Senate Seems Ready To OK Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears ready to approve a bill aimed at forcing Americans to conserve energy without paying the sharply higher prices advocated by President Ford.

The bill would give the president standby authority to ration gasoline in the event of another boycott by petroleum-producing countries, and includes long-range power for the states to determine how best to meet federal conservation goals.

The Senate scheduled a vote today on an amendment to end federal controls on oil prices, a move sponsors concede would see the price of most U.S. oil rise from the current $5.25 per barrel to more than $12.

Coal Prices Checked

Meanwhile, the Justice Department said it is checking into rapid increases in coal prices but finds no evidence so far of any conspiracy to drive the prices up.

Competition in the coal and oil markets may have dwindled to the point that excessively high coal prices became possible, Joseph Sims, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper, said in an interview.

In other energy developments, more than 500 coal trucks wound through the nation's capital in a protest by Appalachian

Reds Give Jet Pilot Promotion

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The South Vietnamese jet pilot who bombed President Nguyen Van Thieu's palace Tuesday later landed his F5 fighter-bomber at a Viet Cong-held airfield, a Viet Cong spokesman in Saigon said today.

The spokesman at the Joint Military Commission set up as part of the Paris peace agreement said the flier, identified by South Vietnamese authorities as Nguyen Thanh Trung, was immediately promoted from lieutenant to captain and given the Liberation Distinction Service Order Second Class.

The spokesman declined to give the exact location where the plane had landed. Communist-led forces have taken over air installations capable of handling F5 jets, including the air base at Da Nang, during the five-week offensive in which they have captured three-fourths of South Vietnam.

Thieu Unhurt

Thieu, who is widely blamed for the military capitulation, was not hurt in the attack, but at least two persons were reported killed in the palace compound.

Though air force officials and numerous others said the flier had acted alone, political sources said more opposition politicians in Saigon went into hiding to avoid a further police crackdown on dissent as a result of the bombing.

Secret police reportedly moved on the homes of at least two opposition leaders hours after the apparent assassination attempt. The sources said the politicians had been warned by friends and had gone into hiding to avoid arrest.

North Vietnamese troops fought their way into the heart of a provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon in the current offensive's first attack on a major city in the capital region, the military command reported.

Reds Driven Out

The attack on Xuan Loc, the capital of Long Khanh Province, began before dawn after a 2,000-street artillery barrage. Street fighting was reported around a church and the bus station, but later field reports said most of the North Vietnamese had been driven from the city, leaving small pockets of resistance.

The battle promised to be the first test of whether the demoralized South Vietnamese army could make an effective stand after its devastating retreat from the northern and central provinces. However, it was too early to tell whether the attack on Xuan Loc was to start an offensive against Saigon itself.

Heavy Pressure

The city is the headquarters of the 18th infantry division and an armored cavalry unit which have been under heavy North Vietnamese pressure in the area for several weeks.

Other North Vietnamese or Viet Cong forces overran a district capital near one of the Saigon government's few remaining footholds on the central coast and made a number of smaller attacks in the Mekong Delta. Most of the latter were reported between 70 and 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

C&K Finals Deep Strike In Loving

C&K Petroleum, Inc. has completed No. 1 Christopher, an Ellenburger gas discovery in Loving County, six miles northeast of the Moore-Hooper (Fusselman and Ellenburger) field.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 26.9 million cubic feet of gas per day, plus 165 barrels of water, producing through perforations at 21,372-21,548 feet. The section had been treated with 20,000 gallons of acid.

Total depth is 21,650 feet, and the plugged-back depth is 21,602 feet. Operator hung a 5-inch liner from 17,944-21,650 feet.

Well site is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 53, T-2, T&P survey, seven miles northeast of Mentone.

Phillips Tests Atoka In Ward Explorer

Phillips Petroleum Co. continued production tests in the Atoka at No. 1-BB University Lands, Ward County prospect, 12 miles northwest of P-yote and three miles west of the War-Wink, South multizone gas field.

It flowed gas initially at the rate of 6.2 million cubic feet daily, on a 1/4-inch choke, for 3 1/2 hours, through perforated section at 17,166-17,171 feet. The rate decreased to 3.3 million cubic feet per day, after six hours.

Drilled to 20,322 feet, it is plugged back to 20,368 feet, in a 5 1/2-inch liner hung from 10,562-17,392 feet.

It is 1,960 feet from north and west lines of section 35, block 18.

Strawn Shows Oil At Garza Wildcat

Union Oil Co. of California No. 14-C K. Stoker, 8,200-foot wildcat, one location east of the Ellenburger pay zone in the Rocker "A" field of Garza County, recovered gas and oil shows on a second drillstem test in the Strawn.

Tool was open one hour from 8,152-8,202 feet. Recovery was 450 feet of gas and 260 feet of slightly oil- and gas-cut mud.

A drillstem test in the Strawn from 7,675-7,739 feet recovered 6,915 feet of gas, 100 feet of 30-gravity oil and 660 feet of heavily oil-cut mud.

The project was drilling below 8,307 feet.

Location is 750 feet from north and 475 feet from west lines of section 938, block 97, H&TC survey, five miles northwest of Justiceburg.

Late Bulletins

WASHINGTON (AP) — While ruling out military intervention, President Ford's press secretary acknowledged today that resigned President Richard M. Nixon had "confidential exchanges" in which he assured the Saigon government the United States would "react vigorously to violations by Hanoi of the Paris peace agreements."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected an effort to end federal controls on oil prices. Sponsors conceded the plan would have more than doubled the cost of most U.S. oil but said it was needed to provide incentive for finding new sources.

City Council Revises HUD Funds Application

The Midland City Council Tuesday revised its application for Housing and Community Development Act funds.

The change was forced when it was learned last week that a proposed site for development of low income housing was not available, as set forth in the original application.

The application was reworded to read that 100 units of low income housing for the elderly and handicapped are proposed by the city "at a site to be selected."

The proposed site, at the southeast corner of Scharbauer Drive and Big Spring Street was taken off the market by Furr's when an El Paso developer failed to exercise an option to purchase it.

Even before that act, representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said the site did not satisfy its rules for funds under the Housing and Community Development Act.

The Midland Housing Authority was to meet at 2 p. m. today at city hall to decide on a method of obtaining a new site for the project.

House Debate Resumes On Constitution

AUSTIN (AP) — A New Texas Constitution has ended the uphill stretch of its journey and appeared to have a level road and a tailwind as House debate resumed today.

Four articles—finance, local government, general provisions and mode of amending—awaited action. All are viewed as non-controversial.

Representatives gave the required two-thirds majority—100 votes—Monday to the legislative, executive, judiciary, separation of powers, voting rights and education articles.

Over The Hump

Approval of the judiciary and education articles put the document over the hump, sponsors said, because those were the only known danger areas. The constitution is almost identical to one drafted, but never passed, by the 1974 constitutional convention.

Senators already have approved the resolution submitting the constitution to the voters at a Nov. 4 election, but House changes will send it back to the Senate for another vote. A two-thirds vote will be required to accept the amendments or to approve a final compromise if the House changes are not taken.

Article Squeaks By

The education article squeaked by Monday, 103-39, with the victory apparently resulting from an amendment that modified executives of state colleges outside The University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

College executives claimed the Senate resolution—virtually identical to the document drafted but not passed by last year's constitutional convention—took away their authority to issue bonds against a 10 cents per $100 valuation state property tax.

Local Red Cross Unit Not Involved In Viet Orphan Adoption Procedure

The Midland County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been swamped with calls recently concerning the adoption of Vietnamese orphans.

The local Red Cross chapter is not involved in the adoption procedure, however. It is engaged in a program with the International Red Cross for refugee relief and assistance in providing aid to the orphans until they are placed with their adopted parents. Cash contributions will be accepted by the Midland chapter of the American Red Cross for the operations.

Donations may be sent to the Midland Chapter, American Red Cross, P.O. Box 1706, Midland 79701, designated for Vietnamese orphans relief.

Anyone interested in adopting a Vietnamese orphan may contact any one of the following agencies: World Vision Relief Organization, Box O, Pasadena, Calif. 91109, 213-838-4700; Friends of All Children, 445 S. 68th Street, Boulder, Colo. 80302, 303-494-7305; Holt's Childrens Service, P.O. Box 2420, Eugene, Ore. 97403, 503-687-2202; Traveler's Aid International Social Service of America, 345 East 46th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017, 687-2747; Catholic Conference, 201 Park Avenue, South, New York, N.Y. 10017, 212-838-4700; and the Pearl S. Buck Foundation, Philadelphia, Pa.

These agencies have been authorized by the South Vietnamese government to accept and place Vietnamese orphans.

Algerian, U.S. Officials Say They Have No Information On Patty Hearst

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian officials and the U.S. Embassy said today they had no information about reports that kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst might be flying to Algiers.

There was no indication that she might have arrived.

In San Francisco, Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the Hearst case, said the report Tuesday night by television news reporter Marilyn Baker of KPIX-TV was the first he had heard connecting Miss Hearst with Algeria.

Mrs. Baker said she had received an "unconfirmed report" that Miss Hearst, accompanied by radical sports figure Jack Scott and his wife Micki, was due to fly "from Budapest or Cuba to Algiers."

Mrs. Baker, who won a Peabody award for her reporting of the kidnapping, said officials in Algeria had refused to comment on the report that the

Anti-U.S. Feeling Mounts In Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — "The Americans appear to be great humanitarians. They give temporary aid, but ultimately they think only of themselves," the former government minister said. "We in Cambodia have been seduced and abandoned."

Resentment against the United States is mounting among Phnom Penh's political elite. It is being stoked by a growing feeling that the U.S. military aid to Cambodia and that its delay on the vote is a parting act of cruelty.

The domino theory is not a debating point here in higher political circles. It is accepted as an undeniable law.

Government leaders insist that if the United States deserts Cambodia, all of Southeast Asia will go Communist. They argue U.S. honor will be spoiled and Asian allies may well side with the Communist regime in China rather than believe the bankrupt word of the Americans.

But there is little evidence of anti-Americanism among those who do not hear the latest news from Washington. Frontline soldiers and Phnom Penh's average citizens say they cannot believe there may soon be no American bullets for their rifles or rice for their bowls.

Americans are regarded as being on "their side," such loyalties are simply not severed in their insular world.

"I don't think America will let us die," one young soldier on Phnom Penh's southern defense line says.

Among Phnom Penh's major groups, only the students have called for an end to U.S. aid, saying it prolongs the agony of war. Unlike South Vietnam, where an undercurrent of anti-Americanism has existed for years, there have been no overt acts of hostility reported against Americans in areas of Cambodia still controlled by the government.

Many government leaders see American policy in Cambodia as oddly ineffective and any U.S. withdrawal of aid as pure betrayal. A composite attitude gathered from numerous interviews runs this way:

—The United States supported the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and its troops invaded the country in 1970 to protect U.S. soldiers and hasten their withdrawal from South Vietnam. The United States also bound itself to Phnom Penh government through vast monetary aid and — until August 1973 — by air support.

—Americans have obviously interfered in internal Cambodian affairs, but they failed to exert the pressure needed to force out useless and corrupt generals and inept leaders, including President Lon Nol. By their almost schizophrenic approach the Americans are in large part responsible for the near collapse of the Phnom Penh government.

Carr instigated a policy change wherein the university collects all money from damage and is reimbursed to the rancher for conservation work. His nomination was sponsored by Midland Soil and Water Conservation District and endorsed by 11 other SWCD's over West Texas. The award will be presented at the state awards banquet on May 2 in Fort Worth. Anyone wishing to attend should contact the local Soil Conservation District office.

