

Turks Demand Talks On Bases

Withdrawal Timetable Reported

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Turkey retaliated against the four-month-old American embargo on arms aid with a demand today that the United States begin negotiations within 30 days on the status of American bases in Turkey.

If "action is not taken to initiate the talks," the 20 U.S. military installations in Turkey will be subjected "to a new situation," said a note delivered to the U.S. Embassy. There was no elaboration.

Foreign Minister Isnan Sabri Caglayangil said Turkey "has waited in vain for reversal of the American decision, which is both unjust and wrong in all its aspects."

"It was finally imperative for Turkey to consider retaliatory action as our hopes were upset by a growing anti-Turkish attitude."

Reliable sources reported that Turkey's National Security Council has drawn up a timetable for the withdrawal of U.S. forces.

The council announced Monday night that it had given Premier Suleyman Demirel a package of "proposals containing measures to be implemented against U.S. interests in Turkey."

Demirel and his cabinet discussed the proposals at a four-hour meeting. Government sources said the security council called for the gradual shutdown of the 20 American military bases in the country. Three intelligence-gathering bases and the Incirlik air base for nuclear bombers are considered the most vital to Washington.

The proposal was an apparent attempt to pressure the House of Representatives into approving the removal of the ban on American arms aid to Turkey voted because of the use of American arms in the Turkish invasion of Cyprus last summer.

Use of American arms in the invasion violated the terms of the agreements on which they had been furnished the Turks. Turkey has done nothing about removing its forces from Cyprus and instead has consolidated its hold on the northern 40 per cent of the island. But the Greek and Turkish Cypriots have resumed negotiations, the Greek and Turkish governments have discussed the dispute, and the U.S. Senate under pressure from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger voted last month to lift the embargo.

Whew! 105! No Cooling Off In Sight

Continued hot days is the forecast for the Tall City with no chance of precipitation, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The weather station recorded a high temperature of 105 Monday, which tied the record for the date in 1939. Today's high is expected to be near 105 again. Monday's overnight low was 68 and the low tonight is expected to be in the upper 60s.

High Wednesday is predicted near 100 as warm Gulf air continues to flow across West Texas. Weathermen said some thunderstorm activity is possible to the east of Midland County, but noted the chance for more rain in the Tall City is nil, at least for the next couple of days.

Meanwhile heavy thunderstorms and threats of tornadoes died down this morning after keeping the eastern two-thirds of the Texas Panhandle and the northwest edge of North Central Texas under an alert last night until 2 a.m.

Damage occurred at scattered points before the unruly weather waned. Wind which plucked the tin roof off the North Plains Compress at Tulsa broke a sprinkler inside, causing water damage to 1,000 bales of cotton.

The wind overturned a railroad box car as it fell south of Perryton and knocked down the police radio transmitter at Canadian. Part of the roof was ripped off an apartment complex at Shamrock.

There also were showers lasting into early morning across North Texas from Mineral Wells to Gainesville and around Fort Worth and Dallas, down the Rio Grande from near Del Rio toward Laredo and between Eagle Pass and Junction.

Skies were at least partly cloudy everywhere in the state except in Southwest Texas, where it was clear.

Threatening weather developed Monday evening after a day of shimmering heat which shot temperatures as high as 108 degrees at Wink in West Texas.

There wasn't much overnight cooling at many points. Temperatures near dawn stayed as high as 81 degrees at Del Rio, El Paso, Galveston, Lufkin and Palacios, Amarillo and Dallart in the Panhandle were the coolest spots with 81 at the same hour, The Associated Press reported.

Eight Charged In Drug Raids Here

Four 19-year-old Midland men and a 22-year-old woman were arrested by city narcotics detectives Monday night in a west side apartment house raid that yielded the largest cache of heroin here in recent years.

Charged with possession of heroin, valued at $2,570, and placed under $10,000 bonds were:

- Billy Jay Latta Jr., 19, of 403 W. Humble St., Apt. H, where the search with a search warrant was made.
- Gregory All Owens, 19, of 604 Ruby St.
- Bobby Don Huff II, 19, of 4303 Andrews Hwy.
- David Wendell Hastings, 19, Luckey said this morning.

Det. Sgt. Roy Harrison said the droplets of apparent heroin residue taken in the raid were the first to be uncovered here. The street-sale worth of each packet is about $10, he said.

Of the four men arrested, only Hastings was free under bond. The others were in city jail at noon today.

Midland detectives also discovered two pounds of marijuana and a makeshift waterpipe at the apartment.

The arrests followed stakeouts by Midland police and were made shortly before 8 p.m. Monday.

Near noon Monday, police arrested three others in an unconnected narcotics raid at 113 S. Tyler. Arrested for possession bonds were Alford Williams Gray, 43, of 1107 E. Wall, and Charles Thompson, 41, and his wife, Lillie, 36, of the Tyler street address. Thompson was released on bond.

Planning, Zoning Commission Okays Apartment Construction

Construction of more than 300 apartment units in northwest Midland near approval Monday from the Midland Planning and Zoning Commission.

The recommendation goes to the city council for final action. Recommendation for construction of 170 apartment units was given to Moran Properties.

The units are to be built on eight acres located on Garfield Street north of the Chaparral Apartments.

Roy Moran said construction would begin approximately 60 days after the necessary zoning change from single-family to multiple-family residences could be accomplished.

At the southwest corner of Garfield Street and FM 868, approval was given for construction of 133 units on 9.5 acres.

The request of Leo and Jesse Hatfield for the 133 units received support from Midland College President Al Langford. Langford said the apartments would help student housing needs. The apartment complex would be designed specifically for college student use, the developers said.

The study concerning possible sale of city property on 11 acres located across from the Racquet Club on Wadley Street to Midland Community Theatre for a new theater center was passed to the City Planning Committee for further consideration.

City planners said the property has been valued at approximately $90,000 per acre.

City services to a one-acre trailer park were denied approval by the commission because the park does not meet acreage requirements. The park is located outside the city near Carter and Goods streets.

Natural Gas Producers Ordered To Turn Over Records On Reserves To Congressional Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven major natural gas producers have been ordered to turn over confidential records of their gas reserves to a congressional panel after thwarting efforts by the Federal Trade Commission to obtain the same records.

The subcommittee that subpoenaed the records is investigating whether the natural gas industry has been underestimating U.S. natural gas reserves in order to persuade the Federal Power Commission to allow higher prices.

The trade commission has been trying to obtain many of those records since 1970 but the companies have been successful in court actions in keeping the information confidential.

Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., of the House Commerce Committee's subcommittee on oversight and investigations said he expects to receive all of the data by July 22. But the counsel of the subcommittee says the gas companies cannot go to court to block the subpoena.

When the panel opened hearings last week, it received a Federal Trade Commission staff report showing that in one sampling reserves reported by the industry's American Gas Association were 24 per cent less than what individual company records showed.

The FTC report recommended action against those firms and the AGA, concluding that they were "conspicuously maintaining a deficient natural gas reserve reporting program" to influence prices.

The FPC, which regulates the interstate price of natural gas, uses supply data in calculating what the price ceilings should be.

Monday's subpoenas were approved 19 to 1, in executive session of the subcommittee with only Republican Rep. James M. Collins of Texas voting against.

100 Per Cent Oil Allowable Extended

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission extended the 100 per cent state-wide oil allowable today through July—the 40th consecutive month of maximum production.

Nominations by major buyers of Texas crude oil for July totaled 4,018,347 barrels a day, a decrease of 2,821 from June.

As usual, the huge East Texas oil field was restricted to an 86 per cent allowable in an effort to avoid waste.

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey said crude oil imports into the United States totaled 3,270,000 barrels a day—based on a four-week average ending June 6—or a decrease of 497,000 from the four-week average of Jan. 3.

Nominations by major purchasers, in barrels per day, with any changes from June in parentheses:

- Amoco 350,000
- Atlantic Richfield 180,000
- Chevron 77,900
- Cities Service 115,000
- Continental 54,500
- Diamond Shamrock 36,000
- Exxon 797,000 (minus 2,000)
- Gulf 165,000
- Mobil 345,000

Pecos Field Extensions Completed

Two Pecos County fields have gained extensions.

Energy Producing Properties, Inc., Midland, has completed No. 1-Q-B Iowa Realty Trust-Redman as a second well and location west extension to the Beverly (Queen) field, seven miles southwest of Imperial.

It was completed to flow eight barrels of 25.7-gravity oil and 33 barrels of water daily, with gas-oil ratio of 14,440-1.

Production was through a 20-64-inch choke and from open hole at 1,760-1,790 feet, which had been acidized with 800 gallons and fractured with 10,000 gallons and 20,000 pounds.

Wellsite is 2,970 feet from northeast and 990 feet from northwest lines of section 21, block 10, H&GN survey. It was scheduled to be drilled as a project in the Pecos Valley (high gravity) field.

The discovery, the firm's No. 1-Q Iowa Realty Trust, finalized Jan. 27, for 30 barrels of 24.9-gravity oil and 70 barrels of water per day, through perforations at 1,790-2,024 feet.

Second Well

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc., Midland, completed No. 2-D Yates as a west extension to Grayburg gas production in the Onlaw oil and gas field, four miles southeast of Imperial.

It rated a calculated, absolute open flow of 590,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, from open hole at 1,165-1,381 feet. It is 467 feet from north and 4,060 feet from west lines of section 544, H&GN survey.

Exploration has been planned in Concho and Menard counties.

Fort Worth Production Co., Fort Worth, will drill a 3,700-foot wildcat, No. 1 B. V. Sims, in Concho, six miles east of Paint Rock.

It spots 3,000 feet from south and 690 feet from west lines of Heinrich-Fischer survey 245, abstract 181. The drillsite is 1 1/2 miles northeast of the Paint Rock (Strawn lime) gas field and 5/8 mile northwest of a 3,715-foot failure.

SEC Investigating Defense Contractors For Possible Improper Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating the largest defense contractors for possible improper payments at home and abroad.

SEC Chairman Ray Garrett Jr. has ordered the SEC's division of corporation finance to assign a "sufficient number" of staff members to the investigation to assure its swift completion.

The probe was requested by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, who said the possibility exists that bribes, improper campaign contributions and other "irregular" payments have increased the cost to the United States of buying major weapons systems.

Proxmire asked the SEC to make a detailed review of records filed by the defense contractors and their subsidiaries to learn if there have been any "unusual payments" or whether any "slush funds" were created for such purposes in the last five years.

The request arose from the disclosures that the Northrop Corp. once paid bribes totaling $450,000 for two Saudi Arabian generals in connection with the firm's attempts to sell the Saudi air force its F5 jet fighter.

Briscoe Returns $15,000

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe Monday returned a controversial $15,000 campaign contribution to secretive South Texas rancher-banker Clinton Manges of Freer during a meeting at the Brownsville International Airport.

