

Pecos Pool Extended

Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc. has completed No. 3 Montgomery-Fulk as a 3/4-mile southwest extension to the Elmore (Devonian Fusselman) field of Pecos County, 11 miles southeast of Chancellor.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 8.57 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 12,449-13,049 feet, which had been acidized with 60,000 gallons.

It has 5/8-inch casing set at 13,200 feet, total depth. Wellbore is 1,970 feet from south and 1,500 feet from west lines of section 30, block A, G&SF survey.

Gulf Stakes Site For Ward Wildcat

Gulf Oil Corp. has staked site for a 21,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Ward County, two miles north of Burstow. It is No. 1 North Burkholder.

Location is 1,664 feet from northwest and 1,900 feet from southwest lines of section 199, block 34, H&TC survey, and 4 1/2 miles southeast of Ellenburger production in the MI Vlda field.

Field In Loving Gets Third Well

The Vermelo unitized field of Loving County gained its third Ellenburger gasser and 1/2-mile south and southwest extension to that pay with dual completion of Forest Oil Corp. No. 1 Rainbow-State, Fusselman producer, four miles southeast of Mentona.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 8.7 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 11,114-11,318 feet, which had been acidized with 40,000 gallons.

Completion from the Fusselman zone was effected in March 1974, for 41.5 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 18,774-19,094 feet. Wellbore is 6,000 feet from southeast and 500 feet from northwest lines of section 70, block 35, H&TC survey.

Wolfcamp Zone Flows In Martin

Adobe Oil Corp. No. 1-A Mims, Martin County prospective lower Wolfcamp pay opener, four miles northwest of Stanton and six miles east of the Sale Ranch (Strawn) area, flowed oil at the daily rate of 202 barrels, for 24 hours.

Flow was through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 10,064-10,066 feet, which had been acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 44, block 26, T-1-N, T&P survey.

Tom Green Pool Gets Outpost Try

John L. Cox of Midland plans to drill No. 3 Miss Ella as a 3/4-mile east and slightly south outpost to the opener and lone well in the Miss Ella (Canyon) oil pool of Tom Green County.

CONULATE CLOSES— Rioting Forces Suspension Of Da Nang Airlift

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Da Nang's military commander ordered his men today to shoot to kill anyone causing disturbances in the threatened northern city as rioting mobs forced the suspension of the American airlift of refugees. The U.S. consulate in Da Nang also closed.

Some shots were fired in the isolated city, but there was no information on any casualties.

The Saigon command said its forces repulsed a North Vietnamese tank attack on Da Nang's southern defense perimeter, about 25 miles south of the city. Elsewhere, the Communists succeeded in capturing Lam Dong Province, in the lower central highlands 90 miles northeast of Saigon, overrun a former U.S. base camp on the central coastal plains and threatened another district capital there.

Lam Dong is the 12th of South Vietnam's 44 provinces lost to the Communists since the start of the year. These plus areas in a number of other provinces give the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong control of more than half of South Vietnam's territory of 66,283 square miles, including all the north.

Midland Memorial Hospital was among a large group of Medicare hospitals which failed to pass spot checks last year for health and safety standards, the Social Security Administration reported today.

The Associated Press learned that 41 of the deficiencies were reported by Medicare inspectors and 21 others by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, making a total of 62.

All of the violations found at Midland Memorial were related to fire safety and come under the Life Safety Code of 1967 published by the National Fire Protection Association, said Wayne Ulrich, hospital administrator.

Ulrich said a number of the violations already have been corrected, others are in the process of being corrected and waivers have been granted on two deficiencies in the old building.

Ulrich said he had been notified in a letter March 18 by Department of Health, Education and Welfare Regional Administrator Martha A. McSteen that Midland Memorial "substantially meets Life Safety Code requirements, taking into consideration your plan of correction."

Midland Memorial was one of five hospitals in Texas surveyed at random, Ulrich said. Others which failed were Wichita Falls General Hospital in Wichita Falls and Memorial Hospital, Kermik.

Government inspection teams ranked 58 of the first 105 hospitals checked in the United States. The Associated Press reported.

There is no reason to believe the ratio is any better in the rest of the 6,700 hospitals covering for millions of elderly patients in the $10-billion-a-year federal program, an official said.

Sidney Rosenfeld, section chief of hospitals in Social Security's bureau of health insurance, said Thursday that fire safety was involved in 65 of the 144 deficiencies uncovered in the sample inspections.

"These are essentially construction-type problems that don't get into quality of care and services rendered," he said. "It won't affect patients other than the fact that the building would burn down."

Since 1965 the Medicare program has relied on a private organization, the JCAH, composed of 29 doctors and hospital administrators, to assure that hospitals were adequate.

Turbulent Weather Continues

Snow whitened much of the Texas Panhandle and bristling thunderstorms, threatening tornadoes or flash floods for most of North Central and Northeast Texas today.

An Arctic cold front pushed through the Permian Basin during the morning causing temperatures to take a sudden dive. Forecasters posted freeze warnings for tonight.

Temperatures this afternoon are expected to be much colder than summerlike readings of the last several weeks.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal said the mercury is expected to top out in the lower 40s today and dip to near 30 tonight.

Thursday's high was 60 with an overnight low of 39.

Weathermen said skies should remain cloudy today and Saturday with a warming trend expected Sunday.

Other parts of the state stayed comparatively warm with a little light rain and fog dampening coastal areas.

One twister spun down to wreck a mobile home halfway between Gainesville and Valley View in North Texas shortly before 1 a.m. Its injured occupants—Marcel Serra and his wife Jessie—were taken to a Gainesville hospital. State police said a second trailer home, unoccupied, was overturned and other damage was minor.

Around one inch of snow covered the countryside from near Childress and Amarillo northward through the Panhandle and westward into New Mexico (See COLD FRONT Page 4A)

Ford Says Decision On Tax Cut Bill To Be 'A Tough Call'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says his decision on whether to sign or veto the $24.8 billion tax cut bill is "a tough call" because he has found "some good and some very bad things" in it.

Initial reaction at the White House indicated unhappiness with the bill because of the size of the tax cut, repeal of the oil depletion allowance and what administration officials say is the possibility of a $100-billion budget deficit for fiscal 1976.

The President called a morning meeting today with his economic and energy advisers to study the tax cut bill. He was asked by a reporter at Good Friday church services whether he intended to sign it. But the President did not respond.

If Ford signs the bill, rebate checks on 1974 taxes would be mailed beginning May 15. Low-

CAB Approves 'No Frills' Air Fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today approved a "no frills" fare discount that would let airline passengers on some routes fly for less than it would cost to take a train or bus.

The regulatory agency approved a proposal by National Air Lines to start the bargain fares April 14 on flights using the airline's jumbo jets.

National proposed offering the low-cost fares on its East Coast runs and on flights between Florida and New Orleans, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas, Nev.

The fares would be 35 percent below the cost of a regular day coach ticket. Passengers using the discounts would be segregated in the rear of National's jumbo jets and would not be served food or any alcoholic beverages. They could purchase coffee or soft drinks for 25 cents and they could bring their own food for longer flights.

In addition, passengers using the third-class fare would have to purchase their tickets seven days in advance and would have to pay a service charge if they missed their flight or cancelled their ticket.

The discounts would be offered only on Monday through Thursday flights. Children aged 2 to 12 could fly for two-thirds the ticket price.

Passengers using the no frills service on a flight between Miami and New York, for example, would pay $61 one way. The lowest air fare currently offered between those two points is $98. Bus fare between Miami and New York is $65.65 and train fare is $72.

A third-class no frills ticket between Miami and Los Angeles would cost $112. The current lowest air fares now is $189. Bus fare is $113.90 and train fare is $178.

U.S. Economy Deteriorating More Slowly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest indicator from the government shows the economy is deteriorating more slowly and might turn up within six months or so.

The indicator is a composite of a dozen economic factors combined into one index designed to anticipate the future. The Commerce Department said Thursday it climbed 1 percent in February after diving 12.8 percent over the last six months.

James L. Pate, top economist at the Commerce Department, cautioned it would be premature to conclude that the February advance necessarily means the economy has touched bottom or will do so soon.

For one thing, some data unavailable in the initial report will have to be added sometime this month, raising the possibility the revised figure may show a decline.

Pate, however, said the upturn "is consistent with other evidence that the economic decline is moderating."

The index of leading economic indicators, although designed to measure economic trends in advance, is distorted by an inflationary climate. For example, it kept going up even as the nation was entering the current recession.

But figures maintained independently by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston indicated that even adjusting for the February advance for inflation, there was still a six-tenths of 1 percent rise in the index.

The deflated Boston Fed index has been moving downward steadily since March 1973, over a year before the Commerce Department index started its sustained drop.

In past recessions the index has anticipated recoveries by as long as six months. But in the latest recession of 1970 the index didn't touch bottom until the economy did.

Meanwhile, the stock market closed moderately higher Thursday. The Dow Jones Industrial average rose 4.87 points to 770.26 after rising 18 points Wednesday. Analysts said the market would have responded more enthusiastically to the report on the leading economic indicators but that concern that President Ford might veto the tax cut bill dampened investor enthusiasm.

Depletion Allowances For Other Resources May Get Ax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gold, rubies, sapphires, oyster shells and a hundred or so other kinds of natural resources are beneficiaries of the depletion allowance tax breaks that have enhanced the profits of oil and gas producers since World War I.

Congress has voted to strip major oil and gas producers their depletion allowances but retain it for smaller producers.

In its present form, the depletion allowance saves the petroleum industry from $2 billion to $2.5 billion annually in federal taxes.

There is some indication that allowances to reflect the fact that his machines are gradually wearing out and thus constitute a cost of producing goods.

The depletion allowance attempts to do the same thing for resources. It was supposed to compensate for the fact that things like petroleum and iron ore are exhaustible, just as a machine does not last forever.

Congress started with oil and gas by permitting producers to write off the discovery value of the resources as the reserves were pumped out. But in practice, tax collectors found it to be virtually impossible to figure out how much oil was in a specific field or available to a specific well.

So in 1926, Congress tried to simplify the process by permitting producers to claim a depletion allowance deduction for 27 1/2 percent of their production, about the amount considered to represent the value at the time the reserve was discovered.

In the 1930s, Congress wanted to spur industry out of the Depression so it added copper, coal and other major minerals. By 1952, the list was virtually in its present state. In 1969, Congress trimmed the oil and gas allowance to 22 percent.

Some do not have the tremendous excess profits the oil companies are getting," said Green, a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

The oil and gas industry defends the depletion allowance as an incentive to new exploration. But domestic petroleum production has been dropping steadily recently, and Green said he's become convinced the tax break did not encourage exploration.

He also said the focus on the oil and gas allowances in the current tax bill doesn't mean he plans to ignore the others when more comprehensive tax amendments are considered later in the session.

"I would think they would all receive very serious scrutiny," he said. "And if they are unjustified they should be repealed."

The basic principle underlying U.S. taxes on corporations is that the tax should apply only to that portion of a company's income above the costs of generating the income. One of these costs is depreciation, the wearing out of equipment. A manufacturer, for example, is permitted to use depreciation

Cuevas Defense Attorneys To Call 'Star Witnesses'

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Ignacio Cuevas capital murder trial may call "several star state witnesses" the state failed to call before trying the case.

W. J. Gray, chief defense attorney, indicated that witnesses would include W. J. Smith Jr., director of the Texas Department of Corrections, and Ruben Montemayor, state inmate lawyer recently appointed to the TDC board.

Montemayor is a lawyer attorney for Fred Gomez Carrasco, the leader of the three-man prison escape attempt that left four persons dead. Montemayor was in Huntsville during much of the 11-day prison library siege that ended with an Aug. 5 shootout.

Gray said he planned to argue motions today before State District Court Judge Miron A.

Gray and state attorney General Tom Hill have been in court since the start of the trial. Gray has been in court since the start of the trial. Gray has been in court since the start of the trial.

used by the third convict, Ruben Dominguez.

Winston Padgett, a Texas Department of Public Safety intelligence agent, testified earlier that he fired two shots into the head of Dominguez to end the shootout.

Sandel is seeking the death penalty. He qualified the all-white jury on criminal responsibility statutes that provide that two or more persons involved in a criminal act are equally guilty even though only one may have fired a fatal shot.

Sandel's final witnesses were two experts from DPS laboratories in Austin.

Fragments Traced

Fred Rymer, a ballistics specialist, traced six bullet fragments removed from Mrs. Standley's body to a .357 revolver identified as belonging to Dominguez. Rymer also traced two fragments taken from Carrasco's body to Carrasco's .357.

Leslie Smith, a chemist, said laboratory tests indicate the muzzle of the weapon that killed Mrs. Beeseda would have to have been against her clothing.

Earlier witnesses said Mrs. Beeseda was struck by only one bullet that passed through her chest. No autopsy was performed. However, Mrs. Beeseda was handcuffed to Carrasco as the shield left the library. Mrs. Standley to Dominguez, and Cuevas and Mrs. Pollard were not injured. Rymer said his tests linked none of the bullet fragments to the Cuevas weapon.

Father O'Brien, a priest, said serious arm and chest injuries and bullet fragments still are in his body.

Convulsion Is Reigning In Duval County

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Duval County found itself today with two separate county judges, two commissioners courts, and in the middle of a struggle between two factions fighting for political control of this South Texas region.

The convulsion was not expected to be cleared up until Monday as the courthouse was scheduled to be closed through the Easter holidays.

But before the courthouse closed Thursday the political struggle between the groups led by George Parr and the Carrillo family brought about these developments:

—Duval County Judge Archer Parr, ousted from his job earlier in the week by a court order, returned to the courthouse, fired his successor and ordered the transfer of the office of District Judge O. P. Carrillo from the first to the second floor of the building. Judge Carrillo had signed the order removing Parr at the request of Dist. Atty. Armando Guerra. Parr then conducted a commissioners meeting, fired the sheriff, then rehired him. With the votes of two commissioners who backed him, he declared vacant a seat occupied by Ramiro Carrillo, the judge's brother.

—Judge Carrillo issued a restraining order to stop Parr. Parr ignored it.

—Guerra told Parr about the restraining order and later said he may start contempt proceedings against him Monday.

—Guerra then asked protection from the Texas Rangers because, "I have received information that I may be in grave danger."

Parr's commissioners court also voted to adopt the unit system for control of the county's road maintenance system. This meant that individual commissioners no longer will control activities of the county road employees in their precinct. Control will be placed in the hands of the commissioners court.

The second commissioners court, headed by Dan Tobin, the man who was appointed after Parr was ousted, scheduled a meeting for today, but the courthouse is to remain closed.

Judge Parr is George Parr's nephew. George, known as the Duke of Duval because of the firm grip he has held on Duval County political for nearly 50 years, attacked the Carrillos and Clinton Mangas, a banker-rancher this week saying that Mangas is trying to control the commissioners court.

Meanwhile in Corpus Christi today a federal grand jury is expected to issue indictments against some of the figures involved in the Duval County controversy.

The two Parrs are appealing convictions. The older Parr was convicted on tax evasion charges and Judge Parr was convicted on charges that he lied to a federal grand jury regarding a large payment he received from the Duval County Water and Reclamation District.

Senate Panel May Probe Allegations Of CIA Involvement In JFK's Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee may investigate allegations of CIA involvement in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, an aide to Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday night.

"That is among many things they may be investigating," said the aide, Bill Hall. "At this point, they're open to anything. They're kind of examining the waterfront."

Hall pointed out that one of the committee's mandates is to "exonerate the agency of unjust allegations."

The committee was set up in the wake of allegations that the CIA had conducted illegal domestic surveillance operations. Later, there were reports the CIA may have been involved in the assassinations of some foreign leaders.

So far, Hall said, only a "very preliminary" staff inquiry into the allegations of CIA involvement in President Kennedy's assassination is planned.

