BUSINESS FIRMS HAVE BIG DAY SATURDAY

The business firms of Spur enjoyed a great day last Saturday waiting on the many people in town trading. The day indicated that there must have been some financial let up in conditions since people bought in a great way. Every business man in town is appreciating the fine patronage of the people and are thankful for the loyalty shown.

Many business men expressed they had a good day. M. C. Golding manager of B. Schwarz & Son, stated that they had the best day since 1927. The various managers of departments at Bryant-Link Company, stated they had a great day. W. R. Perry, at Spur Hardware & Furniture Company, stated it was the best in a long time. E. E. Donahoe, at Stone Department Store, said, "It was the best day in the history of the store." Joe Kellam remarked that Kellam Dry Goods Company had a "wonderful day". The same reports came from other business firms.

Municipal Power and Water Plants Pay Five-Sixths of Upkeep of City

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 29.—D. W. Clark, mayor of Idaho Falls, and Charles R. Robinson, an electrical engineer of that city, are urging the state of Idaho to place a tax on power generated in Idaho and transported into Utah. They contend that 90 per cent of the power used in Utah is generated in this state, and they figure that the proposed tax would add $3,500,000 a year to Idaho's revenues.

GREW A PAIR OF BOOTS AT HOME

C. C. Hiale, of Afton, was in town Saturday and exhibited a pair of very fine looking boots which were a home production. Mr. Hiale stated that he raised the animal and killed it for beef sometime last year. He had the hide tanned and dressed and then had it manufactured into a pair of new cowboy boots.

Hoyle Jones and son, Hoyle, Jr., arrived in our city Tuesday evening to visit his brother, Clifford B. Jones, and his father, C. A. Jones for a few days.

"GOOD PEOPLE"

When I think of the folks who have stayed through the years, the droughts, the sandstorms, low prices, hail storms, I'm constrained to say these men and women are "the salt of the earth." Some of these good people have done without the necessities of life. They have worn patched overalls, sockless shoes, and some have not had underwear, yet they have fought on and continue to fight and such people will win. They are honest. They are industrious and they are stayers. Most of them smile under the severest adversity.

You may tell of the heroes of war but greater in my judgment are these heroes of peace. Men of the West—strong in statute, strong in will, standing by home and family, trying hard to give their children opportunities they were denied, paying their debts to the last dollar and trusting to the providence of an unseen future. Such faith will take no denial. And these women of the West—how they have wrought, saving, gardening, raming, plowing, picking, praying, singing, going on raising their children. Don't tell me they are not queens. They are great. They are giving their all that their homes may be kept, the honor of their husbands may be untarnished.

I believe in these people, don't you? I believe in the folks who are honest, also love for our fellow man. Can't we think of some present blessing and not dwell on some past blunder? We should never visit the tombs of the past. Why sing the lullaby of regret when we can sing "Onward Christian Soldiers." We can not change the past, we can shape our future. The foolish moods of yesterday, the wise acts of the past should help us to do better today. Depression may sweep away wealth, may leave us penniless but one thing it cannot rob us of is honor, truth, virtue. These traits of character that will stand through eternity.

I would like to help. I want to see the rose and forget the thorn. I want to understand my fellow man and sympathize and help. Don't you? There is so much of good in all about us if we just understand, and maybe the things through which we have been passing will make us more like the Master.

Say, have you ever gone out into the field where some of these noble men and women of the West were gathering feed or picking cotton and by the wagon find a little box containing a chubby little babe, being guarded by another only three, while mother is making a hand. Say folks, this would touch the heart of anyone. Men, you who have wives like this, are you appreciative as you should be. "Good people", better never lived and in my humble opinion God will bless such efforts. We should feel proud of such people, they are that Puritan spirit that first settled the shores of America, who came seeking God, not gold, and gave this country the name that has made it great among the nations of the world.

TWENTIETH CENTURY STUDY CLUB

The Twentieth Century Study Club was invited to meet with Mrs. D. Y. Twaddell in Dickens, October 28th.

MRS. W. D. STARCHER IN ABILENE

Mrs. W. D. Starcher is in Abilene today visiting her parents, Rev. and Mrs. T. Z. Cagle, who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Rev. and Mrs. Cagle were married in Montague County 50 years ago today. Three of their four children will be present for the festivities: W. P. Cagle and Mrs. W. R. Snow of Abilene, and Mrs. W. D. Starcher of Spur. Mrs. W. R. Carcher of Matador, the other daughter, is ill and will not get to attend the anniversary program which will be held at the Hilton Hotel in Abilene from three until five this afternoon.

Have a car of Dawson coal on the track. See Swafford.

