West Texas Counties Gain Tests

Exploratory tests have been staked in Dawson, Garza, Scurry and King counties. Coquina Oil Corp., Midland, accounted for a 12,000-foot wildcat in Dawson, four miles west of Lamesa. It is No. 1 Holton.

Drill site is 5,280 feet from south and 1,787 feet from east lines of league 1. Taylor CSL survey, two miles north of the Gin (Spraberry and Mississippian) field, in which 11,822-foot Silurian production has become depleted.

Morrow Flows Gas In Eddy

A one-mile northeast extension to Morrow production in the Carlsbad, South multizone field of Eddy County, N.M., has been assured with the flowing of gas at the daily rate of 4.129 million cubic feet, along with 89 barrels of load water in eight hours, at Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-B Tracy Communitized, one mile southeast of Carlsbad.

Flow was through a 19-64-inch choke and Morrow perforations at 11,597-11,744 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons. Testing continued.

Location is 2,045 feet from south and 479 feet from east lines of section 18-22s-27e.

Terrorists Take Over German Embassy, Kill Attache In Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Five terrorists shot and killed the military attache in the West German Embassy today and took the ambassador and 10 other persons hostage in a bid to free prisoners from West German jails, officials said.

Blast Threatened
The group, which identified itself as a cell of the West German anarchist Baader-Meinhof gang, whose leaders are awaiting trial in Stuttgart later, this year, threatened to blow up the building with TNT if police tried to storm the embassy.

The group, including three men and two women, some of them armed with submachine guns, told the West German news agency DPA in a phone call that their cell was named after Holger Meins, a 33-year-old member of the Baader-Meinhof gang who died Nov. 9 after a hunger strike in a West German prison.

Several Shots Fired
Police Commissioner Karl-Erik Stenbaeck told newsmen that several shots were fired in the office of West German Ambassador Dietrich Stoeker, 60. A woman was carried out on a stretcher while bullets were being fired at policemen taking cover behind police cars.

Two women who had been working in the kitchen of the embassy said the building was rocked by an explosion after the terrorists fired several volleys of submachine-gun fire.

Staffers of the British Embassy on the opposite side of the street said a man was seen signaling to police from a window on the fourth floor of the West German Embassy.

Woman At Window
Other witnesses said a woman was seen in another window, which she tried to cover with a carpet. All available police went to the scene along with fire trucks and ambulances.

'Christmas In April' Project Still $5,000 Short Of Goal

There may not be as many toilets flushing as was hoped, but there will be fewer leaks, roofs, more screen doors and windows and various other minor repairs to substandard housing in Midland.

The project, dubbed "Christmas in April," will be undertaken this weekend by the Human Relations Council of Midland. It is a community project in which individuals, civic and service organizations and churches select and repair substandard dwellings. Richard H. Schmidt, executive director of the council, said due to the fact that only $5,000 of the $10,000 goal had been acquired, some concessions would

Lower Speeding Fine Bill Rejected

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators rejected a House-approved proposal today which sponsors claimed would take the pain out of speeding tickets.

Only 19 senators voted for the bill, which limited the fine for driving between 55 and 70 miles an hour to $25. Nineteen senators voted against it.

The proposal also specified that speeding tickets for driving between 55 and 70 m.p.h. could not be charged against a driver's record in figuring his insurance rates.

Meanwhile, House members quickly passed Senate-approved bills giving private, nonprofit hospitals a break on their building bonds which make it harder to become a real estate man.

Both measures, which consumed most of Wednesday's debate, return to the Senate for action on amendments.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe submitted emergency legislation designed to patch some holes recently discovered in the state law regulating privately-owned vocational schools, and Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, quickly introduced the governor's bill.

It would give the State Board of Education power to put an immediate halt to all solicitation and enrollment by a school if there is reason to believe the school is not complying with state law and regulations. It also adds a certification requirement that a school disclose its assets that are available to refund students' tuition if the school shuts down.

Briscoe's action followed revelations that a number of schools were not obeying the law that requires them to make tuition refunds if they close before a student completes his course.

Work will begin Saturday at 8 a.m. and groups may pick up materials at the Salvation Army building at the back door in the alley between Baird and Main.

Huong Refuses To Surrender South Vietnamese Presidency

SAIGON (AP) — President Tran Van Huong offered today to make Gen. Duong Van Minh premier but refused Minh's demand for the presidency, political sources reported.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong were apparently marking time on the battlefields, awaiting the outcome of the political maneuvering in Saigon. The South Vietnamese military command reported only scattered, small-scale action although Western intelligence sources said Communist-led forces had been in position to overrun the crowded city since Monday.

Minh, a retired general who led the 1963 coup that overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem, sought the support of political, religious and military leaders in a series of meetings at his home. He refused to comment to newsmen on the impasse except to say, "Time is short."

Premier Nguyen Ba Can and his cabinet resigned late Wednesday after only 11 days in office to pave the way for a new political setup. Foes of former President Nguyen Van Thieu were urging his 71-year-old successor to step out also so that Minh could form a new Paris peace agreement. However, the Viet Cong, which might agree to negotiate with Huong on Wednesday, has given no indication if it would deal with Minh.

The White House, the Pentagon and the U.S. Embassy in Saigon all denied a report in two Japanese newspapers that a U.S. Marine battalion had landed at Vung Tau, on the coast 40 miles southeast of Saigon, to protect the evacuation.

The South Vietnamese military command's morning communique reported some shelling attacks.

AUSTIN—The House of Representatives this morning gave final approval to a bill establishing a municipal court of record in Midland.

Senate approval. It now goes to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for his signature.

The House engrossed (tentatively approved) the bill Wednesday after passage was requested by Midland Rep. Tom Craddock. Rep. Joe Spurlock, Fort Worth, argued against the bill.

Spurlock said a similar bill had been approved for Harris County and he felt the action was a bad precedent. He said also the effect of the bill would be to deprive citizens of the right of trial de novo (appeal to county court) from traffic convictions.

Congress Approves Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turning aside fears of new U.S. combat deaths, Congress early today voted to give President Ford authority to use American military forces if necessary to evacuate Vietnamese as well as Americans from South Vietnam.

Authority to use military forces was approved by the House in a $327-million aid bill approved 230 to 187 this morning and by the Senate in a $250-million aid bill approved 75 to 17 Wednesday.

House and Senate conferees are expected to begin work later today on a compromise.

President Ford had asked Congress to approve $250 million in humanitarian aid for South Vietnam, authorize the use of U.S. troops to evacuate Americans and Vietnamese and vote $722 million military aid.

Requests Approved
By its actions, Congress approved the first two requests. But the chances of approving more military funds appear dim. Ford told reporters aboard Air Force One Wednesday night that he now was going to review the military aid request.

As Congress wound up its final debate on the bills, Ford was telling a cheering audience at Tulane University in New Orleans that the Vietnam war was over for the United States. The President said the time has come for a national reconciliation to heal the wounds and discards of the past decade and to build a better America for the future.

Authority Hit
On both sides of the Capitol, opponents of the bills contended Congress was giving the President unlimited authority to use whatever U.S. forces he believes are needed at whatever risk.

"If we want a bloodbath in South Vietnam, the best way to do it is to send in U.S. troops to evacuate foreign nationals," Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., told the Senate.

In the House, Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts said his heart bleeds for any South Vietnamese threatened with reprisals but said he wants no more U.S. soldiers killed there.

But other congressmen, including vocal foes of America's involvement in the Vietnam war, said the United States has a moral obligation to try to get endangered South Vietnamese out.

'Crack In The Door'
"It is a crack in the door, I grant you that," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. "But you've got to trust somebody. You can't run evacuation programs from the Congress."

Vietnamese Trying To Find Way Out Of Saigon

By MATT FRANJOLA-SAIGON (AP) — About 1,500 anxious, well-dressed Vietnamese milled around in front of the U.S. Embassy today trying to get evacuated to the United States.

They clutched at any foreigner. "Please can you help me," said a woman with three children, one of them fathered by an American. She unfolded a worn letter with brown dirt in the creases and said: "This paper says I live with my boy friend. He go America now. How can I go?"

The word that the Americans are evacuating Vietnamese has finally begun to spread around Saigon even though the local papers are playing the news down.

"It's the bamboo telephone," said an American. "The crowd, mostly women, formed a line 100 yards long and three deep. But the Embassy gates remained closed and few Americans were seen."

Rumors were rife, accurate information in short supply. The only information provided by the Embassy came from a Vietnamese equipped with a bullhorn who walked up and down telling what documents were needed to qualify for evacuation. The crowd ignored him because he didn't tell them what they wanted to hear.

Most of the people had worked for the U.S. armed forces or American companies at some time during the war.

These people, among the least scarred by the war, now see the halcyon days coming to an end.

Few knew what they would do in the United States. They all had friends somewhere. Many had telegrams from boy friends and the American Red Cross.

A schoolboy with hair combed to one side, flashed some papers and said: "I have relatives in America. Can you help me? My family can pay you very well if you can guarantee us."

The crowd continued to grow but remained orderly. A number of people asked what was going to happen in the war and walked away dejectedly when told Saigon would probably lose shortly.

Inmate Says He Gave Kleason Centipede

AUSTIN (AP) — A fellow jail prisoner claims he gave the centipede to Robert Kleason that Kleason says was served to him between two pieces of white bread.

Renaldo Ramirez, 18, told a reporter for The University of Texas student newspaper Wednesday he got the centipede from someone in the jail's hospital tank.

"I gave Kleason that centipede. It was burned and put in a plastic bag, and I gave it to him to give to his lawyer," Ramirez said.

The Daily Texan said Kleason denied Ramirez gave him the centipede but declined to say more about it.

Kleason told The Associated Press Tuesday that Ramirez was one of two inmates who have assaulted him since he has been in the jail.

Kleason said he was holding a plate of food when Ramirez, serving two years for robbery, entered his cell and kicked the hand holding the plate "as hard as he could." At that time, prisoners sometimes were allowed some freedom of movement within the cellblock, he said.

Kleason's chief defense lawyer, R. Roscoe Haley, showed the centipede to the AP. It did not appear to be burned.

Kleason also told the AP there are several homosexuals in the jail, and this is the cause of considerable discord. The "female" partners in these liaisons are referred to by other inmates as "she" and "her" so often that he has picked up the habit, too, he said.

Jealousy and intrigues in the jail make life hard on him and all other inmates, Kleason said. "I am not a homosexual," he said.

Kleason has filed a $50,000 suit in federal court against Sheriff Raymond Frank and head jailer Bill Mansell in the centipede case.

The state charges Kleason, 42, in the capital murder deaths of Gary Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark Fischer, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Darley and Fischer, Mormon missionaries, disappeared a few hours after they told other missionaries they were going to eat with Kleason in his trailer behind a taxidermy shop last Oct. 28.

The state says Kleason killed them and then cut up their bodies on a band saw in the taxidermy shop. Kleason says he never saw the missionaries that day and he questions whether or not they are dead.

Ector Deputies Continuing Probe Of Youth's Death

ODESSA — Ector County sheriff's deputies continued their investigation today into the death early Saturday of Richard Aljen Scott.

Scott, 18, son of Capt. and Mrs. Richard R. Scott, was killed about 2 a.m. Saturday nine miles east of Midland when his car was hit in the rear by a train as his vehicle sat on the Missouri-Pacific and Texas and Pacific tracks.

Capt. Scott is an officer with the Ector County sheriff's department.

Young Scott was pronounced dead at the scene by Midland Justice of the Peace Robert Pine. Pine withheld a ruling in the death pending the results of an autopsy. He said today he expected the final results sometime Friday afternoon.

The youth was seen by witnesses about 12:30 a.m. at an Andrews Highway drive-in restaurant and he told them he was going home.

Officers were notified at 2:05 a.m. by the train conductor, Merritt Barnes of Big Spring, that the train had crashed into a car parked on the tracks five miles from the nearest railroad crossing.

Chief Deputy Sonny Holderman said today he still had not determined what Scott was doing on the tracks, but said the department "had pretty well determined that no one was with him when he left Odessa."

Sheriff Elwood Hill said Wednesday, "We received the autopsy report Tuesday afternoon, but we know very little more than we already knew. There just was nothing unusual about the pathologist's findings."

Holderman said today that he had not received the results of blood tests.

Bill OK'd By Panel Would Hike Power Of Coordinating Board

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would grant more power to the College Coordinating Board 94, allows the board to recommend to the legislature maximum enrollments for state-supported colleges.

The schools also are prohibited under the bill from offering courses for credit outside the county where the principal campus is located without board approval.

Institutions also are required to obtain the board's approval for certain new construction projects.

The last two amendments, which were handwritten by Frank Erwin, lobbyist for The University of Texas regents, were those defeated by the committee Monday.

Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, said he was upset because he did not know what was in the bill. His attempt to resubmit the measure to the subcommittee failed, 3-9.

A similar bill, but without the three amendments, is in a House subcommittee.

