Reunion To Be Held August 3

ATTENTION WEST TEXANS—FORMER RESIDENTS OF HILL, JOHNSON, ELLIS, NAVARRO, BOSQUE, HAMILTON AND ERATH COUNTIES There will be an old-fashioned get-together, reunion and picnic for the ex-residents of the above named counties at Buffalo Springs Lakes near Lubbock, off the Slaton Highway, on Saturday, August 3, 1940. Every ex-resident and his family in West Texas is invited to come, bring a well-filled picnic basket, and all will have dinner on the ground together. There will be no charges for the use of Buffalo Lakes premises for you on this day, and this old-fashioned picnic will not be commercialized in any way. Every citizen and his family in West Texas formerly living in one of the above named counties is most cordially invited to come with a basket, renew old acquaintances and make new acquaintances in the old-fashioned way. There will be no formal program. In the morning from 9 to 12, those who come will visit with each other and swap stories of their past from Central Texas. From 12 till 2 the committee hopes that an old-fashioned dinner on the ground may be spread out for 2 or 300 yards and the families of all ex-residents can partake of the fried chicken, cakes and pies of their neighbors in days gone by. In the afternoon from 2 to 5, there will be swimming and boating for those who desire. There will be an old-fashioned speaking (non-political) from pioneer ex-resident citizens from these counties. The general theme of the speaking will be a recounting of past history in Central Texas and what such ex-residents of these counties have done and are doing in the progress of West Texas. As soon as you see this notice you ex-residents of these counties appoint yourself as a committee or one, or more, to see that every ex-resident come to this old-fashioned picnic on August 3, 1940, all day, at Buffalo Springs Lakes near Lubbock. If you desire any further information about this reunion, please write J. Y. Boyd, County Auditor of Lubbock County, at the Lubbock County Court House. The committee in charge is especially anxious that we have an old-fashioned basket picnic get-together without expense to anyone other than the effort of coming and bringing your own basket for this outing at Buffalo Lakes. Remember the date, August 3, 1940, at Buffalo Springs Lakes near Lubbock, off the Slaton Highway. Set this day aside and let's see West Texans get together. Respectfully submitted, COMMITTEE IN CHARGE, By J. Y. Boyd, Secretary.

IT'S ALL OUR FAULT

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. White returned suddenly last week from a vacation trip to Denver, Colorado, where they were unexpectedly sent by the Times. The Whites stated that it was the quickest trip they had ever taken; they didn't even know it had happened until they saw it in the paper. They very kindly offered to make the trip, however, in order to uphold the reputation of the paper for veracity, but there was a catch to it. They wanted the Times to pay their expenses. Instead of the reported trip to Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. White spent last week visiting Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King. Mr. King returned to Spur with them for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. White, and his son, John L. King, Sr.

Cotton Insects And January Weather

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Asso. Editor Farm and Ranch

More than two weeks of freezing weather in January brought out the usual optimistic chant that "well, at least it has killed a lot of insects." If severe winter cold would have destroyed insects, especially cotton insects, they should have been wiped out years ago. Since the boll weevil appeared in this country nearly half a century ago we have had much more severe winters than the one just past, but the boll weevil continued to survive and spread until all but a few minor areas in the cotton belt have been invaded.

Spring and summer weather conditions have a great deal more to do with insect infestation than winter cold. In midwinter boll weevils are in a dormant state, and are less susceptible to cold than when they are active in fall and spring. Also, in midwinter, the hibernating boll weevil is protected to a certain extent by his hiding place. It is of record that boll weevils frozen in cakes have thawed out and crawled away. We are only cheating ourselves when we assume that cold weather will prevent a damaging boll weevil infestation next summer. It is quite true that the fewer survive, the later they can multiply to damaging numbers, but warm, showery weather in late spring and early summer usually brings a heavy infestation in time to seriously damage the cotton crop.

The observant farmer who watches his cotton crop will usually find weevils present before squares form. At that stage they feed around the terminal buds, and some of them die before they have a chance to reproduce. When squares are large enough for egg deposition, future boll weevil numbers will be largely determined by weather conditions.

As for the effect of winter cold on other cotton insects, it has none whatever. The flea hopper, which attacks the young fruit buds and causes them to drop off before they become squares large enough for the boll weevil to attack, goes through the winter in the egg stage, on weeds, and winter cold has no effect on the eggs.

The cotton leaf worm, sometimes mistakenly called the army worm, is a "summer tourist" in this country. It does not survive the winter in North America, but the moths fly northward with the season, from their winter habitat in Central or South America, and the first brood is usually not noticed. Only when the well-known odor of leaf worms warn of their presence in great numbers, do most cotton growers give them a thought. Quick and efficient poisoning is the only means of stopping their damage.

The boll worm, as nearly everyone knows, is the same as the corn ear worm. It is not particularly susceptible to cold in midwinter, and is always present in spring in sufficient numbers to multiply to serious proportions before the season is past. The moth prefers corn, as long as fresh corn is available on which to lay eggs, and usually does not attack cotton until late in the season. It can, and does sometimes, do a great deal of damage to cotton late in the season, after the early broods have multiplied on corn.

