Americans Evacuate Cambodia

Armed Forces Leader Head Of Government

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — Cambodia's armed forces chief announced Saturday night he has taken over the leadership of the government in the midst of political turmoil left by the flight of the nation's acting president in an American evacuation airlift. Rebel forces were reported pressing in on Phnom Penh and the new leader vowed to fight them off.

At the end of a day that began with the arrival of United States Marines to escort 276 departing Americans, Cambodians and other foreigners, Gen. Sak Suthsakhan said in a radio broadcast that he was taking over the leadership, as the head of a committee of military men and civilians, with the sanction of the National Assembly, Cambodia's chief legislative body.

Airlift Of Aid Resumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon resumed the U.S. airlift of ammunition, fuel and rice to Cambodia Saturday after a strong appeal from U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean.

Earlier, Premier Long Boret said that he had asked the National Assembly to turn power over to the military for three months. At the same time he assailed Acting President Sau Kham Khoy for leaving without addressing the nation. He called this a lack of leadership. The National Assembly voted in special session to suspend its activities for a three-month period.

Kent Resigns Council Post

Jim Kent, city councilman for Place 2, submitted his resignation from the council Saturday in an open letter to the citizens and voters of Midland.

Kent said in the letter of resignation, "After considerable self-deliberation and soul searching, I have found it necessary to submit to our mayor on April 12 my resignation from Place 2 of the Midland City Council effective May 1, 1975.

Kent said his resignation was necessitated by "recent business and personal considerations that most likely would preclude my ability to give the kind of dedication and commitment the office deserves."

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. was on a business trip at Tucumcari, N.M., at the time of Kent's notice of resignation. During a telephone interview, the mayor said, "Mr. Kent called me here today and told me of his resignation from the council. It came as a complete surprise to me. I had no previous indications that he was planning to resign."

The mayor said he was personally "disappointed" in Kent's sudden resignation. He said, however, "I think he has given it quite a bit of thought."

Angelo said, "Kent has been an excellent councilman, and I have looked forward to his continued service. He told me that business and personal obligations would hinder his effectiveness in office. I'm sure Jim regrets having to resign."

Kent was elected for a second term on April 1. He ran unopposed and received more than 1,600 votes in the election which drew only 2,292 voters.

Kent's new term was to begin May 1. It apparently will now be up to the remaining members of the council to appoint someone to fill the vacancy left with the councilman's resignation.

Joe Nuessle, city attorney, said Saturday it was his opinion that the council's remaining members should appoint someone to fill the vacancy by a majority vote.

Nuessle said the city charter did not carry a provision for a special election to fill the vacancy.

Some States Borrowing To Pay Jobless Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several states and Puerto Rico have now been forced to borrow from the federal government to pay unemployment insurance benefits. Government officials say trust funds in several other states are nearly depleted.

The growing lines at unemployment offices are costing the states millions of dollars in extra benefits for the jobless and are putting the federal-state unemployment compensation system to the most severe test of its 40-year history.

Michigan, Massachusetts and Puerto Rico joined five other states already borrowing federal funds in order to meet their unemployment insurance obligations in April.

Since January, the government has loaned $491 million. Labor Department officials estimate the government will have to advance the states from $850 million to $2 billion more this year.

Loan requests in April came from Connecticut for $19 million, making a total of $106 million it has borrowed for payments so far this year; Vermont, $3.4 million, total of $12.2 million; Rhode Island, $13.3 million, total of $30.4 million; Washington, $17.3 million, total of $42.4 million; New Jersey, $70 million, total of $235.1 million.

The first-time loans for Michigan were for $30 million; Massachusetts, $25 million, and Puerto Rico $10 million.

The special fund which provides this money, the Federal Unemployment Account, has been drained to its lowest level in years — $53.8 billion.

The House Appropriations Committee approved last week the Ford administration's request for $2 billion more.

Texas Has April Snow Yet

April showers? You've heard of them. How about April snow in Texas in mid-month?

Unlikely as it seems, that's what happened Saturday to portions of the South Plains and Panhandle.

It wasn't any really big deal because the snow was mixed with rain and no one really expected to be snowed in.

By noon Saturday, low clouds, drizzle and fog persisted west of a line from Childress to Del Rio. Light showers were scattered across West and Central Texas at that time.

Forecast was for rain and showers to spread across most of the state by Sunday. The precipitation will end from the west today and tonight.

Temperatures will remain on the chilly side almost everywhere. The Associated Press reported.

The Tall City measured .06 inch of rain Saturday and weathermen are predicting a 20 inch of rain Saturday and Sunday.

Houston Police Wiretap Case May Soon Boil Over Into Halls Of Congress

By PAUL RECER
HOUSTON (AP) — The simmering controversy over Houston police wiretapping, which already has bubbled into courtrooms and grand jury chambers, may soon boil over into the halls of Congress.

Investigators from two congressional committees have visited Houston and one said he intends to return to gather more information. Based on his findings, he said, a House Judiciary subcommittee may start full-scale investigations.

Of particular interest is the alleged cooperation between Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and lawmen in developing so-called "criminal intelligence" files on persons actually not suspected of crimes.

Existence of a large number of police files on non-criminals was revealed this year and renewed in prison, principally on a $55 million lawsuit drug-related charges, because filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, an attorney and a former school board trustee.

According to other information, illegal wiretapping was used almost routinely for years by some members of the Houston police department. It, said one source, "became a way of life," a police tool almost as common as pistols and patrol cars.

Wiretapping was so blatant, according to sources, that it was discussed openly in some police divisions and its existence was well-known to many federal and state law enforcement agents who, in some cases, made use of the information.

One source said that there are literally hundreds of persons

Crime Rate Taking Toll On City Police

By BUDDY BAKER
 "This is Officer Connally, police department."
 "Hello, I've had an armed robbery down here in number 11 and they took a boy's money."
 "Number 11 where?"
 "Sun Valley Motel. I've had an armed robbery down here and they're getting away."
 "What did the subjects look like?"
 "Well, I don't know. I work this joint."
 "Which way did they go?"
 "One of them said they took off going east, around them joints down there somewhere."
 This conversation was taken from a recorded report of an armed robbery phoned into the Midland Police Department recently. Reports such as these are becoming almost commonplace as the crime rate steadily increases in the city.

The increase has been drastic enough for Police Chief Harold Wallace to almost cry "Uncle" as the criminal's literal arm-bending begins to take its toll on his department.

"We've reached the saturation point where we're not keeping up with the calls," he said. "We're having to neglect some of them." However, "we're not culling them—yet."

"We ought to have at least two more detectives right now," Chief Wallace said. The 13 detectives now on the force "are pretty well exhausted. They're working overtime," but "we're not paying them overtime."

Last year, Chief Wallace said, crime in Midland increased 39.48 per cent. If the increase for the first two months of this year continues unabated, he said, Midlanders should expect a year-end increase of about 40 per cent again.

The chief attributed part of the inflated statistics in crime to "better reporting, better records being kept" and to "involvement of the public in calling in more offenses than ever before."

The police department has "been stressing for several years now for people to call in all offenses," he said. "We've also been teaching and stressing better records for the past 10 years."

As crime has gone up, Chief Wallace said, the number of cases each detective works has increased correspondingly. Caseload per man, he said, has increased from 151 in 1970 to a projected 296 for this year, with only three detectives being added to the division during that period.

"I think our equipment is adequate," he said. "Where we are hurting the most is in the detective division."

Capt. Sid Corley, head of detectives, Chief Wallace said, is "keeping a record of their compensatory time and giving them time off." A detective See CRIME, Page 2A

Emergency Montana Haylift Probably Too Late For Many Calves Trapped In Blizzard

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — An emergency haylift to snow-stranded cattle in north-central Montana may have come too late for as many as 33,000 newborn calves trapped by a raging three-day blizzard. "There's no doubt there's going to be heavy losses," said Leo Kolstad, regional chairman of U.S. Department of Agriculture's emergency board. Kolstad inspected some blizzard-stricken areas Friday, then called superiors in Washington, D.C., and requested broad discretionary authority to designate as many as nine counties as disaster livestock feed areas.

"The state's in a very critical position as far as adequate supply of feed for cattle," Kolstad said. "The most serious problem is ranchers who can't get out to check and don't know." Gov. Thomas L. Judge declared a state of emergency on Thursday as the storm subsided and ordered nine Army National Guard helicopters to begin a 46-hour airlift of hay and oats to livestock trapped in outlying pastures. A full-grown cow consumes 30 pounds of feed per day. Most stockmen provide supplemental

Nebraska Judge Enjoins New Beef Grading Rules

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge here has issued a temporary injunction that he says halts the implementation of new nationwide beef grading standards that were vigorously opposed by consumer groups.

Judge Robert Denney said the proposed standards would mean that "all grading stamps will be cut off meat before it is sold at retail. The retail customer will therefore be left unprotected by federal grading."

The standards also would lower the amount of marbling required for cattle between the ages of 12 months and 30 months old. Current standards require more marbling for meat from cattle in this age group to qualify as choice than for cattle less than 12 months old.

Marbling, which increases as cattle are fed more grain, is the flecks of fat throughout meat. The more marbling, the more tender the meat.

Cattlemen, with notable exceptions, have generally favored the proposal because it would allow them to feed less grain to cattle and yet maintain the choice grade.

acre grazing range near Harlowton in central Montana was totally inaccessible. He expressed optimism that plow crews could break open some access roads before Monday. Glacier, Liberty and Toole counties in the north were declared disaster feed areas last fall due to drought conditions, and those counties will continue to be eligible for free delivery of federal low-cost feed until May 31, Kolstad said.

He said he may recommend disaster designation for six other counties after examining field reports from other USDA officials. It was the fourth major storm since the first day of spring, March 21, and stockmen in this heavily agricultural state already have reported widespread outbreaks of pneumonia and intestinal flu among their herds.

A rancher in the northern Montana town of Galata reported he was unable to spot any of his estimated 900 cattle Thursday night after searching broad areas by bulldozer. Kolstad said his office had received reports that a 250,000-

And the U.S. Agriculture Department says the change won't really make any difference in cost or taste to consumers because studies have shown there is no relationship between age and tenderness up to 30 months of age. Cattle more than 30 months old would still be required to have more marbling to qualify as choice grade.

Denney said his order will take effect unless he is overruled this weekend by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of appeals.

However, an Agriculture Department spokesman said he was not certain whether the injunction would apply nationwide. "It might just apply to Nebraska because it was not brought as a class action suit," he said, adding officials would meet today to discuss it.

Denney issued the temporary injunction Friday in response to a request by the Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha, which named Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz as defendant.

Lon Nol Arrives On American Soil

HONOLULU (AP) — Cambodian President Lon Nol has received a quick medical checkup at Tripler Army Medical Center and plans to enter the hospital for tests and treatment Monday.

The 61-year-old Cambodian leader, who suffered partial paralysis following a stroke in 1971, arrived here from the Indonesian island of Bali late Thursday and conferred Friday with Dr. Edward J. Kamin.

Lon Nol left the besieged capital of Phnom Penh April 1 and spent 10 days on Bali before flying to Hawaii. He and his family arrived at Hickam Air Force Base aboard a special U.S. Air Force C135 jet, following the seven-hour flight from Guam.

Houston Hotel Fire Kills Man

HOUSTON (AP) — A downtown hotel fire left one man dead and two others injured late Friday night.

A fire department spokesman said the blaze damaged three floors of the 12-story Montague Hotel. He said fire, of undetermined origin, apparently started on that floor.

The spokesman said the dead man was found on the 10th floor. Neither the dead man nor a man and a woman who were treated for smoke inhalation were identified.

Paul Carr, public information officer for the fire department, said there appeared to be heavy fire damage to the 9th and 10th floors and heavy smoke damage to the 8th.

Carr said the fire was tapped out less than an hour after the department received its first report.

Ford Decides He'll Veto Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has decided to veto pending farm aid legislation that the administration contends would push up consumer prices for dairy products, congressional and White House sources say.

Chairman Thomas S. Foley of the House Agriculture Committee and others said Friday that White House legislative aides were informing members of a Senate-House conference committee on the bill that a presidential veto is inevitable.

The conference panel, which will try to compromise differing versions of farm aid passed by the Senate and House, will not hold its first meeting until Monday.

"I am surprised as well as deeply disappointed to learn of this reported decision by the President because I believe we acted in moderation and responsibility in consideration and passage of this bill," Foley, D-Wash., said in a statement.

In deciding on a veto, Ford has taken the advice of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who has advocated a veto for weeks.

Butz and other administration officials said the legislation would raise the retail price of milk by 8 cents a gallon, cheese by 10 cents a pound and butter by 20 cents a pound within a year because of higher price supports for dairy products.

In this issue, Butz finds himself in an unusual alliance with consumer-oriented members of Congress representing urban constituencies. They contend the over-all cost to taxpayers and consumers would range from $400 million to more than $4 billion.

The legislation would raise from 80 to 85 per cent of parity the price support level of dairy products and also boost the price that the government guarantees farmers will receive for grain and cotton. Cotton already is selling near the price at which the government would make payments to growers.

Parity is defined at the point at which the price a farmer receives for his product equals the cost of producing it plus a reasonable profit.

In general, the Senate-passed version provides more generous support levels than does the House version. The Senate, but not the House, voted to increase supports for tobacco growers and to place a temporary ban on the importation of foreign-bred beef in an attempt to improve prices for the U.S. livestock industry.

Supporters of the legislation say it is needed to protect rural America during the nation's current difficulties and to encourage farm production. A high Agriculture Department official said earlier this week that a veto by Ford was considered politically safe in the farm belt 18 months before the next presidential election. "Nobody will remember as long as farm income is good next year," he said.

Butz and Ford discussed the issue at a White House meeting Friday, and conferees were formed privately of the veto decision afterward, sources said.

Pullout From Cambodia Sure To Hurt Saigon Morale

By PETER ARNETT
(An AP News Analyst)
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The complete American withdrawal from Cambodia Saturday will have little tactical or strategic impact on the war in South Vietnam, according to informed observers in Saigon.

But it is certain to strike a psychological blow to the South Vietnamese, whose own demoralized forces have given up three-quarters of their country to Communist-led forces from the north.

The hurried American departure from Phnom Penh might mean the quick collapse of the capital city to Communist-led forces, but the South Vietnamese high command wrote off Cambodia years ago.

The eastern Cambodian provinces adjoining Vietnam have been Communist base areas for years.

While the neighboring governments of Saigon and Phnom Penh had some things in common — United States as arms and cash supplier, Communist-led forces as the enemy — they shared little else. Experiments in military cooperation failed in the early 1970s, and animosity between the two governments developed, particularly over the treatment of each other's nationals.

Hundreds of Vietnamese were slaughtered in village pogroms in Cambodia in 1970. Cambodians living in Vietnam's Mekong Delta provinces charged repression.

Saigon did aid the Cambodian war effort by assisting supply convoys moving up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh, but this ended early in the year when insurgents effectively blocked the river.

Just as the South Vietnamese were unwilling to give much assistance to the Cambodians, so equally were the North Vietnamese reluctant to assist the insurgents.

North Vietnamese advisers were known to be with insurgent units, but the Vietnamese Communists rarely engaged directly in the war, letting the poorly trained insurgents struggle year after year to squeeze Phnom Penh, always to fall short of the mark — until this year.

The North Vietnamese were also niggardly with supplies. While their own units sported sophisticated howitzers and long range rockets, the Cambodian insurgents were provided only with old-fashioned 107mm rockets.

They had to rely on captured 105mm howitzers for the final siege of Phnom Penh. For these reasons, the fall of Phnom Penh to the Communist side — and with it the whole country — will have little tactical or strategic impact on the war in South Vietnam.

There are important psychological factors, however. The first is an outgrowth of the U.S. decision to pull all its embassy staff out of Phnom Penh, signaling the complete abandonment of the Cambodian government.

The final evacuation plan was referred to as "pulling the pin," a reference to the devastating impact of such a final pullout on the morale of the defenders.

U.S. Marines are standing off the South Vietnamese coast with the avowed purpose of evacuating Americans should the situation in Saigon be viewed as critical.

The South Vietnamese government is likely to be asking itself, when will the U.S. "pull the pin" in Saigon, which will presumably be a similar signal of abandonment?

The American pullout in Phnom Penh seemed to have been based more on a recognition of the inevitability of military defeat, rather than an immediate military crisis. Such thinking could mean the departure of all Americans from Saigon much earlier than the apparent military situation would seem to warrant.

Another psychological minus is the detrimental impact on the people of South Vietnam by the loss of Cambodia to the Communist side, another in a chain of defeats that began with the rout in South Vietnam's central highlands five weeks ago.

It is hardly calculated to restore confidence in Saigon.

Swift Offers To Pay American Beef $18 Million For Big Plant At Dumas

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Swift Fresh Meats Co. of Chicago has offered $18 million for the Dumas, Tex., packing plant of financially-troubled American Beef Packers (ABP).

President Frank West of ABP announced Friday the offer for the ultramodern, $23-million slaughter plant. The plant's construction costs ran well over estimates, and although functioning, it has not yet achieved its aim of processing meat from slaughter to the packaged product in supermarket freezers.

If the sale is completed it would go far toward easing the problems of the Omaha-based company.

President John A. Copeland of Swift Fresh Meats said the agreement is "subject to development of a definitive contract by Friday."

Earl Vickers, former head of slaughter and a number of clearances, including the U.S. Justice Department. In addition, the transaction will need the approval of a court where the American Beef bankruptcy suit is being heard.

Copeland said the tentative timetable calls for Swift to consummate the transaction by May 31.

ABP filed for relief and reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal Bankruptcy Act in early January. The firm listed debts of $121 million and assets of $131 million.

Among the estimated 8,000 creditors are livestock raisers who sold animals to ABP and were paid with insufficient funds checks. These total an estimated $25 million.

ABP officials filed the limited bankruptcy petition with intentions of continuing operations. Federal Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford of Omaha initially granted the authorization to continue production, but ABP's largest secured creditor, General Electric Credit Corp. (GEC), obtained an injunction to stop work.

Swift Fresh Meats is the largest division of Swift and Co. GECC, and managed to reopen its Oakland, Iowa, plant. In addition, the ABP plant at Fort Morgan, Colo., was opened for a short time.

West has been negotiating the sale of ABP assets to pay debts and resume full-scale operations on a reduced basis. About one month ago, ABP sold its feedlot at Minature, Neb., to Premier Corp., Fowlerville, Mich., for nearly $9 million.

Negotiations are also under way to sell Roberts Dairy of Omaha. The Dumas plant, the largest of its kind in the world, is ABP's biggest and newest asset, and the proceeds from the sale will go a long way in satisfying creditors.

At full capacity, the Dumas plant can slaughter 10,000 head of cattle per week and employs about 800 workers.

Swift Fresh Meats is the largest division of Swift and Co.

Southeast Texas Plant To Produce Uranium

GEORGE WEST, Tex. (AP) — A uranium operation that uses leaching in position—a chemical process that bypasses conventional mining—has started near the South Texas community, Atlantic Richfield Co. reported Saturday.

The plant cost $7 million and is believed the only commercial uranium mining operation using the in situ leaching process, a company spokesman said.

The plant has the capacity for annual production of 250,000 pounds of "yellowcake," a material containing uranium oxide which ultimately becomes fuel rods for nuclear electric power plants.

Atlantic Richfield holds a 50 per cent interest in the project and will be operator for the other participants, United States Steel and Dalco, a subsidiary of Sabine Royalty, each holding a 25 per cent interest.

The process was developed as a joint venture of U.S. Steel and Dalco. The uranium oxide material is extracted by injecting chemically treated water through wells drilled into uranium deposits, a spokesman said. Dissolved uranium is carried back in the water solution to the plant for processing and recovery of yellowcake.

This operation has minimum disturbance to the ground surface, in contrast to conventional mining methods.

About 45 persons operate the facility, backed by a staff of engineers, geologists and others from Atlantic Richfield's Corpus Christi office.

Former Nixon Tax Lawyer Asks Trial Shift To California

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for Frank DeMarco Jr., former tax lawyer for Richard M. Nixon, have asked in court papers that DeMarco's conspiracy trial be moved to Southern California to facilitate Nixon's testimony in the trial.

In the papers filed Friday, the lawyers said the former president would be the central defense witness in the case — the "prince of the drama."

DeMarco, 49, was indicted with tax appraiser Ralph Newman last February on charges of conspiring to defraud the government in listing a $576,000 tax deduction for Nixon's presidential papers on Nixon's tax returns.

"The single most important — indeed, crucial — witness for the defense in this case is Richard M. Nixon, the taxpayer whose 1969, 1970, 1971 and 1972 income tax returns were the subject of the various investigations set forth in (DeMarco's) indictment," lawyers Edward P. Morgan and Charles A. McNeis said.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch took no immediate action on DeMarco's motion. Newman has requested that he be tried separately in Chicago, where he lives.

Man Dies After Being Shot By Midland Police Officer

A 24-year-old Midland man died early Saturday morning following emergency surgery after being shot by a police officer Friday.

Dead is Stanley Wayne Sheppard of 911 W. College St. Sheppard was shot once in the abdomen with a .38 caliber service revolver used by the patrolman. He died at Midland Memorial Hospital shortly before 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

Patrolman Robert Beggs said he was dispatched to the Sheppard home Friday afternoon to investigate a disturbance call.

Beggs said he saw Sheppard dragging a woman later identified as Sherilyn Lott Clifton, 20, across the street. Beggs said Sheppard had the woman by the hair and was holding a knife to her throat.

When Sheppard spotted the police car, Beggs said, he dragged the woman inside a fence surrounding the front yard of the home and slammed the gate.

Beggs said he shouted for Sheppard to stop and identified himself as a police officer. The officer then kicked the gate open.

Detective Earl Luckey said Beggs wrote in his report that after he had kicked the gate open Sheppard lunged at him with the knife at close range. Luckey said the officer had drawn his service weapon and fired once, hitting Sheppard in the abdomen.

Luckey said the patrolman acted in the line of duty by "taking deadly force in defense of a person."

It was the second time this year that a Midland police officer has shot and killed a person while answering investigation calls. The previous incident occurred in February when two policemen were involved in a shootout in the attic of a northeast Midland home.

Officer Larry Bledsoe was seriously injured by a gunshot in the February incident. Bledsoe was returned to outside duty only Friday.

Friday, witnesses told police they saw the woman run into the front area of the home at 911 W. College St. while being pursued by Sheppard.

Employees at a small food store immediately to the north and across the street from the Sheppard home said the man and woman struggled with each other as they moved toward the store.

The witnesses said the man and woman were having a rough fight, and by the time they reached the store front Sheppard and the woman bumped into the glass door, breaking it out.

The woman broke loose, witnesses said, and ran up the street but Sheppard pursued and caught up with her. He grabbed her by the hair and started dragging her back toward the house, the witnesses said.

The store employees said they called police headquarters and told a woman there of the emergency. The store employees said the woman wanted several details of the incident and information as to who was making the call. The employees said, "They asked if we were sober even."

Police said four separate calls were received at the station concerning the incident.

Police said the first call came in from a woman at 3:59 p.m. Beggs radioed in at the scene at 4:04 p.m.

