Mayas Still Exist
Five of the ancient Mayas are at Cosumel, nine miles from Yucatan, Mexico. The descendants of that half-breed race which built the wonder cities of Yucatan: created human hearts to Kukul, feathered serpent god, at which flung sacrificial maidens with life and gold and into the deep subterranean Chichen-itza. Having seen yucatec cities, those sacrificial and that pool it gives you a horizon, or when it had not yet arisen and was in the directly opposite position.

Find Relation Between Moon and Earthquakes

After studying the records of more than 1,200 earthquakes in California which have occurred since 1812, a Pacific coast scientist, comes to the interesting conclusion that all the quakes came when the moon was in a certain quarter. The quakes occur on a fault-line, or crack in the substructure of the earth's crust. It was found that when the fault-line ran in a north-westerly direction the earthquake would come when the moon was between the meridian and the western horizon, or when it had not yet arisen and was in the directly opposite position.

RADIO ENTHUSIASTS WELCOME NEW TUBES

Radio amateurs have shown a quick response to the new rugged rectifier Radiotron with a low and constant voltage drop which just has been put on the market by the Radio Corporation of America. The new tube, Radiotron UX-224, is of the hot-cathode, mercury vapor type, and the makers assert it is establishing a new standard of performance for the amateur transmitter operating with a rectified plate supply.

A four electrode, screen grid tube, with new features.

It is ample in current capacity and, in half or full wave circuit connections, is especially suited for supplying the transmitter with stable rectified plate voltage—key up or key down. It operates at relatively low temperature, and no starting mechanism is required.

Two other interesting new tubes which just have been introduced by the Radio Corporation are Radiotron UX-245 and Radiotron UX-224. Radiotron UX-245 is a power amplifier tube for supplying large undistorted output, to the loud speaker. It is capable of delivering a power output equal to that of the UX-210, but at a plate voltage not exceeding 250 volts. The tube can be used only with apparatus especially designed for it and is intended for use in the last audio amplifying stage of power line operated sets which supply not more than 2.5 volts to the last audio socket, as well as proper grid and plate voltages. The filament is of the coated ribbon type, which assures great strength and high emission.

Radiotron UX-224 is a four electrode, screen grid amplifier tube embodying a 2.5 volt heater element which permits operation from alternating current. It is recommended for use primarily as a radio frequency amplifier in circuits especially designed for it, but it may be used also in special circuits as a detector or as an audio frequency amplifier. The fourth electrode, the screen, in the new UX-224 makes possible the attainment of very high and stable amplification per stage.

Woman Rules Home

I believe, as men generally do, that mothers are most responsible for management of children. It is in the nature of things: in their formative years, children are much more with mothers than with fathers. While the father is away hunting a dollar or a cent, he cannot possibly also control the children, and is somewhat incapable when he returns, and his wife says: "I can do nothing with them; you try it."—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

"Simple Life" in Burma
The Turkestan women have no wigs to wash, their furniture being limited to a few benches and tables. A vacuum cleaner in Burma would be a drug on the market. Meals are cooked and eaten outdoors as long as the weather permits.

Wise Parent Will Stay Young With Children
Whatever the parents do, let them hold fast to imagination. If they have ever believed in fairies, let them not shut the fairy people out now. Let them not make growing-up like traveling along a level road where everything must eventually disappear behind the horizon, but let them make it like the ascent of a steep hill, where the view constantly widens as one goes higher and nothing once seen is ever again shut out. Then they will never say to their children, "You're too young to understand," and what is quite as important, their children will never need to say of them, "They're too old to understand." What is even more important, they will never reach the deadly dull state of being completely grown up, because they will realize that if we have wings we can never reach the place where we cannot go higher.—Parents' Magazine.

Cosium Among Finns
The ancient Finns, when troubled by the hiccoughs, sought relief by addressing the hiccoughs as follows: "Go hiccough, to a clump of trees I'll come to strip the bark; go, big cough, to a clump of birch; I'll come to strip the bark." This was repeated over and over again—or was supposed to be repeated—until the hiccoughs became discouraged and took their departure. Gout, when making an attack, was greeted in this wise—"Good gout, thou lovely gout, depart, turn back elsewhere."—Gas Logic.
Naturally Interested
A parson delivered a sermon based on an extract from the book of Maccabees. At luncheon that day a rich new parishioner thought it to compliment him on his address. Church Resembles to Resemble Giant Organ
Scattered throughout the civilized world are churches of varying degrees of beauty—some small, some large and lofty, some with towering spires, others with beautiful domes, of exquisite glass windows—but perhaps the most unusual and original church in existence today is to be seen in Copenhagen. The whole edifice is shaped like a gigantic organ outlined against the sky, and at first sight is almost overwhelming. One almost expects to hear music coming from the pipes that constitute the roof of this wonderful building, so natural is the effect. While on the subject of Copenhagen, another curious sight to be seen in the city is a tower that rises above the Church of Our Savior. This remarkable tower is 298 feet high, and is built like a corncob, round which are steps, on the outside, leading to the top! The tower was built in 1080, and has long been a special feature of the city.

Says Hoover Doesn't Eat Peanuts

Steve Vasilakos, whose cart has stood on the corner of East Executive avenue near the White House for the last twenty years, has catered to the peanut eating proclivities of Presidents Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge. But Steve says President Hoover passes him completely. "President Hoover is a nice man," Steve said, "but he never buys a peanut. He only come here in his auto. I say 'hello' and he go on."

Miss Jerre Beller returned home Sunday from Houston, Texas, after spending several weeks there.

Took Pessimistic View of Wire Communication

A number of prominent men of Professor Morse's period were dubious about the practicability of the telegraph and believed it to have very restricted limits. In view of the development of this form of communication and its present high efficiency it is interesting to note some of these early comments. J. Fenimore Cooper, author of the famous Leather-stocking Tales, wrote to Morse on January 21, 1838, as follows: "My dear friend: I wish you all success with the telegraph, which might be made very useful for long distances. Your difficulty will be in communicating between more than two stations, for half a dozen sparks traveling on the same wire will play the devil with the registers." "The Western Union today sends us many a message over one wire at the same time by ingenious automatic devices."

A. P. Stone was in Olton Tuesday.

BUILDING FOR BUSINESS IN EARTH TERRITORY

A new Grocery Store is to be built on East Grand Avenue by Mr. Carter. A new Cleaning and Pressing establishment is soon to be opened. J. M. Barlow has just finished a new modern home.

