BAILEY CO. CITIZENS VOTE ON $400,000 BONDS

County-Wide Measure Would Affect Four Important Highways, State To Later Assume Bond Payment

That Bailey county is due to become one of the important future highway centers of travel for both business and pleasure is indicated in recent movements on foot for improvement of several roads in this area which will soon be given required attention.

For some time past State Highway No. 214 has been under construction and is now nearly all finished, only about two more miles to be paved. Extensions have already been granted through Cochran and Youkum counties, looking toward connection with the Bankhead highway leading into El Paso. Right-of-way has most all been secured for improvement of this artery of travel 25 miles north to Fromm. Recently the Farm and County Commissioner's court took steps toward issuing bonds for further highway improvement of two cardinal lanes in that county in proposal of a bond issue to later be taken up by the State.

Some time ago Federal government authorization was secured in this county for construction of an improved highway from Bulla west, crossing State Highway 214 and traversing that area on to the New Mexico line; but because of lack of WPA labor in the county for the proposed project, the authorization was lost. That road is again being considered.

There is a further proposal to build a highway from the East Bailey county line west through Circleback and Needmore, connecting with State Highway 214. Another proposal is to construct a first class highway from Muleshoe to Portales, N. M., such road to branch off from U. S. Highway 84 a few miles northwest of Muleshoe, furnishing a cut-off, saving about 15 miles in leading travel through West Camp community.

At a meeting of the Bailey County Commissioners' court held last Friday, a petition signed by 120 allied voter-citizens, being 79 more than the law required, was presented to the court and accepted, said petition asking for an election to be called December 28 to determine the issuing of bonds in the sum of $400,000.00 for road construction and maintenance in this county. The petition was duly accepted and the election ordered as prayed for by petitioners.

The bond issue will be county-wide in its application, all land in the county carrying its pro rata part of the additional tax required, provision being carried in the measure to the effect that actual issuance of bonds shall not be made until the county receives valid assurance from the State Highway Commission and the Board of County and District Indebtedness that such bonds will later be made over by the State, both as to principal and interest. The bond issue proposes to expend such voted and acquired funds on improvement of four highways in Bailey county as previously suggested.

Legal notice of the proposed bond election appears elsewhere in this issue of the Journal to which readers are referred for a more definite and detailed description of the proposed measure. In the publication are also given the names of officers appointed to hold such election in the various precincts of the county.

OFFICIALS ISSUE WARNING: TRAFFIC DEATHS INCREASE
Austin, Nov. 27.—Motor vehicle traffic played into the hands of the "grim reaper" during the month of October as 190 deaths were chalked on the "Death Book" maintained by the State Police Statisticians in the Accident Records Section. During the first 10 months of 1940 there were 193 persons killed in traffic accidents which is 114 more than for the same period of 1939 or increase of 9.13 per cent.

Drivers who operate their automobiles at speeds which are too fast for prevailing conditions are traffic enemy Number One," according to Homer Garrison, jr., director of the Department of Public Safety. "This wanton slaughter of Texans must stop and may I take this medium of urging each and every driver to reduce the speeds of vehicles operated on our public highways," said Col. Garrison.

Bailey Co. Teachers Attend State Meet At Fort Worth

Many teachers from various school districts throughout Bailey county attended the three days session of Texas Teachers association held at Fort Worth last week, total attendance being reported as the largest in the history of that organization.

There were several very prominent educators from various sections of the nation present and delivered informative and inspiring addresses, and special group meetings for discussion of different phases of education were held at state intervals.

Prof. W. E. Irvin, superintendent of the Lubbock schools was elected president of the organization for the coming year by acclamation, an unprecedented event, as heretofore such election had been held by vote of the house of delegates.

Teachers attending from Muleshoe school were Prof. and Mrs. W. C. Cox, Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Lunsden, Miss Essa Lee Roberts; among other teachers attending were Curtis Eby and Mrs. Ida Lou Long, Longview; Misses Vera Baker and Lois Link of Watson, and M. G. Miller, county superintendent.

C. S. Holland's Mother Died Last Mon.

Mrs. M. E. Holland, 92, died Monday morning at 2:45 a. m. at her home in Itasca. She was the mother of Clyde C. Holland, editor of the Muleshoe Journal, who was called to her bedside last Saturday.

Mrs. Holland came to Texas with her husband in 1871 and had lived in Hill county continuously since 1871, her home at death being in Fannin county, then went to Hill county, where she had resided for the past 44 years.

Deceased was born near Lafayette, Macon county, Tennessee, September 20, 1848, and after her marriage in 1868 moved to Kentucky, where she and her husband lived until they came to Texas, it taking about six weeks to cross the country in their western immigration.

For a year they sojourned in Fannin county, then went to Hill county, which became their permanent home. Her husband preceded her in death in 1928. The aged matron suffered a light paralytic stroke last Friday night, and later another stroke from which she failed to recover.

When the Holland family moved to Itasca there was no railroad there and the country, for the most part, was in its raw state. Fort Worth was the nearest marketing and shipping point, visits being made there a couple times yearly for marketing produce and laying in necessary supplies for home use.