The woman was treated at the hospital for a cut on her left arm. She was released.

Police said a fold-over hunting knife was recovered at the scene. The knife had blood on it, police said.

Sheppard was wearing an unsnapped black leather knife shield on his belt at the time of the incident, police said.

Police Chief Harold Wallace said officer Beggs will continue to work on patrol. Wallace said the patrolman will be assigned to a two-man unit for the time being.

Services for Sheppard will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Alamo Heights Baptist Church with the Rev. Bruce McNair officiating. Interment will be at Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Ellis Funeral Chapel.

Sheppard was born Sept. 5, 1950 at San Angelo. He attended public school here, and worked for a Midland landscaping firm at the time of his death.

Survivors include the mother, Mrs. Janie Sheppard of Midland; a grandmother, Mrs. Johnny Ruth of Robert Lee and a grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Woodall of Midland.

BIGGEST DOG IN TOWN - At least that's what the judges figured when they selected this 2-year-old Saint Bernard by the gentle name of Ginger as the largest dog in the pet show here Saturday. With Ginger is 7-year-old Leon Madrid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elisardo Madrid, 5101 Andrews Hwy. Another Ginger, much lighter than this 160-pounder, won the grand champion dog title.

Birthday Gift Named Pet Show Grand Champion Dog

What was Jeffrey's birthday gift turned out to be Karen's prize.

The prize came in Ginger, the 1-year-old, 2-hand tall mixed-breed dog shown by 11-year-old Karen Price at Saturday's Pet Show.

Jeffrey is her 7-year-old brother.

"She's a good hound," commented Karen after Ginger was declared the grand champion dog among the 63-canine entries at the Midland County Exhibit Building.

The show was sponsored by the Midland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) and by the First National Bank of Midland.

Ginger came into the Price family last May when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price of 2503 Cimmaron Dr. selected a 10-week-old puppy at the Midland SPCA animal shelter.

Named Ginger, the pup was son Jeffrey's birthday gift.

Ginger, with the warm, innocent eyes and the soft off-white fur, appeared placid despite the milling around by the humans in her midst and the occasional spat between a couple of nervous canines.

Ginger, in the preliminaries, won the best spayed female dog title.

And Ginger, if she feels conceit or pride at all, would be sharing her glory with that of others.

One is Harry. Harry, a slick black and white neutered short-hair cat, won the grand champion feline title. Harry, at age 2, was shown by Will Marlow, 7, of 3000 W. Illinois.

Harry, one of 22 cats entered in the first Midland SPCA pet show, also was judged the best neutered male. Harry won the judges' choice category.

In the menagerie contest, seven hamsters presented by Kresha Caldwell were picked by the judges as the grand champion entry. They competed against two horses, two goats, two ponies, two rabbits, a mouse, gerbil, chipmunk and a couple of fish.

"We gave no prizes to the pedigree (dogs and cats)," said a show official. "This was just for regular pets."

In the non-pet category, Jill and Julie Steward won first place with the float entry "I Am Woman." That float had the shape of a model's figure and the head of a dog.

Patty Hearst Puzzle: The Pieces May Be Falling Together

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The mysterious case of Patricia Hearst has entered a new phase with odd clues adding complexity — and perhaps some shape — to the puzzle.

Is the FBI any closer to finding the fugitive heiress?

"I think so," says Charles Bates, special FBI agent in charge of the case. "We get more information every day." But he isn't saying which clues are the hottest.

Like pieces in a giant picture puzzle, the faces of diverse men and women appeared this week to be fit into place. Could they connect to the solution of one of America's most engrossing mysteries?

The figures say no. Officials say maybe.

Probes Increased

With grand juries on the East and West coasts stepping up their probes, more than a dozen new names have arisen in the search for the fugitive heiress.

A lineup of new breed athletes with political overtones has become central to the inquiry. A fugitive artist, a convict and a university student have been mentioned. Questioned by authorities, they are asked where is Patricia Hearst? Few have answered, but their adventures of recent weeks have almost left the missing woman in the background.

Miss Hearst, 21, daughter of Randolph Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnaped Feb. 4, 1974 and later announced she had joined her captors in the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA). She is wanted on various criminal charges, including bank robbery.

Rundown Given

Here is a rundown on those who captured attention in recent weeks and are likely to hold center stage for awhile:

—Jack and Micki McGee Scott: He is a former track star and writer who seeks reforms in attitudes toward sports. His wife, a writer, works with him. They rented a Pennsylvania farmhouse reputed to have been a possible hide-out for Miss Hearst and her comrades.

The Scotts decline comment on the farmhouse or a possible link to Patricia, saying, "We have done nothing wrong. We have committed no crimes." They are daring grand jurors to indict them, saying they could prove their innocence at a trial.

—Bill Walton: The rangy red-haired basketball star, whose hippie life style belies his millionaire status, is the Scotts' close friend. They were living at his Portland, Ore., home when the FBI began asking questions about the farmhouse. Walton says he knows nothing about Miss Hearst and is sorry he spoke to the FBI at all — even to tell them he knew nothing.

He has vowed refusal to cooperate with any probe of the Scotts.

—Jay Weiner: Temple University student and friend of the Scotts. He testified March 13 before the Hearst grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa. The Scotts say he was coerced into giving false testimony against them and will recant at his next grand jury appearance. The U.S. attorney says Weiner will be subpoenaed when the panel resumes its inquiry, probably this month.

—Phillip K. Shinnick: The one-time Olympic longjumper and friend of the Scotts declined to testify before the grand jury in San Francisco saying, "I deeply resent this intrusion into my private affairs. The FBI has harassed my family, friends and professional colleagues." He called the inquiry a "witchhunt" and said it had jeopardized his job as sports studies director at Livingston College of Rutgers University.

He says he knows nothing of Patricia Hearst.

—Wendy Yoshimura: A Berkeley artist who disappeared in 1973, her fingerprints were found in the Pennsylvania farmhouse, the FBI says. A fugitive from bombing conspiracy charges, she vanished after a cache of explosives was found in a garage she rented. She is believed to have participated in sports activist groups, such as the Jock Liberation Front, which Scott supported.

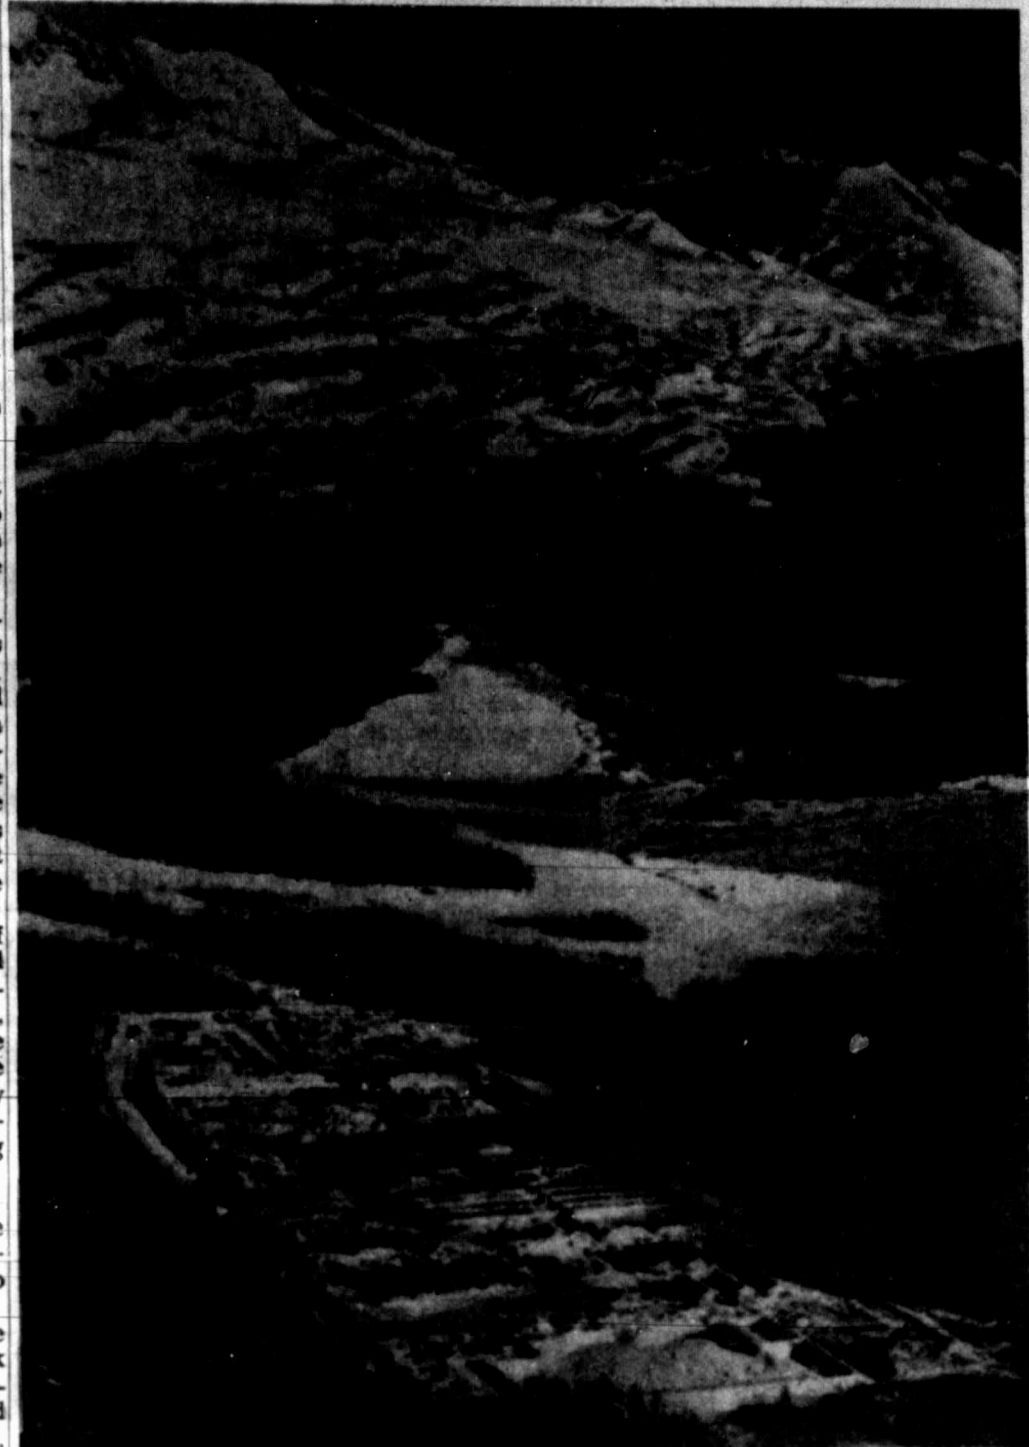

—Artist's Boyfriend —William H. Brandt: Imprisoned at Soledad State Prison, he was the boyfriend of Miss Yoshimura and was arrested in the same case in which the artist's director at Livingston

A student antiwar activist, he pleaded guilty to one count of possessing explosives. His list of prison visitors last summer and winter included Jack Scott, Micki Scott, Jay Weiner and Cathy Soliah, onetime friend of slain SLA member Angela Alwood. Scott once wrote a letter favoring Brandt's probation.

—Ulysses McDaniel and Barbara Kesler: a husband and wife arrested on charges of transporting weapons into Canada. McDaniel is an ex-convict who shared a cell with slain revolutionary George Jackson. Reports have said he once knew members of the SLA and was on the run because he favored the group.

Others entered the case peripherally. Athletes such as Hal and Olga Connolly and former football player Dave Meggyesy were questioned as were Walton's relatives; Scott's parents were subpoenaed by the grand jury. John Scott, 66, was excused from testifying after he refused to answer questions; his wife Louise was excused because of ill health.

New York Paper Says Onassis Was Going To Divorce Jackie

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis decided to divorce his wife, Jacqueline, shortly before his death last March and asked a lawyer to start proceedings, the New York Times reported in Saturday's editions.

The newspaper said that Mrs. Onassis, also the widow of the late President John F. Kennedy, receives a bequest of only $3 million in the Onassis will, a sum far less than published reports had indicated.

Quoting friends of the Onassis family, the article said the Greek shipping magnate's will stipulated that trust funds of $1 million each be set up for Mrs. Onassis' children, Caroline and John.

It said they will receive in-comes from the funds until they are 21. Previous reports had placed their inheritance as high as $15 million each.

The Times said that last Dec. 3, John Meyer, a close associate of Onassis, called lawyer Roy M. Cohn and said that Onassis wanted him to be his attorney in a divorce action against Mrs. Onassis.

"He called me when Mr. Onassis was with him," the Times quoted Cohn as saying Friday. "He said it was absolutely definite, and that Mr. Onassis wanted to end the marriage."

Meyer declined comment on the phone call, the Times said. The newspaper quoted several friends of the Onassis family as saying that Onassis' daughter Christina by his first marriage, was instrumental in persuading her father to seek a divorce.

Onassis was suffering from the muscular disease myasthenia gravis and the newspaper reported friends saying that it was poor health rather than a reconciliation with Mrs. Onassis that led Onassis to drop the divorce action.

Rumors of a divorce between the couple dated back to 1970 but both always denied it.

Some estimates had placed Mrs. Onassis' inheritance as up to $200 million. Onassis' wealth was estimated as high as $500 million.

—Jay Weiner: Temple University student and friend of the Scotts. He testified March 13 before the Hearst grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa. The Scotts say he was coerced into giving false testimony against them and will recant at his next grand jury appearance. CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ELECTION
April 22, 1975 7 a.m.-7 p.m.
PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SAMPLE BALLOT—Instruction Note: Place an X in the square beside the statement indicating the way you wish to vote.

No. For Against
1 The constitutional amendment revising and consolidating provisions relating to state and local retirement systems and programs and providing for a maximum state contribution to state systems of 10 percent of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals.

No. For Against
2 The constitutional amendment setting the salaries of members of the legislature at $600 per month and setting a per diem of $30 per day, during legislative sessions and a mileage allowance at the same rate provided by law for state employees.

AMENDMENT NO. 1—S.J.R. NO. 3
(Revising and consolidating provisions relating to state and local retirement systems and programs and providing for a maximum state contribution to state systems of 10 percent of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals.)

BACKGROUND: The proposed Section 67 of Article 16 consolidates all constitutional provisions relating to state and local retirement systems into one section, and it lifts the ceiling on state contributions to state funds from a current 6% to a maximum of 10%. This provision applies to persons covered under Employees Retirement System of Texas, Teacher Retirement System of Texas, the Judicial Retirement System, and other local funds pertaining to cities and counties. It allows emergency benefits recently granted retired persons to continue. It allows persons working at different times under two or more state funds to receive fractional benefits from each. The investment powers of each board of directors is broadened yet subject to control by legislature. Funds must be based on sound actuarial principles.

ARGUMENTS:
FOR: 1. Consolidating provisions leads to clarity in the law.
2. A larger share by the state helps offer relief for inflation.
3. More persons can be protected by creation of soundly funded pensions.

AGAINST:
1. Cost of state government must be reduced to halt inflation and protect further devaluation of pension funds.
2. Broader investment authority could result in more speculative investments.

AMENDMENT NO. 2—H.J.R. NO. 6
(Setting the salaries of members of the legislature at $600 per month and setting a per diem of $30 during legislative sessions and a mileage allowance at the same rate provided by law for state employees.)

BACKGROUND: The proposed Section 24, Article III, changes 3 limits established by Texas voters in 1960. The changes are:
1. A legislative salary increase from $4,800 to $7,200 per year.
2. A per diem allowance increase of $30 for each day in regular and special sessions as opposed to a current $12 for the first 120 days in regular session and 30 days in each special session.
3. A mileage increase from 10¢ to the same rate as prescribed by law for state employees (16¢ per mile).

ARGUMENTS:
FOR: 1. Increasing government and standing and special interim committees leave legislators little time for private business. The current salary established 15 years ago is inadequate today.
2. Raising the salary to a more realistic level would be an incentive for persons without other income to serve in the legislature.
3. The changes in per diem and mileage are consistent with inflation and the cost of maintaining two homes during each session.

AGAINST:
1. This leads to increased costs for government.
2. The constitution envisions a legislator as a part time employee; therefore he should not receive a full time wage.
3. High campaign costs eliminate many from public office, so extra salary is no help.

NONPARTISAN POLICY

Fires Kill 12 Children

By The Associated Press
 Fires swept through wood-frame houses in Alabama and upstate New York, killing at least 12 children, authorities said Saturday.
 In Beulah, Ala., nine children died Friday night when fire raced through their rural home before firemen could reach the scene, authorities said. A spokesman for the Lee County Sheriff's department said the victims were from two families.
 Authorities originally listed eight dead.
 In Truxton, N.Y., fire swept through a two-story frame house late Friday night, killing three children, state police said.
 A spokesman for the sheriff's office would not identify the children who perished in the Alabama fire. He said their bodies were too badly burned for immediate positive identification.
 Neighbors told police officers that the parents were away when the fire struck the house full of children Friday night. The oldest was about 15, they said.
 Authorities said the cause of the blaze was not immediately known.
 Troopers at the scene of the Truxton blaze said the children's parents, Vane Marshall, 31, and his wife, Shirley, 26, were unable to rescue the youngsters because of the extreme heat and smoke in the attic where the children were sleeping.
 Killed were Kenneth, 7, and 6-year-old twins Douglas and Kellie. Their bodies were found in the attic, troopers said.
 Marshall was treated for a severely cut hand and his wife was treated for shock.
 Police said a faulty wood-burning stove may have caused the blaze, which they said began about 11 p.m.

Low Price Prompts Fish Giveaway By Trawler In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Hundreds of Bostonians using bags, boxes, buckets, cans and in one case a coat hauled in 13½ tons of free fish in 2½ hours Saturday. The fish was donated by a trawler owner disgusted with the low wholesale price of a dime a pound.
 The giveaway was pollock, a species similar to haddock. The trawler docked at the Fish Pier with 27,000 pounds Friday.
 "We just can't see the worth of selling this at a dime a pound," said J. Bradley O'Hara, owner of the vessel bearing his name.
 "We'd get about $2,700. That's not going to make or break us. We felt the price was an insult, so we're just giving it away to the poor people, who are very hungry, we hope."
 Some of those who helped themselves to the fish wore business suits and a few loaded the fish into luxury cars. State Rep. Mel King, D-Boston, took away half a dozen in a milk box.
 One man, finding himself without a container, wrapped four fish in his coat.
 It took exactly three minutes for one group of 60 people to make off with a three-box load of fish estimated by O'Hara at 2,000 pounds.
Blaze Damages Truck Repair Shop
 A fire reported about 12:30 p.m. Saturday heavily damaged the frame and contents of a truck repair shop in the 2000 block of Rankin Highway.
 Cause of the fire remained undetermined Saturday afternoon.
 Owner of the shop is Johnny Thompson.
 In another fire, a back wall of a house belonging to J. M. Edwards, 705 Devonian St., received "considerable" damage Saturday afternoon, Midland firemen reported.
 Firemen said the fire, reported about 1:20 p.m., began when a torch Edwards was using to do some plumbing ignited material inside the wall.

BAIRD—Two persons were killed Friday night in a head-on collision about 4½ miles northwest of here.
 Steven Mark Tollett, 18, of Clyde, and Randall Morris Wood, 17, of Baird, were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Lee Savell of Clyde.
 Department of Public Safety officials said the two were killed when the cars they were driving collided head-on about 10:40 p.m. at the crest of a hill on Union Hill Road.

Three Held In Slaying Of Tech Student

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas police held three young men Saturday in connection with the slaying of a Texas Tech University student and the wounding of his female companion.
 Two men were arrested about 2:45 a.m. Saturday as they stepped off a bus at the Greyhound bus station here, officers said.
 Two others were arrested in West Dallas Saturday afternoon but one was released after police said they determined he was not involved.
 However, a police spokesman said a fourth person was still sought.
 The spokesman said capital murder charges will be filed against two of those in custody and accomplice charges may be brought against the third man being held. The third person was not at the scene of the slaying, he said.
 Charges also will be filed against the fourth man still sought, the spokesman said.
 Michael McMahan, 22, a Texas Tech student from Kennewick, Wash., and Deia Karlene Sutton, 20, a University of Texas-Arlington student, were abducted early Friday from a Dallas night club parking lot and taken to the Trinity River bottoms.
 Both were shot from behind.
 Miss Sutton suffered a bullet wound in the neck. She said she let the abductors think she was dead as they rifled through the couple's belongings.
 Police said robbery was believed the motive for the slaying.
 McMahan was here with 28 other Texas Tech students attending a conference at UT-Arlington west of Dallas.
 A police spokesman said McMahan's 1971 automobile was recovered in Calvert, about 170 miles south of Dallas. Calvert authorities said they were told the car was being burned and they in turn notified Dallas police.
 The men arrested at the bus station were taken from a bus arriving from the Calvert area, officers said.
 The four men, all in their 20s, were held in city jail.
 Miss Sutton told officers she and McMahan were accosted by two men armed with a shotgun and a pistol who forced McMahan to drive them to the river.
 They were made to walk to the bottoms without looking back, she said, and moments later two shots were fired. Both students fell into the mud.
 She said McMahan asked Calvert authorities if he was told the car was being burned and they in turn notified Dallas police.

 The four men, all in their 20s, were held in city jail.
 Miss Sutton told officers she and McMahan were accosted by two men armed with a shotgun and a pistol who forced McMahan to drive them to the river.
 They were made to walk to the bottoms without looking back, she said, and moments later two shots were fired. Both students fell into the mud.

MEDIA SPEAKER — Dr. Glenn Burruss, noted economist who spoke Saturday to Texas Press Women on "Economy Is Our Beat," discusses his topic with Tricia Shelton, center, TPW convention program chairman, and Francis Bolton of Austin, the group's legislative chairman.

Two Midlanders Are Awarded Writing Honors At Texas Press Women's Meet

By LUANNA CROW
Texas Press Women passed resolutions endorsing the Equal Rights Amendment and a permanent Status of Women Commission Saturday in their 1975 state convention here which saw two Midlanders awarded writing honors and another elected to state office.

Sixty-seven delegates of Texas Press Women, Inc., representing districts across the state are in the Tall City this weekend for the group's 83rd annual meeting hosted by West Texas District 2 which concludes this morning with a memorial breakfast.

Saturday night's awards presentation brought Tall City resident Jolly Schramm and a first place award for an interview in a daily newspaper with a circulation of more than 50,000 for an article published in New Mexico.

She also garnered a second for public relations materials prepared for the Midland Bicentennial Commission.

Esteele Nelson, another Midland resident, took a first prize for an interview published in a general interest interview magazine.

The state's high point winners for the contest were Martha Hemphill Reed of the Beaumont Enterprise and Mildred Hopkins of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank.

Saturday morning's business session included officer election, with Mary J. Goodwin of Midland voted recording secretary.

Also on the new officer slate are Ann Faragher of Greenville, president; Eliza Bishop of Crockett, first vice president; Edna McGaffy of San Antonio, second vice president; Mildred Hopkins of Dallas-Arlington, third vice president, and June Smith of Beaumont-Port Arthur, treasurer.

