Farm Bureau Drive For Members Under Way In County

Farmers representing every community in the county met at Dickens last Monday to discuss Farm Organization and make plans for a county wide membership drive.

W. R. Tilson, Director of the district 2, made an appealing plea for Farm organization. Tilson also stated some of the accomplishments of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The most recent accomplishment is the offer by the War Food Administration to purchase thru the Commodity Credit Corporation, our cotton, wheat and corn at parity price which is about 10 per cent more than the loan price.

With goals set for each community, a total of 335 for the county, everyone agreed to contact his neighbor.

If you are a farmer or interested in agriculture, don't turn him down. All community leaders are urged to report back at the Dickens court house on Tuesday night, Oct. 24, at 8 p. m.

WATCH EAST WARD GROW

Six week reports were due the past Wednesday. The pupils of the first grades were given informal reports. The teacher attempted to tell the parent the status of his child thus far in school. The evaluation was based on (1) the teacher's observations; (2) the child's response and; (3) the Kuhlman Anderson test results.

Teachers of these grades are requesting conferences with the parent or parents of each pupil to come and see his child working with other children. Each child is evaluated on his own rights and one child is not compared with another. Each child is allowed to progress at his own rate of speed and adult standards are not set for him.

Come to school and spend a day.

Duck Creek Soil Conservation District NEWS NOTES

RILEY WOOTEN, Chm. OSCAR MCGINTY, Sec.
WILL WRIGHT TOM MURDOCK A. A. FRY

Fire Prevention week, Oct. 8 to 14, was observed throughout the county last week. The following statement was made by Will Wright, supervisor of the Duck Creek Soil Conservation district, whose zone is in Garza county: "Burning has no place in conservation farming because it increases soil erosion and water losses, destroys organic matter needed for soil improvement, causes loss of nitrogen, and increases losses of other plant nutrients by leaching or by rainfall runoff."

Several new fire guards have been installed on ranches in Dickens, Kent and Garza counties. These fire guards will not only help prevent the losses mentioned by Supervisor Wright but they will also protect the grasses needed for the winter pastures.

C. R. Bennett of Conservation Group 1 made application for assistance from the Duck Creek district on the farm formerly under agreement with Dee Hairgrove. Mr. Bennett reports an excellent stand of blue grama and numerous spots of buffalo grass on the acres of land which were retired from cultivation in 1943 and seeded to a mixture of grasses.

E. W. Clark reports that his terraces functioned very well during a three-inch rain in the 1944 season. Only one terrace out of 13 did not seem to be doing its share of the work for conservation of water and soil. More lines were run on Mr. Clark's place this past week for some additional terrace construction.

EDITORIAL
To the Students of S. H. S.
As you know there is a teacher shortage this year and Spur High School is lucky to have the fine staff of teachers it has. Some schools had to close and also cut out courses because they did not have the teachers. So we wish that you would co-operate with the teachers in giving them as little trouble as you can. So what do you say? Let's make a good school out of Spur High School.

Spur High Fashions

The students of Spur High are strutting around in their new clothes. Have you noticed the newest fashions of our classes? The four stooges are always in the lime-light with their sweaters and skirts. Nina Lee looks good in anything as you probably have noticed. Aline Ball has a new green corduroy jumper. Brydean Roberson has a new sloppy joe sweater. Has everyone seen Mary Hudson's new red skirt and red and white blouse? She really looks cute in it. The latest of Mary Puckett is a black and white checked suit. Vernell Wilson has a very attractive black dress and if you haven't seen it you have missed something. Barbara Mabe has a beautiful red wool jersey dress. It fits well. Jane and Emma Pearl would be twins if one of them would dye their dress. One's yellow and the other one is aqua. "Shorty" Dyess has a new wool jersey, too. Her's is Navy, gold and green. Ernestine Mecom is sporting a pretty brown coat. Billie Munden has an adorable red velvet dress. Very becoming, Billie. Jackie has a new brown and white checked blouse, but Orville is about the only one that has seen it.

These are some of the fashions of S. H. S. for the week.

"JOYCE"

BY WINONA WILSON
"Joyce, you've gone to rest,"
With all the angels and the blest.
God called you to answer his request,
He wanted you to go to rest.
Her friends hated to see her go,
But God thought best and he did so.
He took her from this sinful world,
To rest in peace forever more.
He took her from this file here on earth,
And created a new and lovely birth.
She has gone to join the heavenly session,
We will not ask God the question.

