Now that we will all be wearing more woolen garments, it is worth knowing that they may be cleaned with glue. Any good liquid glue may be used.

Before applying the glue, be sure to take out all grease spots with a cleaning fluid, preferably carbon tetrachloride because it will not ignite if brought near a flame. Follow these directions for cleaning:

Place the garment on a piece of wrapping paper and trace around it. In this way the garment can be properly shaped when it dries. Next, make a glue and water solution sufficient to cover the garment. Use three teaspoons of glue to one quart of water. The water should be about 100 degrees F.

Fold the garment carefully and put it in the glue and water solution. Let it soak about 20 minutes, and try to keep the mixture at 100 degrees F by placing the container in another pan of hot water. Before you remove the garment, brush the soiled creases, pleats or seams with a soft brush. And be sure to brush just one way—with the nap of the material. Don't scrub back and forth and don't wrinkle the garment.

Now remove the garment, press out the moisture and put it into a second glue solution. This time use only one teaspoon of glue to one quart of water, maintaining the same temperature 100 degrees F. is correct. Let the garment soak 20 minutes a second time.

Rinse the article in clear, soft water, then press the water out between two towels. Try to keep from wrinkling the garment and shape it according to your drawing.

ing. Let it dry at room temperature.

Get That Peach Tree Borer

Treatment of peach tree borers should be carried on before the temperature drops below 65 degrees and stays there for a few days.

PDB — pararchloro-benzene crystals is the materials most commonly used for control. The quantities are one ounce for each mature tree; 1½ ounces for extremely large trees; 3-4 ounce for immature trees. Gum and sawdust indicate the presence of the peach tree borer. Before applying PDB the crystals should be rolled to the fineness of sugar grains.

All grass and weeds around the tree trunk should be removed before PDB is used. If the borers are visible above ground, the soil line should be built up above where they are working. Apply the crystals in a 1-inch band, 1 to 1½ inches from the trunk and cover them with a few shovelful of dirt which should be well packed. The soil should be fairly dry. The mound and crystals should be removed from the tree in three weeks to prevent damage to the trees.

Treatment for lesser borers which works in the upper part of the trunk and the scaffold branches, may be given at the same time. Dissolve one pound of PDB crystals in ½ gallon of crude cottonseed or linseed oil and paint the infected parts only with a small brush after removing the exuding gum and frass.

Has your son or daughter home from the service asked for cheese? Well, the most of them have because it is a scarce food. Many farm women make cheese at home since there has been a scarcity of good cheese. It is an especially good food—milk in concentrated form plus a delicious flavor. An average serving of cheese furnishes a good part of the daily requirement of riboflavin.

Cheesemaking is not a difficult process, yet it is new to many homemakers, and they have many questions about it. Let's answer a few of them.

First, "What is processed cheese?" It is a soft, cooked cheese made from cottage cheese which has been well drained. Butter, cream, salt and soda are added and the cheese is melted until it is quite smooth. A more pronounced flavor may be obtained by adding sharp cheese or highly flavored cheese at the end of the melting period.

Next, "What is the difference between neufchatel and cream cheese?" Cream cheese is similar to neufchatel except that it is smoother and richer on account of the higher content of butter fat in the milk used. Both are creamy cheese types with a sour milk flavor. The easiest way to get whey from either type is to use a cheese process after the cheese has drained awhile. A plan for the cheese press and information on making cheese may be obtained from the County Home Demonstration Agent.

This question has been raised: "Is it possible to store American cheese made at home in a freezer locker after it has been cured?" Yes, indeed. It can be stored indefinitely in a locker box if it is well paraffined and wrapped. This prevents the cheese from drying out and stops the formation of mold.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stephens celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in their home at Dickens on Saturday, Oct. 28. The home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers, chiefly chrysanthemums.

Open house was held from 2 to 4 in the afternoon, during which 75 guests, some of whom attended the couple's wedding fifty years ago, called to offer congratulations and reminiscence of by-gone days.

Tea was served from a silver tea service covered with lovely gold lace. The centerpiece was a crystal bowl on a reflector filled with colorful gold and bronze chrysanthemums. The crystal holders held gold tapers.

No Best Dog Breed, State The Experts

There is no such thing as a "best breed" of dog. That breed is best which gives you what you most like in or expect from a dog.

This is the opinion consensus of experts associated with the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City, who were polled recently on this subject.

There are 111 recognized breeds of dogs in America segregated into six distinctive classifications, sporting breeds, working breeds, hounds, terriers, toys and nonsporting breeds. This is variety enough for anyone to find exactly what he is looking for. According to these experts, all one has to do is to make up his mind what he particularly wants the dog for—as pet or companion, as children's playmate or home guard, as field worker or special duty dog—and the selection becomes relatively simple.

Pure-bred vs. Mongrel?

