HINTS FROM Heloise

Fur Goodness Sake, What Happened To You?

Dear Heloise:

Recently you told about removing grease from heavy fabric by applying dry cornmeal, rubbing it in a bit, letting it sit and then vacuuming the meal up. I used the same method on our cat!

Our cat came home the other day covered with oil from a driveway. What a pitiful sight she was.

I opened up a piece of newspaper, put my cat on it and gave her a "cornmeal shampoo"! It did the trick. (Just dip your hand in dry cornmeal, and start rubbing the fur with the meal. As the meal falls to the paper, pick the cleanest handful and reuse again and again.) Then brush it off.

This is the easiest solution we have ever found for this problem. Thank you for giving me the idea.

Lucy King

Dear LUCY:

Thanks for the hint. Furriers have written that this is the old way to clean fur coats. So why not use it on your precious cat?

When kitty jumps in your lap tonight, stroke her once on the back for me. Then tickle her under the neck!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When packing cut-up pieces of honeydew, watermelon or cantaloupe for picnic or school lunches, use discarded margarine containers and lids, and add a toothpick right in the container. The margarine containers seal in the flavor for quite some time and the toothpicks help do away with extra spoons or forks to carry.

A neat way to have fresh fruit for lunch without getting juice all over.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

"Apartmenter" states she keeps "putting work off." Ten to one she's glued to the old TV. It's unbelievable how many hours a housewife can waste if she turns on the set to "listen" while she works.

On most sets, you can unplug the set end as well as the wall end. So on Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays put your plug in your husband's glove box! That way you can't use the set. You'll find you have Tuesdays and Thursdays to relax in a clean apartment.

Readers Explain 'Post Office' Rules

DEAR READERS: A reader asked if I knew the official rules for the kissing game kids played years ago, called "post office."

I didn't, so I asked my readers, and what variety of answers I received! Since there is nothing in the literature to authenticate the rules, and I know of no living authority (does anyone?), here are some of the responses. Take your pick.

DEAR ABBY: When I was a teen-ager, no party was complete unless we played post office. One person was chosen to be the postmaster, and another was chosen to go into a dark room (usually a closet), which we called "the post office." The postmaster was the go-between.

The person in the closet would whisper a message to the postmaster who came out and announced that there was a postcard for Nancy. Nancy would then go into the closet and what went on in there nobody knew but Nancy and the guy in the closet.

Then the guy came out and Nancy stayed in and told the postmaster that there was a letter for Jimmy. Jimmy went into the closet, and what went on there nobody knew but Nancy and Jimmy. A postcard was a quick kiss, a letter was a longer kiss. And a special delivery must have been a really passionate kiss because the guy (or girl) would come out of the closet with his hair mussed up, red in the face and all flustered.

We played this game until everybody in the room got kissed.

DENVER DEAR DENVER: That's the way I remember it. Today the kids are a little more sophisticated. They play a game called "pony express." It's just like post office, only there's a little more horsing around.

DEAR ABBY: How well I remember post office! It was a lot of fun for the popular, good looking boys, but not for the not-so-good looking. The one time I was called into the "post office," a girl said she had a "letter" for Chub. My heart was all a flutter. She put her arms around me and said, "Oh I forgot to stamp it." Then she brought her foot down hard on my left foot and crushed two toes.

CHUB MUNGER, HELENA, MONT.

DEAR ABBY: I played post office as a child in England. Here's how we played it:

One member of the party would be elected "postmaster." He (or she) would then station himself (herself) in an adjoining room.

Each person remaining would be given a number, let us say one through twenty. Through the door, the postmaster called out a number. Whoever had that number would join him in the other room. If they were of the opposite sex, they would kiss. If not, they would shake hands.

Pledge Ritual Held By Chapter

The Mu Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a pledge ritual recently in the home of Mrs. Dwan Martin, 119 S. Dewberry St.

Mrs. David Bennett, Mrs. Randy Wynne, Mrs. Wade Crews, Mrs. Bob Skellenger and Mrs. Gary Shaffer were the special guests.

The chapter will meet Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Rick Etheredge for a business session. Mrs. Bill Southerland will be the co-hostess.

DALE IN S.F.

The postmaster would then join the rest of the party, and the one whose number was called took his turn at being postmaster.

The trick was to try to guess the number of the person you wanted most to kiss.

Israelis Continue Raids On Guerrillas In South Lebanon

By The Associated Press
Israeli troops crossed into southeast Lebanon early today for the second night in succession and reported they destroyed five houses believed to have been used by the Palestinian guerrillas.

An Israeli spokesman said the troops raided the villages of Haifa and Shuba. He said they were fired on from a house in Shuba and destroyed the house with their return fire.

One Israeli was wounded, the spokesman said. There was no mention of Arab casualties.

Israel reported one guerrilla killed and three bridges and two water conduits blown up in another raid in the same area early Sunday. It said there were no casualties among the raiders, but the Palestine guerrilla command in Beirut claimed heavy Israeli losses. It also reported three guerrillas wounded and two missing.

Israeli forces now have raided the Arqub area of southeast Lebanon four times this year, taken five prisoners for interrogation and blown up 11 houses.

President Ford in an interview with Time magazine said progress must be made toward Arab-Israeli peace before the United States can give a formal guarantee to protect Israel's existence.

"We have given everything except that," he said. "We have often made commitments that we consider Israel a necessary state in the Middle East, both as to integrity of territory and its existence."

"I wouldn't rule out (a guarantee) under some circumstances, but there has to be, in my judgment, some real progress there before that step would be taken."

"It so happens that there is a substantial relationship at the present time between our national security interests and those of Israel."

"But in the final analysis, we have to judge what is in our national interest above any and all other considerations."

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran ended a five-day visit to Egypt and in a joint communique endorsed President Anwar Sadat's "wise national policy in dealing with the Middle East crisis."

The two leaders called for complete Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories, "the restoration of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian peoples and the halting of any changes in the status of the city of Jerusalem."

The communique also called for the reconvening of the Geneva peace talks and participation in them by the Palestine Liberation Organization "as the representative of the Palestine people."

Egyptian government sources said Sadat plans to visit France on Jan. 27 for talks with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. There was speculation he would try to purchase French arms.

Bentsen Declares He'll Introduce Tax Cut Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, considered a probable candidate for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, said today he will introduce a bill in the new Congress to provide a tax cut of about $13 billion.

Interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today" program, Bentsen did not give details of how his bill would seek to distribute the tax cuts, but said he believes that any cut must seek to help low- and middle-income taxpayers.

"These are the people who have been hurt most by inflation and you ought to see that they have some funds to stimulate the economy," he said.

Bentsen said he also thinks Congress "really ought to explore the idea of a tax on energy itself" as a way to reduce energy use by industrial and commercial operations, which now account for 40 per cent of American consumption.

Studies by the Bureau of Standards, he said, show that "you can cut the use of energy in this country for industry by almost a third by the use of present-day technology."

A tax geared toward encouraging more efficient use of energy by industrial and commercial users would be one way to reduce energy consumption "without having too much of an impact on the individual," Bentsen said.

Santa Fe's First Woman Engineer Enjoys Her Job

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Being the first and only woman engineer on the Santa Fe Railway doesn't get Christine Gonzales any favors on the work assignment board.

She's been bumped from one job to another and has been doing a little bumping of her own, which is what happens in railroading when you're near the bottom of the seniority list.

Now she's temporarily back in the Albuquerque yards hostling, which is moving engines from the roundhouse to other engines. That is what she was doing two years ago when the public discovered her.

There was a lot of attention about a year ago when Miss Gonzales, 22, became the first woman to earn an engineer's cap in the Santa Fe Railway system. There are several other women now on other lines.

She has received letters from all over the United States; made appearances on network television programs; received mail from India, a date all her own on a calendar that notes special women's milestones; and she's to be on an upcoming national magazine cover.

"It's fun," she said. The interview in which she said it.

She said her father, a conductor on the Southern Pacific line, was skeptical when his daughter first embarked on her engineer quest.

"When I'm with him now, and we're meeting other railroad people, he'll say, 'Here's my little hog head.' He's proud, yes."

Her skill has earned her from coworkers the "hog head" name railroaders use in referring to engineers who know their stuff.

"You can't have a girl who cries when someone says something. I've never had anything to cry about," she says. But she added about the men: "I'm told they had to clean up their language some."

She is responsible for a paragraph in the revised Santa Fe Railway rule book: "Finger rings, necklaces other jewelry must not be worn when work is being performed in which the wearing of such objects presents a hazard ..."

The "other jewelry," she said, means the dangling earrings she likes to wear.

Critics Claim Ford, Congress Killing Campaign Reform Law

By DON McLEOD
WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals of stricter election campaign laws say the new election reform law, pushed with great ballyhoo as an answer to Watergate, is a toothless tiger because Congress and President Ford have failed to appoint members of the law's enforcement commission.

Three months after the Campaign Reform Act was signed and two weeks after it became effective, not one member of the commission has been named, and reformers are screaming that the names surfacing as possible appointees smack more of cronyism than clean-up.

"Response To Watergate" — "This bill was clearly a response to Watergate," says Neil Gregory, co-director of the Center for Public Finance of Elections.

"The people think there has been a response, but there hasn't been and there won't be until a proper commission is named and begins enforcing this legislation," Gregory says.

Common Cause, another group that lobbied heavily for the bill, says failure to enforce its provisions will lead to "disillusionment for those who felt that Congress, by passing new campaign reform legislation, has made a significant response to Watergate."

No Place To Go — The law sets limits on how much a candidate may collect and spend in quest of public office and controls who may give and how much. Until the commission is appointed, candidates seeking advice or clarification of the rules have no place to go even though they conceivably could go to jail for lack of adequate counsel on what the law requires of them.

President Ford signed the law on Oct. 15 but so far has not named his two appointments to the Federal Election Commission which must administer it.

The Senate leadership pushed through approval of its two choices at the end of the 1974 session but took them back after complaints that there had been no hearings. Nothing has come from the House leaders.

The commission will have authority to draw up regulations to implement the law, issue advisory opinions to candidates and committees and even initiate civil suits to prevent violations, although criminal prosecutions are also possible.

Ziegler Says Nixon 'Beaten Man'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — His former White House press secretary has pictured Richard Nixon as a "beaten man," incarcerated in his seaside villa.

In his first lengthy, on-the-record interview since Nixon resigned last August, Ronald Ziegler told the Los Angeles Times he is "fed up with Richard Nixon taking it in the ear."

Ziegler accused some members of Congress and of President Ford's staff of excessive vindictiveness, even to the point of not forwarding mail.