Three new stone business houses are to be built in the near future. They will be occupied by G. E. Moss, Mr. Parrish and a party from Littlefield. J. L. Walker, and J. M. Barlow sold several farms the past week. They have sold all the property in the south part of Earth, and have also closed out the Halsell property in Earth.

The cotton farmers are getting busy. One bale has already been ginned in Earth.

Wheat sowing and feed cutting is in full sway.

J. R. Caulston harvested more than 1000 pounds of sudan seed per acre which he sold for 3 1-4 cents per pound. This is better than $30.00 per acre.

Earth and surrounding community received a good rain last week. It was fine for wheat sowing.

Spring Lake School District sold five old trucks to the highest bidder, J. L. Walker cried the sale. The School board was well pleased with the sale!

ACCORDING TO MODERN COATOLOGY THE FUR CUFF STYLES THE SLEEVE

A spirit to ring out the old, ring in the new, pervades the entire coat-styling realm. The whole atmosphere is fairly surcharged with a sense of change. Flares instead of straight silhouettes, sleeves which have developed a complex, high waistlines which compete with princess fitted effects; these details and more bespeak a revolution in "lines."

And the fur treatments! "See what happens" when the autumn and winter season gets into fall swing. Just one thrill after another is on the program, both for the all-fur coat and the furred cloth coat.

Especially in the matter of sleeve-design, style creators are stopping at nothing which will achieve the unusual. One of the vagaries of fur cuffs is to travel up the sleeves, to nod beyond the elbow. The sleeves in the picture tell a story of this outstanding trend. It suggests but one among the strange and devious tricks modern cuffs are performing.

One of the distinctive features of sleeves, this is that of widened and swung lines about the wrist. In other words sleeves are taking to themselves flares quite the same as are skirt hemlines. Flat pelts, such as caracul, ermine and broadtail, especially lend themselves to these effects. A wide cuff of the fabriclike fur often starts at the elbow developing into a decided bell at the wrist. Then again godets of the thin fur are seamed into the cloth of the coat so as to secure a conspicuous flare.

And the whimsical collars, how fluttering they are, in many instances there is a definite reaction from small tailored types. The inclination toward picturesque lines is especially apparent in collars which set away from the face. There are cleverly designed shawl interpretations which become caps when flattened over the shoulders. Often the shawl is of the cloth bordered with wide fur. Scarf themes are endless worked out in fur caracul, ermine, sheared panther, or the popular squirrel.

There's a lot being done with two kinds of furs, or with two colors of the same fur. Flat furs are frequently enhanced with long-haired borders.

MAIL BOX THEFTS AID CHECK FORGERS

American Bankers Association in Nationwide Warning Exposes Methods and Gives Rules to Combat Them.

NEW YORK.—Active operations in many cities of mail box thieves, who open bank communications to customers, containing details of the scheme and cancelled checks showing their banking signatures, and use this material in perpetrating check forgeries, have led the American Bankers Association to issue a nationwide warning to its members with instructions for combating this form of crime.

Heavy losses are being sustained through cancelled vouchers and statements stolen from the mail by bank depositors in apartment and office buildings, thus divulging the depositors' balances and supplying models for forged checks.

Estimates broadcast by surety companies indicate that individuals, merchants, hotels and others outside of money, $100,000,000 a year, are lost through check forgeries.

Years ago the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association adopted the slogan, "Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers."

John O'Groat's house was located on a spot on Duncansby road, the northeast extremity of the mainland of Scotland, marking one of the limits of that country.

no introduction. These products are among the best you can buy. Mr. Dan Wain is the local agent here and he not only appreciates the business the old customers have given him, but asks that the new settlers in this country give him a trial.
March Dry Goods Company is where you get good value for your money. There is no use ordering from mail order houses when you can get better stuff just as cheap right at this store. Joe March is manager, and is originally from Oklahoma, but there's no use to hold this against him. If you need first class dry goods, see him.
Do you ever have a kind of a tired, Gull Coast Blues feeling? If you do, get the Calotab box and take three or four. They'll fix you up fine. I felt just the same way a few days ago and took about five Calotabs—there's no use talking on and on about pills though. Calotabs speak for themselves.

W. C. Gordon, contractor and builder. See him for anything in his line.
C. H. Long sells De Laval Milkers and Cream Separators. Put your cream business on a modern basis by installing these machines.
Kings and Parsons are now owners of a Self-Service grocery. They are new in our town, so give them a trial.
Pat R. Bobo is a lawyer and well known to the people of this section of the country. He solicits a part of your legal work.
If you want eye-glasses fitted right, see Dr. Worrell at Clovis. He needs no introduction to the people here, as he has been serving this section for a long time.
V. J. Campbell, lawyer and auctioneer, is at your service. See him for anything of this nature.
J. C. Hammons has just opened a new Service Station and wishes to have the people call and see him when needing anything in his line.
D. O. Smith now has the White Front Garage and they do general repairing of all kinds. Also sell gas, oil and tires.
I have tried not to leave out any home advertisers on in this introduction, but unlike lots of folks, I have not reached the stage where mistakes are not made now and then. If there is an advertiser left out, please let me know and next week I'll see that you get plenty of publicity.

School is still progressing nicely with practically a full enrollment and almost perfect attendance. Thirty-three have been enrolled in High School and 105 in the elementary grades.

At a recent meeting of the school trustees it was unanimously decided to equip the school up to the standard required by the State Department, with the intention of working toward State classification and affiliation of the High School. We may fall short of affiliation this year but we know this is a big step in the right direction and the trustees are to be highly commended for their action.

A singing class has been organized with the following officers:
T. C. Henington, Pres., E. R. Haskins, Vice-Pres., Faye Chaney, Sec., Treas.

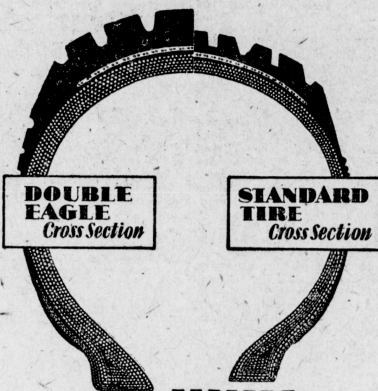

An excellent interest is being shown in singing and we extend an invitation to singers everywhere to visit us and sing with us. We meet each 2nd and 4th Sunday evenings and bring singing at dusk. Bring your quartets or any other special you may have.

