following breeds:

Chester Whites, Duroc Jersey, Poland China, Hampshires and Crossbreds; one class of breeding gilts; one class of dry sows, and one class of sows and litters.

A new addition to the show this year will be a boys' horse show.

Only bona fide FFA and 4-H club members will be permitted to place entries in the show, according to officials.

J. A. Scofield, district agent of Texas Extension Service, College Station, will judge the exhibits.

Another meeting will be held next Tuesday night when the premium list for the show will be worked out.

Only the voters in the common school districts are eligible to vote in county trustee elections. All voters of the county may vote, however, in the selection of the county board members-at-large.

ROME NOT ABOVE THE WAR

There is the prospect that the Germans will attempt to defend Rome and that the Anglo-American army will have to move upon the Italian city, or call off the war.

No intelligent man looks forward to the destruction of ancient and revered relics, whether in Rome or Rotterdam, but the city of Rome has no claim to exemption from the fate of other capitals. If the ravages of war visit Rome the people can thank Premier Benito Mussolini, who took the Italians into a war for profit and waged unmerciful warfare upon the Ethiopians.

It is perfectly natural for Pope Pius XII, a native Italian, to be concerned over the suffering of Italians and the possible destruction of church property but few citizens of the United States and Great Britain would endorse any policy that sacrificed the lives of our soldiers in order to give a special immunity to Rome.

Right-thinking people everywhere regret the devastation and suffering produced by war, whether in Rome, Berlin, London or elsewhere. It is deplorable. Just the same, we did not ask for this war and we would much prefer to have our boys at home, if it was safe in the face of the power and evil of the Axis aggressors.

The present war must be fought to a conclusion, either with Germany triumphant or the United Nations. There is no place in the world for neutrality when civilization faces barbarism of the Nazi type. We must conquer or be conquered; become free or become slaves.

Secretary Hull makes it perfectly plain that this country does not accept responsibility for events dictated by "military necessity." The Allied forces will spare historic places and the property of the Catholic church "to the extent humanly possible," says the Secretary, but if the roads of war lead to Rome the blame will be upon Germany.

JUDGES OFTEN MAKE LAW

A minority opinion of the U. S. Supreme Court recently suggested that the high tribunal was "competing with Congress" in a field "peculiarly within legislative rather than judicial competence."

There is nothing new about the situation. Courts in this country, for many years, have been extending the power of the judiciary. By interpretation of laws and regulations and by formulating theories as to procedures, the judges, in their opinions, make about as much law as Congress.

Few nations permit judges to set aside laws on the ground of unconstitutionality. Fewer yet permit the judiciary to set aside laws because, in the opinion of the judges, they are "unreasonable." This last usurpation of the courts, if logically extended, would make all laws conform to the mental processes of the judges.

The power of the courts, exercised by fearless judges, has often preserved the liberties of individuals. We should appreciate this benefaction and be thankful for it. At the same time, we should not overlook the use of this same power to create vested rights for privileged groups.

Imagine, for example, by what reasoning the high court decreed a corporation a "person," and therefore endowed with all the rights, liberties and protection that the law throws around citizens. Obviously, no corporation is a person in the sense that it can perform the duties that a citizen owes to a government but the judicial decisions say that it is entitled to the rights and immunities granted to citizens.

ROME AND ADDIS ABABA

On May 9, 1936, Premier Benito Mussolini proclaimed to the world that "Ethiopia is Italian." The Fascist leader was enthusiastic about the success of the seven-months war, the aggression which led Italy to her present predicament.

Conditions have changed greatly since Haile Selassie fled from his capital and his people cringed under the merciless bombing of the strutting Italians. Mussolini has also been compelled to leave his capital which now, in enemy hands, seeks exemption from the fate of war by an appeal to "civilization."

It would, no doubt, be a misfortune if the capital of Rome the fate of Addis Ababa but when a nation appeals to the sword there are no immunities. The lives of our fighting men are worth more than the "glories" of Rome and unless the Germans decide to abandon Rome the ancient city is certain to feel the impact of Mussolini's war.

No scheme has ever been devised to please everybody; so quit trying.

It is easy for arm-chair warriors to say, "Let's get on with the attack."

Confidentially, the Winter is over and we hope the weather remembers it.

The German people ought to suspect, by this time, that Herr Hitler lied.

If the Russians keep trying, sooner or later, they will bag a few hundred thousand Nazi soldiers.

If Rome is bombed the Italian people can give the blame to Mussolini. He led them into war and was given considerable applause.

The Japanese positions in the Marshall islands were not as strong as we thought they were; the same thing may be true of fortress Europe.

Turkey expects to get in the war but, apparently, is trying to pull a last-minute entrance, delicately timed to get a seat at the peace conference.