Ector Deputies Still Probing Attack On Girl

ODESSA—Ector County sheriff's deputies today are continuing the investigation of the reported attack on a 12-year-old Odessa girl who told officers she was assaulted after accepting a ride with a stranger. The girl described her attacker as 30 years old, between 5 feet 9 inches and 6 feet tall with long brown hair and bangs. She said she was wearing western clothes and told her he had just come to this area from Chicago. The girl said she was walking home about 4:30 p.m. Monday when the man stopped her and asked directions. When she couldn't tell him what he wanted to know, she got into the car to take him to her home so he could get directions from her mother.

Prosecutors In Connally Trial Laying Out Web Of Circumstantial Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors are laying out a web of circumstantial evidence in an attempt to bolster the story of their star witness in the bribery trial of John B. Connally. Seven witnesses appeared in rapid-fire order Tuesday afternoon after defense lawyer Edward Bennett Williams concluded a day-and-a-half cross-examination of Jake Jacobsen, the man who says he gave the former Treasury secretary two illegal $5,000 gifts. The money allegedly was given to Connally for his efforts in persuading the Nixon administration to raise milk prices. Williams got Jacobsen to admit he was uncertain about some details of his story, including whether or not a third $5,000 gift was made. But then prosecutors put on the witness stand a hotel waiter, a bank clerk and others who supported various elements of Jacobsen's story. In 1971 Jacobsen asked for $10,000 to give to Connally, said former dairy lobbyist Bob A. Lilly. He testified he gave Jacobsen the money and later delivered another $5,000 when Jacobsen said Connally wanted more. U.S. District Judge George L. Hart told jurors that Lilly's testimony doesn't prove what Jacobsen eventually did with the cash. In 1973, Lilly said, he told Watergate prosecutors about the money when he confessed to the illegal political activities of his organization, Associated Milk Producers Inc. of San Antonio, Tex. Jacobsen says this confession set in motion a cover-up of the bribe. Oct. 23, 1973: Lilly testified he arrived at the San Antonio airport at 2:30 a.m., hours after spilling his story to prosecutors in a Washington hotel room, and was surprised to find his boss Harold Nelson waiting for him. He told Nelson he had confessed to prosecutors. Oct. 24: Telephone company records show a call was made to Jacobsen's phone, charged to Nelson, Jacobsen says Nelson told him Lilly had confessed. Phone records show a call was made that afternoon from Jacobsen's office in Austin to Connally's law offices in Houston.

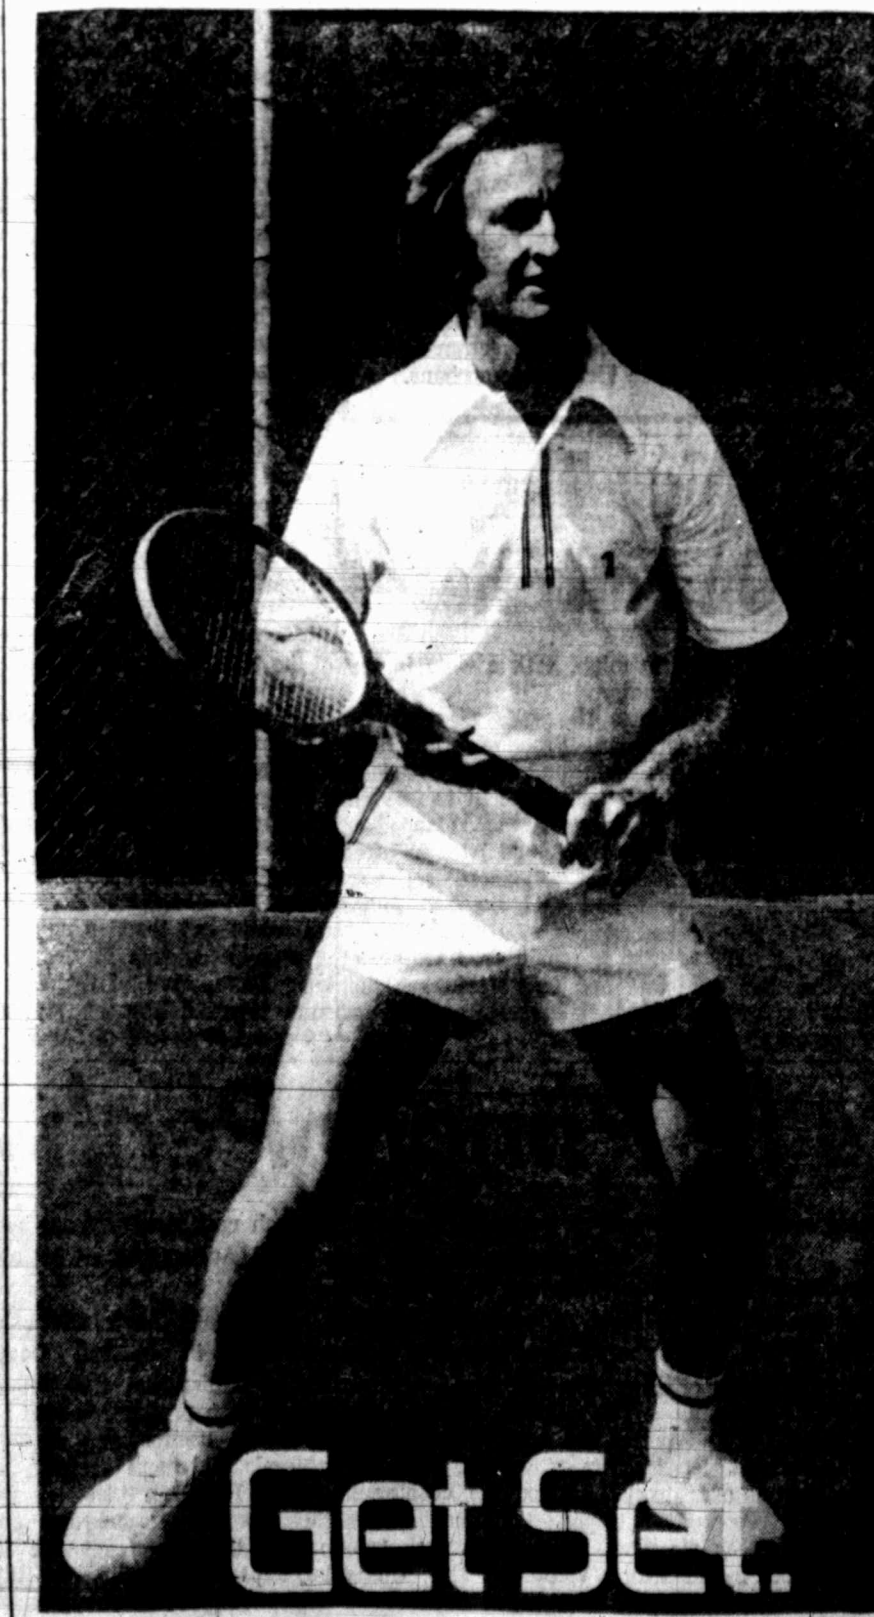

ton. Jacobsen says he told Connally about Lilly's confession. Oct. 25: Assistant head writer Sammie Barnett of the Sheraton Crest Hotel in Austin testified that he delivered breakfast to Connally's room. He says Jacobsen and Connally were there, apparently alone. Jacobsen says it was at this meeting he and Connally agreed to claim the $10,000 had never left Jacobsen's bank vault. Oct. 25: Phone company records show a call was made from Connally's home to Jacobsen's home. Jacobsen says he's not sure of the date, but that Connally called him and they agreed to replace the $10,000 with new money to fit the cover story. Nov. 26: Jacobsen testified Connally gave him a second $10,000, wrapped in newspaper, because the first batch of bills were too new to fit the cover story. They had been issued before Jacobsen is supposed to have put them in the bank vault, Jacobsen said.

Writer Describes Scenery In Texas Along Rio Grande

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Drive along U.S. 83 paralleling the Rio Grande from the Valley to Laredo and any soul just must pity the poor wet-back.

There are stretches along here that if the informal immigrant comes out of the river and heads inland, he is going to look like a dog that has tangled with a porcupine before he reaches the highway.

This is because there probably are more mean-looking cacti per square inch along here than anywhere else in the world. The cacti fight for space with equally vicious-looking mesquite.

How a wetback can get through that vegetation is a miracle.

Dan Bus of the Del Rio News-Herald up the river a piece says wetbacks today are too smart to try to cross through the brush.

Bus says that of the 3,000-mile frontier with Mexico, only 25 miles, in little pieces of a few yards here and a half mile or so there, are used for illegal crossings.

Oh, there is lots of country where you can cross, but in the beautiful lower Valley a wetback would stick out like a sore thumb if he tried to walk across that flat land.

We can't discover why it's called a valley. A valley has to have things on each side like hills. If there ever were hills, people have plowed them level and turned them into $1,000 an acre farmland or space for tourists' mobile homes.

Ever see all those Valley palms? We're told none are native. They were planted by the early land developers to amaze prospective customers from cold places like Minnesota.

These palms don't bear nuts. This is very fortunate. You've seen pictures of Marines attacking through palm jungles. They all wear helmets. This is as much for protection against nuts as against bullets. A coconut falling 50 feet onto a bare skull can cause a headache for days.

The 175-mile trip from Harlingen to Laredo can be a thing of joy if you have a Valley veteran like Associated Press correspondent Gary Garrison to interpret what you see.

We had just pulled away from a rest area where we had stopped, well, to get a good look at the Rio Grande, when he announced that some of the rest areas have signs saying,

"Watch out for poisonous snakes."

That rattled our teeth.

"Were there any back there?" we asked in a shaky voice.

"Not there," he said.

He offered to stop at several other rest areas to prove his statement, but we declined.

What we said was that if he stopped, we would roll up all the windows, lock the doors, and prepare to defend ourselves with our penknife.

Beside the highway all through South Texas you can see small monuments. One we noted had cut flowers arranged around it.

Garrison says it is a custom for the family of a traffic victim to erect such a monument at the site of the fatal collision.

On a happier note, there is a prominent cross on a little hill near Rio Grande City.

By legend the cross was erected to the Lord by a family which managed to reach the peak and thereby avoided drowning in one of the terrible floods which came so often until Falcon and Amistad dams tamed the river.

It is difficult to drive into quiet Rio Grande City and realize that this once was the focus of one of Texas' bitterest labor wars.

Not very long ago, the streets, sidewalks, cafes, motels and boarding houses were jammed with Texas Rangers, local officers, pickets and the like.

The center of interest was the La Casita Farms packing shed on the main street, picked for organizing by the farm workers' union.

Today, grass again is growing alongside the street there. A few years ago, the soil was worn bare by the slowly pacing feet of pickets.

Roma, a town of a little more than 2,000 persons, was the center of much excitement, too, about 20 years ago.

This was during the filming of "Viva Zapata" with Marlon Brando as the star. Emiliano Zapata was a rebel in South Mexico at the same time Pancho Villa was operating in the north.

Roma was picked because portions of it do very well for a Mexican village scene.

Drive a block off the highway and you're on streets graveled in white stone. There is an ancient church. The Guerra Store, built in 1884, is of adobe, as are most buildings, with fragile-looking, beautiful iron lattice-work.

There is a legend thereabouts that Brando refused to wear Levis with a slide fastener in the picture. It took searching, but someone found him a pair with buttons.

No one seems to know why he had this hangup. Maybe he just doesn't trust modern scientific gadgets.

Noble and wealthy ladies were not the only ones who decked themselves out in jewelry. Early politicians wore many jeweled rings on their fingers to impress the people with their importance and high rank in society.

Check On Spray Can Danger Due Soon

Scientists Contend Earth's Vital Ozone Layer Being Destroyed

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Experiments to prove conclusively whether or not spray can propellants are damaging the ozone could be performed during the next few months, two scientists said today.

Rowland and Dr. Mario J. Molina, of the same university, made the latest contribution to the Freon controversy in a report to the 169th national meeting of the American Chemical Society. The two scientists first announced their theory of ozone destruction by the man-made gases, also called chlorofluoromethanes, in June of last year at an ACS meeting.