Why Millions More People Buy GOODYEAR TIRES Than Any Other Kind

WHY ALL TIRES ARE NOT ALIKE:

If all tires are about alike, why do you suppose the leading manufacturers of motor cars use more GOODYEAR TIRES for original equipment than any other kind?

If all tires are about alike, why do you suppose it is true this year, as for fourteen years past, that more people ride on GOODYEAR TIRES than any other kind?

If all tires are about alike, why do you suppose the cost-wary owners of the great truck fleets of the industry use more GOODYEAR TIRES than any other kind?

There's only one acceptable answer to questions like these and that is: GOODYEAR TIRES are definitely superior in quality and value and informed tire buyers know it.

If all tires are about alike, why do you suppose the purchasing experts of the urban, interurban and transcontinental bus lines use more GOODYEAR TIRES than any other kind?

That is why the percentage of gain in sales of GOODYEAR TIRES last year was nearly three times the percentage of gain in sales recorded for the whole tire industry.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Dissatisfied with the quiet life in his home surroundings, Athol Meldrum, young Scotswoman who tells the story, leaves his mother and brother, Garry, to seek his fortune. At San Francisco, practically penniless, he takes a laborer's job, and meets a fellow adventurer whom he dubs, and who is hereafter known as the Prodigal.

CHAPTER II—The Prodigal is anxious to join the rush of gold seekers into Alaska. He meets Berna to go with him after he (the Prodigal) begs Berna to accompany him. Berna's father is the great Athol. Athol in great haste is hurried to Alaska by Jim Hubbard and Berna. The three men join the stampede into the Frozen North. The Prodigal and Hubbard financing the outfit.

CHAPTER III—Among the motley crowd on the boat is a young girl obviously out of place. She is traveling with her grandfather and a hard-looking couple named Winkletwin who figure as her uncle and aunt. Athol has opportunity to befriend her. She is journeying into Alaska to take care of her grandfather, who is obsessed with the idea of getting rich in Klondike. Her name, she tells him, is Berna.

CHAPTER IV—Landing at Skagway, Athol's party at once evidently gets in a snowdrift on the Chilkoot trail, which Berna and her companions had taken. Hundreds of lives are lost. Fearful for Berna's safety, Athol hastens to the scene. He finds the old man dead and learns that Berna is protected by Madam Winkletwin. Berna tries to let him see the girl, but he leaves a letter for her. At Bennett River comes to Athol, confesses her love, and bids him to follow her. She is unwilling to step, and tells her they must wait.

CHAPTER V—Some days afterward Berna tells Athol Madam Winkletwin plans to sell her to "Black Jack" Locasto, millionaire miser of evil reputation. While realizing how greatly she loves the girl, Meldrum, in a mixture of immediate marriage, and they agree to wait. Athol, though Berna is fearful, reaching the gold fields, Athol and his party find the claims all taken and the camp crowded with idle men.

CHAPTER VI—Athol's party decides to leave and await developments. Unable to locate Berna, Athol seeks information from Locasto. "Black Jack" disclaims knowledge of her whereabouts, and instead, Berna is seen in the rivalry between them, Jures Meldrum to a snuffpot and beats him into unconsciousness.

I think there must have been five hundred men around that ring. A big Australian pugilist was umpire. Some one suggested gloves, but Locasto would not hear of it. "No," he said, "I want to mark the son of a dog so his mother will never know him again."

He had become frankly brutal, and prepared for the fray exultantly. Both men fought in their underclothing.

Stripped down, the Jam-wagon was seen to be much the smaller man, not only in height, but in breadth and weight. Yet he was a beautiful figure of a fighter, clean, well-poised, free-limbed, with a head that seemed to taper from the shoulders down.

Locasto looked almost too massive. His muscles bulged out. The veins in his forehead were cordlike. His great chest seemed as broad as a door. His legs were statuette in their size and strength. In that camp of strong men probably he was the most powerful.

And nowhere in the world could a fight have been awaited with greater zest. These men, miners, gamblers, adventurers of all kinds, pushed and struggled for a place. A great joy surged through them at the thought of the approaching combat. Keen-eyed, hand-breathing, breath with expectation, the crowd packed closer and closer.

As the two men stood up it was like the blue Greek athlete compared with the brassy Roman gladiator. "Three to one on Locasto," some one shouted.

Then a great hush came over the house, so that it might have been empty and deserted. Time was called.

The fight began. With one tiger rush Locasto threw himself on his man. Right and left he struck with mighty swings that would have felled an ox, but the Jam-wagon was too quick for him. Twice he ducked in time to avoid a furious blow, and, before Locasto could recover, he had hopped out of reach. The big man's fist swished through the empty air. He next overbalanced with the force of his effort, but he swung round quickly, and there was the Jam-wagon, cool and watchful, awaiting his next attack.

Locasto's face grew as flushed in its sinister wrath; he shot forth a full impetuous, and once more he hurled himself resistlessly on his foe. This time I thought my champion must go down, but no! With a dexterity that seemed marvelous, he dodged, ducked, and side-stepped; and once more Locasto's blows went wide and short. Not one of his sledgehammer smashes reached their mark, and the round closed without a blow having landed.

I was at the ringside. At the beginning I had been in an agony of fear for the Jam-wagon. But now I took heart and looked forward with less anxiety.

Time was called, and Locasto sprang up, seemingly quite refreshed by his rest. Once more he plunged after his man, but now I could see his rushes were more under control, his smashing blows better timed, his fierce jabs more shrewdly delivered. Again I began to quake for the Jam-wagon, but he showed a wonderful quickness in his footwork, darting in and out, his hands swinging at his sides, a smile of mockery on his lips.

"Who is he?" those at the ringside began to whisper. Time and again it seemed as if he were cornered, but in a marvelous way he wormed himself free. I was all keyed up, on edge with excitement, eager for my man to strike, to show he was not a mere ring tactician. But the Jam-wagon bided his time.

And so the round ended, and it was evident that the crowd was of the same opinion as myself. "Why don't he mix up a little?" said one. "Give him time," said another.