The coordinating board chairman, Harry Provence of Waco, did not ask for more authority X-rays, called mammography, and added that the move had in women aged 35-50 years. The panel also urged physicians to determine whether female patients are pregnant before taking abdominal X-rays.

Routine X-Rays May Be Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Routine X-ray examinations for breast cancer in women under the age of 35 should be avoided because the screening procedure itself may cause tumors, a Food and Drug Administration advisory panel says.

The advisory committee also called for more studies on the safety and effectiveness of such X-rays, called mammography, and added that the move had in women aged 35-50 years. The panel also urged physicians to determine whether female patients are pregnant before taking abdominal X-rays.

GM Reportedly Launches Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp. has launched an investigation into alleged warranty irregularities and fired dozens of employees in the wake of the murder of a Chevrolet service manager, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

GM officials in Detroit declined comment on the report.

"We consider the subject to be an internal affair and have no comment," a spokesman said.

The report in the Journal said both GM and a Boston grand jury have been involved in the investigation. It said the probe began in January 1974 after a Chevrolet service manager in the Boston area was found shot to death.

The Journal said GM President E. M. "Pete" Estes confirmed an inquiry is under way into possible irregularities in payment of warranty work by at least one dealer and inequitable distribution of the choicest Chevrolet cars, the models which are the hottest sellers.

A number of Chevrolet employees in various offices, such as Tarrytown, N.Y., Detroit and Boston, were discharged without any explanation, causing bitter reactions by some of them.

A police affidavit on file in Middlesex, Mass., County summarized the alleged illegal activities this way:

When customers brought their cars into the Gordon Bay Chevrolet Agency in Lowell, Mass., for repairs under car warranties, dealership employees would do the prescribed work but then would charge GM for such items as "replacement of pistons, replace crankshafts or replace transmissions."

World Oil said the area was known to be "productive 10 years ago when the No. 1 Mal-koff well was completed" by the R. S. Nixon estate with a calculated open flow of 6.2 million barrels per day.

After two years of drilling, the play is moving into high gear," the article said. "Five fields have been discovered and partially developed. Lo-Vaca Gas Gathering Co. is receiving about 85 million cubic feet of gas per day from wells already on production. Good Hopes Refineries recently completed a 20-inch pipe line to Corpus Christi where it will be tied into an ammonia plant which Good Hope is building."

Schmidt said the majority of the projects are expected to be completed this weekend.

Although no additional houses will be taken on at this time, Schmidt said any money left over from this project will be used for emergency repairs on houses between now and the next Christmas project. In effect, Schmidt said it will be a year-around project.

The first Christmas project was in October 1973 and the second was in April 1974. This will be the third such project. In comparison to the other two projects, Schmidt said the donations were running about the same while the number of volunteer organizations has increased 400 per cent.

Repairs to be undertaken include replacement of window panes, roof repairs, window screen and screen door replacements, exterior door repairs, inside repairs, minor plumbing and some painting.

"We're in no way disappointed with this project," Schmidt said. "Even if we didn't reach our goal of $10,000, we've had an enthusiastic response from the community and we're very pleased."

Also responsible for helping with the project, Schmidt said, were the honorary board members of the Human Relations Council for 1975, including Dr. Viola Coleman, Jack Steele, Bobbie Holt, Romeo Canales, the Rev. Bill Cathey, Harold Wallace, William Franklin and the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand, Coordinator for this year's project is Bobbie Trumble.

Bob Armstrong

Snelson, Armstrong Talk Here Today

State Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson and Bob Armstrong, commissioner of the general land office, will be guest speakers tonight in the Midland Petroleum Club for a banquet meeting and officer installation of the Midland Democratic Club.

Armstrong won a seat in the Texas House of Representatives in 1963, 1964, 1966 and 1968. In the next election, he won his first statewide race for commissioner of the general land office.

The Texas co-chairman of the Democratic presidential campaign in 1972, he is a member of the Governor's Energy Advisory Council and president of the Western States Land Commissioners Association.

As land commissioner, Armstrong created the first environmental planning division within the General Land Office in 1971 and initiated the practice of prior review of state-owned tracts up for oil and gas leases for possible environmental dangers during drilling and production.

Dawdling Cool Front Creeps Through State

More showers fell in Central and East Texas today as a dawdling cool front crept deeper into the state.

Temperatures stayed on the mild side and the wind blew lightly in most areas, although gusts up to 30 miles per hour were clocked at some South Texas points.

Shower activity was moving toward the east in a sector from the Austin vicinity to around Palestine.

The weak cool front, which eased into the state 24 hours earlier, came close to a halt along a line from the east edge of the Panhandle to the Big Bend country in far West Texas. It was expected to drift slowly eastward and help set off more showers, particularly in Northeast Texas.

In the drier and cooler air behind the frontal system skies were clear across most of the Panhandle and other parts of West Texas.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 45 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 75 at Brownsville and McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The Associated Press reported.

Tall City weather seems to be tuning up for summer with predicted highs for both this afternoon and Friday in the lower 90s following Wednesday's maximum of 92.

The overnight low was 57, reached at 7 a.m., and tonight's minimum should be in the middle 50s, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal.

Senate Passes Bill To Help Jobless With Home Notes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to provide federal loans to jobless homeowners unable to meet mortgage payments.

By a vote of 89 to 1, it added that proposal to a housing bill being pushed by the Democrats as an antirecession measure.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, cast the negative vote.

The mortgage loan provision offered by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., would make loans up to $300 a month. The program could run for three years.

A similar House-passed measure provides loans up to $250 a month for two years.

A top Republican on the Senate Banking Committee has warned the bill faces an almost certain presidential veto.

Charley's Just Ordinary Fellow

OTTAWA (AP) — Prince Charles says that the best compliment anyone can pay him is to say, "Oh, he's so ordinary."

The Prince of Wales made the remark Wednesday while attending a session of a student-run model Commonwealth conference. He answered a series of informal questions from the floor which became a relaxed open chat with the high school pupils.

He told the group that he feels he can live a fairly normal life in spite of being heir to the British throne.

"A most important thing is to retain your sense of humor," the prince added. "If you lose that, and your ability to laugh at yourself, you're defeated."

Holiday Probably Civil War Product

CHICAGO (AP) — Though no one knows when Memorial Day, often called Decoration Day, originated, it is believed to have been first observed by grieving Southern women during the Civil War. The women, says The World Book Encyclopedia, chose May 30 to decorate the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers.

Now, Americans observe this national holiday to honor those who lost their lives in all the country's later wars, including the Spanish American War (1898-1899), World War I (1917-1918), World War II (1941-1945), the Korean War (1950-1953) and the Vietnam War.

Mastermind Of Tomfoolery Ready To Strike Again

By BART EVERETT
Los Angeles Times Writer

The man called himself G. Clifford Prout Jr., president of the Society for Indecency to Naked Animals (SINA), and in the late 1960s he traveled the nation urging that all animals be clothed.

He went on radio and television, and a great many people believed his deadpan statements: "Decency today means morality tomorrow,"

"Our only aims is to see that the naked animals of America are decently, simply and comfortably clothed."

San Francisco and New York, among other places, were declared disaster areas, and pickets appeared at zoos and even at the White House (SINA wanted Caroline Kennedy's horse clothed).

There was a magazine (one issue) called SINA, in which animal nudity and juvenile delinquency were linked and which carried instructions on how to clothe various types of animals.

Thousands of true believers wrote to the organization's New York address on Fifth Avenue. Some sent money, others wanted to set up SINA chapters in their hometowns and others wanted literature.

But by 1963 it seemed all over. Prout had been exposed as actor-writer Buck Henry. His vice president—who called himself Dr. Bruce Spencer, mail-order psychologist—was revealed as Alan Abel, a New York writer and the brains behind the put-on.

For Henry, now writing movies in Los Angeles, it was a "vastly amusing" part of his life now well behind him. But what Henry calls the "perverted or depraved genius" of his friend Abel goes on.

Abel has kept SINA's Fifth Avenue broom closet quarters and SINA's telephone is still listed.

"A whole new generation has grown up," Abel said last week, and people still write and call for literature and information.

Abel considers himself a "court jester" and says his only real interest in life is the put-on. It was Abel, for example, who appeared in Washington during the Watergate hearings as Dr. Harrison T. Rogers. He called a press conference with a little-known but well-endowed actress, Iris Brooks, and said she would tell all about sexual hanky-panky with high officials.

When reporters began asking Miss Brooks for names, she related an episode with a man in the back of a limousine traveling between Dulles and National airports. The man's name was Dean, she said. "John W. Dean III?" the reporters chorused. Then came the well-rehearsed line:

"They're all junks to me."

Abel's latest venture, he said, has been a movie called "The Faking of the President," starring Richard M. Nixon, which will premiere May 10 at Ohio State University. Abel said about half the movie consists of stock film of Nixon in which his words are changed—but not in a vicious way. It has a gentle touch, Abel said.

(It was Abel and his wife who wrote, directed and produced the film, "Is There Sex After Death?")

Abel's next planned assault on credibility: The landing of a man from Mars. "We've got a guy building the spaceship now," he said. "The ship will drop him off and take off over the sea. He's going to baffle people for at least a couple of days."

As for SINA, Abel offers personal replies to letters for $3.84—his cost, he said, in time and effort.

Some Second Thoughts Appear On Tax Credit On New House Purchase

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Some second thoughts are surfacing about the fairness of the hastily passed 5 per cent income tax credit on the purchase price of new houses on which construction began prior to March 26.

home.
Among the other criticisms: —New home sales could be adversely affected after December, when the tax credit expires and the cost of any units still unsold at the time, in effect, will go up by $2,000.

"A builder would presumably be in no hurry to start new homes which will have to compete for buyers with those units which qualify during the rest of the year for a tax credit of up to $2,000."

—Perhaps inadvertently, the new tax law gives preferential treatment to some buyers of the more expensive new homes.

Art Leitch, president of the National Association of Realtors, bemoans the exclusion of resale homes from the tax benefits. The Senate version of the bill had included resale units, but the final version didn't.

The purchaser of a $40,000 home who has a capital gain of $20,000 from sale of his previous home won't get the maximum credit of $2,000, as he might believe. He must figure his 5 per cent tax credit on only $20,000. His total credit therefore is $1,000, not $2,000.

Leitch notes that roughly three times as many resale homes change hands in a year as do new homes. Many new home buyers, as many as 55 per cent by some estimates, must dispose of an existing home. However, the buyer of a $60,000 home with a similar capital gain will still qualify for the maximum $2,000 credit. Deducting the capital gain from $60,000 leaves $40,000. Five per cent of that is $2,000.

Some South Vietnamese In U.S. Are Fearful, Exultant, Bitter

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer
Some South Vietnamese living in the United States are fearful for the safety of their families and friends, exultant at the collapse of the Thieu government, bitter that the United States will help no longer and angry that the United States supported the war so long.

These mixed and contradictory reactions emerged from Associated Press interviews with a sampling of the 30,000 South Vietnamese in this country.

Ramos said deputies sped to the site and found the parched bones strewn eight to 10 feet apart, some partially buried.

Police said there have been no unusual numbers of missing persons reported here in the past several months.

Ramos described the area as secluded and criss-crossed by cattle trails. A stock tank also is in the area.

Ramos said the bones were bleached, an indication they had been in the open for three or four months.

Dr. Ruben Santos identified the remains as those of young females but he could not ascertain at once the cause of death. But he said, "most probably it was not natural."

Police said there have been no unusual numbers of missing persons reported here in the past several months.

Let's Face The Facts About Equal High Schools
We are most fortunate in Midland to have two of the finest high schools in Texas... and it is important to the future of our city that we do everything possible to keep them the best. Johnny Warren is the ONLY candidate for School Trustee who has openly, publicly supported the policy of maintaining both Midland High and Lee High as superior high schools... and — any way you look at it — that means keeping enrollments, programs and opportunities equal in both of these great schools.
Continuation of the policy of equal high schools is important to Midland in many, many ways. Every child, every citizen, every parent, every homeowner has a big stake in the outcome of Saturday's run-off election.

The April meeting of the Col. Brett Lea, Mrs. Diane through the actions of the Theunis Dey Chapter, NSDAR. Claiborne, Mrs. Lynn D. Dur- officials and agencies, just as any was designated as the occasion ham, Mrs. George Holt Glass, law passed by the Congress to honor new members admitted Mrs. Richard Hughston, Mrs. Linda Melton-Taylor, Mrs. Ed- win E. Walfs and Rebecca cutive orders began when Theodore Roosevelt issued 1,006 Chariton Hadden were hostesses was held prior to the meeting orders between Sept. 14, 1901 and March 3, 1909. For the most Mrs. W. C. Hubbard III part, the American public is unaware either of the existence of the system of executive orders, or of their effect. Ex- cutive orders delegating authority to carry them out C. After the opening chapter should be scrutinized and supervised so that the agencies involved do not go beyond the limits of the order as stated in it. Agency "law" derived from such authority is a serious threat to constitutional govern- ment.

