

Texas Pacific Eddy Wildcat To Test Atoka

Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., No. 1 Phantom Draw Unit-Federal, wildcat 15 miles southeast of Malaga in Eddy County, N. M., is preparing to test the Atoka through perforations from 13,918 to 14,212 feet.

A drillstem test from 13,932 to 13,950 indicated gas-distillate production.

The Morrow section has shown for discovery production with flow of gas through perforations from 14,675 to 14,896 feet.

Through a 3/4-inch choke, the project flowed at the rate of 1.8 million cubic feet per day.

The Bone Springs section from 7,940 to 8,029 feet also showed for possible gas-distillate production on a drillstem test.

Location is 800 feet from south and 1,000 feet from west lines of section 20-38s-31e and 12 miles southwest of the Cotton Draw field.

Gulf Confirmation Project Testing

Production tests are under way at Gulf Oil Corp. No. 47 Mallett Land & Cattle Co., confirmation test in Northwest Terry County.

One location east of the discovery well of the Kingdom, North (Abo) field, No. 47 Mallett pumped 57 barrels of oil, and 114 barrels of water in 23 hours from perforations at 7,794-8,008 feet.

The pay had been acidized with 12,000 gallons.

Location is 600 feet from south and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 1, block D-14, C&M survey.

Shell Potentials Wolfcamp Gasser

Shell Oil Co. No. 1 Josey and others is a new well in the Barstow (Wolfcamp) field of Ward County, 1/2 mile west of Barstow.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,160 million cubic feet of gas per day.

Location is 1,229 feet from northeast and 1,373 feet from southeast lines of section 183, block 34, H&TC survey.

The well is 2 1/2 miles northeast of other Wolfcamp production in the field.

Samedan Project Shows Oil, Gas

Samedan Oil Corp. No. 1 Sun-Wheeler, wildcat 11 miles east of Kermit in East Winkler County, has developed shows of oil and gas in the Tubb section.

The scheduled 11,800-foot operation took a drillstem test over the section at 6,590-6,730 feet. Tool was open 75 minutes and gas, with volume too small to measure, surfaced in 18 minutes.

Recovery was 465 feet of oil (Continued On Page 2A)

Energy Tax Bill Debate Continuing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is continuing to vote on amendments to the energy tax bill, although its main features to encourage conservation already have been eliminated.

"We can't call it a major bill now," said Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., on Thursday although "it still has some worthwhile things in it."

Wright, who directed the original House Democratic energy task force in a search for alternatives to President Ford's proposals, spoke after proposals to tax automobiles with low gasoline efficiency were defeated.

The House, which resumed debate on the bill today, voted for auto fuel economy standards enforced by civil penalties after rejecting a tax on gas-guzzling autos.

Rep. Joseph L. Fisher, D-Va., proposed strengthening the gas-guzzler tax in the bill reported out by the Ways and Means Committee. His amendment was defeated 235 to 166.

We must "lean gently but firmly" on the industry to produce more efficient cars, especially since the House on Wednesday had rejected any gasoline tax increase for the same purpose, Fisher said.

Wright urged approval of the Fisher amendment so it couldn't be said that "we chickened out and refused to even bite the marshmallow."

Opponents of Fisher's amendment said it would lead to additional unemployment in the automobile industry.

"All the automobile industry needs is one more regulation—that's all," said Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich. "If you want more unemployment, you'll get it if you adopt this kind of amendment."

After voting down Fisher's attempt to strengthen the gas-guzzler tax in the committee bill, the House voted 306 to 96 to eliminate the tax completely and instead establish civil penalties for poor fuel economy.

The civil penalties approach was proposed by Rep. Phillip R. Sharp, D-Ind. Under Sharp's amendment, each automaker's average fuel economy for all of its auto production in a model year would be required to meet standards of 18.5 miles a gallon for 1978 models, 19.5 for 1979 ones, 20.5 for 1980 and ultimately 28 for 1985 models.

The Transportation Department would determine figures for 1981 through 1984. Violations of the standards would subject the automaker to a civil penalty amounting to $50 per car produced in the model year times the number of miles per gallon by which the standard was missed.

The House also voted down efforts to delete two other provisions of the committee's bill.

One provision is to give Americans a $710 million tax break for insulating their homes. This would give a tax

TAKING NO CHANCES — Cindy Holt, 18, of Midland, says she's not superstitious, but she's taking no chances by having any black cats around on Friday the 13th. (Staff Photo by Johnny Virden.)

Psychologist Says Bad Luck All In Mind

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Today is the day the acute triskaidekaphobics fear the most. But one psychologist says Friday the 13th will turn out unlucky only if you think it will.

"We call it 'selective perception,'" says Dr. Charles Verschoor, a psychologist at Miami-Dade Community College. "Every single day of your life, something pretty adverse happens. On Friday the 13th, you get your mind tuned up to notice."

According to a recent article in Psychology Today magazine, American business loses half a billion dollars a year because many people stay home from work on Friday the 13th.

Authorities say triskaidekaphobia — fear of the number 13 — has been around since the days of early Greece. There were 13 persons seated at Christ's Last Supper, and Friday the 13th is the traditional day for witches to hold black masses.

Numerologist Vincent Lopez says 13 is generally disliked because it includes the numbers one and three, which add up to four. He said four "is a factual, realistic number. It's a tough number. People don't like to face facts."

Most apartment houses and hotels don't have floors or apartments numbered 13, and many airplanes don't have seats with that unfortunate designation.

But all that isn't stopping Robert Spedding, 30, of Miami and Carol Capp, 18, of Tampa from getting married today.

"We wanted a day that sounded unusual, and we didn't want to wait until July 4th," said the prospective bride, who apparently is a careful sort. "According to my horoscope, it's good luck today."

Last Tax Rebates In Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of the federal government's tax rebates were in the mail today, but the effect of the rebates on the economy may not be known for some time.

The Treasury Department said 63,221,161 tax rebates with a total value of $7,896,737,163 were sent to taxpayers.

Some straggler rebates — where there is doubt as to the amount to be returned or who is to receive it — may still be mailed in weeks ahead, but the last of the routine rebates have been mailed, a treasury spokesman said.

The tax rebates were voted by Congress and approved by the President as part of a program to stimulate the economy by putting extra purchasing power in the hands of consumers.

The hope was that consumers would use the money to buy autos, appliances and other so-called big-ticket items and help push the nation's economy out of a deep recession.

Early results of the rebates in the first weeks after the government started mailing them were inconclusive.

For example, the Commerce Department reported Thursday that retail sales were down nearly 1 per cent in the week ended June 7, the second weekly decline in a row. But prior to the two weeks ending June 7, retail sales were showing gains.

Some economists predicted that many taxpayers would use their rebates to pay off past debts or put them in savings accounts, which would result in less benefit to the economy.

Another part of the government's tax program to get the economy moving appeared to be having an impact. The Commerce Department said sales of single-family homes increased

$2 Bill May Be On Way Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — With inflation having eroded the dollar, a decision will be made within a month or two on whether to bring back the $2 bill in 1976, says Deputy Treasury Secretary Stephen S. Gardner.

"Personally I favor the idea, and I think the secretary favors the idea," said Gardner. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon recently said he tends to support it.

Gardner said the $2 bill may be more useful to people now because of changes in price levels in recent years. The bill was removed from circulation in 1963 on the ground that it was not being used.

A recent survey conducted for the Federal Reserve Board by students at the Harvard Graduate School of Business concluded there still is not much public support for a $2 bill, a board spokesman said.

The Harvard survey said a "considerable marketing effort" would be required to gain public acceptance for the $2 bill.

But Gardner said in an interview that he doesn't have much faith in such surveys — "To go out and ask people if they would use something they are not now using, in part encourages negative answers."

The Treasury Department will probably make the final decision by midsummer, but the Federal Reserve Board's opinion is considered important because the board would be responsible for putting the bills into circulation.

If a decision is made to go ahead with it, Gardner said an reason for printing the bill in 1976 is to overcome past public resistance by tying the bill to the nation's bicentennial observance.

A controversy would be almost certain to develop over whose portrait the bill should carry. There is some sentiment in Congress for a woman, such as the late suffragette, Susan B. Anthony.

However, Gardner said there also will be support for using the portrait of Thomas Jefferson, the third president, whose portrait was used on the old $2 bill. Proponents of Jefferson argue he would fit the Bicentennial theme.

CIA-Trujillo Involvement Fuzzy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House intelligence committee say they were told sketchy details of CIA involvement in an assassination plot against the late Dominican Republic President Rafael Trujillo, but some members were uncertain whether that was the plot that ultimately led to the dictator's murder.

Only one of five members interviewed said Thursday that a very brief report to the panel last week would support a statement by Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, that the CIA was involved in the successful assassination of a foreign leader.

Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., contending that what the panel was told about the 1961 Trujillo assassination would support Stanton's statement, said Trujillo's killing "could be traced to actions that were taken by the CIA."

He declined to give details, and Stanton refused to say whether he knows more than the committee was told in a secret session last week or whether he in fact is referring to the Trujillo assassination.

Trujillo, a long-time dictator of the Dominican Republic, was shot down by assassins as he drove outside Santo Domingo. Former CIA agent Philip B. Agee, in his book "Inside the Company," quotes a former CIA official as saying the agency was "deeply involved in planning the assassination, which was done by Cuban exiles from Miami using weapons we sent through a diplomatic pouch."

But another member of the House panel, Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., said that if Stanton's statement is based on what the committee was told last week "it cannot be supported."

Without giving details, Harrington said the committee was told of a litany of past misdeeds uncovered by the CIA.

Stanton said he had not seen the report, but he said he had seen a copy of it in the office of a former CIA official who was now in the Senate.

Harrington said the account to the committee was so sketchy that "no conclusions could be drawn from any of it."

One member said the briefing lasted about three minutes and was given by a committee attorney on the basis of information he had seen at CIA headquarters.

He said it was not a prepared briefing but was given during a heated session in response to a question of what Chairman L. Clay Hunt, D-Mich., had been told a year before and had not passed on to other congressmen.

Nedzi has confirmed that he and chairmen of other committees were briefed on misdeeds uncovered by the CIA in 1973 and has tacitly confirmed they included unspecified involvement in assassination plots.

The week-long dispute over Nedzi's knowledge of CIA misdeeds and his failure to act on them came to a head Thursday when he resigned.

Nedzi contended the misdeeds "were history" when he learned of them and he did not act on them because he was concerned at the time with current allegations of CIA involvement in Watergate.

Nedzi said he resigned because five committee Democratic opponents had imposed their control over his actions as chairman and it was clear his remaining as chairman would mean constant conflict.

Speaker Carl Albert put House action on Nedzi's resignation off until Monday and said he will make no quick decision on whether to appoint Stanton chairman.

CIA Started File On Humphrey In '49

By AUSTIN WEMERWEIN
Special To The Washington Post
MINNEAPOLIS — Central Intelligence Agency director William Colby has informed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., that the agency's office of legislative counsel started keeping "a folder in your name" when Humphrey first entered the Senate in 1949.