Locasto came up for the third round looking sobered, subdued, grimly determined. Again he assumed the aggressive, sive, gradually working the Jam-wagon into a corner.

Suddenly Locasto closed in. He swooped down on the Jam-wagon. He had him. He shortened his right arm for a jab like the crash of a pile-driver. The arm shot out, but once again the Jam-wagon was not there. He ducked quickly, and Locasto's great fist brushed his hair.

Then, like lightning, the two came to a clinch. Now, thought I, it's all off with the Jam-wagon. I saw Locasto's eyes dilate with ferocious joy. He had the other in his giant arms; he could crush him in a mighty hug, the hug of a grizzly, crush him like an eggshell. But, quick as the snap of a trap, the Jam-wagon had pinioned his arms at the elbow, so that he was helpless. For a moment he held him, then, suddenly releasing his arms, he caught him round the body, shook him with a mighty side heave, gave him the cross-buttock, and, before he could strike a single blow, threw him in the air and dashed him to the ground.

"Time!" called the umpire. It was all done so quickly it was hard for the eye to follow, but a mighty cheer went up from the house. Locasto rose to his feet. He was shamed, angered beyond all expression. Heaving and panting, he lurched to his corner, and in his eyes there was a look that boded ill for his adversary.

Time again. With the lightness of a panther the Jam-wagon met Locasto, and now his intention seemed to be to draw his man on rather than to avoid him. He had resumed his serpentine movements, advancing and retreating with shadow-like quickness, feinting, side-stepping.

Then I saw the Jam-wagon edging up to Locasto. He feinted wildly, then, stepping in closely, he swung a right and left to Black Jack's face. A moment later he was six feet away, with a bitter smile on his lips.

With a fierce bellow of rage Locasto charged him. He smashed his heavy right with all its might for the other's face, but, quick as the quiver of a bowstring, the Jam-wagon side-stepped and the blow missed. Then the Jam-wagon shifted and brought his left, full weight, crash on Locasto's mouth.

At that fierce triumphant blow there was the first dazzling blood gleam, and the crowd screamed with excitement. In a wild whirlwind of fury Locasto hurled himself on the Jam-wagon, his arms going like windmills. Dodging, ducking, side-stepping, blocking, the Englishman felled the other at every turn, and, but before the round ended,

HOW TO SELECT STALK FOR NATIONAL COTTON SHOW

ABILITY, or at least indications of ability, to produce large amounts of a quality product, is the basis of award at all agricultural fairs. This is true whether the entries are dairy cows, swine, chickens or field crops.

Heavy production of quality cotton should be the ambition of all cotton growers. The One-Stalk Cotton Show to be held under the auspices of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, and The National Fertilizer Association, in connection with the Mid-South Fair at Memphis, the South-eastern Fair at Atlanta, and the State Fair of Texas at Dallas, was inaugurated to stimulate interest in economic production of better cotton. Prizes totalling several thousand dollars are being offered.

In judging the single stalks at the show, a score-card which has been prepared by some of the leading cotton authorities in the South will be used. This score-card has been carefully prepared in order to give proper weight to the various plant characters. Actual judging will be done by competent authorities from each section.

According to the score-card, a perfect plant would secure 100 points to total score. Since productivity of the cotton stalk is probably of greatest single importance, production, as measured by the amount of seed cotton on the plant, is given a possible 25 points. Thus heavily fruited stalks would secure a high rating under production.

A possible 25 points has been allotted to lint. Percentage of lint in seed cotton, length, character and uniformity, strength and color, are all factors that will be considered in studying the lint. The plant, as a whole, has been given a possible 30 points. Symmetry of form, amount of wood in proportion to fruit, character of branches, and maturity, are considered in studying the plant unit.

Character of bolls has been allotted a possible 12 points. Size of bolls will be considered and well opened bolls are desirable, although a certain amount of storm resistance is also to be desired.

Seed has been allotted a possible 5 points. Plump, heavy seed, uniform in size and color, are desired.

Freedom from disease has been given a possible 2 points, making a total of 100 points.

Any farmer, whether landlord or tenant, white or colored, or any one member of his family, will be allowed to enter a single stalk for competition. Only one stalk may be shown from each farm unit.

The stalks exhibited must be grown in 1929.

Stalks must come from a field where at least one acre of cotton was grown in 1929. However, any spacing, fertilization, protection or cultural practices may be used.

Stalks shown must contain the cotton that grew on the stalk. Picking and reffiling will not be permitted. Branches must not be cut from stalks exhibited. All leaves must be removed.

The name of the variety must be shown on the stalk.

Exhibitors need not necessarily accompany exhibits, but may ship same, charges prepaid, to the National One-Stalk Cotton Show, in care of the fair in their districts. Entrants living in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida should enroll by sending their names and address to The National Cotton Show, Atlanta, Ga.; those in Oklahoma and Texas to The National Cotton Show, Dallas, Texas; and those in Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and Kentucky to The National Cotton Show, Memphis, Tenn.

The premiums for the best single cotton stalks include $1,000 as total prize, including sectional award, for the best stalk of cotton in the South. Premiums at the three sectional fairs at Atlanta, Memphis and Dallas follow: first $500 at each fair, second $300 each, third $200 each, fourth $100 each, fifth $50 each, sixth to tenth inclusive $25 each, eleventh to twentieth $10 each.

SCRUB BULL IS HALED TO COURT

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrub Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association. Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of his and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing, and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into cooperative arrangements in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.

BANKERS DEVELOP NOVEL INSTITUTE

The Georgia Bankers Association in cooperation with the State College of Agriculture has sponsored a series of farmers' institutes in various parts of the State of an entirely new character. The principle feature is a large and comprehensive exhibit transported in four large trucks and set up at each stop. When set up it fills a space 40 by 60 feet and consists of panels, charts, and models on practically every phase of agriculture, including agronomy, horticulture, agricultural engineering, poultry, animal husbandry, soils and fertilizers, home economics and marketing. A large electrified farm model, showing the use of electricity on the farm, model farm buildings and the ideal layout and landscaping of the farmstead, is one of the most elaborate and attractive exhibits.

Local bankers in each locality visited gave the money to cover expenses for the transportation and installation of the exhibit in their territory and assisted in the preliminary planning and publicity. The College of Agriculture assembled the exhibit and conducted the tour through extension specialists.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION AGAINST COMMUNISM SOUGHT BY MR. FREE

Legislation aimed at the suppression of communistic activities on Federal domain will be proposed at the December regular session of Congress. Representative Free of San Jose, Calif., announced.

