

TMA President Says Work Curtailment Could Involve All Doctors

By The Associated Press
 The full impact of a work stoppage by anesthesiologists in three Texas cities was expected to be felt today while doctors in other areas contemplated joining the protest against high malpractice insurance rates.

Some doctors in San Antonio, Austin and Fort Worth officially started a work slowdown at midnight Saturday but its effect could not be determined since the doctors promised to handle emergencies and only emergency cases are handled on Sundays.

Those doctors taking part include anesthesiologists in San Antonio and Fort Worth, and about 100 Austin doctors, or one-third of the city's physicians. Those involved in the Austin slowdown include general surgeons, neurosurgeons, orthopedic surgeons and anesthesiologists.

The president-elect of the Texas Medical Association (TMA), which previously has been noncommittal on the work stoppage, said the organization could meet this week to discuss a possible statewide strike.

Dr. L. S. Thompson Jr. of Dallas said that any widespread work stoppage in Texas probably would go beyond a curtailment by anesthesiologists and include all doctors.

"If we are forced to curtail our work, we will be organized. We won't call a stoppage for two weeks and then go back to work. It will be a unanimous decision and we will mean it," he said.

Meanwhile, 20 anesthesiologists in El Paso voted unanimously Sunday to strike Thursday and Friday except for emergency surgery. Dr. Tom Dent, a spokesman for the El Paso doctors, said the high cost, and in some cases, the unavailability of malpractice insurance rates prompted the stoppage for elective surgery. They said the group includes doctors in Midland, Odessa, McCombs, Fort Stockton, Andrews, Monahan and Kermit.

"If I had an adequate way of making a living outside of medicine I would quit right now," Muxworthy said. Anesthesiologists in Beaumont said they will wait until Friday to decide.

Dallas anesthesiologists are to meet early this week to consider work stoppages. Several of them are waiting the outcome of a TMA meeting Tuesday.

Houston physicians do not have the problems of other doctors in the state because the Harris County Medical Society earlier this year worked out a group plan with an insurance company on an experimental basis.

Most spokesmen for the striking doctors said they hoped the protest would lead to a special legislative session in which malpractice rate reform would be considered.

The latest call for a strike came when the Texas Legislature failed to pass a bill pushed by the TMA.

The legislature did pass and send to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for signature two medical malpractice bills. One requires all insurance companies which write liability insurance to join in a pool to write malpractice coverage for doctors in high risk specialties. The other calls for approval of rates on both the high-risk and conventional coverage by the State Insurance Board.

However, House members killed a Senate-passed measure favored by doctors which would have imposed a $500,000 maximum limit on recovery in malpractice suits, except for unlimited amounts in cases of gross negligence and long time care.

It also would have allowed a special panel of doctors to screen malpractice allegations before cases were filed in court.

House Speaker Bill Clayton said Sunday that the third measure will not be resurrected.

"It's all over," he told newsmen. "We had a bill drafted but we decided not to go with it. We have gone as far as any other state with the bills that we passed. We will just have to see what happens during the next two years."

Rep. Ben Bynum, D-Amarillo, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, said, "Considering the fact that this matter was not brought to the attention of the legislature until February, the doctors did well to pass two major bills in a complex area."

Dr. Raymond Kunkel, director of anesthesiology at All Saints Hospital in Fort Worth, said the two bills passed by the legislature are "helpful but do not solve our basic problems."

Discontent Spreads To East Coast

By The Associated Press
 Active discontent over rising malpractice rates, temporarily in abatement on the West Coast, has spread eastward.

As California Medical Association leaders were deciding Sunday that striking doctors should return to work for the time being, doctors in New York began a slowdown to protest the state's new malpractice law. Malpractice slowdowns also continued in parts of Pennsylvania and Texas. And in Rhode Island, four medical societies voted their support for a strike scheduled to begin June 9.

Initial reports from the New York metropolitan area indicated the first effects of the walkout were minimal since doctors' offices are normally closed on Sunday.

The doctors are refusing to perform elective surgery or accept new patients until the problem is settled. Many are protesting a new state law creating an underwriting organization and permitting the State Medical Society to create its own insurance company.

The California Medical Association said it would ask doctors to return to work today. But the CMA leaders warned that the month-long work stoppage by physicians may be repeated in September if the state legislature fails to solve the malpractice insurance problem by then.

Doctors in the San Francisco Bay area — many of them anesthesiologists — began a month ago to refuse elective surgery cases until ways were found to cut malpractice insurance costs. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who signed malpractice legislation last week has promised to begin an overhaul of the entire system.

A nothing — but — emergency provision was promulgated by doctors who began a slowdown at three hospitals in Bucks County, Pa. They said they would also perform scheduled operations.

Rhode Island doctors who voted to strike would also adhere to the emergencies-only provision.

The legislature has adjourned for the year and Gov. Philip W. Noel has shown no signs of calling it into special session. He says the issue is too complex for quick legislative action.

Injunction Issued In Bonding Case

LAMESA—U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward has issued a permanent injunction against Dawson County Sheriff Guy Kinnison prohibiting him from refusing bonds from Lamesa bondsmen Milton Lozano and Milton Lozano Jr. because of their ethnic origins.

Woodward signed the order after the two bondsmen filed suit against Kinnison and deputies Base Lambert and Jim Nance. Lambert was dropped as a defendant in an earlier trial.

The injunction prohibits Kinnison from denying bonds on the basis of the Lozano's ethnic backgrounds, but says Kinnison may refuse the bonds if the father and son are acting jointly in illegal actions. Kinnison is not enjoined from refusing recognizance bonds.

Woodward denied damages to the Lozanoes had sought for lost business.

Labor Force Jumps More Than 5,000

The civilian labor force in the Midland-Odessa area has jumped more than 5,000 between April 1974 and April 1975, according to estimates by the Texas Employment Commission.

The total labor force figure for April of this year reached 82,200—470 below the March figure but 5,320 above the tally for April 1974.

Of the total work force, 2,850 were unemployed in April 1975, compared to 3,100 in March and 2,900 in April 1974. This year's April figures show the unemployment rate at 3.5 percent, slightly below the March tally of 3.7 but higher than the 2.7 percent for a year ago.

The employment commission's report, to be published in the upcoming edition of Manpower Trends, also indicated that "many skilled jobs remained open and difficult to fill" during April although most job offers

Reagan, Connally Say They Have No Quarrel With Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan says it's the Democrat-controlled Congress he's quarreling with, not President Ford.

Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally says he doesn't mean to criticize Ford either. "I think he has done a good job but, at the same time, 'I don't think anyone ought to have a free ride to any nomination,'" Connally said.

Both Reagan, a Democrat early in his political career and Connally, a Democrat until he turned Republican two years ago as President Richard M. Nixon's Treasury secretary, said Sunday they are not trying to organize a separate conservative national party.