Rowland, Molina and other scientists have called for a ban on manufacture of the gases. The industry has said more conclusive proof is needed regarding the theory. The major manufacturer is the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co.

ment techniques can be used now to check the destruction theory by trying to detect radioactive chlorine in fresh samples of stratospheric air.

and higher concentrations in the lower atmosphere. As it spreads in the stratosphere, un-screened ultraviolet radiation hits it, releasing chlorine atoms which attack the ozone, the scientists believe.

Walker Named In 7th Bond Forfeiture Motion

Midland (AP) — A seventh bond forfeiture motion this year against Midland bondsman Odell Walker was filed this week in 42nd District Court by Rusty Wall, assistant district attorney.

The State of Texas seeks a $10,000 judgment against Walker who made an appeal bond for Tyree Jackson, 23, of Midland in 1973. Jackson, indicted for sale of marijuana to Department of Public Safety undercover agent Jim Mull, was found guilty by jury trial and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. That was in June 1973.

AUSTIN (AP) — Marijuana smoking is "a very intense, symbolic moral issue" and is not something people should be sent to jail for doing, says a UCLA professor of psychiatry.

Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, suggested the best way to avoid jail for possession of marijuana was not to possess it. Robbers and murderers could stay out of jail too, he said, if they stopped robbing and murdering.

Steve Simon of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) told the committee the Department of Public Safety reported 24,327 persons were arrested in Texas last year on marijuana charges.

Coal Trucks Rumble Into Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — In one of the federal city's noisiest, most colorful demonstrations ever, more than 500 huge coal trucks rumbled outside the White House and the Capitol to protest the strip-mining legislation before Congress.

The protested legislation has been approved in varying forms by both the House and the Senate and is now in a conference committee to resolve differences.

The bills would require strip-mine sites to be restored approximately to their original contours. Opponents claim these requirements would virtually eliminate strip mining on steep slopes.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Ind.-Va., says the Interior Department predicts the legislation would eliminate 47,000 jobs and cause coal production to drop 40,000 tons a year.

44 States Now Paying Fewer Jobless Aid Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-four states are paying fewer unemployment compensation checks, as some industries begin recalling workers from layoffs.

The Labor Department said industry callbacks helped reduce the number of Americans receiving jobless benefits in the week ending March 22 to 6,484,000, a decline of 42,500 from the previous week.

Initial benefit claims in the week ending March 29 declined 7,000 from the previous week to a total of 530,600.

As the figures were announced Tuesday, a House Ways and Means subcommittee began a series of seven fact-finding sessions before taking up proposals to provide additional weeks of jobless compensation to those who will exhaust their benefits under existing law.

In other economic developments: —The cost of maintaining a moderate standard of living for a typical urban family of four during the fall of 1974 was estimated at $14,300, an increase of $1,733 over the previous year. The same size family can live at an austere level for $9,200 or at a level allowing some luxuries for $20,600, the Labor Department said.

—Former Federal Reserve Board member Andrew F. Brimmer predicted the recession would deepen beyond the administration's expectations and called on the Fed to push the nation's banks into a more liberal lending policy.

—AFL-CIO President George Meany said he sees no end to the recession and urged union members to press for more government action stimulating the economy.

—The Council on Wage and Price Stability said it would investigate prices in the cereal and baked goods industry to determine why product prices are not coming down when the price of key ingredient commodities are falling.

—A bill authorizing $2.6 billion for programs to help America's elderly was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. It provides a four-year extension of assorted grants to states for community services and continues nutrition projects for the elderly. In addition, the bill bars discrimination in federal programs or activities on the basis of age.

—Officials say only 10 states met their goal in a federal crackdown on welfare errors last year, but state and federal taxpayers still saved $62 million through the program.

—Taxpayers could save another $200 million during the first half of this year if savings continue as in 1974, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said.

However, James S. Dwight, administrator of HEW's family welfare program, acknowledged that the original goal of a $514.7 million saving over 12 months could not be met.

"Maybe we expected too much too soon," he said. Dwight said the only states that met their interim year-end goals for reducing welfare rates of ineligibility, overpayment and underpayment were Kentucky, Nevada, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Dallas Police Say Woman Fugitive Really Man, But FBI Says His-Her Fingerprints Don't Match

DALLAS (AP) — The identity of a woman who claimed to have a car which would revolutionize the industry remained a mystery today, as police claimed she was a "he" but the FBI said his and her fingerprints did not match.

She is Elizabeth Carmichael, president of Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp., who is wanted in Dallas on charges of conspiracy to commit theft in promoting its three-wheeled car, the Revette.

The company's operations in Dallas were shut down in February, only a week after it moved here from California, when the specialized crime unit of the Dallas Police Department filed charges against 10 corporate officers. Charges against all but Mrs. Carmichael and Whitlock N. Sharpe later were dropped.

Capt. John Driscoll, head of the police intelligence section, said Mrs. Carmichael, a tall, husky-voiced individual who claimed to be a 37-year-old widow with five adopted children, is really Jerry Dean Michael, a fugitive for the past 13 years.

"At least we now know what we are looking for," Driscoll said.

But a spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said late Tuesday that Michael's fingerprints did not match those on documents handled by Mrs. Carmichael.

"As far as we are concerned, they are not the same person,"

Driscoll credited his men, the district attorney's office and federal postal inspectors here and in Indianapolis with identifying Michael.

Michael has been sought since 1962 on a federal fugitive warrant from California charging him with defaulting bond on a counterfeiting charge.

Driscoll said his department had confirmed the identity through fingerprints.

Terminal Moves Up Continental Scale

Midland Air Terminal made the move from Class Three to Class Four in a recent reclassification by Continental Airlines. Midland now ranks 10th out of 33 cities served by Continental.

Norman C. Geiger, field vice president for Continental Airlines in Los Angeles, was in Midland Tuesday to make the reclassification announcement.

Classification of airports by the airline is determined by the number of passengers and cargo handled and by the number of employees at the station.

The airport must exceed its quota in at least two of the three categories for three consecutive years before moving up to the next classification.

Midland has exceeded its quota in the passenger and cargo categories for the past three years, with a 36.3 per cent increase in passengers for the first quarter of 1975 compared to the same period last year, and a 73.1 per cent increase in air freight.

Other Class Four airports for Continental include Dallas-Fort Worth, Kansas City, San Antonio, Tulsa, Albuquerque and Portland.

Class Three airports include Lubbock, Colorado Springs, and Tucson; Class Two, Amarillo, and Class One, Wichita Falls. Class Five airports include Honolulu and Chicago, and Class Six, the top, includes Los Angeles, Denver and Houston.

"The healthy economy here helped to move the airport up to Class Four," Geiger said. "And I expect Midland will now go after Class Five."

Geiger said the increase in cargo also played a very important part in the reclassification of the airport.

Continental's ground crew in Midland also won the safe-driving award for Continental ground vehicles for the second consecutive year.

"We have a very excellent and very dedicated group of people working for us here," Geiger said. "And excellent leadership is provided by Charles Logue."

Logue is regional director for Continental, with offices in Midland. Continental also honored travel agencies in Midland and presented Allega Travel Agency a silver bowl as winner of the special president's award.

Professional Athletes To Chair Hike-Bike-Ride For Retarded

Pro-golfer Judy Rankin and St. Louis Cardinal football player Tom Brahany, both of Midland, will co-chair the 1975 Hike-Bike-Ride for the Retarded of Midland.

Scheduled for Saturday, May 3, the event is a campaign to raise funds for retarded children and adults. It is sponsored by Midland chapters of Teens Aid the Retarded (TARS) and the Association for Retarded Citizens.

"Remember," Mrs. Rankin says, "we have our title to defend. We were first in the nation last year by raising $9,600. Of course, we expect to keep the trophy in Midland."

Anyone who walks, rides a bicycle or a horse can participate by getting pledges from persons or businesses to sponsor him.

The route will extend 20 miles for hikers and horseback riders, while bicyclists may make as many laps as they choose.

The objective is for individuals to pace themselves, while the sponsor pledges to match with cash the number of miles traveled by his contestant. There is no limit to the number of sponsors each participant may have.

Midland businessmen and individuals are contributing over 50 prizes, the first prize being a 10-speed bicycle.

Registration forms for the event may be obtained at First National Bank, Love's Burger Train, Midland County Library, the Opportunity Center, the office of the Midland Association for Retarded Citizen, and Western State Bank.

More than 80 per cent of the proceeds will remain in Midland to be used by the association in a variety of programs, including pre-school care and training, summer camping, Texas Special Olympics, TARS, recreation and occupational training.

Failure To Perform Interracial Vows Prompts Prof's Suit

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — An Arlington justice of the peace's refusal to perform an interracial marriage March 24 has prompted a University of Texas at Arlington professor to file a complaint with the FBI.

Dr. Daniel Georges alleged a violation of civil rights and assault and battery in connection with Peace Justice John Forbes's refusal to marry Georges, a black, and his white fiancée.

Herbert Grubert, assistant special agent in the Dallas office of the FBI, said Georges' complaint will be forwarded to the Justice Department, which will decide whether an investigation shall be conducted.

Forbes issued a statement that he refuses to perform both under-age and interracial marriages because statistics show such marriages have a higher incident of failure.

The UTA assistant professor of urban studies and criminal justice included the assault and battery charge in his complaint because he claims Forbes pushed him as they were discussing the interracial marriage.

Owner Not Flying Plane That Crashed

Fewer Texas Convicts Going To Death Row

By RICK SCOTT
DALLAS (AP) — Fewer Texas convicts are going to death row and some big city prosecutors say it's because the state's new capital murder law makes it more difficult to impose the death sentence.

There have been no executions in Texas since July 1964, but the Department of Corrections currently counts 13 inmates on death row at its Ellis Unit northeast of Huntsville.

Other persons, convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death, are lodged in county jails around the state pending appeals. In Dallas County, for example, nine capital cases await higher court action.

There have been no executions by the state, a corrections department spokesman said, because the convicts on death row have their cases on appeal to federal courts.

Even the state law, which in May 1973 restored the death penalty in Texas following a U.S. Supreme Court ruling, is being challenged before the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

The district attorneys interviewed said the capital murder law has restricted the cases in which the death sentence can be considered.

"In only about five per cent of all the murder cases filed now can you have a death penalty at all," said Harris County Dist. Atty. Carrol Vance.

Death is provided, under the 1973 law, only for the murder of a police officer, fireman, prison guard, jail guard, murderer for hire or for murder committed in the course of kidnaping, burglary, robbery, aggravated rape or arson.

And, the capital sentence can be imposed only if a jury finds a killing was unprovoked and deliberate and there is a probability that the killer "would commit criminal acts of violence that would constitute a continuing threat to society."

Vance said it often is difficult to prove to a jury that there is a probability the defendant would continue to be dangerous to society or violent in the future.

Dallas County Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said, however, he has used a psychiatrist in all death cases to testify that the killer would be dangerous in the future.

Wade acknowledged the new law is restrictive, but said in cases where it can be applied he usually has obtained the death sentence.

The state law is under challenge now because it allows a jury discretion in giving the death sentence.

If the law is ruled unconstitutional by the Court of Criminal Appeals, the legislature probably will have to write a new law. If the law is upheld, it probably will be appealed to the federal courts.

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to rule sometime this year in a North Carolina case on whether death is "cruel and unusual" punishment outlawed by the U.S. Constitution.

There likely won't be any executions in the United States until the North Carolina case is decided.

Wade believes the nation's high court has indicated by its previous rulings that capital punishment is constitutional if applied properly. But Wade said he has some doubts about the Texas law.

Vance and Wade said they believed the death penalty is needed for some crimes, especially where murders are committed in the course of another serious crime such as rape or robbery.

After the Supreme Court ruled most death penalty laws unconstitutional several years ago, dozens of convicted killers in Texas had their death sentences commuted to life or 99-year sentences. There have been 361 executions in Texas since 1924 when the state took over the duty from the counties.