Youth—

will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Northside Baptist Church of Lamesa with the Rev. Cecil Foster, pastor, officiating.

Interment will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home of Lamesa.

Local arrangements were handled by Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home of Odessa.

The teen-ager was born in Lamesa and had lived there until he moved to Midland three years ago. He had just completed the ninth grade at Edison Freshman School.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Acree of Midland; his father, Jerry Lee McNeal of Idabel, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Sherry Holsley of Odessa and Nancy Acree of Springfield, Mo.; two brothers, Donny McNeal and Valton Acree, both of the home; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. F. H. Moreland of Lamesa; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McNeal of Idabel, Okla.

Colby also said that a search of CIA files did turn up "numerous references to you in agency documents, both as vice president and as a member of Congress." He said this material reflected "all aspects of your relationships with the agency and our furnishing of official support."

Colby went on: "The largest portion of agency material concerns your travel abroad and your contacts with foreign officials. Your trip as vice president to Africa in early 1948 created the largest volume of cable traffic which followed closely your itinerary."

"Our files," Colby continued, "further reflect the reports of interviews by agency representatives with you on matters of mutual interest and reflect numerous administrative entries relating to your access to sensitive information and your listing as a reference by applicants for agency employment. Further, there are numerous newspaper clippings in which you are mentioned. In addition the office of legislative counsel has maintained a folder in your name reflecting all contacts with your congressional offices since you first entered the Congress in 1949."

Ruiz Acquitted, Sanchez Rebates— Brothers Guilty In Death

The two Sanchez brothers, Manuel, 24, and Rudy, 27, were meted seven-year prison terms each shortly after midnight this morning by a 142nd District Court jury that 11 hours earlier had returned voluntary manslaughter verdicts against the two.

The seven-woman, five-man jury, however, in the tri-defendant murder case acquitted 27-year-old Valdemar "Baltamor" Ruiz.

The three had been indicted for the beating death June 8 of last year of Santos Hinojos Duran, 32, on a cafe parking lot in Midland's southside.

Each of the defendants in the four-day trial—the year's first murder case by a jury here—had testified in their own defense.

Manuel Sanchez, a welder and sometimes boxer, testified that he had felt threatened when Duran uttered "Hey!" as both were leaving the cafe. The younger Sanchez said he quickly turned and started hitting Duran.

"No, sir," he said under examination by defense attorney Vern Martin, "I did not have no intention of hurting him seriously. All I wanted to do was to get him off of me. . . . No, sir, I never had any intention of killing Mr. Duran."

Contrary to testimony from state witness Joe Valencia, Manuel Sanchez said he "did not have trouble" with Duran until just prior to the blows. He did, however, pinpoint two threats in addition to the "Hey!" One, Manuel Sanchez said, was Duran's stare at him after both, apparently by chance, had dropped by the cafe not long after he and Duran had got into a fracas at a tavern here.

The other threat, he said, was a "budge" in Duran's back pocket. Rudy Sanchez, summoned by phone by his brother to the case, arrived there with a rifle to protect Manuel from the Duran threat, he testified. Both admitted to hitting and kicking Duran.

Midland attorney Willie Dubose represented the Sanchez brothers, and Martin defended Ruiz, who said he witnessed the beating, said he did not join in to assist the Sanchez brothers, whom he called "good friends," because "I didn't just want to get involved in it at all."

"I've seen a lot of people get hurt a lot worse than he (Duran) did and live, and I'm one of them," Ruiz, a truck driver, said.

Under cross-examination by Dist. Atty. Jim Macpherson, Ruiz said he was unaware of any rift between Manuel Sanchez and Duran. Asked why he didn't "get involved" by trying to stop the fracas or by calling the police, Ruiz replied to the district attorney: "I did that once, and it cost me about a week in jail."

Warm and nearly cloudless weather envelopes Texas today.

A few light thunderstorms dotted the north part of the Texas Panhandle in early morning, and there were a few clouds and a little fog over the coastal plains.

Temperatures near daylight ranged from 77 degrees at Galveston on the coast down to 55 at Marfa to the West Texas mountains. The top marks Thursday afternoon went as high as a summery 97 at El Paso in far West Texas. The Associated Press reported.

The Tall City is following the statewide weather trend with warmer temperatures which are expected to shoot into the upper 90s both this afternoon and Saturday. Thursday's maximum was 90.

Snelson Reviews Legislative Session

Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland reviewed "Happenings of the 64th Texas Legislature" for members of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club Thursday noon at their meeting in the American Legion Hall.

The senator termed the regular session, which adjourned last week, historic in many respects, based particularly on significant achievements and spirit of harmony.

Striving to accomplish the desired results and meet responsibilities and obligations in the most expedient manner was the common goal of the legislators, he said.

The speaker cited the increased complexities of the session, stating that approximately 3,500 bills were introduced, compared with 3,000 in 1961. He explained that of the 3,500 bills, 349 were passed by the Senate and 412 by the House, for a total of 761 new laws.

Snelson termed the $12.1 billion appropriations bill which finally gained passage in the closing hours of the session, as sound and reasonable, particularly since it covers a two-year period. He said the state is in sound financial condition.

The public schools financing bill which gained passage is designed to deal with basic inequities which the courts have ordered corrected, Snelson said.

Creation of a state utilities commission was one of the most controversial subjects of the session, the senator said. The final product resulted from a hasty compromise in conference committee. He said he voted against the revised bill since he did not have time to study its 56 pages in the two hours allotted for same. The end result now rests with the caliber of persons appointed to the commission by the governor, he said.

Snelson said he does not look for any decrease in utility rates as a result of the bill as passed.

Odessa Resident Injured In Blast

ODESSA—A 20-year-old man was listed in guarded condition this morning at Medical Center Hospital following an explosion at the Highway 85 Motel about 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

Billy Dutton was injured when an explosive reportedly went off in his room.

Fire investigators found 12 wet perforation charges in his room and, upon investigation, found 88 more charges and a full reel of primer cord in a storage area in the motel.

Officials theorized Dutton was attempting to dig out one of the explosives from a charge when it exploded in his hands.

Almost 1,500 Attending Summer Schools In City

Final registration figures for the city's public schools and Midland College indicate close to 1,500 Tall City residents are attending summer school classes.

Dec Windsor, Midland College registrar, this morning said 798 students are enrolled in the school's first session of the summer. Last year's first session total was 521.

Enrollment in the Midland Independent School District summer sessions also has increased by 120 over 1974.

High school level registration declined by one to 197, but all other areas showed increases.

This summer, 479 elementary students are attending classes compared to 398 last year.

Ford Proposes Tax Incentives

—"Stretch out, as necessary, present environmental restrictions on energy production and use to reduce energy consumption and facilitate expansion of domestic energy output."

The labor-management committee began its report to Ford by estimating that at the end of last year utilities had postponed or canceled the building of 166 nuclear power plants and 129 coal-fired plants.

It said this "jeopardizes our national objective of lesser dependence on imported oil, threatens economic growth and is likely to counter efforts to reduce high unemployment."

Masked Bottles Look Like Leather

By HURONER and HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Several travelers, returning from a European tour, stood around the customs office feeling somewhat sorry for themselves, though for different reasons.

One group bemoaned the fact that airline luggage costs prevented them from carrying home more tourist treasures. The others—in the majority—complained how lightness of pocketbooks and wallets had curtailed their shopping sprees.

All spoke of the beautiful objects they had seen. Perhaps, eventually, they could own similar ones which American import shops feature.

One woman, however, picked up her single bag, patted it, then patted her head. "I'm loaded down with ideas, and they are all free. First thing I'm going to make," she said, "is a decanter like those beautiful leather ones we saw in Spain."

That was several weeks ago.

Now, when her travel companions admire the decorated bottles she shows them, they marvel how authentic they look since they "almost" feel like leather.

Aside from finding appropriately shaped containers—which can range from wine and liquor bottles to salad dressing cruets—this woman claims the entire cost of each project is less than 50 cents.

"All that's needed besides time, patience and a couple of good TV programs, is a roll of masking tape and some color finish," she says.

It is amazingly easy, if slow, to tear off bits of masking tape and fix them firmly to the clean, glass surface. Overlap each section of tape in random fashion so a textured finish results. Then, when the entire surface is covered, use a rag to lightly apply brown or cordova shoe polish.

Let the bottle dry thoroughly, then gently buff the surface. The tape will both look and feel amazingly like leather.

Oil paints, such as burnt umber, can also be applied lightly. When wiped down, the grain of the tape shows through with a leather-like resemblance. If preferred, a shiny, glossy finish can be achieved by spray painting the covered container.

Eventually, as soon as all her friends are supplied with masking-tape-covered bottles, this woman is planning to buy some leather scraps and, with the use of scissors and white glue, hopes to decorate a bottle so it really will be a leather-covered decanter.

Housewives Are Puzzled By Labels On Clothing

By ELAINE SMYTH
Copley News Service

The "stains" on permanent care labels are spreading.

Although the nation's garment industry has complied with the Federal Trade Commission's Trade Rule of 1972 requiring that care labels be permanently attached to most major clothing items, many consumers are confused over just what the labels mean.

This view was expressed in an interview by Peter K. Woodward, technical manager of The Clorox Co., Oakland, Calif.

"Opportunities in the garment industry still exist for them to be more effective in satisfying the consumer," said Woodward.

Woodward said a survey done for his company in 1973 by A.C. Nielsen, Inc. "found that 91 per cent of all merchandise checked carried a care label."

Unfortunately, the survey also showed that of the 1,327 garments checked, none said that bleach was safe to use.

The problem, said Woodward, is that the FTC Trade Rule makes no stipulation that the care label be accurate or complete. As a result, many items that can or should be bleached are not.

Proof of confusion over the bleach issue by the consumer came in another survey conducted in 700 households throughout the United States in 1973 by the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists, Woodward said.

"One of the questions said if the label says machine washable, do you think this means a garment can be safely bleached. Half of those questioned said yes and the other half said no."

And, with today's economy and consumers who want better value for their money, it's the consumer who suffers, he added.

"If the labels are too cautious and the desired cleaning of the garments will not be properly achieved—for example, stains in many garments will not come out with detergents alone—the consumer may end up with several unattractive choices.

"She may discard the garment because it's no longer serviceable, or she may take it to the dry cleaner at added expense, both in terms of money and time.

"If the consumer had optimum instructions, she could clean the garment at home."

Woodward said the principal advantages to bleaching garments that can be bleached are superior cleaning efficiency, superior stain removal, it helps prevent color bleeding and transfer and it provides disinfection.

Because there is no uniformity among permanent care labels, Woodward said his company is proposing to the garment industry that all such labels carry specific guidance on the five major cleaning functions—washing, bleaching, drying, ironing and dry cleaning. The FTC has been notified of this proposal, he added.