Reagan was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation" and Connally appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Reagan repeatedly said he has not decided whether to challenge Ford for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

Connally said of Ford, "I think he has yet to prove himself. I don't think he could be viewed as an automatic winner in the convention, nor certainly could you characterize him as a loser in the convention."

"Frankly, if he doesn't show the boldness, if he doesn't show

HINTS FROM Heloise

Heloise Reveals Her Secret Of Barbecuing!

Dear Folks:

Now that it is summer and we are all barbecuing chicken... Many of you have asked how I do it. I don't know why but some of you are saying that yours is tough. One fellow says that when he eats at his friend's that it's burned crisp on the outside and raw on the inside.

I never barbecue chicken without steaming it for at least 20 or 30 minutes (depending on the size of the pieces) in my oven first.

Here's how I do it: Take your cut-up chicken parts and put it in any cake pan or loaf pan or even a cast-iron skillet will do...

Do NOT stack them on top of one another. Each piece should be separate and "alone." Add about a half cup of water. Cover tightly with foil. Stick the pan in your pre-heated oven on the middle shelf and bake a bit.

Remove from oven. Take the foil off chicken and OUT of the pan. Let it cool.

And that's all there is to it folks.

Also for those who don't have grills (apartment dwellers, etc.), did you know that you could use this barbecuing method by refoving the foil and putting the chicken on the top shelf in your oven and adding the sauce? You could do a darn good job of it right there.

When I use this method I use either powdered or liquid smoke that comes in a bottle at nearly any grocery store.

Sometimes when I am making hamburgers, I pour some of this in my ground meat as I am mixing it and fry in a skillet and it really gives it that "charcoal" taste.

Not too expensive, either! P. S. I also always steam ribs the same way before barbecuing!

Love, Heloise

As I read your column yesterday, I couldn't help but chuckle as I thought of all the "unwritten laws" we have been following all these years.

The following are just a very few we have clung to for over 20 years. The older the children get, the more determined they are to keep them unbroken.

1. Never, under any circumstances, hang a towel on one of the three towel racks in the bathroom. They are hung on the floor or on the side of the bathtub if they are lucky enough to land there when tossed!

2. Never turn a light out when leaving a room because you are going right back in just a minute; which lasts anywhere

'Village' Image Maintained
CARMEL, Calif. (AP) — The visitor usually looks on Carmel as an artists' colony with quaint shops and homes. But not the resident. He clings to the "village" character of his home. In fact, the official name of the village is "Carmel by the Sea."

Most residents and business establishments don't have addresses. The result is that most old timers go to the post office every day for their mail.

Delivery men have become accustomed to addresses such as: "Carmelo and 11th, third house on left."

In 1952 the state advised the city fathers they would have to have proper street signs or the gas tax refund would be withheld. Carmel threatened to secede from the union. The state backed off.

Carmel has always been proud of its trees. Trees with streets running around them are common.

Carmel once passed an ordinance making it illegal to sit on the grass. After a fight of three years and a U.S. Supreme Court decision, the law was rescinded. So they passed a new ordinance which rules you can sit on the grass "in a manner which does not harm grass or plants."

Ex-Students Award Two Scholarships To Midland Girls

The Permian Basin Association of Ex-Students of The University of Texas-Austin has awarded scholarships to Tanya Zoller and Cindy Webb.

Miss Webb is the daughter of Mrs. Lou Melton, 601 George St., Apartment 100. She is a graduate of Lee High School and plans to major in prelaw and business at The University of Texas-Austin. She had a 4.1 grade point average and ranked 19th in her graduating class of 640.

Miss Webb was a member of the 100 Club, Rebelettes, National Honor Society, annual staff, Junior Classical League and Junior Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Zoller of 2314 Cuthbert St. are the parents of Miss Zoller, Midland High School graduate, who had a grade point average of 4.5 and ranked first in her class of 540.

Miss Zoller was a member of the National Honor Society, received academic awards and was a member of the Spanish Honor Society. She will major in accounting at UT-Austin.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Let Mom Off The Hook

DEAR ABBY: Each year my husband and our teen-age sons spend a week up north fishing. They love it. I hate it. I wish my husband and the boys would go without me, but when I mention it, my husband says, "No, we'll just skip it this year because Mom doesn't want to go." The boys are disappointed and Mom is the heavy.

Abby, before we had children, I went fishing with my husband so he would have companionship, and I plan to do it again when the children are gone. When the boys were small, I went without complaint because I felt I was needed; small boys could at times be more problems than pleasure for a man on a week's fishing trip.

But the boys are not children now, and they couldn't care less whether I went along or not. The fishing week is the high spot of their year. And it's my absolute lowest.

Am I wrong to want to stay home? It would be a great vacation for me not having to cook, wash or iron. Help me, Abby. They believe in you.

ALL FISHED OUT

DEAR FISHED: Implore Dad to let you off the hook this time. You've earned your stay-at-home vacation. (P.S. To the men in your house: "DON'T NAG—GO STAG!")

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from a woman who couldn't bring herself to spend the inheritance money her mother had left her. The reason: When she (the daughter) was struggling with a young family

The Monticello choo-choo. A little train that's helping fight the rising cost of electricity.

You're looking at what may be the shortest railroad in Texas. The Monticello choo-choo runs only 12 miles from start to finish, but it's doing a big job hauling lignite coal to Texas Electric's Monticello power plant near Mount Pleasant. The diesel-electric locomotive pulls seven to 15 cars. And each car is loaded with 100 tons of lignite per trip. After unloading at the plant, the train is "backed" the 12 miles to the mining area. This saves the expense of a turn-around facility. On the trip back the engineer drives the train using controls in a special caboose. Monticello is our second lignite-fired generating plant. We're building these plants because new supplies of natural gas and oil — the primary fuels we use to generate electricity — are harder to get and more costly. Lignite plants cost much more to build, which means electricity is going to have to cost you more. But the increase won't be as much, because lignite fuel is available and more economical than new supplies of natural gas and oil. At Texas Electric we're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need. About 20% of your electricity this year will be produced using lignite coal. And the Monticello choo-choo is a mighty fine line that's helping do the job.

Food Prices Down, But...

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The first five months of 1975 brought lower prices for supermarket shoppers, but a new round of increases may be just around the corner, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

Sugar and eggs continued to decline during May, following the pattern set in the early part of this year. But the savings for consumers were partially offset by increases in the price of beef and pork, and the Agriculture Department says egg prices will rise in coming months due to a decrease in the supply.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price on March 1, 1975, and has rechecked each succeeding month.

The latest check showed the bill in every city was lower than it was at the start of the year when prices were at or near record highs. On the average, the decline was 8.3 per cent.

During May, the marketbasket total declined in 10 cities, down an average 1.9 per cent, and increased in three, up an average 2.7 per cent. In April, however, the marketbasket total declined in every

Also, on the gloomy side: prices at the end of May were 8.9 per cent higher than they were a year earlier, and there were fewer individual price declines during May than there were during April.