Will there ever be another execution? Will "Old Sparky," the Texas electric chair, ever be used again?

"I hope so," said Vance. "I think it is needed as a deterrent to some crimes—sex murders and robbery-murders."

Garbage Recycling Plant Drawing Both Praises, Laughs

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — What is touted by some as the beginning of an end to this country's runaway garbage problem is taunted by others as the laughing stock of the nation.

It's a $5.7-million garbage recycling plant that gathers under one roof all that is known about plucking paper, glass and metal out of pulverized garbage.

The landfill next to where the plant is being built has become a battle ground for conflicting ideas on what to do with solid waste. Recycle as much as possible? Or limit the use of bot-ties, cans and paper that eventually become garbage?

Construction has started. Completion is expected within two years. Controversy has swirled for months.

A boon, say city leaders, who are running out of places to put the 1,300 to 1,800 tons of garbage produced each day in New Orleans.

A boondoggle, say ecologists, who claim the real answer is to not make so much garbage in the first place.

"We have tried everything in the world to get rid of garbage," Mayor Moon Landrieu said. "We tried to bury it, to burn it, to sink it on barges,

"So we tried to join with others in developing a system that will more efficiently dispose of our solid waste."

The idea of a demonstration recycling plant was suggested to the city by the National Center for Resource Recovery, a trade organization primarily of industries whose products, such as paper and bottles, end up as garbage.

"The plant will offer some good hands-on experience on how to recover materials," an NCRRC official said.

Garbage trucks will deliver about half of the city's daily garbage output to the plant. Of that, about 20 per cent will be cleaned, cleaned and resold.

Bundled paper will be taken out first, and the remaining refuse will be shredded. Blowers will then lift the lighter stuff and it will be dumped on the landfill.

The rest continues on conveyor belts through magnets to extract the iron and steel. What's left is dumped into liquids of varying densities to separate the aluminum and glass from other metals, such as stainless steel and brass.

Electro-static separators will divide the aluminum and glass, and optical scanners will pick out the different colors of glass. Similar equipment figures in other recycling efforts, such as the one in Bridgeport, Conn., where the first plant of a state-wide reclamation program is in the works.

In New Orleans, where five incinerators were crumbling and in need of an anti-pollution facelift, recycling seemed to be a breath of fresh air. But in the stench of the garbage was a whiff of political dispute. There were charges that what was good for NCRRC was not necessarily good for the city.

"One of the major interests of the businesses which NCRRC represents is finding ways to get cities like New Orleans and other government bodies to avoid source reduction," said Ross Vincent, president of the Louisiana Ecology Center, the state's most active private environmental group.

Source reduction is the likes of Oregon's ban-the-bottle legislation — cutting down on the extensive use of throwaway glass, paper and plastic containers that form the bulk of any city's domestic garbage.

"They were in a position of creating waste and felt a moral obligation to do something about it," Mayor Landrieu said of NCRRC. "They were also trying to fend off source reduction legislation."

Dear Abby Should Son Give In To Mother?

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have only one child, a son, now married and living in California. (We live in New York.)

My elderly mother is very ill, and her days are numbered. She has always relied heavily on me, and being a very dutiful daughter, I gave her lots of time and attention. Because of this, my son has never been too fond of his grandmother. However, my son, husband and I are very close.

While talking to my son (long distance), I said, "Keep your woolen suit pressed because you will need it when you come east for your grandmother's funeral." His reply: "I hadn't planned on coming."

When I told my husband this, he said, "If he doesn't want to come, don't hassle him." Abby, don't you think that out of respect for my feelings, my son should come for his grandmother's funeral? I offered to pay his plane fare both ways. If I had brothers or sisters, the situation would be different, but my husband and my son and his family are all I have.

I don't mean to be a demanding mother, but in time of sorrow I feel it would be comforting to have those dear to me near. Would I be unreasonable to insist that he come?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your son, knowing how much you want him near you in your sorrow, chooses not to come, shame on him. But if you, knowing that he doesn't really want to come, insist that he does — then shame on you!

DEAR ABBY: Some additional information on how one can improve his credit rating: Under federal law, anyone is permitted to inspect his (or her) credit file and offer corrections on inaccuracies. Erroneous information can result in a poor credit rating.

If one is refused a loan or a charge account, he has the right to know the name and address of the consumer reporting agency or credit company that supplied the adverse information. This law applies to investigation reports causing denial of a job and is contained in Title 15, U.S. Code, Section 1681.

DENNIS B. KAVANAUGH
ATTORNEY AT LAW

DEAR MR. K.: Thanks for the addition.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago I wrote asking if you knew of a travel club for nonsmokers. You replied that you didn't, but suggested I contact the American Cancer Society. They did not know of any either.

Now there is one! The Nonsmokers' Travel Club, which I was instrumental in forming. We are off-shoot of GASP (Group Against Smokers' Pollution), and now have 71 members. We are in Washington, D.C. area, but have members from all over the U.S.A. We have two domestic bus trips, and three foreign trips planned for 1975. Our buses will have nonsmoking drivers and nonsmoking tour guides. Our foreign trips will travel in the nonsmoking section of scheduled airliners. Once at our destination, we will travel in our own bus with a nonsmoking driver and guide.

If you think this will be of interest to your readers, please mention it in your widely read column.

MILDRED A. POST,
CHAIRPERSON

DEAR MILDRED: It's mentioned. Those interested in traveling without the annoyance of tobacco smoke may write to me (and please include a stamped, addressed envelope) for the address of the smoke-free travel club.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Happy Marriage Secrets Will Be Taught In Course

By PATSY GORDON

Has all the "ZIP" gone out of your marriage? If so, then the Midland College short course entitled "Fascinating Womanhood," which begins Thursday night with registration, might be just the thing for you.

Penny White, 2101 N. Pecos St., is instructor for the course to be conducted in Room 445 of Lee High School. Classes are scheduled for 8 weeks from 7-9 p. m. each Thursday, through May 29.

"Fascinating Womanhood" is a course of study for women based on "Fascinating Womanhood," a book written in 1963 by Helen Andelin. Instruction is pointed to the highest goals in marriage, helping women attain the greatest happiness and fulfillment possible in the husband-wife relationship, according to Mrs. White. The course, she said, is sponsored by the Andelin Foundation for Education in Family Living, an organization established to promote the happiness and welfare of women everywhere.

"The course is for anyone who would like to have a happy marriage," said Mrs. White. "From the one who would like to know more about marriage, to the one who has already filed for divorce."

Mrs. White is a graduate of the course herself. She was required to take the course and be personally interviewed by the author, Helen Andelin, in order to teach the course. She noted that it took almost four years for her to believe completely in what the course taught, but now she can see how it changed her marriage.

She is not new to teaching, as she has taught girls' baton, and was a student band teacher for three years in high school. She also attended Texas Tech University and is a graduate of Draughon's Business College.

Mrs. White explained that the course is designed on Christian principles. "However, there are only six scriptures in the whole course."

"We teach that men and women are created equal, but have different roles in life," she pointed out. "The man is the main provider and protector of the family. The woman bears the children, takes care of the home and is wife and mother."

Not only a graduate of the course at the Foundation located at Santa Barbara, Calif., Mrs. White said she became involved because she was having problems in her own marriage. She said she talked with friends, a minister and even a marriage counselor. Things improved somewhat, she said, but not enough. She admits now the course was the salvation of her marriage.

When asked about the Equal Rights Amendment, she expressed the opinion that "women libbers are in the infant stage of womanhood."

Mrs. White is married to Charles R. White, owner of Bob's Tree and Lawn Service, 3200 N. Big Spring St. The couple has four children, Vic, 19, who attended Midland College and now is employed with Jenkins Jewelry; Rhonda, 16, a sophomore student at Midland High School, and Chuck, 11, and Teresa, 9, both students at Bowie Elementary School.

Cost of the course will be $16 and participants are asked to bring a notebook with them Thursday when they register. All will be given a paper back version of the book, "Fascinating Womanhood."

School Honors 'Groundhogs'

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — To be honored at Hure Junior High School, one doesn't have to be a straight "A" student.

The school recently held a dinner honoring 105 "groundhog" students in the school's cafeteria. A "groundhog" is a student who raised his average from an F to a C, is always willing to help others, makes his club or organization go, unselfishly give his time and energy to a project or overcomes a handicap, either physical or emotional.

"What we're doing is trying to build pride in the kids who normally don't get any recognition," said Judy Bender, a language arts teacher who, with a colleague, conceived the idea.

HINTS FROM Heloise How One Bachelor Treats His Chicks

Dear Heloise:

As a male who recently moved into my own apartment, I don't know much about cooking, but here's something I do that might interest you.

I buy my chicken quartered, or quarter a whole one myself. I then put the raw chicken in one of those oven brown-in-bag sacks and give it the old shake-and-bake treatment with the seasonings that come with bags. Actually, I do half a chicken in a bag. I then put a wire twister around the bag and put it in the freezer.

When I'm ready to cook it, I set the oven to 450 degrees, take off the wire twister (so the bag doesn't explode), and plunk it in the oven to thaw and cook.

An hour later, after flipping the chicken over halfway through the cooking, it is ready to eat. (I cook the chicken on a cookie sheet.)

I'm not scientific about the weight-time-temperature bit, but 450 degrees for an hour suits me.

This way, chicken is no more trouble (at eating time) than a bowl of corn flakes.

Art, we all adore you, sir. However, check for doneness.

However, check for doneness.

gals, as cooking time will vary depending on the weight of the chicken quarters. 400 degrees for an hour and a half suited me better. Thanks, pal!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I've been knitting most of my life and I did not know until recently that I was supposed to take the end of the skein that is in the center and comes out one end of the skein instead of the one on the outside, to use when knitting.

I could kick myself for all the hours I have spent winding a skein into a ball so the knitting would go easier as the big skein usually got tangled and pulled. I find when I take the inside strand, the thread pulls out easily.

Mrs. Foley

Dear Heloise:

Thank you! Thank you! for your many helpful hints. Here is one of my own:

For the less-bosomy, slightly round-shouldered woman (and there are many of us), try wearing your blouses backwards!

The blouses feel so comfortable worn that way and they do look neat and fit much better. Of course, not all styles of blouses will work, but most of them will.

Buckley Warns Of Trend In U.S.

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., says "anti-business bias" and a "regulatory mentality" are leading the U.S. toward a state-controlled economy.
Buckley told a meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists Tuesday that Congress is considering several bills which could be dangerous not only to the oil and gas business but to all businesses.
"Tomorrow's whipping boys may well be steel, or insurance, or banks or the computer business," Buckley said.
He predicted "if the anti-business bias continues to grow, if the regulatory mentality is allowed to expand and tighten still further the federal grip on almost every facet of our economic life, I fear we may soon reach the point of no return in our drift toward a state-controlled economy."

Across town, at a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute the presidents of two major drilling companies warned that the United States cannot become energy self-sufficient unless the oil industry gets more government understanding and support.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A "loop-hole" in Texas law allows the Hare Krishna Church in Dallas to operate without regulation, says Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth.
Schieffer showed a NBC color film to the House Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday night in which it was stated that Hare Krishna children do not see their parents for as long as a year and a half.
The church claims its child care facility is an educational institution, and the Department of Public Welfare feels that removes it from the department's jurisdiction, he said. But his school refuses to teach science, for example, he said.
"The state of Texas should play a role," Schieffer said, "because if the state of Texas doesn't play a role, I can assure you it will on down the line. Those are the people who are going to have the drug

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A search continued today for a 13-year-old boy believed drowned in Seymour Creek here during Monday night's violent weather.
Firemen hunted along the banks of the Southeast Fort Worth Creek for Joseph Scott Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Jordan. He was swept off the back of a pony as he tried to ford the creek.

ED PRELL

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.—There was pitching success and failure Tuesday when the Midland Cubs lost an abbreviated exhibition game to the Wichita Aeros, 7-2.