The FTC currently is studying comments it solicited from industry and the public last fall on the effectiveness of permanent care labels as they now appear in garments.

Woodward said final revised rules should become effective some time next year.

Lunch Menu More Than Food List

DAVISON, Mich. (AP) — The lunch menu at the Davison elementary schools is something more than a mere list of food items. Mrs. Eloise Harlan, head of the hot lunch program for the school system, sees to it that it sounds as appetizing as possible.

On St. Patrick's Day, for example, the menu offered Mulligan Stew over biscuits, Marney salad and shamrock fruit.

On Feb. 12, the menu consisted of a Lincoln log on a bun, Abe's baked beans, a Presidential salad and emancipator fruit.

"I guess it comes from my years of working in advertising," Mrs. Harlan said. "I'm still selling. Here the food is the showcase. If it is attractive, it sells. It meets the eye before it meets the mouth."

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise: I've gotten so many good hints from your column, now it is my turn to share one.

An indispensable item in my sewing chest is a roll of pink hair-setting tape.

It is great for mending much-used favorite patterns and for altering them.

You can still see any pattern markings through it, and unlike cellophane tape, it is easy to pin through.

It comes off easily and I even use it sometimes to anchor patterns instead of using pins.

Mrs. William Williams III

Mrs. Williams, I know all those who sew thank you. I always dreaded pinning patterns on slippery material. Now there is no excuse not to sew!

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: I do not know or understand exactly what it is that the Woman's Liberation Movement wants or is all about, but nowhere is it more evident that the female of the species is as apt, intelligent and ingenious as the male, than through all of the helpful suggestions sent in to your column.

And I thank you and your readers for this.

Paul Randolph

Thank you kind, sir! May I add that hearing from people as nice as you makes my day a cheery one.

Thanks for "dropping in" with your letter.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Somehow my washcloths would be used up before the matching towels.

I finally hit upon the idea of folding the washcloth inside each towel.

I bought a packet of inexpensive washcloths for "inbetweens."

Now I always have a matched set in the bathroom.

Use Your Tape For A Record In Sewing!

Dear Heloise: I really dislike sifting powdered sugar for icing because it is so messy.

Instead of sifting, pour the sugar into a bowl right from the box.

Then take a wire pastry blender and use it to do away with the little lumps and make it as light and fluffy as with the sifter.

Now you may measure the exact amount needed.

Mrs. Eunice Lyons

Dear Heloise: Here's a quick way to dry tennis shoes.

Just prop them up outside under the dryer vent while the dryer is running.

It's better than listening to them bump around in the dryer!

Kathy Winder

Dear Heloise: I decorate coffee cans and store food in them.

When I come home from the store, I put all my dry foods, that might get weevils, in these cans.

I keep my flour, grits, macaroni and even beans in them.

Works great and my pantry looks neat too!

Dear Abby Emcee Husband Embarrassed Her

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently the master of ceremonies at a banquet that about 300 people attended. Many of the town's leading citizens were there.

Well, my husband stood up there and told one dirty joke after another. (He never told me those jokes at home.) Some in the audience laughed, but I noticed the looks on the faces of some of the others, and they seemed shocked and somewhat him know that you were disappointed in him. He may learn from it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She is usually a very sweet and considerate person, but when we take her to the movies, she hoots and howls and talks out loud. This is not only annoying to the other people in the theater, it is also very embarrassing for my husband and children.

We really love Mums and wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world, but taking her to a movie is a hassle.

Please give us any suggestions you might have since Mums is coming again soon and she loves to go to the movies.

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Hooting and howling during the funny parts would normally distract no one, but if Mums is the only one who thinks a sequence is funny, her problem may be bigger than yours.

Talking out loud is unfair to others, so gently shush her when she gets carried away.

Or take her to drive-in movies. Only those in your car will be annoyed, which would eliminate the embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been dead for several years, but a friend of hers (now quite elderly) asked me if she could use my home to entertain 16 ladies at a birthday luncheon. She explained that her small apartment wasn't adequate.

I agreed gladly, but I did absolutely nothing for the party. The woman who gave the party provided the food and flowers, and even hired the help.

I later learned that one woman declined the invitation because she felt that since the party was being given at my home, the invitation should have come from ME!

This has bothered me. Should I have sent out the invitations?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: No. You were not the hostess. You only agreed to have the party in your home.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Connally Says It's Better Being Juror

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally says that "obviously it is better to be a juror than a defendant."

Connally, who was acquitted in April on bribery charges by a Washington, D. C. jury, served as a juror himself Thursday in municipal court.

He and five other jurors found a 23-year-old defendant guilty of speeding and fined him $10.

Connally, a Houston attorney, turned down the token juror payment.

Sen. Scott Says Jobless Rate Of 6 May Be Seen As The Good Old Days

By JOHN H. AVERILL
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott R-Pa., said Thursday that an unemployment level of around 6 per cent is likely to be viewed as the "good old days" in the future.

This would contrast with the economic attitude of the 1960s when a 4 per cent unemployment rate has generally regarded as "full employment" and anything over that was viewed as cause for concern.

More recently some economists have suggested that because of the higher proportion of young people and women in the labor force, a rate closer to 5 per cent would now be roughly comparable to the old 4 per cent full employment figure. But few economists and no one in the Ford administration had previously proposed that a figure as high as 6 per cent might be considered "normal."

But Scott said at a meeting with Los Angeles Times reporters that unless government "can find better ways to alleviate current social and economic problems, we are likely to face in the future, or likely in the future to regard, a higher level of unemployment as normal — probably something in the 6 per cent area rather than the old 4% or 5."

In fact, Scott said conditions are such that the country could be "thinking in the future of 6 per cent as the good old days."

The most recent unemployment report, covering May, fixed the jobless rate at 9.2 per cent. Scott said "it is quite possible that unemployment will go up to 9.5 per cent and stay there for two or three months until it bottoms out."

However, he said he believed the recession has ended and that by September the public will recognize it is over.

Scott spoke warmly of President Ford and said, "I haven't any doubt whatever that he will seek the Republican presidential nomination next year. Scott predicted Mr. Ford would get the nomination despite talk among some conservatives.

of bolting and forming a third party if Mr. Ford heads the ticket.

"I think the President will arrive at the convention with sufficient commitments of delegates to assure his nomination," Scott said.

Asked if he thought the conservatives might form a third party, Scott said:

"No, I don't think so. I think they will hold a press conference." Scott also predicted Ford would retain Vice President Rockefeller as his running mate and that the convention would accept that decision even though many conservatives threaten a fight to keep Rockefeller off the ticket.

"Who has ever denied a President the right to indicate who he prefers as a running mate?" Scott asked rhetorically.

Scott recalled he had been floor manager for Rockefeller at the 1968 GOP convention when Rockefeller unsuccessfully opposed former President Richard M. for the presidential nomination.

"My man got licked," Scott said. "I spent some unfortunate years trying to be loyal to a man (Nixon) I didn't want in the first place."

"And I made too good a job of it," Scott added. He apparently referred to several statements he made prior to the Nixon resignation that Nixon was innocent of any involvement in the Watergate coverup.

At another point, Scott was asked if he agreed with suggestions by some Republicans that Nixon should have a voice and a role in GOP politics in the future.

"I think I will just make no comment and allow my 'no comment' to reflect my opinion," Scott replied. "If I were a Sam Ervin type I would say, 'I think I will let her lay where Jesus bang it.'" Asked what he meant by that, Scott said:

"It means that you know what I mean and I ain't going to say it."

While forecasting Ford's nomination next year, Scott said the economy could be troublesome to GOP prospects.

The President, Scott said, "will need to show considerable improvement in the economy to bring about an equal improvement in his own chances." But Scott said he did not think the country blamed Ford "for all the disastrous developments" of recent years.

Scott did express concern that Ford might develop a negative image in the country because of his votes of some antirecession bills passed by Congress.

"I have advocated that we not veto certain things," Scott said.

"He gets contrary advice every time," Scott said and others have told the President "don't expend your reservoir of good will." Scott said he hoped Ford would let some bills he does not like be approved.

But he also said Congress "passes various bills, knowing the President won't sign them."

Mitchell Energy Completes Unit

HOUSTON (AP) — Mitchell Energy Corp. of Houston announced Thursday the completion of a $1.5 million offshore installation to produce natural gas and condensate in the Gulf of Mexico.

The firm said three wells will be connected to the installation, about 10 miles southwest of Sabine Pass, and initial production is estimated at nine million cubic feet per day with total capacity set at 23 million.

Love Completes Marlin Producer

Love Oil Co. No. 2-B Elise Campbell has been completed six miles northwest of Tarrant and assigned to the Spraberry Trend area field.

The Central Martin County producer was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 300 barrels of 40-gravity oil through a 12-1/4-inch choke. No water was made on the potential test, and gas-oil ratio was 1,070-1.

Production is from perforations at 9,275-9,280 feet. Pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons. Wellbore is 900 feet from south and 600 feet from east lines of section 321, Wheeler County School Land survey.

Rutledge & Rutledge Opens Gas Field

Rutledge & Rutledge of Abilene has recompleted No. 1 Carl R. Pfleger to open the Pfleger (Swastika) gas field in Rutledge County, six miles south of Eden.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 294,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with a gas-condensate ratio of 230,000-1. Gravity of the condensate is 48 degrees.

Wellbore is 440 feet from north and east lines of section 163, T&NO survey. Production is from perforations at 2,578-2,586 feet. The well formerly produced from the Swastika oil zone.

Getty Hits Gas In Alabama Test

HOUSTON (AP) — A production test rate of 1,546 barrels of liquid hydrocarbons from the second formation of a confirmation well drilled in Alabama has been announced by Getty Oil Co.

The well was drilled one mile west of a discovery well completed in January about 20 miles north of Mobile, Ala.

Getty said Thursday, the No. 1 E. Lyles Hatler Estate-410 well also tested in the Smackover geologic formation at a rate of four million cubic feet of natural gas a day through a 22-6/8-inch choke. Flowing tubing pressure was 2,250 pounds per square inch.

The Hatler well is a mile west of the No. 1 Peter Klein gas condensate discovery.

Gas Goes Wild In Gulf Waters

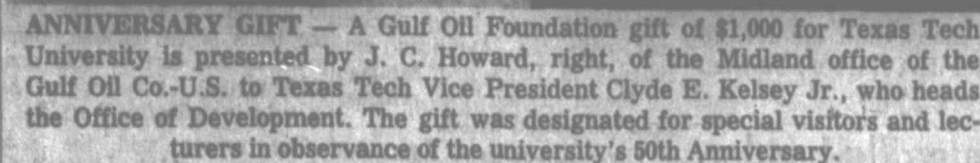

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Wild well fighters waited in the Gulf of Mexico beside a blow-out gas drilling rig all night and began making plans for capping it as the sun rose today.