Mr. Holland has been a member of the Baptist church most of her life, joining that denomination when but a girl of 13 years old. She is also one of the charter members of the Central Baptist church at Itasca.

Texas Utility Co. Keeps Pace With Local Progress

Keeping pace with the trend of development and improvement going on in Muleshoe, the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co. is installing a number of longer poles at various points in their local line to lift their wires above those of the local telephone system to give greater clearance, reduce induction of current from one system to the other and to further avoid any interference with local radio service, according to Horace Taylor, local manager.

Larger transformers and heavier conductors and insulators are also being installed to take care of future expansion of the company's business in Muleshoe, while still other modernism of the latest type will be a part of the enlargement program of efficiency planned by this corporation.

Mr. Taylor stated that extension service lines would be made in the "Soft Course" addition when such became needed.

Fierce Storm Sweeps Texas Plains, New Mexico, Arizona; All Traffic Disrupted; Farmers Benefitted

Beginning with rain last Saturday, the thermometer kept dipping and dropping downward as sub-arctic conditions drew closer until Saturday night the rain changed to snow and sleet with freezing conditions prevailing. Information coming into Muleshoe the first of this week told of highways blocked with snow and sleet, communications disrupted, power lines down, telegraph and telephone connections broken all over the Panhandle area.

In the Muleshoe area Monday morning H. O. Barbour, Santa Fe agent here, reported telegraph lines, both ways out of Muleshoe as being out of service, while the local telephone company reported no service connections with Earth or Clovis, N. M., regular and extra linemen being busy making repairs. Two lines of the Bailey County Electric Cooperative organization were reported out of service west of Muleshoe. One line went out Sunday afternoon about four o'clock, four miles west of town, but was again in service by a little after midnight. The other line did not

ROBINSONS BUY THE M & R CAFE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robinson, cafe operators here since April last year, have purchased the M & R cafe, the deal being closed last Saturday. This week Mr. Robinson is giving the cafe a general overhaul and refurbishing, expecting to open for business Saturday morning. Their former cafe will be closed.

The Robinsons came here from Farwell and are experienced cafe operators. Mrs. Robinson is an exceptional cook, always pleasing customers with her well prepared menus of wide variety and good balanced foods. The service rendered patrons is always courteous in every respect.

Will Give Additional Service For Many Customer-Patrons In Parmer, Bailey, Lamb, Castro, Cochran Cos.

That the Bailey County Rural Electrical Co-operative association will receive an additional $129,000 for further construction and service to citizens of this and adjoining counties, is the text of a telegram received Friday of last week from U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, Washington, D. C., by Superintendent Cecil McLaury of the association. The telegram read as follows: "Cecil W. McLaury, Superintendent, Bailey Co. Electric Co-op, Muleshoe.

"Am pleased to advise that Rural Electric administration has today approved your project in the sum of $18,000 to build 193 miles of lines to a generating plant for service to Parmer, Bailey, Lamb, Castro and Cochran counties.—Morris Sheppard."

Commenting upon the allocation, Mr. McLaury stated that assurances given the local organization were so strong that work on the proposed extension was begun about two weeks ago, and already a large number of residents of these counties had signed for service, while others had expressed their desire to receive such accommodation. It is thought there will be no difficulty whatever in obtaining enough customers to quickly fill the quota for which the additional line furnishes provision.

The present system consists of 465 miles of line and is serving 386 customers.

Looking toward the establishing of a generating plant for service to REA organizations in this area, a meeting was held at the court house in Clovis, N. M., Wednesday afternoon of last week, at which time an organization to serve three or more of the electric co-operatives of this area in Texas and New Mexico.

Attending the meeting were C. W. McLaury, Wm. G. Kennedy and I. F. Williams representing the Bailey County Co-operative association; G. P. Easley, George E. Johnson and John C. Creek, representing the Roosevelt Co-op association; Oliver Kimbrough, J. B. Hartley and Earl Allen, representing the Farmers Co-op association of Curry county.

At the meeting, Oliver Kimbrough, Clovis, was named chairman; G. P. Easley, Portales, vice-chairman; and C. W. McLaury, Muleshoe, secretary. Carl C. Cox, Amarillo, engineer, was chosen to make a study of the proposed generating plant installation and to gather all necessary data required for the forthcoming application for such to Washington officials. Location of the generating plant was not discussed, according to McLaury.

MULESHOE TO BE DECORATED WITH XMAS LIGHTS, TREES
Muleshoe will soon blossom with Christmas spirit as the Chamber of Commerce at its weekly meeting last Friday instructed Mayor R. L. Brown to purchase a large tree for the center intersection of Main and Wall streets and to hire men to string Xmas lights at all cross streets and on the highway.

The work of decoration is to be completed by the first of December.

The following week meetings will be held at Needmore on December 9, Bulla on December 10, Maple on December 11, and Fairview on December 12. Every farm family in Bailey county is urged to attend one of these meetings, which will be 8:00 p. m., and enjoy a picture show and hear the pro-gram of the program. Meetings will be held in the Muleshoe court house on December 2 and West Camp on December 3 in conjunction with the AAA meetings already scheduled.

