PUREBRED POULTRY GIVEN BY LUNCHEON CLUB LAST SATURDAY

According to schedule, the Merchants Luncheon Club gave away four pens of purebred poultry last Saturday, each pen containing 12 hens and one rooster. The move to increase dairying and poultry production in this territory is meeting with a hearty response from the farmers. There was a large crowd here Saturday for the drawing and much enthusiasm was manifested, each one who held tickets being hopeful that they would be among the winners.

Those holding the lucky tickets were: Happy Bearden, Frank Lovelady, John Davis and H. A. Angley. There will be no drawing this week, but the tickets that are given this week will be good at the next drawing, so all should save their tickets. There will be other valuable prizes given from time to time, and just as good bargains can be secured from Muleshoe merchants as are offered at other places—two splendid reasons why you should come to Muleshoe to do your trading.

Still Wrangling

Muleshoe Yellow Jackets Defeat Friona 19 To 0

Friday afternoon the Muleshoe Yellow Jackets got revenge for last year's defeat by Friona, by defeating Friona on Cob field by a score of 19 to 0. The game was a very sensational one from start to finish. The local squad pushed the ball over for a touchdown in the early part of the first period to give them a lead that was enlarged by two other touchdowns in the second and fourth periods.

DeBord demonstrated his ability as a real end by snatching passes after pass from the air to net good gains. Only one pass tried by the Jackets was incomplete. Every man on the team was fighting and doing his part to make the game interesting for the visitors. Every position on the entire team was well played. No one or two men can be given credit for the victory—they were all in the fight. Coach Pharies has been doing some fine work with the boys the past few days and weeks and should make a good showing in the game Friday with Amberst.

NEWS FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

(By Special Correspondent)

In removing the flexible tariff provision from the tariff revision bill now being considered by the Senate, thus depriving the President of his power to change schedules on recommendation of the Tariff Commission, the Senate not only gave President Hoover a slap in the face, but administered a swift kick in the seat of his pants and projected him out of the picture. The act was accomplished by a combination of Democratic and so-called Republican votes, and this in the face of a direct appeal by the President that the flexible provision be retained in the bill.

The Democratic organization will, of course, claim the credit in the coming campaign, but the removal of the provision could not have been accomplished without the votes of Independent and Progressives who are "Republicans at election time" for campaign purposes only. Senators Johnson of California and Borah of Idaho again made it clear by their actions that they think they are bigger than the party that elects them and bigger than the President of the United States.

It is predicted that with the flexible provision left out the bill will fail, but this is doubtful as there are many provisions of the present tariff law that admittedly should be changed, and to many sections of the country vitally interested in many of the provisions of the new bill. It also suggested that with the provision omitted President Hoover will veto the bill, but this is doubted as the President is not a small man and would not let his personal opinion control in a situation of this kind. To do so would be to place himself on a par with the so-called Republican Senators who insist their views are the right ones.

Now we are to have a "Prohibition Party" to control the "Prohibition problem." The organization for the enforcement of prohibition have grown so numerous that they are stepping on each other's toes, and this has become irksome not only to the people at large, but to those who comprise themselves the original, sincere prohibitionists; so we have an organization to coordinate the work of all organizations along the same line.

Premier McDonald of England has arrived in the United States to confer with President Hoover on limitation of armament and perhaps other questions of import to both nations. Limitation of armament is not a difficult problem to solve if all nations interested really want it. With a sincerity of purpose controlling in the coming conference, the President and England's Premier will have no trouble in coming to an agreement between themselves.

METHODISTS OF YL RAISE BUDGET AND FINISH PARSONAGE

The Methodist people of YL have practically completed the building of their parsonage, and with the kind assistance of the other churches on the Earth and YL charge have continued the furnishing of the building. The majority of the funds for this building were raised during the conference year. We want to thank our friends who give us a helping hand in obtaining funds for this proposition.

Besides this building project, the church has been meeting other obligations relative to its work. YL has taken care of its share of the expenses, along with the other churches of the Earth and YL charge, for the support of a Methodist minister, getting one Sunday each month for preaching services.