John Denver Ends Trip To Alaska

NOME, Alaska (AP) — Singer John Denver has ended a two-week working trip to Alaska filming an ABC television program on whale hunting and polar bears.

Denver and a crew will be in the southern and central part of the state later in the summer.

Northrop is the 13th largest American defense contractor with 1974 Department of Defense contracts valued at $444.8 million.

Richard Kaufman, chief counsel of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, said the payments may add directly to the price tags of the firm's defense contracts with the U.S. government.

But the action wasn't disclosed until almost 12 hours later after a Harlingen television station reported the meeting between Briscoe and Manges. KGHT-TV, Harlingen, reported on a 6 p.m. newscast that Briscoe met over breakfast with Manges and Manges' lawyer, former state Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg. At the time the story was aired, Bates and Manges had declined comment on the reported meeting and a spokesman for the governor's office said he had been unable to reach the governor for comment.

Statement Read
Only a few minutes after the story was broadcast, the governor's office telephoned the Harlingen station and read a brief, one-paragraph statement.

"As you're aware, Mr. (Joe) Reynolds, the governor's attorney, stated last week he was confident he would return the money. The governor accompanied Mr. Reynolds this morning to Brownsville where Mr. Reynolds completed the return of the money to Mr. Manges' attorney and to Mr. Manges," the governor's spokesman said.

The $15,000 cash contribution Manges made to Briscoe's 1972 campaign first came to light when gubernatorial candidate Mrs. Frances Farenthold filed a $2.5 million suit against the governor in 1974 for alleged violation of Texas election laws. The suit was settled out of court.

Unable To Return It
Briscoe said he did not spend the money from Manges and wanted to return it because he couldn't accept a donation that large from a man he barely knew. He told reporters he hadn't been able to return the money because he couldn't contact Manges.

Even last week, when Manges came to Austin under subpoena from a special House committee investigating district court Judge O. P. Carrillo of Duval County, the governor apparently had been unable to return the money.

Witnesses told the television station that Briscoe, Bates and Manges met at a table in the Brownsville airport restaurant after Briscoe and his wife flew to Brownsville from Cotulla. Mrs. Janie Briscoe, the governor's wife, reportedly was at another table and took no part in the discussions.

Seldom Talks
Manges, who owns Gross National Bank of San Antonio, The First State Bank of Rio Grande City and the massive Duval County Ranch Co. near Freer, is secretive and will seldom talk with newsmen.

Members of an opposing political faction in Duval County claim Manges has sided with the Carrillo family in an attempt to grab political control of Duval County from the Parr family faction once headed by the late political boss George B. Parr and now headed by ousted Duval County Judge Archer Parr. Manges will not comment on his role in the political power struggle.

When he appeared before the House committee investigating Judge Carrillo, Manges invoked Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination 25 times, refusing even to state his name or to acknowledge if he was married.

Officials May Be Violating Law On Identifying City-Owned Vehicles

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — If this Northwest Texas city is any indication, city officials across the state may well be violating a rather obscure civil statute.

As uncovered and defined by the Wichita Falls Times, state officials also may be flouting with the law, and violators might be found on state college campuses most anywhere.

"A section of the Texas civil statutes requires that every city-owned vehicle be clearly marked with the name of the city and the title of the department or official having custody of the vehicle printed on each side," the Times reported.

That bit of reportage came in a story headlined: "Unmarked City Cars Illegal? Top municipal chiefs may be violating state law."

The story said City Manager Gerald Fox was one of at least 10 top city officials driving unmarked municipal vehicles despite a law apparently prohibiting the practice.

Fox and City Atty. H. P. Hodge were out of town at the time, and The AP talked with Assistant City Atty. Gary Southard, who said:

"Frankly, I just don't have any comment. I guess some of us are occasionally educated by the newspaper, aren't we?"

"City policy is that we mark our vehicles, but I'm not familiar with the law requiring that they be marked," said Assistant City Manager Voin Campbell.

Director of Public Safety Paul Yeager, asserting that his car falls under a police exemption, said, "Instructions have gone out that all vehicles will be marked with the city insignia and department title with the exception of directors and police vehicles."

The statute provides a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100 for violations.

Officials in two other Texas cities checked by The AP said they had not totally complied with such a law.

Jim Favor, assistant city manager in Dallas, said he had heard of the law but never seen it.

"It is my understanding that all vehicles owned by political subdivisions of the city have to be marked, with the notable exception of unmarked police cars," Favor said. He said the law had been on the books for years but has "never been meaningfully addressed."

"If it were strictly enforced we would find most of the political subdivisions of the state would be in technical violation, including us. We have a good many unmarked cars. Most are marked. But some are not marked for what we consider fairly good operational reasons," he said.

Favor said vehicles operated by, for example, building inspectors, tax assessors, undercover policemen and some peace officers are not marked because "they feel their activities would be inhibited by the car being marked."

In Killeen, City Manager Robert Brockman said he was unaware of the law. All city vehicles except staff cars are marked on the side, he said. The staff cars, however, do carry a tax-exempt license plate which indicates they are government owned.

Brockman said the city would "immediately comply" with the law if it were brought to his attention by a state official.

In Wichita Falls, the matter apparently didn't end at the city level.

The day after the newspaper story appeared, a Midwestern University spokesman confirmed that a similar law exists for certain state-owned vehicles, and that university President John Barker may be a violator.

John Hooper, vice president for business affairs, said Barker's car and those used in two other departments apparently are offenders.

This section of the state civil statutes requires that the word "Texas" be printed on each side of "every automobile, truck or other motor vehicle owned by the State of Texas."

It further stipulates that "Texas" should be followed by the title of the "department, bureau, board, commission or official having custody of such car."

And, "The lettering shall be plainly legible at a distance of not less than 100 feet."

If it's any consolation, certain state vehicles are exempt, such as those used by the Department of Public Safety.

The law was passed in 1959 and was once part of the state penal code. The section was transferred to the civil statutes in 1973.

Opera Star Lives In Fear Of KGB

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The elegant evening gown and the spotlight seem to set her above worldly cares. On stage, Renata Babak is the magic of her art, an opera star.

But at 4 a.m. she is alone and terrified when the telephone rings and a person with a foreign accent asks for Renata Babak. Then, click, and silence.

Since she defected, the Ukrainian opera singer has lived in fear that the KGB — the Russian secret police — will get her, even in New York where she has made her home since January.

She defected at the end of 1973 after she performed in Milan, Italy, with the prestigious Bolshoi Opera Theatre.

Last year she spent a solitary eight months in Canada, learning her Russian roles in the operas' original languages, living with her constant fear that she would be taken back to Russia.

During an interview Monday after a weekend concert here, she talked publicly for the first time about her life as a dissident artist in Russia, suffering from discrimination and political pressure.

Friends convinced her she had a far better chance of getting her 16-year-old daughter to the United States, and protecting herself and her family still in Russia, if she would talk openly about her problems in the Soviet Union.

Renata Babak, 37, was an opera singer in the Soviet Union for 10 years. Despite pressure throughout her career, she refused to join the Communist party.

She won acclaim and was given important roles. But she was never allowed to sing on premiere nights. When the Bolshoi sang at Montreal's Expo '67, she was given a primary role, but the program said another opera star, a woman with a Russian name, was doing the singing, Miss Babak said.

She claimed the main reason she was discriminated against was that she would not change her Ukrainian name to a Russian one. She said she was not allowed to seek publicity or make records, and for six years she was not permitted to travel outside Russia with the Bolshoi.

She said she felt that her career was being thwarted, just as she had seen other artists destroyed because they would not toe the party line.

A new conductor who she said didn't understand politics refused to take any singer besides Miss Babak to Italy for a certain role. It gave her the chance to defect. She sought and won political asylum.

She said that after she moved to Canada early last year, her mother's home in Russia was searched and a Canadian address she received one of three letters forwarded through immigration authorities from persons claiming to be relatives. They said they wanted to see her in Canada or in the United States and directed her to go to a certain address.

"I know I have no relatives" in either place, she said.

Miss Babak said she frequently receives telephone calls in the middle of the night and that the person either will hang up or ask for her and then hang up. She claims her telephone line is tapped.

Judge Carrillo Refuses To Disqualify Himself In Archer Parr's Trial

RIO GRANDE CITY (AP) — District Court Judge O. F. Carrillo refused Monday to disqualify himself from presiding at the ouster trial of suspended Duval County Judge Archer Parr.

Judge Carrillo ordered Parr suspended from office March 24 after Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra filed a civil suit alleging Parr had been convicted on a federal perjury charge and that testimony in a divorce case indicated Parr had been guilty of official misconduct.

Defense lawyer Marvin Foster of San Diego sought to have Judge Carrillo disqualified on grounds that Parr could not receive a fair trial. The ouster trial has been delayed at times because Judge Carrillo was in Austin attending hearings of a Texas House committee considering possible impeachment proceedings against him.

The trial was recessed until Wednesday mainly because of a lack of qualified prospective jurors. Not all 200 summoned to appear Monday did appear and the judge could qualify only about 30 of those who did appear. A new panel of prospective jurors is to report Wednesday.

Before rejecting the defense motion to disqualify himself, Judge Carrillo swore himself in as a witness and testified of a death threat he received March 19.

Judge Carrillo said South Texas banker-rancher Clinton Manges of Freer told him the now late political boss George B. Parr was waiting at the Duval County courthouse in San Diego with a machine gun and planned to kill the judge.

The judge said Manges told him George Parr had learned that Judge Carrillo was going to remove four Benavides school board members and Archer Parr, his nephew, from office. The judge said at the time he knew that Guerra planned to remove the school board members, but he said he knew nothing of the possible removal of Judge Parr from office until later that day.

Judge Carrillo said he met Manges on the highway between Benavides and San Diego. He said Manges told him, "Judge, you can't go to the courthouse. George Parr is at the courthouse and he's going to shoot you. He's dead serious about it." He said Manges told him he saw George Parr leave Parr's home earlier that day with a machine gun.

The judge said he took the threat seriously and notified the Texas Rangers, the FBI and the U.S. Attorney's office in Corpus Christi. At that time, George Parr was free on bond following his conviction at Corpus Christi on a charge of income tax evasion.

Judge Carrillo said Manges and San Diego lawyer Nago Alaniz came to his ranch that evening and said Parr had agreed to forget the threat if Judge Carrillo would remove the school board members and replace them with persons approved by Parr. "I told them the district judge's office was not a trading post," Judge Carrillo said.

The reason he took the threat from his long time friend and political associate seriously, Judge Carrillo said, was that Archer Parr had recently told him George Parr had threatened to kill him. "George Parr was a sick man then," the judge added.

The incidents related by Judge Carrillo occurred about two weeks before George B. Parr took his own life on his ranch near Benavides April 1. At the time of his death, Parr had been summoned to U.S. District Court at Corpus Christi for a hearing concerning alleged threats he had made.

Second Term Merited

Speaker Bill Clayton of the Texas House of Representatives lost little time in announcing that he definitely will seek re-election to the speakership for a second term.

