Bell Rate Suspension Upheld

School Board Files 'Plan O'

By ED TODD "Plan O," the proposal to consolidate Midland's two high schools, has been set aside, at least temporarily, by the Midland Independent School District board of trustees. The plan was discussed for three hours Tuesday after the board accepted it as a written report. No formal action was taken as a packed house sat silently through the discussion. The plan will be filed as a possible guideline should the proposal be revived in the future, the board decided. Board President James E. Winget Jr., in arguing against the proposal, cited the consolidated set-up at Galveston's Ball High School. "They haven't dominated anything," he said. "I haven't heard of them doing great things because of their size. I'll put our high schools up against all 5,000 of them (in the state) tomorrow." Winget said a school's enrollment does not necessarily determine the quality of facilities, instruction and students.

UT BERMIAN PASIN? — Or could it be that British Petroleum is getting into the education business? Actually, it's just a blooper by the sign painter who prepared the billboard in the 1100 block of Andrews Highway. A spokesman for the company said the sign would read "UTPB" by noon today. He said the upper-level Odessa school has bought the space to publicize its program. The message will be displayed on West Wall Street next month, he said, and might be installed in other area cities, if the response in Midland justifies it. (Staff Photo by Johnny Virden.)

Decision Victory For Hill

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court today upheld a state district court judge's temporary injunction that suspended a $45 million increase in Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s intrastate long distance rates. The court's ruling means that Bell cannot charge the rates, which it tried to place into effect March 1, while the state's suit challenging the fairness of the rates is pending before District Court Judge Tom Blackwell of Austin. Victory For Hill The decision was a victory for Atty. Gen. John Hill who contended that Texas' courts have the power to block utility rate increases that are found to be unreasonably high. In so ruling, the high court said it was not making a determination whether Bell's rates were in fact unreasonable. In its 3-0 opinion, the court said that the judiciary does not have the power to set or revise utility rates. "But the determination of whether rates fixed by the utility are unreasonably high is a judicial function. In granting the relief here sought, the court does not fix a rate or prescribe a future charge; it does no more than determine whether the rate is fixed by Bell, or is not lawful," the court said. Lack Of Power Cited Bell had contended that in the absence of statewide utility regulation it could set whatever rates the traffic would bear. Bell maintained the courts had no power to interfere with its intrastate rates. A new state public utility commission with power to regulate utility rates was created by this year's legislature, effective Sept. 1. The court also agreed with Hill that the Texas Constitution gives the attorney general the authority to file suit to block what may be unreasonably high charges for intrastate telephone service. Called Monopoly The court noted that Bell is a monopoly for all practical purposes and as such has a legal duty to sell its service at reasonable rates. "This legal obligation upon the telephone company—that of not exacting exorbitant or unreasonable charges for its services—would be meaningless if there were no judicial redress for its violation," the court said. The court addressed the question of whether the proposed rate increase was reasonable in (See DECISION Page 2A)

Judge Grants Verdict Against Archer Parr

HEBBONVILLE (AP) — District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo today granted a motion for an instructed verdict against suspended Duval County Judge Archer Parr. The motion thus ended the slow-moving trial which sought to permanently remove Parr from office. Parr's lawyer said he will appeal the ruling. Immediately after ruling, Judge Carrillo called a recess for preparation of instructions to the jury. The motion was filed Monday at Parr's ouster trial by District Attorney Arnulfo Guerra after Parr failed to appear at San Diego for a deposition hearing. Guerra first urged that Judge Carrillo grant the motion Monday, but the judge took the motion under advisement. Only a few minutes after the trial reopened Tuesday, Guerra again pressed for a ruling. The judge then recessed the trial until today to study the motion and legal briefs from Guerra and defense lawyer Marvin Foster. The motion asked that the judge instruct the jury to return a verdict against Parr and to declare that Parr is guilty of "incompetence, gross carelessness and official misconduct." Judge Carrillo temporarily suspended Parr from office March 24 after Guerra filed a civil suit against Parr. The suit, filed in behalf of Duval

Turkish Aid Compromise Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, following a meeting with House leaders, announced today a tentative compromise that, if cleared by Congress, would permit renewed military aid shipments to Turkey. At an impromptu news conference in the White House driveway after a 90-minute breakfast session with the House leaders, Ford also expressed hope that the compromise would lead to a solution of the Greek-Turkish dispute over Cyprus and encourage Turkey to remain a full partner in the Western defense alliance. As Ford and Chairman Thomas Morgan of the House International Affairs Committee described them, these were principal elements of the proposed compromise to end a ban on aid shipments to Turkey: —$70 million of military goods already bought and paid for by Turkey would be released to that country immediately. —In addition, Turkey would be free to buy for cash any additional U.S.-produced military hardware it wants. —The President would be required to report to Congress every 60 days on any arms sales to Turkey and on progress toward a Cyprus settlement. Congress voted to end all U.S. arms shipments to Turkey this February following use by that country of American-supplied arms in its invasion of Cyprus. The Senate recently lifted the ban but there has been no similar action in the House. Morgan, a Pennsylvania Democrat, told reporters the aim would be to amend the Senate legislation in his committee to reflect the compromise. Morgan said he hoped the compromise would begin Thursday before his committee. He said he hoped the panel would mark up a bill Friday or early next week. The breakfast meeting was one of a series of sessions Ford has held with key House members in an effort to resolve the dispute with Turkey over arms shipments. Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel said last month that the U.S. arms embargo against Turkey was "a hostility." The United States and Turkey jointly operate some 30 bases throughout Turkey, and there are about 7,000 U.S. military personnel there. The bases are considered vital for both NATO and American surveillance of Russia's southern flank. The Senate voted 41 to 40 in May to end the embargo with the qualification that Turkey continue to observe the ceasefire on Cyprus and neither increase its forces nor ship any more U.S. military equipment to the island. The House has deferred action on the matter.

Three Indochina Refugee Camps Closing By Winter

ANNVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The federal government plans to close three of its four Indochina refugee camps by winter, a spokesman says. The center at Ft. Chaffee, Ark., is the one that would stay open. "We will certainly not keep Pendleton or Indiantown Gap open past cold weather," said Eleanor Green, spokeswoman for the task force responsible for the refugees. Officials said the center at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida will also be closed. Ft. Indiantown Gap is here. Camp Pendleton is in California. "It's not a date we can set; it depends on the weather. And we've always envisioned closing Eglin first" because it is the least efficient of the three camps, said Mrs. Green.

Bicentennial Coin Available

The Midland Bicentennial Coin is now available for purchase at all four Midland banks. Available in bronze for $2.50 and in silver for $30., the coins depict the Midland skyline on a state outline with the words, "A link with the past provides meaning for the future." The other side of the coin depicts the various economic industries of the Midland area with the words "Midland County, Founded 1886" bordering the coin. The design of the coin was presented to the Midland Bicentennial Commission by the Midland Jaycees. Midland Jaycees Joe Campbell and Scott McKee are serving as co-chairmen for the project. The coins are now on sale at The First National Bank, The Midland National Bank, Commercial Bank and Trust and the Western State Bank.

Council Okays Zoning Changes For Apartments

By GEORGE MASSEY Zoning changes that will allow construction of more than 300 apartment units in North Midland received approval of the city council Tuesday. Approximately 170 units of one and two-bedroom design are proposed to be built by Moran Properties on eight acres on Garfield Street, north of the Chaparral Apartments. Roy Moran told the council financing for the apartment development is "probable" but not positively "secured." Construction on the units is anticipated to begin "within 60 days after Tuesday's zoning approval," he said. Leo and Jessie Hatfield received approval for construction of 135 units on 9.5 acres located at the southwest corner of the intersection of Garfield Street and FM 866. Another 50 to 60 units are proposed to be added to the development at a later date. The developers said the units will be designed to house young professional people and college students in efficiency and studio apartments. The construction is pending approval of financing, the developers said. The council denied a zoning request for a proposed apartment complex of 172 units on 16 acres located in the 3500 block of the Andrews Highway. The zoning request was made by developer Harold Shull, who had previously been denied efforts to get zoning on the same property that would allow for construction of more than 300 units. Shull's past attempts to get a zoning change on the property were sent to the Planning and Zoning Commission where a planned district was suggested with fewer units to be allowed on the property. Shull changed from his original multiple-family plan with 300 units to a planned district concept with 172 units. But even with the lesser number of units and the suggested planned district design, Shull could not convince the council — to approve his latest zoning — request. The property will remain zoned as a single-family district. More than 20 citizens living in single-family homes near the Shull proposal were on hand at Tuesday's session to protest the zoning request. The citizens offered criticism including "intrusion of apartments into what was planned as a single-family home area," "high density traffic" and "drainage" problems. The council noted that Shull had changed his proposal after it was denied the approval of the Planning and Zoning Commission. Councilman Mark Martin said the new proposal should have been considered by the commission before being brought before the council for a decision. The council should never have to consider a request for zoning that has not been "thoroughly studied" by the planning commission, Planning and Traffic Director George Wolf said.

Eating Contest Winner Still Putting It Away

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Cheree Taylor won an eating contest by downing 11 hard-boiled eggs in four minutes, placed second in the pie eating event and then polished off six cotton candies, six ice cream cones, fried chicken, potato salad and baked beans. Since that Fourth of July picnic contest, the skinny 7-year-old has been eating, eating, eating. "Until last weekend we had to literally force her to eat and sometimes we even had to paddle her rear," her mother, Sherry Taylor, said Tuesday. "We had even taken her to the doctor because she was so skinny." Mrs. Taylor, 31, says she isn't really worried about Cheree's health "because she burns it off and hasn't gained any weight," but she says she has started to wonder about the family's budget. Her husband, Fred, is an unemployed aerospace worker and the family's only source of income is unemployment insurance. "She's eating us out of house and home," Mrs. Taylor said. "You ought to see our grocery bill. I keep asking her, 'When are you going to slow down?' And she just says, 'But I'm hungry.'" Mrs. Taylor said she was amazed when her 4-foot-1 daughter insisted on entering the egg eating contest for children at a Jaycees picnic. "I told her she couldn't eat enough to win but she was determined and she did it," Mrs. Taylor said. "She would have won the pie eating contest, too, except she ate the crust and all and the boy who won didn't bother with the crust." "The judge just looked at her and said, 'My God, she ate the whole thing.'" When a newsman asked Cheree where she was putting all that food, she replied, "In my stomach."

Venue Change Denied

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today denied Coastal States Gas Producing Co.'s request to move from San Antonio one of the suits arising from its gas rate and supply dispute with that city.

The high court overruled the gas company's plea without a written opinion.

Coastal States sought a change of venue in its suit to obtain a district court decision interpreting its rights under a gas supply contract with San Antonio and the city Public Service Board. In another suit, the city seeks $100 million from Coastal States and its subsidiary, Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., for breach of contract.

Rate Increases

The actions arise from mammoth rate increases imposed by the gas supplier, coupled with repeated curtailments of gas supplies to the city's electric generators.

Coastal States' petition to the Supreme Court sought a writ of mandamus compelling District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry to grant a change of venue. It alleges that a fair judge and a fair jury cannot be found in San Antonio.