The residents of Midland County and the city of Midland are very much affected through one of these executive orders. On Feb. 10, 1972, President Nixon, in accordance with his principle of a "new federalism," issued without any approval by Congress, the Regional Council Executive Order that divided the United States into 10 regions to be administered by Federal Regional Councils. Midland has become a part affected by the ramifications of this executive order through participation in the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission. Such type of "orders" by presidents became a part of our law when published in the Federal Register as they are issued. If the order is not challenged within 15 days after publication, the order stands, just as if it were an act of Congress, although not approved by that body.

Mrs. Frank Essex and Mrs. Jack English, both members of the chapter's national defense committee, reported on awards that had been presented at some of the Midland schools. These Good Citizenship medals are given through this committee for fulfilling the qualifications of honor, service, courage, leadership and patriotism. They were awarded to Jill Foreman of Edison Freshman School by Mrs. Crain and to Richard Seaman of Edison School and Liz Shorde of Austin Freshman by Mrs. George Van Husen. Mrs. Charles Welch, chairman of the Good Citizens Committee, announced a winner had been chosen for an award to a senior girl by the Borden County High School, where the Colonel Theunis Dey Chapter has sponsored this contest for several years. The award will be presented May 22 during the school's closing ceremonies.

Mrs. Essex summarized the current information sent out monthly by the national society to keep members abreast of important matters. An excellent review was given of an article on "Executive Orders" researched and written for the April issue of the society's magazine.

The article pointed out that George Washington signed the first executive order, but little could he have imagined the use later presidents would make of them. Through sad experience it has been learned that presidents are able to accomplish by executive orders what Congress had not done by legislation. The term "executive order" has never been defined, either by law or by another executive order. They are generally directed to and govern actions by government officials and agencies, and usually affect private individuals.

Jelly Side Down Preparing For Teachers

By NANCY STAHL

With almost fortnightly regularity, our school system delights in thrusting parents and teachers together for a session of meaningful dialogue which they term a Parent-Teacher Interview.

In September this confrontation is advertised as "Getting-to-Know-You-Night." Later on in the year, the school adopts more inspirational slogans such as "Let's Get Together," "Working Hand-in-Hand," and "Cooperation: The Key to Character-Building."

When my children started school, I assumed the wrong attitude toward these parent-teacher conferences. I invariably spent hours of unnecessary time in choosing an appropriate dress (black, high-necked), purchasing new support stockings in a conservative shade, and applying eye make-up (not too much, just enough to show that I Care.)

The general aura that I intended to project was one of culture and refinement, the indisputable assurance that my children do, indeed, come from a good home.

During the past two years I have come to the conclusion that this is entirely the wrong attitude, as it not only leaves Eric with absolutely no excuse for his rotten behavior, but my aura of refined capability has invariably boosted me to the head of the list of potential Brownie-Bakers, Costume-Makers, and Ideal Persons to Accompany Thirty-five Children on a Tour of the Local Filtration Plant.

So, next year, I fully intend to appear at the first parent-teacher conference wearing curlers, dangling rhinestone earrings, a see-through blouse, blue jeans, and high-heeled wedges.

HINTS FROM Heloise Dry Your Nails With Cooking Oil

Dear Heloise:

I have the most fabulous hint on how to dry nail polish FAST. Use cooking oil! The kind you find in your kitchen . . .

I found this out from a beauty salon owner who thought she had been using almond oil on her customer's nails, which was terribly expensive.

Much to her chagrin she discovered one day she had been using nothing but ordinary cooking oil! Needless to say she "switched." The cooking oil works beautifully.

When I do my own nails, I find if I apply the oil rather generously after the last coat of polish it not only makes the polish dry faster, but seems to help condition the cuticle as well.

I always save an empty nail polish bottle as the brush is perfect for applying the oil.

Just be sure to clean it thoroughly with polish remover and then hot soapy water before filling with oil.

You'll love the results. "Kay"

Dear Heloise:

My grandmother baked her own bread each week and it was so-o-o good!

It was made with yeast and potato water and she always kept some for a starter.

Do you have this old recipe and, if so, would you please print it?

I really enjoy having coffee with you each morning! Mrs. Thomas O'Neill

I have looked through my files and I don't have the recipe.

Would any of you readers be so kind as to help Mrs. O'Neill out? We would love you for it.

I would also like to have the recipe myself. My mother, too, used to bake this kind of bread. Bless you . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Yesterday when company was coming in just a few hours, I ran to the yard and picked lots of flowers.

But my flower "frogs" were nowhere to be found.

So I used my aquarium stones—more than a pound.

The stones were as colorful as anyone would wish, and easily conformed to every size bowl or dish! Lou Mobler

Aren't you the clever one? Heloise

Dear Heloise:

One day while sewing on some dark material, I found myself without a piece of chalk to mark it. My daughter came to my rescue.

She gave me an aspirin; not for a headache, but as a marker.

Turn the aspirin on the narrow edge, and it works beautifully.

Of course, if there are children around take sensible precautions.

Just don't lay the aspirin down any place where they might pick it up. Carolyn Barnard

Dear Heloise:

I recently found several store coupons in a magazine for products I don't use. I cut them out anyway, and took them to work and left them on the coffee-break table.

By the end of the day, all the coupons were gone.

The next day more coupons appeared from other gals. I picked up three for products I use and saved 37 cents.

We have been doing this for a couple of weeks now, and it really helps when I get to the checkout counter at the grocery store. N.W.

Dear Heloise:

I have an idea that I think will really delight your readers. I was going to cook two cans of creamed corn, but by mistake, I opened one of whole kernel corn.

I just went ahead and combined the two, and wow! What a tasty dish!

Try it — you'll like it! Mrs. Hadaway

Special Glue, Crayon Touches Can Help Give Art Unusual Texture

By BUROKER and HUNTSINGER Copley News Service

When working on any art project, one warning often heard is to be careful using glue. How many times have you been advised to keep paste in a special place, to wipe up spilled drops of mullage? Otherwise, one suffers the results of hard, sticky, unsightly blobs. Manufacturers of many modern pastes and white glues have solved this problem by packaging their products in almost foolproof ways. Screw-top lids have built-in brushes that are easy to store. Plastic dispensers have twist tops to allow the sticky stuff's flow only in fine lines which can be quickly turned off.

Dear Abby

Alarm Business Ticks Her Off

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful professor. I also work. About three times a week he arises early to work on a special project or to attend an early faculty meeting, so he sets the alarm for 30 minutes earlier than he really has to get up. When the alarm goes off, it awakens both of us. He then sets it for 30 minutes later. He rolls over and dozes until the alarm goes off again.

Meanwhile, I am being robbed of 30 minutes of sleep. I think he should be a big enough boy to set the alarm once for the time he has to get up.

Is there a solution? Please don't suggest separate bedrooms because I'd rather lose sleep than lose him.

Sign this, "For whom the bell does NOT toll" or...

"TICKED OFF!"
DEAR TICKED: Have you asked him to please knock off the two-alarm routine? If not, do. If he refuses, insist on a compromise whereby he sets the alarm twice every other time.

DEAR ABBY: That letter about the wife who didn't like her husband's mustache brought back memories. Years ago, I had the same problem. I waited patiently for my husband to shave off a big walrus mustache he had grown "just to see how it looked." Finally, one day when he was asleep on the couch, I got a scissors and nipped off one side of it! He awakened with a start, and said, "What's coming off here?"

I sweetly said, "Your mustache, dear." He laughed and kissed me. And he never grew another mustache again.

85-YEAR-OLD WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: You're lucky your husband was so good-natured. I'll bet some wives have ended up in the divorce court for less.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice about telling late-comers to come an hour ahead of the time you really want them will not work. I know. I used to be anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour late every time, and no amount of kidding or criticism would change me. One Christmas Eve some close friends (I'll call them the "Greens") invited me to drive with them to their parents' lovely country home. I was to be at the Greens' at 6 p.m. "Please, this time, don't be late," they pleaded. "It's a long drive, and we want to leave at 6 p.m. sharp!"

Of course I was late, but as I walked up their front stairs, I looked at my watch and saw it was only 6:15 — which was "early" for me. But the house was dark and there was a note of their front door: "Sorry, Pal. We waited for you until 6:05."

I was furious. But I will say that I am grateful to the Greens for teaching me a lesson I will never forget.

That was the last time I was

IRS Studying Whether To Levy Gift Tax On Political Contributions

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ
The Los Angeles Times

Big-money contributors to both major parties are targets of a new nationwide scrutiny by the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether they should pay gift taxes on their political donations.

One source, intimately familiar with the investigation, said a rough estimate of potential gift tax revenue from the probe would be from $3 to $5 million.

An IRS spokesman said some gift tax assessments already have been levied but he would not divulge any details on individual cases.

The investigation, officially termed an "examination program," specifically is aimed at contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon's reelection campaign in 1972 and to the Democratic presidential campaigns of Sens. George S. McGovern, Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie.

Ruling Made
The investigation is focused on large contributors which were made in increments of $3,000 or less to avoid the gift tax.

The IRS effort comes after: —A federal trial court ruled the agency has been wrong in the way it has permitted big contributors to escape gift taxes in the past.

— Congress stepped into the issue by deciding that, from now on, political contributions will not be considered gifts for tax purposes.

Scores of IRS auditors have been combing contribution reports and evidence, some of it obtained in the Watergate investigations, and have been questioning contributors and fund-raisers.

Republicans and Democrats alike who have been questioned by the IRS agents have expressed puzzlement why the agency is conducting an investigation at this time.

One Republican critic said it was an attempt by the IRS to "rake over the Watergate ashes."

California Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Shapiro, a major force in the McGovern campaign fund-raising effort, was more outspoken.

Views Stated
He contended the new drive is an attempt by the IRS "belatedly to show how pure it is, after all the criticism it has received about being used for political purposes by the Nixon administration."

"What it really boils down to now is whether IRS will stick by its past ruling or will the agency try retroactively to screw someone."

Shapiro is attorney for Max Palevsky, a major giver to Democratic causes and a contributor of $300,000 to the 1972 McGovern effort.

Palevsky is just one of hundreds of contributors in the 1972 presidential campaigns who are being questioned now about the manner in which they contributed.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander declined direct comment on the investigation or its timing. Leon Lavine, IRS public affairs officer, outlined the scope of the probe and said Alexander would not be able to add anything.

The new probe runs all the way from relatively small donors all the way up to W. Clement Stone, the Illinois insurance executive who reported giving Nixon's campaign $2 million.

Amount Large
The amount of gift taxes involved in the investigation is not inconsiderable. The sliding scale levy on gifts from $5,000 to $10,000 is $12.50 plus 5 1/4 per cent of everything over $5,000 and runs up the scale to a tax on gifts between $250,000 and $500,000 of $49,275 plus 24 per cent of everything over $250,000.

The whole area of big-money political contributions has been exceedingly touchy with IRS. According to its own official documents, "since the enactment of the gift tax law in 1932, it has been the position of the service that contributions to a political campaign are taxable transfers for purposes of the gift tax."

"Any individual who makes a contribution in excess of $3,000 in any calendar year to a political candidate, party or organization is subject to the gift tax filing requirements."

But over the years, as campaigns became more costly and contributions became much larger, IRS never came to grips with the strategem worked out by fund-raisers of both parties — to make a $60,000 contribution, say in the form of 20 checks for $3,000 each.

Professional fund-raisers, acting on advice of their lawyers, developed the practice of advising big contributors that the way to obviate any question of gift tax assessment on the donor was to make a lot of $3,000 gifts, even if all for the same purpose.

The reason for the $3,000 checks is that gifts up to $3,000 a year are not taxable. Beyond that, the average is applicable to the $30,000 lifetime gift exemption each person enjoys. Most if not all of the big political donors long since have utilized their $30,000 lifetime exemption.

For husband-and-wife contributors, the lifetime exemption is $60,000 and the tax-free annual exemption is $6,000.

With the IRS acceptance of the multiple $3,000 check subterfuge reasonably assured, the political pros of both parties confidently set up a wide range of committees to accept contributions.

Services Offered
Take the Nixon campaign in 1972:

Robert Bennett, president of the Robert Mullin Co., a public relations firm in Washington that was disclosed as a sometime front for Central Intelligence Agency activities, said he volunteered to set up committees to receive contributor funds long in advance of the 1972 campaign.

"I've been involved in Republican politics all my life (he is the son of former Sen. Wallace Bennett of Utah) and I learned that managing the flow of money in a campaign is something most politicians don't pay enough attention to."

"I decided that out of my professional experience, the best thing I could do for the Nixon campaign was to set up all these committees so they would be ready to use when the fund drive began."

Bennett said he created "about 100" committees, gave each a name and a charter, officers and a separate identity.

April A Month For Inventors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patently, April has been a month for young inventors, judging from the contributions to mankind from a trio of 22-year-olds.

