Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., No. 1-A Elsinore, project in the GMW (Montoya) field of West Pecos County, has been completed as a Fusselman gas well.

Operator will file for discovery allowable and new field designation.

The strike finished for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 10.1 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 12,283 to 12,419 feet.

The pay section had been acidized with 57,000 gallons.

Wellsite is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 22, block D, GC&SF survey.

Site is 17 miles south of Fort Stockton.

Terrell Stepout Rates Gas Flow

Mobil Oil Corp. No. 2 George K. Mitchell has developed commercial gas production on tests in the Wolfcamp in Terrell County, 29 miles north of Dryden.

One-half mile northwest of the lone producer in the KM (Wolfcamp) field, No. 2 Mitchell flowed gas at the rate of 2,777,000 cubic feet per day, plus 12 barrels of load water and 74 barrels of condensate on a 96-hour test through a 44-64-inch choke and perforations from 9,696 to 9,280 feet.

The pay had been acidized with 5,000 gallons. Testing continues.

Location is 1,321 feet from south and 1,723 feet from east lines of section 11, block 1, CCSD&RNG survey.

Estoril Completes Confirmation Well

Estoril Producing Corp. No. 1 June T. Lynch has been completed as a confirmation well recently opened by the Midland operator in East Pecos County, 10 miles northwest of Iran.

The well finished for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 80,000 cubic feet of gas per day. During four-point tests, the well made 191 barrels of water and 21 barrels of oil during one four-hour period.

Site is one location southeast of the discovery, No. 1 Shell-Mann, 660 feet from east and 8,900 feet from south lines of section 26, block 12, H&GN survey.

Superior Reports Show In Devonian

The Superior Oil Co. was making hole below 10,000 feet in the Devonian after finding a show of oil on a drillstem test in No. 1-N University, wildcat six miles northeast of Crane in Northeast Crane County.

A Devonian drillstem test, from 10,441 to 10,745 feet, open 2 hours and 15 minutes, surfaced gas in 12 minutes at the rate of 80,000 cubic feet per day.

Reversed out were 2,140 feet (Continued On Page 8A)

Prisoner Shoots Way Out Of Paris Court

PARIS (AP) - A prisoner being tried in a Paris criminal court today shot and wounded two guards and took the presiding judge and a prosecutor hostage as he escaped.

The two court officials were found a short time later tied to the steering wheel of the getaway car, police said. They were unharmed.

Witnesses said that a woman pretending to be a lawyer had entered the courtroom with a grenade which she threatened to explode and handed a pistol to the prisoner.

A witness later said the woman was the wife of the prisoner, identified as Jean-Charles Willoquet who was being tried for an armed holdup.

Giselle Bauwens-Mille, an attorney, was just getting into her car behind the Palace of Justice when she said she saw a man waving a pistol.

"He was a big man," she said. "When he came by my car he said 'You, get out of the way.' Behind him I saw President Cozette and another court official. Behind them was the wife of Willoquet, still dressed in fake attorney's robe and holding the grenade in her hand. All four got into a small car that had been badly parked and drove off immediately."

Witnesses said that the woman came into the courtroom brandishing the grenade while Willoquet was being questioned by the court president. Willoquet hopped over the rail in the prisoner's box after he had been handed the pistol and bounded to the bench where the court president was sitting.

The court president, identified as M. Cozette, called on people in the court room to be calm.

As Willoquet took his two hostages he put handcuffs on Cozette.

The command of the guards at the Palace of Justice tried to intercede as Willoquet and the hostages left the building. The officer was shot and apparently gravely wounded. A guard lieutenant also was shot but seemed to have suffered only superficial facial wounds.

Hunt Pushed For Colonel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Lebanese security forces are continuing their search for Col. Ernest R. Morgan despite his kidnapers' demand that the hunt be called off.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said today the government is continuing talks with the Lebanese Moslem revolutionaries who took Morgan prisoner nine days ago and vowed to kill him unless the United States met ransom demands by 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Morgan, 43, is from Petersburg, Va.

In a letter to Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley, the kidnapers demanded that authorities stop looking for the U.S. Army colonel and that the embassy supply free food, clothing and building materials to the Moslem slum dwellers in the Slaughterhouse district of Beirut.

Godley called on Lebanese Foreign Minister Philippe Takla today and Foreign Ministry sources said the talks deal with the abduction.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Robert Anderson refused to say whether the U.S. government would pay the ransom, but he added: "Our policy is very well known." That policy has always been not to comply with such demands.

Anderson stressed that the Lebanese government was dealing with the situation. Premier Rashid Karami promised that there would be no letup in the search for Morgan. Police interrogated several persons who had been kidnaped by gunmen during the street fighting in Beirut. They told police they saw Morgan at a building somewhere in the country, but they said they could not locate it because they had been blindfolded.

Morgan was taken from a taxi at a traffic circle near the airport on June 28, at the height of the fighting between Palestinian and Lebanese leftist Moslems and militiamen of the right-wing Christian Phalange party. The colonel is stationed in Turkey, and was stopping for the night in Beirut on his way back from a meeting in Pakistan.

A terrorist group calling itself the Socialist Revolutionary Action Organization said it abducted Morgan.

West Texas Chambers Urged To Find Jobs For Texans

By GEORGE MASSEY
Texas First, the governor's program to find 15,000 jobs for Texans and pump more than $1 billion into the sagging economy, was explained to West Texas civic and business leaders here Monday.

Jim Harwell, Texas Industrial Commission head, said "Texas will be the first to recover from and lead the nation out of this recession with an effort to get its citizens to work now."

The recession is expected to come to an end within two years. "But we don't want to wait that long to get unemployed Texans back to work. We want to go around the normal path and get these people to working now, during the recession when it counts," he said.

On hand for the Monday review session were Midland chamber officials along with representatives from 15 West Texas cities.

Harry Clark, head of the economic development division at The First National Bank here, told the gathering that "30 percent" of all growth in job market possibilities comes from "existing industry." That's four out of five job positions, Clark said.

The job finding program is primarily aimed at the industrial and manufacturing sectors of the state's job market, but Harwell noted that any expanding or new business operation is asked to participate in the job finding and filling plan.

So far, the Texas First job identification plan has received a 30 per cent response from 1,000 major manufacturing firms across the state. The firms have offered jobs which need to be filled and have offered insights to the industrial job market problem in Texas, Harwell said.

"This program is not a duplication of service," Harwell said. "As soon as the governor's Texas First program identifies a new or expanding job market we turn it back to the employment commission for action. We're just trying to give the commission some help in getting people to work," he said.

"It's the same old piece of cake that we had last year. All we have done is to add some fancy icing and put candles around the edge. It's a promotional deal to get the state employment commission enough advertisement to be effective," Harwell explained.

"Already this year, the program has identified more than double its original amount of job positions. The program was first planned to list 4,000 job openings.

"At Houston, two plants revealed machinist positions available to the tune of 400 jobs," Harwell said.

"But there weren't any employees to fill the positions. We need statewide promotion to tell persons looking for these type of positions where the jobs are," he said.

"We believed all along, and it's now proven, that there were (See TEXAS FIRST Page 6A)

SLOW MOTION MOWER—Reporter-Telegram photographer Charles McCain has better things to do on his day off than mow the grass, he says, so he found this small snail munching away on his yard and decided to let the creature have the job. The snail, McCain said, was progressing at its own pace.

Bullock To Raid Businesses For Unpaid State Sales Tax

AUSTIN (AP) - Comptroller Bob Bullock said today he plans to raid about half a dozen businesses in the Dallas-Fort Worth area this week to seize their inventories for failure to pay state sales taxes.

"These are all either old, aggravated or big cases involving delinquent taxes," a Bullock spokesman said. "There are about half a dozen in the direct Dallas-Fort Worth area. The amounts involved range from around $5,000 to $9,000."

Bullock and his office would not give further details on the time and place of the raids. The total involved could not be estimated "because we are still looking at several more firms and they might be included," the spokesman said today.

Bullock has previously sent his agents into liquor stores in San Antonio and drug stores in Conroe to seize inventories for nonpayment of the state sales tax.

Bullock has estimated there are 70,000 such delinquent accounts in Texas, ranging from nonpayment of the state sales tax collected from customers but not refunded to the state.

Oglesby Says He Will Follow State Law On Confidentiality Of Welfare Clients

By ED TODD

If it's the law, said Midland County Atty. Jimmie Oglesby, then he feels obliged to follow it. Thus did Oglesby explain his signing of an oath that he would "respect the confidentiality" of client information in files kept by the Texas Department of Public Welfare (DPW).

Some other county and district attorneys, however, have declined to sign the pledge of not to divulge information about people on welfare and their families.

But, as Oglesby explained, information gleaned from case files may be and is being used in the prosecution of welfare recipients suspected of using fraud to get on and/or stay on the welfare rolls.

"I intend to follow whatever laws the Texas Legislature may pass," Oglesby said.

Both the state and federal statutes have provisions providing for "safeguards of the confidentiality" of DPW clients.

And this is nothing new in the books. For instance, police and court records on juveniles are held in confidence, but may be perused by those other than the curious if a judge is convinced the need to know is justified, Oglesby said.

The oath-signing issued cropped up Monday after The Associated Press reported that Anderson County Atty. Bill Green of Palestine said he refused to sign the oath. Green, The AP reported, said he was told the welfare department could lose its federal funding if county and state attorneys do not sign the so-called secrecy oath. He speculated the oath may be in violation of the Texas Open Records Act.

A copy of the oath and explanation to Oglesby came in a letter dated April 4 from Henry Behling of El Paso, DPW regional attorney, (Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn is out of town un- (See OGLESBY Page 6A)

Skid Row Hotel Fire Kills Eight

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Eight men died here Monday night when flames raced through an 80-cent-a-night skid row hotel. Fire officials called the blaze arson.