Sincerely,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
I'm a girl that is very popular with all my girl friends, but I'm not very popular with boys. What must I do to make myself popular with the boys?
Very Sad.

Dear Very Sad:
Why don't you make some Baby Ruth cookies. The way to a man's heart is through his stomach.
Sincerely,
A. and P.

Dear A. and P.:
I am a lonely Junior boy and also a football player and I wish to communicate with a girl with a wonderful personality and a perfect figure.
A Lonely Heart.

Dear Lonely Heart:
All S.H.S. girls live up to your requirements. Just take your pick. (Well, at least try.)
As ever,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
When you go with a boy so long, do you get tired of him? How will you know when the "real thing" comes along? I am very timid; how can I overcome it? Your answer will be appreciated.
Undecided.

Dear Undecided:
Nab the first one that comes your way. We didn't, and look at us.
Yours truly,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
Your advice would be all right except that all the girls spend time but none spend any money. Now what should I do?
Football Hero.

Dear Football Hero:
Then pick out the most beautiful one and don't waste any more time or they will all lose hope and find someone else.
Always,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
There is a girl in school that I am crazy about, but she is now going with my best friend. She tells me that she loves me too, but doesn't want to hurt the other boy. I believe she really means what she says and I know that I love her. What should I do?
Serious.

Dear Serious:
You had better go to Dorothy Dix. It's beyond us.
Best Wishes,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
There is a boy at Girard that simply adores me, the is a boy at Jayton that is crazy about me, and the boys at Spur don't seem to care for me. How can I make them notice me?
Heartbroken.

Dear Heartbroken:
Maybe the Spur boys think they don't have a chance. If you have two boys in love with you — what more can you want?
Don't be so selfish.
Sincerely,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
We are some very charming young ladies. On Saturday afternoon we have so many boyfriends we don't know what to do with them. But on Saturday night we never get a date. What should we do?
Hopeful.

Dear Hopeful:
Maybe all your boyfriends are afraid of the dark. Why don't you let them do the howling?
Best Wishes,
A. and P.

Dear Abigail and Phoebe:
I am a Junior boy and I am very much in love with a Junior girl. She has long black hair and I think she is very beautiful. I would like to go with her but she doesn't seem to care much about me. I would like very much to let her know how much I love her. How shall I let her know when I can't seem MORE--- to get a date with her?
Yours truly,
A Troubled Lover.

Dear Troubled Lover:
Why don't you try Pepsodent? Wishing you luck,
A. and P.

Dear Sisters:
My best boyfriend is in service. He writes to me often but I haven't heard from him in two weeks now. Should I continue to write to him. Since I'm engaged to him, should I break our engagement?
Worried.

Dear Worried:
Your boyfriend is probably very busy but thinks of you constantly. Keep writing and don't forget him.
Sincerely,
A. and P.

SCANDAL

By Madam Swami—Sees All, Hears All, Knows All and Tells All.
Looks like Pete was having a good time Monday night. How about it Donna Gene?
Mafol has finally made up her mind, and the lucky man is Cato—but she had better watch Grenna Mae Taylor and Margaret Hensley.