"There has been a lot of attention in the press across the country about these allegations," Hall said. "The old reaction to the Warren Commission is still hanging on."

The Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination, said that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, was Kennedy's assassin.

But recent allegations and disclosures concerning the CIA's domestic activities have prompted a resurgence of charges that Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy which in some way involved the CIA.

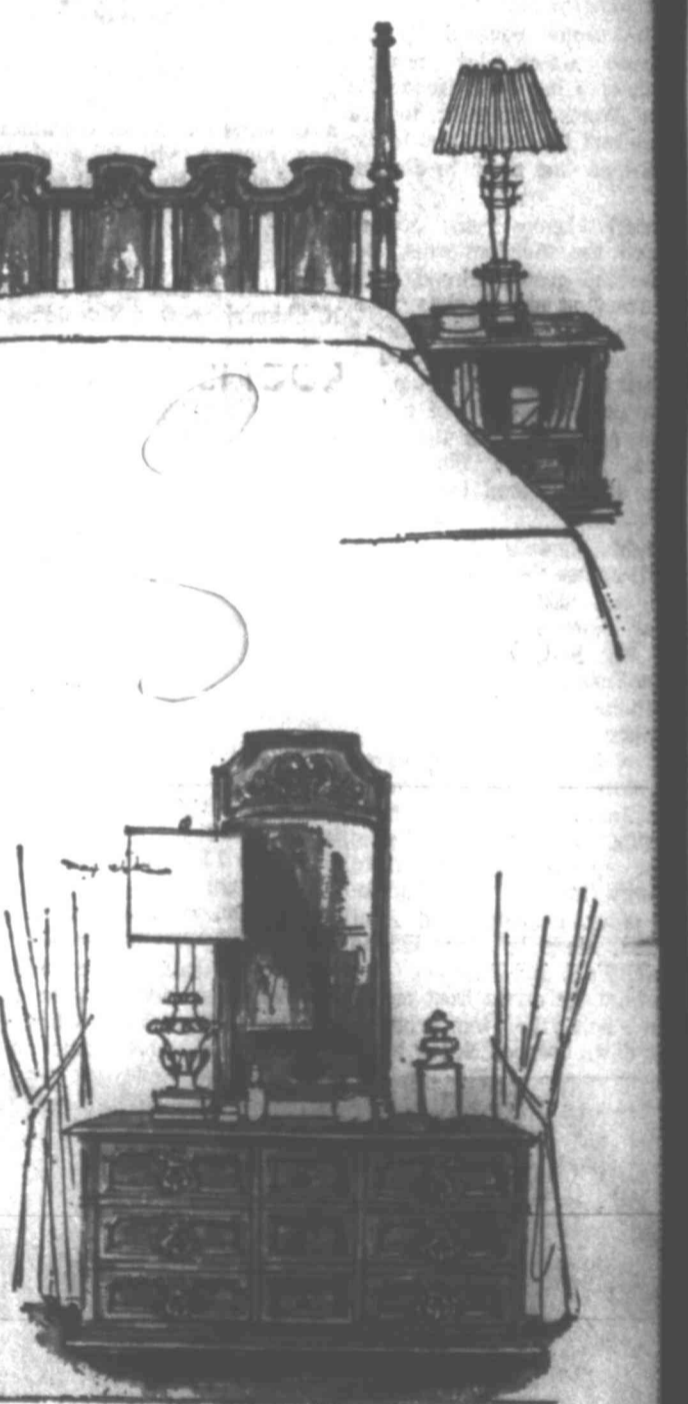

A group headed by comedian Dick Gregory has asserted that E. Howard Hunt Jr. was picked up by the Dallas police near the scene of the 1963 assassination shortly after the shooting.

Hunt, a former CIA agent and one-time member of the White House plumbers unit, was convicted in the Watergate break-in that ultimately led to former President Richard M. Nixon's resignation.

MC's LBJ Room May Be Ready By October

By LUANNA CROW

A room commemorating Texas' only president may be completed at Midland College as early as October—in time for the school's formal dedication ceremonies.

The Lyndon Baines Johnson Room, to be located in the Learning Resource Center, is a project instigated by Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland.

Preliminary planning for the room itself began Thursday when Gary Yarrington, curator for the LBJ Library in Austin, paid a visit to the Midland College campus.

Yarrington said in an interview Thursday afternoon the room would be an informal one, "perhaps a seminar room" equipped with upholstered furniture such as a couch and a few chairs.

Reiterating the intent of Midland College President Dr. Al G. Langford that it be a place "where that will not gather," the curator said the room will be an educational center which could feature not only personal memorabilia, but also historical documents, photographs and audio-visual aids relating to the late President's speeches.

The area, which is about 30 x 30, is located in the northwest corner of the Learning Resource Center. Unlike much of the rest of the building which overlooks the campus through glass walls, the LBJ Room is completely enclosed.

Rather than reflect the decor of the total building, it should, in Yarrington's opinion, "be unique in itself. The items we select will set the decor. The contents will dictate design."

"My role in this is to come up with plans with the layout of the room and the types of displays appropriate," he said.

In addition to contributions of Mrs. Hodge and the late President's widow, exhibits present in the room will likely come from the LBJ Library in Austin on long-term loan.

Based on the room's layout, Yarrington will develop three or four exhibits. He said examples of such an approach would result in one depicting biographical material, another illustrating Johnson's role in education and still another devoted to the Higher Education Facilities Act which Johnson himself signed into law. Other aspects of education evolving during his presidency could be depicted, too, Yarrington said.

"He considered himself an education President," he noted. "He signed 60 education laws."

Yarrington said another possibility for the room would be to obtain all 60 acts to have them bound and made available for research.

According to the curator, the Midland College project is "fairly unique" in that only Southwest Texas State University, Johnson's alma mater, has such an exhibit area.

Mrs. Hodge explained that an exhibit located at the college would benefit "so many of the West Texas children who would come here and profit by the displays we would have."

As instigator of the project, she first approached Langford and the board of trustees almost two years ago. After obtaining their approval, she spoke with Mrs. Johnson, a longtime friend, who was "delighted with the idea."

"We told her our plans were that it be used for students to explore American history and we thought it would be a great tribute to our Texas president because of his great interest in education.

"She said she would be as helpful as she could in supplying photos and books and anything she felt we could use in the library," she said.

Mrs. Hodge added, however, "We don't expect to make it exclusively a Johnson room."

Langford concurred, saying the room also would be used to honor other Presidents, such as Eisenhower and Lincoln.

The Midland College president expressed his desire that the room be enjoyed by all West Texans for its historical and educational significance in honoring Johnson as the state's only president and other great Americans as well.

Cold Front Brings Freeze Warning For Permian Basin

by early morning. It started falling about midnight.

The snowfall made streets, bridges and overpasses slick and hazardous, prompting a special travel advisory to motorists. In addition, wind gusting to 35 miles per hour at Amarillo lowered visibility with blowing snow.

Official forecasters placed 21 counties in North Central and Northeast Texas under a tornado watch lasting until 10 a.m. today. It was posted after the tornado hit near Gainesville and sharp hail storms pounded that area and the Sherman-Denison locality, where there was some damage to rooftops.

The sector covered by the tornado watch lay roughly north of a line from Nocona to Fort Worth, southeast toward Waco and back northeast to the Louisiana line north to Shreveport.

Briefly heavy rains accompanied the thunderstorms. Because the ground already was saturated at many points, forecasters said as much as 3 inches more moisture posed a threat of flash flooding in an area generally north of a line from Abilene across the Louisiana border to Shreveport. This alert covered the rest of today.

Light showers fell farther south across the state's trans-Action, and gusty winds flailed all areas. Skies were clear only in the Big Bend country of far West Texas.

Official observers blamed the weather developments on a pair of fronts stretching across the state for a second straight day. One was an arctic front shoving deeper into Texas along an east-west line about midway through the Panhandle, the other an older cold front stalled along a line linking Paris, Waco and Junction.

Behind the arctic front in the snow belt the temperatures near dawn dropped as low as 18 degrees at Perryton in the Panhandle. Between the two frontal zones the readings sagged to the 40s and 50s, and farther south they stayed in the 70s.

Forecasters called for more cloudy and windy weather with showers or thunderstorms over most of the state except for partly cloudy skies in the west and a few more snow flurries in the north part of the Panhandle. The Associated Press reported.

Jaycee Easter Egg Hunt Set

The third annual Jaycee Easter Egg Hunt will get under way at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Hogan Park.

Youngsters between the ages of 3 and 8 years old should report to Cobs Stadium, according to Jaycee officials.

Those over 8 will report to the Hogan Park area immediately north of the swimming pool.

Will Hays is hunt chairman.

President Ford's Clemency Program Will End Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sign-up for President Ford's clemency program will be halted on schedule Monday night after two monthly extensions with probably about 23,000 of the nearly 120,000 eligible persons joining.

There were about 6,000 sign-ups in each of the monthly extensions — in February and March.

Chairman Charles E. Goodell of the Presidential Clemency

Board told newsmen Thursday that Ford "has done all he can do" in view of a September congressional deadline for processing all applicants.

"There has to be some finality," Goodell said.

He said any further extensions would be up to Congress, noting there are bills to extend the program. Goodell said he was personally in favor of an extension of the program another year or two but as board chairman would not recommend it.

The former New York senator said he will ask Ford to double the membership of the board to 18 so applicants can be processed more rapidly to meet the September congressional deadline.

Of the three parts of the clemency program, the board is by far the largest, with more than 100,000 eligible persons — men who served prison terms for draft evasion or were punished for desertion.

About 12,500 military men unpunished for desertion are eligible to sign up at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., in another part of the program. In the third, 4,400 unconvicted draft evaders are eligible to sign up with any U.S. attorney.

Goodell said 15,500 men have signed up with the board, including 5,500 in March and 5,910 in February. He predicted the total would end with a surge to between 17,000 and 18,000.

Former Olympic Athlete Sought For Questioning In Hearst Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A before the special grand jury federal grand jury has issued here probing the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Recent news reports have linked Shinnick's longtime friend, Jack Scott, former Oberlin University athletic director, to the flight of Miss Hearst and other known fugitives. Miss Hearst joined the college instructor, on April 10 SLA after being abducted by some of its members last year.

"The subpoena was issued, but this does not mean it has been served on him," a source close to the investigation told The Associated Press Thursday.

Scott, 33, and his wife, Micki, rented a South Canaan, Pa., farmhouse where the fingerprints of Miss Hearst, SLA companions William and Emily Harris and another fugitive, Wendy Yoshimura, reportedly were found. No charges have been filed against the Scotts.

Officials declined comment on reasons for issuing a subpoena for Shinnick, formerly athletic director at Livingston College at Rutgers University and currently a sociology instructor there.

Harold Connolly, 1956 Olympic hammer throwing champion and a friend of both Scott and Shinnick, told The AP on Thursday, "During questioning, the FBI told me they had reason to believe that Phil was at the farmhouse."

Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the Hearst investigation, would say only, "We've served a number of subpoenas, but I won't comment on specifics."

inspectors found deficiencies in met Medicare health and safety requirements.

In 1972, after a series of complaints and two lawsuits filed against the government, Congress gave the Social Security Administration authority to double-check the accreditation process.

State government hospital inspection teams, which annually check the 1,900 other Medicare hospitals not accredited by the commission, were contracted to perform the reviews.

Rosenfeld said the commission withdrew accreditation of only two of the first 105 hospitals sampled, while state inspectors found deficiencies in 68. They lost their deemed status, meaning they must submit to annual inspection in the future.

The hospitals will be able to continue receiving federal reimbursement for treating Medicare patients if they correct the deficiencies, Rosenfeld said.

Common problems uncovered in the spot checks were the lack of smoke barriers in corridors, devices to close doors automatically in the presence of smoke or flames, fire-resistant construction, automatic sprinkler systems, regular fire drills and nonflammable curtains and carpets, he said.

24 Babies Die In Hospital Flash Fire

RIJEKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — A flash fire killed 24 babies and critically injured four others in the maternity wing of a Rijeka hospital early today, officials said. Most of the victims were only 2 to 3 days old, a hospital source said.

Many mothers on the same floor as the babies became hysterical because they couldn't reach them in time, a source said.

He said some oxygen probably leaked from a tank attached to the incubators and led the flames.

Rijeka is about 35 miles southeast of Trieste.

An official announcement blamed the blaze in an infant room on faulty electrical installations. A spokesman for Dr. Zdravko Kacic Hospital said 25 of the infants died when the fire burned up oxygen or choked it off to incubators containing newborn babies.

Weeping parents and relatives besieged the hospital seeking information but were held back by officials who were ordered to give out no information except for the brief official announcement. The statement said the babies' identification was still being established.

Flags were lowered to half staff in this Adriatic port and industrial city and the city council proclaimed a day of mourning.

An announcement read by Rijeka District Court Judge Vladimir Pavic said the blaze broke out between 2:30 and 3:30 a.m., killing 23 of the 24 babies in the room.

He said five injured babies were taken to a children's hospital in Rijeka and one of them died later in the morning. He did not specify the exact cause of death.

The judge said he ordered a committee of experts to investigate the "causes and responsibilities for the fire" and promised further information as soon as reliable details could be established.

The City Council went into special session and decided to extend assistance to the parents of the dead children. It said a ceremonial funeral will be held.

Fort Worth Clerk Is Shot To Death

FORT WORTH (AP) — A bandit entered a drive-in grocery Thursday night and gunned down a woman clerk described as a friend of the neighborhood children.

Mrs. Milfrey Cooley, 44, was found lying mortally wounded behind the counter of the west side grocery. Officers said she had been shot several times.

As a large crowd gathered to watch police conduct their investigation, a woman told a reporter: "These kids aren't here to gawk. They're up here because they loved that woman."

Police said they had no suspects.

Midlander Hurt In Auto Accident

Coy Chandler, 33, of 4701 N. Garfield St. was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital early today after he suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision west of Midland on Holiday Hill Road.

Department of Public Safety investigators said a car driven by Chandler and a car driven by Mary Clasky collided in front of the woman's home on County Road 1389.

Lynch New Ranger Captain

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has announced the promotion of Texas Ranger J. P. Lynch, 54, of Midland to the rank of Ranger Captain.

Capt. Lynch will succeed the late Capt. Jim Riddles as commander of Company E at Midland for the West Texas Division effective April 1.

A native of Blanket, Lynch joined the DPS on Aug. 1, 1948. After training, he served as a highway patrol trooper until his appointment as a Texas Ranger Sept. 1, 1957.

Lynch was named sergeant of Company E in 1969.

Speir said Ranger Jesse Priest of Wichita Falls will be promoted to sergeant and transferred to Midland to take Lynch's prior position.

Five Men Accused In Stock Fraud

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission filed a civil complaint Thursday accusing five men and a Florida corporation of defrauding investors with what the SEC called worthless stock.

Named as defendants in the complaint were Harold W. Clark, William Pivnick and Arnold W. McKinney, all of Dallas; First National Holding Corp. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Chester A. Hamby of Irving, Tex.; and James D. Bearden of Austin, Tex.

A hearing was set for April 23 on a request for a temporary restraining order.

The complaint alleged the men sold common stock in Sports International Inc., a Utah corporation which the SEC said has virtually no assets or business operations. The SEC said the holding company was formed as a vehicle to distribute stock.

Absentee School Votes Reach 835

Absentee voting for the April 5 Midland Independent School District trustee election this morning reached 835 ballots cast for the two open positions on the board.

School officials have said voter turnout is running high and may break the 1970 record of 983 absentee ballots out of a total of 5,425 when four seats on the board were open.

Vying for Position 3 are John Warren, Mrs. Peggy Redmond, Jerry Pitts and Steve Scott. Seeking election to Position 4 are Don Sparks and incumbent Roger Robles.