Twenty-five other men and one woman were injured, eight of them critically, authorities said. The injured included three firemen with noncritical injuries.

None of the dead or injured was identified.

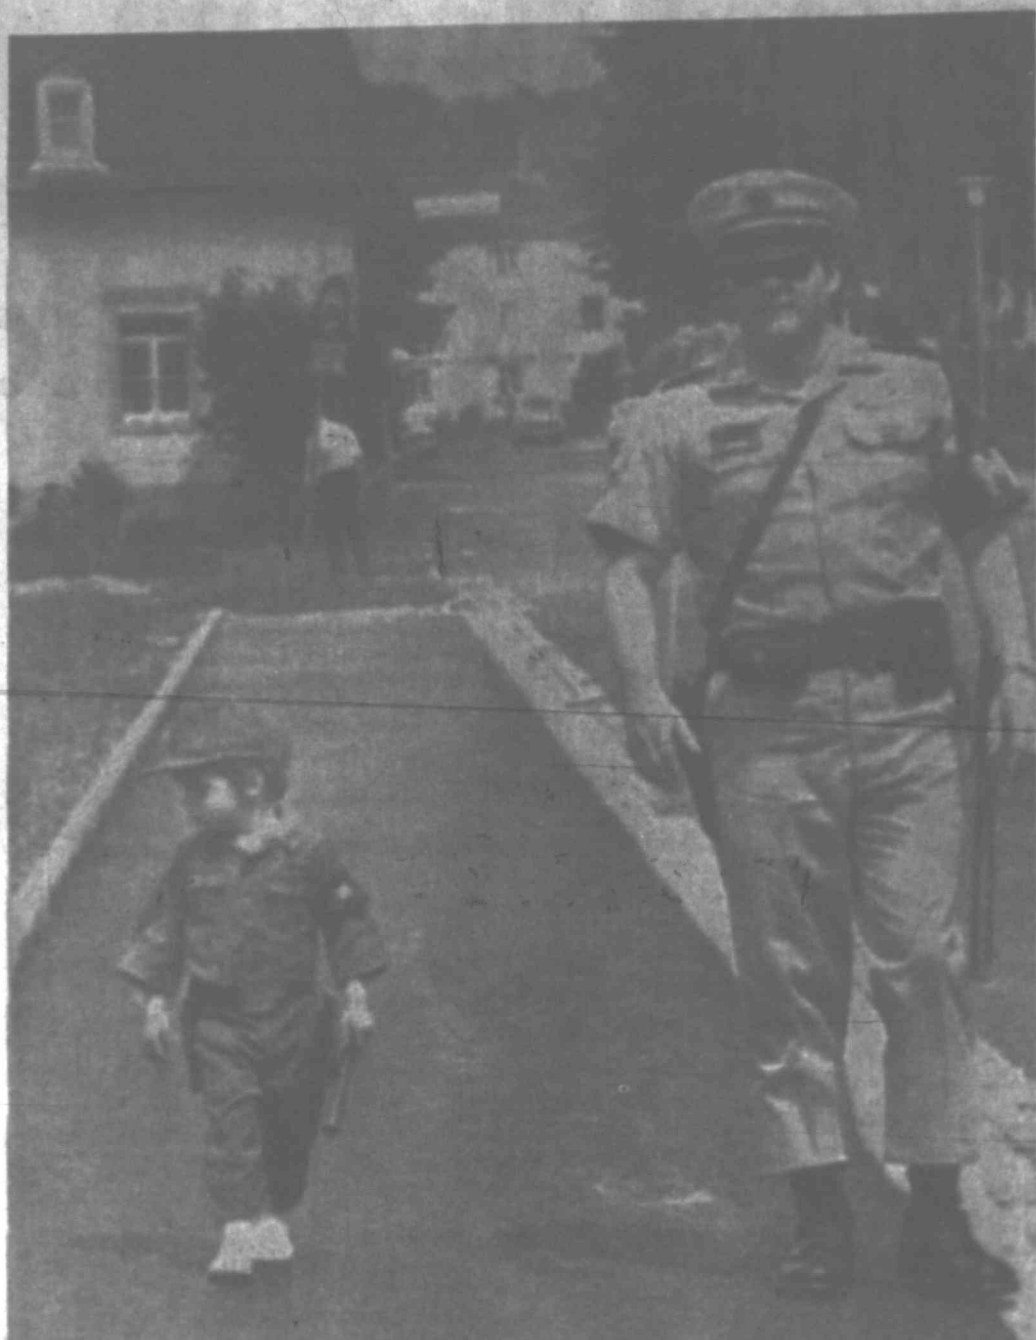

Residents of the building said most of the hotel's 100 rooms were occupied at the time of the blaze.

Fire officials said there was no doubt that the blaze which severely damaged the three-story brick building was "incendiary in origin." They would not elaborate.

Firemen said when they arrived at the Pomona Hotel the windows were crowded with trapped men screaming for help.

The building, located just off of Burnside Street near the west end of the Burnside Bridge, is in the core of what used to be one of the toughest, largest skid rows on the West Coast. The area now includes only a few run down hotels, several bars and the remains of a once-bustling Chinatown.

The inside of the hotel was charred and blistered by the heat, which Lt. Les Pratt of the Portland Fire Bureau said may have reached 1,000 degrees on the upper floor.

Sugar Prices Going Up

By G. G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

Two leading sugar companies are increasing wholesale prices today and, in the suspiciously confirmed department, General Motors Corp. has given new indications of a rise in 1976 car prices.

The indication Monday from GM that 1976 car prices will go up 6 per cent, or about $300 a car, was not official. But, in an official note in the suspiciously confirmed category, the National Bureau of Economic Research said it's ready to announce a recession has been going on.

Meanwhile, two reports indicated an end to the recession, though they disagreed about how strong recovery would be, and the stock market took an other drop amid fears of interest rates rising.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 10.71 at 861.06 Monday, with analysts laying the drop to a continuing rise in short-term interest rates and expectations that the Federal Reserve may push a policy of tighter credit to avoid a renewal of inflation.

The two-cent per pound hike in wholesale grocery sugar prices announced by Amstar Corp. and Sucrest Corp. reverses an eight-month decline in the wholesale price of sugar.

The increase, blamed on higher costs for raw sugar, puts Amstar's wholesale price at 26.1 cents per pound and Sucrest's at 25.9 cents per pound. It will be up to grocers whether they pass along the hike to consumers.

The indication of higher 1976 auto prices came in GM's confirmation that it privately notified dealers last month of a maximum hike of 6 per cent to fleet buyers. This was seen as a sign of price hikes planned for all GM vehicles — including those sold to individuals.

A National Bureau of Economic Research spokesman said, meanwhile, that the bureau's upcoming quarterly publication will announce that the nation has been going through a recession.

The private, nonprofit organization — which has been accepted by the government as the official word on when recessions and booms occur — will say the current recession began in November 1973 as the oil producing countries began their oil embargo.

"Certainly the country knew we were in a recession without our having to say so," the spokesman said. "But we don't come off with these announcements haphazardly. And an earlier announcement might have been psychologically damaging and hindered a recovery."

Signs of a recovery were noted by the National Association of Purchasing Agents Inc., and the University of Michigan's quarterly consumer survey.

Flood Crests Reported

By The Associated Press

Flood crests were reported today on rivers in North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana, as parts of Arkansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma were recovering from flash floods.

Four tornadoes were sighted Monday, but the only damage was reported at Ashdown in southwestern Arkansas.

In North Dakota, major flooding continued on the Red River, which crested at Fargo Monday more than 16 feet over flood stage.

Meanwhile, tributaries of the river in northwestern Minnesota were nearing crests up to 15 feet over bankfull.

The National Weather Service reported up to two inches of rainfall in already-sodden areas of the two states Monday, but said the brief bursts of rain did not add significantly to flood problems. When sustained storms rolled through the area about a week ago, they brought up to a foot or more of moisture.

The service said the major problem now is backwater from the Red River. One forecaster said the river, normally 29 yards wide, was three miles across north of Fargo.

Sensors Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., flew over the valley in a National Guard helicopter Monday and said it was the worst flooding they had ever seen. Mondale estimated damage at $1 billion, and both urged quick action to declare the region a disaster area. At Billings, Mont., meanwhile, the upper Yellowstone River was expected to remain above flood state until Wednesday.

The flash flooding in Arkansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma was from locally heavy rains.

Summer-like weather prevailed generally in much of the rest of the nation, as a stationary front followed the southern New England coast across the New Jersey coast and into Virginia. A cold front curved from Ontario across northwestern Minnesota and northern Wyoming to British Columbia. There were low pressure areas over Kentucky, Colorado and Nevada, with a high in Alberta.

In the central Plains, heavy thunderstorms hit Oklahoma, Arkansas and Colorado. Large hail and strong winds were reported at Fort Morgan, Colo.

Thunderstorms accompanied by some hail also hit the Gulf Coast states, and other electrical storms were forecast for scattered areas of the southern Atlantic coast and the southern Appalachians.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 99 at Needles, Calif. to 55 at Phillipsburg, Pa.

Oklahoma Bans Hogs From Texas

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma Department of Agriculture Monday banned hog shipments into Oklahoma from nine Texas counties to prevent the spread of hog cholera.

The department said hog cholera was positively diagnosed July 4 at Hereford, Tex. The ban on shipments into Oklahoma will remain until epidemiologists can trace the disease to its herd of origin.

The ban applies to the following Texas counties: Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Knox, Foard and Hardeman.