'Pecuniary Interest' Cited

Coastal States said its desire to move the trial was "based upon the personal, pecuniary interest of every prospective juror of Bexar County in the outcome of the litigation and upon the pervasive bias and prejudice against (Coastal States and Lo-Vaca) shared by the residents of that county."

Judges in San Antonio also share in that "personal, pecuniary interest" since their electric rates also reflect the high natural gas charges, Coastal States said.

The city's reply said Coastal States sought through its suit to limit its obligations and to obtain the right to withhold information sought by San Antonio.

It is clear, the city said, that examination of prospective jurors would "pursue all areas of qualification, bias and prejudice and, if an impartial jury cannot be selected, the case will be moved."

Jay Gourley rummages through Kissinger's trash

Henry's Garbage Abducted By Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is distressed that a reporter is rooting through his garbage in search of a story.

Jay Gourley, 27, a reporter for the National Enquirer, a weekly published in Lantana, Fla., collected five bags of trash from in front of Kissinger's Georgetown home early Tuesday and hauled it away to sit through the debris.

So far, the reporter said he has determined that someone in Kissinger's home uses patent medicine, smokes Marlboro cigarettes and occasionally throws away the morning paper unopened.

The reporter said he found no official documents in the trash but added, "We've run into a couple of interesting things so far. We don't often get Henry Kissinger's garbage. This is a real prize." Kissinger and his wife Nancy had other ideas about the garbage grab.

"This has caused grave anguish to Mrs. Kissinger, and the secretary of state is really revolted by what he considers a violation of the privacy of his house," said a State Department spokesman.

"Frankly, I'm sure most members of the press would agree with this," the spokesman added.

Gourley said he found Kissinger's trash in bags lined up on the sidewalk in front of the secretary's home. "Fortunately, he uses the sturdy kind that doesn't open," Gourley said.

A Secret Service agent guarding the house shouted, "Hey, what are you doing?" Gourley said he kept talking to the agent while he stashed the bags in the trunk of his car.

"I knew once I got them into the car there was no way they could get them away from me," Gourley said.

He was quickly surrounded by Secret Service agents and metropolitan police who deliberated for 2 1/2 hours whether he could keep the trash. "It got kind of funny," Gourley said. "Some of them were pretty upset but they weren't rude and they kept telling me I wasn't under arrest."

Gourley left with Kissinger's garbage after Secret Service agents determined that once trash is placed beyond a man's home, it legally is no longer his property.

Annexation Hearing Set Aug. 12

A public hearing on the proposed annexation of 110 acres located between Midland Drive and Holiday Hill Road on the north side of U.S. 80 will be held at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 12 in city hall.

City councilmen set the hearing date Tuesday after a study by the Planning and Zoning Commission, recommended that the land "not be annexed."

City officials have indicated that recent requests for city services in the area have been on the increase and that future development control over the area is a "desired factor" in considering the annexation proposal.

But Tuesday, Langford and the council expressed doubt that the BOR would act on the proposal in time to get the project under way within the next year.

"Those people are slow," Langford said. "They just don't work on our time schedule. Midland College has a national tennis tournament scheduled this fall."

The council agreed that since the courts will be used as a community center available to the public it would be appropriate to seek bids on the project and use entirely local money to get the construction started.

The city and college will split the costs of building the courts on a 50-50 per cent basis. Councilmen voted to seek bids for 10 courts which have been estimated to cost approximately $90,000. Alternate bids will be sought for the 12-court proposal and for other possibilities including six- and eight-court plans.

Lighting for the courts will come at a later date the council indicated, with primary action now to just get some courts constructed for daylight play.

A major portion of the BOR funds would have been used to light the courts for night play.

Long term plans for the tennis center as a community effort include a tennis center building which the council suggested should be a large structure and not just a "bare bones" attempt to supply facilities for local tennis activities.

Good news concerning federal and state funding attempts was announced by the BOR. The BOR announced that it had received a letter from the Federal Energy Administration regarding a possible increase in the price of raw materials.

Gulf said its price increase is properly within Federal Energy Administration regulations which authorize the pass through of increased costs of raw materials.

Mrs. John H. (Neva Jo) White, 27, died Tuesday afternoon in a Big Spring hospital after a brief illness.

Services are pending at Thomas Funeral Home.

Born Jan. 1, 1948, at Santa Anna, she had lived in Midland 20 years and was an employee of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Survivors, all of Midland, include the husband; two sons, Bryan Dewayne White and Jon Bovair White; her father, Willie Holloway; her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Green; three brothers, Raymond Green, Tony Green and Danny Green; three sisters, Mrs. Elsie King, Sharon Green and Nichundria Holloway; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coley and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dennis.

Plastic Tubing Reported Missing

Three thousand feet of plastic tubing, worth approximately $1,500, was taken from the roadside on Andrews Highway 100 feet west of its intersection with Holiday Hill Road Tuesday.

Jack McGraw reported to Midland County Sheriff's deputies.

McGraw told deputies the tubing had fallen off his truck. He asked the sheriff's office to check it until he could get a truck with a lift to pick the tubing up, sheriff's officials reported.

McGraw said when he returned to pick the tubing up around 9:30 p.m., it was gone.

Dannette Weibel, 2615 Wadley, told Midland police Tuesday that approximately $350 worth of damage had been done to her vehicle while it was parked in front of Borden's Milk Co. parking lot.

A cash box containing $100 to $150 in cash and $100 to $150 in checks was taken from a van belonging to Rosy Revas while it was parked in front of La Amistad Restaurant at 1401 N. Lamesa Road, Mrs. Revas told police Tuesday.

Mrs. Revas said the checks were made out to the Modern Miss Beauty Shop.

A citizens band radio belonging to Paul Pieplow of Lubbock was stolen from a vehicle in the parking lot of the Rodeway Inn at the intersection of Interstate 20 and the Rankin Highway, Pieplow told police.

The value of the radio was $159.95.

Pat McCormick, 4328 W. Dengar St., also told police that a citizens band radio had been stolen. He said that a radio valued at approximately $140 was taken from his pickup truck while it was parked in the Hucksday Chevrolet Parking Lot at 4100 W. Wall.

Jimmy Keeler reported to police that a plate glass window valued at approximately $75 was shot with a gun Tuesday at Builders and Homeowners Supply at 1705 W. Industrial St.

An undetermined amount of cash was taken from Wallace Grocery at 1700 Cloverdale Road late Monday, Bill Roach told Midland sheriff's deputies.

Deputies indicated that entry was gained by breaking out the glass on the front door.

Gulf Increases Wholesale Gas Prices By Penny

HOUSTON (AP) — Gulf Oil US has increased its wholesale gasoline prices one cent per gallon, following the lead of other major oil companies.

Gulf's announcement followed by one day its release of a statement rejecting a charge by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., that refiners created a gasoline shortage so prices would increase.

The statement termed the charge "another in a series of irresponsible attacks" on the industry.

Gulf said its price increase is properly within Federal Energy Administration regulations which authorize the pass through of increased costs of raw materials.

Weak Stationary Front Brings Rain To Panhandle Area

Showers and thunderstorms moistened the western edge of the Upper Texas Panhandle Tuesday night and early today as a weak stationary front developed in the area.

The rains fell from southwest of Dalhart to Muleshoe and into the plains of Eastern New Mexico. Other showers dotted an area from 20 miles north of Amarillo to Sunray, Glazier and Shamrock.

Skies elsewhere in the state were generally clear. Predawn temperatures hovered mostly in the 70s. Dalhart and El Paso reported 66 degrees and Galveston and Palacios had 80s. The Associated Press reported.

Tuesday's maximums varied from 86 degrees at Marfa to 102 at Wichita Falls, Cotulla and Dallas-Fort Worth sweltered with 100-degree readings.

Local forecasts call for Midland to remain under clear to partly cloudy skies with little change expected in daytime temperatures.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal recorded a high Tuesday of 94 with an overnight low of 70.

Forecast high for today and Thursday is in the upper 90s with tonight's low expected to level off in the upper 60s.

Emanus Murder Conviction, Term Upheld By Court

AUSTIN—The Court of Criminal Appeals ruled today that James Emanus must serve a 50-year term for his Midland County conviction on a charge of murder with malice.

His case was moved to Midland County on a change of venue from Lubbock where he was accused of slaying Larry Jack Stevens, a plainclothes police officer.

The appeals court overruled the Emanus contention that the jury which tried him was improperly chosen.

He was convicted of the Feb. 9, 1973, slaying on a Lubbock street in which he and Stevens exchanged gunfire. Emanus was wounded during the shootout and when confronted at the scene by another investigating officer stated, "It's simple. I shot him and he shot me."

The appeals court also upheld the Ward County conviction of Cleoas S. Calderon Jr. on a charge of murder.

Calderon was convicted for the murder of Mrs. Catarina Falcon at her home.

School Trustees Take No Action On 'Plan O'

Midland ISD enrollment is projected at 16,409.

Supt. James Mailey earlier had remarked that "with some modifications" the consolidation plan could be put into effect "but whether it should be done is another matter."

"It's a good goal," Mailey said, "but it may not be achievable."

Working with Saxon on the report were Douglas Brown, assistant superintendent for instructional services; Garrod Chapman, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and principals of the two high schools—Andrew Gill of Midland and Glen Newick of Lee.

"I personally feel," Winget said, "that we need probably to set this (report) aside with the knowledge that it is an alternative."

Trustee Gilbert Tompson's reference to the "long-range configuration of the (school) district" apparently spurred this remark from Winget.

"I think anything that needs to be done, needs to be done very deliberately in concert with the other taxing authorities in the community."

Budget Study Stated Aug. 5

Trustees of the Midland Independent School District will delve into studies of the ISD's 1975-76 proposed $17.925-million budget in their 1:30 p.m. meeting Aug. 5.

Meanwhile, the seven-member board, which has been issued copies of the budget, is to examine the proposals upon which Supt. James Mailey briefed the trustees late Tuesday.

The budget for the last school year was $15,402 million, but no tax rate hike is forecast to support the upcoming budget.

Trustees Tuesday did obligate some of new budget's funds in approving 12 per cent salary raises for administrators.

The board gave Mailey a $2,400 annual pay hike that will make his salary round out at $33,000.

"May the minutes reflect a well deserved increase," trustee Gilbert Tompson said.

Assistant Dallas Police Chief Quits

DALLAS (AP) — Asst. Dallas Police Chief Don Steele abruptly resigned Tuesday for reasons "I'd rather let the chief talk about."

Police Chief Don Byrd had no immediate comment.

Steele, a 21-year police veteran, met with Byrd Tuesday afternoon, then returned to Byrd's office minutes later, his resignation and badge in hand.

Steele said, "I don't have anything to be ashamed of. He said his sudden resignation was the outgrowth of something that came up last week."

He said he has no definite plans for the future but does not "ever intend to get into law enforcement again."

New York City's Debate Over Fiscal Crunch Heating Up

By The Associated Press
New York City's debate over how to deal with the city's fiscal crunch is heating up. With city officials considering a package of nuisance taxes, municipal workers' unions say the city should fire non-civil service workers instead of police and firemen.

Meanwhile, progress was reported Tuesday toward settling a Pennsylvania state employees' strike. One official said that without could delay the mailing of many of the state's unemployment checks.