The Earth and YL charge this year has been composed of YL, Earth, Lazbuddy, Cleo, Flag, Sunny Side and Big Square, among which places the minister has divided his time and services. Realizing that one Sunday each month was inadequate to meet the needs of an organization the size of the one at YL, the Methodist Church at this place proposed to ask the Annual Conference for half time, or two Sundays each month.

In a mass meeting of a devotional, social and business nature, the Methodist people agreed upon and arranged to take care of a Church Budget which would be commensurate to its needs and adequately cover the added financial responsibilities. The subscriptions to the budget were in excess of the amount of budget agreed upon. This excess will be applied upon other vital claims of the church. A wonderful spirit of cooperation and progress was manifested in the mass meeting. The church at YL has grown in numbers and spirit during this year. The present enrollment is around fifty members.

J. C. Ginn of Floydada has accepted the agency for Magnolia products in Muleshoe and has taken charge of the business. Mr. Ginn has been in the Magnolia service for three years, he informs us. His family will probably arrive in Muleshoe the latter part of this week and they will locate here permanently. Muleshoe Is the Smallest Town in the State To Put On This Popular Feature.

W. C. Brooks, manager of the Lone Star Theatre, informs us that he has purchased equipment for producing talking pictures and that the equipment will be installed within the next week or two. Announcement of this new departure for the local theatre is to be made in next week's issue of the Moving Picture Times.

Mr. Seba Goodlet, M. F. T. O. representative from Dallas, was here Tuesday in the interest of the theatre owners' organization. He stated that he had been in all the towns of Texas and that Muleshoe was the smallest town in the state to put on talking pictures. He was favorably impressed with Muleshoe and gave it as his belief that the town and community would support a talking picture theatre.

LADIES' MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met with the ladies of the Progress community to assist in organizing a society at that place. They named their society the "Union Society." Our meeting opened by singing "Near the Cross."

The devotional service was opened with prayer by Mrs. Johnson, after which she read the fifth chapter of Matthew.

Our president not being present, Nina Elrod had charge of the meeting. After organization of the new society, our voice program was carried out, which was participated in and enjoyed very much by everyone present. Following this program, the Progress ladies elected the following officers:

President, Mrs. Snyder; Vice-Pres., Mrs. Lela Madison; Sec-Treas., Mrs. Fenton. Their other officers are to be appointed later.

There were fifteen ladies of the Muleshoe Society and fourteen of the Progress Society. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Douglas. After the meeting was over, the Progress ladies served refreshments of cake and cocoa. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. McDorman.

"WILD MAN" BECOMES TAME RATHER THAN MISS HIS RATIONS

Four men were arrested and placed in the County jail last week, charged with drunkenness. One of them, who gave his name as M. O. Wetherington, of Dora, New Mexico, put on a little "program" one evening while in the jail. The program consisted of noise, principally, but when he was informed by the county officials that his rations would be cut off unless he ceased this racket, he became quiet. The others, who gave their names as Green, McKay and Logsdon, have been doing farm work north of town.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disatisfied with the quiet life in his home surroundings, Athol Medrum, young Scotsman, who tells the story, leaves his mother and brother, Gary, to seek his fortune. At San Francisco, practically alone, he takes a laborer's job, and meets a fellow adventurer whom he calls, and who is hereafter known as the Prodigal.

CHAPTER II.—The Prodigal is anxious to join the rush of gold seekers into Alaska. Medrum agrees to go with him after he (the Prodigal) comes back from a visit to his wealthy father in the East. Athol, in great need, is befriended by Jim Hubbard ("Salvation Jim"). When the Prodigal returns, the three men join the stampede into the Frozen North, the Prodigal and Hubbard financing the party.

CHAPTER III.—Among the motley crowd on the boat is a young girl obviously out of place. She is traveling with her grandfather and a hard-looking couple named Winkletie, who offers her an opportunity to befriend her, and she tells him and Athol of her life. She is journeying into Alaska to take care of her grandfather, who is obsessed with the idea of getting rich in Klondike. Her name, she tells him, is Berna.