"What severity of penalty does this society want from a leader?" Ziegler asked. "You know, he resigned in disgrace. He is certainly a beaten man."

"You only have to be here to sense it is exile," Ziegler said. "The abandonment by friends, the isolation, the vindictiveness of some in Washington, including some in Congress and some in the Ford White House."

Ford spokesmen declined comment on Ziegler's remarks.

The Watergate grand jury named Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator in the scandal.

Ziegler noted criticism of Ford's pardon of Nixon, particularly in light of the fact that a number of his close associates have been convicted and sent to prison, Ziegler said. "If society wants to put him in a cell, there is a cell out there (at his San Clemente home). Have you seen the size of his office? What more is wanted?"

Ziegler, who has continued to serve as Nixon's spokesman during the "transition" period, criticized present White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen and other White House aides for indicating that Nixon has overspent his transition budget.

He said the San Clemente staff was going by past budgets, which were more generous than the one finally set for Nixon.

He also categorized as "absurd" Nessen's assertion that Nixon will be billed for the part of his cross-country flight on Air Force One that took place after Ford had been sworn in as President.

"He was President when he left Washington," Ziegler said. "What was he going to do — alight in Jefferson City, Mo., and make his way out here by train?"

As for Nixon's health, Ziegler said that "what is happening to Richard Nixon as a human being" as a result of such rough treatment is "very serious."

"The fact that he has survived this period to me is remarkable," Ziegler said.

Ziegler said he plans to begin a nationwide lecture tour soon, although he will stop in at San Clemente frequently.

Expert Says Gas Price To Increase 10-20 Cents

CHICAGO (AP) — An oil industry specialist says Americans can expect to see gasoline prices rise from 10 to 20 cents a gallon by mid spring.

Herbert Hugo, senior editor of the industry's daily newspaper Platt's Oilgram, says he thinks President Ford will seek a $3 to $3.50-a-barrel tariff on some of the imported crude oil.

That would mean about 7 cents a gallon more for gasoline.

And Hugo, whose previous predictions about gasoline price hikes have been correct although conservative, said he believes Ford will seek a tax increase of at least 5 cents a gallon on gasoline—and probably more—in proposals dealing with the nation's energy shortage.

Ford is to make proposals in his State of the Union message Wednesday.

Hugo suggested over the weekend that Ford would ask Congress to approve an excise tax on new finds of domestic crude oil.

In addition, he said, consumers can expect to pay 1 to 3 cents a gallon more because gasoline dealers can be expected to stop cutting their prices with 1 to 3-cent-a-gallon rebates.

The federal government said the dealers were entitled to the rebates from the oil companies as profit margin, but the dealers have used them recently to cut their prices because of sales competition.

As prices go up, Hugo said, availability probably will slacken and dealers will have to hold onto their rebates as well as increase prices at the pump. "It all boils down to, of course, much higher prices for consumers," said Hugo.

Morriss Wins Okay As Evangelism Head

FORT WORTH (AP) — Dr. L. L. Morriss, pastor of Midland's First Baptist Church, was elected today as evangelism director for the two-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

He was elected during a special called meeting of the 192-member executive board preceding the annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference.

Dr. Morriss succeeds Dr. C. Wade Freeman who retired Dec. 31, after 28 years on the job.

Dr. Morriss will assume the position Feb. 1. He has been pastor at Midland more than 20 years and has served in numerous denominational capacities at all levels.

He is a native of Tyler and has served churches in New London, Cameron, Baytown and Mount Pleasant.

A spokesman for the Baptist General Convention of Texas said Dr. Morriss' salary would be $20,500 a year.

Harris To Head Suez Temple

SAN ANGELO — Dr. S. H. Harris was elevated to the office of illustrious potentate of Suez Temple at its annual meeting held here.

Harris was born April 8, 1906, in London, England, the youngest of six sons, and came to New York with his parents in August 1909. He attended elementary and high school in Newark, N.J. He attended and graduated from Temple University Dental School in Philadelphia, Pa. in 1926. He moved to San Angelo in November 1933 where he has practiced dentistry for 40 years.

A C. "Pete" Peeler of Midland was elected chief rabban, which places him next in line for the position of potentate.

Other officers elected include H. L. Cravens Jr., Brownwood, assistant rabban; Charles M. Godwin, Colorado City, high priest and prophet; Ray Robinson, Sanderson, Oriental guide; Myrtle Martin, S. Angelo, treasurer; Ben E. Godfrey of San Angelo was re-elected recorder for the 25th consecutive year.

Elected as representatives to the Imperial Council which will meet the first week in July at Toronto, Canada, were Martin G. Browne of Dallas, formerly of Midland, Dr. Harris, Peeler and Cravens. This marked the 15th time that Browne has been named as a representative. He now will become a permanent representative to the council.

Ford May Make Another Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is considering a nationwide television-radio address in advance of his State of the Union presentation on Wednesday, sources reported today.

A final decision has not been made, the sources said, but consideration is being given to a broadcast address tonight or Tuesday to give the public a preview of his revised economic and energy proposals.

Administration officials report that Ford now is putting the last touches on the program he will present to Congress at noon CST Wednesday.

checks on the 46-year-old Iowa lawyer have been completed.

In an interview with the Des Moines Sunday Register, Belin was quoted as saying, "I've heard people say there is a gray area in this matter. My own feeling is, if there is any doubt, that doubt is resolved against the agency."

Belin also said he had demanded a "first rate, independent staff" and he promised that "the chips will fall where they may."

The commission is scheduled to report its findings to the White House within 90 days.

A number of congressional investigations of the CIA also are planned.

Meanwhile, the New York Daily News reported in its Monday edition that Dr. Constantine D. J. Generales, a specialist in space medicine, said that the CIA tried to persuade him to spy on fellow scientists.

When he refused, burglars broke into his Manhattan office, searched his files and stole several tape recordings, one of which contained his conversations with a "sexy CIA agent," according to the Daily News article.

Generales told the newspaper that he was contacted in April 1972 by a woman who identified herself as a CIA employee. The woman indicated that Generales could help the U.S. government by reporting on his meetings with Soviet space physicians.

He declined the overture, and his office was broken into in February 1973, he said.

Dr. Generales could not be reached for comment.

Second Quake Hits Southern California

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — At 1:22 p.m. Sunday, a moderate earthquake within 24 hours struck Southern California before dawn today, causing minor damage and prompting numerous phone calls to emergency services.

A police spokesman in Long Beach said his switchboard received about 200 calls. Dishes Island and 55 miles west of San Diego were broken at homes in near-Diego.

The quake, which caused no reported damage, lasted 15 seconds and was felt by residents as far north as Los Angeles.

The Richter scale, a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs, reflects a tenfold increase in magnitude with each increase of one number. A quake with a reading of 3.5 can cause slight damage in a local area; a reading of 4.5 would indicate a quake 10 times stronger.

The statement said a gasoline tax increase would have to be studied carefully to prevent treating too harshly persons whose employment depends on use of automobiles. Rebates to such persons or dedication of the yield to a program of developing alternate fuel sources should be considered, it said.

—Wages and Prices. Calling the present Council on Wage and Price stability "a toothless tiger," the task force recommended "an independent agency with subpoena power, the resources to hold extensive hearings, the authority to delay price increases up to 90 days, and in extreme cases the authority to impose controls more permanently on a selective basis." The selection, it said, should "be aimed at those industries where near-monopoly and administered prices render the forces of true competition inoperable."

—Needy. The task force urged Congress to block "the apparent intention of the administration to increase the price of food stamps to low-income Americans" and to step up help to needy aged, blind and disabled.

In addition to the measures targeted for very early attention, the task force urged that Congress get to work promptly on developing a national health plan, encouraging the search for new sources of energy on a crash basis like those that led to development of atomic energy and the man-on-the-moon program; antitrust law strengthening; consumer protection, increased food production; aid to specific industries suffering disproportionately and help for the aging.

Coldest spot in the lower valley was Rio Grande City but citrus is not grown in that area. McAllen reported 24 degrees as did Brownsville.

Snow stopped falling Sunday afternoon after some flurries reached as far south as Austin and San Antonio. Depths ranged up to six inches around Abilene in West Central Texas where the snow fell generally extended east, west and north of there, leaving two to four inches in many places.

Although ice made roads hazardous in places, all routes were reported open.

Temperatures near dawn divided to 12 degrees above zero at Dalhart in the upper Panhandle and 13 at Abilene. At the same hour Galveston on the Upper Texas Coast was the warmest spot in the state at 33. Temperatures plunged to the lower levels throughout the state as skies cleared in the wake of the weekend storm, which was accompanied by bitter north winds.

Readings at other points near dawn included Amarillo, San Angelo, San Antonio and Tyler 15, Wink 17, Childress, Cotulla, Longview and Texarkana 18; Big Spring, Fort Worth, Waco and Wichita Falls 19, El Paso and Lubbock 20, Alice, Dallas, Del Rio, Kingsville and Lufkin 21, Corpus Christi and Victoria 22, Houston and Palacios 24, College Station 25, Beville 26 and Austin 29. The Associated Press reported.

Although the huge mass of Canadian air enveloping the state was expected to make the chill felt at least through Tuesday, forecasts promised some moderation could be expected as sunshine returned to all sections.

Airport officials said the attackers fired two bazooka rounds before fleeing from the scene. The first struck the airport's basement catering department, but caused no casualties and virtually no damage.

Injured Woman, 46, Survives Six Days At Bottom Of Gorge

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Barbara S. Wilson lay injured at the bottom of Wheeler Gorge for six days. Temperatures dipped to freezing and there was no food or water. She says that at one point a passerby refused to call for help.

"I have a strong desire to live and I guess I did by the grace of God," the 46-year-old divorcee told highway patrolmen Sunday after she had been lifted 500 feet to safety. The gorge is in a wilderness beside Los Padres National Forest.

Teen-Ager Hears Screams
A teen-ager had heard her screams and summoned rescuers.

She told officers that two days earlier she thought she was going to be rescued when a passerby worked his way partly down the gorge after hearing her calls for help.

"But the man said, in effect, that anyone who drove that road deserved anything he got and that he didn't want to get involved," highway patrolman Al Goldberg said the woman told him.

Hope Starts Fading
She said that hope began to fade after the man left, because she lived alone and no one knew her travel plans.

The woman told California Highway Patrol officers she was driving along twisting California 33 about 120 miles north of Los Angeles when she pulled to the side of the road for a rest.

She was heading north from Ventura, her home, toward Bakersfield.