What we can't understand, in connection with those who shed pious tears over the bombing of Germany, is where the brothers were when Hitler began his devilment.

The proposed amendment to the federal constitution, limiting federal income taxes to twenty-five per cent, would be one of the greatest bonanzas ever presented our millionaires.

PEACE WITHOUT PANIC

Business depression is not the price of peace. If peace could be bought with agreements to undergo severe financial reverses and give up many things we have now, the American people would accept the terms bravely, almost unanimously. Peace would be worth it but peace can not be bought that way.

If war should end tomorrow, practically everybody in the United States would meet a sudden setback in money matters. However, the best economic minds in this country believe such a calamity can be avoided, that hard times after this are not necessary. Among them are Bernard M. Baruch, M. Hancock and others whose profound knowledge of economics is nowhere disputed.

Demonstrated Wisdom

The recently published Baruch report, of which Mr. Hancock is co-author and in which many distinguished students of business had a hand, is too big and important to cover in a one-column discussion. It sets up provisions absolutely necessary to post-war prosperity, essential to the life of Democracy and Private Enterprise. It proposes things this column has upheld as principles for two years.

At present America has prosperity. Factories of this country have never been busier than now; get; jobs were never easier to get; workers were never better paid. Many people are living well, dressing well, setting good tables. Workers always manage to live somehow but now, when they live well, rural people prosper. Farmers get good prices for as much as they can grow because factories are busy.

Recent Scare Copy

This scares many people; Two-thirds of what American factories are making these days, 66 2/3 per cent measured by dollar volume (call it 50 billion dollars a year) consists of war goods—stuff nobody needs in time of peace. It is a staggering figure. But why be guessing how many jobs peace will destroy if, as the report implies, peace can create an equal number of jobs or more?

To save our way of life, we Americans must be kept busy, but how? The report says by making it possible for factory owners to keep their plants busy. The program has two main features: (1) To get government out of business and (2) to facilitate the reconversion of war plants to peace-time production.

Hope and Assurance

All manufacturers of war goods will be anxious to switch quickly into peace-time pursuits if possible. Government can help (a) by terminating war contracts promptly and paying plant owners for most of their war work before finishing all the tedious details of final settlement, (b) by moving government-owned machinery from privately-owned plants, clearing decks for peace-time production, and (c) by cash loans.

Moral support can come from Washington also. (a) By getting entirely out business, government can encourage private competition most effectively. (b) By systematic disposal of excess war materials, government can save many markets from ruin. (c) By fixing a ceiling on taxes, government can keep many businesses going that otherwise would die. Sound economy, hard work and good sense will save Democracy and guarantee prosperity. Coming chapters of Looking Ahead will discuss some of these provisions, one at a time.

LIEUT. MARSHALL FORMBY WRITES INTERESTING LETTER TO PARENTS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter, written by Marshall Formby to his parents, contains much interesting information about the British people and their form of government:

Somewhere in England, Engineer Service, Hqs. ETO, APO 871, Postmaster, New York, N. Y., February 23, 1944.

Dear Folks: I have been doing a lot of studying about England and the British empire since I came over here and have finally learned enough to write you a little about it. Have read a lot and the other night had a two-hour talk with a good solicitor (lawyer) and he gave me a lot of facts about it. Am sending a copy of this letter to my good friend, L. D. Ratliff of Spur, who is always interested in courts, government, etc.

As you know the British empire consists of all its dominions, colonies, etc. the United Kingdom, which I shall write mostly about in this letter, consists of England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. Most of Ireland belongs to the Free State of Ireland and is a neutral country in this war. It is also known as Eire.

Now England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, which I shall refer to in the future as the United Kingdom, or the UK, are all about the size of the state of Minnesota or perhaps not half as big as the state of Texas. Population is 45 million.

The British people are a little reserved, a little hard at times, but pretty friendly and exceedingly nice. They treat me and all of us extra nice and take every opportunity to make us feel welcome and to help us. They have gone through four and a half years of war and know what rationing is. Yet you never hear any complaints. They know how to take it. They know very little about the history of the USA, but in recent years have taken to making a study of it and are now issuing books about us. I am highly pleased with the people, admire them a lot. Of course, there is no one that takes the place of a good Texan, but that's another story.

