Ellenburger Discovery Completes

HNG Oil Co. of Midland has announced the completion of its No. 1-57 HNG Fee as an Ellenburger gas discovery in Ward County, nine miles southeast of Pyote. Two offsets have been planned.

Calculated, absolute open flow was 66 million cubic feet of gas and 34 barrels of condensate daily, flowing through perforations at 17,502-17,507 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons.

Drilled to 17,620 feet, it is plugged back to 17,535 feet, in a 5-inch liner hung from 15,770-17,620 feet. Ground elevation is 2,536 feet.

It spots 2,620 feet from southwest and 1,320 feet from southeast lines of section 57, block 34, H&TC survey, 1 1/2 mile southwest of dual Devonian and Ellenburger production in the Block 16 gas field.

Principal working interest in the project is held by Monsanto Co. and its partners, Pacific Lighting Corp. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., with 57 per cent, and HNG Oil Co., with 26 per cent.

Estimated deliverability of the well is 14.9 million cubic feet daily, on various size choices.

HNG is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Houston Natural Gas Corp., headquartered in Houston.

HNG has staked No. 1-48 Jackson Unit as an 18,000-foot wide, 1/2 mile southeast of the discovery.

It spots 1,320 feet from northwest and 1,980 feet from southwest lines of section 48, block 34, H&TC survey, 10 miles southeast of Pyote.

Also, Monsanto Co. has filed application to drill its No. 1 Jackson as a 17,800-foot venture, 1/2 mile southwest of the discovery.

It is 467 feet from northeast and 1,980 feet from northwest lines of section 58, block 34, H&TC survey.

Schleicher Area Wildcats Slated

Whetlock Oil Co. of Corsicana has scheduled two wildcats in South Schleicher County.

No. 1 James L. Powell, planned as a 5,000-foot searcher, spots 600 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 28, block A, HE&WT survey, abstract 962, 2 1/2 miles southeast of the W.J.B. (Canyon) gas field, and eight miles south of Eldorado.

No. 1 McIntosh Trust is scheduled to 6,900 feet. It is 10 miles southeast of Eldorado, immediately north of the Sutton County line, and five miles southeast of the W.J.B. field.

Drill site is 600 feet from north and east lines of section 26, block 8, TWANG survey.

Northwest Texas Hit By Storms

A new cold front shoved into the Texas Panhandle today and weather forecasters said it posed a threat of flooding rains in the north central part of the state by evening.

Continuing storms and occasional tornadoes lashed much of Northwest Texas during the night, some persisting into this morning, but there was no word of injuries or serious damage.

In addition to heavy thunderstorms between Amarillo and Hereford in the Panhandle after daybreak, light to moderate storms dotted the state's east central and northeast sections.

Before midnight a tornado touched down six miles north of Channing, about midway between Amarillo and Dalhart and once headquarters for the giant XIT Ranch, as thunderstorms loosed hail and occasionally heavy rain. At the time most of the Panhandle and South Plains from Post northward were under a tornado watch.

Official observers reported the appearance of two other twisters after midnight near Claude and Groom in the Panhandle, and small hail and high winds hit the Skellytown area north of Amarillo. This prompted the posting of another tornado watch, in force until 5 a.m. in some localities, for West and North Central Texas counties from Big Spring to Gage, Okla.

All the tornado threats expired without any others being reported on the ground.

As the turbulence died down in early morning, however, the National Weather Service issued a flash flood watch for all of North Central Texas lying (See COLD FRONT Page 2A)

House Sets Farm Bill Veto Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran dairy lobbyists and a former Agriculture Department official hired by farm groups have been rousing up House votes to override President Ford's veto of a farm bill.

Opponents predicted they would still win by 20 votes today on the vote to override or sustain Ford's May 1 veto. A two-thirds majority of those voting is needed to override.

Estimate Accepted
Ford called the legislation "an example of increased non-essential spending" that would go beyond his fiscal 1976 budget, which calls for a $60 billion deficit. He accepted Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's estimates that the costs of the bill were open-ended and would mean at least $1.8 billion more in deficit spending.

Sponsors of the one-year measure, who did not include the outlay for production loans that would be repaid, estimated the net cost to the government at $210 million. Only negligible effects on retail food prices were foreseen.

Would Increase Prices
For 1975 crops, the bill would increase target prices and loan rates on wheat by 51 per cent, corn by 63 per cent, and cotton by about 18 per cent.

It would mandate dairy-product price supports at 80 per cent of parity with quarterly readjustments according to changes in production costs. It also would establish for this season a loan program for soybeans.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., says arm-twisting has been plentiful since Ford's veto.

For instance, "H. Willis Tiber, veteran lobbyist for the National Milk Producers Federation, is busily pacing the corridors trying to milk some override votes from members who previously voted against the bill," he said.

MC Computer Link Eyed

Midland College, while the state's newest college, this summer also may become its first junior college to tie into The University of Texas computer network instituting a pilot program in Computer Assisted Instruction (CAI).

The program, under study by college administration and faculty for the past year, will make available to the young school a multi-million-dollar computer system and several million dollars in instruction programs, or software, for less than $10,000.

The college's board of trustees was expected to approve implementing the system during a special session at 4 p.m. today in the Midland College board room.

While not replacing pupil-teacher interaction, CAI can offer basic instruction as well as "leveling," or bringing each student's background knowledge in a subject up to an equal level with his classmates.

Midland College's first offerings in the fall would be in math, economics and English.

Dr. Al G. Langford, the school's president, is enthusiastic about the capabilities of highly advanced computer technology in education.

He said Midland College is "extremely proud to take the lead in offering Computer Assisted Instruction to the junior college student."

"With this system, a student can work at the speed most beneficial for him, he can choose to study a subject at greater depth or he can supplement an incomplete background while keeping pace with the rest of his class.

"The phenomenal advantage is that all of this can be achieved at an economical cost and our research has shown a remarkable acceptance by both students and teachers," Langford said.

Dr. Charles Wakefield, the college's computer science data processing chairman, did the initial research into adopting the system while working closely with Dr. George Culp, University of Texas Computer Center staff member.

Upon entering the UT system, Midland College will benefit from an organization of five major regional computer networks across the country, called Conduit.

With UT as one of the five original participants, the organization is dedicated to improving undergraduate education through use of computers. It has succeeded in establishing a network of over 100 institutions of higher learning reaching 275,000 students.

The Midland College student will work at one of two terminals located on the campus. After a short period of orientation, he will learn to operate the terminal, a keyboard resembling a typewriter.

A high-speed telephone carries his problems and answers to and from the huge CDC (Control Data Corporation) 6400 computer in Austin.

At one terminal on the Midland College campus, the student can choose to view his study material displayed on a screen or at the other he will be supplied material printed on a teletype, giving him a copy he can retain. Study time for (See MC SET Page 2A)

Laborers Stage Strike Here

By GEORGE MASSEY
More than 70 laborers walked off the job today at two construction sites in downtown Midland, asking for a standard wage scale.

The workers are being led by Abel Gonzalez, representative with Laborers' International Union of North America based at the Fort Worth regional office.

The two construction jobs affected in the strike are the Midland Hilton and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Building.

Work continued at both sites without the aid of the normal labor force.

Another site in the downtown area, the Midland National Bank Tower, was not affected by the strike. Supervisors there said construction is ahead of schedule.

Both jobs at which the strike is being conducted are ahead of or on schedule, according to job supervisors.

Gonzalez said the laborers walked off the job in an effort to standardize pay scales for the laborers here. He said at least three different pay scales now are being used.

Gonzalez said area contractors have refused to negotiate with the labor union. He said, "One of the reasons of this strike is to gain recognition for our union."

Two pickets, one at each site, carried signs reading Cooper Construction Co. (contractor at the telephone building) and Rose and Sons Inc. (contractor at the Hilton). "Does not have an agreement with—West Texas (See UNION Page 2A)

Thais Won't Allow Use Of Air Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will fly Marines to Thailand to underscore President Ford's demand for the return of a U.S. cargo ship seized by Cambodia, Pentagon sources said today.

However, in Bangkok, Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj said Thailand will not permit the United States to use Thai air bases for military action against Cambodia, including any armed attempt to secure the return of the American vessel.

A group of about 150 Marines will be airlifted from the U.S. naval base at Subic Bay in the Philippines to the U.S. air base at Utao in southern Thailand, the Pentagon sources said.

They said another 1,000 Marines have been alerted on Okinawa for possible movement later.

Verbal orders which went out from the Pentagon this morning apparently were changed later to scale down the immediate size of the Marines movement.

At an impromptu news conference in Bangkok, Kkrit said in response to a question about the seizure of the American ship: "We will not allow the American troops to use our soil for any war. We have enough trouble with Asian neighbors now."

He apparently referred to the 27,000 troops the United States currently has stationed in Thailand. Kukrit could not be reached for comment afterward about the reported airlift of Marines.

As Ford called a meeting of the National Security Council to discuss the ship's capture, there was no immediate word about what use would be made of the Marines once they reached Thailand.

But the move apparently was designed to back up the President's warning of possible "serious consequences" if the new Cambodian government does not release the merchant ship Mayaguez and its 39-man crew.

Asked about the report that Marines will go to Thailand, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "We cannot discuss any possible military movements." Asked if Ford was considering a military response, Nessen replied: "I can't talk about that right now."

Nessen said he knew nothing to confirm a report that some of the crewmen on the Mayaguez might have been wounded when the ship was fired on during the capture. He said he also could not confirm whether the crew had been taken off the vessel.

Bucher Says Gel Ship, Crew Out

The Los Angeles Times
POWAY, Calif. — Lloyd Bucher, skipper of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo when it was seized by North Korean warships in 1968, Monday said the U.S. government "should get the Mayaguez and its crew out of there by whatever means necessary, even if it means military action."

"Unless we learn our lesson," he warned, "there will be increasing tweaking of our tail around the world."

Refugee Bill Gains House Panel Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $405 million aid bill for Indochina refugees was approved by the House Appropriations Committee today and cleared for full House action Wednesday afternoon.

An amendment to cut the money to $375 million was rejected by voice vote.

"If a man needs two aspirins, we won't give him one," said Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the bill. "These people are refugees. They're homeless. They're desperate."

But Rep. Edward Roush, D-Ind., who proposed the cut, said that although he favors emergency aid for the refugees, the figures from President Ford's advisers are too high.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., agreed, saying approval of some of the assumptions laid down by Ford's advisers, such as a $15-a-day maintenance for each refugee would draw criticism on Congress.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said the figures in the bill are only "an educated guess" and added that the United States owes the refugees the assistance.

Late Bulletins

The Midland City Council this afternoon unanimously appointed Charles L. Tighe to fill the Place 2 council seat vacated by Jim Kent. Tighe, an attorney, recently completed a term as a member of the city planning and zoning commission.

