

Panhandle Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Eddy, Lea Test Sites Scheduled

Exploratory tests have been slated in Eddy County, and a re-entry is planned in Lea County, N.M.

Corinne Grace, Roswell, will drill No. 1 Yates-Cherokee as a 3,500-foot venture for tests of the Glorieta, 14 miles southwest of Lake Wood, in Eddy.

Drill site is 1,800 feet from south and 600 feet from east lines of section 24-21s-26e, about 2,200 feet east of the same operator's No. 2-Y, a scheduled wildcard.

Shallow Try

Harry L. Gunn, Midland, intends to drill a 700-foot cable tool San Andres test in Eddy, about 10 miles west of Lake Wood. It is No. 1 Mossanto-Federal.

Drill site is 600 feet from north and east lines of section 6-30s-25e, between the Cemetery and Dagger Draw areas.

Lea Re-Entry

I. W. Lovelady of Midland has filed application to re-enter and plug back to 11,500 feet for tests of the Wolfcamp, at No. 1 State, Lea County failure, one location south of production in the Shoe Bar, East (Devonian) oil field.

Originally drilled by Tenneco Oil Co. as No. 1-C State, it was plugged and abandoned in 1972 at 13,651 feet.

It spots 1,850 feet from north and 600 feet from west lines of section 33-16s-26e, five miles southwest of Lovington.

Nolan Test Yields Crude in Cambrian

Gas Edwards of Abilene, No. 1 I. L. Craig, Nolan County venture, was bottomed at 5,763 feet, and operator was running casing for completion attempt, after it recovered oil on a drillstem test in the Cambrian sand.

Tool was open 40 minutes on the test taken from 5,690-5,767 feet. Gas surfaced in six minutes, volume unreported.

Recovery was 756 feet of 45-gravity crude and 195 feet of gas-and-mud-cut oil.

It spots 1,300 feet from south and 1,100 feet from east lines of section 32, block 1-A, H&TC survey, two miles northeast of Blackwell.

Eddy Test Flows Wolfcamp Gas

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-0Q State Communitized, scheduled Morrow test, 1/2 mile south of Morrow production, and 2 1/2 miles west of the Wolfcamp gas opener and lone well from that pay in the Burton Flat field, flowed gas and condensate from the Wolfcamp.

It swabbed and flowed eight hours through perforations at 9,260-9,297 feet, making 36 barrels of 52-gravity condensate and two barrels of water, plus gas at the daily volume of 222,000 cubic feet.

Drilled to 11,685 feet, it has been plugged back to 11,710 feet.

The test spots 1,500 feet from south and east lines of section 8-21s-27e, four miles north of Carlsbad.

The Wolfcamp discovery, Monsanto Co. No. 1 Wilderspin, the first triple producer in Eddy County, was completed from the Wolfcamp for a calculated.

Craig Resigns As School Board President

By LUANNA CROW

C. Wallace Craig resigned as president of the Midland public schools' board of trustees Tuesday afternoon following a long-standing controversy over school boundary revision.

Citing personal and business considerations as reasons for his decision, Craig made his announcement at the close of the board's regular meeting in the administrative offices of the Midland Independent School District.

Now in his fifth year of serving on the board of trustees, Craig said he was resigning only his presidential post and would continue as member of the seven-member body.

In citing specifics behind his resignation, he recalled the Oct. 8, 1974, board meeting in which he called for a vote to determine whether members intended to make boundary alterations to equalize enrollments between Midland and Lee high schools.

Trustees James E. Winget Jr., then serving as vice president and now elevated to the office of president, objected to voting at that time, as the item had been omitted from the meeting agenda. His motion to table the vote failed 3-4.

The original motion, made by Gilbert C. Tompasa, called for continuation of study on the matter, followed by appropriate boundary alterations. It passed 5-1, with Winget casting the maverick vote.

Craig said Tuesday he did not wish, when instigating the October vote, "to become an instrument of division on the board and in the community."

The meetings which followed have drawn large crowds of disgruntled parents from both school attendance areas. Some regular board sessions attracted groups so large the meeting site was moved to the nearby Sam Houston Elementary School cafeteria.

Craig said the controversial Oct. 8 vote was affecting his livelihood. He is president of Starr Gas Co., a subsidiary of Magnatex Corp.

He said it was a "sad day" when an individual is "penalized for doing what you think is right."

Winget responded to Craig's comments, saying he was confident the newly-resigned president had acted "in good conscience."

"I would personally urge you to reconsider. The trauma (of the boundary change) is not over and we need the continuity you would give us," he said.

Craig, however, indicated he could not reconsider the decision.

Ted Kerr, another trustee, said, "I personally regret especially the reasons that you feel this is the proper course to take."

He then offered a resolution thanking Craig and commending his service to the board and the community, which passed unanimously.

A new vice-president will be elected at the next scheduled meeting, set for Feb. 11.

Governor Asks Legislators To Okay $11.6-Billion Budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked the legislature today to approve an $11.6 billion two-year state budget—nearly $1 billion less than the lawmakers' budget experts have recommended.

Briscoe's proposed appropriations compare with $12.5 billion proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, consisting of leaders of the previous legislature and advised by a permanent staff of experts on state spending.

The governor's recommendations include $3 billion from the general revenue fund, compared with $3.8 billion proposed by the budget board.

In the past, the legislature has taken the budget board's recommendations more seriously than those made by the governor—any governor.

Briscoe said his budget would leave a balance of $1.1 billion in unspent revenue.

A "highlights" list distributed with the budget says that part of this balance must be spent on emergency proposals, including a salary increase for state employees, increased benefits for retired government workers and teachers and $80 million in immediate relief to public schools.

"Sufficient funds remain to reform the present method of financing public schools," Briscoe said.

Briscoe's budget would increase the general appropriations bill by $92.8 million over the present level of funding.

It covers the two years that begin Sept. 1, 1975.

The governor told the legislature his use of zero base budgeting had produced more and better information on which to draw up his recommendations.

"To effect an economical, efficient and responsive state government, my budget proposes new programs and expansion of existing programs to meet identified needs, maintains the present level of effort in those programs where services are adequate and reduces commitments in those programs where benefits are marginal," Briscoe said.

Zero base budgeting, also used by the budget board, involves evaluation of all agency programs from scratch, rather than simply adding on to the programs without considering whether they are necessary.

Major increases recommended by Briscoe include:

- $3.3 million more for the state's program of assistance to persons with kidney ailments requiring expensive dialysis treatment.
- $39.3 million for new alternate care services for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.
- $51.2 million for institutions for the mentally retarded, representing a 46 per cent increase in general revenue funding per patient.
- $12 million for services for abused and neglected children.
- $33.6 million to the Texas Highway Department, by increasing general revenue financing for the Department of Public Safety.
- $9 more highway patrolmen in each year of the biennium.
- $8.2 million for "tuition equalization grants," which make up part of the difference between private college tuition and that charged by state schools.

Antiwar Group Claims Credit For Explosion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leftist, antiwar group claimed credit for a bombing early today that damaged four floors in the State Department headquarters but caused no injuries.

Telephone callers identifying themselves as members of the "Weather Underground Organization" warned news organizations of the bomb plan and issued antiwar "communiques" in advance of the bombing.

The explosion in a men's room on the third floor of the State Department collapsed several walls and broke pipes causing water damage to the first through fourth floors.

Second Bomb Found

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Helmeted demolition experts who found a bomb planted in the federal building here today carried the device out of the building in a metal tub and detonated it in the street.

Two small blasts set fire to an attache case containing the bomb, and it exploded with a roar that shook nearby buildings. A couple of windows on the third floor of the federal building were broken.

"That's it! That's the big one!" police officers yelled after the explosion.

Several demolition experts wearing white helmets had carried the bomb out of the George P. Miller Federal Building in a metal tub with a lid on it.

They used ropes to carry the tub and set it in the middle of the street near the side entrance to the building.

"Get back, get back! If that thing goes off, you're all going to be hurt!" police and federal (See BOMB FOUND Page 6A)

There was a small lake outside the international conference room where Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger gave a news conference Tuesday.

"This was a damn big bomb," said Sgt. Charles Lightner of the D.C. Police. "It wasn't one of those blow-the-lid-off things."

Officials searched the rest of the building with police dogs sniffing for additional bombs.

Two other State Department offices in Washington also were searched but no other bombs were found.

A spokesman for the General Services Administration said a number of other federal buildings in Washington were being searched for bombs.

It was the sixth time in four years that someone claiming to be from the Weather Underground has claimed responsibility for a bomb blast.

A communique from the group criticized President Ford's request Tuesday for $522 million in arms aid for Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The Weather Underground Organization called the request "deliberate and outright sabotage of the Paris Peace agreement."

Warnings Received

Advance warnings of the State Department bombing were received by The AP in Washington and San Francisco, The Washington Post and The Los Angeles Times.

The calls to the AP bureau directed newsmen to communiques hidden in nearby telephone booths.

The 12-page typed letter received in Washington began: "Tonight we attack the A.I.D. in the State Dept. headquarters in Washington, D.C. and the Defense Department in Oakland, Calif. Through them the U.S. government continues to wage war against Vietnam and Cambodia."

The bomb in the State Department exploded in a men's room next door to an office of a health officer of the Agency for International Development.

Economic Indicators Slide For Fifth Straight Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economic indicators used by the government to forecast future economic trends are sliding downward at a record pace, the Commerce Department said today.

The department reported that the so-called leading indicators dropped 2.4 per cent in December.

At the same time, the department revised the figures for November, to show a 3.5 per cent drop that month. Preliminary figures released earlier had showed a 1.5 per cent decline in November.

Worst Drop

The revised figures made the November drop the worst on record, surpassing a 3.3 per cent slip in September.

The index has now skidded for five straight months for a total decline of 11 per cent. The Commerce Department said that is the worst sustained decline in the index since the department began compiling it in 1948.

The outlook projected by the nine factors in the composite (See INDICATORS Page 6A)

FAMILY OUTING—Even while holding down jobs and trying to complete college degrees, Mr. and Mrs. David Blaschke of Midland found time to go biking with son Mark and daughters Jana and Carol.

Midlanders Manage To Hold Down Jobs, Complete College Degrees At Same Time

In spite of jobs, a household to run and a family to raise, Mr. and Mrs. David R. Blaschke of Midland managed to complete college degrees. Blaschke, an electrical engineer for Shell, completed his MBA at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin (UTPB), while his wife completed requirements of a B.S. in nursing at West Texas State University in Canyon. "Trying to raise a family, work and go to school all at the same time did present some problems," Mrs. Blaschke says. "But we managed somehow." The Blaschkes have three children, Mark, 14, and Jana and Carol, both 11. "My husband had always planned to get his master's degree but never had the opportunity because of driving distance until we moved to Midland." The Blaschkes have been Midland residents for three and a half years. Mrs. Blaschke, who also worked part-time, attended classes at UTPB, Odessa and Midland Colleges before completing her degree at West Texas State. Mrs. Blaschke graduated with a 3.34 average, while her husband graduated with a 4.00 average. Due to a job transfer, the Blaschkes will be moving to Houston in February and may not get to attend the graduation ceremonies in May. "But at least we did complete our degrees," Mrs. Blaschke says, "and it was quite a challenge."

Economist Says U.S. Can't Afford To Lose Soviet Trade

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — To Harold B. Scott and his associates there is a serious question of whether the United States can afford to let trade with the Soviet Union go down the drain. In effect, that seems to be the outlook for potentially billions of dollars in transactions between the two countries after the Soviets repudiated the 1973 trade agreement with the United States. The chief impediments resulted from tying the agreement to migration of Soviet Jews to Israel, the restrictions of credits to the Soviets, and limitations in the agreement to offer most favored nation treatment. "Strong Motivation" "The motivation of those concerned with immigration is high," said Scott, former assistant secretary of commerce and now president of the US-USSR Trade and Economic Council. But, he asks, "Is it too much for our blood in terms of economic policy?" Like others in the United States, Scott believes the trade agreement with the Soviet Union should be divorced from the immigration question, not whether the United States can afford to let trade with the Soviet Union go down the drain. Exports Mean Jobs Scott, chief U.S. operating officer of the binationally staffed organization, formed to facilitate the 1973 trade discussions and the contracts between American businessmen and Soviet trade officials, quantifies the importance of U.S.-U.S.S.R. trade to U.S. government studies show $15,000 of exports equal one U.S. job. Last year, U.S. exports to the Soviet Union totaled $631.3 million. So, 42,000 Americans were employed because of exports to the Soviets. The potential damage can be shown even more convincingly when related in terms of cost per job. This is how Scott figures it. —To create one job requires $15,000 of exports. Exports move on credit. In the United States, the Export-Import Bank offers one-third financing to trading partners at 3 per cent below prime rate. The remainder of financing is private. One-third of $15,000 is $5,000. That is, $5,000 of exports are subsidized by the U.S. government — through the Ex-Im Bank — at a cost to taxpayers of 3 per cent, or $150, a small price for keeping a person employed. Scott goes further. It isn't beyond probability for U.S. exports to the Soviets to reach $6 billion, given the proper incentives, he feels. That, he notes, would mean 400,000 jobs at a cost of $150 a job. The statistics become dizzying when you add the impact of imports from the Soviets. For every dollar of imports, he states, another dollar is spent domestically for distribution, finance, promotion and other services. About $9,000 of those services equals one job. So, says Scott, for every $100 million of imports foresaken because of terms unacceptable to the other country, you lost 11,000 jobs.