After five innings, Midland's Dennis Lamp held a 2-1 decision over Jim Krummel, a southpaw who started spring training with the Chicago Cubs.

Then Doc Edwards, Midland's skipper, introduced a newcomer to his pitching staff — Bernie Beckman—a 6-5, 190-pound lefty. Beckman had just been obtained from the Dodgers' organization in a trade for Tom Badcock.

It was not all Beckman's fault. He was charged with a balk after the Aeros had filled the bases in the three-run sixth, a decision heatedly disputed by Edwards. But the Holland-born 24-year-old pitcher had control troubles. Wichita's three runs in the seventh were unearned after Joel Green booted a ground ball which would have been the third out.

The final two innings were skipped because Dan Corder, Midland pitcher, came up with an arm stiffness after warming up. Midland and Key West were scheduled today for morning game. Thursday's exhibition final is against San Antonio here.

Cliff Hall, playing right field, had two of Midland's seven hits. The Cubs scored in the opening inning when Julio Gonzalez led with a double, took third when Bill Droege fumbled his drive, and scored on a wild pitch. Singles by Hall and Al Montreuil, plus Mike Sember's sacrifice fly, gave the Cubs another run in the second.

In his five innings, Lamp held Wichita to one run and three hits. He fanned three and walked only one.

Quebec Cops WHA Win

By The Associated Press
A scenic tour of North American airports is not the ideal way for a professional hockey team to prepare for its first-ever playoff game.

And the Nordiques took advantage of the jet-lag syndrome that hampered Phoenix Tuesday night in Quebec to defeat the weary Roadrunners 5-2 and take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven World Hockey Association quarter-final playoff series.

The Roadrunners had spent all day Monday traveling from Phoenix to Quebec by way of Los Angeles, Chicago and Montreal.

Coach Sandy Hucul said his club was forced into the roundabout route when management of the Quebec team unilaterally decided the series would start Tuesday.

"It (the route) was the only way we could get here," Hucul said. "It's just a rotten deal by Quebec—Quebec made the decision to open here tonight, not the league."

And the Phoenix coach could have a point. The other three quarter-finals were scheduled to begin at least 24 hours later than the Quebec-Phoenix round.

Tonight the Toronto Toros visit the San Diego Mariners and the Minnesota Fighting Saints open against the New England Whalers at Hartford, Conn. The fourth series begins Thursday when the Cleveland Crusaders visit the defending champion Aeros at Houston.

The second game of the Nordiques-Roadrunners series is also scheduled Thursday and again at Quebec.

Chicago Ends Midland Stay

Pitching Is Key To '75 Cubs

BY TED BATTLES
During a three-day stay in Midland, the Chicago Cubs saw West Texas at its worst (Monday's high winds) and best (Tuesday's cloudless, windless skies) before heading back to the Windy City Tuesday afternoon for Thursday's opener with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After an extended batting session Tuesday morning, Manager Jim Marshall decided to forego another day in the Tall City. "We had a good batting practice this morning and I think it's best we acclimatize ourselves to Chicago. We can do some running at Wrigley Field tomorrow (Wednesday), if nothing else."

Almost everybody connected with the Cubs feel that hopes of moving up in the National League East division race revolve around pitching.

"I'm optimistic," Marshall said. "Rick Reuschel, Bill Bonham and Burt Hooton are heading into their fourth major league seasons and that's when pitchers usually begin their most productive years."

Reuschel, who will pitch the opener, hasn't thrown since last Friday. "but he threw 115 to 120 pitches then, which is equivalent to a nine-inning game. Only trouble was that he threw that many pitches in seven innings. He was cuffed pretty hard. Still, last spring we didn't have a pitcher who worked over six innings in spring."

Marshall, starting his first full year as Cub pilot, feels Oscar Zamora, Darold Knowles and Bob Locker give him a better bullpen than a year ago.

Hooton, the University of Texas knuckle-curveballer, must have a good year for the Cubs to climb and Marshall says Burt had a rough spring. "But every time he has had an extended workout, the weather has been miserable. First, in Palm Springs, then Scottsdale, and here Monday in the intra-squad game. Of course, an intra-squad game isn't really satisfactory. The batters know the pitcher isn't going to be throwing at him, so it makes a difference."

He added, "We'll see what happens when the bell rings and the adrenalin starts to flow."

Marshall points out that the average age of the Cubs is 24½ years, "and that includes Knowles and Locker who are 37."

Marshall did a complete overhaul job on his coaching staff during the off-season, and feels Marv Grissom has been a big help with the pitching and Jack Bloomfield has been an asset with the infielders.

"I see a great improvement with Bill Medlock at third and Rob Sperring at short. Jack has especially helped Rob on the double play."

Manny Trillo tightens up the infield at second and Marshall feels his outfield speed will pay off in the bigger parks.

"In the area of run production, we'll be counting on the bunt, hit and run and steal more than the big inning."

As he signaled the end of batting practice, Marshall said the Cubs enjoyed their stay in Midland, the first class playing facility, and "meeting all of the friendly people here."

He sounded like a guy who wouldn't mind coming back.

ASU Gridgers Are Charged

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Two former Arizona State University football players were convicted of simple assault Tuesday.

Clifton F. Alapa, 20, and Fiale Edra, 19, face a maximum six months in jail and $30 fine when they are sentenced Thursday in Tempe Justice Court.

Alapa, a junior defensive end, and Edra, a defensive tackle, were dismissed from the team following a scuffle over a minor traffic accident on campus March 1. Alapa had been placed on disciplinary probation by the university trial board Dec. 12 for an alleged assault on a 21-year-old student.

Jonathan D. Muhovich, 18, an ASU freshman, and Brock A. Yadon, 17, testified that a motorcycle Alapa was driving struck Muhovich's car. When they confronted Alapa and Edra, the plaintiffs said they were pushed and struck.

Mets Edge Phils, 2-1

By The Associated Press
"I'm ecstatic!"

With those two words, Tom Seaver described his feelings after outlasting Steve Carlton as the New York Mets shaded Philadelphia 2-1 Tuesday in an opening-day clash of two of the National League's premier pitchers.

In the only other NL game, Atlanta blanked Houston 2-0. San Francisco at San Diego was rained out.

Seaver surrendered six hits, struck out nine batters and came up a winner because of two Met newcomers—Dave Kingman and Joe Torre. Kingman slugged a huge home run in the fourth inning and Torre drilled the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth.

But the main man on this blustery opening day was Seaver, who struggled to a sorry 11-11 season last year and is the pitcher on whom so much of Mets' hopes rest for 1975.

"I couldn't be happier," said the man called Tom Terrific. "I was strong all the way, throwing fairly hard with a good breaking ball. I didn't throw too many bad pitches."

The Phillies nicked him for a third-inning run on Dave Cash's double. But Kingman retrieved that run in the fourth, golfing a two-out, two-strike pitch far beyond the left field wall.

Felix Millan opened the Mets' ninth with a single—only New York's third hit and first since Kingman's king-sized homer. Then Carlton walked John Miller on four pitches and missed with his first two to Torre.

On the next pitch, Torre was swinging.

Robinson's Debut Is Successful

By The Associated Press
Frank Robinson has something no other manager, black or white, has... player Frank Robinson. And that's why Frank Robinson is the only manager in baseball, black or white, who has hit a home run this season.

"It was a great moment, but you had to wait till the end, till the game was over," Robinson said. "Now it's even more gratifying."

Robinson had several great moments Tuesday. The first came when Rachel Robinson, widow of the first black man to play in the major leagues, threw out the first ball and said she was "proud, proud, proud to be here." Then came career home run No. 575 in his first time at bat as a big league manager.

That started the Cleveland Indians to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees, which was great moment No. 3, especially since it was viewed by an excited home town crowd of 56,204.

Elsewhere in the American League, the world champion Oakland A's ripped the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Minnesota Twins crushed the Texas Rangers 11-4 and the Boston Red Sox downed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2. The Kansas City-Calgifornia game was rained out while the Baltimore-Detroit opener was postponed earlier by a snowstorm.

Robinson brought the large Cleveland crowd to its feet with his first-inning home run off New York's Doc Medich. The first player to greet him at home plate was winning pitcher Gaylord Perry, who has had a couple of publicized squabbles with Robinson.

"I wanted to let him know I was with him," said Perry, who scattered nine hits. "I was probably more happy for him than he was for himself."

"It's just, tremendous," Robinson said later as he contemplated the historic occasion. "I really can't explain how I feel. I've been a manager before, but this is where it's at. I couldn't think of any better way to start my new career. I was extremely pleased by the way we won. It was a team effort. The guys came from behind and played together and that's what you have to do to be successful."

Despite Robinson's dramatic homer, the Indians fell behind 3-1 in the second inning. But Boog Powell, Robinson's old Baltimore teammate, drove in two runs with a homer and double and Jack Brohamer drove in the other two with a sacrifice fly and a single. The sacrifice fly scored Powell, who opened the bottom of the second with a single.

Now Robinson can concentrate on being a manager rather than baseball's first black manager.

A's 2, White Sox 2
Vida Blue, taking over the opening game pitching assignment vacated by Catfish Hunter, allowed four hits in seven innings and center fielder Bill North cut down the tying run at the plate in the ninth as the world champion A's opened their season.

The A's took a 2-0 lead off Wilbur Wood in the second inning when Joe Rudi singled and designated hitter Billy Williams, in his first American League at-bat, doubled. The runners held as Wood retired the next two batters, but rookie second baseman Phil Garner singled them home. Oakland

Hank And The Kids

Professional baseball is a sport where there is eternal hope for the future and always the nagging pressure of the present. The Milwaukee Brewers probably fit that mold as good as any team in the national pastime, and it was evident at Cubs Stadium Sunday as the Brewers ended their spring exhibition season against the Chicago Cubs.

Although most feel that the Brewers are still a couple of years away from a pennant, Milwaukee is considered an American League East hopeful in 1975. They know they have the power to score runs and a better than adequate defense, but it is the old game of pitching where the Brewers cast doubtful glances.

Still, there is always that nagging pressure of the present to produce a winner, so Milwaukee went out and got Hank Aaron to bolster an already strong power hitting attack, a move that will benefit the Brewers at the gate as well as at the plate.

Just having the man that tore down one of the houses that Babe Ruth built is a plus. He can give confidence to the younger players, and as a designated hitter, he can keep his wobbly legs out of the outfield. And every team in the AL will benefit at the gate just by his being there.

"This team has a tremendous amount of talent," Aaron said Sunday. "I don't think this squad is too far away from winning a championship, and although I have set no goals for this season, I would like to help this team win. After all, Milwaukee is where it all began for me."

It's A Tough Life?

It is not difficult to see that the 41-year-old slugger doesn't have too many swings left in his productive bat, and it won't be long before the Brewers are left again with the youngsters, and there is definitely eternal hope for the future here.

Many claim that 19-year-old Robin Yount, who spent only two months in the minors, is the AL super star shortstop of the future.

Yount, despite a mysterious foot ailment last year which sidelined him for half of the season, showed enough in the field to keep those super star promoters yelling and his bat showed some promise.