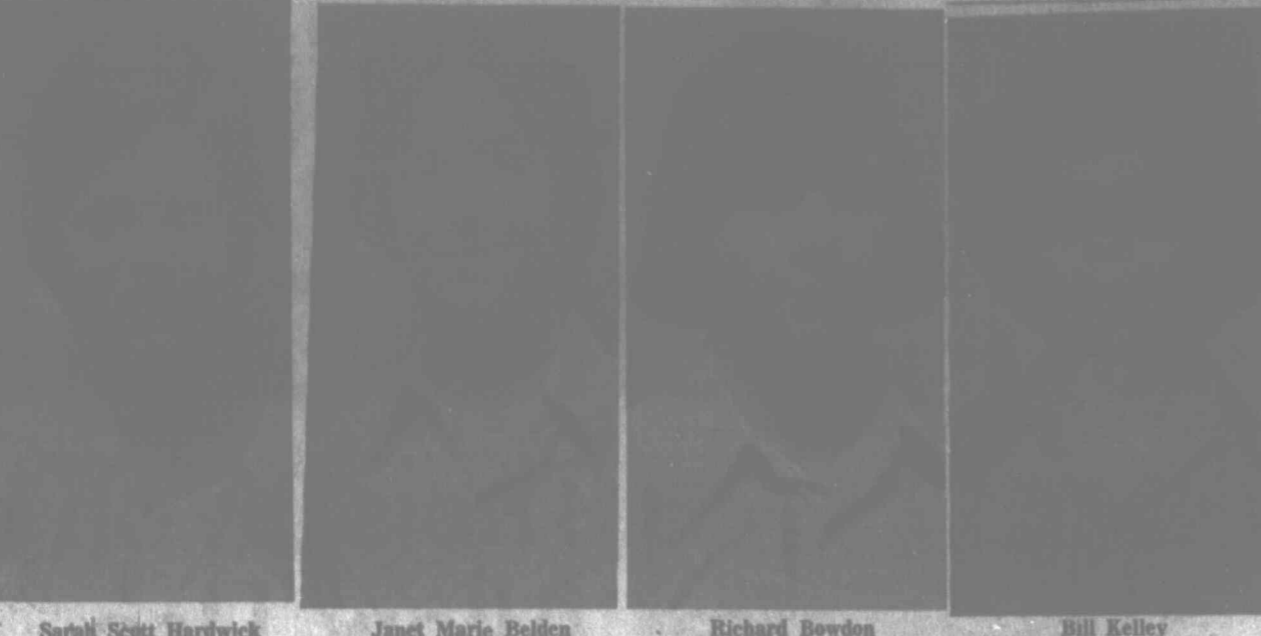

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees disclosed today they have agreed on a massive new housing bill aimed at producing 400,000 new homes and 800,000 new construction jobs over the next year. The bill also includes programs to assist families faced with mortgage foreclosures because of unemployment and to put a federal ceiling on home loan interest rates.

Both Midland High Schools Announce 1975 Valedictorians, Salutatorians

Midland and Lee high schools this morning announced their respective valedictorians and salutatorians for 1975 graduation.

Taking the top honor for Midland High is Sarah Scott Hardwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hardwick of 214 Ridgelm St., with Janet Marie Belden named to the salutatory position.

Miss Belden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belden of 1902 W. Michigan St.

Lee's valedictorian and salutatorian are Richard Bowden and Bill Kelley, respectively. Bowden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. William Bowden of 2502 Auburn Place, while Kelley's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Winford Kelley, 1908 Hughes St.

Both schools participated in the National Science Foundation Summer Science Program. Bowden also is a member of the National Honor Society and was named Lee High's outstanding science student.

Miss Hardwick won three academic letters at Midland High, where she is a member of the National Honor Society, Spanish Club and Spanish Honor Society.

She has been named the outstanding math student for the Exchange Club and is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Midlander Jailed On Indiana Warrant

Mark Alan Hawkins, 23, 403 W. Michigan St., was in city jail today in lieu of $10,000 bond after being named in a sealed indictment issued by an Indiana grand jury.

He was charged with conspiracy to distribute a controlled substance by U.S. Magistrate Woody Weir, who set bond.

Hawkins was arrested about 2:30 p.m. Monday in Odessa by U.S. Marshal Hap Stark.

MC Set To Join Computer Network

The first year cost for the college is estimated at $9,711, with the second year expense dropping to some $7,361. Cost after the third year is expected to drop near $5,717.

If approval for the project is granted this afternoon, the system could be operational during August this year, Wakefield would supervise setting up the system.

The Midland College system could add up to 16 terminals, and the terminals would be used between 10 and 12 hours daily.

Available to the college immediately will be seven modules in English syntax and construction. Langford said the leveling "is one of the more requisite and unique needs CAI can fulfill."

RIG FROM BIG LAKE FIELD—This reconstructed derrick at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame in Midland, stands over the original working unit of the No. 2 University, the second producer in the Big Lake field at Texon. The oiler was completed late in 1923 after Santa Rita No. 1 opened the field on University of Texas lands. The exhibit was donated to the museum by the Marathon Oil Co. The museum will open this summer, with the No. 2 University as one of the major outside exhibits.

Culberson, Mitchell, Pecos Draw Wildcat Explorations

Exploration has been planned in Culberson, Mitchell and Pecos sectors. M. A. Grisham of Abilene filed application to drill No. 1-A M. A. Grisham, a 9,500-foot project, in attempt to reopen the Grisham Ranch (Mississippi) gas field in Culberson County. Location is 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 4, block 60, T-5, T&P survey, 42 miles northwest of Tuhay, and 1 1/2 mile northwest of the depleted discovery, which was completed in 1952.

IPAA Chief Asserts Gas Bill Attack On Private Enterprise

DALLAS (AP) — A bill that would permit federal price control of intrastate natural gas is an attack on private enterprise, the president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) said Monday. IPAA President C. John Miller of Allegan, Mich., said the measure before the U.S. Senate "is a warmed-over expansion of the worst-out concept that brought our first natural gas shortages in America."

Gasoline Tax Bill Faces Rocky Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to encourage fuel conservation by imposing higher gasoline taxes faces a rocky future in Congress after winning approval by the House Ways and Means Committee. Efforts to modify or kill the gasoline tax provision are expected next week in the full House if the bill clears the Rules Committee. The Ways and Means Committee approved the bill 19 to 16 Monday after 10 weeks of hearings on alternatives to President Ford's energy program. The committee also voted 27 to 8 that a windfall profits tax on petroleum producers should not be included in this legislation. Such a levy would have drained excess industry profits resulting from any price controls taken off U.S. crude oil. The Ways and Means bill would raise the federal gasoline tax by as much as 23 cents a gallon over the next few years, set up a flexible quota system and new duties on imported petroleum and tax gas-guzzling new cars if automakers fail to meet mileage efficiency standards.

House Okays Bill Expanding In-Kind Royalty Options

AUSTIN — The House has passed legislation designed to expand the right to take oil and gas royalty in kind, instead of in cash. The bill (SB 604) by Sen. Tom Craghton of Mineral Wells provides that oil and gas leases of all state lands, except those owned by the Permian Basin University Fund, could be made applicable to the present in-kind provisions applying to state school land leases. The House sponsor of the bill was Rep. Richard Slack of Pecos. If Gov. Dolph Briscoe now signs the legislation, it would apply only to Relinquishment Act lands, most of which are located in West Texas, and could apply onto to leases signed after the effective date of the act. The bill would also allow the surface owner to take his royalty in oil and gas, if he chooses, instead of in money from the producer. It further gives the School Land Board, and other boards for lease of state lands, the authority to enter into contracts for the sale of in-kind oil or gas taken under provisions of the bill.

Annual Poppy Sale Set This Weekend

Midland's Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 7208 will conduct its annual "Buddy Poppy" sales campaign this weekend. The post will be joining other VFW units across the nation in selling the poppies to raise funds to help disabled American war veterans and widows and orphans of deceased veterans. The VFW organization has held poppy sales annually since 1922. The Midland campaign will begin Thursday and continue all day Friday and Saturday in all areas of the city, including the downtown area, shopping centers and outlying commercial areas, said post commander Walker Rankin. Poppy sales chairman this year are John Rankin and Jack Leonard.

Mills Indicates He May Not Seek New House Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who returned to the House last week after undergoing treatment for alcoholism, said he is inclined not to seek re-election in 1976. The Arkansas Democrat, during an interview with the National Public Affairs Center for Television, said: "I'm definitely leaning against it because I leaned against it when I ran last time. I lean into the direction of not running — yes. But now I could change my mind."

Phyllis Diller Divorces Mate

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Comedienne Phyllis Diller has obtained a divorce from her husband on the grounds of irreconcilable differences. The interlocutory decree was granted Monday in Santa Monica Superior Court. Miss Diller, 56, filed the action against husband Wayne Donovan; it was not contested and neither party requested alimony.

Jelly Side Down Home Activities On Rainy Day

Family magazines often feature articles offering tips on rainy-day activities for children. While a normally inventive child needs very little help in discovering rainy-day activities, most parents prefer that he engage in more constructive endeavors than licking the ivy leaves on his bedroom wallpaper to see whether they taste green or shaving off his eyebrows.

Unfortunately, many of these published activities involve elaborate paraphernalia. On a rainy day, I am lucky to locate an umbrella, let alone twenty-two empty orange juice cans, six cardboard paper towel tubes, and thirty-six miniature marshmallows.

Other activities require extensive parental participation.

University Women Present Museum With Art Award

The Midland Branch of the American Association of University Women, since 1965, has presented a purchase award at the annual Southwestern Area Art Show to the Museum of the Southwest for the museum's permanent collection.

The winner this year was Marion Ford for her graphic design, "Composition A." The museum now has 11 works in the collection.

Former winners are Arnold Leondar, 1965; Barbara Bisbing, 1966; Mrs. Raymond Lynch, 1967; Mrs. E. V. Mathys, 1968; Paul Hanna, 1969; Daryl Lambie, 1970; Mrs. Ford, 1971; Benny Shacklette, 1972; Barry Phillips, 1973, and Mrs. W. W. Griffith, 1974.

AAUW will host "An Evening With Sam Grove" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the museum. Members and guests will have an opportunity to view the Southwestern Area Art Show presently on display, and to have a get-acquainted session with Grove, director of the museum. Annual scholarships for graduating seniors also will be presented.

Persons wishing to become AAUW members are invited to attend by contacting Mrs. Jimmy Floyd at 683-6783.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Hot Dog! Heloise Makes Fantabulous Hors D'Oeuvres

Dear Folks:
Thought I might pass this along — it's a little secret I discovered recently.

To make darling little hors d'oeuvres out of wieners, cut them lengthwise only about half way through. Then, just cut them crosswise in pieces about a half-inch long. Cover with water and boil.

These make the cutest little bunny heads you ever saw as they sorta puff up and form "ears" when they split. I also now serve these for dinner in little mounds, topped with catsup or mustard. Really a smash on Broadway and so different.

Dear Heloise:

I had a set of "nice" candles and found one was broken when I went to use it.

I was in a desperate dilemma to finish the last-minute decorations for a dinner party I was having, so I melted a teaspoon of shavings from another candle, same color.

I laid the candle on several thicknesses of old newspapers, poured the hot wax in the cracks and pressed it all together and it held, much to my relief!

There is a drop or two of "drip" showing, but it looks like it was natural drip.

E.S.R.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
My grandfather discovered that if you put sparkplugs in a self-cleaning oven during its cleaning cycle, they come out clean as new.

But, while I've pointed out this obvious advantage to my husband, he still hasn't run out and bought one!

Susan Mason

You're a doll Susan.
But really, folks, we put this in because of Susan's sly humor, not because of her hint.

I don't have a self-cleaning oven, so haven't tried it. Will sparkplugs really come out clean (and in one piece)?

HOROSCOPE

by Carroll Righter

GENERAL THUNDER The early part of the day finds it possible for you to have a storm with your character. The remainder of the day some of them may feel imposed upon. Make sure kindness and smiles.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is calm but in the evening you feel like the tide turns, so remain cheerful and do nothing serious.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The morning is a good time to come to the understanding with associates. Some friends can give you important data.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. Find a way to increase your abundance. Make the creative especially at home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 23) Take the time to improve your appearance and get rid of that feeling of being inadequate. Strive for happiness.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) Come to the aid of a friend who is having a difficult time now. Attend to your duties with enthusiasm. Think non-competitive.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Forget recreation for the time being, and stick to important business matters. Make your environment more cheerful.

LINNA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Handle important career work early in the day but don't stop on the line of expediency. Postponing civic work is wise now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) You receive a message in the morning that is to be your blessing, but don't let it interfere with the work of the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) Handle important responsibilities early in the day. A heart-to-heart talk with a mate brings fine results tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23) First converse with associates and then do the work expected of you. Sideline one who annoys you. Relax tonight.