And a strike of 10,000 General Dynamics shipbuilders continued at a Groton, Conn. yard where nuclear submarines are built. Bargaining resumed but progress was reported only on minor issues.

In New York, municipal workers' union leader Victor Gotbaum said the city should fire 30 per cent of its so-called "provisional" and administrative employees so it could re-hire laid-off civil servants in such departments as police, fire and sanitation. "We are not requesting, we are insisting on an answer from the mayor by noon Monday," Gotbaum told a news conference. The Municipal Labor Committee, an umbrella group of municipal workers' unions which Gotbaum heads, says more than 40,000 provisional employees are on city payrolls. Their jobs are outside the normal civil service system. Meanwhile, the city council took up the question of $76 million in so-called "nuisance taxes" requested by Mayor Abraham Beame. The package would include $41 million in new taxes on such items as shoeshines and haircuts — and a potentially unpopular tax on beer.

In Albany, the city received from the state government the authority to enact $30 million in taxes — slightly more than half of what Beame would need to close a $641 million budget deficit. In Pennsylvania, meanwhile, Tuesday's bargaining session between the state and unions representing welfare and unemployment agency workers ended with one union spokesman saying "there's no longer a 12 per cent difference between the two sides. It's now within a few percentage points." Last Friday, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, representing 76,000 workers, ended a far wider four-day strike by approving a pact calling for average wage hikes of 3.5 per cent now and 2.5 per cent in January. The two other unions held out, seeking 15 per cent pay increases and additional benefits. In Groton, Conn. meanwhile, progress was reported on side issues in renewed contract negotiations between the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics Corp. and 11 striking unions representing 10,000 submarine builders. Attended by state and federal mediators, it was the first bargaining session since the workers struck June 30. Frank W. McNally, chief negotiator for the company, said he was encouraged by agreement on two points involving seniority. But the major disagreements on wages and benefits remained unresolved. The Metal Trades Council, bargaining for all 11 unions, is seeking an immediate 60-cent-an-hour wage increase, with current average wages $4.51 an hour. The company's last offer was 33 cents per hour in the first year of a three-year contract.

Gandhi Seeks Approval Of Declaration Of Emergency

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today summoned Parliament to meet in a special session beginning July 21 to approve her declaration of a national emergency, official sources reported.

She decreed the state of emergency on June 26 to put down calls for her resignation after she was convicted of campaign violations. Youthful supporters of Mrs. Gandhi planned another protest today against the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and said that the American press would be a new target.

The All-India Student Congress, the youth wing of Mrs. Gandhi's ruling Congress party, announced the demonstration "to protest anti-Indian propaganda in the U.S. press and the activities of the CIA in India."

On Tuesday, 200 young people staged a half-hour sitdown at the U.S. Information Service headquarters sang "Shame on the CIA." Meanwhile, Mrs. Gandhi lent indirect support to the anti-CIA campaign in an interview.

The interviewer asked her if she had plans to "sever the links" between "reactionaries at home and their friends abroad," an apparent reference to the CIA. "I should have thought that any patriotic person would not have such links, and certainly if there are, we should do our best to sever the links," Mrs. Gandhi said. Other leading Congress party members hinted previously that there might be connections between the CIA and the political opponents whose campaign for Mrs. Gandhi's resignation caused her to declare a state of emergency on June 26 and order a wholesale roundup of her foes.

CIA director William E. Colby denied last week that his agency had any part in the Indian crisis. A news dispatch from Washington reporting his denial appeared in one New Delhi newspaper but then was killed by government censors. The prime minister told the interviewer Indian democracy has "gone somewhat off the rails," and she hinted that permanent controls are needed. "This emergency has brought a new sense of awareness, a sense of discipline, and if we can maintain it, then I am sure the opposition parties will also be influenced by it," said Mrs. Gandhi.

Chinese Production Up Over Last Year

By RENE FLIPO
Agence France-Presse

PEKING — Oil and gas output in China was well up in the first half of the year as compared with the first six months of 1974, the Chinese press reports.

Reports by New China News Agency published in the People's Daily show that crude oil output in the first half of this year was 24 per cent above a year earlier. Refined products also showed a rise of 14 per cent.

Trailing oilfield in the far north, giving 30 per cent of national output, produced 14.9 per cent more.

Shengli field in Shantung Province recorded a 42 per cent jump over the last year.

As is customary, New China News Agency did not give actual production figures, only percentage rises.

For 1974, total Chinese oil output had already been estimated at 60 million tons.

The press here has frequently made mention of the resolve of oil workers to exceed the quotas fixed for the fourth five-year plan ending this year.

In a report last January to the Fourth Chinese Parliament, Premier Chou En-lai said the plan target had to be bettered if China was to bring its economy "in the first ranks of the world."

Ashland Denies CIA Funds Used For Domestic Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ashland Oil Inc. denies that the nearly $90,000 it got secretly from the Central Intelligence Agency was for domestic political donations.

It was disclosed Tuesday that the Kentucky-based oil company got $90,968 from the CIA in five payments over 4 1/2 years ending in March 1973. Ashland is the country's largest independent oil refiner.

Meanwhile, columnist Jack Anderson said today that Ashland deposited $240,000 in a Swiss bank account for Prince Mishal Ibn Abdul-Aziz, one of the 38 half-brothers of Saudi Arabian King Khaled "to buy influence" with the royal family.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "AM America" program, Anderson said the money was deposited 14 months ago by a Bermuda subsidiary of Ashland. He said the company and the prince signed an agreement calling for the prince to "help Ashland buy crude oil from the state-owned Saudi Arabian oil company Petroleum."

The prince did not help Ashland purchase any oil and the agreement was cancelled June 30, Anderson reported.

House Approves Measure To Open Naval Reserves

By RICHARD T. COOPER
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — By an overwhelming margin, the House approved a bill Tuesday permitting unlimited production of oil from Elk Hills and two smaller naval petroleum reserves for the commercial market, but it specified that part of the income from such oil sales must be set aside for creation of a national strategic reserve.

The bill, which has not yet been considered by the Senate, would strip the Navy of control over the 63-year old system of special military reserves and give jurisdiction instead to the Department of Interior. Traditionally, the Navy has resisted efforts to take oil from the reserves, while Interior is considered sympathetic to rapid commercial development.

Immediate, unlimited commercial production would be permitted at Elk Hills and the other two reserves — Buena Vista and Teapot Dome — located in the contiguous 48 states. The fourth reserve, 22 million acres located west of Point Barrow, Alaska, and believed by many experts to contain at least 30 billion barrels of oil, could be explored but not put in production without separate congressional approval.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed an energy bill Tuesday that would require the federal government to purchase and stockpile enough crude oil to cushion the impact of an embargo or other interruption of petroleum imports lasting as much as 90 days. This would involve more than 500 million barrels of oil and could cost more than $9 billion, unless the reserve were built primarily with oil from the naval reserves, Senate sponsors said.

The vote in the Senate was 91 to 0. The measure, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), is believed to have Administration support.

A somewhat different strategic storage bill is now being processed in the House. Eventually, the Senate bill, the House version, and Tuesday's House action on the naval reserves almost certainly will have to be reconciled — probably in one or more House-Senate conferences.

Elk Hills, which is estimated to contain at least one billion barrels of oil, is believed capable of producing about 300,000 barrels a day — along with substantial quantities of natural gas — but several hundred million dollars must first be invested in new wells, pipelines, and other facilities.

The United States now imports almost six million barrels of crude oil and petroleum products every day, out of more than 16.5 million barrels a day consumed thus, proponents of the measure argued, opening Elk Hills to limited production could offset about five percent of present imports and reduce the impact of the energy crisis on the nation's balance of payments.

The lopsided nature of Tuesday's final vote surprised even the bill's sponsors. On an earlier test, the House voted 308 to 103 against a more restrictive measure offered by the House Armed Services Committee as a substitute.

The Armed Services Committee bill would have opened Elk Hills to limited production for three years, but it would have kept the reserve system in Navy hands and set aside for the military whatever oil or income came from development of the reserves.

Tuesday's outcome was a significant victory for those in Congress, the Ford Administration and elsewhere who consider the concept of separate military oil reserves absolute. It was also a stunning defeat for the Armed Services Committee and its former chairman, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Even Lawnmowers Need To Have Their Oil Checked!

Dear Heloise: I am a great fan of yours and use many of your hints. We use garden tractors and lawnmowers and I am one of the users. One great problem is to constantly check the oil in the machines to make sure they don't run out. It was always a problem using funnels and spilling the oil. So I took a dishwashing detergent bottle, with the pull-up top, washed and rinsed it good, and filled it up with oil. It is the greatest thing to pour oil into the little openings on the machinery. Keep it handy on the shelf where you store the equipment. Make sure you mark the bottle and keep it out of reach of the children. Mrs. C. D. Williams A fabulous idea! Heloise

TV Commercials: 'Not Entirely New'

By SAM STEWART
Copley News Service

It takes a few days of staying home from the office to gain a full appreciation—or depreciation—of television commercials.

It's different in the evening, during so-called "prime time." Then it is possible to deliver, or demand the delivery of, another beer or a vodka-tonic, and never miss a chuckle on The Mary Tyler Moore Show or a suspenseful moment on "Hawaii Five-O." Under such circumstances, the commercials represent the price one must pay.

However, let us be fair. Television commercials may be a dominant factor in our lives, but they are not entirely new—in form perhaps, but not in their ability to shock or gag.

It fell to my lot recently to peruse some copies of newspapers of a date of issue circa 1951, pretelevision and almost pretelevision listings. But there may have been a subconscious prod to a now all but vanished category of advertising: the Patent Medicine Ad. If modern television commercials can trace their origin to a legitimate forbear, that forbear is the Patent Medicine Ad. What may have been lost in action or illustrative appeal was made up in sledgehammer typography or blunt text.

"Backache, Leg Pains May Be Danger Signs," warned 24-point type over an inch of agate.

"Avoid Life of Misery," urged another in the next column. "Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights," assured still another.

"Do You Feel Nervous, Restless, High-Strung on 'Certain Days' of the Month?" inquired a startler over the name of an estimable and long-famous lady. Her ads made any male thankful he was of the stronger sex, and grateful that the compounding skill detailed therein had emerged to bestow its blessing on all womankind.

One that never failed to startle me was the bold-faced order to "Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels," one which almost rates with today's production of the matron who frolics across the set proclaiming that "it's too good for toilet paper."

Those old ads injected a note of encouragement—in assuring that "Sluggish Folks Get Happy Relief."

And there appears to be almost a paraphrase of 1975 television in the 1951 newspaper ad which guaranteed "Gas on Stomach Relieved in Five Minutes."

The ads of long ago asked, "Were Stomach Ulcer Pains Napoleon's Waterloo?" In other releases the manufacturer hinted that Diamond Jim Brady and Cleopatra, among others, might have written different chapters in history if certain medications had been available in their day.

Today's Geritol commercials strive for a bit of gentility, but the old newspaper ads were direct. "Men! Women! Old at 40, 50, 60? Want Pep? Want to Feel Years Younger?" and "You're Not Too Old to Feel Young!" hinted at the wonder of other pills.