The experts also agree on another point, and that is the desirability of the purebred dog as against the mongrel. Blood will tell, they say, whether in man or dog. You wouldn't adopt just "any baby" in your home. Neither is it wise to add "any old dog" to your household. Desirable dog qualities are at their best in the purebred. Contrary to popular belief, too, the purebred is likely to be the more intelligent animal. Because of his breeding and better general care, a purebred is also the more likely one to be well formed, have a good constitution, and be in good condition. There is the added pleasure that comes to the owner of a purebred from the realization that automatically he is a member of one of the greatest and one of the most democratic sporting fraternities on earth.

News On Farm Production

A 4-H Club girl who beat 200 other members at the job of growing Irish potatoes is Bettie Jean Grimsley of El Paso county. She produced enough to supply the potato needs of a soldier for one year.

Jennie Camp, home production specialist for the A. and M. college Extension Service, says this is typical of farm girls' war service she has observed during a recent field trip. They're living up to their "feed-a fighter-in-'44" pledge.

Two girls in Baylor county have produced enough pullets and eggs for 10 soldiers during the same period. They'd had complete charge of the family poultry flock for several months now. One had 120 pullets and the other looked after 150 hens. In Mitchell county, Shirley Ann Rees has been doing much of the work with a flock which will produce about twelve-hundred dozen eggs this year—enough for 40 soldiers.

Piney Lou and Patty Jo Dupree in Dickens county produced food and helped relieve the farm labor shortage by taking care of the family garden and a flock of 125 fryers. For their work each was given eight fryers to sell. Together they raised enough fryers to provide two soldiers for a year's time.

Excellent jobs in production however, weren't confined to teenagers. Miss Camp saw a strawberry bed in Upton county that provided berries for Mrs. Callie Fisher and her family last spring. And the vines were surviving the summer. At the Alvin Ressel home in Knox county the frame garden produced more than the open garden this spring. The frame has been in use for six years on two different farms.

20th Century Club Meets With Mrs. Lee

Twentieth Century Study club members met Tuesday, Nov. 7, in the home of Mrs. W. B. Lee, with the leader of the program Mrs. George S. Link.

Mrs. P. E. Gollihar gave an interesting paper on "Can American Unity be Achieved?" Mrs. B. F. Halie then discussed Argentina and its International Relations.

Lovely refreshments of salad, spice cake and coffee were served to all members present.

DEDICATED TO EX-STUDENTS OF SPUR HIGH SCHOOL NOW IN THE ARMED SERVICES

• Just a few years ago they were students in Spur High School—the kids who won and lost football games, who played in the Band, who were enthusiastic fans for these fighting Bulldogs. Now, several hundred of these ex-students have gone on to a bigger fight and from the beaches of the Pacific to the battlefields of Germany—on the sea, on the land and in the air—the ex-students of Spur High are doing their part for Uncle Sam.

• Some of these boys have already given their last full measure of devotion; still others will make the supreme sacrifice before the victorious armies march into Tokyo; and to show their appreciation for the record of every fighting man and woman from Spur High, the present student body and the people of Spur territory join in a salute. In appreciation for their good fight, this game is dedicated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHURCH AND PATRIOTISM

International Sunday School Lesson for November 12, 1944

GOLDEN TEXT: "Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called sons of God."—Matthew 5:9.

Lesson Text: Matthew 5: 43-48; ROMANS 13: 1-7.

This is the first of two closely related lessons. This lesson, "The Church and Patriotism" or "Putting Christianity Into Our Patriotism" is to be followed next week by a discussion of "Christianity in Democracy." The lesson for this week will be discussed from the angle of Christians or church groups as a whole, while next week's lesson will deal more with the individual Christian's contribution to his or her government.

First just what is patriotism? Webster defines the word as "love of one's country; devotion to the welfare of one's country." Most of us would be insulted if our patriotism was questioned in the slightest degree, but do we show our devotion to the welfare of our country by positive action?

Let us consider first what Paul, in writing to the Romans, advised those who would be good, or Christian citizens. The Jews of Paul's time, while subject to the Roman Government, were in constant conflict with the authorities because they, as Jews, considered it sinful to acknowledge a Gentile ruler. Paul counseled the Christians (most of whom were converted to Jews) to obey the higher powers—those in authority—and then he laid down the principle that the fact of the authority's being established argues that it was ordained by God. Therefore, he who defies the power is defying what has been instituted by God, and shall be punished accordingly.

It is incumbent upon the Christian citizen to be a law-abiding citizen, to be a co-operative citizen, even to the point of going to war to fight for Christian principles which have been threatened or abridged. Certainly, we will all agree that war is not patterned according to Christ's teachings, yet the Christian does have an obligation to fight for the welfare of his country and for the defeat of evil forces that are trying to destroy the very foundation of Christianity itself.

Another way in which a person shows his patriotism or allegiance to his government is by the payment of taxes, or tribute and Paul declares that Christians like other citizens, have this obligation to help finance the various departments of government. If we enjoy the privileges and advantages offered by government, each of us has a responsibility to contribute our proportionate part in maintaining government.