Mr. Free is a member of the House Committee on Immigration, and as a district attorney in his home state had occasion to deal with matters of this kind in the course of his official duties. He said that California, as the result of communistic activities there, enacted a law that has proved a model one. It has been sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States and has had very effective results.

He said the bill he will introduce will be framed along the lines of the anti-syndicalism act of California, and made applicable to the District of Columbia and the Federal Territories. He added that there has been some communistic developments in the past in the National Capital and that the Department of the American Revolution and similar organizations had rendered important service in calling attention to secret meetings and other activities of communists.

News From Big Square

Mr. A. B. Bramley has sold his farm and is leaving this week on a prospecting trip through Colorado.

A delegation of Big Square farmers and their wives, loaded with the best products they were able to obtain, motored to Dimmitt Thursday evening and decorated and filled a booth for the Castro County Fair. Third prize was awarded to this booth, of which we are all proud, as this is one prize above what it was last year. Let's get busy, folks, and make it first next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bragg and Miss Liles were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott.

Rev. Jones and wife were guests of Mrs. W. G. Wyer Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Layman were visiting in Canyon Sunday.

Vance Henington and family and Mrs. W. G. Wyer attended the play in Dimmitt Tuesday night.

Glenn Stiles was transacting business in Muleshoe Friday evening.

School opened Monday morning, Sept. 16, with an attendance of 36 pupils. Much interest is being manifested in the school and we hope to make this the best school year we have ever had. Teachers are: Mr. Bragg, principal, and Mrs. Liles.

There was a fairly good attendance at Sunday School Sunday. This is our Sunday School and when you are not there your place is vacant.

HUNTERS ARE WARNED TO OBEY BIRD LAW

NOW THE GASOLINE of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY ADDS ETHYL!

Today in ONE gasoline you can get ALL the famous Phillips 66 advantages—year-round easy starting, quick acceleration, power and mileage—plus the feature of "no-knock". Ethyl is a no-knock compound placed in gasoline—a few drops to a gallon. But don't overlook this: the quality of an Ethyl gasoline depends upon the qualities of the original gasoline to which it is added. Make sure the station pump says Phillips 66 Ethyl. ### The Trail of '98 drove his left into the pit of the big man's stomach, with a thwack that resounded throughout the building.

Once more time was called. The Jam-wagon was bleeding about the knuckles. Several of Locasto's teeth had been loosened, and he spat blood frequently. His face was sober now, strained, anxious, and he seemed to be waiting with menacing eyes to get in that vital smash that meant the end.

The Jam-wagon began to put more force into his arms. He drove in a short-arm left to the stomach, then brought his right up to the other's chin. Locasto swung a deadly knock-out blow at the Jam-wagon, which just grazed his jaw, and the Jam-wagon retaliated with two lightning rights and a nervous left, all on the big man's face.

Then he sprang back, for he was excited now. In and out he wove. Once more he landed a hard left on Locasto's heaving stomach, and then, rushing in, he rained a blow after blow on his antagonist. They came into a clench, but this time the Jam-wagon broke away, giving the deadly kidney blow as they parted. When time was called, both men were panting hard, bruised and covered with blood.

Round six. Locasto sprang into the center of the ring. His face was hideously disfigured. Only in that battered, blood-stained mask could I recognize the black eyes gleaming deadly hatred. Rushing for the Jam-wagon, he hurled him across the ring. Again charging, he overbore him to the floor, but failed to hold him.

Then in the Jam-wagon there awoke the ancient spirit of the Berserker. He care no more for punishment. He was insensible to pain. He was the sea-plate again, mad with the lust of battle. Like a dead he tore himself loose, and went after his man, rushing him with a swift, battering ball of blows around the ring.

Now they were in a furious mix-up, and suddenly Locasto, seeing him savagely, tried to whip him smashing to the floor. Then the wonderful agility of the Englishman was displayed. In a distance of less than a two-foot drop he turned completely like a cat. Leaping up, he was free, and, getting a waisthold with a Cornish heave, he bore Locasto to the floor. Quickly he changed to a crotch-lock, and, lastly, holding Locasto's legs, he brought him to a bridge and worked his weight up on his body.

Black Jack, with a mighty heave, broke away and again regained his feet. This seemed to enrage the Jam-wagon the more, for he tore after his man like a maddened bull. Getting a hold with incredible strength, he lifted him straight up in the air and hurled him to the ground with sickening force.

Locasto lay there. His eyes were closed. He did not move. Several men rushed forward. "He's all right," said a medical looking individual; "just stunned. I guess you can call the fight over."

The Jam-wagon slowly put on his clothes. He was badly bruised about the body, but not seriously hurt in any way. Shudderingly I looked down at Locasto's face, beaten to a pulp, his body lifted from head to foot. And then, as they bore him off to the hospital, I realized I was revenged.

CHAPTER VII

"Let me introduce you," said the Prodigal, "to my friend the 'Pote.'"

"Glad to meet you," said the Pote cheerfully, extending a damp hand. "I've just been having a dish-washing bee."

He finished his dish-washing and joined us, pulling on an old Tuxedo jacket.

"Whew! Glad that job's over. And now, having immolated myself on the altar of cleanliness, I will solace my soul with a little music."

He took down a banjo from the wall and, striking a few chords, began to sing. His songs seemed to be original, even improvisations, and he sang them with a certain quaintness and point that made them very poignant.

There came a knock at the door, and a young man entered. He had a broad smiling face and a bulky forhead. The Pote introduced him to me. "Hello," chuckled the newcomer, "how's the bunch? Don't let me stand on your feet. How'd you do, Horace? Glad to meet you." (He called everybody Horace.) "Just come away from a meeting of my creditors."

He seemed brimming over with joyous acceptance of life in all its phases.

Several men dropped in to swell the bohemian circle. Some had brought bottles. "The little cabin was crowded, the air hazy with smoke, the conversation animated."

The Pote had the floor.

"A friend of mine had a beautiful pond of water lilies. They painted the water exultantly and were a triumphant challenge to the soul. Folks came from far and near to see them. Then, one winter, my friend thought he would clean out his pond, so he had all the nasty, slimy mud scraped away till you could see the silver gravel glistening on the bottom. But the lilies, with all their haunting loveliness, never came back."