CHAPTER IV.—Landing at Skagway, Athol's party at once takes the trail in a snowfield on the Chilcot trail, which Berna and her companions had taken, hundreds of lives are lost. Athol is fearful for Berna's safety. Athol hastens to the scene. He finds the old man dead and learns that Berna is prostrated. Madam Winkletie refuses to let him see that she has a letter for her. At Bennett Berna comes to Athol, confesses her love, and begs him to marry her, to save her from the harsh fate she foresees. Athol is unwilling to take such a decisive step, and tells her nothing.

CHAPTER V.—Some days afterward Berna tells Athol Madam Winkletie plans to sell her to "Black Jack" Loasto, millionaire, liner of evil reputation. While realizing how greatly she loves the girl, Athol, in a mixture of emotions, finishes for the idea of immediate marriage, and she agrees to wait a year, though Berna is fearful. Reaching Fairbanks, Athol and his party find the claims all taken and the camp crowded with idle men.

CHAPTER VI.—Athol's party decides to stay and await developments. Unable to locate Berna, Athol seeks information from Loasto. "Black Jack" Loasto, and later, evidently aware of the rivalry between Medrum and Medrum to a lonely spot and beats him into unconsciousness.

CHAPTER VII.—Through a lucky chance Athol finds Berna. She tells him she has so far evaded Loasto and will die before she yields to him. They set a date for their marriage, the first of June. Medrum, hoping to have made a stake by then—and part.

CHAPTER VIII.—A friend of the Prodigal and his partners, Loasto, who seems to them a "good thing". After months of unceasing labor the strike is made; the four men have won a small fortune. But the investment work and anxiety for Berna has weakened Athol. On the fatal first of June the day set for his union with Berna, he lies unconscious, in the clutches of typhoid fever.

It was late next night when he returned, tired, wet, dirty, but irresistibly jubilant.

"Hurrah, boys!" he cried. "I've clinched it. I saw Mister Manager of the big company. He was very busy, very important, very patronizing. We sparred round it like two fake fighters. Finally he agreed to let me have it on a 50 per cent basis. Don't faint, boys. Fifty per cent, I said. I'm sorry. It was the best I could do, and you know I'm not slow. That means they get half of all we take out. We signed the lay agreement, and everything's in shape. We've got the ground clinched, so get action on yourselves. Here's where we make our first real stab at fortune. Here's where we even upon the hard jobs she's handed us in the past; here's where we score a bull's-eye, or I miss my guess. We're going to work for all we're worth—and then some. Are you there, boys, are you there?"

"We are," we shouted with one accord.

There was no time to lose. Every hour for us meant so much more of that precious pay-dirt that lay under the frozen surface. We ran up a little cabin and banked it neatly to the low eaves with snow. By and by more fell on the roof to the depth of three feet, so that the place seemed like a huge white hummock. In this little box of a cabin we were to put in many weary months.

Not that the time seemed long to us; we were too busy for that. Indeed, often we wished it were twice as long. We didn't talk much in those days. We just worked, worked, worked, and when we did talk it was of our work, our ceaseless work.

Neither cold nor fatigue could keep us away from the shaft and the drift. We had gone down to bedrock, and were tunneling in to meet the hole the half-bred had covered up. So far we had found nothing.

We were working two men to a shaft, burning our ground overnight. Our meals were hurriedly cooked and bolted. We grudging every moment of our respite from toil. Surely we would strike it soon.

Solomon, one afternoon, the Something happened. It was Jim who was the chosen one. About three o'clock he signaled to be hoisted up, and when he appeared he was carrying a pan of dirt. "Call the others," he said.

All together in the little cabin we stood round, while Jim melted over the pan in snow water melted over our stove. We could see gleams of yellow in the muddy water. We had got the thing, the big thing, at last.

"Hurry, Jim," I said, "or I'll die of suspense."

Patience he went on. There it was at last in the bottom of the pan, shimmering, gleaming gold, fine gold, coarse gold, nuggety gold.

"Now, boys, you can whip it up," I said Jim quietly; "for there's many and many a pan like it down there in the drift."

Solemnly we shook hands all round. It was the night of the discovery when the Prodigal made us an address.