Red Cross Roll Call Starts Wednesday

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross begins in Dickens County, Wednesday, Armistice Day, November 11. It is hoped that Dickens County will show a large enrollment this year and not be forgetful of the assistance we received through this organization last year. The last roll call showed 140 members—how about making it 1000 this time? The campaign starts Wednesday and will close November 26. Don't wait to join at once.

GIN REPORT

The ginners at Spur reported 6,627 bales of cotton had been weighed over at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon. This is quite an increase over the report of one week ago. Cotton was selling at from $5.50 to $5.75 and as high as $6.10 strict middling. The bulk was going at $5.50 to $5.75. Seed was bringing $13.00 per ton. Ginning was still going at 25 cents per hundred.

Butter Price Up As Surplus Disappears

With butterfat ranging in price from 25 to 30 cents a pound at this time, and with storage holdings a little below normal, milk cows become about the best farm property to own this winter (as they nearly always are.)

Even with the common kind of cows there will be a fair profit above cost of feed, the price of feed being what it is. The better kind of cows, well fed and cared for, will make their owners some money.

Butterfat has doubled in price in the last six months. The extremely low price, however, served a purpose. It did increase consumption. Oleo addicts by the millions began once more to eat butter. The surplus was used up. The price rose.

Whether fat will go much, if any, higher in price is doubtful. It must not go high enough to switch users from butter back to oleo, increase the surplus and break the price again. Better just a fair price all the winter than a high price followed by another outrageous break in the market—The Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

J. A. Suggs Loses Home By Fire

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Suggs, two miles southwest of town, was completely destroyed by fire about four o'clock Saturday afternoon. At the time of the fire the family had come to town to do some trading and to enjoy meeting friends, and no one was at home.

McADOO

Leatrice Sparkman left Sunday for Crosbyton, where she entered high school Monday.

Mrs. B. F. Hale and daughter, Helen, left Tuesday for a two weeks visit in Dallas with friends.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

The next session of Congress promises to be an interesting one. The House is almost evenly divided between the two parties.

If the Democrats should organize the House, John N. Garner will be elected Speaker. He has served in Congress for thirty years, knows all of the ins and outs and is the dean of the Texas delegation.

There are a number of contributing causes to present day conditions, but the chief one is the contraction of the currency. In 1920 there was a per capita circulation of $53.01. According to a late Treasury report it is $38.62, a reduction of more than 25 per cent. And yet we have one-third more gold than we had in 1920.

When money is scarce, it becomes more valuable because of its scarcity, and property becomes lower in value. Nothing would do more to restore normal conditions than an increase in the volume of money. This would make money more plentiful and would increase the value of property thus stimulating prices of property and products, encouraging trade and furnishing work to a vast number of the unemployed.

Naturally this centralization of money has resulted in mergers, monopolies and the lessening of individual opportunity.

Provision should be made for taking up the current installments due the Farm Loan Banks and placing them behind the other installments. I introduced a measure a year ago, H. R. 16,253, to do this. Several other members introduced similar measures. But due to the opposition of the bank officials and the administration they were defeated.

These measures will be reintroduced, and in view of a recent statement by the President, indicating that he now recognizes the necessity for such action, it is to be hoped that some such measure will be enacted. This is more important than any foreign moratorium, as home ownership is one of the greatest safeguards of our national life.

The centralization in government and business must be checked. The encouragement of mergers and monopolies should cease, short selling should be stopped, and business big as well as little given to understand that they must obey the law.

These are but a few of the subjects that will be presented. Economies should be practiced wherever possible, excessive salaries reduced, a free circulation of money restored, the control of local affairs restored to local people, and Mellonism should be destroyed.

MRS. J. H. DOBBINS INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. J. H. Dobbins, of Levelland, was injured in an automobile crash at Lubbock Monday afternoon. While driving south in Avenue H in Lubbock, Mrs. Dobbins was driving around a car which had stopped just before she reached the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad crossing turning east. At this point a roadster came around the corner and headed into Mrs. Dobbins' car.

HOKUS-POKUS GROCERY HAS VISITATION DAY

The social feature began at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and from that hour throughout the day the store was full of people. A number of presents were given away during the day, and everybody was busy buying groceries. People for many miles came and everybody enjoyed a great time.

Fire Destroys Falls Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Falls, on Miller Avenue, was destroyed by fire about one o'clock Monday morning. The origin of the fire is not known but seems to have started in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Falls did not discover the fire until after some neighbors had given the alarm. Flames were breaking through the roof of the kitchen before the discovery, but the flames were too far advanced to save anything. With the exception of a few wearing clothes which Mr. and Mrs. Falls saved as they ran out, the residence and its entire contents was destroyed.

