Contented Discontent

I met a wonderful man. This man has a streak of genius for not only to be contented — he is also discontented. And anyone who is contented without also being constructively discontented is not a truly organized individual.

This man, a taxi driver in New York City, took me to Kennedy International Airport. Upon entering the cab I noticed how spotlessly clean it was — immaculate, as was the driver himself.

Driving along we listened to the morning radio news in which was a brief recapitulation of a speech made the night before by the governor of the state. It was an impassioned declaration that he, the governor, was committed to driving all rats out of New York City.

The driver flipped off the radio saying, "I don't know whether the governor knows how to get rid of rats. But I do. In fact, I used to live in a ghetto section of Manhattan. But," he declared, "there were never any rats in my house."

"How come?" I asked. "Because our house was clean, spotlessly clean. And I mean clean. My wife is a terrific housekeeper. She hates dirt and so there just wasn't any dirt in our place. It doesn't make any difference how poor and dirty a neighborhood may be, there is no excuse for your own house not being clean. And," he added, "since my wife and I believe cleanliness is next to Godliness, we had a clean house."

Even in a so-called ghetto neighborhood this man asserted he had a plain but beautiful apartment. "I was a contented man," he smiled broadly, "and why not? Lovely wife, good kids and nice home? What more could you ask? I was a contented man . . ."

"But . . ." and then came good old creative discontent. "I wanted something better: a house out of town with grass and trees and flowers. So I worked hard and saved my money and one of my passengers, an investment man, gave me an idea on how to invest carefully the little I had and what do you know?"

"O.K., what?" I asked fascinated by this story of good old American self-reliance. Well, he got his house — on Long Island it is. It had a few trees and a best-up lawn and no flowers. The man knew nothing about how to make a lawn or grow flowers. But he sent off to the state university and got some pamphlets on flower and grass culture. And a Sunday newspaper supplement gave him tips on gardening. Eventually he had a lawn and a garden that was the talk of the neighborhood.

But just then we arrived at Kennedy International Airport and I had to dash for my plane. I'll never know where that fascinating contented-discontented man aims on going next. But that he will get there I haven't the slightest doubt.

Saudis Won't Invest In U.S.

Congressional Suspicion Cited As One Reason

By ROBERT ROWEN The Washington Post WASHINGTON — A key economic adviser to the Saudi Arabian government, the major producer in the oil-exporting cartel, has revealed that his government is not interested in making investments in the Western World, especially in the United States.

Farouk M. Akhdar, an American-educated economist who is chief of the Saudi central planning agency, said that Saudi Arabia would not buy into companies, or try to acquire real estate or other properties in Western countries.

In an interview at the Washington Post, Akhdar said that an attitude of suspicion in Congress leads the Saudis to believe their investments here might not be safe.

"We are not going to invest in the Western world at all," Akhdar said. But if the Saudis could be assured of "friendly relations," he added, "we might reassess this decision."

Akhdar's flat statement ruling out investments here is in contradiction of assurances recently given Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald L. Parsky by high Saudi monetary agency officials that the government is interested in portfolio investments here, not to exceed 5 per cent of any one company.

Rejects Report Akhdar rejected as inaccurate published reports that his inclusion in the United States is to use "the money weapon" to induce American pressure on Israel to compromise on outstanding issues in the Middle East.

Akhdar said he is in this country on a speaking tour to dispel "misconceptions" about his country, and to meet with American officials.

He distinguished between investment, and what he called "savings." The latter category includes placement of a portion of surpluses earned on oil sales in U.S. Treasury bills, and similar short-term deposits.

"The U.S. is getting its share of (Saudi money in) deposits," Akhdar said. But he left the clear implication that if the Saudis could negotiate "friendly" deals with European nations that would provide a better rate of return, his government would pull its "savings" out of Treasury bills.

Energy Issue Faces House

By CARL C. CRAFT WASHINGTON (AP) — The members of the House, none of them happy about taxing their constituents, will try to agree in the next few days on a plan to raise energy taxes and boost gasoline prices.

Energy problem issues involve billions of dollars in taxes and higher prices, with an ultimate impact on every American, in a nation which consumes about 90 per cent of the world's energy production.

What looks like a little may mean a lot—Americans generate for their federal government about $1 billion for each penny of tax they pay for a gallon of gasoline.

This, for several days, the House will seek political agreement on such issues as whether to boost the federal gasoline tax and whether to put a levy on gas-guzzling new cars.

On many points, there are sharp differences between what President Ford wants to do and what the Democrat-dominated Congress wants to do — although there is general agreement that there is a problem.

Here, based on material from congressional and Ford administration sources, is a close look at basic issues and proposals by the President and the tax-drafting House Ways and Means Committee.

Experts See West Coast Oil Surplus

By LARRY PRYOR and ROBERT ROSENBLATT The Los Angeles Times LOS ANGELES — The West Coast will have a surplus of oil in the years ahead, and that surplus will be shipped by pipeline to Midwest and Eastern markets.

The only questions are when will the surplus arrive — some say as early as 1978 — and how great will it be? Once the fuel transfer eastward begins, the Los Angeles area will play a key role, becoming a conduit for the movement of huge amounts of oil.

Large-scale production on Alaska's North Slope should generate more oil than the Western states can consume, according to a Los Angeles Times survey of government and industry sources. A modest surplus in the late 1970s could become a glut in the 1980s as oil fields are developed in the waters off California and Alaska.

Because of the price structure of the oil industry, however, it is doubtful whether the surplus will be reflected in lower prices for West Coast consumers. The federal government sees the oil link between West and East as a way to replace insecure imports from the Arab nations.

"Every barrel of oil we can move East is one barrel of oil we don't have to import," said Darius W. Gaskins, Director of Outer Continental Shelf Coordination for the U.S. Interior Department.

"My opinion is that it will be used that way." But state and local officials worry about the costs associated with California becoming an oil-exporting region, the environmental dangers posed by massive offshore development and by the constant movement of super-tankers into the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor area.

"Why should our coast be subjected to a higher level of risk in order to get oil to Nebraska?" one state planner mused.

An alliance of oil companies and federal officials is pushing hard for fast-as-possible production in Alaska and California. The opposition in both states

Construction Of Apartments Hits Snag, City Authorities Unable To Say Why

By JAN WILLIAMS Midland has a fairly good variety of social and cultural activities, the choice of places to eat is getting better, the drinking water isn't bad and the weather is great.

Now, if we just had plenty of housing. Presently, the housing shortage is most severe in multiple family dwellings, such as apartments and duplexes.

Of the approximately 40 apartment complexes comprising a total of 2,036 units, none has vacancies and all have long waiting lists.

While more and more people seem to be inclined toward apartment living in the area, the construction phase seems to have hit a snag. Why? Local authorities on the subject are unable to answer the question.

George Wolf, city planning director for Midland said, "The boom caught us short. Now, there's the question of overbuilding. Several years ago more residential homes were built than were needed. But now everything is full-including apartments. The big question is, how much more is needed?"

Waller Ashby, urban planner for Midland, said there has been a lot of talk and zoning requests in the past seven or eight months, but no permits to build apartments have been issued since January 1974.

Both Wolf and Ashby said there is a lot of land already appropriately zoned for apartments which have not been built.

"The problem is not zoning," Ashby said. "I'm not really sure what it is."

One area apartment manager questioned Ashby's statement.

Another possible target was the petroleum pipeline system that North Vietnam had extended well south of the Central Highlands during the period following the Paris agreements.

At any rate, the North Vietnamese are known to be having difficulties with the pipeline system and these difficulties were not evident before the bombing.

However, the widespread bombing raids appear to have been made by Air Force planes

U.S. Made Heavy Raids Last Day Of Evacuation

By GEORGE McARTHUR The Los Angeles Times HONG KONG — American warplanes conducted heavy bombing raids in South Vietnam on the last day of the American evacuation from Saigon, according to authoritative sources.

The raids were mounted at least partly from bases in Thailand. The raids were of such magnitude and sensitivity that they were almost certainly cleared personally by President Ford.

Despite congressional strictures against direct American military involvement in South Vietnam, the raids were ordered on that final day of April 30 when the evacuation of Saigon was clearly in peril. They were evidently intended to demonstrate conclusively to Hanoi that the United States lacked neither the will nor the strength to protect the evacuation.

"It was a very heavy commitment," said one source with access to official action reports. "It is not known whether agreement was obtained from the government of Thailand to use the bases for the raids. Only two weeks later the Thais protested strongly when the bases were involved as a staging area for Marines flown in to support the U.S. response to Cambodia's seizure of the American freighter Mayaguez.

lost or hit during the one-day bombing operation. On that final day, American authorities announced that jets from the American naval task force off the Vietnamese coast were "covering" the evacuation.

These planes were seen in the Saigon area and over the helicopter corridor from Saigon to the South China Sea.

On at least one occasion the jets buzzed a helicopter evacuation site near Saigon that appeared to be threatened. They may also have made a few strafing runs on those occasions when some American evacuation helicopters did receive groundfire.

Violence Puts Town Under Curfew

HAMLET, N.C. (AP)

Hamlet was under curfew and heavy police surveillance Saturday following a night of racial violence.

Three persons, including a fireman and his son, were injured and four buildings and a vacant lot were hit by fire, authorities said.

Richmond County deputies arrested city police Sgt. James Bryant Saturday morning and charged him with assaulting a black woman, who says she was shot by the officer. Bryant is white.

No new incidents were reported Saturday in this railroad town of about 5,000 near the famed Pinehurst golf resort and Mayor J. Earl Covington said he expected no further trouble. He said Friday night's disorders were due to too many people on the streets.

Covington declared a state of emergency and imposed a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew soon after fires began breaking out Friday at about 11 p.m. The Richmond County Board of Commissioners held an emergency meeting at the request of Sheriff Raymond W. Goodman early Saturday and extended the curfew to include surrounding Monks Creek township.

Bryant's arrest followed a night of unrest, emergency meetings and a Friday afternoon march in the business district by blacks who charged that Rhonda Scott, 21, of Hamlet, was a victim of police brutality.

Miss Scott was taken into custody and charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct early Thursday. Miss Scott says she was wounded during a scuffle with police, but Police Chief Ernest King said she suffered only bruises when she fell to the pavement during the arrest.

Miss Scott said she was pulled out of a taxi by police when she refused to get out after being told she was under arrest. "When I didn't, Sgt. Bryant was beating me with his slapjack and I struggled with him and got away," she said. "He threw the slapjack at me and when I picked it up he began beating me with a flashlight. Then he pulled a gun and shot and hit my back," she said.

Miss Scott was taken to the hospital where she was told she had scratches, authorities said. No immediate comment was available from hospital authorities.

Available from hospital authorities.

A spokesman at Hamlet Hospital said city fireman Eugene Ross, 31, was treated for shotgun pellet wounds he received as he was driving from the scene of a fire. The spokesman said Ross' three-year-old son was cut by flying glass when a shot shattered the glass of the car.

None of the injured were hospitalized, authorities said.

Four fires, reported under control by early Saturday, gutted a vocational center for the handicapped and caused extensive damage to a vacant warehouse and an auto parts firm.

Another blaze erupted later in the morning at a window shutter plant and was brought under control within an hour.

Massive Rail Aid Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elected governors appealed to President Ford Saturday for massive federal aid to revitalize the nation's ailing railroads. Most also opposed plans for abandonment of unprofitable branch lines while some solution is worked out.

Gov. William Milliken, of Michigan, a Republican, said he found Ford "open minded" and willing to consider their views and recommendations in developing a railroad will support and will solve the program that must be sent to Congress by July 26.

Milliken, who briefed reporters inside the White House, said there was no support among the governors for government takeover of the entire national railroad system. He said he urged more time for that the U.S. Railway Assoc-plan is not going to work. This was a reference to a quasi-government agency that was set up to work out a plan for presentation to Congress on reorganizing the national railroad system, particularly the bankrupt or financially disabled lines in the Midwest and New England areas.

Shapp said that only Gov. Otis R. Bowen of Indiana, a Republican, supported the plan that calls for the substantial abandonment of unprofitable lines. Gov. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., said: "We felt that the subsidies would have to be substantial, otherwise they would be cosmetic," referring to the request for massive federal aid. Coleman said that "public ownership of roadbeds was not in the public interest," and that he also believed it to be President's position.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey, a Democrat, said he thought the nation would probably move to public ownership of rail trackage. He said that would "put rails on the same basis as trucks and their other competitors."

Lucey pointed out that airport facilities and highways already are publicly owned. Coleman joined Milliken in briefing reporters inside the White House, while the other governors talked with reporters outside after the meeting.

President Ford has submitted legislation to Congress calling for $2 billion in loans to help rebuild the nation's railroads and calling for sharply reduced government regulations over the rails. Considerable congressional and public discussion is expected in the next month as the program is hammered out. Also attending were Govs. Brendan Byrne, D-N.J.; Daniel Walker, D-Ill.; James Longley, D-Maine; Thomas Salmon, D-Vt.; Mills Godwin, R-Va.; Marvin Mandel, D-Md.; and Lt. Gov. Tom O'Neill, D-Mass.

Louisiana Governor Wants Government To Stay Out Of Offshore Exploration

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Gov. Edwin Edwards told a Congressional panel Saturday that the federal government should not shake up existing procedures to much.

In particular, the governor objected to provisions for a "study to determine whether the federal government or private industry should explore the outer continental shelf, and the social and economic impact of drilling on coastal zones."

Edwards spoke for more than an hour, saying he hoped members of the panel would profit from the long experience Louisiana has had with offshore drilling.

The Congressmen have been in New Orleans since Thursday, touring oil rigs and meeting with oilmen.

Egyptians' Commitment To Long Term Interim Agreement Sought By Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli officials said Saturday that an Egyptian commitment to a long term interim agreement with Israel "would bring us much closer to a new partial settlement."

A Foreign Ministry official said Premier Yitzhak Rabin's talks next week in Washington would be "exploratory," and Rabin probably would not bring a new Israeli peace plan with him.

"Rabin will discuss procedures for negotiations toward an interim settlement," the official said.

He said he was "hesitant to be optimistic" about a new agreement with the Egyptians. But he said that a commitment from Cairo to renew the U.N. peacekeeping mandate in Sinai for three years or more could mean a breakthrough in peace efforts.

In other Middle East developments: The Cairo weekly newspaper Akhbar el Yom said Israel will sign a disengagement accord with Egypt in two months, withdrawing its forces from the Gidi and Mitla passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfields in Sinai. It said final details would be worked out by President Ford and Rabin in Washington next week.

—A small bomb exploded under a truck in Nabulus in the occupied west bank of Jordan, slightly damaging the truck but causing no injuries, officials said. The truck was fitted to carry passengers. In the past Arab guerrillas have bombed similar trucks in an attempt to discourage Arab laborers from working in Israel.

One reason why Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations broke down in March was that Israel insisted that any agreement last for at least three years. At the time Egypt refused, but reports from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's meetings in Salsburg with President Ford earlier this week said Egypt was now ready to make a three-year agreement.

'Old Guard' Conservatives Overshadowed By Younger Members

By JOHN H. AVERILL
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — When Jesse A. Helms came to Congress in 1974 as North Carolina's first elected Republican, a liberal publication called him a "hard-line reactionary" out of cloth "torn from the racist shirt of the Confederacy."

Helms, a tall, stoop-shouldered man with the gracious manners of the old South, takes strong exception to only one of those charges — that of being a racist. He said he doesn't regard himself as a reactionary. But he willingly accepts such labels as "right-winger" and "ultraconservative."

"Jesse is so conservative," said one admiring associate, "that he makes Goldwater and Thurmond look like liberals."

Republican and I think any talk of a third party movement at this time is wrong... I believe a third party would hurt rather than help the conservative cause."

In contrast, Helms and Buckley have explored third party possibilities and suggested that former California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be their choice as a Conservative party presidential candidate.

Helms, chairman of a group called the Committee on Conservative Alternatives, recently appointed a subcommittee to examine state election laws with an eye toward getting a ballot position in each state for a conservative candidate.

Party Called A Dodo
"The Republican Party at this time is a dodo already," Helms said earlier this month. He predicted it will die unless it makes stronger appeals to conservatives.

"We do not rule out the possibility of a coalition of disenchanted Americans organizing themselves within the party system as a major new party if the present political system fails to respond to the need for a philosophical realignment," Helms said recently.

Helms' third party activities have led some of his critics to describe him as a man constantly in search of a party.

Helms, a conservative for years, was a life-long Democrat until he switched to the Republican Party only a short time before his upset election to the Senate in 1972. He had served earlier in Washington as administrative assistant to two Democratic senators from North Carolina — Wills Smith and Alton Lennon — and later became a radio-television commentator and broadcasting executive in Raleigh, N.C. He is now 53.

Within the Senate, the newer conservatives have made themselves increasingly conspicuous. This is not easy in a 100-member chamber where conservatives of both parties are outnumbered 4-to-1 by liberals and middle-of-the-roads.

One device used by the conservatives to manifest their presence is to organize a series of Senate speeches on a common theme. Thus in recent weeks, the "Helms Gang," as the bloc has come to be known, has attacked big budget deficits, forced interclass busing, abortions, efforts to cut defense spending, the policies of détente with Moscow and Peking and administration foreign policy in general.

These efforts frequently have been frustrating and, on at least one occasion, embarrassing for the conservatives. Frustrating because the speeches generally have been ignored by the non-conservatives and thus have failed to generate the kind of debate that results in good press coverage.

Not Discouraged
Helms, however, says he is not discouraged.

"What we are attempting is an educational effort of a type that really hasn't been tried before," he said. "We may not be getting the attention we think we deserve but I feel that sooner or later our message will get across to the American People and when that happens we may get a different kind of Congress than we have now."

There was evident embarrassment within the conservative bloc when it organized a critique of Ford administration foreign policy.

Working several days in advance, Helms and his allies lined up 17 conservatives of both parties as speakers and reserved four hours of Senate time for their speeches. But the day they chose to speak out — May 15 — was the day the White House announced that U.S. military forces had rescued the crewmen of the merchant ship Mayaguez from their Cambodian captors.

Praise Heaped
The announcement came before the speeches began and Helms and most of the others began by first heaping praise on Ford for his Cambodian accomplishment.

Before beginning a speech deploring the administration's policy toward Portugal, Helms said of Ford's role in the Mayaguez incident:

"He will be remembered in history for his conduct in this difficult episode. I, for one, am very proud of him today."

The following day Helms proposed a substitute for the $460 million Vietnam refugee relief bill that the Senate was about to pass.

Waving a $1,000 check, Helms challenged the Senate to "put our money where our mouths are." He said if each of the 535 members of Congress would donate a similar $1,000 the taxpayers could be saved from footing the bill.

Unimpressed by this demand on their generosity, Helms' colleagues defeated his proposal 74-6. Just before the vote, Helms said that should his amendment pass.

"I shall have to borrow the $1,000 to cover my check." He called himself "one of the less affluent" members of the conservative bloc.

In their speeches and Senate floor battles, members of the Helms bloc are frequently joined by two Southern Democrats — James B. Allen of Alabama and Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia.

It was the Helms bloc, rather than the traditional Southern Democratic Conservatives, which gave Allen major assistance in his tuffe fight earlier this year against the Senate rules change that makes it easier to cut off filibusters.

Allen, a political ally of Gov. George C. Wallace, and Byrd, who was reelected as an independent in 1970 when Virginia's Democratic Party became too liberal for him, occasionally sit in on the weekly strategy sessions of the GOP any legislation that comes before the Senate."

The committee's work is coordinated by F. Thomas Cantrell, a 28-year-old former public relations man from Tulsa, Okla. Cantrell, who has a pixyish sense of humor, defined his function as "letting the right hand know what the right hand is doing."

Members of the Steering Committee, in alphabetical order, are: James L. Buckley (N.Y.), Carl T. Curtis (Neb.), Paul J. Fannin (Ariz.), Jake Garn (Utah), Barry Goldwater (Ariz.), Clifford P. Hansen (Wyo.), Jesse A. Helms (N.C.), Roman L. Hruska (Neb.), Paul Laxalt (Nev.), James A. McClure (Idaho), William L. Scott (Va.) and Strom Thurmond (S.C.).

The group, with a formal membership of 13 Republican senators, is known as the Steering Committee. It was organized last year by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., largely at the urging of Helms and Buckley as a conservative counterpart to the Wednesday Club, an organization of 14 liberal to moderate Senate Republicans.

Leading Force
Idaho's McClure is this year's chairman of the committee. But Helms, as vice chairman, has emerged as its leading force.

"We are not an anti-Ford group by any means, nor are we a third-party movement," Helms said of the committee. "The group is simply an effort to see that the conservative point of view is considered on

An Exaggeration
That is an exaggeration. Yet after years as the nation's leading symbols of conservatism, Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., now find themselves overshadowed by a group of younger senators more conservative than they.

Helms is one of them. Among the others are Sens. James L. Buckley, Cons-R.N.Y.; James A. McClure, R-Idaho, and William L. Scott, R-Va.

What particularly distinguishes the newer band of conservatives from Goldwater and Thurmond is a dedication to ideological purity. To the newer group compromise is unthinkable and losing in defense of a principle is a matter of honor. Victory achieved by compromise is akin to heresy.

Same Heroes
"Goldwater and Thurmond are still my heroes," a friend of Helms and Buckley said the other day. "But they now seem willing to take half a loaf where they wouldn't have a few years ago. They're also too interested in patronage for their friends and when you play the patronage game with the White House you lose your independence."

Goldwater, in particular, has irritated the younger conservatives because of his loyalty to President Ford and his repudiation of proposals for creation of a Conservative Party to challenge next year's Republican and Democratic presidential nominees.