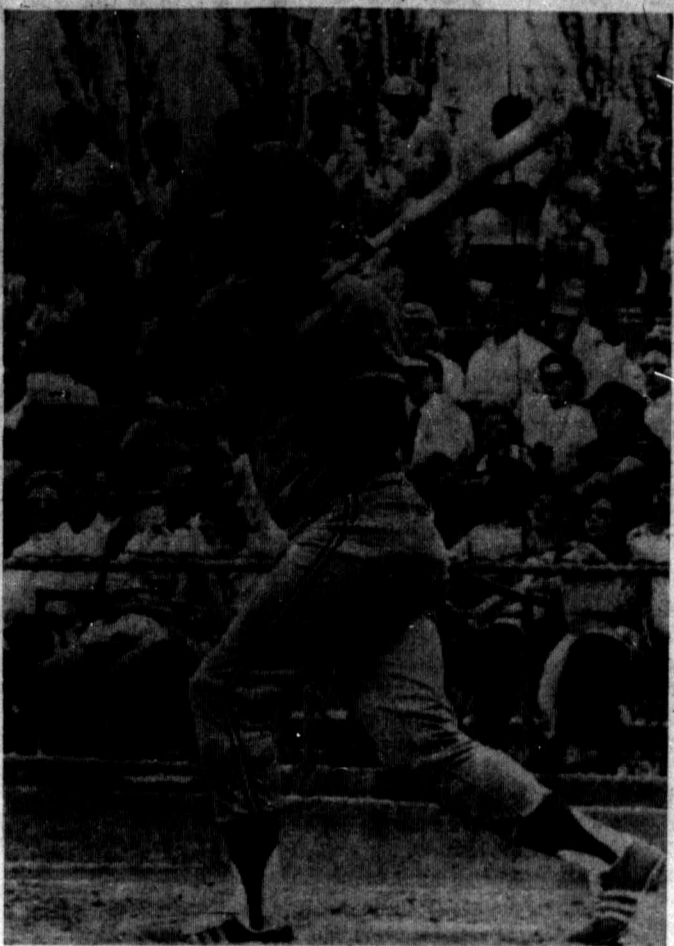

"I haven't had any trouble this spring with the foot," Yount said. "Nobody could ever figure out what was wrong with it last year. It just hurt all the time, but there seemed to be no reason for it."

"There is a lot less pressure on me this year. Last year reporters hounded me to death because I was an 18-year-old kid, who made the major leagues, and everybody was watching me closely. Now that Hank is with us, I've been able to stay in the background and it has really helped my concentration," Yount related.

One Brewer said of Yount, "He's our David Clyde that made it good. He's going to be super and I bet that Ranger is in the minors for a while."

Aaron is also impressed with Yount. "Just look at him out there. He can do it all at short. I'm old enough to be his father, and when I see him perform, I know I'm old enough to be his father."

Coin Flip To Decide Player Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks, courtesy of the New Orleans Jazz, and the Los Angeles Lakers, by virtue of their ineptitude, will flip a coin here today to determine who gets the No. 1 pick in this year's National Basketball Association draft of college players.

The flip usually matches the two teams with the worst season records in each conference. But the Hawks, who finished next-to-last in the East, gained the right to flip because of a trade last year with New Orleans for Pete Maravich. The expansionist Jazz wound up with the worst mark in the East, 23-59.

In the Maravich deal, the Hawks acquired New Orleans' No. 1 draft pick this year. The Lakers finished last in the West with a 30-52 record.

The winner of the flip is expected to choose David Thomp-

Auburn's Shug Jordan To Retire To Coach Tigers One More Season

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — With spring practice one week away, the Auburn Tigers today looked beyond the long bend of summer at a football season that won't be like any other. It will be Shug's last.

The gentlemanly Ralph "Shug" Jordan told his troops Tuesday that next season would be his 25th and final one as head coach of the War Eagles. He didn't have to tell them it would be the end of an era.

Shug, as he's warmly known to his friends, was turning over the reins of a Southern football powerhouse that ran most every fall with the best record and was indelibly marked by his tough but gracious, down-home manner.

The school's stadium, Jordan-Hare, bears his name. And for a quarter of a century he's been synonymous with Auburn success, inheriting an 0-10 team in his first year, 1951, but in short work directing winning campaigns in 21 of his 24 years.

Auburn staff. Particularly it was a blow to assistant coach Paul Davis, who previously was the head mentor at Mississippi State for five years.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't upset and disappointed," said Davis after the official announcement. "It was a rough blow, hard to take."

"I turned down some head jobs expecting to succeed Jordan when he retires," added Davis.

Jordan and Barfield both asked Davis to remain, but he said he hasn't yet decided. Barfield is a native of Alabama who played football for Southern Mississippi and joined the Auburn staff in 1972. Jordan said he was delighted that Barfield would be his heir apparent throughout the coming season and that there would be "continuity in the Auburn football family."

As for himself, said Jordan, "It's never easy to retire."

Foyt To Choose From Two Cars

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A. J. Foyt, the leader in the U.S. Auto Club's 1975 point standings, will get to choose from two Gilmore Racing Team cars entered for the 59th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race on May 25. The two Gilmore cars, Coyotes with turbocharged eight-cylinder Ford engines, were among six entries announced today. The field now stands at 19, with about 60 cars expected before the deadline of midnight April 15.

SPORTS SCRATCHPAD Lambert Would Like To See Gilliam Traded

Football
Jack Lambert, Pittsburgh Steeler linebacker, said he doesn't believe Pittsburgh is ready for a black quarterback. The former Kent State star told a Canton, Ohio, luncheon he would like to see Joe Gilliam "go to a team and a city where he could play I think he's a great quarterback, but I don't think the fans and the press in Pittsburgh were ready for a black quarterback."

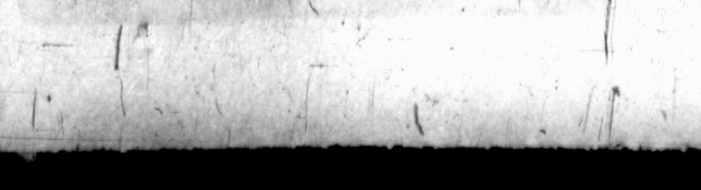

Basketball
Dennis Hodges, assistant of New Mexico, resigned today, saying he wants to complete work on a doctor of education degree and pursue a head coaching position. Leon Douglas, second team Alabama All-America, said he will remain with the Tide for his senior year instead of turning pro. "It is important to me to get my college degree, since that is why I came to school in the first place. It is important to my mother too."

Robinson— Youngsters Sparkle In NHL Playoffs

added the decisive run in the eighth on a walk to Sal Bando, a stolen base by pinch runner Herb Washington—who actually was picked off but beat the throw to second—and a double by Rudi.

The White Sox scored in the seventh on Ken Henderson's single, a walk and Bucky Dent's single. They got their second run off Rollie Fingers in the ninth on a single by Henderson and Melton's double. Pinch hitter Pat Kelly followed with a single but North threw out pinch runner Lee Richard trying to score.

Twins 11, Rangers 4
Designated hitter Tony Oliva's three-run homer capped a 1x-run Minnesota assault against 25-game winner Ferguson Jenkins in the first two innings. Larry Hisle's three-run homer in the ninth made it a thoroughly disappointing evening for the 28,787 fans, largest opening game crowd since the Rangers moved from Washington to Texas in 1972.

The Twins chased Jenkins in the second inning when Olivia crashed a towering 390-foot homer after Lyman Bostock and Hisle singled. Jenkins, a $175,000-a-year pitcher, lasted only 12-3 innings. He was tagged for six runs—five earned—on seven hits and also issued a pair of walks.

For some reason, openers aren't my cup of tea," he said. "I lost last year in the opener, too."

Red Sox 5, Brewers 2
Bob Montgomery doubled home two of Boston's three runs in the third inning and Tony Conigliaro made a triumphant return to the major leagues as the Red Sox spoiled the American League debut of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron.

Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, and Conigliaro, who was been hit in the eye by a pitch in 1967 and out of baseball the past 3½ years, received standing ovations. Aaron, the Brewers' designated hitter, walked, struck out and grounded out twice. Conigliaro, Boston's DH, helped set up a first-inning run with a hit-and-run single.

Aaron admitted he was "thinking home run all the way" when he came to bat with runners on second and third and one out in the eighth. "I had to. Our team was behind. I didn't expect a fast ball and I got one, high and inside. I was guessing slow curve." Aaron checked his swing and tapped weakly back to pitcher Luis Tiant.

Baseball
Texas Tech shortstop Ronnie Mattson and Houston golfer Keith Fergus share Southwest Conference athlete of the week. Mattson raised his batting average 109 points last week with a 19-for-13 spree... Baltimore farmed pitcher Dave Johnson, former Abilene Cooper hurler, to Rochester of the International League...

Golf
A shift in dates in the Tournament Players Championship and a radical change in the format for the World Series of Golf will give the pro tour a new look in 1976. The TPC will become the premiere event in the early season, moving to a date sometime before March 15 and the Series will move from a four player, 36 hole event to a 72-hole, 16 to 24 player event. Played at Firestone in Akron since it began, the Series may become a traveling championship.

Boxing
Muhammad Ali says he's fighting just for the money now, and sometimes he feels like a thief. "I admit it. It feels like stealing some times. I just made 1½ million dollars beating a nobody like Chuck Wepner. I'll make another million dollars beating another nobody like Ron Lyle. Sure, what I'm doing is a big ripoff, but I can't stop fighting while I'm making all this money.

People don't know this but almost 90 per cent of the money I make I turn over to the Muslim religion."

Godfather-II, Art Carney Star In Academy Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Carney, Ellen Burstyn and a movie about the Mafia were stars of the 47th Academy Awards. Francis Ford Coppola's "The Godfather, Part II" won top honors with six Oscars, including best picture. The sweep made the 36-year-old Coppola Hollywood's undisputed wunderkind, but Carney was the sentimental victor of the festivities.

"I'm numb, I'm happy, why should I be embarrassed - I'm Irish!" he exclaimed after his surprise win as best actor for playing a 72-year-old cross-country traveler with a cat in "Harry and Tonto."

Carney's win was a delight to the audience, which rose in tribute to the veteran television actor. It was his first starring role in a movie.

He said his agent urged him to do the role by saying, "Do it! You are old!" But backstage, Carney, 56, laughingly said, "I'm still a kid!"

Miss Burstyn, nominated twice before, finally won as best actress for her role as the errant housewife with ambitions as a singer in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

Robert De Niro, the young Mafia don of "Godfather-II" and Ingrid Bergman, one of the suspects in "Murder on the Orient Express," won as supporting performer in the 47th annual ceremonies at the Music Center.

It was also a "family" matter, did not claim their awards. Miss Bergman's father, Carmine, was there and she received a standing ovation from the audience.

"Amarcord," Federico Fellini's affectionate autobiographical film of prewar Italy, was named best foreign language film of the year.

Best song Oscar went to "We May Never Love Like This Again," from "The Towering Inferno." The disaster film also won for cinematography and editing.

The closest thing to controversy came when producer Bert Schneider accepted the award for best documentary feature for his film opposing the Vietnam War, "Hearts and Minds."

The producer read a telegram of friendship from the Viet Cong delegate to the Paris Peace talks.

Later in the program the Motion Picture Academy answered through emcee Frank Sinatra: "We are not responsible for any political references made on this program tonight and we are sorry they were made."

Series Of Spring Storms Is Weakening

By The Associated Press

Wind-blown snow spread from Montana to Minnesota today and showers and thunderstorms ranged from Nebraska to Kentucky as the latest in a series of spring storms weakened and plodded eastward.

Blizzard conditions ended in Montana, and all warnings involving the storm were dropped to advisories. Travelers or stockmen were alerted to possibly hazardous conditions in parts of Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The storm built the snow cover at Great Falls, Mont., to 24 inches, the deepest ever measured there. Some of the snow came from a previous storm, however. Dickinson, N.D., had 21 inches on the ground.

The North Dakota Highway Department was advising against travel in western and central sections of the state Tuesday because of slippery conditions and roads blocked with snow. Some roads that had been plowed open quickly drifted shut with wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour.

Spokesmen for cattlemen in North Dakota said the loss of newborn calves in the spring storms is expected to be the largest in state history. The toll a week ago, before the latest storm, was estimated at 10,000.

Sleet, fog and freezing drizzle plagued motorists in eastern

South Dakota. Snow was mixed with rain into northeastern Iowa.

A storm system in the Southwest scattered rain over Southern California and dumped snow on mountain areas east into Arizona. Three inches of snow sifted into Flagstaff, Ariz., Tuesday.