The increases had been expected and reflected generally higher prices paid at the wholesale level.

Cattlemen, discouraged by low prices for beef in the first part of 1975, have been keeping their animals in pastures, waiting for prices to go up again. A drop in supply means an increase in prices.

The price of a pound of chopped chuck increased during May in 8 of the cities checked, with increases ranging from 5 per cent in Albuquerque, N.M., where the price went from $1.18 to $1.34 a pound, to 82 per cent in Dallas, where the price went from 96 cents to $1.59 a pound.

Pork chops also went up in price in eight cities, and the Agriculture Department has said pork prices probably will continue to rise as supplies decrease and demand for something other than beef increases.

Prices of eggs — one substitute for meat as a source of protein — continued to drop, down in 11 cities during May. But the USDA has said, "Reduced egg supplies, combined with higher prices for most high-protein foods, are expected to boost egg prices well above a year earlier in coming months."

Sugar prices also continued their decline and were at their lowest level since the middle of last summer. May decreases in the price of a five-pound sack of sugar ranged from 11 per cent in Albuquerque to 37 per cent in Boston. In several cities, sugar was selling for $1.39 for a five-pound sack and the highest price in the survey was $1.79 at the New York City check store.

Sugar prices at the stores checked in the AP survey had hit a high of $3.07 for five pounds, generally around last December. The low during the survey period was an average 73 cents for five pounds in the early part of 1973.

Predictions as to what will happen during the rest of 1975 vary, with most government and industry experts saying food prices depend on whether harvests are as large as expected. The Agriculture Department has said the rate of increase should decline and adds that if farmers get bumper crops, the 1975 food price boost should be about 6 or 3 per cent, compared to 14.5 per cent in each of the past two years.

The items on The AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

PARIS — The Soviet supersonic airliner, the Tupolev-144, will go into service on Soviet domestic routes early next year — virtually at the same time its Franco-British rival, Concorde, begins operations, Soviet sources at the Paris Air Show said Sunday.

After 18 months to two years, the Soviet airline Aeroflot will fly the Tupolev on international routes.

Waldheim Warns U.S. Not To Go Into Isolation

CLINTON, N.Y. (AP) — Americans should not allow disappointment in the United Nations to drive them into isolation, says U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Waldheim told graduates of Hamilton College on Sunday that American disillusionment with the United Nations is based on excessive expectations of the world organization and on "a desire to draw away from the harsh realities of our changing world."

"The fact is that no nation, however large and powerful, can exist in isolation economically, politically or even militarily — interdependence is a dominant reality now," said Waldheim.

Ford's 'Football' Knee Acts Up

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — White House aides blame a chronic "football knee" for the hard fall and other missteps that President Ford suffered in Salzburg on Sunday.

Lt. Col. Robert Blake, Ford's Air Force aide, disclosed that the 61-year-old President wears a knee supporter when he plays golf because of an injury when he played center for the University of Michigan during the 1930s.

Ford's fall, which appeared to have been caused by rain-slicked steps, occurred as he was coming down the ramp from his plane at the Salzburg airport. Still several steps from the bottom, he slipped and his right heel caught on the final step. He sprawled forward on his hands and one knee. The heel was torn off.

Shaken and chagrined, the President landed practically at the feet of Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky. Ford rose quickly to shake Kreisky's hand and to assure the chancellor he was uninjured.

"Sorry I tumbled in," he told the small crowd that turned out in the rain to greet him.

Taking a similar light tone, Mrs. Ford told newsmen: "It was a nonskid heel, it said on the bottom."

Rear Adm. William R. Lukash, the President's doctor, explained that Ford's knee gets stiff if he sits in one position for an extended period of time. Lukash said Ford assured him he was not hurt by his fall, but he did not examine him.

The President slipped again Sunday as he was entering and leaving the 16th Century palace where he met with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat on the Middle East crisis.

Blake said Ford made a misstep as he was going up the steps to meet with Sadat.

"I think his leg is a little tired after being on his feet all day," the aide said.

After their first conference, Ford stumbled near the top of a flight of thickly carpeted stairs. Sadat reached out to steady him and took his arm for the remaining 20 steps of the staircase.

Robert Mead, Ford's television adviser, was present and contended that eyewitness accounts of the stumble were "absolutely false." Later presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said: "It was a slight misstep. That's all there was to it."

House Republicans Break With Tradition In Drafting Own Legislative Program

By RICHARD L. LYONS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — House Republicans are drafting their own legislative program, hoping to avoid being overwhelmed by Democrats at the polls as they have been for the last 22 years.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., envisions the program as a platform for House Republicans to run on and win in 1976.

Rhodes called it a unique undertaking. Never before, he said, has the congressional branch of a party that holds the White House tried to write its own program. Traditionally the president writes the program and his congressional followers try to pass it.

Rhodes insisted that the project is no conservative effort to defect from President Ford. Rather, he called it an attempt to create an image for House Republicans that will cause voters to elect a Republican House for the first time since Dwight D. Eisenhower pulled Republicans to control in 1952.

Rhodes and others have been working on their program since January and will unveil it next month.

Republican platform chairman in 1972, Rhodes devised this plan for a House Republican platform after he had spent a miserable political year in 1974 speaking in more than 75 Republican districts, only to see the House GOP shrink to a one-third minority.

Rhodes said he has told the president what he is doing and why, pointing out "very carefully that this was not to be a substitute for the administration's program. This is something that goes beyond what the administration and the Congress are doing. He knows why I'm doing it, to create a congressional image for Republicans, and he thinks that this is not a bad idea."

The logic for a small House minority trying to write a program, Rhodes said in an interview, "begin with the knowledge that one reason we have a tiny group in the House is because we have never had a program of our own. I am a believer in a congressional party... it doesn't mean that the congressional party wouldn't agree in the main with what the President does. But I think that Congress has got to get a personality of its own."

The experience of the last 20 years is that "Republicans just don't get elected on coattails anymore," Rhodes said. Eisenhower couldn't return a Republican Congress in 1956. House Republicans shared Barry M. Goldwater's disaster in 1964 and Richard M. Nixon did not get elected in his three presidential races.

"When our presidential candidate gets clobbered, we go down," said Rhodes, "and when our presidential candidate wins, we don't go up."

Rhodes insisted that his program does not put congressional Republicans in conflict with the President, saying that the document can deal with long-range goals and specific items the President has not dealt with.

"I hope there will be nothing or very little in this (document) that has reference to anything that has already been done," Rhodes said. "I want it to be a pretty good blueprint of what we would try to do in the next five, six or seven years if we had the majority."

Rhodes created a task force of House Republicans to work on the project; solicited views from House Republicans committee staffers and others and hired Dick Shoup, a defeated Montana congressman, to pull it together.

Once the document has been drafted, Rhodes said he will submit it to the conference of all House Republicans, where it can be chewed over and amended at a one- or two-day meeting and then emerge as "issues we expect to develop in the 1976 campaign and matters that we hope to enact if we get a majority."

