

War Heroes To Open 5th War Loan Drive

Mrs. Cal Martin Urges Buy Bonds To Back Invasion

I am deeply grateful for this opportunity to issue this 5th War Loan appeal as the mother of an American fighting man.

Right now, the Treasury Department is asking all of us to buy EXTRA bonds. This campaign is called the Fifth War Loan Drive. Call it what you may, it all adds up to the fact that our boys need our support now as never before. Maybe some of you feel as I did—at first—when I heard about the Fifth War Loan. AT FIRST I said, "Oh, for goodness sake . . . my husband is buying Bonds out of his pay regularly. We bought Bonds in the First, Second, Third and Fourth War Loans. What is this? We're not made of money!" . . . Yes, I felt just like that . . . AT FIRST. But then, on second thought one act remained that NO mother . . . NO woman can overlook. OUR SONS NEED THAT MONEY!

I can remember very clearly, and so can you, the time when those boys who are fighting for us were eight, nine and 10 years old. And we can remember when they'd come running to us for another nickel to go to the movies. Certainly, we had doled out five cents the day before . . . and another nickel the day before that. But we didn't ask any questions about those other nickels. We just handed out another five-cent-piece and forgot about it. Well, those boys of ours are soldiers now. They're asking us . . . each of us . . . for another $200, $300, $400 . . . just as much as we can scrape together . . . not to go to the movies . . . not to have a whale-of-a-time . . . but TO HELP THEM STAY ALIVE . . . HELP THEM FREE A WORLD THAT HAS ALMOST BEEN OVER-RUN BY THE DEVIL'S OWN BLOOD. In war, neither side plays for nickels. The stakes are big . . . the stakes are LIVES and DOLLARS . . . the lives of our soldiers, our boys . . . OUR dollars . . . the dollars we have in our pockets and purses.

Four times before in this war, Uncle Sam has asked for our dollars . . . and we gave. These dollars were spent in preparing an army 11 MILLION STRONG. They were spent in buying all the tanks, planes, guns, bullets, medicines and food it takes to organize, train and equip this huge army. They were spent to prepare this vast army for the day when the big attack was launched against our enemies. Well, ladies and gentlemen, that day is here.

THIS IS IT! This is that horrible and glorious day for which we have waited two and a half years. This is the day of our big attack!

This is not the time to count the cost. Our sons, daughters, husbands and sweethearts over there do not count what it will cost them to capture a hill or knock out a pillbox . . . nor to administer first-aid under fire. They do not stop to measure the dangers of losing their lives. They're on the "forward march" . . . no backtracking. Yes, in the face of all that fire and fury there is no backtracking for them. How about us at home? Shall we backtrack because we have to give them the ammunition with which to win the war? Shall we backtrack because it's going to mean no new suits or clothes for a while . . . less entertainment? Are we going to go on our merry way and forget about our boys fighting in the steaming, vile jungles of the South Pacific? Pouring out their blood on the ghastly battlefields of Europe? I think not!

THIS IS IT! Our fight for a decisive victory! THIS IS IT! The time for American men and women and children to declare themselves. THIS IS IT! The big attack! And to finance it, it is the purpose of this Fifth War Loan . . . to give our boys over there MORE grenades . . . MORE bullets . . . MORE bombs . . . MORE of everything. Last time our boys asked each of us to invest in an extra hundred dollar

ERNEST A. FINLEY

Church of Christ Minister Moves to Spur for Work Here

Among the Abilene Christian college graduates last week was Ernest A. Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Finley of Irving. He received his B.A. degree, having Bible as his major.

He was born in Dallas county, but when he was six years old he moved to Greenville, where he entered school and continued his education until graduating from high school. During his high school years, he was very prominent in extra-curricular activities of the school. He was a member of the debating club and attended several tournaments throughout the state.

He resolved to be a minister for Christ at a very young age and preached his first sermon when he was 15 years old. He entered Freed-Hardeman college, Henderson, Tenn., in 1940 and attended for one year. In 1941 he transferred to Abilene Christian college and continued his education there until the past week. He has been outstanding in speech activities and student leadership. He was president of the Student council for 1943-44. In November he was elected by the faculty to have a biographical sketch in the 1943-44 issue of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Ernest Finley has been preaching for the Church of Christ at Spur since the first of the year while continuing his education at Abilene. He delivered the graduating address for the eighth graders here two weeks ago. He is to be located in Spur working with the church here and holding meetings in the communities well, ladies and gentlemen, that day is here.