"Boots Hansen of the Red Adair Co. is doing reconnaissance at the site," a spokesman for Amoco Production Co. said. "We've had some rain, and that minimizes the possibility of any ignition of the gas."

"The oil sheen has been contained." The well—a new one that had been tested but had not yet produced—blew out Wednesday night, threatening fire and causing a five-mile long oil sheen.

The blowout occurred only 25 miles from the spot in the Gulf where an Amoco-Tesaco oil well caught fire and burned for 47 days in 1971. That cost the companies $15 million in repairs and lost oil.

The blowout Wednesday night occurred on a rig 30 miles

ANNIVERSARY GIFT — A Gulf Oil Foundation gift of $1,000 for Texas Tech University is presented by J. C. Howard, right, of the Midland office of the Gulf Oil Co.-U.S. to Texas Tech Vice President Clyde E. Kelsey Jr., who heads the Office of Development. The gift was designated for special visitors and lecturers in observance of the university's 50th Anniversary.

Canada Agrees To Price Increase On Domestic Oil

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government has agreed to Alberta's demand for an increase in the domestic price of crude oil on July 1, but the export price of about $9.75 a barrel is not expected to be affected.

Energy Minister Donald MacDonald said Thursday after talks with Alberta Energy Minister Don Getty that the cabinet has taken "some basic decisions" on price increases, but he refused to say how much they would go up.

The domestic price now is $6.50 a barrel, and the oil industry anticipates an increase of about $2, which would add eight cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline or home-heating fuel.

However, the export price will not be affected because as the domestic price rises, the export tax that increases the cost to $9.75 a barrel will be reduced by the amount of the domestic rise. The purpose of the export tax is to keep the price of Canadian oil exported to the United States on a par with the price of oil from the Middle East and Venezuela.

The oil industry also expects increases later to raise the domestic price to about $18, the price the Alberta provincial government says is necessary to encourage exploration for additional reserves. However, Canadian oil exports are to be reduced progressively and to end by 1982 to meet the requirements of the domestic market.

Macdonald said higher domestic prices for natural gas will go into effect Nov. 1, but he again refused to say how much the increase would be. The export price of natural gas is now $1 a thousand cubic feet, 40 cents more than the domestic price at the wellhead. It is scheduled to rise to $1.40 on Aug. 1 and $1.60 on Nov. 1.

FPC Predicts Adequate Electricity This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission says electric power should be adequate this summer in Texas and the rest of the country as long as there is no disruption in the availability of fuel to run generators.

In a report released earlier this week, the FPC specifically mentioned the Texas situation in saying there should be enough electric power even if the summer is somewhat hotter than usual.

The FPC said the Electric Reliability Council of Texas, which serves only that state and is interconnected with the Southwest Power Pool area, supplied the commission with data about the summer outlook.

The council said its systems have an estimated reserve margin of net dependable capacity resources over non-coincident peak demand of 6-300 megawatts, or 34 per cent of the estimated 1975 summer peak load of 25,992 megawatts.

Also it said an additional 225 megawatts of new steam capacity and 409 megawatts of combustible turbine capacity are scheduled for service between June 1 and Aug. 31.

The FPC said it was learned that the Texas council utilities have lowered their 1975 estimated summer peak loads by 1 to 2 per cent from their projections of a year ago.

"This is due in part to voluntary energy conservation, reduced customer usage due to higher costs and general economic conditions in the area," the FPC said.

It added that in the Texas area about 88 per cent of the energy generation will be fuelled by natural gas, 3 per cent will be fuelled by oil, 8 per cent by coal and 1 per cent will have hydroelectric energy as a source. There are no nuclear generating stations in the area, the report said.

"Major utilities may not have as much natural gas curtailment this summer as they did in 1974," the FPC said. "It was learned during recent visits to the utilities that they are making spot purchases of natural gas from interstate supplies and that industrial users of natural gas have cut their requirements because of the economy — thus increasing the supply of natural gas available to utilities this summer."

"Supplies of fuel oil for generation appear adequate at this time."

SEC Agrees With Gulf Probe Extension Needed

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has endorsed Gulf Oil Corp.'s request for a three-month extension for its internal investigation into political payoffs, the company says.

In making the announcement Thursday, a Gulf spokesman said final approval for the extension must be granted by the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. The investigation was to have been completed Wednesday.

Among subjects under investigation is some $5 million in political contributions which Gulf has admitted making in South Korea, Bolivia, Lebanon and Italy.

The company has also admitted making $10.3 million in political payments at home and abroad. The firm indicated in a first-quarter report to stockholders that the payoffs may have exceeded that amount. The investigation, being conducted by a Gulf special review committee, is part of a consent agreement that followed a lawsuit last March by the SEC.

A full report on the committee's findings was to have been filed with Gulf's board of directors, the SEC and the Washington federal court by July 11. If the court agrees to the extension, the report would be due Oct. 11.

Gulf said the review committee asked for the extension because the probe was more wide-ranging than anticipated due to the "size and global extent of Gulf companies and their subsidiaries."

The committee said in its request that it was "not physically possible to complete the inquiry in the specified amount of time."

Tejas Gas Corp. To Build Pipelines In El Indio Field

CORPUS CHRISTI—Tejas Gas Corp. announced today that it will immediately begin construction of a natural gas gathering system in the El Indio field, south of El Indio.

The system will transport gas from several presently shut-in gas wells owned by M-Tex, Inc. of San Antonio, with which Tejas has long-term gas purchase contracts, and from other producers in the area.

Initially consisting of approximately 13 miles of gathering lines and a 32-mile six-inch transmission line from the El Indio field to Carrizo Springs, the system will have a capacity of approximately 15 million cubic feet per day. The gas will be sold by Tejas in intrastate markets.

Scientists Plan To Clear Up Mysteries By Drilling

By WILLIAM STOCKTON AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of prominent earth scientists is proposing to drill six-mile-deep holes around the United States to strip away mysteries about what lies below the earth's surface.

The scientists, in a report being released today, see some immediate results: the possibility of preventing a future disastrous earthquake along California's San Andreas fault; discovery of new, badly needed mineral resources and understanding the nature of geothermal energy.

Dr. Eugene Shoemaker of the California Institute of Technology compared the proposal with a project under way for the past decade to drill holes into the bottom of oceans.

This deep-sea drilling project, using a special drill ship, has been credited with a significant role in revolutionizing the concept of how the continents were formed.

Deep drilling results have confirmed that continents are drifting a few inches a year and that new material welling up from deep inside the earth along several undersea ridges is causing this.

A similar program in the continental United States might cost $150 million over 10 years, Shoemaker estimated.

He said drilling deep wells near the San Andreas fault that runs the length of most of California might reveal the nature of faulting in geological formations.

"If the process could be understood we could get enough information to do something about large earthquakes," Shoemaker said. The deepest oil wells in the United States, in Oklahoma, are about six miles deep.

E.F. Osborn of the Geophysical Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution cited growing shortages of minerals as another reason for such drilling.

"The information we get back is bound to be an important guide to exploration for some of the commodities we don't have or have in short supply," he said.

The scientists also are proposing to drill a well six miles or more into the earth and penetrate a chamber of molten rock. Such chambers are the source of the geothermal energy located in several regions in the west.

But Shoemaker said little is known about them or how much potential energy they might hold for conversion into electricity through steam.

"We simply don't know what is driving these active hydrothermal systems," he said.

The scientists propose using conventional well-drilling technology in most cases to drill the holes. More advanced, still experimental devices might be needed for really deep holes, such as a machine that melts its way through rock.

Estimates are that oil drillers and others have drilled about two million holes of varying depths in the United States, the scientists said. But most of them have been concentrated in specific regions, such as oil fields.

"Most regions of the country have not been drilled at all," said Philip H. Abelson, president of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, which sponsored the study.

Kissinger Likely To Resume Shuttle If Israel-Egypt Differences Narrowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is likely to resume his Middle East shuttle diplomacy next month if differences between Israel and Egypt on a Sinai settlement can be narrowed further.

Sources said the visit of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has improved chances of reviving negotiations, but a final decision by President Ford awaits post-summer deliberations in Jerusalem and Cairo.

Kissinger is said to be reluctant to board the shuttle again unless he is 90 per cent certain it would produce an agreement. His last effort collapsed three months ago.

Ford expects to know within the next two weeks whether terms for an Israeli withdrawal in Sinai can be arranged.

A key factor in plotting administration strategy is Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam's visit here next Friday. Egypt and Syria are pressing for a prompt withdrawal of Israeli forces on the Golan Heights, but Israel doubts that a deal can be struck with Damascus.

"Especially between Egypt and Israel there is a possibility of gradual change," Rabin told a news conference on Thursday.

The prime minister also emphasized that there will be no agreement with Egypt until Israeli cargo is permitted to pass through the Suez Canal. A test of last year's secret understanding on passage of Israeli cargo is expected within the next few weeks.

Rabin said he believes "there is a basis for negotiations" over Sinai again. "But knowing the Middle East one has to have patience. Don't expect anything quick or it might not work," he said.

Kissinger was guardedly optimistic.

"We have the impression there is a certain parallelism on both sides," he said.

As for prospects of his returning to the region, Kissinger replied: "A trip is not excluded."

Meanwhile, Syrian President Hafez Assad and King Hussein of Jordan called on Arabs to "consolidate and mobilize" because of "persistent Israeli refusal" to withdraw from occupied Arab lands.

A communique issued after Assad's three-day state visit to Amman, Jordan, said the two leaders reached complete agreement on bilateral relations, the "very dangerous and explosive situation" in the Middle East and Israeli occupation of Arab lands, including Jerusalem.

Hashish, Pot Seized In Raid On Midland Home

Midland detectives, acting on what they termed "information received from a reliable source," conducted a search of a house in the 900 block of West Kentucky Street last night and found a large quantity of what they believe to be marijuana and hashish.

Officers said they set up surveillance of the house after receiving a tip from an informant. A search warrant was then issued by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine and was executed about 7:30 p.m.

In the house officers said they found about three pounds of a green leafy substance believed to be marijuana and a block of a substance believed to be hashish.

A detective said today the materials had been taken to the Department of Public Safety for testing.

The occupant of the house was being sought today.

U.S. To Admit Chilean Refugees

By LAWRENCE MEYER

The Washington Post WASHINGTON — The United States will accept a limited number of Chilean refugees on a case-by-case basis, a State Department official said Thursday.

Breaking a deadlock between the State and Justice departments over the issue, Assistant Secretary of State William D. Rogers reportedly told the Senate Judiciary Committee that an unspecified number of Chileans — including refugees in other countries and Chileans imprisoned by the Chilean military government — will be allowed to enter the United States.

A State Department official said Thursday night that guidelines were being worked out with the American embassies in Lima and Santiago to begin letting the refugees into the United States.

The case-by-case admission policy stands in marked contrast to the admission of more than 100,000 Vietnamese refugees who fit categories described in an order issued by Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi.