Now that we know that January cold did little or nothing to prevent cotton insect damage next summer, it behooves us to be on the alert to prevent the insects "getting the jump on us." If the first fruit buds of cotton are falling, and the "cotton is not fruiting at the bottom," as we say, it is pretty strong evidence that the flea hopper is at work. Sulphur dusting is the only remedy.

Calcium arsenate dust is the best control for boll weevils early or late, and since the flea hoppers and early boll weevils are often in the field at the same time, a mixture of calcium arsenate and sulphur (one pound to two) may be used. The sulphur-calcium arsenate mixture does a better job on both flea hoppers and boll weevils than either insecticide used separately, and if both insects are present, the time and labor is the same to control both that it would be to control one.

To The Voters:

I just want to thank my good friends for the many nice things they have said and done for me during the past campaign. Even though I lost, I want you to know that I appreciated the ones who cast their vote in my behalf.

Band Rehearsals Held During Summer

Charles Senning, young musician who finished high school here last spring, is conducting rehearsals of the Spur school band twice weekly, each Tuesday and Thursday at 8:30 p. m.

All members of the band are invited to attend the rehearsals, in order to keep in practice for the beginning of the football season next fall.

These sessions will enable the band to be in top form at the beginning of the season, instead of having to work for a month to overcome the effects of a summer lay-off.

In the absence of the director, Leonard King, who is vacationing after the close of the summer band school, Senning is in charge of rehearsals.

A fine clarinetist, Senning plans to enter Texas Tech in September, majoring in band. He has accepted a position as teacher of clarinet in the Lubbock Junior High school. Such an opportunity offered to a former Spur High bandman speaks highly of the work that has been done by the schools here in building up the band.

Senning has been a member of the band since it was first organized five years ago, having held office as band president, librarian, and student conductor. He has worked under directors Burgess Brown, Robert Fielder, and the present director, Leonard King.

Scheduled For August 2, 3, and 4
 Annual Double Heart Ranch Rodeo

All West Texas is beginning to turn its eyes to the Double Heart ranch, in anticipation of the Annual Double Heart Rodeo, scheduled this year for August 2, 3, and 4.

The rodeo is one of the most famous in this section. Ollie Cox, owner of the ranch, is a well known stockman. He has furnished rodeo stock for the Spur Rodeo-Roundup for the past two years, as well as many other rodeos all over the west. The best of all his rodeo stock will be used in the rodeo performances at the ranch.

One of the features will be a quarter mile saddle horse race. The horse must be entered in one or more of the roping contests to be eligible for the race, in order to make sure that only ranch horses will be entered.

A relay race, in which the rider must unsaddle and resaddle his horse between the first and second laps of the race is another feature of the rodeo.

Buffalo riding, an unusual rodeo event, is expected to attract the attention of a large number of people. Other contests include the cowgirl sponsor contest, bronc riding, bull riding, wild mare race, steer wrestling, and three calf roping contests, cowgirl calf roping, old-timers calf roping, and open competition.

Some of the best of West Texas rodeo performers will be entered in the events. Mr. and Mrs. Cox are well known for always giving the performers a "square deal." Cowboys from this area who plan to enter the contests are requested to get their entrance fees in by midnight, August 1.

Scene of the rodeo will be the Double Heart ranch, located ten miles south of Sweetwater.

Dr. Cox's Weekly
 Health Letter

The control of typhoid fever in the United States represents an outstanding achievement in preventive medicine. In 1900, the national death rate from this disease was 31.3 per hundred thousand; today, the rate is 1.9. This marked decrease in typhoid deaths is based on knowledge of its cause, how it is spread, and the application of control measures. Perhaps at this time, no other disease is more vulnerable to scientific attack than typhoid fever. "Indeed, it is no exaggeration to say that from a public health point of view, there should be no typhoid fever," declares W. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Dr. Cox pointed out, however, that typhoid, while an unnecessary evil, was a persistent attacker of Texans. Each year about four hundred Texans die of typhoid, and approximately four thousand are ill. The average duration of illness is about six weeks, which makes typhoid responsible for the loss of 168,000 man days in Texas each year.

Typhoid prevention is a simple procedure. Typhoid vaccine is injected under the skin in the upper part of the arm, in three doses, usually at weekly intervals. It ordinarily protects against the disease from two to three years or longer, although one who is definitely exposed to infection should be re-vaccinated at more frequent intervals.

Typhoid fever can be controlled by the use of pure water, pasteurized milk or clean milk, clean foods, proper disposal of sewage, screening against flies and destroying their breeding places, by search for and care of human typhoid carriers, and by the general practices of vaccination.

Certain people, apparently healthy, carry the germs of typhoid in their intestines and urinary tract and cause many cases of typhoid each year by insanitary personal habits. They are called typhoid carriers, and many cases of typhoid result from personal contact with these carriers.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest George returned Wednesday night from Pampa, where they had been visiting friends and relatives.

 TAX PROFITEERS

The Bureau of Internal Revenue warned yesterday that dealers in articles subject to defense taxes who raise prices above the tax amount and ascribe the raise to the tax are liable to punishment by a $1,000 fine, or a one year's prison term, or both.

The bureau stated that it "has received reports that a number of such dealers have represented their customers that increases in prices are due solely to the imposition of the defense taxes."—Washington Post.