A cordial invitation is extended to you to attend the services of the Church of Christ. You will be welcome.

REGINIA LEE WILL TEACH PRIVATE LESSONS IN SPEECH

Miss Eurena Hoover is spending this week in Post visiting Miss Jo Ann Smith.

War Bond. This time . . . that isn't enough. This time each and every one of us must invest to the very limit of his ability. Double or treble your previous purchases. Do your full part to meet your community or plant quota. You're in this fight-to-the-finish, too.

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, THIS IS IT! We can't afford to lose. Perhaps, by now, you have figured out how many bonds you are going to buy. If you have a son or daughter . . . father, husband or sweetheart in the front lines. I KNOW they MUST be uppermost in your minds. Tell them that you are behind them. Tell them you want to get them back. Tell them by doubling the amount of extra war bonds you are going to buy!

Spectacular Show to Be On Main Street Next Monday Night

Never has Spur and Dickens county been offered the opportunity of seeing and hearing the actual stories of the war as they will be on Monday night, June 12. The very unusual and spectacular show will be held on the main streets of Spur beginning at 8:30 p. m. The War department is allowing two disabled war veterans from McClosky General hospital of Temple to appear on a War Bond program here on that date, and they will come to tell the people in this little out-of-the-way town the hell and misery which they have gone through in recent months.

The service men will also bring with them the actual scenes of war taken by an army photographer at the place of battle. The film will be shown on an outdoor screen near the Spur Security bank. In addition to these two young heroes, Major David Evans, recreational director of Camp Barkley, will appear as master of ceremonies.

Maioir Evans, a veteran of World War I, and a very appealing speaker, will carry on the sale of war bonds after the show, everyone who has ever heard Major Evans, say that he can carry you from tears and heartaches to laughter all within a few minutes.

Hear one of the finest young groups of musicians in West Texas in the Spur high school and City Municipal band in connection with the War Bond show.

The Boyd M. Williams post of the American Legion is sponsoring the show and every Legionaire will be present to help in the sale of War Bonds, according to Bob Weaver, post commander.

To the People of this Community

This is a home front communique of the individual buyers of action now in progress in every community of the land—the Fifth War Loan. We are advancing on our objective. However, we must make certain that we reach and pass our goal by July 8. This can be done if every one of us puts something extra of ourselves into the fight. No one needs to remind you that it is an American trait to go into a sprint with the goal in sight. We started this push June 12. Reports from every city and town in America tell us that the number of individual buyers of extra War Bonds today has reached an unprecedented total. We all know that in addition to numbers we need fire power. Your extra War Bond is absolutely essential. The greater the stockpile of War Bonds, the easier it will be for us to get this war over.

This very moment our boys are waging a life-and-death struggle. Every additional War Bond you buy will play its part in the outcome. Last month's War Bond, last week's War Bond, yesterday's War Bond are already in the embattled foxholes. Today is another day for the home front just as today is another day for the boys on the battlefronts.

APPREHENSION IN BOTH COUNTRIES

There is widely prevalent in this country an idea that, when the war ends, the United States will have its eyeteeth removed by the slick, British traders, who have long experience in the international markets.

The phobia is extensively promoted for a number of reasons, including the ancient desire of some citizens to hit the British Empire a lick. There is also the suggestion that business interests, intent upon post-war trade, see an opportunity to secure governmental help if they can persuade everybody that they are fighting the battle of the nation against British trickery.

It might be a good idea to know what the British think about the post-war trade outlook. William Philip Simms, Scripps-Howard foreign editor, writes on the subject from London. Here is what he says:

"Britain is uneasy over her own and the Empire's future security. But when it comes to her post-war economic situation, she is downright frightened, and with reason.

"International trade made her what she was for more than a century—the richest, most powerful nation on earth. Now she sees her position slipping—in coal steel and shipping, in manufacturing and banking, in world trade generally.