Since 1973 when the left-wing government of Salvador Allende was overthrown by a coup, more than 10,000 Chileans have fled. Ten months ago, the U.N. High Commissioner for refugees requested the United States and other countries to admit refugees.

Hundreds To Be Expelled — Although the State Department

ment, after some delay, approved a quota of 400 refugees, Levi had failed to grant the authority to "parole" or admit the refugees into the United States.

The Chilean junta has announced that it will expel hundreds of Chileans now in prison.

Other countries agree to take them, Rogers said in a statement given to the Senate committee that an estimated 4,000 to 5,000 Chileans are being detained.

Universal Concern — Rogers' statement also asserted that "It is inconsistent to seek cooperation from international organizations and other countries on the Vietnamese refugee problem if we refuse to lift a finger to help the Chileans." He told the committee, "Our acceptance of Chileans will demonstrate that our concern for refugees extends to all persons in need regardless of the nature and political coloration of the government from which they are fleeing."

Rogers also assured the committee in his statement that the security risk to the United States was "minimal" and that "it is not proposed to bring in Communists, terrorists or economic distress cases."

A State Department official said that 19 persons and families had been paroled into the United States from Chile since the 1973 coup but that most of these persons were citizens of other countries, rather than Chileans.

The mayor does not anticipate surrendering his post in the Tall City government if he is elected to the state chairmanship. "I don't see any difficulty in handling both positions," he said.

Angelo considered seeking the state position during the state convention last September, but decided against entering the race to avoid a party rift.

Angelo said, "They are all grasping for leadership designed to promote or servative principles. This is the hope of the Republican party."

Angelo announced his intention to pursue the post June 5 on the heels of the announcement made by the current chairman, Jack Warren of Tyler, that he is resigning effective June 29.

The mayor said the new chairman would be decided in a meeting of the 69-member executive committee in Austin on Warren's resignation date.

Ray Hutcheson, state representative from Dallas, also has announced his candidacy for the position.

"I have talked to all but a very few committee members," Angelo said, "and I do have a solid base of support and a definite potential for a majority."

"I'm presenting my candidacy to the other members of the executive committee on the basis that I believe I can be a unifying factor in the party. I'm also stating that I believe the party needs some strong leadership and a new sense of direction."

"By that, I mean that I believe that the party needs to be more visible in its advocacy of a conservative program. It's my firm conviction," he continued, "that you cannot expect the support of the voting public unless you make clear your stands on the issues."

'Nashville' Inkblot Test Containing No Implied Message

By JOSEPH GILMIS
Newday

NEW YORK — "Nashville" is an inkblot test. It resists interpretation, because it ends with a senseless act that saps our spirit and leaves us stunned. That may help make it a cocktail-party subject. What you see in it and think it is about is a catalog of your own current state of mind.

The authority for the definitive statement that "Nashville" has no implied message is director Robert Altman. "I don't have anything that I'm trying to say," Altman has claimed. "All I'm trying to show you is the way I see and think things are."

Trouble Seen

Altman and scriptwriter Joan Tewkesbury see trouble right here in Music City. It's no different from your own estimate, perhaps, if you've kept up with the news during the past year or so. But "Nashville," a documentary of a state of mind, is an outrageously definitive Bicentennial state of the union message. SOB. No exit.

With a sort of country music or pop opera background of 27 songs and a cast of 24 principal characters, "Nashville" is a political satire without many laughs. It's tough, brash, frequently unstable. But it's also an admirable film and an important one.

Laughs Wrong

I think of it as the movie that Nathaniel West, author of "The Day of the Locust," would identify with today more than the movie made recently from his book. "Nashville" is about the star system in politics and show biz and the powerbrokers who work the middle ground, the hopefuls and crazies in the crowd attracted by the wealth and public fantasies.

The laughs in "Nashville" come in the wrong places. Audiences laugh nervously as a sweet-natured country singer lapses into a rambling stream-of-consciousness monologue at a public concert. They don't recognize, at first, any more than the concert audiences, that the singer is having a breakdown and will have to be led away.

Audience Unsure

"Nashville" is an unstructured as life itself. You are never sure what you are watching — whether it's supposed to be funny until you get a different perspective. Meaning depends upon context.

It happens again in another of the film's sublime moments of abruptly shifted emotional sympathy. A shapely redhead (Gwen Welles) is a sort of Marilyn Monroe figure who wants to be taken seriously as a singer, but men just want to see her body. The audience laughs at the redhead's horrendous singing and her out-of-sync hip-wriggling.

But then her suggestive teasing isn't enough to satisfy the boys in the backroom of a stag fund-raising smoker, and she has to quit singing and do an impromptu strip. Her humiliation and her poise suddenly invest her with a dignity that she retains throughout the film.

It is this transformation of expectations that is the film's style of keeping us off balance. It is Altman's virtuoso juggling act, as he cross-cuts between the lives of 24 separate characters in 2 hours and 30 minutes.

You don't have to be a country music fan, because that's not what "Nashville" is really about. On a restricted budget,

"Nashville" had all its cast bring more than most pictures would dare ask. Altman regulars and others who care for his camaraderie worked for modest fees, rewrote some of their own dialogue, collaborated on their songs and even wore their own wardrobe to cut costs.

The result is a unique collective reality that gets much of its impact from the evidence of actual events taking place and being photographed by the same kind of camera crews that shot concert films of social phenomena, such as "Woodstock" or "Gimme Shelter."

The film is bracketed by songs that help set the emotional mood of the film. The first, sung by the top male recording star (Henry Gibson) in town, is a complacent "we must be doing something right to last 200 years." The last, sung by Barbara Harris, is an escapist song. "You may say that I ain't free, but it don't worry me."

In between, the big political rally and concert that were the catalyst for much of the film's action are aborted. The reform presidential candidate whose speeches have lent populist sting to the film via soundtracks is derailed. And someone in the crowd goes berserk. His reason: None given. The songs, and pity, may possibly have provoked a mercy killing.

Business As Usual

But the film is not through with surprises, even after the shocker ending. The victim is every star who has been killed for obscure reasons by unbalanced men — and the star, be it John F. Kennedy or the traditional American image of idealism being killed in the person of the film's victim, is dead and replaced.

The final transformation is the plowgirl (Barbara Harris) who was kidded as a dumb runaway before this (her one singing tryout was at a racetrack where auto motors drowned her out). She sings and rouses and unites a panicky crowd. The show must go on; it's business as usual.

And, too, that last shot leaves us with the ambivalent feeling that all entertainment, including "Nashville," is diversion to take our minds off the national tragedies that leave us dazed. "Nashville" is a complex overlay of realities — family, business, politics, outsiders, drifters — whose perceived parallels and links create the meaning we take from the film. The film is "about" things like everything being politics, the assassin being more trigger-happy than the politicians, the Pele order of power, the debasement of women, corporate pimping by a recording company is no room to mention most of them. But one that children in the sign language tributes enormously in that the father never bothers to mediate, vivid terms and as to learn. It's a privileged metaphor is spent — one that can be enjoyed by Tomlin as a doting mother on two levels.

For centuries men have been using nets to reap the rich harvest of the sea. There is a classic rhythm to the saga of the sea and fishermen. It is a tale filled with danger and persistence—success and failure. Indeed, it is very much akin to life itself. You may not have to wrest your living from the sea, but you can learn a lesson from those who do. Fishermen the world around are, for the most part, devout folk. They've learned the meaning of faith. They know God. Seldom will you see even the smallest harbor town without a church. There men—and the women who wait for them—go to pray.

New Methodist Pastors Here To Occupy Pulpits On Sunday

New pastors of two Midland United Methodist churches will occupy their respective pulpits on the first Sunday.

They are Dr. Charles E. Lutrick, pastor of First United Methodist Church, and the Rev. Roy R. Havens, pastor of Asbury United Methodist Church. They were named to their respective posts during the annual meeting of Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist denomination at Lubbock last week.

Dr. Lutrick replaces Dr. Timothy Guthrie in the First Church pastorate. Dr. Guthrie has retired after more than 40 years in the ministry, the last 18 of which he spent in the pastorate of the Midland church. He has been named pastor emeritus of the congregation here and he and his wife are continuing to make Midland their home.

Mr. Havens was appointed to the Asbury post, succeeding the Rev. Cecil Tume, following more than two years as pastor of United Methodist Church at Andrews. Before that, he held pastorates at Plains, Lubbock, Adrian, Turkey, Whiteface, Sparenburg and Sweetwater. He entered the ministry in 1950 in the North Texas Conference of the Methodist Church, transferring to the Northwest Texas Conference soon after, and all his appointments since have been in the latter conference, or geographical division, of the denomination.

Mr. Havens graduated from McMurry College, Abilene, in 1954. He and his wife Henrietta are the parents of a son, Roy T. Havens of Lubbock. They have one grandson, Roy G. Havens.

Dr. Lutrick, a native of Abernathy, near Lubbock, comes to Midland from the pastorate of Lubbock's St. John's Church, a post he has held since 1971. He is a graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.A. degree and earned his master's degree in theology from Perkins School of Theology at SMU. He holds a D. D. degree from McMurry College.

Dr. Lutrick was admitted to the ministry in 1946 in the Methodist Central Texas Conference. He was ordained a deacon in 1947 and became an elder and full minister the following year. He served as a church youth director from 1945 to 1947 and was pastor of a church at Burleson from 1947 to 1949. He transferred to the Northwest Texas Conference in 1949 and his first appointment was as associate pastor of St. John's Church at Lubbock, which he was to return to as full pastor slightly more than two decades later.

In the interim, Dr. Lutrick held pastoral appointments at Vega, Baird and Floydada, and spent a seven-year period as executive secretary of the St. George's Episcopal Church at San Antonio. Mr. Bell, director of the God Unlimited Singers for the last five years, composes much of the music used by the ensemble in its programs and services. Mr. Bell's gospel-oriented music has been published and also has been recorded on a half-dozen LPs.

The Sunday folk mass at St. Nicholas' is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. The Monday program will begin at 8 p.m. Both events will be open to the public at no admission charge. There will be free-will offerings to help defray the singers' expenses.

Southern Baptists Refuse To Condemn Charismatics

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 118th annual Southern Baptist Convention has esped with members of the nation's largest Protestant denomination refusing to condemn the neo-pentecostal movement among Baptists.

The 13,000 "messengers," representing more than 34,000 churches and 12.5 million members, were asked Thursday by the Rev. Tommy French of Baton Rouge, La., to refute "certain practices and teachings of neo-pentecostalism."

The movement, sometimes referred to as charismatic, stresses the part of the New Testament which describes the Holy Spirit's visit to Christ's disciples during which "they spoke in other tongues."

Movement believers have accepted such experiences as a sign of salvation.

Mr. French's request was derful men and women of Concordia Seminary in the task of training men for the ministry."