Rash Of Earthquakes Rattles California's Imperial Valley

BRAWLEY, Calif. (AP) — "My brother in Iowa thinks my whole town is falling apart," says City Manager Walker Ritter. But the 13,000 townspeople are trying to ignore the continuing earth tremors. The cotton crop is about in, and field workers are picking the lettuce crop. Damage has been light, a few broken windows, but sizeable cracks appeared in concrete across Keystone Road and its drainage ditch five miles south-east of Brawley. 4.7 Peak Shock A peak shock registering 4.7 was felt for miles around last Thursday. Since then there have been several tremors which reached 4 on the Richter scale, but geophysicist David Hill of the U. S. Geological Survey said Monday they have tapered off. The Richter scale is a measurement of ground motion as recorded by seismographs. Every increase of one on the scale corresponds to a tenfold increase in magnitude. A reading of 6 can cause severe damage in populated areas. Tremors in the latest series here moved seven miles in a northwesterly direction. David Harkrider, a Caltech seismologist, said the many small trem-

Rome Flea Market Draws Crowds

ROME (AP) — "Signori, Signori," 14-year-old merchant Carlo de Rossi screamed as Rome's big flea market for small spenders swung into action on a recent Sunday. "There is no better bargain than this." He was selling tiny chicks — at 15 cents a head — with a plea: "You grow them in your terrace or backyard and make yourself a chicken dinner a month later." In a carnival atmosphere, he sold them by the dozens with bargain hunters in these austere times not questioning the cost of raising the chickens for a month. And a few yards away, German shepherd puppies went for 15,000 lire, or $25, with the shrewd slogan that "this is your best burglar alarm," as Romans were told that over 90 per cent of burglaries in the city go unsolved. Come rain or shine, bitter cold as this winter or steaming heat in the summer, Romans and tourists by the thousands begin to flock at dawn to the Porta Portese Flea Market on the banks of the Tiber, still a miracle mile of bargain hunting for anything and everything. Rugs advertised as Persian but probably made in a Naples suburb go for under $100. Pure silver silverware, origin untraced, is equally cheap. A Sunday outing to the open-air flea market is becoming as much a Roman tradition as going to mass, picnic or the soccer game. The market boomed during the war years with the sale of goods smuggled or stolen during the week, and some say it is still the chief outlet for something stolen in Rome, it thieves trying to unload their goods in a hurry. But burglary victims searching for their jewelry will never find them. "It is still the chief outlet for something stolen in Rome, it thieves trying to unload their goods in a hurry. But burglary market," says a Roman.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1975. There are 336 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: In 1861, Kansas was admitted to the Union as the 34th state. On this date — In 1843, the 25th American president, William McKinley, was born in Niles, Ohio. In 1850, Henry Clay introduced in the Senate a compromise bill on slavery which included the admission of California into the Union as a free state. In 1900, the American League of Baseball Clubs was organized in Philadelphia. In 1929, the first dog guide school to aid the blind, Seeing Eye, was founded in Nashville, Tenn. In 1949, Britain granted de facto recognition to Israel. In 1963, France vetoed Britain's application to join the European Common market. Ten years ago: Kings, presidents and prime ministers from around the world converged on London for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill. Five years ago: Syrian jets roared over the Israeli port of Haifa, shattering windows with sonic booms, in the first such intrusion since the 1967 war. One year ago: King Baudouin dissolved Belgium's parliament after efforts to form a new coalition cabinet failed. Today's birthdays: Actor John Forsythe is 57. Actor Victor Mature is 59. Thought for today: Impatience is waiting in a hurry. — A child's definition.

and the legal department representatives agreed to re-write the zoning change instrument before the next session. Due to another action taken by the council—which will allow the use of mobile homes on property classified as IF-3—both Craddock and Biscoe said their development would "restrict" its IF-3 zoned lots "to use of standard residential homes of the lower-cost design."

Mobile Home Zoning Shift Wins Approval

By GEORGE MASSEY
City councilmen voted Tuesday to allow the use of mobile homes on property zoned as IF-3, 5,000-square-foot lots, but noted there is no IF-3 property presently in the city. The council approved the mobile home zoning on the recommendation of the planning and zoning commission. The zoning classification is being made in an attempt to help rectify the housing shortage in lower-cost ranges. Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said, "We can always undo this thing if it gets out of hand or we don't like the way it's working." He said that anyone wanting to take advantage of the new zoning use would have to come before the council because actual property would need to be changed to the IF-3 classification, being that there is none at present. Members of the council suggested that in lieu of isolated lots, designated areas of larger sizes would be a better use of the mobile home zoning. It was noted by the legal department that the new ordinance requires the lot and the mobile home be owned by the same person, therefore making it the same as for standard residential housing. It was said, however, that

A Plumber's Helper To The Rescue!

Dear Heloise:
I had the shock of my life when I found my new car with a dent in it. Even though it was not my fault, I cringed at the thought of telling my husband.

My neighbor shared a little female secret with me she had used before. . . (before her husband got home).

She suggested I use a plunger (the kind used to un-stop sinks etc.), place it on the dent, and pull with all my might! I did, and darned if that dent didn't pop out!

I don't know if this will always work, but it sure is worth a try (or two) to help keep harmony in the family and reduce those repair bills.

Mrs. Judy Gilcrest

Honeychild, anything's worth a try when it comes to dents and husbands.

I wish I had known this many a time. The auto shop told me it often works! Bless you.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I came up with an idea that I thought you might like.

When decorating my bathroom, I used a colored straw placemat to cover the top of my commode tank. I just cut the placemat in half and placed it on the top of the tank.

It looks beautiful. I have received so many compliments on it. As placemats are inexpensive, I can change colors when the mood hits me.

Mrs. Anne Mallard

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
My mother has found a great way of keeping her linen closet clean.

She had a daughter ten years ago — ME!

Cathy Gazda

Dear Heloise:
In my home I have two round end tables covered with floor length felt tablecloths that I made.

Since dusting these became a problem, I tried a damp sponge and brushed in one direction and picked up the dirty lint.

It's great!

Connie Hammer

Dear Heloise:
If you like to water paint a lot, you know how fast and easy it is for your cleaning water to get dirty.

I use a plastic ice cube tray with about twelve small ice cube sections all filled with water.

When each section is used, dump your water out and start all over again.

This saves a lot of trips to the bathroom or kitchen sink.

A plastic egg carton (the part used to hold the eggs) would serve the same purpose and you could just discard it when you are finished painting.

"Course, don't use any cleaner but water in it — turpentine etc., would dissolve the carton.

Dear Heloise:
Because of the mess of floury pastry boards or cloths that are difficult to clean up, I nearly gave up breadmaking. Thank heavens, I thought of my nonstick coated cookie sheet.

It's perfect for kneading and shaping, the dough never sticks and you can keep on kneading till every speck of flour is well absorbed into the dough.

And, best of all, when I bake round loaves, I can cook my bread on the same pan!

Laura Locken

True. Great.

Love!

They store very neatly and you can mark on each which

Economic Picture Triggers Advice

By MARY CAMPBELL
 NEW YORK (AP) — The government has recommended using cold water for the laundry and a woman attending an "economic and energy" panel discussing the Couture Press Week asked what about contagious germs in fibers.

She was referring to a study done at a college in which athlete's foot went from one person to another after a basketball team's socks were all washed together in cold water.

"The temperature in the average home wash is never hot enough to kill bacteria," responded Peggy Matthews, who works for the public relations firm which set up the panel for a cold-water detergent company. "To kill bacteria, water needs to be near boiling and in the average home it's only 120 degrees. But adding one tablespoon of chlorine bleach to the water before you add the laundry will kill germs."

More Expensive

It costs more to produce the energy for a man to shave with hot water than with an electric razor, said Sally Martinez, special assistant to the New York regional administrator of the Federal Energy Administration. Miss Martinez also suggested hanging clothes on a line instead of using the dryer — to which Stanley Love, president of a children's wear company, took exception since polyester knits need to be tumble dried to eliminate wrinkles. Designer Stan Herman declared, "There's something beautiful about wrinkles. They're human."

Miss Martinez also said, "We can let go of a lot of air-conditioning, not turn it on until it's 78 degrees."

The stated purpose of the five-member panel, moderated by Julia Meade, was to tell women how to buy clothes in 1975, "in view of today's economic and energy situations."

All agreed that quality is the prime thing to look for, not bargains — because those may turn out not to be bargains in the long run. Vincent Montezano, president of the New York Couture Business Council, advised women to turn clothes inside out in the store and check whether they're well made.

Carrie Donovan, senior fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar, suggested taking all your spring and summer clothes out of the closet before doing any buying. By laying it all out and looking at it, she said, you'll see what you need to go with something else and you'll see what you bought over the last two or three years and haven't worn, so you can get rid of it.

She didn't, however, entirely rule out impulse buying, saying that sometimes the very thing you see in a store, love and think you don't need but buy anyway is the thing you get the most wear out of. But she said that in today's economy there should be less impulse buying.

Dear Abby

Take The Money And Run, Baby

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old divorcee who is engaged to marry a 29-year-old man I'll call "Ira."

I have two children who are being raised by my mother because I work and can't keep them, but I intend to quit work and take the children after I'm married.

My problem is Ira's parents. We announced our engagement over the holidays and are planning a spring wedding.

Ira's parents are very wealthy. He is an only son and they are of another religion. When we announced our engagement, they tried to appear happy, but they couldn't hide their disappointment.

A few days ago I got a call (at work) from the attorney who represents Ira's father. He said he wanted to see me. We met and, to make a long story short, Ira's father has offered me a large sum of money if I will break the engagement. It's enough to take care of me for a long time, and surely until I find another man.

Ira is in his father's business and they are an affectionate and closely knit family, so if I married him I would never feel "accepted." I care for him a lot, but to be honest, the money is tempting. I'm attractive enough to get another man soon. In fact, I know two right now who would marry me tomorrow, but the security isn't quite as good with one, and the other is 52.

What should I do?

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: Since you're on the fence, I think you should get off on the side with the money. If you really cared for Ira, you'd have been insulted and outraged by such a proposition. But since you're considering it, and asking me what you should do, I say...take it!

DEAR ABBY: Dad got Mom a portable tv for Christmas so she could watch it in the kitchen. Now it's always on the table when we have supper. We get the news mostly, but that's not the problem. The problem is that nobody can say a word at the table anymore because the tv is on, and Dad wants to hear it.

We used to talk about other things, and bring up family matters at the table because that's really the only time the whole family gets together. No more.

I am only 12 and I don't run this house, but I sure wish I could tell my folks to take the tv off the supper table without getting creamed.

MC Course Offerings Help Boost Enrollment To 1,493

Expanded and unusual course offerings for the spring semester at Midland College are playing a strong role in the record numbers of students enrolling for classes on the new campus, according to the college's officials.

Expanded facilities, larger classrooms and laboratory capabilities have met with favorable approval among the more than 1,493 students already registered, said Kim Dowdle, director of news and information for the college.

The tally for final registration for the spring semester a year ago was 1,211. Persons planning to enroll in three or fewer classes must enroll by Tuesday.

The courses, which are credited in part with beefing up this spring's statistics, range from athletic event officiating to oil and gas law.

The college's art department, chaired by Stan Jacobs, has expanded capabilities now that it is housed in permanent facilities. Students are currently enrolled in drawing, ceramics and sculpture.

"We will have an art court where we will build a large gas-fired kiln and a foundry for metal casting," Jacobs said. "We now have the capability for offering jewelry courses which we have not had before."

"The added space and facilities will allow for more students, more projects and larger projects. We will receive our clay mixer and build the foundry and kiln by March or early April," he said.

In addition to availability of art facilities, the college has another "first" in the simultaneous offering of cultural and physical anthropology, as well as physical and historical geology which now have use of new laboratories on campus.

A new three-hour, one-evening course in reading is another curriculum highlight. Specialized attention is given to reading improvement as well as particular problems in reading and comprehension in the class.

Also for the first time, the college is offering an evening course in printing technology in answer to the requests of working persons who wish to study this area of the graphic arts.

Three conversational Spanish courses are now available for persons who desire proficiency in the language without attending lab sessions.

Among the other spring semester innovations are courses in "oil and gas law" and "business statistics" added to the full complement of business department offerings.

In addition to the new business courses, the college is presenting two standard courses on a new schedule. Both psychology and sociology are being offered this semester in one-evening-a-week classes.

The officiating course, added this spring to the physical education curriculum, is instructed by MC athletic director Chester Storey. Students in the class will become proficient in officiating all sports played in the area.

Bomb Found

Agents yelled to nearby newsmen.

Authorities had cordoned off a four-block area around the building after callers identifying themselves as members of the Weather Underground said a bomb they had planted was set to go off Tuesday night.

In addition to sealing off the area, authorities called two fire engines to the scene and an ambulance was parked across the street from the building, which houses the Armed Forces Induction Center.

A group identifying itself as the Weather Underground Organization, charging that the United States was providing illegal aid to Cambodia, said it had planted the bomb.

Shortly before the agents entered the building here, a woman identifying herself only as a member of the Weather Underground called the Oakland Tribune and warned searchers to stay away from the explosive, which she said was on the seventh floor.

"In trying to open it, it could go off. It's very powerful," she said.

She said she and other Weather Underground members could not understand why the bomb did not go off late Tuesday night as planned.

1974 Property Tax Deadline This Friday

The 1974 tax deadline is Friday.

After that, taxes due the county, city, school district and college become delinquent and will start taking on a 1½ per cent penalty-interest monthly rate, according to officials.

However, unpaid taxes are not entered on delinquent tax rolls for collection until July 1, five months after the deadline.

But most taxes are paid.

The City of Midland, according to tax collector Virgil Jones Jr., projects around 99 per cent collection of 1974 taxes. He said a 100 per cent collection would net the city $3,870,300 based on a $1.14 tax rate per $100 valuation on the city's $345,405,400 assessed valuation of real and personal property. The assessed value is 75 per cent of market value, he said.

Different Assessment

The county, on the other hand, assesses its $224,810,360 valuation at 32 per cent of market value, Mrs. Frances Shuffield, the tax assessor-collector's chief deputy said. The tax rate is 95 cents per $100 valuation.

And a 100 per cent collection of taxes would bring $2,135,772.14 into the county, she said. Mrs. Shuffield said collection is expected to beat 96 per cent. Through December, she said, the county had taken in almost 87 per cent of 1974 taxes.

The Midland Independent School District's tax rate is $1.42½, and Midland College's, 14 cents, both on assessed valuations of $545,052,060.

Another deadline, that of rendering property for 1975 taxation, is April 30, according to Mrs. Shuffield.

"It's the responsibility of the property owner. It's his responsibility — no one else's."