Community AAA Co-Op Meetings To Be Held At Watson, Progress And Needmore, December 13th

Since the AAA program has a direct effect on every farmer and ranchman in Bailey county, treat-ment should be taken in electing the man who will administer that program in the county during the coming year.

That's the advice of J. C. Smith, secretary of the county AAA committee gave to AAA cooperators this week in reminding farmers that community meetings would be held December 3 in the three communities.

In the community meetings all farmers and ranchmen, cooperating with the AAA have one vote each, the chairman said. At each of these meetings will be elected a delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention to be held the following day, the three-man community committee and two alternate committee men.

At the county convention attended by the delegates from the several communities, the three-man county committee and two alternate committee men will be elected. The newly-elected committees will take office January 1 and will serve for one year.

The community committee men have specified duties to perform, Smith pointed out, including the following: assisting the county committee in determining acreage allotment goals, normal yields and other agricultural facts; informing farmers concerning the purposes and provisions of agricultural programs; and assisting in arranging for and conducting meetings.

Broader administrative powers are given to the county committees, the committeeman said. He listed a few of the committee's duties as determining farm acreage allotments, normal yields, productivity indices and other agricultural facts; preparing budgets; supervising and directing activities of community committees; reviewing and certifying various forms; conducting hearings and investigations; generally supervising the work in the county office; and assisting and working with the state committee.

Community meetings, which all AAA operators should participate in, will be held at the following places in Bailey county the evening of October 13, the chairman said: Progress, Needmore and Watson, at 8 o'clock.

Farm Produce Distribution Lags Says Specialist

College Station, Nov. 27.—Efficiency of the machinery which processes, transports and distributes farm produce, C. E. Bowles, Extension Cooperative Marketing specialist for Texas A. and M. college, believes has not kept pace with improved methods of production.

Buttressing his conclusions with demonstrable facts, Mr. Bowles contrasts the share of the consumer's food dollar received by farmers in

W. S. White Burns To Death Today

W. S. White, 35 years old, while returning from Wichita Falls with a load of gasoline, Thursday morning about one o'clock, overturned the truck in which he was riding, supposedly caused by ice on pavement, and was knocked unconscious, the truck catching fire burned him to death before help arrived.

Mr. White came here from Roswell, N. M., about six months ago and has been working for his half brother, H. C. Holt, at the Panhandle Wholesale station. He leaves a wife, three children and a mother, Mrs. W. H. White, of Sudan, besides other near relatives to mourn his loss.

H. C. Holt left immediately for the scene of the accident to investigate the cause of accident, and bring the remains to Sudan for funeral arrangements.

the periods 1913-17 and 1930-38. In the former period farmers received an average of 55 cents of each consumer's dollar, but in the latter period this share had declined to 39 cents. Comparably, 45 cents of the 1913-17 dollar went to distribution, including processing and transporting but this climbed to 61 cents in the eight years after 1930.

Check and recovery lies in co-operation because farmers can do little about the problem individually. Co-operatives now are being used to increase farm incomes by carrying farm produce through some of the processing and marketing steps. Co-operative gins have demonstrated they can add an average of about $2.00 a bale to farmer's return on cotton, and another $2.00 may be added by co-operatively crushing the seed, records of some of the older co-operative Texas cotton oil mills show.

One-variety cotton production and co-operative marketing have paid still another $2.00 or more a bale to members of cotton improvement associations in the state.

Co-operative gins at Munday, Quannah and Childress, averaging 21 years of age, have paid their members more than $1,000,000 in savings since organization, in addition to paying for eight gin units.

"Farm people may well ask themselves who is going to break up the system of 'toll bridges' which has grown up in our complicated distribution machinery," Mr. Bowles suggests. "Relief through legislation usually has been disappointing, the simplest solution seems to be for farmers to own the bridges and pay the toll to themselves. Certainly they can own enough of the processing facilities to establish yardsticks by which the services and charges of privately owned enterprises can be measured."

Improper Use Of Gasoline Causes Average Death

Austin, Nov. 27.—The improper use of gasoline in Texas homes has caused an average annual death toll of approximately 50 persons, Marvill Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, reported today. Thirty-six deaths from this cause were reported during the first ten months of 1940.

The average death toll resulting from the improper use of kerosene stands at about 55, but the report for the current year may be somewhat below the average, as only 25 deaths from this cause were recorded through October 31.

"It is extremely hazardous for any person to attempt to use gasoline in the home for such purposes as starting or quickening a fire, cleaning clothes, woodwork and floors, as gasoline vapors at ordinary room temperature and the inflammability of gasoline fumes and to explosive power is nineteen times greater than dynamite," he said. "The mere opening of a door between a room where gasoline was being used to clean gloves and a room in which there was a lighted hot water heater caused a destructive explosion."

Dynamite in the home can be much safer than gasoline, the Commissioner warned, because the majority of people have learned to fear dynamite.

Hall also advised home owners against bringing kerosene in contact with a lighted match, open flame or hot coals.