Dairy Cows To Be Tested This Month

E. R. White, State Sanitarian, has made arrangements for the people of this county to have their dairy cows tested this month. The date set for the first test is Sunday, November 29. Dr. Akin, D. V. S., of Lubbock will do the work. Dr. Akin is recognized by the State Veterinary Board and ranks among the highest in his work.

This is a very important work and all cows producing milk for the use of people, whether the milk is sold on the market or used at home should be tested for tuberculosis. Many times people acquire T. B. from the use of milk produced by tubercular cows. Mr. White has made special arrangements with Dr. Akin and the price for the test will be 50 cents per cow only. This includes all the serum and other expenses used which makes the price very reasonable.

DR. MALONE TO SPEAK TO LAYMEN HERE TUESDAY

Dr. Malone is asking that every church in the association be represented by its lay leader and the deacons and as many other members as possible. The meeting will begin at 7:15 p. m. and last about one hour.

"Sisters of the Skillet" United By Tie That Binds

over WEA and associated NBC stations, Mondays and Wednesdays at 10 A. M. (E.S.T.).

Red Top-Catfish

The rain caught several with cotton on the ground and some of it got wet, but several hauled in bales to be ginned or stored in the house to dry and be ginned later.

in to town Friday. Sunday was Sylvia Lewis birthday and her mother and sisters cooked her a birthday dinner.

We had some more rain so every one has been very busy getting their feed in some cutting with binders, others heading maize and everyone is so proud to have the keep in working practice, so when feed to put up and every one can the ground dries up they can go right back at the cotton pulling and then they can get it off their hands.

Miss Edrie Lewis came up Mrs. Matt Howells Wednesday on her way to Aunt Bettie Smith's across the river, to see if she could find some clothes for some of the characters in the play.

Friday night, both neighborhoods had one grand party at the Red Top schoolhouse, there were a crowd and everyone had a good time and plenty of good soup for all.

Catfish had a full house out Friday night out to see the play and as ye writer was one of them, does not behoove us to brag on the play but we can say every one knew their parts well.

Saturday night, the White River school put on a play "The Girl Who Forgot" and several people from Red Top and Catfish enjoyed the play very much.

The Lewis girls, Misses Edrie and Mary Emma, and J. C. Lewis, accompanied Mattie and Clark Howell to the play and J. C. spent the night with Clark, both going to Red Mud Sunday evening for the Bible study.

When we have rain the men try to get together with their dogs and hunt for wolves. Wednesday Lon Fuqua and son Alfred, came up to Ed Fuqua's and several more men joined in with them and they had a good hunt that night.

An ideal opportunity presents itself to the cotton growers of this section to reap material benefit in a financial way from the general cotton holding movement, in the opinion of Raymond Ford, government licensed classifier and district manager of the Texas Cotton Co-operative Association.

Farmers Benefit By Holding Plan

Albert Fry, Theford, Leonard Ward and Glee Sweeney motored have brought about a close co-operation between the bankers, the cooperatives and the Farm Board, with a view of holding 7,000,000 bales off the present distressed cotton market.

Commenting upon the recent action taken at New Orleans and closely followed by the State Bankers Association approval and endorsement of the movement at the Dallas conference last week, Mr. Ford stated that "similar favorable action has been taken generally over the entire cotton belt which gives the program assurance of success."

In this connection he urges growers, bankers, and business interests to give serious consideration to the possible country damage, fire and theft loss which may develop in interior yardage.

Commenting upon the recent action taken at New Orleans and closely followed by the State Bankers Association approval and endorsement of the movement at the Dallas conference last week, Mr. Ford stated that "similar favorable action has been taken generally over the entire cotton belt which gives the program assurance of success."

Texas Poultry And Egg Shipments Off

Austin—Only 86 cars of Texas poultry and eggs were shipped during September, compared with 122 cars in August, according to the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas.

"Of the 46 carloads of dressed chickens shipped from the States, 27 carloads were destined for Metropolitan New York City. Egg shipments out of the State amounted to only 24 carloads, of which sixteen went to Louisiana.

"Egg prices at the eastern markets advanced during September, although as in August the rise was not so much as usual. Fresh extras at New York averaged 24.2 per dozen as compared with 23.6 cents in August and 30.4 cents a year ago.

"The supply of storage eggs is considerably less than last year. Total storage of eggs in shell and of frozen eggs converted to shell egg basis amounted to 10,909,000 cases compared with 12,331,000 cases October 1, 1930, and a five-year average of 10,428,000 cases."

JUST A MATTER OF TASTE

I just as soon live
In a pine pole cabin
And be exceedingly poor
As to live with a woman
That's always a gabby
And all the time
Raising a roar.