In addition to electing officers, delegates passed four resolutions in the business meeting including those backing the ERA and a permanent commission for the Status of Women.

Passed, too, were resolutions opposing revocation of funds for The University of Texas at San Antonio Institute of Texan Cultures and taking an official stance on five pieces of pending Texas legislation.

The legislation resolution included approval of the so-called "rape victim bill" which would allow the court to remove the public from the courtroom and limit the number of news reporters allowed during both examining trials and trials when the testimony of the victim was being taken.

The bills, HB 284 and SB 63, also prescribe publishing the victim's identity without her consent or a court order.

The business meeting also brought approval of a state project, a series of public relations workshops for the public relations workshops for the public sponsored by the individual districts.

One of the convention highlights was the announcement of Billie Crowley as Texas Press Women's 1975 Woman of Achievement. Mrs. Crowley is co-owner and editor of the Greater Longview Post and Tri-Weekly Publishing Co.

James N. Allison Jr., president and publisher of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and The Plainview Daily Herald, was among the first-convention speakers.

Addressing the group on the role of women in the media, Allison told the delegates, "There is literally no area of a newspaper where a woman can't do as good a job as a man."

He added, too, that "we're seeing and hearing good reporters now in radio and tv and women are beginning to fill the ranks in advertising.

Reflecting on the power of the media, the publisher cautioned each reporter to "stay on top of your assignment, do a better job and make sure your stories are fair and accurate."

NBC News correspondent Judy Woodruff, also a convention speaker, pursued Allison's prudent note warning journalists against abusing the media's power and urging them to utilize ethical methods of gathering information as well as thorough and factual methods of investigation.

Miss Woodruff, a new member of the NBC news team now based in Georgia, said reporters "potentially wield a great deal of power because they decide what news is."

She reminded members that misrepresentation of the facts can unjustly "smear someone's reputation or cost a business a lot of money."

Another facet of news reporting was discussed later by a panel comprised of two Permian Basin newsmen and a University of Texas of the Permian Basin educator.

In a discussion of the role of the media in reporting the news, Dr. Robert Rothstein, head of UTPB's Communications Department, advocated a leadership role for the media in order to shape trends and events by behavior modification.

Rothstein proposed accentuating the good elements in society to allow the bad to die from lack of reinforcement.

Rebutting his theory were Harry Neuhardt, KMID-TV news director, and Olin Ashley, editor of The Odessa American. Neuhardt charged that such a policy would reduce media coverage to presenting information "with an eye to predicting" the future.

Ashley said Rothstein's proposal was manipulation of the news which "I don't think we have the right to do."

Arguing with the theory that corruption would decrease if behavior modifications techniques were used, he added, "It's not true that politicians would go and sin no more if the press would leave them alone."

Discussion emphasis returned to women involved in the media during a panel analysis of women's rights. Speakers were Midland County Judge Barbara Culver; Dr. Dianne Peters, UTPB associate dean of Arts and Education; and Dorothy Stuck, director of the Region 6 Office of Civil Rights in Dallas.

The trio charged media women with presenting the facts about the Equal Rights Amendment to both legislators and other citizens.

Judge Culver urged journalists to "cool the hysterics on each end of the spectrum." Asserting that many of the women approaching legislators in favor of the amendment are "scaring them off," she suggested the job could better be done by the "acceptable, professional women of Texas like yourselves."

Agency Considers Banning Handgun Bullets

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Congress considers legislation to impose new handgun controls, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is moving ahead on a related issue that it says could virtually ban the weapons in America.

Its five commissioners, under federal court order, begin deliberations Monday on a petition to ban handgun bullets as a hazardous substance.

If the agency outlaws pistol bullets, the commission has said, "the practical effect... would be a virtual ban on handguns," a prohibition unlikely to be enacted by Congress this session.

Some long guns also would be affected, firearms experts assert, because bullets for some handgun calibers are identical to those for rifles and could be interchangeable.

The petition does not seek to ban cartridges, it is aimed only at bullets, the small lead projectiles. Casings, primers and powder are not under consideration.

This back-door approach to handgun control by outlawing pistol bullets is the idea of the Chicago-based Committee for Handgun Control, founded by four suburban mothers. They say they got the idea from the National Rifle Association. "Guns without bullets are not dangerous. The bullets are actually taken from the bodies of those who are killed or injured with handguns," the committee has written the safety commission.

The committee says its efforts to ban bullets stems from an inability to obtain federal gun control legislation.

The movement has generated more mail to the commission than any other subject, including products dangerous to infants and children. The ban is opposed by the National Rifle Association.

Susan Sullivan, a founder and president of the Chicago organization, said the idea for the bullet ban came from an article in an NRA magazine expressing concern that the commission might feel it had the authority to outlaw pistol bullets as hazardous substances.

Commissioners Meet Monday

Midland County commissioners will hold a regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. Monday to consider a seven-item agenda. Those who are to appear before the commissioners include Thomas Anderson of Commonwealth Marketing Service; Rigo Lopez on rental of the county Exhibits Building; Elmo Linebarger, county tax assessor-collector, and Perry Davis Jr., attorney.

Mrs. Sullivan's group petitioned the safety commission, asking for a ban on the sale of handgun bullets, except for use by policemen, the military and licensed security guards. The commission at first agreed to consider the proposal, but reversed itself Sept. 5, 1974. It decided that while it had jurisdiction to outlaw bullets, the practical effect of that ruling would be to regulate handguns, which it said Congress had not intended it to do. The Chicago organization took the commission to court. On Dec. 19, 1974, U.S. District Judge Thomas A. Flannery ruled that the commission had the authority to declare handgun ammunition a "banned hazardous substance" and ordered it to consider the proposal. That's where matters stand now.

'Mrs. Carmichael' Arrested

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Dean Michael, the broad-shouldered, 200-pound fugitive car promoter who uses the alias Elizabeth Carmichael, was taken into custody Saturday.

Michael, 47, who had eluded authorities for 13 years, was arrested by FBI agents as he tried to sneak back into a home he had rented in a Miami residential neighborhood.

Authorities said Michael, dressed in women's clothing with long shoulder-length blonde hair, apparently had become suspicious earlier Friday and stayed away from the home, which agents stalked out after receiving a tip from a neighbor who recognized a newspaper photograph of the fugitive.

FBI spokesman Bob Strong said Vivian Barrett, believed to be Michael's wife, and five children believed to have belonged to the woman, also were found in the house.

"We caught him as he was trying to climb in a window of his home. He had apparently been hiding in the bushes and thought we had left," Strong said.

Michael, who was being held without bond in the Dade County jail for arraignment Monday before a U.S. Magistrate, was wanted on a 1962 charge of jumping bond in Los Angeles and on grand theft charges.

Two Lubbock County Jail Escapees Still Missing

LUBBOCK (AP) — Sheriff's authorities identified two men remained at large Saturday night after escaping from the Lubbock County jail.

Former Actress Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Julia Cohn Algase, 73, a former actress who became an attorney and specialized in labor and theater law, died Thursday of a heart attack. She appeared on the stage under the name of Julia Cohn and acted on Broadway in "Subway Express," "Peace on Earth" and "Theodora, the Queen." She was a leader in consumer state and federal legislation promotion.

filed in Dallas in February, Strong said. Police said Michael, posing as Mrs. Carmichael, gained national attention with claims of a three-wheel car that could get 70 miles per gallon of gasoline. Michael, or Mrs. Carmichael, founded Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp. in Los Angeles to develop the car and moved the company's headquarters to Dallas in January, where potential investors were entertained with champagne, police said.

The bubble burst when Michael and nine associates were indicted in February on charges stemming from an allegedly phony stock deal.

Michael, who fled before being arrested, was charged with conspiring with associates in the car corporation to commit theft of over $10,000.

Dallas police did not discover until several days ago the woman they were seeking as Mrs. Carmichael in reality was Michael.

They said they found wigs, padded bras and other devices used by female impersonators in Michael's Dallas home.

Grand Jury To Meet

The Midland County grand jury is to convene at 9 a.m. Monday to consider evidence in approximately 35 criminal cases for possible indictments, according to the district attorney's office.

Caution Needed With Frozen Foods

COLLEGE STATION—Consumers should be aware of the safety of frozen food from the time they first look into the display case in the store, one foods and nutrition specialist advised this week. "Be careful to buy frozen foods stored in commercial freezer cabinets only if they are stored under the line marked for safety level," Mrs. Mary Sweeten, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said. Buy frozen or refrigerated foods last, then take them directly home to the freezer. Home freezer temperature should be kept at 0 degrees F, she reminded. "Labels on many frozen foods tell whether the product can be refrozen. It's not a good idea to refreeze unless the label says this won't harm the food." "When using frozen foods, plan ahead so that they can be defrosted in the refrigerator. Thawing foods at room temperature for long periods can permit bacteria to grow, producing illness." But when food is thawed in the refrigerator, the warmth necessary for bacteria growth is lacking, she said.

Miss Annie's Fame As Cook Spreads In South

Copley News Service

Beside a meandering stream in a hollow of the Tennessee mountains near the village of Tullahoma, Miss Annie presides over a kitchen where come such famous southern dishes as black-eyed peas with ham hocks, turnip greens and potlikker and fried country ham with red-eye gravy.

Miss Annie's reputation as a good cook has spread all over the South, bringing proposals of marriage from men hundreds of miles away.

"One man wrote that he wanted to come and try my food and if it was as good as his mother used to make he would take me home with him," she laughingly recounted.

"I wrote and thanked him and explained that I had been happily married for years and am a mother and grandmother," she said. "My husband, Edward Weaver, gets a kick out of telling people he is becoming known as 'Mr. Annie,'" she added. Miss Annie is the official hostess of a museum and gift shop called the Dickel General Merchandise Store.

"The museum is across the road from a distillery where sour-mash whisky—and that's the way to spell it—is produced," she explained.

Miss Annie says that everyone who comes to Tennessee wants to see a still and the Grand Old Opry.

"We're about an hour's drive from Nashville, headquarters for the Grand Old Opry. We catch the tourists en route to and from Nashville," she said.

Miss Annie wears a long gingham dress and lacy sun-bonnet at the museum.

"Tourists come from all over the world and my costume and the food I prepare never fail to intrigue them," she explained. "I give out recipe folders containing recipes I have compiled—some of these have been in my family for hundreds of years—and I serve refreshments. By special arrangements, I also serve luncheons.

"We only serve small groups—from six to eight—ones which can be seated comfortably in the old-fashioned kitchen.

"I have to know several days in advance, for I prepare everything 'from scratch.' "I like to soak my black-eyed peas overnight."

Miss Annie says she sometimes makes corn relish and pickles to sell at the museum.

"I can't make enough to keep the shelves supplied. They go out so fast," she said.

She is now collecting old recipes for a Bicentennial cookbook which she hopes to have completed by the spring of 1976.

"I'm collecting old remedies and household hints, too," she said. "I'm going to work them over so they can be understood and used by homemakers of today. Among the recipes are ones for my grandmother's black jam and molasses cakes."

Many of her recipes, she says, call for sour-mash whisky—famous in that part of the South.

"All of the alcoholic content of the whisky evaporates during slow, slow filtering through 30 cooking, leaving only the good flavor," she explained. "Do you know how sour-mash whisky is made? It is gentled and smoothed and rounded by a full day before fermentation."

feet of packed stainless steel granules." She said the mash from which the whisky is made is soured

Voters' League Delegates Named For 1975 State Convention

Delegates to the 1975 state convention of the League of Women Voters of Texas will travel about as far west as they can go in Texas. The meeting will be held Tuesday through Thursday at El Paso.

Maureen Fairbanks, Lois Christensen, Mary Porter and Evelyn Gould will represent the Midland League at this 14th biennial convention of the state organization.

"During the convention, some 200 delegates from all over the state will select new state officers and determine program issues which Texas League members will concentrate on for the next two years," said Mrs. Fairbanks, newly elected president of the president of the Midland League.

Two issues which are certain to be hotly debated are whether to adopt a new study item in addition to the several issues already included in the league program, and whether to locate the league's new state office at Austin rather than in the hometown of the president, as has been the custom in the past.

New items which have been suggested include administration of justice, health care, transportation, utility regulation and services to children and youth. The current state league program includes positions on financing state government, voting rights, environmental quality, Texas constitutional revision, human resources, modernization of state government and state-local relations.

Dear Abby At Least Give Him Chance To Refuse

—By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wish people who ask ministers to conduct funeral and weddings knew what the word "honorarium" means (A payment to a professional for services for which no fee is set or legally obtainable.)

Some people feel it is so crude to ask a minister: "How much do I owe you," that they just let the matter go and do nothing about it at all.

My husband is a minister (please don't say where), and within the last year, he was called to officiate at the funeral services of both an elderly man and his wife, who lived 35 miles away. He was given no fee.

Abby, can you imagine anyone writing the following note to an attorney? "Thank you, Mr. Jones, for your legal services. Mother and Dad would have wanted you to come down to handle these legal services for us at this trying time."

Or the minister to his barber: "Thank you, Mr. Smith, for cutting my hair at this time. I would not want to embarrass the family by needing a haircut." Or: "Thank you, Mr. Brown, for the gasoline, oil and car wash. I wouldn't want to run out of gas on my way to a funeral or show up with a dirty car." Or: "Thank you, Mr. White, for cleaning and pressing my suit. I would not want to embarrass the family at this time by appearing unkempt."

In order to make ends meet, my husband moonlights, and had to pay a substitute for his second job so he could make these two funerals.

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Perhaps because there is no set fee for conducting funerals and weddings, some folks feel that there is no fee at all. Also, some clergymen have written to tell me that they consider such services a part of their job, and they're insulted when they are offered money for doing the work of the Lord.

I say: "Offer anyway. The offended clergyman can always refuse."

DEAR ABBY: I am 18, and the boy I've been dating for two years is 19. We were supposed to get married secretly last month, but Dick showed up without the license.

Originally, when I had asked him if he had it, he had said yes.

But after we arrived at the preacher's house and the preacher asked Dick for the license, Dick said he "forgot" it at home, hoping the preacher would perform the ceremony anyway, and let him bring it around later.

Well, the preacher wouldn't marry us without the license, so we decided to stay in a motel that night, thinking Dick would get the license the next day, and we'd get married and nobody would know the careless mistake he made.

Well, the preacher called my father, and my father came to the motel to pick me up. I felt

Kissinger's Image Eroding Rapidly In South America

By MORT ROSENBLUM
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he will visit South America this month but if he does, he'll have to repair erosion of his position by previous postponements.

Amateur Radio Club Members To Meet Monday

The Midland Amateur Radio Club will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the American Red Cross Building, 2306 Elizabeth Street.

Following a financial summation of the swapfest held last month, members will hold a familiarization session in the recently remodeled radio room of the Red Cross.

Melvyn G. Goodwin, a n amateur radio technician and a teacher at Midland College, will discuss a combination of numerous pieces of radio equipment donated to the Red Cross by individuals and major oil companies. The facility can be operated from either commercial or emergency power.

The Midland Amateurs, working directly under the city government in its civil defense plan, will furnish operators, both mobile and at the Red Cross building, for any emergency duty that may be necessary.

In addition to being the headquarters center for the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES), the Red Cross equipment manned by the Midland amateur is capable of national and international communications in both voice and international Morse code.

Anyone interested may attend the MARC meetings held in the clubhouse on Lamesa Road.

Japanese Admiral Will Visit Center At Fredericksburg

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Visitors to the Admiral Nimitz Center April 26 will get a chance to meet a Japanese admiral and hear the Fredericksburg High School band play the Japanese anthem, "Kimigayo."

Vice Admiral Nobuo Fukuchi is visiting the United States specifically to visit the center, local officials said.

D. H. Hubbard, executive director of the Admiral Nimitz Center, said he will extend an offer from the Japanese to build a Japanese-style garden, based on the friendship between two great naval leaders, Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz and Fleet Admiral Heihachiro Togo, who sank most of the Russian Fleet at the Battle of Tsushima Strait in 1905.

The Japanese admiral will be presented a bronze sculpture by Richard Cook of the Nimitz Center and in turn will take part in the dedication of a Japanese stone lantern on the site of the garden.

Hubbard said Fukuchi is director of the Memorial Ship Mikasa, Togo's flagship which is now set in concrete anchorage in Yokosuka. Nimitz saw Togo's flagship at the end of World War II and was disturbed by its rundown condition, Hubbard said. He started a fund with his own money to restore the historic ship.

Jury Rules Accused Slayer Not Insane

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A Tyler jury has found a man accused of four slayings in East Texas competent to stand trial for the death of Vicki Lynn Morris.

The jury listened to a week of testimony before returning the ruling Friday that Edward E. Corley, of Tyler is sane. He is accused of two slayings by shotgun in Rusk County and two in Smith County, including that of Miss Morris last September.

Corley was described in defense testimony as being incapable of logical thought but prosecution witnesses said he is sane enough to stand trial. The accused was ordered held pending setting of a trial date in Miss Morris' death.

Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

Officials and diplomats ac- Friday, "In the next few weeks, I expect to visit a few Latin American countries, including Venezuela." He named no other countries in comments made at swearing-in ceremonies for the new U.S. ambassador to Venezuela, Harry W. Shlaudeman.

The original plan was for Kissinger to come to Buenos Aires in January and then return in March for a foreign ministers' conference along the lines of a "New Dialogue" he had proclaimed with Latin America.

He never made it, and the March meeting was canceled because of angry reactions to the U.S. trade bill which excluded Venezuela and Ecuador from tariff benefits because they were members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Since then, newspapers have carried dozens of stories giving new dates for the visit.

A high-level Argentine Foreign Ministry official said, "We've got the same folder of background briefing and requests which we dust off each time we get a top American visitor. We're thinking of having it mimeographed..."

Venezuelan leaders say they want to press Kissinger for more dynamic U.S.-Latin ties. Brazilian authorities have some commerce and energy questions to discuss.

Cuba will certainly come up, especially in Venezuela and Argentina, which want to normalize relations with Fidel Castro's government.

One problem for a Kissinger trip is security. U.S. sources say that when Assistant Secretary of State William D. Rogers came here last month to advance the Kissinger visit, he asked Argentina's Vignes about security arrangements.

"What do you think of the security you have now?" Vignes reportedly asked.

Rogers, the story goes, looked around at a convoy of armored personnel carriers, sharpshooters with high-powered rifles and heavily plated limousines, and replied he thought it was fine.

Then Vignes said, "When the secretary comes, it will be five times this."

Fat Albert Always In Trouble, Loved, Defended By Fliers

Copley News Service

Fat Albert has been a political and financial disaster. But the men who have flown the giant C5 transport like it so well they gave the world's largest airplane that inelegant nickname out of affection.

The C5, under investigation again since one crashed with a load of Vietnamese orphans bound for the United States, has been ill-starred from the first, with cost overruns and structural flaws that became ideal targets for congressional critics like Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

The Vietnam tragedy occurred when a clamshell aft cargo door burst open, creating depressurization and severing hydraulic lines that crippled the transport's rudders.

Chief Defender
One of the C5's chief defenders is Col. Jesse Jacobs, USAF, Ret., who was test director for the plane at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., several years ago.

Now a consultant for the Boeing Co. at Palmdale, Calif., Jacobs said in an interview that most pilots think the C5 is a good airplane, despite its misfortunes. The colonel has racked up 1,100 pilot hours in the Galaxy, the more glamorous name for the transport.

"It flies better than any large plane I've ever flown, and I've piloted every one except the DC-10," said Jacobs. "I've talked with most of the C5 pilots and they agree with me almost to the man."

Attracts Misfortune
"The Galaxy has been uncanny in attracting misfortune. On its first delivery flight a wheel fell off. And at Ft. Bragg, N.C., the plane lost an aft cargo door during a test because it wasn't properly secured."

That could have been what happened in the Vietnam tragedy, Jacobs speculated. As with many transport aircraft, cargo door latches are intricate mechanisms and must be locked in a precise manner.

A Turkish Airlines DC-10 crash, which killed 345 persons outside Paris a year ago, involved a cargo door latch failure, too.

The hydraulically operated C5 cargo doors cover the entire aft section of the cargo compartment. The hand-operated door of the DC-10 was a small one on the side which blew out because of a latch failure and caused the entire cabin to collapse due to depressurization.

"People seem to latch onto the misfortunes of the C5," Jacobs said, commenting on new criticism by Proxmire. He has called for grounding of the Galaxy fleet and a congressional investigation of alleged structural flaws.

Alterations Sought
The Pentagon has asked Congress for an additional $900 million to reinforce C5 wing structures. The Galaxy program has cost about $5 billion so far but the Air Force has received less than 50 of the 81 C5s it wants, at $56 million a copy.

At one point in the star-crossed career of the Galaxy, the Air Force discovered seven planes apparently left the Lockheed Yurietta factory with cracked engine mounts. And another time the Air Force grounded all but 12 of the Galaxies, after an engine ripped free from one just before takeoff.

Debugging Period
Jacobs concedes such incidents are embarrassing but points out any revolutionary new aircraft or weapons systems must go through a debugging period.

Defenders of the C5, with its nearly 100-yard-long body and six-story tail, insist that one can handle the transport job of a whole fleet of smaller cargo planes and already has proved its value to the Air Force during a military airlift to the Middle East during the 1973 October war.

Originally the Air Force wanted 120 of the huge plane. But it finally settled for 81. So far less than 50 have been delivered because Lockheed ran into financial trouble two years ago and was forced to hold up production until Congress voted the company a $250 million loan.

The Air Force says 81 Galaxies could rush 300,000 troops, 65,000 tons of weapons and 100,000 tons of other equipment to a war zone in a month. Many modern weapons are so large they could be airborne only by the Galaxy, the Air Force says.

Jacobs, whose mission as test director was to inspect and test all components of the C5, said published details of the Vietnam crash "sound like the cargo door was not properly secured and then blew during pressurization of the cabin."

The Air Force has refused to ground the C5 fleet during its investigation of the Vietnam crash.

C5 Transport Now Will Fly Under Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — All the Air Force's controversial C5 transport plane will be operating under restrictions as a result of last week's air tragedy involving a plane carrying Vietnamese orphans.

The Air Force announced the restrictions Friday "as a precautionary measure ... to assure safe operation of the fleet," pending results of an investigation of the crash.

The restrictions include a prohibition on passengers and were imposed one week after the C5 crash in South Vietnam. More than 200 persons were killed, making it one of the worst aircraft disasters on record.

Besides the restrictions, "a wide-ranging C5 systems review has been initiated to include re-examination of all operational, material and support factors that could all C5s."

The C5, almost from the time the program began a decade ago, has been the subject of controversy, principally because of its cost. The per-plane price has soared over the years and is now listed by the Air Force at $54 million.

The plane went into operation in June 1970. One plane was destroyed in a non-fatal crash-landing last September in Oklahoma.

The restrictions imposed on the aircraft include limiting flights in areas of air turbulence, limiting operations on rough runways and eliminating use of the aft cargo door system.

The Air Force said Friday that the C5 is not unsafe. "Just as with any mishap, we want to find out what happened," a spokesman said. "Until we do, we are taking certain precautions."