What, then, is the difference in the patriotism of the Christian citizen and the non-Christian citizen? If we will study the words given us in Matthew 5, which is part of the Sermon on the Mount, we will discover that the difference is in attitude, or motive. The Christian is a good citizen because of his love of God and of Christ's way of life, not because of fear of punishment or of hatred of the enemy. He fights the enemy not because of hatred for him but because of his love of justice, equality and freedom, and his desire to do his part to perpetuate these principles in all parts of the world.

Jesus's command to his followers to love their enemies is one of the most difficult of his commands to obey. However, we can be like Jesus in that, while Jesus loved the sinner, he did not love the sin. While he loved the Pharisees, he did not love their hypocrisy. If we will let love fill our hearts, we will love fill our hearts, we will

A writer, in the Bible Society Gleanings, says, "He has not only given this command, which he expects his friends to obey; he has shown by his perfect example how it is possible to love publicans every one: make no exceptions. If you fail to see anything lovable in a person, treat that person as one whom you are bound to help to be better. Pray God to bless your enemies; and them. Kill your self-love, for pray him to assist you in loving pride is the chief hindrance to fair and kind feelings towards others. Only when pride is dead do people cease to bear malice when others cheat them, or snub them, or—worst of all as some think—take no notice of them. Do not be discouraged if your attempt to love your enemies is misunderstood; you may be treated worse by them than if you had been cold and unamiable; but preserve. Ordinary love cannot endure unless it is returned; but the true Christian love must not seek any return."

Both Ends

"Why do you call your house a bungalow?"
"Well, if it isn't a bungalow, what is it? The builded made a bungle of it and I still owe for it."

He'll Learn

Tom—I hope we'll agree after we're married.
Tess—Maybe you won't at first, but you'll soon learn to.

They Do

Bloofus—I wonder why rich folks so often marry rich folks?
Obfuscus—Because they have so much interest in common.

WILL WRIGHT TOM MURDOCK A. A. FRY

Archer Powell of the Dry Lake Conservation Group says he is very well pleased with the 38 acres of pasture land he contoured furrowed in 1941. He has observed notable changes in the furrowed pasture as compared to the land not furrowed immediately adjoining it. In 1941 and 1942 sunflowers and other weeds were numerous on the furrowed pasture. In 1943 some of the better grasses began crowding the weeds out. A recent check on the contoured furrowed land showed a greater density than the non-furrowed land, with weeds being about equal. The check also revealed a marked decrease in needle grass and a large increase in buffalo and blue grama grasses when compared with the same type of land not furrowed.

Conservation Group 33 and 35, both in Kent county, have started terracing work. Terrace lines were run on farms of Mr. Rinehart and Mr. Val Perry this past week, and terrace construction was started on both places. Old terraces were checked prior to reconstruction for J. A. Parks and E. M. Jones, and terrace constructed sizes were checked on farm of E. W. Clark, Joe Hunnicutt and Alton Clark.

Some of the operators of the District are reporting such good results from conservation crop rotation that it seems others may be missing a good bet by planting the peas almost everyone plants in the same place every year. It would seem that a strip of peas moved each year to a new location would start a long-time conservation crop rotation which would be beneficial and protective to the soil. Mr. Joe Hunnicutt who has between 8 and 10 acres of Austrian winter peas planted and up, says that he has noticed three benefits from planting a strip of Austrian winter peas. He says they afford good grazing, improve the physical structure of the soil, and make crops following the peas produce better. Where the grazing is controlled, they also provide good protection against blowing.

Stock ponds and dams were completed on the following co-operator farms this past week: Loyd Hindman, Ellis Draper and Dee Hairgrove.

Every 17 seconds (day and night) a vitally needed car is junked

THE DANGER LEVEL in number of automobiles in use is rapidly approaching. Out of 30,000,000 cars, 5,000,000 or one in every five have already disappeared from the highways. And of those remaining, more than 5,000 every day go to the scrap heap!

Says the Office of Defense Transportation: "Private automobiles must perform three-fourths of the essential local wartime transportation service... Street cars, buses, and rapid transit lines can haul only a small share, approximately 25 per cent of the essential load."

So Care For Your Car For Your Country by enlisting the aid of your Phillips 66 Service Man. He is ready and waiting to help you.

At least once a week, give him the opportunity of checking air pressures... inspecting for nail holes, cuts, and bruises... examining tires so that he can warn you when re-capping is imperative.

At the same time, he will inspect the battery, air filter, and cooling system. And at regular intervals be sure to have him lubricate every friction point specified by the maker of your car... and make either the seasonal or the recommended every-sixty-day oil change.

Every Phillips 66 Service Man shares with you the responsibility of guarding that part of America's mileage which remains in your car and tires. So get Phillips Car-Saving and Tire-Saving Service at any Phillips 66 Shield... the sign of famous Phillips 66 Gasoline and Phillips 66 Motor Oil.