ACQUAINTANCE (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23) Come to the right understanding with fellow workers early and then carry through with your part of the bargain.

FISHER (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23) Attend to your obligations early in the day. Budget your money expenses in connection with business and pleasure.

SCHOLARSHIP — Brian Carrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carrigan, 3316 W. Shandon St., was a recent recipient of the scholarship given annually by the Women's Auxiliary to the Midland County Medical Society to a Midland high school graduate who wishes to enter the field of medicine. Carrigan, who will be an honor graduate of Lee High School and plans to enter the pre-med program at The University of Texas-Arlington, is shown with Mrs. Harrie Mast, chairman of the selection committee. Some of the previous recipients who are nurses or who are in nurses' training are Carolyn Hazlip, Kathleen Cassidy, Jo Harriet Jackson, Debbie Steinman and Julie Westcott. Others who are in the preparatory or M.D. program are Randy Bryan, Carol Ann Perusek and Michael Caldwell. Robert O. Combs, deceased, also participated. Sharon Antonelli is studying to be a dietitian.

Houston Police Quit 'Spying' Group

By PAUL REECE

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police are no longer a member of a national organization which one official here said encourages spying on ordinary citizens and lends official sanction to collecting and filing "gutter gossip."

The portrait the Houston official gave of the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit (LEIU), headquartered in Long Beach, Calif., was sharply disputed by the national chairman of LEIU.

The high Houston police official, who asked not to be identified, said the Houston Police Department resigned from LEIU after law enforcement officials here were asked to spy on a respected, legitimate local businessman.

LEIU national chairman, Ray Henry, contacted by The Associated Press at the Long Beach, Calif., Police Department where he is a lieutenant in the intelligence division, said the Houston Police Department was "kicked out of LEIU...terminated from membership."

The Houston police source said most of the board which runs the LEIU are, like the national chairman, members of Southern California municipal police departments.

Henry, in a telephone interview, said his organization is composed of 230 member intelligence agencies throughout the United States and Canada.

This would include probably every major intelligence unit—county sheriffs, district attorneys and municipal police intelligence units—from New York to Los Angeles," he said.

Henry said the LEIU's purpose is to keep track of "traveling organized crime hoodlums by exchanging information about these people between our members."

Capt. B. G. Bond, chief of the Houston criminal intelligence division, agreed with The AP's police source that Houston dropped out of the LEIU, but declined to discuss the matter further.

Houston's criminal intelligence files recently have been impounded as a result of a $5 million lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and two Houston residents who allegedly are subjects of intelligence files.

Bond said he is forbidden to discuss the files or the criminal intelligence activities because of a court-ordered gag rule.

A police department source, however, said the LEIU formed, in effect, a national network for police spying.

"If you're a member of the organization, you are bound to furnish any and all information requested by other members, regardless of the nature of the request," the police source said. "This is a condition of membership."

Houston had been a member for years, but the departmental leadership has changed in recent months. Lynn, who became chief in January 1974, made changes in personnel and this led to a fresh look at LEIU, an official said.

The Houston police source said officials became suspicious of the organization when a California member requested a full-blown intelligence investigation of a highly respected Houston man. The request, an official said, asked for information on the man's investments, business dealings, associates, sex habits and family life.

"It included things the police shouldn't even be curious about," the source said.

Houston police officials checked back on the request and found it had nothing to do with a criminal investigation. The request had been filed as a favor to a friend, it was learned.

"It had to do with a stock merger," said the source. "Possible criminal activities weren't even involved."

Besides being outright police spying, said the official source, the report "would have taken days and been a waste of taxpayers' dollars."

"We simply refused to do it," he said. This prompted a heated exchange of letters and finally Houston resigned from the LEIU, the source said.

Opportunities To Learn Arithmetic In Easy Manner Surround Young Child

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the seventh of a series of 14 articles prepared by Science Research Associates, Inc., that shows how everyday situations can help children learn to add, subtract, multiply and divide.

The child can find out how long Bennie's adventure lasted by counting minutes on the clock's number line — and by adding numbers stated in the problem. This helps him to "see" in a practical, everyday way, how arithmetic "works."

It also helps the child to grasp the basic concept of numbers — to learn that "three" isn't just a word — it's an "idea," it actually "means" there are three units of something.

Development of these number concepts are the basic element in learning how to compute.

If you would like a 32-page color booklet incorporating additional arithmetic problems that may help your child, send $1 to The Reporter-Telegram. Be sure your name and address are printed clearly. Your booklet will be mailed directly to you from Chicago.

Opportunities to learn arithmetic in an easy, natural way surround the young child.

A wise parent can learn to spot these opportunities and take advantage of them in everyday conversation so that the child enters school with a basic sense of numbers.

One concrete way that can be used to help a child "see" the use of addition and subtraction is the "number line" that begins with zero and could continue without end.

The most ordinary example of the number line is a ruler, yardstick or tape measure. Each begins with zero and marks numbers in order so that they are all the same distance apart.

With these measuring instruments, a child can count how many units from 3 to 4 or from 4 to 7.

After children develop a feel for the "number line" with a ruler, they can see that a clock can be used in the same way with the "dots" indicating the minutes being used on the number line.

The objective of today's exercise is to "count" how long it took our friend Bennie to complete his rendezvous with a horse.

But there's something wrong with the clock! Some children will spot it immediately. There's no hour hand. But that's easily remedied. Let the child draw it in — and make it whatever time of day he wishes, morning, afternoon, anytime.

Most children learn quickly to "read" the short hand of the clock. Now it's time to learn what the longer hand tells and does. A parent could ask these questions:

Do you see a number line that goes to 30? Where? Are all the dots the same size? Which ones are bigger? How does this help you count?

If we pretend the minute hand has moved from 12 to the first dot, how many minutes have passed? From the first dot to the second dot? When the minute hand reaches the "1" on the clock, how many minutes will have passed? When it reaches the "2"? The "3"? Etc.

Lost Trick At Right Time

As declarer you can often choose the time to give up a trick. If possible, choose a moment when the opponents are powerless to attack.

If West wins with the jack of hearts, dummy's eight of trumps is there to stop the spades. And this is, of course, the reason for giving up the first trump trick rather than a later one. You can afford to lose a trick while dummy still has a trump.

No matter what West returns, you can draw the rest of the trumps and run the diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer bids one heart and your partner doubles for a takeout. The next player passes, and it is up to you, holding: S-10 9 6 H-10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 C-J 10 8 6. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. You are tempted to make the cheapest bid, one spade, with your worthless hand, but this is dangerous. Your partner probably has a good hand, and he may try for game if you bid a major suit. You don't want to hear any more from him.

House Approves Grazing Measure

AUSTIN — The House has approved and sent to the governor a bill to allow ranchers to negotiate 10-year leases with the General Land Office for grazing rights on state property.

The measure by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland was approved earlier by the Senate.

The current five-year restriction on leases contributes to leases' reluctance to make land improvements under the short-lease program, Snelson said.

Both chambers have passed another bill by Snelson to permit the land office to give lease holders credit for permanent improvement they make on state land.

The House passed the two measures on a local and consent calendar.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

You Think Teachers Had It Rough . . .

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I enjoyed your column in which you reprinted "Rules for Female Teachers in 1915."

Perhaps you would enjoy reading the rules for female nurses published in 1886. Nurses were told they must:

First: Bring in a scuttle of coal each day.

Second: Report every day at 7 a.m., and leave at 8 p.m., except on the Sabbath "on which day you will be off from 12 noon until 2 p.m."

Third: Graduate nurses in good standing will be given an evening off each week for church services.

Fourth: Any nurse who smokes, uses liquor, goes to the beauty shop or frequents dance halls will give the director a good reason to suspect her worth, her intentions and integrity.

Fifth: The nurse who performs faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of $.65 a day, providing there are no hospital debts outstanding.

A footnote, Abby: To illustrate how much progress has been made in achieving political and economic justice, in 1945 three young women who were employed as copyists in the U.S. Patent Office were threatened with loss of their jobs.

A member of Congress wrote to the Secretary of the Interior, Robert McClelland, on behalf of one of the copyists and received the following response:

"There is every disposition on my part to do anything for the lady in question except to retain her or any of the other females who work in the rooms of the Patent Office. I have no objection to the employment of females in the performance of such duties as they are competent to discharge, but there is such obvious impropriety in the mixing of sexes within the walls of a public office that I have determined to arrest the practice."

The lady in question lost her job, anyway. But she later distinguished herself in a job considered exclusively male. The lady's name was Clara Barton. Her work on the Civil War battlefields and as founder of the American Red Cross make her one of the most illustrious women in our nation's history.

Very truly yours,
JENNINGS RANDOLPH U.S. Senator
West Virginia

DEAR SEN. RANDOLPH: Thank you for a dandy contribution to my column. Your interest in equal rights for women is not surprising, since you co-sponsored the Equal Rights for Women Amendment, which I hope the necessary 38 states will ratify.

DEAR ABBY: If you had a choice, would you rather have your kids hooked on drugs or alcohol? Please be honest.
BERKELEY SOPH

DEAR SOPH: If I had a choice, I'd rather have them hooked on nothing! Why assume kids have to be hooked on SOMETHING?

CONFIDENTIAL TO JINNIE: Wear pants to the office, only if you are sure that the end justifies the means. If you don't have a three-way mirror, ask an honest friend.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Midland Students Given Scholarships

LUBBOCK—Three Tall City students were recognized in recent ceremonies conducted by Texas Tech University's College of Business Administration.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1975. There are 232 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America, Jamestown, Va., was founded.
On this date --
In 1809, forces under Napoleon Bonaparte captured Vienna.
In 1846, the U.S. Congress declared that a state of war existed between the United States and Mexico.
In 1865, the last engagement of the Civil War took place at Palo Pinto, Tex.
In 1915, the United States protested to Germany against the sinking of the British liner, Lusitania, and the loss of American lives.
In 1940, Queen Wilhelmina and Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands fled to London ahead of Nazi invaders.
In 1958, anti-U.S. demonstrators in Caracas, Venezuela, battered Vice President Richard Nixon's limousine with rocks.
Ten years ago: Fighter planes of the U.S.-backed junta in the Dominican Republic knocked out a rebel radio station at Santa Domingo with rocket and machine gun fire.
Five years ago: Israel was making attacks against Lebanon to try to wipe out Arab guerrilla bases.
One year ago: Italians, voting in a referendum, chose to keep a law permitting divorce after a five-year separation.
Today's birthdays: Former boxing champion Joe Louis is 61. The British novelist known as Lady Browning, Daphne du Maurier, is 60.
Thought for today: A knowledge is always obnoxious -- especially when he's right -- anonymous.

Solon Labels ERA Report 'Monstrosity'

By DAN McDONALD
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The sponsor of a resolution seeking to overturn Texas' ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment says a House subcommittee report on ERA issues is a "monstrosity."
The report was released Monday by a Constitutional Revision subcommittee studying the rescission resolution.
Among other things, the 23-page memorandum said the ERA, if it became part of the U.S. Constitution, would permit separate bathroom facilities for men and women.
Delaying Tactics
Rep. Bill Hilliard, D-Fort Worth, the resolution's sponsor, said the report does not say anything new. "It's just a ploy to hold up the process," he said.
Hilliard earlier had said he did not think the resolution would come up for a vote in the remaining three weeks of the session.
Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, the subcommittee chairman, said the report was an attempt to "clarify the issues."
Regarded As 'Troublesome'
"I hope to get a vote as soon as possible," Wyatt said. "I think we ought to seek a recall of our 1972 ratification, but if I can't get a majority of the committee to agree, I'll vote for rescission."
The report's author, Brian Berwick, a subcommittee staff member, said he treated the ERA questions that the committee members regarded as most "troublesome." He added that his conclusions "are offered with the warning that courts are unpredictable."
The report said the federal courts have said Congress is the final judge on whether a state can overturn ratification.