Mrs. H. G. Castle Dies; Rites Slated

Mrs. H. G. (Faye) Castle, 59, died Tuesday in a Midland hospital following a sudden illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Newbie W. Ellis Chapel with the Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor of Kelview Heights Baptist Church, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Howard Buchanan, pastor of First Baptist Church in Thordale. Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Castle was born June 1, 1915, at Taylor. She attended South West Texas State College in San Marcos and taught school in Central Texas. She moved to Midland in 1948 and was employed in Exxon's land department. She was a member of the Baptist Church and the Eagles Auxiliary.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Roger F. Wilson of Houston; a daughter, Mrs. Richard E. Walter of Denver; a brother, Wayne Houghton of Barstow, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Tom Eastman of Newark, Ohio, and Mrs. Howard Buchanan of Thordale; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be W. R. Campbell, W. H. Lefeste, J. H. Shaw, C. B. Ellis, M. E. Cochran and R. D. Jones.

Olen Courtney Hart, 66, died this morning at his residence here.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Primitive Baptist Church with Elder Elvis Barrington officiating. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Newbie W. Ellis Chapel.

Hart was born Feb. 14, 1908, in Mitchell County and moved to Midland in 1930 as a farmer. He was later employed by Midland County until retirement in 1962.

He married Lois Hale Dec. 14, 1930, at Coahoma and was a member of Primitive Baptist Church.

Survivors include the widow; two sons, Ben C. Hart of San Angelo and Bill D. Hart of Odessa; two daughters, Mrs. Pearl Burnette of Reno, Nev., and Mrs. Sue Chambers of Midland; his mother, Mrs. Ada Armstrong of Big Spring; a brother, John Hart of Roswell, N.M.; three sisters, Mrs. Dolores Palmer of Jal, N.M., Mrs. Ann Fairchild of Forsan, and Mrs. Leo Parker of Big Spring, 14 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Smith Services Set Thursday

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Ada, Okla., for Lee Smith, 76, who died here Saturday after a long illness.

The rites will be conducted in the Criswell Funeral Home.

and visitors must have a building pass to get past the front lobby. The building was guarded at three entrances at the time of the explosion.

The call to the AP in Washington came at 12:37 a.m. and the call to the San Francisco bureau 13 minutes later. The State Department bomb exploded at 12:56 a.m. AP newsmen in both cities notified the FBI and local police after receiving the warnings.

The Weather Underground had claimed credit for five previous bombings across the country. No one was injured in any of the blasts.

Egypt Purchases Jets From France

PARIS (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced today he had purchased a number of France's supersonic jet fighters to make up for a lack of supplies from the Soviet Union.

Sadat said he could not reveal the exact number of jets he has bought but said they were "much less than" the 120 previously said to be involved in the deal. Sadat said delivery of the planes will be "in years to come."

At the same time he announced his arms replenishment, Sadat said "I quite agree" with the belief of U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger that the opposing positions of Egypt and Israel on a second stage military disengagement can be reconciled.

Midland Concern Faces SEC Suit

DALLAS (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed suit against two Dallas firms and a Midland company seeking to prevent them from selling interests in oil and gas wells.

The suit claims Republic Energy Corp. and Earth Energies, Inc., both of Dallas, and McQueen Oil and Gas Co., Inc., of Midland have violated federal securities regulations.

The suit filed Tuesday also names eight individuals as defendants including Tom K. Rogers of Dallas, president of Republic Energy Corp., and H. Bryan Poff, a Fort Worth geologist.

The suit alleges, among other things, company officials failed to reveal to prospective stockholders and investors that Rogers and Poff had been enjoined previously from violating federal securities laws.

The SEC asks U.S. District Court Judge Robert W. Porter to enjoin the defendants from violating registration provisions of federal securities laws and from using a scheme to defraud the public.

Warm Weather Still Grips Most Of State Today

Unseasonably warm weather maintained a grip on most of Texas today.

A weak Pacific cool front which started invading the state Tuesday was edging toward the southeast without exerting much effect on the weather pattern. Its forward edge in early morning lay along a line from around Vernon and Lubbock into the Big Bend of far West Texas.

Occasional drizzle near Kerrville in the Southwest Texas Hill Country tapered off before dawn.

Midland was experiencing a misting rain near noon today although no precipitation was included in the day's forecast.

Tuesday's high of 71 was followed by an overnight low of 52, and the weatherman pegged the high for both today and Thursday in the middle to upper 60s.

According to the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal, the low tonight should dip to near 40.

Fog along the Upper and Middle Texas Coast and around Big Spring, Odessa and Wink in the west part of the state supplied the only other moisture.

Temperatures near daybreak stayed as high on the coast and in deep South Texas as 70 degrees at Corpus Christi and Houston, 71 at McAllen and 72 at Victoria. Readings elsewhere ranged down to 35 at Dalhart in the Panhandle. The Associated Press reported.

Boundary Change Action Postponed Until Feb. 11

Action on altering boundaries for junior high and freshman schools in the Tall City was delayed until Feb. 11 in the Tuesday meeting of the board of trustees of the Midland Independent School District.

Supt. Dr. James H. Mailley has said earlier the redistricting would be necessary in order to bring the five schools closer into racial balance.

Meeting in the district's central offices, the trustees studied a plan which would reroute students in the Crockett Elementary School District to San Jacinto Junior High School.

An estimated 25 per cent of the students involved currently attend San Jacinto and the remainder are Goddard students.

Trustees requested the administrative staff continue their research to determine if an equalizing plan could be formulated to affect all three junior high schools.

They decided, too, to delay action on freshman school plans until they acted on the junior high level. The freshman school proposal presented called for sending all the students in the Crockett area and 70 per cent of the students in the Fannin area to Edison Freshman School.

The plan conforms with changes made on the high school level at the last trustee session.

In addition to discussing more boundary adjustments, board members also made some changes in the district's "Manual of Policies, Rules and Regulations."

The major change was a provision that board of trustee officers may succeed themselves one time. Previously, officers have been unlimited in their numbers of succeeding terms.

Trustees also approved authorization to place orders for three new school buses for the district, with delivery scheduled for the 1975-76 school year.

The vehicles will be replacements and will tally an estimated $13,000 on next year's budget.

Another bus will be renovated and modified for the purpose of transporting band instruments for the district's school bands. Estimated cost of $1,450.

In other action, trustees heard a report on tax collections, approved changes in pledged securities and authorized a quit-claim deed. They withheld approval however, on a tax settlement pending additional information on the matter.

Justice Douglas' Condition Improves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has been removed from the "seriously ill" list at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Spokesman Pete Esker said Tuesday that the 76-year-old Douglas is continuing physical therapy in recuperating from the stroke he suffered on Dec. 31. There was no indication on how long Douglas will remain in the hospital.

He has participated in the 13 full-scale opinions which the court has handed down since his stroke, but the court has declined to say whether his votes were cast before or after his illness. Esker said Douglas works "quite a number of hours every day with a secretary."

Services Held For Mrs. Harris

KERRVILLE — Services were held last Saturday for Mrs. Verlie M. Harris, 79, who died last Friday at Austin.

She was the mother of H. S. Harris Jr. of Midland.

Obituary information carried in Tuesday's Reporter-Telegram on Mrs. Harris was incorrect.

Mills Dismissed From Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has been dismissed from Bethesda Naval Hospital where he was treated for nearly two months for alcoholism.

The Arkansas Democrat left Monday, but did not appear on Capitol Hill Tuesday and could not be reached at his apartment in suburban Virginia or his home at Kensett, Ark.

A hospital spokesman refused to discuss the case other than to say Mills was dismissed Monday evening.

His physician, Dr. Michael Bohna, could not be reached.

Jewelry Stolen

A stereo set, a color television set and a jewelry box and jewelry, all valued at $300, plus $100 worth of clothing were reported stolen in a Tuesday burglary of the Bob Tiner residence, 3116 Kessler St.

Congress Still Wants Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional tax writers are still hoping for a compromise with President Ford to delay his oil import tariff program despite Ford's rejection of a new postponement request.

Both Ford and Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee talked of the need for compromise and conciliation after a White House meeting of congressional leaders Tuesday.

But Ford said he was adamant that the first phase of the tariff, a $1 increase on each barrel of imported oil, would go into effect Saturday. And Ullman's committee moved another step forward with a bill to force the President to delay the tariffs, which would total $3 per barrel of imported oil by April 1.

Ullman said he was adamant that the first phase of the tariff, a $1 increase on each barrel of imported oil, would go into effect Saturday. And Ullman's committee moved another step forward with a bill to force the President to delay the tariffs, which would total $3 per barrel of imported oil by April 1.

Ullman's package includes a $6 billion, 10 per cent rebate for 1974 taxes for most taxpayers.

Ullman's plan also would increase standard deductions, hike the investment tax credit to 10 per cent, and provide other corporate tax benefits.

Details of how these proposals would apply to individuals were not immediately clear.

However, it was known that Ullman's bill would raise the minimum standard deduction from $1,300 to $1,500 for single returns and $2,500 for joint ones; increase the percentage standard deduction by hiking the rate to 16 per cent from 15 per cent, and by boosting the maximum amount from $2,000 to $2,500 for single returns and $3,000 for joint ones.

The figures also placed in jeopardy administration expectations that the economy would begin a revival by mid-year.

Economists Divided

Economists are divided over how far in advance of economic trends the index moves. Recently, its moves have been very close to broader economic changes.

The index is composed of a dozen factors, but only nine were available for the latest report. Six of those nine indicated deepening recession.

Initial claims for unemployment benefits jumped by an average of 80,000 a week to 530,000 for December. The average work week shrank by one-tenth of an hour to 39.4 hours. New orders for durable goods — those with the longest life expectancy — shrank $4.8 billion to $38.3 billion.

Winter Of 1885: It Was A Real Disaster

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

The National Weather Service issued recently its annual definition of what is cold and what isn't and in case you're huddled up in a centrally heated house all winter, we're going to tell you what it's like outside. But whatever this winter's weather turns out to be, it just can't be as bad as some years. For instance, 1885 and 1889 and 1933. Will all persons reading this please cross their fingers. The Weather Service gets quite upset when anyone uses "watch" and "warning" wrong. When it issues a "watch," it means keep an eye out for a possible snowfall or blizzard. The "warning" means it's likely to happen. The trouble is here or soon will be. "Snow" needs all sorts of qualifications. Heavy snow means four inches in 24 hours or six in 24 hours. Snow squalls are brief intense falls like rain in a summer storm. Almost all snow blows as it comes down. But the Weather Service says "blowing snow" means when it is lifted from the ground by wind. You can have a blizzard without snow falling. A blizzard is defined as wind speeds of at least 35 miles per hour with considerable falling or blowing snow. A severe blizzard has winds of 45 m.p.h., falling or blowing snow and temperatures of 10 degrees above zero or lower. The Weather Service asserts that a good many people got confused on the term "ice storm." An ice storm essentially is freezing rain and it plays havoc with telephone and power lines, trees, streets and the like, particularly if a wind comes up. Sometimes people call a blizzard an ice storm. It may seem like it is so good that the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association produced another edition a few years ago. Texas Red Cochran was running cattle in South Dakota, hoping to gather a stake to get back to Callahan County in Texas. He related 55 years later that on the last day of 1885, the weather was close and oppressive. Dark clouds boiled up and headed south. In a few minutes Tex was hit by hard, sharp snow and the wind struck from the north. It was what Nordyke calls the Great White Run. The cattlemen are his. It was a true disaster for both man and beast as it screamed onward to the Rio Grande. Cattle turned tail to the wind and started walking away from it. Then the walk turned into a run. Cowboys tried to turn them back. The maddened cattle were too far out of their minds this time. On they charged, a vast movement from the Canadian border almost to Mexico. They could not see. They plunged into ravines by the thousands and died. Rivers, bays and lakes were choked with dead animals. Most cattlemen were wiped out financially in a few minutes. Nordyke and Wayne Gard in their "Rawhide Texas" tell that a Texas Panhandle cattlemen trying to save his animals in the height of the storm stumbled on a settler's wagon. The horses were frozen where they stood, still in harness. The reins led back through a little hole in the covered wagon. Inside were the father, mother and their three small children, all dead. A stage pulled up to Fort Camp Supply in the Cherokee Outlet, the three passengers inside almost frozen. The driver toppled off his seat. He was frozen to death. An estimated 300 humans succumbed. Cowboys said after the storm passed anyone could walk from Kingsley, Kan., to the Colorado line on the bodies of cows without ever stepping on the earth. The cattle piled up on barbed wire fences three deep and 100 yards back. The most deadly trap was the "drift fence" on the northern part of the Panhandle, a 175-mile length of wire to keep northern cattle from Texas ranges. Dead cattle stacked up for 600 yards back of the drift fence. One ranch manager skinned 250 cattle to the mile along the drift fence. Cowbirds went to market by the trainload. We have been unable to determine how low the temperature dropped. As far as we know, there were no weather reporters in the Panhandle. Most oldtimers recall 1889 as the coldest when it reached 23 degrees below zero at Tulsa. This was matched at Seminole in 1833. Gard in his "Rawhide Texas" notes that Texans sometimes are rather graphic in their stories of weather. For instance, a couple of hunters said they had to break the ice on their boiling coffee before they could pour it. Another man said a northern froze the flame in his lantern stiff as an icicle. He said it was so cold the hands on the courthouse clock were rubbing themselves together to keep warm.

More Top Executives Coming From Accounting Field Now

By JACK WEBB
Capley News Service

There's a student wandering around a university who may be pulling in a million bucks a year in 1985. If so, there's a good chance he's majoring in accounting. This is the sort of statement that would have resulted in smothering giggles 20 or even 30 years ago. "What?" people would exclaim. "You think little Joe Peppers, my accountant for 30 years, the fellow who keeps the company books, is going to take over MY firm?" Right. All he is is an historian. That may have been true back then before the soaring '60s and the cost-conscious '70s. But the 1980s saw a wealth of government regulations flow in a seemingly unending tide out of Washington. It also saw mergers, acquisitions and "creative accounting" at its infimum, as young conglomerators tried to maneuver their way into fortunes overnight. While some of them failed, they did create a new interest in the field of accounting, an interest that the more penny-pinching ways of recent years have helped to nurture. "We have noticed an increasing number of chief executives coming from accounting," said William Young, executive director of the National Association of Accountants. "I'm not trying to debunk the other areas from which top executives have traditionally been drawn—such as law or marketing—but I think we are benefiting them out." Surveys in the last few years indicate the growing importance of having a financial background in order to get into top positions, Young said.