No report on the crash has been released and the final death toll has not been calculated because experts are still examining the remains.

Textbook Firm To Drop Suit Against Two Texas Women

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Economy Co. of Oklahoma City has agreed to drop its $30-million conspiracy to libel suit against two Texas women but will proceed against a third woman because she refuses to drop her countersuit, the chairman of the State Board of Education said Saturday.

Joe Kelly Butler said he received a letter Friday from Ford C. Price, president of the Oklahoma publishing firm, saying Mrs. Billy C. Hutcheson of Fort Worth will not accept a "peaceful settlement unless we pay her $5,000."

The suit against Drusilla Bearden of San Angelo and Linda Eichblatt of Clear Lake City will be dropped at the request of the the State Board of Education, Price said. These two women did not file countersuits, Price said, so Economy is "in a position to drop the lawsuit against these two protesters, and our attorneys are taking care of this."

All three women criticized Economy's seventh and eighth grade basic readers at textbook hearings last year. The company contended the women used "malicious half-truths, innuendoes and in some cases outright lies," and that "the objections to the textbooks were racially inspired."

After a mixup last week when the wrong boy showed up at the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, the Kreftings flew to San Francisco and picked up their adopted son. Anglican Church Members Make History By Asking Woman Be Ordained As Priest

LONDON (AP) — Members of an Anglican church here have made history by asking their bishop to ordain a woman as a priest. Miss Baker, a deaconess at the parish, is the first woman to be asked for ordination in the all-male Anglican priesthood.

"It is the first time such a request has been made" in England, says the Rev. Paul Oestreicher, Miss Baker's vicar at the Church of the Ascension in south London.

The vicar and his bishop support the petition. But at the Church of England headquarters in Westminster, a spokesman said: "This will have to wait. The General Synod is meeting at its July meeting. Nothing can be done now."

Miss Baker, a silver-haired woman in her 60s, has been a deaconess for 33 years, including 8 years at the Church of the Ascension.

"I may conduct services, including baptisms and burials and assist at Communion," she said. "But I may not preside at Communion and I may not say the prayers of consecration or pronounce the absolution. Civil law prevents me from conducting a marriage ceremony."

Miss Baker said she would describe herself as a feminist "in the sense that I feel women priests could bring into the church the femininity it has lacked over the centuries."

A source close to the General Synod said he thinks the July meeting will decide in favor of women priests. But he said the Paul to the Corinthians where the synod will add "in a typical apostle says, 'All things are lawful unto me, but all things that the moment is not expedient,'" the source said.

"If members of the synod are attacked for it they will fall back on the First Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians where the apostle says, 'All things are lawful unto me, but all things that the moment is not expedient,'" the source said.

In the United States, the Episcopal Church — an independent member of the world Anglican community — is still embroiled in a controversy over the ordination of 11 women by three retired bishops last summer.

Although the House of Bishops ruled the ordinations invalid, some of the women are serving as priests and a church board has set aside charges against the bishops.

In Anglican provinces overseas, only Hong Kong has acted without waiting for a decision from the church in England and ordained four women.

Woman Offers To Sell Eye To Help Handicapped Son

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Violet Walker says she will agree to sell one of her eyes for $6,999 to give her handicapped son the kind of education he needs.

"I have thought about this," she said Friday. "I am to the point that I am desperate. I would give a kidney. Only thing, I am a diabetic."

Mrs. Walker wants the $6,999 to pay for nine months tuition at Dallas Academy in Dallas, Tex., where she believes her son Eddie, 10, could get the kind of help he needs.

She said she has spent 6½ years trying to find educational and financial help in North Carolina, but has run into a stone wall.

She said Eddie spent two years in Rocky Mount schools, but did poorly because he was hyperactive, slow to learn and had visual-perception problems.

Mrs. Walker said she received "social promotions" in Philadelphia.

She said the Institute concluded that he had a chemical imbalance in his brain. He was prescribed megavitamins, which ended seizures he used to suffer, she said.

Mrs. Walker said she has applied for a $2,000 grant from the state Department of Public Education under the Equal Opportunity Education Act passed by the 1974 General Assembly.

But she said she has been told the department cannot make commitments on the grants until the 1975 General Assembly approves funds. She has to make an application to Dallas Academy by August, and she said she needs the money soon.

Finally, she and her husband, John, a house painter, look due to the Institute for Achievement of Human Potential in Philadelphia.

She said the Institute concluded that he had a chemical imbalance in his brain. He was prescribed megavitamins, which ended seizures he used to suffer, she said.

OBJECTIVE: RELOCATION, IMPROVEMENT—

Fund Drive Opens 'Zoo Week' In Midland

By JAN WILLIAMS
The Midland menagerie which is loosely referred to as a "zoo" may soon no longer be the city's "cultural embarrassment."

Tired of seeing the zoo compete with the city sewage system, the city dump and the police pistol firing range, all located within close proximity, the Midland Zoological Society has decided to try to relocate, as well as improve, Midland's zoo.

been in operation for four years, meets monthly and has 13 directors. This will be the first membership drive conducted and to date there are eight members.

The primary purpose of this membership drive Kimsey said, is to provide funds for a feasibility study at a cost of $17,500. None of these funds will go toward the actual relocation or building of a new zoo—only the planning.

methods of ownership and operation, suggest methods of financing the zoo, and last but not least, recommend procedures for developing the zoo. The firm estimates it will require 120 days to complete the study.

Kimsey said the zoological society will sign the contract with the firm as soon as the necessary funds ($17,500) are obtained.

since then to a total of 34 animals including tigers, ostrich, ocelot, jungle cats, elk, deer, javalina hogs, golden eagles, barn owls and possum.

Calling the Cole Park Zoo "very primitive," Kimsey said it had become run down due to neglect and lack of a professional zoo director. Conditions began to improve at the zoo after the hiring of Bob Cooper as zoo director.

round from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends. The exceptions are 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays during the construction process.

Sundays draw the largest crowds, with an average of 3 to 4,000 persons during the summer months.

Cooper and Kimsey feel some Midlanders may be reluctant to visit the zoo because of its location. They feel a new zoo located nearer the city, in a more suitable area, will increase attendance.

Membership Drive
"The backbone of any zoo is the zoological society," said Roy Kimsey, president of the society. "But a zoo can only be as successful as the support it gets."

In an effort to get the community's support for the proposed new zoo, the zoological society will conduct a membership drive which officially starts today at the zoo in Cole Park.

Mayor Ernest Angelo has also proclaimed April 10 through 19, as "Zoo Week in Midland."

Memberships are available at $2.50 for students; $7.50, individuals; $15, families; $50, contributing; $100, sponsor; $500, patron; $1,000, benefactor; $5,000, life; and $10,000, founders. Memberships and donations are tax deductible.

Free Train Rides
The purchase of any membership will include five free train rides at the Cole Park Zoo and will entitle free entrance to many zoos throughout the country.

During zoo week, zoological society memberships will also be sold at most major office buildings downtown.

The zoological society has

After interviewing three separate zoo planning firms, the zoological society chose Zooplan Associates, Inc. for the job.

The firm, headed by Dr. Marlin Perkins, is composed of directors of six of the largest zoos in the country and the president of a Wichita architectural firm. It is credited with building over 50 zoos.

Consultants To Visit
Zooplan Associates will send members of its consulting staff into Midland to consult with officials, view such records as may be available, observe the Cole Park Zoo, study potential site information and familiarize themselves with the local community and its potential for the development and support of a new zoo.

They will suggest the appropriate type of zoo, recommend a site, analyze various

When and if the study is completed, Kimsey said the zoological society will proceed to administer the plan for the new zoo. He said the new zoo could be funded through private donations, foundations or a bond election.

The firm to be contracted by the society has had a 93 percent success in every bond election it has recommended, Kimsey said.

In the meantime, the zoological society will try to improve the present zoo without spending a lot of money.

Currently, there is a $30,000 expansion program under way at the Cole Park Zoo, including the building of new cages which could be moved to a new zoo.

The Cole Park Zoo came into being in 1956, when someone donated a pet deer. It has grown Cooper, who has a degree in wildlife science from Texas A&M University, was previously curator of the El Paso Zoo.

Cooper said improvements were made at the zoo to "make what we have more pleasant."

Aside from building new cages, food preparation areas have been improved and it is hoped fencing and sidewalks will soon be constructed.

The zoo is funded by the city, through the parks and recreation department, with an annual budget of $82,000.

According to Kimsey, more than 60,000 persons visited the zoo last year which is open year round from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends. The exceptions are 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays during the construction process.

Sundays draw the largest crowds, with an average of 3 to 4,000 persons during the summer months.

Cooper and Kimsey feel some Midlanders may be reluctant to visit the zoo because of its location. They feel a new zoo located nearer the city, in a more suitable area, will increase attendance.

Kimsey said it will be at least two years before the ground is broken for a new zoo. During that time, he said the zoological society will continue to try to improve the present facility.

"It will be a better zoo," he said. "But it still won't be a good zoo."

A MATTER OF RECORD

Before you put property up for sale, be sure that you are the owner. Strange things do happen in the world of real estate.

Take the case of the man who decided to sell a woodlot he had been paying taxes on for years. His assumption was that his stewardship vested title of the land with him.

It doesn't work that way. Title to property is passed in very specific ways—ordinarily by a deed signed by all the owners. Also, ownership should be a matter of record in either the Registry of Deeds, Registry of Probate (if the land is acquired by will) or in the Land Court in the case of registered land.

The point is this. If you are paying taxes on land you do not own, or in which you have only a partial interest, you are merely preserving the status quo—not improving the title. If this is your case, don't wait until you decide to sell to perfect the title. Do it now!

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON JOHNSON REALTORS, 2318 W. Ohio St. Phone: 683-5333. We're here to help! (Come in for your free copy of "Homes For Living" magazine).

New Plan Solving Nursing Shortage

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—County officials are solving a nursing shortage with a program designed to update the training of registered nurses who have been out of practice for a number of years.

The women, who pay $200 for the program at Hollywood Memorial Hospital, are brought up to date on developments in medical technology and treatment. If they successfully complete the course, they are hired as full-time nurses.

"We consider the program a success already," said Sal Mudano, South Broward Hospital district administrator.

"It has produced nine nurse applicants who were qualified to be hired immediately, and has raised the morale of our own staff because they see we are working to solve the nurse shortage."

The program was created by hospital board member Austin

Tuppler. He said many nurses had told him they wanted to return to practice but had no way to update their skills and knowledge.

Introductory letters, sent to former nurses living in the area, drew 129 responses. Sixteen women were selected for the first retraining session.

The $200 tuition covers all expenses of the 35 hours of classroom and clinical work. The eight-week course, which involves work in every department of the hospital, is the equivalent of a two-year program for a beginning nurse, officials said.

One of the trainees, Eunice Fitzell, has been a registered nurse for 25 years but took 14 years off to raise her two daughters.

"I missed nursing and when the girls got big enough to care for themselves, I wanted to come back," Mrs. Fitzell said. "But there were no programs in the area which could update me until I got a letter from Mr. Mudano. This seemed like a good opportunity, so I took it."

Virginia Bower, another nurse who dropped out of the profession to raise her children but now has returned, added, "It's all coming back to me. I like I never left nursing."

Diabetes Expert To Speak Here At Seminar Friday

An expert on diabetes will speak Friday at a seminar in Midland Memorial Hospital under sponsorship of the Permian Basin Diabetes Association.

Dr. Harold Dobson, clinical associate professor at The University of Texas School of Medicine and Baylor University School of Medicine, will head the program, speaking on "What Do You Want to Know About Diabetes?"

The seminar, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's cafeteria, is open to the public free of charge as one of the Permian Basin association's series aimed at further education of the diabetic, his family and the general public.

Dobson served from 1950 to 1970 as director of the diabetic clinic at Ben Taub General Hospital in Houston. He has been president of the Houston Area Diabetes Association, the Texas Diabetes Association and the South Texas Diabetes Association.

He also has served five years as a member of the American Association Committee on Public Education and Detection.

Texas Arrested For Bank Robbery
JAS VEGAS (AP)—A Texas man has been arrested by Las Vegas Metropolitan Police for investigation of a robbery at a First National Bank branch in which $900 was taken, authorities say.

Booked for investigation of robbery was Robert D. Masters, 27, an unemployed, disabled veteran from Bellaire, Tex., a police spokesman said Friday.

Music Programs Scheduled
The Emerson Elementary School 6th grade choir will present American Bicentennial music programs at 1:30 p.m. Monday and 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school's cafeteria.

TIA Says Full Service Near

HOUSTON (AP)—Texas International Airlines says full service resumption is nearing completion following a four-month strike.

Airlines officials said Friday the carrier is adding 46 more flights to its schedule today.

The carrier will resume service today to Salt Lake City, Utah, and to Monterrey, Mexico, and additional flights will be added to a number of Texas and Louisiana cities and at Albuquerque, Los Angeles, Denver and Mexico City.

The additional flights will bring daily departures to 289 for the airline, vice president Jim O'Donnell said. Full resumption of service will be completed May 5, O'Donnell said, with additional flights to Tampico and Veracruz, Mexico.

However, he said the schedule at that time still will be 20 per cent below the number of flights the airline had before the strike which ended last Friday.

A 'Magic' Project

'Christmas in April 1975' is a magic name for a magic project which will turn 50 sub-standard dwellings into comfortable homes.

And it will all take place right here in the Tall City of Midland on April 26.

The only thing which isn't magic about it is the needed funds and materials with which to make the magic work.

But it is felt that Midlanders will come through in grand style as always before, as the date nears.

This is a community project which is bound to put stars in the crowns of all persons and groups involved in the program. It truly is a most rewarding project.

Christmas in April, just in case you came in late, is a community-wide program in which individuals, civic and service organizations and churches select and repair sub-standard dwellings.

The project is coordinated by the Human Relations Council of which Richard Schmidt is the executive director.

The homes selected for attention must have defects which cause discomfort or pose health hazards to the occupants. Recipients must own their homes, must be living at poverty level and must be unable to furnish the money, materials or help necessary to effect repairs.

All work in connection with the project is done by volunteers. Much of the materials is purchased at discount rates, while some is donated.

This is the third 'Christmas' project conducted here and it will by no means take care of all the houses needing repairs and qualifying for assistance.

This is a case of Midlanders taking care of their own, without seeking or receiving federal or state aid. This is the American way, and thank goodness that it hasn't gone out of style completely.

Some persons perhaps do not realize that there are persons in Midland living in poverty, residing in houses which are sub-standard, and then some.

If only all residents of the Tall City could see the looks of joy.

Bible Verse

'As for yourself, you shall go to your fathers in peace, you shall be buried in a good old age. And they shall come back here in the fourth generation, for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet complete.'—Genesis 15:15, 16.

The Scapegoat Gambit Is Dangerous Game

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — "A genuinely unfashionable opinion," wrote George Orwell in his classic "Animal Farm," "is almost never given a fair hearing, either in the popular press or in the highbrow periodicals."

On March 12, Maurice Stans, former finance director of the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign, and former commerce secretary, pleaded guilty in federal court here to five misdemeanor charges of violating campaign-election laws rather than endure another long and costly trial.

Stans had been acquitted last year along with former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell on charges of secret and illegal campaign contributions.

Since 1972 a rising number of individuals and corporations have been convicted of giving illegal political contributions. The law has been enforced with a vengeance against them, but not against labor unions and their officers.

"Despite an existing federal statute prohibiting labor unions from spending their dues money for partisan political activities," states Douglas Caddy in his book, "The Hundred Million Dollar Payoff" (Arlington House, $8.95), "organized labor today is contributing tens of millions of dollars to candidates gratitude, appreciation and thanksgiving which come over the faces of the occupants of the repaired, renovated dwellings once the work is completed, it would not be necessary to sound calls for money, materials and labor. . . . all would be available immediately to take care of hundreds of houses.

It truly is Christianity in action. This perhaps is why a number of Midland churches and their members are among the leaders in the program.

A $10,000 goal has been set for the Christmas in April 1975 project, but only about half that amount has been subscribed. Surely the goal will be exceeded as Midlanders learn of the need and rally to the cause.

In addition to money, building materials of all kinds are needed.

But if you really want to get a lift out of the project, join hands with those who actually do the work. This will put you in close contact with those you are helping, and you will be glad that you volunteered for this particular service.

Approximately 40 church, civic, social and other groups already have volunteered assistance of one kind or another, but more help is needed, so please don't go away before volunteering for service.

The Human Relations Council of Midland will be glad to furnish information concerning the project or to accept contributions and offers of material and labor.

For a really thrilling and enriching experience, become involved in Christmas in April 1975.

Caddy has detailed and documented U.S. labor unions' political campaign contributions in his book.

This "unfashionable opinion" and fact, however, receives little attention and rarely is given a fair hearing in the press. Such a gross double standard in American political life has lethal implications. For what it reveals is the existence of a concerted campaign to manipulate popular prejudice against a minority group in our society. If such a campaign were carried out against American blacks, Jews, or other minorities, it would cause a national furor. But today, and for a number of years previously, businessmen have come to occupy the position of scapegoats, held responsible for Watergate by reason of campaign contributions, for environmental pollution, inflation, high consumer prices and a host of other economic and social ills.

Viewed historically, this "scapegoat gambit" always ended in the total seizure of power by those who successfully manipulated mass prejudice and emotions. Lenin, in pre-revolutionary Russia, for example, made the Russian royal family and the upper class scapegoats of the ills of that society. Once in power, Lenin then singled out

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger reportedly has made up his mind that Portugal is turning Communist, but he can't seem to keep an ambassador there who will agree with him.

Last November, he summarily fired Ambassador Stuart Nash Scott, who disagreed that a Communist takeover of Portugal was inevitable. Scott was replaced by Ambassador Frank Carlucci, whose cables from Lisbon also dispute the Kissinger view.

Sources close to Kissinger say he is extremely sensitive about Communist encroachment in the Mediterranean area. When Portugal took Communists into the government, he feared this might stimulate similar developments in Spain and Italy.

He couldn't be shaken from the conviction, according to our sources, that Portugal's new military leaders were crypto-Communists. He concluded direly, therefore, that Portugal had begun the long slide into Communism.

But from Lisbon, Ambassador Scott warned this idea could become "the greatest self-fulfilling prophecy in history," diplomatic sources say. His cables to the State Department urged Kissinger to extend economic assistance to the new Portuguese government.

Kissinger dispatched a special team to Portugal to make an independent assessment. They returned with a report that essentially backed up Scott.

A congressional study mission, headed by Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Tex., also has supported the ambassador.

But Kissinger preferred to believe a few prominent, retired Americans who called in Portugal part-time.

Some of these retired Americans called the State Department to warn darkly that Lisbon was listing far to the left. One who had Kissinger's ear was retired Adm. George Anderson, a former Navy chief, former ambassador to Portugal and present chairman of the President's Intelligence Advisory Board.

Because of Kissinger's "allergy to the land-owning Kulaks and he convinced the impoverished masses that murdering millions of Kulaks and confiscating their property would relieve the miseries of the poor.

The more recent classic case of the scapegoat is Hitler and the Jews, who were held responsible for every ill of German society. Hitler's solution was to strip this minority of its rights, its economic and intellectual achievements, and give them to the German people.

Mass murder was the instrument to achieve this end. In China, Mao Tse-tung used the Chinese landowners in the same fashion as had Hitler and Lenin, and had millions murdered.

In each of these three historical examples the groups that became scapegoats were subjected to a long and protracted period of propaganda. In recent years, American businessmen have been attacked at every turn in books, newspaper articles, on television and in committee rooms and halls of Congress. Watergate and the Arab oil embargo represented a new high in the scapegoat game played by assorted political and intellectual leaders, although corporate managers had not created either of these situations.

Both problems were the products of unprincipled political leaders and their policies.

PEKING DUCK, SUKIYAKI—

The Asia Boom In Art, Food Continues

Copley News Service

NEW YORK — The "Asia boom" continues to permeate American cultural circles. Even if your idea of enjoying Asian culture is consuming Peking duck or sukiyaki, there is evidence that Americans' fascination with things Oriental has reached new heights and continues to expand unabated.

In 1972, before President Richard Nixon opened the Bamboo Curtain a crack, there were 130 Chinese restaurants — from chop suey joints to elegant dining palaces — in the greater Washington, D.C., and Baltimore area. Today there are over 400 such establishments.

In New York City there are over 1,000 Chinese restaurants — large and small — double the figure of five years ago.

Traveling from Washington — where the Exhibition of Archaeological Finds of the People's Republic of China is only the latest in a series of popular Asian exhibits — to New York is to find even more evidence of the enthusiastic rediscovery by Americans of Asian arts.

The continuing reports of new archaeological finds in China, the prospects of a fuller viewing in this country someday of the Chinese treasures in Taiwan's National Museum and the brisk market in Far East antiques provide assurance that the boom is going to be around for some time.

A visitor to New York on a recent weekend would find that city's always-satisfying art scene dominated by major Asian exhibits.

At the Metropolitan Museum there was the Momoyama display of Japanese art in the Age of Grandeur; a big show of screens, sliding doors and other forms from this great period of Japanese art. The pieces are loans from Japanese museums and private collectors and more than a third of them are national treasures or other registered objects.

Also at the Metropolitan was a fascinating exhibit called "The Great Wave" which showed how Japanese wood block prints influenced French impressionists and provided themes for some of the poster masterpieces of Henri DE Toulouse-Lautrec.

At Asia House, home of the Asia Society, was an exhibit of selections from a 1950 Asian buying spree by John D. Rockefeller III.

Rockefeller was guided on the purchasing tour by Sherman Lee, director of the Cleveland Museum, and came back with a variety of Japanese, Korean, Chinese, Cambodian and Indian objects — many of them stunning. These pieces are among those donated by Rockefeller to the Asia Society, which will soon move to new, enlarged quarters in mid-DE Toulouse-Lautrec.

Then there was Tsutsumi: the Art of the Japanese Package which has drawn rave attention on the television networks and in the national magazines. None of the objects in the show cost more than a few dollars, but they demonstrate vividly that despite Japan's advance into the industrialized arena, the basic delicacy and sense of starkness of form and beauty are still utilized in functional gadgets.

Much of what is seen in gift shops in Asia today by the casual traveler browsing through Japan and Hong Kong and Bangkok and even Shanghai might be called Early Airport shock. But behind the sliding doors and the walled gardens of the other Asia is an artistic achievement that must cause Westerners to idle their motors and think.

INSIDE REPORT—

Choice By Rockefeller Reflects Polarization

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's choice as his new policy adviser of an outspoken liberal Republican from California who makes Ronald Reagan see red reflects both polarization and increasing confusion in the upper reaches of the Republican party.

John G. Veneman, widely esteemed as Under Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) throughout Richard M. Nixon's first term, will be announced soon as the new "counselor" to the vice president. "That's a slap in the face to the Governor," a gleeful Reagan insider informed us. His hope: the unpleasant news, reaching Reagan in London this week, will be another nudge toward challenging Mr. Ford for the presidential nomination.

At a minimum, picking Veneman confirmed that Rockefeller has abandoned conciliation of the Republican right and is returning to his home in the party's liberal wing. That is polarization. The confusion arises from the contrast with the President's efforts at warmer relations with Reagan, to the point of inviting the Reagans for an intimate family meal last week.