Some Unhappiness
While admitting that he has been unhappy with some of Ford's policies, Goldwater told a recent meeting of Young Republicans:

"He is the President of the United States and he is a curacy and yield, including a terminally guided maneuverable re-entry vehicle (MARV).

Military spending critics won a 43-to-41 vote Friday as the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to forbid any flight testing of MARV unless the Soviet Union carries out flight tests or the president certifies that some other Soviet threat requires it in the national interest.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the wide margins by which weapons procurement and development reductions were defeated "represented a substantial victory for a strong defense, and military preparedness."

Also, he said it would strengthen the position of President Ford in future arms control negotiations.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., attributed the defeat of budget-cutting amendments to "the collapse in Southeast Asia and high unemployment at home."

First Standards
Safety standards were established in California in 1933 for the construction of safer buildings to withstand earthquakes.

Arms Bill Due For Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $30.3-billion military weapons bill is heading for a Senate-House conference after surviving a week of budget-cutting assaults in the Senate.

The Senate passed the 15-month authorization measure Friday by a 77-to-6 vote.

The House approved its own $32-billion version of the same weapons procurement and research authorization in May.

President Ford's January budget requested $35.7 billion, including $2.5 billion no longer needed for military assistance in South Vietnam.

Both the House and Senate versions of the bill provide for admission of women to the U.S. military, naval and Air Force academies. The Senate amendment would allow female appointments for classes beginning in July 1978.

The Senate beat down all attempts either to reduce or increase the $30.3 billion recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee for the 15-month period beginning July 1.

Defeated during the week were amendments to stop development of the B1 supersonic bomber, suspend production of AWACS flying radar aircraft and stop research on programs to improve nuclear missile accuracy and yield, including a terminally guided maneuverable re-entry vehicle (MARV).

Military spending critics won a 43-to-41 vote Friday as the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to forbid any flight testing of MARV unless the Soviet Union carries out flight tests or the president certifies that some other Soviet threat requires it in the national interest.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the wide margins by which weapons procurement and development reductions were defeated "represented a substantial victory for a strong defense, and military preparedness."

Also, he said it would strengthen the position of President Ford in future arms control negotiations.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., attributed the defeat of budget-cutting amendments to "the collapse in Southeast Asia and high unemployment at home."

First Standards
Safety standards were established in California in 1933 for the construction of safer buildings to withstand earthquakes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $30.3-billion military weapons bill is heading for a Senate-House conference after surviving a week of budget-cutting assaults in the Senate.

The Senate passed the 15-month authorization measure Friday by a 77-to-6 vote.

The House approved its own $32-billion version of the same weapons procurement and research authorization in May.

President Ford's January budget requested $35.7 billion, including $2.5 billion no longer needed for military assistance in South Vietnam.

Both the House and Senate versions of the bill provide for admission of women to the U.S. military, naval and Air Force academies. The Senate amendment would allow female appointments for classes beginning in July 1978.

The Senate beat down all attempts either to reduce or increase the $30.3 billion recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee for the 15-month period beginning July 1.

Defeated during the week were amendments to stop development of the B1 supersonic bomber, suspend production of AWACS flying radar aircraft and stop research on programs to improve nuclear missile ac-

Interesting. Varied. And above all, the romance of an era masterfully recaptured by Heritage in its Kingsbridge Collection. Chests and tables inspired by 18th century British campaign chests. Here they are. Updated and masterfully crafted in the exclusive Heritage manner. The finish and woods are superb in rich glowing medium dark brown on African mahogany veneers and solids. All this is beautifully highlighted by solid brass and plated hardware. You'll welcome the many storage-rich and function-rich pieces. Kingsbridge will serve you well... in every room!

Millions Are 'Functionally Illiterate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eighty-six million Americans cannot compute their car's gasoline mileage. An estimated 53 million can't determine if they qualify for a job listed in the classified ads.

48 million can't figure out how much change they should get back from a store purchase and 39 million can't find the Social Security deduction on their pay-check stub.

Americans 16 years and older (than eight years of school) have participated in any given year," their report said.

Reporting back to Congress on Friday, the General Accounting Office said that while the program has had some beneficial results it has had "little impact on reducing illiteracy among adults."

During the first nine years of the program, about 4.6 million adults were enrolled, congressional auditors said.

Only about 1 per cent of the adult education program's estimated target population of 57 million adults and 4 per cent of the 15 million adults with less than an eighth grade education.

Court Rules For Counts

H. G. Counts and his wife Jo were awarded repossession of their $25,000 house here last week by a 142nd District Court civil jury that decided the Counts were bilked out of the house at 3203 Douglas St. in 1971.

Plaintiffs, now of Marble Falls and formerly of Midland, had contended that chief defendant J. T. Boyd of Midland and formerly of Maria gave them two invalid $10,000 promissory notes in making the transaction.

And the jury was unanimous in determining that the notes, on the defunct Foundation for Behavioral Research, were worthless and that Boyd falsely represented value of the notes.

In addition to the house in Midland's Skyline Heights Addition, the jury awarded the Counts $22,427.50, including $7,475.83 in exemplary damages against Boyd. The jury said that the balance—$14,951.67—was actual damages that reasonably represented what Counts lost in rental income.

Of those actual damages, co-defendant Lee Ogg of Seminole is jointly liable with Boyd for $11,000.

Representing plaintiff Counts in the litigation were Midland attorneys Vann Culp and Jimmie Oglesby.

Defense attorneys were Dan Sullivan of Andrews, Glenn Houston of Hobbs, N. M., and Boyd, who represented himself.

Airplane Contest Slated At Hogan

The Flying Chaparrals will sponsor the sixth annual "West Texas Regional Model Airplane Contest" June 14 and 15 at Hogan Park.

Contestants from all over Texas and neighboring states are expected to attend the "AAA" rated contest sanctioned by the Academy of Model Aeronautics which is supported by over 50,000 active model builders nationwide.

The championships are restricted to U-control airplanes. Planes are controlled by 52 ft. to 60 ft. steel cables and are powered by engines with displacements ranging from .15 to .40 inches.

All flyers are invited to the competition and first, second and third place trophies will be awarded winners in 16 events.

Events will include combat, racing, precision aerobatics, flying scale and a balloon burst. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Jaycees Involved, Committed Club

By BUDDY BAKER

"Involved" and "committed" are the only words in his vocabulary, one thinks as he listens to John Nobles.

The words are heard most often when Nobles, president of the Jaycees, speaks about the organization he was recently elected to head.

"We are a civic organization," he said. "We work principally with underprivileged children, senior citizens, and Mental Health and Mental Retardation."

Some of the MHRM projects the Jaycees are involved in, he said, are drug abuse, child abuse and alcoholism.

"We also work closely with other organizations within the city," he said.

Part of the organization also is concerned with development of the individual Jaycee member.

The chapter, through its various projects, he said, also "prepares the members to become the upcoming city leaders."

Membership in the Jaycees is open to anyone between the ages of 18 and 35, he said.

"We all have something in common. We all have young families and usually we're working for the other man."

"One of the reasons we are involved," Nobles said, "is because we've got manpower."

The Midland chapter currently has 210 members, he said, and they are "shooting for 300 this year."

With this manpower, he said, the chapter conducts between 80 and 90 projects a year. Two of the most well-known projects are the Christmas shopping tour and "Christmas in April."

The Christmas shopping tour, the president said, is "for kids who just wouldn't have any Christmas."

"We take roughly 150 underprivileged children to the store, give them $10 and they spend that $10 for their Christmas," he said.

For the Christmas in April project, he said, Jaycees and volunteers, using either donated or bought supplies, refurbish homes of the poor, either patching or replacing entirely a door or wall, or freshening the residence with a new coat of paint.

Despite all of the Jaycees' ongoing civic projects, Nobles said, the entire organization had changed considerably and was going into a "relevant organizational concept."

"We are trying to become more relevant, a more viable organization in the community," he said. "We want to know what people need."

To find out what people need, he said, the Midland chapter of the Jaycees has drawn up and distributed a questionnaire to 170 specific persons and organizations throughout the city.

Of this number, 95 of the three-page questionnaires were sent to churches, Nobles said.

Other persons and organizations the forms were sent to, he said, included law enforcement agencies, the sheriff's office, the chamber of commerce, bank presidents and heads of colleges.

From the queries returned, he said, the chapter hopes to determine "what do they (the community) expect out of the Jaycees, what do they get?"

Nobles said he hoped all the questionnaires were returned to him by June 14, so he could compile the results and present them during the board of directors that day.

At the meeting, he said, the programs mentioned by those who returned the form would be discussed and a list of priorities established for implementation.

With the new ideas garnered from the questionnaires, he said, the Jaycees hoped "to make Midland a better place for us to live, for our kids to live and just for those who are not Jaycees to live."

"To my knowledge," he said, "this is the first survey of this kind conducted by this chapter. It will be the first planning session of this kind I've been involved in."

The Midland Jaycees is "one of the strongest Jaycee chapters in the state of Texas at this time," Nobles said. "Our budget last year was right at $50,000."

Each year, he said, the chapter requires "in the neighborhood of $7,000 to $10,000 just to operate."

The rest of the money, Nobles said, "goes right back into the community."

Part of the chapter's funds, he said, come from dues—$30 a year—but most was derived from football concessions, carnivals and raffles either conducted or sponsored by the Jaycees.

If money is raised for a particular project, Nobles said, "we see that these monies go to that specific thing. If we get an average, that money is put into a savings account (for that particular project), and used the next year."

The Midland Jaycee chapter is in need of "a place to call home and we're in search of that place now," he said. The building would be used, he said,

Dirt, Squirt & Quirt

FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS

By CHARLES GREEN
Midland County Agent

Planting of warm season crops is almost complete in Midland County. The season was extended this year due to considerable replanting caused by weather damage from washing rain and hail in May. Moisture conditions are generally good over the area following totals of 4 inches or more in May. Growth of crops planted early has been slow due to cool soil and weather conditions, but as nights begin to warm growth will become normal.

Due to the present cost of plant nutrients, interest has increased in seeking alternatives for soil applications and substitutes for regular fertilization. However, there is no substitute for an adequate supply of available nutrients for the production of high crop yields.

Foliar feeding is a method of applying fertilizer nutrients but the amount per application is limited because of damage that results from applying concentrated salt solutions on the leaves of plants.

A 5 per cent solution of urea has been applied in research studies without significant leaf burn. In regions of low humidity, such as West Texas, higher concentrations have been used but absorption through the leaf surface is dependent on enough moisture to keep the fertilizer in solution. Therefore, to meet the seasonal nutrient requirement, several applications must be made. In addition, young plants do not have much leaf surface, hence a high proportion of the fertilizer solution falls on the soil.

Since phosphorus is needed during the seedling stage of growth, waiting until leaves develop to apply phosphorus is not a satisfactory method of application. Because of these limitations, foliar feeding should not be considered as a substitute for soil fertilization.

A Food Preservation and Fall Gardening School will be held Wednesday at Lancaster Garden Center, 1705 W. Indiana St.

From 2 to 4 p.m., Mrs. Judy Germany, county extension agent-home economics will discuss food preservation on produce from the home garden. Dr. William Peavy, area extension horticulturist from Fort Stockton will conduct a fall gardening school from 7 to 9 p.m. All interested persons are invited.

Quite often the county extension agent is asked about the location of vegetable gardens and septic tanks. We have received some expert advice concerning this from David Cochran of the Texas State Department of Health at Austin. He is Texas' resident expert on topics such as these.

He said 10 feet should be an adequate distance to locate a garden from the septic tank drain field. This depends somewhat on the sledge and drainage path, of course. If the garden were located upslope from a drain field, 10 feet would be adequate separation distance, but you would want more distance than that if the drain field is upslope from the garden.

From the standpoint of human disease transmission, there is far more potential for pathogenic organisms to be transmitted on the surface of plants that are not properly washed than there is for actual uptake of disease-causing organisms into the plant material itself. Thus, above-ground crops in gardens would probably not be sources to disease transmission, but underground roots and tubers could serve as mechanisms of transport if proper sanitation were not practiced.

Cochran said most disease organisms die within a few days after they are exposed to soil environment, which is hostile to most pathogens such as salmonella, hepatitis, etc., found in wastewaters. For example, research indicates that during summer conditions, 99.9 per cent of the fecal coliforms and fecal streptococcus are killed within 40 days after entry into the soil.

Ringling The Bell

with BOB TIEBEL

The Black Experience: Purely Personal — About 10 years ago, Richard E. Wright Jr. who later became bishop in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, wrote a book entitled "87 Years Behind The Black Curtain." In his dedication he said in part "... and to the millions of teen-agers now on the threshold of manhood, other millions in their cradles, and still others in their mothers' wombs, and to the men and women of good will of all races and colors and creeds, with the expectation that they will be able to tear away the 'Black Curtain' and open up a new world of opportunity for all."

On June 26, we will be able to write a paraphrasing Bishop Wright's words, "87 Years Behind The Black Curtain." This curtain today is gradually turning gray and perhaps within a few decades will become invisible. For this we pray.

After "bantering" up and down several mid-South sections and then to the East Coast for study and work for several seasons, we ended up in our mid-30s in Central Kansas, and then in the West Texas-New Mexico region around 1949, where we have lived here since.

Signs Of Yesteryears
We remember when "for colored only" signs were everywhere in these parts. We remember our struggle and final victory to enjoy public accommodations in West Texas-New Mexico. We remember the "colored school" in the flats and the white kids driving by in their big yellow buses on their way to school downtown or uptown. We wondered then when would the "black curtain" be lifted.

Today as I see the little black boys and girls and brownies, too, on their way to school with the other kids, I'm glad they didn't know how it used to be. Thank God, Belringers. A new world is a'comin'. This we believe, for we believe in America — a land where dreams still come true.

It's great to be 61 and to look back and then look ahead for better things yet to come.

Chimes: Word comes that Fort Worth is ready for the 71st annual session of the National Baptist Congress, this week with the Rev. J. L. Dawson, pastor of the Mount Olive Baptist Church, serving as the host. Downtown headquarters of the confab is the Sheraton Hotel, with most public meetings to be held in the downtown convention center.

The 9th Annual West Texas-Eastern New Mexico Regional Convention of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International, is scheduled in Odessa this week, with headquarters at the Inn of the Golden West. A number of the public meetings are scheduled for the Ector County Coliseum. See you there.

Abilene Meeting
Antioch C.M.E. Church of Abilene will host the 43rd annual session of the Northwest Texas Conference on June 24-27, with the Rt. Rev. C. D. Coleman, the presiding bishop. Some of the leaders of the conference include presiding elders E. J. Lott and Jonah Parker. Visitors from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma are expected to attend.

Until later be a good neighbor. Remember they come in all colors.

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

PHOENIX (Special) — An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that enables overweight people to easily and quickly become slim, trim and attractive "while eating almost as much as you want."

The new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal. Happy testimonials from people all across the country claim "you save time and money while achieving more effective weight loss results with this new diet plan."

Loss up to a Pound a Day
Those who follow this simple diet plan report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation.

Fortified with vitamin E and C, the new whole grapefruit extract pill and foods as prescribed by the diet will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and body fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat All You Want
Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces, gravies, bacon, eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available
To get a copy of this highly successful diet and grapefruit pills, send $5 for 10 day supply (or $8 for 20 day supply or $10 for 30 days supply) cash, check, or money order to: CITRUS FARMS LTD., Dept. A60, 4040 E. McDowell St., Phoenix, Arizona 85008. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) BankAmericard or Master Charge OK (send number and expiration date). (Adv.)

Legislators Face Specter Of Tax Plan Next Session

AUSTIN — During the final moments of the 64th Texas Legislature, the action was hectic, and the members had to make lasting decisions on several session-long issues.

No new taxes were called for this session, but the spectre of a new tax program, estimated to be as much as $1 billion by some anti-spenders, looms before the next session.

A major item on the fading agenda was the state's new $12.2 billion budget, followed by the bill to regulate public utilities in Texas. The third major item passed as lawmakers prepared to return home was the school finance plan, which will spend more than $650 million of state tax money, but still leave local areas with the problem of raising new money to care of the grass roots share.

Here's how area legislators voted on the various issues that closed the session:

Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland voted for appropriations and school finance and against utilities regulation.

Reps. Tom Craddock of Midland and John Hoebenback of Odessa voted against adoption of the utilities commission bill conference committee. Both also voted against the appropriations bill conference committee report and for the final school finance bill.

Mailey Says New Bill Reduces Likelihood Of School Tax Increases

The new school finance bill will "minimize the likelihood of a tax increase" for the Midland Independent School District, according to Dr. James H. Mailey, superintendent.

Related Story on Page 10C

The legislation, signed into law on Friday, is expected by local school officials to help take the sting out of inflationary education costs which, without the finance bill, would have required a tax hike for Midland when the 1975-76 is drawn up.

Mailey said the plan currently is under study by the administrative staff in regard to budgeting and staffing for the upcoming school term.

"I don't think we're in bad shape," he said, "and, in fact, I think we've been helped. Our local fund assignment as our share of the Minimum Foundation program has increased approximately $1 million.

"This increase, of course, is offset by increases in revenue

Heavy Viet Bombings Revealed

Ambassador Graham Martin still held hopes that negotiations might halt the North Vietnamese tanks already on the outskirts of Saigon.

By noon Saigon time, however, the tension at the American Embassy compound in Saigon notably increased. It was clear that the final evacuation — which had not physically started in earnest at that time — would be a disaster if the North Vietnamese decided to use their full military force immediately.

Wreck Injures Midland Man

Cleophus Harrison, 52, of 1621 E. Maple St., was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released Saturday after being injured in a two-car collision shortly before noon.

Police said Harrison was injured when the car he was driving and a car driven by John Bell, 65, of 307 1/2 S. Adams St., collided at the intersection of Kansas and Mineola Streets.

Degrees Awarded

BROWNWOOD — Three Midlanders recently were graduated from Howard Payne University in the 1975 spring commencement exercises. They are Maria Zertuche Jimenez, Rene Alan Monette and Jerry Dean Smith.

Some sources claim that the Americans and the North Vietnamese, in those last hectic hours, had reached an "understanding" that the evacuation would go off virtually unhindered — as finally proved the case.

Communication intercepted by early afternoon, April 29 however, military intelligence authorities intercepted a North Vietnamese communication, sent uncodified in the clear, ordering a bombardment of Saigon's Presidential Palace by 130 mm. guns already in place around the capital. The bombardment was to begin at 6 p.m. and would be at least 200 shells.

Some authorities though the message a bluff. Others worried that other coded messages might order even heavier bombardments in other parts of the city. A barrage against the palace, hardly four blocks from the embassy, would scatter shells over a wide area since the Red gunners could not have accurate ranges at that time.

A representative of the American Embassy was sent immediately to the nearby home of Saigon's one-day president, Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, the longtime opposition figure who had direct radio contact with the North Vietnamese. What Big Minh messaged the Communist authorities is unknown but at any rate the barrage did not take place. Pairs Ordered Meanwhile, however, the American bombing raids had already been ordered.

The reluctance of North Vietnam to publicize or protest the bombing raids is most likely connected with the secret exchanges which preceded and took place on April 29. In the past, notably in Cambodia, Communist forces refrained from publicizing American bombing raids, though it would have seemed in their interest to do so.

Services Today For D. C. Evans

Services for David Clay Evans, 24, of Elk City, Okla., will be held at 2 p.m. today in the Newline W. Ellis Chapel.

Officiating will be the Rev. Paul Miller of the Trinity Baptist Church of Odessa and Bruce McNear of the Alamo Heights Baptist Church of Midland.

Interment will be at Sunset Memorial Gardens in Odessa. Evans, of Midland, was killed Wednesday in an automobile mishap near Elk City.

Survivors include the widow, Olivia Evans; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Evans of Midland; a daughter, Tamara Rene Evans; a sister, Mrs. Kay Ward of Indiana; two brothers, Raymond Dale Evans of Abilene and Boyd Evans of Portales, N. M., and his grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Thorson of Midland.

Palbearers will be Jim Keever, Tom Dillon, D. H. Rose, Jr., Arlis Sewell, Bobby Trimble and Dick Frazier.

Funeral services were held here Thursday, with interment in Dallas' Resthaven Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Youkum was the widow of a prominent Dallas architect, who died last September, also of a heart seizure.

Midlanders' Aunt Dies At Dallas

DALLAS — Mrs. Hal (Emma Dell) Youkum, aunt of two Midland residents, Mrs. B. J. (Valerie) Waller and Mrs. R. E. L. Taylor, died Wednesday in a Dallas hospital of a heart seizure.

Funeral services were held here Thursday, with interment in Dallas' Resthaven Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Youkum was the widow of a prominent Dallas architect, who died last September, also of a heart seizure.

Survivors, in addition to the two Midland nieces, include three sisters and a brother.

A. A. Wilson, 74, Dies At Snyder

SNYDER — A. A. Wilson of Snyder, brother of Mrs. Annie Farrington of Midland, was dead on arrival at a Snyder hospital Thursday after suffering an apparent heart seizure. He was 74.

Services were to be at 2 p.m. today in Hammons Funeral Home in Littlefield with interment in Littlefield Cemetery.

He was born Sept. 10, 1900 in Eastland County and married Eula Parrish May 3, 1923 in Lynn County. He had been a Snyder resident since 1971 and was a retired farmer and rancher.

Other survivors include the widow; one son, Glendell Wilson of San Antonio; one other sister, Mrs. J. E. Shipp of Snyder; and three grandchildren.

Go Fly A Kite Like The Man Said

If Bob Ingraham of Silver City, N.M., tells you to "go fly a kite," don't take offense—take his advice instead. Ingraham knows what he's talking about: He's founder and president of the American Kitefliers Association.