"Only a world code of good conduct and fair dealing will save her. Much, therefore, depends on the attitude of the United States."

So, you have the picture. Americans wondering if they can prevent the British from hogging the world and the British concerned lest they lose out in a trade war with the United States, which they fear is inevitable unless some understanding is reached.

There is no excuse for commercial warfare between the two English-speaking people and the leaders of both nations should bend every effort to establish good conduct, fair dealing and free economy in the post-war international economy.

JAPAN'S PEACE TERMS

It will probably amuse some Americans to know that two Japanese experts have drawn up a list of conditions to be imposed "after the United States has surrendered."

The application of the requirements is afar, we admit, but it is interesting to know the kind of peace the Japanese have in mind. According to the Japanese Domei agency, Rear Admiral Tonetsugu and Yasei Nishiyama, a financial expert, drew up the proposed terms.

To guarantee the effectiveness of the conditions, a ten-year "strict surveillance" of this nation is proposed, with confiscation of all our naval ships and ocean liners, the razing of all bases and training stations, restriction of steel and oil production and destruction of all shipyards except those building river and coastal vessels.

The expense of talking over would be borne by the United States and if any ships should be scuttled or damaged, we are to pay ten times their construction cost.

These terms are fairly plain and somewhat conclusive but they represent only the contribution of the Japanese admiral. The financial expert adds a few ideas, explaining the necessity for the creation of a political authority in this country free from economic influences and modeled after the "pure sovereignty of Japan."

While these "terms" are not official, they go far enough to justify almost any application of sanctions to Japan. The fact that the Japanese talk of terms while reeling from reverses indicates that the medicine would be worse if victory inspires Japanese treaty writers.

SOMETHING UNDER THE BED?

A small group of Communists have organized a political association to replace the dissolved Communist party and, despite their sparse numbers, have some of the political commentators of the United States in mental convulsions.

This is an amusing farce because without the publicity that they thus receive there is little chance that the Communists will amount to anything in the republic.

The comical concern of the capitalists over a handful of agitators suggests that there is something under the bed of the American economic system. This conclusion will be accepted by some Americans unless the propagandists of the existing order recover their intelligence.

Installment buying had nothing whatever on installment income tax payments.

You can help some by investing in War Bonds—a safe place to put your money.

The explanation of the younger generation is to be found in the older generation.

It is quite the popular thing these days to have poor health; it can be very convenient.

If anybody thinks it is hot here he might move into a fox-hole in front of the enemy's guns.

In a true democracy there would be no special favors for business, men or institutions.

Smart men and women know that, regardless of fiction, there is no substitute for hard work.

The trouble with some post-war plans is that they are designed to assure post-war profits.

How much of your time is taken up in the effort to live like you think your neighbors live.

No nation can please all other nations but, if it is strong enough, it can safeguard its interests.

The Japs assert that they are still out for the purpose of destroying the United States and Great Britain.

Organized pressure groups may not care much about the views of individual members but they secure political results.

FEDERAL AID

School teachers are influential people. They choose their calling as a rule because they love children, and love influences children. Youngsters, in turn, control their homes and parents more than they realize; in ways they don't know about. Thus a good teacher is a power in the community. Any politician could cut quite a splash if only he could line up all the teachers behind him.

The idea is not new. Starts are made in that direction often. Plans to alter the public schools of America in a bureaucratic tread-mill have come before Congress four times since 1937. They have failed every time but each new attempt shows more strength. The most recent one, discussed in this column exactly a year ago, gained enough momentum to get talked about from Bangor to Burbank.

Maybe Nine Lives

This latest sally on the public school system was led by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, helping Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah. The bill, (S.367) as finally rejected by the 78th Congress, is dead but the senator's ambitions can still wiggle. Hill is campaigning now for re-election on a platform of "federal aid to education," and that's been a hobby of Thomas' for a long time.

The issue will be revived. Political problems have a way of coming to life repeatedly until they are cured, and this one is not cured. Teachers have a right to earn as much in the classroom as they might get for manual labor in a factory and, until teachers' pay is adjusted, state school authorities will have their troubles born of somebody's mistakes; maybe their own.