Not even the kids escaped the ads—any more than they escaped Saturday mornings or any of the breakfast plugs. "Is Your Child a Nose Picker?" screamed type large enough to herald a peace treaty in those days of 1951. "Adolescent Blackheads — Pimples" recalled an unpleasant chapter out of the past, and even the vulnerability of infants was emblazoned in a single column inch, more than half of which cried: "Diaper Rash!"

There was a special message "For Feet That Sweat with Offensive Odor." A two-inch ad consoled: "False Teeth That Loosen Need Not Embarrass." One ailment you surely don't want to catch, another ad warned, was "Stomach Tantrums."

Call it nostalgia if you will, but that is how many products were sold in the pre-TV-commercial era.

Startlers all—but none of them had quite the staggering effect of the ad that constituted a two-word short-short story: "Piles! Ow!!" Maybe it was that double explanation point after the screaming black letters that completely nullified the soothing intent of the second line, which rhymed intriguingly: "But He Smiles Now."

Those old Patent Medicine Ads must have worked—just as today's television commercials still work.

So, the next time you gag on "Ring Around the Collar," "How's Your Love Life?" and all the panaceas for reeking armpit, denture breath, cold symptoms, irregularity, fragile bathroom tissue, et cetera, ad infinitum and, of course, ad nauseam, be tolerant. There's really nothing new under the sun. They've just found more offensive—and expensive—ways to present it.

NASHVILLE SOUND—

Ex-Kingston Trio Member Touring, Making No Money

By MATT YANCEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John Stewart is touring the country now and says he is "not making any money" because his record company has decided he is not profitable enough to promote heavily.

From 1960 to 1967 Stewart was with the Kingston Trio.

"Your past is your past and there's no sense in denying it," he says now. "The trio was three frat boys touring town. There certainly wasn't any idealism to it."

Playing big and small clubs eight months of every year for 16 years has given him a fond but realistic view of America as delivered through his folk-rock-country ballads.

The fondness is reflected in a ballad like "Survivors." The song hails a patriotic family man in Ohio and a schoolchild in Wyoming who have become disillusioned by "the outlaws in office."

"I believe Harry Truman's remark that the American people can survive five bad presidents in a row," Stewart says. "Well, we've had two, maybe three."

Stewart, 35, admits his worries about "making it" have grown recently, particularly when he looks at other, younger song writers. But he grins and remarks that it's important to remember that it's just a game.

On a song about outlaws and how every woman at one time or another wants one, Stewart will assume a deep Johnny Cash-like voice and "talk" the first verse rather than singing it.

His "Summer Child" about a hired man's desire for a Southern vamp who stands with her back to the light in front of a window is treated the same way.

But before the peddle steel comes in, he'll make tongue-in-cheek remarks about macho cowboys or ladies who yearn to let their hair hang down. Halfway through, he'll interrupt it with a couple of verses of "Brown Sugar," a la Rolling Stones.

"I want to let them know I don't take this whole thing seriously," he says. "People don't want to hear about everyday life. They're very innocent, sort of child-like."

"Some guys can sing to a woman and set up a particular illusion and they'll buy it; I can't," he says.

The son of a race horse trainer, Stewart was raised in California. His emotional pitch is at its height on such songs as "Let the Big Horse Run" and "Mother Country," which deals with a trainer's love for a horse.

Stewart recorded one of his seven albums here in 1972. He

Live Entertainment Provided Tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is providing live entertainment for tourists while they wait, sometimes for two or three hours, to see some of the capital's monuments.

Five young actor-musicians, the Strolling Troubadours, will perform through August at tourist sites in Washington.

The $38,000 program is supported jointly by the National Endowment for the Arts and National Capital Parks.

Heads of the two federal agencies, Nancy Hanks and Jack Fish, attended the opening performance Tuesday on the Ellipse, just south of the White House.

The performers, who will do four shows a day Tuesday through Sunday plus extra presentations, have prepared a variety of programs which they will try to tailor to their audiences — Western, Southern, mid-American or whatever.

Miss Hanks said the idea was hatched in the National Council on the Arts, a presidentially appointed panel of 26 members which acts in an advisory capacity to her agency.

"We were talking about using young, creative people and the bicentennial and we said where would you find so many people from all over the country, waiting to get into our monuments?" she said.

Payola Charges Not In FCC's Bailiwick Now

NEW YORK (AP) — For the past two years, the Federal Communications Commission hasn't investigated allegations of "payola," the bribing of radio station employees to play certain records on the air.

The reason: All such claims sent the FCC were and still are being passed on to the Justice Department for inclusion in the department's continuing national probe of payola, an investigation begun in the spring of 1973.

William Ray, chief of the FCC's complaints and compliance section, says the step was taken at the request of the Justice Department, which "asked us to pass along every complaint or piece of information we got."

He said no FCC investigation of payola allegations — which at most could lead to a broadcast license loss — has been made since the Justice request. The idea, he said, is to avoid jeopardizing federal criminal investigations — which could lead to jail sentences for some — now underway.

The word on what Ray calls the FCC's "hiatus" on payola investigations came in a phone interview in which he was asked what action the FCC may take in the wake of federal payola indictments returned last month.

The indictments charge that several record companies and their executives — none of the firms are major ones — made illegal payoffs to radio station employees in at least 16 cities.

The licensee is required by the FCC to "exercise reasonable diligence" in guarding against payola and, if it discovers it, to announce on the air that a payment-for-play was made and who made it, he added.

Failure to take such steps, Ray said, can result in various administrative actions by the FCC, ranging from a letter of admonition to a rarely-used "hearing order," an earlier-than-normal license renewal hearing.

Kidnaped Boy, 6, Recovered Safe

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP) — Eric Wolov, 6, was happy to sit on the stairs of his home wearing a real policeman's hat after he was kidnaped, then recovered unhurt.

The boy was rescued by his father, Dr. Michael Wolov, police and FBI agents Tuesday as Wolov was about to hand a bag containing $50,000 to a woman in a car in a parking lot in nearby Revere.

The child was found under a white blanket in the back seat of the car.

Melody S. Allahyarian, 27, of nearby Nahant, was to be arraigned in Lynn District Court today on a state charge of kidnaping with attempt to extort.

Wolov, a dentist, said his son was coaxed into a car about half a block from the Wolov house Tuesday morning as he waited for a bus to take him to a day camp in Middleton. Wolov said his wife saw the boy enter the car and that authorities were notified immediately.

He said a woman telephoned the home numerous times during the day and told him to get $50,000 in cash together. He said he obtained the money in unmarked bills and at the woman's home.

High Water

The highest waterfall in the world is Angel Falls in Venezuela with a drop of 3,212 feet, total for all its leaps.

an's instructions met her at the parking lot of a nightclub in Revere.

He said the woman told him she would take the money and drive to where the boy was being held and see that he was released. Wolov gave this account of the rescue:

"After I told her about three times that I was not going to give her the money until I knew my son was safe, she very softly, 'He's in the back.' I looked in the back and all I could see was this white blanket over the back seat. Nothing moved, so I asked her, 'Where?'

"She said, 'Under the sheet.' So I called, 'Eric,' and saw his head come out from the blanket. As soon as I knew he was okay I grabbed the shift lever into park and slammed it back into park and grabbed the woman and grabbed the keys so she couldn't get away."

FBI agents and police who had followed Wolov unobtrusively converged on the car and arrested the woman. She was taken into custody.

Argentine Leader Suffers Double Blow

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron suffered a double blow at the hands of the Peronist movement when labor forced her to abandon the wage ceiling and the Senate named a successor to the presidency over her objections.

The General Labor Confederation (CGT), backbone of the ruling Peronist movement, called off its two-day general strike 10 hours early Tuesday after Mrs. Peron agreed to abandon the 50 per cent limit on wage hikes she ordered last week as part of an austerity program to counter inflation.

There was no indication, however, that Mrs. Peron had agreed to the labor leaders' demand that she get rid of Jose Lopez Rega, her conservative private secretary and social welfare minister who is the dominant figure in the government.

Lopez Rega has alienated many sectors of the Peronist movement and is also out of favor with the leaders of the armed forces.

In another move against Lopez Rega, the Peronist-dominated Senate elected Sen. Hacio Luder as its president, placing the moderate, popular former law professor first in line for the presidency should Mrs. Peron be forced to resign, become incapacitated or die.

Mrs. Peron opposed the Senate election. She said she planned to submit legislation authorizing the presidential successor to be elected by both houses of Congress.

As long as the Senate presidency was vacant, Mrs. Peron's successor was the president of the lower house. He is Raul Lastiri, Lopez Rega's son-in-law.

Subways, buses and trains resumed operation Tuesday afternoon after the CGT's back-to-work order. But it was too late for most industrial plants to reopen, and most of them were not scheduled to operate today because it is the Independence Day holiday.

The truce with the CGT eased Mrs. Peron's worst crisis since she succeeded to the presidency on the death of her husband, President Juan D. Peron. But with Lopez Rega still at her side, the reconciliation appeared likely to be a temporary one.

White Says Rumors Of New Russian Wheat Purchase Market Manipulation

By ANDY WELCH
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said rumors of another major Russian purchase of U.S. wheat is "market manipulation," and he called on the State Department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture "to trade on an up-and-up basis."

Speculation from trade and commodity circles worldwide is that the Soviet Union is preparing for another major purchase of U.S. wheat, since drought at home has drastically cut into their estimated yield.

White, a foe of the Nixon and Ford agriculture policies at home and abroad, called on the administration to "cut out the sweetheart relations."

"The rumor (of the trade) is so wide-spread that true or false, it is market manipulation," White said.

Reports have been circulating that the Russians were trying to keep the purchases of U.S. and Canadian wheat secret by negotiating through third parties for ships to carry the grain to Soviet ports.

"It's the same old thing of three years ago," White said, referring to the last major Russian purchase of 20 billion tons of U.S. wheat in 1972. That sale was generally seen as driving up the price of grain in the U.S.

"The last big secret deal didn't wind up to the benefit of anyone, as far as I can see," White said.

Congress did take some action to curb similar sales, after the first major Russian deal, U.S. exporters are now required to report sales of 100,000 tons or more within 24 hours after the deal is concluded.

While drought at home is predicted to reduce the Soviet grain yield by 16 million tons, Texas and the rest of the U.S. are preparing for a bumper yield.

White just returned from reviewing the West Texas wheat crop, and now predicts the yield will be 122 million bushels.

"Oh, I want to trade with them (the Russians)," White said. "I just want to do it on an up-and-up basis."

Texans Will Pay $2.9 Billion In Sales Taxes During 1976-77

By PATRICK CONWAY
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Mr. and Mrs. Texas, along with all of the youngsters in Lone Star Land, will pay a whopping $2.9 billion in sales taxes during 1976-77.

Meanwhile, telephone companies will stoke the state's coffers with $69.7 million, utility companies will add another $72.5 million and insurance firms will pay occupation taxes of $207.2 million.

Cigarette smokers will literally cough up $530 million during that period and lovers of distilled, brewed and fermented beverages will pay $242 million.

Also during the next two years, new car buyers will pay $419.4 million in taxes and the state's drivers will kick in $796.1 million on motor fuel purchases.

Oil production taxes will bring in $754.1 million and levies on natural gas will add $624.5 million to the treasury.

Those taxes plus a few others and some federal aid will be needed to put together the record $12.1 billion spending program recently passed by the Texas Legislature.