"Look here, boys; do you know what means freedom, happiness, the things we want, the life we love. We're going to get every cent of it, boys. There's a little over three months to do it in, leaving about a month to make sluice-boxes and clean up the dirt. We've got to work like men at a burning barn. For my part, I'm willing to do stunts that will make my previous record look like plugged dime. I guess you boys all feel the same way."

"There's Many and Many a Pan Like It Down There."

Looking back, there will always seem to me something weird and incomprehensible in those twilight days, an unreality, a vagueness like some dreary, feverish dream. For three months I did not see my face in a mirror. Not that I wanted to, but I mention this just to show how little we thought of ourselves.

It was mid-March when we finished working out our ground. We had done well, not so well, perhaps, as we had hoped for, but still magnificently well. There were our two dumps, pyramids of gold-permeated dirt at whose value we could only guess. We had wrested our treasure from the grip of the eternal frost. Now it remained—and Oh, the sweetness of it—to glean the harvest of our toil.

We were working at the mouth of a crease down which ran a copious little stream all through the spring-time. We tapped it some distance above us, and ran part of it along our line of sluice-boxes. I remember how I threw in the first shovelful of dirt, and how good it was to see the bright stream discolor as our friend the water began his magic work. For three days we shoveled in, and on the fourth we made a clean-up.

When we ran off the water there were some of the boxes almost full of the yellow metal, wet and shiny, gloriously agleam in the morning light.

Day after day we went on shoveling in, and about twice a week we made a clean-up. The month of May was half over when we had only a third of our dirt run through the boxes. We were terribly afraid of

BROOKHART FIGHTS PLAN OF WHEAT CORPORATION

Steps may be taken in the courts through injunction proceedings to prevent the gigantic wheat stabilization corporation being operated in the West, Senator Brookhart of Iowa revealed recently.

Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska, "wheat member" of the Federal Farm Board, was testifying before the Senate Agricultural Committee. Brookhart raised the issue of how the wheat pool shall be formed.

McKelvie said that lawyers had claimed the cooperative marketing laws were not broad enough to furnish a basis.

Wheat farmers of the nation will begin marketing operations on a large scale next year, McKelvie told the committee.

Applications for loans totaling $70,000,000 have been received by the Federal Farm Board, of which amount $57,000,000 has been tentatively approved.

J. A. Whitson and family of Arlington, Texas, were prospecting in this section of the country last week.

Lazbuddie School News

Rev. Baty, from Friona, spoke in assembly Friday morning at 11:30 on the subject of "Discipline." The subject was so ably handled that it was enjoyed by the entire school and discipline now has a new meaning to the students.

At the regular assembly period last Friday week, the school was very ably entertained by the 4th and 5th grades under the direction of their teacher, Miss Fay Cheyne. The program was considered good enough that they were called upon to repeat at the Parent-Teacher meeting that evening.

Our boys and girls basket ball teams lost to YL Friday afternoon by rather one-sided scores, but you can depend upon Lazbuddie having two good basket ball teams before the end of the season. After the High School games, an outside team, composed of Julian, Julian, Barber, Foreman and Hoskins, played and defeated YL's best by a score of 20-17. It was a close, fast game throughout and the outcome was in doubt until the final whistle.

Unusual interest is being taken lately in the Sunday School. Sunday week there were 114 present and 97 in attendance last Sunday. The largest class in the school, numbering 42 young people, is being taught by George Foreman, one of the High School teachers. The adult class, taught by H. T. Brock, numbers 30. The Superintendent, Walter Menifee, is very faithful and we feel sure that his very able management of the school will continue to grow. Be sure to be present next Sunday.

The large auditorium was crowded to its full capacity Sunday night to enjoy the most wonderful singing heard here in a long time. If ever before, we wish to thank all our visitors for their presence with us, and they were here from YL, Muleshoe, Clovis, Dimmitt, Oklahoma Lane and Dallas. Leaders from all these places did some fine singing and we feel especially indebted to Mr. Echols of Clovis, Mr. Mooney and wife of Dimmitt, and Mr. McBrite and his sister from Dallas for the wonderful music which they rendered. We sing every 2nd and 4th Sunday nights and we will make you feel welcome anytime you can visit with us.