I just as soon camp
In a ten pail pen
Yea, in the shade of a tree
As have to be around those Know all men
Who think they are the only HE.

I just as soon eat with the beasts
Of the field.
And sleep in a hollow log
As to have all the fame that wealth can weild.
And then be classed as a dirty dog

I just as soon sleep on a pile of hay
With naught but the sky for a cover
As to have to be here election day
And be forced to vote for Herbert Hoover.

There are some things I do never
Next to the God in Heaven
One is a womans love and cheer
Its the nicest gift to mortal given.

And next to that is an honest man
On whom you can depend.
Whose word is his oath
By his vow he will stand
There is no better earthly friend.
—John D. Huffstедler.

Bulloch Tillotson, of the West Texas Utilities Company, returned Tuesday from Lubbock where he had been for an operation on his eye.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Slack and son Joe, of Enid, Okla., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Collier Sunday. Mrs. Slack is a sister to Mrs. Collier.
 H. C. Edwards, of Croton, was in our city trading Saturday.

The following is the text of an address made by William Randolph Hearst over radio a few weeks ago in a country wide hook-up, and which address appeared recently in the New York American:

This summer I travelled in many European countries, but I stayed out of France by, what may politely be termed, mutual consent.
 I found conditions in Europe so bad that our own depression in comparison seems like only a small dent in the smooth surface of prosperity.

The essential and vitally important difference between conditions abroad and here at home is that although considerable individual financial embarrassment and even some individual insolvency prevail here, still our nation is sound and solvent, while in Europe not only is there much more individual impoverishment but governments and even nations are on the brink of bankruptcy.

We all know the desperate condition Germany is in because of the over-heavy burdens imposed by the Versailles Treaty; and recent revelations have shown that England once the financial center of the world, is now in serious financial straits.

We Americans would all like to see these nations come out of their financial difficulties and social complications.

My personal opinion, however, is that in England the present coalition Government is NOT going to get the country out of its troubles.

Leaders Lack Modern Viewpoint
 Most of the men in the Government are fine men, but old-fashioned men who belong to a different age and lack sympathetic understanding of modern ideals and tendencies or of up-to-date methods and measures.
 Modern minds like Beaverbrook's and Rothmere's have worn themselves out beating against a stone wall of narrow prejudice and ancient convention.
 Beaverbrook and Rothmere have long proposed British and imperial protection, yet the Government of England is still obstinately clinging to the dead and done Mill and Cobden theories of free trade.

Conditions which made free trade policies valuable have changed.

England is no longer the pre-eminent manufacturing nation of the world.

Other nations have built up their own home industries under protection and now invade England with foreign goods and shut down English factories and put Englishmen out of employment.

Obviously, England and the British Empire should protect themselves with tariff and then negotiate treaties with other nations thus opening the market of other nations to English goods.

All this is plain enough, yet the English Government teeters on the edge of a decision on the matter of a tariff when there is only one practical or even possible decision to make.

Dole Has Become a Political Pension
 Then there is the matter of the dole in England—a constantly increasing cash subsidy to the unemployed, which has degenerated into a political pension.

The dole is a disastrous experiment, as disastrous as our Prohibition experiment, and is largely responsible for bringing England to its present pitiful pass.

For years England has been borrowing money, adding to her debt and increasing her taxation to pay the dole and all the time the dole has been rotting the very roots of her social organization and making parasites and paupers out of a large part of the population.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has proposed, timidly and pologetically, a ten per cent cut in the dole, explaining that prices have decreased ten per cent and consequently this cut will amount to no cut at all.

reduction of the dole of at least ten per cent yearly until this deplorable and unbearable burden upon the nation should have been altogether abolished.

Of course there would have been opposition by the beneficiaries of the dole, but even the timid ten per cent reduction has met with the fanatical opposition of the Labor Party and the labor unions.

The shortsighted members of these institutions have apparently not the vision to see that if the country goes to financial smash under the incubus of the dole the working classes will lose both dole and employment as well.

Germany Gives Food, But Not Cash
 Germany has seen the folly and danger of paying people NOT to work. So Germany is increasing employment by reducing hours and is giving aid to the unavoidably unemployed in food instead of cash.

Another discouraging thing in England is to see the Government fatuously increasing taxation.

Already taxation there is breaking the back of industry.

Industry eventually has to pay ALL taxation because money to pay taxation must come out of the profits of production and can come from nowhere else except from capital confiscation.

Taxation in England is like the cord of the thug around the neck of business, strangling it to death. Every tightening of the cord aggravates the situation and hastens the destruction.

England must reduce taxation by any and every means and at all hazards. She must not only eliminate all unnecessary expenses but must reduce some which she has been in the habit of considering necessary.