Purchase Xmas Seals; Help Fight Tuberculosis

Washington, Nov. 27.—In organizing the best possible defense, the American people should make provisions to fight tuberculosis, President Roosevelt said today in endorsing the annual Christmas Seal Campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association.

In military preparedness, President Roosevelt said tuberculosis, a communicable disease which kills more persons between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other disease, might interfere with mustering the best possible manpower.

"The National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated state and local organizations can render services of inestimable value to public health officials throughout the country in handling the problem of tuberculosis as it is disclosed from the physical examinations of recruits," said President Roosevelt. "Therefore, the 34th annual nationwide Christmas Seal Sale of the tuberculosis associations takes on added significance this year. It should receive more than ever before the fullest possible support of all of the people of our country."

"From now until Christmas Day we, as individuals, by generous purchase of the seals, can do our part to help the tuberculosis associations free us from the deadly menace of this communicable disease. We know from past experience that our dollars will be well spent in behalf of the public good."

Guard Against Pneumonia Now Urged By Cox

Austin, Nov. 27.—From now on until after March, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that every one must be on guard against pneumonia. Last year 3,551 Texans died of this disease, and it is believed that many of these deaths could have been prevented had the patient called a physician early.

The onset of lobar pneumonia is usually sudden and is characterized by chills, fever, severe pains in the chest, and coughing up of rust-colored sputum.

A person who has suffered an attack of pneumonia does not need to be told how swiftly it attacks. One can be feeling simply chilly and languid. During the next day or two these disagreeable sensations continue, and the average person pays little attention to them. If one has been coughing for several days, he attributes everything to the cold. Then comes a chill, and with it comes pain—not a stitch, but a stab, a continued rhythmic stabbing with every catching breath.

New treatments for pneumonia have been perfected, but to give any of these methods a fair chance of accomplishing a cure, a diagnosis must be made early, preferably before the first chill or at least soon after its appearance.

Pneumonia is spread by contact, but this type of germ does not live long outside the human body. There are thirty types of this germ. Many persons do not realize that pneumonia is a catching disease. Relatives and friends will visit freely the person who is convalescing from pneumonia, although they would think of sitting in the sickroom of a smallpox patient. Both are communicable and dangerous diseases. Having a physician early when any of the symptoms appear is the best method of stopping this needless loss of life.

How Winter OIL-PLATING maintains needed lubricant in advance... for Safe Quick Starts

Your Winter oil ought to flow fast from the bottom of your engine to all inner surfaces—a total area bigger than a windshield, but tough for the oil to reach. Scouts Trained To Help At All Times By Program

Members of the Boy Scouts of America "ride themselves that there are no softies in Scouting." Citing their record as aides to rescue workers, first-aid men, and message bearers in time of disaster, they are equally proud that they are prepared to serve their community in hundreds of less spectacular ways. Their day-to-day program, Scouts insist, keeps them ready and eager to help in any way that is needed.

Some idea of the service rendered in the past 30 years is available in the records of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. A quick survey shows that the khaki-clad youngsters sold Liberty Bonds worth $147,000,000, have saved many lives, delivered half a million Thanksgiving baskets to needy families, participated in hundreds of searches for lost persons, guarded school crossings, fought fires, cleaned up unsightly vacant lots, acted as color guards, assisted in controlling traffic, ushered at public and private ceremonies, aided in bringing out the veterans campaign— even helped rescue a parachute jumper caught in a tree. Scouts do not however, solicit money from anyone.

Between good turns, Scouts keep fit by the practice and competition in first aid, signaling and simple engineering, by extensive hiking and camping, and by constant adherence to the fundamentals of Americanism.

Typical of the spectacular side of Scout work is the record of the 1938 New England hurricane. Almost without exception, every damaged community praised the work of the khaki-clad youngsters. They helped clear streets, carried messages for the police and fire departments, rescued half a dozen marooned persons, collected clothes for those left homeless, and, when unable to complete rescues themselves, guided better-equipped adults to the scene.

Similar stories have been told repeatedly from every part of the country. Tornadoes in the South, floods in the Mississippi Valley, blizzards in the mountain states, whose long training had prepared them for emergency service.

Far less dangerous, but no less useful, was the work done by Scout Troops in collecting clothes, furniture, food and supplies for needy families during the depression. The job was begun in 1934 in response to a suggestion from President Roosevelt, and it continued for several years.

CONSUMERS GET COOPERATION

The consumer movement, according to recent reports, continues to grow. More and more people, especially women, are showing an intelligent interest in packaging, terms, and advertising. These people are wisely determined to know what they're buying, and to get maximum value for minimum expenditures.

Fortunately for the success of the movement, it is being given willing cooperation in two important quarters. First, the manufacturers of the country are showing praiseworthy interest in improving their products, in frankly and truthfully labeling them, and in using advertising copy that tells the story without going in for poetical exaggerations.

Second, American retailing is also doing its part to see that the consumer movement achieves the success it deserves. The retailers are seeing to it that packaged foods contain the proper quantity and are of the described quality—are helping to simplify and clarify grading standards and terms—and are keeping to the facts in their advertising and promotional activities.