Food Stamp Loopholes

The food stamp program was inaugurated in 1961, and at that time, stamps were issued in denominations of 25 cents and $1.

In 1967, however, as inflation began to nibble away at the market basket, the stamps were replaced by a 50-cent and $2 series. The present $5 stamp was added in 1971.

Now the Department of Agriculture has announced more changes due March 1. The new stamps will be issued in denominations of $1, $5 and $10.

Department spokesmen say the move is dictated "by the volume of coupons needed to meet increased food stamp allotments, paper shortages and increased food production and shipping costs."

The higher value of the stamps will reduce the number needed to fill a cash family's monthly allotment, thus reducing expenses of the program.

But the move also reflects the dwindling respect for the dollar in the checkout lane.

It also reflects, if one searches deep enough, the many and varied abuses of the food stamp program. The expense has mushroomed from $200 million in 1969, when food stamps went to 3.2 million persons, to $3.98 billion going to 15.8 million people in 1974.

The Agriculture Department realizes there are abuses and it is taking steps to correct some of them. The department, for instance, has issued new regulations restricting the issuance of food stamps to college students.

Students no longer will be eligible if they come from households which are not eligible and if their parents claim them as dependents.

This is a sensible response to abuses which arose under the old regulations.

It is hoped that other abuses will be corrected before the program gets completely out of hand.

While efforts are being made to bring expenses back within reason, the Houston Chronicle reports that a New York research group has advanced the claim that up to 39 million persons are eligible for food stamps under the complicated regulations presently in effect.

Many families with incomes as high as $9,000 are eligible for food stamps, according to the New York group. Members of the group furthermore said they will pressure the Agriculture Department to see that all those 39 million get food stamps.

The Chronicle said this raises the question of whether almost one out of five persons in this country needs to be on the government food program. The answer undoubtedly is "no."

It must be realized by all that those who get food stamps without needing them will in the long run deny assistance to those who really are in need. This is what abuse-correction is all about.

The food stamp program is much better than the old commodity distribution program, and it has gone a long way toward providing an adequate diet for those who need assistance. No one would deprive those persons who qualify for assistance from receiving food stamps.

The Chronicle is as right as can be in stating that food stamps are not intended for those who earn more than $170 a week and find other ways to spend their money. There can be exceptional circumstances, of course, but the loopholes must be closed.

With the price tag nearing the $4 billion mark, a review of regulations definitely is in order.

INSIDE REPORT

A Tough Warning From The Right Cited

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The White House has just been handed this tough warning from the Republican party's right wing: President Ford will be held responsible for any leftward drift on the part of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller.

Specifically, the warning concerns the biennial Senate fight on the anti-filibuster rule, Rule XXII, which may require a parliamentary decision by Rockefeller as presiding officer of the Senate. Clarke Reed, Mississippi state chairman and a nationally important conservative leader, put it bluntly to White House chief-of-staff Donald Rumsfeld last week: we will hold the President responsible for whatever Rockefeller does; we will blame the President if Rockefeller's ruling helps anti-filibuster forces.

Although passage of civil rights legislation has taken much of the old racial sting from the Senate Rule XXII fight, conservatives want to retain the filibuster as a weapon against the liberal majority. But Reed's warning to the White House far transcends filibusters.

It is intended to put Mr. Ford on notice that, having nominated Rockefeller against the wishes of the right, he is now responsible for Rockefeller's actions. The toughness of the warning reflects a growing feeling in the Republican party, particularly among its conservatives, that Mr. Ford will not run in 1976 despite his early announcement of candidacy and that Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan will battle it out.

Evans

Despite Reed's warning, there is no sign of the President giving any stage directions at all to his Vice President on how to handle the rules fight. The White House says the decision is Rockefeller's. Indeed, seeking counsel from the White House last week, Rockefeller heard sharply divided opinions. At this writing, he has not discussed the ruling with the President himself.

Rockefeller would clearly prefer to fence the question by saying it is a matter for the Senate itself to decide. But that may be impractical, leading to the possibility of a ruling that would cause Mr. Ford new trouble with his party's conservatives.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Famed criminal lawyer Percy Foreman, who has saved so many clients from jail or worse, is now himself the target of a federal grand jury investigation.

A grand jury in Dallas is looking into charges that he received $100,000 to obstruct justice in the Texas Watergate case. According to evidence in the case, he was supposed to "control" potential witnesses against the billionaire brothers, Bunker and Herbert Hunt.

In previous columns, we have reported how a feud over the fabulous fortune of the eccentric Texas oil tycoon, H. L. Hunt, led to a botched wiretap job back in 1970. To avoid implication in the scandal, Hunt's sons, Bunker and Herbert, frantically began evasive maneuvers.

They turned to Percy Foreman. Bunker Hunt wanted Foreman to represent the wiretappers who were potentially the most dangerous witnesses against the Hunts, according to the evidence before the grand jury.

As an intermediary, Bunker used a wealthy friend and businessman, Ed Hudson, who kept detailed notes on his talks with both Hunt and Foreman. But one of the wiretappers, Jon Kelly, who had been hired by Hudson, made off with the notes.

These notes have been turned over to the grand jury, and we have obtained copies. They reveal that "Bunker Hunt called (Hudson) from London" early in January 1972, and confirmed that Hudson was to "go ahead with Foreman on $50,000 fee."

Describing his talks with the celebrated lawyer, Hudson wrote that "Foreman will direct all strategy and guarantee Kelly will not testify before grand jury." So sure was Foreman of success, wrote Hudson, that the lawyer "will return fee" if Kelly had to testify.

Foreman was retained to represent not only Kelly but two more of the wiretappers, W. J. Everett and Patrick McCann. Bunker Hunt authorized another $75,000 retainer, but Foreman agreed to take on the other two clients for $50,000, according to the notes.

The purpose for giving Foreman the $100,000 is stated with stark candor by Hudson. It was to "control" the potential witnesses against the Hunts and "to avoid indictment of Bunker and Herbert."

As recounted in Hudson's notes, Foreman sought to keep his clients off the witness stand where they would have been asked awkward questions about the Hunts.

"Everett will take Foreman's guidance completely," wrote Hudson. "He will not keep appointment with D.A. (District Attorney). Everett will not give info to the D.A. or the grand jury except in return for complete immunity which Foreman feels sure D.A. cannot or will not grant."

To cover Foreman's fee, the notes indicate, Bunker signed a $100,000 I.O.U. to Hudson. About the same time, Hudson withdrew two $50,000 "bearer" checks from his account. Foreman gave him two receipts for $50,000, one on the same day the check was dated, the other, two days after the check date.

We have obtained copies of the checks and receipts, which are in the grand jury's hands.

In case Foreman's magic failed, the three wiretappers also were offered hush money while they were in jail so long as they didn't betray the Hunts. Kelly testified he was promised $1,250 a month while in jail, "providing I did not talk."

McCann said he was offered the same deal, and Everett claimed he was promised $800 a month after he gave his assurance he "didn't plan on cooperating with the government."

Although the "hush money" was never paid, according to the testimony, the legal fees for the wiretappers were picked up by the Hunts.

Another Instance Of Playing Politics?

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Assume that President Ford is correct when he says that federal budget deficit problems simply prohibit enactment of a new and costly federal health insurance program. This is, after all, a plausible assumption: Until the depths of U.S. economic problems became clear, the Ford Administration itself had been among those blueprinting national health insurance.

Where, then, does this leave the congressional Democrats, notably House Speaker Carl Albert and Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, who insist that federal health insurance is the centerpiece and top priority — carrying the bill number H.R. 1—of their 1975 legislative program. Are they serious? Do they really put inflationary, deficit-deepening health care legislation at the top of the nation's economic laundry list, or are they simply playing politics as usual (or worse than usual)?

Everyone admits that national health insurance would swell the federal budget. Projected costs are laid out in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's July, 1974, study entitled "Estimated Expenditures under Selected National Health Insurance Bills, a Report to Congress." Without legislation, federal personal health care expenditures were estimated at $36 billion for the 1975 fiscal year. Under the Ullman bill, these would have risen to $45 billion; under the Mills-Kennedy bill, to $69 billion. Under present circumstances this type of new program would worsen the already dangerous budget deficit prospects.

In addition, federal health insurance would promote a second type of inflation — rising medical care demand and costs. This problem was profiled in a 1974 Tax Foundation study on "Problems and Issues in National Health Insurance."

"Somewhat ironically, much of the recent interest in comprehensive national health insurance stems from the adoption of Medicare and Medicaid. It is widely acknowledged that these two programs were influential in generating sharp price increases by over-stimulating demand for medical and health services relative to the available supplies, combined with the use of financing methods which proved ineffective for controlling price increases. Advocates of national health insurance hold that the high cost of health services have placed adequate health care beyond the reach of large numbers of the populations."

To be sure, most of today's federal health insurance proposals include supposed cost-control mechanism. Supporters say that these will keep medical costs from rising. Maybe. But probably not. After all, if legislative provisions couldn't overcome the price impact of constant supply and rising demand under Medicare and Medicaid, they may not work now.

According to the Tax Foundation, the first year of federal health insurance legislation will increase annual public and private health care outlays by anywhere from 4 to 13 per cent over the costs of the present arrangement — in cash terms, an increase of $4 to $13 billion. The inflationary impact will come in two ways: 1) Federal budget impact and deficits; and 2) increased medical costs. Theoretically, of course, it would be possible for the existing number of doctors to handle more work if they let the quality of medical care deteriorate; otherwise, costs will have to go up.

And there is no doubt that national health insurance would greatly increase demand for medical services — much of it legitimate, much of it gratuitous and unnecessary. In Britain, passage of national health insurance in 1946 stimulated so much demand for free and cheap services that government financial calculations rapidly went by the boards. First estimated at $600 million a year, the cost of Britain's national Health Service rose to $1 billion in 1951, $5 billion by 1969 and $7 billion in 1974. Soaring health costs are a major factor in Britain's oppressive taxation, mushrooming inflation and debilitating business and financial weakness.

Congressional Democrats must realize some of these arguments. In a recent Wall Street Journal article, ex-MGover campaign aide Ted Van Dyk admitted that while top Democrats were introducing national health insurance schemes amidst trumps of righteous rhetoric, "they will readily admit, in private, that such a program, if enacted this year, would shatter the economy for once and for all." Apparently Messrs. Albert and Ullman have nothing more in mind than routine demagoguery. (Distributed by King Features Syndicate) elements to the cover-up. Foreman "indicated," swore Kelly, "that we should avoid testifying at all costs, that the Hunts were treacherous people and would stop at nothing to prevent me from testifying."

When Kelly insisted upon testifying, Foreman allegedly warned him: "Kelly, you are a damn fool. The government can't help you if you are dead."

McCann testified that another Hunt-hired attorney warned him he would "get yourself killed if you double-cross the Hunts." McCann was sufficiently impressed to comment: "I felt like it would be financial suicide, if not other suicide, if I testified against the Hunts."

As it turned out, Foreman won an impressive initial victory for Kelly in a contempt case. But in the end, all three wiretappers were convicted.

Both Bunker and Herbert finally were indicted on wiretapping charges in 1973. Hunt, Foreman, Hudson and their allies have all emphatically denied wrongdoing. While Foreman did not return our calls, he previously has been quoted as saying he never tried to prevent Kelly from testifying. A spokesman for Hunt said there was no effort to cover up the scandal.

Footnote: For the record, the Justice Department has said only that Bunker Hunt, Foreman, Hudson, and others are "the subject of the grand jury's investigation. . . of obstruction of justice."

DON OAKLEY Detecting Earthquakes Is More Accurate Now

MENLO PARK, Calif. (NEA) — Bit by bit, science is getting closer to being able to predict earthquakes.

According to Dr. V. E. McKelvey, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, an important milestone was reached last Thanksgiving when an earthquake of magnitude 5.2 on the Richter Scale occurred between the San Andreas and Calaveras faults about 10 miles north of Hollister, Calif.

Survey scientists at the National Center for Earthquake Research at Menlo Park had anticipated this quake from a number of significant changes they had observed weeks before in the earth's crust and magnetic field. This was the first time, says McKelvey, that such a variety of "precursory phenomena" had been observed for a single earthquake.

He emphasizes, however, that the ability to detect similar telltale clues in the future is presently limited to that area. Also, much more research and much more extensive installation of geophysical instruments must be accomplished before earthquake predictions will be useful in planning for public safety.

Stocks Suddenly Center Stage In Financial World

NEW YORK (AP) - In the midst of a recession, after months of neglect, stocks are suddenly center stage in the financial world.

With little warning, the market has exploded with activity. The New York Stock Exchange has just completed its two heaviest trading days on record.

Though the widely watched Dow Jones industrial average only advanced 2.11 to 894.77 on Tuesday, the indicator has now climbed 52.87 points in five sessions and more than 100 points since its 12-year low in December.

Whether the price gains can hold or continue, no one is sure, but traders and analysts are hopeful, based on the pickup in trading.

Because interest rates have fallen, cutting the attractiveness of fixed-income securities, investors have begun to look more closely at stocks.

"Investors come in when you're the only game in town," said Arthur Wisner, a floor trader of Reich & Co.

Some brokers cautioned that this week's activity might not signal the beginning of a long term rise in the market.

Both Monday and Tuesday, institutional activity was heavy, with some pickup of public interest Tuesday. Toward the afternoon a greater number of small transactions crossed the Big Board's stock ticker.

Around the exchange there was cheer and hope Tuesday. At times, brokers stood three to four deep around trading posts and runners and clerks moved swiftly but orderly across the floor. A few cheers occasionally would rise.

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments in Washington:

-A spokesman for President Ford said Ford has decided he will not accede to a request by congressional Democrats for a 90-day delay in an increase in oil import tariffs Ford has already ordered.

-The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said new deposits at the nation's federally insured savings and loan associations exceeded withdrawals by $550 million last month. The associations are the biggest source of loans for homebuyers.

-The Federal National Mortgage Association reported that interest rates for both conventionally insured mortgages and government-insured mortgages continue to drop.

In the business community:

-E.I. duPont de Nemours, the nation's largest chemical firm, reported a drop in earnings in 1974 to $8.20 a share from 1973's $12.04 a share.