Three Counties Ask Disaster Status

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Gerald Ford was asked Monday by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to declare Hardin, Harris and Orange counties as major disaster areas because of damages from severe flooding June 9-10.

Briscoe said estimates of damages in the three counties were as high as $6,996,000.

Witness In Murders Declared Dead

HOUSTON (AP) — State Dist. Judge Arthur Lesher has ruled that Charles F. Rogers, sought 10 years as a material witness in the mutilation murders of his parents, is legally dead.

Rogers disappeared in 1965 after his elderly parents' bodies were found in the refrigerator of their home here.

Lesher acted on a suit filed by Henry M. Martin, Roger's cousin. Martin asked that Rogers, who was 44 at the time of his disappearance, be declared legally dead to protect Rogers' property for his heirs.

Martin said in the suit that 10 acres in Southeast Houston owned by Rogers is in danger of being condemned by the city and also is being claimed by an outside party now living on the land.

Martin, 49, said he has not heard from Rogers since the slayings. Martin's attorney said he contacted 37 of Rogers' relatives and asked them to contact him if they heard from Rogers but there have been no responses.

Police discovered the bodies of Rogers' parents after receiving a call from a concerned relative.

Flax Used

The use of flax dates back to ancient times when the Phoenicians used linen cloth for the sails on their boats and carried the cloth to many parts of the world.

Photographs Rarely Reveal Actual Camping Calamities

The unfortunate fact of the matter is that an actual camping trip rarely resembles those photographs of rustic togetherness which feature Dad, Mom, and a brace of children sitting around a camp fire toasting wienies as the setting sun turns the sky into a symphony of color.

Of course, no one would ever go camping if they showed someone beside a fire taking a sitz bath in a two-quart saucepan. Or a candid shot of a garter snake crawling up Mom's pant leg while she is busy picking gnats out of the butter.

Anyway, you can't light a fire when it's pouring rain. On the one day it doesn't rain, the children, having announced that they have already seen a sunset once, insist on eating in the tent and reading comic books.

Jelly side down

By NANCY STAHL
A tiny little leaky bedroom with three other people, one who twitches, one who snores, and a five-year-old who had six cans of pop before retiring. Not to mention four pairs of wet tennis shoes and a dog who has spent the better part of the day rolling in dead fish.

Next to a giant economy size can of Raid, a camper's most valuable asset is a short memory. By the time he has silently folded up his tent and eased his scratched, mosquito-bitten body gingerly into the car to go home, he will have completely forgotten the agony of stubbing his big toe on a tent stake at 3 a.m. while taking a five-year-old to the comfort station, and will begin babbling rapturously about how lovely the pine trees looked in the moonlight.

HINTS FROM Heloise
Don't Throw In The Towel Before You Try It!

Dear Heloise: I have a suggestion that is so simple, but I had not thought of it until recently. Maybe others have had the same problem while sewing.
When working with "slippery" material, it always slips off the machine.
I found a bath towel pinned or clipped around the opened lid helps hold the material in place and I don't have to constantly fight the slippery stuff.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise: During my busy daytimes, I get so involved cooking for my dear family that I sometimes forget to watch my favorite soap operas.
So! To remedy this problem, I picked up an old TV antenna at a rummage sale.
I set it on top of my stove, where it serves as a constant reminder to me that cooking is not the only thing in life!
Jeraldine
Dear Heloise: Lots of pioneer women used this idea (from my late mother's files).

When making cookies, crumble up your old cookies that the family is tired of, those that are too hard or too brown, and when making new cookies put the crumbs back into the butter, before adding the flour.
Today, I had some cookies on hand that were too thin and, when making a new batch, I added them to the batter, first rolling them into crumbs.
I then added enough flour until the batter was the right consistency.
The cookies taste terrific and it really saves on flour.
Sneakie
Dear Heloise: Here is the way I transport pies or cakes without messing up the top or icing.
Cut off the end of a cotton swab and place it in the center of the pie or cake.
The cotton tip is up and won't puncture your plastic wrap while keeping the wrap from ruining your creation.
Mrs. McKinney
Dear Heloise: I found a way to keep my cool.
I put all the things I keep in the glove compartment of my car in a plastic bag and closed the bag with a twist tie.
Nothing falls out! Hooray!

Dear Abby

By Abigail van Buren
DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I started a penpal relationship with a man in prison, and we exchanged pictures. He said he "fell in love with my picture," but after we corresponded a while, he realized he really loved me! I fell in love with him, too, crazy as it may seem.
Well, he was released four months ago, and we haven't seen each other yet because I have been putting it off. We live 1,600 miles apart and he offered to send me plane fare, but I've been making excuses such as "I've been sick."
The truth is that I've gained so much weight since that picture I sent him was taken, I am ashamed for him to see me.
He has a job now and said he would come to see me, but his parole officer says he has to wait a while. So, for now I am safe.
I am 23, and he is 28. I am afraid that if I put him off any longer, I will lose him. Can you help me?
FAT AND ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: First, tell him the truth. (He may not mind.) Then, see a doctor and get on a diet you can live with. If there's an Overeaters Anonymous chapter in your area, join it. If Overeaters Anonymous can't help you, nobody can. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: About the wife who complained because her husband showed her no affection after lovemaking: She remarked, "If a man would just take his lady love in his arms and hold her, and maybe give her a little kiss on the nose afterward, it would mean so much."
In response, you wrote that you wondered how many women suffered in silence from such a seemingly minor oversight.
My question is: "Whose oversight is it?" If a lady wants a hug or kiss on the nose, why can't she give HIM one in the hope that he'll respond in kind? Why assume that it's the man's responsibility to know what's going on in the woman's mind? By what mysterious talent are men supposed to know this?
If a woman is so stupid that she just suffers in silence, it's no wonder that she doesn't get the kind of attention she wants!
I would say, "Do unto others..."
A MAN

DEAR MAN: My reply was intended to tip off the man who rolls over and starts snoring three minutes after the big love scene. It's hard to kiss a man on the nose when he turns his back to you.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Egyptian Planners Work For Change In Attitude Toward Birth Control

By HODA SERAG of DIN CAIRO (AP) — Aniza Bilal was 29 with five children, ages 11 years to 6 months, when her husband decided he'd had enough of her and them and divorced her. She now works as a washing woman and regrets not having listened to radio announcements on the use of contraceptives.
Fears of divorce through childlessness, the belief that a good Moslem's prestige is measured by the number of wives and children he has, memories of high child mortality, the argument by al Azhar religious sheikhs that the birth of a child is the "act of God" are factors that encourage women in Egypt to have large families.
A farmer does not have to worry about feeding his seven children. A child of 5 in any Egyptian village can earn his or her keep. For the father more hands at work means more produce for sale and, maybe, a new cow.

Despite four wars in which thousands were killed, Egypt has been trying for over a decade now to curb a population that has jumped from about 19 million to 37 million in almost a generation.
A new plan followed warnings that the traditional birth control campaign had been ineffective over the past few years and that, if left unattended, the accelerating growth rate could bring the country's development to a standstill.
The 10-year plan aims at reducing the birth rate from about 34 to 25 per 1,000 by 1982. If successful it would give Egypt a population of 41 million instead of the 58 million projected by demographers.

cent in other urban areas and 2 per cent in the villages, said the population council's chairman Aziz Bindari.
Women's employment, however, was not the only reason for the decline in fertility. A 20-year-old complex known as the First Workers' City Village provided homes, schools, nurseries, clubs and medical centers to about 700 families connected with the town's textile company.
A company worker gets a full meal for three people (6 U.S. cents). A bottle of local cola costs two piasters. His wife can work without having to worry about leaving a baby with a neighbor. And there's someone who can tell her what to do when she's pregnant or if her husband is ill.
They don't need more children to increase their income or make up for lost children.
This is why mechanization of farming, education and continued industrialization are among the major factors which family planners hope will help them achieve their target.

Boosting the rate of female workers from 8 to 20 per cent and reducing infant mortality through better health service and information campaigns are also components of the new plan.
Researchers are now studying how these development components affect fertility in different communities so the information can be applied to the country's next five-year plan.

Democratic Freshmen See Change

By RICHARD LYONS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The House Democratic freshmen who came here to change the system and are impatient with the slow pace of progress have made a change in their class leadership that promises a lively future.

Elected as their caucus chairman for the next six months was Norman Y. Mineta, 43, former mayor of San Jose, Calif., who is full of ideas for welding the 75 freshmen and all House Democrats into a force for change and for enacting Democratic legislation.

He succeeds Rep. Carroll Hubbard, D-Ky., an establishment moderate. Hubbard had been chosen as the first six months' chairman in part at least because — in those heady days of reform and before — the fiercely individualistic group didn't want a take-charge guy who would try to tell them what to do. Mineta is a self-described activist but not a "screamer" like some of the young revolutionaries in the class.

Mineta attended a gripe session of new members with Speaker Carl Albert recently after a series of veto defeats and afterward, as Albert told reporters he found the freshmen's suggestions generally acceptable. Mineta, standing in the background, murmured to the person next to him that it is amazing how much can be accomplished if "you stick them with a hot poker."

Albert and Mineta first met more than 20 years ago when Mineta's sister was a baby sitter for the Alberts here. He called Mineta "a man of extraordinary principle, compassion and decency who has the ability to lead forcefully in a very positive, constructive way."

Mineta promptly issued a list of suggestions for the freshmen and all House Democrats to improve their effectiveness. They include:

— Biweekly meetings of freshmen officers and the leadership to exchange ideas.

— Development of party policy on major issues in the party caucus so all members can offer ideas before legislative committees write bills.

— Sending "truth squads" around the country to counter White House charges of a do-nothing Congress.

— Meetings with issue experts, political leaders and media figures, both to receive information and to make sure "opinion leaders know where we stand."

