

Your ELECTRIC Rate is What You Make it

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

PROFIT By the Bargains We Offer...

Electricity is not a commodity... but a service. It is a magic force which appliances transform into constructive energy. Electricity cooks meals, heats water, refrigerates food, lights homes, cleans carpets and furniture, washes clothes, produces beautiful radio programs... and does all these important jobs better than any other method!

You can earn bargain electric rates by enjoying more of the "Electrical Servants" you have always wanted. You pay a great deal less per unit for electricity to operate a range, refrigerator, water heater or other money-saving appliances than you pay if you limit your use to lighting only. Many of our customers have reduced their average rate 50 per cent or more by enjoying a modern, electrified home.

it was created has been fully discharged, the present activities of this Committee will be terminated and state headquarters at Austin closed effective August 1st.

In concluding the intensive campaign which the Committee has waged in the interests of the Democratic Party in Texas for the past ten months, I desire to express grateful appreciation of the unselfish and patriotic services of hundreds of fine men and women who have constituted its Executive Committees in the eighteen Congressional Districts and others who have cooperated so generously in its program. It should be gratifying to them that the objective we sought to achieve at the outset of the national campaign was fully achieved. Realizing, of course, that Texas would record an overwhelming majority for the national ticket, our only purpose was to place our State in the forefront of a great Democratic victory. As a result we had the satisfaction of seeing Texas take first place in majority of votes cast for the ticket and we achieved the distinction of contributing more money to the national campaign fund than any other State except New York.

Confronted with a tremendous deficit, incurred to insure a glorious victory, Chairman Farley of the National Committee, shortly after the close of its activities in an effort to election requested our Committee to raise additional funds to assist in liquidating the debt. The Democrats of Texas, having now had an opportunity to render this additional service, there appears to be no further need to continue the activities of the Committee.

Total funds raised by the Committee contributed by Texas Democrats direct to National Headquarters have amounted to about $175,000. The number of individual contributions approximated 25,000. When our final report is made we will send you the definite figures.

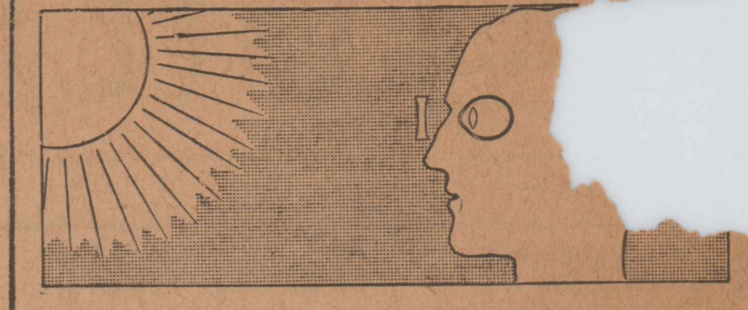

Few of those who participated actively in achieving these gratifying results have sought favor or job in compensation for their services. They have been, and are, content to find their reward in the splendid achievements of our great President and his administration in the rehabilitation of our beloved country. I commend them for their unselfish patriotism. Those who only for the sake of the cause itself bear the heat of its battles, rarely seek to divide the spoils. That is usually the business of the camp followers and non-combatants who in safety and complacency travel in dress parade in the rear of the victorious army.

I desire to express grateful appreciation to Senator Margie Neal, my Co-Director, for her unflinching cooperation. The Democrats of Texas owe a special debt of gratitude to Frank Scofield, our Director of Finance, who since the inauguration of the campaign ten months ago, has devoted his time and splendid talents to the work of the organization. To him is chiefly due the remarkable record made for Texas in the raising of funds. I am grateful also to W. H. Kittrell, Jr., of Dallas for the skill-

The EYE and how we see

by M. S. Sullivan, Director, Better Vision Institute

The Magical Lens Of The Eye

THE reason for a lens both in a camera and in the human eye, is to focus the light from an object, bend it so that it forms a clear pattern upon a sensitive receiving area—the film in the case of the former and the retina in the case of the latter. That is, a lens is necessary in order to reduce the image to a size suitable for the small space within the eyeball.

Roughly, an object one inch high, seen at a distance of one foot, will produce an image on the retina one-twelfth of an inch high. An inch-high object seen at ten feet will produce an image on the retina one one-hundred and twentieth of an inch high; similarly, if seen at one hundred feet, it would produce an image one-twelve hundredth of an inch high.

The remarkable quality of the lens of the human eye is that it has the power to adjust its own thickness according to the focus required for the distance of the object from the eye. When you look at an object about fifteen feet away, the lens is practically at rest, and the muscles controlling it are relaxed. If the object is at the normal reading distance, twelve to fourteen inches, some of the muscles contract, making the lens thicker. Focusing on distant objects causes the lens to flatten out.