The UK is ruled over by a king, who has little power, but is somewhat of a symbol and HIGHLY respected. Mr. Churchill, the prime minister, really is head of the government, and is very popular here, especially the way he is dealing with the war. The legislative branch consists of a house of lords, about 400 or 500 of them, appointed for life, who have little legislative power but who really just confirm what has been passed in the house of commons. The commons is similar to our lower house of congress and has over 600 members elected about every five years. During the war they are having no elections except by elections which are the same as our special elections, to fill vacancies caused by the death or resignation of some member. There is no state government as we have the Texas government, but a strong federal government with its seat in London and commons or shire government. England and Wales are more closely connected than England is with Scotland and Northern Ireland, but there is little difference. England has 40 shires (a shire is a county) and Wales 12 shires. The three main parties, Labor, Liberal and Conservative parties, select their candidates to run for parliament. The party in power selects the prime minister. If a man fails to be selected to run by either of the parties, he can run as an independent and sometimes is elected. Salary for the house of commons is 600 pounds or $2,400 a year, but the member of the house of commons usually is helped out financially by funds from his party. Lords draw no salary.

Counties or shires are run by a county council composed of many members who draw no pay. This council is divided into various committees such as a road committee, school committee, etc. Cities, likewise, are run by councils much the same way. Highest law enforcement officer in the shire is the chief constable who is head of the city and county police. The high sheriff is appointed mostly because he is a big land owner or stands high in the shire and he draws no salary and has no duties much except to see that the circuit judges have means of travel from county to county. If a town is of a certain size and has a cathedral in it, it is a city, otherwise it is a corporation. Senior members of a city council are called aldermen.

England has no federal constitution as we have one, although they have somewhat of a traditional constitution established over a period of hundreds of years. Thus they have no supreme court to rule legislation unconstitutional. There is no universal system of recording deeds, etc., as we have in our county clerk's office. If the title of land looks good for the past 30 years it is approved, the new owner gets the deed, but it is not recorded at the county clerk's office as we do. They do have a registrar's office, however, in every town of any size. This office records deaths, births, etc. Mortgages are recorded at a central place in London. I forgot to tell you, but the chief constable works in cooperation with the home secretary's office in London. The Registrar can marry people under certain conditions.

They have a varied system of schools, grammar school, council school, high school, public school, preparatory school. You have to pay to go to a public school, however.

If a guy gets drunk he is tried by the magistrate, similar to our JP's. He earns no salary. Next highest court is the court of sessions, presided over by a paid barrister, with magistrates sitting in with him. The high court is similar to our district court, known as the ASSIZES. The judge, a barrister appointed for county seat to county seat as they do in our country. A man is tried here by a petit jury like ours, but a few years ago they did away with the grand jury. Now the states attorneys or the Crown in London decides (after a preliminary hearing before the magistrate) whether there is a case or not. From high court you can appeal to the court of criminal appeals in London. Civil courts are similar, the smaller cases being tried before the magistrate, second highest is the county court and then the high court, and then you can appeal to the court of civil appeals.

A solicitor is a fellow who has studied law and served five years apprenticeship under another solicitor. He can practice only in minor courts. If a case is large, he takes it to a barrister. A barrister serves an apprenticeship like a solicitor, but is supposed to know a little more law. He can take ONLY those cases brought to him by a solicitor, but he can practice before the high courts. All fees are set here by the government. These fees were fixed in 1882 and were not raised until after the last war and on March 1 will be raised a little more. Charges are based on the client's salary. A man making 35 dollars per week would have to pay attorney fees of perhaps $100 or $120 for divorce, part of these fees to the solicitor and part to the barrister. It's hard to get a divorce here. The police checkup system here is good. Courts are pretty strict. Tradition means a lot here and customs have been handed down for centuries. Taxes are pretty high, also. But it's a democracy and the people are free just as they are in the USA. Many times their way of doing things wouldn't work with us, neither would our way work with them, our customs and traditions being so different. Hope you have enjoyed this because I worked hard getting all these facts together.

Love to all. Potts. MARSHALL.

Lt. Frances Springer Writes to Relatives From Base in Italy

The following letter has been received by relatives here of Lt. Frances L. Springer. Lieutenant Springer is a nurse with the 56th Evacuation hospital on Anzio Beach, and is the daughter of Witt Springer, veteran of World War I, and a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Grace, and a niece of Mrs. R. E. Dickson, Helen Williams and Miss Nina Grace of Spur: Dearest Ones:

I had two letters when I got up this p. m., one from Aunt Helen and one from Aunt Nina. I know there will be a period of time that you don't hear from me but I'll try to write more regularly now.

Probably you know where I am because we have received more than our share of publicity lately. Please don't worry. We are o. k. and intend to remain so. I can't say I'm not afraid because there's not such a person, but honestly, I have more faith than I ever had in my life. I'm so glad that mother doesn't have to endure the anxiety and suspense. I feel that she is by my side and I sincerely need her. Naturally, we have been terrifically busy. I have seen the major only briefly and then at meals. He is working so hard but it's necessary and he is happy doing it. He is certainly a marvelous doctor.