She must reduce even the expense of maintaining her gigantic navy, which is no longer of the same value to her that it once was when she had industrial and commercial supremacy.

Of course some economies are being made in England, but an example of the blindness with which the Government is proceeding to economize is seen in the proposal to cut down the salaries of the teachers and of the police.

Think of it! Here is a nation threatened, as we all are, with Socialism. Communism and every other "ism" which hardship breeds in the minds of desperate men, and the Government approaches the situation by making malcontents out of the people who teach the nation and out of the people who teach the nation and out of the people who protect the nation.

Labor Neglects Popular Education
 As a matter of final fact the most serious impediment to England's future development if not to her present progress is the inadequacy of her public school system.

The Labor Administration of England is the only professed progressive Government in the world which has not taken a supreme interest in popular education and has not acutely realized that the larger the educated mass the larger the reserve from which to draw those able and also educated minds which blaze the way for the progress and prosperity of any nation.

In Russia the chief object of the radical Government is educational; and schools are provided not only for the young but for those of advanced years who have failed of education in their youth.

Furthermore, today the Russian Government is additionally reorganizing and extending and improving its educational system and increasing the number and efficiency and the COMPENSATION of its teachers in order to provide adequate mental training for every one of its citizens throughout the length and breadth of the land.

In Germany also, schools are as frequent and as conspicuous as corner saloons used to be in our dear country, and are naturally a much more pleasing and heartening sight.

Germany Builds for the next Generation
 Bright faced children with their teachers, parading and singing happily, often fill the thoroughfares and you gain the satisfying impression everywhere throughout the nation that, while the Government may be suffering under its present severe trials, it is certainly providing nobly and far-seeing

Southern Farmers and Jobless Men Get Income From Unexpected Source

LAUREL, Miss.— Many hard-hit farmers and unemployed men throughout this section—due to the general depression—are receiving good incomes for cutting timber lands in Mississippi to supply a corporation that is an important contributing factor to the conservation of the nation's forests.

The Masonite Corporation, whose manufacturing plant is located here, but it has alleviated the unemployment situation throughout this section to an appreciable extent, as many men have been put to work by the fact of wood boards, which are extensively used for structural insulation, wall board, panelling, concrete-form making and numerous other practical purposes.

Due to the rapidly increasing demand for its products, the available supply of waste timber from sawmills has proved inadequate, so farmers throughout this section are reaping a profit by clearing their cut-over land and selling the small round wood, worthless for sawmill purposes, to the Masonite Corporation. This is not only giving the farmers a substantial income—many of them declare it is more profitable than cotton raising—but it has alleviated the unemployment situation throughout this section to an appreciable extent, as many men have been put to work by the fact of wood boards, which are extensively used for structural insulation, wall board, panelling, concrete-form making and numerous other practical purposes.

The corporation pays out to farmers add men more than $1,000 daily for this raw timber delivered at its plant.

for the future of the country and of the race.

In England you sense backwardness, slow going conservatism, old-fashioned methods and machines and old-fashioned men.

In fact the hope of the country lies in the modernity of its journalism. In this is a splendid and powerful force impelling the nation to progress, endeavoring to galvanize it out of its reactionary shroud and to clothe it in the habiliments of the living and stimulate it to the energy and activity which once made it the leader of the world.

Germany's financial difficulties are far greater than England's because France, like a gigantic vam pire, draining the life blood out of Germany's industrial system.

Yet one feels that under present conditions in Germany and England, Germany may come out of her difficulties better than England, because Germany is handling her complicated problems in a more modern and more enlightened manner.

Italy has her difficulties, too, but a talk with her great leader, Mussolini, convinces one that his genius is equal to a solution of the situation.

It is gratifying to see that Mussolini has been able to make his peace with the Church, because if Mussolini should fall Bolshevism will take his place and Bolshevism has no respect for churches.

The difficulties of all European nations are inexcusably increased by the oppressive and usurious practices of France.

France Collects, But Does Not Pay France has an artificial prosperity based on her shrewd and some what unscrupulous ability to collect her debts in gold and pay her debts in depreciated francs.

France may not be Uncle Shylock, which she calls us, but at least she can be compared to Shylock's fair and thrifty daughter, Jessica, who absconded with the old gentleman's money without the slightest intention of ever repaying it.

From all financial conventions and controversies France emerges with every material advantage, simply because she obstinately refuses ever to surrender a sou or even to honor her own signature on a due bill.

Such is her insatiable greediness that in the eyes of Europe the game cock has ceased to be the emblem of the French nation and has been superseded by the comorant.