Ingraham will be a Midland visitor this coming weekend when he conducts a special kite clinic and demonstration kites. The event is sponsored by Las Manos—"The Hands" of the Museum of the Southwest—and the Midland Jaycees as a preliminary to the big "first annual" kiteflying festival and contest being planned as one of the special Fourth of July events in the Tail City.

The visitor will present a lecture and demonstration on kite making and kite flying next Saturday afternoon in the museum planetarium. Then, next Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m., kites—real and would-be—will gather at Alamo Junior High School for a general kitefly plus demonstrations and discussions.

The Saturday clinic and Sunday's kiteflying demonstration event on the grounds of Alamo School will be open to all interested persons, said Mrs. Randall B. Johnston, Las Manos chairman for the public service project. There are no special requirements for the public's participation in the events, she said.

Museum, Planetarium Plan Busy Summer

Special summer courses and planetarium programs are being announced by the Museum of the Southwest.

Planetarium programs include "How's Your Sagittarius?" and "How's Your Virgo?" described as a theatrical production specially designed for small planetariums.

"How's Your Sagittarius?" is described as a theatrical production specially designed for small planetariums utilizing a combination of professional cost and specially-produced music.

Additional information on the museum courses is available from the museum office, 603-2002, while details on youth classes in the planetarium may be obtained from planetarium director John Hicks, 683-6441.

Registration for the youth courses should be made through Midland College, 684-7851, Ext. 216.

"How's Your Sagittarius?" program at the planetarium will begin Friday and continue each Friday evening through June.

Symphony Members Attending National Meeting This Week

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Representatives of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral Association are attending a national meeting of the American Symphony Orchestra League here this week.

The league, an organization representing more than 1,300 symphony orchestras in cities around the U.S., will stage its yearly convalescence Tuesday through Friday.

The theme of the league's annual meeting is "Helping Orchestras Help Themselves." With conference sessions to be devoted to such things as "A New Look at Government and the Arts."

MCT's 'Gideon' Serious Success

"Gideon," Midland Community Theatre's new production, gleams with opulence and grandeur.

Mind you, not with the visual lustre of colorful costumes and sets offered by a musical production, say, and not with the opulence of music-and-lyrics. The power and grandeur of "Gideon" lies in its textual content, its very concept.

Playwright Paddy Chayefsky's drama about a simple, artsy man and his encounters with God is drawn straight from the Old Testament and, with its special kind of spare, stark beauty, proves again that community theater can, and should, occasionally provide something more than mindless farces and light comedies, no matter how engaging they may be.

to consistently pay obeisance to Him. "It is not easy to love God," says Gideon, "for one must transcend all the frailties of men to do so."

This is all pretty strong fare for a summer evening's entertainment but at the hands of Midland Community Theatre director Art Cole's competent cast it is compelling entertainment. The only complaint I have is that a few of the cast members did not enunciate their lines clearly on opening night and it was difficult to comprehend some of the dialogue given these characters.

Chayefsky's drama, straight from the Book of Judges, tells the story of Gideon, a simple farmer, who is commanded by God to lead a small army of Israelites against the hordes of Midianites who annually plunder the Israelite tribes.

OUT OF THE FIELD INTO A TEST TUBE

CHICAGO (AP) — Test-tube corn may some day be a normal part of a dinner menu, reports Prairie Farmer, a leading rural publication.

Four Cornell University scientists are trying to create new corn varieties by combining plant cells in a test tube. They are attempting to transfer plant genes through genetic manipulation of cells. Then they hope to develop a technique of breeding corn varieties in the laboratory. The long-term goal is to develop corn varieties with multiple resistance to a number of insects and diseases under laboratory conditions.

Investment Opportunities In Iran Said 'Nearly Limitless'

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
Copley News Service
TEHRAN — American businessmen are being urged to profit from "nearly limitless" investment opportunities in Iran.

Despite the recent cut in oil production, Iran's economy will continue to expand and its need of American expertise and finished products is greater than ever.

This, in a nutshell, is the message contained in the latest semiannual report issued by the American Embassy here. There was a word of caution, however.

"Iranians are becoming more and more experienced in dealing with potential foreign investors," the report concluded. "While American business for the most part enjoys a favorable reputation in Tehran, strong competition is ever present from European and Japanese companies. Iranian importers and prospective partners can be depended upon to be hard bargainers and to strive diligently to obtain the best deal available."

On the whole, the current year promises to be one of increasing opportunity and challenge to a wide range of American companies. Already the United States has surpassed Japan and now occupies the second place after West Germany as Iran's economic partner.

In terms of hard figures, American imports represent 18 per cent of Iran's total or about $1 billion. The figure does not include some $3.8 billion of military hardware Iran has ordered from the United States. If that was included, the United States would be the No. 1 exporter to this rapidly expanding country.

To be sure, Iran's oil-fueled expansion is slowing down. Because of lesser Western demand, oil production is between 11 and 15 per cent lower than a year ago. The bottlenecks in the country's harbors and the inadequate overland transportation system cause further slowdown in expansion. The embassy estimates that this year's overall growth will be 22 per cent compared to a staggering 40 per cent during 1974.

Nevertheless, according to the report, "opportunities abound for American companies to increase their exports to Iran and to negotiate new joint ventures, licensing arrangements and technical collaboration agreements."

Among products most in demand are petrochemicals, iron and steels, agricultural products and construction projects. Minister of Finance and Economic Affairs, Hushang Ansary said recently that Iran would concentrate on investing abroad in areas which would also bring technical assistance and distribution facilities to this country.

In March, Iran and the United States signed an agreement calling for $15 billion in two-way, non-oil trade between the two countries over the next five years. Already the Iranians believe this figure can easily be exceeded by $5 billion. In practice it means vast opportunities for American business as Iranian exports to the United States are roughly in the vicinity of $100 million annually.

Hardly a day goes by without a contract or a letter of intent signed between Iran and American business enterprises.

In addition to the giant companies there have been a variety of smaller deals. For example, in April, Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller led an 18-man negotiating team to Iran and left with some $100 million worth of contracts—and others in the pipeline. A delegation from Tennessee led by Gov. Ray Blanton has scheduled a visit in October.

Major projects awarded to American companies in the last six months include a telephone switching project by General Telephone and Electronics worth almost $1 billion; sales of $64 million worth of trucks by International Harvester; a General Motors plan to build a $600 million car and truck assembly plant and many others.

Particularly good business opportunities lie in the fields of medical equipment and training aides as well as the construction of hospitals and schools.

Iran is also in need of agricultural imports which are expected to grow from $500 million to $650 million this year.

Although Iran has severed the direct connection between its currency, the rial, and the dollar in favor of the International Monetary Fund's Special Drawing Rights (SDR), the measure resulted only in the 1.5 upward revaluation of the rial.

Despite its massive spending abroad, and at home, Iran expects to have a $5.5 billion balance of payments surplus at the end of this year.

Another factor of major importance to the United States is the shortage of trained personnel to cope with Iran's crash development program.

The country's current five-year plan ending in 1978 estimates a shortfall of 721,000 skilled personnel. Thousands are being imported to fill in the gap from a variety of countries. At present, there are some 18,000 Americans working in Iran—and their number is growing daily.

Permits Top $10 Million

Tail City building permits last week passed the $10 million mark as permits were taken out on 22 new residences and commercial alterations tallied more than $1 million alone.

The permit for $474,000 for the previously announced additions to The Reporter-Telegram, along with a permit for storage buildings worth $36,700 at 3312 W. Illinois St., more than doubled the year's tally for commercial alterations.

The two permits totaled $510,700 to boost the annual total to $1,127,990.

Value on the new residences was $721,200, and residential alterations tallied $34,800. The combined total for the three categories was $1,206,790 for an annual sum of $10,574,486.

Of the 22 permits for new homes, 12 were by ABCO Homes, Inc. Each valued at $28,000, the homes will be located on Emerson Street at the following addresses: 2500, 2611, 2613, 2615, 2617, 2601, 2603, 2605, 2607, 2609, 2611 and 2613.

T.C.H. was issued permits for a $36,500 home at 2608 Northrup St. and another for $36,500 at 2601 Northrup St.

Additional new residence permits were issued to R&R Construction Co., 2413 Maxwell St., $37,000; Harvey Langston Builders, 4511 W. Denger St., $39,000; T. R. McAden, 2611 Ward St., $31,500; Hays Construction Co., 2613 Northrup St., $32,700; Cord Land and Development Corp., 727 W. Dormard St., $35,000, and 3113 Hayes St., $48,000; Trend Homes, 2313 Maxwell St., $44,000, and Carroll Grafe, 2310 Metz Place, $45,000.

FNB Development Promotes Donnelly

G. Arthur Donnelly III has been named executive vice president and director of FNB Development Corp. and director of Basin Headquarters, Inc. Both FNB Development and Basin Headquarters are affiliates of The First National Bank of Midland.

Donnelly joined the staff of FNB Development in 1973 as a vice president. Before that, he was associated with Main L-frentz & Co. He is a graduate of The University of Texas and attended law school at the University of Tulsa.

Donnelly has been active in the Optimist Club, the Midland Chamber of Commerce, M-Squad, the Industrial Foundation of Midland, the United Way and the Permian Basin unit of the UT ex-students organization. He is serving on the Midland Board of Adjustment and the board of the American Cancer Society unit here.

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK— Consumer Protection Bills Become Law

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Two bills passed by the 64th Legislature will provide additional protection for Texas consumers, according to Assistant Atty. Gen. Joe Longley.

SB 48 by Sens. Lloyd Doggett of Austin and Oscar Mauzy of Dallas (carried in the House by Rep. Bill Clark of Tyler) amends the consumer protection act to allow small businesses to sue if they are defrauded.

Previously, the act was limited to individuals. Now partnerships and corporations may file suit, Longley reports. The act also provides specifically for real property as well, he adds.

The other measure which Longley sees as making a major change is SB 397 by Doggett, overhauling the mobile home law in Texas.

The bill sets up a system of bonds — $100,000 for mobile home manufacturers, $25,000 for dealers and $2,000 for salesmen — in an attempt to provide protection for consumers in cases where a manufacturer or dealer goes out of business and leaves consumers with defective mobile homes.

Also contained in the bill is what Longley calls a "revolutionary development" in protection for Texas consumers — a provision creating a statutory warrant for all new mobile homes.

The warranty applies to dealers and manufacturers and

Short Takes On Business

Lewis White, formerly a general manager in an Amarillo Skaggs Albertsons store, has assumed the same post in the Midland store upon the transfer and promotion of Fred Burkhalter.

Burkhalter, who has managed the Midland store since it opened four years ago, Monday becomes the West Texas division manager over 16 stores. He will operate out of the company's general offices in Dallas.

James E. Pilgreen, president and administrator of Parkview Hospital, recently completed the health services administrator's development program offered by the Trinity University Graduate School at San Antonio.

Charlie Harris, a Farmers Insurance Group agent here, will attend his company's annual Topper Club convention in New Orleans June 26-29.

This will be the fifth year in succession that Harris has qualified for the convention, which is open only to the top 20 per cent of agents.

Midland Realtors will attend the annual convention of the Texas Association of Realtors at El Paso this Wednesday through Saturday.

New Economy Air Fares Scheduled

LOS ANGELES—Continental Airlines and eight commuter air carriers will join forces July 1 to offer new economy fares 10 per cent lower than the fares now available, according to Charles A. Bucks, executive vice president-marketing for Continental.

The commuter carriers involved are Swift Air Lines, San Luis Obispo, Calif.; Metro Airlines, Houston; Metroflight Airlines, Dallas; Rio Airways, Kilbuck; Golden West Airlines, Newport Beach, Calif.; Cascade Airlines, Spokane, Wash.; Air Midwest, Wichita, Kan.; and Air Wisconsin, Appleton, Wis.

Hallmark Given Tech Scholarship

LUBBOCK—Mike Hallmark of Midland is the recipient of the 1975 Wayne Sellers Scholarship in mass communications at Texas Tech University.

Hallmark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O. Hallmark, is sports editor of the University Daily at Texas Tech, first vice president and secretary of the Saddle Tramps (a campus spirit organization) and a member of Sigma Delta Chi (journalism honor society).

The scholarship is an annual award made by Wayne Sellers, a Texas Tech alumnus who is editor of the Palestine, Texas, Herald-Press and president of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association.

Lamesa Student Gets Scholarship

LAMESA—Samuel Neil Smiley, a 1975 graduate of Lamesa High School, has been awarded a $4,000 Welch Foundation Scholarship by the Texas Interscholastic League Foundation.

Smiley earned eligibility for the scholarship through his participation in the University Interscholastic League science and debate contests.

The Welch Foundation provided funds for 15 of the $4,000 scholarships for 1975. Texas Interscholastic League Foundation administers the grants.

Nationalist China Preparing For Diplomatic Blow From Philippines

By DON OBERDORFER
The Washington Post

TAIPEI — Nationalist China has braced itself for another major diplomatic blow — this time from its closest friendly neighbor, the Philippines. As in dozens of similar cases in the recent past, ambassadors have been withdrawn, Taiwan editorials have issued 11th hour warnings to a former ally and arrangements are being made to continue trade and sub rosa official dealings even after the diplomatic break.

Manila's break with Taiwan is considered imminent following the arrival in Peking Saturday of Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos, who is seeking formal diplomatic ties with Peking. The expected diplomatic switch will leave 26 countries officially recognizing the government here compared to nearly 100 which now recognize the government on the Chinese mainland.

Thailand's prime minister has announced his country intends to establish relations with Peking by the end of this month, and the Africa country of Lesotho is believed also preparing to make the switch. In view of loss of anti-Communist South Vietnam last month, a very unhappy season for Taiwan diplomats is shaping up.

"We are less concerned about our future relations with the Philippines than we are concerned about the Philippines themselves," says Taiwan's vice foreign minister, H. K. Yang.

"I think a pilgrimage to the mainland is a panacea to solve their internal difficulties."

He didn't spell out the troubles, but Taiwan's controlled press has warned Manila of an increased Communist insurgency, an expanded Moslem separatist movement and even growing dope traffic from the mainland as a consequence of normalization with Peking.

Officials comment and the press orchestration, which appear to be aimed in large part at preparing the public here, represented in the U.N. command. Instead, the North Koreans are now focusing on achieving diplomatic backing against South Korea. This appears to be the principal objective of Kim's current tour. He had visited Romania, Bulgaria, Algeria and Mauritania before coming to Yugoslavia two days ago.

After two hours of talks with President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia, Kim repeatedly emphasized in his statements published Saturday that Korea is a part of the Third World, and he expressed the hope that his government would be accepted as a full member of the nonaligned movement later this year.

The collapse of South Vietnam and Cambodia reportedly encouraged Kim's hopes for a similar Communist sweep on the Korean peninsula. But he was reported to have been discouraged from starting a second Korean war during his visit to Peking two months ago.

The U.N. force consists of 38,000 American troops and only symbolic numbers of military men from other nations also be denied them Taiwan and Premier Chou En-lai to formal U.S. diplomatic relations. Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger said last month that Taiwan "will be protected" under U.S. treaty obligations "as long as those treaties continue to guide the country and are the highest (U.S.) law of the land."

In contrast to more cautious interpretations a few months ago, American diplomats seem convinced that the defense treaty with Taiwan would automatically become void if diplomatic recognition of the Nationalist government ceases. In this light Schlesinger's recent comment is being read here as only temporarily reassuring. And perhaps even ominous in the long run.

The U.S.-Republic of China Mutual Defense Treaty, signed in 1954, is still in effect and is considered by many here of even greater importance than

North Korean President Mounts Drive To Get Support To Dissolve U.N. Force

By DUSKO DODER
The Washington Post

BELGRADE — President Kim Il Sung of North Korea has mounted a diplomatic offensive to secure Third World support for a move to dissolve the United Nations peacekeeping force in Korea, well-informed sources said Saturday.

Marshal Kim's aim is said to be the forthcoming session of the U.N. General Assembly, where he hopes that some 80 nonaligned countries would join the Communist bloc in passing a resolution calling for the withdrawal of the U.S. force from South Korea.

Socialists Claim Victory In Portugal Showdown

LISBON, Portugal (AP) —

Portugal's Socialists claimed victory Saturday in a showdown with the military over freedom of the press, and the Roman Catholic Church quickly said if its own free speech case isn't resolved, church-state relations could be ruptured.

"We are staying in the government," a Socialist party official announced after the military authorities cleared the way for the reopening of a Socialist-run newspaper that was closed under Communist pressure May 30.

Led by Mario Soares, the country's largest political party was prepared to walk out on the military unless the newspaper Republica was returned to its Socialist editors.

An announcement by the army's Revolutionary Council late Friday night said Republica could be published again under military guarantee.

This solved one crisis for the army, since it prevented the collapse of the provisional government, but the military quickly found itself approaching another formidable opponent — the Roman Catholic Church.

In a dispute resembling the Republica affair, the church is demanding that Communists who seized the Catholic radio station — Radio Renascenca — be ousted from the broadcasting studio and that the station resume broadcasting as the voice of the church of Portugal.

Speaking with the full support of Portugal's Catholic bishops, the station's loyalist administrators described the seizure as "a threat to a truly free church."

"In this respect," the administrators said, "the case of Radio Renascenca could, in the end, reach a point of rupture between church and state."

Until now the church has maintained an attitude of neutrality toward the Marxist experiments devised by the ruling Armed Forces Movement.

The military is faced with a dangerous economic crisis and can ill afford the opposition of Portugal's oldest and most influential institution.

In its ruling on Republica, the Revolutionary Council said the paper could be reopened when Editor Raul Rego asked that the seals be removed from the office doors of the newspaper.

The doors were still locked Saturday and two policemen stood guard outside.

Rego said, however, a letter already had been sent to the Revolutionary Council informing the army that the formal request for reopening Republica would be forwarded later — probably Monday.

Dominican Officials Say Guerrillas Enter Country

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) —

Urban guerrillas have "clandestinely" entered the country from Cuba to perform terrorist acts including kidnappings and sabotage against public and private property," Dominican officials announced Saturday.

They said the group was believed near San Jose de Ocoa, a small mountain community about 10 miles from the Caribbean on the country's south coast and about 50 miles west of Santo Domingo.

The number in the band was not given, but officials said they were all Dominicans.

A secret service report alerted the military to the urban terrorist threat, a communique said. As a result, security measures were started across the country three days ago. The Dominican Republic is an 18,000-mile-square land area that straddles the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Troops were sent into the mountain region in an attempt to pinpoint the invaders, a spokesman said. American-made helicopters also flew over the sector to point the way for the force on the ground below.

Road blocks were placed at the entrance of Santo Domingo, and at key points across the country. Hundreds of homes were entered.

Canadians Trying To Deport Former South Viet General

By BILL RICHARDS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Canadian officials are quietly seeking to deport a former Vietnamese general with a reputation for trafficking in drugs and corruption. His presence has raised a major controversy over whether Canada should continue accepting Vietnamese refugees with a past that is politically or criminally tainted.

At the center of protests from politicians, other refugee groups of Vietnamese in Canada and Asian scholars, is the presence in Montreal of Lt. Gen. Dung Van Quang, a special assistant for military and security affairs for former South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The 45-year-old former three-star general and close personal friend of Thieu was spirited out of a U.S. refugee camp at Fort Chaffee, Ark., allegedly with CIA help and flown to Montreal May 18.

Now the embarrassed Canadian Ministry of Immigration is seeking to pressure Quang, who is in seclusion in a 14-room house of a Vietnamese associate in the Montreal suburbs, into either leaving of his own accord or being thrown out.

No Part Of Quang
Officials in Canada and Washington said Tuesday that the U.S. has informally told Canada that it wants no part of Quang who was described recently by a State Department official formerly stationed in Saigon as "perhaps the epitome of everything that was wrong in South Vietnam."

In addition to Quang, Canadian Immigration officials said they were instigating security checks on a number of Vietnamese believed to be closely connected with Quang. The circle of Vietnamese reportedly has large sums of money which they are investing in hotels and other real estate from Montreal to Vancouver, officials said.

"There are lots of questions being asked," said a Canadian official in Washington. "We will obviously be tightening down the investigation and selection procedures because of Gen. Quang."

Quang and the others close to him are part of a total of about 2,700 Vietnamese refugees who have fled to Canada, primarily to the French-speaking Montreal area where there is already a substantial Vietnamese colony.

Canadian officials and Derek Blackburn, a new Democratic party member of Parliament who has been leading the attack on Quang said Tuesday, that among those who are either already in Canada or seeking to gain entrance are the following:

Seeks Readmission
—Nguyen Tan Doi, a former director of the second largest bank in Vietnam who was arrested and jailed in Vietnam last year for graft and narcotics activity, according to Canadian officials. Doi, who formerly had been living in Canada before returning to Vietnam several years ago, is now seeking readmission as a permanent resident. Officials said they believed he is currently in Thailand. Doi's wife and children presently live in Canada.

—Bui Dinh Nam, the former head of one of the largest pharmaceutical houses in Vietnam who some non-governmental sources said may have been acting as an advance man for Quang. Dinh was reported by officials to have been a frequent traveler between Canada and Vietnam and is believed to be one of the richest Vietnamese refugees in Canada with holdings in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

—Duo Diep Khanh, sister-in-law of Nam who authorities in the Canadian solicitor general's office said is believed to be the person listed as the recipient of art treasures that were taken from South Vietnam's National Museum. The shipment was briefly held up in Guam but was released for its Montreal destination last Sunday.