— A freshmen newsletter so all can know what each is doing.

— Monitor committees to check progress on legislation and to ensure compliance with party rules for democratic procedures.

Mineta said in an interview that he had "adopted this kind of activist posture because most of the new members were elected on a platform which included a pledge not to allow things to go on as usual, to reassert Congress as a coequal branch of government."

The new members had "raised expectations" after helping break the grip of the seniority system in January, said Mineta. "Then the system swallowed us up. The committee system means that bills come to the House floor with little input except by the committee that drafts them. We need input from all at the start. It would help keep the party together on legislation when it reaches the floor, even if... ideas weren't accepted."

"Knowledge is power. So far, we new members don't have the knowledge of how to make things happen." Many of the new members had not held elective office before being swept in to Congress in the post-Watergate elections.

Mineta's idea for truth squads going about the country — used by Republicans in presidential campaigns — came from his experience with the U.S. Conference of Mayors. "We got general revenue sharing through Congress by going to the bond-docks and telling people what it would mean," he said. "We're getting beat over the head at home now about a 'do-nothing' Congress. We're not getting our message across."

Air Fares Experiment Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An experimental program proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board would let the nation's airlines raise or lower their fares and start or suspend their service on certain routes without first getting board approval.

The proposal announced by the board Monday came as an apparent move to head off increasing pressure from the Ford administration and Congress for reform of the CAB's regulation of the airlines.

Neither the White House nor the Department of Transportation was consulted or informed of the board's plans in advance, said Howard Cohen, special counsel to the CAB chairman.

Critics of the CAB have claimed that the board's regulations have discouraged more efficient airlines from entering markets and have helped air fares to climb.

They have suggested that airlines be given more freedom to start or stop their service in cities — thus bringing more competition to certain routes — and to raise or lower their prices to meet the changing travel market.

The legislation the Ford administration is preparing reportedly would accomplish both of these goals on a nationwide scale.

Cohen said the CAB had not decided whether the airlines should be given total freedom to raise or lower their fares or whether they should be allowed to do so within certain limits.

He also said no decision had been made as to whether the experiment should be conducted only with scheduled airlines or whether charter airlines also should be allowed to participate if they wish.

The CAB, in asking the airlines and public for comment on the proposal, said it did not know if such an experiment would produce any savings to consumers or whether it would result in less service or higher prices.

If the board goes through with the proposal experiment, it plans to have the program working by the first of next year, Cohen said.

Truckers' Group President Sees Strike July 27

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — The president of a truckers organization says thousands of truck drivers across the nation will go on strike July 27 unless "the federal government does something to ease our burdens."

"Every time we try to talk to the government they shy away from this thing like a rattlesnake," said Millard Holden, president of the 1,700-member Independent Produce Haulers Association.

"I've been in touch with truckers all over the nation in the past few weeks. And I'll bet my last nickel they're going out," Holden said.

Holden said the truckers' burden includes:

- a $210 annual highway trust fund tax;
 - lowered speed limits;
 - various unnecessary state permits;
 - low highway load limits.
- President Ford asked Congress on Monday to give back to the states 25 per cent of federal gasoline tax revenues, splitting for the first time the highway trust fund.
- "The fund was set up in 1960 especially for highways and that's it. Now they're going to take part of our $210 for something else," Holden said.

Dismissed Teacher Is Suing District

AMARILLO (AP) — A Hereford junior high school English teacher who was dismissed for "passing out unauthorized literature in class," has filed suit in U.S. District Court here against the Hereford Independent School District.

Wayne Woodward, 30, who claims the dismissal violated his rights to free speech and due process, is asking the court for $400,000 in damages if his contract is not renewed. If the judge orders the school district to rehire him, he asks for $80,000 in damages in addition to reinstatement.

Woodward has taught at La Plata Junior High School for the past six years.

Jobs out there, but no concerted effort was in effect to match the people with the work," he said. Now, lists of all available jobs are on display in windows of Texas Employment Commission offices across the state, and TEC will work with employers to find the best personnel or candidates for training programs to suit them to the jobs. Training is available through the already successful Texas Start-Up Training program which involves the Industrial Commission, Texas Education Agency and local training institutions. Harwell said the program is currently generating four dollars for every one invested. Local prime sponsors of manpower programs are also called on to provide more training. The Industrial Commission, Harwell said, is contacting those who have responded to provide individualized assistance. This working with the Texas Department of Community Affairs to provide technical assistance. The community affairs department will also coordinate with local governments and other resources to plan physical facilities capable of supporting increased economic activities that would lead to more job positions. Regional and local chambers of commerce accepted the responsibility of coordinating Texas First in their respective areas at their annual convention in June. They will enlist cooperation and pledges from local industries and businesses. As workers are hired, companies will be formally recognized for their contributions to Texas as industrial and economic growth.

Settlers Reunion Slated At Stanton

The Martin County Old Settlers, with the Stanton Chamber of Commerce, are planning a reunion Saturday beginning with a parade in downtown Stanton at 10:30 a.m. and culminating with a barbecue at City Park at 6:30 p.m. with a program following the meal. Activities planned for the day feature a dress-up contest in which guests can dress up in old fashioned costumes with the winners receiving prizes at the barbecue. Large crowds are expected for the events that will also be highlighted by sidewalk sales before and after the parade and refreshment stands scattered about for the guests.

Convicted Killer Manson Blames Nixon For Woes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Convicted murderer Charles Manson has been writing letters to still-loyal followers blaming his fate, and the world's, on former President Richard M. Nixon. "He wrote to us and said he was mad at Nixon and we should explain why," said Manson follower Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme in a telephone interview from her home in Sacramento, Calif. SLA Suspect Said In Texas At Time Patty Kidnaped

HOUSTON (AP) — Thero Lavo Wheeler probably was in Houston last year when the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) kidnaped heiress Patty Hearst, the FBI says. Wheeler, 36, believed to be a member of the SLA, was arrested here last Thursday by FBI agents after Wheeler was injured in a shooting incident at his apartment. Wheeler was using the name Bradley S. Bruce at the time of his arrest. Robert R. Franck, special agent in charge of the FBI here, said Monday Wheeler has been in Houston about one and one-half years. Franck says there seems to be no reason to suspect he was not here during the February 1974 kidnaping of Miss Hearst. U.S. Magistrate Ronald J. Blask has set a hearing next Monday for Wheeler and asked federal officials to show why Wheeler should return to California, where he escaped from prison in 1972.

Argentine Leader Offers Wage Concessions

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has agreed to scrap her 50 per cent ceiling on wage increases to appease the striking labor wing of the Peronist movement. But she continues to reject the union leaders' demand for the ouster of her closest adviser, Jose Lopez Rega, informed sources reported today. The sources said Mrs. Peron offered to replace some of her eight cabinet ministers. It was believed that she and Lopez Rega were prepared to sacrifice Economy Minister Celestino Rodrigo. He is the administrator of the government austerity plan which has resulted in a month of strikes, other protests and intensified political pressure on the president to get rid of Lopez Rega. Leaders of the General Labor Confederation (CGT) who paralyzed Argentina Monday with a two-day general strike scheduled a meeting today to consider Mrs. Peron's offer. A communique indicated they would accept it. This would paper over the split between Juan D. Peron's widow and the labor federation that is the traditional backbone of the Peronist movement. But as long as the conservative Lopez Rega continues to be Mrs. Peron's closest adviser and the virtual prime minister of her regime, a permanent reconciliation is not likely. The simmering crisis between the CGT and Mrs. Peron's conservative regime came to a boil when she announced a week ago that she would not approve wage increases ranging up to 130 per cent which the unions had negotiated to counter inflation, now exceeding 110 per cent a year. She said no increases above 50 per cent would be ratified. The CGT ordered its 3.5 million members out at midnight Sunday for 48 hours in support of its demand for approval of all negotiated wage increases. It also demanded the ouster of Lopez Rega, who is social welfare minister and Mrs. Peron's private secretary, and Rodrigo. The two men and the other six members of the cabinet submitted their resignations

Sunday night. But when Mrs. Peron gave no indication whether she would accept them, the labor leaders went ahead with the walkout. The strike brought the country of 24 million people to a standstill. Industry, commerce, public transport, government offices, entertainment and the media all were shut down. The only violence reported was three bomb explosions, one of which seriously injured a highway patrolman checking for arms and explosives.

til mid-week and was unavailable for comment. The letter noted the bona fide use of welfare case files by prosecutors handling cases dealing with fraud in the public assistance programs. Prosecutors, the letter said, "will be given total access to (welfare) client's records and files" throughout the judicial process. "Both federal and state laws and regulations," Behling's letter stated, "require that the disclosure of information concerning (welfare aid) applicants and recipients be restricted and safeguarded."

Bullock Sees Surplus

AUSTIN (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock estimated today that the state will have a $27-million balance left at the end of the two-year business period in 1977. "That $27 million just happens to equal the total of spending items vetoed by the governor and is 1,000 times more than the small change left on the table when the legislature got through passing its spending plans," Bullock said in a statement.

Thundershowers Start Dissipating Over Texas

A few showers dotted extreme Northeast Texas near Texarkana today but skies were mostly fair elsewhere over the state. Temperatures at sunrise edged toward 80 degrees in many areas. Thundershowers ranged across northern and extreme western Texas and the Panhandle Monday afternoon and evening but most of the rains dissipated before midnight.

Only a few temperatures in the 60s were cooling far North Texas points at 5 a.m. today. Delhart reported 63 degrees, Amarillo 66 and Lubbock 69. Galveston's 82 degrees was among the state's early highs. But even some Northeast and North Central Texas points were in the 80s at dawn. Dallas-Fort Worth reported 81 and Tyler 82. Monday's maximums varied from 102 at Wichita Falls to 84 at Marfa, which had nearly half an inch of rain. Other hot spots were Cotulla at 99 and Childress and Mineral Wells at 98, the Associated Press reported.