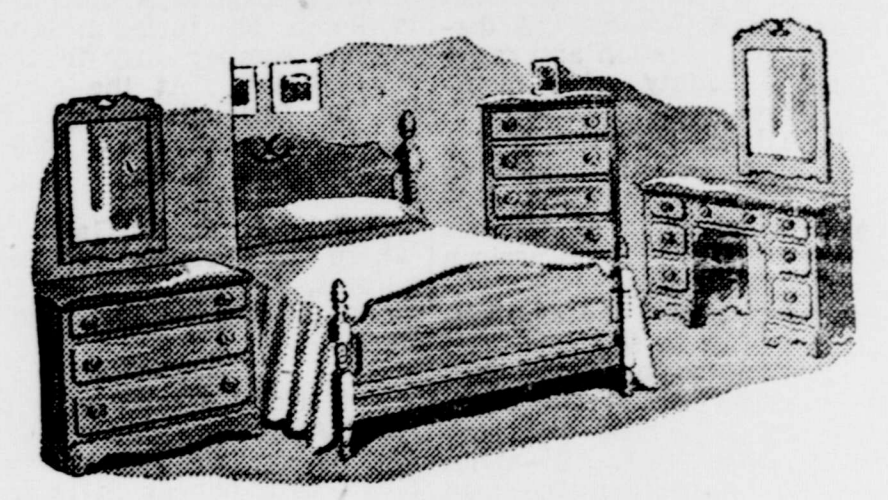

Looks like Bobby and Jr. have been having a grand time lately. Wonder what happened to Geraldine and Dale. What about it Babs? Clyde, did you and Mavis get sick on watermelons, too?
What stopped that beautiful romance between Norman and Winona?
What's wrong with you boys? Haven't you seen the cute blond that has come in lately, Juandella Isaacs?
Virginia and Mary Olive seem to be after "Stud" and "Lightening." At least they keep asking them to the picnics.
Why does Mavis like Math so well this year? Is it because of Johnnie?
Billy Ballard, watch out and see if you can't catch on. Nina seems to think she hasn't a chance.
Johnnie Rollins and Billy Mc-

Mahan were sitting awfully close together. Wasn't there enough room?
The Rckels seem to be making eyes at Dora and Nova Jean. They're real WOLVES, girls!
Chairman, can't you find a better excuse for Sunday night? A poor excuse is better than none though.
Which is it to be, Parker—Spur, Iowa or Dallas? Get that dreamy look out of your eyes.
Have any of you girls noticed that cute Haden Moore?
A beautiful romance just went to the rocks. Too bad, Inez.
I've been wondering where Jackie and Orville go every Sunday night. Someone please tell me.
Gene and David Jr. always block traffic on the corner. Move over, kids!
Lois, was he really driving with both hands? I heard it was the radio, but you know how tales get started.
Nell and C. P. seem to be hitting it off all right, eh?
Why do Ned and Maude always stand at the back entrance? Could it be a little romance?
Is that a return romance between Jackie Paul and Dot?
Has anything happened to Emma Pearl and John? Joe took her to the show Tuesday night.
Has anyone seen Grace Bailey's rings? Next time you're around take a look.

Dub's got Dickens fever. Chichee certainly is cute anyway, Dub. Keep up those Tuesday dates. What happened to Marie?
William Randall and Martin Turbyfield have been seen together. What a surprise.
Where were Mafol and Lowell after the weiner roast Tuesday night?
Another new couple in high school—Mavis Hill and Alton Delisle. Keep it up kids.
Jimmie and Lane were really stepping out Monday. I'm really surprised at you boys, especially you Jimmie. Lane, where was Aline?

Barbara, where did Dale's little brother tell his mother? You know, when he saw you at the football game the other night.
Eurend, what was so interesting in Roaring Springs last Friday night? Could it have been the boy?
I'll be seeing you
Madame Swami.

WSCS Will Send More Clothing to War-Torn Europe

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the Round-up on Oct. 16, with Mrs. Eric Foster, president, presiding. During the business session, it was voted unanimously to send another box of clothing, included in the United War Relief, to countries in war-torn Europe. This clothing is to be brought to the Roundup on Oct. 23, or left at the home of Mrs. J. J. Ensey.

Ten members were present.

Bert (to Dot): "Of course I wouldn't say anything about her unless I could say something good. And, oh, boy! is this good—"

Mrs. E. H. Boedeker Hostess Oct. 17th To '17 Study Club

Mrs. E. H. Boedeker was hostess to the 1933 Study club in her home in North Dickens Tuesday, Oct. 17. House decorations were variegated dshlians and snapdragons.

Milk-Maid Desserts Easy on Sugar Ration

TEMPTING to the eye and pleasing to the palate, milk-made desserts can be easy on the sugar ration and kind to the budget.

That's the practical tip to homemakers given by Alice M. Cooley, director of home economics of the National Dairy Council in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Vary the popular stand-bys, custards, rice and bread puddings, by cutting their already low sugar content with sweetening of honey, ma-

Try orange custard sauce on gingerbread squares. Replace 2 tbsp. of each cup of milk in custard with 1 1/2 tsp. orange juice and 1/2 tsp. grated orange rind. Serve chilled.

Spread chocolate pudding between sponge cake layers. Sift confectioners' sugar over paper doily atop cake. Lift doily carefully.

One of the chief attractions about these milk-made desserts is their sugar-saving quality. Food authorities advise that sugar rationing may have to be retained for some months after the war's end. So, for the duration and as long thereafter as necessary, any methods the homemaker can use to save precious points will pay dividends.