Moreover, that "slap in the face" comes while Reagan seems moving, though with infinite caution, toward a presidential challenge. While the White House had yet to take the first preparatory step toward the 1976 campaign, Reagan's political operatives assembled in Washington last week for hours of political talk.

Actually, Veneman's selection is described by Rockefeller insiders as devoid of political significance. The vice president needed somebody who knows his way around both Capitol Hill and the bureaucracy and understands the issues. Who could fill that bill better than Jack Veneman? "This was not a political appointment," a Rockefeller spokesman told us in all seriousness.

But Veneman is a politician to his fingertips who, of course, will be advising Rockefeller on politics as well as health care legislation. Accordingly, his political background takes on significance.

As a young state assemblyman, Veneman vigorously supported Gov. Rockefeller against Sen. Barry Goldwater in the bloody California presidential primary of 1964. After serving as Gov. Reagan's liberal Republican hairshirt in the legislature, Veneman came to HEW in Washington — much to Reagan's public displeasure. That produced transcontinental feuding about welfare issues.

Returning to California in 1973, Veneman was the only prominent Republican to oppose Reagan's unsuccessful referendum to limit state spending and publicly nailed the governor for exaggerating how much he had saved on welfare.

Contentions by the vice president's aides that these political facts were not considered is of a piece with Rockefeller's own claims that his rulings in the Senate filibuster debate on Rule 22, which so infuriated conservative senators, were procedural in origin without political relevance. In truth, both Rule 22 and Veneman illustrate the end of Rockefeller's most recent courtship of the right.

Nor does Rockefeller's new course seem coordinated with the President, who would have ruled differently on Rule 22 and prefers not to offend Ronald Reagan. The latter desire explains Mr. and Mrs. Ford inviting the Reagans to dinner-for-four at a rented Palm Springs mansion April 2.

Nor did it affect the secret gathering in Washington a day earlier of Reagan political operatives. Present were four senior members of Reagan's last staff as governor — Ed Meese, Robert Walker and Mike Deever from California and Jim Lake from Washington — plus Washington lawyer John Sears, a manager of Nixon's brilliant 1968 delegate hunt. The quintet dined long and well at two expensive restaurants, the Sans Souci for lunch and the Palm for dinner, discussing Reagan's presidential prospects in detail.

That is something less than a real campaign operation which would require Reagan's consent, but it may be something more than Mr. Ford has. The President talks of setting up an election committee at summer's end (later than his political aides prefer), but nothing has yet been planned — "unless," says one aide, "it's in somebody's mind."

Jack Anderson

Communist problems around the Mediterranean," say our sources, he was "predisposed" to believe the reports from the American colony in Portugal.

He reacted, first, by firing Ambassador Scott.

Then Kissinger adopted a wait-and-see policy toward the new Portuguese government. This weakened the moderates, such as President Francisco da Costa Gomes and Foreign Minister Mario Soares. It took pressure from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., after a stopover in Portugal, to get Kissinger grudgingly to release $25 million in credits and grants to the new government. But his basic attitude, according to our sources, remains unchanged.

Meanwhile, 44-year-old Frank Carlucci, a former trouble shooter for ex-President Richard Nixon, has taken over as the new U.S. ambassador. He hadn't been in Lisbon long before he began echoing Scott's views.

Carlucci has argued that the United States must take a "constructive view" toward Lisbon's leftist leaders and work with them. "Henry" said one source, "is rather unhappy."

For the record, the State Department had no comment on the dismissal of Ambassador Scott. A spokesman said, however, that "the secretary has full and complete confidence in Ambassador Carlucci."

DETROIT DILEMMA: A confidential study by former General Motors vice president John DeLorean reports the small cars President Ford has prescribed for fuel economy will increase auto deaths by 40 per cent unless there is "rapid phase-in of air bags. . . ."

The DeLorean study, commissioned by Allstate Insurance, says the less safe small cars will make up 65 per cent of the market by 1985. But without the air bags and other safety devices, the upsurge will lead to 2.7 million deaths and injuries from autos by 1985. Costs of the safety devices, he suggests, could be more than met by decreased manufacturers' costs for smaller cars and by dropping useless options.

Historic Forces Test Ford

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Until 16 months ago the world of Gerald R. Ford was pretty well circumscribed by the boundaries of Michigan's 5th Congressional District and the views of the conservative Republican constituency there he served so well.

Then in a totally unprecedented sequence of domestic events he was catapulted first into the vice presidency of the United States on Dec. 6, 1973, and then the presidency on Aug. 9, 1974—both without election or popular mandate.

Today he sits at the vortex of a whirlpool of historic forces that is testing Gerald Ford the man and Gerald Ford the President with the crushing weight of multiple crises as severe, if not more so, as many of those faced by other recent presidents.

At home the American Republic is struggling to pull out of the worst recession since World War II, overcome double-digit inflation, curb federal deficits mounting toward unprecedented totals, fight off a frightening drift toward isolationism, and somehow develop an energy policy that will end the tyranny of cartel-set foreign oil prices.

Abroad the United States is reeling under the collapse of its policy in Southeast Asia, a growing threat to the stability of the southern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a serious setback to U.S.-directed peace efforts in the Middle East, the Soviet Union's steady advance toward superiority in strategic nuclear arms and growing foreign doubts about the constancy of American policy.

To compound these and other mushrooming difficulties, Mr. Ford has assumed the once-formidable powers of the presidency at a time when those powers have been seriously eroded.

Unlike other presidents his authority to deploy, or even threaten to deploy, U.S. forces abroad has been curtailed by the War Powers Act of 1973 and congressional edicts forbidding use of U.S. funds to provide military help for collapsing allied regimes in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Likewise, the once-firm rock of bipartisan cooperation in foreign policy that other presidents could count on has been shattered.

Even worse, Mr. Ford has been denied even the full support of his own Republican party by an ideological schism of conservative members, let alone support from an overwhelming Democratic majority in both houses of Congress.

Nevertheless, it is perhaps no exaggeration to say that even if Gerald Ford cannot wield the powers of a strong president, he does bring some attributes to the office that may yet prove highly suited to the times.

In an age of vipers, when the various congressional power centers each want to go their own way, he is a compromiser, a man who seeks out the middle ground in search of consensus, focus and direction.

Perhaps even more important is Mr. Ford's largely unflappable nature. He has demonstrated a surprising ability so far to remain calm under severe provocation during his eight months in office.

Gerald Ford, 61, was born Leslie King in Omaha, Neb., July 14, 1913. His mother's first marriage ended in divorce. She moved to Michigan where she married Gerald R. Ford Sr., a paint company executive who adopted her son and gave him his name.

After 47 months in the Navy during World War II and marriage to the former Elizabeth Bloomer, he was elected to Congress for the first time in 1948.

There he remained in the House of Representatives for 25 years.

Then, suddenly, with little warning, he was selected by then-President Nixon to succeed Vice President Spiro Agnew who was forced to resign under pressure.

A scant eight months after assuming that office under provisions of the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, he was suddenly swept into the presidency when Nixon resigned on Aug. 9, 1974, rather than face impeachment because of the Watergate scandal.

It is from his newly occupied presidential office in the White House that Gerald Ford now looks out over a world suddenly expanded from the perspective of a single congressional district to the outer limits of the globe.

In today's climate of Communist gains in Asia, deteriorating NATO cohesiveness in Europe and economic strain coupled with political divisiveness at home, the President is struggling to find solutions that are as elusive today as they were for all of his predecessors and their difficulties.

It is one of those times of testing that come so often to leaders of nations who aspire to greatness, only to find their powers are limited to those of mortals.

Education Conflict Pointed Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The bleak employment prospects for this year's liberal arts graduates point up, in the view of some authorities, a basic conflict in the American concept of education.

The conflict is mainly between educators and employers, but it is the graduate who suffers. Educators tend to stress the value of a broad education; employers seem to prefer the more practically educated youngster.

As a consequence, reliable estimates place at 17 million the number of broadly educated liberal arts graduates by 1980-1981, nearly triple the number of 1960, while another study shows a shrinking market for their skills.

The College Placement Council, for example, found that liberal arts hiring decreased over the past five years, with three-fourths of employer respondents to a study saying they fill less than 10 per cent of openings from liberal arts ranks.

While aggravated by the recession, the problem is also part of a long-term trend to fewer sources of employment in such traditional areas as teaching and social services.

This forces the CPC, a non-profit organization whose membership includes college placement officers and employers alike, to conclude that if basic improvements are to be achieved, it is necessary to develop an adequate corps of specialists in career counseling and placement.

Essential — but apparently unlikely for the time being. "Relatively little money is available to implement work in career counseling and placement in four-year colleges,"

Lubbock Crusade To Be This Year

LUBBOCK (AP) — The Billy Graham evangelistic crusade scheduled here in August 1976 has been rescheduled for this August, a crusade spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said Dr. Graham will conduct the West Texas Crusade at Texas Tech's Jones Stadium Aug. 27-31 rather than next year because of a conflict in dates with another crusade planned in Washington, D.C.

says Robert Herrick, CPC executive director and a veteran observer of job trends.

"Right at the time when these youngsters need all the help they can get in four-year colleges; the colleges have less and less money available, and they get none from the federal government," he laments.

Where It Is
Almost the entire federal emphasis on career education is at the high school and junior college level, he argues, leaving the financially pressed four-year schools without the ability to advise their students.

While that dilemma remains to be resolved, the CPC believes other changes might be equally urgent. For one thing, Herrick believes students must be provided an expanded choice of courses in the form of minors and electives.

And it is important also, he insists, that programs be developed to provide internships, part-time work and summer jobs, all of which, of course, provides students with a realistic view of the world in which they must earn a living.

The CPC has scheduled a national meeting May 27-30 in Washington, D.C., to seek ways to achieve a better matching of education and career opportunities. Even if answers are forthcoming, however, they won't help this year's class very much. Almost all indicators show a bleak job market, "the worst of the 70s," says Herrick.

Let's Hear It, Skeptics, For Teen-Agers Of Today

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Editor, Copley News Service

Those of you who think today's teen-agers are 100 per cent bad should meet 15-year-old Julie Bradley of San Diego, Calif.

Brown-haired with hazel eyes, Julie at first glance might seem like any other modern teen-ager. She likes to wear jeans and she smiles a lot. She obviously is a happy girl and she has an uncommon sense of courtesy for her elders. Perhaps her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Bradley, both working parents, have something to do with her good traits.

One trait, however, stands out more than any other and it is the making of this story.

The trait is consideration for others with a special feeling for animals. The expression of this wholesome aspect of Julie's upbringing reached somewhat of a zenith recently.

Some months ago the San Diego Humane Society received a complaint about cats being set afire by incredibly heartless youngsters. Eventually four teens—a brother, sister and two neighborhood boys—were found. Tired of watching tv, they decided it would be fun to set the family cat on fire. And, they did. Their reasoning? "Because all our friends do it."

State Humane Officer Wayne Hebert eventually found the cat hiding under a car. He was taken to a veterinarian with second degree burns over most of his body.

Over a year's time the Humane Society Animal Shelter puts to sleep over 30,000 cats, but this case was a challenge and it was decided to bring the cat back to health, if possible.

At this point, Julie Bradley stepped in. In an interview, she said she saw no good sense in reviewing what she thought of the four teens' idea of "fun," but with nearly 500 hours of volunteer work at the Animal Shelter behind her, she was eager to help in saving "Tiger"—"that's what I decided to name him."

Every day for four months she took care of Tiger. "Lots of his fur was gone," she said, "and his skin was very red—and he was scared. I cleaned his cage, though, every day and helped the officers treating him and eventually he got to like me. I put him on a leash, walked him around the 'Farm,' a section of the Animal Shelter."

When Tiger recovered, Julie thought about adopting him, but her household seemed at the maximum in pet population. "We have a dog, a cat, four birds, several fish and a hamster," she said. However, a proper new owner was found, with Julie's OK, and Tiger now is in San Francisco. "I sure miss him," she said, "but we know this is a good family; they had to move up north from here."

With all this interest in four-legged animals, what about boyfriends? "Not much time for that," she said. "I'm working on my career."

The career, she hopes, will find her going to a school of veterinary medicine after high school graduation in 1977.

But, what new challenge is there after her successful nursing of Tiger? "Oh," she said, "we've got another 'special' cat at the Animal Shelter. He's one I call 'Trapper' and he got a paw stuck in a steel trap—but he'll be OK."

You can bet he will, with the help of Julie Bradley, a refreshing example of today's teen-agers.

Stop The Stench

To The Editor:

What can be done about the terrible stench coming from the feed lots west of town when the wind is in certain directions? We moved to this part of the country for the clean fresh air even though now and then we get the dust. No use making the Chicago stock yards out of the prairie. Allergies are bad enough but when that stuff blows in it is bad, bad!

Thanks From Lamessa

To The Editor:

On behalf of the board of directors of the Lamessa Chamber of Commerce, I would like to extend to you our appreciation for the fine coverage to Lamessa's Golden Tornado basketball team.

At our last board of directors meeting there was a discussion on the news coverage extended to the AAA state champions. The board unanimously agreed to vote that it would be most appropriate to express our appreciation. We realize the problem of putting the large quantity of news into a set amount of space. We feel that The Midland Reporter-Telegram has been most generous in covering not only our Lamessa sports news but other news items as well.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK—

Proposed Constitution 'Looks Better'

By STUART LONG
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — "I just can't believe it," the veteran House member said when the debate was all over on the new Texas Constitution, and the House of Representatives had adopted it.

"It's the same thing we turned down last summer, but it sure looks better now than it did then."

It was, indeed, one of those legislative miracles which result when people sit down and reason together, as the Prophet Isaiah and President Lyndon B. Johnson used to say.

And what is more, chances of approval of the streamlined Constitution by the voters on Nov. 4 are probably far better now than they would have been had the Legislature, sitting as a Constitutional Convention, submitted the same thing under black clouds of strife and controversy which governed last summer when the Constitutional Convention failed by three votes to submit the document.

The whole thing recalls that remark by Gov. Coke Stevenson back in 1944, when he felt he would "let that coffee cool" a bit before he commented on what was then the burning issue of the day.

The constitutional coffee had indeed cooled, and the men and women of the Legislature were able to agree to chop off the barbed-wire tails of "right to work" and gambling which made the 1974 version a wildcat while the 1975 version is a housebroken tabby cat.

The closest House vote was on the education article. Speaker Bill Clayton delayed announcing the vote as members were urged to switch and vote for it. Perhaps the note of humor injected by Rep. Carl Parker of Fort Arthur helped, because a laugh can relax one, you know.

"Mr. Speaker," Parker asked, "can we hold the board open a little longer. The bus from Liberty doesn't get in until 5:15."

He was referring, of course, to former Constitutional Convention President Price Daniel Jr., who gave up his political career in the hope it would help pass the new Constitution, and is now in law practice back home. His vote would have helped at the moment, but Parker, who had run against Clayton for speaker, may have helped stir up some of those last three votes that passed the article.

The document will be checked and doublechecked over the weekend, before the Senate accepts House amendments or puts it in a conference committee for correction if some error is found.

But it seems as certain as spring that Texans will be voting Nov. 4 on a streamlined, modernized Constitution which makes many improvements over the present one, and which really doesn't hurt anyone very much.

Of course, there are new members in the Senate and in the House who were not there last summer when the document with its "separate propositions" was turned down. This new blood helped, particularly in recognizing that the "right to work" provision was the major roadblock.

Things like this don't just happen. It took a lot of work, and talk, and compromise, and recognition that the folks had spent about $4 million for a new Constitution and it wasn't good business to let that money go to waste.

But what is more important, the document going to the people for a decision this fall will be going to the sound of a mockingbird's spring song instead of to the whine of a high wind and crashing thunder of controversy that dominated the Constitutional Convention last year.

We'll all have lots of time to look it over. There will be eight different propositions on the ballot. Maybe we'll like some and not the others. But at any rate, we'll get to say whether we want the new Constitution, after 100 years.

Dirt, Squirt & Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —
By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Agent

Agricultural producers would welcome April showers to replenish surface soil moisture depleted by winds and cool season vegetation, but so far they have been very light. Cool temperatures are slowing the growth and development of early gardens, lawns and ornamentals. Losses of livestock from the lush growth of weeds on native pastures in the early spring has slowed apparently as the weeds have matured.

A team of cotton specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will present a program on cotton production at the Valley View Community Center at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Weakened cotton prices along with the inflated cost of productive items have placed producers in the position of needing to do the most efficient job of producing cotton possible. The meeting has been planned to help producers do that.

Dave Weaver, agronomist — cotton weed control from Texas A&M University, will discuss the latest recommendations and materials for controlling weeds in cotton. Dr. Calvin Parnell, cotton ginning and mechanization specialist, will cover the following topics: Status of harvest-aid chemicals, (2) new harvest techniques and what happens to cotton when it goes to the gin.

A rotation program to help bring back production on land where cotton has been grown for several years will be outlined by Dr. Kenneth Lindsey, area agronomist, Fort Stockton. Nematodes and cotton seedling disease organisms increase on land grown in cotton without rotation and cause production decline. A system of spring wheat followed by grain sorghum offers producers a chance for two cash crops in one season in a rotation plan. Lindsey will discuss budgets, production practices and expected returns under such a system. All persons interested in cotton production are invited to attend the meeting.

A pecan budding and grafting school and pruning demonstration will be conducted here Thursday. Dr. Michael Kilby, area extension horticulturist from El Paso, will present the demonstrations. The pruning instruction will be given at 3:30 p.m. in the Marjo Collins orchard located 8 1/2 miles east of Midland on Cole Park Road. The budding and grafting school will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the Semple orchard located 4 1/2 miles south on Rankin Highway. Anyone interested in pecan production is welcome to attend.

A proven method of growing tomatoes is by using cages to support the plant rather than staking and pruning. Cages are nothing more than cylinders made of reinforcing wire, hog wire, or similar material used to support the plant and keep the fruit off the ground.

The cylinder should be 18 inches to 20 inches in diameter and 2 1/2 to 5 feet tall. Concrete reinforcing wire is generally considered best and available in rolls of varying lengths, but most commonly in 5 feet widths. The cages are held together by bending and crimping the ends of the wire around one of the vertical wires. The cages should be placed over when they start to bloom and set fruit. One plant inside each cage is recommended.

For support, the bottom ring of the cage can be snipped off so that the cage can be pushed into the ground. It is highly advisable to support the cage with wooden or metal stakes to keep the cage from falling over later in the season. The plants are allowed to grow naturally within the cages. No pruning of the plant is necessary.

Man Charged In Knife Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — Levi Holts, 44, has been charged with murder in the slaying of Jerry W. Cooke, a high school biology teacher.

The body of Cooke, 38, was found Monday night in his apartment. He had been stabbed seven times in the chest and arm, police said.

Holts was arrested in Tucson, Ariz., on a charge of assault to murder a policeman there.

District Court Judge Kenneth Pacetti set no bond on the capital murder charge filed here Friday. Houston authorities were sent to Tucson to pick up Holts.

Ringing The Bell

By BOB TIEUHL

The Black Experience: Called the National Summit Conference of Religious Leaders, a recent Philadelphia meeting launched what the Rev. Jessie Jackson has called "a new silver rights movement" aimed at gaining for blacks and poor people a "bigger slice of the American economic pie—which is a big, rich one no matter how had the economy is."

He has urged support of the Congressional Black Caucus and said religious leaders throughout the nation would lobby for passage of black Rep. Augustus Hawkins' proposed Equal Opportunities and Full Employment Bill. Demands for such a bill were made on Jan. 15, when NSCR members led marchers around the White House several times and in more than 29 cities across the nation.

Among the National Summit Conference of Religious Leaders goals will be that of forming coalitions with religious leaders of all faiths and races. "We must seek allies, because I know we will never get blacks employed as long as whites are losing their jobs," remarked Jackson.

Tieuhl

"The black church and black religious leader," he added, "have always been in the struggle to save our people. (A similar attitude was expressed recently by the youthful and forceful new pastor of St. James Baptist Church, Odessa — the Rev. H. L. Steger, who has called for a strong and united organization of black churches and ministers in the Midland-Odessa area.) "The black church was born out of protest and black protest was born in the black church. Black religious leaders such as the Rev. Nat Turner, the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, Minister Malcolm X and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. — all have played major roles throughout history on behalf of black liberation and black progress. And the black church remains our most independent and most potent weapon for liberation and progress today." Mr. Jackson said.

Redd Foxx to be ousted as police chief? Bellringers in Taft, an all-black East Central Oklahoma community, report the recently re-elected woman mayor, Mrs. Lelia Foley, has vowed to oust comedian and tv star Redd Foxx as honorary police chief. Foxx was the first of three black tv stars to become honorary police chief of three all-black towns in Oklahoma. Flip Wilson took the job at Boley and Sammy Davis Jr. at Langston. Mayor Foley has charged Postmaster C. R. Grimmer of Taft with election violations.

Dallas-Fort Worth Area Population Figures Released

DALLAS (AP) — Garland passed Irving to become the second largest city in Dallas County, and Arlington got four times as many new residents as Fort Worth since 1970. Those are some of the population estimates contained in a recently released report by the North Central Texas Council of Governments. Garland has 119,900 residents, the estimates show. Irving has 113,600. Dallas grew from 844,401 in 1970 to 912,900 in 1975, estimated Gil Mossard, NTCOG planning associate. The report showed the fastest growing cities over 10,000 in the North Texas area to be Lewisville, up 17.2 per cent per year; Plano, up 16 per cent per year; and Carrollton, also up 16 per cent annually. In the five-year period, Fort Worth's population grew 8.274 to 401,750. Tarrant County's population jumped by 68,683, while Dallas County's population grew by 180,679.

Durban Experiments With Black Traffic Cops DUBAN, South Africa (AP) — The city's traffic police plan to use Africans for traffic duty in certain white residential areas for the first time on an experimental basis. The Africans will do the same work as their white colleagues and if trouble arises a white policeman will take control to resolve difficulties.

Dancers Prepare For Spring Gala

Midland's Permian Civic Ballet will utilize the talents of both junior and senior company members when it presents its annual Spring Gala here April 26.

The spring program, one of two dance evenings presented annually under auspices of Permian Civic Ballet Association, will offer the second act of the beloved "Swan Lake" ballet as well as the first act pas de trois from that famous classic. In addition, the gala will feature a work new to the Permian company's repertoire, "Etudes," choreographed by Harold Lander for the Royal Danish Ballet in 1948, which will showcase the talents of Permian company dancers. A third work scheduled for presentation is the pas de deux from the ballet "Esmeralda," to be danced by Bill Martin-Viscount of Fort Worth, artistic director for Permian Civic Ballet, and Anne Burton, a featured dancer with the Atlanta Civic Ballet company.

Permian Civic Ballet first presented its "Swan Lake" at last year's Spring Gala. The second act to be presented in its entirety in the upcoming concert will have Martin-Viscount as the prince, Miss Burton as the Swan Queen and Mark Borshelt, a member of the Memphis (Tenn.) Civic Ballet, as the prince's companion in the forest hunt. They will be backed by Permian dancers in the corps de ballet and in ensembles.