A music school will begin here Monday night, October 21, and will be open to every one. It is to be taught by Mr. McBrite of Dallas. Be sure to attend this school.

Moving pictures were taken of the school last Monday. They will be here Friday night, October 18. If not then, the date will be announced later. Be sure and get a first hand view of your school by seeing these pictures. You can't afford to miss the close-up views of Mr. Foreman and of Miss Cheyne.
Friday of this week at 11:30 the school will be entertained in assembly by the 1st and 2nd grades under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. Hoskins. Visit the school and see how we are going. Mrs. Merritt recently visited the school and spent a half day with us. Her visit and her kind words of commendation were greatly appreciated.

Perfect spellers for last week were as follows:

Third Grade—Eugenia Cordwell, Rayburn Hoskins, Ollie Bellar, Jack Wilson.
Second Grade—Loyd Crone, Jack Seaton, Okei Bradshaw, Ralph Winner, R. B. Seaton, Grover Gibson, Clyde Merriott, Anna Crabtree, Lorene Hodge.

Fourth Grade—Earlie Crone, Helen Jennings, Ruby Malloy, Bonnie Bradshaw, Joe Bates Jennings, Anna Jarmon, Alma Steinbock, Theron Vaughn.
Fifth Grade—Elena Roper, Maggie Peacock, Richard Carter, Edcor Vaughn, Nereene Jennings.

Good readers:
First Grade—Jack Mahan, Lore Roberts, Lillian Treider and Jack Mahan.
Second Grade—Loyd Crone, Anna Crabtree, Okei Bradshaw and Jack Seaton.

Third Grade—Rayburn Hoskins and Eugenia Cordwell.
Those making excellent in penmanship:
Second Grade—Bessie Louise Deiter, Paul Brock and Ralph Winner.
Third Grade—Ruby Jarman.

FARM HOME MAKERS HAVE A LONG WORKING WEEK

More than 63 hours a week is the average "working time" for 700 farm women who kept records and reported to the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

They reported an average of 52 hours and seventeen minutes spent in strictly home-making activities alone. This is more than the 44-hour working week which is the standard in industry, the bureau points out. In addition, these women spent an average of 11 hours and 13 minutes a week on dairy work, care of poultry, gardening and other outside tasks.

Some of these 700 home makers lived in the Middle West, some in New York State and some in three far Western States. The group as a whole represents rather superior home makers—those likely to cut down working time by intelligent methods. For the country as a whole the average working time would probably be higher.

SILAGE TEMPERATURES

When corn is placed in the silo, that near the surface where it is exposed to the air becomes hot. This has led to a somewhat general belief that the whole mass of silage becomes hot. However, such is not the case, according to experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture. Thermometers buried at various places in the silage showed a maximum temperature of 100 degrees F., which would be termed only lukewarm. Usually the silage reached its maximum temperature in 10 days or less, after which it gradually cooled. It is evident, the bureau says, that the formation of heat is insufficient to cause sterilization and thus aid in the preservation of silage. Rather, the silage keeps because of the exclusion of air and the action of the acids.

Methodist Church

Did you all see the pageant, "The Forgotten Man," at the Methodist Church Sunday night? If you did not, you missed something that was educational, enlightening. This pageant portrayed the scenes of the "Forgotten Man." The men who endured hardships, braved the storm and swam swollen streams to establish the church and Christianity in this western country. If you have not helped in this worthy cause, see the pastor and gladden the hearts of these old heroes by providing for their needs.

Much credit should be given to the young people of Muleshoe for the success of the pageant. With great enthusiasm they portrayed these touching scenes.