'Special Branch'
—Tran Shi Tan, former chief of Thieu's police "special branch" is also reported to be trying to gain entrance to Canada, according to Blackburn.

—Nguyen Tan Phat, who owns a house near the one now housing Quang, once served as Thieu's financial advisor. The house, built with one windowless wing, is now heavily guarded.

"All of these people seem to be connected with the general as the focal point and we're trying to pin down their relationships," said an Immigration Ministry official.

The official said that in addition to the Vietnamese already in Canada who are associated with Quang the government has seen additional entrance applications from other members believed to be part of the circle from refugee camps at Camp Pendleton and from Guam. "We are not taking any action to let them in yet," he said.

Quang has also drawn heavy criticism from a number of Vietnamese refugees now in Canada. One group, calling itself the Black April Committee, has charged that the former general took bribes of up to $25,000 for exit visas near the end of the war and then left the country and never delivered the visas, according to Prof. Nguyen Huu Chi, a Vietnamese who is head of the political science department at Carleton University in Ottawa. He said that the Black April group included marines and paratroopers who were blaming corrupt officials for the loss of the war.

Chi said the group had been formed on Guam to carry out reprisals against corrupt Vietnamese leaders and that Quang's name was at the head of a list drawn up by the group. Members of the group, according to Chi, are now in Canada, on Guam and at Pendleton in California.

Canadian officials in Ottawa and Washington said that the U.S. won't allow Quang, who is reported to have worked with the CIA in Saigon, back into this country and instead has indicated it would use its influence to have him accepted if necessary as a refugee on Taiwan where Thieu is now in residence.

Mrs. John Dwight Swallow

Janet Kay Merrill, Swallow Married

HOUSTON—River Oaks Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage Saturday of Janet Kay Merrill and John Dwight Swallow. The Rev. Dickson Rial officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James Merrill, has completed her junior year at Texas Tech University, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority. She plans to complete her education at The University of Texas-Permian Basin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Swallow of Houston, formerly of Midland, are the parents of the bridegroom, who has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Tech. He was a varsity cheerleader, active in campus government and a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is associated with Stealy Oil Co. in Midland, where the couple will reside after a trip to Colorado.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight satin organza. The Empire bodice was designed with a high neckline and tucked bands of Venice and Chary laces extending into an A-line skirt. Full bishop sleeves applied with bands of lace featured deep cuffs of Chary lace. A matching lace cloche held her cathedral train. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and greenery. She also carried an Irish lace handkerchief carried by her maternal grandmother in her wedding, and had an Italian cameo brooch, gift from the bridegroom's family.

The maid of honor was Patty Sanders of Houston, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Newell D. Boyd II and Mrs. William A. Wood Jr., were matrons of honor. They wore gowns of ice blue Quiana and carried bouquets of yellow and white Majestic daisies.

James F. Cooley Marries Linda Burns

James Franklin Cooley married Linda Jane Burns at 7 p.m. Saturday in a double ring ceremony in the Crestview Baptist Church, with the Rev. Ken James officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Burns, 805 Brooks Drive. Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cooley, 4216 Tanner St. are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by both parents, the bride selected formal gown of silk organza featuring a frosted lace bodice with a full skirt merging into a semi-cathedral train. Ruffled crystal pleating edged with mini-pearls framed the scooped neckline, lace bishop sleeves, skirt flounce and back panel of skirt and train. The self corded waistline closed in the back with a matching Dior bow. Her veil of silk illusion edged in the crystal pleating and pearls fell from a matching lace Camelot and extended over the chapel train. The bride wore her maternal grandmother's ring on her right hand and carried a cascade of white roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and variegated ivy.

The maid of honor was Cindy Rotan. She was attired in a formal-length baby blue checked dress with a scooped neckline and short puffed sleeves. The dress had an Empire waistline with a sash tying in back and the neckline and hemline were ruffled. She wore a matching garden hat.

Bridesmaids were Sammie Burns of Burleson, cousin of the bride, and Barbi Traeder. Mrs. David Watkins of Woodward, Okla. was the bridesmatron. They wore dresses of yellow, pink and green checks in the same pattern and garden hats as the maid of honor. All attendants carried nosegays of pink, yellow, lime and blue daisies with streamers to match their dresses.

Serving as best man was Tom Hampton. Ushers for the ceremony were Jerry Burns, brother of the bride, and David Cooley, brother of the bridegroom. David Babb, Tim Thomas and Forest Herndon were groomsmen.

The church was decorated with basket arrangements of white gladiolus and white daisies and candelabra entwined with greenery and candles, which also adorned the railings.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Jack Schuler, organist; Lori Lovett, pianist, and Mary Beth Ashburn of Meadow, cousin of the bride, soloist.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. House party members were Glenda Teel at the guest registry, Barbara Gallagher, Betty Bolton, Vicki Tennison, Mrs. David Cooley, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Jerry Burns, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mark and Stan Patchell, brothers of the bride, Donnie Patchell, cousin of the bride, and David Thompson of Snyder were ushers. Ring bearer was Billy McMillan of Urbana, cousin of the bride.

Music was provided by Mrs. Wayne Bethel of Snyder, organist, and Debra Patchell, cousin of the bride, soloist.

Mr. Patchell presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a white formal gown with a sleeveless bodice of white Cluny lace over silk organza. The lace motif was repeated at the high neckline, around the shoulders and extended to the curved waistline. The lace edged skirt with applied flowerets swept into a chapel-length train. Her picture hat had a crown of cluny lace adorned with seed pearls and organza how accented with chapel-length streamers. She carried a clutch of yellow roses, white daisies and gypsophila. The pearl necklace she wore was a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was attired in a formal-length gown of blue muted voile featuring a fluted cowl at the neckline. Her picture hat was trimmed with a small cluster of yellow daisies and blue satin streamers. She carried a yellow sophisticated gamellia with accents of white and green.

A rainbow candelabrum with emerald foliage and white tapers formed the background behind the altar which was centered with white gladiolus and yellow daisies and flanked with a pair of tree candelabra also entwined with emerald foliage and white tapers.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. In the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Thompson, all of Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Meeker of Dallas, Linda Turner of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stair of Heber Springs, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McMillan of Urbana, and Mr. and Mrs. George Patchell of Midland.

The Friday rehearsal dinner was held at Ranchland Hill Country Club. The tables were decorated with white daisies and yellow gladiolus and Laurie Bethel of Snyder at the piano provided dinner music.

Recent parties for the bride included a gift shower in the home of Mrs. Gene Thompson, Snyder. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Jerry Barnes, Mrs. W. D. Birdwell, Mrs. Wayne Bethel and Mrs. Hulien Malone, all of Snyder. Special guests were Mrs. Patchell, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Bernice Patchell of Midland, paternal grandmother of the bride. The honoree, her mother and grandmother were presented corsages of white and yellow daisies.

Miss Stair was hostess to a bridal luncheon at Ranchland Hill Country Club. Tables were decorated with bouquets of white and yellow daisies and yellow napkins.

The bride and bridegroom were honored with a dinner party at La Bodega Restaurant by Mr. and Mrs. George Patchell, uncle and aunt of the bride. Other guests were Mrs. Bernice Patchell, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patchell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClarty, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davesport, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Dear Abby
 —By Abigail van Buren

How Does She Meet Guy In The Window?

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a rather unusual problem. My small apartment building faces a 10-story highrise. Every time I look over at that building I can see straight into this gentleman's apartment, and I know he can see into mine.
 The problem? He is always alone and so am I. Every night I see him sitting there alone, including Saturday and Sunday. I am a 28-year-old working girl, but it's hard to tell how old he is — not that it matters. I would like to meet this man, but I don't know how to go about it. Please don't think I'm cheap. I'm not. Any suggestions?
 THE GIRL ACROSS THE WAY
 DEAR GIRL: I don't have the foggiest idea how you can "meet" a man in the window of a 10-story highrise across the way. If you were to play Sherlock Holmes and learn his identity by hook, crook or bribe, he might feel flattered and therefore turned on. He might also peg you as a conniving, scheming, aggressive female and be turned off. It's your choice. Me? I'd pull down my shade and forget him.
 DEAR ABBY: I work in the security screening area of a large, international airport, and I have a complaint to register: Many people are insulted when we check them and their hand luggage. They curse us under their breath, give us dirty looks and make snide remarks like: "Do I look like I'd hijack a plane?" Obviously I don't, but everyone must be checked, regardless.
 Some travelers have exploded in anger because they had only a few minutes in which to catch their planes, and they find themselves in a long line of people who must wait their turns to go through security. Naturally, some miss their flight, and they blame us. But it's their fault, not ours, for not having allowed themselves enough time to make their plans.
 You would do a great public service, Abby, if you would print this with a plea for a little more patience and consideration on the part of air travelers. We're only doing our job.
 "HEY, GIRLIE, IN L.A."
 DEAR HEY: The Federal Aviation Administration told Congress that in 1974, during the security check, more than 2,400 firearms were confiscated and more than 3,500 persons were arrested. It was the second consecutive year without ONE successful hijacking of a U.S. airliner. Two would-be hijackers surrendered, and a third committed suicide.
 I think the inconvenience of being searched is a small price to pay for a safe flight, don't you? So, fellow air travelers, please get to the airport a little earlier, and make everyone happier — including yourselves.
 Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Monti Lynne Eastin, Charles Fish Wed

Two large arrangements of mixed spring flowers and two seven-branch candelabra decorated the First Christian Church for the marriage Saturday of Monti Lynne Eastin and Charles Keyin Fish. The Rev. Steve Edwards officiated the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carroll W. Eastin, 3218 Durant St., and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fish, 2811 Cimmaron St.

The bride is a May graduate of Lee High School. The bridegroom, a 1974 LHS graduate, is stationed with the United States Army at Ft. Polk, La.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Brownwood, the couple will reside in Louisiana.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown fashioned with an A-line skirt of acetate peau which swept into a chapel-length train.

Imported French Chantilly lace outlined the hemline. The bodice and bishop sleeves of dacron polyester organza finished in an overlay of Chantilly lace, forming a high scalloped neckline accented with wedding pearls. Her mantilla bordered in matching lace was held by a Juliet cap enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath, which also contained two red roses given to the mothers of the bride and bridegroom.

Nan Dole of Houston, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Davis and Nancy Lee.

Best man was Charles Kay of Louisville, La. Ushers were Felix Acree and Steve Henry. Kelly Fish, brother of the bridegroom, and Steve Wallace were groomsmen.

Michelle Eastin, sister of the bride, and Kevin Eastin, brother of the bride, lighted the candles. Ring bearer was Eric Eastin, also brother of the bride.

Wedding selections were provided by Mrs. Robert West, organist, Terry Hutter of Augusta, Kan., cousin of the bride and soloist, and Mrs. Betty Dole of Houston, aunt of the bride, pianist.

Bridal attendants were dressed identically in long, blue knit halter dresses covered with long sleeve flowered jackets. They carried bouquets of lavender daisies, pink carnations, yellow starbursts and peach carnations. In their hair, they wore baby's breath.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church. Mrs. Tony Schonhoef of Ingleside, Mrs. Betty Hutter of Augusta, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Diana Hutter of Wichita, Kan. and Bea Lea Somerville of Midland served in the house party. Lori Schonhoef and Michelle Eastin distributed rice bags and scrolls. Kym Fish, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest registry. Mrs. Hutter made the wedding cake.

Michael Ray Stuck Marries Donna Ruth Hall In City

The Rev. Billy Wilkinson officiated for the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday which united in marriage Donna Ruth Hall and Michael Ray Stuck in St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Millard M. Hall, 4000 W. Illinois, Apt. 164, and Mrs. John Crow of Caseyville, Ill. and Robert Stuck of Belleville, Ill.

Leslie W. Hall of Austin presented his sister in marriage. She wore a white Victorian gown of crepe radiance fashioned with bib front of lace, high band neckline, bishop sleeves gathered to a cuff of lace and a sash bow in back at Empire waistline. A Victorian headband covered with lace held her three tiered veil of French illusion with cathedral length veil edged in matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, yellow Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Debby Allen. Bridesmaid was Rhonda Davis. Mrs. Rick Miller of Lubbock was bridesmatron. Rice bags were distributed by LeeAnn Holder.

Best man was Kyle Johnson, brother of the bridegroom. The groomsmen were Hall and Rick Miller of Lubbock Johnson and Miller were ushers.

The bridal attendants were attired in yellow and white gingham dresses with white eyelid pinafore enhanced with ruffle at bottom and a checked sash at Empire waistline. The long sleeves were gathered at the wrist with a ruffle. They carried nosegays of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath and wore halos of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath in their hair.

Decorating the church were rainbow candelabra behind altar, arrangements of yellow and white daisies, carnations and baby's breath on the altar and two spiral candelabra beside stairs. Greenery was entwined on all candelabra.

Mrs. Hugh Dickson was the organist and Mrs. Rick Miller was the soloist.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. In the house party were Mrs. Leslie W. Hall of Austin, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Ricky Parris of Abilene and Barbara Howard of Houston, cousins of the bride, Julie Donnelly of Austin and Mrs. Herb Hunter of Midland.

The couple will reside in Austin following a trip to Corpus Christi. The bride is a senior student at Southwest Texas State University majoring in nutrition. The bridegroom is employed with Southland Corp., Austin.

Several pre-nuptial courtesies were held for the bride. These included a display shower with Mrs. Herb Hunter, Mrs. Monty McLane and Mrs. Rick Miller as hostesses; a miscellaneous shower in Austin with Julie Donnelly and Debby Allen as hostesses; and a rice bag party in the home of Mrs. Frances Allen and Debby Allen, 2601 Harvard St., and a bridesmaid luncheon at Salmagundi, with Mrs. Leon Davis and Rhonda Davis as hostesses.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Bonanza Sirloin Pit.

Novelist Paints Tiger On The Wall

MIDDLETON, Wis. (AP) — When faced with the problem of a 23-foot-long blank wall in her living room, Mrs. Ginger Fox decided to do something more than convert it with wallpaper. She painted a mural.

"I worked on it off and on for three months," she said. "When I started blocking it in, the carpenters were still here and they stood around shaking their heads, wondering if I had lost my mind."

The result was a jungle scene with a tiger, a leopard and tropical trees.

Mrs. Fox is the author of several historical novels and books for children. She also has an art degree from Northwestern University.

Sandra Rinehart, Stokes Wed In Double Ring Rites

Sandra Kay Rinehart became the bride of Kenneth Dwayne Stokes at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Church of God, 5300 Thomason Drive. The Rev. Don Stovall officiated for the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Rasco Rinehart, 606 W. Cuthbert St. and Mr. and Mrs. Garnett D. Stokes, Warren Road.

The sanctuary was decorated with a pair of brass tree candelabra with jade foliage and white tapers. Mrs. Don Stovall was the organist and Charles Oxford was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, James Melton Rinehart, the bride wore a gown of bridal white silk. The fitted bodice was overlaid with Champilly lace and accented with a cameo collar. The wrist-length lace sleeves were banded with a double row of lace which was repeated in the princess line skirt. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a half crown bandeau. The bride's only jewelry was an heirloom ring belonging to her paternal grandmother and worn at her wedding. The bridal bouquet was a semi-cascade of white carnations and blue cornflowers with white satin pick streamers.

Cathy Melson attended the bride as maid of honor. Best man was Kenneth Machacek.

Miss Melson wore a corolla-blue double knit floor-length princess dress with gathered short sleeves and a Dior sash. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with royal blue trim and white satin streamers.

The reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. Jim Wynn and Beth Moore, cousins of the bride, and Terry Price, cousin of the bridegroom, served in the house party.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 1306 Cotton Flat Road. The bride is employed in the business office of Midland Memorial Hospital and the bridegroom with Sprayberry Service. Both are graduates of Midland High School.

 Haynes-Cooper Engagement Told

FORT WORTH—Mrs. Inez L. Haynes and Stanley R. Haynes, both of this city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Haynes, to David Van Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Cooper, 1006 Upland St., Midland.

The wedding ceremony will be performed at 8 p.m. July 19 in the First United Methodist Church in Fort Worth.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Fort Worth's Paschel High School and attended banking schools. She is an officer with Fort Worth Mortgage Co.

Her fiance attended The University of Texas at Austin, where he was a member of A.T.O. fraternity. He is employed with Perfojet Services, Midland.

'Whistler's Mother' On First Stamp

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When he painted the now-famous and familiar portrait of his mother in 1871, James Abbot McNeill Whistler called it "Arrangement in Grey and Black." Since his first exhibition in London the following year, millions of reproductions of his creation have been circulated all over the world.

As late as 1891, however, it was sold to the French government for only $600, according to Hallmark historians. The painting was first seen in the United States as part of an exhibit by Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition in 1894.

The same year Postmaster General James A. Farley announced that "Whistler's Mother" would be the subject of the first Mother's Day commemorative stamp ever issued. But when the stamp appeared, the art world was infuriated. Details of the portrait had been left out; the stamp was changed, and a vase of carnations had been added. The stamp quickly became — and remains — a collector's item.

Togetherness
 WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Paul and Sharon Hess of Wichita should have a lot of political news to discuss when they move to an apartment in Topeka soon. Paul has been elected to the Kansas Senate to be the youngest member of that august body. Sharon, in the same election, won a seat in the Kansas House of Representatives to be the youngest woman ever elected to that body. Both lawmakers are 26 and both are Republicans.

Tri-Delta Mothers Fete Daughters

The Tri-Delta Mothers (Psi Psi Psi) honored their Tri-Delta daughters during their third annual Violet luncheon in the Garden Room of Midland Country Club.

Following the social period and luncheon, Patricia Northern was presented a cake fete her 28th birthday.

Special guests were Mrs. D. S. Watson, whose mother, Mrs.

J. N. Stone of Talpa is an associate member of the Midland Beta Mu group, Mrs. J. Corby-Considine of Midland, Mrs. Scott W. Fuller of Victoria and Miss Northern of Austin.

No Domestic Animals
The Isle of Calif, a small island off the Isle of Man, has no domestic animals such as cats, dogs, cattle or horses.

Baby Shower Held In Club

Mrs. Sandra Self French was the honoree at a baby shower held Friday in the Racquet Club of Midland.

The hostesses were Mrs. Carol Cowden, Mrs. Linda Williams and Mrs. Charlotte L. Ward. The decorations included daisies and a stork pinata.

Female Airman Experiences Firsts

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (AP) — Since she was assigned to Travis in 1973, Airman 1st Class Christina Rodriguez has been involved in two historical happenings.

She became the first woman in the Air Force (WAF) to become a qualified test cell operator on the TF-39 engine. The TF-39 engine is the powerplant of the world's largest aircraft, the C-5 Galaxy.

She also became the first WAF in Travis authorized to wear the heretofore "males only" green uniform known as fatigues. The blue utility uniform worn by WAFs would not hold up under the strenuous activity of working on aircraft and jet engines.

Eveleth-Castle Engagement Told

RICHARDSON—Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Eveleth Jr. of Richardson announce the engagement of their daughter, Debra Lee, to Lynn Owen Castle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Castle of 1801 N. Midland Drive, Midland.

The couple will be married at 2 p.m. Aug. 2 in the First United Methodist Church of Richardson. Miss Eveleth attended Stephen F. Austin and Texas Tech University College and plans to continue her education at The University of Texas-Permian Basin. She was a member of Chi Omega social sorority. Her fiancé attended Odessa College and Tech and is employed by Eliwade Corp., in Midland.

Tana Stewart, Folger Repeats Vows

Tana Lynn Stewart and Randall Eugene Folger repeated double ring wedding vows in a ceremony at 4 p.m. Saturday in Calvary Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gene J. Stewart of 4614 Erie St. and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Folger, Route 3.

The Rev. Doyle Darwin, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, officiated for the ceremony. Nancy Edwards was the organist.

Attending as matron of honor was Judy Stewart, sister-in-law of the bride. Cindy Stewart, also sister-in-law of the bride, and Dianne Mills were bridesmaids. Flower girl was Amy Koel Lee of Lamar, Colo., cousin of the bride.

Mike Folger of Canyon, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were David Lee of Lamar, uncle of the bride, and Donnie Rose. Billy Stewart and Eddie Stewart, brothers of the bride, were groomsmen.

Mr. Stewart presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a formal-length gown of dacron polyester organza trimmed with nylon Chantilly lace and dacron polyester crystal pleating. The Empire bodice had an overlay of matching lace and featured a high neckline finished in lace scalloped and matching wrist ruffles on bouffant sleeves. The detachable chapel-length train also had a border of Chantilly lace. The chapel-length lace bordered veil and bouffant tiered shoulder-length veil were held in place by a Chantilly lace Camelot headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, white carnations and baby's breath accented with white ribbon.

Bridal attendants were attired in formal-length gowns of lime gingham overlaid with sheer spring floral dotted swiss. The princess style gowns had sheer puffed sleeves and the backs of the dresses were accented with sheer self bows. They wore garden hats of lime green with matching sheer streamers and carried green and white carnations and baby's breath accented with green and white gingham ribbon.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church. In the house party were Mrs. David Lee of Lamar, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Glenn Babb of Brackettville, also aunt of the bride, and Vickie Stegall, Iris McCambell and Mrs. Ronnie Shawn, all of Midland.

The couple will reside at 3308 Cunningham St. following a trip to Big Bend National Park.

The bride is a 1974 Midland High School graduate employed with Sears Roebuck and Co. and the bridegroom is employed with Welox, a Halliburton Co.

Jennifer Huff Wed To J. F. Gallagher

Jennifer Joan Huff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Huff, 1600 Stanolind St., and James Francis Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Joseph Gallagher of Ridgefield Park, N.J., were married at 11 a.m. Saturday in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Robert Boynton Smith and Dr. Ray Riddle officiated for the double ring ceremony. The organist was Robert Poir. The soloist was George DeHart, who also directed the Westminster Handbell Choir.