Add milk to pudding mix, cook and turn into baked pie shell. For a feathery light filling, fold in beaten egg whites. Chill well.

"You introduced a bill?" "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "It was a very successful introduction. They treated it like so many debutantes are treated; gave it a lovely reception and then forgot about it."

Dora had returned from Sunday school where she had been for the first time. "What did my little daughter learn this morning?" asked her father. "That I am a child of Satan," was the beaming reply.

Mrs. C. H. Elliott Hostess Tuesday to 1917 Study Club

Mrs. C. H. Elliott was hostess to the 1917 Study Club on Tuesday, Oct. 17. Mrs. Elliott studied at the University of Mexico the past summer, and she gave a brief summary of her course. Especially did the club enjoy her discussion on Mexico City, in which she included the trip made by her family into Mexico. Souvenirs were passed among the members.

Delicious refreshments were served to Meses. J. E. Berry, Ned Baird, Clyde Bingham, J. H. Bowman, Nell Davis, R. E. Dickson, Clark Forbis, R. C. Forbis, E. D. Hagins, Fred C. Haile, H. Hodges, Miss Hickman and the hostess.

A woman had her radio tuned in on a sermon, and not being much interested in the sermon, she turned quickly to another station. The last words she heard the reverend say were, "And the Lord was with Joseph," and the first words that came through from the other station were, "and he made a touchdown."

DR. SOPHIA BRUNSON

Characters Are Changed By the Gospel—No. 1.

In 1858, just five years after Commodore Perry bombarded the city of Shimonosaki in Japan and compelled them to open their ports to American trade, Jno. G. Paton, and his wife, whose souls were on fire for God, set sail as missionaries from Scotland to carry the gospel to the people of the South Pacific islands.

He went to a group in which our soldiers in this war have been fighting the Japanese. He found the natives with naked, painted bodies. They were sunk in the lowest depths of misery and degradation. Honor or keeping of their word was utterly unknown among them. They were treacherous and cruel.

Paton wondered if it were possible to Christianize or even to civilize such creatures. If they promised not to injure another, if they abstained from violence themselves, they did not hesitate to hire others to do it for them. Nothing was too base or wicked for them to indulge in if it served their purpose. The hearts of the missionaries almost sank in despair. They would have returned home, had they not believed that God had sent them to these people to open to them the way of life.

War broke out among the different tribes before Mr. Paton had learned to speak the language well. The painted savages rushed past his house uttering their horrible war cries. When a man of their own tribe was killed, the victim's wife was strangled in order that she might wait on him in the hereafter.

One evening a native who was cooking for Mr. and Mrs. Paton was sent to the spring to get water with which to make tea. The boy returned without the water. A battle had been fought at the spring and the dead were cooked and eaten by the cannibals. The servant regretted that there was too much blood in the water to make tea for supper. He was sorry that he could not use the water though the cooking and eating of human beings did not disturb him in the least.

The life of Paton was constantly in danger, but he had gone to the islands as an ambassador of Jesus Christ and he stayed on. He buried his wife and child with his own hands and remained alone to preach the gospel. Gradually, the natives were brought to God. When His power touched their hearts, they were transformed.

Not many months ago an airship crashed in a remote district on one of these islands. The natives who had formerly been cannibals, but were now Christians, found the wounded crew. They took care of them and nursed them back to convalescence. Then they bore them on stretchers many a weary mile to a hospital where they left them, but not until they had presented each one of the men with a Bible.

Behold! What hath God wrought!

WAC Recruiters to Be in Spur Oct. 27 Seeking Enlistments

WAC Recruiting personnel will be in Spur on Friday, Oct. 27, for the purpose of interviewing women who are willing to do their part in the present conflict.

Particular emphasis is placed on the need for medical technicians at this time. Colonel Kurtz has expressed the urgent call for 48,000 women to help heal the physical hurts of the men who are every day returning to this country in ever-increasing numbers. This need increases as the days go by and the army needs women to fulfill this requirement, because of the understanding nature, and the calm, peaceful feeling that only a woman's touch can give to a warped body, mind and spirit. If you are interested in answering this plea for women, please contact the recruiting personnel at the post office where Lt. Antonelli, Cpl. Jabe A. Caldwell, Cpl. Dorothea Murphy or Cpl. Rachel Featherstone, will be more than glad to give you the facts. They urgently request that you find out just how important you can become in doing your share to bring victory nearer and nearer.