The Trail of '98

the water falling us, and worked harder than ever.
One afternoon I was working on the dump, intent on shoveling in as much dirt as possible before supper, when, on looking up, who should greet me but Locasto. He held out his great hand to me, and, as I had no desire to antagonize him, I gave him my own.
"I've just been visiting some of my creek properties," he said. "I heard you fellows had made a good strike, and I thought I'd come down and congratulate you. It is pretty good, isn't it?"
"Yes," I said; "not quite so good as we expected, but we'll all have a tidy sum."
"I'm glad."
He was turning to go when, suddenly, he stopped.
"Oh, by the way, I saw a friend of yours before I left. No need to mention names, you lucky dog. When's the big thing coming off?" Well, I must congratulate you again. She looks sweeter than ever. By-by."
He was off, leaving a very sinister impression on my mind. In his parting smile there was a trace of mockery that gravely disgusted me. I had thought much of Berna during the past few months, but as the gold fever took hold of me I put her more and more from my mind. I told myself that all this struggle was for her. In the thought that she was safe I calmed all anxious fear. Yet at Locasto's words all my old longing and heartache vehemently resurged.
In spite of myself, I was the prey of a growing uneasiness. I began to worry, so that I knew only a trip into Dawson would satisfy me. Accordingly, I hired a big Swede to take my place at the shovel, and set out once more on the trail for town.
My strange, formless fears for Berna were soon set at rest. She was awaiting me. She looked better than I had ever seen her, and she welcomed me with an eager delight that kindled me to rapture.
We crossed the Yukon to the green glades of North Dawson, and there, on a little rise, we sat down, side by side. Never was I so happy as I.
I spoke but little, for love's silences were sweeter than all words. From time to time she would give me a glance so full of trust and love that my heart would leap to her, and wave on wave of passionate tenderness come sweeping over me.
"And you know," "doesn't it seem as if we were dreaming? You know, I always thought it was a dream, and now it's coming true. You'll take me away from this place, won't you, boy?—far, far away. I'll tell you now, dear, I've borne it all for your sake, but I don't think I could bear it any longer. I don't know what I'd have done if it hadn't been for the rough miners. They've been so kind to me. When they saw I was straight and honest they couldn't be so good."
She looked at me archly.
"And you know I've had ever so many offers of marriage, from honest, rough, kindly men—and I've refused them ever so gracefully."
"Has Locasto ever made any more overtures?"
"Her face grew grave.
"Yes, about a month ago he besieged me, gave me no rest, made all kinds of proposals and promises. He wanted to divorce his 'outside' wife and marry me. He wanted to settle a hundred thousand dollars on me. Then, when he saw it was no use, he turned round and begged me to let him be my friend. He spoke so nicely of you. He said he would help us in any way he could. He's everything that's kind to me now. He can't do enough for me. Yet, somehow, I don't trust him."
"Well, my precious," I assured her, "all danger, doubt, despair, will soon be over. I'll take you away from it all, soon. We'll go to my home, to Garry, to mother. They will love you as I love you."
"I'm sure I will love them. What you have told me of them makes them seem very real to me. Will you not be ashamed of me?"
"I will be proud, proud of you, my girl. On the first day of June, beloved, I will come to you, and we will be made man and wife. You will be waiting for me, will you not?"
"Yes, yes, waiting ever so eagerly, my lover."
I kissed her passionately, and we held each other tightly for a moment. I saw come into her eyes that look which comes but once into the eyes of a maid, that look of ineffable self-surrender, of passionate abandonment.
She rested her head on my shoulder; her lips lay on mine, and they moved faintly.
"Yes, lover, yes, the first of June. Don't fail me, honey, don't fail me."
We parted, buoyant with hope, in an ecstasy of joy.
I got back to the claim. Everything was going magnificently, but I felt little desire to resume my toil. I was strangely worried, worn out somehow. Yet I took up my shovel again with a body that rebelled in every tissue. Never had I felt like this before. Something was wrong with me. I was weak. At night I sweated greatly. I cared not to eat.
"Well," said the Prodigal one day

Two thousand, one hundred and ninety-four rural mail routes serve 1,200,000 patrons in Texas at a cost of $12.25 a year per family. In the United States are 44,288 such routes.

During the first seven months of 1929 Texas started work on 8,917 building projects at a total cost of $253,060,800.

Four of the 58 gypsum operators in the United States have plants in Texas, which now stands fourth in gypsum production. Total value of gypsum produced and sold in Texas in 1928 was $3,064,145.

Between 1866 and 1928, inclusive, Texas produced 154,255,204 bales of cotton, valued at $11,244,000,000.