Charles M. Hall was 22 when he discovered the only feasible method of making aluminum in 1885. He applied for a patent in 1866 but did not receive it until April 2, 1889. This was the birth of the important aluminum industry, according to Intellectual Property Owners Inc., a nonprofit group devoted to strengthening patents as part of the free enterprise system.

George Westinghouse also was 22 when the first patent for a railroad air brake was issued to him, on April 13, 1869. After that trains could travel faster and stop sooner because engineers in their cabs could slow or stop an entire train with one control. Previously they had to signal brakemen on each car to start setting brakes by hand. In his 48 years of inventiveness Westinghouse received 400 patents.

Frederic Eugene Ives, a printer and photographer, was 22 in 1878 when he envisioned making halftone printing plates by breaking the image up into dots of varying sizes. At first he used a gelatin medium. He perfected his process into a purely photographic technique and received a patent on April 11, 1893, for a "photogravure printing plate." With improvements by others in the 1890s, the method of halftone printing made possible the cheap and rapid reproduction of illustrations in newspapers, magazines and books.

New Kenya Airport Costing $52 Million

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya will have one of the biggest and most modern airports in Africa when construction of the new facility is completed here at the end of next year.

The new $52-million complex will cater to four million passengers a year. The present airport is currently able to handle 1.25 million passengers a year and is one of the busiest on the continent.

The new airport will have facilities to handle 100,000 tons of goods a year, and will also be able to handle 3,000 passengers an hour.

He said most but not all of his creations ultimately were used by the Finance Committee to reelect the President.

Bennett, who now is an executive with Howard Hughes Summa Corp., said he learned that "the milk lobby" was using some of the committees he had created to make contributions to the Nixon campaign.

Action Taken
"As soon as I found out about this, I knew there would be controversy, so I told them (the Nixon campaign organizers) that I don't need this kind of trouble, I don't want to see my name spread all over the front pages, and that I planned to disband the committees and get out of the business."

Bennett said he closed out the last active committee by Feb. 1, 1972.

By then, the Nixon campaigners had shifted to a host of committees created by Herbert W. Kalmbach, then Nixon's personal lawyer and most active fund-raiser.

Sources close to Kalmbach confirmed that "several hundred" committees were organized to receive contributions to the Nixon campaign, particularly prior to April 7, 1972, when a new federal disclosure law required reporting of contributions went into effect.

It is the formation of these committees, by the Nixon, as well as the McGovern, Humphrey, Muskie and other campaigns, that IRS auditors are investigating now.

If the committees were real, out to be shams, then if they had separate identities presumably someone owes some separate officers and gift tax — and that apparently separate purposes, then means the donor, who has presumably the IRS will continue to hold that Stone, for law as it was then.

example, did not give $2 million in 1972, he just wrote a lot of $3,000 checks.

But if the committees turn out to be shams, then if they had separate identities presumably someone owes some separate officers and gift tax — and that apparently separate purposes, then means the donor, who has presumably the IRS will continue to hold that Stone, for law as it was then.

Simon Says There Won't Be Any U.S. Withdrawal From Asia

PASSING ENCOUNTER — Duncan Halsted, 3, and his 2-year-old sister, both clad in Guardsmen uniforms, curiously inspect a British policeman at Windsor Wednesday. Agence France-Presse MANTIA — U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon Thursday declared "there will be no American withdrawal" from Asia and warned America's adversaries not to miscalculate "our firmness of purpose."
 Simon, addressing the eighth annual meeting of the Asian Development Bank here, said the U.S. was a Pacific as well as an Atlantic nation and "will remain actively involved in the problems and the development of Asia."
 Regarding "suggestions that the U.S. can no longer be relied upon by its friends" because of what was happening in Indochina, Simon said "such fears are unwarranted."
 The U.S. according to Simon, regards its "bilateral and multilateral commitments" in Asia as "important to our own interests and to the interests of the nations with which we are associated, and we will uphold them."
 He continued:
 "There will be no change in the fundamental direction of American policy toward Asia — and there will be no American withdrawal" from this vast region. Our friends need not fear and our adversaries should beware of adopting policies which are predicated on miscalculation of our firmness of purpose."
 Simon recalled that America's "friendship and mutual cooperation" presence in Asia "extends back for more than a century" and "sacrificed many of our finest young men fighting in Asia to preserve human freedom."

 The U.S. has also given generously of its financial resources, he added, "contributing more economic and humanitarian assistance to regional ADB members since World War II than the rest of the world combined."
 Simon said since World War II, U.S. bilateral concessional assistance to regional ADB members totaled $35 billion not to mention $342.6 million in concessional funds and share subscriptions to the ADB.
 The U.S. Export-Import Bank, he said, loaned $7.8 billion dollars to regional members of the ADB, adding that two thirds of all U.S. Public Law 480 allocations "is being targeted to ADB regional members in the current fiscal year."
 Turning to the international economic scene, Simon rated the following three central challenges of international economic policy today:
 First, To keep economic growth and price stability around the world.
 Second, to adapt to the energy shock in ways that will provide more secure sources of energy and will support a pattern of orderly growth.
 Third, to adjust financial policies to accommodate massive shifts in international flows of funds.
 To better address the problems of developing nations, the development committee associated with the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank was created, Simon said.
 In this committee's current work program are:
 — A U.S. proposal for a special trust fund to channel funds on a highly concessional basis to developing countries most in need.
 — A study of ways to enable developing countries to make greater use of markets.
 — A follow-up to the conclusions reached in the world food conference on the financing of food, fertilizer and food production.

Morgan Released From Prison Camp

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Edward L. Morgan has been released after serving four months in prison for conspiring to illegally arrange a $576,000 tax deduction for former President Richard M. Nixon.
 Morgan was sentenced to the federal minimum security prison camp here after pleading guilty to illegally backdating a deed for Nixon's pre-presidential papers that were donated to the government.
 A prison spokesman said Morgan, who entered Lompoc on Jan. 6, worked in the prison power station. Morgan was released on Wednesday.

Truck User Tax May Be Hiked

By GAYLORD SHAW
 The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — The Ford administration is preparing a proposal to levy higher user taxes on large trucks to revise drastically the federal role in financing highway construction, a Transportation Department official disclosed Wednesday.
 John W. Snow, acting assistant secretary, said the administration believes "large trucks pay less than their share" of higher user taxes and that his department "will attempt to deal with that problem" through legislation.
No Specifics Cited
 He gave no specifics or timetable, but any increase in user taxes is certain to face strong opposition from trucking interests, rated as one of the most influential lobbies in Congress.
 Presumably, the higher taxes would apply to vehicles weighing more than 26,000 pounds, the current federal standard for "heavy trucks" — the semitrailer and tandem rigs which carry much of the nation's freight.
 Snow also disclosed at a conference on surface transportation regulation that the administration is drafting a plan to eliminate use of federal highway trust funds for construction of so-called primary and secondary highways — those not part of the interstate system.

Financing Limited
 The plan, he said, would limit federal financing to interstate highway construction and maintenance. At present, states pay for maintenance of interstate highways, but depend on the trust fund for help in financing construction of primary and secondary highways.

This fiscal year, $6.6 billion is being spent from the highway trust fund, which is fed by federal taxes on gasoline, diesel fuel and tires as well as levies on large trucks and buses.
 Snow, one of the chief engineers of the Ford administration's move to ease federal regulation of railroads and truckers, confirmed that legislation soon to be sent to Congress will propose $2 billion in loan guarantees to help railroads rebuild their deteriorating physical plants.

No Decision Made
 But, responding to questions, Snow said no decision has been made on whether to provide the guaranteed loans at heavily subsidized interest rates.
 He also confirmed that one plank in the administration rail bill is an experimental plan to allow railroads some freedom to raise or lower rates without prior Interstate Commerce Commission approval. Under the plan, they could raise rates up to 7 per cent the first year after the bill was enacted, 12 per cent the second and 15 per cent the third.

DISPUTE SETTLED—

Connors Loses Surface 'Flip'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Australian John Newcombe won the first skirmish with Jimmy Connors and said today, "We can now forget about that argument and get on with the primary objective, which is to see who is the better tennis player."

A flip of a coin decided the controversy over which artificial surface would be used for Saturday's nationally televised $850,000 head-on battle.

The coin came up heads so Caesars Palace will use the surface it already has on the floor of the indoor arena, and the one on which Newcombe has been practicing.

Connors was non-committal about the result of the coin flip but had said he could play on any surface.

Asked about the style contrast between his game and that of the left-handed American, Newcombe declared, "It hasn't hurt me so far. The last time I played him was Jan. 1 in the Australian Open so he can't have changed much."

Ranked No. 1 in the world, Connors nevertheless has lost the three matches he's played against the Aussie, but two of those were on grass and only one on an indoor surface.

The 30-year-old Newcombe goes all-out in his practice sessions against southpaw Australians Tony Roche and Owen Davidson.

Must Be At Best
"At Forest Hills or Wimbledon when I walk in the first day I don't expect to be playing my best tennis."

"Here I've got to be playing my best. I don't have any choice."

"So I'm concentrating in practice, almost like I were playing a match."

Newcombe on Wednesday declared himself well satisfied with his workouts, saying, "I can't practice any better than I have. If I had to think of something else I wanted to do, I don't know what it would be."

The Aussie said his primary reason for wanting to keep the present surface was that he had been practicing on it five days.

"Why would I do that if I thought another court would be laid down?" he asked. "I'd be nuts to do it."

The Aussie now considers the matter closed.

Mike Sember... a three-hit night

Al Admits Huisman Left Big Shoes To Fill

When reminded he was replacing Bill Huisman at second base, player-coach Al Montreuil commented, "I've got big shoes to fill."

Kansas State Bill was with Midland each of its first three years in the Texas League and after a .325 season in 1974 which earned him Most Valuable Cub laurels, Huisman was moved up to the Wichita Aeros this spring.

Manager Howard "Doc" Edwards may never miss Bill. And if the fans don't have a program, they may not even realize there has been a change. The two look that much alike.

The fact that Al was sidelined during spring training with an ingrown toenail doesn't mean the Gretna, La., native has big feet necessary to replace Bill. That will be decided on the field and at the plate.

One thing "Volkswagen Al" has over Bill is experience. This year is his 12th in pro ball and his credentials are impressive.

Al has spent the last six seasons at the AAA level in the Chicago Cubs' organization. He was named most valuable player at both Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and Wichita in the American Association.

Montreuil's recommendations include a testimonial from Chicago Cub Manager Jim Marshall.

Watching his National Leaguers take batting at Cubs Stadium during a pre-season stay in Midland, Jim said, "Al didn't have a big year last year, at least by his standards, but he should do a good job for you

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

Two years ago at Wichita, we won the American Association pennant, but for about a month Al carried the whole ball club on his back all by himself."

Scanning the 333 and 368 foot markers in left, Jim added, "And he'll hit home home runs for you here, too."

Of course, Al is getting to that age where he has to watch his calories.

During spring training at a plush Scottsdale watering hole, Montreuil came back from the lavish buffet with desserts that included a cream puff, cheese cake and something else a shade or two richer than strawberry shortcake.

When they served his coffee, Al requested that someone "pass the Sweats."

Apparently, such waist watching pays off. When Al reported to Midland, he was complaining that usually he likes to play at 165, but was having trouble getting up to 160 this year.

I don't know about you, but we really don't care whether he fills Bill's shoes or not. After listening to his weight problems, we find Al is a very easy guy to hate.

Where's Panic Button?

Catfish Now 0-3 For Yanks After Blowing 7-3 Lead

By The Associated Press
Jim Hunter has been like a Catfish out of water since his arrival in New York. But his former Oakland baseball teammates believe he'll stop floundering soon.

"He'll be all right," says Ray Fosse. "He's always been a slow starter."

"Unless he dies, Catfish Hunter will win 18 to 20 games this year," says Reggie Jackson. "All he'll have to do to get that many is get out of bed every morning. He's a superstar."

Ken Holtzman also feels that you can't kill a Catfish, especially if it's gold-plated.

"If the Yankees are worried about Catfish, they're in trouble," notes Hunter's one-time pitching colleague. "I think they've got a fine team, and Cat should be the last man they worry about."

The object of their affection currently is 0-3 as a Yankee and Wednesday the Cy Young winner was knocked out for the fourth straight time this season during the Boston Red Sox' wild 11-7 victory at Fenway Park.

That's not the type of pitching the Yankees expect from their multi-million dollar investment. And it's not the type of pitching the Catfish himself expects.

"I'm still not making the right pitches at the right time," said the proud Hunter, who won 86 games in the last four seasons for the A's before escaping from Charlie Finley's gang through a contract loophole.

"My breaking pitches, the slider and the curve, still are up to high."

thing that the A's are saying: Stay cool.

"Hunter just hasn't been making good pitches," says Virdon. "He's still hanging a lot of breaking balls. However, he's working hard and he'll be all right."

Cecil Cooper ignited a five-run uprising against Hunter. Sparky Lyle and Dick Tidrow with a pinch triple in the seventh inning to lead the Boston success. Lyle took the loss after Tidrow, the third New York pitcher, surrendered a two-run double to Bob Montgomery, capping the decisive rally.