Taken as a whole, Europe lies prostrate and impoverished as a final result of the great war.

But her poverty has at least one advantage. It is keeping her out of another war.

Just as soon as nations of Europe can stand upon their financial feet and accumulate enough money to finance another war they will spend their money in another war, and invite another and greater disaster.

U. S. Should Shun European Politics

There is one outstanding lesson in the European situation for America and that is keep out of European conflicts and complications.

War means debt. Debt means depression. Depression means social revolution.

We got into our present troubles by going into Europe and if we would keep out of trouble, let us keep out of Europe.

Keep out politically. Keep out financially. Every dollar of American money which goes into European enterprises will eventually meet one of two fates.

If the enterprise fails, the dollar will be lost, which is bad for the investor.

If the enterprise succeeds, the dollar is building up European industry to compete with American industry, which is bad for our people and our prosperity.

Nationally we in America are sound and solvent but why assume any more of Europe's war debts lest we become, like Europe, unsound and insolvent.

We have already lost in the cost of war and in cost of Europe's repudiated war debts more than $38,000,000,000.

If we have any more money to spend let us spend it in the pursuit of peace and for the benefit of our own people.

We raised a $26,000,000,000 war loan to give European nations liberty—liberty to do what? Liberty to hate each other, liberty to oppress each other, liberty to rob each other and to rob us.

Should we not now raise a $5,000,000,000 peace loan to give our own country employment and prosperity?

Let us realize that the part of wisdom and the part of patriotism is to keep our money and our men and our minds at home.

And let us pray for an American administration at Washington which will recognize to the full and perform to the full its primary obligation to our own American people.

Maynard D. Smith, of the Packard Motor Company, has advanced the idea that our federal government should establish a bank guaranty system which will protect de-

Bedridden Children

See Ceiling Movies

Bedridden children in a convalescent home at Far Rockaway, N. Y., are going to be entertained by moving pictures brought to them in accordance with a suggestion launched over the radio in a lighter moment by the comic "Sisters of the Skillet", Eddie East and Ralph Dumke.

In the course of their tomfoolery, giving out "housekeeping advice,"

Eddie and Ralph suggested that movies could be projected on the ceiling, to be viewed from a comfortable reclining position in barber chairs.

Silly as it seemed, the idea took hold and it is reported that the Wave Crest Convalescent Home at Far Rockaway is arranging to install a projector to throw pictures on the ceiling so that sick youngsters can see them from bed.

bank guaranty system would establish this confidence since the people have faith in our government even though they may be skeptical of our banks at this time. Another reason for the guaranty system would be that since the federal banking department makes inspections of banks at various periods, it would be in a position to make the faithful bankers who are doing business on a conservative basis stand more prominently in the estimation of the public; and those bankers who are doing a speculative business get back on a more sound business basis.

An able Boston merchant said recently: "The worst of our troubles are over, and our greatest remaining difficulty is the attitude of bankers and others that loan money. When they get over their fears, their damaging desires to have safes filled with ready cash, business will revive."

To this statement one of America's ablest bankers replied: "Citizens are frightened and are injuring themselves and the country by withdrawing money and hiding it. It is not the bankers' safes that are filled with cash so much as deposit boxes, old mattresses, and other hiding places."

Then Mr. Smith states: "These diagnoses of the cause of our current business depression clearly and correctly depict the public state of mind. It's obviously a case of Peter accusing Paul, and Paul accusing Peter. To the student of economics, however, here is angular and vineable cause for this lamentable situation. In a word, it's lack of confidence in our banking system. Bankers are fearful of runs. . . . depositors are fearful of bank failures. It's a case of mutual lack of confidence."

"Our country is one hundred per cent solvent with credit unlimited and more than five billions in gold accumulated. Foolish timidity among leaders and harmful hoarding among citizens explains one's inability to borrow against sound, sufficient collateral. It's the reason, too, why sensible, safe business ventures haven't a chance."

"A national emergency exists. By the same token Congress has authority to empower our government with the responsibility of guaranteeing all deposits in state and national banks. This is the solution to our business depression . . . and it can be accomplished without either expense or delay."

Just after the failure of a great bank the following telegram was sent to President Hoover by Mr. Smith:

"The Toledo, Ohio, situation is the last straw (stop) Something must be done at once to restore confidence and stop communistic activity (Stop) The people still have faith in the government (Stop) They have no faith in the banking system which is to be regretted (Stop) The sooner the government guarantees all deposits in state and national banks the sooner confidence of the people will be restored and without the cost of a dime to the government (Stop) People will regain confidence within twenty-four hours and within thirty days the depression will be over."

The telegram was acknowledged by the President's secretary, who replied: "Your telegram of August seventeenth has been received and will be brought to the attention of the President."