She said her foot accidentally struck the accelerator pedal, and the car bolted off the road and came to rest on its roof 150 feet down the steep face of the gorge. She said she crawled outside the car, not realizing

Democrats Slay 'Victory Dinner'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A "Democratic Victory Dinner" is scheduled next Monday night in Austin to add money to party coffers and celebrate state inaugurations in place of balls and a parade.

The dinner the night before the inauguration of Gov. Dolph Briscoe is the only party activity scheduled in conjunction with the swearing-in ceremonies. The usual inaugural parade and inaugural balls have been canceled because of economic conditions, at the request of Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

State Democratic party leaders hope 3,000 persons will pay $35 each for a steak dinner, with Briscoe, Hobby, national party chairman Robert Strauss and U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as honored guests.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
by Bryan Boet

Someone has said that modern life could well be spelled out in three words: "Hurry, worry, bury." Life often seems to be in a turmoil but a desired final destination never seems to be reached. The hustle and bustle of life is much more often ended by death than by reaching a goal. No wonder that many people throw up their hands and question the purpose of their lives.

But there is another way to live — the way that Jesus of Nazareth showed us. His life was filled with the purpose of serving God. Though often almost overwhelmed by crowds seeking him, he never let himself get so busy that he forgot who he was and what his purpose was. He showed how to live life on the earth to its fullest — by having constant fellowship with God.

I urge you to look at Jesus and follow in his steps.

Last July, Franco was reported in critical condition after a blood clot formed in his leg. The interview with Arias Navarro was published Sunday in the Madrid monarchist newspaper ABC.

'But Don't Be Telling Me To Give Up Something'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON—The Central Intelligence Agency's secret files on American citizens, according to sources who have had access to them, show no evidence of widespread domestic surveillance by the CIA.

Our sources confirm The New York Times report that the CIA has the names of at least 10,000 American citizens in its files. But most of the names were furnished by domestic agencies as part of an intelligence exchange that was established after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The largest batch of names—a computerized printout listing 9,000 antiwar agitators, new leftists and ghetto militant—was turned over to the CIA in 1969 by the Justice Department's civil disturbance unit.

The unit chief, James Devine, arranged to deliver the names to the CIA's anti-terrorist expert, Richard Ober, who had made a study of radical movements overseas.

From the 9,000 names, the CIA picked out those who had received training or had participated in demonstrations overseas. This information was relayed back to the Justice Department for its guidance in dealing with domestic demonstrations.

The CIA prepared reports, for example, on Black Panthers who had received guerrilla training in Libya and demolition instruction in North Korea. The CIA also identified Arab students in America who had alleged ties with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But only rarely, the files show, did the CIA keep these individuals under surveillance in the United States. Sometimes, the CIA would tail a suspect to the United States and continue the surveillance for a few days until the watch could be turned over to the FBI. But few Americans have been spied upon by the CIA at home, our sources swear.

"The CIA simply doesn't have the manpower to keep 10,000 Americans under surveillance," said one source.

We also checked various law enforcement agencies to find out what kind of information they had received from the CIA about American citizens. The word from each agency was that CIA messages invariably contain a legitimate overseas angle.

Declared one official emphatically: "There is no program, no project, no policy set up to permit the CIA to conduct surveillance of citizens in the United States."

At the same time, our sources acknowledge there were several into computers, which could produce detailed life histories at the push of a button.

The FBI sent a liaison man, Sam Pappich, to work with the CIA. He worked long hours, straightening out differences over jurisdiction and operational approaches.

This cooperation was abruptly cancelled by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover because of a silly dispute over a missing Czechoslovakian defector. The defector-turned-professor, Thomas Riha, disappeared from the University of Colorado on March 15, 1969. An FBI agent reported to the CIA that he had gone to Montreal to post after a domestic squabble.

Hoover demanded to know the identity of the CIA's FBI informant; the CIA refused to reveal it; so Hoover shut off the liaison. Not until several months after his death was the cooperation resumed.

Footnote: Riha never turned up. Subsequently, a woman named Gayla Tannenbaum was arrested in connection with his alleged murder and committed to Pueblo State Hospital as mentally incompetent.

The CIA files of course, contain derogatory information about wholly innocent citizens. For years, we have reported how government agencies traffic in dossiers which are loaded with idle gossip about American citizens. As far back as Nov. 20, 1972, we reported that the CIA was involved in this exchange.

We quoted from one CIA memo, which offered the latest gossip on Eartha Kitt's sex life in Paris. This information was provided to the Secret Service, which had started an investigation of the entertainer after she had embarrassed Lady Bird Johnson by asking a pointed question about the Vietnam War at a Jan. 18, 1968, White House luncheon.

Quite obviously, neither the CIA nor the Secret Service has any business prying into Eartha Kitt's private life.

The exchange of derogatory information between agencies increased after the Warren Commission, investigating President Kennedy's assassination, complained about the lack of collaboration.

Thereafter, the agencies began to alert one another to up to permit the CIA to conduct intelligence that might be of interest and to request information that might be helpful in their investigations. Informants acknowledge there were several

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS
The 94th Congress
May Be Self-Destructive

WASHINGTON (KFS)—The 94th Congress convening January 14 is not just another gaggle of senators and representatives. This will be a historic two-year assemblage. One can almost picture the ghosts of Henry Clay, Champ Clark and Sam Rayburn haunting the galleries and lobbies, nervously watching their beloved institution decide its fate.

For the moment, liberals are gushing adjectives like "youthful," "activist" and "reformist" in optimistic tribute to the new legislators. Kindred commentators are enthusing that Congress will regain much of the power lost since World War II.

Meanwhile, more skeptical analysts fear that the lopsided Democratic majorities of 1975-76 could be self-destructive, and that Congress may be putting its future on the line by squaring off against the Executive Branch.

I believe that history supports the cynical view. First off, the public has not reacted favorably to the most controversial Congresses of the half-century prior to 1974—the 76th (1937-39), the 80th (1947-49) and the 89th (1965-67). All of these bodies had their ears pinned back in the next elections. By and large, the more passive, non-controversial Congresses suffered smaller losses.

A New Relationship
But this point is only collateral. Much more important is the possibility that Congress and the President stand in a new and volatile relationship. Until the 1950s, although Congress and the President might squabble, Capitol Hill and the White House had reasonably parallel political constituencies. In recent years, though, some political scientists have begun to argue that the constituencies of Congress and President have been diverging, and that the two ends of Pennsylvania Avenue represent combative sections of the electorate. On one hand, the President represents the increasingly assertive white middle-class majority, while Congress tends to nurture minority groups and the institutionalized liberal interests of the Sixties. So far, this division has been a trend, not a glaring reality. Should such conflict mushroom into public awareness during 1975-76, negative reaction to the 94th Congress could impose new dynamics on the political system.

In this regard, one can see a growing realization in activist conservative circles that Congress, as an institutionalized power center, is an almost unbreachable barrier to the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. The makeup of the entire eight-member commission is likewise wrong because, almost to the man, these people have varying degrees of involvement with the CIA.

These Ford appointments are like General Motors appointing its own board to investigate its management. Indeed, whatever the state of Richard Nixon's reputation, the presidential commissions he appointed were independent and represented a spectrum of views. Several of those commissions filed reports which drove Nixon up the wall.

The Rockefeller commission breaks the precedent, and there is justification for criticism, in Congress and elsewhere, that it will very likely deliver a whitewash. Rockefeller's defenders, while acknowledging his intimate relationship with Kissinger, hope that critics will wait for the verdict before making any such judgment.

It is unfortunate that Rockefeller and Kissinger vacationed together shortly after The Times story broke, thus causing speculation that the two men took breaks between swimming with a sense of humor.

Meanwhile, the odds against Congress providing effective national leadership are considerable. Our trend to Executive Branch leadership over the last few decades, while in part aberrant, is mostly logical and deep-rooted. In Canada, Britain, France and virtually every other Western democracy, Twentieth Century leadership has flowed steadily from the legislature (parliament) to the Ministerial Executive. Legislatures are simply unsuited to the complexities of technological-era government.

'Legislative Dictatorship'
At first blush, then, President Ford would seem to be wrong in warning about "legislative dictatorship," and House Deputy Democratic Whip John Brademas would appear naive in predicting "Congressional government." However, there is one—and really only one—historical stream that has involved legislative "government" or "dictatorship." This is the brief rule focused on legislatures (or legislative-based regimes) occurring in Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Spain and other countries after the deposing of excessively powerful rulers from Charles I and Louis XVI to Alphonso XIII. Nixon's overthrow raises an obvious analogy.

After each of these depositions, power shifted to legislatures. But the new prominence of the legislature was invariably short-lived. While people were glad to escape monarchical rule, they had little more taste for posturing legislatures unused to workaday leadership who could not cope with national crisis (because overthrow always comes in a time of national crisis—the two go together). Consequently, in all of these situations, the overthrow of unpopular rulers led after some months or a few years of legislative bumbling to the emergence of a new strongman in this mold, it does Napoleon, Hitler, Lenin, Franco—and the fading of legislative influence.

NICK THIMMESCH
Rockefeller Wrong Man
To Investigate CIA

WASHINGTON — Putting Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller in charge of the investigation of the CIA is the latest of President Gerald Ford's blunders, if indeed Mr. Ford is wholly responsible for this appointment.

For openers, Rockefeller is just too close to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to be objective about the allegations concerning the CIA and the possible role Kissinger had in any domestic surveillance activities by that agency.

Rockefeller and Kissinger have an association dating back to 1955. The two men have been through thick and thin. Indeed, as Kissinger's patron and employer, Rockefeller has a strong hold on the secretary of State.

According to the reports in The New York Times, the CIA carried on surveillance of some 10,000 U. S. citizens in the Sixties and Seventies, in an apparent violation of the law restricting CIA activity to areas outside the United States.

In his official capacity as head of the National Security Council and as director of the Forty Committee, Kissinger obviously knows of any substantive activities by the CIA. So if there was any domestic spying, he surely would have known about it. Kissinger has denied any such knowledge.

Even assuming Kissinger's statement is accurate, it is still wrong for Rockefeller to head this investigation. Rockefeller himself has strong ties to the CIA as a longtime member of the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. The makeup of the entire eight-member commission is likewise wrong because, almost to the man, these people have varying degrees of involvement with the CIA.

These Ford appointments are like General Motors appointing its own board to investigate its management. Indeed, whatever the state of Richard Nixon's reputation, the presidential commissions he appointed were independent and represented a spectrum of views. Not What They Seem

The Washington-based Council of State Chambers of Commerce has submitted a report which points up the contrast between the appearance of budget cuts made by Congress and the reality of the net effects of some of its actions.