In preparation for the April 5 regular election, the district's business manager, Don Furguson, has announced an instruction session for election officials for 4 p.m. Monday in the administration building.

Furguson said the session is required by Texas state law.

Flow was through a 10-64-inch choke and Ellenburger perforations at 10,824-10,714 feet. Flow rate decreased to 1.1 million cubic feet daily, during the next three hours, on the same choke.

The perforations had been treated with 200 gallons of acid.

Operator was preparing to perforate opposite the Strawn and test.

A drillstem test at 7,887-7,704 feet had gas to the surface in 19 minutes, gauge unreported. A test from 8,073-8,105 feet flowed gas at the rate of 3 million cubic feet per day, and recovered 420 feet of condensate and 300 feet of gas and condensate-cut drilling water.

Also, a drillstem test from 10,340-10,535 feet, recovered gas-cut mud, and final test at 10,575-10,708 feet, flowed gas at the rate of 200,000 cubic feet per day, and recovered 70 feet of oil and 300 feet of gas-cut drilling water.

It is 967 feet from north and 647 feet from east lines of section 64, block A-2, TCRR survey, six miles west of Sheffield.

Impact Statement Published On Gulf Lease Sale

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) —

The Interior Department has announced publication of an environmental impact statement for a proposed lease sale covering 2.9 million acres in the Gulf of Mexico.

The department said Thursday sale No. 26 involves 604 oil and gas tracts off Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

About 75 per cent of the area is in a Gulf region known to contain high subsea deposits of natural gas, Interior said.

The final environmental impact statement is being submitted for study to the Council on Environmental Quality and published for public review. After a minimum of 30 days, Interior may decide whether to hold the sale, and when.

The department also announced publication of a list of 135 Gulf tracts selected for environmental study for possible inclusion in a later sale, to be known as No. 41.

It would cover 696,983 offshore acres from Florida to Texas, some offered before but not leased, either because of no bids received or because the

Outstanding Girl Award Presented By AAUW Branch

Sara Moore, Midland High School senior, was honored at a recent meeting of the Midland Branch of the American Association of University Women as "Outstanding Girl." The meeting was held in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity.

Miss Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Moore, 3119 W. Louisiana St., is a member of the National Honor Society, with a grade-point average of 4.53. She has received three academic letters.

Miss Moore was a member of the Miss Softball America National All-Star Team in 1972, was awarded a swimming letter as a member of the All-District Team in 1973 and received a volleyball letter in 1974. She received the Chamber of Commerce Sports Award in 1973 and 1974.

She is a member of the Spanish Club and received a Pan-American Student Forum scholarship last summer for Spanish study.

She was a member of the President's Cabinet of the Student Council for 1973-74 and is a Posse-ette squad leader. She was presented the Optimist Club Youth Appreciation Award for 1973-74.

Following high school graduation, Miss Moore plans to study pre-med at The University of Texas-Austin.

Nominations for "Outstanding Girl" may be made by contacting Mrs. George Berry, 683-1745. Application forms will be sent to persons wishing to nominate girls who are students at Midland and Lee High Schools.

Midland Musicians Club Meets In George Home

The Musicians Club, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, met recently in the home of Mrs. Jeff George, 2809 Stutz Dr., with Mrs. Harold Heckathorne and Mrs. Jerome Codrington as co-hostesses. Mrs. Manton P. Jones, president, was in charge of the business session.

Mrs. James Hayes was introduced as a new patron member. Also introduced were two guests, Cheryne Watson of Plano and Sarah Hammett.

Elected to active membership was Mrs. Jack G. Stone, and to patron membership, Mrs. R. A. Estes.

Mrs. W. H. Maitland was recognized for her recent honors from the TFMC for a composition which she dedicated to Mrs. George Harley, and for being named "Teacher of the Year" by the Midland Music Teachers Association.

Mrs. Lloyd Haseltine read a letter from the National Federation of Music Clubs stating that the Midland Musicians Club had been placed on their roll of honor for outstanding contributions to music.

Mrs. Jones, program director, presented the program entitled "The Expanding Era in American Music — 1776-1880," "Sonata for the Piano Forte," with an accompaniment for violin by Raynor Taylor, was played by Mrs. Heckathorne, pianist, and Mrs. Haseltine, violinist. "Sonata in E for the Piano Forte" by Alexander Reinegale was presented by Mrs. Henry F. Page. "Every Doubt and Danger Over" from the opera Leonora by William Fry was sung by Mrs. John P. Hammett, accompanied by Mrs. Dillard Anderson Jr. Mrs.

Anderson also played "Marche Funebre" by Louis Gottschalk. Mrs. George Harley sang "List! The Merry Bells" by George Bristow, from the opera Rip Van Winkle, accompanied by Mrs. R. D. Jansen, pianist. The concluding number was "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" by Lowell Mason, sung by the entire membership, with Mrs. Wayne Matthews at the piano.

Eagles' Auxiliary Honors Members

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Lodge No. 2882 met Tuesday in the Eagles Hall to honor charter members, 20-year members and past presidents of the auxiliary.

Twenty-five year charter members honored were Mrs. Erle Robertson and Mrs. E. J. Walden. Twenty-year members recognized were Mrs. Gertrude Ritter, Mrs. Eva Rogers, Mrs. Claude Wilson and Mrs. Lee Ponder.

A contribution of $111 was collected for the Midland Senior Service Center. The gift was made in memory of Mrs. Matlye Kelton.

Five new members initiated were Mrs. Clarence Airhart, Mrs. W. P. Edmiston, Mrs. Vivian Breith, Mrs. Robert Fairchild and Mrs. Barney Wilson.

Past presidents attending were Mrs. Robertson, Tommie Smith, Mrs. E. J. Walden, Mrs. Charles McDonald, Mrs. Freeman Yardley, Mrs. Austin S. White, Mrs. George Dunn and Mrs. Grady Brown.

Julie Brown, Butch Ervin Jr. Engaged To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hendon Jr. of 402 Sweetbriar St. and Verle Brown of Post announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie Diane Brown, to Harold Glenn "Butch" Ervin Jr. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ervin Sr. of 3620 Boyd St.

The wedding is planned for 2 p.m. April 26 in Midland Lutheran Church.

Miss Brown is attending Lee High School and is employed with Sears Roebuck and Co. Her fiancé is an LHS graduate employed by Cal's Man Shop.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Nothing's Thrown Out With Today's Prices!

Dear Heloise: With the high cost of food today, I have been saving everything as "leftovers" after meals.

To eliminate guesswork at the refrigerator door and to save energy expended by allowing the refrigerator to stand open, I use the different-colored plastic bowls that originally contained margarine to store foods.

Each color provides a convenient code describing the contents of the containers: red indicates meat or main dishes, blue is fruits or salads, green indicates vegetables, etc.

This tip is especially helpful for children and guests who are searching in the refrigerator for a snack. And it may help to remind readers that there is still a need to conserve energy, even in the smallest ways.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: We are living in our small garage while building a new home. Space is limited.

Our dog's 25-pound bag of dogfood was an eyesore. (Couldn't be put outside because of raccoons.)

We slipped it into a fancy pillow case and now it's a conversation piece.

Patty G.

Dear Heloise:

Here is a suggestion for removing cat and dog hair from upholstery — especially from synthetic fabrics where static electricity enters in.

Spray the chair, sofa, etc., very, very lightly (just a whiff) with a can of laundry fabric softener. Let it settle a minute, then vacuum or brush. The hair comes off much easier.

Also, for that sudden company — quickly turn the cushions on chairs and sofas and they will not get pet hair on the clothes.

Ardent Fan

Dear Heloise:

We have one of those round, heavy-duty, tank-like vacuum cleaners that has had its better days. My mother was about to throw it out when my father got an idea.

He gave it a coat of bright yellow paint to match the yellow cabinets in our family room and now it serves as a waste basket on wheels. (This is just the bottom part that originally collected the dirt.)

It is so handy — it can go anywhere in the room, and it's pretty too!

Dear Abby She Can't Seem To Reach Daughter

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A little of the light has gone out of my life. My heart is heavy and I can't seem to turn my thoughts to anything else for very long.

I've just discovered that my lovely, 14-year-old daughter is a shoplifter, and has been for some time. Abby, it's as though I have two daughters. One I know, and the other is a stranger to me.

I have always tried to keep the lines of communication open. My husband and I have always tried to teach our children to be honest and law-abiding. I can't understand what went wrong. What would cause a girl who never wanted for anything, and was raised in a good Christian home to go into a store and steal? Where could she have gotten her criminal tendencies? She is going for counseling today as she refuses to talk to me about it. I pray she can be helped. I want her to grow into a beautiful young woman — inside as well as out. Have you any words of comfort for me?

DESPAIRING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Don't despair. Your daughter won't talk to you about it because she is too ashamed. She knows how deeply she has disappointed you. Young shoplifters do not necessarily have "criminal tendencies." They sometimes steal for the "thrill" of getting away with something, or to impress their peers with their "courage."

Professional counselors are trained to help children understand their anti-social behavior, and many young shoplifters have matured into respectable, law-abiding citizens.

DEAR ABBY: Our grandson had to marry his high school sweetheart. They had a beautiful, hurry-up church wedding. We gave them a $25 check for a wedding present. Six months later they had a baby boy. Everything went along fine for about a year. Then they got a divorce.

A year later, our grandson married a divorced woman who had two small children. That was also a large church wedding. Everything was pale pink. We gave them a $25 check for a wedding gift. That lasted only seven months.

After being single for two years, this same grandson is going to get married again. This time to a young widow who has a small child. We are hoping for the best.

My question is, do we have to give them a wedding present, too? We are living on Social Security, and it's not easy.

GRANDPARENTS

DEAR GRANDPARENTS: Gift giving (even to grandchildren) is never compulsory. Give them your best wishes now, and wait a while to see if it takes. If it lasts a year, give them an anniversary present.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago, I fell in love with a married man. We worked for the same company. I was single at the time, but I didn't believe in wrecking marriages (especially where children were involved), so I didn't let the affair get out of hand.

Two years later, I married a wonderful man. I'll admit, I married him for security, but I soon learned to love him in my fashion. I was a faithful wife for six years. After our second child was born, I went back to my old job. The married man was still there, and the old flame was rekindled. We both tried to fight it, but we couldn't. After a while, we picked up our affair where we had left it.

Abby, I have never been happier. He feels the same way. The strange part of it is that I really love my husband, and he loves his wife, but we still love each other.

Tell me, Abby, is it possible to be in love with two people at the same time?

CONFUSED BUT CONTENT

DEAR CONFUSED: No. However, it's possible to "love" more than one person, but the state of being "in love," as most people know it, is strictly a one-to-one relationship.

The event was held in Midland Country Club. Mrs. William Henry was the commentator. S&Q Clothiers provided the styles. Shoes were furnished by Earl Matney. The pianist was Mrs. Ray Birmingham.

Uptight Budgets Relax For Spring Clothes Scene

By BARBARA HERRERA

Copley News Service
Is there a clothes lover anywhere who hasn't experienced this scene:

"You're walking through a store. Racks and racks of dresses, all those soft, loose, fluid "big" dresses, shirt dresses, two-piece dresses, are tempting you. Enticing you to buy.

But your checkbook says no. It's a dilemma faced by women everywhere: how to keep in step with fashion while not out-stepping their budget.

Fortunately, this spring they can do both.

This is a spring offering such variety in both styles and prices that there's not only something for everybody but for every budget.

It's the spring of the "big" look. Relaxed, billowy dresses and fly-away smock tops. And—with equal billing—the classics are here. Shirts, skirts, pants and blazers.

Fabrics are gauzy and sheer. Like muslin and cotton. They're clingy and soft. Like jerseys and nylon. They're sturdy and inextensible. Like poplins and flannels and gabardines.

And hemlines, well, hemlines go anywhere. Up and down the leg. Wherever you like 'yours best. Long or short, but mostly long.

With all this variety, getting the most for your fashion dollar is a matter of ignoring the big error. It's a matter of concentrating on a few well-thought-out buys—items that can make last year's clothes work just as well this year.

"Investment" dressing is what it's called. You can accomplish it in several ways.

By buying the strategic accessory, for instance, like a big square scarf that does triple duty. It's a head wrap, shawl, or neckline filler.

By using not only scarves, but other accessories—a piece of "important" jewelry, boots, belts, and a change of shoes to transform one dress into three different looks.

Or by choosing only those items which add to your already existing wardrobe.

Buy nothing that doesn't coordinate with at least three things already in your closet. If it doesn't coordinate with your wardrobe, you don't need it.

Then there's a slightly different tack: buy one relatively expensive "quality" item a season instead of several inexpensive ones.

Like a good all-weather coat that can be worn night or day, spring or fall.

Or a classic blazer or pantsuit, styled by a leading designer, made from a durable, natural fabric that will outlast the season for years to come.

OK, so let's go back to that scene.

Slip your arms into the elbow-length roll sleeves of an easy-to-wear big dress. You have at home a long-sleeved shirt of a harmonizing color that you could wear under it?

You have boots that would go well and a nice, comfortable, slouchy cardigan sweater? Then—if a dress is in your budget—buy it.

Now you've got one of the definitive looks of spring. And with a little astute accessorizing you can alter the look, too. High-heeled shoes instead of the boots. Throwing off the sweater. Wrapping a scarf around your head. Cinching the waist with a wide wrap belt.

Diet Affects Mental Health?

By MARRION WELLS

Copley News Service

Medical authorities have long recognized that diet could affect our physical health, but can mental and emotional "disease" also be influenced by what we eat?

According to a government report, "It is clearly established that good nutrition is necessary for proper development and function of the central nervous system. Recovery from mental disability can be delayed if the condition is complicated by nutritional inadequacy."

The report estimates that through better nutrition alone, we might reduce this nation's incidence of mental health disabilities by some 10 per cent. In their new book "Psychodietetics," Emanuel Chersakin, M.D., D.M.D., and W.M. Ringsdorf Jr., D.M.D., point out that a number of researchers have "... found evidence supporting their suspicion that the twilight zones of emotional distress also are caused or worsened by malfunctions of the body's nutritional machinery."

For example, several studies suggest that an inadequate diet may literally "get you down." At the Mayo Clinic, emotionally healthy young women who didn't used to reduce agreed to being placed on a restricted diet and living together under medical supervision. Within three short months "... the women's personalities underwent startling changes. They began to quarrel endlessly with one another. They experienced unprovoked feelings of anxiety, persecution, and hostility."

Other symptoms noted in some included nightmares, feelings of panic, faulty memory and impaired concentration. Studying 10 "crash dieters" who wound up in a psychiatric institution, six of whom had no prior history of emotional problems, Israeli researchers found "... a direct correlation between the severity of their mental aberrations and the speed and the amount of weight loss."

For dieters and nondieters alike, it's wise "nutritional mental health insurance" to eat a varied menu containing adequate amounts of ALL essential nutrients and emphasizing fresh foods where possible. A limited diet has this liability: it may be missing presently UNIDENTIFIED nutritional factors which could be important to physical and emotional well-being. Also, requirements for specific nutrients vary with the individual. How can deficits of known nutrients influence mood and emotions? To give a few examples: memory impairment, nervousness, confusion, depression and insomnia are among many symptoms associated with B vitamin deficiencies.

ANNUAL EASTER PROJECT — Through the generosity of Midland merchants, 132 Easter baskets were distributed Thursday by the Midland County Medical Society Auxiliary to the children in Head Start program of the Midland school system. Some of the children participating were photographed with Mrs. Kay Henderson, a teacher in the program. Various events were enjoyed by the children, from Easter egg hunts in many city parks to special classroom activities. Chairman for the annual Easter project was Mrs. George R. E. Johnston was in charge of publicity for the event.