SHALL WE BUY OFF COMMUNISM?

A prominent labor leader, who just returned from Italy, advises immediate and substantial help in the economic rehabilitation of Italy as the sole means of avoiding a "Communist upheaval" in that country.

The statement comes from Luigi Antonini, who says that the situation in Italy is marked by mass unemployment, hunger, despair, prostitution, delinquency and painful disappointment over the failure of the Allies to help the Italian people help themselves.

The gentleman characterizes the recent appropriation of fifty million dollars for Italian relief as "a drop in the bucket." With industry at a standstill and agriculture and trade paralyzed, the Italian people, in the area occupied by the Allies, live almost entirely on money spent by American and British soldiers.

In effect, the labor leader, evidently of Italian descent if not Italian birth, would have the United Nations pour money into Italy on a large scale in order to avoid a "Communist upheaval." This raises the question whether it will be profitable for the Allies to attempt to offset threats to Communism by the use of cash. Frankly, we are against it. Of course, it is very difficult to understand the situation in Italy, but, in view of Mussolini's leadership, the Italian people can hardly expect to avoid severe economic consequences. If, as a result of this misfortune, the Italian people decide to adopt a Communist regime, the tendency will not be averted by pouring money into that country. The more we pour, the more we will have to pour and the longer the "Communist upheaval" idea will be used to exact greater donations.

President Roosevelt has called attention to the "substantial aid" which the Allies have already given to Italy. Since the invasion of Sicily, to the end of this year, he reports some 2,300,000 long tons of supplies, about half being food, will have been shipped to the people of our former enemy country. In addition, the Army has repaired roads, bridges and railroads, water and power systems and motor transport.

THE NAZIS ARE ASKING FOR IT!

There have been numerous predictions that the Germans, once defeated in war and unable to oppose the United Nations along conventional military lines, will resort to guerrilla warfare and gangster tactics to make the occupation of Germany as costly as possible.

Consequently, there are grave implications in the exhortation of Reich Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels to the German people to present the Allies with a "fanatical population" and to carry forces of occupation by guerrilla-type warfare.

If the majority of the German people carry out the suggestion of Goebbels, they will probably succeed in killing additional Allied soldiers. This would be unfortunate in view of the useless nature of the casualties, but the more serious implications involved in such a fanatical course are of stern consequence to the German people themselves.

When the German armies have been broken up and rendered helpless as military forces, the Allied armies of occupation will necessarily apply rigorous and severe regulations to the German population. If thereafter the German people resort to a gangster-type of assassination, the Allied High Command will have no option but to take punitive and retaliatory action.

We would not like to see such things happen, even in Germany, but if they must occur, let us remember that the Germans asked for it.

DO FARMERS WANT THIS

We see where a candidate for public office in another State has pledged himself to "restore agriculture to the farmers."

The candidate stresses what the bureaucratic handling of farm terms oppressive, meddlesome problems and holds out the bait to agriculturists that, if elected, he will give agriculture back to them, unfettered and free for the exercise of individual initiative.

Naturally, the man seeking votes does not add that "to restore agriculture to the farmers" he would have to abolish governmental assistance, including price guarantees, subsidy payments and other efforts to improve the economic status of agriculture. This would hardly get votes, but if farmers are to be relieved of all regulations, restrictions and controls, they will also be relieved of financial assistance from the government.

When we speak of financial assistance from the government, we do not imply that such policies should be discarded. In fact, so long as the nation maintains a protective tariff to benefit selected industries, it should, by every test of fairplay, give the farmer financial assistance in order that he may escape the penalties imposed upon him in the selling of his crop.

Every intelligent farmer knows that much of what American farms produce must be sold on the world market, at a world price. On the other hand, the farmer buys what he needs in a protected market.

By this time the Japanese are wondering if any place is safe from our carrier-based planes.

This is the time of the year that some people begin to suspect that summer has its advantages.

The philosopher rarely worries about what he knows; what bothers him is the extent of his ignorance.

There are some people who will not be truly thankful this year; they want to make another million.

News from home makes the front lines cheer and, occasionally, news from the front makes the home folks cheer.

The duty to vote, so incessantly described, includes intelligent understanding of public issues. Without knowledge voting is dangerous.