-U.S. Steel Corp. reported earnings in 1974 soared 98 per cent despite a 24-day nationwide coal strike. Allegheny Ludlum Industries, parent of Allegheny Steel Corp., said its profits climbed 45 per cent.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?—The worker who installed this signal light at a railroad crossing in Oklahoma City might not know how to spell, but it's a pretty good bet the idea gets across just the same. A railroad car rolls past in the background. (AP wirephoto.)

Kissinger Hopes Funds Request For Vietnam Won't Rekindle Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he hopes the administration's request for more aid to South Vietnam won't rekindle debate about U.S. involvement in Indochina, but Congress already is balking at President Ford's proposal.

Congressional leaders said stiff opposition awaited Ford's request on Tuesday for an additional $300 million military aid for South Vietnam and $222 million for Cambodia.

Bomb Exploded

Ford's official request to Congress was referred to by a group claiming responsibility for a bomb that exploded early today in the State Department headquarters. The group, identifying itself as the "Weather Underground" said in a written statement that the request meant more U.S. involvement in Indochina and was a violation of the Paris peace accords. No one was injured in the blast.

Shortly after congressional leaders met with Ford and Kissinger, assistant Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said: "The leadership on both sides didn't give a flat 'no,' but stated it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible" to win approval for the request.

Predicts Rejection

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, flatly predicted the request would be denied because "the majority of the Congress is prepared to let Vietnam go down the drain."

By voting only half of the administration's $1.4 billion request for South Vietnam aid last year, Congress indicated its willingness to sacrifice that country, Tower said.

Ford's request for more money was accompanied by a special message to Congress saying that "recent events have made it clear that North Vietnam is again trying to impose a solution by force." He said U.S. intelligence indicates "their campaign will intensify further in the coming months."

Discussing Cambodia

Ford said that a refusal to provide aid would "undermine the chances for peace and stability in the area. The Cambodian government forces, given adequate assistance, can hold their own," Ford said.

West opened the king of clubs and South ruffed. He led a trump to dummy's ace and followed with the king of trumps, discovering the bad news when East discarded a low heart.

If declarer cashed dummy's jack of spades, how was he to get to his hand to draw West's last trump? To ruff a club would limit South to eight tricks!

See if you can find the right play before you read on.

Gets To Hand

After the second trump, declarer cashed the ace of hearts and then overtook dummy's jack of spades with his own queen! This play set up West's ten of spades as the high trump.

South then proceeded to lead out his winning hearts. West could ruff whenever he liked, but he could get only that one trick. The slam was therefore fulfilled.

It's unusual to go out of your way to set up a trick for the enemy, but for bridge players, too, necessity is the mother of invention.

Diplomats Bolder In Advancing Idea There's Hope For Mideast Peace

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(An AP News Analysis)
Diplomats are becoming bolder these days in advancing the idea that there's some hope after all for peace in the Middle East.

The chorus of comment long has been almost unanimously gloomy about chances of averting a new round of Arab-Israeli war come spring.

Now, the key to a new sound of hope in President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, it's beginning to seem that because of Sadat's complex of problems, ambitions and attitudes, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is about to get a new opportunity to display his diplomatic dexterity. He expressed hope at a news conference Tuesday that a Sinai formula could be worked out, but cautioned against any expectations of immediate success from his next trip to the area.

Some outstanding Israelis, like former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and former Foreign Minister Abba Eban, though both are now in opposition to the Israeli government, are themselves sounding more optimistic. Dayan recently told an interviewer he did not think another Middle East war was inevitable.

First To Break Sound Barrier Will Visit Webb

BIG SPRING — Brig. Gen. Charles E. "Chuck" Yeager, the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound, will be the guest speaker at the Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 75-05 graduation at 6 p.m. Thursday in the base Chapel at Webb Air Force Base here.

Yeager, director of aerospace safety for the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center, Norton Air Force Base, Calif., became the first man to break the sound barrier on Oct. 14, 1947, flying the Bell XS-1.

calculations because a full-scale war without Egypt is hardly likely.

Sadat went to France this week and suddenly French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was in a position to provide what might be the ingredient that could help the cause of peace. Paradoxically, the ingredient could be French arms.

Eban, also in Paris, says he would deplore a French arms deal with Egypt. He would be more or less expected to say that. But this is one situation wherein such a deal might do more good than harm. The reasoning goes thus: Sadat has complained bitterly that the Russians won't supply him with up-to-date arms to make up for his losses in the 1973 war. They lavishly rearm his ally, Syria, and give Syria the sort of preferred treatment on its debts they withhold from Egypt.

But Moscow wants its quid pro quo: strong influence. The Kremlin wants to reinstall the thousands of military advisers Sadat ejected in mid-1972 and would like Sadat to show appreciation by lessening his antipathy to Communist political activity in his back yard.

If Sadat worked a deal with France he would have somewhere else to turn besides to the Soviet Union. Otherwise, the situation in the Middle East becomes more dangerous precisely in direct ratio to Sadat's lack of ways out of his manifold dilemmas.

A deal with France would give Sadat some elbow room. He could continue to resist too tight a Soviet embrace and in turn this could make things a good deal easier for Kissinger to have another go at his step-by-step concept of easing tension.

Government Now Developing Explosive-Detection System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is developing an explosive-detection system that could be used to protect government buildings, banks, airports and other targets of terrorist bombings.

Atley Peterson, assistant director of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the key to the system is a harmless identifying gas, known as a "taggant," that would be added to explosives when they are manufactured.

The gas would be detected by machinery installed at entrances to buildings or on baggage conveyor belts at airports. The machines could signal the presence of the explosive much as metal detectors alert airport authorities to metal being carried aboard airplanes.

Peterson compared the process to that used by natural gas companies that add a chemical with a distinctive odor to the gas. The odor can be detected in normally odorless natural gas and warns of a leak.

The bureau estimates that in such areas as New York City, where enforcement of explosives regulations is considered strict, as many as 70 per cent of terrorist explosions are caused by illegally produced material which probably would not contain the taggant.

But in areas where explosives can be legally purchased with relative ease, only one per cent to 10 per cent of such explosions stem from illegal material, he said.

TSTA Official To Speak Here

Callie W. Smith, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, will address members of the Midland Classroom Teachers Association at a dinner meeting set for 6 p.m. Thursday at Alamo Junior High School.

Smith began teaching in 1951 at Gladewater High School. After two years' military service, he returned in 1954 to teach at Tuloso-Midway High School in Corpus Christi where he later served as principal and director of curriculum.

He then served six years as assistant superintendent of the Harlandale Independent School District, and another four years as superintendent. Smith was superintendent of the Longview schools from July 1972 until December 1974 when he was appointed to his present post.

Jury To Continue Bell Investigation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Three men appeared Tuesday before a federal grand jury probing Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and the firm's political activities.

The jury investigation was to continue today. Appearing before jurors Tuesday were Bell's Austin lobbyist Ward K. Wilkinson, dismissed Bell executive James Ashley of San Antonio, and Bill Holman, an Austin Bell executive on special assignment.

The vapor could be used to identify the manufacturer and when the explosive was produced, thus simplifying efforts to track the explosive's history and the identification of its ultimate user.

The system also could help trace explosives after detonation, thus aiding law enforcement investigations, he said. Peterson declined to identify the gas because he said its effect could be negated relatively easily once its chemical formula was known. He stressed that the detection equipment would be useless on illegally manufactured material that lacked the taggant additive.

Peterson said the bureau, which licenses the manufacture of explosives in the United States, was coordinating efforts by other government offices and private industry to perfect the taggant and the detection equipment. The bureau could require producers to add it to explosives.

New House Panel Chairmen Promise To Fight For Interests Of Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two seniority system, have prom- new House subcommittee chair- ised to fight for the consumers' men, elected in the aftermath interests. of another assault against the Democrats Tuesday deposed Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., as chairman of the Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs, and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., as chairman of the Commerce and Health subcommittee on investigations.

Staggers was defeated by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., whom consumer spokesman Ralph Nader has called the best man in Congress.

And Mrs. Sullivan, whom Nader called a pro-consumer chairman, was replaced with Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., who is largely unknown to the consumer lobby.

Both Moss and Annunzio promised vigorous efforts on behalf of consumers.

Staggers and Mrs. Sullivan will remain chairmen of full committees: he of the overall Commerce and Health panel and she of Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Punishment Cited

Mrs. Sullivan said her 15 to 13 defeat by Banking Committee Democrats was punishment for her support of former Banking Chairman Wright Patman of Texas, who was beaten in his bid for re-election as Chairman by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis.

Moss challenged Staggers head-on, arguing that he had been ineffective as head of the investigations subcommittee.

Moss said he would look carefully at the regulatory agencies, with special emphasis on the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration and the Food and Drug Administration.

Archer Introduces Bill To Reduce Paperwork Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., introduced a bill aimed at reducing the cost of federal paperwork Tuesday.

"The combined federal and public costs for record collection and management hit a staggering level of some $50 billion in 1973 alone and those costs were borne by the American consumer through taxes and increased costs for goods and services," Archer said.

His bill would strengthen the role of the General Services Administration in developing more efficient records management systems.

"This will mean eliminating duplication and unnecessary forms wherever possible," he said.

Archer said that if all federal records in 1973 were put in one file drawer, the drawer would be more than 1,300 miles long.

Energy Chief Backs Ford's Energy Program

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the board of Texaco, Inc., has endorsed the basic principles of President Ford's energy program.

Maurice F. Granville praised the President for "talking frankly to the American people" and proposing an energy program "designed to reduce dependence on imported supplies, and over the longer term; to increase domestic supply."

Granville, addressing the annual dinner of suburban Greater Bellaire Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday night he recognizes that some type of temporary excess profits tax might be necessary.

"We cannot, however, endorse such a tax if it does not include a plowback feature... to encourage the reinvestment of such funds in energy projects and provide for phasing out within a few years," he said.

Otherwise, he said, it would be counter-productive, cutting down instead of stimulating efforts to provide new supplies of domestic energy.

He advocated elimination of price controls on new production of natural gas and the phasing out of controls on old natural gas.

Granville also urged development of the Naval Reserve on Alaska's North Slope, "aggressive leasing" by the government on the outer continental shelf and intensified research and development of synthetic fuels for the future.

He said he is pleased that President Ford plans to take his energy program to the people.

"Unless the public is thoroughly prepared for the tradeoffs that must be made, they may oppose the execution of the program with massive resistance," he said.

Granville said the national lifestyle will change if the country is to live within its energy means.

The move to the suburbs, already slowed by housing costs, will slow further, he said, and "demands for more efficient and widespread mass transit will increase."

He said leisure activities will be curtailed, such as vacation trips by private car and second homes in the mountains or at the beach, and heat will be cut back in homes and offices.

"There will be intensified development of lighter automobiles with more efficient engines," he said. "The automobile industry and the government have agreed on a target of 40 per cent better mileage in five years."

"These changes will be tolerable only if they produce visible improvements in the energy self-sufficiency of the nation."

In blood groups, all designated by letters, type O is the commonest.

Chinn Scores 30 As Midland Upsets Midland Lee

Mel Davis Responds To Faith

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

When the public address announcer called off the starting lineup Tuesday night, New York Knicks forward Mel Davis got a surprise.

"I didn't tell him he was starting," said Knicks Coach Red Holzman. "He heard it for the first time when they announced his name. But he's a pro and if he's called upon to play, he should be ready."

The 6-foot-6 former St. John's standout was ready. Davis scored 16 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and helped the Knicks to a 115-111 National Basketball Association victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

"I just decided to see if we could get Phil (Jackson) to come off the bench," Holzman said of the switch. Jackson had been starting.

"Mel's very anxious to go to the boards," the coach said. "And I like Phil to come off the bench."

Although he didn't tell Davis he was going to start, Holzman did inform Jackson that he would play in the sixth-man role.

Guards Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe produced the bulk of New York's offense, as usual. Frazier tallied 39 points, all but four in the first three periods, while Monroe added 22.

Atlanta, with Herm Gilliam firing from long range and Tom Henderson driving through the middle, kept coming back after New York appeared to have put the game away.

In the fourth period, the Hawks went on a 9-4 tear to cut a 13-point New York lead to 107-103. After Monroe pumped in a short jumper and Jackson sank two free throws, Atlanta answered with four more points to draw to 111-107.

Then Monroe sank his patented fade-away jumper with 27 seconds remaining to ice the contest. Fittingly, Frazier finished the Knicks' scoring with two charity shots.

In other NBA games Tuesday, Chicago crushed Cleveland 125-87. Houston clobbered Los Angeles 104-89 and Portland defeated Phoenix 115-107.

Bulls 125, Cavaliers 97. Bob Love's 37 points led Chicago to an easy triumph over the Cleveland Cavaliers. It was the 17th victory against one less for the Bulls over Cleveland, as the Cavaliers have never won in Chicago Stadium.

Rockets 104, Lakers 99. Five Houston players scored in double figures, led by Rudy Tomjanovich's 19, as the Rockets jumped off to an early lead and never were really threatened.

Trail Blazers 115, Suns 107. Portland took over sole possession of second place in the Pacific Division with its victory over Phoenix.

Mean Joe Hibernates During Off Season

One thing and another while wondering whatever became of Eddie Stanky ... What does Mean Joe Greene do in the off-season? The Pittsburgh Steelers' super defensive stud says: "I just get away from football and relax. I don't do nothing. When I wake up, it's time to report to training camp." That sounds like hibernation which just confirms what opponents across the line have suspected all along. Joe's just a big, bad bear underneath all that meanness.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

Notre Dame plays Boston College next fall in Foxboro's Schaeffer Stadium, home of the New England Patriots, and that's a precedent shattering game. We believe it's the first time that the Irish have ever scheduled a sister Catholic foe in football, at least, since Notre Dame became a household word in football and that has been quite a spell.

The fact that Notre Dame didn't schedule sister Catholic schools at one time created some hard feelings toward the South Bend institution. Some one-time powerhouses such as Santa Clara, St. Mary's, Marquette, Duquesne, Fordham and Georgetown, who gave up the big time, felt a game with the Irish could have been the salvation of their programs.