Review Given By Mrs. Samples

Mrs. Jack Samples presented a review of the book, "Some Are Born Great" by Adela Rodgers St. Johns for a meeting Wednesday of the Fine Arts Club in the Midland Woman's Club.

The author of "Final Verdict," "Tell No Man" and "The Honeycomb," introduces the reader to great American women, both liberated and unliberated. Mrs. Samples presented parts of the book on the lives of Amelia Earhart, Carry Nation, Judy Garland, Eleanor Roosevelt, Margaret Sangster, Rachel Carson, Bess Truman, Mary Baker Eddy, Edna Ferber, Ann Morrow Lindbergh and Marie Dressler.

The announcement was made that the club will be hostess group to the Midland Woman's Club luncheon April 17.

Mrs. Charles Hicks, president, presided for the business session, Mrs. George F. Harley was a guest.

Hostesses to the hospitality hour were Mrs. William N. Sands and Mrs. Hicks.

T.O.P.S. Chapter Installs Officers

The Tuesday Morning Chapter of Texas T.O.P.S. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) met recently at Christ Presbyterian Church for installation of new officers.

Newly installed officers are Mrs. Bobby Sanders, leader; Mrs. Terry Jiminez, co-leader; Mrs. George Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Bobby Jones, secretary; and Mrs. Morris Snider, weight recorder. Mrs. Elbert Yoes installed each officer in a candlelight ceremony. As she read the duties, each officer pledged to fulfill her responsibilities and then lit a candle.

Immediately following the meeting, Mrs. Sanders was hostess for a brunch honoring her officers.

Mrs. Mark Prestridge was "weekly queen" with a 2 1/2 pounds weight loss. The total weekly loss was 29 1/4 pounds.

Anyone interested in joining the Tuesday Morning chapter can contact Mrs. Sanders at 684-4084 or Mrs. Jiminez at 684-9893.

Party Given For Graduating Senior

Faith Keyes, Lee High School senior student, was the honoree at a graduation luncheon Saturday in La Bodega Restaurant. Her grandmother, Mrs. Russell Thomas, was the hostess.

Miss Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Keyes, was presented an orchid corsage. Eleven guests, including Mrs. Keyes, attended.

Large paper Mexican zinnias centered the table and guests' places were marked with small bright colored baskets of flowers.

First Robin Heralds Spring

By HELEN M. PAGEL, Copley News Service

Winter was fun with its snow and ice, its sleigh rides and skating parties, its indoor games and quiet evenings spent reading by the light of the kerosene lamp. And March was fun, with its blustery winds, its muddy roads, its uncertain weather which brought back winter one day and held out promises of spring the next.

But one morning you woke up and heard something singing madly just outside your window. "Cheerily-cheer-up! Cheerily-cheer-up!" You jumped out of bed and ran to look, and sure enough! It was the first robin and you knew that spring had really arrived no matter what the thermometer said.

It seems as if years ago there were more birds than there are today, or maybe people just paid more attention to them. Children, especially, would spend hours watching them and learning nature study firsthand. It was not at all unusual to see a small child standing all alone—standing so still, so very still—with her hands behind her back and her face, lighted by a rapt expression, turned toward the treetop where a robin tilting on a bough was pouring forth melody which no man-made music can equal.

If you happened to be that child you know that there was nothing in the world at the moment but that robin's song.

It brought all kinds of beautiful but undefinable thoughts floating through your mind, and although you couldn't have put them into words—and they wouldn't have been worth nearly as much if you could have—they made an impression which never quite disappeared.

As long as the robin was singing he devoted himself to that exclusively and sang with all his might and main. But when the song was finished he had other matters to attend to.

There was breakfast, for one thing. He flew down from his perch in the tree and hopped over the grass with his head cocked to one side, searching for angleworms.

And when he had located one (how in the world did he know it was underground at that precise point?) he stopped, drove his bill into the ground and up came Mr. Angleworm struggling valiantly but vainly to escape his fate. Down Mr. Robin's throat he went, and away the gentleman in the red vest went in search of more breakfast.

And, of course, there was the very important business of nest building. If you happened to have an apple or cherry tree in your yard—and in those days you very likely did—the robins usually chose one of them as the site for their homestead. And what a busy little pair of builders they were! Day after day you watched them carrying sticks and feathers and long hairs from the horse's tail (everybody had chickens and horses then) and weaving them into a perfect little nest such as no human could construct, snugly tucked into the crotch of a tree.

Sometimes you helped out by scattering pieces of string near the tree, and the robins always gratefully accepted them and added them to their house. Maybe even a doll's hair ribbon which had been left on the grass would mysteriously disappear and in the autumn, after the leaves had fallen, there it would be, a bright bit of color woven into the little homestead.

And then one day when you climbed the tree there were four blue eggs in the nest, and although you kept a close watch, you kept your distance from the tree after that so that you wouldn't scare the robins away.

And finally, the eggs hatched.

Organists' Guild Has Dinner Meet

The West Texas Chapter of the American Guild of Organists had a dinner meeting recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sanders, 2608 W. Dengar St.

Robert E. Poer, organist and choirmaster of the First Presbyterian Church, presented the program. He was one of 27 members of a Texas Christian University Organ Study Tour of Europe held last summer. Poer showed slides of famous churches and their organs.

Guests attending were George Zinke, Debbie Pope, Dr. James Huddleston, Don R. Johnson of Odessa, E. F. Motter, Mrs. Herman Porsch Jr., Mrs. Robert E. Poer, Sanders and Robert P. Scott.

Patron members present were Mrs. Donald Ross, Mrs. E. W. Vanderpool and Mrs. J. B. Koenig.

Lotis Williams was in charge of arrangements for the program.

Another 'New Left' Radical Arrested By FBI Agents

making their way onto the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list. But part of the facade is cracking. In the latest in a series of such arrests, FBI agents Thursday night picked up Susan Edith Saxe, wanted since 1970 on charges of interstate flight to avoid prosecution for the murder of a Boston police officer shot following a bank robbery. She was the fourth political radical taken into custody since

Nov. 14 after five years in which only one major radical fugitive had been arrested. Miss Saxe, 36, of Albany, N.Y., was captured on a downtown Philadelphia street after a policeman recognized her from photographs and a description that had been released Thursday by the FBI. Authorities said Miss Saxe was believed to be in the area and that is why the new photos had been released.

For a long time, the only major radical arrested had been Karlston L. Armstrong, one of four men sought in a fatal bombing at the University of Wisconsin. He was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to 20 years in prison. But lately, there have been these developments: —Jane Alpert, 27, who jumped bail after being charged in a series of bombings in New York City in 1968 and 1970, turned herself in on Nov. 14. She pleaded guilty to conspiracy and bail jumping and was sentenced to 27 months in prison.

—Patricia Swinton, 26, alleged to be a member of the same bomb ring, was arrested March 12 in the Westfield, Vt., health food store where she worked as a clerk. She was released in $200,000 bail and has returned in Vermont. —Cameron D. Bishop, the first identifiable radical to be placed on the 10 Most Wanted List, was arrested March 12 in East Greenwich, R.I., in a car which police said contained a small arsenal of weapons. He had been sought since April, 1969 on charges of dynamiting four transmission towers in Colorado that supplied power to defense plants.

Police said she was unarmed and did not resist arrest, although she "was quivering, she was nervous as hell."

Law enforcement authorities and underground reports indicate that in five years, there has been considerable change in a number of the fugitives, most of whom were middle class whites radicalized by the war in Vietnam. Some have given up radical activities altogether and some of the women have turned to feminism.

The nucleus of the fugitive left — the Weather Underground — remains at large, and has, in fact, become more vocal. From all accounts, it is a highly disciplined, highly organized underground group that

Some Upper-Middle Class Taxpayers May Qualify For Rebates Sweepstakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The broadest help in the new tax bill goes to lower-income persons, but the biggest individual dollar winners would be a few upper-middle class taxpayers who qualify for two narrowly drawn benefits.

The profile of the tax-cut sweepstakes champion looks like this, assuming President Ford signs the tax cut bill approved by Congress:

Family income between $27,600 and $35,000. Both parents work, necessitating $4,800 in child care expenses. Purchasers of a new $40,000 home during the rest of this year.

If you fit this profile, the tax savings could total nearly $4,000 compared with 1974.

The purchaser of a new home will receive a tax credit of 5 per cent of the purchase price up to a credit ceiling of $2,000. That ceiling is reached when the purchase price hits $40,000. A tax credit is subtracted directly from the tax bill.

Liberalization of the child care deduction extends this benefit well up the income ladder.

Currently, $4,800 in such expenses can be deducted if family income is $18,000 or less, and a decreasing portion of such expense can be deducted as income increases to $27,600.

Under the tax cut bill, the full $4,800 could be deducted until income reached $35,000. A decreasing portion could be deducted until income hit $44,600.

Thus, for a family earning between $27,600 and $35,000, a $4,800 deduction from gross income that couldn't be taken at all in the past is now fully available. The tax saving could reach $1,800 depending on other facets of the tax return.

Like every other taxpayer, these winning families will get a new tax credit of $30 for every dependent. That's worth $120 for a family of four regardless of income.

The rebate of 1974 taxes tails off for these upper middle class families, but is still worth at least $100 and perhaps a few dollars more.

The rebate plan gives every taxpayer at least $100 back if he or she paid $100 in taxes.

The maximum rebate is $200 for those whose 1974 tax bill was at least $2,000 and whose family income did not exceed $30,000.

Lower income persons whose tax bill was less than $100 will get all they paid back.

Lower income families with children will get a tax credit of 10 per cent of their total income if their earnings did not exceed $4,000. Those in the $4,000 to $8,000 bracket will get a progressively smaller credit.

Changes in the minimum and maximum standard deductions will help low income families, and many middle income families who don't itemize tax deductions.

Single persons will be able to earn $300 more than previously and couples $600 more than before without having to pay any taxes at all.

Minister Urges Fugitive Heiress Patty Surrender

DALLAS (AP) — A minister who acted as the chosen liaison of the Symbionese Liberation Army immediately after the kidnaping of Patty Hearst has urged the fugitive heiress to come out of hiding.

"There are still no serious charges against her," said the Rev. Cecil Williams of San Francisco. He was in Dallas to speak at the 22nd Congress of the Association of Operating Room Nurses.

The Rev. Mr. Williams said he would recommend Miss Hearst come out of hiding and "get the best legal counsel and then call a press conference."

He added he hoped Miss Hearst is writing a book.

"We need to know what brought her to the place she is now. What was the mind change, after her kidnaping that moved her from here to there, what do they (SLA) believe in and how she has been affected by all of this," he said.

Last year the Rev. Mr. Williams was contacted by the SLA to pick up the highly publicized tapes made by the SLA and deliver them to her father, Randolph Hearst. Miss Hearst later announced through the tapes that she was joining the SLA.

Speeding Charged Mrs. Ethel Kennedy

PLYMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, the widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has been charged with speeding after being stopped on Interstate 93 in Compton, N.H.

State police say they clocked Mrs. Kennedy's car traveling at 94 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone March 15.

Legislators Revive New State Charter

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators have decided to take another try at approving a proposed new state constitution, a feat they failed to do by a margin of three votes last June.

Shortly before adjourning for the Easter holidays Thursday, the Senate and House adopted separate resolutions to change their parliamentary ground rules and allow article by article debate on the basic document almost approved by the 1974 Constitutional Convention.

The Senate then quit until 2 p.m. Monday and the House until 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Article By Article

Sen. Bob Gammage, D-Houston, served notice to the Senate that he will offer for debate Tuesday his measure that includes the eight articles of the convention's final basic document. It contains none of the separate submissions that caused considerable controversy, such as right-to-work provisions and legislators' pay raises.

The Senate resolution says that the eight articles of Gammage's measure will be voted on separately and no article will advance to the House unless it gets a two-thirds Senate vote.

The House resolution said that any amendment offered in debate on the revised constitution must have a two-thirds vote of approval.

Anything approved by the legislature would be presented to Texas voters for a final say.

The Senate adjourned Thursday in the midst of a hot debate over merging the Mass Transit Commission with the State Highway Commission. The debate will resume Monday afternoon.

State Highway Funds

Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, said the measure will change the name of the combined agencies to the State Department of Highway and Public Transportation. The six members of the Mass Transit Commission would become members of an advisory council.

McKnight said a companion bill, yet to be offered, would set aside one cent of the four cents the State Highway Department gets from the gasoline tax to be used in mass transit programs along with federal money.

Spring Storms Lash Many U.S. Sectors

New York (AP) — Heavy snow stopped a wide area of the upper Midwest and Plains today. Freezing rain and sleet also slowed travel and knocked out electrical power in numerous sections of the country in the north.

Still farther south, thunderstorms triggered tornadoes in parts of the Plains late Thursday and dumped increasing rains into the middle Mississippi Valley. Flash flooding followed in Arkansas.

Reaches To Great Lakes

The National Weather Service warned the system that started the widespread run of foul weather early in the week "an extremely dangerous storm." Various warnings and advisories remained in effect for parts of a dozen states from the Rockies to the Great Lakes.

The heaviest snow hit hardest at a station plastered by an earlier blizzard Sunday and Monday. New snows of 16 to 20 inches piled atop drifts from the previous storm in South Dakota. More than a foot of fresh snow dropped into the Duluth-Superior area of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Winds of 60 to 70 miles per hour closed many previously plowed highways in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Road crews were called off the job in many areas Thursday night. All highways in and out of Minneapolis-St. Paul were blocked by huge drifts and closed early today.

State police and highway crews created snow fences across Interstate 94 at Tomah and Hudson, Wis., Thursday night to keep traffic from attempting to go on after plows were limited. Scores of motorists spent the night in churches, college dormitories and at truck stops.

Carv. Trucks Stranded

More than 200 cars and trucks were off the pavement due to snow and ice on a 145-mile stretch of I-94 between Tomah and the Wisconsin-Minnesota line. School buses from Black River Falls, Wis., holed a portion of the highway picking up an estimated 70 stranded motorists and carrying them to overnight accommodations in town.

The winds toppled a 1,985-foot transmitting tower for KXON-TV at Salem, S.D., Thursday when freezing rain caused an ice buildup on the structure. A 620-foot cable-television tower fell in the winds at Goddard, Minn.

Rubber Dams May Save Priceless Beauty Of Venice

Copley News Service
NEW YORK — Venice must not be allowed to become a dead city," Giorgio della Seta, president of the Pirelli Tire Corp., is adamant about the necessity to save Italy's most beautiful, and most endangered, city.
 No city has more admirers than the crumbling complex of 117 tiny islets, home of a priceless artistic heritage of 1,500 years. No city has more people from Italy's own "Save Venice" organization, to UNESCO, to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, trying to save it.

 So far, most of the attempts to stop the flooding, the sinking and the polluting of this once grand port have come to little. Now, however, Pirelli, Italy's giant rubber corporation, and Furiani, an Italian construction firm, may have found a solution to the flooding which each year devours 100 acres and the pavement lies on a 165-04 between Wisconsin-43rd and 44th streets from the W. 43rd Street. Highway pick-up trucks are trying them to maintain in a 1,500-foot for KXON-S.D., Thursday via enclosed as he structure. A revision tower at Godahl, ntino was 31 e died.

Construction of any traditional type of dam, however, would not only drastically alter the ecology of the Venetian lagoon, but would impede or even end the passage of ships.
 "We do not want to change a system which has worked for thousands of years," said Della Seta. "If we did, more people would leave Venice, and we would have left already."
 High waters, in addition to older buildings have had an insidious effect on Venetian marble facades. Washing high above the old and relatively watertight foundations, the water is carried by capillary action up to 15 feet above the normal waterline. Because many of the older buildings are badly located, the humidity in the walls speeds up the deterioration of the masonry.