Threat Closes Bridge Briefly

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — An international bridge that links Brownsville with Matamoros, Mexico, was closed briefly Monday night by Mexican authorities who said they received a bomb threat.
Mexican police said they arrested a Brownsville man in connection with the threat against the Brownsville & Matamoros Bridge. They said a second man escaped.
The bridge remained closed about 30 minutes. The other bridge over the Rio Grande here, Gateway International, was not affected.

Texas House Members Begin Debate On Public School Funding Measure

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House begins debate today on a bill that would pump $600.1 million in new money into public school financing, including $1,000-a-year raises for teachers.

Monday, the House tentatively approved bills that would establish a new medical school and permit parents to recover damages for mental anguish in the negligent killing of their children.

The Senate approved and sent to the governor a bill making it a $200 fine to smoke in elevators, theaters, movie houses, libraries, museums, hospitals, public schools, buses, trains and airplanes.

The House vote on the medical school bill was 106-90. The school would have two components, one in Fort Worth and one in the Rio Grande Valley, both governed by the Texas Woman's University Board of Regents. Another vote is needed to send the measure to the Senate.

The House vote overruled the College Coordinating Board, which twice rejected the TWU proposal, once on a unanimous vote and the second time by an 8-7 vote when board chairman Harry Provence of Waco broke the tie.

The "two component" feature was tacked onto the bill in committee when Reps. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, and Billy Hall, D-Laredo, joined forces.

Just before the vote was taken, Willis held up a bumper sticker at the front microphone that read: "Gruber, Texas needs a doctor." He told reporters that Gruber, near Lubbock, recently lost its only doctor.

The Coordinating Board said Texas needed no new medical or dental schools during the remainder of this decade. The board recommended expanding areas still have a critical shortage of doctors.

Midland Attorney Named To Advisory Committee

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Texas Supreme Court today named Maurice R. Bullock of Midland and four others as new members of the Advisory Committee on the Rules of Civil Procedure.

Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill said the new committeemen besides Bullock are Pat Beard of Waco, Robert H. Singleton of Houston, Luther H. Soules III of San Antonio and Judge Bert H. Tunks of Houston.

Bullock is a former president of the State Bar of Texas. The committee includes former Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert of Austin, George W. McCleskey of Lubbock and four others as new members of the Advisory Committee on the Rules of Civil Procedure.

The 31-member committee, composed of lawyers, judges and law professors, was created in 1940, when the Supreme Court was authorized to issue rules governing practice and procedure in civil cases. It has continued to advise the court on rule changes made to improve its administration. The committee will meet here Friday.

Lee Youth Center Chatter

By LISA McDONALD, JANA WILLIAMSON & JOLEE AYLESWORTH

So-long, Dixie writers Tanya, Becky and Linda. Thanks for keeping us up to date on this—that from Rebel Land. Ya'll are great!

Howdy from Jana, Jolee and Lisa, your new Rebel Y.C. columnists. With the end of school drawing near, things really are boomin'. A big handshake goes out to Milton Jones for bringing home the state shot-put title from Austin. Way to go, Rebel Tracksters! Everyone be sure and turn out to see the Rebel Baseballers ride the Raiders in bi-district play-off at Cub Stadium at 4:30 p.m. today. They really need our Rebel Spirit to take them on to state.

Congratulations to Bobby Stevens for being honored as All-District, Most Valuable Player! Two more All-District players are Brett Blackwell, shortstop, and Javier Torres, outfielder. Congrats also go to Coach Ernie Johnson for being named Coach of the Year. Way to go, Big Rebs!

Rebel Pride goes to Linda Ewan for being named a National Alumni Scholar from S.M.U. Chalk up another honor for the Class of '75.

ATTENTION: All Sophomore and Junior girls... a very important meeting will be held in the cafeteria immediately after school Friday for those who are interested in being Rebelettes next year. If you want to really support the mighty Rebs and do your part for Lee High next year, come in and fill out an application. Bring $5 for dues and hat deposit. Let's all turn out and make Rebelettes the Pride of Dixie.

So long, Dixie. See ya next week.

Bye now,
Jana
Jolee
Lisa

P.S. Happy birthday to Jamie Hale, Ann Ellis, Jana Williamson, Sue Clingman and Ginger Nelson.

Blood, sweat, and tears are being shed on the practice field as spring training gets under way. Be sure to show-up for the May 17 scrimmage, as the sophisticated Seniors show their skill battling the 1975-76 Maroon Platoon.

The sleepy-eyed Junior Council of the past, present and future met at Sambo's early Friday to elect new officers to aid in Y.C. happenings next year. Jamie Hale will preside as president, with Laura Wardrop at her side as vice president. Lisa McDonald will serve as secretary, with Jana Williamson as treasurer.

A new slate of Student Council leaders was elected Tuesday. The officers are Carl Comstock, president; Janis Sanders, vice president; Barbara Weatherpoon, recording secretary; Ellen Roacha, corresponding secretary, and Brenda Ewan, treasurer. Good luck next year! Thanks a lot, Jim Kreuz, for doing such a fantastic job with the council this year! Class officer elections were held today for next year's Junior and Senior class leaders.

The 1975 Junior-Senior Prom was a great success despite the droopy hair, wilted corsages, and soggy tuxes due to the downpour. Special thanks go to Laura Wardrop, Roger Linton, Montie Watson, Greg Shelton, Richard Wilson, Karen Freeman, Lisa Welton, Mike Schell, Robbie Hembree, Marc Gist and Robbie McLelland. Also a big "thank you" goes to Mr. Gregory.

Television Set Reported Stolen

Dave Roberts, manager of the Ramada Inn, 3501 W. Wall St., told police Monday that a television set had been taken from a room sometime Sunday night.

The theft was discovered about 3:50 p.m. Monday. J. D. Rivas, owner of Rivas Laundromat, 1401 N. Lamesa Road, reported Monday a coin mechanism on a washing machine had been pried on.

He said his wife heard a noise in the laundromat, and upon investigating, saw a juvenile prying on the machine. The juvenile spotted Mrs. Rivas, and ran off.

Woman Shoots, Kills Assailant

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Police said Raymond Ogden, 22, was shot and killed Monday night as he tried to rape a 20-year-old woman in Northeast Amarillo.

Detectives said he placed a knife at the throat of his intended victim as she walked down the street and pulled her between two buildings. Officers reported she halted the attack by pulling a small pistol from her purse and shooting him in the neck and chest.

Detectives said the woman apparently acted in self defense but she was held for questioning.

Deliveries Of New Phone Directories Start Today

Deliveries of Midland's new telephone directory will begin today for local homes and businesses.

Royce Brookmole, district manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said one directory will be delivered per home, although customers may request additional copies. The reduction is for economy reasons, Brookmole said.

The new directory contains 106 pages of alphabetical listings, compared to 100 in last year's edition. Brookmole said the additional listings are an indication of the continuing growth here.

He said, "Southwestern Bell is pleased to be a part of this expanding city."

The new directory is dressed in a cover depicting a painting by San Antonio artist Donald Yens. The painting, "Trail Dust and Good Water" is particularly appropriate for the range heritage of Midland, Brookmole said.

The directory cover commemorates the ruggedness of Texas and its people, together with the tradition of the Longhorn.

Brookmole said Bell has 62,800 telephone hookups in Midland serving 29,291 customers. He said 69,000 telephone directories were ordered with 47,894 to go out in the initial distribution.

The district manager said the additional books will be used as replacements, moves and new customer supplies. He said 60 people will be involved in the delivery process which should be completed by May 21.

Convicted Texas Preacher To Hear Sentence May 19

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Texas preacher Sam Corey will be sentenced May 19 on his conviction last month of murdering a young woman on her honeymoon here.

Sentencing had been scheduled Monday but was postponed.

Corey was convicted of driving the car that killed Patricia Albanowski Giesick, 23, in January 1974.

Her death was first classified hit-and-run, but was changed to homicide after it came to light that her husband of a few weeks had taken out a large life insurance policy on her.

Collision Kills One, Hurts Four

KILGORE, Tex. (AP) — A head-on crash of two cars on U.S. 256 here Monday night killed a woman and put four other persons in a hospital, police said.

They listed the dead woman as Ruby Elizabeth Kistick of Kilgore, who was riding alone.

Four occupants of the other vehicle were in undetermined condition. They are Mr. and Mrs. Bill O'Roke of Henderson and their daughters Melody, 13, and Shannon, 2.

Tell 'Em, Robert!

Robert A. Dean, a normally mild-mannered Midland independent oil operator, lashed out eloquently and in no uncertain terms at what he termed anti-oil elements of the national press and the Congress, in addressing the annual meeting of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association here.

His remarks were well-chosen and well-spoken. It is hoped they will reach the ears of the liberal Eastern press and the members of Congress for whom they were intended.

It is time that someone mounted the soapbox, so-to-speak, in this regard, and Dean, who was re-elected president of PBPA for a second term, was just the man to do it.

"The ignorance of the national news media and their willingness to mislead the American public is unbelievable," Dean said.

This he blamed partially on laziness—failure to do "any research, telephoning or checking."

The aroused oilman charged writers and columnists with echoing the same line, with the likely intent of justifying "their own preconceived notion," and thereby becoming "one of the most devious forces in our nation."

Dean is correct in his assertions and the segment of the national press to which he referred is defenseless insofar as this newspaper is concerned.

But Dean did not quit there. He charged that another force adversely affecting the plight of the oilman is the sometimes uncaring ignorance of members of Congress. He went on to say that those who are writing and introducing such ill-conceived legislation have no expertise in the oil business, and "to some extent can be excused for honest error."

He pointed out, however, that some politicians discard documented evidence in their law-making process and instead yield to the "undocumented and non-factual evidence" supplied by Common Cause, Ralph Nader, consumer advocate groups and others.

Then he hit the nail on the head with: "That is not a lack of knowledge. It is either slow learning or something else."

He predicted that such shallow legislation will lead to further delays in domestic energy development, "and could cause the country to drift into economic and social chaos."

This is the hazard which faces all citizens of the nation—this matter of economic and social chaos. This goes far beyond just the oil industry and its plight. It confronts every American—and the responsibility rests on the shoulders of Congress.

Congress should and must face reality in considering the energy shortage. Many of its liberal members will not face the issue, much less reality.

But Dean's audience soaked-up the words which gushed from his mouth, but which expressed the long pent-up feelings of his heart and mind.

"And Congress does not have a corner on patriotism," he declared. "I do not know any more patriotic and loyal citizen of America than the independent oilman, and the oil fraternity."

He expressed continued confidence in the nation and its people, however, concluding his address with the prayer and hope that "common sense will again prevail and our leaders will let us get on with what we are programmed for, and that is the finding of oil and gas."

The Slow Transformation Of President Ford

WASHINGTON — There never has been a man who wasn't changed after becoming President. That office is so powerful and so focal that it alters the style and thinking of its occupants whether they be free and easy, hidebound or what.

There's reason to think that President Ford is no exception; that at some moment in recent weeks he crossed the line from being the collegial "nice guy" — a friendly congressman — to a man feeling comfortable in the mantle of the Chief Executive, thus, a more commanding presence.

Despite the great diminution in the authority of the Presidency, people want a President who imparts the notion that he is in charge, is making decisions for the general good and has a strong backbone. The difficult economy and people's perception of Mr. Ford as not having come to grips with his office have given him unhealthy ratings in the public opinion polls.