I'm so proud of Pat and so glad he likes the air. I'm going to write him soon. Forgive me for not writing more but one just doesn't seem to get to it these days.

Don't ever let me forget this particular time. It has taught me the true value of life. I do know that the folks are aware of the war and have been telling these boys that a long time. I'm terribly proud of our part of the country and the type of people it produces. There's so few things that are really important—love and health, understanding, unselfishness—but they aren't secured easily. I feel like this is a tempering process we are all going through.

Tonight I'm off night duty and so glad. One needs a change and 10 days is enough at one stretch.

Remember that I love you all more than life itself.

New Steel Beauties on the Santa Fe

There isn't yet the ceremony in taking delivery of a new locomotive that there is in christening a ship.

But, just the same, it's a great occasion on the Santa Fe when we receive those super-powered, high-speed locomotives so badly needed today.

For every new one means "rolling" more and longer freight trains loaded with war matériel, and more trains operated for the increasing troop movements.

The three locomotives shown above are among the first delivered of the big fleet of powerful locomotives ordered by Santa Fe. And more are coming!

★ Locomotives illustrated above—new "4-8-4" steam locomotive, "2900 class"; 5,400-horsepower freight Diesel; "2-10-4" steam locomotive, "3001 class." You can bet your driving wheels they'll pull a lot of freight cars fast!

Great News for Asthma Sufferers

A Real Expectorant That Loosens Thick, Choking Phlegm
Spend 45c today at any good drug store for a bottle of Buckley's CANADOL Mixture (triple acting). Tonight at bedtime pour yourself a teaspoonful, let it lie on your tongue a moment then swallow slowly. Feel its instant powerful effective action spread through throat, head and bronchial tubes. Starts at once to loosen thick choking phlegm making breathing easier. No claim is made that Buckley's is a cure for Chronic Bronchitis or Asthma but sufferers often find Buckley's CANADOL Mixture (the largest selling cough medicine in all Canada) eases coughing spasms and loosens up that choking phlegm which seems to clog the tubes and makes breathing difficult. It helps many to get a better night's rest. Take good advice—try Buckley's tonight—satisfaction guaranteed or money back.

LOOK FEMINE THIS EASTER

—Courtesy New York Dress Institute

A weekit-styled bodice gives this Easter-bright print dress, left, a two-piece look. The black and white daisy print is applied on the V neck with flowers cut from the print and centered with tiny jet sequins. Right, a black crepe bolero dress, appealingly trimmed with pink eyel batiste and worn with a matching gilet looks just as pretty with dressmaker blouses.

WHATEVER your plans for Easter, the first week of April is a good time to get your bearings insofar as spring clothes are concerned. By now you know you have your choice of lots of colors... and remember, most men, whether in uniform or not, like color... and you have only to decide which shade of pink or purple or blue will do the most for you.

If you've made up your mind to live in a suit this season, dress it up for Easter with bright accessories and the gayest of becoming hats. Or, if your suit itself is on the cheery or checked side, make your blouse a sheer white cotton and wear a little white felt beret or a small sailor with a veil.

A coat this season is more of an investment than ever before. The majority are shorter than full length and are meant to go with almost anything in your wardrobe. From daytime prints to cocktail dresses. Of course, you can use an electric pink or a Kelly green just as successfully with a smart navy or black crepe dress, and few of us are willing to face spring without at least one such dependable dress. If you prefer it in beige, keep in mind that one of spring's loveliest color combinations is beige with black, and get the ever-practical black coat and black accessories to complete your ensemble.

A print dress for Easter Sunday is always a wise investment, since you will wear it on through summer, and for a variety of occasions. Many of spring's prints are shown with slim, full length coats in solid shade to harmonize with the dominating color in the print, but to team, as well, with both street and sportswear.

Regardless of the kind of clothes you like to wear, and the colors, you'll have a lot of fun if you make them interchangeable. The office of fashion information of the New York Dress Institute, checking with leading designers, advises that all approve of the idea and have styled their clothes accordingly.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa:
I am a girl 19 years old. I am married and have a little girl two years old. My husband is overseas.

He is very good to me and loves me very much but I don't love him. I am in love with a soldier and he says he would do for me what my husband does if I would marry him.

What would you do? My husband is 26 years old.

V—M. D.

Answer:
You ought to be ashamed of yourself to be seeing other men while your husband is overseas, trying to keep this world a decent one for you and your child to live in. If you had been behaving as you should, you wouldn't think you were in love with anyone else.

It is such women as you who make soldiers and sailors, who have faithful wives and sweethearts at home, wonder whether they are true or not.

Just keep on playing around and don't think that you won't pay for it in the end.

You are fortunate to get one good husband and you will be a silly woman if you fail to appreciate him and gamble on another.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:
I am a girl of twenty-five and have been engaged for almost two years to a boy who is 21. He appeared jealous when I first met him but I didn't pay much attention to it.