The act of accommodation of the lens becomes more difficult with advancing age, and at forty years or over the majority of people require bifocal or double vision glasses to assist the lens to do its work.

The lens would act like the ordinary burning glass if the rays of light which it focuses were not "stopped down" by the contraction of the iris, the circular band of muscles immediately in front of the lens, colored green, gray, blue, or black, or other protective agencies. There are cases on record of children who have actually burned small spots on the retina by trying to stare directly at the sun; the lens focused the rays to burning intensity on the delicate retina.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

SUMMER Sundays are play days for wage earners. Why should not the housekeeper have a restful and pleasant day also, even though hers is a seven day job? If her family will cooperate, she can plan and serve meals which require a minimum of time to be spent in the kitchen.

Food stores are helping the housewife in this matter and are offering foods which can be easily and quickly prepared on Sunday or prepared on Saturday for Sunday use. Why not spare yourself during the hot months? The low cost and medium cost dinners suggested by the Quaker Maid Kitchen can be prepared with little trouble.

Fresh foods which will prove tempting this week-end are watermelon and cantaloupe, new cabbage, spinach, green peas and lettuce. Ingredients for salad making and dressing should not be forgotten by the week-end shopper.

Dry Ice to Revolutionize Shipping of Foodstuffs

THE expanding use of dry ice in the shipment of perishable foodstuffs will, by reducing the expense of transportation, reduce the costs of many commodities to the public, according to a statement by the solid dioxide division of the Michigan Alkali Company. At the present time the shipping of less than a ton of vegetables, fish and other foods, is very costly, requiring specially refrigerated cars, or expensive express shipment. In the freight container shown below, frozen fish are being packed for shipment. A small quantity of dry ice is put in a compartment in the container which will keep the fish frozen for several days. This container can be put in the freight car with dry merchandise, because the dry ice does not become wet as it melts, but passes into a dry vapor directly from the solid piece. Thus there is no leakage. The fish are packed in cardboard boxes.

Refrigerated containers like that shown in the picture, are now being used by several railroads and it is expected that their use will rapidly develop in the next few years, continues the statement of the Michigan Alkali Company, largest maker of dry ice in the United States. These shipping containers are permanent railroad equipment and are made of such size as to fit compactly into freight cars. By eliminating the expense of heavy wood packing boxes and the great weight of water ice, the containers bring about substantial economies in transportation and handling costs due to the facility in moving and the compactness of the merchandise in them.

Fish, vegetables and other foods are shipped in these modern containers refrigerated by dry ice.

A Business Training vs. A College Course

Under the present conditions, is it wise to undertake a four-year College Course? A very prominent educator said recently that since the World War the Colleges of the country have been over-crowded with students, with the results that there is now an enormous over-supply of college graduates.

streets unable to find employment. They are told by the business men that their Degree is very valuable and desirable to have, yet they must know how to do some specific thing in order to be of any service to them.

A young man or young woman with a high school education, supplemented with a Complete General Business Course, stands a far better chance to find employment than one who has, or will spend four years in College.

A four-year College Course equips one for just a very few places, mostly by teachers. The records disclose more than fifteen thousand surplus teachers in Texas alone. The same thing is comparatively true in other states.

Business is on the upgrade and this means, of course, that we will see a vast improvement in the employment situation immediately. We hope by fall to be placing every one of our students who graduate.

Comparing the chances for immediate employment and the small cost in taking a business course with that of a College Course, and the cost incident to a college course and the slim chances of employment thereafter, we think the odds greatly in favor of a business training.

Hunter, the "People's Lobbyist"

(INS)—Something new in lobbyists was developed in the Forty-third legislature—the "people's lobbyist."

Two years ago Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls surprised political Texas with an extraordinary race for governor. Encouraged, Hunter probably will be a candidate again next year. His presence in Austin, therefore, was generally regarded as an effort to improve his political platform.

But, regardless of motive, Hunter became one of the most familiar figures around the legislature, his rather battered "ten gallon" hat stuck on the back of his head, a wheat straw cigarette between his lips. Particularly he attended committee sessions where utility legislation was brewing, for Hunter was the avowed enemy of utilities.

Once, he was asked who he represented. "I'm the people's lobbyist," he answered. The name stuck.

Corporation Bill Killed Whether he helped kill any bills, or helped pass any, is a matter of speculation. He did, however, oppose in committee a number of measures which subsequently were dealt the death blow.

His first target was a bill allowing corporations to incorporate for all general purposes. This, he argued, was a dangerous extension of corporate powers. Corporations, he said, are potentially deathless, while an individual's business life is about 30 years. He urged legislators to fight the bill and it was killed.

A bill to create a public utilities commission brought from the "people's lobbyist" a charge that the bill bartered away a city's legal right to compete for lower rates. The bill was re-written in committee to eliminate this provision, and the re-writing was a reversal of policy by the committee.