After the committee announced its selection, Concordia board chairman Rev. E. J. Otis pointed out that within Dr. Bohmann's year of leadership the school's enrollment has grown from around 100 to 300 students and the faculty has also doubled in size. He also said that in the synodically prescribed process for selecting a new seminary president, Dr. Bohmann received the most nominations, including those of the Concordia Board of Control and faculty, and that the seminary students had submitted a letter recommending his election.

Carrillo's Lawyer Refuses To Honor Records Subpoena

AUSTIN (AP) — The lawyer for State District Judge O. P. Carrillo of Benavides has refused to honor a subpoena for tax records, issued Thursday by the House committee investigating alleged misconduct by the judge.

Arthur Mitchell of Austin, Carrillo's attorney both in the House impeachment proceeding and in a federal income tax evasion case, said he would not honor the subpoena "unless ordered by a court."

Mitchell renewed a position he had taken earlier that the committee, formed to determine whether impeachment articles against Carrillo should be submitted to the House, has no legal standing.

Supplying the records also would violate Carrillo's right against self-incrimination in a case from the Zertuche General Store.

The committee did not react officially at once, with Chairman DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, saying Mitchell's invoking of the 5th Amendment "does raise serious legal problems."

It recessed its proceedings until June 23.

Mitchell previously had agreed to provide the committee whatever tax records he wanted but said his mind had changed.

"My position has changed because the tenor of the examination has changed and now we are trying him for federal income tax evasion. I feel I can change my mind because of the submitted to the House, has no legal standing."

Hale said the records were needed to establish whether Carrillo had received any income from the Zertuche General Store.

New Food Stamp Plan Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is under court order to draw up a new food stamp plan that will allow all recipients to obtain a nutritionally adequate diet.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that the present formula for food-stamp payments to 19.5 million participants is invalid because it fails to provide such a diet to all recipients. It gave the Agriculture Department 120 days to draw up a new plan.

However, the court allowed the present rules to remain in effect pending department action because of "the critical importance of the allotment regulations to the functioning of the entire food stamp system."

"For a family that needs a loaf of bread, the offer of a slice is poor comfort," the three-judge court said in an opinion written by Judge J. Skelly Wright.

The ruling is "the most far-reaching legal decision ever rendered in the antihunger area," said Ron Pollock, an attorney and director of the Food Research and Action Committee, which brought the suit.

"For the first time it signals that poor people will have an opportunity to obtain nutritionally adequate diets as a matter of entitlement."

The department has not decided whether to appeal the decision further, said Edward J. Heikman, administrator of the Food and Nutrition Service in the Agriculture Department.

The court said that 1971 amendments to the Food Stamp Act marked a major shift in the policy of the law, a shift from supplementing the diets of low-income households to guaranteeing those households an opportunity for an adequate diet.

The plaintiffs, who included members of low-income households, the City of New York and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, claimed that the Economy Food Plan on which food stamp allotments are based does not provide a nutritionally adequate diet.

They also claimed that even the Economy Food Plan costs more than the food stamp allotments provided under the current schedule.

The court said it would not render judgment at this time on the adequacy of the plan. The current figures allow $46 a month to a family of one person, $154 for a family of four and $266 for a family of eight. For each additional family member above eight, $22 is added monthly.

Man Who Took On Bureaucracy Over Pet Deer Gets Apology From State

NEW PALTZ, N.Y. (AP) — Jack LaFalce, who took on bureaucracy over a pet deer, has today he buries the deer.

"Some people might think we're foolish but we felt for this deer like our family and they brought her back to us in a box," he said.

A minister will officiate at a formal burial ceremony today on LaFalce's farm here. On hand will be a representative of the state Department of Environmental Conservation, which precipitated the series of events that led to the deer's death.

LaFalce had cared for the deer since it was a few days old. He ran into it with his tractor and injured it 11 months ago.

The deer died Wednesday of what officials said was asphyxiation after being shot with a tranquilizer dart by a conservation officer. The department had informed LaFalce that he was violating a state law by keeping the animal without a permit and officers arrived to take it so it could be sent back to the wilds.

LaFalce said it was domesticated and came in and out of his house "like my dogs," slept with his children, and even ate at his kitchen table. He said it could not survive in the wilds.

When he confronted department officers and State Police, LaFalce was arrested and charged with obstructing governmental administration and violating a section of the state Fish and Wildlife Law he said he didn't know existed. It requires anyone finding an injured wild animal to notify the department and receive a permit.

Environmental Conservation Commissioner Ogden R. Reid, who was called to New Palatz Thursday and apologized. He said the department should have issued a permit once it learned of the case, and he said the Fish and Wildlife Law charge against LaFalce was being dropped.

"The policy was incorrect," said Reid. He added that any further action of that type would have to be cleared with him.

"This was clearly a fawn in good health which had been raised almost entirely by a family with love and affection and stood virtually no chance of surviving in the wild," Reid said.

Reid, a former congressman, also said he would attempt to get the obstruction of governmental administration charge dropped. LaFalce is due to appear this evening in New Palatz Town Court on the charge.

OKLAHOMA ELIMINATED

Texas Gains World Series Finals

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — There'll be no third- or fourth-place finish for Texas this time around in the College World Series.

The Longhorns have finished in those disappointing positions five of the last six years. "We came here with the idea of winning the national championship and our job is not over," said Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson after his team crushed South Carolina 17-4 with an 18-hit attack Thursday night.

"We hope to complete our mission Saturday night." South Carolina's initial defeat in the tournament left three teams once-beaten. The Gamecocks battle Arizona State tonight to decide Texas' title game opponent.

Arizona State, 61-12, used a masterful four-batter by John Poloni and Bob Pate's 11th-inning run-scoring single to elim-nate Oklahoma 1-0 in the night's other game.

Texas, making its seventh series bid in eight years, received a bye into the finals in a drawing among the three survivors after its battering of South Carolina.

Texas, 55-6, captured series titles in 1949 and 1950, but since it's been frustrated — 14 series trips with a title game chance only in 1953.

Texas battered four South Carolina pitchers for 18 hits as the Gamecocks lost for the first time in 17 starts.

An infield single by Ken Landreux, a sacrifice and Pate's single broke up a superb pitching dual between Poloni and Oklahoma left hander Bob Shirley in the night's first game. Arizona State's season mark moved to 61-12.

Floyd Could Be Sleeper For U.S. Open Tournament

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you're looking for a sleeper in next week's U.S. Open Golf Championship at Medinah, Ill., circle Ray Floyd. He's playing superb golf now.

The 32-year-old Floyd won the Kemper Open last week for his first tour victory in six years. And Wednesday he tied the course record of 63 in winning the pro-am event of the rain-delayed $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic which gets underway today.

Floyd settled down two years ago after he married Maria Primoli, daughter of a Philadelphia tavern owner, giving up a life that earned him a reputation of a playboy who was tossing away a potentially great golf career.

He didn't win in 1974, but his dedication was evident in his bank account. After earning $39,646 and ranking 77th on the tour in 1973, Floyd picked up checks of $119,385 last year, 18th on the money list. He is 12th on the list so far this year with $95,000. So, he wasn't surprised when he won at Kemper. He felt it coming.

Floyd credits his wife with changing his attitude. Maria Floyd had heard about her husband's hidden talent. She also knew his playboy's reputation. So, they sat down and had a talk.

"Do you want to do it (win)?" Floyd recalled his wife asking him. "If you do, do it properly," she advised.

"My career is a complete turnaround," Floyd said. "You can say I matured."

Floyd hadn't exactly been a bust during his previous 12 years on the tour. He won the PGA in 1969, earning $109,987 that year. It was the last championship he won, not very satisfying for the guy who was rookie of the year when he broke in 13 years ago.

The Philadelphia tournament begins on the 6,687-yard, par-71 Whitmarsh layout with a single round of 18 holes today and Saturday with a 36-hole windup Sunday. Hubert Green is the defending champion and among his chief challengers are Floyd, Player, Tom Weiskopf, Johnny Miller, Billy Casper and former Philadelphia titleholders J.C. Snead and Dave Hill.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Hale Irwin are not competing here.

Steady rains, which began early Wednesday night and continued through Thursday, were expected to move out of the area and the weekend forecast called for clear skies.

LPGA Seeks New Executive Director

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — The Ladies Professional Golf Association plans to pick its new executive director within a month, Carol Mann, the harried LPGA president, told a news conference Thursday.

The LPGA wanted to keep confidential its ouster of E. M. "Bud" Erickson, whose contract as executive director expires in February. Instead, it leaked to writers a month ago in Baltimore.

"My telephone is ringing off the hook. My purse is full of applications. Look at this stack of mail I got today," said the 6-foot-3 LPGA president.

"It's absolutely encouraging to see such a response. We had more than 600 applicants. I get them in telegrams, letters, and valentines," said the 34-year-old blonde.

"We're programmed to reach a decision on our new director by July 15, if the best laid plans of mice and women don't go astray," she said.

Miss Mann said the LPGA, for the first time in its history, is relying on an outside, professional screener to narrow the director candidates.

Then the selection committee of retired Chicago sporting goods executive Harry Colburn; Washington D.C. attorney Roger Carl; LPGA pro Judy Kimball and Miss Mann will make the final selection.

"We want a person qualified in administration, managing finances, marketing, promotion, diplomacy and speaking ability," the LPGA president told writers at the Medina Open starting Friday.

"There is no animosity on our part toward Bud. In fact, we want him to stay on and help in the transition of the new director," Miss Mann said.

"We want a whole new approach to our entire operation," she said. "Bigger purses, more corporate sponsors, more television."

Miss Mann said only two of the applicants have been women. "And they both lacked experience. We are looking for somebody in the 35 to 45 age range."

She said the committee interviewed seven candidates in New York City last week and narrowed that group to two. "We plan more of these interviews around the country," she said.

Miss Mann looks of the change in directorship "as part of our growing pains. We're one of the few professional sports still growing. It's healthy."

THE PAIN OF IT ALL — South Carolina baseball coach Bobby Richardson watches his Gamecocks from the dugout in a losing effort against the Texas Longhorns in a College World Series game in Omaha. Richardson has a 182-76 record at South Carolina, but now faces a tough survival role in the series. (AP Wirephoto.)

Midland Cubs Rip San Antonio, 6-2

SAN ANTONIO — He didn't need that much artillery support, but Bernie Beckman was probably grateful anyway.

The curly-haired blond Dutchman from Toronto continued to work his pitching wonders for the Midland Cubs, stopping San Antonio's Brewers, 6-2, on seven hits in Texas League action here Thursday night as the Cubs made 14 hits.

The win raised Beckman's record to 7-2 for the season and he is 7-1 since May 2nd when he moved into the starting rotation. Thursday's game also was his fifth complete effort. Oddly enough one of his non-complete games was a shutout against Alexandria when he needed help from Gary Junge.