What are you driving at, you old dreamer?"

"Oh, just this: in the nasty mud and slime of Dawson I saw a lily girl. She lives in a cabin by the Slide along with a Jewish couple. I only caught a glimpse of her twice. They are un-speakable, but she is fair and sweet and pure. I would stake my life on her goodness. She looks like a young Madonna—"

He was interrupted by a bout of cynical laughter and shut up abashed, but I had my clue. I waited until the last noisy roisterer had gone.

"In the cabin by the Slide?" I asked. He started, looked at me searchingly: "You know her?"

"She means a good deal to me."

"Oh, I understand. Yes, that long, queer cabin highest up the hill."

"Thanks, old chap."

"All right, good luck."

Scions of Ancient Race of Mayas Still Exist

Representatives of the ancient Maya race still live at Comzmel, nine miles off the coast of Yucatan, Mexico. They are direct descendants of that half fabulous and mighty race which built the ruined wonder cities of Yucatan; which offered human hearts to Kukulkan, the feathered serpent god, at Uxmal; which hung sacrificial maidens, decked with jade and gold and flowers, into the deep subterranean pool at Chichen-Itza. Having seen those mystery cities, those sacrificial altars and that pool it gives you a start—as if you had miraculously pulled aside the curtain of time—to behold Maya faces in the living flesh. Faces that we so often call Aztec. Yet there on Comzmel those faces still exist by the hundreds. A short and stocky race, almost beardless and with coarse black hair, they remind you of the Japanese. Though all memory of their former imperial glory has utterly departed, they still speak the ancient Maya tongue, for thousands of years even before the Spanish conquest. This tongue, by the way, is one of the very few aboriginal languages that have ever stood off a white man's speech. Even today, Spanish controls only the cities of Yucatan. The country at large still conducts its business—especially the chic business—in Maya, and on Comzmel you hear it everywhere.

Find Relation Between Moon and Earthquakes

After studying the records of more than 1,200 earthquakes in California which have occurred since 1812, a Pacific coast scientist comes to the interesting conclusion that all the quakes came when the moon was in a certain quarter. The quakes occur on a fault-line, or crack in the substructure of the earth's crust. It was found that when the fault-line ran in a north-westerly direction the earthquake would come when the moon was between the meridian and the western horizon, or when it had not yet arisen and was in the directly opposite position.

When the quake occurred on a fault-line running east and west, it was found that the moon would be in the corresponding quadrants of the sky. Four out of five of the strongest shocks occurring in one place would come when the moon was in the same position it had been in during the main shock. Just why this relationship between the moon's position and earthquakes is so consistent has not yet been explained.

Radio amateurs have shown a quick response to the new rugged rectifier Radiotron with a low and constant voltage drop which just has been put on the market by the Radio Corporation of America. The new tube, Radiotron UX-866, is of the hot-cathode, mercury vapor type, and the makers assert it is establishing a new standard of performance for the amateur transmitter operating with a rectified plate supply.

A four electrode, screen grid tube, with new features.

It is ample in current capacity and, in half or full wave circuit connections, is especially suited for supplying the transmitter with stable rectified plate voltage—key up or key down. It operates at relatively low temperature, and no starting mechanism is required.

Two other interesting new tubes which just have been introduced by the Radio Corporation are Radiotron UX-245 and Radiotron UY-224. Radiotron UX-245 is a power amplifier tube for supplying large undistorted output to the loud speaker. It is capable of delivering a power output equal to that of the UX-210, but at a plate voltage not exceeding 250 volts. The tube can be used only with apparatus especially designed for it and is intended for use in the last audio amplifying stage of power line operated sets which supply not more than 2.5 volts to the last audio socket, as well as proper grid and plate voltages. The filament is of the coated ribbon type, which assures great strength and high emission.

Radiotron UY-224 is a four electrode, screen grid amplifier tube embodying a 2.5 volt heater element which permits operation from alternating current. It is recommended for use primarily as a radio frequency amplifier in circuits especially designed for it, but it may be used also in special circuits as a detector or as an audio frequency amplifier. The fourth electrode, the screen, in the new UY-224 makes possible the attainment of very high and stable amplification per stage.

Woman Rules Home

I believe, as men generally do, that mothers are most responsible for management of children. It is in the nature of things; in their formative years, children are much more with mothers than with fathers. While the father is away hunting a dollar or a deer, he cannot possibly also control the children, and is somewhat irresponsible when he returns, and his wife says: "I can do nothing with them; you try it."—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

The Ladies' Club met last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Sam Cearley. Mrs. Bruce Higgins entertained last Thursday night. Spring Lake football boys went down in defeat with Olton Friday, 31 to 0. Mrs. Mark Whitman spent Friday with Mrs. Moss. Several people of Earth went to see Willard, the Wizard, at Muleshoe Saturday night. Mrs. Leonard Roberts has been on the sick list the past week. Sam Cearley has had his teeth extracted. Brq. Jones filled his regular appointment Sunday and Sunday night. Tit for Tat
She could keep her secret no longer. "Dearest," she exclaimed to her husband, "I can't wait until your birthday to tell you what I've bought you for a present. . . I've got you a new rug to put in front of my dressing table and a bronze statuette for the drawing-room mantelpiece!" And then she added: "Now, what are you going to get me?" "What," he replied, contemptuously, "I think I shall get you a new razor and some ties."

"Simple Life" in Burma
The Turkestan women have no windows to wash, their furniture being limited to a few benches and tables. A vacuum cleaner in Burma would be a drug on the market. Their houses are built about eight feet above the ground. The dust that blows into the Burman house sifts right through the bamboo case floor. Meals are cooked and eaten outdoors as long as the weather permits.

Wise Parent Will Stay Young With Children
Whatever else parents do, let them hold fast to imagination. If they have ever believed in fairies, let them not shut the fairy people out now. Let them not make growling up like traveling along a level road where everything must eventually disappear behind the horizon, but let them make it like the ascent of a steep hill, where the view constantly widens as one goes higher and nothing once seen is ever again shut out. Then they will never say to their children, "You're too young to understand," and what is quite as important, their children will never need to say of them, "They're too old to understand." What is even more important, they will never reach the deadly dull state of being completely grown up, because they will realize that if we have wings we can never reach the place where we cannot go higher.—Parents' Magazine.