Rivals and the crowd always knew when Bill Tilden's ire was up. The all-time tennis great would pick up five balls in one hand and boom four aces by his averted face and then throw away the fifth ball in disdain.

Melvin Robertson, one-time Stanton High coach, has been named assistant head coach at Texas A&M, adding the responsibility to his chores of defensive coordinator. Robertson joined Emory Bellard at A&M after many years as defensive chief for Bill Yoeman, at the University of Houston.

Andy Brown, goalie of the Indianapolis World Hockey Assn. team, always looks at the brighter side of life. For example, when he gets a newspaper, "I look at it upside down. Then it looks like we're in first place."

When Penn State's Joe Paterno addressed the Baylor football banquet the other night, he advised, "Don't let an exhibition game ruin a super season. . . . I don't see how anyone could get carried away about who won our game," he said of the Cotton Bowl meeting. "We play the game next day and the score could flip, just like that."

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano was incensed over claims that he turned out the lights rather than watch what Indiana's top-ranked Hoosiers were doing to his Cornhuskers.

"It never happened," said Cipriano. "I couldn't find the light switch." "Stanky? Leo Durocher's 'Brat' of yesterday is 57 now and coaching baseball at the University of South Alabama, where he seems to be perfectly happy, if turning down four offers to return to the majors as a manager is any indication.

Bulldogs, Rebels Tie For 1st Half Title

By TED BATTLES

Bobby Chinn had been wallowing in a shooting slump so long, he wasn't even sure he'd start against Midland Lee, let alone score 30 points to lead the Bulldogs to a 71-66 win over the Rebels that left the first half District 5-4A basketball race in a flat-footed tie.

The 6-3 senior's cannonading from the outside unlocked the door to victory at cramped MHS gym Tuesday night which caused the emotions of the sardine-tight 1,500 fans to range from delight to dismay, depending upon which side of the stands they were seated.

Lee and Midland finished with 6-1 district records and the way Athletic Director Thurman "Tugboat" Jones looks at it, "That gives us two chances at the title in the second half. From my position, it couldn't be better."

Coach James Cagle, elated over Chinn's sparkling clutch performance, was in full agreement, but already was worrying about the second half.

"We all start from scratch and we have a tough one coming up against Odessa Permian (23-4) Friday, so we have to do it all over again."

Lee Coach Paul Stoeckler took the defeat that snapped a 17-game winning streak and was only the second in 24 games this year for the Rebels, philosophically, but understandably, his disappointment showed.

"We played a good game," he said after the game, "In fact, we played about as well as we are capable of playing."

Actually, both teams played well. The turnovers were five against Lee and four against Midland and the rebounds were 29-27 for Midland.

Brett Blackwell and Ron Farish came up with the outside points Lee needed, 24 and 18, respectively, but Chinn's performance wasn't something that had been charted into the defensive strategy, not 14 of 19 shots from the field.

Chinn, who tore up a knee in his junior year and sat out the season, had a big game in the district opener against Permian, but had been dormant as a scoring factor since then.

"However, Tuesday he broke loose for 21 first half points and his accuracy from the outside opened things up for Midland inside in the second half.

Cagle was almost as enthused over Bobby's rebounding as his scoring. "He had 12, but even that wasn't as many as (Junior) Miller had. He must have had a bunch."

Both teams played a zone defense in the first half to neutralize the opposition's big men and the strategy worked superbly. Six-five Junior Miller, double-teamed front and back all night, and 6-5 Jeff Jackson were negligible scoring factors for Lee and 6-5 Michael Cobb and 6-5 Donnie Roberts seldom got a shot in the first half.

But Chinn's outside bombing forced Lee to adjust in the second half and that's when the game turned.

"They came out to put pressure on me and that opened things up for Michael and Donnie in the second half," Chinn explained after the game.

Cobb and Roberts each wound up with 16 points and 36 of their 32 points came in the last half.

Lee led 16-10 and 20-12 in the first period as Farish and Blackwell each hit four baskets.

That's when Chinn, who was to hit 10 of his last 11 field shots, began on that phenomenal streak with two 19-footers in the final minute of the opening quarter to trim Lee's lead to 20-16.

From there on, it was a crowd-raising shooting exhibition on both sides and Lee led the nip-and-tuck affair 38-35 with 5:55 left in the third period.

The Bulldogs made their move as Greg Smith swished a longie and Roberts plunked in a twisting shot from the post and a rebound before Chinn unloaded a 20-footer to put Midland in front 43-38.

Farish from the corner and Blackwell from the circle revived the Rebels, but Cobb drove the base line and Terry Nelson fed Roberts on a fast break that made it 47-42.

Midland boosted its edge to 55-48 going into the final quarter and sat on a 59-50 cushion a minute into the final period.

"That gave us a chance to go to our four-corner offense," Cagle said, "and spread their defense."

"We had our chances when Midland missed those foul shots late in the game," Stoeckler said. "But we didn't take advantage of them."

Down 67-60 with 4:01 left in the game, Lee came back on Jackson's goal from the line and then Gary Parson grabbed a pass in and soled for a layup to make it 67-64 with 2:41 left and the Rebels still had hope, especially when Midland drew three straight free throws.

Nelson converted a free throw for Midland and Farish dropped in a pair for Lee with 53 seconds remaining and Midland's lead was 68-66, still anybody's game.

Midland's delay offense paid off the clinching basket with 30 seconds left when 5-8 Terry Nelson snuck in the back door for an easy layup to make it 70-66. "I must have slipped between their legs without their seeing me," he grinned mischievously.

Lee hit 30 of 65 shots from the field with Blackwell finding the range on 11 of 14 and Farish on 8 of 18 while Miller was 4 for 11.

Led by Chinn, Midland hit a sizzling 33 of 61, pretty hard shooting to beat, with Roberts chipping in with eight of 14 and Cobb 7-of-11 from the floor.

21 Texans Go In Grid Draft

By The Associated Press

Roosevelt Leaks, who finished second in Heisman Trophy voting in 1973 before injuries cut him down to substitute status for the Texas Longhorns last year, was an alternate Tuesday in the National Football League college player draft.

Leaks, who was chosen in the fifth round by the Baltimore Colts, was one of 21 Texans and Southwest Conference players chosen in the first seven rounds. More than 100 players were picked ahead of Leaks, once the pride of the conference.

Houston was by far the most popular Texas college in the draft, as six Cougars were selected. Texas A&M and Baylor provided three, Texas and Southern Methodist two each, and Texas Christian, Rice, Arkansas, Texas Tech and Texas A&I one apiece.

The first Texan chosen was 6-foot-8 defensive end Mack Mitchell of Houston, who went to the Cleveland Browns. He was the fifth player picked in the draft.

Two other Texas players were selected in the first round—A&I running back Don Hardman by the Houston Oilers and defensive back Tim Gray of Texas A&M. premier defensive linemen were selected in the second round. Louie Kelcher of SMU went to San Diego and Texas' Doug English was picked by Detroit.

The third round picks from Texas were SMU receiver Oscar Roan by Cleveland, Rice defensive tackle Cornelius Walker by Kansas City and linebacker Gerald Hill of Houston by Miami.

The Cougars were especially popular in the fourth round as the New York Giants picked up defensive back Robert Giblin, Baltimore selected running back Marshall Johnson and Pittsburgh liked linebacker Harold Evans. Later in the day Cougars Reggie Cherry and Bubba Broussard were snatched by Buffalo and Minnesota, respectively.

Besides Lee, A&M players selected were John McCrumbley by Buffalo and James Daniels by Oakland.

The Baylor picks, all chosen after the fourth round, were Derrell Luce by Baltimore, Steve Beard by St. Louis and Phillip Kent by Miami.

Other SWC players selected were Arkansas' Rollen Smith by Cincinnati, Merle Wang of TCU by Cleveland, and Lawrence Williams of Texas Tech by New England.

East Thumps West

Spirits' Lewis Scores 26 For MVP

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Freddie Lewis of the St. Louis Spirits held a team record before Tuesday night's American Basketball Association all-star game that he thought he might only 44 per cent from the floor, but connected 89 per cent of the time on free throws.

And he was right. Lewis connected for 26 points and claimed 10 assists in leading the Eastern Division stars to a 151-124 victory over the ABA's top talent in the West.

"I was pretty confident the way I've been playing in St. Louis and I wanted to prove to myself that I'm not too old to play basketball," Lewis, 31, said in the locker room after the game.

"His marksmanship outshone fine performances by George Gervin and James Silas of the San Antonio Spurs, who scored 23 points and 21 points in the West's losing effort.

Julius Erving and Brian Taylor, both of the New York Nets, added 21 points each to the East total, and Artis Gilmore of Kentucky plucked the ball from the boards 13 times to feed the East scoring drives.

George McGinnis of Indiana topped the West's rebounding efforts with 12.

The East shot nearly 56 per cent from the field and scored their lead at one time to 73 more than 73 per cent of the points.

at the same time the West shot 44 per cent from the floor, but connected 89 per cent of the time on free throws.

Silas hit 11 of 11 free throws in racking up his 21 points.

All had seemed even in the first quarter as the East fought back from a quick West lead gained on a stiff by Gervin and a 12-foot hook shot by San Antonio's Sven Nater. By the end of the quarter it was 33-32.

Then the Eastern Division took the lead for good in the early seconds of the second quarter on a free throw by Dan Issel of Kentucky, followed by a steal and driving layup by Dave Twardzik of Virginia.

By the end of the half the East held a 10-point lead, built steadily during the period.

Lewis outscored all in the third with seven points as the East's margin grew to 19 points.

West players quickened the pace in the fourth quarter and at one point cut the East lead to a nine-point margin. But Easterners caught fire as Taylor claimed 14 of his points in the fourth period and expanded the lead at one time to 73

ANDREWS—Four Pecos Eagles soared into double figures here Tuesday night to take a 64-54 victory over the Andrews Mustangs to open second half play in District 2-AAA.

Pecos, who finished second in the first half chase behind Odessa Ector, is now 11-11 in the year and 1-0 in the second round while Andrews fell to 12-16 and 3-1.

Kozeth Williams led the Pecos attack with 16 points while Sonny Riggins added 15. Ray Cameron managed 11 points and Maurice Bolton pumped in 13 for the Eagles.

Andrews' Doug Shumaker led all scorers with 23 points and K.B. Benson flipped in 17, but the four-way scoring punch of the Eagles was too much for the Mustangs.

NFL Draft Turns Into Body Count

Top Talent Gobbled Up In Early Round Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — By the time Tuesday's session of the National Football League draft was half over, the thing had once again degenerated from a thoroughbred auction to the usual body count, wherein the announcement of a player selection was greeted by "Who's he?"

The Steve Bartkowski, the Randy White, the Ken Huff, the Walter Payton, all were long gone, gobbled up by the talent-hungry and talented teams in the opening round.

Only occasionally did a name strike a familiar chord. Place-kicker Steve Mike-Mayer of Maryland, kid brother of Atlanta Falcons' kicker Nick Mike-Mayer, was 72nd to go, chosen 20th in the third round by San Francisco. Roosevelt Leaks, Texas' star running back, had to wait to become No. 105, Baltimore's pick leading off the fifth round.

Quarterback David Humm of Nebraska didn't go until 23 picks later, when Oakland claimed him, another left-hander to go with Ken Stabler. And quarterback Pat Haden of Southern California was picked No. 176 (20th in the seventh and last round Tuesday) by Los Angeles, even though he'll spend the next two years studying in England as a Rhodes scholar.

For the most part, though, the droning on of teams, names, positions and colleges was greeted by no more enthusiasm than the scratching of pens and dialing of telephones, as representatives of the league's 26 teams crossed one more body off the scouting lists.

There was to be more of the same today as the remaining 10 of the 17 rounds were ticked off, 260 more collegians to complete this annual 442-player avalanche which amounts to roughly 48 tons of flesh and untold millions of dollars in salaries and dreams.

There were few surprises, if any, in Tuesday's pickings. The Falcons started it off by naming Steve Bartkowski, the All-American quarterback from California whom they wanted so badly that they had to swap first-round picks with Baltimore and give up a highly regarded offensive tackle to the Colts in order to get him.

The 6-foot-4 Bartkowski has been compared by many to Roman Gabriel and called the strongest passer to come out of the college ranks since Jim Plunkett — the last quarterback picked No. 1, in 1971.

Dallas, which picked No. 1 a year ago and got defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones, went No. 2 this year, having acquired this choice spot by sending Orleans chose wide receiver Larry Burton of Purdue, then came a trio of defensive tackles — Gary Johnson of Grambling by San Diego, Mike Fanning of Notre Dame.

Los Angeles, which had three first-round picks by virtue of past trades, took tackle Dennis Harra of Miami, the Jets dealt away their No. 1 to New Orleans for defensive end Billy Newsome and the Saints picked Ohio State tackle Kurt Schumacher.

Completing the first round, Detroit took guard Lynn Boden of South Dakota State; Cincinnati got linebacker Glen Cammeron of Florida, Houston picked Texas A&I running back Don Hardeman; New England went for light end Russ Francis of Oregon; Denver took defensive back Louie Wright of San Jose State; Dallas picked linebacker Tom Henderson of Langston; Buffalo grabbed linebacker Tom Rous of Nebraska; Los Angeles used its third choice to take tackle Doug France of Ohio State; St. Louis picked offensive back Tim Gray from Texas A&M; San Diego chose defensive back Mike Williams from Louisiana State; Miami got Tampa tackle Darryl Carlton; Oakland selected defensive back Neal Colzie of Ohio State; Minnesota picked Colorado State defensive end Mark Maloney, and the Pittsburgh Steelers, 1-13 just five years ago but now Super Bowl champions, completed the opening round by choosing Michigan defensive back Dave Brown.

SWC Leaders Post Big Road Victories

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M sent Southwest Conference basketball prognosticators back to their form sheets Tuesday night by taking a road victory over conference favorite Texas Tech, while co-leader Arkansas survived an away-from-home scare against winless Rice.

The Aggies fattened their league record to 3-0 with a 62-55 triumph that handed the Red Raiders their second loss, and Arkansas kept pace with a 74-67 decision over the Owls. Other games saw Texas Christian nip winless defending champion Baylor 74-72 in overtime and Baylor stop Southern Methodist 66-63.