Money Has Power

Federal aid to education, if it comes, will be federal control of schools eventually, whether the author of the bill wants it or not. Whoever signs the checks can compel obedience to orders, even from teachers. Obviously, most public school systems need, not federal support, but better state support. There are at least six good reasons. Three are plain and practical, the others basic.

(1) Federal control would cost taxpayers more for the same results that state control; and extra handling charge. (2) Federal control of schools would make one more huge bureau with an army of henchmen in a maze of pyramiding salaries. (3) Federal control will ride down traditions. How the South will fester at the first successful effort to seat white and colored children together at school. It might easily result in wide-spread violence.

Wrong in Principle

The foregoing objections are practical ones. But it is wrong in principle to rob parents of their influence in public schools. (4) Concentrating school funds in the hands of far-away strangers is saying to all parents, "Hands off school!" (5) It is also fruitful of racketeering. (6) Worse yet, it violates the principle of state sovereignty which is the backbone of American freedom.

Any time rich Washington sets up a W.P.A. for teachers, local school revenue will start drying up. Soon the U. S. Treasury will be footing the bills and that suggested 200 million dollars a year increase in pay for teachers will not be a drop in the bucket. In many states teachers need and deserve more pay. If it comes the people will pay it and they'd better handle it locally. A local solution to the problem is possible anywhere.

The only thing worse than being old and bent is being young and broke.—U. S. S. Pennsylvania Key stone.

DRIVE IT HOME!

"That's the way I like to see them," said Gen. MacArthur when he saw the rows of dead Japs in the Admiralty Islands. In this war—the costliest, cruelest war of all time—our boys must fight with savage fury. Kill or be killed! And on how well each plays his part depends the lives of many of his buddies.

Here on the home front, too, just cheering the attack on isn't enough.

That's why there's a Fifth War Bond drive now, a drive in which you're needed to support the men on the fighting fronts who are facing the most treacherous forces Americans have ever met in combat. We on the home front can't let them down—and we won't. So resolve now to at least double your bond buying in the 5th War Loan drive. This is the time to do better than your best.

Back the Attack! - BUY MORE THAN BEFORE THE FAIR STORE

What can you say to a wounded soldier?

Never mind the sympathy—he doesn't want it! In his mind, he did his duty, and part of his duty was stopping an enemy bullet.

You have a duty, too, in this war. Part of your duty is to buy War Bonds with every dime and dollar you can.

So simply say "thanks" to a wounded soldier, by buying your full share of War Bonds in the Fifth War Loan. Don't expect credit—you can't match his sacrifice by merely lending your money. But don't be ashamed, either—if you've done your duty, you've shown your gratitude—the way he wants you to.

Back the Attack! - BUY MORE THAN BEFORE

Total: B. Schwarz & Son Policy

The one major objective of B. Schwarz & Son is to be recognized during the present times of World Distress, as one store that still has our customers' interest at heart.

At the very outset of the business . . . over 71 years ago . . . it was realized that to attain an objective one must live the objective . . . for a man or an Institution is known by his works . . . A good reputation is gained through good works.

Therefore, this store concentrated on Service . . . fair pricing . . . and fair dealing at a time when one can be unethical, is very important to you, our customers, who have helped us build one of the largest small town stores in Texas.

B. Schwarz & Son's importance in the mercantile trade of West Texas is due, not to low prices . . . but to its reputation for handling quality merchandise at fair and reasonable prices.

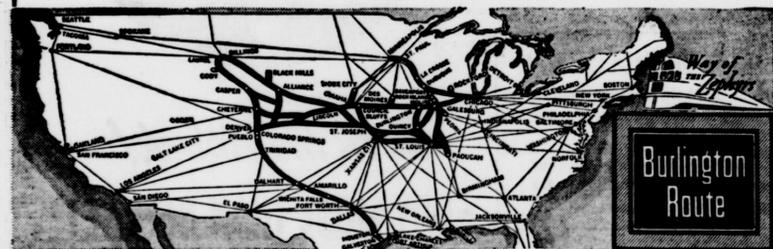

AMERICAN FAMILIES are doing without many accustomed things now-a-days. That's one way in which all of us are able to play a definite part in speeding the day of Victory.