Alcoholism Said No. 1 Problem For Teen-Agers

DENVER (AP) — Alcoholism is the "No. 1 drug problem among teen-agers today," and parents who are relieved that their children use booze instead of dope are only fooling themselves, a California psychiatrist says. Dr. William Rader of St. Mary's Hospital in Long Beach said recently that alcoholism among the young will continue as long as "positive drink images" are made by peers, parents and the media. Rader, an expert on alcoholism in teen-agers and women, made his remarks at a press conference in conjunction with the 40th Alcoholics Anonymous convention. "Parents feel comfortable that their kids aren't taking dope," Rader said. "They know drinking is legal and they may have alcohol in their own homes. "But the dangers of it are terrific. We're seeing 12-year-olds in AA. Just think about what that means."

does lead to death. Alcoholism is a terminal disease. It affects every organ in the body, and has the psychological and social effects, as well. "It can be hidden. But if a person continues to drink in excessive amounts, he will die. There's no way around it, unless it's stopped." Rader said the dangers are critical for teen-agers because the effects of alcoholism set in much more rapidly than they do in adults. "A teen-ager can become an alcoholic in 10 months, while it might take 10 years for an adult," he said. This is because adolescence is a particularly stressful period, he said. As a result, increasing amounts of alcohol are needed to diminish the effects of that stress. Most teen-agers learn how to cope with those stresses, Rader said, "but for others, alcohol becomes a magic drug that takes all those stresses away. In the long run, though, it doesn't work as well, plus it will kill."

Texas Highway Leader Blasts Ford Trust Fund Cut Proposal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Ford's proposal to cut the federal highway trust fund would result in higher state gasoline taxes and reduce needed construction, the director of the Texas Highways and Public Transportation Department said Monday. "We in Texas are for the continuation of the federal highway trust fund in its present form," said B. L. DeBerry.

DeBerry said Ford's proposal to move part of the federal gasoline tax revenue into the general fund "would represent the breaking of the trust fund while putting the burden of raising additional revenue for highways on the states."

Ford's proposal would reduce the federal gasoline tax from four cents to three cents in states that raise their own tax by a penny a gallon. Texas' tax now is five cents. DeBerry said the President's program "would serve to further reduce the highway program in the states, already pared by inflation."

Navy Psychologist Denies Assassin Training Report

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. Navy psychologist says a report that he told the London Sunday Times the Navy trains assassins to be stationed in U.S. embassies "is totally and blatantly false and absurd." Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Narut, a psychologist at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Naples, Italy, was summoned to London on Monday to discuss the report with Adm. Thomas Engen, the chief of staff for the Navy in Europe. "I stand by every word," said Peter Watson, the author of the story in last Sunday's paper. Watson is a psychologist who is writing a book on military psychology. His story said Narut told him the Navy runs two training centers, one at the Naples hospital and one in San Diego, Calif., where assassins are taught to

Pro-Gandhi Demonstrators Stage Anti-American Sit-In

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — About 200 demonstrators carrying flags of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress party cried "Shame on the CIA" as they staged a sit-down protest today in front of the U.S. Information Service building in downtown New Delhi. The brief rally was the first anti-American outburst since Mrs. Gandhi imposed emergency rule on India on June 26. One emergency decree bars public slogan-shouting or gatherings of more than four people. But police made no attempt to interfere with the anti-American demonstration. Leaders of the protest said they were from the Nehru Briern outskirts of the city. They roused the students and checked their identification papers. About 50 students were taken to a police station for interrogation. P. S. Bhinder, the deputy inspector general of police, said 15 of them were jailed, and the rest were released. On Monday, Mrs. Gandhi called in leading officials of the country's chief industries and businesses for a 90-minute outline of her plans to utilize her emergency powers to energize the lagging economy and increase production. The prime minister's spokesman said the men pledged to cooperate with her after she threatened to punish those who restrict production.

San Angelo State Gets Exxon Grant

SAN ANGELO — Angelo State University has been named as a recipient of a $6,423 grant from the Exxon Education Foundation that will be used to develop a system for individualizing instruction in large lecture classes.

Called a "TIPS" grant, short for Teaching Information Processing System, the project at Angelo State will be under the direction of Dr. C. Warren Parker, head of the ASU Physics Department. According to Parker, ASU is one of only six institutions in the nation receiving one of the grants.

"And, we feel very fortunate to have been selected," he remarked.

Essentially, the system calls for a procedure whereby instruction in larger lecture classes, usually thought of as those with 50 or more students, can be individualized.

The process calls for administering diagnostic tests on the students enrolled in one of the larger lecture courses. To be used only for diagnostic purposes and not for grading students, the tests will pinpoint difficulties students are having with a particular course.

The information garnered from the diagnostic test will be fed into a computer along with other background information about the students and a regular report will be issued to each student pointing out problem areas and prescribing various remedies for those problems.

Once the program is developed, Parker explained, we will also be able to employ the system in helping students with varied educational backgrounds as well as those with different educational objectives.

Harry Bish — The way he remembers it.

'String Of Tools' Painted From Memory

By JAN WILLIAMS
Harry Bish paints it the way he sees it and the way he sees it is different than most others have seen it.

His painting of a cable tool rig, or as Bish calls it, "a string of tools," is a watercolor of a rig near Hobbs, N.M., which he painted from memory.

"I wanted to make it as realistic as possible," Bish said.

"Most all of the paintings of early rigs depict them as old and rusty, but actually they weren't that way at all."

Bish's painting depicts the authenticity of an oil rig, complete with boiler, engine house, cranes, boilers, sand rail and drill bit.

The derrick and engine house in Bish's painting resemble yellow pine lumber with a blue sky in the background and steam rising from the boiler.

Lack Of Practice Disturbs Player

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Gary Player, defending his title, will begin the British Open golf championship over the tough Carnoustie course Wednesday with less than two complete rounds of practice.

"It's the smallest preparation I have ever had for the British Open," the little South African said.

"It's not the wisest way to do it. In fact it's quite foolish."

Player, 38, arrived from Switzerland a mere 48 hours before the start of the big tournament.

By contrast, Jack Nicklaus, rated top favorite with the bookies, has been practicing on the 7,065-yard, par-72 links since last Friday.

Jack Red Hot
On Saturday Nicklaus shot a seven-under-par 65 and a five-under-par 67 in a long hard-working day—and said he had made his good scores too early.

Player won the British Open the last time it was staged at Carnoustie in 1968. He had previously won the title at Muirfield in 1959, and he won again at Lytham St. Annes last year.

"For major tournaments I think you should have four days on the site," Player said.

Calculated Risk
"What I am doing is taking a calculated risk. I had only 17 holes practice before the U.S. Open, and I didn't do very well in that."

"But practice on the tournament course is not the most important thing. It's how you're playing that counts. The main thing is to hit the ball straight and putt well."

"Sometimes I have played a strange course without any practice at all, and gone out and set a course record."

Player said Carnoustie is one of the toughest courses he has ever played. But other golfers who have been practicing here longer said they found it less rigorous than in the past—and still less difficult in the present dry conditions.

Two Holes Shortened
The 6th and 18th holes have been shortened.

Arnold Palmer, a veteran campaigner on this famed course, said: "They have virtually eliminated the bunkers for big drivers on those two holes. The tees have been brought forward, and you can clear the bunkers."

"I have never seen Carnoustie play quite as short as it is right now," Palmer said.

Nicklaus, British Open champion in 1966 and 1970, had an aggregate of 264, 24-under-par, after four practice rounds. The bookies made him a 4-1 favorite for the title.

Tom Weiskopf, who won the title in 1973, holed out at the 174-yard eighth hole with a five-iron during Monday's practice. He finished with a five-under-par 67.

True, Loyal Blue Fans Swarm Atlanta

The center field TV shot during Sunday's game with Houston, caused a "Look at that crowd," comment.

Someone else noted Atlanta must have the most loyal fans in baseball. "Look, everybody showed up wearing blue. It's just a solid wave of blue."

Of course, when the camera moved in for a close up, the blue turned out to be the color of the seats.

Franchise shifts and expansion in baseball have been a welcome blessing in many areas. However, in Atlanta's case, when the Braves moved from Milwaukee, it should have been back to Boston, not to Atlanta.

About the only thing Atlantans support is ice hockey. The Flames play to sell outs.

Of course, we're kinda of a baseball traditionalist. While the Milwaukee move was marvelous for a while, we never thought they should have moved from Boston in the first place.

Boston always has been a good baseball town. Give the fans something to cheer or boo about and they turn out in droves.

The excuse given for the Braves move to Milwaukee in 1953 was that Boston was just an American League town. Everybody went ape over the Red Sox.

Maybe it's just that the Braves owners were lazy.

From 1946 through 1950, the Braves averaged more than a million fans a season.

That's five seasons. Then the next two years, the team took a tailspin from the pennant contending Spahn-Sain years and the panic set in.

The Braves were given the okay to shift from Boston to Milwaukee just before the start of the 1953 season and the move proved to be a bonanza. The club produced two pennants in the mid-1950s before the club again headed downhill and the owners began to look longingly at Atlanta as the ultimate paradise.

There was a flurry of interest for a while, but Atlanta has never proven itself as a baseball town. Isolated 700 miles from the nearest competition, it still doesn't draw.

If there is a logical successor to the St. Louis Browns in baseball, it has to be the Braves. For years they've been a drab, unexciting club... with apologies to Hank Aaron. It leaves the same problem that prompted the original shift from Boston, nothing worth cheering, or booing, for that matter.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — All-Stars, who have won three straight mid-season classics.