The "Swan Lake" pas de trois will feature Permian dancers Mary Motter and Cheryl Jones, joined by Borshelt.

Tickets for the gala in Lee High School auditorium will be for sale at the doors before performance time Saturday evening, April 26. Ballet season tickets purchased during the dance organization's membership campaign last fall will, of course, be valid for this second presentation of the current season.

Casa Getting New Look

FORT WORTH — There'll be some new looks at Casa Manana this summer.

The front lobby of Fort Worth's famed theater-in-the-round will boast a new decor. Usberettes will be wearing brand-new outfits.

But the biggest change will be down center on the Casa Manana stage where the "star policy" will be in effect for the entire summer season.

Bud Franks, producer and general manager for Casa Manana Musicals, Saturday unveiled the season's lineup of shows and stars.

"I Do! I Do!," that happy "You Can See Forever," is a mini-musical, will get the season started when it opens a two-week run May 26, continuing through June 7. Howard Keel and Patrice Munsel will be the stars and sole performers in this adaptation of Jan de Hartog's play, "The Fourposter." Keel and Miss Munsel have appeared as Michael and Agnes respectively in separate productions of the musical in the past, but this will be their first time to do the show together.

Next on the agenda is a one-week special billed as "An Evening With Roger Miller" in which the well-known singer will be performing many of his most famous song hits such as "King of the Road" and "Chug-A-Lug." Opening June 16 and continuing through June 28 will be a new production of "The Music of the Night."

The Giant Tortoise may live as long as 200 years.

Man" which will have no less than Van Johnson as the lovable con man, Prof. Harold Hill.

Then, from June 30 through July 12, another famous name will be the headliner in another famous musical, Martha Raye, star of stage, screen, television and the cabaret circuit, will portray the imitable Dolly Levi in the blockbuster musical, "Hello, Dolly!"

Miss Raye has done the role in previous "Dolly" productions around the country.

Musical About ESP. Next, from July 14 through July 26, an unusual little musical about ESP, "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever," is on the Casa Manana schedule. The star for this production has not yet been announced.

On July 28, the all-time favorite of Casa Manana audiences, the glamorous Ruta Lee, will open in a production of "Irene," one of the "nostalgia" musicals on Broadway in recent years. In addition to placing first on a preferential poll of Casa patrons

Taxes Largest Item In Average Family's Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Taxes are the largest single item in the average American spending two hours and 35 minutes of every eight-hour working day toiling for the government, the Tax Foundation Inc. says.

One hour and 38 minutes goes for federal taxes with another 37 minutes for state and local taxes, more than the working time required for food, housing, clothing, medical care and any other necessity, the foundation said Friday.

"I believe that when people get used to the idea that taxes are the largest single item in the average family budget, they are going to take more interest in what our legislators are doing with our money," said the foundation's executive director, Robert C. Brown.

The foundation is a publicly supported, nonprofit organization that does research on fiscal and management aspects of the government.

last summer, "Irene" also is the newest musical on the summer lineup. It closed in New York only last year.

The week of Aug. 11 will bring another "special" when "An Evening With Vicki Carr" presents the vivacious young singer in performances of many of her best-known hits, including before the season begins.

"It Must Be Him," Miss Carr's engagement will continue to be sold on an individual basis, but purchasers of Casa another "special" when "An Evening With Vicki Carr" presents the vivacious young singer in performances of many of her best-known hits, including before the season begins.

Two visiting barbershop quartets will be among featured entertainers at the Parade of Harmony coming up here Saturday night.

The 14th annual songfest, sponsored by the Permian chapter, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Inc. will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday in Theatre Centre, 2301 W. Indiana St. Admission will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under age 12. Tickets may be reserved by telephoning 683-2571 or 694-0549.

Joining the Permian chapter's own Sun Spots quartet and Sun Country Gentlemen chorus in the big show will be the Sound Association quartet from San Antonio and the Quassars from Austin.

The Sound Association is the current champion quartet in the Southwestern District of the championship competition to be SPERSQSA. The quartet held at Indianapolis next July, recently was successful in winning a qualifying spot in Austin is a great favorite with the SPERSQSA's international barbershop harmony fans throughout the Southwest, said Leo Mitchell, president of the SPERSQSA chapter here.

LITTLE SWANS — Several junior dancers in Midland's Permian Civic Ballet are shown as Cygnets or "little swans" in the famous "Swan Lake," which the Permian company will present in its annual Spring Gala here on April 26. From left are Kelly Walker, Anne de Compiegne, Betsy Halvorsen and Patti O'Neill.

Midlanders Working In 'Cabaret'

GEORGETOWN — The glittering gem of the current season for theater-goers in the Georgetown area will be the production of the musical "Cabaret" coming up next weekend. The show, produced by the Mask and Wig Players of Southwestern University here, will have performances at 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday and a 2:30 matinee next Saturday. All will be in the Alma Thomas Theatre on campus.

Drawn from the John Van Druten play, "I Am A Camera," which in turn was based on novelist Christopher Isherwood's famous "Berlin Stories," the musical "Cabaret" has music and lyrics by Kander and Ebb and book by Joe Masteroff. The play and now the musical brilliantly explore the destruction of personal lives and values in Berlin between the wars during the time the Nazis were first coming into power. The musical is a dazzling collection of tunes, colorful costumes and imaginative dancing.

Midlander Ann Thomas, a senior student majoring in theatre at SU, is one of the cast members for "Cabaret." Another Midlander, Mary Macina, a freshman theater major, is a member of the production crew for the musical. Both formerly were members of the Pickwick Players, the theater department faculty at SU, is directing the production. Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, and Miss Macina's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Macina.

Southwestern Area Art Show Opens At Museum Here May 3

'One Third Ninth' Set At Big Spring

BIG SPRING — "One Third Ninth" is the intriguing title of Big Spring Community Concerts Association's final entertainment attraction of its current season.

A trio of instrumentalists, including pianist, violinist and cellist, the ensemble will perform in Big Spring Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday. Members of Midland's Community Concerts Association may attend the event at no charge.

Win Ace In Haste; Repent At Leisure

If aces could speak, what would they say? Some of them might complain about cruel and inhuman punishment. A long-suffering ace might tell a player that he doesn't deserve anything better than deuces. Perhaps none of us would be completely safe. A polite ace might content himself with a low-key warning: Win in haste; repent at leisure.

Familiar Situation
The most familiar situation in which you delay taking an ace is the hold-up. For example, suppose you are declarer at three notrump with A-x-x of spades in your own hand and x-x of spades in the dummy. Spades are opened, and you hold up your ace. That is, you refuse to win the first or second spade trick.

If you must later give up the lead to develop your nine tricks, you hope that the opponent who takes the trick is now out of spades—thanks to your hold-up play. That opponent would be able to lead another spade if you had taken your ace of spades on the first or second round of the suit.

Suit Contracts, Too
The hold-up play is useful at suit contracts also, but not always for the same reason as at notrump. Instead of shutting out an entire long suit you may simply hope to save one trick by refusing to take the first trick.

In another familiar situation, when dummy has A-x of a side suit, you may refuse to take the ace in order to save it for a better time. If the opponents promptly lead trumps, your ace is still in dummy. If, instead, they continue the suit, you can get to your hand and lead a third card of the suit in order to ruff in dummy.

You may even refuse the first trick at a trump contract with A-x of the led suit in your own hand, and x-x in the dummy. In the most common such situation, the trick must be lost sooner or later; and you prefer to lose it before the opponents know what the hand is all about. If you took your ace at the first trick and later lost a trick in a different suit, the winner of that trick might get to his partner's hand in the first suit for some play that would defeat you.

Unusual Case
In today's hand we see an even more unusual case of refusing to take an ace. You have A-x in the dummy opposite a singleton in your own hand with a very powerful trump suit—and still the hold-up is the only correct play!

West leads the king of hearts, and if you trust me you will refuse to take that first trick. Let's see what happens if you take dummy's ace of hearts at the very first trick. Perhaps you draw a round or two of trumps, perhaps as many as three rounds. Sooner or later you will get around to the clubs, giving up a club trick in the hope of setting up the rest of the suit for discards.

No matter how you play the clubs, East will gain the lead. East will return the jack of diamonds, the opponents will take three diamond tricks and you will be down one.

Child Care Center Open For Business
The Midland Student Child Care Center is now open for business. Midland students—including those in high school, Midland College and UTPB—may leave children between the ages of three months and eight years at the center for 25 cents per child per hour.

The center is open to children of other ages under special conditions, according to Brenda Helms, center director. The center is open from 7:45 a.m. to 10:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 7:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Fridays. Meals served include a morning and evening snack and a hot lunch, planned by a dietitian. Planned curriculum includes play time, nap time and arts and crafts. In addition to the director, the center has two full-time child care workers. Located in the Christ Presbyterian Church, 2901 N. Garfield St., the center is licensed by the state. Registration forms are available at the center, and visitors are welcome, according to Mrs. Helms.

Today In History

Today in History
By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, April 13, the 103rd day of 1975. There are 262 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1743, the third American president and author of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, was born in Albemarle County, Va.

On this date — In 1366, King Richard II of England was born. In 1598, King Henry IV of France signed the Edict of Nantes, granting a large measure of religious liberty to the Protestant Huguenots.

In 1776, General George Washington arrived in New York to prepare the city's defense in the Revolutionary war.

In 1848, the island of Sicily was declared independent of Naples.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt dedicated the Jefferson Memorial in Washington.

In 1964, the Motion Picture Academy named Sidney Pottier best actor. He was the first black to win an Oscar in the top categories.

Ten years ago: President Johnson disclosed that he was sending former ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to consult on Vietnam with four friendly governments in Asia: Australia and New Zealand. Five years ago: The Pentagon reported that a Soviet submarine, apparently had sunk in the Atlantic northwest of Spain, with a heavy loss of life. One year ago: A special Syrian envoy went to Washington to discuss his government's detailed proposals for the separation of Syrian and Israeli military forces in the Golan Heights. Today's birthdays: Singletary Pons is 71. Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen is 68. Thought for today: Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty — attributed to Thomas Jefferson. Bicentennial footnote: It was 200 years ago today that the British Parliament passed a law forbidding the colonies of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and South Carolina from trading with other nations except Britain and the British West Indies. Similar action had been taken earlier against New England.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DAY SET FOR 1:30 P.M.

M-Cubs, El Paso Try Again Today At Cubs Stadium

For a team that got whitewashed, the Midland Cubs didn't look all that bad Friday night in their Texas League opener against the El Paso Diablos.

Saturday's game was chilled out, but Manager Howard "Doc" Edwards hopes the Chicago Cub farmhands can continue the good defense and supply lefthander Dave Geisel a few runs to work with in today's 1:30 p.m. game at Cubs Stadium.

It will be Elementary School Day—and special tickets were distributed at Bonham, Bowie, Burnet, Crockett, De Zavala, Emerson, Fannin, Henderson, Houston and Hillander schools.

The weatherman promised to ease up, mentioning temperatures in the 60's. Geisel, a 6-2½, 209 pounder from upstate New York who once struck out 21 consecutive batters in a high school game, posted a 12-7 record as a raw rookie and then was 2-2 in the fall instructional.

Although El Paso beat Midland, 2-0, on an 11-strikeout combined pitching effort by Frank Parrick and Mike Overy, the Cubs defense sparked with shortstop Mike Sember coming up with a series of outstanding plays along with second baseman Al Montreuil and centerfielder Joe Wallis.

Perhaps, most encouraging of all was the pitching of Don Schroeder, who kept the batters off balance by exhibiting pin point control, moving the ball around and varying his speeds. Don, who was 8-6 with Midland last year, was 9-4 for Edwards at West Haven in the Eastern League the year before with a 2.79 ERA.

Saturday's postponed game will be made up as part of a doubleheader when the Diablos return to Midland in June.

The teams clash again Monday and then Tuesday will feature Eddie Feigner, the King and his Court, against a team of Midland Softball Assn. All-Stars at 6:30 p.m.

As softball fans are aware, Feigner is something special. He not only takes on opposing nines with his three-player court, but beats them. And sometimes to even the odds, he'll pitch blindfolded.

After Tuesday's game, the Cubs head for San Antonio and a six-day stand against the Brewers.

Midland lefty Dave Geisel ... to face El Paso today

Nicklaus Struggles With 73

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Instead of a rout it became a race.

"I didn't do it," Jack Nicklaus said. "He did."

But Nicklaus was at least partially responsible. He struggled to a 73 in Saturday's third round of the Masters Golf Tournament, blew what appeared to be a commanding lead and watched in grim frustration as Tom Weiskopf assumed command with a six-under-par 66.

"I knew the way Jack was playing, I had to play a superior round of golf to get back in it," Weiskopf said.

"The third round is the swing round in a golf tournament," he said. "It is all important."

"I knew I had to put a good round on the board. I knew I couldn't afford a round of 72."

He responded with the six-under-par effort that brought him from six shots back to a one-stroke advantage after three rounds of this celebrated event.

"Actually," Nicklaus said, "a 73 wasn't that bad. It was the three-putts."

"I had a chance, if I'd shot a good round, to just about put it out of reach. The nice thing about being well in front, you can afford a round like this. You can shoot this kind of score and not be out of it."

"I'm not in bad position at all. I can't say I'm happy to blow the lead, but I'm not in bad position. Anytime you're within one shot after three rounds at Augusta, you're okay."

And that's the position he's in, one shot back.

Tall Tom, a three-time runner-up in this event but never a winner, put together a 54-hole total of 207, nine under par in sunny and windy weather on the Augusta National Golf Club course, 7,020 yards of rolling Georgia hills that suddenly turned a potential rout into a race.

Nicklaus, who matched a couple of tournament records over the first two rounds and appeared poised to make it a run-away, suddenly developed some putting problems and plummeted back to second with a struggling, one-over-par 73.

At 208, he trails Weiskopf by one going into today's last round of the chase for the famed green jacket Nicklaus has won four times previously and Weiskopf wants so desperately to wear for the first time.

Record-setting Johnny Miller, meanwhile, copped a couple of more standards—but missed the one he wanted—and suddenly became a factor in this prestige-laden tournament that holds such a unique position in the world of golf.

The slender blond, who has the happy habit of forging some extremely low scores, reeled off an improbable string of six birdies in a row and shot a seven-under-par 65 that gave him a 211 total, five under par and four back of Weiskopf.

Red-haired Tom Watson was next, matching par 72 for 212 as such glamor names as Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Lee Trevino and Gary Player joined Nicklaus in the miseries of the mid-70s.

But still he kept trying, fighting it all the way. He swung so hard at one tee shot he almost left his feet and got some good-natured ribbing from Nicklaus.

He was tied with Trevino, who was as grim-faced as an Aztec god in his frustrations. Trevino, promoted to make another of his off-again, on-again appearances here after he won the PGA National Championship last fall, shot himself out of title contention with a 74. He was tied with Palmer and the other Miller, Allen Miller, at 215. Allen, no relation to Johnny, had a 72.

Player, the little South African who won this crown and the British Open title last year, went to a 73—eight shots higher than Johnny Miller, his playing partner—and was at 219.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin had a 71—218.

The dramatic swing from Nicklaus to Weiskopf was reminiscent of the third round of the Heritage Classic just two weeks ago. Nicklaus owned a six-shot lead going into that one, but shot a 74 and Weiskopf tied him with a 68. Nicklaus, however, won the Heritage on the final day. "Yes," Weiskopf agreed after a question, "this is a lot like it—but I sure hope it doesn't turn out the same way."

Chicago Trips Montreal Nine Behind Morales

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Morales' two-run single keyed a four-run rally in the eighth inning that carried the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

The Cubs staged their comeback off Dale Murray, who relieved Montreal starter Dave McNally.

After Jose Cardenal walked, Bill Madlock sent the runner to third with a single to center. Rick Monday then doubled to left center, chasing home Cardenal to tie the score at 3-3. Morales then singled to center to score Madlock and Monday with the winning runs and later scored the fourth run of the rally on an infield error.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Cardenal doubled, stole third and scored on Madlock's infield out.

Montreal tied it in the third on a double by Larry Parrish, a sacrifice bunt and Tim Foli's infield out. The Expos went ahead in the fourth as singled, sacrifice bunt and Barry Foote's single.

McNally opened the Montreal seventh with a scratch single. Larry Lintz forced the pitcher but Foli beat out an infield single with Lintz going all the way to third. Mike Jorgensen then forced Foli as Lintz scored, giving the Expos a 3-1 lead.

The Cubs added a run in the bottom of the seventh on two singles and a pinch double by Ron Dunn.

COLBERT CONNECTS—Tigers Batter Yankees, 7-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Nate Colbert's grand-slam home run and Bill Freehan's solo blast highlighted a seven-run seventh inning that carried the Detroit Tigers to a 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday.

Freehan started the outburst with a homer off Pat Dobson, 0-1, then the Tigers loaded the bases on Dan Meyer's single, a walk to Tom Verzyer and Aurelio Rodriguez' single. Another run scored when third baseman Graig Nettles bobbled Ron Leflore's grounder and Gary Sutherland made it 3-0 with a sacrifice fly.

Sutherland took second on the throw home. Willie Horton was intentionally walked to load the bases and Colbert cleared them with his homer, a line drive that curved around the left field foul pole.

Both games will be made up at 4 p.m. Thursday with the Rebels playing the Bronchos at Fly Field in Odessa while the Bulldogs will entertain the Panthers on the Memorial Stadium diamond. Braves Nip Giants, 7-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Darrell Evans belted a three-run homer and the Atlanta Braves broke a 4-4 tie on an error and a wild pitch in the fifth inning to beat the San Francisco Giants 7-4 Saturday.

Ralph Garr started the winning rally with an infield single and Marty Perez walked, chasing loser John D'Aquisto, 0-1.

With one out, Mike Lum was safe on a fielder's choice and Garr scored the go-ahead run when first baseman Gary Thomasson threw wildly trying to force Perez at second. Perez eventually scored on Charlie Williams' wild pitch to give the Braves an insurmountable 6-4 lead.

Doubles by Bobby Murcer and Chris Speier and rookie Marc Hill's first major-league baseball homer gave the Giants a 3-0 lead in the second inning off winner Carl Morton, 2-0.

Oakland Tops Texas

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Oakland's Vida Blue and Rolfe Fingers teamed on a three-hitter, and Sal Bando and Billy Williams hit home runs for the A's in a nationally televised 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday.

Bando's homer drove in three runs and Williams' was his first in the American League, off former teammate Ferguson Jenkins.

It was Blue's second victory of the season. Tom Grievie's 370-foot homer over the left field wall in the third inning and Lenny Randle's run-scoring single in the ninth accounted for the only hits off the Oakland left-hander, who was replaced by Fingers with two out in the ninth. Fingers surrendered a two-run single to Jeff Burroughs.

Blue retired 20 of the first 21 batters he faced.

Williams, who hit 392 homers in 19 seasons in the National League for the Chicago Cubs, greeted good friend Jenkins with a 370-foot line drive homer in the second inning. Jenkins was a 20-game winner six times for the Cubs before coming to the Rangers where he won 25 games in 1974.

With Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and AL President Lee MacPhail looking on, designated hitter Grievie timed a Blue fastball perfectly on a 3-and-2 count to tie the score.

Bando's two-out homer, his first of the year, followed singles by Ted Kubiak and Bill North in Oakland's fifth frame.

Jenkins was treated roughly by the hard hitting A's. He beat them five times in five outings last year but surrendered 10 hits Saturday in seven innings en route to his second loss of the year.

The A's chased Jenkins in the eighth inning when Reggie Jackson doubled and Joe Rudi singled. Jim Merritt got Williams on a pop fly to right field.

Ranger Manager Billy Martin brought on Stan Thomas who forced Gene Tenace to pop to third. Oakland scored its fifth run when Thomas balked a throw to first base, scoring Jackson. Kubiak lined to left field to end the inning.

Hunt Paces Race Qualifiers

SILVERSTONE, England (AP) — James Hunt of Britain won the pole position in a Hesketh Ford in the final moments of qualifying Saturday for today's international Formula 1 auto race.

Shakeup Reported In Rice Coaching Staff

HOUSTON (AP) — One Rice University assistant basketball coach says he has been fired, another says he may resign and the Houston Post said Saturday it had learned that the head coach is seeking another job.

Greg Williams said he was fired by Head Coach Bob Polk late Friday. McCoy McLemore said he plans to meet with Polk Monday and may resign.

The Houston Post said it had learned from sources in Nashville, Tenn., that Polk had applied for the job as commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference.

Polk was not available for comment.

Last season was Polk's first as Rice coach. The Owls finished the season with a 5-21 season mark and were last in the Southwest Conference race with a 2-12 record.

Polk, who replaced Don Knodel last spring, also has coached at Vanderbilt, Trinity University and St. Louis.

Both Williams and McLemore were hired by Knodel. Williams was at Rice four years and McLemore two years.

"I talked with Bob Polk Friday and said I wanted to talk to him Monday," McLemore said. "As to whether or not I will submit my resignation at that time I haven't decided."

Williams said he was told he was fired late Friday.

"Polk told me I was gone," he said. "He said I had been only on a one-year trial basis. He said he didn't really know me and that he was recommending that my job be terminated. I asked him specifically the reason and he said it was a budgetary move."

Angels Topple Chisox By 4-3

ANAHEIM (AP) — Leroy Stanton belted a one-out home run into the left field bullpen in the 10th inning to give the California Angels a 4-3 victory Saturday over the Chicago White Sox.

Stanton's home run came off Chicago lefty Wilbur Wood and made a winner out of Andy Hassler.

The Angels tied the game 3-3 in the seventh when Morris Nettles singled, stole second and scored on Tommy Harper's two-out single to left.

Hot-hitting Dave Chalk doubled with one out in the second to ignite a two-run California rally against Wood. Chalk's double just inside the left field line was his seventh straight hit over a three-game span. With two out, Ellie Rodriguez drew a walk and rookie Jerry Remy's line-drive double up the alley in left center scored both runners.

The hit was Remy's fourth in a row.

Chicago, blanked in each of its last two games, snapped a string of 21 scoreless innings when they accosted Hassler for three runs to take the lead in the fourth.

Buddy Bradford and Bill Melton launched the inning with singles and Ken Henderson followed with a run-scoring double to left.

A throwing error by Angel shortstop Orlando Ramirez on Deron Johnson's ground ball enabled Melton to score before Bucky Dent singled to left, scoring Henderson with the third Chicago run. Johnson also attempted to score on Dent's hit but was cut down at home plate on a throw by Mickey Rivers.

Royals Edge Past Twins

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Hal McRae singled home the winning run in the 10th inning, lifting the Kansas City Royals to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday. Cookie Rojas backedhand the ball and flipped to Patek, but the little shortstop threw past first base for an error. Steve Braun's ground ball moved Bostock to third and Briles wild-pitched him home.

The Royals evened the count in the last half of the first with an unearned run. Amos Otis doubled with one out, held second when Danny Thompson booted Mayberry's grounder for an error and scored one out later on Tony Solaita's single. Twins' starter Bert Blyleven pitched out of a bases-full, one-out jam in the sixth by getting a foul to Eric Soderholm at third. Singles by Otis and McRae around a walk to Mayberry got Blyleven into trouble.