Hunter was unable to hold a 7-3 lead built with the help of two homers by Roy White.

"I think the Yankees are worried about Catfish, they're in trouble," notes Hunter's one-time pitching colleague. "I think they've got a fine team, and Cat should be the last man they worry about."

BY TED BATTLES

A six-run eighth overcame "an act of nature" and the Shreveport Captains as the Midland Cubs stretched their Texas League winning streak to three with an 8-6 win at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night.

Trailing 4-2 going into the table-turning inning, Bill Bright's pop single to center and Aaron Randall's whistler up the middle launched the uprising. Mike Gonzales, the losing pitcher, balked the tying runs into scoring position and Julio Gonzalez's sacrifice fly and Mike Sember's infield hit after a wild pitch tied it.

When shortstop Jimmy Sexton's error put runners on first and third, Rick Langford relieved and walked Jose Ortiz.

That set the table for Al Montreuil, who delivered his fourth hit of the night, a two-run single to left. However, what proved to be the winning runs came after Joe Wallis was walked intentionally.

Wayne Tyrone grounded to short for a force, but the relay to first left the deciding runs race home.

However, until the eighth it looked like a Mike Edwards lead off bunt in the first inning might be the ball game, especially the way Freeport's Randy Sealy was pitching.

Third baseman Julio Gonzalez rushed in to make the play and fired to first, but Randall, blinded by the sun, had to pull out of the way and Edwards wound up on second.

The next two batters popped up, but then Ron Page and singled and Frank Grundler doubled to make it 2-0.

"For a long time I thought we were going to lose the game on an act of nature," Manager Doc Edwards said in relief after the game.

Actually, it took a brilliant relief job by lefty Bernie Beckman and Bruce Sutter's second save to go with two wins to keep the Captains within reach and finally wrap it up.

It was 4-1 when Beckman entered the game with Edwards, who had tripled on third, and Sexton, who had walked, on first to relieve troubled starter Dave Geisel.

Pitching to the heart of the Shreveport batting order, Beckman, who had been anything but impressive in previous relief roles, fanned Mitchell and Page, walked Grundler on a 3-2 pitch and then fanned Harry Safright.

Sember made a backhand stop in the hole and an acrobatic throw to second to get Kenneth Melvin on a force at second for the first out in the ninth, a big play. . . . Edwards' first inning hunt was a play that Bobby Adams, roving coach for Chicago, turned into a Knotty problem for the scorer. Third baseman Gonzalez' throw had the Edwards' hunt beat, but Randall was blinded by the sun. Do you score it a hit or, as Bobby suggested was also possible, a two-base throwing error? . . . Scorer's decision, a hit and error. . . .

"That walk to Grundler was an intentional unintentional walk. With a left-handed hitter coming up, he wasn't going to get anything good to hit on a 3-2 pitch," Edwards said.

"And the Beckman we saw tonight was the Beckman I saw in the Eastern League two years ago when he was with the Dodgers. When he came to us this spring, he hadn't worked in 15 days and I couldn't use him in the first series here, so he was rusty."

Beckman got in trouble in the ninth when a couple of walks and singled loaded the bases with one out. Sutter came in to get Edwards on a called strike and then Sexton doubled down the left field line for two runs that left the tying runs n a second

It's Still Unneeded!

Passage of a bill to create a state utilities commission has been recommended by the Senate State Affairs Committee, but this does not mean that it will clear the Senate.

Again, Texas does not need a utilities commission and, hopefully, the Senate or the House will put the matter to rest, at least for this session.

Regulation of utilities in Texas is handled effectively and well at the local level, and this is where it should remain.

Both Austin and Washington should be cutting back on regulatory agencies, rather than increasing the number.

The bill, (SB43) as proposed, would create a three-member state utilities commission, with members appointed by the governor to staggered six-year terms.

The measure as proposed has its commendable aspects in that cities would continue to have jurisdiction over electric rates, with appeals to the commission. Rates outside cities would come under the commission's exclusive jurisdiction.

Likewise, natural gas rates would be regulated by cities, with appeals to the Texas Railroad Commission, which would regulate rural rates.

The bill, in this respect, is far better than some of the others submitted earlier in the session.

All telephone rates in the state, both local and those for in-state long-distance calls, would be regulated by the commission.

The proposal also gives the commission the authority to settle territorial disputes.

Sen. Ron Clower of Garland, the Senate's most outspoken advocate of state regulation of utilities, doesn't agree with the specifics.

INSIDE REPORT—

CIA Director William Colby's 'Hot Seat'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Tucked into President Ford's speech to Congress, and ignored in the emotional controversy over Vietnam, was a carefully worded warning that secret operations of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) must be protected from "altered" congressional oversight that threatens "essential secrets."

Mr. Ford's purpose: repeal of an oversight provision stuck into a new law last December. That provision requires the President to notify "appropriate committees" including the notoriously leaky Senate Foreign Relations and House International Relations Committees, before approving any overt CIA operation abroad.

This presidential concern comes not a moment too soon for the few friends of the CIA still willing to buck the political lynch-mob psychology which began with disclosures about the CIA's clandestine work in Chile and illegal spying on American citizens.

Indeed, the apparent reluctance of both the White House and embattled CIA director William Colby to shout their fears about destruction of the agency has infuriated serious-minded intelligence experts. "For the life of me," one such expert told us, "I cannot figure out why President Ford and Colby have handled this 'assassination' issue so ineptly."

Asking anonymity, this uniquely well-informed official continued: "As far as I know the CIA never killed any foreign leaders. Plotting may be something else again, but if every thought a man had were translated automatically into action, there would be few of us out of jail or still alive. Would you like to be hung for every nasty fantasy in which you indulged? But assassination, no sir, and I defy anyone to prove differently."

But when the charge of possible CIA assassinations of foreign leaders surfaced, the instinctive White House reaction was to hand that hot issue to the presidential commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. That only gave new wings to rumors that CIA may, indeed, have been executioner at high levels.

Colby, a straight arrow without guile, is desperately trying to hold back the floodgates by offering his full cooperation to the separate, year-long probes about to start in the Senate and House. Intimates say that when the assassination charge first came up, he refused categorical denials on grounds that these probes might turn up shreds of evidence unknown to him — tending to link CIA with summit murders.

Colby's policy is passionately debated by him and top-level CIA officials with their own conflicting views. Colby contends that in today's rancid political climate, his job is to reveal almost everything to any duly-constituted congressional committee and claim executive privilege only in extraordinary cases.

Some former intelligence officials believe he has no alternative. Within the agency itself, one group of officials has pressed for total exposure of everything the agency has ever done and for prosecution of officials who broke laws.

But another faction violently disagrees. Their thesis: almost everything the CIA has done was under direct orders from a President of the United States. Yet the agency is now asked to take the rap for extra-legal activity. So, take the heat — but tell nothing that could compromise the CIA's daily routine.

In fact, daily routine is already compromised to a point that the agency is now engaging in a bare handful of covert "operations" abroad, none particularly sensitive. Moreover, exchange deals with foreign intelligence agencies are drying up and U.S. businessmen, acting for years as invaluable informants and CIA fronts, have become "impassioned" in breaking off all CIA contacts.

Also evaporating are the highly useful deals by which a foreign nation's intelligence service does field work for the CIA in "coastal operations" financed by the CIA. When one such foreign service demanded a signed letter from

Colby, he refused to sign it. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said.

Colby, he refused to sign it. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said.

Colby, he refused to sign it. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said.

Colby, he refused to sign it. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said.

Colby, he refused to sign it. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said. "I don't have the authority," he said.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — It looks as if the oil sheikhs of Kuwait are bringing the politics of the Middle East to their investments here in the United States.

They have purchased Kiawah, a pearl of an island with 10 miles of sparkling sand and virgin land off the South Carolina coast. They plan to construct a $250 million resort for rich Americans on the island.

The Kuwaitis have chosen Sea Pines Corp., a company accused of subtle prejudice against Jews, to develop and manage the posh island resort. Kuwait, of course, is a partner in the Arab boycott against companies that do business with Israel.

The president of Sea Pines, George Fraser, forcefully denied that he or his company has ever encouraged an anti-Jewish attitude. He named high executives in his organization who are Jewish.

The company now runs a fashionable, subdued resort at Hilton Head, S.C. In a taped interview, a former high-level employee charged that Sea Pines' salesmen were told by their bosses: "We don't have any Jew here (at Hilton Head). We want the Jews to stay in Miami."

Fraser said Hilton Head has about the same proportion of Jewish owners that would be found in the $45,000-a-year population at large. The first ocean-front lot sold by Sea Pines, he said, went to a Jew. But Fraser conceded: "I don't have the slightest doubt that we have biased people working for us."

Another ex-employee, also on tape, recalled that a younger employee asked at a sales meeting: "What should I do? I have this Jewish customer, and he wants to come to the island. What do I tell him?"

One of the older salesmen, according to the ex-employee, retorted: "You just tell him there is no synagogue on the island, and none is planned."

This "was agreed with no surprise by anyone," reported the ex-employee. "There was no reaction, no stiffening. It was just, yeah, that's what you say, that's how it is."

Of the seven or eight houses of worship at Hilton Head, Fraser acknowledged, none are synagogues.

Still a third former employee, this one in the executive range, explained: "We don't want to become another Miami Beach. Jews have another place. That's Miami Beach. They don't need this. I don't say Sea Pines discriminates, as such, but we can't let it become like Miami Beach."

Dr. Morey Lipton, a leader of the Jewish community in nearby Charleston, S.C., had nothing to say about discrimination at Sea Pines but a good deal of comment on the Kuwaitis.

"We're fearful of secondary boycotting as already practiced by the Arabs in the United States," he said. "We want Kuwait to end the boycott. . . . Otherwise, we don't want them doing business in South Carolina. . . . It's not a Jewish issue, but an American issue."

Responded the Kuwaitis in Washington: "There is never going to be any discrimination (at the Kiawah island resort) against the Jews as Jews." The world boycotting, said an embassy spokesman, "has nothing to do with Jews. . . . It is only against Israel."

Footnote: To get the Kiawah project going, Fraser spoke with the Treasury Department in Washington. Thereafter, a high Treasury official, Assistant Secretary Gerald Parsky, assisted the Kuwaitis by making a call to the Charleston County Council in behalf of the project. Parsky cited a statement favoring Arab investment in the United States. A few days ago, over the objections of the Charleston Jewish community and environmentalists, the county council gave the Kuwaitis a vital zoning change.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We recently reported that balking bureaucrats at the Fish and Wildlife Service are obstructing the Endangered Species Act, which is supposed to stop the slaughter of vanishing animals. Our column brought a demand from four powerful senators — Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Philip Hart, D-Mich. — for a full report. "We wish to emphasize," they wrote, "that we view this matter as both serious and urgent". . . . In recent columns, we have exposed atrocious deficiencies in Veterans Administration hospitals. Now a Baton Rouge, La., veteran, Marvin Raborn, has evidence of malpractice. He will charge in a $3 million lawsuit that inadequate and irresponsible treatment in VA hospitals caused him severe injury. His story has been corroborated by doctors and lawyers. . . . John Bartels, controversial chief of the Drug Enforcement Administration, was so furious over our recent report on the narcotics enforcement mess that he drafted a four-page response. This was sent to all his regional directors with stern orders that his comments must be "made known to all your employees" and should be used "as a regional response to any newspaper in the region that ran the Anderson column." If he were as zealous in pursuing dope-pushers as he is in responding to press criticism, the DEA wouldn't be losing the drug war. There is nothing in his four-page response, incidentally, that required the slightest retraction. . . . Walter Reed Army Hospital recently called in the military police, believe it or not, to stop Army personnel from eating their own packed lunches at the hospital cafeteria. Only food purchased at the cafeteria, under the martial law that had been imposed inside the cafeteria, could be eaten on the premises. A spokesman said there was "a problem" but acknowledged that the use of military police "probably should not have happened."

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS—

Coca-Cola Candidate Has Ample 'Backing'

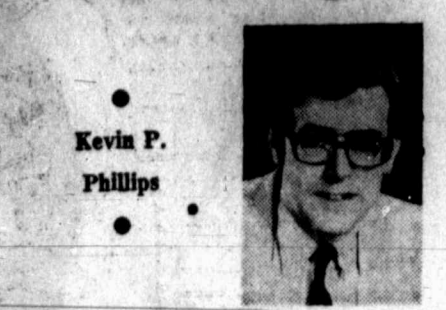

WASHINGTON (KFS) — In the newly democratic rush of 19th Century politics, candidates could do worse than have the cider or beer interests on their side — and many a second-rate politician won election by having a first-rate keg on tap. William Henry Harrison's symbolic cider barrel was the most effective stunt of the 1840 presidential campaign.