The report was included in an analysis of the results of actions on the 1975 federal budget which was prepared for the council by Eugene F. Rinta, director of research.

Rinta explained that congressional leaders, in attempting to refute charges that the Congress has been overspending, frequently cite the figures on appropriations which, more often than not, would seem to indicate that Congress has cut the President's budget. Actually, Rinta declared, the actions Congress takes on spending measures outside the appropriations process may cause greater change in the budget than its appropriations decisions.

He noted that increases totaling $2.5 billion were effected by Congress outside the appropriations process this year. Rinta cited as major items $600 million for extending the delimiting period for veterans education benefits, another $600 million for increasing these veterans benefits, $700 million for extension of unemployment benefits and $200 million in all other legislation bills. In addition, the Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act of 1974 will add about $500 million in mandatory expenditures in fiscal 1975.

Really something, isn't it, when you get to thinking about it and adding up all the figures!

Rinta, a veteran expert on matters pertaining to such affairs, cited the appropriations bill for the Labor and the Health, Education and Welfare departments as a cut which is more apparent than real.

"For the first time in some years," he said, "Congress approved a smaller dollar amount than the budget estimates for this emergency unemployment compensation measure. In voting a total of $33,046 million, it made a net reduction of $485 million from the request. This net cut was the result of reductions of $1,375 million and increases of $890 million.

"But one cut in the amount of $1,169 million in public assistance funds merely represents a difference of opinion as to the total amount that will be required for the mandatory spending under the public assistance programs in 1975. This reduction will in no way reduce 1975 outlays for public assistance. Instead, it gave Congress a rationale for increasing appropriations by $890 million in other programs."

Rinta, concluding that the net effect of congressional actions on appropriations bills and on mandatory spending legislation outside the appropriation process is a standoff, said:

"In its appropriations actions Congress cut 1975 outlays by $2.6 billion but it increased outlays by the same amount in mandatory spending legislation. In addition, congressional inaction on proposals in the budget to reduce outlays in the amount of $800 million adds that amount to 1975 outlays. That would be the net increase by Congress in the 1975 budget."

Rinta estimated 1975 outlays at $306.4 billion and receipts at $288 billion, assuming no change in the tax laws affecting revenues in fiscal 1975.

Remember, though, that Rinta's report was submitted before President Ford's proposed antirecession tax cut of approximately $15 billion. So, who knows at the moment?

But back to the council's report, Rinta explained that in relation to outlays of $306-307 billion, he figures that a deficit of at least $18 billion in 1975 is indicated. Anticipating another big increase in outlays and a slower rise in revenues, he predicted that "an even larger deficit in 1976 is virtually certain."

Not a very comforting report, is it? And it is your tax dollars they are spending.

Reds May Upstage U.S. During Joint July Space Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may upstage the United States during next July's joint U.S.-Russian manned space mission by having a second crew of cosmonauts in orbit at the same time.

That's the opinion of some American space observers who have been studying the Dec. 27 launching of a Soviet Salyut 4 space station. They say the high altitude of the station will give it a long life and the possibility of being inhabited by several different crews during the next year.

The Soyuz 17 crew was launched Friday night, perhaps to visit the station for 30 to 60 days, which would be a record for Russian cosmonauts.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it has no evidence the Salyut will be manned next July during the joint mission in which American and Soviet spaceships are to link up in orbit. But officials don't rule out the possibility.

By having two cosmonauts in orbit during the joint flight, the Russians could hope to influence some of the world that they have returned to the glory days of Sputnik when they were the undisputed leaders in space exploration — a role they lost to the United States' Apollo man-on-the-moon program.

It also would draw attention from the fact that the much more sophisticated American Apollo craft will be making all the critical rendezvous maneuvers to achieve docking with the Russian Soyuz in July.

And it would emphasize that the Soviet space program is going strong, actually accelerating, at a time when the United States' program is diminishing.

Behind the speculation of U.S. observers is the fact that shortly after Salyut 4 was launched, ground control guided it into an orbit 220 miles high, 60 miles higher than earlier Salyuts. At that altitude it could stay aloft for a year or more before falling back into the atmosphere.

U.S. experts say the Russians would have no trouble tracking two manned spaceships simultaneously. They note there were three Russian manned vehicles in orbit at one time in 1969.

New Congress Still Faces Watergate Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the first issues scheduled for debate when the new Congress convenes Tuesday is whether the American people finally have the full story of Watergate and whether the scandal has created support for tighter control over the FBI and CIA.

Thus Watergate, which dominated events on Capitol Hill for the past two years, remains a powerful influence.

Congressional sources expect these questions to be raised early in the new session.

Will the final report of the special Watergate prosecutor's office give a complete account of the scandal that drove Richard M. Nixon from the presidency?

Questions Galore — Will that report lay out why some people were prosecuted and others were not, including why Leon Jaworski agreed to allow former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge in connection with the ITT investigation? — Will anyone review all the tapes from the Nixon White House and determine if portions should be made public? — Does anyone know the full story of the involvement in Watergate of the FBI and the CIA? — And will the public ever know the details of the domestic surveillance activities of the FBI and CIA, not only during the Nixon presidency but also under his predecessors? — Once again, attention will focus on the House Judiciary Committee, scene of the hearings on the impeachment of Nixon.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., wants his committee to rule on the Justice Department budget, which includes the FBI. Justice is one of several major government departments that now deal solely with the appropriations committees of Congress for approval of their budgets.

A major exception is the Defense Department, which goes through a two-stage procedure of getting authorization for expenditures and then appropriation of the money.

"Rodino wants an ongoing type of oversight," a committee source said when asked why the chairman was pushing to require the Justice Department to submit its budget requests to the Judiciary Committee.

Other Investigation — The Watergate prosecutor's office and the FBI also are going to come under close scrutiny from the Rodino committee.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. William L. Hungate, D-Mo., plans to hold hearings late in January on the final report currently being drafted by special prosecutor Henry S. Ruth and his staff.

Ruth opposes trying to make the final report a complete history of Watergate that would include information never used in court, such as activities of Nixon associates who never were charged with a crime.

Jaworski was quoted earlier this week as saying he doubted a case could be made against Nixon intimate Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo for his role in handling campaign contributions.

Rebozo has denied any wrongdoing and said he was "delighted that Jaworski came to the only conclusion any fair-minded person would come to based on the facts."

Ruth had no comment. But sources in the prosecutor's office had suggested long ago that it was wrong to speculate that Rebozo would be indicted.

Some members of Congress would like Ruth to lay out in the final report all he learned about Rebozo.

But it is believed that Rodino agrees with Ruth that such a procedure would violate Rebozo's rights.

Kleindienst-ITT Case — The prosecutor's final report does appear certain to revive the simmering dissatisfaction among Senate liberals over the handling of the Kleindienst-ITT case.

"How did Kleindienst help?" asked one Senate source who noted that Jaworski had said Kleindienst's cooperation had been a consideration in allowing the former attorney general to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge.

Kleindienst was charged with failing to testify fully before the Senate Judiciary Committee when he was asked about the handling of the ITT antitrust settlement. He received a one-month suspended sentence.

In contrast, former California Gov. Ed Relnecke was charged with perjury. He was convicted and received an 18-month suspended sentence.

So far, no other charges have been brought in the ITT investigation. Gen. Robert C. Mar-dian.

The question of whether Nixon or the government controls the tapes is before the courts for decision.

If the decision is that the government owns them, Ruth would oppose being given the task of listening to them and culling out any Watergate tidbits that ought to be made public.

But James F. Neal, chief prosecutor at the cover-up trial, where 28 presidential tapes were played publicly for the first time, believes someone should go through the tapes if they end up in the hands of the government.

Interviewed at his Nashville, Tenn., law office, Neal also said he knew nothing more about possible CIA involvement in the Watergate break-in than came out at the cover-up trial.

The defendants made an issue of the CIA backgrounds of the Watergate burglars, but the jury rejected their contention that the spy agency's involvement may have been greater than anyone knew.

But new allegations about CIA activities that may have violated restrictions against the agency conducting domestic operations has led to new congressional investigations in the post-Watergate mood of the new Congress. But no one knows yet how much of these probes will ever become public.

Angus S. Alston, Bell President, Dies At 60

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Angus S. Alston, who rose from a telephone coin box collector to head the giant Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., died Sunday. He was 60.

Alston was president, board chairman and chief executive officer of Southwestern Bell, which services 11 million telephones in five states. A company spokesman said he had been suffering from cancer.

Joins System In 1936 — A native of Salt Lake City, Utah, Alston joined the Bell system in 1936 as a coin box collector with Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph.

He often recalled that he enjoyed every job he had held in the telephone business.

When he left Mountain States in 1962, Alston was vice president in charge of personnel.

After two years as vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Bell Telephone Co., he was transferred to American Telephone & Telegraph in New York City. He was elected executive vice president of AT&T in 1967.

In April 1970, Alston was named president of Southwestern Bell, which serves Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. He became board chairman and chief executive officer of the company in October 1973.

Alston is survived by the widow Darlene, a son and a daughter.

Memorial services will be held here Tuesday in Graham Memorial Chapel on the campus of Washington University, where Alston served on the board of trustees.

Closer Than Expected

To the surprise of few, particularly Joe Namath who predicted a 10-point Pittsburgh victory, the Steelers won the National Football League title Sunday in New Orleans by beating Minnesota, 16-6, which kept the Vikings' unrivaled Super Bowl record intact.

Actually, the game was closer than the score indicates, but the difference between the teams was far greater than the 10-point final margin. While you're trying to figure that one out, maybe we'd better explain.

When Pittsburgh went ahead 9-4 on Franco Harris' nine-yard touchdown run early in the third period, it wasn't too surprising that the Steelers went conservative on offense. With the defense the Steelers have, they probably are one of the few teams in football that can go prevent and make it sound rather than risky strategy.

In fact, the way the Steelers dominated the game, those two second period safety points loomed big enough to do the job.

Still, the maligned Vikings, who took a two-game Super Bowl losing streak into the game, hung tough and that blocked punt midway through the fourth quarter served to prolong the suspense. After all, if it happened once, maybe...

When Matt Blair broke through to knock Bobby Walden's punt into the end zone with his chest, it was a little bit reminiscent of Garo Yepremian's pass, to be charitable, in the Super Bowl three years ago that Washington turned into a touchdown and made what was a rout by Miami snuck of a contest.

Steelers Meet Challenge

If there was any question about the Steelers, it was answered when Pittsburgh took the following kickoff and marched some 67 yards for the touchdown that erased any doubt. The game was played in weather and on the slick underfooting that NFL major domos had hoped to avoid by moving the year's grand climax game to warmer climes.