Spring Lake School

The six weeks exams are over and we are settling down to another siege of hard work. Some of us may be greatly surprised when we get our grades and find out for certain that we did not know. All the grades will be ready for distribution the latter part of this week.

The football boys journey to Artesia, New Mexico, this Friday, Oct. 18, to play a game. The boys will leave here Thursday afternoon and will not return until Sunday. They will visit the Carlsbad Caverns on Saturday and see what can be seen in New Mexico. This is a great trip for the boys and I am sure they will all enjoy it. The expenses are paid by the Mexico team.

Mr. Dyer was here Friday night with his picture show, but he did not have a very large crowd on account of the threatening rain. He will be back in a couple of weeks to show the Spring Lake picture.

Abe Martin has returned home from East Texas, where he had been called on account of his father's illness. We just had to have Abe to go to Artesia.

The school is planning a carnival to be staged November 16. The entire high school will have a part in it and it promises to be a great success.

Mrs. C. A. Wilkins is keeping study hall three periods during the day at present.

There will be no school Friday on account of the football game at Artesia. The day will be made up later in the year.

A new Delco light and pressure system is to be installed in the school within the next thirty days. We will then have an adequate supply of fresh water at all times.

The first issue of the Siren will be out in the next few days. Sena Wingham is the editor and Abe Martin is the business manager. Much interest is shown in this part of the school work.

Next week we will have some interesting things to tell you about our New Mexico trip.

FIXING PRICES DENIED AS DUTY OF FARM BOARD

Duties of the Federal Farm Board do not include the fixing of prices on agricultural products, it was asserted by Samuel R. McKelvie, member of the Board in charge of wheat activities, in an oral statement before the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, which is considering the nominations of the members of the Board.

Mr. McKelvie said he did not understand that the farm relief act as passed intended that the Board should enter the field of price fixing. If the prices were fixed by the Board on wheat, they would have to be fixed on all commodities, he said.

The plans for a national organization for marketing wheat were explained by Mr. McKelvie. The board of directors of this organization, he said, would represent the various districts represented by the cooperatives, and would be selected by the stockholders of the cooperatives. Three groups to be represented on the board of directors, he said, would be the farmers' elevators, the farmers' sales agencies and the wheat pools.

Hearings of the committees are expected to be completed, said Chairman McNary. Charles C. Teague of California and William F. Schilling of Minnesota will be the last two members of the Board to appear.

An executive committee meeting will be held late this week or early next week to consider the nominations. Decision will be made then as to when the recommendation of the committee will be presented to the Senate, the chairman said.

SOUTH NEEDS CHEAPER AND BETTER COWS

Economy in production is the greatest problem of the dairy industry in the South today, said J. H. McClain, extension dairy specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, speaking before the Southern Dairy Association at Memphis, Tenn. Reducing the cost of feed and increasing production per cow are the main factors in the problem, the speaker said.

"If the southern farmer is to make dairying a permanent sideline to his cotton farming," said the specialist, "he must be able to produce milk and butterfat at prices commonly paid by condenseries, creameries, cheese factories and dried-milk plants. These prices will be around 20 cents per gallon or $2.12 to $2.80 per hundred pounds of milk.

What have tank cars to do with motor cars? Just this. Every day, tank cars filled with Phillips 66 are shipped North, South, East and West. The volatility of the gasoline in each of these tank cars is scientifically controlled to fit the climatic conditions of the locality in which it is sold. The result? Instant starting, quick warm-up, rapid acceleration, remarkable power and mileage—regardless of weather—at no extra cost! For best results try a full tank of Phillips 66... or 66 Ethyl.

SOUTH'S CROP LARGER AND NORTH'S SMALLER

Present indications are that there will be somewhat smaller yields of the principal crops in the North and larger yields of the main crops in the South, as compared with last year, says the United States Department of Agriculture in its September 1 report on the agricultural situation. The great crops of the North—corn, wheat, oats, potatoes and fruits—are smaller than last year's, while the great Southern crops—cotton, tobacco and sugarcane—are larger than last year's. Taking 34 principal crops together, the August estimate indicated a composite yield about 5 per cent below 1928, but one only slightly below the 10-year average.