Great Effort

"It was a great team effort," said A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf of his club's triumph, which was sparked by tough defense and 21 points by Barry Davis. "This is the most unselfish ball club I've ever had. Our defense and discipline in the passing game won it for us."

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said, "At this point in the conference race, we are in a bind. Coming off the road trip with a split, we really needed a win. It was a really big win for A&M. It puts them in a good position."

Arkansas now has won two road games in a row after an opening home court victory and an odd quirk in the schedule has the Razorbacks on the road again next Saturday against Baylor.

kansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "But I'm really pleased with our team's great poise. They could have chucked it when they were down by 14."

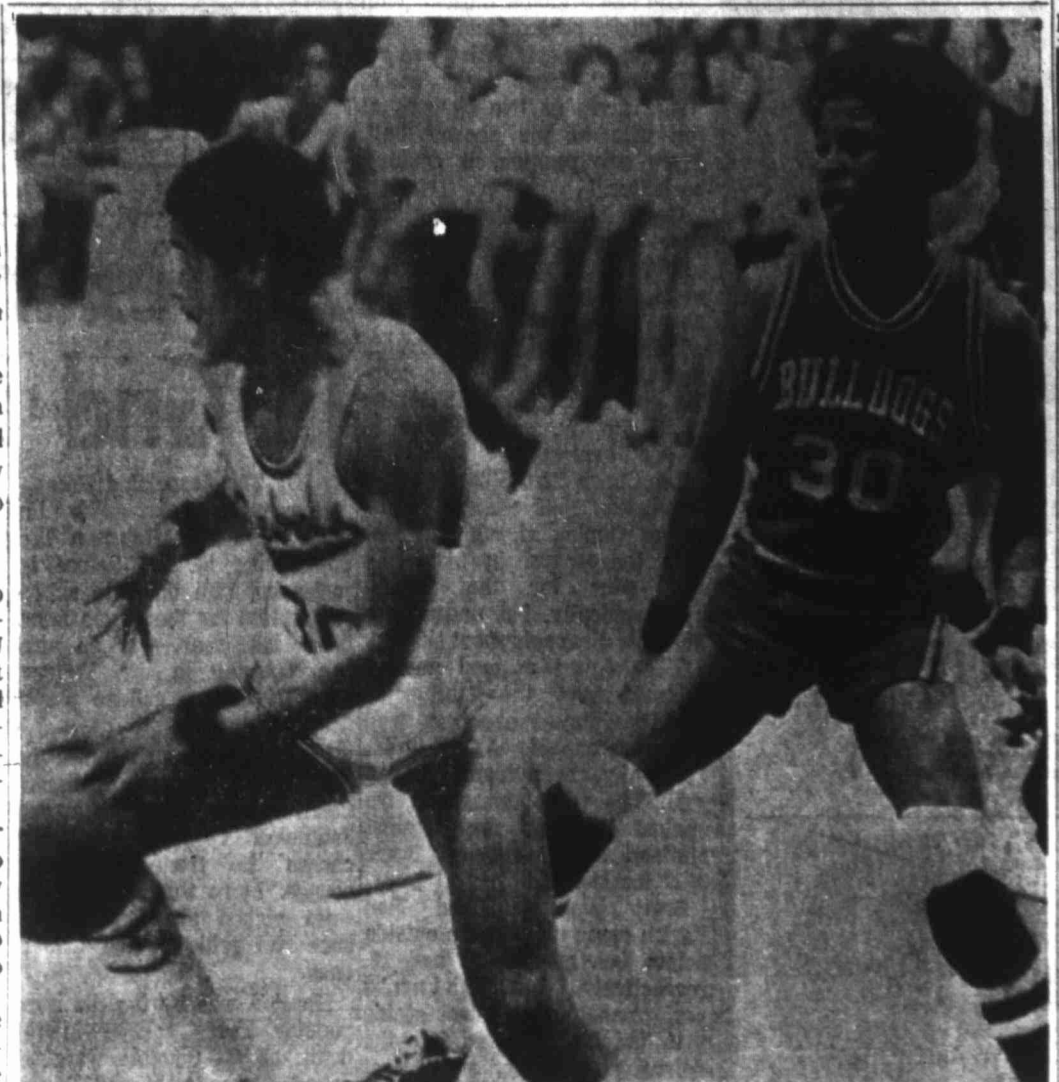

TCU hit just six of 20 free throws and big men Tom Bledsoe and Bill Bozart fouled out, but the Horned Frogs, now 2-1, still had enough to stop Texas.

Tough On Swaim

"They're going to have to quit doing this to me. It's making me an old man," said TCU Coach Johnny Swaim, who got 16 points from sub forward Lynn Royal and a key three-point play from Richard Johnson in the last minute of overtime.

Six-foot-9 freshman center Tony Rufus' last-second layup clinched Baylor's close victory over SMU, which overcame a 12-point second half deficit to tie the score with under two minutes to go.

"This is the best game we've had on the boards," said Baylor Coach Carroll Dawson. "We put in a new offense to open up the middle and let the guards penetrate more. It worked like we hoped it would."

REB BREAK—Lee's Gary Parson, white uniform, dribbles as Midland High's Bobby Chinn, (30) guards in District 5-4A cage action at MHS gym Tuesday night. Midland won to tie for first-half title with Lee.

Bills Find It's Great Until Whistle Blows

By Associated Press

You can't beat that southern hospitality, and you can't beat that South Carolina basketball team at home, either.

The South Carolina athletic department treated the St. Louis Billikens to a nice reception and then the Gamecocks roughed up the visitors with their usual discourtesy at the Carolina Coliseum Tuesday night.

"We certainly enjoyed the hospitality in Columbia until the game started," said St. Louis Coach Randy Albrecht after losing a 76-60 decision to the nation's 9th-ranked team. The Gamecocks, who almost never lose on their swanky home court, gave the visitors a bad time behind Tom Boswell's 24 points.

"We've played some tough of outside shots by Jones and McKinney put St. Louis ahead late in the first half, and the late in the first half, and the visitors enjoyed a one-point advantage at the intermission, best of them. They got the ball but it was all South Carolina inside to Boswell and Stu Klitten hit some bombs that we didn't expect."

In the only other game in Notre Dame a surprisingly close victory over Western Michigan 73-71. Notre Dame ahead 71-65 with 1:51 to go, but Western Michigan tied the game on two jumpers by Jim Kurzel and a basket by muscled tenacious St. Louis Jim Harvey with 17 seconds to go. Boswell sent South Carolina ahead with his 12th point.

The 6-foot-9, 220-pound Boswell scored frequently from in-five times after a nine-point rebounded St. Louis 43-34. He spurt early in the second half, got help inside from Nate Davis and Alex English. Davis scored 32 points a game, finished with 27

19 points and English had 10. Lewis McKinney, with 18 points, and Robin Jones and Dill Morris, each with 12, led the St. Louis attack on South Carolina's clinging defense with only moderate success. A pair of outside shots by Jones and McKinney put St. Louis ahead late in the first half, and the visitors enjoyed a one-point advantage at the intermission, best of them. They got the ball but it was all South Carolina inside to Boswell and Stu Klitten hit some bombs that we didn't expect."

Adrian Dantley sank two free throws at the buzzer to give Notre Dame a surprisingly close victory over Western Michigan 73-71. Kings Earn Satisfaction By Trouncing Rangers

By Associated Press

"We got our retribution," said Los Angeles Coach Bob Pulford after his Kings beat the New York Rangers 5-2 Tuesday night, and it was former Rangers Tommy Williams and Gene Carr who combined on the key goal of the game.

Los Angeles was nursing a 1-0 lead in the second period when Kings goalie Rogie Vachon made a spectacular save against New York's Derek Sanderson, and soon afterwards Carr and Williams had a two-on-one breakthrough.

Carr took the shot, but Rangers goalie Gilles Villemure turned it aside. He couldn't smother the puck, however, and with Williams and Carr both swiping at it, the disk finally crossed the goal line.

What could have been a 1-1 tie, had Sanderson's shot beaten Vachon, was now a 2-0 deficit, and the Rangers never recovered.

Pulford called the victory in Los Angeles retribution for Sunday night, when the Kings blew a 2-0 lead at New York and lost 3-2.

Elsewhere in NHL, the New York Islanders topped the Minnesota North Stars 6-2, the Detroit Red Wings and St. Louis Blues battled to a 4-4 tie and the Montreal Canadiens beat the Vancouver Canucks 3-1.

The game was a meeting between two hot teams. The Rangers were 12-2-1 going into the game, the Kings 8-2-1.

"The Kings deserved to win, they've been playing excellent hockey," said Rangers Coach Emile Francis. "When we beat them, that game was a toss-up. The victory was the Kings' first over the Rangers in four meetings this season and only the second Los Angeles win in 16 games against Villemure.

Canadiens 3, Canucks 1

Guy Lafleur notched his 30th and 40th goals of the season for Montreal and assisted on the Canadiens' other tally. He now has scored six goals in his last two games, after recording four in a 7-2 rout of Pittsburgh Sunday night.

Islanders 6, North Stars 2

Andre St. Laurent, whose last goal came on Dec. 22, netted a pair of goals and added an assist as the Islanders raised their home record to 15-2-7 and moved to within one point of the Atlanta Flames in the race for third place — and a playoff berth — in Division 1.

Red Wings 4, Blues 4

Defenceman Jean Hamel's 35-footer beat goaltender John Davidson with 4:51 left and lifted Detroit to a tie. That goal made up for Wayne Merrick's goal-ahead tally, which came on a shot from behind the net that caromed in off Hanel's skate.

Crane Nabs First Half

Badgers' 4th Quarter Rally Falls Short, 74-71

By YERKY WILLIAMSON
B-T Sports Writer

Crane's fast moving Golden Cranes ran to a quick 11-point lead early in the second period here Tuesday night and then withstood a furious fourth quarter rally by the visiting McCamey Badgers to take a hard earned 74-71 victory and the first half championship of District 7-AAA.

Crane raised their season mark to 15-6 with the victory, but finished the first half chase with a perfect 4-0 reading to capture top honors. McCamey, vastly improved from the beginning of the year, fell to 18-12 and 2-2.

This might be classified as the most vigorously contested bout of the year in 7-AAA as both teams showed fast moving offense in a brutal struggle. Some 45 fouls were called in the contest, but the action was quick and furious enough to offset the idle time at the charity line.

It was a night of hot hands as Coach Arim White's Cranes put four men in the double

Crane's fabulous junior Bill Lewis, coming an undefeatable left-handed jumper, was held to only seven points in the first half, but he made up the slack in the second half with 13 points and ended the night with a 26-point showing. It was his domination of the middle in the second half that kept the Badgers from overtaking the Birds. J. T. Epley came in with three points for Crane while Arthur Lane and Willie Neal each had 12 in the winning cause.

A lot of credit has to go to the fighting Badger team which faced plenty of adversity, but never gave up the ship. The long range bombs of guard Perry Graves and forward Leland Dolen gave spice to a game that went down to the wire.

Graves took the game's high point honors with 25 points and Dolen added 25, both of which turned in good enough efforts to win, but Crane escaped the challenge with 32 of 71 from the field for a 45 per cent shooting mark. McCamey managed 27 of 70 for a 39 per cent effort, most of which came from the outside.

Crane jumped to a 20-12 lead in the first period, with Lewis and Epley hitting six points, and two quick buckets in the second period by Bruce Norvell and Lane gave the Cranes an 11-point margin at 24-13. A bomb by Dolen and two by Graves cut the margin to 24-19 and Dolen then added two free throws to pull the Badgers within three as McCamey challenged with eight unanswered points. Crane held on for a 36-32 lead at the half.

Lewis came up with nine points in the third period as the Cranes moved to a 59-49 lead despite the 11-point effort of Graves. Lewis' jumper to open the final period gave the Cranes a 12-point margin, their largest lead of the night at 61-49, and eight straight points at the end of the game by the Badgers could not close the complete gap even though Crane was missing at the free throw line.

The girls varsity game was just a lesson in boredom as McCamey won 37-17. The Crane girls scored two points in the first and second quarters and trailed 14-7 at the half in a deliberate slow down game which gave little excitement. Carolyn Ridley led McCamey with 12 points and Nancy Deane managed 11. Crane was led by Sandra McMurray with seven. Crane scored only seven points through three periods and then scored 10 in the final stanza.

The McCamey girls are now 1-0 in the second half after winning sole possession of the first half crown and are now 20-6 on the year.

Stanton Downs O'Donnell

Bufs Finish 2-2 In First Half

STANTON—Coach Jim Williams' Stanton Buffaloes closed out the first half cage play in District 5-A on a winning note here Tuesday night with a 25-17 victory over the O'Donnell Eagles.

Stanton is now 9-5 on the year and finished 2-2 in the first half. O'Donnell also finished 2-2, but the loss kept them from sharing the first half title.

Bobby Richardson led the Buffs with 20 points while Tim Givan added 18 and Gary Hanson 11 points. Jim Pagnon and Ben Hancock each had 20 points for the Eagles.

O'Donnell won the girls varsity game, 36-35 with Pat Clark hitting 18 points. Sherry Smith had 16 for Stanton. Stanton won the girls junior varsity game, 69-34.

Stanton will be idle from loop play Friday, but will host Grandfalls in an 8 p.m. contest. This is a pickup game and does not appear on the schedule. Stanton will host Plains Tuesday to open the second half.

Greenwood Suffers 11-B Loss

WATER VALLEY—The Water Valley Wildcats placed four men in double figures here Tuesday night and shocked the District 11-B first half champion Greenwood Rangers, 73-66, to open second half play.

Calvin Wiese led the attack with 17 points and Charles Sears added 16. Clarence Barnett pumped in 12 points while Sam Blair managed 10. Russell Brooks led the Rangers with 15 points and Glen Cox had 12.

Water Valley is now 1-0 in the second half and Greenwood is 0-1.

The Greenwood girls kept their winning ways intact with an easy 105-66 win over the Water Valley ferns. Terressa Smith had 35 points while Capri Kimbrow pumped in 38 points. The Greenwood girls are now 20-3 on the year and 1-0 in the second half and already own the first half crown.