More recently, U.S. politicians have preferred the square soft-drink image of family picnic hampers, sparkling effervescence and healthy teenagers. Pepsi President Don Kendall was one of Richard Nixon's early boosters, and Pepsi-Cola stands were prominent at the 1968 and 1972 Republican conventions.

Now it appears that Coca-Cola wants to get into the act. The Atlanta-based company turns out to be the key financial force behind the presidential campaign of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Carter, you will remember, is another one of those gray-flannel Southern "Populists" who are forever being advanced as anti-Wallace candidates by the Northern media. At any rate, somebody on Carter's staff recently sent me clippings from three "Yankee" newspapers — the Milwaukee Journal the Boston Globe and the Des Moines Register — telling us that Carter is a fine chap and (in the words of the editor of the Boston Globe) "a plausible presidential candidate."

Plausible, maybe, but not "Populist." Buried deep in the inner pages of the Des Moines Register article on Carter — he met with their editors — we find the interesting tidbit that Coca-Cola's Atlanta-based officers have figured heavily in raising his $60,000 budget last year and are counted on heavily for half of the $600,000 he needs this year."

Half of his money, huh? Just let a conservative candidate for something get half of his funds from one multi-billion dollar corporation, and he'd never live it down.

In contrast, the progressive Mr. Carter flaunts his carbon dioxide connection. When he travels around the world, he relies on Coca-Cola's global operation rather than the U.S. State Department. "I've not done much more than make a courtesy call on the ambassador," he told the Des Moines Register. "Coca-Cola has helped me with the important things — like arranging a meeting with the top man in economics."

Northern media types who hail Carter as a "Populist" opponent of "establishment power structures" may want to do a little checking on just what role Coca-Cola plays in the state of Georgia. Neil Peirce, a contributing editor of National Journal, described things pretty well in his 1974 book, "The Deep South States of America."

Soon after the first batch of Coke was made in Atlanta in 1886, it became a huge commercial success. By the time developer Asa Candler sold out to become mayor of Atlanta in 1916, his Coca-Cola holdings were worth $50,000,000. In the South "before World War II," Peirce goes so far as to say that "Coca-Cola was the only pool of indigenous capital." As of 1975, Coca-Cola "grosses close to $2 billion a year and has been a literal money tree for many Atlantans and franchises across the world." Regarding local influence, the chairman of Coca-Cola's Finance Committee rates it this way: "In philanthropy, or just about any field he cares to touch, Robert Woodruff remains the power behind the scenes in Atlanta."

To Northerners, "Coca-Cola Connection" may seem penny-ante, but in Jimmy Carter's Georgia, it is not penny-ante. The Coca-Cola Co. is as big a power-broker in Atlanta as the Chase Manhattan Bank is in New York or Boeing is in the state of Washington.

Under these circumstances, it seems absurd to talk about a presidential candidate financed and guided by his state's most influential corporation as a "populist." But then in the liberal media, lots of politicians are "populists" — except, of course, the real ones, who variously are described as peckerwoods, bumpkins and Alabama rednecks.

Now we are witnessing the fall of Cambodia and South Vietnam into Communist hands. The sad truth is that one of the principal reasons for that fall is discontinued aid by the United States and other SEATO allies.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor: "History repeats itself, but man learns nothing from it." That old adage has proven itself many times. Now note this striking parallel. During World War II, China was a faithful and valued ally of the United States of America. Immediately following that major conflict Mainland China was conquered by the Communists, after the U.S. discontinued military aid to the late Chiang Kai-shek.

Now we are witnessing the fall of Cambodia and South Vietnam into Communist hands. The sad truth is that one of the principal reasons for that fall is discontinued aid by the United States and other SEATO allies.

Dallas Legislator Says His Handgun Measure Doomed This Session

AUSTIN (AP) — The sponsor of a bill seeking to regulate handguns in Texas says there is no hope that his plan will become law this session.

House Transportation Committee is any indication, he said. Ragsdale told of his lack of hope after introducing his bill, which does not affect ownership of rifles and shotguns, to the committee. Gun owners and collectors from across Texas descended on the committee hearing to register their complaints about the regulation proposal.

Speaking before a packed hearing where over 40 persons had registered to speak on the bill, Ragsdale said he had no opposition to people who use handguns properly.

Exemptions under the bill include law enforcement officers, gun collectors and retail and wholesale gun dealers. The proposed legislation also says the state will pay up to $50 for anyone willing to turn in his handgun to the DPS.

ANOTHER ROUND OF INCREASES EXPECTED—

Food Costs Down Some

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of sagging farm prices, consumers began to see some price relief at food store counters last month, but Agriculture Department experts say another round of retail price increases is lurking around the corner.

The retail cost of a market basket of farm-produced food in 1975 fell 1.5 percent in March, down from a 1.5 percent increase in February. Despite a slower pace of increase this year than in the last July, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Murder Suspect's Wife Arrested As Accessory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Criminal Dist. Court Judge Rudolph Becker III ordered Katherine Giesick of San Antonio, Tex., arrested Wednesday as an accessory to the murder of her husband's bride of a few weeks.

Becker ordered the arrest after Mrs. Giesick testified she acted as a telephone go-between for her husband, Claudius James Giesick, and Texas preacher Samuel Corey, who is on trial for first degree murder in the slaying of Patricia Albanowski of Trenton, N.J.

Mrs. Giesick told the court she remained in her San Antonio home taking phone messages from Corey and her husband, who were both in New Orleans.

She said her husband told her he planned to take out an insurance policy on a girl and have her killed, but testified she didn't believe he would carry the plan through.

She also said she didn't know the plan involved his marrying the woman. She said she has filed for divorce from Giesick, who also has been charged with bigamy.

Giesick testified Wednesday that he took his bride out to look at ducks in a lonely bayou one foggy night in January, 1974 as Corey waited in a rented car nearby without headlights.

"I was leaning against a tree and she was facing me. Giesick swung a flashlight behind their rise, he said. Further, he said, hog producers have cut back so much that pork prices are going up. Much of future prices still depends on 1975 harvests and the general tone of the nation's economy, Summers added.

Summers said the department will issue a new appraisal of 1975 food prices on May 8. Despite a slower pace of increase this year than in the first half of 1974, consumers can expect some further rises through midyear at least, he said.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Department figures showed that supply of market basket food — theoretically enough for a household of 3.2 persons for an entire year — cost an annual rate of $1,821 in March. That was down $9 from February's record rate. Farmers also saw another decline in the prices they are paid. Of the price paid by consumers, the farmers got $714 on an annual basis in March, down $10 from the February rate. Middlemen who transport, process and sell food saw their share increase by $1 last month to $1,107 on an annual basis.

Although considered by the department as a major food-price indicator, the market-basket index includes less than 90 percent of what families actually buy to eat, officials said. The 65-item list does not include imported products or seafood.

Rep. Joe Salem, D-Corpus Christi, brought cheers from the audience when he said, "Taking away my guns is not going to solve the problems of murders. If a person wants a gun, he's going to get one."

The measure provides for a two-year jail term and a $10,000 fine for a person possessing a handgun without a license issued by the Department of Public Safety. It prohibits ownership of the cheaper handguns known as "Saturday night specials."

Darrell Sherman, a rural mail carrier from Leander, said he would not mind outlawing the "Saturday night specials."

"My main objection is that I would have to register my gun while a person with bad intent would not even give a second thought to not registering his gun," Sherman said. Ivan Hafley, an Austin attorney, said a positive correlation between handgun registration and a reduction in crime has never been established.

"This bill, by prohibiting the ownership of the Saturday night specials, even takes away the ability of a poor man to own a gun to protect his home and family," Hafley said. Ragsdale said later that one reason so many people showed up at the hearing was because of a news release sent out last week by the committee chairman, Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville.

"There's no question where the chairman stands on this piece of legislation," Ragsdale said. During the hearing Nugent did little to control the outbursts of applause from the anti-regulation spectators when they agreed with a statement made by a witness.

Asked by a reporter what will happen to Ragsdale's bill, Salem said, "It'll go to a subcommittee and that's probably where it will stay."

Foundry Industry Showing Growth

DES PLAINES, Ill. (AP) — The U.S. foundry industry is experiencing nearly startling growth in the Western States — Colorado to the West Coast — according to Charles E. Fausel, president of the American Foundrymen's Society.

"Within 10 years," Fausel said, "Western foundries may be producing up to 30 per cent of the casting requirements of the U.S., as opposed to only 35 per cent as short a time ago as 1963."

"Last year," he went on, "we estimate the West produced about 10 per cent of the nation's castings — approximately 2 million tons out of a 20 million-ton total industry capacity."

Fausel said the healthy foundry situation out West is due largely to western foundries having complied with stiff pollution control legislation early — some of them up to 10 years prior to their eastern counterparts.

All Duval County Employees To Be Fired

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Archer Parr, Tobin said the Duval County commissioners voted Wednesday to fire all of the county's several hundred employees as of May 30.

County Judge Dan Tobin Jr. said a meeting will be held April 30 to decide which employees will be retained.

When Tobin was appointed last month as county judge to replace ousted County Judge

Archer Parr, Tobin said the county was overstaffed.

"We have too many employees. We may have to let some go. It is an economic situation," Tobin said at that time.

County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo said everyone now on the payroll will be paid for the full month and those retained will go back on the payroll as of June 1 and will not lose any pay.

Earlier, commissioners had asked all department heads to submit lists of the employees. Tobin said this has not been done and he feels the action of the court Wednesday should prod the officials into submitting the employee names.

In another action, the court ordered Sheriff Raul Serna to recover all county-owned equipment and vehicles, one of which is a 1974 Cadillac El Dorado driven by Parr. Parr said the sheriff, being assisted in the recovery by Ranger Gene Powell, will not be able to pick up the Cadillac. "They're not going to get that. That's a lease car and I pay the lease. The only thing the county has to do with it is pay the insurance," he said.

Soviet Court Rejects Jew's Appeal Of Death Sentence

By ROBERT C. TOTH
The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW — The Soviet Supreme Court has rejected a Moscow Jew's appeal of a death sentence for economic crimes, the man's wife said Wednesday.

If Mikhail Leviev, 58, who applied to emigrate to Israel, is shot, he will be the first Jew put to death for economic violations since the emigration movement began here in earnest several years ago, and perhaps the first since the early 1960s when over 100 Jews were executed for such crimes.

His arrest and conviction, coming only after he applied to emigrate, raised protests here and abroad that he is being used to deter immigration. He spent five years in jail for allegedly kissing the dress of former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir when she was ambassador here.

However, a high Russian court official told California Atty

Gen. Evette Younger, who visited here last week, that Leviev "would not be executed."

The chairman of the Russian Supreme Court, Sergei D. Orlov, said a petition for clemency was before the Supreme Soviet (national legislature) and he was sure it would be granted.

Younger told this correspondent, "Orlov said he believed Leviev would not be executed," Younger added.

Mrs. Sofia Leviev told newsmen by telephone that her husband's appeal was turned down Tuesday and that her only hope to save his life now was a personal appeal to President Nikolai Podgorny whom she unsuccessfully tried to see during the day.

The Supreme Soviet, according to legal authorities here, is the clemency granting body, however.

Leviev was sentenced to "the highest form of punishment — to be shot," as the Soviet press usually puts it, after a 6 week trial last fall in which he was charged with heading a network that diverted 1.5 million rubles (about $2 million) of goods onto the black market through his position as a small store manager in Moscow.

He was also accused of trying to smuggle money out of the country (with a Bulgarian movie star), and for dealing in gold, according to his wife.

He admitted some charges but claimed his wife said, that he profited by less than 50,000 rubles ($67,000), all of which was recovered by the state. None of the defendants here and in Tadjikistan — about a dozen all told — was given the death sentence.

Jewish dissidents here are split on the case. Some called him an "underground millionaire" whose wealth could only have been gained illegally, and found distasteful his World War II work as a political investigator in the army.

Others do not believe him innocent of economic crimes necessarily, but insist that the severe sentence was intended here and in Tadjikistan — about to deter applications for emigration.

The death penalty has been periodically abolished and reinstated here since the revolution, and is always called an "exceptional and temporary measure." It was last reinstated under former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the early '60s and 11 kinds of crime, including murder, rape and "pilfering state property in especially large amounts," were made subject to shooting.

Estimates of the number of persons shot for economic crimes from 1961 to 1965 vary up to 500. But Western authorities who studied press reports put the figure at 200, of whom 60 per cent had Jewish names.

A staff study by the International Commission of Jurists in 1964 found that "the number of Jews receiving death sentences and severe terms of imprisonment is greatly disproportionate to the number of Jews" in the country.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, however, insisted then that "it is not Jews, Russians, Tartars or Ukrainians who stand trial." It is criminals who stand trial. And Soviet officials insist Leviev is not being punished because he is Jewish.

The charges against Leviev are threefold:

First, that as head of a Moscow store selling Tadjikistan silk cloth and other goods, he arranged with a store manager back in Tadjikistan's capital to return most goods by claiming there was no market for them here. There they were sold at twice or more their state fixed prices.