He said he plans to send the document to editorial writers and others to give it the widest possible public notice. "I hope it will be controversial. I don't want people to say, 'My God, that's a great piece of work, necessarily. I want them to start talking about it.'"

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?
"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
by Bryan Beut

A cartoon recently caught my attention. In it two women are seated on a couch drinking coffee and visiting. One says to the other, "Of course, I don't believe in this astrology nonsense. We Virgos aren't easily taken in."

This humorously points out the rising belief in America that forces outside of a person control his life to some extent. While this generally involves only the seemingly innocent practice of reading a horoscope, it has a terrifying side when people come to believe that their fate is set no matter what they personally want to do.

Jesus Christ offers the answer to this fatalistic point of view. He offers freedom and safety from any evil powers in the universe, whether real or imaginary. When he died on the cross and was raised from the dead, he won a victory over every conceivable power (Colossians 2:15). Christians don't have to worry about the stars or walking under ladders or evil spells; they share in Christ's victory. Indeed, "we know that in everything God works for good with those who love him, who are called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28).

Fort Worth Teen-Ager Dies In Cave Accident

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An injured teen-ager who watched his companion choke to death after they became trapped in a cave north of San Antonio remained hospitalized today.

Paul Haggerty, 16, of San Antonio was carried to safety Sunday by an emergency medical team that found the youths 24 hours earlier.

Haggerty's companion, David Brown, 16, of Fort Worth, died in the cave when a rope apparently tangled around his neck, investigators said.

Rescuers using flashlights administered treatment to Haggerty in the cave after receiving radioed instructions from a physician.

Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Haggerty, was taken to Bexar County Hospital and later transferred to Northeast Baptist Hospital.

A Bexar County Hospital spokesman said the youth had a broken jaw, fractured leg and arm and possible internal injuries.

The drama began about noon Saturday when the owner of the land where the cave is located noticed motorcycles, a radio, a camera and a radio near the cave entrance.

Owner H. W. Mayor said a steel plate that had covered the 24-inch opening had been pried away.

Mayor said he shouted into the cave but drew no answer. He notified authorities later in the day when he saw the motorcycles and other items were still on the surface.

A fire department rescue party inched down a narrow passageway that dropped 10 to 20 feet before resuming a horizontal path.

"There was hardly room for a 150-pound man to squeeze down," said rescuer Reyes Lopez.

The searchers said Haggerty was found with his head out of a pool of water where he had fallen after trying to help Brown.

Lopez said the boys had started out of the cave when Brown apparently slipped, entangling a rope around his arm. As he tried to unsnarl the rope, he slipped again and the rope wrapped around his neck.

Authorities said the metal plate had been placed over the entrance last year after rescuers saved several persons who had entered the cave 10 miles north of San Antonio.

B52s Leaving Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — B-52 fighter bombers in Thailand are scheduled to start departing June 15 in line with a withdrawal program that is to eliminate the U.S. military presence by next March, the authorities said.

At least 4,500 of the 23,000 U.S. servicemen stationed in Thailand are due to depart by the end of June.

The announcement of new withdrawals from Thailand followed a U.S. Embassy statement in neighboring Laos that its staff will be further reduced and a Marine embassy guard accused of assaulting a Lao student will be sent out of the country.

The latest U.S. withdrawal from Thailand comes at a time when the Thai government is trying to establish diplomatic relations with North and South Vietnam, and the presence of the U.S. forces is more an embarrassment than a shield.

Removal of the B52s and F111s to destinations not yet announced will bring the U.S. military air fleet in Thailand down to about 300 planes — half of them transport and utility craft.

Seventeen of the big bombers, half as long as a football field, are still stationed at the U.S.-run Thai bases although their last combat mission was flown almost two years ago when Congress ordered a bombing halt.

The last 31 F111 swing-wing

The two countries also announced jointly that Ubon Air Base in northeast Thailand, one of seven bases from which U.S. air units operated during the height of Vietnam air action, would close as soon as possible. That leaves only four Thai air bases occupied by U.S. squadrons.

American flight operations at Ubon ceased last September, but a caretaker force of about 300 remained there.

The U.S. combat force to be left in Thailand consists mainly of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers.

U.S. combat air operations over Indochina ended by congressional order on Aug. 15, 1973, after the cease-fire agreements in Vietnam and Laos.

Since then planes from Thai bases have engaged in reconnaissance flights over Indochina and the supply airlift to Phnom Penh before it fell to the Khmer Rouge on April 17, 1975.

Uncle Ho's Teachings Emphasized

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's new Communist government has begun a major campaign with anti-American overtones to train children in the teachings of Ho Chi Minh, the father of Vietnamese independence.

Broadcasts in connection with the celebration of International Children's Day on Sunday called for "cultural activities destined to serve the children, including the teaching of children's songs like 'the children of Vietnam love Uncle Ho Chi Minh.'"

"Children will be taught how to live a new life," said Saigon's Radio Liberation. "For instance, not to read bad publications of decadent culture left behind by the Americans and their servants, and not to use narcotics."

"Instead they should read publications printed by the Revolutionary Government, learn the five teachings of Uncle Ho which are love the fatherland and our compatriots; study well and develop good industry; maintain good discipline; maintain good hygiene, and be modest, sincere and courageous."

Ho, the leader of the Vietnamese rebellion against French rule and the first president of North Vietnam, died in 1969.

Man Held In Murder Of Two Deputy Sheriffs

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A man sought by more than 100 law enforcement officers has been captured in a tobacco barn, climaxing a manhunt that began after the killing of two sheriff's deputies Friday night.

Morrey Joe Campbell, a 28-year-old furniture worker, was taken first to the Davie County jail here and then was removed to a hospital for a checkup.

The Davie County sheriff's office said he was charged with two counts of murder and one count of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the deaths of Wayne Gaither, 30, a Davie County deputy, and reserve Capt. Jack Renigar, of neighboring Forsyth County.

Gaither was shot to death shortly after reporting by radio that he was stopping Campbell's car on a suspicion of drunk driving. Renigar was killed minutes later as he and another officer took up the chase.

On Saturday night, a state Superior Court judge declared Campbell an outlaw. Under North Carolina law that means any citizen could have shot him on sight if he failed to surrender.

The capture took place in a rural area near the Davie County community of Farmington, about a quarter of a mile from where the first deputy was slain, according to a sheriff's spokesman.

'Institutional Racism' Session To Open At Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A symposium to discuss "institutional racism" in Dallas is scheduled Tuesday for area civic and church leaders.

The term "institutional racism" was introduced more than a year ago by Dallas Schools Supt. Nolan Estes, who complained the city's leadership had failed to follow what he called the school district's lead in attacking the problem.

The term was defined by past Dallas Chamber of Commerce President Charles Cullum as "any practice, policy or procedure which discriminates against any person because of race. We are not talking about racial prejudice. Any individual may be free of racial prejudices personally and still be involved in practices that perpetuate institutional racism."