This is our Pledge to You:

- To give every customer an equal opportunity to buy
- To spread our supply of scarce items among all our customers
- To limit sales per person when necessary

No mystery, the share-fair plan; We pledge ourselves, said Uncle Sam, To pipe morale to fellow man, By methods most effective; To lick the "wolf" we so abhor, Drive fear of need from every door, And thereby help to win the war, Our ultimate objective.

That's why a PLAQUE, we understand, Adorns Ike's joint for all to scan The PLEDGE by Ike, in his own hand, To help control inflation. Now Ike's place does a thriving biz, For he knows food from A to IZ, But let Ike talk, the tale is his, With some slight variation:

My friend, our Uncle said be fair, "Use ceiling prices." Hung up there So all can see we're shooting square, For that's the Regulation. Our waitresses, with dash and swish A meal will serve from soup to fish, And seldom ever spill a dish, Or start a disputation.

Our chicken soup's a dish for kings, Made from Ah La's and chicken wings, And flavored well with other things Too numerous to mention; We slice it thin, our rationed meat, On dainty dishes serve it neat, So all may share who wish to eat, And that averts contention.

We serve calf liver, hot or cold, Done to your taste, La Casserole, It's very tough, the calf was old, Long years of inattention. Our steaks are re'ly very fine, Horsebeef, hamburger, every kind, I can't recall them all to mind, And some I wouldn't mention.

A T-bone steak? None can be found, A tip right from the "Underground," That OPA 's been snooping 'round, Said Ike, in explanation. Our hunger grew by leap and bound— See here, if there's a steak in town, We want it, Ike, don't let us down, We said in desperation.

Just one thing more we would relate, If only for the record's sake; We paid our check, and got that straight, A whole week's compensation; Then as we left, Ike whispered: Mate, We need your biz, give us a break, Remember we serve T-bone steak, And help us lick inflation.

County Home Demonstration Office News

By AGNES M. MARRS, County Home Demonstration Agent

Strawberries are the first fruit to ripen, and less time is required from date of planting to date of harvest than any other fruit.

October 15 to November 15 is the best time to set strawberry plants. I the old planting survived the summer in good shape, take the largest and thrickest "daughter" plants and put into a new location for next year's production. "Daughters" usually are those nearest the mother plant. Discard any plants having brown spots or margins. The sure way to "strawberry success" in this part of the state is to put out new stock each year.

In choosing varieties for the west, west central, and northwest Texas, plant Gem or Mastodon Everbearing.

In home gardens 500 to 1000 plants should bear enough for table use and for preserving. Usually 100 plants per member of the family is a good guide. In preparing the soil, the site should have a heavy application of well-rotted barnyard fertilizer broadcast, then plowed and well pulverized. Do not set plants too deep. Plants should be spaced 10 to 12 inches apart in the row. If buds in the center of the plant are covered with soil, the plants will fail, or delay, blooming, and in some cases die. Try to set them at the same depth at which they originally grew. Pack the soil tightly around each plant to keep roots from drying out.

Keep weeds and grass under control with shallow cultivation. If the plants are to produce a crop of large sized berries, the soil must be kept moist from the time the first bloom appears. This will vary from 1 to 3 irrigations per week. A frame garden is ideal for producing strawberries in this section of the state.

Strawberries are adapted to a wide range of soil and climatic conditions.

HEAD AND HANDS

When I was nine years old, my father sent me horseback on an errand to a nearby farm. Our neighbor, an elderly man, was hoeing in his vegetable garden when I dismounted, but he came to the farm gate to talk with me. While we stood there, a cattle buyer passed in a single-seated vehicle pulled by a spirited horse. The salutation between my two elders was cool and stilted.

Childlike, I inquired with frankness: "Don't you like Mr. Moore?" Then my neighbor began "educating" me. He informed me in a low tone, implying a great deal, that Moore was a rich man. Without saying it in so many words, he hinted that the trader was not to be trusted and that his wealth proved the point. My next question was from the heart: "How much money can a man to reports from both the Idaho and North Carolina Experiment Stations where recent research shows that riboflavin, or Vitamin G, the most important vitamin in this food, is rapidly destroyed by exposure to sunlight.

The Idaho station reports that milk in clear glass bottles left standing only 2 hours in sunlight lost nearly half its riboflavin, and in 6 hours lost from 70 to 80 per cent. The North Carolina Station reports that almost three-fourths of the riboflavin was destroyed in bottled milk left on an open porch in sunlight from mid-morning to mid-afternoon.