Leviev admitted the illegal speculation but denied bribing the Tadjik store manager to divert state property — the charge that carried the death sentence.

Second, that he dealt in gold coins smuggled from abroad by a Soviet bank official and obtained on the Moscow black market. Leviev admitted acting as an intermediary but denied making a profit, his wife said.

Third, that he tried to smuggle 50,000 rubles out of the country in two cigarette cartons carried by himself when he reached Israel. His wife said the money belonged to her father who is already in Israel.

Leviev retired from the store in January 1972, because of severe diabetes. In March the family applied to emigrate. On June 19, 1972, they were told they had permission to leave but the next day police raided their flat and he was arrested. He has been in jail ever since.

The contractor will be required to provide a closed vehicle with a minimum capacity of 800 cubic feet, standby equipment and a performance bond.

Ford Designated Honorary Cajun

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — President Ford is now an honorary Cajun.

The President was honored as a "Good Cajun" Wednesday, right in front of Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, the state's highest ranking Cajun.

"I was counting on being the trial last fall in which he was first Cajun president," Edwards quipped.

The Rev. Sam Hill Ray, chaplain of the U.S. Navy League, bestowed the honor in the name of 800,000 Louisiana Cajuns, descendants of the French Acadians who moved from Canada 200 years ago.

"Cajun Jerry embodies all the bluff and hearty qualifications of his Cajun admirers," the chaplain said.

"Father Ray" Ford impressed in tourist French, "merci, garçon."

AD SALESMEN—Midland and Lee high school band members will be selling through May 3 advertisements to run in both schools' concert programs in an effort to finance band scholarships and spring trips. Among the students involved are, from left, Aurora Heredia, MHS; Sharon Zachery, LHS; Von Stribling, MHS, and James Berry, LHS. Persons desiring to place an ad may dial the MHS band hall, 682-0296, or the Lee band facility, 494-0521.

Chamber Board Meets At College

The Midland Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors was a guest of Midland College Wednesday and held its monthly session at the Learning Resources Center on the new campus.

The chamber directors toured the campus and heard Dr. Al Langford, college president give a short history of the institution's development.

Langford said the college has accomplished many things during its first few months at the new site and would continue to work toward becoming "the finest junior college in the state."

Langford praised both the academic and sports programs at the college and said they would be even better next year.

He said phase one construction should be completed by the end of July bringing the campus into full operation for the fall semester.

Chamber president Bill Newtarter paid tribute to W. H. "Bill" Collyns, editor and vice president of The Reporter-Telegram, for his selection as president-elect of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Collyns is slated to take the reins of the WTCC in 1976.

Newtarter said a "good" response has been received from regulators after the Midland Plan in Austin effort was made by a group of 70-75 Midlanders.

John Berry, Midland Area Sales Team representative, told directors a study in cooperation with the Texas Employment Commission is under way to determine if any changes might be needed in that agency's operation. Berry said the TEC office had requested assistance from the chamber in making the study.

Berry said construction activity at Midland Industrial Park is good and several new prospects are looking at sites there. He said Pittsburgh Plate Glass representatives have indicated that an option on property between Interstate 36 and Highway 80 west of Industrial Park is now being considered by that firm. PPG earlier this month dropped its option on land north of Midland Regional Air Terminal for a proposed plant site.

Gene Abbott reported construction activity just outside the Terminal gate on Highway 80 is nearly complete and a ribbon cutting ceremony will be held June 4.

The chamber's Ad Hoc Housing Committee reported home construction here is booming, but noted a deficit in home construction in the under $30,000 range.

The committee report revealed 422 housing units are currently in the planning stages.

Imperial Economy Recipe

Tivoli Gardens Blue Cheese Dressing

- 1/2 cup wine vinegar
- 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon Imperial Granulated Sugar
- 6 ounces Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled

Combine wine vinegar, salt, black pepper, Imperial Granulated Sugar, hot pepper sauce, lemon juice and mix until salt and sugar are dissolved. Blend in salad oil with spoon or whisk (not blender or mixer). Fold in crumbled blue cheese. Stir gently before each serving. Makes about 2 cups.

Salad Suggestion: Arrange torn, crisp lettuce leaves on individual salad plates. Garnish with slice of tomato, slivers of green pepper, onion rings and thin hard-cooked egg slices. Drizzle with Tivoli Gardens Blue Cheese Dressing. Top with crisp croutons, if desired.

NOTE: Blue cheese can be decreased to 3 or 4 ounces for additional economy.

Thunderstorms, High Winds And Hail Hit Nation's Midsection

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms laced with high winds and hail poured heavy rain over parts of the midcontinent again today and triggered flash flooding in Missouri and Southern Illinois. One person was killed and several were injured when a tornado touched down at Breckenridge, in northwest Missouri, late Wednesday. Other twisters spun out of thunderstorms over Iowa and Illinois. The storms were part of a widespread pattern of rain, drizzle or cloudiness stretching from the Pacific Northwest to the Middle Atlantic coast and New England. Heaviest rains concentrated in a belt from northwestern Missouri into Southern Illinois. Kansas City International Airport measured 4 inches of rain through Wednesday night. A severe flash flood warning was issued for portions of eastern Missouri and southwestern Illinois. The Missouri Highway Patrol reported residents had evacuated the communities of Foley, Winfield and East Winfield, about 50 miles northwest of St. Louis near the Mississippi River. Five feet of water ran over Missouri 29 near Winfield. One entrance to Winfield was blocked by a Burlington Northern freight train that derailed late Wednesday when the track bed washed out. No injuries were reported. High water blocked streets and stranded cars also plagued parts of Missouri north of Kansas City. Hardest hit in that area was the Lake Waukomis community. Up to 6 inches of rain swamped some sections in less than 12 hours. Heavy thunderstorms during the night ranged northeast into the Chicago area, causing some street flooding, lightning damage and power outages that lasted several hours in some parts of the city. Fort Riley, Kan., was raked by wind gusts up to 75 miles an hour. Large hail pounded sections of Kansas and Illinois, and rainfalls in excess of an inch were common eastward into Indiana. Thundershowers also roamed through the Ohio Valley, and into the Middle Atlantic States. Rain extended north into New England. In the Northwest, rain was confined mostly to coastal areas, but some thundershowers also broke out over the northern Rockies. Clear skies were confined mostly to portions of the southern Plateau and southern Plains. Mild weather prevailed over almost the entire country outside the northern Rockies.

White Males Are Hit Hardest By Layoffs

What the figures do indicate, the commissioner said, is that a worker's chances of being laid off have depended much more on which industry he or she was working in than on sex, color or even age. There were 3.4 million more people unemployed in the first quarter of this year than in the fourth quarter of 1973, when the present recession began, Shiskin said. More than two thirds of this increase was due to what the Bureau of Labor Statics calls job loss — established workers being laid off rather than new

Sheinwold On Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Nameless Coup Is Easy Play
About 40 years ago Ely Culbertson coined a wonderful name for a certain bridge play: the Coup Without a Name. Modern experts call it the Scissors Coup because it cuts communications.

What can you do about it?
Cut Communications
You can't stop West from leading a spade, if he has one. What you can do is prevent East from winning a spade trick.
At the second trick, cash the ace of diamonds. Get to dummy with a heart and lead the queen of diamonds. East plays low, as he must, and you discard your losing spade on this trick. West gets a diamond trick but is robbed of a spade trick in exchange.
Now there is no way for West to reach his partner's hand, so West gets only one trump trick.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes. You hold: S-K Q J 9 7 6 H-9 8 4 D-10 9 4 2 C-None. What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid four spades. Your hand should produce five aces and perhaps one diamond. With average luck, the notrump hand should provide four tricks. No guarantee goes with this kind of bid, but there is no way to find out whether or not partner has most of his strength in the red suits — where you need it — rather than in clubs.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, April 24, the 114th day of 1975. There are 251 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: In 1704, the first American newspaper to be printed on a regular basis, the Boston NewsLetter, began publishing. On this date — In 1743, the Englishman who invented the power loom, Edmund Cartwright, was born. In 1800, the U.S. Congress appropriated $5,000 to create the Library of Congress. In 1877, Northern rule in the South ended as federal troops were ordered removed from New Orleans. In 1898, Spain declared war on the United States after receiving an American ultimatum to withdraw from Cuba. In 1916, the Easter Rebellion broke out in Dublin, Ireland. In 1970, mainland China launched its first earth satellite.
Ten years ago: at Norfolk, Va., President Lyndon Johnson crowned his 17-year-old daughter, Luci Baines, queen of the Azalea Festival.
Five years ago: the son of nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-Shek, vice premier Chiang Ching-Kuo, escaped injury in an assassination attempt in New York.
One year ago: the Internal Revenue Service agreed to provide the Senate Watergate committee with tax returns from the files of President Nixon's brother, Donald Nixon, and close friend, Charles Rebozo.
Today's birthday: Barbara Streisand is 33.
Thought for today: If the king says at noonday, "It is night," the wise man says, "Behold the stars" — a Persian proverb.

Real 'Theater Weekend' Coming Up In Odessa

ODESSA—It's a real "theater weekend coming up in Odessa. Three productions at three different theaters in the city will be offering performances, ranging from a nostalgic 1920s musical to a family-type entertainment based on a beloved children's book.

The musical, "No, No, Nanette," will have performances at Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater, at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Both performances are sold out, and there are waiting lists. Good news, however, for those who want to see the show was Wednesday's announcement that the production is being held over for extra performances next weekend. Seats for the May 2 and 3 presentations may be reserved by telephoning the Permian Playhouse box office, 362-2329.

"The Wizard of Oz," based on the perennially-popular children's book, goes into its second doors before performance time and final weekend with a performance at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Globe of the Great Southwest.

Another presentation of the family entertainment is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Saturday, and a matinee is announced for 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets for all performances may be reserved through the Globe box office, 332-4081, and they will be for sale at the theater prior to each performance.

A third theatrical offering in the city this weekend is Odessa College Theatre's production of "The Crucible," which opens tonight.

Funny Play About West Texas To Open Next Week At MCT

A new play, "Knights" and the other two which includes MCT. A funny new play about West Texas—that's "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" which opens a week from tonight at Theatre Centre here.

Written just a little more than a year ago by Dallas actor and playwright Preston Jones, "Knights" will be having one of its first major productions in the Southwest outside of Dallas when it plays seven performances here at Midland Community Theatre's third attraction of the 1975 season. The theater box office opened this morning to accept seat reservations from MCT members for the series of performances. Tickets will go on sale to the public next Monday. Mail orders should be addressed to Midland Community Theatre Inc., P.O. Box 4847, Midland 79701.

"Knights" and two companion plays make up Jones' new "Bradleyville Trilogy," so-named because they all are set in the fictitious town of Bradleyville (population 6,000) somewhere in the vastness of West Texas between Big Spring and Abilene. Of the trio, only "Knights" has been released to community theater production—and then only to those theaters holding membership in the American Playwrights Theatre, which includes MCT.

"Knights" and the other two Bradleyville plays have all been produced at the Dallas Theater Center where Jones is a member of the resident acting company as well as holding a special grant-in-aid as playwright-in-residence. The trilogy was presented in tandem in a special production at DTC during the Christmas holidays and in January this year.

The action of "Knights" takes place in a meeting room of Bradleyville's Cattlemen's Hotel, once a landmark but now a dilapidated firetrap. The organization holding its meeting there, the Knights of the White Magnolia, is dilapidated and run-down, too: What may once have been a secret, even sinister fraternal organization is now merely an excuse for a weekly evening of dominoes and boozing with "the boys."

However, the meeting that Jones has dramatized is not a typical gathering at all. More serious business is at hand: There is a new recruit this night, the first person to seek membership in seven years! The excitement of initiating a new member, the confusion over the secret ritual that nobody is quite sure about anymore, the petty feuds and the bickering, the ramblings of a sick old man—combine into a terribly funny, but at the same time terribly touching, look at a slice of life in West Texas.

But it is not a play for children, MCT warns, nor for those who are easily offended by harsh language. The characters in "Knights" are real-life types and so is the language they use. The words they speak are frequently rough or profane, but it is the natural normal speech of these characters. MCT director Art Cole has made no alterations or deletions of dialogue in the script. "It may be offensive to some people," Cole points out, "and if you think you will find it unacceptable, then 'Knights' is not for you."

Heading Cole's cast as the crochety, sickly old Col. Kincaid, owner of the hotel, is Glerf Thomason, who had the pivotal role of George in MCT's "Of Mice and Men" last season. Others in the cast with previous MCT credits are Charles Sutton and Conrad Coffield Jr. New faces to be seen in this production will include those of Marcine Reddick, Aaron Crawford, Carl Ward, Ray Henderson, Gary Askins and Don Shivers.