Pamela Leach was the maid of honor and John Allen Alexander of Houston was the best man. The bridesmaids were Lynn Fitz-Gerald and Sandra Jones of Midland and Janis Mitchell of Lubbock.

Greg Huff, brother of the bride, Eric William Engh and Robert Bruce Robitchek of Norman, Okla., were the groomsmen. The usher was Chris Huff, brother of the bride.

The church was decorated with two nine-branch candelabra entwined with jade foliage and holding ivory candles. A large double arrangement of mixed spring flowers was behind the communion table.

Mr. Huff presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a sleeveless formal-length gown of heavy white Venise lace fashioned with a high neckline.

An A-line skirt extended to chapel length from the Empire bodice, which had a short bolero jacket effect. A wide band of pale pink organza accented the waistline. Her headpiece was a matching picture hat with a similar band of pink at the crown. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and pink Sweetheart roses with baby's breath.

Attendants to the bride wore identical dresses in a sheer floral print of pale pink, hot pink, yellow and orange. The floor-length halter designs were covered with short matching capelets with butterfly sleeves.

A pink and orange ribbon sash accented the Empire waistlines. They had pale yellow picture hats and carried bouquets of yellow glameillas.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held in the garden at the home of the bride's parents. House party members were Mrs. Paul D. Anderson, Mrs. Payton Anderson, Mrs. C. E. S. Bellows III, Mrs. Tom Cole of Littleton, Colo., Mrs. James Fitz-Gerald III, Mrs. Reagan Legg, Mrs. Watson LaForce Jr., Mrs. James Lucas, Mrs. Hugh Gilmour, Mrs. Jack Matthews, Mrs. Lloyd E. Innerarity, Mrs. Russell Ramsland, Mrs. John J. Redfern Jr., Mrs. Walter Parks, Mrs. James Ormond, Mrs. Gilbert C. Tompson, Mrs. George VanHusen, Mrs. James Marberry of Buchanan Dam, Cookie Cole of Littleton and Carolyn Cox.

After a trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 6836 NW 16th St., Apartment 130, in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The bride attended the University of Oklahoma, where she majored in ballet.

The bridegroom has a degree in architecture from OU.

Parties for the bride have included a kitchen shower in the home of Mrs. Ramsland, with Mrs. Payton Anderson, Mrs. Legg and Mrs. Redfern as co-hostesses.

The bridesmaids' luncheon was given Friday in the home of Mrs. Fitz-Gerald. Mrs. Ormond was the co-hostess.

A pool-side supper party for the couple was held Thursday for members of the bridal party, families of the couple and out-of-city guests. This was given by Mr. and Mrs. Watson LaForce Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Innerarity, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. Tompson and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cole.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the couple at Midland Country Club.

Museum Purchases Wyeth Paintings

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Five Andrew Wyeth paintings depicting a female nude and another painting of the same model clothed have been purchased for $1 million by a group of 10 donors for the Brandywine River Museum here.

The five nudes were executed between 1966 and 1972 and kept from the public until they were shown in San Francisco in June 1973.

The model was Siri Erickson, daughter of one of Wyeth's summer neighbors in Maine. She first posed for him at the age of 14. Wyeth kept the paintings in his Chadds Ford home until Miss Erickson turned 19.

The paintings are entitled: "Seuna," 1968; "The Virgin," 1969; "Indian Summer," 1970; "Black Water," 1972; and "Seabed," 1972. A half-length portrait, "Siri," 1970, is a clothed work.

Psychologists Say U.S. High Schools Like 'Prisons'

By C.G. McDANIEL
CHICAGO (AP) — American high schools are like prisons "with guards posing as teachers and students learning how to be docile prisoners," say two California psychologists.
Craig Haney and Philip G. Zimbardo of Stanford University, writing in Psychology Today, say high school and prison environments resemble each other to a remarkable and distressing degree.
They said they studied both prisons and high schools for their report.

Like prison guards, teachers have absolute authority over students, and "the teacher's word always counts more than the word of the student," Haney and Zimbardo said. They said students, like prisoners, are regimented and regulated into docility with roll calls and bells and fixed hallway routes, and classes are run mechanically for fixed periods, "regardless of the natural educational process."
And they said high school studen, like prisoners, must obey institutional authority," they write.

They describe high school buildings as "huge, stark and architecturally barren," resembling buildings designed for punishment and incarceration. "Inside the average high school, the drab and depressing interiors clearly show they have been designed for efficiency, security and surveillance rather than beauty or the comfort of their inmates," they write.
They add, "The dulling uniformity of identical classrooms and endless hallways emphasize the anonymity and insensitivity of the place, and the regimentation it imposes..."
High school "values regularity, order and control over creativity, spontaneity and freedom," they say. Vandalism and destruction of school property represent attacks by students "against the most obvious symbol of their oppression," Haney and Zimbardo said.
The status of teachers, like that of prison guards, is reinforced with special lunchrooms, lounges and washrooms, which are "more comfortable, if not luxurious, than those reserved for students," they said.

They also said that high schools divide students the way prisons divide their inmates to keep them from uniting against authority.
"Many schools divide the students into separate groups based on ability or post-graduate career plans, thereby setting up social-class rivalries based on rank and status," the psychologists wrote.
The real tragedies of our school system are not the troublemakers or the dropouts but "the endless procession of faceless students who go through the system quietly and unquestioningly, unobtrusively and unnoticed," they say.

Fort Worth Delighted With Decision

FORT WORTH (AP) — "Tremendous!" said one. "A coup!" cried another. "Great news!" exclaimed a third.
The word flashed across the city Saturday like an economic sonic boom.
The Fort Worth-built F16 fighter plane had shot down the French Mirage F1 in a duel for one of aviation history's most lucrative prizes.
Belgium's selection of the American warplane brought General Dynamics Corp. the lion's share of an estimated $2 billion contract from a European consortium and provided Fort Worth with a long-term economic bonanza.

Purchases by other countries could boost sales to $12 billion and make the lightweight fighter the biggest seller in aviation history.
In Fort Worth, the Texas conclaves of Washington, the reaction was similar to that of General Dynamics Board Chairman David F. Lewis, in Paris for an air show.
He said through a spokesman the decision signaled "a great day" not only for General Dynamics and the United States, but also for the Western alliance.
"I'm delighted with Belgium's decision to buy the F16 as its fighter of the future," said Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., citing the "superior performance" of the warplane in European tests with competing aircraft.

Commerce. "Of course, the major impact of this... is to gain long-term, steady employment at General Dynamics—not so much an increase but a long-term contract."
Mayor Pro Tem Margaret Rimmer said, "This is a coup not only for the U.S. but especially for Fort Worth and this entire area."
She added: "I can congratulate Belgium and the other three nations for having the wisdom to realize what we have always known—that our General Dynamics folks have the know-how and spirit to develop the very finest aircraft."
Although no one paused Saturday to pinpoint specific economic benefits, a company official said earlier if the NATO sale went through and the plant work force doubled by 1980, "that, of course, could increase the Fort Worth payroll to more than $200 million yearly."

Construction will be shared among a number of European countries and Fort Worth, with parts to be manufactured in this country and in Europe.

Related Story, Page 10C

"You can look for employment to double down there by 1980," a General Dynamics spokesman said, noting that the Fort Worth facility now employs about 7,000 workers.
"This decision," he said, "brings the total planned production of the F16 to nearly 1,000 aircraft, including 650 for

WTCC Opposes Plan To Include Part Of Rio Grande

ABILENE — The West Texas Chamber of Commerce in a letter to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has stated its opposition to the draft environmental statement on the Rio Grande Wild and Scenic River Study prepared by the bureau.

The statement recommends legislative action to include a segment of the Rio Grande National Park and running to Lake Amistad near Del Rio, in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

The statement issued by the bureau, if implemented, will have a far-reaching and long-lasting impact on West Texas, the WTCC said, adding that it will result in the complete closing of a major portion of the national border to all but very limited development.

WTCC has noted that the Bureau now is requesting that a total of 191.2 miles of the Rio Grande be included, a 20 per cent increase over the December 1973 proposal, which called for a 158-mile segment to be included.

Burvin Hines of Arlington, chairman of WTCC's Tourist and Travel Development Committee, said that in WTCC's first comment on the original proposal made Jan. 9, 1974, WTCC went on record as opposing the wild river designation because of the lack of widespread public knowledge of the hearings; no agreement with Mexico, and discrimination against those who would like to enjoy the river by means other than river transportation.

In view of the present statement, Hines said, "WTCC wishes to go on record as remaining in opposition to the proposal to designate the 191.2-mile segment as wild and scenic. In regard to the segment within Big Bend National Park, we do not at the present time see any need for a scenic designation since the main change would only place management and decisions within the framework of the Wild and Scenic River Act. We question the availability of sufficient manpower to properly staff this additional area and, it is our understanding, that the majority of the landowners along the segments of the river involved are against the proposal."

Free Film Set Friday At Park

A Steve McQueen and Ali MacGraw film entitled "The Getaway" will be shown at 9 p.m. Friday in Wadley-Barron Park, under sponsorship of the teen activities division of the Midland Parks and Recreation Department.

Shown free of charge, the film will be preceded with a cartoon feature. Refreshments also will be available for the Parks Department's "movie night" under the stars.

"You can look for employment to double down there by 1980," a General Dynamics spokesman said, noting that the Fort Worth facility now employs about 7,000 workers.
"This decision," he said, "brings the total planned production of the F16 to nearly 1,000 aircraft, including 650 for

Medical School Accepts Stovall

ARLINGTON—Randall H. Stovall, who recently received a masters degree in biology from The University of Texas at Arlington, has been accepted to The University of Texas Medical Center at Houston. He will begin work towards a Ph.D. in biology at the center this month.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Stovall of Midland, Stovall is a past president of the Association of Biology Graduate Students at UT-Arlington and was a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta and Phi Sigma national honorary fraternities.

Workarama Has Jobs For Youths

Workarama, a community project sponsored by the Midland Kiwanis in cooperation with the Texas Employment Commission, is providing a job market for students 15 to 17 years old.

Interested students may call the Texas Employment Commission and ask for Workarama. Part-time jobs available to the students include clerical, fountain work, package delivery, yard work and child care.

Since the program started last week, 30 jobs have been found for students, although Skip Geron at TEC reports there is a surplus of applicants.

Three Midland Students On List

ABILENE — Three Midland students, Rebecca Jane Lehker, Phillip Brewer and Mrs. Mark McDonald, have been named to the spring Dean's List at McMurry College.

Miss Lehker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Lehker, 2903 W. Michigan St., is a 1973 graduate of Midland High School. She is majoring in nursing.

Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Brewer, 2311 W. Kansas St., is majoring in history and English. He is a 1973 Midland High School graduate.

Mrs. McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, 2913 Rebel Dr., is a 1969 graduate of Robert E. Lee High School, and received a B.S. degree in speech from McMurry this spring.

Lad, Dad Campout Set This Month On Scout Ranch

The Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains, on State Highway 17, will be the scene of "Lad and Dad" Campout on the weekends of June 20 and 21 (for the Chaparral, Lone Star and Lone Buffalo districts) and June 21 and 22 (for Comanche Trails, Sand Hills and Big Bend districts). Any Cub age boy and his dad may participate.

The campout will begin Saturday morning and end Sunday morning. All meals will be served in the dining hall and will include lunch and dinner on Saturday and breakfast on Sunday.

All program areas of the camp will be open for participation, including the swimming pool, rifle range, and archery. Each boy and his dad should bring their own camping gear (tents, campers, or camping trailers). No firearms are allowed.

A fee of $5.50 per participant will include the cost of the three meals, 10 rounds at the camp rifle range, and other miscellaneous costs. A boy must be accompanied by his dad or by another man if the dad cannot come. No man may bring more than two boys unless they are his own sons.

Advance reservations are required by Friday to be made by contacting the complete fee to the Scout Service Center.

South Carolina Nips Seton Hall

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Earl Bass and Mike Cromer scattered six hits Saturday night to lead South Carolina to a 3-1 win over Seton Hall in a first-round game of the College World Series.

In a loser's round game earlier in the day, Oklahoma mounted a 15-hit attack and got strong relief pitching from junior right-hander Ken Palmer to end Fullerton State's chances, 11-4.

Top-ranked Florida State, 49-8, lost to Eastern Michigan, 36-18, in the final first-round game Saturday night, 3-1.

South Carolina, 48-4, and a winner of 14 straight, took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the second, added another in the third on Gary Hancock's run scoring single and picked up the third run in the eighth on a single by Mark Van Beaver.

Texans Lead Water Safari

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — Tom Goynes of San Marcos and Jerry Cochran of Martindale had the lead at nightfall Saturday in the 419-mile Texas Water Safari.

The canoe team was 41 minutes ahead of the current record when they reached the Luling Dam on the Guadalupe river.

Thirty-three teams started the trek Saturday morning on the San Marcos River at San Marcos. They are now on the Guadalupe River heading for Seadrift on San Antonio Bay at the Gulf of Mexico.

Goynes and Cochran lead the unlimited class while Dennis Borowitz and Johnny McKee of Victoria led the U.S. Canoeing Association amateur class.

Leaders in the aluminum canoe class are George Rawson and Jim Luikens of Las Cruces, N.M.

Vault Shines In NCAA Run

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Earl Bell, a sophomore at Arkansas State, and Dan Ripley, a senior at San Jose State, cleared 18 feet, one inch to become the 11th and 12th men over 18 feet in history Saturday at the 54th NCAA track and field championships.

Just as the sun slipped behind a rain cloud, Bell, a 6-1, 160-pounder, achieved the mark to equal the fourth highest clearance in history and take the lead in the tough pole vault competition.

Ripley, a powerful 6-foot 180-pounder, equalled that mark on his final try 10 minutes later.

Bell, the NCAA indoor champion, had cleared 17-8 just one week ago in winning the U.S. Track and Field Federation title at Wichita.

Bell was easily over 17-0 on his first try, made 17-4 on his second, 17-8 on his first and 18-1 on his second.

Ripley, who holds the world indoor record at 16-1, was injured early this season and had only cleared 17-8 this season.

Neither man was able to clear a higher height and Bell won the title on fewer misses with Ripley second. Ron Mooers of UCLA and Long Beach State's Don Baird tied for third at 17-8.

As the sky grew more laden, senior Keith Goldy of Long Beach State upset hometown favorite Richard George in the javelin with a throw of 250-3.

Goldy, a one-time high jumper, had led qualifiers Friday with a 246-0 throw, and his winning mark was a lifetime best.

As the javelin competition concluded a torrent of rain rose up over Mt. Timpanogos and flooded the new artificial track, causing meet officials to halt the competition for 30 minutes.

The rain abated, officials announced the high jump would begin, then it started to pour again and all events were halted. The meet was not called off as officials waited for clear skies.

Oklahoma Downs Fullerton State

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Oklahoma mounted a 15-hit attack and got strong relief pitching from junior right-hander Ken Palmer to eliminate Fullerton State from the 29th College World Series Saturday afternoon, 11-4.

Palmer came on in the sixth inning and shut out the Californians over the rest of the game to pick up his sixth win of the year against one loss. Palmer pitched 3-2-3 innings of hitless ball.

Starter Greg Johnson took the loss for Fullerton State.

Oklahoma, 51-8, makes its next appearance Monday at 8 p.m.

The Sooners were aided early by poor Fullerton State fielding. The California squad committed three errors in the fourth inning and had four over the game.

Oklahoma put the contest away in the top of the ninth inning picking up five runs.

Kelly Soeder and Stan Lawrence picked up three hits apiece for the Sooners.

Oklahoma Coach Ernie Senore said he was worried early. "Once we got untracked we really hit the ball well."

The 15 hits snapped the Oklahoma season hit mark. The Sooners now have 381 hits over the season. The old record was 379 by the 1973 squad.

Fullerton State Coach Augie Garrido said, "I have no excuses. We shared the glory so now we share the defeat. If anyone's responsible, it's me."

Fullerton State ends the season at 35-15.

Anthony Tops Pro Pin Field

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Earl Anthony, who is dominating the Professional Bowlers Association tour for the second straight year, heads a field of 178 in the $50,000 Sacramento PBA Open that begins Sunday.

Anthony, a machine-like left-hander from Tacoma, Wash., already has won three tournaments and more than $60,000 this year. Last year he won six titles and nearly $100,000.

A victory in last week's PBA national championship gave Anthony a lead of about $18,000 in winnings over Dave Davis, another veteran left-hander bowling out of Atlanta.

Also entered here is Ed Resler of Allentown, Pa., who is third on the money list at $36,000.

The PBA tour is making its first stop in this Northern California city since 1965, when the winner was the now-retired Buzz Fazio.

Ashford, Vasicek Picked For Camp

Midland's Kerl Ashford and Vicki Vasicek have been selected to participate in the Maureen Brinker Tennis Foundation Junior Wightman Cup Training Camp in Austin, June 9-13.

The camp is sponsored by the Junior National Tennis Foundation, and from camps of this type, players will be selected for the national championships.

Only eight girls in each age group in the state are selected for the camp.

Bramlett, Johnson Advance To Finals

SAN ANTONIO — Midland's Jeff Bramlett and Thomas Johnson advanced to the finals of the boys 14 doubles here Saturday in the State Sectional Tennis Tournament with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Eugene and Davis.

Bramlett was eliminated from singles play in the semifinals with a 6-1, 6-0 loss to Paul Crozier of Corpus Christi.

Midlanders Vicki Vasicek and Mary Morgan fell in the finals of the girls 14 doubles with a 7-5, 6-0 loss to Sue Smith and Mary Grammelle.

THE SHOE'S THE WINNER — Willis Shoemaker lets one and all know he's a winner after piloting Avatar to victory in the 107th running of the $150,000-added Belmont Stakes Saturday. (AP Wirephoto.)

Homers Plague Cubs As Reds Win, 8-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench, Dan Driessen and Joe Morgan slugged home runs Saturday to support Jack Billingham's five-hitter and power the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Bench led off the second inning against Ray Burris, 6-5, with his 12th homer of the year and Driessen followed with his first.

In the third, Bench singled for two more runs and, in the fifth, Morgan hit his seventh homer of the year.

Billingham, 6-3, lost his shut-out in the sixth inning when the Cubs loaded the bases on singles by Pete LaCock, Don Kessinger and Jose Cardenal and got a run on Bill Madlock's forecast grounder.

The Reds came back with three runs in the bottom of the sixth as Chicago relievers Eddie Watt, Ken Frailing and Bob Locker each walked a man with the bases loaded.

PITTSBURGH DREAM NEVER CAME TRUE—

Canadian Loop QB Becomes Hot Legend

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — Ron Lancaster grew up on a hillside in the Pennsylvania steel town of Clairton, eating dust from coke ovens and dreaming of playing for the Pittsburgh Pirates or Steelers.

"Never quite made it, did it?" he mused in this fresh-air, prairie city while awaiting another season as quarterback of the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League.

He's nearly 2,000 miles from Clairton now, and 15 seasons in the CFL have left him with all of Canada's major passing records, a street that bears his name and a rearranged ribcage.

At 36, he's an institution in this province capital, named after Queen Victoria Regina, where Royal Canadian Mounted Police are trained, wheat fields stretch to the horizon, and winter is a goal-line stand.

"I'm making a living at a hobby. Not many people have that chance," the father of three said from a lounge chair at his ranch home in this city of 150,000.

Lancaster was one of 19 children of a steelworker and his wife, who still live in Clairton.

After four standout seasons at Wittenberg College in Ohio, the 5-foot-9 Lancaster was bypassed by the National Football League because of size.

"That's my sport," he laughed as he pointed to midget wrestlers on Regina television. Buffalo of the AFL offered him a tryout after college, but the Bills had two quarterbacks with no-cut contracts, so he went North.

He begins training camp this month with 37,372 career passing yards in the CFL, where the best seats are at the 55-yard line, each side fields a dozen players and gets three downs.

This season could move him past Johnny Unitas' career total of 39,768 yards, but Lancaster shrugged off his stats.

"To me records are a joke. If you play 15 years and don't set records, you should quit," he said.

Yet he was sparked by mention of Unitas, whose Pittsburgh home was just upriver from Clairton.

"Some say Namath's got the quick release; Jurgensen was the best thrower; Starr was the smartest," he said.

Colonel Power Wins Derby

CHICAGO (AP) — Colonel Power, owned by Harry Peltier of Thibodaux, La., led all the way to win the 107th running of the $105,000 Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park Saturday.

A closing-day crowd of 23,204 spectators saw Ruggles Ferry finish second, three-quarters of a length behind, in the 1 1/4-mile race for 3-year-olds.

Methodioxa was another three-quarters of a length behind in third in the field of 14.

Bravest Roman, the $6 favorite from New York, finished sixth.

Colonel Power, the best Chicago-based 2-year-old a year ago, scored his eighth victory in 12 starts this year with the derby win. His only other stakes triumph this year, however, came in the LeComte Handicap at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans early in February.

The winner, ridden by Phil Rubbico, earned $63,360 and was timed in 1:50 1/5 while carrying 124 pounds. Seven others carried the same weight.

The winner paid $6.80, $4 and $3.80 as the strong second choice. Ruggles Ferry returned $5 and $5.40. Methodioxa returned $12.40.

LAGROW VERY STRONG—

Oakland Blanked By Tigers, 3-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Lerrin LaGrow pitched a five-hitter and recorded the first shutout of his major league career as the Detroit Tigers stopped the Oakland A's 3-0 Saturday.