Mike Marshall, last year's Cy Young Award winner, and two other Dodgers have been named to the nine-man National League All-Star pitching staff to face eight American League hurlers in the July 15 All-Star Game.

Los Angeles Manager Walter Alton on Monday announced his choice of Marshall, honored last year for his consistent relief pitching efforts, along with Dodger starting pitchers Andy Messersmith and Don Sutton, lefty Randy Jones of San Diego, southpaw Jerry Reuss of Pittsburgh and Phil Niekro of Atlanta.

The four National League southpaws and five right-handers will face an American League pitching crew including Stadium, Fingers, Hunter and Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers of Oakland, Catfish Hunter of New York, Jim Kaat and Rich Gosage of Chicago, Nolan Ryan of California, Jim Palmer of Baltimore and Steve Busby of Kansas City.

All but two of the National League choices are repeaters on the All-Star squad. The exceptions are southpaws Jones and Reuss. Seaver's selection marks his eighth return to the squad.

Of the American League All-Star choices for the midseason classic at Milwaukee's County Stadium, Fingers, Hunter and Busby are repeaters from last year.

Seaver had the best winning percentage among the NL pitchers with a 12-4 record and an ERA of 1.85. Messersmith was 12-5 with a 2.06 average and Jones showed an 11-8 record and a stingy 1.77 ERA.

Messersmith leads the league in strikeouts with 122, followed by Seaver's 120 and Sutton's 118.

Marshall, who has a 3-3 record with four saves, and McGraw, 5-4 with eight saves, are the only two relief specialists representing the NL.

Reuss' record is 9-6 and Niekro's record is 8-7.

Diablo Homer Beats Cubs

EL PASO — Outfielder Carlos Lopez highlighted a game-winning five-run rally in the eighth inning with a three-run homer that gave El Paso an 8-6 win over the Midland Cubs here Tuesday night.

The win evened the Texas League series at 2-2 going into tonight's windup at Dudley Field.

The Cubs return home for a game Thursday against Lafayette, the East Division leaders.

Bruce Sutter, who has five wins and nine saves, was the victim of Lopez' homer to left after relieving lefty Dave Geisel in the eighth inning.

Butch Alberts singled to left, Sam Ashford struck out and then Dan Beerbower singled to center. That prompted Manager Doc Edwards to summon Sutter from the bullpen. Tom Donohue singled to score Alberts and after an infield force at second, Marty Friedman singled to right to score Beerbower and make it 6-5. Then Lopez ruined the night for Midland and sent 1,024 Diablo fans home happy.

Bill Droegge had two hits and two rbi for Midland and Al Montreuil had two doubles, a single and three rbi as the Cubs staked starter Steve Marmick to an early 4-0 lead.

However, El Paso rallied for three unearned runs, two in the fourth when Ashford struck out for the third out but reached first on an error. Beerbower singled home one run and another came in on an outfield error and wild pick off throw to first.

The Cubs moved in front 6-3 in the eighth when Montreuil doubled to right center and scored on a single by Cesar Gonzalez. Gonzalez took second on the throw to the plate and scored on an error.

Unhappy Brohamer Feels Victim Of Cleveland Indian Hatchet Job

OAKLAND (AP)—Jack Brohamer, who returned to the Cleveland Indians' active roster Saturday, has loosened a blast at the Tribe front office and says he wants to be traded.

Brohamer has played in the Indians' organization since signing a pro contract in 1968, but he says now he's had enough of what he calls the machinations of the Tribe brass.

"I'm not going to lie about things anymore just to go along with the organization," Brohamer said. "It's time for me to think first about me and my family. For 3½ years, I did what I was told. I stayed in line. I've said things that weren't always completely true because that's what the organization wanted me to say."

Brohamer, who had been the Indians' regular second baseman since 1972, suffered a severely bruised left hip May 25, and after complications set in ten days later he was placed on the disabled list.

Duane Kuiper was called up from Oklahoma City to replace him and has done so well he is hanging onto Brohamer's job.

Brohamer said he had to force Tribe General Manager Phil Seghi to "take me off the disabled list."

"I've been ready to play for more than a week, and Seghi knew it," he declared. "But I couldn't say it because it was more convenient for the organization to use me as an insurance policy."

Brohamer said he forced Seghi to act by threatening to file a grievance through the Players Association.

"I don't want to be just an insurance policy for Seghi," he said. "I'm sure there are other teams I can play for if I can't play for this one."

"I'm glad the Indians are doing well. I hope they continue to do well," Brohamer said.

"But I don't feel like a member of the team any more, which is the way Seghi makes me feel."

BEFORE SMALL GATHERING— Ruffian Buried At Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruffian, the fabulous filly whose life was filled with the sounds of cheering and victory, has been laid to rest in the quiet of darkness.

Ruffian was buried at Belmont Park Monday night before a small, subdued gathering that included her trainer, Frank Whiteley, and her last rider, Jacinto Vasquez.

"Frank Whiteley requested that we make it as private as possible and we think that is only right," said New York Racing Association Board Chairman Jack Dreyfus Jr.

"This most certainly is not a happy occasion."

Only A Few Friends
Only a few friends of racing came to watch Ruffian's private burial at Belmont, the site of her final, abortive race. The digging, done by an automatic crane, began at sundown and ended 90 minutes later in the dead of night as Ruffian was lowered into the ground on Belmont's infield.

The burial party dropped a bouquet of roses into the grave, the final resting place for the filly said by many to be the best to ever grace a racing program.

The quiet of Belmont Park Monday night provided a stark contrast to the festive atmosphere only 27 hours earlier, when Ruffian shouldered Vasquez and the hopes of millions of females against the colt Foolish Pleasure.

A nationwide television audience—millions of people—saw Ruffian break down a half mile into the $350,000 match race, a victim of a shattered right ankle, as Foolish Pleasure raced on to a less-tragic finish line. Barely a score saw her buried.

Undergoes Surgery
Ruffian underwent an operation late Sunday night but in the end, this magnificent competitor, who was too much horse, for every filly she ever traced, proved too much horse for herself.

Upon awakening from the anesthesia, she lashed out and smashed her cast, causing severe damage to the injured leg. "The cast had become an entangled mess and there was intensive swelling and hemorrhaging," said Dr. Alex Harthill, part of the veterinarian team that worked feverishly to save Ruffian.

It was then that Ruffian, who was always favored to win on the track, became a longshot to live. "If we were to put her through anesthesia and another operation, it would only be worse the next time," Harthill said.

Decides On Course
Stuart Janney Jr., Ruffian's owner, decided on the course of action. "Don't let her suffer any more," he said.

The broken ankle injured Ruffian but her fierce, competitive spirit killed her. "She didn't accept confinement," said Dr. Harthill. "She fought with vengeance, like a tiger."

Dr. William O. Reed, another veterinarian who joined the fight to save Ruffian, agreed, predicting the outcome of Ruffian's race against death shortly after the surgery was over. "One of her problems was her personality," he said. "She is a big, robust filly who may tend to fight harder because of her desire. For her, that could prove dangerous."

If Ruffian had not been such a splendid race horse, she may have been put to sleep immediately after the injury. But extensive efforts were made to save the 3-year-old filly, victorious in all 10 races before Sunday, because of the hope she could transmit some of her greatness to her offspring.

Others Saved
"Many horses with injuries as serious as Ruffian's have been saved for breeding purposes," said trainer Elliott Burch.

Advances in veterinary medicine have prolonged life for the purpose of producing new life. "It used to be every horse with a broken leg was shot," said Dr. Larry Kramer of the New York State College of Veterinary Medicine. "Now every horse deserves at least a work-up to see if it can be saved."

Two other horses, Hoist the Flag and Spanish Riddle—both males—are alive today following long operations for leg injuries. They are standing at stud.

Ruffian was recently insured for an undisclosed sum, which most horse insurance brokers felt was not near the million-dollar policy taken out on Foolish Pleasure.

No Women Members!

"What we've got is what we want" is the way a National Jaycee spokesman described the situation following the organization's decision to continue its 63-year ban against women members.

The action occurred at the Jaycees' annual convention held recently at Miami Beach, Fla.

And over at Atlanta, Ga., on the day previous, Kiwanis International, at its annual convention, said it isn't ready for women members yet.

The Kiwanians left no doubt as to their feelings in the matter. A proposal to change the by-laws to accept women members was defeated 3,941 to 503.

They also rejected proposals to readmit two clubs whose chapters had been revoked because they had admitted women.

The Jaycee balloting ended a two-year controversy which had waxed rather warm at times. Surprisingly enough, however, there was no extensive lobbying for women's rights prior to the balloting.

Delegates at Miami Beach voted three times in one day against admitting women to the 323,000-member group, which originally was known as the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They rejected a proposal to change the national by-laws to admit women and another recommendation to give individual states the right to decide the matter. Then the Jaycees came back in a roll call vote to defeat a motion to give local chapters the option. The vote was 5,440 to 651.

A few of the Jaycees' 7,300 local chapters already have admitted women members. They now have the option of rescinding the memberships or losing their national affiliation.

"With our emphasis on young leadership in business, we're open to everyone—as long as you're a man," one of the delegates said.

Another official said eventually women may come to be Jaycee members — "but not right now."

"We're not anti-women," a Jaycee national staff member explained. "There are more than 6,000 Jaycee-ettes (women's auxiliary) and 220,000 Jaycee wives."

This should prove something or other to those interested.

Some Lions and Rotary clubs have women's auxiliary units, but no women members.

The whole thing goes back to the fact that the Jaycee organization, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and other service clubs were organized years ago as businessmen's organizations . . . and most of them apparently desire to stay that way. There certainly is nothing wrong with this.