But this could soon change for the better for Mr. Ford. Recently, he hasn't refrained from expressing his displeasure when he thinks his adversaries are being truculent, unreasonable or downright wrong. In short, he's been described several times of late as being "damned mad," particularly over published reports that he has told confidants he won't run in 1976, and with the unwillingness of some Americans to welcome South Vietnamese refugees.

Asked at his last press conference whether U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin was effective in the evacuation, Mr. Ford politely but firmly rejected that suggestion and declared: "I never had much faith in Monday morning quarterbacks or grandstand quarterbacks. I would rather put faith in the man-ments, two years of Watergate and a vengeful Congress. He had the problem of Richard M. Nixon around his neck. Mr. Ford also had inflation, the energy problem, a bad political situation for the Republicans and the chore of taking over a demoralized administration.

That's a messy closet of problems all right, and others sprang from the deal, President-Ford learned he couldn't deal with foreign or military policy the way he would like to because of public and congressional restraints. He saw his party lose badly in the fall elections, thus cutting his political strength even more and making new programs doubtful. Finally, his right wing, frustrated and angry over Watergate and Nixon's throwing the power away, cut loose at Mr. Ford.

He had to make presidential decisions. He pardoned Nixon, thus cutting his honeymoon short. He failed to get a handle on the stagflation illness. He went permissive on the budget. He indulged his secretary of State a bit too much, mouthing Dr. Kissinger's latest huffings and puffings against Arabs, Israelis and Congress. And he kissed off the memory of Vietnam too quickly, though admirably sticking by the evacuation of refugees and his ambassador.

But really, even a Democratic President couldn't have done any better in this period between the exile to San Clemente and the fall of Saigon. Mr. Ford didn't do well, but he did his best, and he learned.

And, while I believe the office pushes him into more authoritative moments and stances, this man of Congress maintains his courtesy and patience. He listens to an uncommon amount of advice, probably too much, and is on the phone a great deal with congressmen.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department has bought $1.1 million worth of tomatoes, strawberries and cantaloupes from a firm whose top salesman is Mafia godfather Carlos Marcello.

The produce was approved by still another federal agency, the Agriculture Department, which dutifully inspected the Mafia man's tomatoes and pronounced them suitable for government soups and salads.

Then the Cosa Nostra conestibles were distributed to Army, Navy and Air Force installations in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Panama.

At least two civilian agencies, the Public Health Service and Veterans Administration, also get tomatoes from Marcello through the Defense Department.

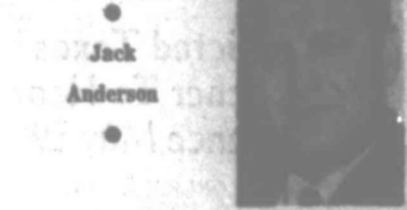

Although responsible government officials privately insist they don't like doing business with a Mafia generalissimo, they are obliged by law to buy their tomatoes from the lowest bidder. Not unless the tomatoes fail to pass muster with the Agriculture Department can they be rejected.

The Justice Department has brought pressure on government agencies not to do business with mob-tainted companies. But Mafia lawyers have sued to stop this discrimination.

Marcello is identified in secret government files as "the top ranking member of the Mafia in (the) New Orleans area." He "gained (his) reputation through terroristic activities," the files also reveal.

The public record of his syndicate connections dates back to the Kefauver hearings of the 1950s. He figured again in the "Joe Valachi" hearings of the 1960s and the House crime hearings of the 1970s.

The House hearings indicated he was a $1,600-a-month "salesman" for the Pelican Tomato Company of New Orleans. He is reputed to be an effective salesman, whose offers are seldom refused. He started out in 1963-64 by helping to wangle a tough contract with several supermarkets.

For the record, Marcello has said only that he is "a public relations man for Pelican Tomato" and also adviser to Pelican Tomato. "He has sworn under oath he has never been in the Mafia."

Obviously, he works for Joseph Matassa, the company secretary-treasurer, with whom Marcello was indicted and acquitted on a jury-tampering trial in 1965.

"He is always a gentleman," said Matassa of Marcello. The tomato tycoon denied any knowledge of Marcello's Mafia ties. "We never do anything with anybody but good people," he said. We were unable to reach Marcello.

MORE ON MARTIN: President Ford stubbornly insisted last week that American Ambassador Graham Martin did a "good job" of directing the evacuation of South Vietnam.

"I never had much faith in Monday-morning quarterbacks or grandstand quarterbacks," said the President. "I would rather put faith in the man who carried out a very successful evacuation."

Apparently, this barb was aimed at us. We began reporting last month how Martin was botching the evacuation. Because there is a lesson to be learned

INSIDE REPORT—

House Majority Leader Comes To The Rescue

By HOWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The way the Vietnam debacle has inhibited congressional liberals who were plotting drastic reductions in U.S. troops overseas was stunningly revealed in a private conversation between the House majority leader, Rep. Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill of Massachusetts, and the author of a 100,000-man troop cutback, leftist Rep. Ronald Dellums of California.

O'Neill one year ago was pushing a plan of his own for major troop reductions abroad. But this week he privately informed Dellums that his amendment was "the wrong motion at the wrong time."

That assures beyond doubt that the troop-cut amendment to the pending military authorization bill by Dellums, the ex-Marine and super-dove who represents the radical Berkeley-Oakland constituency, will be defeated in the House. It also probably signals defeat of a separate Dellums move to put the newly powerful House Democratic Caucus on record in favor of reducing "landbased forces" around the world by September 1976.

Thus, the tragedy of Vietnam has produced its first positive political reaction: grave second thoughts by liberal Democrats about declining U.S. prestige in the world. However temporary, these second thoughts are boosting morale within the Ford administration for the first time in months.

In his caucus resolution, Dellums does not specify how many troops should be brought home, or from where. But the implication is clear: Dellums wants to put his party on record in favor of a worldwide troop pull-back, a move that would further shock American allies and might encourage new Communist military probes.

O'Neill is a Massachusetts liberal whose district includes Cambridge, an arch-dove bastion where voters rival Dellums' constituents in fervency. So he did not lightly come to his decision to oppose Dellums. O'Neill was on the other side March 12 when the Caucus killed what little chance there was for President Ford's emergency military aid request for Indochina. That Caucus action superseded approval of an aid package by a House international relations subcommittee.

Although O'Neill was privately skeptical about that earlier Caucus action, he voted with the overwhelming majority under pressure from Cambridge — and from fractious freshman liberals. In the troop-reduction issue, however, he is following his conscience instead of his constituency. For once using his position as majority leader, O'Neill is derailing Dellums both in the House and in the Caucus as the result of several unpublished eviscerations.

One was a private approach to O'Neill by Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. Disturbed by the impact of a congressionally-imposed troop cut while U.S. credibility is challenged worldwide, Schlesinger appealed to O'Neill to stall House action at least until after the NATO summit meeting the end of May. O'Neill agreed to "reassess" his position.

Probably more significant was this quiet warning from moderates and non-freshman liberals: Remember, Tip, you are the leader of the entire Democratic majority and you must lead. Behind that warning is the specter of Rep. Philip Burton of California, shrewd, aggressive chairman of the Caucus who gave muscular support when the Caucus eradicated Indochina aid.

The secretive Burton is keeping quiet about the Dellums resolution. Nevertheless, O'Neill's political allies in the House, worried about Burton's swift rise to power through the Caucus and the political implications for the party if it endorsed global troop reductions, told O'Neill this was a place to take a stand. O'Neill has taken it.

Even without O'Neill's help the Dellums resolution was heading into heavy seas. Behind closed doors, the House Armed Services Committee by voice vote defeated Dellums twice on troop reductions: a 100,000-cut amendment and a 75,000 fall-back position. When the committee met for its public mark-up session, Dellums failed to offer either amendment.

Some liberal Democrats who would back Dellums in the absence of the Vietnam disaster have publicly switched. Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, a chief deputy whip and rising figure in the House, told a West German audience April 26 there would be "no serious effort" this year to reduce U.S. overseas troops (eliciting an angry complaint from Dellums' office).

Most astonishingly, that chronic Pentagon critic, Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, is having second thoughts. There are many others.

Even if this change of heart lasts only a year, the major Democratic party support that it signals for Mr. Ford's pledge to "maintain our commitments" from South Korea to Central Europe has profound significance. American retreat from the world is not yet at hand.

Horse Race Betting Bill Zips Through State Senate Panel

AUSTIN (AP) — A horse race betting bill zipped through a Senate committee Monday in a show of clenched-teeth persuasion.

Needing one more vote for approval, Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, muttered to colleague Mike McKinnon of Corpus Christi, "You s. o. b. You promised me you'd vote for this."

McKinnon changed his vote, and it was approved by the State Affairs Committee, 74, a bare majority of the 13-member committee.

Moments before, quicker than the opening of a starting gate, the bill had been expanded from Texas' three largest counties—Harris, Dallas and Bexar—to include the nine largest counties.

Added without debate were El Paso, Hidalgo, Jefferson, Tarrant, Travis and Tarrant

Counties.

Sen. Hal Longoria of Edinburg, in Hidalgo County, extended the committee hearing by firing questions at an opponent of the measure while Ogg scurried around collecting votes.

By lowering the population limit in the bill from 500,000 to 100,000, Ogg managed to acquiesce in Hidalgo County, which showed a population of 181,536 in the 1970 census.

The bill would permit parimutuel betting on horse races in the nine counties if a majority of the voters agreed.

If authorized a three-member commission appointed by the governor to regulate racing and restricts racing in any county to 75 days a year—or a total of 225 days for all counties.

At least one race on every racing day would be limited to Texas-bred horses.

Off-track betting would be prohibited.

Joe Strauss, a San Antonio businessman, said of the bill states that have parimutuel betting "not one is trying to get rid of it—the legislatures are trying to have more."

Rain Washes East As Cold Air Rolls Through Midwest

By The Associated Press
Rain washed the Eastern Seaboard today and also spilled over the eastern slopes of the central Rockies and into the adjacent Plains.

A tornado watch was in effect in the pre-dawn hours for portions of Oklahoma and Texas. Twisters were sighted late Monday in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. No damage or injuries were reported.

Up to an inch and a half of rain splashed into northern Florida through Monday and similar amounts were scattered north into the Middle Atlantic States. Moderate to heavy rains also soaked western Kansas and sections of Colorado during the night.

Fair weather dominated most of the Far West, the Great Lakes region and Mississippi Valley.

A late surge of cold air rolling through the Midwest dropped temperatures into the frosty 30s as far south as northern Illinois. Readings in the 20s chilled northern Michigan.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 29 at Traverse City, Mich., to 62 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Israelis Bring Three More Arabs Back From Lebanon

By The Associated Press
Israeli forces crossed the Lebanese border early today for the second straight day and brought back three more Arabs suspected of collaborating with Palestine guerrillas, the Israeli military command reported.

The raiders searched for terrorists in the village of Ait Around, about a mile from the Israeli border, the command said.

On Monday the Israelis brought back four men and a woman "for investigation." A military spokesman said "not a bullet was fired" during the raid today.

The command refused to say why it was making the raids, which it says are the first in four months. But the Lebanese charge that the Israelis have sent commando groups across the border four times in the past five weeks to lay mines, apparently to hinder Palestine guerrillas from retreating into Israel.

About 15 Lebanese were captured and taken to Israel during the raids in January. All were released after a month.

Senate Moves To End Debate On Bill Creating Consumer Advocacy Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is moving to shut off debate and vote on the controversial bill to create an Agency for Consumer Advocacy within the federal government.

Supporters of the measure contend that despite a veto threat by President Ford, the bill has gone out of the long fight to kill, change or delay the bill creating the agency.

The vote to curtail debate will be taken under new Senate rules making it possible to end a filibuster by 60 votes instead of the old system of two-thirds of those present and voting.

In four attempts to end the successful filibuster of the bill last year, supporters could muster no more than 64 votes to stop debate and the bill died without ever coming to a vote.