The Cubs gave Bernie something to work with quickly when lead off batter Joel Green hit the second pitch for a triple and Cesar Gonzalez hit the next

Aces, Diablos Take TL Wins

By The Associated Press
Alexandria's Aces grabbed a 4-2 victory over Arkansas Thursday night when the Travelers' shortstop bobbled a grounder in the 10th inning and allowed two runs to score.

Mike Champion collected three RBIs for Alexandria and Dave McAllen picked up his fourth mound victory against one loss. Stan Butkus, 2-2, was tagged with the loss.

Elsewhere around the league, Midland bumped San Antonio 6-2. Lafayette downed Jackson 7-2 and El Paso edged Shreveport 12-11.

El Paso beat Shreveport for a second straight time, but the Diablos still remained 10 games behind the Captains. Mike Overy evened his won-loss record at 3-3 while Shreveport's Randy Sealy added a second loss to five victories.

Lafayette's Frank Ricilli earned his sixth decision of the year as he led his team past a punchless Jackson squad.

Tonight Shreveport is at El Paso, Midland at San Antonio, Jackson at Lafayette and Alexandria at Arkansas.

Bad Weather Halts Classic
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unplayable grounds forced another postponement in the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic today and set the tournament's weather-plagued schedule back to Monday.
First-round play was washed out by day-long rains Thursday and the two-inch downpour left the 6,687-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course too wet to play on today.
The schedule now calls for rounds of 18 holes each Saturday and Sunday and a double round of 36 holes Monday.

Palmer Clips Rangers, 7-1

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Jim Palmer, currently owning the best win-loss record in the American League, knows from bitter experience he can't get too excited about it.

Palmer upped his mark to 10-3 Thursday night with a seven-hit, 7-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. Nolan Ryan of California has the next best AL ledger at 10-4.

"Things are going so good for me right now I hate to think about it," said Palmer as he led down his right arm.

He added, "I'm aware from past experience that the arm could go at any time, but I don't dwell on it."

'73 Young Winner
Palmer, who won 22 games to take the Cy Young Award in 1973, has enough "past experiences" with arm trouble to start a television medical series.

He struggled with soreness in his elbow last year and was out six weeks with the pain. He finished the year with an irregular 7.12 ledger.

Back and shoulder miseries plagued him in 1967 and 1968. At one point, he was sent down into the Oriole farm system to work out his problems. In 1969, he was 16-4 although he spent 42 days on the disabled list with a torn back muscle.

"I still don't throw quite as many breaking balls because of the arm trouble I had last year," said Palmer. "The arm is usually tight at first but warms up as the game progresses."

String Ends
Palmer, who one-hit Kansas City June 8 before Thursday night's game, stretched his string of scoreless innings to 20 before Texas scored in the eighth inning on Mike Hargrave's RBI single.

Mark Belanger knocked in three runs with two singles to pace the 13-hit Oriole attack which knocked out Jim Bibby, who now has a 2-6 record.

Palmer said he worked hard in the off-season exercising his arm and lifting weights. He said he got to the point he could lift 75 pounds with his pitching arm.

"I throw some between games, but I just work on spotting my fast ball," Palmer said. "I don't like to take a chance on hurting the arm with breaking pitches when it doesn't count."

Palmer said he believes Baltimore may have finally found itself with 26 hits in two nights against Texas pitching.

"This team should get going now," Palmer said. "I hate to put the rap on the hitters, but let's face it... We haven't been getting the hits. Now we are."

The Orioles turned three sharp double plays behind Palmer and he said, "When you know you have a good defense that helps take the pressure off... But nothing takes the pressure off like the team going out and getting you a bunch of runs. We are playing up to our capabilities now and the arm feels good. You can't beat that."

And as the Rangers discovered Thursday night, when Palmer's arm is well, you can't beat him either.

COURSE FOR LONG BALL HITTERS — Carner Is Favorite At Medina Tourney

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — JoAnne Carner's rivals point to her as the favorite in the $50,000 Medina Open, and the hottest player on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour agrees.

"This course is playing long. That should be to my advantage," Mrs. Carner said before a practice round Thursday over the 6,050-yard Weymouth Valley Country Club course.

The 35-year-old Floridian is bidding for her third victory in the last four weeks in the 54-hole event running Friday through Sunday.

Mrs. Carner came here last year in the midst of another streak with three triumphs in four weeks, and tied for fifth. She says it's different this time.

"I'm playing my best in years, yes, years," she repeated. "I got my swing in a better groove."

"At the beginning of this year, I put too much pressure on myself. I didn't do a thing. So I relaxed and started playing better," she said.

Her victory last week at Pine Plains, N.Y., pushed her 1975 earnings past the $31,000 mark, about $17,000 behind top money winner Sandra Palmer.

First prize of $7,000 is at stake this week and Miss Palmer, cognizant of the par 72 course's wetness, said a big hitter like Mrs. Carner will have an edge.

"It's like spotting Jack Nicklaus four or five shots a round," said Miss Palmer.

The pro at Weymouth Valley, Lenny Greive, said six inches of rain hit the course in the first three days this week. "It will play at least 300 yards longer than last year. If it stays wet, two or three-under-par should win," he predicted.

Sandra Haynie and Gloria Ehret posted one-under-par 215 in 1974 before Miss Haynie whipped Miss Ehret on the fourth extra hole with a par four.

A beaming Miss Haynie liked her chances to repeat before teeing off for a practice round. "I'm playing good. No problems," she said.

If the weather remains sunny after the heavy rain, the 1974 champion predicts a similar winning score this year.

Five field events and the 10,000 meters will be run Friday night. Finals in nine races and three field events will be Saturday night.

Approximately 300 of the nation's best young athletes will compete today and Saturday night in the national Junior Amateur Athletic Union Track and Field Championships.

Athletes 19 years and under are eligible for competition in eight field and 10 track events. The top two finishers in each event will make up the U.S. Junior track team that meets Russia at Lincoln, Neb., July 4-5.

ANNOUNCE NATIONAL COMPETITION, SIGNINGS— Midland College Program Faces No Major Slowdown

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Midland College's spring semester is officially over, but as far as the Chaparral athletic program is concerned, things are just beginning.

Chester Story, MC athletic director, met with the members of the press Thursday at the Midland Country Club to announce two upcoming national tournaments for the Chaps, a new golf coach and several signings in golf and the newly installed basketball program.

The Midland College girls' tennis team, fresh off a championship in the Women's National Junior College Tournament in Kerrville, takes another giant step toward national prominence next week in the Women's National College Tennis Championships in Kalamazoo, Mich.

This tournament, scheduled for June 14-22, will feature the top women netters in the nation on both the junior college and major college level.

Australians Vicki Lancaster, Mary Sawyer, Carol Draper and San Angelo's Carol Reger will make up the team. Vicki is undefeated this year and has won over 50 matches and every tournament she has entered. Miss Lancaster and Miss Reger also own the national JC doubles title while Miss Sawyer was third in singles and third in doubles with partner Miss Draper.

Ann Wheeler, former Midland High golf star, has also qualified for the National AJIAW Golf Tournament in Tucson, Ariz. Miss Wheeler fired an 81-78 in Lubbock recently to finish fifth in the state and earn the qualifying berth for the Tucson meet June 18-22.

Story also introduced Ron Mayberry, a graduate of Amarillo High School and TCU, as the new MC golf coach. Mayberry has 12 years of coaching experience, during which he has four district titles, two regional crowns, one state championship and a third place at state. Mayberry was a former Midland High golf coach and has also coached at Albany, Van and Hereford.

Mayberry will accompany Miss Wheeler to the nationals. "The players in the nationals will play two qualifying rounds and then the field will be cut from around 200 to 90 for the final two rounds," Mayberry said. "I think Ann has an excellent chance to make the cut."

Mayberry got an additional boost to his golf program for next year when Story announced that the Chaps had signed McCamey's Doug Adams to a golf scholarship.

Adams, a national honor society student from McCamey, is a district, regional and state AA medalist. He also helped the Badgers win the state AA golf championship, the first in the school's history, and had 10 full scholarship offers from other colleges.

Story also announced the signing of three more basketball players, bringing the total to 17 players committed to playing for the Chaps in their first season, which begins next November.

Signing with the Chaps were Rick Daniel and Keith Rudolph, both of Louisville, Ky., and 6-9 Dan Vandervee of Hereford.

Daniel, a 6-2 guard, and Rudolph, a 6-5, 215-pound forward, both helped Central High of Louisville to a state championship as juniors. The team was third in the state when the two were seniors. Daniel carries a 13 point average and is listed as a top defensive player while Rudolph averaged 12 points and 19 rebounds as a junior. Rudolph was injured the major part of his senior year, but did have over 20 rebounds in some games.

Vandervee, a postman, was a redshirt at Southwest Texas this past year and will have both years of eligibility with MC. At Hereford, Vandervee averaged 18 points and 12 rebounds as a senior and had offers from North Texas State, West Texas State and several other major colleges.

"Dan is the big man that we really needed to be contenders for our Western Conference, and should really help us have a well balanced team," Story said. "All three of these players are quality athletes."

and no runs in his four innings of relief and made pinchhitter Cliff Johnson fly out with the tying run on base in the ninth.

"I threw Johnson a steady diet of curve balls," Demery said. "I was just trying to keep him from hitting the ball out of the park."

The Pirates collected nine hits off Roberts and Niekro while Houston managed eight off Ellis and Demery.

"This spring I said if I started 50 games I could win 50 games," Ellis said. "I still feel that confidence. I still feel that I can make it a successful season."

Rennie Stennett doubled in the tying run and scored on Manny Sanguillen's single in the fifth inning as the Pirates tagged Houston with its 10th loss in the last 12 games.

Richie Zisk put the Pirates ahead 1-0 in the first inning with a sacrifice fly following a pair of walks and Sanguillen's single off Houston starter and loser Dave Roberts, now 3-4.

The Pirates started their winning rally in the fifth on a single by Frank Taveras. He was moved along on Ellis' sacrifice and scored on Stennett's double to right center. Sanguillen then singled to center to score Stennett.

Pittsburgh pushed across its fourth run in the ninth when Dave Parker singled off reliever Joe Niekro, stole second, went to third on a ground out and scored when the throw to third was wild for an error.

Ellis Cools Astros, 4-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Dock Ellis still has confidence he will have a good season although he has won only three games.

Ellis won his third against the same number of defeats Thursday night as the Pirates defeated the Houston Astros, 4-2. Ellis received help from reliever Larry Demery, who recorded his second save.

McTear Tops Track List

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Approximately 300 of the nation's best young athletes will compete today and Saturday night in the national Junior Amateur Athletic Union Track and Field Championships.

Athletes 19 years and under are eligible for competition in eight field and 10 track events. The top two finishers in each event will make up the U.S. Junior track team that meets Russia at Lincoln, Neb., July 4-5.

The biggest name athlete in the elite field is Houston McTear, of Baker, Fla., who is the co-world record holder in the 100-yard dash at 9.0 seconds.