Thunderstorms roaming the South drenched parts of Texas with heavy rains Tuesday. Large hail accompanied a storm at Pensacola, Fla. Rainfall in the midcontinent storms generally was not heavy.

Dense fog and drizzle dampened much of the coastal region of Texas and Louisiana.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 10 at Butte, Mont., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage 33 snow, Atlanta 54 mostly clear, Boston 33 cloudy, Buffalo 28 clear, Chicago 37 cloudy, Cincinnati 40 partly cloudy, Cleveland 29 partly cloudy, Dallas 56 partly cloudy, Denver 28 clear, Detroit 30 partly cloudy, Honolulu 71 clear, Indianapolis 42 partly cloudy, Kansas City 44 clear, Los Angeles 50 rain, Louisville 48 cloudy, Miami 76 partly cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 35 cloudy, Nashville 55 partly cloudy, New York 34 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 35 clear, Phoenix 50 mostly clear, Pittsburgh 27 clear, St. Louis 49 cloudy, San Francisco 46 partly cloudy, Seattle 42 partly cloudy, Washington 45 mostly clear.

Special Jobless Aid Running Out For Chrysler Workers

DETROIT (AP) — Thousands of laid-off auto workers begin an uncertain financial struggle next week when the exhaustion of special jobless benefits cuts their unemployment pay by up to two thirds.

For Billie Hewlett, a laid-off Chrysler Corp. worker in Detroit, it means supporting herself and a child on $64 a week. For Harold Rands, an assembler with a wife and five teenagers in Poplar Grove, Ill., it means making ends meet on $18 a week.

Tap Turned Off

Chrysler will turn off the tap on its Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) fund Friday. Massive and prolonged layoffs have depleted the fund's cash reserves. When that happens, 33,400 laid-off production workers will lose between $30 and $110 a week.

SUB, when combined with regular unemployment compensation, was designed to provide eligible laid off workers with an average $170, or almost 95 per cent of their take home pay. But the fund was not created to handle layoffs of the magnitude forced by the current slump in the auto industry.

In addition to the expected personal hardship, the United Auto Workers expects the exhaustion of Chrysler's SUB fund to spell trouble for Detroit.

Largest Employer

Chrysler is the city's largest employer, and city officials estimate two-thirds of the 33,000 workers who will lose SUB live in the metropolitan area.

Dan Taylor, a labor analyst for the city, estimates depletion of the Chrysler fund will cost Detroit up to $1.9 million a week in disposable income.

"The biggest impact will be on the retail industry," he said. "The city could lose upwards of $40 million before SUB has any chance of starting up again. That could cost another 15,000 to 20,000 jobs. It's a bleak situation all around."

A spokesman for Mayor Coleman Young says, "It is obvious that the impact on wage earners and families is great. But we have 125,000 unemployed people in the city right now, and 100,000 of them never got any SUB."

The unemployment rate in Detroit is 23 per cent and still climbing.

Chrysler workers have been hardest hit by the auto sales slump, with as many as $4,000 of the firm's 114,000 production workers on layoffs at one time. Now the number is 42,200.

West Wall Street, between Garfield and A streets, is bound to be one of the most beautiful driveways in all of West Texas in a few years.

beautification, and they have tackled the job with an enthusiasm which has proven to be contagious.

"We envision Wall Street as a tree-lined boulevard in a few years, tying in with other green spots along the way and in the central business district," Knox said.

Now, however, a major beautification project is under way which really will improve its overall appearance.

The committee not only is dreaming dreams... it is striving diligently to make them a reality.

Midland is fortunate in having such a group of dedicated persons who are making things happen in the field of city beautification.

This is a project of the Visual Improvements Projects (VIP) Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, which already has completed several beautification assignments located mostly on the main thoroughfares leading to and through the city.

But the committee needs community-wide support, particularly financial. Its projects are financed by private contributions, which are being solicited.

Chairman Gordon Knox and his hard-working committee have one thing in mind — community

A round of applause and a snappy salute from a grateful community for a job well and nobly done is in order for the VIP Committee.

Yes, They Are, Roy!

Roy Dahl, executive director of the Midland County Chapter of the American Red Cross, says the American people have to be the kindest, most considerate and most compassionate to be found anywhere.

rests makes little if any difference when it comes to helping little ones.

Dahl explains that the Red Cross is not involved in placing the children, but that it is aiding in caring for and feeding them until they are placed in their new homes.

He said that since last Friday his telephone has been ringing, ringing and then ringing some more with Midland and area residents inquiring how they can go about adopting one of the South Vietnamese orphans who have been brought to America from their war-torn homeland.

What can interested persons do to help? They can make cash contributions which will help finance the program, Dahl said.

Culture Clash Said Evident In Japan

TOKYO — To learn where this terribly energetic, densely populated, creative nation is going, one inevitably must consider the trends in the culture and value system of Japan.

and has performed its economic "miracle" though void of natural resources and large nearby markets. But Japanese are only human and susceptible to the enormous shocks of industrialism, seeming prosperity and violence in thought and deed that accompanies these.

After being bombarded with and borrowing all manner of Western "items"—industrialism, mass media and education, contemporary music, even long hair and Levis — can it honestly be said that this is merely overlay, that the traditional Japanese culture, or "way," will absorb it all without profound change?

Already there is a changed attitude toward the venerated total "seniority" system in employment. Faced with low productivity and keen international competition, Japanese industry is now willing to lay off "aged" (over 57) workers, as Toshiba did recently, but giving them generous payments (65 per cent of salary).

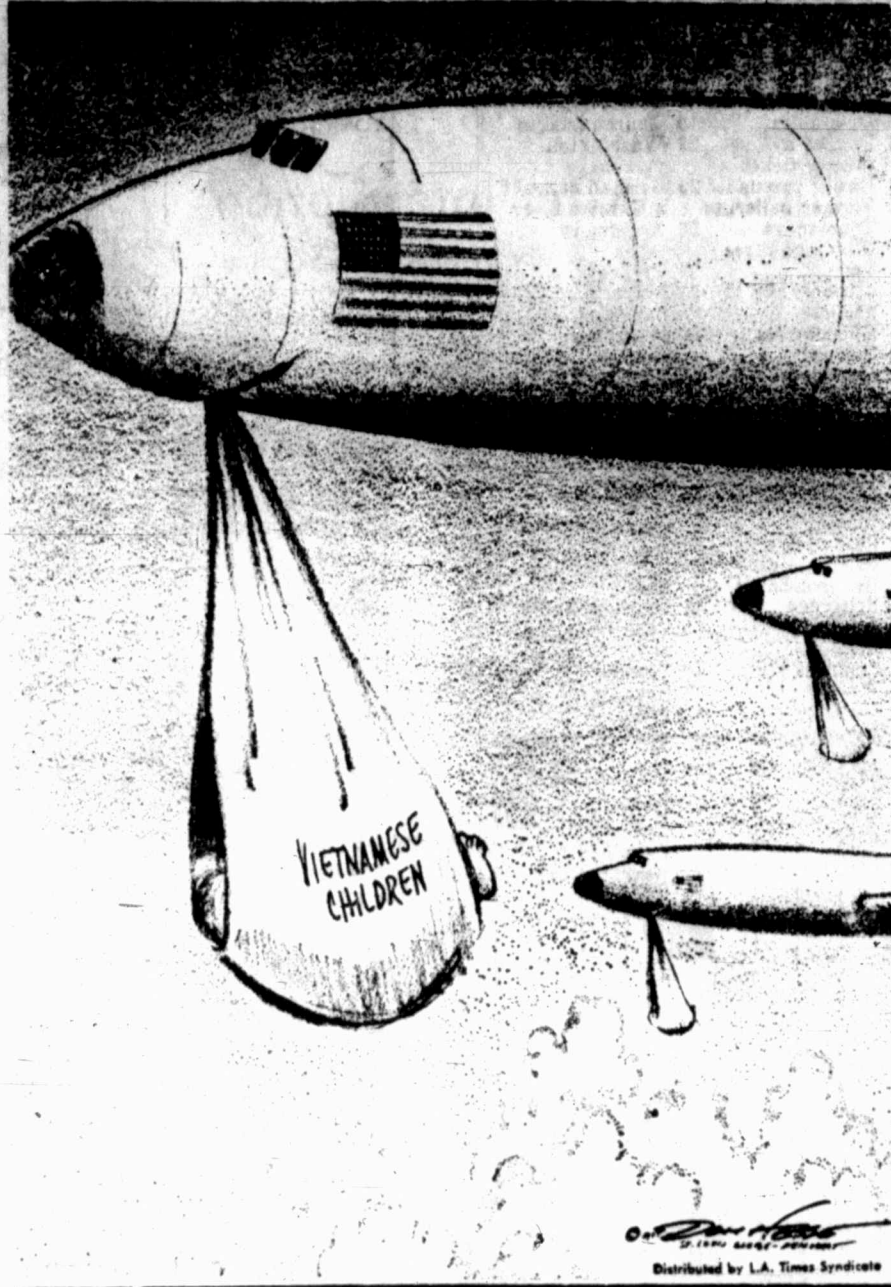

Briefly and too simply put, that culture is based on the notion of strong "family." This means not only the family a person is born into and is expected to live with and be loyal to even in adult life but the "family employer" the person chooses, usually for lifetime employment. The notion even extends into the realm of government.

So far, industry pays the bill for such layoffs, but it's clear that Japan will have to develop a much stronger social security system.

Very early in life, a Japanese learns and accepts identity with the group. Ultimately, this leads him to look to the group for decisions; with strangers to identify himself by his company rather than to first give his name; to wear business suits which look like subdued uniforms; to allow seniors to announce decisions and receive recognition for efforts of juniors; to feel deep shame not for sin but for failing the group, and to avoid individuality by ambiguity and extreme politeness.

At Toyota, for example, business grew so fast that a young man with average education found himself being groomed for management within five years. Even now, the average age of Toyota workers is 29. But the younger workers don't show that same high spirit of 10 or

INSIDE REPORT

The Vietnamese Collapse Explained

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The collapse in South Vietnam, so stunning and unexpected in both Washington and Hanoi, can be traced to disastrous interaction between President Nguyen Van Thieu's personality — authoritarian, stubborn but impulsive — with new military conditions.

Evans Novak

For the White House to cast all blame on congressional reduction of military aid is propagandistic overkill, privately admitted as such by expert administration analysts. Even farther from the truth are American doves, dancing on South Vietnam's grave and proclaiming "insurgent" victory in a "civil war" as proof of their own rectitude.

fantrymen, Saigon has had two equalizers the past decade. The primary equalizer: the threat of U.S. bombers devastating the North Vietnamese homeland, viewed with apprehension by the politburo in Hanoi so long as Richard M. Nixon was in the White House no matter what Congress prohibited. The secondary equalizer: superior firepower and mobility supplied the ARVN by Washington. Those equalizers became even more vital after Saigon was forced to sign the January 1973 ceasefire that provided no enforcement of Communist compliance.

Undeniable demoralization caused by diminished U.S. support cannot in itself explain crack units of the South Vietnamese army (ARVN) dissolving without firing a shot. Nor can this be rationalized as a Communist political triumph. Actually, fear of Communism helped produce panic that turned Thieu's attempts to cope with reduced military means into tragedy.

Communist capture three months ago of Phuoc Binh, then only the second provincial capital to fall in the second Indochinese war, exposed disintegration of the two equalizers — a transcendent development duly noted in both Hanoi and Saigon. Hanoiologists here believe the absence of U.S. reaction to Phuoc Binh's fall finally convinced the politburo that American bombers would menace the north no longer. That battle also brought home to Saigon the contrast between North Vietnamese regulars, splendidly supplied by Moscow and Peking, and the ARVN with no new equipment or spare parts received this fiscal year thanks to congressional cuts (which limited U.S. aid to fuel and ammunition).