AAU Swimming—Trojan Entries Shatter Records

CINCINNATI (AP)—John Harshbarger and John Naber, a pair of durable teen-agers, shattered American records in the grueling 1,650-yard freestyle on the final night of the National Amateur Athletic Union short course indoor swimming championships Saturday.

Naber, 19, accomplished his feat in relative obscurity late in the afternoon when Keating Natatorium was nearly empty of swimmers and fans. His fourth heat time of 15 minutes, 9.51 seconds lowered the national standard by nearly six seconds.

Miss Harshbarger, 18, was cheered on by a full house as the night finals began. She said the crowd's urging was a big assist in her women's mark of 16:27.11.

"They (the crowd) were very loud. It helped me a lot," said the 5-foot-4 1/2, 117-pound high school senior from Bellevue, Wash.

Naber, a 6-foot-6 sophomore from the University of Southern California, wiped out Mike Bruner's national record of 15:16:30 set in the 1974 AAU indoor meet.

Miss Harshbarger's performance erased the old record of 16:28:27. Karen Hazen established in last year's meet. This time the defending champion was clocked in 17:02.96 and failed to make the top eight.

The two's efforts gave the women nine American records and the men three during the four-day meet. Southern California had clinched the men's title with 321 points, a whopping 123 points in front of runnerup UCLA. Indiana was third with 189 points going into the last eight events.

Mission Viejo, Calif., was out front in the women's race with 214 points. Santa Clara, Calif., Conference baseball doubleheader Saturday.

TCU shelled Arkansas with 11 hits for a 13-1 decision in the first game. TCU's unearned run in the nightcap allowed back-to-back singles by Horner and Mike Turner.

Arkansas sent the game into extra innings on a two-run single by Bill Murphy in the ninth. Arkansas threatened to tie in the 10th on three walks but relief hurler Sonny Cason struck out Miller and Ralph Bradbury to end the game.

The victories raised TCU's season record to 25-11 and 11-7 in the SWC. Arkansas dropped to 15-17 and 5-10.

Naber, a 6-foot-6 19-year-old, paced the Trojans' romp by winning the 100- and 200-yard backstrokes and anchoring USC's record-shattering 800 freestyle relay. His performance came on the heels of his three American records in the NCAA meet two weeks ago. Up until the finals Saturday night, the women had taken the individual glory away from the men in the 25-yard Keating Natatorium pool. They had smashed eight American records to just three for the men.

Naber accounted for the third men's record in his heat of the 1,650 freestyle. The sensational Menlo Park, Calif., resident was timed in 15:09.51, nearly six seconds better than Mike Bruner's old American mark.

MHS Gymnasts Finish Second

ODESSA—The Midland High gymnastic team won second in the regional gym meet at Odessa Permian Friday to qualify for the state meet in Austin April 25-26.

Permian, the host team, won top honors with other teams being Lee, El Paso Eastwood and El Paso Ysleta.

Midland High's Pam Williams won second in the floor exercise and fifth in the beam for a fourth in the all-around standings. Diane Freshour had a fifth in the vaulting and fifth all-around. Courtney O'Hearn was the other Midland High entrant.

Lee also turned in some good efforts with Polly Haney earning a fifth in the beam and sixth all-around and Janet Moore had a fourth in vaulting. Bill Mitchellson also had a third in the floor exercise for Lee.

HOUSTON (AP)—Pitcher James Emmons won both games Saturday as the Rice Owls swept a Southwest Conference baseball doubleheader from the Houston Cougars, 7-6, 8-5.

Emmons mopped up late in the first game as the Owls struck for a pair of runs in the seventh for the victory and then added 5 1-3 inning of scoreless work in the nightcap as Rice prevailed again.

David Hussman and Doug Phillips hit solo home runs for Houston in the first game and Rice's big blow was a bases loaded triple by Mark Clark in the fourth.

Ernie Janik rapped a two-run homerun for Rice in a five-run Owl fourth inning of the second game.

Permian Sprints To One Point Victory Over Lee

THE RACE THAT DID IT—Odessa Permian's Jerry Burger (left) heads for the finish line and a startling upset in the 100-yard dash in Friday's District 5-4A track meet. Permian won the first two places in the event and went on to edge Lee for the title, 105-104. Cooper's Tim Byrom (center) finished fifth, and Abilene's Harold Jones (right) finished sixth.

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

The upset minded Odessa Permian Panthers pulled off some startling surprises in the sprints, used their depth to advantage and captured a narrow one point victory over Midland Lee in the District 5-4A track meet Friday in Memorial Stadium.

The Rebels, a very slight favorite going into the meet, are probably still counting the ways they could have added an additional point or two, and when you think about it, there were many ways the Rebels could have won it all, and erased the 105-104 final deficit.

Permian received the boost they needed in the 100 yard dash when Jerry Burger and Greg Mitchell produced a 1-2 sweep over the heavy favorite of Abilene's Donnell Baldwin.

Spring Decisive
Mitchell and Burger then turned around and won second and third in the 220 to give the Panthers a sizable lead heading into the mile relay.

Lee, however, still stood a chance to win the meet by winning the mile relay, but Abilene's Charles Green held off a determined bid by Lee's Otis Butler on the final leg as the Rebs finished second and one point shy of a district championship.

The meet was full of surprises and upsets were the order of the day rather than the exception.

Lee's Milton Jones, however, was a steady factor as he won both the shot and discus to become the only two event winners of the day. Jones broke Bill Woodard and Lee's Russell Kellner swept the top two spots put with a heave of 61-0½ and in a major upset.

Munson Ewald, however, got a taste of revenge in the 330 hurdles when he produced a fine 38.5 to nip the favorite from Midland High, Larry Munson. Munson had not lost to Ewald this year, but stumbled slightly over the final hurdle to give Ewald the lead at the tape. It must be noted that Munson took a bad spill in the prelims, and still got up and won his heat despite some agonizing pain. That kind of fall surely took its toll in the finals.

Lee's Tim Parker posted his best time of the year with a 50.4 in the 440 to pull off another upset, but this one came over his own teammate Butler, who finished second. Earl Evans finished fifth.

Abilene and Permian won the qualifying positions in the sprint relay. Midland High was hoping to qualify at least one relay team for the regionals, but their

Warm Weather Perks Up Bass Fishing At Amistad

Warm weather triggered a surge of black bass fishing activity at Amistad Lake with some excellent strings caught recently. Fishermen casting swimming baits in shallow water portions of the lake have enjoyed the most success.

FULL DAY'S WORK—Glynn McGonagill shows off this string of bass caught in the Rio Grande arm of Amistad Lake.

Rio Grande turkey gobblers will be fair game in 30 Texas counties during the latter part of April. In Crockett County the special season is from April 27 to May 5. Hunters will be permitted one gobbler.

The key to hunting spring turkey successfully is the ability to imitate the call of a lovesick turkey hen, however, unskilled calling is worse than none at all.

Whenever you head for the great out-of-doors, beware of the hazardous to your health, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept.

Roasting wieners over a campfire calls for a stout twig, but one from an oleander bush could make it your last meal. Even smoke from a burning oleander effects some people. A single bite of the roots of water hemlock, found in wet, low ground, can kill a man by convulsions.

Poison hemlock looks like parsley, but this notorious plant of fields and roadsides lives up to its name by causing fatal paralysis. And don't add wild hydrangea buds to your outdoor salad, unless you can tolerate cyanide compounds.

Horse chestnuts look tempting and Indians also used them for food, but only after leaching them to remove the poison. Bouncing bet might be used as a soap substitute because its juices lathers, but it also causes severe digestive irritation.

Don't chew on bluebonnets either. Most lupines, especially ripe seeds, have some degree of toxic alkaloids which can cause fatal convulsions. Buttercup juices can injure the digestive system and cause temporary blindness.

Okay, Ewell, you can take over now.

Panthers Hang On In Golf

Permian Staves Off Late Bid By Favored Angelo

Odessa Permian held on to win the District 5-4A golf championship for the second straight year despite some super golf by the San Angelo Bobcats at the Midland Country Club.

The Panthers held a 14-stroke lead going into the final and San Angelo made up nine strokes but failed to overcome the winners.

Under the windy and cool weather conditions, the Bobcats came up with a determined effort despite the tee placements.

Permian winds up with a five-tourney total of 1539 compared to San Angelo's 1544. The Panthers shot a team total of 320 while the Bobcats turned in a score of 311.

The Panthers and Bobcats move on to the Class AAAA regional golf tourney April 24-25 at Lubbock's Meadowbrook Golf Course.

Mark Mattingly sank a beautiful 40-foot putt on the par five 15th green for an eagle and the Bobcats pulled to within four shots of the Panthers, but Permian gained another stroke Lee and Bill Dodd of San Angelo

Biometer To Prevent Injuries To Athletes?

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—A Montana podiatrist says he's in the final stages of perfecting an instrument to prevent injuries among athletes.

Dr. Robert L. Phillips said his "biometer" can evaluate the structure of an athlete's feet and legs, muscle lengths and key bone-rotation angles in a painless 15-minute examination.

Phillips also hurled a barb at the ski industry, calling its research into injury reduction a "guessing game of gimmicks."

Phillips said knowing what could happen to an athlete's body under stress is vastly superior as a training tool to remedial measures after injury.

The portable device he has developed would help coaches and trainers spot injury-prone athletes prior to physical activity.

The design of a biometer was not described. Phillips said he named it as he did for want of anything better.

The device may emerge in its final form next week. At that time, Phillips is due to lecture

Diablos Productive Farm Club For Angels

Sports in spurts and, quick now, who holds the Texas Leagues record for most shutouts and most consecutive complete games in a Texas League season? No wonder the El Paso Diablos have been so tough to beat over the last couple of years. When Gerry Remy, last year's Texas League batting champion, beat out Denny Doyle at second base, it gave the Texas Rangers last season, is on the Tacoma, Pacific Coast League roster.

Ex-Midland Cub Ken Pape, on loan from the Texas Rangers last season, is on the Tacoma, Pacific Coast League roster. Although you wouldn't believe it if you froze out at Cubs Stadium Friday night, the Texas League is the one major league clubs are eager to get into because of the weather.

Pittsburgh jumped into the league at Shreveport this year when Milwaukee pulled out, the Texas Rangers are scheduled to move into San Antonio next year while Los Angeles, Montreal and Houston are casting covetted glances at Bragan's AA loop.

The only trouble is that there are just so many cities available and Organized Baseball can't afford a wholesale desertion of such leagues as the Eastern.

The Dodgers pulled out of El Paso two years ago to join the Eastern, but supposedly have had second thoughts about the wisdom of the shift.

Amarillo writer Putt Powell predicts the Panhandle city will be back in the fold next year.

Most single season shutouts in the TL? Dizzy Dean with 11 for Houston in 1931. Most consecutive complete games? Carl Hubbell, Beaumont, 1928 and James Walker, Fort Worth, 1929, with 16.

Corked Bats

At the time, a story in the Sporting News just slipped between the ears. It really didn't mean that much to me—that is, until the Brewers and Cubs came to town for an exhibition game.

The story was about National League President Chub Feeney and some of the directives he had given NL umpires. One of the directives orders umpires to eject batters caught using paraffin on the barrel of the bat or plugging the bat with cork or metal. That was it—nothing more, nothing less.

Then at the exhibition game, I overheard this conversation:

Brewer: "Hey, what kind of bat are you using?"
Cub: "Oh, this is my favorite. I learned how to cork a bat last year, and I guarantee that you can't tell it."

Brewer: "I've never used a corked bat. What if the bat splits and cork goes flying all over the place?"

Cub: "That will never happen. Why don't you use it today and see how you like it? If we are ever in Chicago at the same time, come on over and I'll show you how to do it."

Well, the Brewer went out and got a hit with the bat and drove in a run.

Some say that a corked bat is no better than a stick made completely of wood, but it is illegal. Violation of the rule calls for a three-day suspension.

Teaff Upset

Grant Teaff, Baylor University's head football coach, was in McComme Thursday night for an all-sports banquet and was obviously displeased with the recent release of the Southwest Conference highlight film.

"Not only did they not mention our upset over Texas, but they didn't even have any film footage of the game," Teaff said.

As everyone knows, Baylor rallied from a 24-7 halftime deficit for a 34-24 victory and gave the Bears a big step toward winning their first SWC championship in 50 years. Teaff claims, and I tend to agree, that it was one of the biggest and most important rallies in SWC history.

The oil firm that produced the film apparently did not see the importance of the game at the time, and they say that when footage of the game was obtained, the film was out of focus.

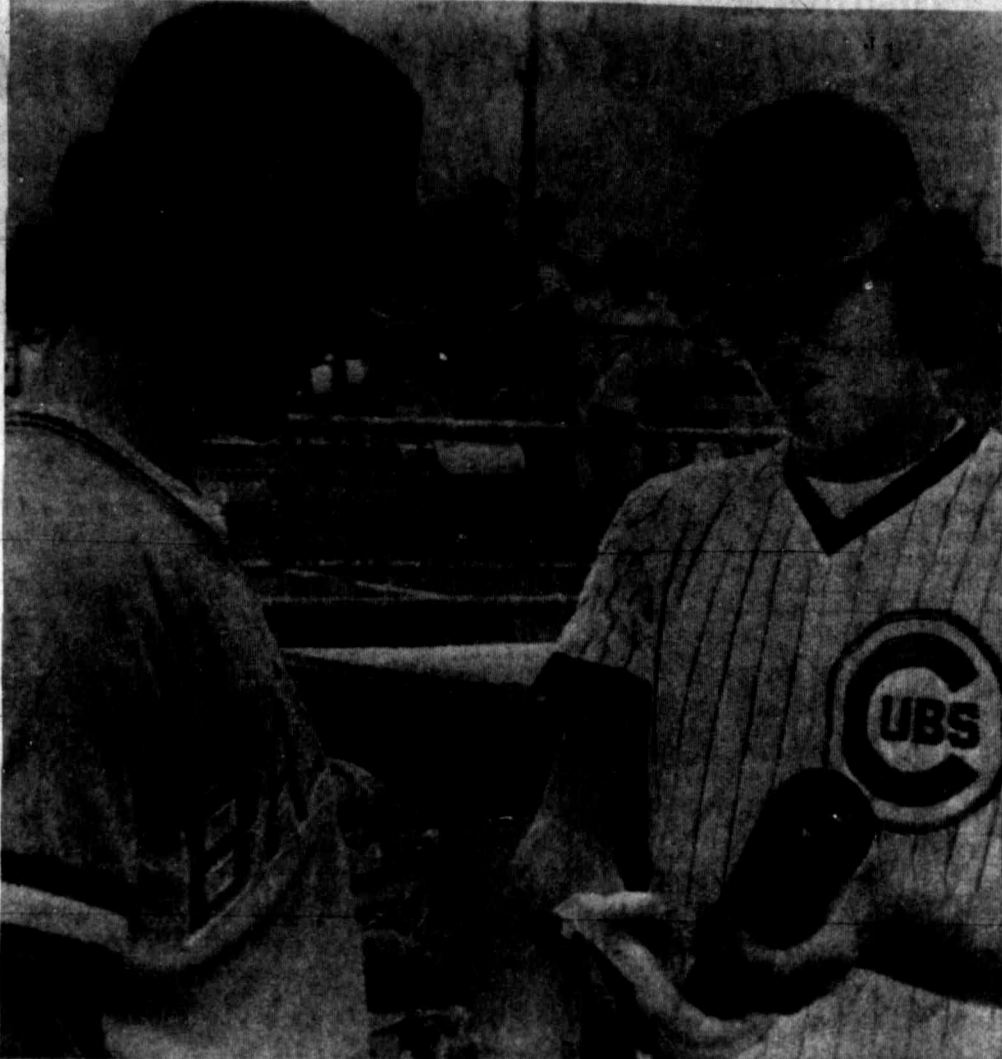

"The guy that put that thing together had to be a Texas exe," Teaff said. "I'm really surprised that they had us as the champions when the film was over."

AFTER NY CITY EXPERIENCE—Mugged Marathoner Does Running In Suburbs Now

NEW YORK (AP)—Kathryn Switzer, possibly the only woman to be mugged during a marathon, is alive and well and practicing in the suburbs.

No more city training for the 28-year-old distance runner who in 1967 hurled the men-only barrier in the Boston Marathon my money," she said. "That by entering as K. Switzer and was crazy because people in sending a college buddy to pick sweat suits don't carry money."

The worst part of it was, "At first he told me not to run in 1967, but he only wanted to run in the park by the East River."

Now she runs on a high school track and through the streets near her home in White Plains, north of New York.

Blinded—then he ran. She was not hurt. "But it was really a traumatic experience," she said. "That night she went home, packed her bags and moved out of New York. "It was the last straw," she said. "I had always defended the city. I said 'Sure, people get mugged, but not very often.'"

But the mugger in the jogger's suit was more than she could excuse. Now she runs on a high school track and through the streets near her home in White Plains, north of New York.

"Then he had his hand on my eyes. He was momentarily blinded—then he ran. She was not hurt. "But it was really a traumatic experience," she said. "That night she went home, packed her bags and moved out of New York. "It was the last straw," she said. "I had always defended the city. I said 'Sure, people get mugged, but not very often.'"

Diablos, Weather Spoil Cubs' Debut

BY TED BATTLES

Ice hockey is a cold weather sport, but you'd never catch anyone in the National Hockey League playing in the kind of marrow-numbing chill in which Midland and El Paso opened the Texas League season Friday night.

Only 400 showed up at Cubs Stadium and even these hardy loyalists soon discovered that the blankets and coats offered little comfort from that wind that blew in their faces all night.

El Paso won 2-0, scoring in the fifth on a bases loaded, two-out wild pitch and then the Diablos bunched four hits in the ninth for an insurance run.

Frank Panick pitched four-hit ball for five innings, hanging around just long enough to get the win before turning it over to Mike Overy. Overy allowed only three hits in his shivering four-inning stint.

About the only one who seemed to thrive on the cold was Midland pitcher Don Schroeder, who has encountered worse weather in early season games back in his Eastern League days.

Don, who was a strong-finishing 8-6 last year, went seven innings and allowed just five hits.

He's still trying to figure out what happened in the fifth when the Diablos scored their lone run.

Don struck out the first two batters before Bill Flores and Dan Beerbower beat out infield hits to the left side. Dave Malhimer walked to load the bases and then Schroeder broke off a curve into the dirt. It bounced by catcher Ed Putman, and rolled to the screen. It was really the only bad pitch Don made all night, but it was the ball game.

Dennis Lamp was pitching in the ninth when El Paso punched three singles through the right side. The last one by Flores plated the run.

El Paso stole four bases, two uncontested with runners on third, but the Diablos were caught stealing four times and a heads up play by second baseman Al Montreuil picked off another runner who overran third on an infield hit.

The only fault to find with Midland's opening night performance was in run production. They just couldn't get any.

The best opportunity came in the eighth when the Cubs loaded the bases with one out on a walk to Putman, a single by Jose Ortiz and a bunt single by Julio Gonzalez. But Overy met the challenge, nipping the low-outside corner on Joe Wallis for a third strike and coaxing Bill Bright into a bounce to first.

The only other gesture came when Gonzalez singled with two out in the first and Wallis' seeing-eye single to right moved Julio to third, but Panick got Bright swinging to escape.

CUB BRIEFS—Stoney Feeney and Bill Johnson were handsome enough as they greeted first-game fans in tuxs, but seeing the Midland Cub execs shivering only made the fans feel colder... Mayor Ernest Angelo threw out the first ball in brief opening ceremonies... Whitey Lockman, vice-president of Player Development, will be on hand for the opening series and then accompany the Cubs to San Antonio... Panick and Overy teamed up for 11 strikeouts...

TOO MUCH PRESSURE—LL Discontinues Series

MANILA (AP)—The chairman of the Little League Baseball Inc. said Saturday there never will be another World Series for boys below the age of 12 but a regional championship tournament will be held in its place.

Peter J. McGovern, chairman of the Williamsport, Pa., based group, said, however, that senior and big league world championships for boys whose ages range from 13 to 18 years old will continue.

McGovern said it was decided by the board to discontinue the Little League World Series apparently because of health hazards.

The decision was based on previous studies conducted by the Little League body which showed that youngsters 12 years old and under "should not be subjected to the pressure of the game," McGovern said.

The decision, he added, was not aimed against the participation of Nationalist China in the Little League tournaments.

Closest effort was a third in the mile relay.

Midland High's Sam Zachery did qualify for regionals, however, with a second in the shot put with a toss of 54-6 1/2.

Pernian qualified seven individuals and a relay team for the regionals while Lee was close behind with five individuals and a relay. Third place Abilene, which managed 95 points, qualified three individuals and two relay units.

Fourth place San Angelo qualified three individuals along with Cooper while Midland had two and Big Spring one.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Gord Gallant was apologetic, but still managed a parting shot at the bruised coach of the World Hockey Association team who never played for again. "He makes it tough for all the little guys like me," the Minnesota Fighting Saints' left wing said Friday night upon arriving at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport from Hartford, Conn. "He treats the little guys a lot different than he does the superstars. They can just tell him where to go, but that isn't the case with me."

Gallant, who had 10 goals and 13 assists in 68 games this season, was kicked off the team Friday after belting Coach Harry Neale in Neale's hotel room early that morning. Gallant went there after scoring a goal in the Saints' 6-5 victory over the New England Whalers, but he was back in Minnesota by the time the Whalers took a 3-2 overtime game from the Saints Friday night to even the series, which resumes here Monday night.

"I regret what happened. I was 100 per cent in the wrong," he said. "I'm sorry it happened to the organization but Harry Neale and I had not been getting along."

Neale received 10 stitches over his upper lip, a black eye, a bruised cheek and nose ligament damage as a result of the attack. He said he would not press criminal charges.

Neale said that during a mid-night bedcheck he found Gallant and an unidentified player missing and told their room-

J. C. Penney Giving Away 3 Million Minutes Of Music

J. C. Penney Co. is giving away 3 million minutes of music in its Bicentennial Musical Celebration, honoring the United States' 200th birthday.

More than 30,000 high schools, colleges and universities across the nation have received order forms for 100 minutes of sheet music for bands, orchestras and choral groups.

If all the schools accept the company's offer, a total of at least 3 million minutes of music will be distributed this month and next.

If each school were to perform the works in succession—beginning at noon today—the last group would conclude its performance at 7 p.m. Christmas Eve 1980.

L. L. Hart, manager of the Midland Penney store, said one package of the music arranged for all instruments and voices will weigh approximately 45 pounds.

For 30,000 schools, that would be a total of 1.35 million pounds of music to be distributed—the equivalent of 649

Liberty Bells and more than twice the weight of the Statue of Liberty.

Hart said the music package will consist of 70 minutes of historic works dating from William Billings' "America"—written in 1770—and 30 minutes of newly-commissioned works by five prominent American composers.

Any high school, college or university music department which has not received an order form may request one from the Midland Penney store or from Michael Scotto, National Bicentennial Coordinator, 1301 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10019.