He has been in the Navy not quite a year. We have written faithfully. He suggested that we get married before he left but I didn't think it was wise.

He left for N. Africa two months ago. Whenever I write and say I went to a show or bowling, he says he bet I went with another boy. I have dated one boy since he has been in the Navy. I just don't care to go.

Now that he has gone across and my letters don't reach him as often as he thinks they should, he writes sarcastic letters, insinuating that I am going too much to write to him.

We love each other dearly but makes me very unhappy and I wonder if his jealousy will interfere when he writes such letters it fere with our happiness in the future.

He is very old for his age and has often said that he had rather have a girl older than himself than too young and silly.

Do you think the difference in our ages gives him the attitude that he has towards me?
P—VA.

Answer:
I suppose your friend gets lonesome and worries about you. We must try to allow for our boys at the front for they are under a strain and have to put up with lots of things we know nothing about.

I don't think that the difference in your ages has anything to do with his jealousy and I am sure that when he comes home and finds out for himself how true and loyal you have been to him, he will change his present attitude to one more trusting and sensible.

Just go on as you are and try to make him understand.

LOUISA.

She Has All the Fun.

"Grandma!"
"Yes, dear."

"Please get down on all fours. I'm making a picture of a sleigh ride. When you're tired you can sit up and be the sleigh, too."

Say Hello for Me.

"Boy," said a London visitor who had lost his way in the city, to a messenger. "I want to go to the bank."
"All right, gov'nor, don't be long."

WHY GIRLS BY THOUSANDS prefer this way to relieve distress of PERIODIC FEMALE WEAKNESS

With Its Cranky, Nervous Feelings—

Take heed if you, like so many women and girls on such days suffer from cramps, headaches, backache, weak, irritable nervous feelings, are a bit blue—due to functional monthly disturbances.

Start at once—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. It's famous not only to help relieve monthly pain but also accompanying weak, nervous feelings of this nature. This is because of its soothing effect on ONE OF WOMAN'S MOST IMPORTANT ORGANS. Taken regularly—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. It helps Nature. Thousands of women report benefits.

Also a fine stomachic tonic! Follow label directions.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

TAKE IT FROM ME!

THAT FOOD IS IMPORTANT!

I've seen action in North Africa and the battle of Sicily and I've seen what food can do for morale. Or maybe I should have said I've seen what lack of food can do. The look in a hungry kid's eyes isn't pleasant to see. But it sure was swell to see those eyes brighten at the sight of the food we brought and distributed. So keep on sending us that food; we'll see that it gets to the right people.

HE'S RIGHT—

The echoing boom of the big guns of the last war had just begun to dull in our memory—when World War II became reality and blasted us all out of our peaceful way of life. Now it is time to remember—those who fought and bled and died in the battles of both wars. Now it is time to realize that this is the people's war—and to win so that we will be victorious for years to come, each of us must fight and work with all our will and love of liberty!

How are things there—hope better than here. Maybe I will be home this year for my birthday. Sure would like to anyway—but only time will tell. Eggs are sure cheap here—only 20c apiece, and at that it is against the law to buy them. Steak is $1.00 per pound and tough as hell; chickens are $5.00 each, but that is because the dog faces will pay it, so I just do without. I am fat as hell, anyway. I must weigh 165 pounds. Answer soon. Jesse Black."

Torn Between 'Claudia' and 'Rosie,' Young Has Busy Day On Set

Robert Young had a hard day. Young, who is currently featured with Dorothy McGuire and Ina Claire in 20th Century-Fox's "Claudia" coming Sunday and Monday at the Palace theatre, was also working with Betty Grable in the studio's "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" at the same time.

He worked before the cameras in "Claudia," which was easy. But on this day there were no cameras trained on Bob for his "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" stunt, which made it both difficult and messy. He sat for a plaster cast of his own face. The cast was needed in a hurry for a key scene in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady."

Young had to remove the make-up he wears for "Claudia," in which he appears as the lovable and frivolous Claudia's husband in Rose Franken's delightful comedy drama.

Make-up Director Guy Pearce smeared Bob's unadorned face with a sticky mixture of well-boiled, still-warm liquid plaster. For a solid hour Bob sat without daring to move a muscle until the plaster hardened and the mold could be removed in one piece.

Next Bob was made up for "Claudia" and returned to that set for another seige of emoting.

After the plaster mold dried he was called back from the "Claudia" set, his dark make-up for the black-and-white picture removed, and the full Technicolor make-up he uses for "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" applied.