Furthermore, he said he already has pledges of support from a majority of the House, without encouragement on his part.

Clayton merits a second term on the basis of wise, sound, effective leadership during the 64th Legislature.

It is just as well that he should announce his intentions right now, in order to clear the air for other House members who might have ideas of seeking the important post should he be relinquishing it. Actually, however, there was very little doubt that the capable and knowledgeable West Texan—he is from Springlake—would seek re-election.

Most Texans familiar with the Austin political scene undoubtedly are delighted at his positive announcement.

The legislative session just closed undoubtedly was one of the most harmonious in recent years, and much of the harmony in the House must be credited to the speaker, who has visited and spoken in Midland on several occasions.

Clayton termed this year's regular legislative session a success for which lawmakers "can hold our heads high." This is in line with statements made by Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland, in two service club addresses made here last week.

At the Austin news conference in which Clayton declared his future intentions, he also touched on the matter of taxes, stating that this likely will be the No. 1 issue of the 1977 legislative session. He said some legislators are predicting new revenue needs of more than $1 billion. Clayton believes a more realistic figure would be in the neighborhood of $400 million to $500 million to balance the state budget.

Should this be the case, he said he would prefer to pay and to vote for a sales tax—either an increase in rate or a removal of exemptions.

Again, a great many Texans—perhaps a majority—would go along with the speaker in this regard, particularly when considering the alternative possibilities as mentioned by the speaker—a tax on oil refineries, a severance tax on coal production, and some mechanism for taxing corporate sales outside of Texas. He didn't mention a corporate sales tax, which certainly is just as well. It is hoped that no one else mentions same now or later.

But increasing taxes by any means certainly will tend to cut into the harmony which existed in the 64th Legislature. Most any method of raising taxes during the 65th session will be controversial.

During the interim period, there undoubtedly will be a great deal of off-season conversation and actual campaigning for one form of taxation or another which might be instituted to meet anticipated state budget requirements of the future.

The 65th Legislature will be fortunate in having Bill Clayton back as the House speaker during a session which may not be as harmonious as the most recent one.

Copley News Service

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — We reported last August that Watergate tactics had been used against John Lennon, one of the four musical Beatles, to oust him from the United States.

Our revelations, combined with the superb legal work of attorney Leon Wildes, have persuaded the government to consider letting Lennon stay here indefinitely.

The attempt to deport him was based upon a minor drug charge that had been brought against him in England. The former Beatle pleaded guilty in 1968 to the unwitting possession of a tiny amount of hashish.

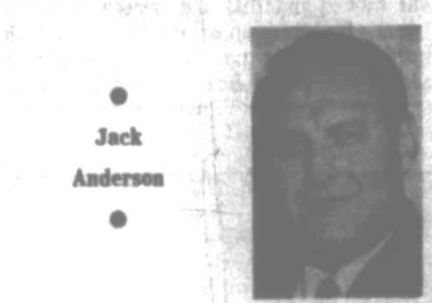

Wildes came up with proof, however, that the United States harbors hundreds of ex-felons, many with far more serious drug records, under the "nonpriority" status that permits them to stay in the country. For that matter, murderers, rapists, robbers and even one bigamist are allowed to remain for "humanitarian" reasons.

Impressed by this evidence and stung by our Watergate charges, federal prosecutor Paul Curran has written to the judge handling the case that the Immigration Service will "undertake a review of the question of possible non-priority status" for the singing star.

Curran made plain that none of the immigration officials who had participated in the Watergate tactics would be permitted to work on the review. What all this means is that Lennon now has a better-than-even chance to stay in the United States as long as he wishes.

Meanwhile, we have obtained startling, additional documentary proof of our charges that Lennon was singled out for special Watergate treatment.

The deportation attempt, as we previously reported, came out of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which still continues to stir up the old witch's brew of the McCarthy era in a dark corner of the Senate basement. The staff prepared a smear sheet against Lennon, falsely linking him with militants who were supposed to be plotting at the time to disrupt the 1972 Republican convention.

The false memo was slipped to stern, old Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who forwarded it in a "Personal and Confidential" letter to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell on Feb. 4, 1972.

Addressing Mitchell as "Dear John," Thurmond urged: "This appears to me to be an important matter, and I think it would be well for it to be considered at the highest level. . . Many headaches might be avoided if appropriate action be taken in time."

At the bottom of the letter, in Thurmond's military scrawl, is his fall into trouble, just as ours has. The British MI-5, a counterespionage auxiliary to the MI-6, catches hell for its anti-terrorist activities in Northern Ireland. In Canada, there was a big spat when charges were made that its National Research Council was cooperating with the U.S. CIA.

In 1973, Australian police raided that country's secret service headquarters because the agency refused an order to turn certain files over to the government. There was guttawing in Paris when the SDECE was caught bugging the offices of a top humor magazine. The flap got so bad that a Raymond Mercellin, minister of the interior, responsible for internal security, was asked to resign.

The Swedish "CIA," Information Byrian (IB), got in trouble when it was learned that one of its agents who had infiltrated a Palestinian group actually was working for Israel. Israel's secret police is forever turning up in countries around the world, charged with all manner of skulduggery.

One of the most celebrated spy cases in recent years was that which forced the resignation of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. It was disclosed that his personal aide, Guenter Guillaume, was actually spying for East Germany, thus showing West Germany's intelligence unit to be grossly incompetent.

It is hoped that the American people consider the CIA in perspective. Established by President Harry Truman, it was an effective, necessary instrument in the cold war. Like all government

INSIDE REPORT—

Reality Of Wallace Dawns On Governors

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW ORLEANS — The Wallace spectre haunting the Democratic party has now reached such proportions that two highly regarded Democratic governors only slightly to the right of center say privately that Gov. George Wallace of Alabama may have to be given the vice presidential nomination next year.

Such apostasy by mainstream Democratic leaders would have been unthinkable a year ago. Yet Wallace's awesome ability to dominate the national governors' conference here simply by his silent presence brings such speculative assumptions within the realm of possibility.

Wallace's complete political domination of this biennial assembly of his peers was the result of no Wallace plot or ploy. He attended all the governors' sessions in the Fairmont's international ballroom, but said not a word. "I'm not straining any," he told us with a sly grin. "If anybody's straining, it's them."

The straining of "them" produced a series of public statements from anti-Wallace governors, seemingly as thin as a gossamer thread: Wallace's paralysis and associated physical problems automatically rule him out for the vice presidential nomination; Wallace's support is based on hard-core pockets of strength that do not and cannot exceed 25 per cent of the national Democratic party; Wallace has a magical touch in appealing to vast numbers of discontented Americans, but pin him down and he has no solutions.

That is gossamer rhetoric, and shrewd Democratic governors here know it. As one of the shrewdest told us privately: "Wallace has now become a deadly serious presidential candidate, not a splinter or a regional candidate, and if Democratic leaders don't realize he is a serious candidate we are all going to regret it."

Yet, with only nine months before the first presidential primaries next year, Wallace — not yet an announced candidate — dwarfs all his announced competitors put together. He now talks about entering most of the 30-odd presidential primaries. One exception is New Hampshire (because, he says, small-state New Hampshire gives too much advantage to the candidate able and willing to exploit massive personal campaigning, which is beyond his physical capability).

In larger states, his physical limitation is not taken seriously by Wallace. His name has been a household word for years, pro or con, and he needs no build-up.

More important, other governors totally agree with Wallace's thesis that the 1976 campaign will parallel with surprising closeness the main political themes he has been thundering for ten years: attacks on "pointy-headed bureaucrats," big government, solving social ills "by throwing large gobs of money" at them.

Wallace's well-worn line that "big government is the enemy of the people," which he used in his only public statement here in a speech to the New Orleans Rotary Club, is remarkably close to the theme now being heard from such new-breed Democratic governors as California's Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown and Richard Lamm of Colorado.

"They've finally woke up to states' rights and the welfare mess and all that spending," he told us. "That's just what I've been saying."

Feeding these ancient Wallace themes are the explosive busing strife in Boston and financial catastrophe in New York City, the two national bastions of liberalism. Except for an occasional caustic wink, Wallace has not yet even begun to exploit these two major political crises.

Anti-Wallace Democrats, accordingly, are sketching this gloomy scenario: a Wallace national primary campaign, with Wallace making a minimum number of personal appearances but supported by heavy purchase of television time, which could bring him to the convention next summer with between one-fourth and one-third of the delegates.

Such a showing by Wallace in next spring's scramble for delegates would present any mainstream opponent with a mathematical nightmare: he would need between 70 and 75 per cent of the remaining anti-Wallace delegates to get nominated.

Wallace, in short, would then be enthroned as potential king-maker in a convention whose majority loathes everything he stands for, but which would be compelled to make one of two choices: put him on the ticket as vice presidential nominee, or risk the most potent third-party movement since Teddy Roosevelt fragmented the Republican party in 1912.

THE BUREAUCRATS

signature "Strom" and his comment that "I also sent Bill Timmons (a white house aide) a copy of the memorandum."

Thurmond's letter was turned over to Richard Kleindienst, then the deputy attorney general, who fired off a note to Immigration Commissioner Ray Farrell. "Ray," wrote Kleindienst, "When is (Lennon) coming? Do we — if we so elect — have any basis to deny his admittance?"

Farrell put Associate Commissioner James Greene on the case. The confidential files show that Greene contacted the New York office whose director, Sol Marks, recounted in a "memorandum for files": "Associate Commissioner Greene telephonically advised today that we should immediately revoke the voluntary departure granted to John Lennon and his wife."

"Mr. Greene further stated that under no circumstances should this office approve the (preliminary) application to remain in the U.S.) filed by Lennon. This is a direction of Commissioner Farrell personally."

But Lennon, who has generated $50 million worth of business in the United States along with untold tax revenues, decided to fight back. Characteristically, he put his appeal to music.

"Nobody came to bug us, hustle us or shove us," he sang, "so we decided to make (the U.S.) our home. If the man wants to shove us out, we gonna jump and shout, 'The Statue of Liberty said, come.'"

POLLUTION, CANCER: Just over a year ago, we published a report suppressed by the National Academy of Sciences suggesting that pollution could infect seafood and cause cancer in those who eat it.

Now another preliminary study by the famed radiochemist and biologist, Dr. Vaughan Bowen of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, warns that nuclear waste gradually may be polluting the seas and seeping into the food supply.

The Bowen study warns that "plutonium and americium are widely distributed in the oceans as a result of man's activities" in reprocessing nuclear wastes and other nuclear activities.

This could produce "a real hazard to marine life" and could be passed on to those who eat seafood. The study disputes the prevailing idea that there are "very efficient barriers to penetration of plutonium into" marine life.

The preliminary data, states the report, "do not . . . seem to confirm this conclusion." Still, Bowen doesn't go so far as to conclude that seafood lovers may have to wear Geiger counters to check out their meals before eating. The study emphasizes that the findings are not conclusive.