Defenses of both sides dominated the proceedings as expected, so much so one at times wondered if this was the wide open game the pros sought when the single wing and single platoon were abandoned.

The warfare in the trenches was so fierce that it was a baseballish 2-4 at half, causing one to wonder who was warming up in the bullpen. There were even visions that this might wind up 3-2 and, we believe, the last time that happened in Tulane Stadium was when LSU edged Sammy Baugh and TCU in the 1936 Sugar Bowl game.

If Oakland couldn't run against Pittsburgh's front four, no one outside of a Viking fan expected Minnesota to locomote on terra firma. So it became a game of inches, the three or four inches Fran Tarkenton lacked in height to get the ball over three big, big charging linemen.

Changes Bring Results

And those rules changes the NFL made during the off season worked. A year ago, the complaint was that the field goal kickers were exerting an influence out of all proportion. For what Roy Gerela and Fred Cox contributed Sunday, they should have paid their way in.

For Pittsburgh, it was their first NFL title in 42 years of trying, but it was New Orleans that got rich.

Viewed from the vantage of the strict football purist, it was a sloppy game with blocked kicks, fumbles and interceptions a dime a dozen. We wonder if the sportswriters covering the game will label it as such. You'll remember a few years ago when Baltimore beat Dallas, 16-13, in the Super Bowl, still the most exciting game in the nine-year history of the event, the experts deplored the exhibition as shabby and unworthy.

As usual, the Super Bowl turned out to be quite a colossal affair, a weeklong buildup in the press and more than five hours of tv built around one hour of football. Beside it Normandy would seem insignificant.

It took Don Meredith in his pre-game discussion with Namath to put the game in its proper perspective.

After reviewing the strengths and weaknesses of the Super rivals, the pair got around to the coaches.

Don provided the lead question: "What's a Chuck Knox, Joe?"

"He's coach of the Los Angeles Rams."

Texoma To Test Midwestern

By The Associated Press

Texoma Athletic Conference basketball action picks up this week with the other members trying to find out if Midwestern University is for real.

Midwestern has surged to the top of the standings with an 81-66 blitz of McMurry College before an enthusiastic crowd of 3,100 Saturday night in Wichita Falls.

McMurry had figured to give Midwestern its toughest challenge and the Indians have already taken two games from the Abilene school.

Midwestern is at Dallas Baptist, a team which upset the favored Wichita Falls club last year, on Thursday night. On Saturday, Midwestern is on the road against Texas Wesleyan.

Miller Sizzles At Phoenix

Posts Biggest Winning Margin In Tour History

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — So what do you do for an encore, Johnny Miller? "I don't know," the young man replied. "I can't top this. That's for sure. I'll probably never do this again."

"Just keep on playing, I guess. That's all I can do. Just take one step at a time. Put one brick on top of the other and try to build an Empire State Building out of it."

"I'll just go on to Tucson and try to play a good first round, then try to play a good second round and try to play a good third round and win the tournament and go on to Pebble Beach and try to win there."

Miller, rapidly establishing the rich pro golf tour as his own private hunting preserve, took the first step towards matching last season's sweep of the first three tournaments with the easiest triumph ever recorded.

starts Miller has won by 8, 7, and 14 strokes.

"It's ridiculous," Miller said. "I don't think I'm that much better than everyone else. It's just that everything seems to be going my way."

Steeler Defense Buries Tarkenton

Harris' Record 158 Yards Does Rest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was, Mean Joe Greene, his wrecking machine — and an old man's dream.

Not that Franco Harris didn't have something to do with it. After all, a Super Bowl rushing record is not to be overlooked.

But in the long run — which Minnesota never had — it was Pittsburgh's ferocious front four that ultimately gave the Steelers and their 73-year-old owner, Art Rooney, their first National Football League championship after 42 years of frustration.

Greene, Dwight White, Ernie Holmes and L.C. Greenwood had about as much subtlety as a cement wall — and all of its effectiveness — when the Vikings tried to move the ball on the ground. Seventeen yards was all they got, which is to say they got nowhere.

If there was any deceptiveness in Super Bowl IX, it was only in the 16-6 final score. The six points the Vikings got weren't really of their own making. They were the result of a blocked punt. So, in effect, the Steelers' defense came up with a shutout.

Never Better

"They've never played a better defensive game, never," Coach Chuck Noll said emphatically. "Our defense has been fantastic all season and I think it's appropriate that they should finish things off like they did."

They finished off the Vikings not only by turning their running game into oatmeal but by turning quarterback Fran Tarkenton back into a scrambler. He'd sort of lost that image in the last season or two. But in chilly, overcast, windswept Tulane Stadium, he nearly lost a few limbs.

Tarkenton spent virtually the entire afternoon trying to avoid being ground into hamburger by the half-ton meat grinder known as Greene and Co. Rarely did he have a chance to set up and scout around, looking for a receiver.

And when he did throw the ball, the Steelers were usually there to spike it back down his throat, tip it away or intercept it. Of his 27 passes, only 11 wound up in a teammate's hands, the end result being 102 of the Vikings' total 123 yards.

Terry Accurate

Unlike Tarkenton, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw usually threw the ball not because he had to but because he wanted to. He completed nine of 14 attempts for 96 yards, four of them coming on a fourth-quarter touchdown pass to tight end Larry Brown that sealed the Vikings' doom.

Bradshaw, who had been called everything in the book from just plain dumb to a quarterback who choked when it counted, knew exactly what he had to do in this most important of pro football games.

He just handed the ball to Franco.

Harris, combining the finesse of a slashing halfback and the brute force of a bulldozer, formed of his record performance that broke the marks of 33 carries and 145 yards and turned Miami's Larry Csonka into a Super Bowl second-best. "I can't believe it. I never thought it could have been that high."

In the end, though, the ultimate accomplishment was by Greene and his cohorts, who played a super game when a lot of people had thought they'd peaked two weeks ago, limiting the Oakland Raiders to 29 yards rushing in the 24-13 American Conference championship victory.

"I sat and watched the people playing in the Super Bowl for eight years," said Greene, The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Year. "Now we've won it and it's even greater than I thought it could be... I finally got the Super Bowl ring. I finally got it."

The Steelers' first points of the game came on a safety. A safety, more than an interception or a fumble recovery, is like a road sign reading: "Falling Rocks."

It means, simply, that a player on the other team is in danger of being buried under a landslide — one of bodies rather than boulders.

Muffed Handoff

That's what happened to Tarkenton midway in the second quarter. Buried deep in his own territory (as the Vikings were most of the game), he mis-handled a pitchout to Dave Osborne, then was forced to pounce on the loose ball in the end zone.

The safety, the first in Super Bowl history, was the only scoring in the first half. It was strange, seeing a 2-0 score on a football scoreboard. It meant that Pittsburgh's offense, numerically, at least, had been equal to Minnesota's, which is to say ineffective.

But the strategy started working the moment they got their hands on the ball in the second half, when Bill Brown of the Vikings fumbled away the kickoff. Harris boomed through the left side for 24 yards, lost three on the next play, then careened in for the touchdown and a 9-0 lead.

It stood up until Matt Blair blocked a Bobby Walden punt early in the fourth quarter and Terry Brown scooped up the ball in the end zone for the Minnesota touchdown.

Cox Misses

But, perhaps typically, Fred Cox' extra point was no good, hitting the left upright. So the Vikings trailed by three points instead of two.

Not that it mattered. They were already clearly on their way to losing their third Super Bowl game, not what you'd call a disgrace since getting into three of them is no mean feat in itself.

If they weren't dead then, they were 6 1/2 minutes later. The Steelers took the ensuing kickoff and, from their own 34-yard line, careened down the field with the biting force of winds that whipped through the stadium.

Rooney, the 73-year-old Steeler owner, was off in a corner with his usual cap, overcoat and cigar — but minus the burden he'd carried in 42 years without an NFL title.

"I don't deserve much if any of the credit because my sons Dan and Art and Coach Noll have been running the team," Rooney said in his characteristic monotone.

Greatest Thrill

"But this is still the greatest thrill in my life," he added. "The other years were good years too despite the frustrations and I have no regrets, but I'm happy for our players, coaches and the people in Pittsburgh."

Rooney had a cigar for everybody in the locker room. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle had a glistening, silver super bowl trophy for Rooney, whose dad used to run a saloon on Pittsburgh's North Side.

"This entire team dedicated this effort at winning the Super Bowl for Mr. Rooney," offened his record performance that broke the marks of 33 carries and 145 yards and turned Miami's Larry Csonka into a Super Bowl second-best. "I can't believe it. I never thought it could have been that high."

39-54 NON-LOOP MARK—SWC Suffers Cage Lumps

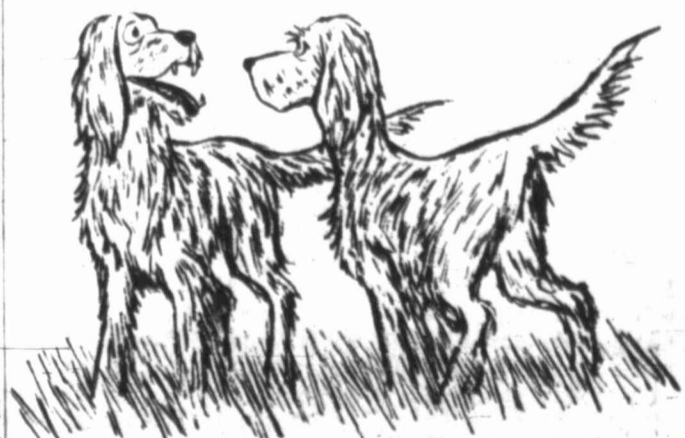

By The Associated Press

Rice and Baylor, two teams who have had it rough against intersectional opponents, opened the Southwest Conference basketball race Saturday afternoon at Waco in a regionally televised game.

The Owls, who lost to cross-town rival Houston 91-70 Saturday night, are 3-8 while Baylor, twice beaten in the Storr's Classic in Connecticut, own a 4-8 ledger.

Only Southern Methodist, at 3-7, has a poorer overall ledger than the Owls and Bears.

Defending conference champion Texas gave the SWC, locks a taste of playing in Lubbock against tough Texas Tech.

Braves, McAdoo Defeat Celtics

By The Associated Press
Bob McAdoo and the Buffalo Braves put on a Super Sunday show of their own against the Boston Celtics.

The Braves whipped the defending National Basketball Association champions 114-101 before a frenzied crowd of 15,377 at Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium and a national television audience.