Then with his living model before him, Pearce carefully painted the mask to match Bob's exact Technicoloring. The mask was sent to the "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" set, but not Bob. His Technicolor make-up was removed; the dark make-up re-applied, and once again he returned to his "Claudia" for a final hour.

When the last shot was finished, Bob bicycled once again to the make-up department for removal of the final coat of grease-paint.

"My Day," muttered Mr. Young as he wearily started homeward. Edmund Goulding directed "Claudia," which was adapted for the screen by Morrie Ryskind from Miss Franklin's play, as staged by John Golden. William Perlberg produced.

PRAYER FOR OUR NATIVE LAND

Lord while for all mankind we pray, Of every clime and coast, O hear us for our Native Land— The land we love the most.

O guard our shores from every foe; With peace our borders bless, Our cities with prosperity, Our fields with plenteousness.

Write us in the sacred love of Knowledge, truth and thee; And let our hills and valleys chant The songs of liberty.

Lord of the Nations, thus to our Country we commend. Be thou her Refuge and her trust; her Everlasting friend.

Dear Father, in Thy infinite compassion, Hear our prayer: thy favor and thy tender love we plead according to thy loving kindness; According to thy mercy and our need.

What'er the passing years have brought Of happiness and pain; Of sunny scenes or dark adversity; Of hope fulfilled or hope deferred, The losses and the gain, we yield them Altogether unto thee.

For all our times are in thy hand; Our days and months and years, And in thy hand we gladly let them rest.

Thy love has ever surrounded us, In spite of all our fears, We know thy love will keep us to the end.

His grace shall always be sufficient for thee. Your true friend, SELMA FLOYD.

LESSON SUNDAY SCHOOL

THE SACREDNESS OF LIFE (Temperance Lesson)

International Sunday School Lesson for March 26, 1944. GOLDEN TEXT: "Know ye that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit?"—I Corinthians 6: 19.

This lesson brings to a close a quarter's studies of the Gospel of Mark and while the scriptural background is not taken from this gospel, it is certainly proper that this series of lessons be closed with a discussion of the "Sacredness of Life" or God's estimate of the worth of the individual soul.

At the time of Jesus' ministry on earth, human life was very lightly held, so lightly, in fact, that slaves were hacked to pieces to feed the fish of wealthy Romans and thousands were slaughtered in arenas to 'entertain' wealthy Roman crowds. There was no recognition of the fact that a human soul was of value to God, who created it.

However, by his words and deeds, Jesus revealed to the world the worth of the individual and gave to the world a conception of the value of each and every soul, however humble, however sinful. Much of his ministry was to individuals, like the rich young ruler, Nicodemus, the sinful woman of Samaria; his healing power was bestowed on individuals; and several times he raised individuals from the dead. He taught that God had regard to individuals—that the very hairs of their heads were numbered—and that he valued human souls above material possessions.

If every man, woman and child in the world could get into his mind and heart the realization that he, or she, was made in the image of God, we believe the moral and spiritual plane of the whole world would be greatly elevated.

W. H. Spence, in Child-Welfare Magazine, declares, in part, "Every child comes into the world, reveling in his sweet innocence the stamp of the King of kings. From him he has come, to him he belongs. But as years come and go, in all too many instances, innocence gives place to the mark of the beast. Victor Hugo somewhere contrasts a criminal's face with his childhood picture and asks, 'Who would dream that they represent the same power? How sad it is to think that every hardened criminal whose sinister face looks out through iron bars was once an innocent child reposing in a mother's arms, her pride, the object of her finest hopes. The bloated face of the drunkard who goes reeling by us on the street once was fair and pure, clear-eyed and smiling."

Paul declares, in I Cor. 6: 19-20, that our physical bodies are a temple of the Holy Spirit, received from God. These bodies are not our own to do as we will with them, to desecrate if we want to, but they are God's, having been bought with the greatest price ever paid for anything—the sacrifice of His only begotten Son. Therefore, we are to use these bodies and these temples—not for our own pleasure—but for the glory of God. If we accept this responsibility, we surely will not willfully destroy our physical bodies through sinful practices, nor will we desecrate our spiritual temples through failure to feed them on the living bread of life or to exercise them in Christian service.

There are many who accept the obvious truth of the above discussion who will not accept the responsibility of influence. They refuse to agree that they are in truth their brother's keeper. However, regardless of their arguments, the Bible teaches definitely that we shall be held responsible for the effect of our influence on our fellowmen. The following lines by James Buckham warn of this:

Oh, let each of us beware How his thoughts and motives bear! Every road that we shall choose,

Other pilgrim feet will use. Some will follow where we lead Long as life shapes life, indeed. Have a brother's care, and pray God to mark thy road each day.

Mildred—I can't understand why I didn't accept Bob the first time he proposed. Brother—That's easy. You probably weren't there.