Committee Rebukes Solon For Leaking Information On CIA

By GEORGE LARDNER JR.

WASHINGTON — In a close vote marked by bitter debate, the House Armed Services Committee rebuked Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., Monday for leaking classified information about Central Intelligence Agency operations in Chile.

Now a member of the House Intelligence Committee investigating the CIA, Harrington said he had no regrets over what he did. He said he welcomed the Armed Services Committee action as an opportunity to force a showdown over "the real issue — secrecy in government."

"It appears that Congress does not control the CIA, but that the CIA controls Congress," Harrington declared in a statement.

"It is easy to see how and through whom."

The Armed Services Committee voted 15 to 13 to deny Harrington access to its classified files pending a formal ruling by the House Ethics Committee.

House rules give all members the right to inspect any committee's files, but the Armed Services Committee majority maintained that some sanctions ought to be imposed against anyone who makes classified material public.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., said Harrington had "indisputably violated" another House rule forbidding the release or use of evidence received in executive session without the consent of the full committee.

Harrington's defenders pointed out that the rule Ichord cited has always been toothless until now and carries no enforcement provisions. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., called the attempt to penalize Harrington "petty...indignus and tragic" and said it was an unwarranted example of "prior restraint."

Dellums later suggested that he and Robert L. Beard might best settle their differences outside the hearing room but nothing came of the offer.

Acting committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said the meeting was called to erase "any question" over a similar decision reached last week at a secret session which only 13 members — less than a quorum of the 40-member committee — attended.

Harrington told reporters later he considered it a moral victory to get so close a vote out of "this crowd."

He maintained that blind insistence on government secrecy was what enabled the CIA to interfere in Chile's internal affairs and help bring down the government of the late Salvador Allende to begin with.

The vote against Harrington was finally recorded as 16 to 13 when Rep. G. William Whitehurst, D-Va., who arrived after it was taken, added his tally to the majority.

According to heretofore secret transcripts released at Monday's meeting, Harrington inspected secret CIA testimony on Chilean operations in June of 1974 and followed up with letters to the chairman of the House and Senate Foreign Affairs committees the month in hopes of securing public hearings.

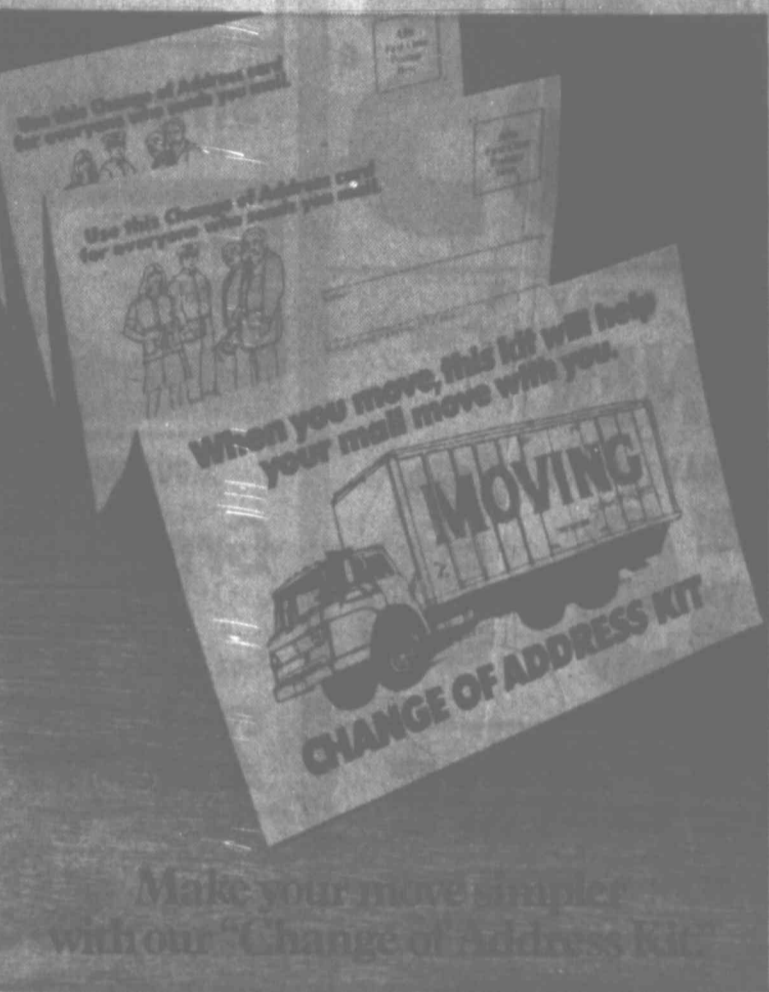

Testifying before the armed services subcommittee on intelligence headed by Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., last Sept. 25, Harrington acknowledged briefing several members of his own staff, a Senate aide to Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Washington Post staff writer Laurence Stern over the summer. When the New York Times published a story based on CIA's Chilean operations from some source other than himself, Harrington said he told Stern not to feel bound by any confidences.

Harrington said he had also asked Nedzi at that same secret hearing what a congressional overseer's duty was "when you know that Congress and the public are being lied to."

The Massachusetts Democrat said he has since made repeated requests to Nedzi's subcommittee for information regarding other CIA operations, but all have been ignored.

The acrimonious atmosphere at Monday's hearing was marked by talk of "treason" on the one hand, and futile efforts on the other to hear Harrington out before a vote was taken.

Murder Suspect's Hearing Rescheduled

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has reset an extradition hearing until June 30 for Gary Addison Taylor, who police say has told of killing four women in three states.

Visiting State District Court Judge W. A. Hughes of Decatur, Tex., also postponed Monday a motion requesting $3,500 in investigative expenses for defense lawyers Stuart Kinard and Terry Geiser.

Taylor, 42, a former mental patient, is being held here on five local sex charges including rape and sexual abuse charges arising from alleged assaults on other women.

Houston homicide detectives said Taylor, a machinist who was arrested May 20 near his apartment here, made written and oral statements that he killed four women in Houston, Michigan and Washington.

They quoted him as saying he killed Susan Kay Jackson, 21, a Houston waitress whose nude body was found here May 18, and Vonnie Sluth, 19, whose body was found near Emunclaw, Mich., and two women whose bodies were found in Onsted, Mich.

West opened the three of clubs, and East won with the ace. He returned the ten of clubs, South covered with the jack and West won with the queen.

At this point West knew East had the missing deuce of clubs. He also knew South had started with four clubs since East would have returned the deuce of clubs if he had started with four.

West thought it was pointless to lead spades or diamonds and dangerous to lead hearts away from the king-jack. West therefore continued the clubs, giving South the fourth club trick with the nine.

Makes Game
South now gave up one diamond trick and could then take four diamonds, three spades, one heart and one club.

West was in position to see in advance that this would happen. At the second trick, West had to shift to hearts whether he like it or not. It was dangerous to lead away from the king-jack, but it was almost surely fatal to do anything else.

If West leads a heart at the third trick, the defenders are sure to get at least three clubs and two hearts.

BUT President Supporting Rockefeller

By LOU CANNON
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — President Ford Monday endorsed Nelson Rockefeller as his running mate in 1976, but he left open the possibility that the Republican party might want to reach a different decision.

"The President will be for Nelson Rockefeller for the nomination," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen. "The delegates will make the decision."

Formal Statement
Nessen also read a formal statement from the President declaring his "great admiration" for Rockefeller and adding these words:

"Both of us in these coming months will be submitting ourselves to the will of the delegates at the Republican national convention. I am confident both of us can convince the delegates that individually and as a team we should both be nominated."

Options Open
However, some presidential intimates gave indications that the stated decision to keep Rockefeller was less than ironclad. They said that Ford had carefully kept his options open on a decision he will not have to make for some time.

One White House official said that the Rockefeller's retention on the ticket largely will depend upon whether the vice president can defuse opposition to him within his own party.

Rockefeller, a target of mistrust among GOP conservatives ever since he opposed Sen. Barry Goldwater (Ariz.) for the party's presidential nomination in 1964, has had difficulties with the right wing of his party since his nomination.

Rockefeller Criticized
Lately, however, he also has been the subject of in-house criticism among White House aides for his handling of the controversial report on the Central Intelligence Agency.

Rockefeller's advocates, however, blame White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld for convincing the President to withhold a report on an investigation into alleged CIA assassination plots against foreign leaders. After Rockefeller had said this material would be public, the President decided to keep it secret for the time being and to turn it over to the Senate Intelligence Committee now investigating the CIA.

Age Cited
There are some objections to Rockefeller, based on his age. The vice president will be 68 next year, and some GOP strategists think that the ticket would be stronger with a younger man as the nominee.

But there is no evidence that the many doubts about Rockefeller infecting various Republicans have as yet convinced Ford to back away from him.

In his carefully written statement Monday the President once more expressed his opinion of Rockefeller.

"I selected him for vice president because I respected his judgment, experience and ability," Mr. Ford said. "I wanted a 'good partner' for a vice president and he exceeded by expectations. He has done a fine job in every way."

The statement read by Nessen Monday came in response to a reporter who asked about Goldwater's remark on ABC's "Issues and Answers" Sunday that "Rockefeller would make a fine secretary of state" rather than a vice president.

However, the President had prepared the endorsement statement for use at his press conference a week ago, reporters were told. At that press conference, Ford was asked about Rockefeller's handling of the CIA Commission, which he defended, but not asked whether Rockefeller would be kept on the ticket.

Throughout the swirl of speculation about Rockefeller's ultimate political fate, the vice president has publicly proclaimed that he will willingly accept whatever decision President Ford makes.

In an interview with Connie Chung of CBS News on Sunday the vice president said it would be "no problem at all" if President Ford should say to him that he should not remain on the ticket.

"I've said ever since I've been in this job when anyone asked me I will say nothing that would in any way put pressure on him to consider '76," Rockefeller told CBS.

Tax Cut Extension Opposed

By PAUL E. STEIGER
The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon Monday opposed extending into 1976 the $11.1 billion worth of one-year income tax cuts enacted in March, retroactive to Jan. 1.

At present, Simon told a group of reporters, he does not think the economy will need the continued stimulation that maintaining the tax cuts would provide. "The economy appears to be recovering a little ahead of schedule," he said.

Should recovery lag, Simon said he would prefer to see any additional stimulus accomplished through tax reform measures, such as reducing taxes on corporate dividends.

Higher Withholdings
Letting the tax cuts expire would mean that employers would have to resume withholding higher amounts — ranging from a few pennies to several dollars — from workers' paychecks starting in January.

Sentiment is strong among some congressional Democrats to make the tax reductions permanent, or at least extend them into 1976.

The tax reductions in question include a $30 credit for each taxpayer and each of his or her dependents (a family of four had its 1975 taxes reduced by $120), an increase in the standard deduction for taxpayers who do not itemize, special tax cuts (or payments if no tax is owed) of up to $400 for low-income working parents, and reduced tax rates on the first $100,000 of corporate income.