Mr. Smith continues: "It is to be hoped for your sake and mine, that President Hoover will act favorably on this suggestion. Congress can legally pursue such a course. The feasibility of the plan is beyond question. It's effects will be remedial and instant."

"With confidence restored in our banking system, almost ten billion dollars now stored in old mattresses, closets, safety deposit boxes and other places save banks where it normally belongs, would be redeposited and returned to circulation. It is impossible to calculate closely the extent to which business would be benefited by this action. It's a certainty, however, that the billions rescued from passivity would regain their innate earning power and that the acute condition of credits in general would be materially relieved."

"An effect equally significant is suggested when it is remembered that banks no longer would have to build up huge surplus to avert runs. The government's guaranteeing deposits would eliminate the necessity of such action. Instead these billions would be available for well secured loans, and sound business ventures. In view of these facts, it is easier to gather how the government's guaranteeing deposits in state and national banks would relieve credits, industry, and the country's economic stability."

"The ability to earn and borrow money would effect the building industry at once. People would take advantage of the present low price on real estate. They would either build or buy new homes. The more provident would have their present homes repaired . . . and if necessary, remodeled. Nor would this wave of buying be limited to the building industry. Available cash would manifest itself in the rehabilitation of wardrobes, new automobiles would be purchased on the wealth of the table menu would regain part of its former glory.

"The resurrection of the building fields would automatically revive the entire artisan class embracing in its far flung coterie, bricklayers, carpenters, stone masons, plasterers, painters, decorators, brick manufacturers, electricians, plumbers and even the so called "white collar employees" captaining these trades.

"The purchase of automobiles, for instance, would relieve the labor and raw material situation in every state in the union since everyone of the forty eight states is called upon for materials and three out of four supply finished or semi finished parts. Increased activity in the automotive field became particularly significant when it is realized that 1930 found the motor industry number one in the consumption of steel bars and sheets, nickel and lead. In the realms of malleable iron, rubber, upholstery leather, plate glass, aluminum, copper, tin, cotton, wool, paint and lacquers, all requiring labor in their production, it made equally enviable inroads. Increased earning and borrowing power would recall this titanic industry from its slough of economic despond. Its revival would be a boon to business in general.

"Increased buying of clothing would have a healthy effect on the textile industry. The price of wool and cotton would increase with its augmented consumption and agriculture would commence to share the new order of things. Increased purchases of food stuffs to replenish the tables of millions no longer limited to the bare necessities of life would have an equally benign influence on the prices of farm products.

"With our people garbed in the habiliment of a new hope, with confidence restored in our banking system and labor and capital spurred on to new challenges and accomplishments, articles of foreign manufacture again would be purchased by the large percentage of the populace accustomed to these varieties before the recent depression overtook us. This would put money into circulation in foreign countries. It would relieve the acuteness of their unemployment problem. To perpetuate this healthy condition, the countries benefited, in turn, would purchase certain of our raw materials and manufactured products.

"Although mindful of a brochure's limitations I have endeavored to depict a true picture of the economic transition to be expected on the heels of our federal government's taking the initiative and assuring the millions of depositors of state and national banks that their monies at last are in safe keeping.

"Increased confidence in our banking system will do the job. People again will patronize the banks they have learned to distrust. Banks will welcome opportunities to make loans on sound business ventures and to people offering sufficient desirable collateral. We will rise, all of us . . . bricklayer and physician alike . . . from the slough of business quarantine and fear. Prosperity will quit lurking around the corner and march into the foreground . . .

If a special session of Congress is necessary to effect this much needed remedy . . . let's have it."

A federal guaranty system together with the 500,000,000 dollar reserve and loan corporation now being organized would stabilize confidence to such an extent that all pennied up monies would go into circulation. Business would take on new life and confidence in banks would be restored because the government standing back of the banks would cause the people to have faith in the banking system.

"Sisters of the Skillet" Deal With Discarded Straw Hats

TWO great minds went to work on the problem of what to do with last season's straw hat, when Eddie East, (left) and Ralph Dumke, radio's "Sisters of the Skillet" took up the question of household hints for bachelors in their "housekeeping laboratory" where they work out "advice" to be given to the public in their broadcasts over WJZ and associated NBC stations Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 8:45 P.M. (E.S.T.) and over WEAF and associated NBC stations Mondays and Wednesdays at 10 A. M. (E.S.T.).