Uncle—"And what are you going to do when you grow up, John?" Nephew—"The same as you, uncle—an insulting engineer."

THE AVERAGE AMERICAN FAMILY

Includes 3 1/2 persons owns 1/2 of a bathtub

owns 1/2 of a house

listens to 1/10 of a radio

1929 vs 1944

AND gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago!

The envy of the world today is the average American family. That family has the world's highest standard of living. Statistically speaking, that average American family is composed of three and four-fifths persons. It uses three-fifths of a bathtub and owns one-half of a house, listens to nine-tenths of a radio, and gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago.

Obviously, three-fifths of a bathtub wouldn't hold water very well! That is just another way of saying that three out of five American homes have bathtubs. The figure about electricity applies only to homes that have electric service (four out of five). But as an average of all these homes, it is a fact.

Most families own more electric appliances now than they did in 1929. Over the years as they used more electricity the cost per unit used was steadily reduced. So—though your total bill today may be as much as it was in 1929—yet you are getting twice as much electricity for your money.

The cost of electricity has not only been steadily reduced but it has stayed down while most other prices are going up. Today, electricity is just about the biggest bargain in your war-time budget! For this you can credit your electric service company, manned and managed by practical business people. Their hard work has made electric service dependable and cheap.

SCANDAL

On your toes kids, We're here again, To spill what happened, Where and when. We'll start out on once, To give you the facts, Although you'll have chills, Up and down your backs.

We have noticed that Pete Dobbins had a few more gray hairs this week—due to worry.

Will Pete sit between them at church next week end or will one of the beauties have a headache and not come. Look in next week, folks, we don't know.

Susie and Wendall have finally broken up. Anyway, Susie and Dub certainly are getting along fine, but how about David?

This dual part in the Junior play between Emma Pearl and John Boone may turn into the real thing unless a certain "EX" does something about it.

Has anyone noticed that cute Jean Holloway? Here's your chance, boys!!

Autry Nell is certainly keeping Roy Lee's fever up! She goes out to see him every day.

Billie Woodrum had a very good time to Denton last week (to see her sister—or did she?) We would like to know about that certain Lt.

There's a certain senior girl that would like to go with Pike Dobbins. She wonders how long this romance between Pike and Charmain will last—not much longer, she hopes.

The romance between George Walker and the "unknown" isn't progressing very fast, but we'll keep you posted!!

Is Jackie Rector still getting those letters from Kemper Military school??

If you "Kids" didn't know it, Frances Johns has an interest in Junior High but not the sort of interest you are thinking about. There is a sweet romance budding between none other than that "Dashing Burrhead from Junior High!" (Eldon Williams.)

Shirley Powell don't you think that 2:30 is a little late to get a phone call from San Diego or is it this day and time. I twon't be long until David H. will graduate and be a Third Class Petty Officer. Won't that be wonderful Shirley? We think so.

We found out the other day that Cleston Pritchett is having a LITTLE romance with Betty Jean Perkins (east of town near-ly to Girard). Say! he can't do that!

There has been several exciting trips to the Fort Worth Fat Stock show. Or at least we suppose they were exciting. I won't even try to name all that went because—just because.

It seems that Hill St. has changed its name. Now they (Pete Dobbins, Billie D. Starcher— call it Park Ave. Hill St.

It seems that Little Henry Gruben and Jean Arthur are to become swell friends. Henry just can't make up his mind which girl he is going to go with, but he looked a little glassy-eyed Saturday night so it must be true.

Why don't some of you male suckers of S.H.S. nab that little bundle of beauty, Inez Penn? This column thinks that you are wasting good time and, anyway, we need something to write about, so get acquainted. Another heart-beat is Murl Becot. What is the matter with you guys?

It seems that Mac Brannen and Mafce Carlisle have been getting together quite a bit lately, maybe moving behind Mafce in the study hall helped.

At the freshmen party. Mary Swenson sure did run Wayne McCarty. It looks like love at last.

We would like to know Lane's reason for not taking Verna B. to the reshaman party. Could it be that he's got his eye on Jackie Jones.

Donald Cage has been whistling at Nada Jo Fry lately. Perhaps Donald is on the lookout for a steady, one never knows.

Bill Dyess surely does hope that cute little Maure Brown has had the measles. He gets awful lonesome staying in bed.

It looks like the handsome Haden Moore has a strong attraction for women, especially those Reynolds gals. You'd better watch out Haden or you'll come in with the R. P.

Asta la Vista, Adios Senior, Until next time when we'll bring you some more.
Poncho—The WOLF.

Junior Play

As all of you kids know the Junior play is to be Friday, March 24. It is a three act comedy which will keep you rolling in your seats.

