Blaming rising federal deficits, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon asked

Congress today for a 22 per cent increase in the federal debt ceiling to $604 billion

The current limit on government borrowing is $495

billion. However, that is a temporary limit that expires on March 31, after which the limit would legally fall to $400 billion.

Simon told the House Ways and Means Committee that the government will exceed the temporary limit of $495 billion in Midland for 35 years, and always of West Texas Jaycees early next during this period of time they have month. been busy, busy, busy!

It would be interesting to know the number of community growth and betterment projects in which they have participated. Needless to say, the number would be large and most impressive. The caliber of the projects also would be almost beyond belief.

The organization came into being here on the run, so to speak, with so much to be done in a fastgrowing community which, at that time, was being mobilized in an allout war effort.

But the big growth of the Jaybee movement here, along with its community service projects, has been in the post-World War II years. Projects have been steppedup year after year.

It often has been said that if you want something done promptly for the good of the community, call the Jaycees.

This is a marvelous tribute to a great service organization made up of young men dedicated to the betterment and advancement of their home cities and beyond, all willing to work long and hard in achieving their objectives.

This is what makes the Jaycees great . . . and if any organization merits having a special week set aside in its honor, it is the Jaycees . . . the Midland Jaycees, if you please.

This leads up to the fact that this is National Jaycee Week, with the observance having been proclaimed at the local level by Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr.

It is an occasion for rejoicing, community-wide, in recognition of the many wonderful accomplishments of the Jaycees.

· It also is a time for recognizing the Jaycees for all they have done and are doing for Midland . . . a time for expressing appreciation to charity-" 1 Cor. 8:1 them for their sincere interest and effort in serving others.

Jaycees have been on the job for hosting the annual convention

Yes, the Jaycees constitute quite an organization . . . young men who believe in action and who want to be where the action is in community development.

Midland Jaycees have been in the forefront of practically every civic endeavor here during the organization's lifetime. They also have conducted countless programs benefitting individuals and groups meriting help of one kind or another. There are no limitations on projects the Jaycees will tackle. If you haven't witnessed a Christmas shopping tour conducted annually by Midland Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes for youths who otherwise wouldn't be able to do any shopping, then you haven't experienced one of the most rewarding projects of all. And this is but one phase of the Jaycees' overall program.

Needless to say, the Jaycees have meant and yet mean a great deal in the life of the Tall City and its residents.

This is why Midlanders from all walks join in directing a snappy salute of appreciation to Midland Jaycees on the occasion of their

Mr. Ford's endorsement was no headting of Simon. He delivered it in onversation to a man the Preside espects deeply: Dr. Authur Burns, nairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Worried about reports that Simon was on his way out, Burns lectured the President about the folly of changing guard at the Treasury during the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. Mr. Ford told Burns not to worry; Simon is staying. This word has been passed to Simon

ntial successor as White House chief of staff, is scarecly a rabid

In that isolated condition, Simon's dissents from administration policy are magnified. Simon prefers a tougher Kissinger stand against the international oil cartel. Far more sensitive is his belief that deeper budget cutting could have reduced the massive deficit ahead, which he sees threatening the nation's future.

When we reported a week ago that Simon planned to carry these disagreements semi-publicly before congressional committees, a high-level government campaign against him was launched in the media. By leaking that Mr. Ford wanted him out, they hoped Simon would get the message and quietly pack his bags - saving the President Our sources say the shah actually the trouble and potential backlash of had fled the country when the CIA infiring him.

Simon's friends stress he never has criticized the President, and never will; restored him to power. The CIA while calling himself "horified" by the engineered the coup that overthrew the deficit, Simon always adds "so is the President." Nevertheless, chatting with Republican congressmen, Simon expresses disappointment over inadequate permitted the CIA to set up its budget-cutting. What's more, his semisophisticated, high-powered electronic public performance twice last week irequipment, including telemetry inritated the White House

While briefing House Republican in Iran - all the better to monitor leaders Jan. 13, Simon agreed with the activities of Iran's great neighbor minority leader John Rhodes that the deficit was extremely ominous. On Jan. 15 when the President met with senior Republicans. Simon was asked by Sen. William Brock of Tennessee how he has run dry. Even the ambassador to would finance a deficit exceeding $80 Iran, Richard Helms, is a former CIA billion over 18 months: Simon replied it would be most difficult and dangerous. The Republicans present did not think Farland, was abruptly removed from Simon was being disloval. But to some Teheran, incidentally, to make way for at the White House, this was unacceptable criticism.

Accordingly, word was leaked that the President wants a new face at the Treasury but that Simon is too obtuse to read alleged Ford smoke signals, dispatch of Dr. Burns, not Simon, to negotiate with West German finance minister Hans Apel. Another was Simon's absence from last week's White House briefings on the new economic program for newsmen and administration officials. But these smoke signals are murky for the least obtuse man. Burns was sent to Germany for two reasons: Simon was needed here for the economic program; Burns, not a member of the administration, was more appropriate for "mofficial" talks

Still, leaks that Simon is all washed up pour from the White House. Assuming Jerry Ford's lack of duplicity, this would not be the first time that he was not fully aware of what his staff was doing about the cabinet.