 Now, the new flexible rubber dam should put an end to much of Venice's problems.

The head of the Pirelli Tire Corporation of the University of Bologna, the dam took a year for Pirelli to develop. It consists of a thin polyester tube, somewhat like a hot water bottle in appearance, which is impregnated on each side with waterproof rubber.
 It is designed to inflate with water and span the mouths of each of the three channels that connect the Venetian lagoon with the sea. These three barriers will be the largest of their kind in the world, weighing a total of 2,000 tons and will be manufactured at Pirelli's Milan factory.
 Once installed, the new dam system will be linked to a specially programmed computer which will forecast adverse weather conditions—high winds and tides—and bring the system into operation. Normally, Venice receives a minimum of about six hours' warning that rough weather is on the way.

 When the computer predicts no rough weather, the barriers will be submerged on the seabed out of sight. When the bad weather alarm is triggered by the computer, high-speed turbines pumping millions of gallons of water will fill the massive tubes with a predetermined quantity of water. While giving this protection, a gap of about 650 feet will remain in the center of each barrier to allow the passage of ships.
 However, during very severe weather, the whole of each barrier will rise to the surface, sealing the city off completely from the sea. When the high water level danger has receded, the diesel engine-driven turbine pumps will empty the tubes which will revert to the seabed.

 To the 200,000 people of Venice, the new system will bring an end to a lifetime of flooded homes, shops, public buildings, streets and squares whenever the lagoon's water level rises above the 54cm, 5-inch danger point. The streets and homes of Venice are currently affected by floods due to high water for 30-35 days each year.

Airline Pilot Also Tv Star

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Gillen, an airline captain by trade, doesn't think of himself as a tv star. But he is, in a way, whenever he sits at the controls of the American Airlines DC10 jetliners he flies.
 The reason: A cockpit tv camera which lets passengers watch him, some instruments and the runway on takeoffs and landings. They also hear him talk with the airport tower and air traffic controllers.
 Gillen, 51, likes the idea. He says it's sort of an electronic throwback to the days he flew propeller-driven DCs, "when we used to invite people up in the cockpit to see what we do there."
 "We have to keep the door locked now," he adds, referring to federal laws intended to thwart would-be skyjackers.
 American says it first tested its cockpit camera on a DC10 in June 1974. It says passenger response was so favorable it began equipping all 25 of its

Rayburn Museum Dedication Rites Slated April 1

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson and former Speaker of the U.S. House John McCormack will speak at the dedication of the Sam Rayburn House Museum in Bonham April 1, the Texas Historical Commission announced Thursday.
 Congressman Wright Patman, Texarkana Democrat, will make the dedicatory address.
 The site, restored to its condition at the time of Rayburn's death in 1961, is the first historic house museum operated by the commission.
 The museum will contain exhibits of 2,000 Rayburn family items arranged just as "Mr. Sam" left them.

Commission Asks Superport Action

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Offshore Terminal Commission has voted unanimously to ask the legislature to consider a bill creating procedures for licensing deepwater ports.
 The vote was taken as the commission met here Thursday.
 The bill, introduced by Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston, designates administrative procedures for state agencies to decide whether applications for federal deepwater port licenses comply with state law, said David Brown, counsel for the commission.

Taxpayers Will Have To Shell Out $142 Million To Get Rid Of Peanuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's peanut subsidy program, which has cost more than $600 million to help farmers the past 20 years, is going to force taxpayers to shell out another $142 million to dispose of surplus peanuts.

Under the plan, the Agriculture Department will use its stockpile of 388,000 tons of surplus peanuts to make meal and oil. The oil then will be donated to needy countries through the Food for Peace program and to domestic institutions including school cafeterias.

The peanuts were acquired by the Agriculture Department through its price support program, which guarantees growers a minimum price regardless of how much the peanuts are worth on the free market.

Since more peanuts were produced last year than the market could absorb, the department's Commodity Credit Corp.

has custody of the surplus, which officials say cost the government $142 million.

Since peanuts cannot be stored indefinitely like grain and cotton, they will be crushed into meal and oil. The oil will be donated and the meal will go to processors at nominal costs in return for crushing the nuts.

The government peanut stockpile resulted from last year's huge crop of more than 1.8 million tons, a drop in world prices and an Agriculture Department policy against selling surplus peanuts at prices less than it guaranteed growers.

For example, the department's peanut price support last year to farmers was $366 per ton. The world market price now is about $250 per ton, meaning the Agriculture Department is finding no takers for its price of $366 for each ton of surplus peanuts.

The peanut stockpile built up because of administration farm policy which prohibits the sale of government-owned peanuts at prices less than the price-support level.

Peanut grower organizations and some members of Congress, particularly those from the South where the crop is produced, want the Agriculture Department to resume its earlier practice of selling surplus peanuts at cut-rate prices to dispose of the stockpile.

However, Kenneth E. Frick, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said that will not be done and that the department will continue its policy of trying to sell surplus peanuts at 100 percent of their price support cost after the 1973 crop is harvested.

Layoffs Planned By Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. is shutting assembly lines in eight plants next week while General Motors and Chrysler will operate all their factories for a second straight week.

The one-week layoffs at Ford will idle 27,550 workers, but Ford also is recalling 1,800 workers from indefinite layoffs, reducing open-ended furloughs to 24,525, the fewest on long-term layoff this year.

The temporary layoffs are the largest in a month for Ford, which had all its plants open this week for the first time since last November.

Meanwhile, the trade newspaper Automotive News said Thursday that the industry plans to build 612,000 cars in April, down 10 per cent from a year ago, but the largest output since last November.

Ford also announced Thursday that it will pay its top executives last year fell 60 per cent from 1972 because all bonuses were omitted. Profits fell by the same percentage, the firm said.

Ford said its 55 directors and officers received $8.3 million in salaries last year, compared with $13.6 in 1972 when Ford had record profits of $907 million. Wages in 1973 included $7.2 million in bonuses.

Chairman Henry Ford II and President Lee A. Iacocca earned $391,667 each last year, compared with $865,000 each in 1972.

GM and Chrysler also eliminated executive bonuses for last year. GM profits also fell 60 per cent from their record level in 1972, and Chrysler reported a record $52 million loss for last year.

Industry-wide, layoffs next week will idle 237,156 of 712,000 hourly workers at the four major auto companies, up from 220,575 this week.

Indefinite layoffs will be down 6,000 to 207,406, but temporary layoffs will be up from 7,200 to 29,750.

Strong Quake Hits Central Rockies Area

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The strongest earthquake in the United States since 1871 rumbled through a 60-mile wide area of the Central Rocky Mountains. But no serious injuries and only minor property damage was reported.

The quake, which struck at about 8:51 p.m. Thursday, shook skyscrapers in Salt Lake City.

It registered 6.3 on the Richter scale and was the strongest quake in the United States since the 1871 quake that claimed 64 lives in California's San Fernando Valley, the National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said.

The University of Utah pinpointed the quake's center as 19 miles east of Snowville, Utah, a tiny border town of about 100 persons located some 40 miles southwest of Mailed City, Idaho.

In Mailed City, where the most severe property damage was reported, Oueda County Sheriff Kenneth Wharton said a girl was cut on the leg when a scenery panel tumbled during a play rehearsal at the local high school auditorium.

Wharton said four plate glass windows broke in downtown buildings and bricks were strewn about the town. He said chimneys fell on three or four houses and cornices dropped to the sidewalks from several downtown buildings.

He said the local power company reported no outages, but phone service was temporarily interrupted.

know it was real, however.

It was the second quake in the area in two days, but the earlier quake was much lighter.

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. An earthquake of 3.5 on the scale can cause slight damage in the local area; 4 can cause moderate damage; 5 considerable damage; 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" quake capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake capable of tremendous damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.25.

Stranded Texans Picked Off Island

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard says it rescued five Houston men who were stranded on an island in the Gulf of Mexico when their boat was swamped.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Thursday the five men camped overnight on one of the Grand Gosier Islands off the Louisiana coast near the mouth of the Mississippi River. They radioed for help after discovering their boat full of water.

A Coast Guard helicopter took three of the men to Chalmette, La., and the other two were picked up by a cutter which towed the disabled boat to shore, the spokesman said.

The five were identified as Jimmy Coleman, 42; his sons, Wayne, 18, and Randy, 15, and Glen Pruitt, 22, and his son, Nelson, 29.

NCAA Finals Start Saturday

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Adolph Rupp, the man who made University of Kentucky basketball famous, arrived with the club for the National Collegiate Athletic Association finals in San Diego.

But this was a team that someone else built. Rupp, now 73, was forced into retirement three years ago when he didn't want to quit. Joe B. Hall, one of his former players, assumed the reins at the school took from the Baron when he reached 70.

The current team, with its 284 record, came via recruiting by Hall. This is his team, without the influence of Rupp, whose clubs in the past won four NCAA titles, 27 Southeast Conference crowns and two score All-Americans.

"I'm very, very proud of Coach Hall," now says Rupp, who wasn't happy to greet any successor. "He's done a great job. I think this is the strongest Kentucky team since 1948-49 and I'd be disappointed if they don't win it all."

Kentucky ranks as the No. 2 choice behind UCLA, which seeks its 10th NCAA title under Coach John Wooden since 1964. In that long span, the Bruins have only lost twice—the latest to last year's eventual champion, North Carolina State, which didn't qualify for this tournament.

The physically powerful Wildcats of Kentucky open Saturday against surprising Syracuse at 2:10 p.m. EDT, followed by the UCLA-Louisville battle at 4:10. The winners tangle for the national title on Monday with all games at the already sold-out San Diego Sports Arena.

Hall's Kentucky team won No. 4 rating in the Associated Press poll behind UCLA after the regional tournaments. The Wildcats handed the previous No. 1, Indiana, its only loss of the season, 92-90.

"Needless to say," commented Hall, "we're mighty glad to be here."

Birmingham Rips Midland Cubs, 8-2

By TED BATTLES R-T Sports Editor

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Unless the Chicago Cubs decide to send Jerry Tubb or Wayne Tyronce back to the Texas League for another season, Hank Aaron Randall looks like a pretty good bet to make it as Midland's first baseman.

If he continues to hit like he has to date, the rangy 6-2, 185-pounder from Grambling College will be difficult to farm out to Key West, even though he has had only half season of pro ball under his belt.

Although the Cubs lost to Birmingham, 8-2 at Eldorado Park Thursday, Randall singled and doubled to bat in one of the Midland runs and the A's first baseman had to go into the hole for a one-handed stop to rob him of a third hit.

Randall is eight for 14 this spring and has shown power with an awesome homer in Casa Grande Tuesday.

Anti-Discrimination Rules Not As Tough As Thought

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal anti-discrimination rules regarding women in school and college sports are not as stringent or revolutionary as some physical education officials had envisioned.

The Post said it had obtained a copy of the proposed regulations by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The rules are designed to enforce Title IX of a 1972 bill that bans sex discrimination in educational institutions that receive federal aid.

The newspaper said the regulations make these changes from an earlier draft proposal: —Women may not try out for men's teams in contact sports—defined as boxing, wrestling, basketball, football, ice hockey and rugby—even if no women's team in that sport is available.

They may, however, try out for men's non-contact sports teams if no women's team is available.

—An annual poll of what sports students want to play the next year will not be required.

—Schools will not have to make special efforts for support and training of women in sports if they have not done so previously.

Bonds, Hunter Having Weak Spring Training

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Catfish Hunter and Bobby Bonds may yet lead the New York Yankees to a championship, but it's a good thing this is only spring training and not the regular season.

Former Oakland ace Hunter, the famous free agent, 38-35 over the past four seasons, has a 1-3 spring mark following Thursday's 4-0 loss to the Cincinnati Reds. Meanwhile, Bonds, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in a trade for Bobby Murcer, has been struggling to hit his 190-pound weight and now has a sore throwing shoulder, to boot.

At least Hunter's arm seems sound. He has a 2.43 earned run average for 26 innings and his losing record is mostly due to impotent Yankee bats which have produced only four runs in his last four starts.

Culver Military Nabs Opening Polo Win

High winds greeted teams from Indiana and California Thursday as the opening round of the 1975 National Intercollegiate Polo Championship got under way at the Midland Polo Club.

Culver Military Academy of Culver, Ind. blanketed Robert Louis Stevenson School of Pebble Beach, Calif., 8-0, in the only game played.

Rick Groom, Dan McCarthy, captain Jud Rowe and Brad Scherer made up the Culver Military entry while members of the Robert Louis Stevenson team were Shawn Cooley, Mar-

Anti-Discrimination Rules Not As Tough As Thought

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal anti-discrimination rules regarding women in school and college sports are not as stringent or revolutionary as some physical education officials had envisioned.

The Post said it had obtained a copy of the proposed regulations by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The rules are designed to enforce Title IX of a 1972 bill that bans sex discrimination in educational institutions that receive federal aid.

The newspaper said the regulations make these changes from an earlier draft proposal: —Women may not try out for men's teams in contact sports—defined as boxing, wrestling, basketball, football, ice hockey and rugby—even if no women's team in that sport is available.

They may, however, try out for men's non-contact sports teams if no women's team is available.

—An annual poll of what sports students want to play the next year will not be required.

—Schools will not have to make special efforts for support and training of women in sports if they have not done so previously.

Bonds, Hunter Having Weak Spring Training

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Catfish Hunter and Bobby Bonds may yet lead the New York Yankees to a championship, but it's a good thing this is only spring training and not the regular season.

Former Oakland ace Hunter, the famous free agent, 38-35 over the past four seasons, has a 1-3 spring mark following Thursday's 4-0 loss to the Cincinnati Reds. Meanwhile, Bonds, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in a trade for Bobby Murcer, has been struggling to hit his 190-pound weight and now has a sore throwing shoulder, to boot.

At least Hunter's arm seems sound. He has a 2.43 earned run average for 26 innings and his losing record is mostly due to impotent Yankee bats which have produced only four runs in his last four starts.

Nicklaus Takes Lead in Heritage Classic

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus considered the question carefully. He paced his lips, stared into the middle distance and mused.

He'd just been asked if his first-round 66 in the $200,000 Heritage Golf Classic ranked among his best efforts of the last couple of years.

"Well," he said, "I've had some pretty good rounds but, you considering the conditions, that was a good round of golf. I'm pleased."

But, while Nicklaus was delighted with his leading effort, some of the game's other glamour names were considerably less than enthralled after Thursday's play on the 6,550-yard, par-71 Harbour Town Golf Links.

"Terrible," muttered Arnold Palmer, his mouth a tight, grim line. He'd three-putted four times and lost four strokes to par on his last three holes on his way to a 74.

"What can I say?" asked Johnny Miller. "I just played lousy. I did everything bad." The young man who has dominated the game in recent months blew to a 78 in the chilly, gusty, blustery wind that swept the million-dollar playground off the coast of South Carolina.

Lee Trevino shot 41 on his last nine, had a 73 and wasn't at all bothered about it. "This is the toughest golf course in the world," he said. "I played good. I'm not at all unhappy. I'm satisfied with the way I'm hitting the ball."

Nicklaus, a winner his last time out, made seven birdies despite the severity of the course, the adverse playing conditions and a nagging earache that prompted him to seek medical attention before and after his round.

He was three strokes ahead of Australian Bruce Crampton, veteran Don January, Andy North, Tom Kite and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, tied for second at 69.

John Mahaffey and Tom Weiskopf were the only others in the elite field of 108 to break out from 30, 40 and 25 feet.

They were at 78. South Carolina's Gary Player, the British Open and Masters champion, shot 71 in his first American start of the season.

Nicklaus needed only 10 strokes on the tiny green of the course he helped create, but had an unusual round. He made four birdie putts in 10 feet or more and missed six times from eight feet or less.

"I missed the ones I should have made and made the ones I had no business making," he said.