The kind of manufacturer or store which worked on the principle that anything they could get away with was all right, is going out of the picture. Business today is fully aware that its own welfare depends upon the consumers' welfare. It knows that "squeezed" customer doesn't come back. And the customer is getting the breaks.

"Progressive socialism, once understood, results in an increasing momentum down hill for all surviving private economy. That is, it feeds upon itself, and, as we have seen, seeks to grow and become permanent, even though it may have started out purely as a temporary or emergency measure."—Albert W. Alwood.

UNITY, OUR DEFENSE

The strength and security of our nation depends on national unity. There is no room in this country now for narrow partisanship, for class hatred, for exploiting old grudges and differences. But unity must be more than a slogan, more than a vague and appealing word. It can be achieved only by action.

Unity calls for fair dealing between industry and labor, for a policy that neither favors nor penalizes either side. It calls for an attitude on the part of both labor leaders and industrial managers that will make possible frank and honest arbitration, with each understanding the problems of the other. The nation cannot afford exploiters now—the industrialist who would disrupt industry to gain his ends.

Unity calls for a government policy of honest cooperation with all industries. The need of the hour is production—and still more production, in the interest of our ordinary needs no less than in the interest of our extraordinary defense program. The country cannot afford that kind of politician who fights industry, revives industry, and who attempts to ruin industry in reaching out for more and more power. Nor can it afford costly and unnecessary government competition with industry, which means the eventual extinction of private enterprise.

Unity calls for a tax and spending policy which will get maximum results in the least possible length of time with minimum waste. Taxation must be distributed equitably over all income groups, and all industries and businesses. We are willing to spend every dollar that is needed for real defense.

We can have unity. We must have it, if we are to survive as a free people. Now is the time to put into effect a program that will really achieve it.

SERVING THE NATION

"There is all the more reason for the surviving free peoples to keep their eyes open when new assurances come from Berlin, Rome or Tokyo. Whoever imagines that Hitler's 'new order' offers any basis for peace is shutting his eyes as distastefully as the Poles and Norwegians, the Dutch and Belgians, the French and British who once trusted in his promises. No amount of planes and guns and tanks will defend us unless awareness goes constantly with them."—The New York Times.

Every Great Attempt is Glorious Even if It Fails

OUR PLEDGE

We pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

THEY'RE PERKING UP

It's not meant to be impolite when we repeat the very old wheeze of "every dog has his day." The folks who are in the business of hair-dressing, manicuring, massaging and selling cosmetics, tell us that during this next year "the competition for men will be something fierce." There is expected to be a 300 per cent increase in cosmetics and hair-dos than last year. It seems that with Uncle Sam calling a number of the eligibles from the field, the ladies are going to have to do extra doling up to attract those whose numbers haven't come up. This is probably good news to the trade from a business standpoint, and is no doubt equally interesting to some of the chaps in Muleshoe who are in line for the feminine onslaught.

HOME-MADE

We expect to see more "Made in America" toys this year at Christmas than ever before. This creates added employment for adults and more Americanized toys for children. American toys have always been more sturdy in construction than the Japanese and German made toys. A buyer in children's things hinted of the very attractive toys we shall see this gift-tide. She said that to her every American teddy bear has the same expression and that the majority of dolls were not as delicate in appearance as the dolls cherished by the English children. A number of the English refugee children are helping to decorate the Japanese and German soldiers for the Christmas trade and the results are very pleasing and different.

LONGER LIFE

Perhaps we haven't considered it, feeling secure in our knowledge that medicine and science has been advancing yearly in controlling the epidemics of illness that visit young and old. But have those older residents of Muleshoe stopped to realize that the fewer contagious disease signs that make their unhappy way to house-fronts? Signs of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, which warned that too many children were not growing up. The mortality rate of children between the ages of one to fourteen, has been cut down so that it is only 1-5 of what it was 30 years ago. The aforementioned diseases have been principally the ones reduced. Influenza and pneumonia have come in for their share of medical attention and discovery. If we could make living conditions as favorable in proportion we can really make for longer lives for our youth.

Members 1939 Study Club Have Program Minute Wonders

Members of the 1939 Study Club met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. A. W. Copley, with Mrs. J. L. Taylor co-hostess. The meeting was changed from Thursday, due to several members expecting to have guests for the second Thanksgiving. Roll call was answered by current events. The program subject was "Minute Wonders of the World," and Mrs. Irvin St. Clair very ably told of the immense construction, Boulders Dam. She has previously visited it, brought much realism into her discussion.

Mrs. George Johnson read a paper on "The Yellowstone Park," highlighting her discussion with history and legends principally about "Old Faithful," bringing out many humorous expressions by the old scouts.

"The Falls of Niagara" was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. Happy Wagon, who described them so realistically that in the minds eye one could see this beautiful work of nature.

Mrs. A. W. Copley told in her usual charming and interesting way of her visit to the Washington monument at Washington, D. C. As she pictured this towering marble shaft and stressed what it represented, each guest present felt a stirring of patriotic spirit within their hearts.