The measure would establish an independent organization to prod those federal regulatory agencies having a direct impact on the quality, availability and cost of goods and services offered in America's market places.

"It's not a super-agency, it's a voice, a voice speaking for the consumer and a voice that can be heard," said Sen.

Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., one of its principal supporters.

Other senators expressed fear that Congress may be "creating a monster that cannot be controlled."

Opponents, led chiefly by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., contend the measure is aimed at punishing business unduly. They have complained that such special interest groups as broadcasting and organized labor have been exempted and that it would set up at its head a "consumer czar" who could not be controlled.

They claim that at the very least the measure would create a costly and unnecessary additional layer of bureaucracy.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee and the bill's principal sponsor, contends the agency fills an unmet need and will result in still another regulatory body.

"The ACA will have no power to compel any decision or compliance," he said. "Its power lies in persuasion in the same manner as any other party that participates in federal agency proceedings.

"The great majority of American business will have nothing to fear from the bill," Ribicoff said, citing the growing number of large and reputable corporations that have endorsed it.

The Senate voted 51 to 37 Monday to retain in the bill an exemption for labor-management negotiations before the National Labor Relations Board and the National Mediation Board.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., contended the exemption was granted only because of organized labor's great influence in Congress and was an example of "politics at its rank and most cynical level."

Ribicoff said Congress over the last 40 years of considering labor law has never intended to permit government interference in the substance of labor-management disputes.

The bill's opponents claim that organized labor threatened to oppose the bill unless labor was exempted.

March Bankruptcy Filings Set Record

and businesses filed bankruptcy petitions in March than in any other month in history, the government says. This reflects a steady increase in the number of people unable to cope with inflation and recession.

Over-all bankruptcy filings for fiscal 1975 are running 36 per cent higher than a year earlier and the number of financial failures for the year that ends June 30 could set a record.

March is the latest month for which figures are available. The statistics cover two kinds of bankruptcy filings: those by individuals or businesses who ask the court to declare them bankrupt and those by people or companies seeking relief from creditors while they work out a system of paying their bills.

The Administrative Office of the United States Courts, which records the number of bankruptcy and relief petitions filed in every federal judicial district, provided this update on Monday:

— There were 24,970 bankruptcy filings in March, 13 per cent or 2,839 more filings than in October, the previous single highest month on record, and 42 per cent or 7,301 filings more than in March 1974.

— The total number of bankruptcy filings for the first nine months of fiscal 1975 was 184,685, 35 per cent more than the 136,597 filings in the first nine months of 1974.

— More people have been going broke each month. There were 20,081 bankruptcy filings in December, 21,264 in January, 21,763 in February and 24,970 in March. There was a similar pattern a year earlier, but the rate of climb was less and the numbers involved were smaller.

No breakdown was available on how many bankruptcy filings were made by individuals and how many by businesses. But in fiscal 1974, only 11 per cent of all petitions were filed by businesses.

Officials have expressed concern that an unprecedented number of individuals and businesses will go bankrupt this fiscal year. The previous high was in 1967 when there were 209,329 bankruptcies. Officials said in December that if the latest rate of increase in filings continued, the fiscal 1975 total could reach 231,000.

A spokesman for the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts blamed the 1967 record on "a big over-extension in consumer credit."

Consumers have been cutting back their borrowing. In the last three months of 1974 and first three months of this year,

Lee Rebels Face WF Rider At Cubs Stadium Today
Bi-District Series At 4:30 P.M.

Terry Williamson

A Disappointing Victory?

Lee's Milton Jones stepped into the shot put ring at Memorial Stadium Saturday in Austin for a warm up throw, never gazing at the pools of standing water that lay before him.

A casual fan that was just walking through the area said, "There's no use staying around here. That guy is going to win it easily." He left as quickly as he came.

Later, Jones had another warmup throw of near 64-feet, but he was never able to approach that mark when the throws started counting. He ended up with a toss of 61-54 to win the state championship, however.

The state crown was the goal, but even after Jones had won it all, he roamed the soggy pit as if he had lost his best friend. A smile didn't break on his face until Lee track coach Sam Volpe jumped into the arena and brought the Lee super star back to the reality of what had just taken place.

Jones apparently wanted more than a championship -- he wanted an undeniable victory of excellence. He's been that way all year.

Earlier this year in a meet at San Angelo, Jones had a toss of 175-0 in the discus, but when the regionals came several weeks later in Lubbock, he could manage only a toss of 152-2 and failed to qualify for the state meet.

Midland High track coach Ed Nixon said, "Jones was really disappointed after the regional discus. He wouldn't even get when it was over. He took it hard."

Milton is still not pleased with his winning mark in the state shot, and maybe it's a good idea to keep in mind that even winners sometimes fall short of their goals, and that winning is not everything -- even among the winners.

Rankin Makes History

While we are on the subject of excellence, Rankin's Red Devil golf team seems to have the market cornered. Rankin won their third straight golf championship this weekend in Austin, making them the first Class A team to win that trick once golf was added to the UIL playoff system in 1968.

McCaimey's Badgers also brought home their first AA golf championship with Doug Adams earning state medalist honors. San Angelo was another West Texas links team to win a crown while Permian and Andrews each finished fourth in their respective divisions.

It appears that West Texas is dominating the state's golf scene. It's really no secret why, either. If you can learn the game in the brutal West Texas winds, it stands to reason that you can run wild in any kind of weather. West Texas golfers are used to playing under every kind of conditions, and other teams in the state know only one kind of game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Scanlon Scars Braves, 11-1

By The Associated Press
Larry Parrish got the thump, literally and figuratively. So Pat Scanlon got the chance to show what he had. And what he had was more than enough.

"I decided to start Scanlon when I saw Parrish's thump," Montreal Manager Gene Mautch said. "He's banged up a little."

So Mautch thumbed Parrish out of the starting lineup and Scanlon found himself in it for the first time, playing third base -- and playing havoc with Atlanta's pitching.

He drove in four runs, three with his first major league homer, to lead the Expos' 11-1 rout of the Braves Monday night.

Scanlon's homer highlighted a five-run third inning against Atlanta's Carl Morton. And he sent a man home with a bases-loaded grounder in a two-run first inning.

Dodgers 4, Cardinals 4
Tom Paciorek's tie-breaking single in the 10th inning, followed by Rick Auerbach's two-run single, carried Los Angeles past the Cardinals. Steve Garvey and Ron Cey delivered singles off Mike Garman before Paciorek and Auerbach singled to left.

Unbeaten Andy Messersmith appeared headed for his sixth straight victory, despite being weakened by the flu and leaving the game after six innings. But Ken Reitz tied it in the ninth. Brewer got the victory.

The four-inning stint was Brewer's first appearance since May 3. "This is probably the longest I've pitched in three years," he said. "Although I haven't pitched in a while, that doesn't bother me. I'm the kind of guy who can lay off for two months and still have good control. Control is just confidence."

Mets 3, Giants 2
Joe Torre's three-run double in the seventh inning carried the Mets to their victory and saddled the Giants with their fourth straight loss.

New York loaded the bases with one out against Jim Barr on singles by Mike Phillips, Felix Millan and Del Unser. That brought Gary Lavelle in from the bullpen. He struck out Rusty Staub but Torre drilled his liner up the alley in right-center field.

Soccer King Downs Comeback Rumors
SANTOS, Brazil (AP) -- Retired soccer king Pele reiterated here Monday that he will not make a comeback.

Asked whether he knew that officials of the New York Cosmos of the American Soccer League were in Brazil to make him another multi-million offer, Pele said he was "but that won't change things." Pele turned down the Cosmos' first offer, reportedly $4.5 million.

"I've made up my mind," Pele said. "Nothing will make me change it now. I will not resume my career, and will only take part in benefit games."

Pele retired last fall after a remarkable 18-year pro career in which he scored 1,216 goals in 1,259 games.

Colts Win Over Fort Stockton
FORT STOCKTON -- The Midland Colts scored six runs in the first inning here Sunday and went on to capture an 18-4 semi-pro baseball victory over Fort Stockton.

Rector Prieto was credited with the win and David Klingman led the offensive fireworks with a homer, triple, double and two RBI. Mike Hurl and Manuel Rodriguez each got four hits.

The Colts, now 3-3 for the year, travel to Snyder Sunday for a doubleheader with the Snyder All-Stars. Game time is 3 p.m.

Chamber Honors Local Athletes

More than 300 athletes from Midland and Midland Lee were honored Monday night at the 4th annual Chamber of Commerce Sports Banquet at the American Legion Hall.

Everything from Midland's national polo team to district champions were honored with Connie Mack Hood the master of ceremonies during the evening.

Paul Rea, chairman of the Chamber's Sports and Recreation Committee welcomed guests during the evening before a jam-packed crowd.

Robbie Porter of Lee gave both the invocation and the benediction.

First to be recognized was Thurmon "Tugboat" Jones, Midland Athletic Director for all the work he has done since coming to the Tug City in making both the Bulldogs and Rebels power in all sports in District 5-4A.

Coach Jim Acree's Rebel football team was then recognized. Lee was the first Midland team to win the district championship since the formation of 5-4A. The Rebels won up with an 8-2-1 record with that tie being a 7-7 deadlock with Midland High.

All-district players from Lee's championship team included Keith Bishop, David Sledge, Junior Miller and Blain Murray.

Midland had seven players named to the all-district team in football. They included Mike Gaddy, Mitch Irvin, Steve Campbell, Tom Dunlap, Bruce Smith, Randall McCleskey and Sam Jordan.

Next came the Cardiac Kids, the 1974-75 Lee basketball team which racked up a 33-4 record and went all the way to the Class AAAA state semifinals in Austin before bowing to Houston Kashmere in triple overtime. Kashmere had a 76-game winning streak going and went on to down Fort Worth Paschal in the finals.

Junior Miller, the hoop's Most Valuable Player, along with Brett Blackwell, another all-district choice, were also honored.

Midland High's Donnie Roberts, an all-district pick was given a certificate for his play during the season.

Sara Moore, all-district and all-state volleyball player was honored along with the MHS girls volleyball team which racked up a 31-1 record. Tammy Holton and Anita Wilson were also all-district picks for the MHS girls.

Lee's Anne Higgins and Julie Naglee, all-district and all-state volleyball players from Lee were honored.

Liz Norton of Lee, medalist in girls golf in district, regional and state was given special recognition along with the MHS girls golf team which won the AAAA state championship. The team included Mary Owen, Pam Scherbaner, Kathy Johnson, Judy Blalock and Lise Howe.

In boys golf Lee's Chris Brown and Windell Fallin were honored for being all-district along with Kirk Branum of MHS who was an all-loop choice.

Brad Swendig, Mike Butler and Steve Degenfelder of Lee were honored in boys swimming for being named to the all-district team and the Rebel boys and won the 5-4A loop crown.

Russell Gunn and Danny Cert of MHS were also all-district picks in boys swimming along with Doyle Kimble and Randy McIntyre.

Midland swimmers earning recognition were Tina Paris, Debbie Freshour, Kathy Gilmour, Don Dunbar, Rex

Midland Lee and Wichita Falls Rider tangle in a Class AAAA bi-district baseball playoff game today at 4:30 p.m. in Cubs Stadium.

The Rebels and Raiders have become acquainted this year having already met each other in football and basketball in the state playoffs. The Raiders won in football, 35-0 and Lee took the basketball playoff with an 87-80 victory, so this is the rubber game to speak in the playoffs.

Today's game is the first in a best-of-three series with the two teams switching to Hoskins Field in Wichita Falls Friday at 3:30 p.m. in the second game of the series. If a third game is necessary, it will follow the first contest.