LaGrow, 4-4, had a no-hitter until Phil Garner singled with two out in the fifth inning. Bill North followed with another single but Bert Campaneris grounded out to end the inning.

The only other hits of the Tiger pitcher were a sixth-inning single by Billy Williams and singles by Claudell Washington in the seventh and ninth.

The Tigers rapped Oakland starter Vida Blue for eight hits before he left with no outs in the seventh inning. Three straight doubles by Mickey Stanley, Tom Ververz and Ron LeFlore scored two runs in the seventh before Blue was replaced by Rolfe Fingers.

Gary Sutherland's single in the fifth inning drove in the Tigers' first run.

Tyrone, Gonzalez, Ortiz Spark Cubs' Return Home Spree

Cesar Goes Six-For-Six

BY TED BATTLES
After 10 games on the road, all the Midland Cubs weren't glad to be back in Cubs Stadium. Cesar Gonzalez, Wayne Tyrone and Jose (Pepi) Ortiz certainly were.

They combined for 12 of Midland's 17 hits and 11 runs-batted-in as the Midland Cubs bombed the El Paso Diablos, 16-7, in Texas League action Friday night.

Gonzalez, who went six-for-six and knocked in four runs, said, "No, I've never had that kind of a day ever before in my career."

Tyrone was not only glad to be home, but glad to be in June. The former Ranger Junior College and Pan American University star finished his ninth and tenth homers over the left field fence to plate six Midland runs.

"June is my month," Wayne grinned after the game. "That's when I began last year, only this year I'm way ahead of last year's pace. I only had four homers at this time a year ago."

And Ortiz was mostly just glad to be back in the Cubs lineup after a long layoff with a muscle injury in the back of his leg. He still isn't running full speed, but Friday ran well enough to collect four hits and score four.

"Never in my career have I had a muscle pull bother me like that one. I'm still not full speed, but another three or four days and I will be."

Beneficiary of the Cubs' hot-batting outburst were lefty Dave Geisel, who stuck around long enough to level his record at 4-4, and reliever Gary Junge, who came on in the sixth and picked up his third save.

The Cub pitchers did a pretty good job of muffling Paul Dade, the Diablos slugger who has caused Cub pitching so much grief in the past. That is, if you can call a second-inning solo "home" and a third-inning sacrifice fly a muffed job. The homer was Dade's 10th. Randy Wilson tagged a Junge for a two-run homer in the eighth.

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Syd Ball of Australia and Greer Stevens of South Africa won the singles titles of the Rothman's Grass Court tennis championships Saturday.

Ball tamed giant-killer Bernie Mitton of South Africa 3-6, 6-3, 11-9 after Mitton upended Jimmy Connors 7-4, 6-1 in the semi-final.

Wayne Hits Two Homers

especially in the second inning when he kept Geisel out of serious trouble. He spun completely around in onehanded Wilson's hot shot and made the force out throw to shortstop Mike Sember from his knees. Then he started a snappy inning-ending double play with Geisel hustling to first to take Sember's relay.

"I feel real comfortable around first base," Wayne, who has been looking for a defensive position, said.

Manager Doc Edwards was delighted with the run production. "Sixteen runs on 17 hits. In the Alexandria series we had just seven runs on 34 hits. Tonight was more like it."

Wayne Tyrone ... ahead of slugging schedule

The Cubs took a 4-3 lead in the third on a Gonzalez single and Tyrone's first and Wayne Tyrone singled home runs and then Al Montreuil made it emphatic with a two-run double.

Tyrone's second homer, almost the same time, only longer, was a three-run job.

Riessen Fines Himself $100

CLEVELAND (AP) — Player-coach Marty Riessen of the Cleveland Nets has fined himself $100 for hitting a ball towards a becker in the end zone during the Nets' 29-25 loss to Pittsburgh in World Team Tennis Friday night.

Riessen also imposed the same fine on his doubles partner, Clark Graebner, for foul language.

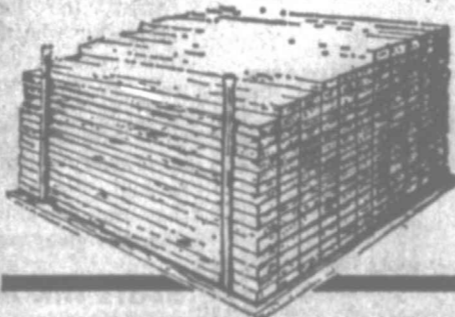

"I fined myself for hitting a ball too close to a fan and Clark for his language," Riessen said. "My aim was so bad I almost hit an innocent person."

Dibbs, Evert Among Top 16

PARIS (AP) — Eddie Dibbs and defending champion Chris Evert led United States' efforts in the French International tennis championships on Saturday while the Latin Americans kept alive their strong challenge.

Dibbs, of Miami, moved into the last 16 in the men's singles with a stormy 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 triumph over Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico, the recent Italian Open champion, advanced 4-6, 6-4, 6-0, 6-1 after a strong challenge from Corrado Barazzutti of Italy.

Also moving into the final 16 was Guillermo Vilas, the 1974 Grand Prix winner who dined fellow Argentinian Ricardo Cano 7-5, 6-4, 6-2, and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, who ousted Paul Kronk of Australia 6-3, 7-6, 6-3.

Defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden had a day off, along with six Americans—Erik Van Dillen, John Andrews, Roscoe Tanner, Brian Gottfried, Stan Smith and Harold Solomon.

Miss Evert, the world's top-ranked woman player, sailed into the round of 16 with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Mima Jauovec of Yugoslavia.

Also into the final 16 are Californians Pam Teeguarden and Janet Newberry and Floridian Donna Gann. But Californian Julie Anthony, and Floridian Laurie Fleming Rowley and Betsy Nagelsen were among those defeated.

In the first major upset of the women's draw, eighth-seeded Gail Chanfreau was toppled by Fiorella Bonicelli of Uruguay after saving three match points. Miss Bonicelli beat the French ace 6-4, 6-5.

During the Dibbs-Pilić duel, the volatile French crowd at Roland Garros Stadium boomed line calls late in the match.

"There were so many bad line calls it was a wonder either of us had any concentration left," Dibbs said. "I think I was a bit lucky to win in the end."

The big row erupted as Dibbs served at deuce while trailing 1-3 in the fourth set. Pilić's return was ruled out by the linesman but the umpire gave the point to Pilić.

When Dibbs pointed to the linesman who still had his hand raised in the "out" signal, Pilić protested. The umpire ordered the point replayed and Dibbs refused. Dibbs changed his tune on orders from referee Maurice Penneroux, and Pilić, showing sportsmanship commonly displayed under such circumstances, deliberately threw the point away.

Disputes over line calls followed in every game. The umpire eventually was replaced and Dibbs' superiority saw him through. He won three straight games with a series of fine backhands.

Jumbo Ozaki Nabs Three-Stroke Edge

SENDAI, Japan (AP) — Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki fired a five-under-par 67 Saturday and took a three-stroke lead after three rounds of the $68,965 Tohoku Golf Classic.

Ozaki, Japan's leading money winner in 1974, collected seven birdies and only two bogeys over the 7,107-yard, par-72 Nishi Sendai Country Club course in northern Japan. He had a 54-hole total of 206.

Yastrzemski, Lynn Lead Bosox Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Fred Lynn whacked run-scoring singles in the eighth inning, propelling the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Bernie Carbo opened the Red Sox eighth with a single and pinch runner Rick Miller took second on a wild pitch and third on a sacrifice. Yastrzemski then singled in the tie-breaking run before Lynn provided an insurance tally with his base hit.

The Twins took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning. Rod Carew grounded a single through the middle and Larry Hise got a base hit off Boston starter Bill Lee's leg.

Tony Oliva fouled out, but Bobby Darwin hit a wind-blown fly to deep right. Carew and Hise had to hold up on the fly and managed to advance just one base each. Darwin rounded first on the single and was run down and tagged out.

Dan Ford then beat out a slow grounder to third, scoring Minnesota starter Ray Corbin worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the fourth and blanked the Red Sox until the sixth. Then, with one out, Lynn drilled his ninth homer into the center field bleachers to tie the score.

Lynn earlier had extended his hitting streak to 11 games with a line double to the right field remaki then singled in the tie-breaking run before Lynn provided an insurance tally with his base hit.

Morton Stops Mets As Braves Win, 7-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Morton stopped a personal game losing streak and knocked in two runs to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 7-3 decision over the New York Mets Saturday.

Morton, 6-6, who last won on April 26 when he beat the San Diego Padres, scattered nine hits in seven innings. New York left-hander John Matlack, 7-4, was the loser.

Morton gave up run-scoring singles to Joe Torre and Ed Kranepool in the first inning to fall behind 2-0, but that was the last time he trailed the Mets.

The Braves scored four times in the second inning, two of the runs coming in on Morton's two-run single. Vic Correll doubled home a run before Morton's base hit and Ralph Garr capped the rally with an RBI single.

Correll doubled home another run in the third inning to give the Braves a 5-2 lead.

The Mets cut the Atlanta lead to 5-3 with a run in the fifth on Rusty Staub's single, but the Braves came back with two in the ninth in a rally keyed by Larvell Blanks' RBI single.

Atlanta Obtains Blue Moon Odom

NEW YORK (AP) — John Odom, the unhappy Cleveland pitcher who wanted to be traded, was sent by the Indians Saturday to the Atlanta Braves for right-hander Rorik Harrison. The Associated Press learned.

Odom, who started out the season with the Oakland A's, was sent to Cleveland earlier this year for pitchers Dick Bosman and Jim Perry. But the right-hander was immediately unhappy with the contract offered by the Indians, demanding $8,000 more in salary.

Odom got his wish to be traded, but not to the team he wanted. The disgruntled pitcher had said that he either wanted to go back to Oakland or be sent to the Texas Rangers.

Since the inter-league trading period is over between the American and National Leagues, Odom was actually picked up on waivers by the Braves. But Cleveland General Manager Phil Seghi refused to let him go for the $20,000 waiver price and demanded a player in return as well as cash. He got Harrison, a former American League pitcher with the Baltimore Orioles.

Odom, an eight-year veteran who once won as many as 16 games in a season and 15 two others, has seen limited action this season. He has a 1-0 record with a 3.48 earned run average. His only victory was a two-hit shutout earlier this week against the Kansas City Royals.

Lifetime, Odom has an 81-74 record with a 3.46 ERA.

Harrison had a 3-4 mark with a 4.77 ERA this season. During a checked career with Baltimore and Atlanta, Harrison had a 23-27 record with a 3.90 ERA.

GRAND NATIONAL RACE SET FOR TODAY— Allison Takes Top Pole Position

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Allison says he's successful running race he's because he likes them, and he seems determined to enjoy himself this weekend.

Allison, aiming for his second victory in a row at Riverside International Raceway and his third straight NASCAR triumph in Southern California, won the pole position Friday for the 400-mile Grand National road race Sunday.

Allison averaged 110.753 miles per hour in an AMC Matador over the 2.54-mile course and took the top qualifying spot away from Richard Petty, who had a speed of 109.553 in a 1975 Dodge.

Allison's speed was a record for the event, bettering the 110.027 set by Petty two years ago.

It also was quicker than the 110.383 Allison averaged in January when he took the pole for the Western 500 and went on to win.

The stock cars usually run faster in January here than they do in June, when temperatures rise and cause engine overheating. But Allison had a quick answer when asked why he had reversed the trend.

"Tires," he said. "They're much better this time."

The stock cars are now using a slick tread introduced earlier this year, a design some were hesitant to use because they can lose traction in an instant if there's something on the track.

As Allison put it, "You can spin out if you run over a drop of spit."

But the new tires and warm track paid off for Allison, whose Roger Penske-prepared Matador is one of the few cars in the race with disc brakes.

The first 10 rows were filled in Friday's qualifying with the rest of the 35-car field to be decided today.

Daytona 500 winner Benny Parsons qualified third, taking the inside of the second row with a speed of 109.104 in a 1975 Chevrolet.

Patterson Eyes New PR Job At Age 65

ANAHEIM (AP) — At 65, when a majority of his peers looked forward to retirement and perhaps the rocking chair, Arthur "Red" Patterson recommended himself for the most challenging job of his life and loves it.

"This is so much better than relaxing," says Patterson, who quit a newspaper career in New York City to work public relations, first with the New York Yankees and then with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He moved West when Walter O'Malley brought the Dodgers to Los Angeles in 1958.

"I think I might have slackened just a bit after 20 years with the Dodgers," Patterson admitted. "I'm not picking it up. I'm making more speeches, just like when the Dodgers came to California."

Autry Helped
"Gene Autry had a lot of courage to give me a job like this at this age," Red said. "I've got to admit there were times when I felt like quitting and relaxing and taking it easy. I have a small bank account which probably would have taken care of us. But this is so much better."

He also admits his salary about doubled with the new job for which he recommended himself.

"Mr. Autry asked me for my opinion of three men being considered. I gave it glibly and then I got the feeling that maybe he was hunting. I called back and said I was interested and he said he'd meet me at breakfast and that's where it went."

Autry, the former cowboy acting star who now owns television and radio stations as well as the Angels, doesn't think he took a great gamble with Patterson. "He has lived up to every expectation I had," he said. "He has a background that you can't buy. Only experience gives you that back."

Denver Spurs File Suit Against NHL

DENVER (AP) — Ivan Mullenix, owner of the Denver Spurs hockey team, has filed an antitrust suit in U.S. District Court seeking nearly $1.3 million from the National Hockey League.

The suit was filed May 16, but details were withheld for 20 days while Mullenix and the corporation, Denver Professional Sports, Inc., negotiated with the NHL and others in an attempt to land an NHL franchise in Denver for next year.

Mullenix since has gained a franchise in the World Hockey Association.

The suit claims Mullenix, as owner of the Spurs franchise in the Western Hockey League, lost $885,899 between 1973 and April of this year through coercion, conspiracy and actual violation of the Sherman and Clayton Antitrust Acts on the part of the NHL and some of its officials.

Mullenix said to get an NHL franchise he had to sign an asset purchase agreement and a purchase option agreement with the NHL involving the Spurs, which had been a farm club owned by the St. Louis Blues.

The suit contends Mullenix signed the asset purchase agreement Aug. 15, 1973 with the NHL, attorney James D. Cullen, secretary of the NHL, and the Blues. He had to pay $125,000 cash and signed a three-year note for $375,000.

Mullenix said he paid $250,000 on the principal and $37,500 in interest on the note and the rest is due in August.

The agreement also provided that Mullenix would pay $750,000 to Sports Holdings, Inc., the corporation organized by the Blues in Colorado to control the Spurs, if Mullenix gained an NHL franchise; if he brought in any other team other than a Western or National Hockey League franchise, or if he ceased Denver's Western Hockey League operation before the 1980-81 season.

He said the purchase option agreement gave the Blues the right to repurchase the Spurs—including any territorial rights to an NHL franchise—for $500,000 if Mullenix ceased the Spurs operation. And it stipulated that if Mullenix began a competing franchise, such as with the WHA, the Blues would have the right to buy back the Spurs and its territorial rights for just $1.

In setting the financial damage figure, Mullenix said he lost the $885,899 in operating the Spurs since 1973; the $375,000 in the unwanted purchase of the Spurs and $37,500 in interest on the note he was forced to sign.

The suit charges the NHL, the two Blues corporations and Cullen with illegal "tie-in" contracts, attempts to prevent competition, conspiracy to restrain competition, unlawful use of monopoly powers and attempts to monopolize national and Denver markets.

It also seeks a federal court judgment to declare the agreements signed by Mullenix as null and void and asks treble damages allowed under the Clayton Antitrust Act.

Bears Ink Avellini

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears closed the book on signing selections from the 1975 draft Saturday as Maryland quarterback Bob Avellini came to terms with the club, officials said.

Chicago's first of two picks in the sixth round, Avellini passed at a $8.5 per cent clip during his three years at Maryland. He completed 321 of 394 passes for 3,322 yards and 15 touchdowns.

A right-hander, the 6-foot-3, 197-pound Avellini compiled 1,658 passing yards last year in leading Maryland to an 8-3 record and its first Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

Avellini, a native of New Hyde Park, N.Y., set numerous ACC and Maryland records during his three varsity seasons even though an injury plagued him during his junior season.

The Bears' 53-man veteran roster contains four newly acquired players, tackle Grady Alderman, running back Sid Edwards, guard-center Mike Norquist, and cornerback Nehemiah Wilson.

Cowboys Sign Three

DALLAS (AP) — Second-round selection Burton Lawless of Florida and two other draft choices have signed with the Dallas Cowboys, it was announced Saturday.

Lawless, a 6-4, 253-pound guard, was joined by punter Mitch Hoopes, an eighth-round pick from Arizona, and 16th-round choice Pete Clark, a Colorado State tight end.

The holdouts include Maryland middle linebacker Randy White, the Cowboys' first-round selection.

New Sports Ruler... He's Named 'King Greed'

By STEVE BISHEFF
Copley News Service

Something's wrong with the system. Something's really wrong.

Is it just me, or have all the headlines gone crazy? Is the entire structure of sports wavering like the country's economy? Is anything sacred anymore besides the almighty dollar?

Joe Namath turns down $4 million to throw a football for Chicago. Muhammad Ali gets millions for fighting guys who shouldn't even qualify as sparring partners. A high school kid, a 17-year-old who may not even have a driver's license yet, signs a seven-year basketball contract for $1 million-plus.

And in the meantime, school bonds get voted down, unemployment lines grow larger and some people actually suffer through another day of hunger pangs.

Logic evaporates. It doesn't add up. The logic has long since evaporated. The values are tilting way off in the wrong direction.

many large cities are eliminating entire athletic programs in order to balance budgets.

But the pros keep shelling it out. They keep raising salaries and ticket prices. They keep sticking it to the poor consumers.

It's great for the skilled young men who are fortunate enough to come along in this, the most lucrative of all eras. It's paradise for them.

Anthony Davis rides through the University of Southern California campus in his new Rolls-Royce, honking the horn and waving to his buddies.

David Thompson sits by the telephone, smiling and waiting patiently, knowing two teams will quibble over pro basketball's No. 1 prize, trying to outbid one another, and the result will be about a $3 million bonanza.

Even some of the lesser names are raking it in. Booker Brown, a fine young offensive line prospect, was just acquired in a trade by the San Diego Chargers. As someone who spent the last year playing in the World Football League, he now gets to sign another juicy new contract.

Not bad for a 22-year-old kid who already lives in a $100,000 house in California's Orange County and travels around in a flashy Mercedes-Benz.

Profiteers, Wrong Sport. And, yet, not all our gifted athletes are amply rewarded. Distance runner Steve Prefontaine was one of the sad minority, and his death in that car accident the other night made him a tragic example.

Few stars in any sport were as determined and dedicated as Prefontaine. Not many had his charisma, either. There was something about him, something to which people could immediately relate. When he ran, spectators rose to their feet. He had that indefinable chemistry, that special aura. But because his sport was track and field and not basketball or football, he was never fully appreciated, either artistically or financially. Oh, yeah, he'd compete in meets around the country and get some nice prizes and maybe even an occasional promoter's envelope with a check in it. All the track stars do, you know.

Price Of A Few Beers. A tragic, lonely end. But, basically, he had to make it on his own. There were no fat bonuses, no contracts with incentive clauses, no luxury cars or fancy wardrobes. At 24, he got his satisfaction other ways. By running well and then going out for a few beers with his friends afterward.

Clearly, that's what must have happened the other night. He won a race and celebrated with some beers. A few too many, he died by himself after his car jumped a curb and flipped over, the career of one even an occasional promoter's envelope with a check in it. All the track stars do, you know.

Price Of A Few Beers. A tragic, lonely end. But, basically, he had to make it on his own. There were no fat bonuses, no contracts with

DAVIS TAKES FLYER WITH CARDINALS— Willie, Billy Match Ends

DALLAS (AP) — Several weeks ago, after Willie Davis pulled his squat-down strike in centerfield a Texas Ranger official shook his head and said "It looks like Billy Martin has finally met his match."

Martin, the fiery Ranger manager, calls for strict loyalty from his players which is why Rico Caray and Alex Johnson no longer wear the Texas "T" on their caps.

So, Davis' trade for veteran infielder Ed Erickson and replacement pitcher Tommy Joe Moore to the St. Louis Cardinals was no surprise. The surprise was it didn't happen earlier.

The Rangers had been patient with Davis after obtaining him from Montreal in the off-season for infielder Pete Miskowin and pitcher Don Stanhouse.

Davis, who was being paid $105,000 by the Rangers, kept bugging Ranger owner Brad Corbett for advances on his salary. Corbett had been strong on trading for Davis in the winter while Martin was lukewarm at best.

"I just can't play for anybody who wants to keep his foot on my neck," Davis said. "I'll hit .375 for the Cardinals. I'll be happy there."

Back in spring training, Davis also thought he was going to be happy with the Rangers.

"I'm full of anticipation," Davis said at Pompano Beach. "It's a great feeling to be able to go about your business with this kind of attitude."

Outspoken At the time, Davis tried to explain his label of being an outspoken player who has to play by his own particular set of rules.

"I think through the years that reputation has been a plus for me," Davis said. "If I can't be truthful with others, I certainly can't be truthful with myself. When people come to me for an answer, I try to be as truthful as possible. I sleep better because of it."

Davis was turned down for a salary advance by Corbett last Sunday.

Davis, being true to himself in his own wild way, announced he would not make the Eastern road swing with the Rangers.

Davis concluded "If I were a baseball club owner I would do everything I could to make everybody happy..."

Now, the St. Louis Cardinals have their chance with Willie Davis.