Cousin Among Finns
The ancient Finns, when troubled by the hicoughs, sought relief by addressing the hicoughs as follows: "Go hicough, to a clump of hines! I'll come to strip the bark; go, big enough, to a clump of birch; I'll come to strip the bark." This was repeated over and over again—or was supposed to be repeated—until the hicough became discouraged and took their departure. Gout, when making an attack, was greeted in this wise—"Good gout, thou lovely gout, depart, turn back elsewhere."—Gas Logic.

Naturally Interested
A parson delivered a sermon based on an extract from the book of Maccabees. At luncheon that day a rich new paragon thought fit to compliment him on his address. "It was particularly interesting to me," she gushed. "You see, I've got a delightful old Maccabean sideboard at home."—London Tit-Bits.

Church Constructed to Resemble Giant Organ
Scattered throughout the civilized world are churches of varying degrees of beauty—some small, some large and lofty, some with towering spires, others with beautiful domes, of exquisite glass windows—but perhaps the most unusual and original church in existence today is to be seen in Copenhagen. The whole edifice is shaped like a gigantic organ outlined against the sky, and at first sight is almost overwhelming. One almost expects to hear music coming from the pipes that constitute the roof of this wonderful building, so natural is the effect. While on the subject of Copenhagen, another curious sight to be seen in the city is a tower that rises above the Church of Our Savior. This remarkable tower is 288 feet high, and is built like a corkcreeper, round which saw-logs, on the outside, leading to the top. This tower was built in 1696, and has long been a special feature of the city.

You are hereby commanded to summon Vergol Gertrude Reed, by making publication of this Citation once each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Bailey County, to be held at the court house thereof in Muleshoe, on the third Monday in November, A. D. 1929, the same being the 18th day of November A. D. 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 24th day of September A. D. 1929, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. .... Wherein Roy L. Reed is plaintiff, and Vergol Gertrude Reed is defendant, said petition alleging that on the third day of March A. D. 1929 said defendant did abandon said plaintiff, by leaving said plaintiff, wherefore said plaintiff prays the Court that a divorce be granted to plaintiff dissolving the marriage relations that now exist between plaintiff and defendant, and for such other and further relief special and general, in law and in equity as he may be entitled to.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have before this Court on the first day of the next regular term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you executed the same.

Witness: J. L. ALSOP, Clerk of District Court of Bailey County, Texas. Given under my hand and seal of said Court, in the County of Bailey, this 24th day of September A. D. 1929.

Took Pessimistic View of Wire Communication

A number of prominent men of Professor Morse's period were dubious about the practicability of the telegraph and believed it to have very restricted limits. In view of the development of this form of communication and its present high efficiency it is interesting to note some of these early comments. J. Fenimore Cooper, author of the famous Leatherstocking Tales, wrote to Morse on January 31, 1838, as follows: "My dear friend: I wish you all success with the telegraph, which might be made very useful for long distances. Your difficulty will be in communicating between more than two stations, for half a dozen sparks traveling on the same wire will play the devil with the registers." The Western Union today sends as many as eight messages over one wire at the same time by ingenious automatic devices.

A. P. Stone was in Olton Tuesday.

BUILDING FOR BUSINESS IN EARTH TERRITORY

A new Grocery Store is to be built on East Grand Avenue by Mr. Carter. A new Cleaning and Pressing establishment is soon to be opened. J. M. Barlow has just finished a new modern home.

Three new stone business houses are to be built in the near future. They will be occupied by G. E. Moss, Mr. Parrish and a party from Littlefield. J. L. Walker and J. M. Barlow sold several farms the past week. They have sold all the property in the south part of Earth, and have also closed out the Hilsell property in Earth.

The cotton farmers are getting busy. One bale has already been ginned in Earth.

Wheat sowing and feed cutting is in full sway.

J. R. Caulston harvested more than 1000 pounds of sudan seed, per acre which he sold for 3 1-4 cents per pound. This is better than $30.00 per acre.

Earth and surrounding community received a good rain last week. It was fine for wheat sowing.

Spring Lake School District sold five old trucks to the highest bidder. J. L. Walker cried the sale. The School board was well pleased with the sale.

Grind and Mix Your Own FEED

Grind your own, pure home grown feeds—stems, stalks, leaves, cobs, shucks and all—with a W-W Feed Grinder and they will go a third farther—will produce a third more profit for you.

The W-W grinds and mixes everything from the ground up with lightning speed—separately or together. Turns alfalfa, fodder, snapped or ear corn, barley, oats, maize heads, bundle feed, etc., into valuable mixed feed at low cost.

The W-W has no burrs, gears or knives to give trouble. Powerful RIGID hammers do the work—quicker, better, cheaper.

W-W HAMMER-TYPE FEED GRINDER

Farmers everywhere have put their farms on a new profit-making basis by cutting feed costs with a W-W. You can do the same.

There is a W-W to suit every grinding need. Nine different sizes. Blower or Elevator equipment. Self-feeder can be furnished. All equipped with Timken Tapered Bearings, Aluminite Lubrication and Rockwood Patents.

Come in and see this wonderful grinder. Or let us demonstrate the W-W on your own farm with your own feed and your own power.

A spirit to ring out the old, ring in the new, pervades the entire coat-styling realm. The whole atmosphere is fairly saturated with a sense of change. Flares instead of straight silhouette, sleeves which have developed a complex, high waistlines which compete with princess fitted effects; these details and more bespeak a revolution in "lines."

And the fur treatments! "See what happens" when the autumn and winter season gets into full swing. Just one thrill after another in the program, both for the all-fur coat and the furred cloth coat.

Especially in the matter of sleeve-design, style creators are stopping at nothing which will achieve the unusual. One of the vagaries of fur cuffs is to travel up the sleeves, far and beyond the elbow. The sleeves in the picture tell a story of this outstanding trend. It suggests but one among the strange and devious tricks modern cuffs are performing.

One of the distinctive features of sleeves, this is that of widened and "wing" lines about the wrist. In other words sleeves are taking to themselves flares quite the same as are skirt hemlines. Flat pelts, such as caracul, ermine and broadtail, especially and themselves to these effects. A wide cuff of the fabric-like fur often starts at the elbow developing into a decided bell at the wrist. Then again pockets of the thin fur are seamed into the cloth of the coat so as to secure a conspicuous flare.