Rider brings a 18-7 season record into today's game compared to Lee's 16-12 record and Terry Ford (9-2) will pitch for the Red River crew.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram

SPORTS

1B-TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1975

On the mound for Lee will be Bobby Stevens, who is 7-4 on the season.

Coach Ernie Johnson will come up with a new lineup today with Javier Torres coming in from his left field position to handle the catching chores. Alan Neal will be on in left, Robert White in center and Will McMillan in right. Robbie Porter will be at first; Rusty Laughlin at second; Brett Blackwell at shortstop and Greg Howard at third base.

Rider's lineup will include Jeff Jackson at first base; Buzz Draper at second; David Neal at shortstop and Steve Fancher at third base. In the outfield will be David Molinaro in left; Ricky Teakell in center and Layne Leggett in right. Mark Ball will handle the catching duties with Ford on the mound.

The winner of the Lee-Rider series will meet the winner of the Duncanville-Lake Highlands playoff series which is today, Thursday and Friday if needed. Duncanville sports a 24-4 record while Lake Highlands stands 21-6 on the year.

In other bi-district action, El Paso Burges (18-4) takes on El Paso Bowie (19-4) Wednesday night in Dudley Field with the second game on Friday and if a third game is needed, it will be played Saturday morning.

Lubbock Monterey (24-6) meets Amarillo Caprock (18-4) today today in Amarillo with the second and third games set for Lubbock Thursday and Friday. The winner of the Monterey-Caprock series faces the Burges-Bowie winner next week in regional action.

Wichita knocked off favorite Wichita Falls High in the playoffs for its zone title. The Coyotes were favored because of two fine pitchers, but their defenses fell apart in the two games with Rider. Last year Wichita Falls High beat Odessa Permian two straight in bi-district play and then lost out to Carrollton-Turner in the regional playoffs.

Kaat Earns Top AL Player Honor

NEW YORK (AP) -- Jim Kaat of the Chicago White Sox, the winningest active pitcher in the American League, has been named the league's Player of the Week, AL President Lee MacPhail announced today.

Kaat broke the White Sox record for consecutive victories last Friday when he beat the Cleveland Indians 2-0. It was his 12th straight triumph, a streak that dates back to Sept. 4, 1974. The left-hander has pitched 113 innings over that stretch and allowed just 17 earned runs for a 1.35 earned run average.

Kaat's 12 straight victories broke the Chicago record held by both John Gigney, who did it in 1939, and Gary Peters, in 1963.

Kaat's 220 career wins is second only to Bob Gibson of St. Louis among active pitchers.

Outfielder Mickey Rivers of the California Angels was runner-up for Player of the Week honors. Givers batted .370 for the week with five extra-base hits and four stolen bases.

Cubs Outlast El Paso, 13-10

EL PASO—Midland's Cubs reeled off their third straight win by thumping error-ridden El Paso, 13-10, before 2,543 horrified fans in a Texas League game here Monday night.

Wayne Tyrone walked his 14th homer of the year, a three-run job in the first inning, to lay the victory while Bill Droegge collected a double and two singles to knock in two runs.

It was an embarrassing night for the Diablos before a big homecoming. They left the bases loaded three times and committed 10 errors.

Dennis Lamp, making his first start of the season, had to be bailed out of trouble by lefty Bernie Beckman in the third as El Paso erupted for four runs. A single, double and two walks got Lamp in trouble and then Gil Flores greeted Beckman with a single and walks forced in two more runs. Beckman settled down and lasted until the eighth when Bruce Sutter took over to pitch up the save.

In tonight's final game of the series, Mike Krukow, who has had four straight strong performances, will seek his third win in five decisions. Tom Whiteley, 1-3, will pitch for El Paso. Whiteley is 1-0 against Midland.

Second baseman Joel Green, who broke into the lineup on the road, continued to powder the ball with seven hits in his last four games, including a double and single Monday.

The Cubs return home Thursday at 7:45 p.m. to open a six-game series against Arkansas, the St. Louis Cardinal farmhands, in the first meeting against an East Division team.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP— Tigers Blank Royals

By The Associated Press
 DETERROIT (AP) — Dennis Leonard may have the book on Leon Roberts, but he apparently didn't read up on him Monday night.

Instead, Roberts may have forced a rewrite job.

The husky right fielder extended his hitting streak to 14 games—that's every game in which he's played this season—and unloaded a three-run homer off Leonard in the sixth inning to help the Detroit Tigers beat the Kansas City Royals 5-0.

Roberts' fellow rookie Vern Ruhle, with relief help in the eighth inning from John Miller, got the victory, although the Royals left 15 runners on, two short of the team record.

Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon couldn't quite figure out how Leonard offed the gopher ball.

"He did not pitch the way we talked about pitching him," McKeon said. "He's got the book on him. Roberts had a tough time against him in the minors."

"As a matter of fact, Leonard knows him so well I asked for his comments on him at the pre-game meeting."

Broncs, Aggies Eye Five-Game Series

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Baseball teams from Pan American University and Texas A&M will attempt to break a five-year jinx Friday when they open a five-game warm up series for the NCAA baseball playoffs.

The Pan American Broncs, 50-5, and the Aggies, 31-8, both received invitations Monday to participate in the playoffs leading to berths in the College World Series to be played next month in Omaha, Neb.

The two teams have scheduled one series against each other each year for the past five seasons, but they have yet to play each other during that period of time. Each game has been rained out.

The series will open with a doubleheader on Friday, a second twin bill is scheduled Saturday and the series is set to end with a single game Sunday.

Miami Trio Eyes New Frontier

MEMPHIS (AP) — Larry Conka, Jim Klick and Paul Warfield, those three ex-Miami Dolphins stars who were lured into the World Football League, think the league offers them a new frontier.

The trio showed up in Memphis Monday to help John Bassett Jr., prime owner of the Memphis Southmen, launch a ticket sales campaign for the club for which they'll be playing later this year.

"We pretty much did what we set out to do in Miami and now there's a whole new frontier of accomplishments in front of us," Conka told a news conference.

The running back, who teamed with running back Klick and wide receiver Warfield to win two world championships at Miami, also indicated he believes financial problems are now behind the NFL. He said he was impressed with the reorganization plan, which includes a pledge to pay off old debts, including salaries owed to players.

He decreed people now involved in the NFL as "for real."

"They're making amends for what happened last year," he said. "They're building a solid foundation compared with the paper mache foundation of last year."

Bassett signed the three to a $3.5 million contract and Conka said money rewards were his first consideration, although there were others.

"These are young teams in a young league starting out—every individual with every team has something to prove," he said. "I'm confident in saying the NFL will be able to challenge any NFL club in three or four years. Realistically, I feel it can challenge the NFL in half the time it took the AFL."

The three men said they each believed the NFL did better in its first year than the old American Football League.

Snyder Wins Crown

SNYDER—The Snyder Tigers won the District 3AAA baseball championship here Monday when they posted a 7-3 victory over the Brownfield Cubs.

The Tigers now advance to the bi-district playoffs against 4-AAA winner Iowa Park. Snyder finished the season with a 16-12 record and 7-5 in district play. Iowa Park is 9-9 for the year.

College Sports Face Real Money Crunch

By RAL BOCK
 AP Sports Writer

Could track Coach Jumbo Jim Elliot double as Villanova's baseball coach? Or how about swimming Coach Jim Counsellman lacing on a pair of track shoes at Indiana? Would South Carolina baseball Coach Bobby Richardson be able to handle swimming, too?

In a bleak economic time, those are some of the very real alternatives facing athletic departments which find themselves tightening their belts almost daily.

"We might go back to the times when productivity of each period in the department might have to increase," said William Beardsley, assistant athletic director of Michigan State. "A coach might have to teach more than one sport."

That doesn't mean Bear Bryant will be wearing an extra hat at Alabama or Gene Barlow has to worry about anything but basketball at UCLA. Their teams produce a profit for their schools. But the non-revenue sports are another matter.

Picture bleak. And for many large universities, the economic picture has become so bleak that major cuts must be made immediately.

At Michigan State, the athletic department will have a surplus of about $100,000 based on a $2.6 million budget. But to finish in the black, a 10 percent cut was made in travel, supplies and equipment budgets of all non-revenue sports. Football, basketball and hockey, which earn money, was not affected.

"Coaches understand that those revenue sports must be given enough to have their needs fulfilled, if not their wants," Beardsley said.

And the non-revenue sports? Elroy Hirsch, former pro football star and now athletic director at Wisconsin, thinks they hold a good chunk of the money solution.

"Obviously, we're going to have to cut the non-income sports," he said. "If they don't produce the revenue for you, we can't afford the grants-in-aid. I don't think further cut can be made except in this one area of grants in non-income sports. Now that's looking at it in a very cold, businesslike way, I'm going to get a lot of criticism for that."

Special Conventions
 Maybe not so much as he thought. The National Collegiate Athletic Association plans a special convention in Chicago in August to vote on cost-cutting legislation. Among the proposals is one that would cut scholarships in non-income sports from the current allowable limit of 209 to 86. Other measures would cut grants in football, basketball and hockey as well as limit coaching staffs, recruiting trips, traveling squads and other expenses.

Darrell Royal, football coach at The University of Texas, sees the cuts as a necessity that will signal a return to one-platoon football. "That's fine with me," he said. "Let the guys who carry the ball find out what it's like to play defense too. It won't hurt 'em."

And one platoon football would certainly help the athletic departments on the ledger sheets where winning and losing has become at least as important as it is on the field.

Many large schools have been fighting the economic crunch all by themselves without waiting for official NCAA action. Some have been winning.

Fund-Raising
 The University of Kansas has embarked on an ambitious fund-raising program headed by former All-American Gale Sayers and John Novotny, both assistant athletic directors assigned exclusively to the scholarship office.

KU's athletic director is Clyde Walker, who explained his approach to the money problem by saying, "I choose to find new sources of revenue for our program rather than cutting back. Our primary source... has been through our scholarship program. We have been very successful in this area this past year and therefore feel our financial situation is considerably brighter than what it would have been otherwise."

Michigan's athletic department still is turning the same $100,000 profit it had five years ago, managing to keep pace with increased costs that Athletic Director Don Canham estimates at $1.5 million.

The school has been adding fresh revenue from rental fees charged to groups at its new ice rink, tennis-track complex and golf course. There also is talk of going into entertainment promotions, booking concerts run by the athletic department into Crisler Arena.

Canham anticipates no change in Michigan's athletic emphasis. "But you have to realize the University of Michigan and schools of this size are in an unusual position because they don't have to rely on state funds for athletic support," he said.

Indiana Athletic Director John Pont thinks Michigan has the right idea. "We feel we have to do a better job of marketing and make more use of our facilities," said Pont.

Breaking Even
 Like Indiana, there have been no cuts at The University of Texas' main branch at Austin where better marketing is one of the fund-raising ideas being considered by J. Neils Thompson, chairman of the school's athletic council and president of the Southwest Conference.

And like Indiana, the Texas budget is at a break-even point. "Five years ago we would have made between $100,000 and $200,000," said Thompson. "The staff is always looking for new areas of income. For the first time (we are) looking to marketing efforts... ideas such as how to sell more tickets and how to sell more items to the public at sporting events. In this area, we have to take a few more leaves out of the pro's books, but we are not looking to the pros for anything but marketing ideas."

The budget is balanced for the first time in a decade at Wichita State, a school whose athletic department last $200,000 last year.

"One of the main reasons we've been able to do this is our booster club program," said Ted Bredehoff, the school's athletic director. "We've gone from three booster clubs to 14 in the past two years. Revenue from the clubs was $85,000 in 1973, and this year it was $231,000. It's really been our salvation."

The salvation for the others depends a great deal on the NCAA and what measures it takes at the special economics convention in August.