Warning To Reds!

Surely there can be no doubt in the minds of Communist powers in Asia that the United States yet retains active interest in the stability of Southeast Asia.

In fact, they should be aware, following President Ford's Saturday pledge to President Suharto of Indonesia, that the American setbacks in Indochina have served to redouble U.S. interest in Southeast Asia's stability.

Ford pledged a continuing active U.S. role in that part of the world. He also gave forceful assurances that Indonesia and other American allies in that area can count on continued U.S. presence.

This undoubtedly is reassuring to this nation's allies, but it also warns Communist powers in Asia not to attempt a further expansion of their influence.

It is well that such a warning be made clear in order that the ambitious Communists will not have the wrong impression. This could prevent serious trouble in the future.

Indonesia, it is said, has become increasingly important to the U.S. as an oil supply source. American officials believe also that a stable Indonesia is vital to the maintenance of political equilibrium in East Asia.

With this in mind, the President's assurances to Indonesia become all the more significant.

NICK THIMMESCH—

More And More Blacks Elected To Office

WASHINGTON — Though some black congressmen and other spokesmen love to wail, the record of progress for American blacks continues to improve, especially in the political area.

According to the Joint Center for Political Studies (JCPS), the number of black elected officials in the United States has tripled since 1969 and continues to climb sharply. Some 512 blacks were elected to public office in the last year, bringing the national total to 3,503.

This is good progress, but not perfection for blacks. Though blacks account for 11 per cent of U.S. population, they represent less than 1 per cent of all elected officials in the republic.

Is it the liberal North and West which lead the way for blacks to be elected to public office? No, it's that conservative old South which leads the regions in putting blacks in office.

Though the 17 states of the South have 53 per cent of the total black population, they account for 55 per cent of all black elected officials, according to JCPS' most recent survey.

Indeed, for several years now, the South has led all other regions in electing blacks. It must be remembered that until the Voting Rights Act was enacted in 1965 the percentage of Southern blacks voting was small.

Southern blacks respond to their opportunity to vote like any other group of human beings who had been denied that right — they take advantage of it to a far greater degree than those people in complete possession of the valuable privilege.

Consequently, Southern blacks take a far stronger interest in elections, turn out to vote in greater representation.

Louisiana has the greatest proportion of elected black officials in the nation — 5 per cent. Historically during the reign of the Long family, Louisiana blacks were able to exercise their constitutional right to vote more readily than in other Southern states. Today, Louisiana has the second-largest number of black elected officials, 237.

Illinois leads the nation with 246 due to a whopping increase of 94 in the past year alone. Michigan, with 223, is third. Then come North Carolina, 194; Mississippi, 192; Arkansas, 171; Georgia, 168; Alabama, 161; New York, 159; Texas, 150; California, 147, and Ohio, 146.

The effect of all this on the South is to add a dimension to the personal relationships between the races which was always closer than it was in the North — though in segregation days blacks had to "keep their place." Today, even elected politicians like Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace — once renowned segregationists — respond to the new voting power of blacks with realistic practicality.

Comedian Dick Gregory, back in civil rights march days, used to crack: "Down South, they never cared how close we got, as long as we didn't get too big. Up North, they never cared how big we got, as long as we didn't get too close."

Well, a dozen years later, it would be more difficult for Gregory to make that humorous generalization about the South, though he could still make it about the North.

ART BUCHWALD—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The armed forces are prepared to use tactical nuclear weapons if President Ford should call for them, not only to repel aggression but also to respond to "minor incidents."

In public, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger has emphasized that any use of nuclear weapons would be an "agonizing decision," which would be made only in the event of "major, major hostilities."

But competent sources insist that the President has been given the additional "option" of using tactical nukes in a "minor crisis." The new policy is intended to increase his flexibility.

If it had been impossible to recapture the Mayaguez and rescue the crew, for example, the President could have threatened a limited nuclear blow to obtain the ship's release.

This doesn't mean, of course, that the President would ever resort to such a chilling threat. But our sources point out that President Ford is less in awe of nuclear weapons than any man who has occupied the White House since Harry Truman.

Once a nuclear threat is made, the policymakers fully understand that the United States must be prepared to carry it out. The armed forces, for their part, are ready. The Strategic Air Command began briefing missile and bomber wings months ago on the new Nuclear Weapons Employment Policy, or NUWEP as the missilemen call it.

During these briefings, the possible use of nuclear weapons in a "minor crisis" was specifically discussed. It is possible to hit extremely small targets with low-yield weapons. An oil refinery or industrial complex, for example, could be leveled in one swift nuclear strike without doing serious damage to the nearby population.

Here is a hypothetical scenario,

which was presented at the briefings:

A crisis develops. Diplomatic approaches are made to settle it but the peaceful efforts fail. Then the President has the option of brandishing his nuclear weapons.

He could set forth his demands, issue the nuclear ultimatum and set a deadline. If the demands were not met within the time period, he could order a tactical nuclear strike.

The appropriate missile or bomber wing would receive a "LNO package," containing their instructions. This means Limited Nuclear Option.

Once the President gave the green light, the nuclear blow would be delivered. In preparation for this possibility, missile and bomber crews now are practicing dozens of complicated new missions. The training is supposed to be completed by January 1.

Footnote: On June 20, we reported that Schlesinger had advocated the use of nuclear weapons, as an option, to repel an invasion of South Korea. After our story appeared, he was asked about it at a press conference. Would the United States "use nuclear weapons against North Korea if they invade South Korea?" a reporter inquired.

"We cannot foreclose any option," replied Schlesinger.

Five days later, the same question was put point-blank to President Ford. The nuclear option, Ford responded, would be used "in a flexible way in our national interest."

'Jaws' Musn't Spoil Congress' Summer

WASHINGTON — The great white shark swam back and forth in the reflecting pool in front of the Lincoln Memorial. A Democratic congressman was skinny-dipping in the pool with his girlfriend after a hard day's work. Suddenly the shark's eyes spotted the body in the water and attacked. His huge jaws clamped the torso of the congressman who screamed once before disappearing into the depths of the pool as a pinkish red circle of blood rose to the top.

The frightened girl ran to a park policeman. "A shark in the reflecting pool just ate a Democratic congressman."

The park policeman wrote all the information down, and at the end of his shift reported it to his superiors. The next morning his superior turned in a report to the Department of the Interior. Three days later the report landed on the desk of the secretary of the interior who thought he'd better make a report to the White House.

The President learned about it the following morning. He called a meeting of the National Security Council.

"What should we do?" the President asked.

"We ought to close the reflecting pool," someone suggested.

"But this is the height of the tourist season," the President said. "If word gets out about the shark no one will come to Washington."

"Yet if we don't act and another Democratic congressman gets killed by the shark they might accuse us of a coverup," an aide pointed out.

"I think the first thing to do is to find out how the shark got there. Does anyone know if the CIA put a shark in the reflecting pool?" the President said.

The director of the CIA replied, "If they did, it was without my permission. I'll call the shark division to make sure."

The director came back in a few moments. "They say it wasn't them. And they don't think it was Howard Hughes."

"The Soviets wouldn't put a shark in the reflecting pool, would they?" the President asked.

"Not while the SALT talks are going on," the secretary of state said.

"Sir," the aide said, "it's our responsibility to alert Congress that there is a shark in the reflecting pool even if it means closing down Washington."

"Maybe the shark will swim away," the President said hopefully. "To Virginia."

"We're taking a terrible chance. We have to warn Congress that they can't go skinny-dipping in the reflecting pool."

"I don't see why," the President said. "They haven't passed one bill I've asked them to. I don't owe them anything."

"But as President it's your job to alert the country when a shark is in its territorial waters," the aide argued.

"I think we should give it another week or two," the President said. "If the shark eats another congressman I'll close down the pool."

"That will be top late. The Democrats will charge you with being soft on sharks in 1976. You've got to take some kind of action now."

"Oh, all right. Nelson, how about setting up a National Shark Commission to investigate any illegal domestic acts by sharks in the United States? I want a full report in six months, and this time, Nelson, let me announce the results for a change."

"Yes, sir, Mr. President."

"Well, that should take care of the matter," the President said. "And let's keep this quiet. We don't want to spoil Congress' summer."

Judge Recesses Parr Trial

HEBRONVILLE, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo today recessed the office removal trial of suspended Duval County Judge Archer Parr until Wednesday to study a motion for an instructed verdict.

"I am seriously considering this motion. I want briefs on the law before I act," he said. The judge ordered jurors to report back to court at 9 a.m. Wednesday and told lawyers to complete their briefs by 5 p.m. today, then return to the courtroom Wednesday at 8 a.m.

The motion, asking for an instructed verdict against Parr, was filed Monday by Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra after Parr failed to appear in San Diego for a deposition hearing.

Parr, a nephew of the late South Texas political boss George B. Parr, was temporarily suspended from the office he has held for 16 years after Guerra filed a civil suit March 24. The suit, filed in behalf of Duval County grand jury foreman Jose R. Nichols, noted Parr's federal perjury conviction and accused the long-time South Texas politician of acts of official misconduct and conflict of interest.

In his motion, Guerra said Parr had been legally notified of the deposition hearing and failed to appear. The motion asked the judge instructed the jury of nine men and three women to find Parr guilty of "incompetence, gross carelessness and official misconduct."

The instructed verdict would remove Parr from office. Judge Carrillo took the motion under advisement and ordered Guerra and defense lawyer Marvin Foster to submit legal briefs on the matter "as soon as possible."

"Whatever is done, I am going to take my time. I am not going to rush to judgment," Judge Carrillo said "All the court is doing is saying 'show me' and I will act."