Even if Simon is marked for dismissal in a decision that has not yet filtered up to Mr. Ford, it is definitely not Don Rumsfeld's style to ease him out by anonymous leaks. But whatever the source, only Mr. Ford or Rumsfeld can stop that campaign - or end the misery by firing Simon.

Simon's supporters outside the administration would be vocally unhappy if he is pushed out. But they would far prefer a clean decision, even if negative, to an intolerable state of suspended animation.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - The shah of Iran, driven by dreams of glory, has been baiting the United States. He led the charge for higher petroleum prices. He made public cracks against the United States. Now he is upsetting the power balance in the Middle East, with a sudden tilt toward the Arabs.

This behavior should have caused a strain in Iranian-American relations. Yet strangely, the shah's ties to Washington are as strong as ever.

Sources with access to the secret cable traffic tell us that the State Department has had advance notice of every move the shah had made, including his clamor for oil price increases and his defection to the Arabs.

Yet not a cross word has appeared in the diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Teheran, not the slightest hint that the United States disapproves. Indeed, sometimes the language in U.S. cables is positively lyrical

State Department notified the U.S. Embassy that Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R.-N.Y., would visit Teheran as part of a Middle East study. Back came What this country needs is a good, this euphoric, classified cable:

Embassy is delighted Congressman Gilman is including Iran in forthcoming study mission and looks forward to welcoming him to this friendly and progressive country of considerable strategie importance to U.S."

We have been shown other embassy cables, which stress "how firm a friend Iran is to the U.S." and how lovable the Iranian leaders are, from the shah on down.

A close personal relationship has grown up, according to our sources, between the shah and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. They constantly send warm messages to one another, our sources say.

Kissinger also gives the shah thorough briefings on his most sensitive negotiations, including his dealings with Communist China. These briefings are far more detailed, we are told, than those accorded other world leaders.

The United States also is supplying the shah with the military hardware to fortify his empire and dominate the Persian Gulf. This has enormous strategic significance, since most of the crude that flows out of the oil sheikhdoms must be shipped through the gulf.

In the last two years alone, some $6 billion worth of military equipment has been sold to the shah. The sheer volume, some Pentagon people have complained, threatens to deplete American resources.

Hundreds of U.S. specialists also have been dispatched to Teheran to advise the Iranians on military matters. In fact, the General Accounting Office has been moved to warn that the "extensive sale of United States military skills (to Iran) could adversely effect the readiness status of United States forces." The "technical skills sold to Iran," declared the GAO, are in "critically short supply in the United States military units.

Yet the watchword in the Pentagon, say our sources, is that "whatever the shah wants, the shah gets."

Behind this curious American love affair with the shah is the shadowy presence of the Central Intelligence source, believes it is more important Agency. The story goes back to the early 1950s when the dashing, young playboy emperor was ingloriously ousted Prime Minister Mohammed with a sly smile: "It's true that the

Battle Scene

By Jed Battles

When it comes to picking the state's No. 1 Class AAAA basketball team, Houston Kashmere really doesn't leave much room for debate, even though Corpus Christi Carroll can boast of a 26-0 record.

The defending state champions not only are 29-0 while campaigning in Texas' toughest basketball neighborhood, but since those two early season losses last year on the way to a 39-2 record, Kashmere has stretched its winning streak to 60

Some suspect that Kashmere's severest opposition to a return to state play will come from such intra-city foes as Wheatley and Yates from the talent loaded South Texas area.

South Oak Cliff and Fort Worth Paschal guarantee that the Fort Worth-Dallas area will have a strong contender for state laurels, but some of the other usual basketball hotheds are moaning the blues.

San Antonio observers feel the Mission City basketball is below par and El Paso also finds itself without a superior power leaving Midland Lee or maybe the Pampa-Borger survivor as the best prospect for the state jousting from west

Jefferson has the best record, 26-3, in San Antonio and Holmes is 22-4, but Highlands may be the best team in the city despite a 17-10 record. Most of those losses came while three starters from the football team were playing their way

A somewhat similar situation exists in 6-4A, which will provide the opposition for 5-4A. Defending champion Wichita Falls Rider has four starters back, but is only 15-6. Wichita Falls Hirschi and Rider are tied for the lead in the North · zone, while Richland and Haltom share first in the South.

Paschal Owns 19-1 Mark

Richland is 13-9 and possesses 6-10, 6-8, 6-8 height, but Hirschi, 16-10, is the hottest team in the league with eight wins in a row and 14 victories in its last 15 starts, including a win over Richland Tuesday.

Arlington leads District 7 with a 7-0 record and is 25-6 for the season and should reach the regionals.

In far West Texas, El Paso Austin shares the 1-4A lead with Burges and Eastwood, but owns the best record 22-5. However, two of those losses have come at the hands of Midland Lee. Bowie, 18-5, leads 2-4A with a 4-0 record.

Port Arthur Lincoln, 21-1, is described as "30 points better than any team in the Beaumont area, but probably not up to beating the better teams from the Houston area."

At this stage of the season, most teams are more concerned with getting out of district than they are with possible opposition that might be encountered down the road.