He bogeyed the first hole from a bunker, then got a drive from an embedded ball, chipped up to six inches and made a 10-foot putt on the next hole. He scored from 25 feet on the 16th hole, then sandwiched a bogey putt to make the turn in 34.

Coming home he hit every green, missed three birdie putts of eight feet or less and holed out from 30, 40 and 25 feet.

Midland Lee, defending champion, was set to take on Valley Forge Military Academy from Wayne, Pa., at 2:30 p.m. today. One game is on tap Saturday at 2 p.m. with the losers playing each other and then at 2 p.m. Sunday, the finals are set.

A barbecue was held Thursday evening with more than 85 people attending the feed.

Few Major Markets Left For Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — There are a few unattached television markets and a few cities without teams. So the sports plan still has trails to be cut in the late 1970s and beyond. And off in the wilderness of that sports expansion there may even be some foreign roads.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said after the 1975 World Series that he could visualize major league baseball eventually consisting of three divisions: East, Central and West, with the West having clubs in Hawaii, the Philippines and possibly even Japan.

The economy and miscellaneous time for paying up, "we had no formal application from anyone."

Kennedy said the NBA, which increased from 19 teams in 1966 to the present-day 18, plans to expand to 24. But no timetable has been set.

The American Basketball Association has 19 teams and hopes to add Cincinnati next season. But it might wind up with nine teams if ABA President John Y. Brown is able to eliminate two weak clubs, San Diego and Memphis. "As long as we have weak teams our chances of merger or consolidation with the NBA are diminished," he said.

"I think we should consolidate from strength and build from strength. If we are going to expand, we must have good owners who are willing to build first-class organizations by working inside the community."

Brown says further expansion is made more difficult by the dilution of talent, which presently spreads over 28 professional basketball clubs. "It's embarrassing to our sport. In all of professional basketball there's hardly a team that has more than one outstanding basketball player."

Ice Cracking?

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says his ice isn't cracking under the weight of expansion. "The dilution of talent is slowly disappearing because of the enormity of talent," he says. "The available talent to the NHL over the last five years has increased dramatically, and that's what's accounted for the total improvement of the expansion franchisees."

The NHL has awarded conditional franchises to Denver for the 1975-1976 season and to Seattle for the following year. However, there are chances it will remain at 18 because faltering franchisees may be moved to Denver and Seattle.

And Campbell says the NHL, which was a six-team league before 1967, will put its plan for a 24-team league into cold storage. "Oh, we're like everybody else. We're pretty much frozen now."

The National Football League plans to do its freezing after it reaches 30 teams. "I think it will stop there, period," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Seattle and Tampa are scheduled to become the 27th and 28th NFL teams in 1976.

"The main reason for going to 30 teams is to set up an equitable scheduling format. What owners coaches, players and owners today is the fact that you are forced to have schedules that do not call upon each team in the division to play a comparable schedule."

HIGH HOPES WITH BOBBY MURCER — Westrum: Giants Can Win NL Pennant

PHOENIX (AP) — Manager Wes Westrum, perhaps because he participated in two miracles as a Giants player, speaks with conviction when he says, "We're aiming for first place."

He doesn't even think it will take a miracle this time to turn the San Francisco Giants, a fifth place finisher last season, into a contender—just some good execution of fundamentals by what figures to be major league baseball's youngest team.

Bobby Murcer, at 28, probably will be the team's oldest starter. The right fielder obtained in the winter trade of Bobby Bonds to the New York Yankees also is one of the many new faces on a new-look San Francisco roster.

"We gave away about 20 games when I was around last year, with things like baserunning mistakes, failing to hit off men on throws and swinging at pitches that shouldn't have been hit," Westrum said. "We made it Christmas Eve for the other team some days."

The generous Giants of 1974 started under Manager Charlie Fox, who stepped down to a scouting job on June 26 and left Westrum a club already in fifth place, with a high earned run average and low morale.

Pitching improved but the Giants still threatened to dislodge the San Diego Padres from last place before the season ended with Westrum's team 30 games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, National League West champs.

"In 1963, we finished 30 games out of first place and came back the next year to win the pennant," recalled Westrum, catcher on that 1964 New York Giants team and also on the 1961 club which stormed to a championship after trailing Brooklyn by 12½ games in mid-August.

Plans for the 1975 comeback depend heavily on starting pitcher Jim Barr, Mike Caldwell and John D'Acquisto, a young firestormer who produced 20 victories last season, and big hitting years by such players as Murcer, Gary Matthews, Steve Ontiveros and Chris Speier.

Hill Impressive

Westrum is leaning toward rookie Marc Hill, who was a St. Louis Cardinal's farmhand last season, as the starting catcher. Former San Diego Padre Derrel Thomas is the new second baseman, former Dodger Jon Joshua is challenging Gary Maddox in center field and 23-year-old Gary Thomasson is running ahead of the more experienced Ed Goodson in the first base competition.

Speier, the shortstop who has been on the last two National League All-Star teams, and left fielder Matthews could be the only players in the opening day lineup who also started the 1974 season.

Matthews was the team's top hitter last year, with a .287 average, 16 homers and 82 runs batted in.

Bonds and Dave Kingman, both sent elsewhere in offseason deals, were the only Giants to top Matthews' homer total in 1974. They combined for 39.

Westrum is hoping that improved pitching, defense and baserunning will make up for the apparent lack of power on this year's team.

Rookie John Montefusco, a right-hander who was 3-2 in a late-season stay with the Giants last year, is close to nailing down the No. 4 spot in the pitching rotation. Veterans Tom Bradley and Ron Bryant are among the others in contention.

San Francisco's bullpen was overworked last season, and Randy Moffitt was the first reliever to wear out. Elias Sosa was traded to St. Louis for Hill, so Moffitt faces another busy season unless the Giants discover a sleeper in their relief pitching corps.

Westrum the optimist thinks a lot of his young players are ready for stardom, and Giant owner Horace Stoneham hopes the manager is right.

Last season's home attendance was 519,000, lowest in the majors, and Stoneham reported a $1.7 million operating loss to unhappy stockholders.

Giants At A Glance

1974 Stats — 1975 National League West.

Starting pitching in Jim Barr, Mike Caldwell, John D'Acquisto, who all showed promise last season in the minors of the order with four men—Gary Matthews, Bobby Murcer, Gary Maddox and Ed Goodson—who have also seasons in the majors.

Weakness—Defense, especially at third base and first base. Lack of a power hitting cleanup batter, unless Murcer comes back strong in home run department. No proven relievers behind Randy Moffitt.

New Faces—Right fielder Bobby Murcer from New York Yankees, second baseman Derrel Thomas from San Diego, outfielder Vin Joshua from Los Angeles and rookie catcher Marc Hill from St. Louis.

1975 Forecast—First division finish seems unlikely unless pitching is spectacular. If it is, place again is best bet.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Dan Bower, a 6-foot-4, 210-pound defensive end from Buffalo, Mo., has signed a football letter of intent with the University of Arkansas.

Bower is the 27th player signed by the Razorbacks, who are allowed to sign 30 players each year.

City Volleyballers Seek State Crown

The Tall City women's volleyball team will be seeking their third straight Texas Amateur Association Federation state championship April 5-6 in Austin.

The Tall City crew recently defeated Big Spring to earn the right to advance to the state meet for the third year in a row. The locals also won the city championship recently held by the Parks and Recreation Dept.

Team members are Willie Lane, Hesterella Miller, Virginia Shelton, Ruby Wells, Corrie Herring and Lorene Kinser.

The TAAF state tournament will be composed of four regional winners.

YMCA Adds Two Aquatic Classes

The Midland YMCA has added two aquatic classes to its schedule with spring board diving and water polo.

The diving will be held at 4:30 p.m. Fridays and water polo at 9 a.m. Saturdays. The diving is for those students who can do a running front dive and the water polo is for strong swimmers. A water polo team will develop from this class.

The courses are for Y members only.

Naber Sets 500 Free Swim Record

CLEVELAND (AP) — John Naber, a University of Southern California sophomore, had more confidence in his competition, but he also had more speed.

"I didn't think I could win," Naber said after setting an American record in the 500-yard freestyle. "I guess I felt more confident about (Robin) Backhaus than he did. He's just too tough. Especially when you're as passive as I am."

Naber was clocked in 4:20.45. The old American mark of 4:22.40 was set by California high school student Tim Shaw last week.

Backhaus, a University of Washington sophomore who bested Shaw's record time in the qualifying round, dropped to 4:23.61 in the championship swim.

"Robin made a move and I didn't let go," Naber said. "I knew I needed a lead going into the final 100, so I went out and got it."

One Of Four

Naber's American record was one of four set Thursday during the first day of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I Swimming and Diving Championships at Cleveland State University.

Southern Cal held the lead at the end of the first five events with 117 points. Indiana was second with 97 and Tennessee third with 59.

The Trojans' 400-yard medley relay team successfully defended its title and broke its own American record.

Mark Chatfield, Naber, Michael Bottom and Scott Findorff were clocked in 3:19.22. Last year's Trojan team set the old American and NCAA marks at 3:20.87. Naber swam his 100-yard breaststroke leg in 49.85, setting an individual mark.

He broke his own American record of 50.41, set last year.

Tyler Sets Mark

Fred Tyler nipped Lee Engstrand, the old American record holder, by a thousandth of a second to take the 200-yard individual medley title and the record.

Tyler, an Indiana junior, was clocked in 1:50.628, the same as Tennessee's Engstrand, but the electronic timing system gave the victory to Tyler by a fraction.

Engstrand set the old American and NCAA records at 1:51.28 in 1974.

"I did the best I could, but it just wasn't enough," said Engstrand, who led for most of the race. "I don't look around and I didn't know how close he (Tyler) was. I had my best time. I'm happy, but disappointed."

Ohio State University senior Tim Moore captured his third consecutive one-meter diving crown with 502.71 points. Jim Kennedy of Tennessee was second with 475.53 and Don Craine of Michigan was third with 460.83.

"A win is a win," said Moore, noting that his best total ever was 550. "I think I'm diving more consistently than ever."

The 50-yard freestyle crown went to Southern Cal's Joe Bottom in 20.11 seconds.

Lee Rebels Spank Big Spring, 3-2

By BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

BIG SPRING — Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Rebels find themselves right back in the District 5-4A baseball race following a 3-2 victory over the Big Spring Steers in Steer Park Thursday.

Nix Wins

Junior righthander Kenneth Nix picked up the victory but in doing so, had to get some superb relief help from senior Bobby Stevens who came in with none out in the bottom of the seventh Dick Battle and Kent Newsom greeted Nix with back-to-back doubles to get the junior into hot water. Battle's two-bagger bounced over the fence in center and Newsom's drive was off the fence in left-center.

Stevens Tough

Stevens faced righthander Lawrence Byrd, who lofted a fly to right to score Battle to cut the Rebel lead to 3-1. Tracy Thompson grounded to deep second to send Newsom across the plate with another run, but Stevens struck out pinch-hitter Bubba Stripling swinging, to end the game.

The victory gives Lee a 3-1 record and a 7-10 mark on the season while Coach Larry Horton's young Steers are 6-7 and 2-2.

Score Early

Lee scored all of its runs in the top of the first inning off Battle and wound up banging out nine hits. Rusty Laughlin bounced a ground-rule double over the fence in left and Brett Blackwell legged out an infield out to put Battle in a hole right away. Stevens then singled into left to score Laughlin for a 1-0 lead.

Javier Torres, switching positions with Rusty Buchanan, in moving from his catcher's slot to left field, struck out swinging, but Robert White doubled into right to score Blackwell. Alan Neal popped out to short, but Lee got another tally when Greg Howard was safe on an infield hit, scoring Stevens with what proved to be the winning run.

Lee almost lost one of its runs in the first when the speedy White doubled into right and almost ran past Stevens, who had held up at third. White scampered back to the bag at second and dove back under the tag when the relay came in from the outfield.

Nix was sharp for six innings in giving up only two hits and the Rebel defense turned two double plays, one in the third and fifth innings.

Strong Defense

Another key defensive play came in the fifth when Nix issued a walk to leadoff batter Byrd, but picked him off first moments later. Thompson walked. Nix got off the hook, however, when Albert Alvarez lined to Howard at third, who in turn, fired to first for the twin killing.

The first double play came after one was out. Wes Bouillon singled up the middle, but Barry Canning grounded to Laughlin at second who tagged Bouillon and threw to first for the snappy double play.

Mild Threat

Lee threatened in the third after one was out when Torres singled, stole second, but was left stranded when White lined out to center and Neal struck away. Stevens then singled into left to score Laughlin for a 1-0 lead.

Permian Next
Odessa Permian is the next Rebel opponent next Tuesday at the Lee diamond in 5-4A play, but the Panthers have a big showdown battle Saturday in Odessa with Abilene Cooper first.

DIAMOND DUST — The Big Spring game was played in perfect weather which was a big surprise to the Lee fans at the game since the wind was blowing pretty hard in the Tall City early in the afternoon.

Switching Torres and Buchanan made Coach Ernie Johnson look good against the Steers. Both played well and the Lee defense was sharp.

One key to the victory for the Rebs was the job that Nix did on second baseman Pat Carroll, who had rapped out eight hits in 11 trips to the plate in three previous loop games for a .727 average. Carroll went hitless in three trips Thursday.

The Steers are a young outfit with 11 juniors on the roster, so look out next year. They are much improved over last season already.

Boys coach Bill Anders and girls coach Max Dickerson were recognized for being named Basketball Coaches of the Year in District 11-B.

Danny Pruitt was recognized for being named outstanding cage player in 11-B and Glen Cox for being honorable mention. Becky Cranford, Capri Kimbrow, Terressa Smith and Rae Garcia were all-district selections for the girls while Sabrina Huse and Laquita Lee received honorable mention.

Miss Kimbrow has been selected to play in the Texas High School Girls Coaches Assn. annual All-Star game in Brownwood July 12.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. May 16 and is designated as "Fun Day."

Squires Chasing Cage Freshman

Baseball

The Pittsburgh Pirates have requested waivers on former star pitcher Steve Blass for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Blass, the hero of the Pirates 1971 World Series champions when he won two games, said he doesn't know what he will do now, but it is doubtful that he will latch on with another team.

The Kansas City Royals cut pitchers Aurelio Lopez, George Troop and Hal Baird from their roster Thursday while the Los Angeles Dodgers, operating with a set club, trimmed their roster by 10.

California's Nolan Ryan, who was hurt two weeks ago stepping out of a car, aggravated a torn right calf muscle again by running at training camp. He has already missed one turn in the rotation.

The Louisiana Superdome, which hopes to get a major league baseball team, will cost nearly $180 million, $16 million more than the Domes Stadium Commission had figured originally.

Chris Kupec, North Carolina football quarterback, has filed suit for return to playing eligibility and $200,000 punitive damages against the Atlantic Coast Conference ACC Commissioner Robert James ruled earlier that Kupec's eligibility had ended after the 1974 season when Kupec played only one game in the 1973 season when he suffered a collarbone fracture.

Beginner and intermediate classes will be offered four times daily in 30 minute intervals beginning at 9:30 a.m. and running until noon.

Advanced stroke correction will be held at 1 p.m. and junior life saving will be offered at 12:45 p.m. daily.

Ronnie Rogers and Arnold Adair are instructors for the clinic, and both have impressive teaching credentials.

Greenwood Sets Athletic Banquet; Recognize Stars

The Greenwood Booster Club held its monthly meeting at the high school cafeteria this week and set the date for the annual sports banquet for 7:30 p.m. April 12.

Boys coach Bill Anders and girls coach Max Dickerson were recognized for being named Basketball Coaches of the Year in District 11-B.

The Louisiana Superdome, which hopes to get a major league baseball team, will cost nearly $180 million, $16 million more than the Domes Stadium Commission had figured originally.