That spending program, says Comptroller Bob Bullock, would have left the state with "peanuts" if Gov. Dolph Briscoe had not vetoed $27 million from the package.

"The Legislature spent every dollar we said would be available," Bullock said. "When they got through there was $27,463 left — or about half the cost of operating the Legislature for a day."

"In other words, if they had stayed in session one more day they would have had to adjourn by noon because they would have been out of money," Bullock said.

The recent death of former Gov. Coke Stevenson prompted one Capitol observer to research what the state spent during his last administration. When Stevenson left office in 1947, the operating budget was $240 million.

Gov. Buford Jester then took office and began the spending syndrome which has increased state appropriations 2,800 per cent in 28 years.

Of that new budget, a major portion will go for dedicated programs. Public school education will receive $3.6 billion, teacher retirement $463 million, and textbooks $54 million. Welfare will cost $61.5 million and the state's share of medical assistance programs will be $410 million. Texas will also spend $570 million on major highways, $30 million on farm-to-market roads and $15 million on county roads.

Cloud Research Pact Awarded

AUSTIN — Meteorology Research, Inc. of Altadena, Calif., has been awarded a $1,308,179 contract by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to carry out five summers of cloud physics research, including work this summer in the Big Spring-Snyder area.

Commissioner Gilbert G. Stamm said the contract was for work "certain to speed development of this new and promising water research technology."

The work is to be carried out under the High Plains Cooperative Program, a joint Federal-State effort to improve the technology of cloud-seeding.

MRI will use aircraft to measure and record information including temperature, dew point, atmospheric pressure, turbulence, number and size of water droplets and nuclei present in the study areas.

Photography and sampling of moisture for chemical analysis also will be carried out by the aircraft.

Bullock Says Five More Dallas Businesses To Be Raided Today

DALLAS (AP) — A spokesman for State Comptroller Bob Bullock says five more Dallas businesses were to be raided today for their alleged failure to pay state and city sales taxes.

Bullock accompanied his agents to Dallas Tuesday as they seized the inventories of two Dallas restaurants. Norma's Cafe, in the Oak Cliff section, was padlocked while $4,000 was collected from the owner of the Kitty Hawk restaurant in Northeast Dallas to stave off closure. A spokesman for Bullock said Norma's Cafe owes $45,500 in delinquent state and city taxes and the Kitty Hawk restaurant owes $22,800.

Bullock referred to the seven firm's on his "raid" list as the most flagrant of the Dallas-area tax delinquents. He said there are some 14,100 delinquent taxpayers in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and 70, 000 delinquents in Texas which owe $69 million.

In May, Bullock sent his agents into liquor stores in San Antonio and drug stores in Conroe to seize inventories for non-payment of the state and city sales taxes collected from retail sales.

Bullock said he expects many delinquents to start paying their taxes after hearing about the raids.

Man Charged With Assault

AZLE, Tex. (AP) — A 19-year-old Fort Worth man, accused of hitting an Azle reserve police sergeant with his auto Saturday night, has been charged with aggravated assault on a police officer.

Reserve Police Sgt. Walter Detrick was hit by the car as he tried to stop the Fort Worth man, who police say was involved in a knife fight with two Azle men during Azle Jam-boree festivities at Roesser Park.

Detrick, who is also the Azle fire marshal, suffered a badly bruised left leg but was not hospitalized.

New Home Sales Still Lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the appeal of a $3,000 tax credit, new home sales still are insufficient to bring about a major reduction in the nation's big backlog of unsold homes, a government agency says.

As a result, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board concludes that any real boom in construction of either single-family housing or multi-family dwellings "is a long way off."

The board said Tuesday the tax credit that took effect in late March appears to have had a weak impact on the inventory of unsold homes, in part because new housing starts are relatively high compared to sales. The board said sales increased 11,000 in April compared to March but the inventory of unsold single-family homes declined only 7,000 units to a total of 380,000 homes in April, the month the program should have had its greatest impact, it said.

An analyst for the board, which regulates savings and loan associations, said the April backlog of homes was equal to about 8.1 months of sales. That was a high figure, though an improvement from previous months, he said. Figures for May were not yet available, though new housing starts in that month increased 14.3 per cent over April's total.

The sales situation for multi-family dwellings, such as condominiums, is even worse, he said. Congress enacted the $3,000 tax credit in March — as part of the 1975 tax reduction program — at the urging of Russell B. Long, D-La. The purpose was to help home builders unload their backlog of homes and to get the depressed housing industry back on its feet.

CIA's Accounting Contains Few Differences From Commission Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA's own accounting to President Ford acknowledges some domestic misdeeds but contains few major differences from the findings of the Rockefeller Commission.

Like the Rockefeller report, the CIA document, which was delivered to the President last December and made public late Tuesday night, contains no evidence on the subject of alleged plots to kill foreign leaders.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Richard M. Nixon, who reportedly refused to testify before the Rockefeller panel, now faces possible questioning by the Senate intelligence committee about assassination plots and other alleged agency wrongdoing.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday the committee would contact Nixon's lawyer about testifying.

"At this time we have no reason to believe that his testimony will be very important in connection with the assassination issue" but the committee would "have good reason to approach Mr. Nixon" about such subjects as illegal intelligence gathering, Church said.

The Senate panel on Tuesday questioned retired Maj. Gen. Edward G. Lansdale about his role in CIA covert operations against the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro. Lansdale, who declined to speak with reporters, has been quoted on two occasions as saying that, while working on orders from the White House, he drew up contingency plans for the removal of Castro by any means, including assassination.

CIA director William E. Colby's report on domestic wrongdoing, which has come to be known as the "Vail Report" because it was delivered to the President while he was on a Christmas skiing vacation in Vail, Colo., outlines essentially the same instances of domestic surveillance documented by the Rockefeller Commission.

The report, consisting of a six-page letter and 58 pages of documents, refers to two programs not mentioned in the Rockefeller report—recruitment of construction workers as informants during construction in the early 1960s of CIA headquarters at Langley, Va., and infiltration of agents into the former Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, presumably for counterintelligence purposes.

The Vail report makes no mention of a program described by the Rockefeller Commission in which for a six-month period in 1973 the CIA monitored long-distance telephone calls between the United States and Latin America in an effort to identify narcotics traffickers.

Coily assured the President that the agency was not guilty of massive domestic wrongdoing while the Rockefeller report said that, although the majority of CIA domestic activities were within the law, the agency also conducted a number of "plainly unlawful" activities which "constituted improper invasions upon the rights of Americans."

Nicklaus Tops Tourney Field

CARNOSTIE, Scotland (AP) — One hundred and fifty of the world's top golfers teed off for the 104th British Open Championship today.

And 149 of them were praying that Britain's five-week drought would end, the rain would fall and Carnoustie's iron-hard course would soften up. The odd man out was Jack Nicklaus, the biggest hitter in the modern game. He has been burning up the 7,065-yard, par-72 course in practice and, over the past two days, has turned in a phenomenal 24 under par and 284 for four rounds.

He'd be more than happy if things stayed as they are, with the fairways hard and the greens true—and his power game allowed its head.

After his earlier burst of big hitting, which included a couple of seven under par 65s, Nick-laus took things easier Tuesday and merely tried out a few practice holes.

"I'm a bit surprised to find a course this fast and with no rough," he said later. "But I've never yet seen a British Open when the weather conditions didn't play a big part in the scoring. We're getting to real Carnoustie weather now—with an east wind getting up. I'd be surprised if Ben Hogan's 282 record (in 1953) gets broken—but there again, it depends on the weather.

"You might get 10 under—you might get 20 over."

Thirty American golfers were to tee off today starting at 2:30 a.m., EDT.

Nicklaus, scheduled to start at 9:45 a.m., was the man to beat in the chase for the $16,500 top prize. Twice a British Open winner—in 1966 and 1970—and four times a runnerup, he was undeniably the hot favorite, rated by Britain's legal bookmakers at 7-2 to win a third.

But the weather forecast was for some rain, which would slow the course and leave things wide open for a field that included last year's champion, South African Gary Player, who won last time the Open was played here seven years ago; U.S. Open champion Lou Graham; 1973 British Open winner Tom Weiskopf, and Lee Trevino, who won the British Open in 1971-72.

Graham was one of those fervently hoping for some rain to soften the course and take some of the sting out of Nicklaus' driving. He went a round in practice Tuesday with Trevino, who only 12 days ago was struck by lightning in Chicago.

Trevino, predictably bouncing back, was one of those who predicted the 1975 British Open would be won by a big hitter. But that was before the latest weather forecast said rain and some thundershowers were on the way.

Graham predicted the weather would have a lot to do with the ultimate result. "I'd like to see a little rain to soften the course up a bit," he said late Tuesday. "The ball is bouncing a lot. If it rains, I think it would help my chances."

Media Vs. Baseball

Baseball Czar Urged To Crack Down

NEW YORK (AP) — It seems only fair, with baseball managers and players ganging up on writers and broadcasters, to repeat here an axiom often forgotten by the fun-and-games fraternity.

No writer ever hit a home run to win a game or made an error to lose one. No writer ever pitched a shutout or hit into a double play. So don't blame the journalists when things go bad. They're not responsible, any more than they can take the credit when things go well.

In recent weeks, Managers Ralph Houk, Billy Martin and Wes Westrum have taken out ball club frustrations on the writers.

Houk, who has traveled this trail before, got so excited that he allegedly manhandled one reporter, dragging him clear across the Detroit Tigers' locker room to the cheers of his players. When the newsmen filed a formal complaint, Houk wound up in a Baltimore courtroom, explaining the whole thing to a judge.

Martin barred a Dallas writer from the Texas Rangers' dressing room, blaming him for instigating a clubhouse fight that involved a couple of his players.

Westrum evicted a St. Louis reporter, who did not demonstrate the proper solemnity when he entered the San Francisco Giants' dressing room after a loss to the Cardinals.

The Boston Red Sox, objecting to some printed criticism, tossed a writer out of their dressing room and a Minnesota missioner and the individual clubs to crack down and order a halt to the locker room carryings-on. A ball player or manager who can't act like an adult ought to be fined or perhaps even suspended. Let them take out their aggressions and frustrations on each other, not the media whose job it is to report their games.

The Associated Press Sports Editors Association and the Baseball Writers Association of America have formally protested the dressing room shenanigans to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

But really, this is nothing new. Ever since the first newspaper editor decided that his readers might enjoy an account about how the local athletes were doing each day, there has been a more or less adversary relationship between the players and the press.

Managers are fiercely loyal to their players and when a team is going badly, one way out for the pilot is to look for a common enemy. What better target than those troublesome writers who come around asking all those questions after the games?

A dressing room can be a dangerous place. One ex-major leaguer threw buckets of water at two writers. Another comedian disguised in a big league uniform delighted in giving a hot foot to unsuspecting writers.

One team celebrated July 4 by tossing firecrackers around their dressing room as writers ducked and dodged. A utility infielder on another club killed some pregame time by setting fire to the shoelaces of one of his teammates, who didn't notice the blaze until some of the other players began making fire engine sounds.

Charming. It seems time for the com-

SEC Investigates Ole Miss Cager

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Southeastern Conference said Tuesday it will look into allegations that the University of Mississippi paid all living expenses for former Ole Miss basketball star Johnny Neumann.