Astro Fined By Richardson

Baseball

Houston Astros General Manager Spec Richardson said Monday that pitcher Dave Roberts, who left the team after being removed from a game in Montreal, has been suspended and fined. "He's been suspended and fined without pay and it will remain that way until he returns to the team," Richardson said.

Dick Allen won't be around tonight to help the slumping Philadelphia Phillies, but manager Danny Ozark says, "Wednesday is a strong possibility," for the slugger's debut with his new team. Allen was traded to the Atlanta Braves last year but returned to play for them. He came to the Phillies, where he played seven years in the 1960s, in a player and coach swap.

Tennis

Jim Plunkett and Randy Yataha, an exciting passing combination for Stanford University and the New England Patriots of the NFL, have shown they can also play a mean game of tennis. The duo joined forces Sunday and came from behind to win the second pro football doubles tennis championship in Los Angeles. They defeated Stu Voight of the Vikings and Ron Johnson of the New York Giants after winning five consecutive games to take the match, 4-4.

Football

Running back Allen Carter, a fourth-round draft choice from USC, has signed a multiyear contract with the New England Patriots of the NFL.

Racing

John Gallbreath's Prince Thou Art will run in the 196th Preakness Stakes Saturday at Pimlico. The Prince finished sixth in the Kentucky Derby after starting out as the second betting choice behind winner Foolish Pleasure.

Bob Harky has gotten qualifications for the Indianapolis 500 of the way, so the movie stuntman's next project is trying to figure out how to fly an airplane through a house for an upcoming movie.

Boxing

A Filipino boxing promoter is in the midst of negotiations for a possible title fight in the Philippines with world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali. The promoter had offered $1.5 million to Ali to make his title defense in Manila, but may now offer a great deal more since Ali partners snubbed their noses at the first offer.

Golf

Sandra Palmer is the No. 1 money winner in women's professional golf with $44,281. Midland's Judy Rankin is listed as No. 6 with $18,888.

PLAYING HOT PUTTER—Tom Watson swings his putter after missing a birdie putt on No. 7, but was the leader going into the back nine and held on for a two-stroke victory in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas Monday. (AP Wirephoto.)

Watson Wins Nelson Title

DALLAS (AP) — Golf immortal Byron Nelson helped young Tom Watson in the 26-year-old Stanford graduate's darkest hour after blowing the U.S. Open last year and Watson used the advice to capture Nelson's own tournament Monday.

"I was crying in my beer after shooting a 79 in the final round," Watson said. "I was leading by a shot going into the final day and just blew it. My game just came apart."

Watson said the only sympathy he got was from his wife, Linda, and Nelson.

"He took me aside and said, 'I like your golf swing but the tempo can be improved and you don't use your legs as well as you should,'" said Watson of Nelson's pep talk.

"I appreciated it very much because he was right and he also moved my hands ahead on my irons so I have better control with them," said Watson,

Captains Add To TL Margin

By The Associated Press
Shreveport padded its West Division lead and Lafayette edged farther ahead of East Division rivals with a single victory in Texas League games Monday night.

The Shreveport Captains swept a twin bill with the second-place San Antonio Brewers 2-0 and 4-1 and pulled four games ahead, thanks to four-hit pitching by Tom Jones with relief help from Randy Hopkins on the last out in the opener and a three-hit job by Mike Kavanagh in the nightcap.

Lafayette bested Alexandria 4-1. Midland outlasted El Paso 13-10 and Arkansas best Jackson 11-7 in the other games.

The Lafayette Drillers rapped 11 hits and played errorless baseball in downing the Alexandria Aces, for whom Mark Rhea belted a bases-empty home run in the seventh. Mike Allen, now 2-2, was the mound winner, yielding four hits, and Frank Ricelli, 4-2, was the loser. Lafayette stayed six games ahead of runner-up Arkansas.

A three-run homer by Kinsey Davis, acquired from the Kansas City Royals just before the season started, helped the Arkansas Travelers overcome the Jackson Mets at Little Rock. Davis socked his fourbagger in the fifth inning and drove in a total of four runs.

Howe Leads Aeros To Crown, 7-2

QUEBEC (AP) — Gordie Howe, the legendary 47-year-old right winger with the Houston Aeros, says there was friendly persuasion from certain quarters for him to retire after the club won the World Hockey Association title last year.

In addition, he added an assist on one of the two goals scored by Frank Hughes, performed as part of the Houston power play unit and helped out in the role of penalty killer.

Howe was the dominant figure Monday night—as he has been in many games over more than a quarter of a century—as the Aeros trimmed the Quebec Nordiques 7-2. The victory enabled Houston to win its best-of-seven final series 4-0 and skate off with the championship for the second straight year.

With his two sons—left winger Mark and defenseman Marty—now firmly established with the Aeros, Howe figures Monday night's victory should be his swan song as a player.

To keep the Howe name on the scoresheet, son Mark also contributed a goal and gained an assist on the first goal scored by Hughes.

Defensesman Marty, who missed the first three games of the series because of tonsillitis, was used sparingly.

In addition to the three goals scored by the Howe family and the two by Hughes, Gordon Labossiere and Larry Lund added solo goals. Rejean Houle scored a pair of power play goals for the Nordiques.

Following a vote by writers covering the series, Gordie Howe Trophy, awarded to the outstanding player in the playoffs, had been won by Houston's rookie netminder Ron Grahame.

Grahame had a spectacular playoff as he won 10 straight games and recorded a record three shutouts.

Cubs Trade For Winner?

CHICAGO (AP) — It's too early to tell if the Chicago Cubs are for real and will become bona fide pennant contenders, but if so, it will put a dent in the theory that you can't trade for a winner.

Aside from some pitchers and shortstop Don Kessinger, their current regular lineup and a lot of the reserves were acquired through trades in which established stars were swapped for promising youngsters.

The man responsible is Vice President John Holland, who operates with the blessings of owner P. K. Wrigley.

Holland traded such players as Ken Holtzman, Ferguson Jenkins, Ron Santo, Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams, Randy Hundley and Joe Peppers to get players like Jerry Morales, Bill Madlock, Manny Trillo, Andy Thornton, Steve Swisher and Rick Monday.

Monday, who came from Oakland in the Holtzman deal, was the only "name" player acquired, but even he was being platooned by the A's and his future was uncertain.

"Sure we did a lot of gambling," said Holland. "But we also made a lot of calculated moves. We decided that after failing to win in 1969 and coming close only to miss again in 1971, we had to break up the club and rebuild with youth. But gambling is no problem when you have the approval of Mr. Wrigley."

"Remember that for a few years there we had finished high in the standings and had virtually no chance to get any top players," said Holland. "As a result, we had no 'cream' players in our system. The teams that were getting the top youngsters were Texas and San Diego. So we concentrated on them."

The Cubs got Morales for Beckert from San Diego, and in another major trade, they gave Jenkins to Texas for Madlock. "We didn't trade on merely chance," said Holland. "We had everyone we traded for thoroughly scouted. I remember when we dealt with Texas, our scouts didn't budge on their contention that Madlock was the best, young, right-handed hitter in baseball."

"We had seen Morales and he was being platooned, but our people told us he can hit anybody and had all the other tools—speed, defense and a great throwing arm."

While the Cubs went to the teams who had had top draft choices in the first two years of their changeover, they went to the world champion Oakland A's when they swapped Billy Williams, one of the best hitters in the game.

"We needed a second baseman and bullpen help," said Holland. "And Oakland had what we wanted. They also wanted Williams as a designated hitter. All our reports on Trillo were super and we knew what Bob Locker and Darold Knowles were capable of doing as relief pitchers."

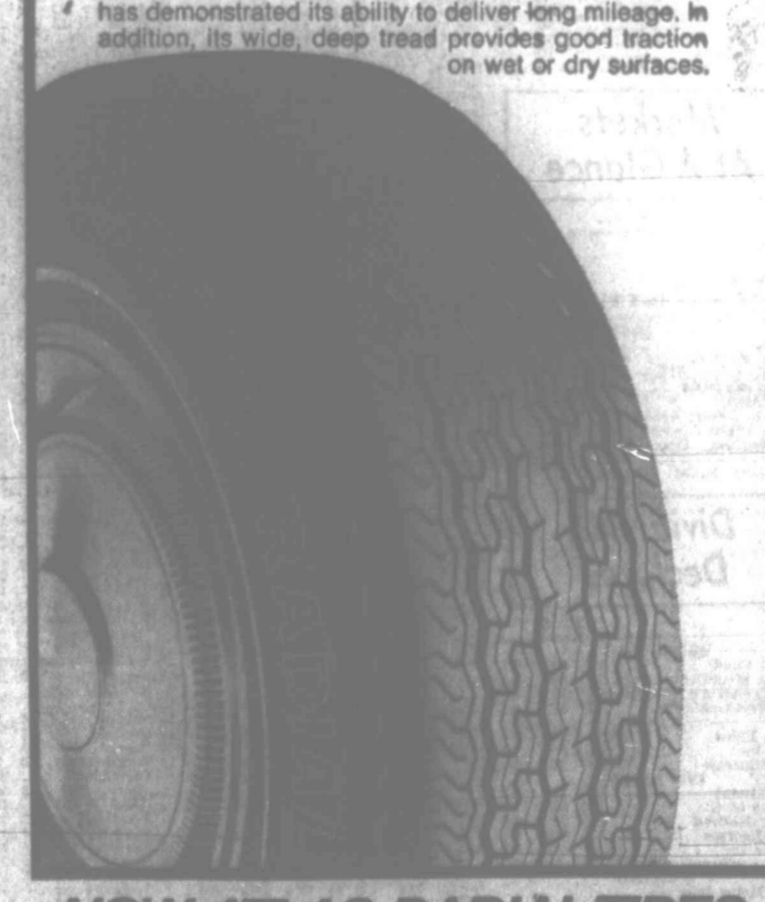

The Cubs played poorly in spring training, winning only six of 22 games. But when the season started, they quickly caught fire and now have the best record in baseball, 18-0, and a surprising four-game lead in the National League East.

Large Field Enters Women's Tourney

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A field of 160 players was to tee off today in qualifying for the 44th annual Women's Southwestern Golf Championship.

Among the field is Dorra Canning of Phoenix, who has won the title the past two years.

The 16 low scorers over the Skyline Country Club course will make up the championship flight, with match play leading to Saturday's title duel.

Other entrants include Nancy Aaronson of El Paso, Tex., last year's runner-up; three-time champion Letta Turner of Mesa; 1969 winner Dee Myers of Phoenix; 1968 winner Mary Hoover of El Paso and Ruth Prather of Mesa, a multiple winner in the 1960's.

Market Prices Unchanged In Show Of Steadiness

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was virtually unchanged today in a continued show of steadiness despite the Cambodian seizure of a U.S. cargo ship.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a token 47 at 1,019.54 and gains and losses were running virtually even in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it appeared investing institutions were continuing buying programs on expectations of an economic recovery in the hope that the situation surrounding the U.S. vessel would be resolved without severe international effects.

Pan American World Airways, the most active stock on the Big Board, rose a point to 5 1/4. The Wall Street Journal reported that the Shah of Iran was expected to sign an agreement with the U.S. to purchase Pan Am World Airways to provide $500 million to revive the ailing finances of the airline. The Wall Street Journal reported today.

Tentative agreement on the financial arrangement was made public earlier this year. At that time it was announced Iran would acquire some 13 percent of Pan Am's stock but would have "no interest in controlling the management or operations" of the airline.

If the agreement is signed by the Shah, now visiting the United States, it must still be submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Board for approval.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up 1/8 at 48.20.

Anglo Co. Ltd., the Amex volume leader, was unchanged at 2 3/4.

Over The Counter

Over the counter market was largely flat today. The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks was up 1/8 at 48.20. Anglo Co. Ltd., the Amex volume leader, was unchanged at 2 3/4.