New Utah Star Boss Faces Legal Question

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A new legal entanglement stemming from sale of securities has come to light involving Snellen M. Johnson, one of the new owners of the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association.

He is among eight defendants accused in a U.S. District Court civil suit of conspiracy and violation of the Federal Securities Act.

Johnson and his brother Lyle were named Wednesday as new owners of the team. The outgoing owner, Bill Daniels, said the transaction had been concluded.

The Johnsons also pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count last year charging sale of unregistered securities and were ordered to pay back debts in that case. Snellen Johnson said Thursday the Stars sale was in no way threatened by the case, even though his attorney said some $300,000 in debts had been repaid.

The Johnsons were fined $1,000 each and put on probation for one year by 3rd District Court Judge Stewart M. Hanson. They have until Monday to furnish documents showing payment on the debts.

Snellen Johnson and six other defendants in the federal court suit are directors of NAVSAT Systems Inc., which says it plans to launch the world's first maritime communications satellite system.

Other defendants are Harvey Schwartz, J. Richard Rampton, Carolyn Krissman, William C. MacMillan Jr., Kurt Seifman and Adm. John M. Will, all directors of NAVSAT Systems; and Frank A. Nelson Jr., listed in the complaint as a director and president of United Bank of Murray, and director and chairman of the board of Strategic Automated Systems International Inc. The two corporations and the bank also were named as defendants.

The suit was filed by J. Robert Carlton of Richmond, Va., and his company, Carlton Industries Inc. It seeks more than $800,000 from the defendants.

The suit alleges the defendants entered into a scheme to defraud Carlton and his company by selling them 1.2 million shares of the common stock of NAVSAT Systems.

The suit, filed Sept. 27, 1974, is pending before Judge Willis W. Ritter.

The suit alleges that Johnson and Kurt Seifman represented to Carlton that the NAVSAT system was patented when it was not. It also asserts the company made no arrangements to acquire the equipment required.

Johnson told Carlton NAVSAT had an agreement with Communication Satellite Corp., a public corporation which maintains communications satellites in orbit, to reserve space for the NAVSAT satellite, but there was no such agreement, the suit says.

It says Carlton issued promissory notes based on the information given him by the defendants. He personally issued two notes of $200,000 each and his company issued two more, also of $200,000 each, the suit said.

The suit asks that the notes be voided by the court and that the defendants pay the costs of the suit and other relief.

Sprinter Says China To Improve

PRAIRIE VIEW, Tex. (AP) — Americans virtually swept the Chinese during a recent goodwill tour of China, but the People's Republic will be a tough competitor by the 1980 Olympics, says U.S. sprinter Debra Saperier.

"They filmed everything from our marching in to the end of the meet," Miss Saperier said after returning here from the three-week tour. "And they would get out after a race and measure stride marks."

"They will take these films and information, along with our tips and technique, and produce athletes."

Miss Saperier was one of 100 American Athletic Union athletes and officials to make the goodwill trip, which had as its theme, "Friendship First, Competition Second."

"The Chinese lived up to every word of the friendship motto," Miss Saperier said. "Crowds waved at our bus as we went along the road and the Chinese athletes would always get where we were going ahead of us and applaud as we unloaded."

Miss Saperier, a freshman English instructor at Prairie View A&M here, said the Chinese, and the Americans while they were in China, got no outside news.

None knew of the Mayaguez seizure and the American countermove until the team left the mainland, she said.

"They don't seem to be a very politically aware country," Miss Saperier said. "They are only aware of what is good for the country and right now that is to produce."

"One thing that really impressed me was the way the American athletes got along on such a long trip with so many of us. Usually there would be some tension, but there wasn't."

South Korean Claims Crown

KITAKYUSHU, Japan (AP) — Yuh Ja-Doo of South Korea became the World Boxing Association junior middleweight champion Saturday with a seventh-round knockout of Koichi Wajima of Japan.

Wajima, who first won the title 3½ years ago, was knocked to the canvas two times before Yuh finished him off 2 minutes, 4 seconds into the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round fight which drew a crowd of 12,000 to Kitakyushu Municipal Gymnasium in southern Japan.

The 33-year-old Wajima, a former dump truck driver, was defending his title for the first time since regaining it from Oscar Albarado of the United States in Tokyo last Jan. 21. Wajima had lost the championship to Albarado by a 15th-round knockout in Tokyo last June.

Texas Wesleyan Wins NAAIA Golf

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Host Texas Wesleyan was rather rude to its guests in the 34th annual NAAIA golf championships Friday, running away with both the team and individual titles.

Dan Gray of the Rams shot a final round two-under par 69 to win the individual trophy by a shot over three other competitors with a 73-hole total of 288 over the Woodhaven Country Club Course.

Terry Roberts of U.S. International, Mark Pankarich, Cal State, and Jeff Lewis of Franklin College had 289.

TWC surged from nine shots behind Sam Houston State to win with a 1188 total—three strokes ahead of SES.

It was TWC's third NAAIA golf title in the last 11 years.

SMU Expected To Name Coach

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University is expected to name a new head basketball coach next week with assistants Winfrey Sanderson of Alabama and Mike Schuler of Virginia expected to be strongly in the running.

Bob Frenitt retired last month to become director of the school's new sports center.

Steers Lasso Sooners, 4-2

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The first night of the College World Series provided no surprises. Arizona State was as strong as predicted, Fullerton State was pesky and Texas and Oklahoma showed they have plenty of pitching.

For third-rated Arizona State over Fullerton State behind the pitching of sophomore Floyd Bannister. Texas recorded a 4-2 triumph. "This is going to be a pitchers series," predicted Arizona Coach Jim Brock after Bannister scattered six hits and struck out 15 to send the Sooners ahead to round two Sunday night against No. 2 Texas.

And regards pitching, he could be right. Texas and Oklahoma, frequent opponents over the years in this eight-team, double-elimination classic, engaged in a pitching battle that was marred by some shoddy base-running by Big Eight Conference champion Oklahoma.

Duncanville Captures State Championship

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Brennan and Duncanville owned Class 3A and 4A State Schoolboy baseball titles, respectively, today thanks to clutch pitching.

Duncanville set on a wildness by South San Antonio pitcher Robin Hitchcock for a three-run, third inning outburst. Hitchcock was guilty of four walks and two passed balls in the climactic inning after his teammates had staked him to a 2-1 lead in the first inning.

One Fatal Rural Mishap Logged In Area In May

The death of two Odessa men in a train-truck accident last month gave Midland County the only fatal traffic accident recorded in the rural areas of the 10-county Permian Basin region in May, according to a report issued by the Department of Public Safety.

The men, Elias Natividad and Roderick Hollis May, were killed May 24 when the truck-trailer in which they were riding collided with a train at a crossing just off U.S. 80 about 7 1/2 miles west of Midland.

Ector County tallied the highest number of rural traffic accidents, marking up 48. Of that total, 17 were personal injury accidents in which 22 persons were injured.

Midland County recorded 8 personal injury accidents in its rural areas with 10 persons injured. A total of 26 accidents occurred.

Howard County tied with Midland on total number of accidents reported, but recorded a higher number of personal injury accidents—11 with 19 persons injured.

The best driving records were exhibited outside the cities and towns of Glasscock County, with only one accident, a property damage accident, reported.

The May report brought to 123 the accidents reported in rural sections of Midland County since the first of the year. Ector County has now recorded 237 total rural accidents.

Other area counties, and the number of personal injury and property damage accidents they reported in May, include:

Onassis Leaves Jackie $250,000 Per Year

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The will of Aristotle Onassis has been filed with an Athens court naming his daughter Christina as principal heir and setting aside $250,000 a year for his widow Jacqueline, an Onassis spokesman said Saturday.

The 18-page will was published in several Greek newspapers, including Acropolis. Stelios Papadimitriou, legal adviser for the Onassis-controlled Springfield Shipping Co. here, said the published accounts were accurate.

Christina would also get $50,000 annually for her husband if she weds, Acropolis said.

The document did not set a value on Onassis' estate but previous estimates have set his fortune at about $1 billion. The 68-year-old Onassis died in Paris last March after a long illness.

Christina Onassis announced Thursday that half of her father's fortune would be used for a welfare foundation in his memory and that of his son Alexander, killed in a plane crash in January 1973. She said the Alexander Onassis Foundation would be established in Vaduz, Liechtenstein, under his instructions.

Acropolis said Saturday that Onassis will order creation of two large companies to absorb his shares in various international business interests, and their profits would go to finance the foundation.

The document published by the Acropolis was dated January 1974 and may have been amended since then.

It said Christina takes three quarters of the shares of the Victory Carriers shipping company, 500 shares of two companies to fund a welfare foundation, and over half the shares of Greece's national air carrier Olympic Airways, which is scheduled to be nationalized this year with a $68-million reimbursement payable to Onassis.

The will stipulates that of Jackie's $250,000 annually, $25,000 will go to each of her two children Caroline and John Kennedy, "until they reach adulthood."

Onassis' three sisters will each receive $60,000 annually for life, while his cousins will share $50,000 annually, the report said. Large sums are also left to other close relatives and business associates, as well as to staff who served the Onassis family.

An appendix to the alleged will, naming 24-year-old Christina as executrix, began: "To my dear daughter Christina," and ended: "With my last kiss, daddy."

Acropolis also published a photograph of what it claimed was the original 18-page Onassis will written by hand. It listed inheritors ranging from his closest family to employees of his various enterprises.

The published will stipulates that Onassis' private island of Scorpios and 325-foot luxury yacht Christina go to his daughter and widow with shares of 75 per cent and 25 per cent respectively.

'Monday Morning Specials' Slated At Senior Center

A series of weekly "Monday Morning Specials" will be presented beginning Monday at 10:30 a.m. in the Midland Senior Center, 1301 W. Louisiana.

Designed to acquaint older Midlanders with services available to them, and emphasizing safety procedures which can be carried out at home, the programs will include a demonstration by the fire department on Monday "Operation Identification," a method of marking valuable possessions, will be explained by Sgt. Fred Johnson of the Midland Police Department on June 16. The special engraving tools used for this purpose will be available at the center for senior citizens to borrow.

Fall From Car Hurts Midlander

Bonnie Sue Moses, 32, of 1102 W. Kentucky St., was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released early Saturday after she fell from a car at the intersection of Wall and Midkiff streets.

The June 23 program will stress first aid procedures especially adapted for older persons. On June 30, the senior citizens will visit the Midland Memorial Hospital emergency room.

No registration is necessary to attend the programs, but those who will need transportation for the hospital field trip are asked to notify Kathie Murphy, center director.

Chemical Fumes Kill Two Men

PORT NECHES, Tex. (AP) — Carbon tetrachloride fumes killed two men at the Riverside Chemical Co. plant here Friday and nearly claimed the lives of two others.

Darrell Anthony Brister, 26, of Port Neches was cleaning a 3,000-barrel storage tank with the chemical when his gas mask came loose and he was overcome by fumes.

Police said Ronald Ford, 27, of Besumont, tried to save Brister without a mask and he, too, was overcome by fumes. Neither man could be revived.

Individuals of all ages who previously have played in bands will compose the Midland Municipal Band which has scheduled its first practice session for 7 p.m. Monday in the Goddard Junior High School band room.

Scott Lewis, Goddard band director, will direct the group which will make its first performance at the Kiwanis Fourth of July Spectacular at Cub Stadium.

The municipal band also will participate in other concerts during the remainder of the year including Bicentennial presentations.

Persons desiring additional information about the new band may telephone 682-9511 or 694-8418.

Lewis has invited all interested musicians to "bring your horn and come join us."

Guide For Disabled To Be Distributed

"Getting Around Midland," a guide book to the Tall City for the physically disabled, will be distributed this week by health agencies and the Chamber of Commerce.

The publication's purposes are to help persons with physical disabilities determine where they may go within the city and to create a public awareness of architectural barriers in buildings used by the public.

The building standards for the handicapped set by the American National Standards Institute include ground level or ramped entrances to public buildings, parking spaces set aside and identified for use by disabled drivers, doors with a clear opening of at least 36 inches, sturdy handrails on stairways, easily accessible and specially equipped restrooms and public telephones and drinking fountains at wheel chair height.

Listings in the book include churches, schools, office buildings, recreational facilities, financial institutions, motels, restaurants, shopping centers and specialty stores.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. commended the publication as "an aid to our handicapped citizens and visitors." He added that the book guide will "certainly help the disabled in avoiding unnecessary frustrations and delays" and expressed the hope that "this most worthy publication, into which a great deal of effort has gone, will cause all of us to become more aware of potential difficulties in building accessibility. Through this awareness should come an effort to minimize future problems in this connection."

The booklet is a project of the Junior League of Midland in cooperation with the Easter Seal Society and the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Copies are available at the Midland Chamber of Commerce office, 211 N. Colorado.

CBS Requests Kent State Trial Gag Rule Be Lifted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — CBS Inc. has asked the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to lift a lower court order prohibiting persons involved in the current Kent State trial from talking with the news media.

CBS asked the appellate court Friday to order U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young to modify his ruling.

Young's order called for "all parties concerned with this litigation, whether plaintiffs or defendants, their relatives, close friends, and associates to refrain from discussing in any manner these cases with members of the news media or the public."

The order was issued prior to the trial under way in Cleveland for civil damages in the shooting at Kent State University in 1970 in which four students were killed and nine others injured.

The network charged that the order exceeds local civil rules and far exceeds powers granted by local criminal rules in criminal cases.

Midlander Hurt In Auto Mishap

Dubby Joe White, 21, of 1022 S. Johnson St., was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released early Saturday after being injured in a one-car crash on Cottonflat Road just north of Interstate 20.

Officers said the right front wheel came off his car, causing White to lose control.

The car veered left off the road, damaged 25 feet of barbed wire fence, then flipped around and struck a utility pole, officers said.

Learn Exceptions To Rule Of Play

"Third hand high" is a good rule for beginners. If your partner leads a low card of a suit you play a high card to win the trick or to drive out a still higher card held by fourth hand.

If you didn't follow this rule you might let declarer win a trick that you could take away from him. For example, suppose your partner leads the deuce of spades. Dummy plays low, holding three low spades, and it is up to you to play from K-9-7.

The correct play is the king. For all you know, declarer has A-10-x of spades. If you failed to play your king, you would let declarer win a trick with the ten as well as with the ace of spades. If you play the king, declarer can win only his ace.

EXCEPTIONS

You play third hand high not because some book says so but because it will do you some good.

Suppose your partner leads the deuce of spades and that dummy plays the nine from a holding of A-10-9. You hold J-4-3. What do you play?

If you follow the old rule you play the jack. That allows declarer to win all three spade tricks if he has Q-x-x. If you play a low card instead of the jack, declarer can win only two spade tricks.

Playing your low spade instead of the queen will cost a trick if declarer has only x-x-x, but this means that your partner has led low from K-Q-x-x. Your partner will not make such a lead against a suit contract and will seldom find this lead against notrump. Your low play in third position will save a trick more often than not.

There's a similar exception when your partner leads the deuce of spades against three notrump, and dummy plays the jack from J-10-x. You must play low from Q-x-x-x. The best play is your second-highest card, not the queen.

The theory is that declarer has A-x or K-x or perhaps even the doubleton A-K. You cannot gain by playing the queen, and you lose a trick if declarer has the king.

For example, suppose declarer has K-x. Dummy wins the first trick with the jack. Later, your partner can play the ace to capture the king, and your queen will capture dummy's ten. You win three tricks.

and your queen will capture dummy's ten. You win three tricks in the suit.

If you waste the queen on the first trick, declarer wins the king and will later win a trick with dummy's ten. Each side wins two tricks.

Beware of playing third hand high when your partner leads a trump. You are unlikely to set up anything in your partner's hand, and losing your own high trump may be costly.

West led a trump to prevent dummy from ruffing too many diamonds. It was a reasonable idea, but it had a fatal effect when East used a ruff instead of his common sense.

East played third hand high at the first trick, giving up his beautiful queen of hearts to the executioners. This play cost East 1500 points.

South won with the king of hearts, took the ace of diamonds and gave up a diamond. West returned another trump, but South could still ruff a diamond with dummy's last trump.

When South ruffed a diamond, East could only discard a club, gnashing his teeth as he did so.

DRAWS LAST TRUMP

South now got to his hand with the ace of clubs and drew the last trump. He could then run the spades to get rid of his last losing diamond. Six hearts, bid and made.

Of course you can see where East went wrong. If he had played a low trump at the first trick he would have been able to over-ruff dummy on the third round of diamonds. The over-ruff would have been the setting trick.

A Threat To All!

Calling for a joint effort among American businesses in restraint of a headlong plunge into a socialized society, U.S. Sen. James L. Buckley of New York urges the petroleum industry to take the initiative in forging an alliance with all American business to work for the protection and preservation of an economic system on which American prosperity depends.

His plea followed his declaration that the free enterprise philosophy today is being attacked on a wider scale than ever before.

Addressing the American Association of Petroleum Geologists at Dallas a few weeks ago, he said free enterprise is being attacked in the name of a new regulatory ethic, promulgated by anti-business critics in government and "implemented by the ever-ravenous bureaucracy in Washington." He cited instances in which free enterprise is being undermined by those persons in and out of Congress and government who would substitute a socialistic form of government for our free enterprise system.

He also pointed to the fact that a distrust of business has reached dangerous levels, and that perhaps as a result thereof, the oil and gas industry has become Congress' favorite whipping boy.

Referring to numerous bills introduced in Congress which would pioneer new frontiers of federal intervention and control, he said the proposals reflect a "general ignorance of business economics, a growing hostility to business as a whole, and a passion to regulate that in the case of oil and gas can verge on the punitive."

But again, the overall attack is against business as a whole. Tomorrow's whipping boys very well could be "steel, or insurance, or the banks, or pharmaceuticals."

So, the time has come for the business community to forget special privileges and special immunities and to present a united front in defense of the free enterprise system.

Although the senator didn't say it in so many words, what he undoubtedly means is that it is time for the petroleum industry to forget about depletion and the like and take the lead in organizing all businesses in an all-out effort to save the free enterprise system. Should free enterprise go down, all private business will sink with it!

A vast educational effort must be made to remind Americans how their economy works.

Dr. W. Philip Gramm, professor of economics at Texas A&M University, speaking here recently, had much the same thing to say concerning the urgent need for all businesses to become involved.

"Our system is being defeated," Dr. Gramm said, "because those within government who defend our system are doing so with an ineptitude which is unparalleled in the history of the Republic. The greatest product in the world is not selling for the simple reason that it has no salesmen."

He went on to say that he is not pessimistic about the future of America or the future of the free enterprise system, because the American people are not stupid. "As facts become more and more evident, I believe the American people will act."

"In the coming struggle for survival and the success of the American experiment," he said, "I call upon the business and civic leaders—and all who value our heritage of freedom—to be not passive observers but active participants."

In other words, the nation's businessmen no longer can afford to stand idly by. They must become involved!

DATELINE WASHINGTON—

Congress-President Struggle Hampers U.S.

By JAMES CARY Copley News Service WASHINGTON — When the Watergate crisis forced the resignation of Richard Nixon on Aug. 9, 1974, the new President, Gerald Ford, movingly declared that America's long national nightmare was over.

In many respects he was correct. But it is possible that the ingredients of an almost equally serious governmental problem may have been produced by some of the legislation passed during the Watergate period and its aftermath.

That new, and still only dimly perceived, problem is the potential for governmental stalemate—that is, the inability to act—that has been caused by stripping the presidency of some of its powers.

At the same time Congress has moved into areas formerly considered to be the almost exclusive domain of the president's, and has exercised its own powers in ways that are having totally unforeseen consequences, particularly in foreign policy.

One result of this power struggle has been the partial destruction of old ways of conducting the nation's business at home and abroad without replacing them with new methods capable of accomplishing the same results.

There have been numerous battlegrounds on which this continuing struggle between the White House and Congress has been fought.

But the best known, one that brings the issues into sharpest focus, is the War Powers Act of 1973.

Its central and most important provision is that a president can commit U.S. armed forces to combat for only 60 days without congressional approval. If Congress does not specifically authorize continuation of the commitment the troops must be withdrawn.

The act may be of questionable constitutionality, largely because it authorizes Congress to order the removal of the troops at any time by passing a concurrent resolution which is not subject to veto. This circumvents the president's constitutional right to act on all legislation that has the effect of law.

But perhaps more dangerous is the fact that it permits, perhaps encourages, the government to move in two directions, to speak with two voices, rather than one.

The president is one voice. He can mobilize troops, threaten to use them, then commit them, to back up a tough foreign policy stand. Congress can then move in the opposite direction and cancel what he has done.

This happened in the recent prelude to the fall of the U.S.-supported regime in South Vietnam. President Nixon pledged in a letter to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu that the United States would react vigorously to any substantive Communist violation of the 1973 Paris peace accords. When the showdown came, this spring Congress refused to even provide the funds for equipment and ammunition that South Vietnam said it had to have, let alone troops.

The President had proposed, but Congress disposed. The shock tremors from this failure of the United States to live up to its word are still rumbling around the world. The question of U.S. credibility it created was a planned, prime topic of discussion by President Ford at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization summit in Brussels May 29-30.

Another congressional act passed July 1, 1973, had the potential for equally grave consequences. It imposed a total ban on expenditure of U.S. funds to

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — An American epic has been unfolding in our back offices. There is no other way to describe it. The story should lift the spirits of those who are depressed over the state of the nation.

It all began quite simply. We invited our readers, even as they were receding from the shocks of Watergate and Vietnam, to tell how they felt about America. We suggested that they reduce their sentiments to a slogan for the Bicentennial.