Have you ever stopped to consider just how important this "doing without" program really is? It lacks the drama and the lustre of more direct action, to be sure, but our entire war effort might very well collapse without it.

Take the one item of travel, for example. Thousands, yes tens of thousands of people are foregoing pleasure travel these days. By thus "doing without," they are assisting America's railroads in handling their gigantic war assignments with speed and efficiency. It's a job that simply couldn't be done without the public's willingness to "do without."

For this spirit of cooperation, we of the Burlington Lines extend our sincere thanks. We're looking forward to the day when we can show our appreciation more tangibly—in terms of equipment and service fashioned to peacetime standards.

Health and Beauty DR. SOPHIA BRUNSON

Listening to a group of ladies talking, the writer is impressed that one of the most absorbing topics of conversation is cooking recipes. Most of the interest centers around deserts and foods that are mixed and combined with condiments to make them taste good.

Civilized races have gotten so far away from the simple food provided by nature, that it is no longer palatable to them, unless seasoned with condiments. Probably no race of people in the world suffers so much from constipation, colitis, and intestinal disorders as the Americans.

In our country malnutrition is evident among the rich as well as the poor. There is no nation in which there is less excuse for this. Vegetables of every kind as well as many fruits will grow, if planted and given reasonable care. Every little farm should provide milk and eggs in abundance for the needs of the family.

Somehow our boards of health do not get very good results by sending out doctors and nurses to remove tonsils, and hold dental clinics. It is like pouring a little water on a burning building. Instruction in the care of the body, the preservation of the teeth, etc., must begin in the schools and homes.

Prospective mothers should be instructed how to eat properly, in order to put the right material into the teeth of their unborn children. Calcium or lime enters largely into the formation of sound teeth. The expectant mother should eat fresh leafy, vegetables, beans, fruits, milk, etc. The diet should be rich in lime and phosphorus.

Only in this way will the child form sound teeth. The baby should have milk; at first breast milk is best, fruit juices and cod liver oil with plenty of sunshine. If this regimen were carried out, the expensive dental clinics could probably be dispensed in a few years.

When the Deutschland, a German ship, captured during the World War, a well-provisioned vessel, they thought themselves in luck, for the prize was abundantly provisioned with flour, white sugar, polished rice, cheese, coffee, etc. They remained out after capture for two or three months eating the above mentioned food. The result was that all on board developed scurvy. The officers were not so ill as the men, for they had a little fruit.

When the captain put in at an American port, all aboard were sick. Two or three died. The others were fed upon fruit juice dishes made from wheat and rice polishings, and vegetable broths. Those lusty German seamen had learned the lesson that they could not live upon the de-

Duck Creek Soil Conservation District NEWS NOTES

RILEY WOOTEN, Chm. OSCAR MCGINTY, Sec.
WILL WRIGHT TOM MURDOCK A. A. FRY

And, so, we have a new arrangement of fields, pastures, meadows and woods, with a new system of use and protection that safeguards the soil and fits the land as nature made it and as man use it. Under such a plan, soil conservation is not just an incidental bit of the mechanics of farming; it becomes an essential part of the whole business of making a living from the land, and is the only way by which we may have permanently productive land for a permanent agriculture for continuing support of the nation.

Everyone is concerned in this; none can escape its implications. Productive soil is life and productive soil is vanishing with each passing year. The farmer, the banker, the legislator, and scientist, the teacher, the preacher, the welder, and clerk—all have a personal stake in the speed and thoroughness with which this nation and every other nation, moves to the task.

A realization of the value of individual personality promoted by the Christian religion has been the basis for the gradual emancipation of men.

Paul's approach to his problems point the way for us in this matter. He is confident of the love and esteem which Philemon has for him, and he assures him of the mutual regard. He explains to Philemon the attachment which he now feels for his convert, and upon this basis asked that the Onesimus be cordially received.

As it appears that the slave may have taken some of Philemon's property, Paul promises himself to repay, and in so doing delicately reminds Philemon of the debt which he is under to Paul. Paul writes to his friend with confidence that his friend will respond to the high motive upon which the appeal is based.