These tax reductions were enacted as part of the $22.8 billion measure that also included $8 billion worth of rebates on 1974 taxes, an end to percentage depletion allowances for large oil firms, and a two-year increase in the investment tax credit for business.

Opposes Oil Price Hike

On other subjects, Simon — Sharpened his opposition to oil price increases that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has threatened to impose this fall. He said there was no economic justification for any OPEC price boost and that the cartel should cut its prices instead.

— Said the federal budget deficit has been brought more nearly under control. "There's no danger now of hitting the $100 billion level, Simon said, referring to the deficit some had predicted for the 1976 fiscal year.

— Made clear that his view of tax reform requires measures that create incentives for savings and investment and draw money away from consumer spending.

The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to begin hearings next week on a variety of proposals for overhaul of the tax code. Simon said the Treasury soon would give President Ford a series of options for an administration position. He said he expects to present that stand to the Ways and Means Committee in testimony sometime this month or next.

Details Not Revealed

Simon declined to disclose in detail the recommendations he will offer President Ford. But he said he favors ending the "double taxation" or corporate dividends, either by making dividend payments tax deductible for corporations or by eliminating personal income taxes on such payments.

He said many European countries have "integrated" their personal and corporate income tax system so that dividends are taxed only once, and there are pressures on other European countries to move in that direction.

Taxing corporations on their profits and then taxing individuals who receive dividends paid from those profits is unfair and it reduces incentives for people to save and invest their money, Simon said.

As another way of making investment more attractive, Simon said he favored scaling down the amount of tax levied on the capital gain from the sale of stocks, real estate and other investments the longer the asset is held. This view clashes directly with that of many congressional liberals, who want to tighten taxation of capital gains.

Simon said he also expects the administration to continue to favor tax revision proposals advanced by his predecessor, George F. Schultz in 1973 to curtail the use of artificial accounting losses and other tax shelter devices and to tighten the minimum tax for high income individuals.

Congressman Reuss Urges Action To Close Special Oil Tax 'Loophole'

Special to Newsday
WASHINGTON — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., has urged congressional action to close what he called a "special oil tax loophole" that permits oil companies to invest in tax-free investments in America.

oil prices is turning the other cheek too vigorously," Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee, said Sunday. "Plugging this loophole ought to be high on Congress' tax reform agenda."

Reuss' call for legislative action was in reaction to a Newsday report Sunday that Midcont made with the very money it was shelling out in exorbitant of hundreds of millions of dollars of American stocks without having to pay taxes on their earnings.

He said that while it was "perfectly fair" to exempt the income earned by foreign governments "in the course of normal official activity," this privilege should not apply "when a government steps down from its pedestal and goes into business as a profit-making investment trust."

Gulf, Rockwell Talk Merger Possibilities

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. has begun preliminary talks with Rockwell International Corp. on a number of possible joint ventures, including a merger that would create the nation's fifth-largest corporation.

Gulf, with 1974 revenues of $18.2 billion, is the country's fifth-largest oil company and seventh-largest corporation.

Rockwell, a diversified manufacturer of aircraft, automotive and electronic components and appliances, had sales totaling $4.4 billion in the last fiscal year. It was 35th on the Fortune list of 500 major corporations.

If Gulf and Rockwell merged, the resulting company would move into fifth place on the Fortune list, behind Texaco and ahead of Mobil Oil.

In announcing the merger possibility moments after the New York Stock Exchange closed Monday, the companies said discussions are in a very preliminary stage. They declined to discuss particulars.

Permian Basin Dry Holes

Chaves, N.M. — Reed & Stevens, Inc. No. 1-1010-1011, 1,200 feet from north and east lines of section 13-28-29, 2 1/2 miles east of Caprock, 14 1/2 miles west of Pecos, abandoned location.

Along with other major oil companies, Gulf has been interested in diversifying in view of the takeover of overseas oil properties by producing nations in the Middle East and other areas.

Some federal officials argue that imposing taxes on investments by oil companies — which last year reeled up a $60 billion cash surplus — would discourage them from returning some of that wealth to America, to so-called "recycling" process.

The project is 1,300 feet from north and 650 feet from east lines of section 13-23-29.

It flowed gas at the rate of 3.7 million cubic feet per day, plus five barrels of condensate and six barrels of water in 15 hours, through an 18-64-inch choke and Strawn perforations at 12,130-12,150 feet, and Morrow perforations at 13,194 - 13,600 feet. Morrow zone has been acidized with 5,000 gallons. Testing continued.

Astronomers Plan Public Sessions

The West Texas Astronomers Club has announced plans for public viewing sessions.

The club meets the first Saturday of each month at the Community Room of the Commercial Bank at 8 p.m.

Foreign governments are not taxed on bank deposits, corporate and stock dividends and capital gains. Private foreigners pay no taxes on their bank deposits. Depending on bilateral treaties with a number of European countries, they pay from zero to 15 per cent tax off income from corporate bonds.

Morrow production was assured with the flowing of gas at the daily rate of 1.7 million cubic feet daily, through perforations at 14,875-14,895 feet.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,305 feet from east lines of section 22, block 22, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Bureau Chief Praises FPC For Gas Extension

WACO — Texas Farm Bureau President Carroll Chaloupka has thanked the Federal Power Commission for extending emergency interim relief on natural gas used for irrigation until June 15, 1976.

This is a welcome reprieve for thousands of our agricultural producers who could not obtain adequate financing under a lower priority status," Chaloupka said in a message Friday to FPC Chairman John N. Nassikas.

Commission had extended the relief until Sept. 30, 1975, until a series of hearings on the subject could be held in addition to hearings in Washington, D.C. field hearings were held last month in Phoenix, Albuquerque and Lubbock.

Irrigation farmers testified at the hearings that changing to other sources of power was economically impractical. They further stated that adequate supplies of other fuels were not available.

Bankers told the hearings that they could not extend financing to many farmers under a No. 3 priority curtailment plan.

Houston College President Named

HOUSTON (AP) — J. B. Whiteley has been named president of Houston Community College.

Trustees named him Monday to replace Dr. J. Don Bonney who leaves July 10 and will become chancellor of the University of Houston Downtown Campus Aug. 1.

Chaloupka said the Texas Farm Bureau wants the No. 2 priority made permanent. The Commission order extended the "interim deferral to June 15, 1976, or until a final Commission decision has been issued."

The FPC decided June 9 to extend a Priority 2 status for irrigation use of natural gas. Previously, on March 21, the

Coquina Reveals Higher Gas Prices

Coquina Oil Corp. announced today it has renegotiated the price the company will receive for natural gas produced from two fields in which it owns an interest.

Coquina owns a 22 per cent interest in the Conger gas field in Sterling County which has 11 natural gas wells, five being completed, one project drilling and five planned.

The base price of the contract with Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. was renegotiated, effective May 1, 1975, from $1.30 to $1.80 per thousand cubic feet, when adjusted for heating value amounts to approximately $2.02 per thousand.

The company also owns a 15 per cent interest in the Ardmore gas field, Goddard reservoir, in Carter County, Oklahoma, which has two gas wells completed, two drilling and others planned.

OIL INDUSTRY MAGAZINE REPORTS— Interstate Companies Predict Gas Shortage Will Get Worse

TULSA—The nation's natural gas shortage will grow worse the rest of the year, and the situation probably won't improve before 1980.

Interstate pipeline companies say they expect service cutbacks to be 908 billion cubic feet greater than last year, the Oil and Gas Journal reports in its June 16 issue. The pipelines add the total shortfall to their customers between March 1975 and March 1976 will equal three trillion cubic feet.

AGA tells the Journal that as a result of federal foot-dragging, only 13 SNG plants of the nearly 40 announced by 1972 will come on stream close to their original schedule.

Also, the Federal Power Commission (FPC) estimated the natural-gas shortage will be 48 per cent greater than last year.

The pipeline companies blame the service cutbacks on federal price controls which they say have increased demand and depressed supply. Gas reserves in the lower 48 states have declined annually since 1968.

AGA's earlier projection of 1.1 trillion cubic feet of LNG imports in 1980 depends on successful completion of more long-term projects by other companies.

Closet Ceiling Damaged By Fire At Levi Strauss

Midland fireman extinguished a "blazing" fire at the Levi Strauss Co. at 2029 S. Holiday Hill Road in the Industrial Park Monday afternoon.

The fire, which fire department officials said was probably caused by paper goods next to a water heater, damaged the water heater closet, the paper goods and a ceiling in a hallway.

Firemen extinguished another blaze at the home of D. Earl at 206 W. Nobles. Officials said that the cause of the fire was a faulty portable fan and that the damage to the house and its contents was extensive.

Pirates Rout St. Louis, 10-4, On Homers

Chicubs Post 9-7 Win Over Phillies

By The Associated Press
If there's anything a pitcher likes more than a humming fastball or a sharp-breaking curve ball, it's a soaring home run ball.

Bruce Kison of the Pittsburgh Pirates had plenty of them Monday night.

Not that he was giving up the homers, mind you. He was in the dugout, gleefully watching them bounce off the bats of teammates Willie Stargell, Renie Stennett and Al Oliver, bombs that highlighted a 15-hit assault which powered the Pirates to a 10-4 rout of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"All our hitters seem to be coming to life at once. It's great for a pitcher," Kison said after the Pirates chalked up their fifth straight victory and their 16th in the last 21 games to open a two-game edge over

Carew Tops Ballot For American League All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Carew, hard-hitting second baseman for the Minnesota Twins, remains the overwhelming favorite in the voting for the American League All-Star team.

Currently batting .400, Carew, who barely squeaked by Kansas City's Cookie Rojas in 1973, is the runaway leader this season with 476,010 votes, while runner-up Sandy Alomar of New York has only 65,942 in returns released Monday by the baseball commissioner's office.

The races for other positions remain close, with six Oakland players either leaders or strong contenders.

Third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland has a narrow advantage over Buddy Bell of Cleveland, drawing 187,484 votes to Bell's 176,790, while first baseman Lee May of Baltimore leads Gene Tenace of Oakland 172,463 to 150,468.

In balloting for catcher, Thurman Munson of New York is the current leader with 271,393 while Ray Fosse of Oakland trails with 172,521.

A's shortstop Bert Campaneris is dominating his position with 283,413 compared to 119,000 for Frank Duffy of Cleveland.

With three weeks to go, the contest for the three outfield positions remains extremely tight. Bobby Bonds of New York heads the voting with 259,141, followed by Joe Rudi of Oakland with 237,630; Jeff Burroughs of Texas, 235,288; Reggie Jackson of Oakland, 249,412; and Carlos May of Chicago, 180,253.

Voting continues through July 6. The All-Star Game will be played July 15 in Milwaukee.

FATHER-SON WINNERS—Kelly Sewell, left, and father Ken, won the annual Midland Country Club's Father-Son golf crown Sunday with a final 202 score. Scores were given on the point system.