U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes ordered the Dallas school district last June to adopt a plan eliminating "white institutional racism."

Estes earlier said that institutional racism existed in the school district.

The symposium is sponsored by the school district and the local chamber of commerce.

West leads the six of hearts, and you count your tricks: Two hearts, three diamonds and four clubs.

All right, where do you win the first trick?

It may seem "normal" to let the first trick ride around to the South hand, but this play will cost you the contract.

East plays the jack of hearts to force out your king. Now you cannot take four clubs and three diamonds.

EAST HOLDS UP

If you get your own high clubs out of the way and then tackle diamonds, East will hold up his ace of diamonds for the third round of the suit. This puts your last diamond trick to sleep.

It doesn't help to work on the diamonds before cashing the clubs. East holds up his ace of diamonds until the third round, and dummy's queen of clubs is put to sleep.

You make the hand if you win the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts. Then you cash the top clubs and lead a diamond to the ten. You can surely reach dummy with the ten or jack of diamonds to cash the queen of clubs; and you can later get back to your hand for the last diamond with the king of hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S A 9 7 H Q J 9 2 D A 8 5 3 C 9 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks the opening bidder to show a major suit if he can; otherwise he bids two diamonds. You intend to reach a final contract of three notrump or four hearts.

Congress Fighting To Prevent Disclosure Of Letter Franking Details

By BROOKS JACKSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the Senate and House are fighting subpoenas seeking testimony and records about alleged abuses of free mailing privileges by their members. The subpoenas were issued in connection with a lawsuit, filed by Common Cause, seeking to end taxpayer-financed mass mailings by members of Congress. Among the items being withheld are records of complaints received by the Senate and House bodies that are supposed to deal with abuses of the free-mail or "franking" privilege. Records of what happened to those complaints are likewise being kept in Congress' file cabinets. Also being withheld are records that would show what materials were mailed at taxpayer expense by each member of the Senate and House. The House has refused even to allow its employees to appear to give testimony in the lawsuit. The Senate has allowed some testimony, but won't disclose its records.

Testimony and documents already on file in the lawsuit show that much of the mail Congress sends at taxpayer expense is tied directly to the re-election campaigns of Senate and House members. Among the disclosures so far: —Two direct-mail experts, on the Senate payroll at $19,000-a-year and $25,000-a-year respectively, advised several incumbent Republicans on how to use "official" franked mail to get votes. —A manual setting up a model campaign schedule for Senate Democrats refers to newsletters as a "free forum" and tells when they should be sent during the campaign. —Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in 1973 approved a tax-financed mail program intended to pay off for him on election day, according to testimony of a former aide. Javits was unavailable for comment, but another aide said the senator sends franked mail even when he isn't running, and that it "has nothing to do with voters per se." —Sen. John G. Tower, R-

Tex., mailed more than 800,000 letters to special interest groups during his 1973 re-election campaign. These letters sometimes paid off in campaign donations and volunteers. A Tower aide said the letters were within the law and were intended to inform Texans about Tower's activities. None of this activity necessarily violates any law or regulation since Congress has wide discretion in use of tax-paid mail. Congress gave itself the right to send official mail at government expense at the founding of the Republic, and only Congress polices against abuses of the free mailings. Common Cause contends that franked mass mailings give a political edge to incumbents over candidates trying to unseat them and that this violates the constitutional guarantee of due process. The group seeks not only to end franked mass mailings, but to require the Postal Service to begin policing Congress for abuses of the free-mail privilege. China accounts for almost one-fourth of the world's population.

ber subpoenaed records of the congressional panels assigned to police franking abuses, but neither chamber complied. A court dispute is now in progress. Miss Your Paper? If you miss your Reporter-Telegram, call 682-3311 before 6:30 p.m. Weekdays and before 10:30 a.m. Sunday and a copy will be sent to you by a special carrier. When Paying Your Newspaperboy By Check Please make all checks payable to the Reporter-Telegram.

Both performances started late. Patient fans bounced beachballs around as they waited more than an hour for stagehands to set up the huge lotus-petal stage. Then the house lights dimmed, the stage lit up, and the crowd came to its feet with a roar.

The ever-outrageous Jagger, dressed in a black leather jacket and pink-striped pants, was lying near the rear of the stage. As the drums rolled and the trumpets blew flourishes, he popped to his feet and pranced around the stage.

Somebody in the audience threw a Confederate flag at his feet. Jagger picked it up and draped it over the bass drum.

The show went on. Jagger and Preston bumped and ground their way through Preston's hit, "Outer Space." Jagger gradually disrobed and sang the last two numbers waving his shirt over his head.

Fairbanks Jr. Attends Exhibit Of Wyeth Works

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — An exhibition of Andrew Wyeth's six paintings of Erickson's Daughter, five of which are the only nudes Wyeth has ever put on public display, are drawing large crowds that include some rather interesting people.

A spokesman for the Brandywine River Museum said Sunday that more than 4,500 persons have seen the exhibit since it opened with a party Friday night. And it was Sunday that the museum was treated to a visit by Douglas Fairbanks Jr. that caused quite a stir.

"You should have seen it," the spokesman said. "Fairbanks and Mr. Wyeth arrived at the museum in a horsedrawn carriage. It was quite a sight."

Fairbanks had never met Wyeth before Sunday but was a good friend of the artist's father, the late N. C. Wyeth, who painted scenes for some of Fairbanks' more famous movies, among them "Treasure Island."

Following the tour, Fairbanks and his host got back into the carriage, drawn by four stately horses, and departed in a style movie fans would expect from the swashbuckling Fairbanks.

Curtain Of Silence Shrouding Cambodia

By RICHARD BLYSTONE.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A curtain of silence has closed around Cambodia since the Khmer Rouge took Phnom Penh April 17. The few reports that have emerged indicate a long period of isolation lies ahead for the country as the new leaders organize and try to forge a revolutionary society.

Exactly who is in charge in Phnom Penh is still a mystery. Western analysts before the fall could never say positively which of three major factions and a number of regional and ideological offshoots that made up the Communist-led Khmer Rouge would prove dominant. Reports since then have done little to clarify the situation.

Deputy Premier Khieu Samphan, a Paris-educated economist, was widely believed to have been the strongman of the revolution. A few radio broadcasts recently have mentioned his name together with his other titles of defense minister and armed forces chief.

But unconfirmed reports from some refugees have said that Samphan has been under house arrest and has become another figurehead, such as aging Premier Pen Nouth and titular chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, now in Peking.

Sihanouk, whose ouster from power by his own rubber-stamp legislature five years ago touched off the Cambodian civil war, has remained in his exile home true to his promises that he planned to spend little time in his native land.

The few items of news and commentary broadcast by Phnom Penh radio are usually anonymous but sometimes are attributed to Information Minister Hou Nim.