Understanding of the collapse must begin with this bedrock reality: not even in their most euphoric stage have old Vietnam hands ever felt the ARVN could match the blend of discipline and fanaticism instilled into North Vietnamese troops by a police state.

Against the world's finest in-

Emboldened by Phuoc Binh, Hanoi last month struck at Ban Me Thuot. Loss of that remote provincial capital in the Central Highlands, while unimportant strategically, may rival Dien Bien Phu as seminal battles of Indochina because of its impact on the mind of Nguyen Van Thieu.

Against the world's finest in-

The 23rd ARVN division, a notoriously weak unit inexplicably unprepared for the assault, was cut to shreds. More important than the division's loss was inability to reinforce Ban Me Thuot, thanks to the shortage of C-130 transport planes. That dramatized for Thieu the dissolution of the secondary equalizer, leading him to his fateful decision to abandon the Central Highlands.

THE BIBLE

Can you quote it?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER

- 1. "Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow?" There are many difficult questions in Job 38. One wonders about the snow. Several years ago a magnified snowflake revealed beautiful designs, none were alike so artists began using these magnified designs to decorate trees and windows at Christmas. Snow also has been called "the poor farmer's fertilizer." What else is mentioned in Job 38:22?

It Happened Here—

Thirty-five Years Ago (Apr. 9, 1940) It was announced that V.G. Young, agricultural agent of Glasscock County, had been named Midland County agent to succeed S.A. Debnam, resigned.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce planned to send a motorcade of 150 or more cars to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Big Spring to support Midland's bid for the 1941 convention.

Curt Inman was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1940-41.

The Reporter-Telegram had installed new photo-engraving equipment.

Twenty-Five Years Ago (Apr. 9, 1950): M.C. Ulmer, Midland banker and civic leader, had been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the statewide Citizens Economic Committee.

R. B. Cowden of Midland, right imminent grand commander of Knights Templar of Texas, was to preside at the organization's annual conclave to be held at El Paso.

Newell Hughes was named Scoutmaster of the Terminal Boy Scout troop sponsored by the Terminal Lions Club.

A special program of music arranged by George Van Husen was presented at a meeting of Presbyterian Men of Midland in the First Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

It was here that Thieu's stubbornness had tragic consequences. Understandably bitter over reduced U.S. aid, he did not consult Washington. Without warning or planning, Thieu ordered unprepared generals to move south — immediately. Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, corps commander in the northern provinces and the ARVN's most esteemed officer, objected but had no chance to debate.

Military withdrawal without prior planning was unlikely to succeed. What doomed it was the flood of civilian refugees which began immediately. That these refugees moved toward, not away from, the fighting to escape the Communists contradicts the crowing of American doves such as former Sen. J. W. Fulbright and Dr. Daniel Ellsberg about the people's victory in a civil war.

But the refugees made resistance impossible, spread panic and despair and perhaps unwittingly insured Communist victory. The crack 1st ARVN division, which fought valiantly in many battles, is no more — dispersed ignominiously without being defeated. Much of the elite marine division has suffered a similar fate.

The tragedy in South Vietnam cannot be compared to the disintegration of Chiang Kai-shek's army a generation ago. Unlike China in 1949, there is neither massive defection to Hanoi of government troops nor joyous welcomes to the conquerors by happy villagers. Rather, the inevitability of Hanoi's fierce legions, firmly backed by their allies, triumphing over Saigon's less spartan forces, slowly abandoned by their great ally, has been grotesquely accelerated by the strange conduct of President Thieu, so marked by haste and anger.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Less Whitten

WASHINGTON — Incredibly, the Health, Education and Welfare Department has given away millions of dollars worth of government property to contractors without bothering to account for it.

In a series of hushed memos, HEW's Office of Education has owned up to the loss and is trying to cover it up before Congress discovers how much is missing.

Unfortunately for the cover-up effort, we have the memos. They tell how federal educators in 1971 and 1972 loaned millions upon millions of dollars worth of property — from desks to teaching aids — to organizations that received government grants.

By 1974, the loaned property had been gone for two years, and the Office of Education feared someone would ask where it all was. To their horror, they discovered they simply didn't know. Indeed, some of the groups that had borrowed property no longer existed.

To cover up this enormous loss, the Office of Education came up with a stunning plot. They would simply declare that the missing property no longer belonged to the taxpayers.

On Sept. 17, therefore, the federal educators asked Secretary Caspar Weinberger's office whether they could "treat federally-owned property in the possession of grantees the same as grantee-owned property."

Translated, this meant the educators wanted to write the missing property off the books. But Weinberger had been the government's chief budget officer before he moved over to HEW. He wasn't fooled, therefore, by this now-you-see-it, now-you-don't plot.

The confidential documents show that on Dec. 10 Weinberger's office ordered a search for the vanished property. Three months later, his aides came up with their dismal findings.

"Records on file are inadequate..." they reported. "Documents, estimated to number 15,000 representing millions of dollars... are 'bundled' by state and filed away." The automated systems that are supposed to keep track of government property "are inoperative," they added, "and current fiscal general ledger accounts do not exist for this property."

Worse, no one was doing anything at the Office of Education "to rectify this situation," they confided. Angriely, Weinberger's office demanded a full accounting from the Office of Education in six months. "Immediate action must be taken," directed the memo. "Urgency is occasioned by the fact that this situation has been existent for a prolonged period."

Justified as Weinberger's fury may be, our sources say a full accounting now is impossible. For he is trying to close the door, unhappily, after the furniture has disappeared. The small amount that can be retrieved, say our sources, may not be worth the trouble it will take to find it.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: From secret intelligence reports, here are a few fascinating glimpses behind the headlines:

— There has been no rejoicing in Peking, according to one report, over the North Vietnamese triumphs in Southeast Asia. Officially, the Chinese have congratulated their comrades in Hanoi. But unofficially, they are worried that North Vietnam may take over all Southeast Asia and establish itself as a rival power.

— Secret military estimates claim that Israel has recovered from its 1973 war losses and has built a military

Japan does not relish the adversary relationship as we do in our law and politics. Japan prefers consensus by group action and loves ambiguity.

There is fretting about culture clash, all right, but Japanese Senator Wataru Hiraizumi, for one, believes Japan's intense population pressure "will force us to return to tradition. We can't afford radical individualism."

Japan, by his reasoning, cannot expel its enormous energy through militarism, therefore, it must direct it constructively at home. A nation of 108 million people living on a small amount of flat land must maintain order and output to survive.

God help Japan, and all of us as well, if this bristling nation ever fell into a major depression.

Doctor Says Vietnam Orphans Have Unusual Need For Love

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The solemn children of war, tough and grasp and cling. They love to be held. They are suffering the "Orphans' Syndrome."

"So many of these children have the orphans' syndrome and suffer severe emotional deprivation. They have unusual needs for love," says Dr. Alex Stalcup, supervising physician of "Operation Babylift" here. Stalcup has watched nearly 900 Vietnamese children being processed at the Army's Presidio. They suffer from pneumonia and chicken pox, malnutrition, stomach worms and broken limbs. About 100 have been hospitalized.

But of all the privations of war, these children — called "Thuy" or "T-21" or even "No Name" — suffer most from the privations of heart.

"These babies and little children have a special way of grasping, reaching out and holding onto love," says Stalcup, chief resident at the University of California Medical Center here.

Even some older children were carried like babies off the buses that brought them here Tuesday from Travis Air Force Base. They stared and wrapped their thin arms and legs around volunteers.

"It's a fairly profound need and can't be satisfied by being patted on the head or dandled on a knee," Stalcup said.

"It's a fact that in order to grow, children need love, not just food and water," he said in an interview outside the gymnasium where the children are housed.

More than 250 more orphans, mostly infants, arrived Tuesday in the last major U.S. evacuation of orphans from Vietnam. They are being processed and observed and sent across the nation for adoption.

Stalcup says children suffering "orphans' syndrome" appear "sad, depressed and uncommunicative. Their emotional tone is very subdued. When they get messed up, they get very excited. They form really intense emotional attachments. Referring to the "orphan syndrome," he said: "I think 'They love to be held. They're getting a glimpse into the effects of war and widespread social disorder on children.'

LOVE CONQUERS NIGHTMARES — A guardian parent holding Tran Thi Het, a Vietnamese child made famous by an AP picture showing her in a cardboard box, says nightmares should be expected from such children. Treat the problem with "lots of love," says Evie H., the foster mother who asked not to be identified. The three-year-old, now called Nhan, still has some medical problems but is much improved. Evie H. hopes to adopt the youngster. They are shown in the Houston suburb where the child now lives. (AP Wirephoto.)

Sen. Tower Says President Will Have To Be Persuasive To Get Viet Funds

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John G. Tower says President Ford will have to be "extremely persuasive" to get Congress to approve emergency military aid funds for South Vietnam.

The Texas Republican is chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and a principal backer of administration foreign policy. He spoke to newsmen as Congress awaited recommendations from President Ford to a joint session of Congress Thursday night. Ford canceled his Tuesday night plans to attend a musical performance in order to work on his speech, which is expected to give the administration's views of what, if anything, the United States should do in Indochina.

New Demands Made As new demands were made that the administration reveal any secret agreements between the United States and Vietnam, administration officials told Senate and House committees Tuesday the President's decision on a U.S. plan of action will follow discussions today by the National Security Council. State Department sources reported that Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Army chief of staff, has recommended that the President ask Congress for $500 million in immediate additional military aid for South Vietnam. The amount is $200 million more than requested by President Ford in January before the start of the North Vietnamese offensive and the withdrawal of South Vietnamese forces from all but the southern one-third of their country.

Administration sources expressed doubt that Ford will pass the $500-million proposal on to Congress in view of strong opposition which already has deferred action on a prior administration request for $300 million in additional aid. The United States already has provided $700 million in aid to South Vietnam in the current fiscal year.

Last Of Money Spent Pentagon sources reported that the last of the $700 million now has been spent and that no additional money is currently available. Estimates of the amount of U.S. equipment lost by the South Vietnamese during their retreat ranges as high as $1 billion, though the Long Island newspaper Newsday reported Tuesday that the General Accounting Office set the loss at some $200 million. In another development, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he will call administration officials before one of his subcommittees if the officials fail to make public what Jackson said were secret agreements between the United States and South Vietnam.

Jackson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said his information on the alleged secret agreements comes from "the best of authority." He said President Ford only recently found out about the pacts. Unaware Of Agreements State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said, "I am unaware of any secret agreements." However, he said he had not checked with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger about Jackson's claims. The White House had no immediate comment on Jackson's statement.

'Liquidation' Process Launched In Conquered South Vietnam Areas

By WILLIAM L. RYAN A Soviet press account of activities in the newly conquered territory of South Vietnam indicates that the familiar old Communist process of "liquidation" has been launched again.

Soviet newspapers, which have been giving generous coverage to events in Indochina, reported a few days ago in a despatch from Hanoi that the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) has adopted a "10-point program" for the conquered three-fourths of South Vietnam.

This program, a Pravda commentator noted in a separate article, is designed to achieve "swift restoration of normal life and liquidation of the remnants of the ruling clique," meaning all those who had served the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

A good many more than a ruling few are affected. The PRG's first of the 10 points promises complete liquidation of all the administrative apparatus, armed forces and organizations "of the puppet regime" and vows to establish "in the shortest time, organs of revolutionary power at all levels."

Bloodbath Seen Much depends on how the word "liquidation" is meant. In the past it has meant bloodbath in the name of "normalization," long a favorite Communist word.

Many in Vietnam will recall the days after the French were driven out and the late Ho Chi Minh was consolidating his hold in what he called the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, or North Vietnam. In short, the regime was bent on "normalization." The purge instrument was a "land reform" program of forced collectivization that exterminated "landlords." The late Bernard Fall, a Vietnam authority, estimated that 50,000 peasants died and 100,000 more were punished in a purge so brutal it caused a peasant uprising in Ho's own home province, Nghe An, in November 1956.