Mrs. H. C. Carter, of Austin, a guest, very charmingly told of the meeting of Women's federated clubs in Austin recently, of which she was a page. Mrs. Carter is an exceptional club woman, being a member of seven clubs in Austin and her talk was very inspirational.

An invitation was read from Clovis, N. M., to attend a book review there next Tuesday evening given by Miss Openheimer.

A delicious refreshment plate, consisting of open face toasted cheese sandwiches, toasted olives wrapped in bacon, pickles, baked apples topped with whipped cream and cherries, and hot spiced tea, with plate favors of lovely mint clubs in Austin recently, of which she was a page. Mrs. Carter is an exceptional club woman, being a member of seven clubs in Austin and her talk was very inspirational.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Mills Barfield with Mrs. Joe Damron co-hostess, December 12.

W. M. U. TO OBSERVE WEEK OF PRAYER

The last two chapters of the book "Publishing Glad Tidings," were reviewed. Refreshments of caramel pop corn and soda pop was served.

They will meet next Monday in the home of Mrs. Jim Cook, to observe the "Lottie Moon" week of prayer program.

All ladies are urged to be present and bring a covered dish for the noon hour.

"Tipperary," the famous marching song of 1914-1918, was actually composed in 1912, according to recent revelations.

Texas Highway Week will be observed throughout the entire state during the designated week by proclamation of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and the public is urged by the proclamation to take increased interest in their state highway system and its needs. Officials and civic leaders of the state, counties, cities and towns will lead in arranging public meetings and celebrations during the period. The Texas Good Roads Association and the State Highway Department are cooperating in helping plan statewide observance.

The Governor's proclamation designating the week called upon all citizens "to take inventory of the manifold blessings brought to them by the highways of this state, to consider the progress that has been made in the past towards a completed highway system, and to give serious thought to the future highway needs of the state so that Texas will continue to grow and prosper in its system of highway transportation is extended and improved."

WEEKLY LAY SERMON
EQUALITY

By JESS MITCHELL

There is no such thing as equality! I may startle some of my readers by that statement, yet I emphasize the fact. THERE IS NO EQUALITY! The statement that "All men are created free and equal" is not true. It is only a half truth. The other half was long ago proven false. Some contenders for that statement have condescendingly modified its boldness by declaring it means only "equal in opportunity, yet that is not true, and trying to believe that statement has cost this world plenty of misery and disappointment. Indeed, this would at once become a dreary old world if everything and everybody were equal. It is variety that lends spice to life and zest to its living. Equality, absolute equality would produce only monotony.

There are a variety of fruits, of flowers, of animals, of grains, of grasses—of nearly everything in Nature—and it is this wide variety that promotes commerce, enlarges trade, organizes society and develops civilization. Strictly speaking, in the realm of a democracy, there are probably not more than two kinds of equality—political and religious—the right of every man to vote as he chooses and to worship his God according to the dictates of his own conscience. Even that equality is now being abrogated in some nations of Europe where under Nazism, Fascism and other isms people are being forced to do as rulers dictate.

There is no physical equality. One man may weigh not more than 100 pounds, while another may weigh 250 or 300 pounds, yet the smaller man may be far better off. Some folks, apparently run to best while others run to brain. I do not say this disparagingly, for it takes all kinds of folks to make this world. There is just as much work to be accomplished by muscle as there is by any matter and the one is as important as the other. There is no such thing as intellectual equality. One man may be born with the gift for painting or sculpture, while another has the gift for music. One may have the gift for appreciation of every shade of color, while another can not even discern the difference in primary colors; he is color blind. Not nearly all men are inventors, nor statesmen, nor poets, nor philosophers, nor bankers, nor writers. Two brothers, they may even be of twin birth and have the same amount of money to launch out in a business career, yet they will not have the same kind nor degree of success. The one may be of a philanthropic nature, while the other has a hoarding disposition. Yet no man can say to another the words of the Apostle Paul, "I have no need of thee," and, in the final analysis, it is difficult for us folks to determine which type, quality and quantity of talent furnishes the greatest contribution to the world's welfare. The wisest teacher this world ever knew said, "Whoever will be greatest among you, let him be your minister, and whoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

During the early centuries truth and falsehood were frequently mixed. Even the Man of Galilee one time said something about letting the "tares and wheat" grow together until harvest time. In all ages much of this world's social unrest has come about through false teachings. Voltaire, the great French philosopher, one time declared, "Man was born free; now all men are in chains." That statement positively is not true, for no man is born in absolute freedom, nor does he ever possess absolute liberty. In infancy he is handicapped by weakness and must be cared for by others. It is through a very slow period approximating 21 years that he arrives at manhood's stage and wins his modicum of liberty through increasing knowledge and obedience to certain laws and customs.

Law is absolutely fundamental, and, other things being equal, the closest adherence to it brings the greatest success. Obey the laws of color and one may become a great artist. Obey the laws of symmetry and one may become a great sculptor. Obey the laws of rhetoric and one may become a great writer. Obey the laws of speech and one may become a great orator. So it is in obedience to, not repulsion of, certain primary laws, that one attains life's greatest achievements.