"We put out about as hard as we could," said McAdoo, Buffalo's all-star center who poured in 41 points and hauled down 13 rebounds.

By winning, Buffalo snapped a seven-game Boston winning streak and drew within one game of the first-place Celtics in the NBA Atlantic Division.

Boston never led in the game as Buffalo jumped to a 34-27 lead at the end of first quarter. Buffalo guard Randy Smith, another all-star, hit six of seven field goal attempts for 12 points in the period. Smith finished with 24 points.

Bucks 96, 76ers 88

The 76ers led for three periods, but Jim Price hit a basket and two free throws to start Milwaukee on the way to their eighth victory in 10 starts. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 29 points paced the Bucks; Doug Collins carried the Philadelphians with 21.

Bulls 127, SuperSonics 123

Chicago's Norm Van Lier scored a career-high 42 points and Bob Love hit two free throws with 41 seconds remaining in the second overtime to put the Bulls in front 125-123.

Chet Walker followed with another pair to clinch the victory. Love finished with 27 points and Walker with 34.

In the fourth period, rookie Wardell Jackson, who scored a career-high 23 points, hit on two free throws to tie the score at 104-104, then hit a jumper to put Seattle in front, but Van Lier came right back to send the game into overtime.

Archie Clark's rolling jump shot with one second left in the first overtime gave the Sonics a 116-116 tie.

Q's 110, Sounds 107

San Diego's Caldwell Jones scored 34 points and the Conquistadors held Memphis scoreless for 8 1/2 minutes on the way to victory. The drought blew a 17-point Memphis lead built by some of George Carter's 22 points.

Cage Power Gets Test

By The Associated Press
Games this week should give an indication of Arkansas State's basketball muscle since the Indians own the best mark against outside competition among the Southland Conference members with a 6-4 ledger.

Arkansas State hosts Georgia Southern tonight and then travels to Southern Florida for a Saturday night encounter.

Don Scaffe of Arkansas State is the hottest shooter in the league. In his last three games he has scored 32, 24, and 43 points. He has a 10-game average of 26.9 points per contest.

McNeese State was heartened by the return to the lineup of freshman John Rudd, who scored 20 points and sacked 14 rebounds in an 85-73 victory over Virginia Military Institute.

Lamar University continued its slump. The Cardinals have lost four games in a row.

Texas-Arlington is having problems on offense, yielding only 199 points against three foes yet losing two of the games.

Pan American is at UTA tonight while Louisiana Tech is at Mercer in the highlight games of the evening other than for the Arkansas State-Georgia Southern.

Fitzgeralds' Daughter Compiles Book For Self-Protection

By EVE SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Scottie Fitzgerald Smith has compiled a book about her famous parents, Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald, for self-protection.

"People have often asked me — sometimes almost reproachfully — why I haven't written more about my parents. The answer is very simple: I'd be a big disappointment if I did."

She did the next best thing: published a book based on the Fitzgeralds' scrapbooks and photo albums, telling about them in their own words. "The Romantic Egoists: A Pictorial Autobiography from the Albums of Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald," is the result.

Fitzgerald's first novel, written at Princeton University, was to have been titled "The Romantic Egoist," but several revisions later, it became "This Side of Paradise."

"People were always asking to see the albums," Mrs. Smith said. "Edges were wearing, articles becoming torn. I thought the books ought to be preserved somehow, so we've condensed them, concentrating on things that should be especially illuminating."

Ninety per cent of the book's illustrations, including reviews and letters, were taken from the seven scrapbooks and five protograph albums Mrs. Smith had saved through the years.

Now 53, she was a student at Vassar when her famous father died in 1940, of a heart attack. She was working in New York when her mother died in a hospital fire in 1948.

Dance programs, baby announcements, paper dolls Zelda made for young Scottie and an eight-page color insert reproducing Zelda's paintings are included along with published stories, reviews and letters.

Prof. Matthew J. Bruccoli of the University of South Carolina and Joan P. Kerr, former picture editor at Life and American Heritage — and Scottie's classmate at Vassar — helped to compile the book. Much of the material has been published before, but not under one cover.

"By the time I finally grew up enough to think of life as something other than a chain of hot fudge sundaes and Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers movies, Daddy was in Hollywood and our communication largely epistolary," Scottie writes in her introduction to the just-released book. "I've come to see my parents through my own eyes through the eyes of others; and second, I've paid a tribute to them which was long overdue."

Today Mrs. Smith resembles some early photographs of her mother — square-faced, blonde, attractive. She finds it "interesting and odd" that her mother should be viewed by some feminists as a woman's lib heroine.

"Many people see my father as a male chauvinist, and think he tried to keep my mother from using her talent. I don't agree with that theory. I think he tried to help her achieve something on her own — certainly he did with stories and letters to her at Vassar."

"He wanted her to go to art school because her talent for painting, although untrained, was evident. He didn't get upset about her dabbling in ballet until she hurt herself. He only opposed publication of 'Save Me the Waltz' (Mrs. Fitzgerald's autobiographical novel) because she was writing about the same period, the same things, he was writing about then," Mrs. Smith said in an interview.

"I do not look upon that as competition between a man and a woman, a husband and wife, but as competition between two professionals trying to achieve."

She remembered Fitzgerald's

Heington in 1950 to work for the Democratic Digest, a publication of the Democratic National Committee. She is an ardent Democrat.

"My first love is writing for newspapers," she said. She worked for the Northern Virginia Sun, the New York Times and the Washington Post, and once authored a book about women in the Washington press corps titled, "Don't Quote Me."

"I'd like to write a book about Lindy Boggs — as a woman, a legislator and a Southerner; I think it might be very good," Mrs. Smith said.

"I don't want to ride on Daddy's hard work. I want to be my own person and do my own thing."

Smothers Brothers Return Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — The Smothers Brothers, fearless censor-baiters during their three turbulent years on CBS, are back with us again in a weekly variety series, starting tonight on NBC-TV. It's good to have them back, even though I've always felt their reputations as controversial performers were bogus. They are campus humorists at large and no more.

But in their CBS years (they were axed in April 1969 in a flap over censorship) their shows always had laughs, quality music arrangements, good writing, fine new performers and a spirit of devilry.

Their opening show on NBC tonight isn't quite up to their old standards, but it still is way ahead of most network variety shows, which these days seem only to feature the sound of music and snoring.

Tom Smothers, now an elderly 38, starts the show by noting the brothers' departure from CBS almost six years ago — and omitting mention of their 1970 summer show on ABC, which flopped.

"We went off the air at about the same time that (Richard) Nixon came in," he says, and with a gentle jibe at the NBC censor, hastily adds, "This is not a political statement or a social comment."

He observes that during the late 1960s, the nation was divided, with hawks against doves and conservatives against liberals, a time when people were "a them or a those."

"And Dickie and I happened to be one of those and we didn't know then we were going to do that good. Anyway, there are getting theirs now."

He concedes that some may feel he and his 36-year-old brother "got the (NBC) show by copping out, by making concessions.... Nothing could be closer to the truth."

And subsequently the show

goes into a series of skits, one of which features rock star Alice Cooper, appearing in civies and without his familiar makeup, singing "Unfinished Sweet."

Cooper winds up in a dream sequence, in makeup, coming out of a big mouth, surrounded by dancing molars and waving a giant toothbrush. Even with all this, the number seems to lack bite.

George Burns, Johnny Carson and Redd Foxx show up for a lame skit devoted to honoring only gag punchlines. Foxx reappears for a dull, tasteless bit about the 25th anniversary of a mixed marriage.

The bright moments come only when the brothers clown their way through a song — "Dueling Banjos" — or when the other "name" stars are absent from the other skits.

The show is very uneven, but it has a potential which may live up to the glory of the old days, provided the Smothers: — Resume their custom of introducing young new performers. — Are allowed reasonable freedom in booking guests and material. — Don't scream at the censor too often. Once a week should suffice.

New Christy Minstrels Delight Crowd, Benefit 'Serious' Music

Midland Symphony Guild has provided a number of "fun" entertainments in recent years if some of their arrangements — an evening with Phyllis Diller, a wine tasting evening and a follies are some examples — as fund-raising projects to benefit the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral.

The organization gave us still another fun evening Saturday when it presented the New Christy Minstrels to a packed audience in Midland Country Club.

Whether or not this is the first time the New Christy Minstrels' light-hearted, merry music-making has directly benefited the cause of so-called "serious" music, I wouldn't know. What I do know is that the Guild very obviously chose its entertainment attraction wisely, and the singing-instrumental group seemed to have delighted just about every member of the audience Saturday night. Here's hoping the hard working and dedicated Guild made a bundle for its efforts, to be used in helping underwrite the symphony operating budget.

As Mrs. Roger Allen, Guild president, pointed out in her welcome to the audience, it's not just the symphony instrumentalists and singers who make the music possible. The people who support the orchestra with their contributions, with their purchase of tickets and with their attendance at fund-raising events such as the one Saturday night, make it possible, too!

The New Christy Minstrels is an engaging and talented a group as you might find anywhere. Its members have the performing expertise and the relaxed-ness that comes from working together over a long period. If some of their routines are a bit slick, and noteworthy presentation may tend to be a trifle over-arranged, that can probably be at least partially attributed to this long and close team work.

The ensemble — five young men, three young ladies — opened with a current favorite, "I Believe in Music," which certainly was apt for these talented performers, and went on to provide both old and new favorites for their listeners. Among the offerings were "Shenandoah," "Green, Green," "Jambalaya," and several novelty numbers as well as selection of songs by Jim Webb, including "MacArthur Park" and "Wichita Lineman." A noteworthy presentation was "Mack the Knife," the Kurt Weill-Bertolt Brecht ballad with which the late Bobby Darin was closely identified and which the New Christy Minstrels presented as part of a special tribute to Darin. The group's spirited version of "Me and Bobbie McGee" later in the evening also was good. A spoozy, humorous version of "A Taste of Honey" was well received by the audience.

The performers presented their vocal numbers in solos, duos and trios, and they all doubled as instrumentalists on occasion.

PUTTING SELVES IN BETTER LIGHT—

Legislature Improves News Conference Accommodations

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators, who at times have made moves toward keeping newsmen at arms length during debate, have brand new facilities for putting themselves in better light before the press and public.

On the eve of the 64th Legislature both the House and Senate have added and improved facilities for their members to hold press conferences with full facilities for the note-taking newsman, radio-tv and still news cameras and sound-recording equipment.

Hired Publicity Staffs

All this in addition to the hired staffs maintained by each house to publicize its respective members.