Auto Layoffs To Hit Lowest 1975 Level

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry layoffs this week will decline 11,000 to the lowest level of the year.

Despite the sharp decline from January's peak figures, special jobless pay for 70,000 laid-off General Motors workers will be cut off April 30 because extensive furloughs will have exhausted the firm's supplemental benefits fund.

Nearly 205,000 of the industry's 712,000 hourly employees will be off the job Monday, including 198,000 who have been on indefinite furlough for up to a year.

As many as 300,000 workers were on layoff in January. Modest improvements in car sales in recent months have enabled the companies to increase production and recall workers to the assembly lines.

GM and the United Auto Workers announced Friday that no Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) will be paid beginning in May to workers who would still be eligible for such payments.

Chrysler Corp. mailed out its final checks Friday, slashing about 33,000 workers from the extra, company-paid, furlough income.

Coupled with government unemployment compensation, SUB provides the eligible average furloughed worker with $170 a week, nearly 95 per cent of his normal take-home pay. SUB pay comes to an average $80 and government benefits average $90 a week.

GM said 125,000 of its 400,000 production workers will be on indefinite layoffs at the end of April. Of those, 45,000 either will have exhausted their one-year SUB eligibility or will not have had the year's seniority needed to receive payments.

GM says it has been paying about an average $10 million a week in SUB in recent months, while contributing only $1.4 million a week. GM said it has not yet tabulated how much the fund holds now, but it was down to $77 million at the end of February.

GM said it has paid out $356 million in SUB benefits since heavy layoffs began in January 1974.

SUB funds at Ford and American Motors are in no immediate danger of running out, officials at those companies say. Layoffs at Ford and AMC have not been as prolonged as at GM or Chrysler.

GM, Chrysler and AMC will operate all their plants this week. Ford temporarily will shut three truck lines and reduce operations at five component plants, idling 7,175 workers for the week. Ford also will have 22,825 workers on indefinite layoff, down from 23,675 this week.

Texas Growth Rate Declines

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas economy is faring substantially better than the national economy but the recession shows little sign of reversing its course, the Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

The bureau's report on business activity in February was four per cent higher than January and the first two months of 1975 were one per cent higher than a year ago.

"Comparison of Texas business activity measures with measures of business activity in the United States indicates that Texas has shown much greater resistance to the depressing forces at work in the economy than has the country as a whole," said Dr. John R. Stockton, professor of business statistics at The University of Texas, in a special report for the Bureau.

"The increase of one per cent over the business activity level registered a year ago indicates that the Texas economy has not maintained a normal growth rate. When the economy of the state fails to increase at a normal growth rate, it is correct to conclude that there has been a real decline.

Stockton said that initial claims for unemployment benefits in Texas during February increased 28 per cent over January and were 154 per cent higher in the first two months of this year than in 1974.

Union Of California President Describes Tax Change Effects

By MAX B. SKELTON HOUSTON (AP) - Fred L. Hartley describes the first quarter of 1975 as something of a record breaker for significant events affecting the financial health of his company.

Hartley is chairman and president of Union Oil Co. of California and one of the petroleum industry's frankest spokesmen.

"The new tax law immediately reduces our 1975 cash available for domestic oil exploration and production by about $45 million," Hartley said in his bi-monthly report to employees.

"This amount will be doubled next year as other sections of the law become effective."

Hartley said petroleum was the only resource industry so treated when Congress stripped major companies of their depletion tax allowance.

"I sat in the gallery of the U.S. Senate on Tuesday afternoon, March 13, and watched Sen. Cranston, Hollings and Bentsen pontificate and without any regard for facts, make the most curious and illogical legislative proposals against your industry," Hartley said.

"And then they wove in a fabric of exceptions so as to provide an advantage for the thousands of the so-called small independent producer segment of the industry. I can see no logical reason for maintaining the depletion allowance for them other than the machinations of politics in the forthcoming 1976 election campaign."

Hartley said he later advised the House-Senate conference committee on the Tax Reduction Act by telegram that cutting the depletion allowance practically to zero was hardly consistent with the nation's long-term objective of energy self-sufficiency.

The telegram suggested the House bill eliminated the Mexican Crude Production Could Hit Million Barrels Daily By Yearend

By KATHERINE HATCH Special Correspondent MEXICO CITY - Mexico's government-run oil industry continues to boom into the second quarter of 1975 with disclosure of yet another "highly promising" new field and year-end production estimates as high as a million barrels a day.

No less conservative a source than the secretary of the treasury has set this year's goal for Petroleos Mexicanos (Pemex), the state-owned industry, at 900,000 barrels daily.

A Guadalupe-based investment firm, Allen W. Lloyd and Associates, says the one-million point may be passed before the end of the year.

These estimates came before public disclosure in March of a new producing field near the little town of Cotaxtla in the southeast of Veracruz.

Estimates also preceded recent published allegations in a Mexico City newspaper series of fraud, mismanagement and union irregularities within the Pemex organization.

Whether these allegations will diminish oil production is doubtful.

According to Antonio Dovali Jaime, Pemex general director, the new Cotaxtla field is producing 4,000 barrels of crude and 10 million cubic feet of gas a day. His disclosure came March 18 at a ceremony celebrating the 37th anniversary of Mexico's expropriation of the oil industry. As in similar past announcements, few details of the new field were given and the Pemex chief declined to estimate its reserves.

Mexico's current boom is no accident. Early last year, the government - through Pemex - committed almost $3 billion to expand the petroleum industry. The price of gasoline at the pump was raised by 50 per cent to carry the initial burden of exploration and exploitation costs.

By mid-October, word of the now-known "Reforma" field on the Chiapas-Tabasco state borders was made public with some 40 wells producing more than 200,000 barrels a day, more than one-third of the total national production.

This field made Mexico an oil exporter for the first time in 30 years when total production reached 635,000 barrels and national needs totalled only 600,000.

Current national production is somewhere around 725,000 to 750,000 barrels, with active exploration under way in several parts of the country.

Dovali Jaime said Pemex expects to drill its first well in a suspected Baja California field this Spring, while other exploration continues south of U.S. border near Nuevo Laredo and Monclova and in the Gulf of Mexico off the Yucatan Peninsula.

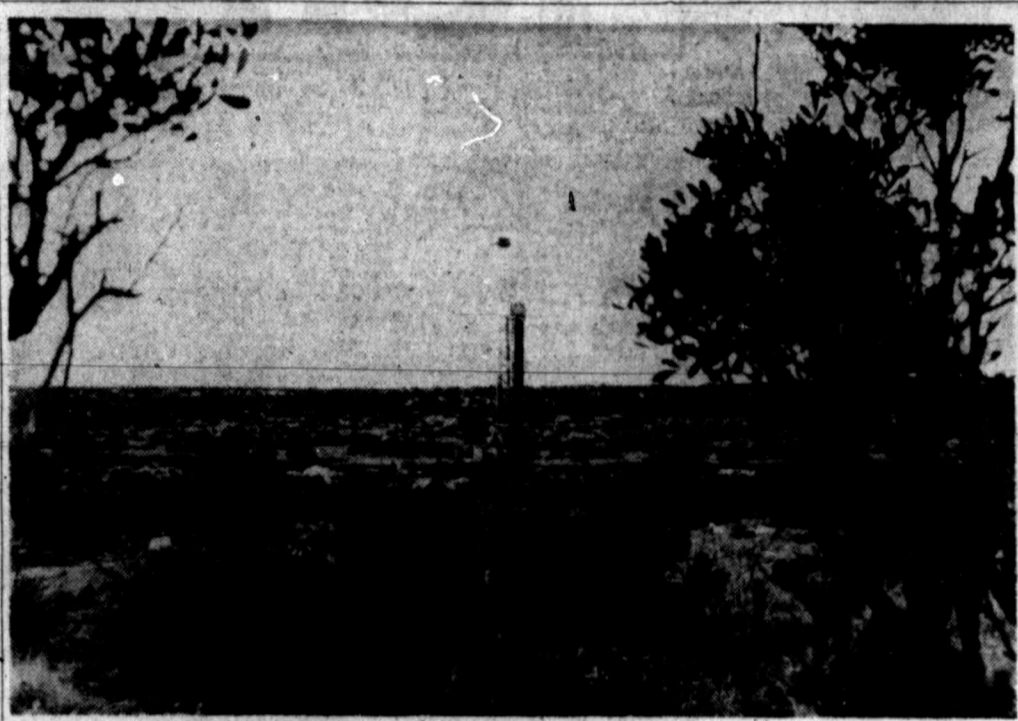

While typically not citing details of these projects, the secretary publicly hinted OPEC membership of "observer" Pemex manager was interpreted as indicating the fields will be feasibly productive.

Estimates of this year's income from exported crude run to $500 million.

Despite this, Mexican President Luis Echeverria has said his country would rather export refined petroleum products than some 40 wells producing more than 200,000 barrels a day, more than one-third of the total national production.

For the present, it does not seem likely Mexico will join the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. National Properties Secretary Francisco Javier Alejo recently reiterated the president's pledge that Mexico will sell its oil to any customer in the world at the going market price. The new U.S. foreign trade law, which denies special tariff treatment to OPEC members, further dampened Mexico's OPEC ardor. Mexico sends about 65 per cent of its exports to the U.S. Alejo's predecessor as cabinet secretary in charge of government-owned firms resigned his post in January, reportedly at the request of the president after the then-secretary publicly hinted OPEC membership of "observer" Pemex manager was interpreted as indicating the fields will be feasibly productive.

Conoco To Award $113,850 To Texas Colleges In 1975 and the University of Texas. Two fellowships totaling $8,000 will be awarded to Texas A&M University, Southern Methodist University and The University of Texas.

Recipients of both outstanding undergraduate scholarships and fellowships are to be selected by the colleges.

Basin Rig Count Declines Slightly

The rig count for the Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico dropped slightly last week. According to Reed Drilling Equipment's weekly survey, the count for last week was 269.

Although a decrease of four active rigs from the count for two weeks ago, it is an increase of 12 units over the 253 reported in a comparable week last year.

Eddy County, N.M., is leading in the rig count with 24 active units; Pecos County is in second place with 22 rigs working; Lea County, N.M., has 21 rotaries making hole and Ward County reported 20 rigs.

WASHINGTON OIL - Congressmen Want Voters To Be Happy

By CLYDE LA MOTTE Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON - As Congress wrestled with energy-related legislation last week it became apparent that it was seeking a painless solution.

That is, congressmen want to be sure that everyone, especially the voters back in their home district, get all the energy fuels they need without much if any increase in price and without any relaxation of environmental regulations. Furthermore, they agreed almost to a man that there should be no increase in dependence on foreign suppliers who might cut off supplies or increase prices without even consulting the United States Congress.

Gulf Adviser Award Recipient

HOUSTON - Hollis D. Hedberg, exploration adviser with Gulf Oil Corp., in Princeton, N. J., and professor emeritus at Princeton University, has been named recipient of the 1975 Offshore Technology Conference Distinguished Achievement Award for Individuals.

Hedberg will be honored at the awards luncheon during the Seventh Annual Offshore Technology Conference, May 5-8, at the Astrodomain here.

Hedberg is being cited for his leadership in offshore oil exploration.

Before his retirement from Gulf Oil Corp. in 1965, he was vice president and coordinator of worldwide exploration.

Kontrol Kem Employs Coon

MONAHANS - Lester E. Coon has been appointed field engineer for Kontrol Kem of Monahans.

Coon, who has been associated with drilling and production in the Permian Basin for 30 years, will serve the firm's Odessa East area.

Coon resides in Odessa.

The draft bill the House Committee was considering as the week neared an end specified that import controls be instituted that would restrict imports to a specified level during the years ahead, starting with a limit of 6 million barrels a day this year, another 6 million next year and eventually a drop to 5.5 million in 1979 and beyond.

However, just to be on the safe side, the legislation states that the President would have the authority to increase the total by as much as 1 million barrels a day.

Thus, if under the totals provided by the tentative bill, some region or category of users began to feel the pinch, the government could be asked to supply the amount needed.

This is somewhat akin to a parent firmly telling a child he can not have any more candy - unless he cried for it.

Over on the Senate side, Sen. Clifford P. Hansen (R-Wyo.) introduced a tongue-in-the-cheek amendment to a Senate bill, an amendment clearly aimed at trying to point out that some their industry is the only one still under price regulations.

"We have had to absorb all price increases including labor, supplies, power, water, fuel, chemicals, state and local taxes, and the cost of pollution investments, everything except crude oil, since August 1971," he said.

"Hopefully, we can get our industry deregulated in every way possible in order that we can generate sufficient income to maintain our exploration and production program."

Hartley said the new tax law "represents an organized attempt to cripple the ability of the United States to maintain a viable domestic oil and gas energy supply."

"Further, it means that our reliance on OPEC foreign sources of petroleum will increase, and in effect additional billions of U.S. dollars will be paid to foreign powers," he said.

"Approximately $10 on each barrel of oil imported into the United States is paid into the treasuries of Middle East nations and you can take your choice and call it profit or taxes imposed upon the American people."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — General of the Army Omar Bradley, in good condition at the UCLA Medical Center where he was admitted March 17 with a stroke, is expected to be released in about 10 days, a spokesman says.

Bradley, 82, was operated on March 26 to remove a small pool of blood from his brain and speed his recovery from the stroke.

Hansen duly noted that language of a bill being debated on the floor, S. 662, had a section in it which opens with such profound statements as this: "Energy shortages cause unemployment, inflation, and other severe economic dislocations and hardships, and such shortages and dislocations jeopardize the normal flow of interstate and foreign commerce."

There was more, but at this point Hansen proposed that the following language be inserted: "and although recognizing the manifold problems associated with such energy shortages the Congress modified the depletion allowance and certain other tax incentives relating to increasing energy supplies, and in Section 123 of this bill is attempting to prevent the new tax costs from being reflected in any price increases for petroleum products — which confirms the intent of the Congress to enact disincentives to increasing domestic energy supplies in order to establish rationing programs so that more government jobs may be created for the unemployed; and it is the intent of the Congress that domestic energy supplies decline as rapidly as possible so that fuel shortages may become so severe that the unemployment rate will drop to zero because all the persons now unemployed will be needed to design and

Canadian Export Gas May Be Higher

OTTAWA (AP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald says Canada may announce next week a sharp increase in the price of natural gas exported to the United States.

He would not speculate on the size of increase but government sources said the cabinet was considering setting rates 50 or 60 cents above the current price of $1 per thousand cubic feet.

Macdonald told newsmen that an oil price bill will be back in the House of Commons on Monday.

Asked about possible American reaction, Macdonald told newsmen: "They know there is a price increase coming. And of course one of the factors to be considered in the issue is the over-all effect on our relations with the U.S."

Last fall Canada increased natural gas export prices from 60 cents to $1 per thousand cubic feet.

Husbands Of Vietnamese Women Reveal Fear Of Red Reprisals Against In-Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Pilot fought back tears as he explained how his love for his Vietnamese wife may mean death for her family.

"It seems like an act of love brought a kiss of death," he said.

"No matter how much I love my wife, if I thought her family would be hurt because I married her, we wouldn't have gotten married."

Pilot, a former U.S. soldier in Vietnam, was expressing concern Friday about Communist reprisals against the families of South Vietnamese women who married American servicemen.

As he spoke about his in-laws, tears welled in his eyes and he told the freshman congressman listening to him that Vietnam may be just a matter of American policy to the government, but "it's a very emotional and personal tragedy to us."

At one point last week we thought it already was too late and that "we should proceed down to the church and arrange a mass funeral for our relatives," he said.

Pilot of Maywood, Ill., Brand Kahler of Lake Villa, Ill., and John Hollister of Oak Park, Ill., all married Vietnamese women, came to Washington asking for help to save their in-laws before Communist forces take over all of South Vietnam.

They spoke of recrimination and possible death lists because the women married Americans.

Pilot, once in Army counter-intelligence, said, "I saw a death list in Hue, the bodies, children, women in ditches."

"I'm here because my wife is crying. My wife asked me 'will I ever see my family again,'" Hollister said. "We're talking primarily about the younger brothers and sisters of our wives."

The three men appeared at a meeting called by freshmen Democrats to discuss President Ford's Vietnam requests. They said there may be as many as 30,000 Vietnamese brides in this country and some 250,000 of their relatives in danger back home because of the marriage.

They told the freshmen they were having trouble getting people to listen to them, that the State Department has 30 people answering telephones about Vietnamese orphans but none for in-laws.

They said the media wouldn't listen to them and as they spoke television news crews dismantled their cameras and lights that had been used to film the earlier proceedings. Most other reporters had already left.

They said they had been walking the halls of the House and Senate office buildings since arriving in Washington this week "and still I can't get an appointment with my own senator, Percy," Pilot said, referring to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

He and the others spoke mostly to vacant seats. The large hearing room, filled to capacity earlier, was nearly empty behind them.

Before them were only seven of more than 35 freshmen who had been at the meeting. The others didn't wait to hear them.

Douglas Re-Enters Hospital For Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not certain how long Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will stay at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, a spokesman says.

Douglas, 76, entered the hospital Thursday for tests and a checkup. He suffered a stroke Dec. 31, and was hospitalized until March 20.

A court spokesman said Friday it wasn't known if Douglas would be on hand when the high court convenes again Monday. During his first stay, he wrote opinions from his hospital bed.

Sun Official Says Legislation Hurts Crude Production

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — H. Robert Sharbaugh, president of Sun Oil Co., predicted Saturday that the United States will have to depend on foreign oil supplies for at least another 10 years, partly because of stifling federal policies.

Sharbaugh told a meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science that the nation is incapable of increasing domestic petroleum production or of finding alternate fuels quickly because of restrictions imposed by the federal government.

"Direct and indirect price controls stifled the development of new petroleum supplies in this country at the same time that they stimulated demand," he said.

"Government regulatory procedures, rising taxes at home and weakening product demand are limiting the industry's ability to recover the higher costs with the result that profitability is declining."

Coquina's interest is 38 per cent, and additional drilling is planned to further develop the property.

Seminar Set At MC

Sociologist Dr. Charles Winick will be featured in a seminar entitled "Young Adults" scheduled Saturday at Midland College under joint sponsorship of the college and the Pastoral Counseling Center.

Coordinated by Dr. Don Hunt, college vice president for academic affairs, and Dr. Ray Bristol of the counseling center, the seminar is open to all persons working with young adults including school principals, teachers, Sunday school teachers and scout leaders.

Located in the college's Learning Resource Center, the program is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon.

Winick has served as sociology professor at The City and Graduate Center, City University of New York, since 1966. He previously taught at the University of Rochester, Massachusetts Institute of Mining and Technology and Columbia University.

He has, in addition served as research director of the American Social Health Association, and has conducted extensive studies into mass media, public attitudes, changing values of young people and personality development.

Saturday's speaker is the author of 13 books and more than 400 articles in professional journals including the Journal of Health and Religion.

Daniel Says New Charter Worthwhile

WACO (AP) — The new constitution that is expected to be up for Texas' approval Nov. 4 "clearly seeks to change the climate of Texas' public life," said Price Daniel Jr., Saturday night.

Daniel, former speaker of the Texas House and president of the 1974 Constitutional Convention, told a Law Day audience at Baylor School of Law that the proposed constitution before the legislature now "speaks of better representation for all citizens in the political process. It commits Texas to remedying the long delays in the administration of justice and to improving the quality of decisions handed down by the courts of Texas... Within these broad principles, the major rules for the operation of government are set forth in new ways which I believe will improve the quality of statutory law in this state."

Daniel said "no one should suggest that the proposed constitution is without flaws. 'What is important is that it is a vast improvement over the 1876 Constitution—a document which has, save for hundreds of costly amendments, tethered Texas of today to the 19th century.'"

Daniel said he had no reservation about supporting the proposed new constitution or about voting for it article by article.

"We need a new constitution, not a hodge-podge amalgamation of 1876 and 1975," he said. "What better gift could we give ourselves in honor of the nation's Bicentennial?"

Airline Reports Record Income

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Airlines says its new route to the Rio Grande Valley has given the company record income for the first quarter of the year.

President Lamar Muse said Friday revenues reached $4.7 million, up 41 per cent over the same period in 1974. Net income totaled $673,000 compared to $605,000 for the same period last year.

Southwest started service this year between the Rio Grande Valley and Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

Special Election April 22 Will Cost Texans Plenty

By GARTH JONES
(An AP Analysis)

AUSTIN (AP) — It is going to cost Texas taxpayers whether or not they vote April 22 on two proposals that would raise legislators' salaries and increase retirement pay for teachers and state employees. One county official said the cost per ballot of some precincts might go as high as $5.86. On a statewide basis, the cost of the referendum on the two proposed constitution changes will run about $1.5 million.

"That's about as cheap you can have a statewide election in Texas, no matter how they turn out," said Robert Lemens, head of the elections division in the Secretary of State's office. "The fewer who turn out the more it will cost per ballot." Most big city county clerks figure on a turnout of about 10 per cent with the per vote cost about $1 each. Robert Johnson, head of the Texas Election Bureau which will gather the unofficial returns, sees a turnout of about 500,000 votes.

Others, including Lemens, point to 1973, another non-presidential election year, when 605,000 voters, or about 15 per cent, turned out to vote on nine proposed constitution changes, including one on legislators' pay raises and annual legislative sessions. The pay issue carried in only 12 of the 254 counties. The April 22 ballot has only two proposals, the shortest ballot for a special election on constitutional amendments since 1923. The increased retirement benefits, where the main change would let the state contribute up to 10 per cent instead of 6 per cent to pensions, was an emergency issue early in this legislative session. Legislators suddenly decided a plan to hike their own salaries from $400 to $600 a month also was an emergency and added it to the ballot. First plans were to have the statewide election early in April to coincide with city and school board elections but there were legislative delays and April 22 finally became the date for the lonesome issues.

Some sources think the big turnout for city elections may encourage voters to try again at the April 22 vote. And it was no secret in legislative halls that the big push to get quick passage of the proposed new state constitution was in hopes the approval would erase from voters' minds some memories of unsuccessful 1974 Constitutional Convention, where all the delegates were legislators. On the other hand, there is an effort by Texas House members, at least some of them, to conduct a "low profile campaign" that would attract only supporters—mostly state employees and public school teachers—to the polls. "Keep the others home," advised an instruction pamphlet for House members. "To do this, a 'low profile campaign' should be run. That means not much press, publicity or public speaking, but a lot of personal contact. Legislators were warned to use the word "adjusted," not "increased," in talking about the pay raise, or the jump in personal living expenses during sessions from $12 to $30 a day. A spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association said there had been considerable activity within the 160,000-member organization to get teachers registered and ready to vote. "but we are not trying to bury it, we try to create public interest too." About 40,000 retired teachers would be affected by the change. The Texas Public Employees Association has asked directors of large state agencies to remind employees to vote. About 9,800 retired state employees would be affected, including about 85 retired legislators. Harris County (Houston) Clerk R. E. Turrentine's office estimated a turnout of only 5 to 10 per cent of the county's 750,000 voters, at an election cost of about $220,000. The estimated per vote cost was $5.86 to $2.93. In 1898, after the Spanish American War, the U.S. acquired its first overseas possessions, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and Guam.