"McTear's a Bob Hayes type," said Tennessee track coach Stan Husterman, who will be an interested spectator at the meet. "He's real strong and explosive. He's the best there is."

Eight prep prospects signed by Tennessee and 11 others already on the Vol squad will be competing in the two-day meet.

Old Glory Unfurled

All right, Midlanders, let's show the world what the flag of the United States of America means to us by displaying it proudly Saturday, as Flag Day is observed across the width and breadth of the land.

This is an occasion when Old Glory should fly from every rooftop and when every American should salute it in all reverence.

This is the time to stand up and be counted, so to speak, with and for the United States of America, the greatest and best country ever.

It is also a time to review the history of the flag, the symbol of the United States of America. Someone has said that "When we uphold and honor our flag, we are in a sense, upholding and honoring ourselves, for we are as centers in the framework in the Body of Life."

Flag Day also provides an excellent opportunity for reviewing once again the proper manner of showing courtesy and respect to the United States flag.

Flag Day actually commemorates the Second Continental Congress' adoption of a resolution on June 14, 1777, making the Stars and Stripes the American flag.

The first nationally observed Flag Day, according to the World Almanac, was held on the 100th anniversary of the adoption of the flag.

'Times Change'

The following comment, "Times Change," appearing in a recent issue of The Scandal Sheet, official publication of the Graham Rotary Club, is worth passing along:

"Years ago a penny would move a gallon of oil from Texas to New York by tanker.

"At that same time a penny would also move a postcard from Texas to New York.

"Today, private enterprise still requires only a penny to move a gallon of oil from Texas to New York, but the postcard now costs eight cents." (From Robert H. Hudgens, Freer, Tex.)

NICK THIMMESCH—

Foot-Dragging On Vietnamese Refugees

WASHINGTON — About a month ago, I wrote a column chastizing those Americans opposing the admission of Vietnamese refugees to the United States and lampooning the Pecksiffs who offered tiny arguments for this opposition.

Well, that column brought a fair amount of mail, with sentiment about equally divided. Some people just can't accept the South Vietnamese, but there are an equal number who can and they speak right up.

One impressive letter of support came from Mrs. Gintare Ivaska, of Monroe, Conn., who wrote:

"I was a child refugee who fled Lithuania during World War II. I know what it means to sit around in refugee camps, waiting endlessly for any sign of being wanted by someone. As was often the case in our immigration, the old, the widows and the infirm were the very last to be received into this country. I hope that the Vietnamese will receive better treatment in this respect."

Mrs. Ivaska (she is married to a fellow refugee) first escaped the Nazis and then the Soviets when her father took his wife and two children from their home. When the Soviets pushed into Lithuania in July, 1944, the family found its way to Dresden, Germany, and was there during the devastating firebombing months later.

From Dresden, the family was sent to a refugee camp. Since the father had tuberculosis, he had to remain in West Germany for 10 years after Mrs. Ivaska's mother and the children left niversary of the adoption of the resolution when government officials requested that flags be flown from government buildings. The hope today is that they will fly from all buildings, including family residences.

The First National Bank of Midland this morning launched the Tall City's Flag Day observance with a public ceremony at which the nation's Bicentennial flag was hoisted along with the United States and Texas flags. Other ceremonies are planned for Saturday.

Shamefully, there has been a noticeable lack of the flag's display on special occasions in recent years. Now is the time to correct this situation — a particularly fitting time, as it were, during this Bicentennial observance period.

What does the American flag mean to you?

All right, then, let's set the pace for the state and nation in displaying Old Glory from as many rooftops as possible on Flag Day.

At the same time, let us all join in sincere, meaningful fashion in pledging "allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Yes, it's a Grand Old Flag. Fly it Saturday!

for the United States. The family lived in a poor neighborhood in Brooklyn, and the mother worked in a factory. They were enormously grateful that they found sanctuary in the United States.

"What (Sen.) George McGovern offered these people," Mrs. Ivaska wrote, "that they go back to the land they heard so often from the UNRRA (United Nations) and IRO (International Refugee Organization) officials in the European displaced persons camp. Those words were very painful and in many cases were augmented by forced deportation to the U.S.S.R. Thank God, the Vietnamese refugees seem to be free of this danger."

There is a passel of psychiatrists and other tea-leaf readers who argue that the South Vietnamese would be better off back in South Vietnam. I suppose this argument could be made about any group of refugees; only once a person has split and run it's not easy to go back, especially when there is fear of severe punishment.

'All I Want Is A Little Peephole'

INSIDE REPORT— Japan And Korean Domino Possibility

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

TOKYO — Behind the calm official reaction that the Communist takeover of Indochina affects nothing, the anguish it has generated in the upper reaches of the Japanese government was revealed recently at a private reception attended by key figures of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP).

One LDP faction leader who may be the next prime minister of Japan discarded the bland, unrevealing prose favored by leaders of that cautious and conservative party. A new Korea unified by Communist force, he said, would bring catastrophe to Japan: a "civil war" between left and right.

Implicit in that grim prophecy is diminished U.S. credibility in Asia after Vietnam. Communist conquest of Korea could come only if the U.S. breaks treaty commitments to South Korea; internal conflict that could destroy Japan's post-war democracy would then result only from a belief that the Americans would abandon Japan as they did Korea.

That Japan, East Asia's great industrial power and democracy, should be indirectly threatened by the Indochina debacle is steeped in irony. Japanese leaders somewhat smugly say the U.S. fiasco in Vietnam was inevitable and the Americans are lucky to be out of Southeast Asia. No non-Communist Asian country shows less interest in the domino theory than Japan.

Indeed, there is a nonchalance here about the fate of Southeast Asia. One prominent business consultant is advising against future investment in Thailand because he feels Communist control is imminent but considers this a minor loss. Japanese leaders generally regard Southeast Asia as a remote backwater, unimportant both politically and economically.

But nearby Korea is the one domino that counts for Japan, as witness one of Japan's most sophisticated and most worldly corporation presidents. A decade ago, he advised the U.S. ambassador to keep hands off Vietnam and let it go Communist. His views today on Korea: "If the United States leaves Korea, you are finished in all of Asia and the alliance with Japan is finished."

The official Japanese position rules out any chance of that happening. In a private interview, Prime Minister Takeo Miki told us he has absolute confidence in the U.S. living up to its treaty commitments. "The United States people still remain a trustworthy people as far as the Japanese people are concerned," he told us. Unless there are "gross miscalculations" (apparently by North Korea), Miki said, Korea "is not in for a military showdown."

Unofficially, however, there is anguish about the future, particularly if President Ford is not elected next year. Betraying old Japanese-Korean racial enmity, one official at the foreign office here calls the Koreans "tough people who tend to collapse if things go against them." U.S. withdrawal, he predicted, would lead quickly to South Korea's collapse.

That poses this question: If U.S. commitments are worthless, how will Japan survive? Japanese-Soviet relations are chilly and likely to remain so. Relations with China are warmer, but a Sino-Japanese peace treaty may not be signed; behind the scenes, Foreign Minister Kuchi Miyazawa is staunchly opposing an anti-Soviet clause insisted on by the Chinese. In fact, the been a number of 300 and 700 days. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) is complaining mightily, as usual, and the State Department says he's demagoguing it.

The voluntary agencies, representing various religious groups, are a bit slow in settling these Vietnamese. Some critics, who didn't like the idea of Vietnamese coming here anyway, are not shedding crocodile tears about their difficult life in the camps.

Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, president of the U.S. Catholic Conference, recently expressed dismay at the "negative reactions" of some Americans to the refugees, and noted that Catholic agencies alone have helped resettle 1 million refugees since World War II, without bringing down the republic.

Working-Class U.S. Is Getting Angry

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Approximately ten years have passed since something resembling revolution became chic in these United States — since the Rap Browns, Black Panthers, Mario Savio, Cesar Chavez and Tom Hayden became the rage for a considerable segment of American, intelligentia.

We still are living with the resultant cornucopia of federal and foundation grants, community action schemes, talk-show interviews and soul-with-an-icepick biographies. In rich, liberal Scarsdale, N.Y., the local high school even briefly taught a course in guerrilla warfare.

That was Part One of the Revolution, and (pardon my cynicism) liberal interest groups generally profited by it. Every black or youthful riot against the "system" accelerated a re-ordering of priorities away from the Pentagon and U.S. business and towards the Knowledge Sector (communications, social welfare workers, urbanologists, bureaucrats, etc). Perhaps that is why so many influential people often seemed to smile at anarchy and arson.

Now the system may face a very different type of revolutionary strain. Cultural, environmental and sociological standards which barely gleamed in the wildest eyes of 1965 are the administrative and judicial realities of 1975 and working-class America is growing angry. From bus-torn South Boston to Northern California — where the timber industry is virtually shut down by runaway environmentalism — a new brand of violence could be taking shape. We may yet see Leonard Bernstein and Dick Cavett regret the day they encouraged revolutionaries with cocktails and tv cameras.

The apparent new militance has one common denominator — it is rising with the danger of ordinary people whose livelihoods, cultural values and neighborhoods are being violated by the guidelines, social experiments and moral permissiveness of the New Class. This is true whether we are talking about California loggers threatening to march on Sacramento, Virginia miners driving their trucks to Washington to protest environmentalist threats to coal mining, Bostonians mobilizing against cross-town busing, or West Virginia parents fighting use of obscene high school textbooks (whose defenders admit that the controversial passages are too lewd to be quoted in daily newspapers).

For the moment, these causes are individual and isolated, but they may not remain that way. Leaders of the Boston anti-busing group called "ROAR" (Restore Our Alienated Rights) are talking about going national, and merging all these working-class angers in one massive populist indignation. Delegates to a mid-May organization meeting called for a war between "the plumbers and electricians of Middle America" and "these remote intellectuals who would take a parent's rights away."

In the hills of West Virginia and Virginia, the anger of the miners already has turned to violence and truck cavalcades. In Klamath, Calif., the Los Angeles Times reports that "an army of loggers is ready for war" against environmentalists. "Some SOB whose wild flower is endangered can put a thousand men out of work," one logger is quoted as saying. "Why should anyone have that kind of right?" Why indeed?

And in bus-torn Boston not long ago, 3,000 people jammed Commonwealth Pier, singing the ROAR song and waving the ROAR flag — an Irish Shamrock on a field of Italian red, white and green.

The Hudson Institute's Herman Kahn, discussing the intelligentsia, says that "growing hostility to this class is one of the most serious things this country faces." As economic conditions get worse, we could see unrest exceeding the turmoil of the Sixties.

Which brings us to the critical dilemma. If liberals found it hard to condemn the revolutionaries of the Sixties, conservatives may find it difficult to condemn the new working-class belligerents of the Seventies. These people are close to violence because so many precepts of respect for community, neighborhood, productivity and labor — all values conservatives purport to cherish — have been outraged. Before it is too late, the legitimate complaints of groups like ROAR must be heard.