We have been absolutely overwhelmed with responses — slogans, poems, songs, letters — from more than 750,000 Americans. Children wrote to us by the tens of thousands — children like Jane Barry of Medford, Mass., who wrote simply: "I am 8 years old, go to Tufts School and I am in the third grade. My slogan is, 'Beep! Beep! Make way for America!'"

Thousands of schools held contests and sent us the winning slogans. The fifth-grade winner in Springfield, Mass., for example, was Anna Martinez, who offered this: "America is a tune. It must be sung together."

Older Americans also responded en masse, like Mrs. Joseph A. Adamcik, a 64-year-old Baldwin, Calif., grandmother, who submitted this slogan: "America Today for the Best Tomorrows."

There were some sad letters. Helen Debnam, of Byron, Ill., told how her husband had died in Southeast Asia only a month before the truck. "I am left alone with three children to raise and with a debilitating disease," she wrote. "Still, I am proud to be part of a nation with 'A Heritage So Rich'."

A few letters were bitter. A Vietnam veteran, who preferred not to be named, told how he had been crippled and blinded in one eye. "I'm not a poet, or a song writer. I'm not even a very good letter writer," he began. "What I am is disabled by the Vietnam war, the only war America has lost."

"When I was sent to Vietnam, I felt proud that I could be one of the people to fight for my country. After I was wounded, I had a lot of time to sit and think about my life, and what I would do, or what I COULD do."

"For a long time I did what everyone else did. I blamed America. I cursed her, and I was bitter as hell. Then I got to thinking about all my buddies who gave more than a leg and the sight of an eye..."

"The way I see it, with all that the American people have given the sacrifices, the heartaches, the money, how could we give up on America now? Let's get together now that we're not at war. Let's 'Keep America First!'"

We have received mailbags full of letters like these, thoughtful letters like the one, too, that Fred Diebold of Linden, N.J., sent us. "With deep sincerity and gratitude," he wrote, "we salute our founding fathers for having had the guts to get involved."

If the slogans keep coming in, we'll

INSIDE REPORT

Rummy's Dangerous Game In White House

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Only marginally shrouded by President Ford's conspicuous public success on his European trip in asserting his own dominance over U.S. foreign policy, the backstage maneuvering to reduce Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's stellar role is now reaching a crescendo of its own.

Its impact on Kissinger himself is beyond dispute. When he first read an authoritative dispatch to the New York Times on May 28, Kissinger, about to start a meeting in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), was white-knuckled with anger. That dispatch from Washington stated that the President was "reducing" his reliance on Kissinger and that Kissinger was losing his near-total "grip" on the nation's foreign policy.

Subsequent stories during Mr. Ford's European journey embroidered the theme. High-level administration officials, both inside and beyond the White House, are convinced that the source of much of this backstage, highly-authoritative leaking was Donald Rumsfeld, 42-year-old chief of the White House staff.

It would not be the first time that Rumsfeld, who returned here 20 months ago from his post as U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to organize Mr. Ford's White House staff, has demonstrated a taste for backstage power-brokering. Nor are Rumsfeld critics certain that his motives are all that suspect.

"Rummy plays hard ball," said one such critic. "But he's got the President's best interests at heart — as well as his own."

The most conspicuous White House-engineered pressure against a top cabinet member prior to the current moves against Kissinger came last winter against Secretary of the Treasury William Simon. Leaks from well-placed White House sources grieved the resignation skids for Simon at a time when Simon was the most loquacious and conservative holdout against the administration's anti-recession budget deficits.

At the time, Treasury Department operatives were convinced that the source of the anti-Simon barrage was Roy Ash, then head of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). These same operatives, however, are now convinced that it was Don Rumsfeld, not Ash, who was hiring the anti-Simon thunderbolts.

Even before that, moreover, top aides of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger privately complained that Rumsfeld, partly because Schlesinger had upstaged him at earlier NATO meetings in Brussels, was conducting a low-decibel campaign against the Defense Secretary. As with Simon, nothing happened, although muted White House criticism of Schlesinger continued.

The hardest-fought Rumsfeld campaign, however, came not against any Nixon-holdover cabinet member but against Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. The issue was whether the President should permit Rockefeller to name his own staffers to run the Domestic Council.

Rumsfeld fought a hard but losing battle on that one, and his reasons were both sound and carefully considered: If the Vice President as chairman of the Domestic Council could control its top staff, he would command its operations, and such command might conceivably become a heavy political liability for the President. Mr. Ford, however, sided with Rockefeller — and Rumsfeld made his displeasure known subsequently by returning an early draft of a Domestic Council working paper to director James Cannon with a caustic order that it be redrafted.

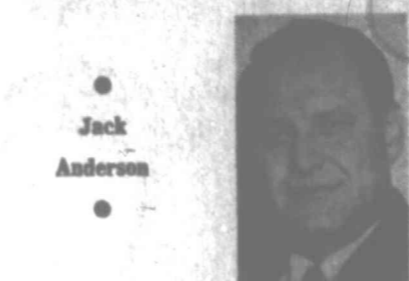

The downgrading of Kissinger, however, moves Rumsfeld into far more dangerous waters. Kissinger is a proven master at the art of bureaucratic infighting. He easily surmounted and survived two earlier flanking attacks on his power:

First, when Rumsfeld and other White House political aides failed to persuade the President to disengage himself from the Vietnam debacle in his state-of-the-world speech to Congress on April 16; and second, when reports leaked from the White House press office (obviously with Rumsfeld's personal approval) that Kissinger should give up his second hat as head of the National Security Council staff.

Some Rumsfeld critics take the conspiratorial view of these torpedo attacks by the President's youthful and ambitious White House staff chief. Rumsfeld, they say, yearns to be Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of Defense, chief of the National Security Council or even Secretary of State. These critics point to the gaudy personal publicity that has been coming Rumsfeld's way; the Merv Griffin show, an ABC television show on the "President's right-hand man"; a Washington Post series on the "second most powerful" man in Washington; the cover of last Sunday's Parade magazine, to name a few.

But others see a loftier Rumsfeld target: to make Gerald Ford come alive as complete master of his own administration — in short, as President in fact as well as name.

Whatever the rationale, Rumsfeld is now taking high risks with his torpedo aimed at Kissinger. Firing torpedoes is not President Ford's style, a fact that Kissinger himself will soon make full use of.

Jack Anderson

son pass the million mark. Most have been stirring slogans, like the one Mrs. A. B. Shearer of Fontana, Calif., submitted: "Trying Times are Times for Trying." Or as Robert Dielman of Brook, Ind., put it more colloquially: "America, we ain't perfect, but we ain't done."

Entries should be addressed to SLOGANS USA, Box 1976, Washington, D.C. 20013.

But there is more to the story, much more. Not only individuals but many organizations have volunteered to join in the search for a Bicentennial slogan.

Philanthropist Edward J. Pizsek was the first to contact us. The Copernicus Society, which he founded, has put up most of the operating expenses and is offering several cash prizes for the best slogans.

The first-place winner will get a 1976 Maitador station wagon from American Motors to tour the country, free lodgings for his family for a month at any Holiday Inn and $5,000 from the Copernicus Society to spend on the trip.

Other prize money has been offered by Phillips Petroleum, PepsiCo and Gemini Rising. The American Legion and National Jaycees have volunteered to help handle the huge volume of mail.

The American Song Festival will invite composers to set the winning slogans to music. The world-famous organization, Up With People, will sing the slogan music around the world.

The International Association of Fairs and Expositions will promote the slogan search at 2,800 fairs across America, and F. W. Woolworth Co. will promote it through its 1,800 retail stores.

The Advertising Council is helping. Henry J. Kaufman and Associates has volunteered to handle the advertising campaign.

The American Freedom Train has given space to the slogans.

There isn't space to list all the participating organizations. Here are some of the most active: General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Urban League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys Club of America, Johnny Horizon Program, American Airlines, Charles Benton's Films Inc. and Reader's Digest.

Three Men Held In Shooting Death Of Austin Officer

AUSTIN (AP) — Three men have been charged with capital murder in Friday's shooting death of a policeman who was killed by the occupants of a van he had stopped on a routine investigation.

Leland Dale Anderson, 26, who had been a policeman since May 28, 1973, died shortly after 8 p.m. in Brackenridge Hospital.

Officers who were summoned to Anderson's aid pursued the van at high speed from near the State Capitol to East Austin, where the vehicle turned over.

Charged with capital murder in Anderson's death were Walter Jennings, 24; Harold Earl Curtis, 21; and Robbie Slaughter, 20.

Jumped By Men

The shooting occurred in daylight, at 7:13 p.m., at the busy intersection of Congress and 8th, three blocks south of the Capitol. After stopping the van, Anderson found there were two outstanding traffic warrants on one man and one on another, police said. When he told one suspect he would be arrested, the men jumped him, took his pistol and shot him. One witness said the van ran over the officer as it fled north on Congress.

Police said Anderson was shot near the right armpit and in the chest. He also received spinal and head injuries.

Anderson is survived by his widow and a 3-year-old daughter.

Anderson was the first policeman killed in line of duty here since 1966, when one officer was shot by University of Texas tower sniper Charles Whitman.

Belgium Chooses American Fighter Over French Model

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Chirac, in a speech to 4,000 million worth of Belgian guests at an official luncheon at the Paris air show, said, "We were very disappointed by this decision and the government will now take whatever action is necessary to support the momentum of the French aeronautics industry."

Dassault Aircraft Co., the maker of the Mirage, said the loss of the contract means a big drop in business but will not affect jobs or French technological advances.

Dassault president Claude Benno-Vallieres commented, "This was never an economic or industrial affair, but just political. I can only regret that Europe has not chosen a European solution."

The exact reasons for the choice of the American plane were not immediately available, but the smaller cost of the American plane, the use of European facilities to assemble some of the planes and a reported U.S. offer to buy 330 million worth of Belgian guns were considered to be factors in the decision.

Tindemans spoke to reporters after a 3½-hour special cabinet meeting. Belgium originally had been expected to order 116 of the American planes to replace aging American-built Starfighters. But he said he was reserving the price of the other 14 planes—about $84 million—for a research and development fund for a European aircraft industry.

Belgium and its NATO allies formed a consortium that agreed to take the same plane to increase military efficiency and cut costs.

The Netherlands decided to buy 84, with an option on another 18. Norway plans to buy 72. Denmark is taking 48, with an option on another 10. The only thing holding up the deal was the Belgian decision.

The American plane costs $8.1 million, slightly less than its French rival. Tindemans' government had been under heavy pressure to buy the French plane for the sake of European unity.

Tindemans said that in view of the present situation the Belgian government does not want to be the cause of a considerable weakening in the security of Europe.

Disappointment was expressed by Francois Perin, the Belgian minister for institutional reform. He belongs to the Rassemblement Wallon, a small group that had been threatening to quit the government and bring about its resignation.

"I do not intend to go against the government," he said after the cabinet meeting.

Strauss Says Ford Not Providing Real Leadership

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—President Ford would like to be able to mount an attack against a "do-nothing Congress" in his 1976 presidential campaign, says Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss.

But Strauss told a news conference here Friday that Ford "will come up in 1976 as a President who got legislation that he vetoed."

Although Strauss said Democratic leaders have tried to overcome what he described as a lack of leadership from the White House, he added, "You can't develop solid economic programs unless you have strong direction from the executive branch...and we're not getting it."

Strauss said he has no reason not to believe Sen. Edward Kennedy's statement that he will not be a candidate for president in 1978.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said recently in Atlanta that Kennedy is hoping he will be offered the nomination by Democratic leaders seeking to prevent Alabama Gov. George Wallace from winning the nomination.

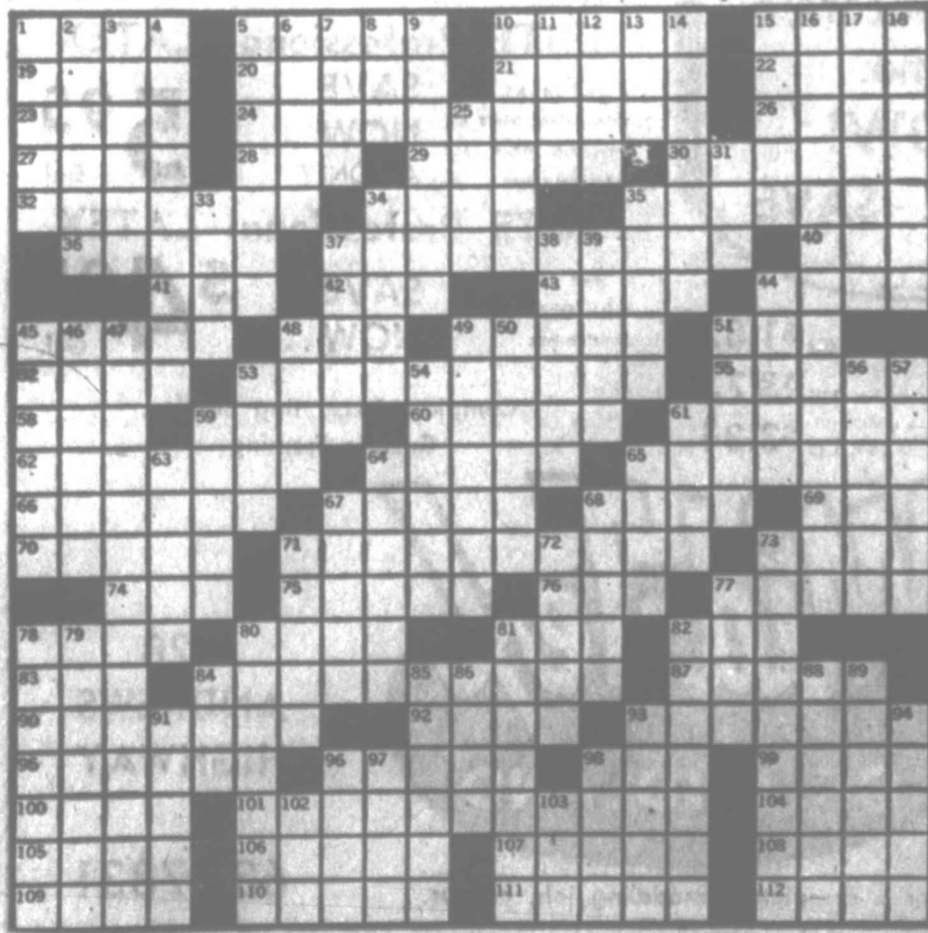

Strauss commented, "Former Gov. Reagan expressed the same depth intellectually and politically with respect to that as he has on many other things—very marginal. It was a foolish statement to make and there was no reason to make it."

What is Maxi-Lift? It's a natural, convenient and simple process, an all-organic compound that when properly applied in coordination with Vitamin E oil and Maxi-Protein Skin Fortifier promotes a reduction of wrinkle and generally improves facial skin tone.

Maxi-Lift, a pure organic facial now available in both salon treatment and home plan, is a nationally known product and service that is usually available only in the larger cities such as Dallas and New York. Mitzie Lenton, a former model in Louisiana, has used Maxi-Lift

Graduate Center Offers AAPG Education Course

The Permian Basin Graduate Center is offering Geology of Evaporites and Relation to Oil Genesis and Accumulation, an American Association of Petroleum Geology continuing education course, July 9-10.

Dr. Robert F. Schnitzler, chairman, Geology Section, Penn State University, will be the instructor. Prior to his association with Penn State he was physical chemist at the Army Chemical Center in Maryland and research assistant at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

The course will be taught from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. each day in the PBGC classroom in the basement of Gibbs Tower East, 119 N. Colorado St., Midland.

The course has three major objectives:

1. To examine the peculiar oceanographic, geologic and climatic conditions essential to the formation, accumulation and preservation of marine evaporite deposits.
2. To develop hypothetical models whereby these conditions may be satisfied and to relate these models to real evaporite deposits of the geologic record with due regard to the strengths and weaknesses of each, and
3. To examine the consequences of each of the models in terms of problems of petroleum genesis, exploration and recovery.

The charge for the course is $80.

Gasoline Pump s Come Long Way

One might say that the modern service station gasoline pump has come a long way—from crank to computer.

The first gasoline dispenser actually was just a barrel perched high somewhere in the rafters so the gasoline would flow by gravity through a hose to the automobile.

Around the turn of the century, according to the magazine, "Petroleum Today," the old crank pump which was used to dispense coal oil and kerosene was adapted to gasoline. About 1910 a recording dial appeared, to show the number of gallons delivered, and the pumps were brightly painted to attract motorists.

Shortly after World War I, customers were able to see the gasoline they were buying in a glass bowl above the pump, and by the early 1920's motor-driven pumps were equipped with meters to measure the amount of gasoline dispensed.

In 1933, a pump with a "head for figures" started the trend of buying by the dollar instead of by the gallon. It posted the dollars and cents owed by the customer, in computer fashion.

Now, modern gasoline pumps have nozzles that shut off automatically when a tank is full, and some have special nozzles required to deliver unleaded gasoline, since regular gasoline damages catalytic converters in late-model cars.

Not only are special pumps required to handle unleaded gasoline, but all storage tanks must be segregated to prevent contamination by leaded regular gasoline—a cost to industry of millions of dollars over and above the costs associated with refining unleaded gasoline.

Exxon Presents University Grant

AUSTIN—The University of Texas recently received a grant totaling $37,500 from an Exxon USA Foundation.

John L. Loftis Jr., senior vice president of Exxon Co., USA, Houston, presented the check for the grant to Dr. Lorene Rogers, president ad interim of UT-Austin.

Funds made available by the grant are allocated for the unrestricted use of the following: physics, business, accounting, chemical engineering, petroleum engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, civil engineering, geology, law, engineering mechanics, engineering foundation and minority engineering.

Approximately 117 universities and colleges throughout the nation received such grants as part of a total of $406,500 being awarded this year by the Exxon USA Foundation.

Companies participating in the Exxon USA Foundation, a non-profit organization, are Exxon USA, the Carter Oil Co. and Exxon Production Research Co.

EXPERIENCE IS BEST TEACHER—And this Erskine Motors trio is "well taught." Together, they have had a total of 126 years in the automotive business. Truman Blair is lease manager and partner, Stanley M. Erskine is partner, and S. E. Mickey is the office manager. Erskine Motors is located at 223 E. Illinois street.

Erskine Encourages Examining Employee Transportation Needs

The policies which govern how an employee on business transports himself are as numerous and divergent as are the companies that develop the policies.

For instance, some firms allow salesmen to have company cars regardless of miles driven per year. Others have specific mileage figures above which an employee is entitled to a company auto. Some firms do not provide cars at all, but rather reimburse employees for using their personal vehicles on a per mile basis. Still others utilize a mix of the above options.

To complicate matters further, there are several financial policies which dictate how a corporation acquires the use of automobiles, such as direct ownership, leasing from a third party, rental, or a combination of all three.

The purpose of this article is to encourage personnel managers to examine their corporate travel policy with regard to its applicability in today's climate of higher gasoline prices, interest charges and car prices.

Erskine Motors may be of assistance to individuals who are now wrestling with the problems of developing a car policy for their firm. Erskine Motors will attempt to work out and develop the best plan possible to fit all your transportation needs. Either one of the experienced people, Truman Blair, Stanley Erskine or S.E. Mickey will be happy to assist you when you visit Erskine Motors Leasing Company, 223 E. Illinois or call 682-3396 to discuss your leasing needs.

Women's Lib Taken For Granted During U.S. Revolution

EDITOR'S NOTE — Women's Lib was taken for granted during the American Revolution. It afterwards prosperity depended, creating a class of leisured women whose labor no longer was needed.

By SHELLY COHEN
They were the army medics and the logistics officers. They fought the British with muskets and with words. They ran shops and newspapers and farms. They were the women of the American Revolution. And if you think you've come a long way, baby, take another look at 1775.

No one really knows how many women served in or aided the ragged bands of soldiers who formed the revolutionary army.

"It could have been thousands," said Linda DePauw, associate professor of history at George Washington University. "Officials tried to keep the ratio of Washington's Army to no more than one or two women for every 15 men, but they never could."

The author of the soon to be published "Founding Mothers: Women in the Revolutionary Era" said women were usually responsible for foraging for food and clothing for the troops. A number of women, former Indian fighters, served as scouts to army units.

Molly Pitcher, who brought water to the troops for drinking and cleaning their cannons, "was really like Rosie the Riv-eter; there were hundreds of them, not just one," Dr. DePauw added.

Betsy Ross, whose flag sewing venture for decades characterized the role of women in the 1770s, may have done more harm than good as a historical reference.

"I get a little annoyed with the Betsy Ross legend, because she blinded people to those women who did exist," said Selma Williams, a Lexington, Mass., historian, who added that research now shows that Washington wasn't even in Philadelphia at the time the famed seamstress was supposed to have presented the flag to him.

A number of women donned men's clothing to fight in the Revolution. Among them was Deborah Sampson of Massachusetts. At the age of 22 she managed to enlist in the continental army under the name of Timothy Thayer, a feat made easier because so many young, beardless boys were enlisting at the time, Mrs. Williams explained.

There are those women who didn't fight with muskets, but played big roles in the founding of the new nation.

The tools Mercy Otis Warren turned on the British were her poems and plays satirizing the British. Six women owned colonial newspapers. Five supported the colonial cause and one the British.

Ten per cent of the merchants in Boston in the 1770s were female, according to Mrs.

Williams. And as early as 1765 women traders in Salem, Mass., banded together to oppose the stamp tax.

But victory brought prosperity.

"Excess wealth opened up the possibility of a class of leisured women," Dr. DePauw said. "Working had been a source of status and independence. When American women became similar to European ladies, they lost the status of when they were an integral part of the economy."