"Liberty, Equality and Fraternity" became a popular slogan during the French revolution; but it was only two-thirds a truth, and only one-third was approximately perfect. The call for liberty leveled the Bastille, destroyed many castles and fortresses where feudalism held forth. Fraternity attempted to establish a social equality among all the various strata of people of that nation, yet failed in large measure. Equality never even took its first successful step toward consummation, for there were too many people of superior character and intellect, and the perhaps at first well meaning aims of others turned into a spirit of envy and hate among thieves, murderers and demagogues of every kind. Water and oil never did mix, yet if one knows the formula they may produce an emulsion that is quite satisfactory. The same is true with people. More than 10,000 of the best and some of the worst people of France lost their lives in that bloody revolution because they believed in a slogan which was not entirely virtuous.

I said in the outset there is no equality in life. I now declare that equality exists only in death, and that is only in the fact of death per se, for any other form or quality or appearance makes no differences of every kind. The sands of the seashore are equal, for each grain is practically alike, but they are all dead entities. All metals are equal, for they are just what they are and it is impossible for them to be anything else. In life it is quite different. There may be millions of clover blossoms, but no two are exactly alike. No two ears of corn are the same. No two leaves of a tree are the same, because they are alive and constantly growing. No two men are alike physically. One may be tall, another short, one slender, the other portly. They are not equal intellectually. One may have only one talent, another two, still another five or six, and very occasionally there is a ten talented man. The same is true in every department of the animal kingdom.

The full story of ethnology is also the story of inequality. When the Creator made man he broke him up into races of men, white, black, brown, red, yellow. Each race had its peculiar characteristics and each has taken advantage of such in more or less individual manner. There was a time when the negro race held a supremacy where it reigned. The Indians once dominated America. Now Japan is becoming a mighty power. Some go so far as to predict the white race is lapsing into barbarian and waning in civilization.

Some reformers are foolish enough to believe the Millennium will arrive when all inequalities have been ironed out. To my mind they are essentially silly, for that day will never arrive. Fundamentally speaking, such is impossible. No amount of cultivation could ever transform an apple into a peach, nor a plum tree into a pine. No effort could ever make an artist out of one who is color blind nor a musician of one who could not carry a tune in a market basket. Economically speaking, this statement is also true. Rousseau wrote his "Social Contract." Moore's his "Utopia," Bacon his "New Atlantis," Campanella his "City of the Sun," Bellamy, his "Looking Backwards," and there have been dozens of lesser lights who have written voluminously or come forward reasonably, of the possibility of human equality and offered suggestions for such consummation, but all to no definite effect. Even in the New Deal of America there are suggestions in its program of looking toward equality of all citizens; but they are merely temporary, just hypodermic in their nature, like a shot in the arm to temporarily relieve an ache or pain, but furnish no permanent betterment.

Now the pendulum is swinging the other way, and instead of trying to bring mankind down to a common level, the effort is being made to bring the common level up to man. Communism, Nazism, Fascism and other more or less popular isms would put every man in a certain rut or groove and keep him there through decree of dictators. The effort to force equality upon the masses, yet there will still be a few classes. I unhesitatingly predict it will never work.

I come to tell you that sameness in humanity does not mean happiness. It is impossible to bring all differences to a common level. Equality will never end all discontent. The real secret of success is in individual worth. Where there is one man born with 10 talents there are hundreds born with only one or two talents. We are all the product of the great Creator and of our parents, and we had no choice of either. Fundamentally, we are the product of our own chromosomes, and these chromosomes which go to make up our very being are inherited from our fore-parents, sometimes the influence going back for several generations. You may build on them, improve them, you cultivate them to a very high degree if we have the ambition, and eventually achieve a large measure of success. There is with everyone a saturation point, a degree of limitation recognized by psychologists and metaphysicians; yet there is little danger of any one individual ever reaching that particular point in his lifetime. However, strive to do, others also are traveling this highway of life and making progress, no two of which are quite alike and the results are never equal. Only death is the great leveler, the mighty equalizer.

May it always be remembered: Genius is never bestowed for personal happiness. The obligation of service always accompanies it and must be used if that degree of genius is retained. The 10 talented folks have a much greater responsibility than do the one or two talented folks. Strength always owes a debt to weakness, wisdom to ignorance, riches to poverty. Talents always spells obligation. Even that One who was divinely rich made himself poor for humanity's sake.

ALL IN THE SAME BOAT The Richmond, Virginia, Cooperative Milk Producers' association has a unique and effective way of getting milk producers and milk dealers to become better acquainted, according to an article in the Dairyman's League News of New York. This association takes the producers and dealers on a combination boat trip and picnic each year.

A symbolic significance can be read into that boat trip—for, using an old saying, the people who produce our crops and the people who sell them at wholesale and retail are "all in the same boat." Differences may occasionally appear between them—but those differences are usually of a minor, not a basic

Hammock Burial Service Is Held Last Thursday

J. W. Hammock, 49, of Sudan, and well known in Muleshoe, died Wednesday night of last week in a Littlefield hospital where he had been taken while suffering from complications of Bright's disease and cancer of the liver, according to available information.