Just a few weeks ago a special House committee called in newsmen permanently stationed in the Capitol and hinted that the House would like to move all reporters and photographers into the spectators' gallery but might settle for new rules that would keep reporters tied to their tiny press section in one corner of the House chamber with no access at all to the 150 representatives during any of the lawmaking sessions.

There were loud protests, including some editorials, from both the working press and their employers.

Later, Speaker-apparent Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, said it had been decided to continue the 1973 legislature rules that would let newsmen have brief contact with lawmakers during debate as long as it did not disturb proceedings.

Velvet Curtain, Lights

A few days ago, the House proudly unveiled its new look in press conference rooms, the remodeled Speakers' Committee Room. A royal blue velvet curtain hangs along one wall as backing to a king-size Texas seal—making a perfect background for a person being photographed. A bank of five special photography lights line the walls to cast any speaker in full direct light. Microphones and connections surround the room.

At the other end of the Capitol, the Lieutenant Governor's Committee Room, also has been remodeled. There also is a big Texas seal on the wall but the main additions are eight powerful spotlights in the ceiling that throw a brilliance on the horseshoe-shaped committee table equal to a movie set. "I feel like a car that's having a new coat of enamel baked on," said one sweating senator during a trial run.

At the executive end of the Capitol there are two spotlights in the governor's reception room where Gov. Dolph Briscoe holds his formal press conferences. They were installed several years ago.

Powerful Spotlights

Both legislative houses also have special powerful spotlights built into the high ceilings of the chamber.

In the Senate, the two lights shine down on the extra-large painting of the Battle of the Alamo and the Battle of San Jacinto.

In the House, the lights, installed during the reign of former Speaker Gus Mutscher, are directed on the speaker's desk.

Another innovation in the House is a new telephone system for members. Instead of good-looking "telephone girls" running around the chamber and summoning representatives to a row of telephone booths in the back corridor there are now direct telephone connections at each member's desk. A representative, talking on the extension telephone to a secretary in his office outside the chamber, can place and receive calls from anyone, anywhere.

Boon To Lobbyists

"The lobbyists are the happiest people in town," said one member. "Now they can give directions to their pet legislators from any pay phone in town."

The Senate has telephone tables on either side of the chamber where calls may be dialed or received.

A last minute effort in the Senate was to "level off" the 31 microphones on the senators' desks. Senate workers hope the fancy new electronic additions will allow a senator to be heard equally well from behind or in front of his desk without booming tones being followed by inaudible mumbles.

FRIGID FACE?—Not this employe of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., who dresses in this fashion when he goes out to work on the trans-Alaska oil pipeline somewhere north of Anchorage, Alaska. Winter temperatures can drop as low as 60 degrees below zero, and the wind can produce chill factors much lower. (AP Wirephoto.)

Gunman Shoots, Kills Texan, 61, On Expressway Ramp

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Police said Joe Henry Thornton, 61, and his wife were returning here Sunday from Corpus Christi when a man waving a shotgun flagged them to a halt on an expressway ramp.

Police said she leaped from the car but was forced back in with the gunman, who drove briefly with the man through six miles before they halted their car window and was starting to drive away hastily when a shotgun blast in the face identified as Raul Cervantes Martinez, 31, of Pleasanton and charged him with murder and robbing Mrs. Thornton.

Clayton Forced To Surrender His Pilot's License

By The Associated Press

Texas House speaker-apparent Bill Clayton has been forced to surrender his private pilot's license. A Federal Aviation Agency official said he passed flight physicals by not revealing a 1968 heart attack.

Clayton, whom the House is expected to elect as its speaker Tuesday, denied any deliberate falsification.

A pilot must obtain a new medical certificate every two years, and this includes answering a medical history questionnaire that asks whether he has ever had heart trouble.

Denial Automatic

Mark Weaver, spokesman for the FAA Aeromedical Certification Branch in Oklahoma City, said a "yes" answer to the heart problem question results in automatic denial of a medical certificate. But, he said, Clayton obtained the required certificate in 1970 and 1972.

Henry Newman, FAA regional administrator at Fort Worth, said the agency learned of Clayton's heart attack in October.

"We wrote him about it, and he voluntarily surrendered his medical certificate. In December he surrendered his pilot's certificate," Newman said. "Is it true that Mr. Clayton falsified statements regarding his health when his medical certificate was renewed in 1970 and 1972?" Newman was asked.

'Matter Of Record'

"Well, it's a matter of record. That's the case. That's true. That's what the record shows. He (Clayton) answered 'no' on questions about his medical problem," Newman said.

Next to the signature block on the application for an FAA medical certificate is a warning that falsification could result in five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

But Newman said the FAA does not plan to prosecute.

"Our primary consideration is safety. He's grounded and he's no longer a menace to himself or those on the ground. That's our main concern. These cases get pretty nasty sometimes when a guy refuses to surrender his certificate. He has surrendered his, so we consider the case to be closed," Newman said.

Clayton, 46, is expected to be elected House speaker when the legislature convenes Tuesday. He is a Democratic state representative from Springlake.

He had a heart attack, which he described as a myocardial infarction, March 12, 1968, and was hospitalized in Austin for three weeks.

Exception Possible

FAA regulations specifically mention a myocardial infarction as automatic grounds for denying a medical certificate.

Philip T. Cothrum, chief of the FAA aeromedical review section in Oklahoma City, said a pilot with such a history can obtain an exemption. But the procedure is cumbersome. The pilot must receive a complete cardiovascular examination by a cardiologist.

"Clayton said he never went through that procedure, and Weaver said FAA records showed no exemption.

Clayton said he did not remember obtaining a medical certificate in 1970 and asserted, "I wasn't flying any."

Doctor Fills Out Form

He said as he remembered his 1972 physical, the doctor filled out the questionnaire for him after merely asking, "Is anything wrong with you?" and being told, "No." Weaver said for a doctor to do that would be "unethical but not illegal."

"If that box was on there and asked if I had had a heart attack, I should have said yes," Clayton said.

POOR FAMILIES HURT—

Food Costs Outrunning Food Stamp Allowances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail grocery costs continue to rise faster than benefits allowed poor families under the government's food stamp program, new figures by the Agriculture Department indicated today.

Latest figures show a typical family could purchase a monthly maximum of $150 worth of food stamps but it cost $157.20 a month to feed that family.

Meanwhile, the department still has under consideration a proposal by President Ford which would boost food stamp costs to needy families beginning March 1.

The plan calls for charging a family a flat rate of 30 per cent of its net monthly income, regardless of how many persons are in the family. Currently, food stamp charges average 23 per cent of net income and also depend on household sizes.

Officials say the higher rates will cut federal food stamp costs at least $215 million in the last four months of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

A final decision on the proposal has been delayed. This has raised speculation that some changes might be made to help calm protests in Congress.

The figures disclosed today by the Agriculture Department showed the cost of a so-called economy diet for a family of four was $157.20 last November, up $1.20 from October.

Total food stamps a family of four could get in November were worth $150 a month, a rate which took effect last July 1. The Agriculture Department is required by law to make semi-annual adjustments in stamp allowances to reflect changes in food prices. The department's economy diet plan is used as the standard.

The four-member family's stamp allowance was increased to $154 a month on Jan. 1, which reflected the cost of the economy food plan last August. Another revision will be made as of July 1 to reflect food price increases through February.

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1975. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C., to settle in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date — In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the War of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeake and Delaware bays.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 persons.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany after being administered by France under League of Nations supervision.

In 1963, the Soviet government accused nine doctors of plotting to kill Communist leaders. It later was said the charges were false.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a wartime conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

Ten years ago: President Johnson asked Congress to adopt new immigration legislation that would abolish quotas based on national origins.

Five years ago: Israeli planes bombed five targets inside Egypt, including an air force supply base 14 miles from Cairo.

One year ago: President Nixon flew back to Washington after an 18-day vacation in California.

Today's birthdays: Former chairman Earl Wheeler of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff is 67. Labor mediator William Simkin is 67.

Thought for today: Striving to better, oft we mar what was well. — William Shakespeare, 1565-1616.

Liquor Machines Will Close Early

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese liquor shop owners have decided to shut off the 100,000 beer and sake vending machines from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. daily in an effort to fight alcoholism and crime, according to a spokesman for the owners. The spokesman for Japan Liquor Retailers Association said the owners made the decision after police said the automats often triggered crimes by making alcoholic beverages available after restaurants and liquor shops close.

$6000 CASH REFUND

Buy early and receive a special cash refund to homeowners who are modernizing forced air heating systems or replacing existing heat pump systems.

It heats and cools. A Weathertron Wood Furnace is a simple system. Simply set the automatic thermostat and forget it. The heat pump will change from heating to cooling, cooling to heating, by itself. It's self-electric. The Weathertron is efficient. Because it takes heat from the outside air, it delivers more than two units of heat for every unit of electricity it uses (at the ARI heat rating scale). Capacity ranges from 10,000 to 30,000 BTU. Offer valid January 15 through February 28, 1975. Payment must be installed by March 31, 1975.

You may be using a ton of coal a year without even knowing it.

The reason you don't know you're using this coal is because it comes to you in the form of electricity.

We now have one power plant that uses Texas lignite coal. It accounts for about 15% of our total generation. We figure it uses an average of about one ton of coal annually for each residential customer.

Two other lignite plants are under construction. By 1980, when almost half of the electricity we generate will be with lignite, you may be using three to four tons of coal a year.

We're using lignite because new supplies of natural gas and oil—our traditional fuels—are hard to get and increasingly expensive.

The higher costs of building power plants that use lignite, together with continuing inflation, are pushing the cost of producing electricity up. But the lignite fuel is more economical. It will help us keep the price of electricity from increasing as much as it would if we tried to depend on new supplies of natural gas and oil.

One other big advantage of lignite is that it isn't being used extensively for anything other than the generation of electricity.

We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

One of the ways we're doing it is by using a fuel that you can't use yourself.

IRS Says Nixon Still Owes Income Taxes For 1969

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service says former President Richard M. Nixon has paid back taxes for 1970 through 1972 but has not produced a sum he agreed to pay for 1969.

The IRS ruled in April that Nixon owed a total $432,767 — back taxes for the four years, interest for the 1970-72 years and a 5 per cent negligence penalty.

The figure included $148,061 for 1969, on which the statute of limitations had expired.

At the time, Nixon agreed to pay the whole sum without a contest. On Sunday, however, the IRS spokesman quoted IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander as saying the 1969 amount was yet to be paid.

Pope Paul Urges Real World Peace

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI has called on all men to help bring the world real peace by seeking "the peace of conscience."