After the neighbors downstairs had complained that the "Sisters" had flooded their ceilings with water, they gave up trying to wash socks in their hats, and decided to keep the "skimmers" for next Summer. Soon, they announced, they will take up the problem of what to do with old razor blades.

comparative values of crushed lime and oyster shells in calcium metabolism. In conducting the experiments, four lots of hens and pullets were used. (Naturally, a strict account of the feed eaten and the eggs laid was kept.)
One lot of hens fed corn and buttermilk consumed 1143 pounds of feed in seven months and laid 60 dozens of eggs. This means that it took only 1.65 pounds of corn and buttermilk to make a dozen eggs.
Another lot of hens and pullets, fed on corn and mash, consumed 39 pounds of feed and produced 35.6 dozens of eggs in seven months. This means that it took only 1.1 pounds of corn and mash to make a dozen eggs.
At this rate a bushel of grain would be converted into 54 1-2 dozens of eggs, which, at only 16 cents per dozen, would bring $8.72.
Of course grain is not the only item of expense in manufacturing eggs, but certainly there is no more profitable way to use a part of your grains than to put into a flock of good pullets and turn out eggs at the rate of more than 50 dozens per bushel.

Poultry Price Outlook
In basing the foregoing calculations on poultry at 18 cents for early fryers and eggs at 16 cents for the past 12 months I have been very conservative. Prices on eggs are much higher than that now, and I feel sure poultry products will bring higher prices in 1932.
Three Reasons Why I Expect Higher Prices
In basing the foregoing calculations because:
1. There is less poultry in the country than normal.

2. Stocks of eggs in cold storage are lower than average.
3. The American people now are eating poultry and eggs in larger quantities.
But, even if the price of chickens and eggs do not maintain a higher level in 1932, poultry raisers will make a lot more money on account of lower feed costs. This applies particularly to farmers who own home grown grain, which, as we have shown can be made to bring better returns when fed to poultry than in any other way.

Cotton Supply Too Great

Austin—On October 1, the indicated supply of cotton in the United States was 21,007,000 bales, or 3,998,000 more than on this same date last year, and 3,060,000 bales more than in 1926, the previous record supply on October 1, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"On the other hand, European port stocks and afloat to Europe are 215,000 bales less than October 1, last year, but this still leaves an increase in effective market supply of 3,783,000 bales this year over last," Dr. Cox said.

"During the past seven years, the total changes in supply on this date totalled 12,873,000 bales, and the total price changes equalled 3,496 points or an average of 27 points change in the price for each change of 100,000 bales in supply. However, when the supply is above average, the change in price per change of 100,000 bales in supply is less than average; and when the supply is less than average, the points change in price for each change of 100,000 bales in supply is more than average. When worked out on the basis of this curvilinear relationship, the indicated price of New Orleans spots on October 8 was between 5.50 and 6 cents. On October 8 last year, the price was 10.05 cents, and on October 8 this year it was 5.63 cents. The drastic decline is due to the big increase in supply and a sharp decline in the price level. The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics' wholesale all-commodity price index is at the extreme low level of 69.1.

"According to the Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture, the indicated cotton crop of the United States this year is 16,284,000 bales. This, plus the carryover August 1 of 6,369,000 plus 13,000 bales imported in August and September less United States consumption and exports of 1,659,000 bales, leaves a total supply in the United States October 1 of 21,007,000 bales. Production in Texas is estimated to be 5,100,000 bales."

in nature's way

CAMELS are never parched or toasted!

FRESHNESS and flavor in a cigarette trace right back to natural moisture.

If you overheat or process tobacco so harshly as to dry out all natural moisture you drive out freshness and flavor too.

Camel never parches or toasts the fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos it uses—they are naturally smooth, cool, mellow, with natural moisture retained.

That's why the Camel Humidor Pack provides such a blessing to Camel smokers—it brings them a fine cigarette fresh to start with, and fresh to smoke.

If you don't realize what natural moisture means in genuine freshness and flavor, switch to Camels and see.

Try this mild, slow-burning, throat-friendly favorite for just one day—then leave it, if you can!

FRIENDS ARE VALUABLE

LET'S HOPE YOU LIVE A HUNDRED YEARS

AND I AM AT YOUR FUNERAL WITH A CHECK

Each day that we come in contact with our friends we realize more and more what they mean to us. How difficult life would be if we had no friends to scatter sunshine in our pathway.

We want to take this means to thank our many friends for the kind consideration given us during our ten years of business life. The cooperation of friends is one great factor in our success. Those friends who extended us so many congratulation on the 10th anniversary of our business, we greatly appreciate your interest and good will.

We want to make the Spur Mutual bigger and better as each year goes by, and to secure that confidence which people hold for us, giving them insurance that is reliable from every standpoint. We want to continue the idea that a Spur Mutual policy means protection. This will require service and we claim the slogan, "Service When Service Is Needed."

Yours for better service.