The new Cambodian foreign policy is described as one of strict neutrality and nonalignment, respecting all other political systems.

There have been repeated mentions that no foreign military bases will be permitted on Cambodian soil. Many observers here take this to be aimed at the Vietnamese Communists who supported the Khmer Rouge with troops, supplies and arms.

Judging from Phnom Penh broadcasts, the new regime's philosophy is one of bootstrap self-reliance and a puritanical rejection of Western ways.

Western dress, music and literature are denounced as corrupt and immoral and part of the plan of the previous American-supported regime to en-slave Cambodia. Broadcasts have extolled the virtues of short hair and plain dress and harped on themes of purification and cleanliness both in physical matters like cleaning debris from city streets and spiritual ones like expunging American manners and mores.

According to Phnom Penh radio, soldiers and ordinary citizens are working day and night to repair roads, bridges, rail-lines and public facilities destroyed or damaged in the five-year war.

However, the relative scarcity of news dispatches and the paucity of factual content suggest that the new leadership has severe communications and organizational problems and that Cambodia faces a difficult time before reconstruction matches the pace in Vietnam.

Rumors Growing Brezhnev Undergoing Treatment Again

By FRANK CREPEAU

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev has been absent from public view since May 9, and there are rumors that he is under medical treatment again.

Officials attending the North Atlantic Alliance meeting in Brussels last week said they had reports indicating the 66-year-old head of the Soviet Communist party intends to retire next year after the party's 25th congress.

The Kremlin, as usual, is saying nothing. But if Brezhnev doesn't reappear soon it will fuel speculation about both his physical and political health.

Brezhnev normally should give a "campaign" speech prior to the election June 15 of the Russian republic's parliament for which he is one of the unopposed candidates. The election is the usual prearranged Communist affair, but the party adheres to some of the trappings of democracy in an attempt to strengthen the myth that democracy is in operation.

"Brezhnev's failure to make a campaign speech would be a major departure from tradition and evidence that something was seriously wrong."

Last year, when he was a candidate for the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, he made his speech on June 14, two days before the election.

In 1971, as a candidate for the Russian parliament, he gave a nationally televised campaign speech on June 11, again two days before election day.

Thus, June 13 is eagerly awaited by Brezhnev watchers.

Last month there were rumors that Brezhnev was undergoing medical treatment of an unspecified nature and would be out of sight for a period. But one well-placed Soviet source discounted these reports and said he was in good physical condition.

Brezhnev was reported to have had a severe bout of the flu last fall, "dropped out of sight in late December, and did not reappear until Feb. 13, when British Prime Minister Harold Wilson visited Moscow. An official spokesman said then that he had been suffering from a "cold-type illness."

Illinois Teen-Ager 'Pinball Wizard'

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — A Mount Prospect teenager, 16-year-old Tom Leicht, was named "pinball wizard" of 1975 at the first "U.S. Open Pinball Championship." He won a trophy and $575.

Steven P. Kirk, Pinball Association of America president, commented, "I suppose it sounds fishy for a local boy to win the first national tournament, but Leicht was just the best around. He simply outclassed all the others."

Second place went to Ken Share, 19, of Skokie, Ill., who played a final match with Leicht here Sunday that "literally went down to the last ball," Kirk said.

The crowd of 18,892 was screaming with every pitch Nolan Ryan threw. Ruth Ryan watched her husband from the stands, tensing with each delivery. Even his California Angels teammates felt the pressure.

KC Royals Top Brewers In Twinbill

John Mayberry homered, drove in six runs and scored five as the Royals pasted Milwaukee hurlers for 24 runs in the doubleheader 13-4 and 11-5. The Brewers' Hank Aaron, the home run king, rapped four singles in the twinbill to the Stan Musial for second place on the all-time hit list with 3,630. Ty Cobb leads with 4,191.

Martin Says Managers Do Make A Difference

One thing and another while wondering whatever became of Ken "The Hawk" Harrelson? ... While one popular theory is that managers are just fall guys for teams that don't win and really aren't that important to the success of a ball club, Texas Ranger Manager Billy Martin sees it differently.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battus

"A manager can change the outcome in anywhere from 20 to 50 games," claims Martin. And judging from his knack for changing losers into winners at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas, he may be right.

David Clyde, pitching for the Texas Rangers' AA farm at Pittsfield in the Eastern League, says there isn't too much difference between major and minor league hitters. "Major league hitters are more knowledgeable. They'll guess with you a little more. And they're stronger." ... His biggest problem at Pittsfield has been control. In 23 innings, he walked 39 batters, mostly because he has been missing the corners with his fast ball.

Bernice Gera umpired just seven innings in the New York-Pennsylvania League back in 1972 and then quit after her first rhubarb, but Christine Wren, 26, appears to be made of sterner stuff. Christine, 5-7, 135 pounds, has signed with the Class A Northwest League. She has a background of 400 amateur and semipro games and big crowds apparently don't bother her. This year she umpired behind the plate for a USC-Los Angeles Dodge exhibition before 51,000 fans.

Amarillo's Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a night at Cube Stadium July 12 when Midland hosts Lafayette, the Giant farm team that last year played out of Amarillo. The special is part of a drive to bring Amarillo back in the Texas League next season.

An Oakland broadcaster asked Claudell Washington if he had any trepidation about his jump from AA ball to the majors last year. "No," said Washington, "I'm in good health."

Rod Gilbert disagrees with the rumor that hints hockey fights are fixed. "If they were," says Rod, "I'd be in more of them."

Harrelson? You remember Ken. He was traded to Boston from Kansas City by Charlie O. Finley and helped lead the Red Sox to their "Impossible Dream" pennant. Then he got chucked it all for pro golf, where the grass may have been greener, but also was a lot deeper. He's back with the Red Sox as a member of their broadcasting team.

Irwin hit two of the 25,000 spectators during the round—a man with his tee shot on the third hole and a woman watching from the edge of the fairway on 11.

"The guy was hurt. I think, and that kind of shakes you up," said Irwin. "He's there suffering and I'm feeling kind of bad too, but I made a good recovery to save par on the hole. It could have been a bogey or double bogey."

After bogeying the first, he rolled in a birdie from 10 feet on the second, from 25 feet on the fifth and an eight-footer at eight to turn at 34.

Yankees Sack Rangers Again

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Rudy May walked nine batters in a game Sunday, but still wound up winning in a cake-walk. The New York Yankee left-hander allowed the Texas Rangers only five hits in an 8-4 victory, but those nine walks kept him in constant trouble.

"It doesn't bother me though," said May. "We won and that's the important thing. I don't worry about numbers. The only important numbers right now are 22 and 24 (the Yankees' win-loss record)."

The Yankee batters supported May with an eight-hit attack that featured a two-run homer by Bobby Bonds in the sixth inning. It was Bonds' 11th of the season, tying him with Detroit's Willie Horton for the American League lead. It also was his fourth round tripper of the season against the Rangers.