His death came as a distinct shock to his many friends and acquaintances in and around Muleshoe where he had been transacting business only about a week before. He owned a good farm about five miles west of this city where he had spent most of his time during the past season looking after crops.

Funeral services for the deceased were held from the Baptist church in Sudan last Thursday afternoon conducted by Rev. Naylor, pastor, assisted by Rev. W. B. Phipps, a former pastor. Interment was made in the Sudan cemetery. Pallbearers carrying the remains to its last resting place were D. C. and Foster Lumpkin, Joe Roan, J. P. West, a H. Harvey, all of Sudan, and W. M. Poole Jr., Muleshoe.

Mr. Hammock had been a member of the Baptist church for several years, taking an active part in all its activities. He had contributed largely to the support of that denomination and to the construction of the building some years ago, doing most of the work in digging out the basement.

There was a large contribution of floral sentiments from the large circle of friends who were shocked to learn of his death.

MISS CARAWAY HAS CAR ACCIDENT Miss Emogene Caraway, stenographer for Mayor R. L. Brown, happened to a painful accident Wednesday evening of last week as she was going to her home at Hale Center for the Thanksgiving holidays.

She had missed bus connections and had secured a ride with a truck driver out of Amarillo, when just the other side of Otton, a rear wheel of the Dodge truck, came off turning truck and occupants over about four times, causing Miss Caraway to receive a slight concussion, rendering her unconscious until Thursday morning. She was also greatly bruised about the hips and knees. She was taken to a Plainview hospital for treatment and returned to work for Mr. Brown Monday morning of this week.

1940 Cotton Farmers Eligible To Vote In Referendum

All farmers who produced cotton in 1940 are eligible to vote in the December 7 referendum to determine if cotton marketing quotas will be in effect on the 1941 crop.

Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, marketing quotas are applicable to all cotton except that with a staple length of 1 1/2 inches or more.

The county committee will designate the voting place in each community and see that a ballot box is provided at the polling places.

Manufacturers of All Woolen Goods Have To State Amount

College Station, Nov. 27.—Seven months hence a Federal all-American popularity caption "Truth in Fabrics," will become a law of the land. Effective June 14, 1941, manufacturers of all woolen goods, except carpets, rugs, mats and upholstery, will be required to stamp, tag or label their product to show the proportion of the types of wool as well as the content, other than wool, in it.

"This," says W. R. Nisbet, Extension Service Animalman for Texas A. & M. college, "opens the way for women to know precisely the wool content of the fabric, especially wearing apparel, they are buying. Moreover, they can demand labelling of any fabric placed on sale as woolen."

Manufacturers are obliged under the law to state the percentage of virgin wool in any fabric so labelled as wool. No minimum of 50 per cent worked wool, or shoddy, if wool content is not claimed for the fabric placed on sale, it may be merchandised without labelling.

Enactment of the law will prevent any misrepresentation of the staple content of cloths offered in retail commerce.

Although bills similar to this, which will be known in the statutes as "Wool products labelling act of 1939" have been introduced in practically every session of Congress since the turn of the century, progress toward realization was more halting than enactment of the pure food law.

The law defines the term "wool" to mean the fibre from the fleece of the sheep or lamb, or hair of the Angora or Cashmere goat, (and may also include the so-called specialty fibres from the hair of the camel, alpaca, llama and vicuña which has never been reclaimed from any woven or felted wool product.)

Capitalism Since 1900 The economic system known as capitalism has risen mainly since 1900. Its modern aspect dates from the industrial revolution of the Eighteenth century, when owners of capital began to displace landed aristocrats in the social order of the Western world.

POINTS ON COMBATING MILDEW GIVEN

College Station, Nov. 26.—In less than an hour, a homemaker can give an ordinary shower curtain a treatment that will make it mildew-resistant.

This welcome news from Mrs. Bernice Clayton, specialist in home improvement for the A. and M. college Extension Service, says that this simple treatment requires no special equipment.

Here's the method approved by the Bureau of Home Economics which Mrs. Clayton recommends: "Have the cloth thoroughly clean. Heat it in a solution of 1 to 2 ounces of soap to a gallon of water. About 1 1/2 gallons will cover an average-sized shower curtain. Heat 20 minutes, remove the cloth, and squeeze out excess soap."

Bailey Co. Gets An Increase Cotton Allotments

The 1941 cotton allotments for Bailey county producers were released to producers November 26th. The county cotton factor or per cent is 27.79 per cent which represents a 1.45 per cent increase over the county factor for 1940. As a result a very large number of producers will receive an increase in their cotton acreage allotment from the previous year, states J. C. Smith, County Administrative Officer.

The County factor for Bailey county since 1938 is as follows: 1938 ----- 27.79 per cent 1939 ----- 28.81 per cent 1940 ----- 26.34 per cent 1941 ----- 27.79 per cent With a county factor of 27.79 per cent, Bailey county is receiving a 71,392.3 acre cotton allotment for 1941 which is spread out over 260,637.5 tilled acres.