And the whimsical collars, how flattering they are. In many instances there is a definite reaction from small tailored types. The inclination toward picturesque lines is especially apparent in collars which set away from the face. There are cleverly designed shawl interpretations which become capes when flattened over the shoulders. Often the shape is of the cloth bordered with wide fur. Scarf treatments are endless worked out in flat caracul, ermine, sheared panther, or the popular seal.

There's a lot being done with two kinds of furs, or with two colors of the same fur. Flat furs are frequently enhanced with long-haired borders.

SPRING LAKE SCHOOL NEWS

School is progressing nicely, even though we are still crowded. The school is using every available space for class work. Perhaps we will enjoy the new rooms more when we do get into them. The bus drivers have been busy getting up the new furniture and will not be long now until we can move in. After we have moved in and have had time to get things organized, we want to show our patrons and visitors what a real school we have out here in this rural community. Isn't it just and right that the rural boys and girls have as many modern conveniences and advantages as those in the smaller towns and cities? We are trying to build a school whose standard of work is second to none in the State.

The school board sold the five old trucks last Saturday to the highest bidder and received a total sum of $303.00 for them. We still have two of the old trucks left. One is being used on the route and the other is used around the school building to haul junk in.

Little Irvin Anderson had the misfortune to break his arm while playing with some of the other children last week. Irvin is in the third grade and we all hope that he will soon be able to return to school.

The Senior Class ordered their class rings last week and expect them to be here in the next few days. It is a good thing that they are making them for their fingers instead of their heads. The Junior Class ordered class pins the same day.

A photographer visited the school Monday and made a picture of each student in school. We are all hoping that the finished product will look much better than the original.

Mr. D. C. Dyer of Sudan is coming one day next week to make a movie film of the school and some of the school activities. I am wondering just how we will look and act in the movies.

The football squad played their second game of the season last Friday afternoon. This game was played on the Olton grid and their opponents of Olton, who gave the team such a severe defeat last season, repeated by giving them another defeat. The final count was 35 to 0 in favor of Olton. The Spring Lake boys began the game with several blunders and this coupled with fear of the Olton Team, proved their undoing. The first half ended 28 to 0. The last half was somewhat more of a football game, as in this period the Olton team was only able to add one marker and that by hard fighting. The Olton team is composed of real sports and hard fighters. The next game between these teams will be on the Spring Lake grid and we predict quite a different score and a worthwhile game.

The "Pep Squad" has new uniforms and had the pleasure to display them at the game at Olton last Friday. They also displayed their loyalty for the school by putting over "peppy" yells for our boys.

Dr. Bradford filled the first aid kit and presented it to the boys last week, but they did not get skinned up enough to use it. We thank Dr. Bradford for his interest in the boys and his cooperation in behalf of the school.

The football boys have a challenge from the trusty eleven at Artesia, New Mexico, for October 18. We are eager to hang a foreign scalp on our belt any way.

MAIL BOX THEFTS AID CHECK FORGERS

American Bankers Association in Nationwide Warning Exposes Methods and Gives Rules to Combat Them.

NEW YORK.—Active operations in many cities of mail box thieves, who open bank communications to customers, containing details of their accounts and encashed checks showing their banking signatures, and use this material in perpetrating check forgeries, have led the American Bankers Association to issue a nationwide warning to its members with instructions for combating this form of crime. The warning is sent out by James E. Baum in charge of the association's Protective Department says:

"Heavy losses are being sustained through cancelled vouchers and elements stolen from the mail . . . bank depositors in apartment and office buildings, thus divulging the depositors' balances and supplying models for forged checks. As a step to put customers on guard against these methods, banks are urged to instruct every depositor to whom their mail statements of deposit accounts on the last business day of each month to notify them promptly if such statement are not received by the close of the next day.

"Also banks should educate depositors to safeguard blank checks and cancelled vouchers as they would money. Such paper stolen by forgers soon puts real money in their hands. If all blank checks and cancelled vouchers were securely kept in safes instead of filing cabinets or desks, the check crooks would be denied their chief stock in trade, namely, genuine blank checks and signatures. Warning depositors against leaving blank or cancelled checks accessible to sneak thieves or burglars should be sent out at once.

"Estimates broadcast by surety companies indicate that individuals, merchants, hotels and others outside of banking are shouldering more than 99 per cent of the total amount of forgery losses. The bulk of forgery loss on checks is sustained by those who are willing to risk accepting them without reliable proof of identity or title of the presenter.

"Years ago the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association adopted the slogan, 'Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers.' If those outside of banking could be persuaded upon to observe this rule and think about it when considering accepting a check for their merchandise or services, for which they are also asked to give a substantial sum in cash in change, one of the biggest aids to the forgery business would be denied the crooks."

Odd Seat's Structure
John O'Grout's house was located on a spot on Duncansby road, the northeast extremity of the mainland of Scotland, marking one of the limits of that country. It is also the limit of the automatic ice-creating record riders from Land's end, Cornwall, which is the southwest extremity of England, a distance of 994 miles. According to tradition, in order to settle a family dispute as to precedence an eight-sided house with a door and window in each side, which contained an eight-sided table, gave each of the eight brothers of the Great family the power to enter his own house and eat at his own table in company with his brothers.

Short Canal-Boat History
The first canal boats were for freight only and provided quarters merely for the captain and crew. But the demand for passenger accommodations brought canal boats with two cabins, one at the bow and one at the stern, with cargo hatches amidships, the forward cabin for women and the after cabin for men. Within a few years passenger traffic became so heavy freight was carried entirely on freight or cargo boats, while fast express were operated for passengers alone. The boats were drawn by two or three horses, which followed a towpath along the bank. The express boats averaged about 4 miles an hour.

Goldsmith Couldn't Dictate
Dictation is no new thing, though commoner today than of old. A friend of Oliver Goldsmith's once suggested to him that he use the services of an amanuensis, to avoid the physical labor of writing. He tried it. It did not work. He paced up and down the rooms while the amanuensis sat and waited for the words to be set down. At last Goldsmith turned to him, put the agreed-on fee into his hands, and dismissed him with these words: "It won't do, my friend. I find that my head and my hand must work together."

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Bailey County—GREETING:
YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, That you summon, by making Publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Bailey, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published once each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, Mrs. P. T.