The light rather than the heat does the damage, for the North Carolina Station found no loss of riboflavin occurred in a dark warm place in 24 hours. The Idaho Station reports that in 6 hours in the shade at 70 degrees F, only 10 percent of the riboflavin was lost.

A few hours on the doorstep or porch in cool, fall weather may have little effect on the souring of the milk, but may mean a serious loss to the diet. Without the riboflavin furnished by milk, it is difficult to get the needed quantity of this vitamin in meals. The paper containers now used by some milk companies help save the riboflavin by keeping the milk dark. If milk is delivered in clear bottles when the housewife is not at home to put it promptly in the refrigerator, a closed insulated box should be provided to keep it dark.

One pint of milk furnishes the daily requirements of riboflavin for an inactive adult and for a child.

have and be honest?"

All Figured Out

"In these parts," he said thoughtfully, "A man can't get together more than $10,000 in a lifetime unless he carries on some right shady business." He did not say how he arrived at the figure! probably he was speaking from a long life's wealth of observations. I knew he was sincere, but many years had passed before I knew how wrong he was. His words were a figment of class prejudice.

In the United States, class prejudice is nearly harmless by contrast to the misery it deals people in other lands. Just the same, we have some of it and it's a curse. Moreover it is not limited to coolness between grangers and stock buyers. Recently a high executive of the U. S. Treasury Department let himself say this: "No man who works with his hands can be worth $5,000 a year."

Class Prejudice

He may be sincere as my venerable neighbor of years ago, but he does not know everything about men who work with their hands. They think too. In fact the most effective thinking to achieve military victory in the present war has been done at the workbench and between the plow handles. Judgement, skill, and technical knowledge used elsewhere would be bottlenecked indeed if workers used their hands only.

An equipment manufacturer in a northern city has used wage incentives for 20 years. By his plan, workers get more pay when they do faster and better work. They like the idea and so does the employer. When the men put their minds on increasing volume so they could draw better wages, the price of a welding machine that used to exceed $500 slid down below $200. Even the buyer was benefitted.

Thoroughly American

Under pressure of war demands and hurry-up orders, this share-the-profit plan really shined. Output increased. Users bought new equipment 60 per cent cheaper. The firm lowered its percentage of profit and still upheld earnings. Average wage of workers climbed above $100 a week. The government didn't like it, however, and assessed the company an extra 1.6 million dollars a year.

This firm is using our only safe pattern for post-war prosperity—wages up and prices down. Both depend on production efficiency. This plan means purchasing power at home and ability to compete in foreign markets. Labor and industry, in self defense, both must hold to this principle. Inefficiency after the war will bar us from foreign markets, make goods costly at home, jobs scarce, and pay low.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

RELIGION IN EDUCATION
International Sunday School Lesson For October 22, 1944.
GOLDEN TEXT: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."—John 8:32.
Lesson Text: Matthew 7: 7-12; Luke 39-45.

This is the first lesson we have had in some years on the subject of religion in education and it is certainly a timely discussion. We, here in America, have so carefully divorced religion from education in our desire to forever separate church from state, that we are in danger of assuming that education is one thing and religion quite another, which, of course, is untrue.

First, let's ask ourselves, "What is the best education?" We will answer this question, in the words of John E. Bradley, in Work and Play. He says, "The best education is the highest development of the individual in all its powers. The true student aims at good preparation—to become his best self. The 'royal road' to success is through character and manliness. By character we mean integrity, moral uprightness, spiritual strength, the reaching out of the soul towards God. We also mean that quality in a man which begets confidence and respect.

"The highest manifestation of moral growth is the Christ-like spirit. Education falls short of its true end if the learner does not sit at the feet of the great Teacher. Religion does not consist in emotion; it is an upward movement of the whole nature. The first and great commandment is to love with all the heart and soul and mind. A full manhood unites worship with work."

In the latest of a series of articles, appearing in the October issue of The Ladies Home Journal, on "The Mental and Moral Training of the American Child," Dorothy Thompson has something to say which should startle every school official, teacher and parent in the whole country, because the truth of what she says is so apparent. She declares, in part: "We have paganism in our schools. Freedom of religion has come to mean for vast numbers of American children Freedom FROM Religion—and in American life, is the province of the home and church, and must not be touched by the school.