Friends Of Library Choose Officers For Coming Year

Mrs. Robert J. McLellan is the new president of the Friends of the Midland County Library. The Friends, volunteer service organization for the Midland County Library, held its annual election meeting Sunday at which Mrs. McLellan and other new officers were elected to serve during the coming year. Joining Mrs. McLellan at the helm of the organization are Mrs. Paul Laverty, vice president; Mrs. Robert Anson, secretary; Alfred Giles, treasurer. Glen M. Ford is the outgoing president of the Friends.

New members of the Friends' board of directors are Don L. Clay and W. H. Thams, who join holdover directors John H. Clark, Mrs. Terry Clay, Ralph Hickman, Mrs. John Hinchey and Hugh White.

At Sunday's meeting, annual reports were presented. It was announced that the 8th annual used books and records sale will be held Sept. 19-21 in the County Exhibits Building, site of the 7th annual sale this past November which was described as the "biggest and best ever to date." That sale netted the Friends almost $3,500 for use in its various projects and programs benefitting the library, including its art rental project there.

The Friends also sounded an appeal for new members for the organization, pointing out that the library is not just another "worthy cause," but the foundation upon which education and enlightenment rest.

Membership in the Friends is open to all interested persons. Regular membership dues are only $1 annually, and several other categories of membership also are available. They are Sustaining, at $5; Sponsor, at $10; Patron, at $25, and life membership, at $100. The memberships are tax deductible. Dues for membership may be sent to the Friends of the Midland County Library at P.O. Box 1191, Midland 79701.

In addition to the annual business meeting, Sunday's gathering featured a program on Indian rock art in West Texas, presented by Jim Barbes, and concluded with an open house in the library at which new art works recently acquired for the Friends' picture rental service were previewed.

Bicentennial Collection Best Seller

"The Bicentennial Collection of Texas Short Stories," a new volume recently published by the Texas Center for Writers Press, has become a best-selling item across the state and elsewhere.

According to James P. White, director of the creative writing program at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, who edited the anthology, the new book in its limited first edition was a quick sell-out to libraries and rare book collectors not only in Texas but in several other states as well. Since then, the volume has been reprinted in an edition with illustrations by Texas artists and now is becoming a best-seller in the state's bookstores. A number of universities, including SMU at Dallas, Midwestern at Wichita Falls, Mary Hardin-Baylor at Belton and The University of Texas-Austin, have selected the anthology for use as a textbook in creative writing and contemporary literature courses. The University of Kansas also has adopted the volume for classroom.

Book critic T. K. Meier, in a recent issue of The Southwest Review, declared that "the idea of collecting fiction by Texas authors into a volume is commemoration of the American Bicentennial is not only striking, but exceptionally fine: Striking because 200 years ago Texas knew little English, less literature and probably few, if any, of the forebears of these writers; fine because the collection shows by contrast how art and literature thrives in the Texas of today."

The book has had favorable review in recent months in the Dallas Morning News, Houston Chronicle, El Paso Times, San Antonio Light and other leading newspapers across the state.

Theater Workshop Slated At Austin

AUSTIN — The 13th annual High School Theater Workshop will be held here June 11-July 5 under sponsorship of the drama department of The University of Texas-Austin.

Forty students (20 girls, 20 boys) from across the state who will be sophomores, juniors or seniors in high school during the 1975-76 school year will be selected to participate in the workshop. Applications are now being received by the UT-Austin drama department, with May 19 as the deadline for applying. Additional information is available from Lynn Murray, assistant professor in the drama department.

The workshop will provide intensive instruction in play production, including such facets of theater as acting, costuming, makeup, directing and set designing and construction. Three plays will be produced, with performances scheduled during the closing days of the workshop.

World's Major Companies Abandon Vietnam Leases

By THOMAS O'TOOLE The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A dozen of the world's major oil companies have abandoned the offshore fields of South Vietnam, leaving an investment of as much as $100 million paid in bonuses to South Vietnam for offshore leases in the South China Sea.

The companies include many of the world's and most of America's giants, Mobil, Shell, Exxon, Cities Service, Sun and Marathon.

"It's a shame," said Corbett Allen, vice president of Global Marine Co. in Los Angeles, which until 10 days ago had operated a drilling rig for Mobil Oil Corp. in the South China Sea. "That whole part of the world looked like it was going to be the world's next oil province."

The Global Marine rig was one of two huge offshore rigs drilling for oil in the South China Sea in acreage leased by the South Vietnamese government. Both rigs have pulled up stakes in the last 10 days and moved to the safety of Singapore.

The 150 men who operated the rigs have been moved with their families from Saigon to Singapore.

One rig was called Glomar 4 and was leased from Global Marine by a combine that included Mobil, Japan's Kaiyo Seikiyu and France's Societe Nationale Des Petroles Aquitaine.

The second rig was leased from Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co. in New Orleans by Shell Oil Corp. and Cities Service Co.

The Mobil group has no immediate plans for its rig, which costs an estimated $50,000 a day to operate. The Shell rig, which is called Ocean Prospector, will be moved sometime in the next month to the waters off the coast of South Korea, where it has done exploratory drilling before.

The two rigs had drilled five tests wells in the South China Sea in the last year, two of them successful. The Mobil rig hit a well that yielded 2,500 barrels of oil a day. The Shell well yielded 1,500 barrels a day. Neither well was producing, but both companies called the finds "encouraging."

Other companies willing to talk about their investment in South Vietnam included Exxon Corp. and a combine made up of Marathon Oil Co., Sun Oil Corp. and Amerada-Hess. Exxon said it had spent $2 million in bonuses. The Marathon group said it had spent $6.1 million for its leases.

Other oil companies with major stakes in South Vietnam include Japanese, British, Australian and Canadian interests. One group of independent oil drillers is led by a combine called Sunningdale, which operates mostly in Canada.

Oil industry sources said that somewhere between 12 and 15 oil companies had paid about $100 million to the South Vietnamese government for drilling rights since the summer of 1973, when South Vietnam offered the 88,000 square miles of the South China Sea as concessions.

Saxon Moves Production, Drilling Offices To Midland

Saxon Oil Co. has moved its drilling and production headquarters from Abilene to Midland, with offices at 807 Gibbs Tower West.

R. K. Belcher of Midland has joined the company as vice president, and Edward Armstrong, also of Midland, has joined Saxon as production superintendent.

Gayle Hicks is the Odessa production foreman, Nolan Bagley the Big Lake production foreman and Alvin Edwards the Abilene production foreman.

The Denver, Colo., exploration office will remain there, with E. L. Sprague as manager. Also, the corporate headquarters will remain at Winter Park, Fla., with Warren Johnston as president and Bill Saxson as chief executive officer.

The Abilene office will remain open as a field office under the management of the Midland office.

Honduran Cabinet Sworn In

By MARIO DAVID GARCIA, Agence France-Presse
TEGUCIGALPA — The new Honduran president, Col. Juan Alberto Melgar Castro, announced the members of his cabinet — three military men and seven civilians.

The makeup of the cabinet dissipated the view of a number of observers that the country might slide toward socialism. The new ministers were sworn in Wednesday by Melgar Castro, in a ceremony in the Antonio Morazan military school. One important nomination helping to quash the idea of a leftward slide was that of Armando San Martin to be Economics Minister. He has been manager of an important local bank.

Dismissal Of Methadone Case Charges Asked

WACO, Tex. (AP) — An official recommendation that indictments be dropped against seven persons in connection with the deaths of two men at a methadone center here last Christmas Day has been made to District Court Judge Carl Anderson.

McLennan County Dist. Atty. Martin Eichelberger asked Anderson late Tuesday to drop the charges against the seven directors and employees of the center.

The indictment handed down by a county grand jury last February charged them with two counts each of negligent homicide and involuntary manslaughter.

The indictment followed an investigation into the deaths of Robert Lee Spratt, 33, and Arthur Joe Williams, 32, on Christmas Day last year. They died shortly after they received what was described as an overdose of methadone at the Waco-McLennan County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Methadone Treatment Center.

Methadone is a synthetic drug used in the treatment of drug addicts.

In asking Judge Anderson to drop the charges, Eichelberger said that "the admissible evidence in the case will not support a conviction."

Smoking Strictures Tentatively Okayed By Houston Council

HOUSTON (AP) — City councilmen have approved on the first of three readings an ordinance which would prohibit smoking in public elevators and other areas.

Violations of any provisions of the ordinance approved Wednesday would be punishable by fines up to $200.

Edward Cazares, an assistant city attorney, said a section of the ordinance prohibiting smoking in any area which the owner or operator of a business establishment might designate was "questionable." He said the section could not be successfully defended in a law court.

"You have questions of the improper delegation of power," he said. "This is definitely a problem area."

Discovery Too Late
 A.D. 1 was not actually the year when Christ was born. A mistake was made. Christ was born at least four years earlier, but when the error was discovered it was too late to change the calendar.

Soviets Promise Israelis Guarantees Of Existence If Arab Land Returned

By The Associated Press
Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has promised Israel the "strictest" guarantees of its continued existence should it return all the Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Speaking Wednesday night at a dinner in Moscow honoring Syrian Foreign Minister Halim Khaddam, Gromyko said the Soviet Union is prepared to give Israel "the strictest guarantees" that would "ensure peaceful conditions for the existence and development of all states of the Middle East."

He added that such guarantees would be given in "an appropriate agreement" that would also provide for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territory.

Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin said in a speech in Jerusalem that Israel is "now engaged in a struggle with the world in general and in particular with the United States." He added, however, that he did not consider Israeli-American relations in a "crisis."

He apparently was referring to the displeasure of President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger because Israel would not give up the Sinai Desert territory demanded by Egypt when Kissinger was trying to negotiate another withdrawal agreement last month.

Neither Kissinger nor Ford have given any indication of similar displeasure with Egypt because it refused to give the pledge of nonbelligerency demanded by Israel for the territory.

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres told students at Tel Aviv University that U.S. arms shipments to Israel have a "definite limit," and Israel must take into account that they could be cut off entirely.

But U.S. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger met in Washington with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, and observers believed he sought to reassure him that Israel's security continues to be a prime American concern.

Driver's License Notation May Mean Life For Someone

By The Associated Press
The scene is a sadly familiar one. An accident victim, pulled from his battered car, dies en route to the hospital. Across town a kidney disease victim needs an organ for a transplant but never learns of the accident victim's unharmed kidney. The dead man's doctor didn't know of the need, or his family was unsure about how he would have felt. The kidney disease victim, or a blind person awaiting new eyes, continues the desperate wait. In a growing number of states, though, the story might have ended differently. Police could have seen on the dead person's driver's license that he wished to donate organs for transplant. For the sick or blind person, the wait might have ended. Adele Heimann of the Lions Eye Foundation in Kentucky, which has a donor provision on drivers' licenses, tells how police's speedy response can give new sight to a blind person. "In the case of a fatal automobile accident the driver's license would be checked by the police immediately and they would call us. In its grief, the family of the victim often just doesn't think about the victim's intention to donate organs. If we don't get the eyes within two hours after death, they're useless." Kentucky's law became effective only in January. But in Arizona the law became effective last August and has gotten a strong response. A person simply indicates "yes" or "no" on the Arizona license application whether he wants to donate organs for transplant. In Kentucky and Tennessee a person must have two witnesses.

At least eight other states have similar laws allowing drivers to specify on their licenses that they wish to donate their organs. The Maine legislature has passed such a bill, which will become law 90 days after the session; an Indiana bill awaits. Nine other states are consid-only the governor's signature, pending similar bills. In most states with the donor provision a small sticker reading "organ donor" is placed on the license, but the next of kin must still give approval for removal of an organ. Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

Thailand Appears Preparing To Change To Socialist Stance

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
The Washington Post
An Analysis
BANGKOK — Thailand, the United States' most steadfast ally in Southeast Asia throughout the Indochina wars, is about to change into a socialist costume and offer an olive branch to North Vietnam. Thai leaders believe the United States abandoned Cambodia's Lon Nol regime when the going got toughest and that South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu has just been subjected to similar treatment. As a result, the dominant thinking here is that Washington is an unreliable ally, that continued faith in U.S. support is counter-productive and that Thailand must quickly make serious efforts to appease regional and world Communist powers — North Vietnam, China and the Soviet Union. The Thais see themselves facing a doctrinaire Communist regime in Vietnam, a Communist-led government in Cambodia, a tripartite Laos which could be overtaken by the Communist Pathet Lao at almost anytime and a socialist Burma. "We cannot resist this kind of pressure," said a leading foreign ministry source. "We don't want to go to war with the Communists. We can't afford it. It's time to be flexible, not logical. We will become socialists. You'll see." Congress has made it amply clear to the Thais that U.S. forces based in this country may not be used for retaliation against any invaders. Realizing that the five U.S. air bases and the 27,000 troops stationed on them are therefore more an embarrassment than an advantage, Prime Minister M. R. Kukrit Pramoj has ordered them withdrawn by next March 17. While there is some doubt that Kukrit really intends to adhere to this tight schedule — talks on the phasing of the withdrawal are to be held soon — there is no question that the order was intended as a broad signal to Hanoi that Thailand wants to be friends.