To give you a general idea about the characters here is who and what they are:

Ma Smith—the boss of the family, Vera Doris Pickens.

Pa Smith—a newspaper publisher Orville Robinson.

Tony Smith—their sensational football player, W. C. Rumfield.

Betty Smith—their fourteen year old daughter, Billy Jean Holloway.

Buddie Smith—their twelve year old son, a potential pugilist, Junior Fry.

Aunt Bella—Ma's plain spoken sister, Marjorie Randall.

Sally Smith—the "arty" seventeen year old sister, Emma Pearl Gruben.

Barbara Wetherby—a hometown girl in love with Tony, Nell Young.

Professor Slattery — absent-minded and in love with Bella, Robert Yarbrough.

Dick Jones—a good looking Southern boy, John Boone.

Stewart Brandon—a rich play-boy, Billy D. Starcher.

Julie Weston—a sophisticated vamp, Jackie Rector.

If you want to find out more be sure to come—8:30 o'clock at the Spur High school gym.

Song Hit of the Week

I COULDN'T SLEEP A WINK LAST NIGHT

I couldn't sleep a wink last night.
'Cause we had that silly fight. I thought my heart would break the whole night through.
I knew that you'd be sorry And I'm sorry too.

I didn't have my favorite dream,
The one in which I hold you tight.
I had to call you up this morning
To see if everything is still all right.
Yes, I had to call you up this morning
'Cause I couldn't sleep a wink last night.

F.F.A. Queen

The students of S.H.S. made a very wise choice when they selected Bernice Swanner for FFA Queen. The contest ran a week and the largest amount of money was in the box for Bernice, making her queen. A girl elected to an honor like this should be given a little advertisement, so here it is: Her favorite boy friend is Elmer Gannon. She is 5 feet, 6 inches and weighs about 118. She is a blue eyed blonde with plenty of wallop and again we say—you really deserved it and luck to you.

ELEVEN CANDIDATES TAKE V-12 TEST

Eleven boys took the V-12 (Army-Navy Officer Training) test, Wednesday under the supervision of C. F. Cook. The test lasted two hours and covered English, physics and math. The Spur boys who took the test were Pike Dobbins, Pete Dobbins, George Walker, Jimmie Vernon, Pat Christal and Robert Ward. There were also boys from Dickens and Jayton. Those who passed will probably hear in about two or three weeks.

TREAT SEED FOR GREATER YIELD

Chemical treatment of seed is an inexpensive insurance against certain seed-borne diseases which cause poor stands and lower yields. According to Chas. A. Taylor, county agricultural agent, the treatment also protects seed against molds and fungi in the soil and makes for better germination, especially with early planting in cold or wet soil which is not in condition for quick germination.

Experiments and demonstrations show that seed treatment will increase cotton yield considerably at an additional cost of only 10 to 15 cents an acre. The treatment method is the use of two or three ounces of two per cent cerasan per bushel, or one to one and one-half ounces of five per cent cerasan per bushel. The seed should be treated in a steel drum or similar container having a tight fitting lid and arranged to revolve on an axis.

The container should not be filled to more than one-half capacity so that the seed will fall continually as it revolves and receive a uniform covering of the chemical dust.

Taylor says that the treatment usually has the further effect of causing a certain amount of seedling vigor. The resulting quicker growth allows earlier chomping.

Grain sorghums and sweet sorghums often are affected by a disease called kernel smut. Evidence of the disease is kernels filled with smut spores instead of sound seed. Planting seed not treated to destroy the spores will transmit the smut to the next crop. The treatment consists of either two ounces of 50 per cent copper carbonate, or one-half of an ounce of five per cent cerasan per bushel.

Taylor says the cerasan must be used strictly according to directions as an overdose, or poor distribution of the chemical may injure the seed. Finely ground dusting sulphur at the rate of three ounces per bushel also has been found effective against smut. Any tight container may be used for the treating process.

the important thing being to get a good covering of dust on all of the seed.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

You know, it is hard for me to get myself worked up and feeling sorry for the way our grandpa and grandma used to live. As we look back she seems to me like they must have been just as happy, or even more so, than we are now.

For one thing grandpa and grandma didn't have any wrong numbers on the telephone to wake them up at 3 a. m.—radio crooners were unknown. Grandpa had no income tax blanks to perplex him. Also, he got along without the AAA, the SEC, the TVA, and 3 million folks on the government payroll.

In the old days, grandma had a dozen hams hanging in the store-room and grandpa had a couple barrels of applejack in the cellar. They didn't know anything about brown and green coupons. No government bureau had told them they were duntroddden or were underprivileged and should be pampered, so they went ahead and were contented and happy.

Grandpa and grandma lived on the fat of the land.
Yours with the low down,
—JO SERRA.