Water Valley Th. Greenwood at Greenwood, 105-66. Cox 3-12; Williams 4-18; J. Wiese 3-14; W. Wiese 2-14; Pyle 3-18; Brooks 5-15. Total: 28-49.

High for Cooper was Reggie Lefall with 23.

Permian, Abilene Win

IN 5-4A ACTION—

Odessa Permian, San Angelo and Abilene all wound up the first half of the District 5-4A basketball race with victories Tuesday night. Permian raced to its 23rd victory of the season in 27 outings with an easy 67-31 victory over cross-town rival Odessa while Abilene had to go into overtime to overcome Abilene Cooper, 62-60. San Angelo stormed past hapless Big Spring, 75-42.

The Panthers wind up the first half with a 5-2 record to finish behind co-champion who wound up 6-1 each.

Mike Walton and James Han-ter paced the Permian attack with 25 points while Robert Lewis was high for OHS with 22. Arnold McDowell and Alfred Fields sparked San Angelo with 23 and 18 points.

Big gun for Big Spring was Bubba Stripling with 11. Earl Swinger puffed in 16 points for Abilene followed by teammate Mike Little's 14 for the Eagles.

Ozona Beats Owls, 58-51

ODONA—Richard Sanchez flipped in 22 points here Tuesday night to lead the Ozona Lions to a hard earned 58-51 District 7-AA cage victory over the Reagan County Owls.

Ozona finished the first half cage race with a second place finish after posting a 3-1 record. Ozona is 14-6 on the year. Reagan County is now 13-13 and 1-3.

David Bean had 13 points for the Lions and Romaldo Cervantes managed 10. Sophomore Jennings Teel paced the Owls with 17 points and Tim Turner added 12. George Thompson managed 10 points in the losing cause.

Reagan County won the girls game with a narrow 42-41 victory with Dorothy Phillips paving the way with 14 points. Ozona won both of the junior varsity clashes.

Ozona will open the second half of district play Friday against first half winner Crane on the home court while Reagan County will travel to Sonora.

30-BASE STEALER SETS SIGHTS ON 50-

Bake McBride Sounds Like Babe Ruth

By HAL PILGER
Copley News Service
ST. LOUIS — Bake McBride is beginning to sound a lot like Babe Ruth.
The Babe, you might recall, after belting a record 29 homers one season, said at the start of the next campaign, "30? I'll probably hit 50!"

Cardinals' speedy centerfielder, batted .309 and stole 30 bases in his first full major league season last year to earn National League Rookie of the Year honors.
But according to McBride, he's only just begun, especially in the base-pilfering department.
"I plan on stealing more than 30 bases," he said. "I feel I can steal at least 50 or 60 bases a year.

"At the beginning of last season, I had a sign (to steal). I couldn't steal when I wanted to," he explained. "But toward the middle and the end, I stole on my own."
Not that the Cards gave McBride the same kind of "green light" superstar Lou Brock enjoys. "I didn't wait for (Manager Red) Schoendienst to give me a sign," McBride related. "He just wouldn't give a steal sign. The game against Philadelphia was when I started stealing — when I stole those three bases."

McBride, who said the Cardinals didn't object to his daring diamond deeds because he usually succeeded, stated he anticipates running on his own from the start of next season. So, he figures, he should have a lot more thefts.
Lou Slow Starter McBride said it won't be a matter of him running more to compensate for Brock running less. Not unless larcenous Lou, who set a major league record last year with 118 steals, gets off to a flat-footed start.

"The only trouble Brock has is in the beginning of the year. He never does get started at the beginning of the season, as far as stolen bases," McBride noted, agreeing Brock's exceptional start last year led to his exceptional finish.

"If he has a great first half, I feel that he'll break his own record," McBride predicted.
A veteran of only five years in professional baseball, McBride credits Brock for much of his success. "Lou has helped me in every phase of the game. I don't think that I would have done as well as I did without him."
"Before each game, we went over the opposing pitcher. And we talked about what kind of pitcher you can get off him, what kind of moves he has, what Sometimes we even kept a stopwatch on how fast the pitcher released the ball. And he told me what the pitcher's best pitch was in different (hitting) situations."
McBride obviously is an astute student when it comes to learning a pitcher's techniques. "I feel I've picked up a lot from him," he modestly admits, "but I think I still have a lot to learn."

ABA Czar Paints Rosy Outlook

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — American Basketball Association Commissioner Ted Munchak says the league will have at least 10 and possibly 11 teams next season.
He made that disclosure Tuesday at the conclusion of the ABA's mid-winter talks here.
Cincinnati will get a new franchise next year to be headed by Munchak, leading to a necessity for a change in commissions.
However, Munchak quelled rumors of an immediate change when he said, "The commission will not be announced until the annual meeting (this June), Theodore J. Munchak said. Despite the new franchise, the ABA could remain a 10-team league, he said, because of financially troubled Memphis.

"The Memphis franchise will continue in Memphis and we're going to exert another effort in the city of Memphis to see if we can have a strong and viable and successful franchise," he said.
"If Memphis succeeds, if Memphis demonstrates its ability to support a ball club, generally some enthusiasm there, I think it will be a franchise got a transition of new money."

And Munchak said the league will continue to help the Memphis club financially.
Owners heard during the meeting that money problems of two other franchises in the league seemed solved for the moment.
A group of Indianapolis businessmen obtained approval from the league Monday to buy the Indiana Pacers, who had been reported in bad shape.
And Dr. Leonard Bloom, owner of the San Diego Conquistadors, told the owners his

Dundees Build Solid Ring Dynasty

By BOB GORDON
Copley News Service

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The once-mighty sport of professional boxing is not dead yet. Not by a long shot. As a matter of fact, it's quite alive and doing extremely well in the sun-drenched glamor city of Miami Beach, of all places. And ring enthusiasts here think Chris and Angelo Dundee to thank for it.

While pro boxing has almost completely faded from the sports scene of most cities, other than New York and Los Angeles, the Dundee brothers have managed to build a veritable dynasty on Miami Beach. For nearly a quarter of a century, the name Dundee has become synonymous with a first-class ring operation.

Older brother Chris was the original manager for current world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, (formerly Cassius Marcellus Clay) and trained a pair of world champions before becoming a promoter. Younger brother Angelo has trained seven world titleholders, including Ali. The Dundee boys are widely known and respected on both a national and international level.

One of the most popular places in the United States for up-and-coming young boxers to train in (as well as for veteran fighters to get a good workout), is the famous Fifth Street Gym on Miami Beach. The gym admittedly isn't much to look at from the outside. But when boxers, managers, trainers, promoters, the press, or just plain fight fans climb the 25 long and dingy steps that lead to the second-floor sweat parlor, they have to be impressed.

The gym belongs to Chris and Angelo. It has been a proving ground and classroom for both students and teachers of the "manly art of self-defense," and probably for a lot more years than the Dundees like to recall. The machine gun-staccato sound of fists beating out a rapid rhythm on the speed bag has echoed down the scroungy stairwell for a long time now.

The bespectacled pair of boxing geniuses have been able to keep the Fifth Street Gym consistently filled with top-notch fighters. Big names like Muhammad Ali, Jimmy Ellis, Archie Moore, "Sugar" Ray Robinson, Carmen Basilio, Joe Louis, Joey Maxim, Sonny Liston, Willie Pastrano, Ralph Dupas, Luis Rodriguez, Sugar Ramos, Jerry Quarry, Vicente Rondon, and Gornio Brennan. There are many rugged demands made on a fighter manager like Angelo. One of the most difficult is handling a boxer whose career is going downhill.

Angelo explained: "Retire is a dirty word to an athlete. When you're a big-name fighter you're a public person. You meet the best people in the world, go to the best restaurants. Everybody wants to do something for you.

"To cut a guy off just like that is wrong, and I've never put myself in the position of playing God. The fighter has to make the decision for himself."

The highly competitive field of sports promotion has found Chris at or near the top for better than 24 years now. (He promoted the first boxing show ever held on Miami Beach back in December of 1950).

He has promoted closed-circuit TV events such as ball fighting, sports car racing, World Cup championship soccer matches, and Evel Knievel's ill-fated rocket-aided jump attempt over Snake River Canyon.

Chris And Angelo Keep Boxing From Disappearing

Chris also promotes local boxing and wrestling matches on a regular weekly basis, in addition to his world championship title bouts. He reflected on what it takes to stay on top.

"To be a successful promoter, you got to know your business. You got to take out what you put in. When the going is good, it's easy. But sooner or later, the going has to get rough."

There are many people who are inclined to look down upon the boxing business, not to mention those who are associated with it. But some of the nicest, most generous men have come from the squared circle.

The world of professional boxing can be a tough and rugged business when it comes to big-name events. But the brothers Dundee are guys that have managed to roll with the punches. The pair of fight experts have combined their many years of ring savvy into a solid boxing dynasty.

Chris and Angelo have provided a most valuable service to the "dying sport" of boxing. They have rejuvenated the fight game for many years.

Landry Ponders White

Cap No. 1 Pick As Linebacker

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry figures he can tell whether All-American defensive lineman Randy White of Maryland can play middle linebacker without a scrimmage.

Landry would like to know. He converted White to a middle linebacker in the 1960s for the New York Giants.

"White could just be tremendous at middle linebacker because he has Dick [Dickey] and Tommy Nobis type speed," Landry said Tuesday after the Cowboys had selected the Outland and Vince Lombardi Trophy winner No. 2 among all collegians.

The 6-foot-4, 255-pound White played defensive end for the University of Maryland in the first round—the 18th player picked. Henderson, who is 6-4, has 4.7 speed. He played at Austin Anderson High School before he went to Oklahoma City at the age of 16.

"We are gambling on him, but you always gamble if you think he can be a great player," Landry said.

The Cowboys will use Henderson on the outside. Dallas took another linebacker, Bob Breunig of Arizona State, in the third round.

Henderson certainly doesn't lack for confidence.

Landry said it is important that White has the agility and speed to backpeddle on pass situations.

"That's the key—can he get back on pass defense?" Landry said.

Cowboy super scout Red Hickey is more adamant than his boss.

"He (White) can play inside without a doubt," said Hickey. "I've seen him at drills at and he whipped them all. White, who has 4.8 second speed in the 40, can bench press 450 pounds.

Dallas also drafted Tom Henderson of Langston State in the first round—the 18th player picked. Henderson, who is 6-4, has 4.7 speed. He played at Austin Anderson High School before he went to Oklahoma City at the age of 16.

"We are gambling on him, but you always gamble if you think he can be a great player," Landry said.

Ky. State Dream Ends

By The Associated Press

The dream is over, but the domination by Kentucky State of small college basketball continues despite a loss which Coach Lucius Mitchell blames on officiating.

The Kentucky State Thorobreds' hopes for an unbeaten season were crushed last weekend when they fell to arch-rival Lincoln University, Mo., 85-63 in overtime, but they remained the No. 1 team in The Associated Press college division basketball poll, released Wednesday.

The Thorobreds, 12-1, previously unbeaten in 31 straight regular season games, began the week with a 90-68 triumph over Union College, Ky., before losing to Lincoln, whom they had earlier defeated 91-68. Kentucky State tallied 13 first-place votes and 291 points.

The game with Lincoln was followed by an exchange of criticisms which resulted in the two schools severing athletic relations.

Coach Mitchell said the officials "weren't sanctioned in our conference and as far as I could tell he (Lincoln Coach Don Corbett) just got two dudes to come in there."

Officials at Lincoln, upon hearing the charges, severed athletic ties with Kentucky State.

"Most coaches accept defeat graciously," said Lincoln Athletic Director Dwight Reed. "However, Lucius Mitchell always has an alibi."

Chamber Okays Budget Of $145,000 For 1975

The Midland Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors approved a 1975 budget of $145,000 during a meeting Tuesday.

Gordon Knox, Visual Improvement Project chairman, said chamber efforts to beautify Wall Street were well under way with the proposed planting of 130 live oak trees.

Chicago Cubs will be played at Cub Stadium in April. Martin Ailday, Industrial Foundation president, announced the addition of Knox Furniture as a new resident at Midland Industrial Park.

It was noted by Tom Welch, chamber financial officer, that "inflation did not neglect the chamber during the previous year."

The 1974 chamber budget was $127,600, but expenditures hit $140,502.

The presentation shows the ever increasing need of oil products and the "eight year" path to supplying those energy needs.

Odessa Woman Dies Of Injuries Received In Mishap

ODESSA — Mrs. John Alford Smith of Odessa died Monday in Medical Center Hospital where she had been taken following a dune buggy accident Sunday afternoon.

Newest Presentation Unveiled By Chamber

The Midland Chamber of Commerce unveiled its latest sound and film presentation Tuesday, "Focus," a story of "Oil From the Earth."

Mrs. Garst, 83, Dies In Missouri

MARSHFIELD, Mo. — Mrs. Nanalee Garst, 83, mother of a former Midland, Tex., resident and relative of several present day Midlanders, died in her home here on Jan. 23, after a short illness.

L. E. Kanne, 71, Dies; Rites Set

CORPUS CHRISTI — L. E. Kanne, former manager of Bankline Oil Co. at Midland, died Tuesday in a Corpus Christi hospital. He was 71.

Mrs. Jack Cook Dies At Denison

DENISON — Mrs. Jack Cook died here Tuesday. A former longtime resident of Midland, she was the mother of Ford Cook of Midland.

Mrs. Brown, 69, Dies At Andrews

ANDREWS — Mrs. Nellie May Brown of Andrews died Tuesday in an Andrews hospital following a brief illness. She was 69.

San Angelo Man Held In Slabbing

SAN ANGELO — Doyle Fulton Sims Jr., 23, of San Angelo, was arrested Tuesday in connection with the fatal stabbing Sunday of Norman Curruitt Jr., 18, of San Angelo and formerly of Midland.

San Angelo Man Held In Slabbing

Sims, who was arrested by Tom Green County Sheriff's deputies following a two-day investigation into the death, was charged with murder before Peace Justice Ruth Nicholson.

San Angelo Man Held In Slabbing

Curruitt was born March 9, 1956 in Midland. He moved to San Angelo in 1968, was a student at Lake View High School and was a member of the Lake View Baptist Church.

"I can't play today, Denise! I've got a Charlene horse in my leg!"