Jabbar To LA Lakers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Together, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the city of Milwaukee are the odd couple.

Their marriage, arranged through the vagaries of a coin flip and sustained by multi-million dollar contracts, has ended after six roller-coaster years. Many wonder how it endured that long.

The Milwaukee Bucks reshaped the face of the National Basketball Association today when they traded one of the most dominant figures in the history of sport to the Los Angeles Lakers.

They also terminated a relationship that ranged from 1971's giddy honeymoon—an NBA championship in the Bucks' third season of existence—to frustration as the team unexpectedly plunged to last place in its division this year.

Abdul-Jabbar asked the Bucks to trade him several times since they had drafted rights to him in a coin flip with Phoenix in 1969. Separation from his wife more than a year ago and the team's misfortunes intensified his disenchantment, and he made his feelings public for the first time last March 14. "I never said I was unhappy with the Bucks or Milwaukee," he said. "The problem is, I don't have any family or friends here. The things I relate to aren't in Milwaukee."

"Milwaukee is not the kind of city I'm about. I'm not knocking it or the people. It's just that, socially and culturally, I don't fit in Milwaukee."

Milwaukee fans worshipped Abdul-Jabbar the player, but few knew or understood the man, whose interests and tastes include his orthodox Moslem faith, black culture, heavy reading and jazz music.

None of those pursuits is particularly visible in Milwaukee, a city of about 15 per cent black population which is stereotyped for love of beer, bravura, basketball and polka bands.

He seldom tolerated even the briefest insights into his personality or private life. He once purchased a home in a tree-shaded suburb, but retreated to a lakefront apartment after a few days because the home attracted throngs of curious persons.

He usually consented to post-game interviews in recent years, but his relationship with the local media remained distant.

"Billy and I have a lot in common along those lines," he once said of Bill Walton, like himself a former All-American at UCLA and currently the controversial and enigmatic center of the Portland Trailblazers.

"We are both reclusive," Abdul-Jabbar said. "He (Walton) detects a certain callousness among certain people in the press who are small-minded and out to serve their own end. I talk to people I can relate to."

Midland Cubs Open 11-Game Homestand

Midland's Cubs open an 11-game homestand with the first of five games against the Texas League West Division-leading Shreveport Captains at 7:45 p.m. today at Cubs Stadium.

It will be "Guaranteed Win" night, which means if the Cubs don't produce a victory, rain-check holding fans will be admitted to Wednesday's game.

Tim Furtbaugh's Pittsburgh Pirate marfaughs are 11 games in front in the West race and the Cubs hope to bring them back to within hailing distance of the rest of the pack in the current series.

Midland holds a 4-5 edge in the series and will send left-hander Bernie Beckman, 7-4, to the mound tonight. Since becoming a starter May 16, the former Los Angeles Dodger (armhand has posted a 5-0-1 record with five complete games while posting a 1.19 earned-run-average.

Midland will be facing the most effective pitching staff in the league with the Captains showing a team ERA of 2.79.

Padres 7, Giants 1
San Diego managed only two singles through the first five innings against the Giants. Then, as Padres Coach Jim Davenport put it, "We got some funny hits."

What they got was six of them in the sixth inning, good for six runs. Pitcher Rich Folkers got one of them. He bounced the ball off the artificial turf and over the head of reliever Gary Lavelle—and two runs scored while the Giants waited for the ball to come down.

Webster Tops ABA Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The aggressive Denver Nuggets of the American Basketball Association not only are making strong overtures in an effort to sign No. 1 draft choice Marvin Webster, but they also reportedly are angling for the rights to the Virginia Squires' top pick, David Thompson.

Should they succeed in signing both, it would be a remarkable coup.

Webster, the 7-foot "Human Eraser" from Morgan State, was The Associated Press' College Division Player of the Year each of the last two seasons. Thompson, the 6-5 master of the "Alley Oop" play from North Carolina State, was the major college Player of the Year each of the last two years.

And should the Nuggets corral both Webster and Thompson, the two most coveted players in collegiate basketball during the 1974-75 season, they would leave the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association awfully embarrassed.

Both Webster and Thompson were drafted by the financially ailing Hawks on the first round of the recent NBA draft.

In fact, the Nuggets could even add further embarrassment to the Hawks by signing 6-8 high school star Bill Willoughby of Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, N.J. Both clubs picked Willoughby on the second round of their respective drafts.

There has been a report that Webster already has reached agreement with the Nuggets, but he denied it Monday shortly after the ABA draft, which was conducted by a conference call at league headquarters in New York.

In Baltimore, Webster said, "I'll probably decide sometime soon," he said, "maybe within a week."

The awesome scorer, rebounder and shot blocker, conceded that the money being offered "means a lot," but contended it would not be the sole factor in his decision.

"I also want to consider the club, the town and the situation I'm going to play in," he said. "I want the best over-all situation."

Asked about the report that Webster already was signed, Nuggets General Manager Carl Scheer said, "Print anything you want, but remember my promise that we would sign whomever we picked."

While the Nuggets admittedly have been bargaining furiously for Webster, Atlanta apparently has not.

Former Major Leaguer
Clint Courtney dies

Clint Courtney Dies At Age 48

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Clint Courtney, manager of the Richmond Braves of the International League and a scraping major league catcher of the 1950s, died early Monday of a heart attack. He was 48.

Courtney and his team had just arrived here for a three-game series against the Rochester Red Wings.

A fiery batter who became embroiled in numerous disputes on and off the field during his playing career, Courtney started with the New York Yankees in 1951 and played 11 seasons in the majors, five of them with the old Washington Senators. He was believed to be the first major league catcher to play with eyeglasses.

He also played with the old St. Louis Browns and Kansas City A's and the Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox. A left-handed hitter, his lifetime batting average was .308 in 946 games.

In the 1952 and 1953 seasons with the Browns, "Scrap Iron" Courtney was involved in a pair of highly publicized fights with the Yankees' Billy Martin, now manager of the Texas Rangers.

He was fined $100 and suspended for three days after the 1952 fight. A year later, he sparked a free-for-all when he spiked Phil Rizzuto and then was slugged by Martin. That row resulted in fines totaling $850 against four Yankees and two Browns, including Courtney.

A native of Hall Summit, La., Courtney took over as manager of Richmond in the Triple-A IL in the middle of the 1973 season. Richmond is the Atlanta Braves' top farm club.

Courtney collapsed while playing table tennis at a downtown motel late Sunday. Team trainer Sam Ayoub said Courtney "had just played one game of Ping Pong and he decided to rest for a while." Courtney began talking with player Al Gallagher and "then he just keeled over and hit the floor," Ayoub said.

He died a short time later in Genesee Hospital.

Midland College 5th in Net Tourny

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Midland College is tied for fifth place and Vicki Lancaster, after posting a fourth-round victory Monday, faces her toughest assignment of the tournament Wednesday in the Women's National Interscholastic Championships going into Tuesday's rounds.

Midland is tied with Rollins Fla., College with eight points. Sharing first place with 11 points are Arizona State, Trinity Florida and Miami, Fla. Stanford is alone in fourth with nine points.

Three Midland College girls, Carol Reger, Carol Draper and Mary Sawyer, a 7-6, 7-5 loser, dropped into the consolation bracket.

"Our hopes pretty much depend on the doubles play, which begins today, and Vicki," said MC Athletic Director Chester Story. "We pick up a full point for every win in the winner's bracket and we can pick up a half point for each consolation bracket win."

Miss Lancaster will play one of the meet's top seeds in Ann Arbor, Mich., in her singles match Wednesday.

Rains forced Monday night's matches inside. "And I think this really hurt our girls, since they like to play outside," Story said.

U.California-Irvine and the University of Southern California follow MC in the standings with seven points.

Shreveport Cops 11-9 TL Victory

By The Associated Press

It took a last-ditch stand by Shreveport, the West Division front runner, to avert a second straight loss and score and beat challenging El Paso 11-9 in their Texas League game Monday night.

In the only others scheduled, East Division leader Lafayette whipped Alexandria 5-3 while Jackson and Arkansas traded victories, with Jackson taking the opener 3-5 and Arkansas retaliating 5-0 in the other half of a twin bill.

A three-run homer by Ron Mitchell in the first inning and a solo homer by Ken Melvin in the fourth helped the Shreveport Captains surge to a 6-0 lead El Paso before the Diablos roared back with a six-run spurge in the fourth. Two tallies in the seventh put the Captains back on the way to winning.

Reggie Walton went three-for-four at the plate for Lafayette as the Drillers hit hard and often, with Tommy Smith contributing a two-run homer in the second inning and Scotty Wolfe a solo roundtripper in the eighth. The Alexandria Aces rallied for a pair of runs in the sixth before Lafayette pitcher Terry Connitt relieved starter and winner Dave Fuqua to put out the fire.

Newcomer Randy Tripp collected three hits in three at-bats and scored the winning run on a solo homer in the sixth frame as the Jackson Mets bested visiting Arkansas in their first game. Pitcher Steve Waterbury tossed a three-hitter for the Travelers in the nightcap and struck out six Jackson batters while Arkansas was collecting 12 hits in the nightcap.

Seeded Players Post Wins In NCAA Tennis Tournament

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — With one exception all the 16 seeded players swept through the first round of singles in the NCAA tennis tournament Monday. Two of 16 doubles seeded fell victims to upsets.

Second and third round singles and second round doubles matches were on tap today. The tournament runs through Saturday.

The lone singles form reversal came in 2-4, 7-6, 6-3 defeat by red-bearded Tim McNeil of San Jose State of Victor Amaya of Michigan, who was seeded No. 9.

Others advanced handily with tenth-seeded Ross Walker of Houston the only one forced to three sets in beating Steve Whitehead of Brigham Young 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

Top-rated UCLA freshman Billy Martin and the remaining top four seeds drew first round byes. They are No. 3 Hank Pfister of San Jose State, No. 4 Brian Teacher of UCLA and No. 4 Jim Delaney of Stanford.

fifth, defeated Ricky Meyer of Pennsylvania 6-2, 6-3.

In the doubles, Todd Landry and Hugh Hyde of Harvard ousted 18th-seeded Bill Brock and Tom Nixon of North Carolina 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, and 18th-seeded Hans Gildemeister and Mike Wayman of Southern California bowed to Bill Clarke and Tim Headrick of Kansas 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

"I was still struggling until the second set but I started getting in the good serves when they counted," McNeil said after his match. "After I won the tiebreaker in that set I've played (5-0) I was fairly confident."

A gusty southeast wind drew complaints from most of the players.

"Whoever plays well in the wind will win," said New Mexico Coach Tom Pucci.

Favored UCLA and Stanford teams swept all their first round matches.

Japan To Bar U.S. Nuclear Arms

Agence France-Press
TOKYO — Japan will not allow the United States to bring in nuclear weapons even in emergencies, Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa told the Diet (Parliament) here Monday night.