White Sox 1-3, Tigers 5-2

Mickey Lolich scattered seven hits in the opener for the 20th victory of his career, making the 13-year-veteran the winningest Detroit left-hander ever. Also, Lolich's three strikeouts put him one ahead of Bob Feller for sixth place on the all-time list with 2,582 and left him just one behind Warren Spahn among all left-handers.

There Is Something...

Decontrol of crude oil and natural gas possibly would do more than any other one thing in solving the energy problem.

Such action would release a wave of oil and gas exploration, which presently is hindered because of price controls and talk of an impractical windfall profits tax.

The United States Industrial Council, in a recent statement, said, "The U.S. will never be self-sufficient in energy under the present system of government controls."

The petroleum industry knows this; the President of the United States is well aware of this, as are people who live in the oil patch (oil-producing regions and states); the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and most of the region's local chambers; oil and gas associations, and many other groups and individuals who have given serious thought to the matter.

But there are many, many others, including many representatives and senators, who apparently are not familiar with the situation. This is a major problem, particularly the members of Congress who seemingly are not interested in the real facts in the case and who will not listen to reason.

This brings to mind the query of an interested Midland housewife who asked the editor, "Isn't there anything that we can do to make members of Congress wake up to the seriousness of the situation?"

This is a good question, one which should concern all persons interested in solving the energy problem.

Perhaps there is something which can be done at the local level.

Consumer education seems to be the name of the game—and what better place than Midland, Texas, to launch such a program which, hopefully, would expand in all directions, by means of personal contacts, letter-writing and programs of various kinds. Men, women and children could participate in a well-planned effort, which should be void of partisan politics. The Midland Chamber of Commerce has produced a slide presentation relating to costs and other factors involved in searching for, finding and producing oil and gas, which fits into an educational program of this nature.

Other groups undoubtedly are working along similar lines. Perhaps their efforts could be coordinated by a central group which could take the lead in sponsoring a community-wide program, which undoubtedly would attract widespread publicity. Perhaps informed consumers could get the attention of vote-minded congressmen.

Dr. W. Philip Gramm, Texas A&M University economics professor, said here recently that more businessmen should become involved in such matters if they expect the American free enterprise system to survive.

Clyde La Motte, The Reporter-Telegram's Washington oil correspondent, reported recently that a group of major industries is rallying behind the petroleum industry in urging Congress to decontrol the wellhead price of natural gas, not out of an act of kindness but because of the impact natural gas shortages are having on them and their customers.

It's late, but perhaps not too late to launch a unified effort to help the nation become self-sufficient in energy.

Think about it!

AILING BREZHNEV—

Leader's Health Affects Soviet Politics

By EDWARD NEILAN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Doctors, rather than diplomats, may have the last word in planning the grand finale on the political stage for Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Word has surfaced again that Brezhnev, 68, is ill.

The Soviet leader has been suffering from ailments of one kind or another for nearly a year. The latest in a flurry of rumors concerning Brezhnev's health was reported by the London Daily Telegraph's Moscow correspondent John Miller, who said Brezhnev was undergoing radiation therapy for jaw cancer.

American sources in Washington said it was believed Brezhnev was having "many teeth removed." The Soviet leader's dental problems were first hinted at when former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt had to postpone a visit to Moscow because of the Russian's heavy schedule of dental appointments in April.

Brezhnev's shaky health may affect the scenarios for a series of "detente spectacles" which the Kremlin was arranging to be climaxed at the 25th Congress of the Soviet Communist Party next February. Much of the orchestrating was being handled by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who met recently in Vienna with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Brezhnev's tight, carefully scripted schedule is not all window dressing.

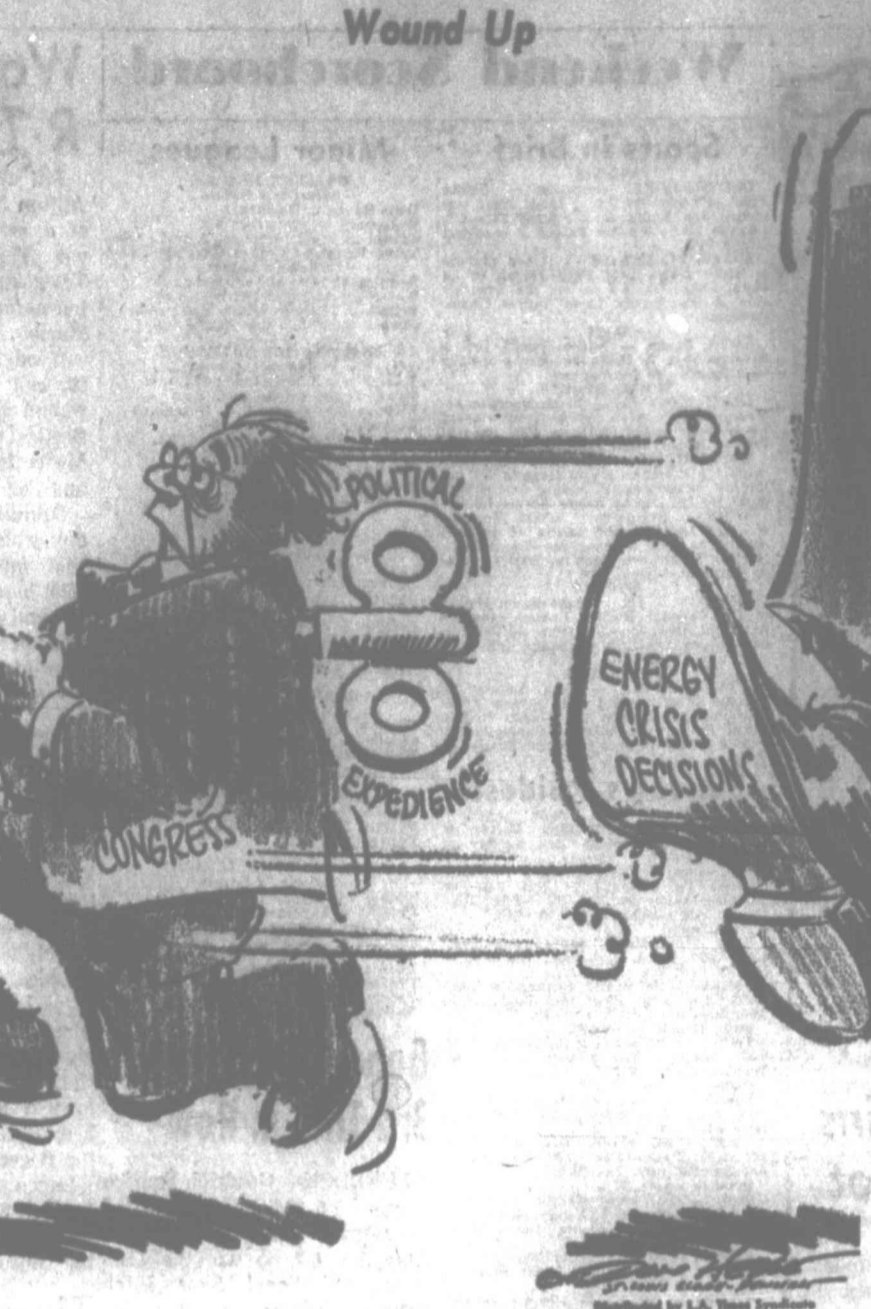

If he is to have the clout needed to designate a successor at the 25th Congress he must arrive there with some evidence of progress in his policies. Or, at least, no evidence of failure.