Chris Kupec, North Carolina football quarterback, has filed suit for return to playing eligibility and $200,000 punitive damages against the Atlantic Coast Conference ACC Commissioner Robert James ruled earlier that Kupec's eligibility had ended after the 1974 season when Kupec played only one game in the 1973 season when he suffered a collarbone fracture.

Beginner and intermediate classes will be offered four times daily in 30 minute intervals beginning at 9:30 a.m. and running until noon.

Advanced stroke correction will be held at 1 p.m. and junior life saving will be offered at 12:45 p.m. daily.

Ronnie Rogers and Arnold Adair are instructors for the clinic, and both have impressive teaching credentials.

Greenwood Sets Athletic Banquet; Recognize Stars

The Greenwood Booster Club held its monthly meeting at the high school cafeteria this week and set the date for the annual sports banquet for 7:30 p.m. April 12.

Boys coach Bill Anders and girls coach Max Dickerson were recognized for being named Basketball Coaches of the Year in District 11-B.

Danny Pruitt was recognized for being named outstanding cage player in 11-B and Glen Cox for being honorable mention. Becky Cranford, Capri Kimbrow, Terressa Smith and Rae Garcia were all-district selections for the girls while Sabrina Huse and Laquita Lee received honorable mention.

Miss Kimbrow has been selected to play in the Texas High School Girls Coaches Assn. annual All-Star game in Brownwood July 12.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. May 16 and is designated as "Fun Day."

Boxing

Japan's Kuniaki Shibata retained his World Boxing Council junior lightweight crown Thursday with a unanimous 15-round decision over Ould Makhlofi of Algeria. It was Shibata's third defense of the crown he won 13 months ago.

Purdue's basketball team will play Notre Dame May 27-31. That's not too surprising at first, but they will meet in a six-team round robin tournament in ITALY.

Doctor Says Things Opening Up In Allergies Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles on diseases that cannot yet be cured or prevented because scientists lack fundamental knowledge about them.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Allergies are what happens when the body's alarm system goes wrong.

Asthma ... hay fever ... hives ... some headaches ... sudden death from bee stings ... the list of suffering is long, no one has been able to stop it.

But "in the last 10 years we have made a science of allergy. Things are opening up," says Dr. Allen Kaplan of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

Insights have been gained into what happens to trigger allergies like asthma and hay fever, how the body's normal system of handling invading substances or allergens goes awry. And there are better drugs and preventive methods.

But basic pieces of the whole puzzle still are missing, buried in the vast complexity of human biology with all its interdependent mechanisms. Key understandings are elusive, holding back the next big strides against allergies.

All this is terribly important to some 35 million or more Americans — one in six — who suffer from one or more major allergies, such as hay fever, asthma, eczema, hives, the allergic kicks from a huge menu of different foods and drinks, reactions to drugs like penicillin, and sometimes fatal reactions to the venom of bees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets.

Several thousand persons die each year from asthma, and perhaps 2,000 from insect stings and drug reactions, says Dr. Philip S. Norman, director of the allergy division at Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore, Md.

With so many sufferers from allergies, the NIAID yearly budget for research in allergy is only $3.5 million, about 10 cents per sufferer. It was only $2 million in 1970. Private and university funds add a little more.

Allergy tends to run in families, being under some kind of genetic influence. Perhaps, says Kaplan, genetic markers might be found to predict who will react with allergy. Then they might be given earlier protection, and the whole biochemistry of allergies might become better understood. He is head of the allergic disease section, Laboratory of Clinical Investigation, at NIAID.

The hereditary part has been hard to understand, says Norman. Usually, the allergic people make more than the usual amount of antibodies and immunoglobulins, the carriers of antibodies.

Now, he adds, it is becoming clear that allergic people make more of a particular kind of antibody, called IgE, for immunoglobulin E, identified primarily in the work of a husband-wife team at Hopkins, Drs. Kimishige and Teruko Ishizaka, a few years ago.

The IgE antibodies tend to attach to a particular kind of body cell, known as mast cells, that contain histamine. When an allergen, like pollen, enters the sensitized person's body, the allergen-antibody reaction causes mast cells to release histamine and this leads to the allergic attack.

Histamine, which contracts smooth muscle tissue like that in bronchial tubes and makes blood vessels more permeable, is not the only culprit.

When antihistamine drugs came along to neutralize histamine without providing complete relief, researchers reasoned that other chemicals were also at work. Now, some have been implicated that act like histamine. They include serotonin, bradykinins, and another known as a slow-reacting substance of anaphylaxis.

Thus one intriguing target in research is to find some way to control the body's production of the IgE antibodies, Drs. Norman and Kaplan say. Some moderate level of IgE antibodies appears useful to health, but too many appear harmful.

"An awful lot of research is aimed at learning exactly what happens biochemically when an allergen trips off a reaction," Kaplan says. In asthma, he continues, only one-third of the attacks are strictly of the allergic variety. The nonallergic kind tends to be more severe. So some research seeks to pinpoint what bronchial defects exist to bring on the nonallergic attack. Understanding the chemistry of allergic asthma may help in understanding the nonallergic attacks.

Hand in hand with the quest for basic understandings go efforts to improve drugs and to develop treatments for allergies.

Antihistamines have been effective, but have drawbacks such as making people drowsy. Epinephrine, or adrenalin, and theophyllin have long been used in asthma particularly. But some experts now regard epinephrine as not very effective in dilating bronchial tubes.

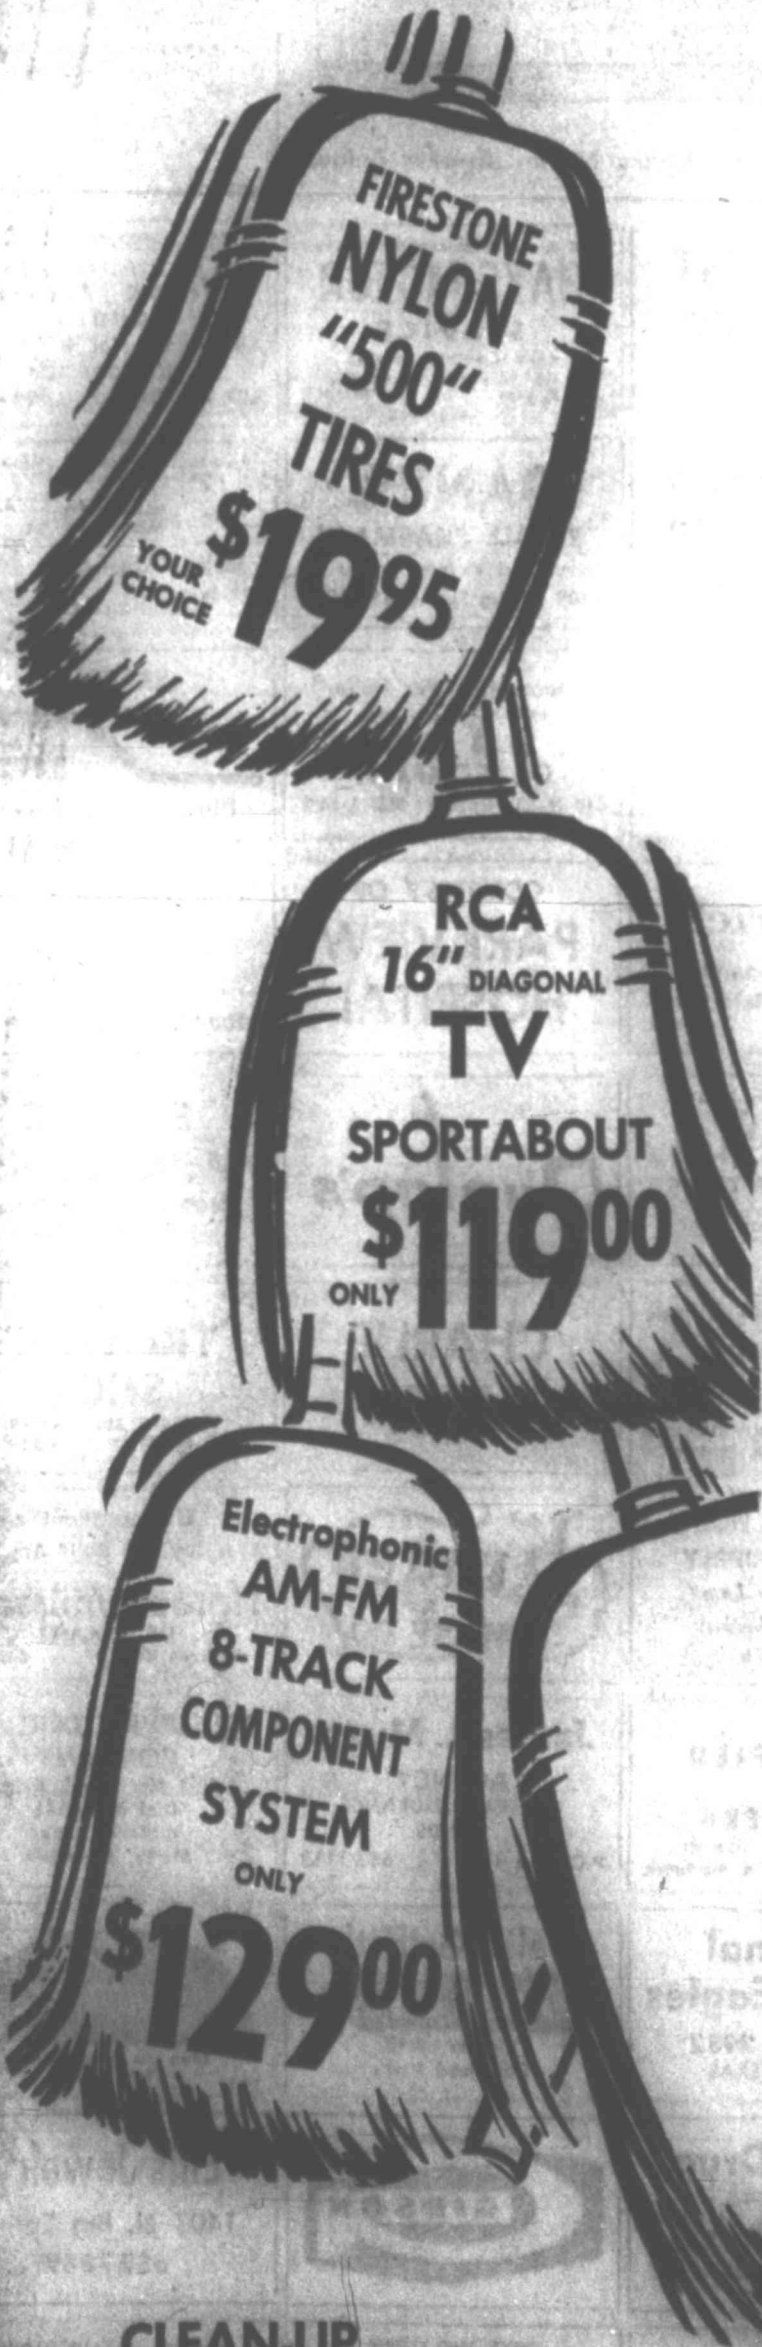

A new drug, cromolyn sodium, is a prophylactic or preventive of asthmatic attacks in many chronic asthmatics. It doesn't act directly on the bronchial tubes, but prevents the release of histamine and the other chemicals which do harm.

The hill spreads out in front of them, stretching up and up; they can't see over the top. There may be clouds in the distance; but just now they are oblivious to them. They are together, and for the moment, that is all that matters.

Together, the mood, the romance it evokes, are a part of life. But so is that uphill winding road. Traveling through life, you often can't see over the top. You can only give each step along the way the best that is in you.

Fortunately, this is a journey that none of us has to make alone. Your Creator is reaching out to you and the doors of His Church are forever open. If you haven't passed through those doors for a long time, or if you have never passed through them at all, give it a try next Sunday! You will not be alone, and a new perspective may be yours.

Mrs. O'Hair Again!

Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair is back on the warpath, basking in the glare of publicity in which she seems to glory.

This time she is tackling the Texas Senate, making an effort to change a Senate rule requiring witnesses before committees to swear "so help me God" when they take an oath to tell the truth.

Mrs. O'Hair Wednesday appeared at a hearing before the Senate Education Committee to protest a bill allowing teachers to set aside part of their class time for periods of silent prayer and meditation.

This wasn't at all surprising since it was Mrs. O'Hair who, back in 1963, won a U.S. Supreme Court case to stop formally ordered prayers in public schools.

It was when she was asked to sign a printed oath that she became horrified and angry. The oath states:

"I do solemnly swear that the testimony I am about to give before this committee will be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help me God."

Everyone appearing before committees is required to affix his or her signature to the oath. This usually is done without question.

She inked out "so help me God" and wrote "according to the laws of perjury."

"This is so incredible I can't believe it," she said.

There is nothing incredible

A CHANGING WORLD—'Kamikaze' Forces Endanger GOP Hopes

By JOHN PINKERMAN, Editor, Copley News Service

The Republican Party is having its trouble nationally these days. Its right wing, dubbed by some as the Kamikaze Conservatives, seems to forget that in order to govern, a political party must win an election.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan wants the GOP to stick to a strong conservative philosophy. What Reagan and some of his even more extreme right wing followers do not consider is that the broad spectrum of the American voting public represents a moderate philosophy.

They sorely need all the moderate votes they can get, even the liberal votes that most always have gone carte blanche to the Democrats.

The answer to GOP success in 1976, if there is going to be success then, is compromise — not compromise of principle but a meeting of the minds on a public posture that will be attractive to a majority of American voters.

The conservatives who cry "principle" constantly in refusing to consider a middle ground approach with the likes of liberal Illinois Sen. Charles Percy and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller might do well to listen more seriously to President Ford when he says the Republican Party has room for many shades of GOP thinking.

He knows as a politician with far more experience than Reagan's followers that it is impossible to change the course of government without winning elections. And, millions of moderate Democrats and independents are needed to win an election for the GOP. "Principle" by itself does not win at the ballot box.

There is plenty of history to support Mr. Ford's thesis. Over the years the Democrats have quarreled, fought among themselves and split widely in the spring and early summer of election years. However, except for the 1972 George McGovern debacle, they have maneuvered a "coming together" of dissident elements in the interest of triumph on that fateful first Tuesday after the first Monday of November.

The Republicans, however, have gone a different route. Back in the 1930s and early '40s, New England Republicans, then tuned to conservatism (vs. a generally moderate stance today), would say to me, "I'd rather lose and stand on principle." So they would lose and standing on principle prevented them from changing the course of leftward tilt steered by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Democrats who followed him.

Wendell Willkie was too liberal for the right wing GOP in 1940 and while he had broad public support in an admitted hopeless run against FDR, the conservative element of his own party let him down. Later events proved his course was much more correct than that of the critics within his own party.

In 1944 and 1948, Thomas E. Dewey was too liberal for the followers of the late Ohio Sen. Robert Taft.

The result: Much of the GOP failed to rally to Dewey and this meant defeat before Roosevelt in 1944 and Harry Truman in 1948.

An exception was the 1952, then '56 triumph of Dwight Eisenhower. The Taft people in '52 did a lot of sullen sideline sitting but Ike's popularity was so immense that it didn't matter. The 1960 and 1968 elections cannot be analyzed in terms of "principle" — there being much crossing of lines in the John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon victories. Lyndon Johnson's win over Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964, however, gave ample proof that extremism like Goldwater's held no attraction to the voting public.

Neither did left wing extremism have any attraction as Nixon proved in smothering McGovern in 1972.