"Now it is obvious and, to me, desirable that sectarian religious teachings should be kept out of American public schools. Children come from Catholic, Protestant or Jewish homes, if they come from religiously inclined homes at all. Parents do not wish their children to be inculcated with doctrines foreign to their own churches. But it is perfectly possible to discover a bedrock ethical basis common to all the faiths institutionalized in America.

"And just why the peerless monument of the English language should be banned, or all but banned, from English studies, from primary grades through high school, is beyond my comprehension. I refer to the King James version of the Bible. The thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians is not only one of the greatest treatises on transcendental ethics ever penned, but it is also one of the greatest pieces of pure literature ever written. The greatest of the Psalms are among the greatest of the world's poems. The Ten commandments are the basis of the laws of nations. The Sermon on the Mount is a social document of the loftiest beauty. And no person who is not intimately familiar with these passages, and many others, can have any real notion of the basis of our civilization, its laws or its ethical standards.

"We are rearing generations who are neither atheist nor agnostic—for either attitude involves a disagreement with something. They are simply pagans, living in a religious and ethical void. The result is that we have to reduce religious and ethical sensitivity and public and private morality to purely pragmatic grounds. . . ."

Real Christianity and education have gone hand in hand. Practically all of the institutions of higher learning first founded in this country were organized by religious groups. Harvard university was founded by a Baptist preacher and its aim is, "That an educated ministry may not perish from the earth." The aim of Yale is, "That the youth of our land may be trained to serve the church and the state."

To be really educated, one's heart must be educated as well as one's mind. Having one's heart right with God is even more important and there is only one way whereby one may have a righteous heart—let Christ cleanse it from evil. No matter how well educated one's mind is, unless he knows Christ as his personal Saviour, he is only partially educated.

Usual Consequences
Lulu—What's the matter with the car now? It won't run.
Kenneth—I dunno; I guess Dad's been fixin' it again.

"Here, young man, you shouldn't hit that boy when he's down."
"G'way! What do you think I got him down for?"

Killed In Action

(By M. S.—Dedicated to all parents who have received messages of their son's death while fighting with our armed forces.)

This message came this morning, Dear God, here's what it said: "Your son was killed in action—He's numbered with the dead."

"He proved himself a hero, To all his friends and crew. A flying cross, awarded him Is on its way to you."

Perhaps they are mistaken, Surely my son's not dead. Suppose he's just a prisoner Alive and safe instead.

But those words sound so final When once they have been read. "Your son was killed in action, He's numbered with the dead."

Now I know my boy's in heaven Free from sin and earthly care I'll prepare to go up yonder, Yes, I'll meet my boy up there.

"Lord, it leaves me sad and lonely Since the message came which said That my boy was killed in action; That he's numbered with the dead."

And Where'd You Get It?

"How old are you, sonny?" asked the inquisitive old man of the little boy on the beach.

"Six," came the brisk reply. "Six," echoed the old man, and yet you are not as tall as my umbrella." The boy drew himself up to his full height. "How old is your umbrella?" he asked.

This is what our fighting men are thinking and talking about.

First—victory. Next—nail down the peace.

Then they want to throw off the rigid regimentation of military life—and not run into the same sort of regimentation back home.

They want to set out for themselves, as Americans always have . . . to use their own heads and hands in fashioning their own destiny.

A job and an opportunity—in the American system of free enterprise. This is the post-war plan of men in uniform.

Government can't be expected to carry out these plans. It's up to every one of us at home to see that they're fulfilled—eleven million times.

FORD SHOCKS INDUSTRIALISTS
Henry Ford's statement that he plans to increase wages of workers in his plant "as soon as the government will permit" is sad news to industrialists who have been trying to convince the people of the nation that labor is being overpaid.

Mr. Ford takes pride in the fact that his workers enjoy wages "higher than those of the rest of the industry" but admits that he "would like to raise the pay" and says that it can be done if the men "will give a full day's work for a full day's pay."

The automobile industry, it should be remembered, enjoy no tariff protection. Nevertheless, American cars were about to take the world before other nations erected retaliatory tariffs to keep them out of competition with their own industries.

Mrs. Wilson Hagins of the Duck Creek community, is quite ill this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Smith visited Sunday in the home of R. R. Smith of the Peaceful Hill community.