"Today," says Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, "twenty-eight United Nations are fighting against the would-be conquerors and enslavers of the human race. We know what is at stake. By the barbarian invaders of today nothing is spared—neither life, nor morals, nor honor, nor virtue, nor pledges, nor the customs, the national institutions, even the religion of any people. Their aim is to sweep away every vestige of individual and national rights; to substitute, the world over, their unspeakable tyranny for the ways of life developed, each for itself, by the various nations; to make all mankind subservient to their will; to convert the two billions of the earth's inhabitants into object victims and tools of their insatiable lust for power and domination."

"This is the so-called 'new order' of Hitler and the Japanese war-lords—an order as old as slavery, new only in the calculated thoroughness of its cruelty; in the depth of the degradation to which it subjects its victims; in the degree to which it has revived the worst practices of the darkest ages of history."

GI Fatigue Suit New Uniform For Jungle Fighting

WASHINGTON D. C. — The mottled green-and-brown camouflage jungle uniform, long the distinguishing battle garment of the American jungle fighter, is being discontinued in favor of a solid color cotton uniform in a dark shade of olive drab, the war department reports.

The new jungle uniform is the regulation GI two piece fatigue suit of herringbone twill, but the color is a slightly darker shade than the suit issued in the United States.

The newest development in the Quartermaster Corps never-ending search for the most effective camouflage design, this change is being made at the direction of General Douglas MacArthur, commanding general of the Southwest Pacific theater of operations. The dark olive drab is believed to be more suitable for the vigorously active battle movements which now characterize the fighting in jungle areas.

The taxicab came to a halt. The fare descended and proceeded to search his pockets.

"Sorry, old man," he said, finally, "but I haven't a dime."

Then seeing that the driver was not taking it too well, he added: "And you can't get blood out of a stone."

"No," agreed the driver, rolling up his sleeves; "but what makes you think you're a stone?"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL PLEADS FOR A SLAVE

International Sunday School Lesson for June 11, 1944.

GOLDEN TEXT — "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you."—Ephesians 4:32

Lesson Text: Philemon: 4-21

The epistle of Philemon consists of only one chapter. It is nothing more or less than a personal letter from Paul to his friend in Colossae. It was written while Paul was in prison, as the context shows, therefore, had to be written either from Caesarea or Rome, the two places in which Paul was a prisoner. The weight of opinion, however, is that it was sent from Rome.

The occasion of the letter was the conversation by Paul of Onesimus, a runaway slave, who had formerly belonged to Philemon. By happy coincidence it chanced that Paul knew Philemon, as shown by his letter, for Philemon was a leader of the church in his city, apparently a man of some means, for Christians had been accustomed to gather at his home. Because of his personal contact with the owner of his slave, Paul was able to handle his case in a very satisfactory manner.

Paul's method of handling this situation is worth careful study by those who would reform evil custom today. While slavery was not to be desired, yet it was the social custom of the time. Paul does not waste his time in an attack upon this social institution, but influences Onesimus to recognize the obligation he was unto Philemon.

In understanding the circumstances, we should not overlook the fact that in that day slaves were often prisoners, captured in war and sometimes men of considerable talent and ability.

So, Paul encouraged Onesimus to fulfill his obligation to his owner and to preserve his own conscience by abandoning the life of a fugitive from justice and returning in trust that his voluntary action would inspire magnanimity upon the part of his owner.

Paul took time to concern himself with the personal affairs of this one slave with whom he came in contact, thus testifying to the eternal value of the individual. Jesus did the same during his life, and his contact with Nicodemus, the Samaritan woman at the well, and other individuals, show that no pressure of public business or event was so vital that the great teacher could not concern himself with the eternal welfare of an individual soul.

A realization of the value of individual personality promoted by the Christian religion has been the basis for the gradual emancipation of men.

Paul's approach to his problems point the way for us in this matter. He is confident of the love and esteem which Philemon has for him, and he assures him of the mutual regard. He explains to Philemon the attachment which he now feels for his convert, and upon this basis asked that the Onesimus be cordially received.