Senate Kills Bills

Hunter was brought before the committee by Representative Tennyson of Wichita Falls to urge abolition of the so-called "service charge" or "ready-to-serve" charge of gas utilities. This bill was passed in the house but was killed in the senate.

The stock gentleman from Wichita Falls was less successful with the bills he sponsored. Among these were: The Graves bill, to reorganize the state government, which surprised everyone when it passed the lower house only to be killed in the senate; an income tax upon the higher brackets; a bill designed to cure unfair competition by utilities, such competition being defined as price-cutting to destroy competition, passed by the house but killed in the senate; an increase in the tax on sulphur; abolition of the state ad valorem tax; divorcing of pipe lines and filling stations from integrated companies on the ground that their ownership created a monopoly, and a levy on natural gas produced for transportation.

He opposed the sales tax—which may yet be submitted to a special session—unless receipts from the tax were applied to reduce county and school ad valorem taxes. He thought the state should derive its revenue rather from a tax on gas companies arguing that in Texas their properties are valued at $338,000,000, and receipts at $67,000,000, while it paid only $446,000 in state ad valorem taxes. —San Antonio Light.

Eat Intelligently and Exercise Moderately, says Lowell Thomas

Lowell Thomas, world traveler, author and lecturer.

LOWELL THOMAS, world-traveler, author and lecturer, has a diet of kings and queens, he reads with maharajahs with desert sheiks of foods like few have stepped into the outer corners of the world. He says he would select sweet potatoes and old-country gravy if he had enough to live in which more meal. He is able to broadcast six days a week, in and week out, he writes books and articles, to lecture a times a week, to make feature shorts, Lowell finds it essential to keep fit. For that reason he includes canned pineapple in his daily diet because nutritional search has shown that it contains more known dietetic values than any other fruit. His favorite is a pineapple cup of crushed fruit or tidbits with one meal each day. "L.T." believes that to keep well one must not only eat intelligently but one should exercise moderately. His favorite game is badminton and he has constructed on his farm at Pawling, New York, 70 miles north of New York City, a gymnasium with a badminton court. He is also fond of swimming and hiking. Lord Northcliffe said of Lowell Thomas that he saw more of the World War than any other man. He was on all the fronts with the exception of the Eastern. He was with the Italian army on the Austrian front, with Allenby in Palestine and with Lawrence in Arabia. He says he has another expedition in his system. He prefers not to tell at the moment where he wants to go.

is that we must have an average daily attendance of at least 70% of our net scholastics to be able to qualify for aid. Half of our scholastics in Texas have not been attending school. West Texas has been much higher in percent of attendance than South and East Texas. This will necessitate our running our schools when the children can attend. Also, it may make us a little more humanitarian. Each community should have a committee that would investigate cases of absence. A little bit of interest and encouragement will often cause people to attend school. This year we are planning to do Junior Red Cross work in the schools of the county. The children can bring and turn over to a committee in each school outgrown clothes that can be spared from the family contributing.

This section of the law will probably mean a divided school term. Last year we had the approval of the State on our summer sessions. The summer months had the best per cent of attendance of any months of the year. Some of the schools reported almost a hundred per cent. Last August was cool due to rains and the gulf storm. Some of the states have been resorting to summer school sessions for a long time. If we begin our schools in August this year as late as cotton is we can get in a good term before the cotton picking period. We can examine the students on the work passed over at the end of the summer term and definitely finish that part of the work.

The State has further helped us this year by saying that the high school tuition children—those attending a high school which teaches grades above those taught in the home school—will draw up to $2.00 per month per child for transportation. In addition to this the school to which these children go will draw up to $7.50 per month for tuition. This law was designed for the purpose of making it possible for all high school children to be in a good high school. We have a few counties in Texas where all of the high school work taught is accredited.

We owe it to our children to at least give them a high school chance in life, an opportunity to attend a school where the periods are long, equipment sufficient, and teaching is done by specialists. The State has now made it possible for us to fulfill this duty. Too, in many cases it seems that as poor as we now are college attendance is almost prohibitive but I have noticed that many times if the college entrance requirements are met the children find a way to attend college. There are not very many who have the nerve to find a way of both working themselves through college and working off their college entrance requirements at the same time.

In districts of less than one hundred square miles where transportation is necessary the State will pay one dollar per child up to a two mile limit. In districts of more than one hundred square miles the State will pay two dollars per child per month. At the present the only school that can get the advantage of this point of the law is Dickens. It is thought that this $2.00 will take care of the transportation.

The new salary schedule ranges from $75.00 to $125.00 per month. The salaries on the State Aid schedule were lowered from five to thirty dollars per month. The heads of schools suffered a greater reduction than the assistants.