Meanwhile, university officials denied statements made by Neumann during a divorce hearing Tuesday, and Neumann's former coach suggested the player had been misunderstood or quoted out of context.

The officials said they gave Neumann a scholarship but did not give him any assistance prohibited by SEC and NCAA regulations.

Neumann, who left Ole Miss in 1971 to sign a lucrative professional contract with Memphis of the American Basketball Association, testified Monday in a divorce suit brought by his wife, Carolyn.

Neumann told the court the university paid all his living expenses during the two years he was at Ole Miss. He said the university also gave his wife a job so the couple could show some income. He said alumni gave them money and a car. Neumann said, however, his wife "did not have to work."

In other Open Division matches Peggy Gustafson of Brenham defeated Kathy Patton of Mesquite, 4 and 2; Robin Hurley of Humble beat Kathy Olmsted of Greenville, 3 and 2; and Sandra Yount of Plano defeated Kim Bauer of Conroe, 2 and 1.

Medalists in the other three age groups drew first round byes: Sheila Oldfield of Bastrop in the Intermediate Division; Rae Rothfelder of Fort Worth in the Sub-Junior and Amy Norman of Conroe in the Midget all advanced without playing.

The tournament is sponsored by the Dallas Times Herald.

U.S. Upsets Poles In Track

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The American men's and women's track teams celebrated their 189-172 upset victory over Poland today with sightseeing in Prague and planning sessions for next week's meet in Durham, N.C., with the West Germans and Africans.

"This meet was more of a team effort than our loss to the Russians," U.S. men's Coach Lee Calhoun of Yale University said of his squad's 113-102 victory in the two-day dual meet in Prague's Strahov Stadium.

"It's exciting to see girls from all over the United States develop a team spirit during a close international competition," U.S. women's Coach Jack Griffin of Fredericksburg, Md., said after his charges rallied to beat the Poles 76-70 Tuesday night.

The Americans also crushed the host Czechs in a simultaneous dual meet with a combined score of 213-148 in their first-ever dual meet.

The Poles had been eager to beat the Americans and avenge a close 1965 loss, and they were installed as premeet favorites following the overwhelming 87-point U.S. loss to the Soviets last week in Kiev.

But the Americans upset predictions by dominating the running events, winning every flat race but the men's 5,000 meters, and also posting some surprise victories and high placings in key field events.

Women's long jumper Kathy McMillan, a 17-year-old Raeford, N.C., high school student, won her event with the second longest leap ever by an American woman—21 feet, 7 inches—just one-quarter inch off the U.S. record by Martha Watson at Minsk, U.S.S.R., July 24, 1973.

"I won on the last jump after the coach told me to give it all I had. We needed the points for the team victory," said an elated Miss McMillan, whose next goal is a victory in the July 18-19 meet with the Germans and Pan Africans in her home state.

Griffin singled out the 1-2 slam by the U.S. women in the 200 meters, with Pam Jiles of New Orleans winning in 23.2 seconds ahead of Rosalyn Bryant of Chicago.

"We wanted to win as a team after losing so badly to the Russians. We felt a lot better physically, and the weather was sunny and warm compared to the rain in Kiev," said Miss Jiles, a third-year math major at Dillon University.

Griffin also praised the 800-meter victory by Madeline Manning Jackson of Cleveland, who again overwhelmed top class Eastern European challengers with smooth running and tactical brilliance. She is making a comeback after quitting competition following her Olympic gold medal victory in 1968.

Palmer Misses Bid For 14th Win

By The Associated Press

It had all the earmarks of a great pitching duel... Jim Palmer against Nolan Ryan, both named to the American League All-Star team this week.

It was great duel, all right, but the pitchers didn't dominate it. Palmer wasn't involved in the decision although he came within one out of becoming the first 14-game winner in the majors. And Ryan suffered his fifth consecutive defeat as the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 8-6 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Palmer, although he allowed only six hits, was charged with all five California runs in 5-2-3 innings and blew a 5-3 lead with two out in the ninth. Ryan, who hasn't won since June 6, yielded 10 hits, six walks and eight runs—three of them unearned—in nine innings-plus.

The Orioles won the game on Mark Belanger's two-run single in the 10th following a walk and a two-base throwing error by first baseman Doherty.

Lynn, who hasn't started the last few games because of a bruised hand, grounded a game-winning single into right field.

By winning, the Red Sox remained one game ahead of the New York Yankees in the American League's East Division.

Cowboys Open Training Camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League have opened training camp with 85 rookies and the announcement that they intend to trade veteran receiver Bob Hayes.

Billie Jean Leads Sets To Victory

By The Associated Press Billie Jean King, fresh from winning the Wimbledon singles crown, led the New York Sets to an easy 26-13 victory over the San Diego Friars in a World Team Tennis match Tuesday night in Uniondale, N.Y.

Meanwhile, Evonne Goolagong Cawley, the Australian newlywed who bowed to Ms. King in the finals at Wimbledon, had recovered sufficiently to help the Pittsburgh Triangles crush the San Francisco Golden Gaters 29-17 at Pittsburgh.

Not included among the rookies were third round draft choice Bob Breunig of Arizona State and 17th round pick Jim Testerman of Dayton.

Breunig, a linebacker, has not signed. Testerman, a basketball player who has not played football since high school days, was in camp only a few hours before deciding he did not want to play professional football.

Expected to remain missing from camp are College All-Star game players Randy White of Maryland, Kyle Davis of Oklahoma and Burton Lawless of Florida.

Lynn Named AL Player Of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston rookie Fred Lynn, who recently knocked in 10 RBI in one game, was named the American League Player of the Month for June, the league announced Tuesday.

In his big game against Detroit June 18, Lynn had three home runs, a triple and a single, falling one short of the single game RBI mark.

That's going to be a once-in-a-lifetime thing," said Lynn. The 23-year-old Lynn, who reached base in each of Boston's 31 games during the month, leads the league in runs with 54 and in slugging with a .584 percentage.

Sul Ross Coach Leading Golf Tournament With 84

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Brooks Dozier of Sul Ross, competing despite a bad back, rolled home an 18-foot birdie putt to shoot an 84 Tuesday and tie John Swaim of Texas Christian for the lead in the Fifth Annual National Collegiate Basketball Coaches Golf Classic.

Dozier's back was causing him so much pain that his partners had to pick up his ball for him out of the cup on the front nine holes.

Rice All Set To Snap Slump

Baseball

There's good news and bad news for pitchers facing Boston Red Sox rookie Jim Rice. According to scout Sam Mele, Rice has been in a dreadful slump, only 13 homers and 54 rbi in 81 games.

Rice was Boston's No. 1 draft choice in 1971 after winning 10 letters in baseball, football, basketball and track in high school in Anderson, S.C. Rice came up from the International League this spring and finally took over as DH after Tony Conigliaro and Deron Johnson had a shot at the spot. Now Rice is being permitted to play in left field.

Bob Sheldon knocked in three runs as Milwaukee beat Kansas City 4-3 on national TV Monday night, but the rookie who was called up from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League Sunday, isn't taking anything for granted.

At Hrabosky, who toiled for Arkansas in the Texas League three seasons ago, says he's not mad about being ignored as a National League All-Star pitcher.

"I'm not only disappointed, I'm dumbfounded," said Cards' pitching coach Bern Berenson of Hrabosky's omission from the NL team.

Auto Racing

Richard Petty, who has won half of the 16 National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR), stretched his runaway lead in the point standings for the season with his victory in the Firecracker 400 stock car race July 6. Petty has 2,629 points to 2,173 for runnerup Dave Marcis.

This weekend come to Ruidoso Downs, where the horses are off and running in the world's most picturesque mountain track in the tall, cool pine country of Southern New Mexico.

Palmer Misses Bid For 14th Win

By The Associated Press It had all the earmarks of a great pitching duel... Jim Palmer against Nolan Ryan, both named to the American League All-Star team this week.

It was great duel, all right, but the pitchers didn't dominate it. Palmer wasn't involved in the decision although he came within one out of becoming the first 14-game winner in the majors.

The Orioles won the game on Mark Belanger's two-run single in the 10th following a walk and a two-base throwing error by first baseman Doherty.

Palmer, although he allowed only six hits, was charged with all five California runs in 5-2-3 innings and blew a 5-3 lead with two out in the ninth.

Adult Movie Theaters Win Rulings

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — Three federal judges have ruled that an adult movie theater proprietor has the protection of the first amendment no matter how lewd neighbors and police think the business might be.

"Until the items which he shows are each proved obscene, he can show anything he wants to show," the judges ruled. "The police cannot shut down or attempt to shut down his business."

A 61-page opinion released Tuesday included rulings on three cases in which theater operators in Dallas, San Antonio, and San Angelo challenged the manner in which local officials sought to stop the showing of sexually explicit motion pictures.

In each case, the court ruled in favor of the theater operators. The judges also sent 17 other cases back to local courts across the state for possible dismissal.

The 20 cases had been consolidated for the special court and U. S. Dist. Court Judge John V. Singleton Jr. selected the three as representative of the entire group. Sitting with Singleton were Circuit Judge Joe Ingraham and U.S. Dist. Court Judge William Taylor of Dallas.

In effect, the judges ruled that the use of injunctions, search warrants, and harassment can foul up local efforts to suppress obscenity.

They declared unconstitutional a state statute on use of the injunction procedure against obscenity as a public nuisance.

They said part of a search warrant statute is unconstitutional in that the warrants can be used to shut down first amendment activities offensive to authorities before there has been a judicial determination of obscenity.

In the third case, the judges said San Antonio officials used bad faith harassment against the film "Deep Throat" and applied a state statute unconstitutionally by claiming a motion picture projector is a "criminal instrument."

The opinion included no ruling on the validity of the Texas Penal Code definition of obscenity.

The Dallas case involved a "peep show" operation at the Ellwest Stereo Theatre where police, with search warrants, twice seized film, projectors, coin boxes, stools, and parts of viewing booth walls last year. Ellwest Stereo contended such seizures were illegal without a judicial determination on the obscenity of the film.

"This was a raid accompanied by crowbars and screwdrivers," the ruling said, adding that a proprietor can show anything he desires until each item is proved to be obscene.

The judges also said the seized projectors and other equipment would not be relevant evidence for a trial involving alleged commercial exhibition of obscene materials.

"The evidentiary value of the items seized, except the motion pictures themselves, is de minimis at best, but the threat to the First Amendment rights of the theater owner is very great," the opinion said.

Article 18.02 (2) of the Texas Penal Code authorizes a search warrant for seizure of property specially designed, made, or adapted for "or commonly used in" the commission of an offense.

The judges said the language "or commonly used in" is unconstitutionally vague and overbroad and unconstitutional as applied to Ellwest Stereo or any other individual or entity engaged in first amendment activities.

In the San Angelo case, the landlord for King Arts Theater Inc. notified the tenant in 1973 that, at the suggestion of George E. McCrea, the county attorney, the lease on the theater building was being terminated. The notice also informed King Arts that McCrea had said he intended to seek an injunction against the theater as a public nuisance to prevent future showing of allegedly pornographic pictures.

"To prove that a motion picture theater has been the scene of the showing of films that are obscene is not to prove that every film shown in that theater, in the past, present, or future, was, is, or will be obscene," the judges said.