"This last part of the 20th century (has been) laden with the most upsetting experiences," he told about 1,000 people who gathered Sunday in rain outside the papal palace. The pontiff spoke from the window of his top floor study.

South Viet Jets Wreck Red Convoy

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese bombers flying 100 missions today wrecked a 400-truck North Vietnamese convoy carrying troops and supplies for an offensive against Kontum in the central highlands, 2nd Corps headquarters said.

It was one of the biggest South Vietnamese air campaigns of the war.

The 2nd Corps command said more than 200 Soviet-built Molotov trucks were destroyed and 170 North Vietnamese troops were killed.

Six-Hour Operation

The command said South Vietnamese bombers hammered the convoy for more than six hours and set afire scores of trucks carrying fuel, anti-aircraft guns and troops of a North Vietnamese division that planned "to open big attacks against military region 2 (the central highlands) with the main target Kontum," 260 miles north of Saigon.

Spokesmen said the convoy was moving toward Kontum and was attacked about six miles to the northwest of the city. They said the convoy had come through a North Vietnamese road network in Laos.

Red Target In 1968

Kontum, 25 miles east of Lao-tian and Cambodian borders, was a main target in the 1968 Tet offensive and again in the 1972 Easter offensive, and although North Vietnamese troops entered the city they never succeeded in capturing it.

There was no immediate corroboration of the 2nd Corps headquarters claim, which presumably was based on pilots' reports. In the past, pilots have at times made exaggerated or duplicating claims.

Heavy Cambodian Fighting

In Cambodia, heavy fighting raged around the Mekong River town of Neak Luong as Khmer Rouge rebels battled to strengthen their two-week-old blockade of the waterway, the last major surface supply line to Phnom Penh.

All roads into the capital have been cut for some time, and river convoys from Saigon have been halted since the insurgents began their campaign Jan. 1.

Military sources said government troops still hold ground on the east and west banks of the Mekong at Neak Luong, 35 miles southeast of the capital. They denied earlier reports that government forces had abandoned the west bank section of the town, which is a major naval base and ferry crossing.

Train Derailment Forces Louisiana Town Evacuation

BOUTTE, La. (AP) — Residents within a half mile radius were evacuated Sunday morning when 15 cars of a freight train derailed near here.

Hydrochloric acid spilled over the railroad bed from one of the cars. Another carrying liquefied petroleum gas didn't rupture.

U.S. Highway 90 and Louisiana 631 were blocked for several hours as sheriff's deputies diluted the acid with water and spread lime over the roadbed to absorb it.

The 31-car Southern Pacific train was en route from Lafayette to New Orleans.

The situation was under control by midafternoon, police said.

Best way to keep children aware of the value of money is to borrow some from them.

You open a window to let in fresh air. When the other guy does it, he lets in a draft.

Ever notice how the same kids who are eating you out of house and home are never there?

Wife at breakfast table to grumpy husband: "Look on the bright side. In 16 hours, you'll be back in bed."

It's OK to be temperamental, but sometimes it's hard to tell where the temper ends, and the mental begins.

We're never temperamental at Hines-Wood Upholstery Co., 5109 Andrews Highway. Call us at 694-8891 for a free estimate in your home on making your old furniture look like new with quality material and expert workmanship.

Stock Prices Open Strong, Then Dip In Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market got off to a strong start today, but gave up some of its gains in a late-morning round of profit-taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, ahead more than 6 points in the early going, showed a 2.27-point gain at 9:59 a.m. Gainers maintained a 7.2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The initial burst was credited largely to a reduction of the prime lending rate to 9 1/2 percent by New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust. It was the first

U.S. Aircraft Makers Share Large Slice Of Middle East Oil Bonanza

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Much of what the Mideast earns from the oil it takes out of the ground is being put into the air, and U.S. aircraft manufacturers are benefiting more than those of other nations.

More than $700 million of commercial aircraft were sold to Mideast carriers by U.S. manufacturers in 1974, and there are indications that the transactions will continue for several years.

These sales are distinct from orders for military aircraft, the largest of which was announced last week and which would involve Saudi Arabia in payment of $756 million for 60 Northrup Corp. jet fighters.

body transports by the Saudi Arabian airline, plus two Boeing 707-300 long-range convertible cargo-passenger transports.

A letter of intent by Egyptian to buy six DC9 series 50 twin-jet transports valued at $45 million from McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Two second-hand Boeing 747-100s for $64 million by Trans Mediterranean Airways, the Lebanese freight carrier.

Three Boeing 737-200s and one 737-300 to be delivered this year to Air Algerie.

Five Boeing aircraft purchased by Iraqi Airways.

If the projections hold, it would mean a significant contribution to the U.S. trade balance, as well as to the companies involved.

Mideast Markets, a publication affiliated with the Chase Manhattan Bank, quotes Amer Sherif, an important Arab air official, as saying Arab airlines will more than double capacity in the next five years at a cost of $2.5 billion.

It interprets this and other comments by Sherif to mean

Swinger and Plymouth Duster. A new trade-in target will begin Thursday.

Falling sales have left the nation's car dealers with a record 100-day stockpile of unsold models.

January layoffs will take their toll on $26,000 blue-collar auto workers, including 180,000 indefinitely, almost half of the industry's 85,000 hourly workers.

Chrysler's unprecedented discount program is not the price rollback that dealers and industry analysts have called for to stimulate sales. But it represents the first substantial discounts since the industry's sales slump began more than a year ago.

Some analysts predicted the other companies may follow Chrysler's unusual lead. But spokesmen for all the other auto makers said it won't happen.

Chrysler 'Carnival' Offers Car Rebates

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp.'s price discount "carnival" debuts this week with the firm offering a $200 rebate to those who buy one of its thousands of unsold compact cars.

While the first pricing gesture of the 1975 model year gets underway, 262,000 auto workers are on layoff because of sagging car sales.

Twenty car assembly plants and eight truck factories are closed this week in production cutbacks. Industry observers blame the sales slide in part on September price increases which averaged $450 per vehicle.

Chrysler's promotional campaign includes an additional $100 rebate to purchasers who trade in a subcompact Chevrolet Vega or Ford Pinto by Wednesday.

The $200 rebate is good for one week on the Dodge Dart.

Prospect In Ward Continues Testing

American Quasar Petroleum Co. No. 2 Barstow Township, prospective Devonian pay opener in the Barstow field of Ward County, 1/2 mile southwest of Barstow, flowed gas at the rate of 500,000 cubic feet per day.

Flow was through an open 2-inch orifice and perforated interval from 17,563-17,657 feet, which had been acidized with 10,000 gallons. Testing continued.

The prospect is 1,097 feet from southwest and 660 feet from southeast lines of WTK survey, abstract 376.

Home Warning System Planned By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warnings of nuclear attack, hurricanes, tornadoes and other disasters will be sent out by the federal government on an FM radio frequency.

The White House Office of Telecommunications Policy said Sunday the warnings will be issued through the National Weather Service, broadcasting 24 hours daily over VHF-FM radio channels 162.40 and 162.55 megahertz.

John M. Eger, acting director of telecommunications policy, said most home radios are not presently capable of receiving these channels, so the new system requires installation of a special adapter.

But the device, described as inexpensive and already on the market, is expected to be built into new radios as they are manufactured.

"The system incorporates a special tone alert signal permitting home receivers to be activated automatically if desired by the owner," Eger said.

If the owner has his radio turned on and set at the specified channels, he will hear a beep signal telling him to turn up the volume and receive the warning.

For the "forceable future" it is doubtful most people will purchase receivers capable of picking up the channels, so the system will supplement other warning systems, Eger said.

These include sirens, news announcements on local radio, and television stations and block-by-block canvassing by public officials.

Pickets March In Texas As Bargaining Resumes

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Negotiators returned to the bargaining table today with one eye on a counterproposal package that the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers (OCAW) local union made to Mobil Oil Corp.

The company has under consideration a union offer that would include a 26.8 per cent wage hike already accepted by the OCAW international union as a pattern formula in contract negotiations with the oil industry.

But on the fringe benefits, the union has asked Mobil for a better pension plan. It also stipulates that any agreement is contingent on settlement of local issues at the Mobil refinery here.

OCAW local 4-243 of the Mobil main plant group made the counterproposal Saturday. Sunday, the Mobil office group local 4-23 also were to discuss local issues today.

Leads Missing In Armed Robbery

ODESSA — No leads have been developed in the Saturday night armed robbery of the Twin Terrace Drive-In Theater here in which $29 was taken from the ticket box attendant.

Mrs. Emma Bryce of Odessa told officers that a man came to the box on foot, pulled a long-barreled gun on her, and told her to give him all the money.

Police said he jerked the phone from the wall before leaving.

Jury Selection Under Way Here

Jurors were being selected today for the armed robbery trial of Robert Francis Shano of Illinois, indicted in the July 1, 1973, holdup of the Regal 8 Motel here.

Shano, in his early 20s, is charged in 142nd District Court with taking approximately $1,200 from motel employe Albert Robert Rompot.

The trial is to go before the jury Tuesday.

Midland Collects Nearly $1.2 Million From Sales Tax

The City of Midland collected approximately $1.2 million in city sales tax revenue during the first three quarters of 1974.

The sales tax revenue figure was revealed today by the city's finance department.

Ernie Dodson, director of finance, quoted the revenue figures for the first three quarters of 1974 as $343,000, $388,000 and $463,000, respectively.

Dodson said the city should receive approximately $1.5 million in sales tax revenue for the entire four quarters of 1974.

James Brown, city manager, said the sales tax revenue is the "primary reason" for Midland being able to maintain its current tax rate without an increase.

Brown said the revenue is put into the general revenue fund and used for several aspects of the city's financial picture.

Cities across the state received a total of $62 million in the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1974, it was announced by the state comptroller's department.

Third quarter sales tax revenue for other West Texas cities included Stanton, $4,674; Sterling City, $1,769, and Odessa, $759,367.

Northrup Still Hopeful About Rich Jet Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite predictions that General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex., may receive a prized government contract to build a jet fighter plane, officials of the competing Northrup Corp. say they are still confident they will win the contract.

Northrup, builder of the proposed YF17 aircraft, has been in competition for the last three years with General Dynamics' YF16 to win the contract which defense officials have estimated could lead to worldwide sales of more than 3,000 planes.

It is estimated that the difference between winning and losing the contract to supply the lightweight jet fighter planes to the United States and foreign nations is from $15 billion to $30 billion in contracts and about 12,000 jobs.

The Associated Press reported Saturday that the Air Force had rejected the Northrup