As it appears that the slave may have taken some of Philemon's property, Paul promises himself to repay, and in so doing delicately reminds Philemon of the debt which he is under to Paul. Paul writes to his friend with confidence that his friend will respond to the high motive upon which the appeal is based. "Today," says Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, "twenty-eight United Nations are fighting against the would-be conquerors and enslavers of the human race. We know what is at stake. By the barbarian invaders of today nothing is spared—neither life, nor morals, nor honor, nor virtue, nor pledges, nor the customs, the national institutions, even the religion of any people. Their aim is to sweep away every vestige of individual and national rights; to substitute, the world over, their unspeakable tyranny for the ways of life developed, each for itself, by the various nations; to make all mankind subservient to their will; to convert the two billions of the earth's inhabitants into object victims and tools of their insatiable lust for power and domination."

"This is the so-called 'new order' of Hitler and the Japanese war-lords—an order as old as slavery, new only in the calculated thoroughness of its cruelty; in the depth of the degradation to which it subjects its victims; in the degree to which it has revived the worst practices of the darkest ages of history."

Do You Want to Go to Business College?

This newspaper has made arrangements with that well-known school, Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, whereby we can obtain for you a scholarship valued at one hundred dollars. We have known of this school through the years; in fact, it is one of the outstanding business training schools of this country. This school is approved by the Texas State Department of Education, a compliment very few business schools enjoy. That fact alone assures you that their courses are standard, that they are ethical in their dealings, and that they are also a member of the Better Business Bureau; therefore, you are assured of the very best in business training. So many recent high school graduates went out of high school into defense jobs and few, if any, took business training. When peace comes, there is going to be a great shortage of well-trained young people for responsible places in business. This war will come to an end soon, we hope, then it is going to be the "survival of the fittest." We think now is an ideal time for young people to plan ahead and prepare themselves well for post-war activities. The better trained will be retained and the others will be washed out.

If you are interested in attending Tyler Commercial College, we have a scholarship we can deliver to you when you are ready. In the meantime, write to the school and ask for one of their catalogs. Just address Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, and get their catalog and come by our office and make arrangements for a scholarship.

Your job isn't finished yet, either. Four times America has

An Advertisement Addressed to Buyers of BLACK MARKET Gasoline

Phillips production of 100-octane gasoline could fuel enough Flying Forts to drop 3,000 tons of bombs on the "Invasion Coast" every day!

Gasoline shortage on the home front is a grim reality, and gasoline rationing is our American system of sharing the available supplies fairly, in accordance with car-owners' essential needs.

Why is gasoline short? . . . Re-read the headline above. It is presented not in boastful spirit, but in explanation of one of the vital military uses of the gasoline which you cannot purchase.

Remember, Phillips is only one of many producers of 100-octane aviation gasoline, of butadiene for synthetic rubber, of various fuels for ships and tanks and combat cars. The petroleum raw materials which go into the literally oceans of these military fuels are obviously not available for the manufacture of civilian supplies of gasoline.

Every Black Market purchase reduces the already greatly diminished pool of gasoline which must suffice for our country's essential transportation needs. That is why no thinking, patriotic American will be a Black Buyer. And without Black Buyers there can be no Black Markets.

So do your patriotic part to break the Black Market in gasoline: Endorse every gasoline ration coupon in your possession. Don't accept any gasoline at any price without giving up coupons. And most important of all, use the legal gasoline you buy for essential driving only.

Dealers to Get Tires Over 6 Week Period Minus Certificates

During the six-weeks period from June 1 to July 15 dealers may receive new passenger tires and tubes from manufacturers without giving tire rationing certificates, the district office of price administration has announced.

Officials pointed out that this move in no way changes the present method through which a motorist obtain a tire or tube certificate from his local board.

The action was designed to facilitate the shipment of new passenger tires and tubes from manufacturers to dealers and will bring about better distribution.

Announcement was also made that any person desiring to enter the tire business and intending to acquire allotment from a manufacturer under this ruling must apply to the district OPA for recognition as a dealer. This will make it possible for tire dealers who closed their establishments several years ago because of the limited tire distribution to re-enter business and obtain new passenger tires and tubes on a basis similar to the allotment provided for existing dealers.

All tire certificate replenishment portions, Parts B, dated before April 1, 1944, are to be invalid after July 15, 1944, unless they have been received by the manufacturer on or before July 15.