A moderate balance between the right and the left would seem to be the only hope of the Republicans in 1976, a year when the stigma of Watergate will still be around and a time when the party likely will have recovered little from its current lowest ebb in public esteem.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, the savvy Texan who now is trying on Lyndon Johnson's boots for the 1976 presidential campaign, made headlines last month with an attack upon Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

"Running the State Department," declared Bentsen, "is a full-time job for any man — even a superman — and it can't be done from a jet circling over a Middle East airport."

The suave Bentsen had nothing but praise for Kissinger in 1973, however, when the State Department was escorting him around the exotic ports of the South Pacific. We now have obtained the cables, intended for official eyes only, that his escorts sent back to the State Department.

From Sydney, the U.S. consulate reported: "Senator Bentsen commented on way to airport he felt Dr. Kissinger's appointment as SecState was good for the Congress, the White House and the Foreign Service."

The cable quoted Bentsen as saying "Kissinger had been dictating foreign policy anyhow, and it would give Congress more feeling of confidence in White House policy and give the Foreign Service the leadership it needed."

A spokesman for the senator said the cable was "not exactly" accurate. Bentsen had emphasized then too, said the spokesman, that Kissinger was running the State Department without congressional input.

The South Pacific trip took Bentsen and his wife from Bali and Tahiti to Hong Kong and Singapore. Although it was booked through a private travel agency in Houston and included only four days of official business during the four-week odyssey, the taxpayers were stuck with his air fare to Australia — $1,096.10 — and his hotel charges in Sydney and Canberra — $179.32.

The senator met with government leaders in Australia but didn't overwork himself. "The Bentsens spent the day in sightseeing and recreation," according to the cable from Sydney, "declining the planned meetings with American Chamber of Commerce and State Parliament leaders."

The State Department alerted its diplomats all along the Bentsens' travel route to roll out the red carpet.

From Jakarta, U.S. Ambassador Francis Galbraith wired the senator: "Delighted to hear you and Mrs. Bentsen will be spending a few days in Bali and then passing through Jakarta. I will plan to have a brief letter awaiting arrival at Bali Beach Hotel suggesting some of many things you will not want to miss while in Bali."

Footnote: For their stay in Tahiti, Bentsen requested Bungalow 13 at the Bora-Bora hotel. Explained the senator's spokesman: "Bentsen just smiled and said, 'An old friend had recommended that to me.'"

HEMISPHERE REPORT—

Brazil Is Opposed To Anti-U.S. Bloc

By WILLIAM GIANDONI, Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The idea of excluding the United States and including Communist Cuba in the proposed new Latin American Economic System (SELA) worries some hemisphere nations.

It smacks of almost certain "confrontation" with the United States and, dependent as are so many of the Latin countries on their friendly relations with the "Colossus of the North," some would prefer a less drastic approach.

Even before Secretary of State Henry Kissinger complained that "some" unnamed Latin nations seem anxious to provoke the United States at every opportunity, Latin voices were to be heard expressing much the same sentiment.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Antonio Azeredo da Silveira, for example, let it be known that Brazil would not support any international group whose main objective appeared to be a confrontation with the United States.

He emphasized that Brazil would back SELA if it offered promise of improving the hemisphere's economic relations with the United States.

But obviously, after listening to a

Venezuelan envoy's explanation, Brazil's conclusion was that the proposed new economic organization would turn into little more than another anti-imperialist, anti-U.S. propaganda forum.

Ecuadorian Minister Lucio Paredes sounded a bit more emphatic when he said that "Ecuador does not endorse that idea," of setting up a new Latin American organization and excluding the United States. He also said that Ecuador still abides by the resolutions of the Organization of American States (OAS) that imposed the diplomatic and commercial quarantine on Communist Cuba in 1964. Paredes was quoted as saying that when the OAS decides member nations are free to resume relations with Cuba, "then we will decide on this."

Even in Venezuela which, with Mexico and Colombia, is pushing the SELA plan, objections were to be heard.

Aristides Calvani, who was Venezuelan foreign minister during the term of former President Rafael Caldera, complained that the idea was not well thought out. He called it "another artificial game. Calvani, a prominent member of the opposition COPEI Party, pointed out, as had the Brazilian before him, that exclusively Latin organizations of the sort envisioned have existed for years. He mentioned the Special Latin American Coordinating Commission (CECLA) specifically.

Nevertheless, Mexico and Venezuela both have sent envoys around Latin America trying to arouse support for SELA.

This latest version of the concept had its genesis in a speech Mexican President Luis Echeverria delivered in Lima, Peru, July 15, 1974, during his three-week, seven-nation swing around Latin America.

Echeverria said then that "Latin America requires its own system of economic consultation and cooperation."

As further explained by Francisco Javier Alejo, now minister of national patrimony in the Echeverria cabinet, and Hector Hurtado, Venezuelan finance minister, SELA is an organization intended to protect the raw materials of the region so that they can be sold at fair prices on international markets and, therefore, is a body in which there is no room for the United States.

Alejo and his predecessor, Horacio Flores de la Pena, both have visited Havana, Cuba, to inform Cuban Premier Fidel Castro of the proposed organization and Castro endorsed it, enthusiastically.

That the United States was not invited to join "has no other connotation than the fact that the countries Latin America feel the necessity of cooperating among themselves, without that meaning to say that they will stop cooperating with the United States," Alejo said.

That is not the way the United States sees it, to judge by what Secretary Kissinger has said. Or Brazil, either.

Mexican Peso Is Stronger Than Ever

By ALFONSO CASTRO, Copley News Service

MEXICO CITY — The Mexican peso is stronger than ever, according to Treasury Minister Jose Lopez Portillo.

The Bank of Mexico's gold, silver and dollar reserves amount to $1.55 billion, and there are another $1.127 billion in other international backing for the Mexican monetary unit that could be used in case of emergency.

The treasury minister made the disclosure in an address to the Mexican Bankers Association's annual convention in Acapulco.

"All that," he said, "permits us to affirm that the stability of the 12.50 peso to the dollar rate of exchange and the convertibility of our currency will continue being a fundamental part of the financial policy" of the Mexican government.

Actually, the Mexican peso has been firm at the equivalent of eight U.S. cents since the 1950s. But what is equally important to Mexican and foreign businessmen is the fact that the government does not plan to impose any restrictions on the movement of money in and out of Mexico. Most large Latin American countries have strict limitations on convertibility, particularly when it is a matter of exchanging their money for dollars. But not Mexico.

That is one important reason why U.S. and other foreign investors consider Mexico such an attractive country in which to put their money to work.

Lopez Portillo spoke frankly to the bankers' association. He pointed out, they well know, that Mexico also is affected by inflation and other economic problems that the rest of the world faces.

"The delicate situation of the country months requires more investment, more savings (and) more employment," Lopez Portillo said.

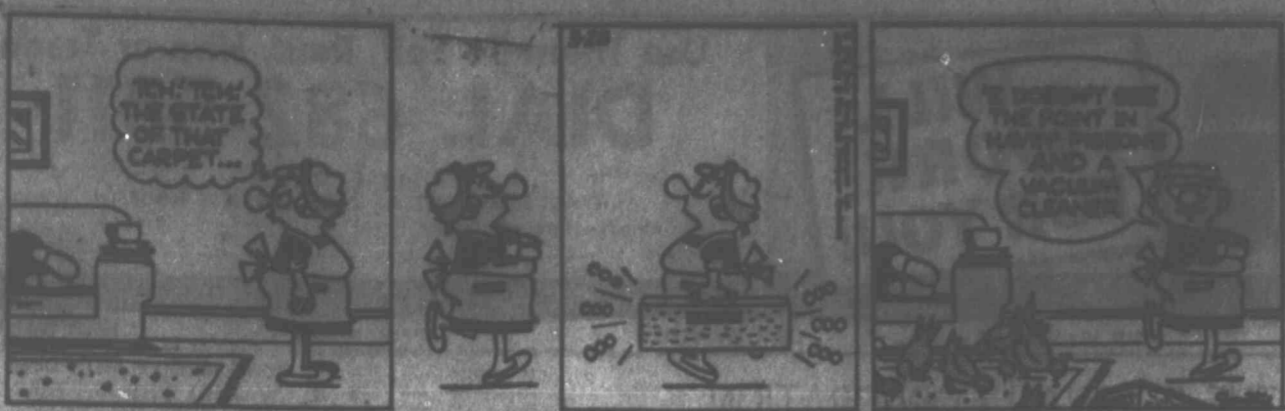

He said that the government expected to go on collecting more and more tax by means of stricter enforcement of tax laws and indicated that, eventually, tax rates will be increased.

He said that "those individuals with high incomes, those who profit from speculation and those who reap exaggerated benefits from the efforts of a society will be the tax collectors' target."

Lopez Portillo said that Mexico's prospects are "frankly favorable."

"In today's world," he said, "a country with exportable surpluses of petroleum and which is self-sufficient in food, as we will be soon, will enjoy very important advantages."

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — "Happy Jack" Roper is a curious blend of good 'ole boy, Sky King and a slightly paunchy Terry without the Pirates.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
The 53-year-old Texan says he had a license to fly when he was 15 and his love affair with airplanes has been unflagging ever since.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
The planes often are old, ugly and rusting hulks long forgotten and rotting on jungle floors, but Roper finds 'em, loves 'em and flies 'em.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
The older and the rustier, says Roper, the better. "If you poke around the Pentagon, you'll find out where they are. I've always been a fortunate old boy," Roper says, the ever-present cigarette dangling from his lip.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
He hit Saginaw in January after the BCM Co. of Dallas heard there was an old Grumman HU16B Albatross that might be worth Roper's special skills.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
The lumbering seaplane sat for three years at the Michigan Military and Air Museum. But the museum venture went bankrupt and the useless old plane seemed headed for the scrapheap.

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
"That plane is going out of legal notices," Roper says, "I'd fly one down to San Antonio," he says, "take the engine off, truck 'em back to Canada, put 'em on another plane and keep doing it."

Texan restores Junk Airplanes
Roper makes no bones about loving his rusting old airplanes. In the 1950s his search took him to South Africa where he fixed up 35 planes, working five months a year for three years. In Vulcan, Alberta, he once rescued 17 planes with using just two engines.

House Panel Chairman Denies Power

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of the House Higher Education Committee says he wasn't abusing his power when he approached the University of Texas about hiring his former campaign publicist.

UT Austin's Lynda B. Johnson school of Public Affairs created a $3,000-a-month job for Jim McWilliams after Rep. Fred Head, D-Trop., the committee chairman, recommended him.

Head also serves on the House Appropriations Committee. The UT budget is reviewed both by that panel and the Higher Education Committee.

McWilliams was qualified for the job, Cannon added, holding a Ph.D. degree from UT Austin in education, with junior college administration as his specialty.

Head confirmed his visit with Cannon, saying, "I told him I had a person I was well acquainted with who would do a good job for The University of Texas."

Editor Of Dictionary Watches Vocabulary

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newstures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Sidney Landau is a man of many words — 35,000 in fact.

That's the number he ended up with as editor-in-chief of the new Doubleday Dictionary. "But," he says of his three-year undertaking, "it was a difficult task to reduce the entries to that figure from the 350,000 items in our citation file."

The citations, he explains, are amassed by readers who examine newspapers, magazines, technical journals, books and other publications to note changes in vocabulary, meaning, spelling and usage.

Our vocabulary is continuously enlarging through science and technology, through greater literacy and the widespread impact of the national "media," the tall, thin lexicographer points out.

Areas that have contributed extensively to the language include the medical-scientific field, which has given rise to such words as bioethics, ecosystem, cyrosurgery and aerobics.

The electronics and computer industries have supplied feedback, interface, input, output and program as a verb. Politics has been responsible for jaw-bate, as a verb; domino, as in the domino theory; credibility gap, confrontation and cover-up.

The criteria for inclusion of a new word or new use for an old one were threefold, Landau says:

"First, are there a significant number of citations? Second, over what period of time — are they all in one month, in which case they may be ephemeral, or are they over a five-year period? And, third, were they used only locally or did they have wide geographical distribution?"

Arriving at a definition is "an analytical procedure," says the editor, adding that for new meanings "we take the citation cards and try to determine what they have in common that's different from the old meaning." He gives as examples of words that have changed or broadened in meaning "image," which in some uses no longer has the visual element; "dropout," which in addition to being a student who leaves school or college before graduation now also means "one who abandons any undertaking before completing it"; and "ghetto," not merely a section inhabited chiefly by a minority group, but "any community or group separated physically or culturally from the rest of society."

"Chauvinist" has expanded to include "one who believes excessively and often belligerently in the superiority of his own country, race, sex, etc.: a male chauvinist."

"The women's liberation movement has had an effect in many ways, especially in alerting us to avoid sexist definitions," Landau says. "We try in illustrations to assign traits so that conventionally masculine traits are not restricted to men and those that are traditionally feminine are not restricted to women."

The editors have also been careful, he adds, to avoid definitions that treat women as subordinate to men, such as "female hero" as the definition of "heroine." Instead they use "a girl or woman of heroic character."

Landau, however, has nothing against use of the masculine singular pronoun to refer to both sexes.

"There are many contexts where it slips from a truly neuter use to a masculine one," he admits. "But it's built into language and I don't think any movement can change it. For ease of communication, which is after all the main purpose of language, I don't think we can go on to anything else."

Of the inclusion in the dictionary of some sexually explicit terms he says, "Some of these are so common that it becomes a process of hiding your head in the sand if we don't admit that they exist."

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is March 28, the 87th day of 1975. There are 278 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1939, the Spanish Civil War ended as Madrid fell to the forces of Francisco Franco.

On this date— In 1483, the Italian painter, Raphael, was born in Urbino. In 1660, King George I of England was born.

In 1930, the name of the Turkish city of Constantinople was changed to Istanbul.

In 1942, during World War II, British naval forces raided the Nazi-occupied French port of St. Nazaire and blew up the harbor installations.

In 1964, tidal waves set off by a devastating earthquake in Alaska wrecked the business district of Crescent

City, Calif. Ten years ago: An earthquake broke a dam north of Santiago, Chile, and at least 428 persons were killed.

Five years ago: The state radio in Cambodia, reacting to anti-government disturbances, called all military veterans and reservists to active duty.

One year ago: In Ethiopia, mounting civil unrest virtually paralyzed the founding government of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Today's birthdays: Presidential Assistant for Consumer Affairs Virginia Krauer is 60. Actor Alfred Lunt is 82.

Thought for today: It takes stronger character to stand good fortune than bad fortune — Roger Babson, American financial statistician, 1878-1967.

Sheinwold On Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Avoid Taking Needless Finesses

One of these days some scientist will write a book on how finesses spend their time when they're not tempting bridge players to go wrong. When we learn more about their habits maybe we can resist finesses with less strain.

South ruffed the second spade, drew trumps and lost the diamond finesse to the queen. Back came a third round of spades.

South ruffed again and led toward dummy's queen of clubs, a type of finesse. East captured the queen of clubs with the king, and South had to lose a second club trick later.

Beyond His Strength
South was a decent man, but he was tempted beyond his strength. He saw two finesses, and he went for them. If he hadn't taken either finesse he would still be a respected member of the community.

South should draw trumps with the ace and queen and then lead dummy's queen of spades. East plays the king of spades, and South discards, allowing East to hold the trick. If East returns a club or a diamond, he gives dummy a free finesse. (There's nothing immoral about this kind of finesse; it's just the losing finesse that's bad for your soul.) If East returns a spade, declarer ruffs in dummy and discards another loser from his hand.

In any case, South is sure to win 10 tricks. It's just a matter of knowing how to resist temptation.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, bids 1 NT. You hold: S-7 H-A K 10 8 5 3 D-7 5 2 C-A 9 8. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts if not vulnerable; pass if you are vulnerable. You can reasonably expect to win five or six tricks in your own hand, and you have an outside chance to reach game if partner has a fit for hearts and some good cards. However, the risk of a disaster is too great if you are vulnerable.