He made the affirmation after an exhaustive debate on all aspects of the relationship between the U.S. - Japan security treaty and Japan's non-nuclearization principles — not to produce, hold or permit introduction of nuclear weapons.

Asked what would happen to the principles if the U.S. nuclear umbrella was withdrawn, and whether the treaty was their foundation, Miyazawa said the answer of Prime Minister Takeo Miki was that, so long as the Liberal Democratic Party governed, the principles would stand and scrapping of the treaty was inconceivable.

The principles were a "national policy rooted in national sentiment and related to the terrain and geographical position of Japan," the minister affirmed. "It is inconceivable that tactical nuclear weapons should be brought into the country. Even if nuclear weapons are simply to pass through the country, that would be subject to the (treaty's) prior consultation clause but, even in emergencies, the principles must be observed," Miyazawa said. "This is because such terms as emergencies and saving of human lives are liable to be abused."

Asked to explain to China, France and India Japan's position on nuclear weapons, in view of proliferation currently in evidence, Miyazawa said every opportunity must be taken to invite France and China to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

To opposition demands that Japan call a world summit conference for nuclear disarmament, recommend a special United Nations General Assembly on the question, and sponsor establishment of a non-nuclearization area in Asia, the minister replied the suggestions were valuable for creating an environment favorable to non-proliferation.

Observers said it was clear the government was anxious to persuade the opposition parties to ratify the non-proliferation treaty signed by Japan in 1970.

State Minister Michita Sakata, director of the Defense Agency, told a Diet committee that Japan's para-military forces could operate jointly with the U.S. 7th Fleet equipped with tactical nuclear weapons provided the operations took place outside Japanese territorial waters.

A Communist charge that such operations would violate the non-nuclearization principles was denied by the agency's defense bureau chief Ko Muruyama, on the grounds that Japan depended on the U.S. nuclear umbrella for its defense.

Maruyama said U.S. and Japanese forces would be acting under their own commanders and there would be no possibility of a mixed unit under a single commander. This would not constitute bringing in nuclear weapons.

Miyazawa elaborated on his Diet speech to tell the committee that even if a U.S. warship or warplane carrying nuclear weapons sought emergency refuge Japan would not allow it to enter Japanese territory.

Authorities Say Lowered Drinking Age In Wisconsin Hasn't Upped Road Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Lowering the legal drinking age in Wisconsin did not increase the traffic fatality rate among youthful drivers, state health authorities report.

In fact, alcohol was found to be involved less frequently among young drivers than older ones in fatal crashes, they say in the June issue of the Journal of Safety Research, published by the National Safety Council.

The authors, Ellen M. Naor, a research analyst, and Dr. Raymond D. Nashold, director of Wisconsin's Bureau of Health Statistics, compared driver fatalities from 1968 through 1973.

The legal drinking age for all alcoholic beverages in the state was lowered in March 1973 from 21 to 18. Previously, 18-year-olds had been permitted to drink beer.

Since 1968, the state has required blood tests of all victims of traffic fatalities who were drivers of vehicles or pedestrians.

The authors said young drivers are more frequent victims of fatal crashes than drivers of any other age group. Lowering the drinking age in some states has brought fears that accident rates for the young would rise even further.

But youths drink regardless of legality, so lowering the age might be expected to have little effect, the authors said.

In the six-year study, 60 per cent of all tested driver fatalities in the 18-20 age group, including motorcycle fatalities, had evidence of alcohol intoxication. The proportion remained substantially unchanged from year to year, Miss Naor and Nashold found.

"In fact, the frequency of alcohol involvement among 18- to 20-year-old drivers and motorcycleists in 1973, the first full year under the lowered legal drinking age, was exceeded in two earlier years (1969 and 1970) when the drinking age was 21," they said.

The 1973 rate was 62.7 per cent, compared with 64.2 per cent in 1969 and 66.1 per cent in 1970.

The researchers said further that the proportion of fatalities with alcohol involvement was generally higher for age groups 21 to 24 and 25 to 44 than for the 18- to 20-year-olds.

The lowest frequency was among drivers 45 and older, followed closely by 18- and 17-year-olds.

Discrimination Class Suit Filed

BEAUMONT (AP) — A class action suit has been filed in U.S. district court here against Texaco Inc., alleging discrimination against blacks in hiring and promotion practices.

Michael J. Young claims in the suit he was discharged last year from his job at Texaco's Port Arthur refinery because he is black. Young also charges Texaco does not "hire blacks in supervisory positions, but instead limits them in lower paying, less desirable jobs."

Don Chase, manager of the refinery for the past two months, said of black promotional considerations, "They have the same opportunities as everyone else."

Young asks a permanent injunction against Texaco to halt alleged discriminatory practices and that he and other blacks who have been fired be reinstated with back wages. The suit also seeks a declaratory judgment about whether the discrimination exists.

Communist Gains Increase Pressure To Include Party In Italy Government

ROME (AP) — Strong Communist gains in nationwide local elections increased pressure today for inclusion of the party in the national government for the first time since 1947 and caused a sharp drop in stock prices.

Panicky selling reduced prices an average of 7 per cent at the opening of the Milan stock market. Italy's largest such big industrials as Fiat, Pirelli, Montedison and Sna Viscoxa fell 10 per cent.

Industrial circles foresaw for 15 of the nation's 20 regional legislatures, advisory councils in 86 of the 94 provinces slowdown in investment and a sharp increase in the illegal export of capital.

The Communists ran fewer than 600,000 votes behind the Christian Democrats in the voting Sunday and Monday and their former allies, the Socialists, also made gains. "Italians showed they know that the Communist party is the real bastion of freedom," the jubilant party secretary, Enrico Berlinguer, declared as cheering young supporters packed the street in front of the party headquarters in downtown Rome.

"The Communist party is indispensable for the salvation and rebirth of the nation," Berlinguer asserted. The elections Monday were the first since the 1963-64 elections.

The Communist party is indispensable for the salvation and rebirth of the nation," Berlinguer asserted. The elections Monday were the first since the 1963-64 elections.

For the time being, however, the Communists did not call for the resignation of Christian Democratic Premier Aldo Moro and his minority cabinet. Informed sources said they planned to move with caution and moderation and would concentrate on solidifying their new power in the local governments.

Although Berlinguer has abandoned open criticism of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its bases in Italy, the election result was also certain to send shock waves through the White House and the State Department. Washington's concern over the growing Communist strength in both Italy and Portugal has been apparent, and President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger visited Rome two weeks ago in an attempt to strengthen NATO's ties with Italy. The Communists accused them of trying to aid the Christian Democrats in the election.

Returns from 59,392 of the 80,714 election districts gave the Communists 9,916,650 votes, or 33.5 per cent of the total, compared with 27.9 per cent in the last regional elections five years ago.

The Vatican-backed Christian Democrats, Italy's dominant political party since World War II, polled 10,412,695 votes, or 35.3 per cent, down 3.2 percentage points from 1970.

The Communists replaced the Christian Democrats as the No. 1 party in Rome, and also ran first in Milan, the hub of industrial northern Italy, and Turin, the nation's automobile capital. They maintained their dominance in Bologna and Florence and added Genoa and the Ligurian region to Umbria, Tuscany and Emilia, the "Red Belt" in central Italy.

The acute economic crisis was the chief campaign issue. With the inflation rate still running around 30 per cent, a high level of unemployment and the government deep in debt, the Communists charged that Christian Democratic ineptitude has brought Italy to the verge of collapse after the boom years of the 1960s and 1960s.

Internationally, the Communist party divorced itself from the authoritarian leanings of the Portuguese Communist party, claiming that the Italian way of communism was to gain power through the ballot box and work within the parliamentary system.

Marcos' Wife Given Award

TOKYO (AP) — Winner of the 1974 Kajima Peace Award is Imelda Marcos, wife of the president of the Philippines. Mrs. Marcos was cited Monday for her "humanitarian work and contributions to world peace."

She is the first woman to win the award since Keoru Hatoyama, wife of former Japanese Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama, was honored in 1968.

The award, originated in 1967, is sponsored by the Kajima Institute of International Peace and is given to persons who have "made significant contributions to world peace."

Blood Shortage In Houston Puts Off Some Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — A blood shortage has caused elective surgery to be postponed at Ben Taub Hospital.

Officials of the public hospital said Monday the institution has suffered a blood shortage for at least 10 days.

Despite nearly 100 donors at the hospital over the weekend, administrators reported a below-normal supply to meet even emergency needs.

Some 30 elective operations were delayed last week at the hospital because of insufficient blood and eight were postponed early Monday. However, officials said seven elective procedures eventually were done during the day Monday as blood became available.

Percy Says 'Faceless Bureaucrats' Hamper American Diplomacy In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Sen. Charles H. Percy says "faceless bureaucrats" authorized to sign Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's name to "the most nit-picking instructions" are hampering American diplomacy in the United Nations.

The Illinois Republican said that while a delegate to the U.N. General Assembly last fall, he was "amazed to find a pile of cables, all signed 'Kissinger,' — as you know, a name that strikes fear in all — conferring the voice of authority behind the most nit-picking instructions that Henry A. Kissinger could not have had a thing to do with."

The senator said he asked himself: "Who are these faceless bureaucrats that put Henry A. Kissinger's name on these nit-picking instructions?"

There was no immediate comment from the State Department.

Percy, speaking Monday night to the U.S. Association for the United Nations, said the U.S. government should strengthen its role in the United Nations by assigning its most talented diplomats there, and they should be "liberated from the minute and sometimes pettifogging instructions from the State Department."

The rest of the world "thinks enough of the U.N. to send its finest representatives there," and the United States should do the same, both as its own delegates and as U.N. staff members, Percy said.

He said the United States should also try to increase its influence in the General Assembly by becoming more rather than less involved.

"We... have a major world role to play, and all nations know this and fully expect us to play it," he said.

The senator urged the Arab countries "in their own interest" to oppose a proposal under discussion in the 75-nation group of nonaligned nations to suspend Israel from the next General Assembly.

"The sheer hostility of the action would make it virtually impossible for an Israeli government to make those adjustments of policy" that the Arabs are demanding in return for peace, he said.

Portuguese Paper Issue Remains Unresolved

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese military today reversed its decision to hand over the Socialist newspaper Republica to Communist printers who forced the daily to close four weeks ago.

The issue, which sparked a hot dispute among the two left parties and the provisional government, was sent back to the army's Revolutionary Council, the supreme political authority in Portugal.

Members of the workers' committee, visibly disappointed, said the paper would not be reopened before Wednesday or Thursday.

The military was to have reopened the Republica on Monday under its Socialist management, but gave the key to the building to the Communist printers instead when the editors said they would not resume publication unless the government agreed to conditions that would prevent a new shutdown.

Earlier today, a Socialist party spokesman reported that there had been further negotiations between the paper's Socialist officials and COPCON, the military security force charged with reopening the paper.