The judge also told Guerra to draw up papers for Parr to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to appear for the deposition hearing.

Guerra said Foster give no reasons for Parr's failure to appear for the deposition. He said he needs Parr's testimony to complete his case. "Every day it is getting more difficult to proceed with my case without his testimony," Guerra said.

The deposition hearing was necessary because process servers have been unable to subpoena Parr to testify in person. Most of Monday's session was devoted to legal arguments con-

Some Observers Say U.S. Troubles Over

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — When the economy was a full year into recession, some of the self-acknowledged experts were still debating whether there was a recession at all.

Now that there are definite signs that the recession is hitting bottom, and in some instances even rebounding a bit, some of the same observers are declaring the nation's troubles over.

The tendency is not limited to a few commentators, nor does it seem to be related to a person's station in life, other than for employment and politics. If you are employed you can afford to be optimistic; if your party is in power, you must be.

Headline writers tend to get in the swing of things. So do those who conduct polls and surveys. So do the hucksters who want to spur sales.

Consumer confidence, as measured by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, rebounded "sharply" in May. But note: It still resides at one of the lowest levels in three decades.

The results for May, said the City Manager James Brown, who underwent major surgery at the M. D. Anderson Hospital at Houston last week, is in "good spirits," city officials said today.

Brown talked with members of his administrative staff Monday by telephone from his Houston hospital bed.

Fred Poe, assistant city manager, said last week that doctors at the hospital have indicated Brown's condition is "improving" and that his recovery from surgery has progressed "very well."

Czech Theater Group Visits Here

Pollution in America is not as great or widespread as they had heard, but the country is far more vast than they imagined.

These are among the impressions that a group of Czechoslovakian theater folk will take back to Prague as conclusion of a 21-day whirlwind visit to the United States.

The visitors represent the Theatre on the Verge, founded in Prague in 1969 as a students' theater, and they came to America in mid-June to attend the world congress of the International Amateur Theater Association (IATA) at Oklahoma City and olympiad of amateur theater at Detroit.

The group arrived in the Tall City Sunday evening and will remain here through Wednesday morning, when they depart for Memphis, Tenn., and a swing back to Detroit to enplane for the return home.

In Midland, they are guests of Midland Community Theatre and MCT director Art Cole, who was named president of the IATA at the Oklahoma City meeting on June 21.

The visitors, six men and one woman, range in age from 24 to 30. Heading the group is Zdenek Potuzil, director of the Theatre on the Verge. Actors include Miroslav Jelinek, a physician and faculty member of a Czech medical school. Petr Mateju, a sociologist, and Magda Weigertova, a housewife.

Other members of the touring party are Antonin Cech, the interpreter; Dr. Martin Mateju, a professor of philosophy who handles sound for the Theatre on the Verge, and Antonin Snasek, a lighting and stage technician.

The visitors will present a performance of one of the stage works in the repertoire of the Theatre on the Verge at Theatre Centre at 8 p.m. today. The performance will be free and the public is invited.

The bus, carrying youths to an Arkansas Methodist Church camp, originated in Lubbock, Tex., carrying youths from northwest Texas and parts of New Mexico.

The Highway Patrol said the lumber truck approached another vehicle from the rear, skidded about 185 feet and crossed into the path of the bus. The truck and the bus hit head on.

PBRPC Membership Meeting Scheduled Here Wednesday

The semi-annual general membership meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will be held Wednesday starting with a noon luncheon at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Guests at the PBRPC field will include State Reps. Richard Stack, John Hoestenbach, Michael Estell and E. L. Short.

Gaines County Judge Marcus Crow will give a brief overview of what has been accomplished in the Permian Basin this past year through intergovernmental cooperation.

Midland County Judge Barbara Culver will provide a national perspective of what regional councils accomplish. Judge Culver was recently elected first vice president of the National Association of Regional Councils.

The PBRPC board of directors will meet immediately following adjournment of the general membership meeting.

Midland Woman Reports Beating

Democrats To Set Final Delegate Selection Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Final plans for electing Texas Democratic delegates to the 1976 state and national conventions will be made Saturday by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest, Bryan, called the meeting Monday.

For the first time in the state's political history there will be a presidential primary election this year, as provided by the recent legislature. Under terms of the bill, often called the "Bentsen Bill," because it was vigorously supported by backers of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. for the Democratic nomination, three-fourths of Texas' delegates to the national convention will be picked in the primary and the other one-fourth will be selected at the state convention.

The presidential primary will let Texas Democrats vote directly in each senatorial district for their choice for national convention delegates, which will be identified on the ballot as supporters of the various candidates for the nomination.

The selection of the remaining 25 per cent at the state convention will be according to party rules and the nominations made in each of the 31 senatorial district caucuses.

The state committee also is expected to discuss the national and state fund-raising telephone July 26-27, with state headquarters in Dallas.

Growing Soviet Presence In Somalia Claimed

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence has received reports that about 3,000 Soviet specialists are manning a growing Russian military complex in strategically located Somalia.

The gist of these reports became available after Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., and Pentagon technicians returned from Somalia over the weekend. Bartlett said he had seen a Russian missile-handling facility and other evidence of a Soviet military presence there.

The Somalis and the Soviets repeatedly have denied that the port of Berbera is being used as a support base for Soviet warships cruising Indian Ocean waters leading to the oil-producing Persian Gulf.

According to recent U.S. intelligence reports, most Russian military men in Somalia are housed in two or three compounds closed to other nationalities, including Somalis. At least one Soviet admiral is said to have been seen on shore and he is believed to be in command there.

Russian activity is said to have spread out from Berbera, where U.S. intelligence first reported the Soviets building naval support installations well over a year ago.

One of the newest reported developments is construction of an underground complex reinforced with thousands of tons of concrete and steel about eight miles southwest of Berbera. U.S. analysts do not yet know its purpose.

The Russians are said to be enlarging a fuel storage tank farm near Berbera. Meanwhile, a major new Soviet airfield 2 1/2 miles west of Berbera may be ready by the end of the year, an intelligence report says.

In addition, sources believe a Soviet communications station already completed about 50 miles north of Mogadisho, the Somali capital, will serve the Russian naval force in the Indian Ocean.

That Soviet force generally has averaged about 10 to 15 ships. But U.S. intelligence specialists believe the development of missile-handling, refueling and other facilities in Somalia foreshadows an increase in Soviet fleet operations in the Indian Ocean now that the Suez Canal has been reopened.

Suicide Victim's Family Can Get Workmen's Compensation Pay

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court laid down a precedent Monday that a suicide victim's family can collect workmen's compensation payments if the pain of an on-the-job injury or the effects of medication caused him to kill himself.

The decision was in favor of victims' families and against workmen's compensation insurance companies.

In other decisions, the court reversed a $227,000 judgment against Exxon Corp. in favor of a widow in another job-related accident because the trial judge refused to allow the oil company's lawyers to introduce proof that she had remarried. The widow of William D. Brecheen had won in lower courts.

—Ruled that conservation and reclamation districts are liable for damages caused by the negligent use of motor-driven equipment, such as trucks, and can use their maintenance funds to compensate victims. The court agreed with lower court decisions that Frank Mi-helic was entitled to $41,000 in damages from Harris County Flood Control District for injuries he received when a district truck collided with his car.

Soviet Union Reportedly Taking Steps To Buy Large Quantities Of Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is taking steps to purchase large quantities of grain from the United States and Canada, two London newspapers report.

However, Agriculture Department officials and spokesmen for major U.S. grain firms said they were unable to confirm that large Russian purchases were in the offing.

The London Times and the Financial Times said today the Russians were trying to keep the purchases secret by negotiating through third parties for ships to carry the grain to Soviet ports.

The London Times said the drought in the Soviet Union has led the Russians to book up to three million metric tons of grain from Canada and to make provisional bookings with shippers for up to seven million metric tons from the United States.

The newspaper said one of the third parties discussing ship charters with the Russians was Gienas, identified as a Panamanian-registered firm equipped with Swiss bank guarantees working through Paris brokers.

Richard E. Bell, a deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said U.S. government officials were aware of the reports but they were trying to confirm them. "We are aware that the Soviets are chartering vessels for shipment of grain from North America to the Baltic Sea and Black Sea," Bell said. He noted that U.S. exporters only are required to report sales of 100,000 tons or more within 24 hours after the deal is concluded.

He said lack of rainfall is known to have affected spring wheat production in parts of the Soviet Union. By contrast, a bumper wheat crop is being forecast for the United States.

Spokesmen for two of the largest U.S. grain dealers, Carrigill and Cook Industries, said they know of no such transactions.

The reports of Soviet grain purchases are circulating on the third anniversary of an historic U.S. credit deal that helped pave the way for Moscow to buy huge amounts of American grain in 1972.

After the short 1972 harvest, Russia went all-out to boost grain output and in 1973 produced a record 222.5 million metric tons, compared with about 168 million in 1972. Last year's harvest was about 195 million tons, the second largest on record.

Opening lead — ♠ J
West opened the jack of clubs, and East won with the ace. West ruffed the club return and led a heart in the hope of finding an entry to his partner's hand.

South won with the king of hearts and hastily led a low trump, trying to draw trumps at once.

Haste Makes The Usual
Haste made the usual waste.

Declarer played dummy's queen of spades to force out the ace and back came another club.

If South ruffed with the king of spades, West's jack would be high; and if South ruffed with anything else, West would overruff.

Now go back to elementary principles. When West ruffs the second club, South should reason that West probably started with two or three spades.

Upon winning the heart return, therefore, South must lead a diamond to dummy's ace in order to return a low trump from dummy.

East must waste his ace of spades on a low card. When East then leads another club, South can safely ruff with the king of spades. South next leads a spade to dummy's queen to draw West's last trump.