Because his timetable is so well-known to the West, the United States has the opportunity to sabotage some of Brezhnev's expected high points. But is a "lame duck" Brezhnev, sickly and unable to push forward his policy baby of detente, what the West really wants?

There is some room for maneuver by smart U.S. diplomats in this situation. Because Brezhnev wants his final finale to be a real boffo affair, he may be willing to make some concessions in negotiations with the West over the next few months—if he is well enough to get to the bargaining table.

Brezhnev's next official appearance is supposed to be June 12 when he is due to speak in connection with elections to regional legislatures. He appeared in public on May 9 when he spoke at an official reception commemorating the 30th anniversary of the World War II victory over Nazi Germany.

Brezhnev's scheduled visit to the United States was reset from June to "sometime in the autumn," basically because of a lack of progress on U.S.-Soviet arms control issues and a general strain in detente. The summit meeting with President Ford was to be one of the extravaganzas, with Brezhnev in the spotlight, leading up to the 25th Congress at which time he was expected to retire in a blaze of glory.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In taking over the Middle East negotiations from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, President Ford first must gain Arab confidence.

We have spoken privately to several top Arab leaders. Without exception, they had the impression that Ford was a weak leader.

This has been corrected somewhat by his bold action in rescuing the merchant ship Mayaguez from the Cambodians. But they still suspect that Congress, not the President, will be calling the shots in the Middle East.

A congressional delegation, headed by Rep. Tip O'Neill, D-Mass., and John Anderson, R-Ill., both powers in the House, called upon Egypt's President Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Rabin earlier this spring.

According to the confidential transcript, they gave the President a negative report. "Sadat and Rabin offered nothing new," said O'Neill. They agreed only, he added, to continue the step-by-step negotiations, with the United States as the mediator.

"I didn't notice, on the other hand a disinclination to go to Geneva," warned Anderson. This would move the negotiations to a forum where the Soviets would have a powerful voice.

Thus, President Ford began his talks with Sadat behind the eight ball. But the Arab leaders, who spoke to us with unusual candor after we agreed not to identify them, pointed out that the Arabs had taken pains to create a favorable environment for the Ford-Sadat talks.

Sadat personally flew to Damascus to persuade Syria's President Assad to extend the life of the United Nations force on the Golan Heights for another six months. As evidence of his own peaceful intentions, Sadat went ahead with the reopening of the Suez Canal.

And Saudi Arabia's new King Khalid backed down from the inflexible Saudi refusal to recognize Israel's right to exist.

The Arab leaders told us what Sadat's strategy would be at the Salzburg talks. The Egyptian leader intended to remind President Ford that the United States was committed to an Israeli pullback to its 1967 borders.

Sadat intended to ask the President, therefore, to put Israel on notice that the U.S. security umbrella extended only to the 1967 borders. This would increase the pressure on Israel, Sadat reportedly feels, to withdraw.

NIXON COMMITMENT: President Ford, after checking the White House records, has assured congressional leaders that his predecessor, Richard Nixon, made no secret commitments to South Vietnam's former President Thieu.

Speaking earnestly behind closed White House doors, the President insisted that the "confidential undertakings do not differ significantly from the public releases." There was "no substantive difference," he said, between the private pledges to Thieu and the public statements.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger then went into detail. He said the former President had given Thieu "two separate assurances" — first, that the United States "would react to violations" of the

DEFENSE IN DEPTH—

Soviets Still Duck Missile Inspection

By L. EDGAR PRINA Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has had his two-day session with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Vienna during which they discussed the current impasse in the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) talks.

Kissinger can be extraordinarily nimble in defending his positions. He once told Congress missile throw-weight was of great importance. In a subsequent appearance he contended it was not all that significant. But this time he has put himself in concrete on perhaps the most important SALT issue.

This concerns verification of the number of MIRVed strategic missiles, that is, missiles whose nose cones carry multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles or warheads. Without an effective means of determining whether either side is installing MIRVs in more missiles than last November's Vladivostok agreement between President Ford and Chairman Leonid Brezhnev permits, cheating is obviously possible. The Soviets, unhappily, have given no indication they are prepared to agree on an effective means. Gromyko calls verification a "minor detail."

In a press briefing last December, Kissinger made it plain how important he then regarded the matter of MIRV verification.

"The major issue in the negotiations is now going to be the verification issue," he said.

"I think if they reject verification it will be very hard to conceive how there can be a deal."

The U.S. position, as stated by the secretary, is that any missile that has been tested with MIRV warheads will be assumed to have been MIRVed. Accordingly, the United States assumes that the new Soviet S-17, S-18 and S-19 ICBMs have been MIRVed. The Soviets so far have rejected this formula, saying, in effect, they may not want to MIRV all their S-17s, S-18s and S-19s.

Kissinger said in December he thought the Soviets would accept the U.S. proposal.

"I cannot conceive that they have gone this far in order to blow up the agreement now when verification is used when it was very easy to blow it up on the numbers," he said.

"If we find out by next April that they are stalling on verification and if they are worried about us going into a bigger defense program I think we would have a much better chance with Congress (for approval of new strategic weapons systems) having in good faith accepted these numbers (a limit of 2,400 warhead delivery systems, of which 1,320 could be MIRVed) and then finding that the numbers evaporate because they won't agree to really the only reasonable inspection system that can be designed. And there is no alternative to this inspection."

Kissinger and Gromyko are due to meet again in July to discuss SALT further. There is always the chance, however remote, that the Soviets will come up with an effective verification scheme of their own that will be agreeable to the United States. But don't bet on it.

The danger today is that Kissinger may feel his policy of detente with the USSR would be jeopardized by a SALT failure and thus be inclined to make concessions on verification.

But no treaty would be far better for America's security than an agreement that would open the door wide to Soviet cheating on nuclear arms—detente or no detente.

It Happened Here—

35-Years Ago (June 2, 1940):

With "Future Betterment" as its theme, the 34th annual convention of Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers was set to open here on June 8.

Fred Wemple was named a Texas delegate to the national Democratic convention at Chicago.

Jessie Parsons, Midland Flying Club member and a clerk in the production department of T. P. Coal & Oil Co., who was the 14th member of the club to solo, was the second woman to solo in 1940.

Jack Benny was starring in "Buck Benny Rides Again" playing at the Yucca Theater.