A COPCON statement issued at the same time accused the Republica officials of "disrespect for the right to work and nonobservance of the decisions of the Revolutionary Council." It said this was harmful to "the advance of the revolutionary process."

Republica is the last major Lisbon newspaper not under Communist control. The government closed the paper after the printers seized it and only agreed to return it to the Socialists after the party threatened to pull out of the provisional government.

On Monday, when Maj. Dias

Perreira of COPCON arrived to reopen the building, chief editor Raul Rego and administrator Gustavo Sacramento handed him a list of conditions which they said must be met to prevent another attempt by the Communists to take over.

They demanded that the owners be given the right to name shop foremen, that printers opposed to the paper's editorial content be allowed to move to other jobs and that they be allowed to fire the business manager, who supported the printers.

"The Revolutionary Council doesn't accept conditions from anyone," said Perreira, and gave the Socialists until 7 p.m. to accept the paper unconditionally. When they did not comply, he unlocked the back door and gave the key to a member of the printers' committee. But he also said he would consult with the ruling Revolutionary Council.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the council's political committee would bypass the civilian politicians announced that reports of a party were completely un-

House Investigation Of U.S. Intelligence Activities In Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House investigation of U.S. intelligence activities is back in limbo, and congressional leaders are deciding whether to scrap or revise the panel set up to conduct the probe.

A resolution introduced by Rep. E. F. Sisk, D-Calif., to abolish the House Select Intelligence Committee was before the Rules Committee, but Sisk said he could go along with restructuring the committee instead.

Sisk said he believed the House should act immediately one way or another to end the "confusion and uncertainty" embroiling the investigation.

The select committee went back into limbo after the House overwhelmingly rejected, 200-64, the resignation of Chairman Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., despite Nedzi's warning that the split between him and five Democrats on the panel would make the investigation a charade.

Asked later if he thought the committee is too torn to conduct a responsible investigation, Nedzi said, "I'm afraid that it is."

He said he would rule out no alternatives before meeting with House leaders but said he believed the House would have to make basic revisions in the committee.

"It's a tossup whether the committee will be reconstituted or eliminated," Nedzi said.

Meanwhile, there were these related developments:

—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said there is no evidence to support news reports that the CIA was involved in a plot to kill the late French president Charles de Gaulle.

A source familiar with the committee's evidence said the records show a 1964 contact between the CIA and a group plotting De Gaulle's death. But the source insisted the records also show the would-be assassins were rebuffed immediately.

—Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the assassination of a foreign leader was "never, ever discussed at Cabinet level" during the administrations of Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

—Millionaire industrialist Cyrus Eaton said the CIA asked him at one point to spy on the Russians during his frequent trips to the Soviet Union. Eaton said he rejected the proposal.

In the House squabble, the five Democrats launched a drive to oust Nedzi earlier this month after disclosures that the CIA had briefed Nedzi more than a year ago on CIA misdeeds and political assassination plots but that Nedzi failed to take action.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., told the House he and the other four Democrats believed the disclosure would damage the credibility of the committee's investigation.

has served as interim president. Sims said the committee plans to invite several of the final candidates to the campus to meet with faculty, staff, students and interested citizens following completion of the second phase of screening.

Search For President At UTPB Nearing End

ODESSA — The Presidential Search Advisory Committee at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin is beginning its last phase in screening potential presidents for the Odessa university.

Dr. J. Taylor Sims, advisory committee chairman, has reported the committee completed its screening of more than 200 applicants and nominees, thereby narrowing the prospective presidents to some 20 candidates.

The second phase, to be completed by July 15, will involve a detailed analysis of the qualifications of each remaining candidate. Sims said the list should be further narrowed to five or 10 for recommendation to UT System Chancellor Charles LeMaire's selection committee.

The Odessa university has been without a permanent president since the Dec. 21 resignation of Dr. B. H. Amstead. Since that time, Dr. V. R. Cardozer has served as interim president. Sims said the committee plans to invite several of the final candidates to the campus to meet with faculty, staff, students and interested citizens following completion of the second phase of screening.

Rural Fire Calls Reduced By Rain
Rain can be credited with halving the number of fires in Midland County during the month of May, Fire Chief James M. Little said.

"This year we were pretty fortunate to have rain," he said. "We didn't necessarily have a wet winter, we just had a lot of deep moisture."

In a report released Friday by city officials, the fire department reported handling nine fires in the county. This was down from 19 fires handled by the fire department in May 1974. So far this year, 44 rural fires have been handled by city firemen, down from 110 during the same five-month period last year, the report showed.

Little attributed most of the reduction to a drop in the number of grass fires.

"If we catch a real dry year, we won't have a piece of equipment in the house on the night of July 4," Little said.

The report also showed the number of man-hours firemen spent at fires in the city increased from 155 in May, 1974, to 227 last month.

Little attributed this rise to several major house fires last month at which firemen spent several hours.

Most of the time was spent not in putting out the fire, he said, but in "salvage and overhaul" after the blaze was extinguished.

Salvage and overhaul, he said, was a collective term for mopping up after the fire, getting the smoke out of the building and trying to restore as many of the furnishings as possible.

Colorado Lions Plan Tournament For Blind Skiers

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The Lions Club of Colorado will sponsor a Lions International Blind Skiing Tournament next February, Phil Sterker, Bassett, Colo., has announced.

The tournament is open to blind skiers everywhere and Sterker encouraged Lions Clubs to sponsor skiers for the event.

Sterker was executive director for a cross-country ski race held at Frisco, Colo., last February in which 56 blind skiers competed in the "Race for Light."

Sterker, past international director and candidate for election this month as third vice president of Lions International, expressed the hope that the tournament next year would draw hundreds of skiers to the Colorado slopes.

Cahoon Urges Angelo's Election

Frank Cahoon, city councilman and former state representative, said today it is "vitaly important" that the State Republican Executive Committee elect Mayor Ernest Angelo as its state party chairman.

Cahoon said Angelo "could unify the Texas Republican party at a time when harmony within the party is absolutely necessary."

He said the party should elect a person who can lead in the election of officials at the courthouse, the State Capitol and in Washington.

Cuba Decides To Return $2 Million In Ransom To Southern Airways

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba has decided to return to Southern Airways $2 million in ransom money, removing one of six obstacles in the State Department's list of Cuban-American problems.

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro made known his intentions in a letter to Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who visited the island last month. McGovern released the letter Monday.

The Southern Airways DC9 was hijacked in November 1972 and forced to fly to Havana, where the passengers and crew were released in return for $2 million in ransom. The Castro government took the money from the hijackers.

Castro's decision to release the money after 2 1/2 years caught the State Department by surprise. Officials did not say whether it would prompt a reciprocal gesture by the United States.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, without commenting specifically on the release of the $2 million, credited Castro with taking "some limited steps" toward reconciliation with the United States.

"We do not consider an animosity toward Cuba is an essential aspect of our foreign policy," Kissinger said Monday in response to a question at a meeting of American public broadcasters.

Castro told McGovern he found arguments for the release of the funds to be reasonable. The senator received the letter last Friday, two days after William D. Rogers, the assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs, mentioned the ransom money as one of six areas of concern to the United States in its relations with Cuba.

Midland Scouts Planning Trip To Philmont

Members of Boy Scout Troop 152, Buffalo Trail Council, are planning an adventure trip to the mountains of Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base in northeastern New Mexico.

Ten Midland scouts, under the leadership of Bill Slatery and Ken Osborn, will leave Midland Thursday and return July 3. The trip will include visits to Taos, Santa Fe and Santa Fe National Forest.

On the Philmont trails the Scouts will participate in various programs offered in the mountain camps including earth science, gold panning, rock climbing, archaeological study and digging, burro packing and horseback riding.

Hance Links School Finance To Tax Reform

LAMESA — Sixty persons representing several Texas communities gathered here Monday for State Sen. Ken Hance's seminar on school finance.

Among those present for the session were A. H. Hooser, lobbyist for the Texas State Teachers Association, and Tim Lewis, representing the Texas Education Agency.

Hance told persons attending the seminar the major work of school finance reform was tax reform, legislation left undone by this year's legislature.

He expressed hope the tax reform will be done in the next legislative session. Hance said he hopes, in the interim, Texas does not follow the pattern of Alabama which saw a federal court tend to the matter after its state legislature failed three times to reform school tax laws.

State Realtors Pick 2 Midlanders

Joanne Langston and Patsy Bohannon, both of Midland, were appointed directors of the Texas Association of Realtors at the recent TAR convention in El Paso.

Mrs. Langston began her term in January, 1975 and Mrs. Bohannon's term begins in January, 1976.

Frank Nix of Waco was elected 1975 president of TAR and Reese Henry of San Antonio was chosen first vice president.

Other officers for 1976 are George Sandlin of Austin, secretary; Wallace Moritz of San Angelo, treasurer; and Jimmy Parlin Jr. of Abilene, Region IV vice president.

Joe Perrone of Austin was named the 1975 Texas Realtor of the Year.

While in high school, Miss Day was named to the National Honor Society, Who's Who and received a National Merit letter of commendation. Her participation in orchestra and band earned her several University Interscholastic League super ratings.

She plans to major in music at the university.

Storms With Rain, Wind, Hail Rake Central Plains

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms raked the central Plains with wind, rain and hail today and brought flash-flood warnings to portions of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Nearly 3 inches of rain soaked Springfield, Mo., in 90 minutes Monday night. More than 4.5 inches swamped Miller, in East Central Kansas, and almost as much fell at Osage City, Kan. Emporia measured 3.4 inches.

Downpours flooded streets in St. Louis and suburban St. Charles, Mo. Power and telephone outages plagued residents of both the St. Louis and Kansas City metropolitan areas during the night.

Tornadoes churned out of the thunderstorms in seven states from North Dakota to Oklahoma. Seven spun into Missouri. Twisters caused minor damage in several towns in Missouri and Kansas, but there were no reports on injuries.

Outside the storm belt, an 8-year-old boy was killed and five other children were injured in New York's Central Park when lightning struck a tree sheltering them from a Monday afternoon thunderstorm.

High winds and hail were common with the midcontinent storms. Gusts up to 85 miles per hour shook Chadron, Neb. Marble-size hail covered the ground at Valentine, Neb., as wind whipped up to 60 m.p.h.

Fog and drizzle dampened the northern half of the Eastern Seaboard. Cloudy skies also were the rule over much of the Far West and from the central Plains to the Great Lakes.

Temperatures remained in the 90s in desert sections of the Southwest during the night.

Readings before dawn ranged from 93 at Needles, Calif., to 36 at Laramie, Wyo.

Some other reports: Anchorage 51 partly cloudy, Atlanta 60 clear, Boston 65 drizzle, Buffalo 60 mostly clear, Chicago 72 cloudy, Cincinnati 67 clear, Cleveland 63 mostly clear, Dallas 51 partly cloudy, Denver 48 partly cloudy, Detroit 64 partly cloudy.

Prices good thru June 23, 1975. We reserve the right to limit quantities. None sold to dealers.