"By completely shutting down the operation of a motion picture theater, or by forcing the posting of a bond to keep the theater open, the state has imposed a prior restraint upon the showing of motion pictures. Motion pictures are protected by the free speech and free press guarantees of the first amendment."

The ruling said the State of Texas, by instituting an injunction procedure for a public nuisance, is not interested in preserving the status quo.

"The injunction seeks to change the situation by preventing the dissemination of obscenity, but it does not provide for a short fixed time in which a final determination of obscenity can be made," the opinion stated.

The court said Article 4667(3) of Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes does not provide for judicial determination of obscenity prior to the issuance of an injunction. The article was declared unconstitutional in that it operates "as an invalid prior restraint on the first amendment rights of those who commercially manufacture, distribute, or exhibit materials which may be thought by the state to be obscene but which have not yet been judicially determined to be obscene."

The San Antonio case resulted from four raids in which copies of the film "Deep Throat" and film projectors were seized last year at the Fiesta Theater.

Misdemeanor charges of exhibiting obscene movies were followed by felony charges contending the projectors were criminal instruments.

"The judges said that 'by no stretch of the imagination' could the Texas statute on criminal instruments be used to cover an ordinary 16 millimeter motion picture projector.

"Such a blatant use of an inappropriate statute, which bootstrapped the misdemeanor offense into a felony, was effective in requiring that bail for a felony offense be set, not once but several times," the judges said.

"When viewed objectively there is no logical reason why this film was seized four times except that the authorities were attempting to harass the theater and its employees and to eliminate the exhibition of this film prior to any final judicial determination of its obscenity. It is no answer the authorities were unsuccessful at their chosen task. Resourcefulness in the face of official harassment should not inure to the benefit of the official harassers."

"Fault lies not with the legislature in this instance but with the local authorities who brought charges under this law," the judges said.

They then enjoined the state from prosecuting any motion picture exhibitor for possession or use of equipment which can be used for any lawful purpose.

Israel Forms Ties With South Africa

By STANLEY UYS
The Manchester Guardian

CAPE TOWN — Senior Israeli military officers visit South Africa regularly to lecture South African officers on modern warfare and counterinsurgency techniques.

This is one of several important military and industrial links that have been established between Israel and South Africa.

Two other projects are participation by the state-owned South African Railways in construction of a railway in Israel, and construction of an Israel plant in South Africa to desalinate seawater for drinking and irrigation purposes.

Confirmation of these two projects was given in Johannesburg this week by Gen. Meir Amit, formerly Israel's intelligence chief and currently head of the giant Koor Industries, who is on his second business and lecture tour of South Africa. He left for Nigeria Monday.

When it was put to Amit in an interview Monday night, apart from major industrial projects, if Israel and South Africa enjoyed good military relations, he replied, "That is an understatement."

Referring to the rail and desalination projects, Amit said, "The finer points of the scheme are still being discussed at top government level. There are also security and political considerations against publicizing the full details at this time."

The Rand Daily Mail of Johannesburg claims that the new railroad in Israel "will under certain circumstances be advantageous to South Africa as well as to Israel."

Koor Industries comprises 150 independent companies, 75 of them major manufacturers, and has links with ISCOR (the state-owned Iron and Steel Corp. in South Africa) and five other major South African industrial concerns.

Amit disclosed that a joint Israeli-South African venture in the manufacture of agricultural chemicals, including insecticides, would come into operation in Cape Province next year. The factory already is being built.

Amit disclosed further that a tank farm for the storage of oil under tight security conditions is being built in Israel and that this is a "partnership venture" with South Africa.

Hold-Up Play Works Both Ways

When an opponent leads his strong suit, you usually refuse the first trick—holding up your ace until a later trick. Strangely enough, those who recognize this play instantly as declarer never think of it when defending.

South won the first trick with the king of clubs and promptly fired back the king of diamonds. East took the ace of diamonds—and there went the defense.

South won the next club, led a diamond to the queen and gave up a diamond. Since he could easily get back to dummy with the king of spades to cash the rest of the diamonds, he had no trouble making his contract.

When South leads the king of diamonds, East should refuse the trick. This hold-up cannot cost anything. East will surely get his ace of diamonds sooner or later.

When South is allowed to win the first diamond trick, he continues the suit. East wins with the jack of diamonds and returns a club.

DIAMONDS SHUT OUT

South is in no immediate danger, but he has only eight tricks. Declarer can reach dummy with the king of spades to set up the diamonds, but he cannot get back to dummy to cash the rest of the suit.

In short, the hold-up play limits South to one diamond trick instead of allowing him to win four tricks in the suit. It pays to know a play that will save three tricks!

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. If he has no major suit he will bid three diamonds, and you will go on to three notrump. If he can show a major, you will raise to four in his suit.

Police In Dallas, Fort Worth Say Wiretapping Devices Used Legally

HOUSTON (AP) — Police spokesmen in Dallas and Fort Worth say any police wiretapping equipment in their possession has been used legally, if at all.

The Houston Post reported in a copyrighted story in today's editions that police departments in Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls have bought wiretapping and bugging equipment over the past four years.

The Post said possession of such equipment, even by a law enforcement agency, could be a violation of federal law, according to the Justice Department.

A spokesman for the Fort Worth Police department said any such equipment had been used legally, if at all. A Dallas

Police Department spokesman confirmed such purchases but said he did not know if it had been used.

The Wichita Falls police chief was not available for comment.

"We did buy some equipment in anticipation of the (proposed) electronic surveillance law being passed," said Bob Shaw, public information officer of the Dallas Police Department.

Shaw said the department bought one or two pieces of equipment for about $90 each plus several other devices which emit a signal.

Fort Worth Deputy Police Chief Herbert F. Hopkins said some equipment was purchased, but added "We haven't used it unless one party agreed to its use, say, if one of our own officers was involved. And you'd be a complete damn idiot to use it otherwise."

The Post quoted a Justice Department memo which said "it cannot be in the normal course of activities to possess equipment primarily useful for the nonconsensual interception of communications..."

A device known as a telephone drop-in transmitter—a low frequency transmitter placed in a telephone handset—is generally considered to be primarily useful for eavesdropping, the Post said.

Five such devices have been purchased by Texas law enforcement agencies within the past three years, according to a check of manufacturers by the National Wiretap Commission.

A commission spokesman refused to disclose which agencies in Texas have purchased the devices. He said the information developed by the commission will be turned over to the Justice Department.

$1.25 Million Awarded In VA Lawsuit

HOUSTON (AP) — David Nelson Standefer, 57, of Houston has been awarded a $1.25 million settlement in a suit he filed against the Veterans Administration Hospital here for alleged irreparable injuries he says he received there.

Standefer, who received the ruling Tuesday before the Texas Court of Appeals, said in the suit he was taken to the VA hospital in 1969 after an automobile accident.

The suit said medical inattention and negligent manipulation in the X-ray room left him paralyzed from the neck down.

Standefer, a former salesman, claimed both legs and arms were functioning when he was taken by ambulance to the VA Hospital for a possible neurological problem.

Standefer said he was left in the hallway of the hospital for hours and that the X-ray technician manipulated his neck so that he was rendered paralyzed.

Standefer has been staying in a ward at the hospital but may be moved to a home for private nursing, his attorney said.

British Miners Agree To Shelve Pay Hike Demand

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government scored its first victory in its battle against Europe's highest rate of inflation when the coal miners agreed to shelve a demand for a 60 per cent wage increase.

The decision Tuesday came after a long, angry meeting at the annual convention of the 270,000-member National Union of Mineworkers.

The meeting discussed a demand by militant union leaders in Yorkshire and Scotland for a $70.40-a-week increase for workers at the coal face, raising their basic wage to $220 a week. Prime Minister Harold Wilson had told the convention on Monday that such inflationary pay raises would be "crazy, even suicidal" in the current state of the British economy.

After violent argument, the convention voted to replace the word "demand" with "seek." This put the miners on record that they want the $220 weekly wage but are prepared to forego it for this year.

The vote was a defeat for two militant Communist leaders of the union, Mick McGahey of Scotland and Arthur Scargill of Yorkshire and a victory for the union president, Joe Gormley, who told the convention the $220 demand was "madness."

Inflation in Britain is currently running at the rate of 25 per cent, and Wilson's government has announced it intends to limit all pay increases during the coming year to 10 per cent, up to a maximum of $13.20 a week.

The miners are considered the key to the success of any wage-ceiling policy because of coal's importance to the British economy and the miners' slow-down and strike in the winter of 1973-74 which torpedoed Conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath's attempt to enforce mandatory wage controls.

Construction Strike Settlement Expected

FORT WORTH (AP) — A contract agreement with two of the largest labor unions in North Texas will provide the impetus for a negotiated settlement of the ten-week-old construction strike in the Fort Worth-Dallas area, labor and management leaders said Tuesday.

Leaders of the two laborers unions, representing 6,000 workers, and a spokesman for the contractors predicted that their agreement will be the "catalyst" to virtually end the longest and most costly construction strike in the North Texas area.

A MILLION DOLLAR IDEA—Price's original Home Style Pimiento Spread became an immediate hit in sandwiches and was later packaged in cartons to become a million dollar business. It is one of the many popular items handled by Martin Distributing Co., Midland Air Terminal.

Price's Home Style Spread A Million Dollar Idea

Martin Distributing Co., Midland Air Terminal, is distributing Price's Original Home Style Pimiento Spread, an American success story.

When the late Weldon Price and his wife Mildred, started selling sandwiches in 1959, Price's Original Home Style Pimiento Cheese rapidly became a favorite.

At the time Price was unemployed and looking for something to do when he consulted Mr. L.Q. Orr of Orr's Ready Foods in Odessa about the idea of manufacturing and distributing sandwiches in the Fort Worth area. Mildred, a graduate Home Economist, originated the formula, a blend of Swiss and American cheese with pimiento for sandwiches and started selling them.

In 1961 the cheese spread was packaged for sale in grocery stores and was an immediate success. Frank Martin of Martin Distributing Co. said they first bought the product at that time.

"It was the easiest selling item we've ever put on the market," Martin said. "We bought some, it sold and has continued to sell for 14 years."

When Price sold to Gerber Cheese Co., a division of Nestle, in 1968, he sold for a million dollars. Sales of the pimiento spread started in Fort Worth and now has reached nationwide distribution.

"This is a shining example of the fact that the free enterprise system is still working," Martin said.

Price's Original Home Style Pimiento Cheese has been imitated by other companies, but is still the number one seller in the market. It has excellent keeping qualities under refrigeration, but should not be frozen.

Most Of Nation Cools Off Some

By The Associated Press
After a day of showers and thunderstorms, most of the nation cooled off a bit today.

A cold front, dropping temperatures up to ten degrees, continued its slow march across the Middle Mississippi Valley but stalled in Kansas.

From the Dakotas to the Upper Great Lakes, the temperatures on Tuesday were in the 70s — compared to the 80s on Monday.

Traveling ahead of the cool front were a few showers and thundershowers from the Middle Mississippi Valley to the Central High Plains. However, by early today the only line of thundershowers reported was over Lake Erie.