After this year all teachers in State Aid schools must have had two years in college in addition to a good high school course.

NEW STATE AID LAW

COMMENTS BY MADGE D. TWADDELL

The State Board met at Lubbock, June 16th and 16th in the Lubbock Hotel. As they held an open meeting I had the privilege of listening in. Among other things the State Superintendent L. A. Woods, and the State Board gave their interpretation of the new State Aid Law.

Under the provisions of this law every school in the county with the possible exception of one small one-teacher school will be eligible for aid. Under the old law Spur had been prevented from getting teacher aid because of property valuation and scholastics. Under the new law the Spur school will qualify in both respects. Of course, heretofore Spur has had much help from the State in the form of bus and high school tuition aid. Those of us in Dickens County who have been working on the school problem of trying to get all of our schools eligible for teacher aid are very thankful to Senator Arthur P. Dugan for his ever responsiveness to our requests and for the splendid work he did along that line.

This year all State aid schools in Texas will run at least eight months. The State last year paid our teachers salaries for six months where we kept on the schedule as prescribed by the State, if we could prove that all of our tax money was needed for operating expenses. This year it proposes to run us eight months. This is one of the very finest things that has ever happened to our rural children. Another good feature of this law

Salt the Most Taxed Food In All History

Whenever a system of taxation is framed with a view to raising the largest possible revenue, the heaviest burden falls on the necessities of life. From time immemorial salt has had to bear a disproportionate share of this load.

It is safe to say that no article of food has been so ruthlessly exploited by governments to the detriment of their subjects as this one. Taking advantage of the fact that it is necessary to man and beast, they have made it an important source of revenue because its payment could not be evaded if life was to be endured.

With dealers reporting the best June retail sales—78,564 units—since 1929, the Chevrolet Motor Company in the first six months of this year accounted for more than 67 per cent of its domestic quota of 450,000 cars for 1933.

Retail truck deliveries reported by dealers for the first half totaled 304,952 new cars and trucks compared with 253,225 in the comparable period last year.

Reported June sales were 80 per cent ahead of last June and 20 per cent ahead of May this year, even exceeding the 78,117 units sold in June, 1931, and the 73,700 sold in June of 1930.

Despite a slow start in the first quarter due to bank moratoria and generally unsettled conditions, the Chevrolet executive said that in the second quarter retail sales have shown a constantly growing gain over last year, the greatest margin of increase occurring in June with its 80 per cent jump over June of last year.

While registration for the first six months are not yet available, Mr. Klingler announced that for the year through May 31 his company had totaled, in the passenger car field, 175,000 units as compared with 167,000 for the next two leading makes combined.

This year is the first since 1923, when the country was pulling out of the effects of the post-war depression, that Chevrolet sales in June have gone ahead of May or April, normally the peak months of the Chevrolet year.

FISHER COUNTY GIRL RECEIVES HONOR

Leona Imken, Fisher county 4-H club girl, winner of first place in the second district in the improved bedroom contest began the work of improving her bedroom by deciding what she needed to make her room more comfortable, convenient and attractive.

Leona herself likes her clothes closet best of any improvement she has made and gives her father much credit and appreciation for making it for her.

Walls freshly papered in light colored paper, newly painted wood work, a smooth well finished floor, a built-in clothes closet equipped with shelves and a rod hanging, a comfortable bed, a dresser with a good mirror hung flat against the wall, a desk, a washstand furnished for bathing, a comfortable rocking chair for reading and a magazine rack to keep the room from becoming littered up with current reading matter were the things Leona planned to have and her completed room shows every one of them there and in place.

new gasoline tax law will bring good results, however, are we not neglecting a duty to the State in not educating the users of bootleg gasoline against it? If each purchaser could be made to realize he was contributing to the upkeep of a gang of criminals in the form of tax-evaders, his patronage of the bootlegger would end in short order.

DIABETES RESPONSIBLE FOR A LARGE NUMBER OF DEATHS

Among the prominent causes of death in the middle aged group and old or is the malady known as diabetes. Like many other diseases, it's power as a cause of death can be traced to the lack of early diagnosis, or in other words, to the carelessness of its victims.

The periodic physical examination will disclose the unsuspected facts at a time when diabetes is most susceptible to scientific attack. Why should one refuse this great weapon of proven power against diabetes and other diseases is difficult to understand.

The immediate cause of diabetes is a lack of a secretion of the pancreas, known as insulin. The main thing is to guard against the disease. Three simple rules, if reasonably applied, will go far toward that end:

1. If overweight, one should reduce by restricting the diet and by exercise, though both should be under the direction of a physician.

2. Infections of tonsils, teeth and other organs should receive professional attention.

3. Make the health examination an annual habit. The reason the death rate from diabetes is rising is due to the fact that more people are living to middle age and beyond than has been true in the past and it is a disease of middle life.