A line of thundershowers which started on Monday in Arkansas and southern Nevada has dissipated early today and only isolated activity was seen from parts of the Pacific Northwest through the Intermountain Region and Southern Rockies. A few scattered showers were also seen in the Lower Mississippi Valley and Middle Atlantic states.

Almost all of the measurable precipitation early today was seen in the southern half of the nation. The heaviest was just over an inch at Sumter, N.C.

Earl Butz Going Bananas Over Peanut Surplus In U.S.

By STEVE HARVEY
The Los Angeles Times
"Mr. President... we are up to our ears in peanuts." Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz to President Ford earlier this year.

Two decades ago, Harold Wilson, then-president of Britain's Board of Trade, appeared in the House of Commons wearing a synthetic suit made from peanuts.

Wilson, now the prime minister, was modeling the experimental outfit for a chemical firm. He predicted a bright future for peanut suits.

"Alas, a few weeks later, Wilson noticed that holes—lots of holes—had begun to show up in his outfit."

Soon thereafter, the peanut suit died a quiet death, far from Carnaby Street.

Perhaps if this revolutionary use for the peanut had worked out, the United States wouldn't be saddled with its own annual surplus today.

As it is, peanut demand in American last year amounted to only two-thirds of peanut production (1.8 million tons). Which is why Earl Butz is going bananas.

Under present law, the Agriculture Department must buy up the extra peanuts and either sell them at a loss on the glutted world market or donate them to foreign aid and domestic school lunch programs.

One official estimates that the surplus will cost taxpayers between $125 million and $150 million this year, which isn't exactly peanuts.

Of course, the problem would disappear if Americans, in a burst of patriotism, would increase their annual intake (current average: 7½ pounds per person.)

But such an increase isn't likely unless scientists score a breakthrough rivaling the discovery of peanut butter, which accounts for half of all peanuts sold.

(Or baseball season is lengthened. Last season, the Los Angeles Dodgers alone sold 1.8 million bags.)

Efforts to find new uses for the peanut began in earnest at the turn of the century when George Washington Carver demonstrated how to make more than 300 products from peanuts, including soap, cheese and cosmetics. But they haven't made much of an impact.

The search has intensified in recent years. Prof. J. H. Mitchell Jr. of Clemson University has patented peanut flakes, which he says could be eaten as a breakfast cereal (and would require no sugar).

A North Carolina firm working in conjunction with North Carolina State University has developed a powder which makes peanut soup when combined with hot water.

"I've tried it and it's very good," says William Lanier, an Agriculture Department official.

What does it taste like? "Peanuts," he answered.

Meanwhile, at its laboratory in New Orleans, the Department of Agriculture is close to creating a possible soybean substitute: a peanut flour that tastes like peanuts.

A breakthrough? "If what you want is a flour that tastes like peanuts," says Mort Nitzberg of Peanut Associates, Inc.

The department is also struggling to alter the peanut's image as the scourge of the dieter.

Whereas peanuts contain more protein, minerals and vitamins than beef on a pound-for-pound basis, they also contain more fat than heavy cream and more calories than sugar.

USDA researchers are experimenting with a process by which peanut oil (the fatty element of peanuts) is squeezed out of the peanut and replaced by water.

John Currier, president of the National Peanut Council, can't understand the fuss. "Peanuts aren't that fattening," he says, "if taken in reasonable amounts."

Zero Population Growth hasn't helped the industry, either. After all, kids mean peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

Still, the work of Basic Commodities, Inc., of Clover,

Wis., has been encouraging. The firm has perfected a technique for mass producing peanut butter and jelly sandwiches (6,000 per hour), for shipment to school cafeterias.

"This solves a big problem for many schools," says Nitzberg. "Before, they couldn't serve large numbers of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches at lunch because it took too long to spread the peanut butter."

And for dessert, how about peanut butter ice cream? It's available now that certain technical problems have been resolved (at first, the peanuts absorbed too much moisture and became soggy.)

Peanut butter and jelly ice cream was featured in March (National Peanut Month) as one of Baskin-Robbins' 31 rotating flavors.

"We got a lot of fan mail on it," says Marilyn Slacks of Baskin-Robbins. "We'll be bringing it back next March."

Less certain, however, is the status of Fluffernut, a peanut butter and marshmallow flavor. "Fluffernut wasn't as popular," she says.

The peanut farmer's nerves wouldn't be so brittle if peanut butter were selling overseas the way Coca-Cola, blue jeans and other American exports do. But neither the crunchy nor the smooth variety has caught on.

Even the recent news that a girl's high school in Johannesburg had banned peanut butter because it was a sexual stimulant failed to stimulate sales.

"We've had some success in Japan, but not too much," says William Bates of the Georgia Farm Bureau. "Many of the British won't touch it because they had to live on low-quality peanut butter throughout World War II. And the French aren't a peanut butter country."

An obvious solution to the U.S. peanut explosion would be to curb production rather than increase consumption.

But that would require the changing of a 32-year-old law that allots the growers 1.6 million acres of peanut farmland.

And the head of the Senate Agriculture Committee is Herman Talmadge, the Georgia Democrat. Guess what Georgia's biggest cash crop is? "The senator doesn't want to do anything that would bankrupt the peanut industry," says an aide.

When the law came into effect 32 years ago, the growers' output was 700 pounds per acre. Now, with new fertilizers, pest controls and other advances, the figure is 2,500.

At present, the Agriculture Department buys up the surplus peanuts at a rate of $300 per ton (about $150 more than the world price).

That's the way it goes. The Arabs have too much oil; we have too many peanuts.

At least Peanuts Lowrey is doing his part to reduce the U.S. surplus. "I love peanuts, eat them all the time," says Peanuts, the former major league baseball star whose real first name is Harry (he got the nickname at birth from an uncle who said he looked like a peanut).

In the absence of more peanut gourmets like Peanuts, Butz would like to scrap the price-support program and force peanut farmers to sell on the world market.

Production would then fall naturally — and so would prices. Unlike many surplus items, peanuts have grown steadily more expensive, though sometimes in deceiving ways, i.e. the same price for a smaller bag.

A few years ago, an unhappy purchaser of one such bag sent it to Ralph Nader's Center for the Study of Responsive Law in Washington, D.C.

But before an investigation could be started, one of Nader's hungry lawyers saw the bag on a desk and ate the contents.

Joint U.S.-Soviet Space Mission Reportedly To Accomplish First Artificial Solar Eclipse

Agence France-Presse
MOSCOW — The joint U.S.-Soviet Apollo-Soyuz space mission due on July 17 will accomplish, among other unique experiments, history's first artificial solar eclipse, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Tuesday.

During a space maneuver on July 19, the U.S. space station Apollo will position itself between the sun and the Soviet Soyuz space laboratory, the Soviet party daily Pravda reported.

This will completely block out the sun as observed from Soyuz, permitting instruments on board the Soviet station to photograph the sun's "corona" — a luminous crown around its edge which is normally obscured by the sun's intense light.

Pravda noted scientists' deep interest in the corona of the sun, which generates high-energy particles and electromagnetic radiation responsible for many geophysical phenomena in the earth's atmosphere.

In the past, scientists have had to rely on natural solar eclipses to observe the corona.

But Pravda pointed out that total eclipses are brief (one to two minutes long) and rare (once every 300 years, for a given point on the earth).

Thus in the history of modern astronomy, the total observation time of the corona has amounted to barely two hours, Pravda wrote.

Another experiment to be carried out by Apollo-Soyuz is the creation of new metals and semi-conductors in the special conditions of space, where there is an almost absolute vacuum and weightlessness for as long as the experiment requires.

Finally, Pravda reported, the cosmonauts will study the effects of space flight — prolonged weightlessness, supergravitation during blastoff, cosmic rays, and so forth — on the basic biological rhythm of living organisms.

Meanwhile, Tass reported that Alexei Leonov and Valery Kubasov, the two cosmonauts who are to take part in Apollo-Soyuz, have been spending this last week before the flight, in last-minute preparations at Baikonur — the Soviet launching center.

The cosmonauts have been training every day in the launching tower from which the Soyuz will blast off on July 15, checking instruments on board with the help of technicians.

They have also been practicing radio communications in English, Tass said.

Sweaty Palms His Nemesis

DEAR ABBY: A young lady wrote to you about her boyfriend's refusing to shake hands with anyone, and you said he probably had a "thing" about germs.

That's possible, but there could also be another reason, one that's plagued me for years—sweaty palms.

The only time my palms aren't wet is when I'm asleep. They even sweat in cold weather. In school, I used to wad up a handkerchief and keep it in my hand while I wrote. Otherwise, the sweat would drip off my palm onto the paper, and the ink would run.

I hesitated to ask a girl to dance because I'd get the back of her dress wet before the first dance was over. And the hand I held would get wrinkled from sweat until it looked like she just did a sink full of dishes.

No doctor has been able to help me, so I just live with it. It's rude to refuse to shake hands, so I just wipe my hands on my pants leg or coat at the last moment before shaking hands—but it's embarrassing. I sympathize with anyone who has this problem because I know how frustrating it is. If you should ever hear of a remedy, please let me know.

SWEATY PALMS

DEAR SEATY: Doctors say it's nervousness. And the only remedy for nervousness is to build self-confidence and a better self-image. Work on it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 63. His father is 84, and a more handsome, robust, vigorous man you couldn't hope to meet. Eight years ago, when my father-in-law was 76, his wife died. A year later he married a 49-year-old maiden lady. To everyone's surprise, a year later they became proud parents of a baby boy! Obviously, this child is my husband's half-brother. The problem is that it sounds so utterly ridiculous for a 63-year-old man to introduce a 6-year-old child as his brother. People either say, "You're kidding," or they look at him as though he's crazy. (Everyone assumes the boy is his grandchild.)

Is there some way to get around this since the child calls my husband by his first name?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why try to get around it? If an 84-year-old man doesn't mind being called "Daddy" by a 6-year-old, your 63-year-old husband shouldn't worry about introducing the boy as his brother.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and sent out 48 announcements. I received 31 gifts and two cards.

Later, someone said that sending out a graduation announcement is just like asking for a present. I really felt proud to be graduating and didn't think that sending an announcement would be like asking for a present.

What do you think?
GIRL GRADUATE

DEAR GRADUATE: Sending announcements to relatives and very close friends is all right. But a good rule to follow is: When in doubt—don't.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Taxi Fleet Owners Being Sued In Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Davis, director of the Oscar-winning film "Hearts and Minds," has filed an $11-million damage action against two taxi fleet owners in connection with the death of his wife.

His wife, writer Johanna Mankiewicz Davis, daughter of film producer Joseph Mankiewicz, was walking on a sidewalk in Greenwich Village last July when two taxicabs collided and crushed her to death against a mailbox.

Davis filed suit in State Supreme Court Tuesday against taxi fleet owners George Edelman and Murray Rosenzweig. He claimed they operate 200 taxicabs and have "formed individual corporations for each cab to avoid anyone from being able to recover the full amount of damages."

Lions Thinned Out

SKUKUZA, South Africa (AP) — Wardens at the Sabie-Sand wild life reserve decided to thin out the lion population because they were killing deer. They invited Prime Minister John Vorster, and he shot and killed a 450-pound male lion. Vorster dropped the lion at 150 yards, game officials said Tuesday.
