Being Kicked By Boy Scouts 'Discouraging'

Hard-Boiled Private Eye Gives Up Soft-Boiled Bear Caper

McCLEARY, Wash. (AP) — Windsor Olson, private eye, has been kicked by Boy Scouts and attacked by loggers. That's why he is giving up.

"I have officially resigned," says the former and former president of Save Our Bears — S.O.B. "And there is no one who is willing to replace me."

As stew pots loaded with bear meat simmered last weekend at the 17th annual Second Growth and Bear Festival in this small Grays Harbor County community, Olson seethed in stolid silence.

The private eye, who works out of a small office in Seattle, decided eight years ago that the good people of McCleary should be making their fabled annual stew out of protein other than bear.

"Their reactions were somewhat surprising," said Olson. "And not a little frightening. I was even kicked by the Boy Scouts. It is very discouraging to be kicked by a Boy Scout."

"I was attacked by a drunken logger. Fortunately I was quicker than he was, or he had had more beer than he should have, because I was able to avoid his haymakers."

How did a hard-boiled private detective become involved in a cause against soft-boiled bears?

"It all seemed so unnecessary," said Olson. "They really had a lovely civic festival going there. Why did they have to go out and shoot all those animals — some years as many as 20? They used to award trophies for who shot what."

"What was worse, they would drag the animals through the streets ... some old bear bleeding away. It was rather a sorry spectacle."

But the general chairman of the Bear Festival, Jerry Elofson, said dead bears are no longer paraded through the city's streets.

Elofson said the bears come from a variety of sources — some are killed by state game officers as animal control; others are shot by hunters hired by the timber companies — to prevent the bears from eating up tender young evergreens — and still others are shot by private citizens.

Elofson said the recipe for enough stew to feed the thousands of visitors includes 500 pounds of bear meat, 40 pounds of beef to moderate the flavor of the stew, 1,200 pounds of vegetables — carrots, potatoes and onions — and a 50-gallon spice pot.

He said that the reaction to the stew has always been enthusiastic ... but not from Windsor Olson, private eye.

"Over the years, we tried to get them to substitute beef, or, if they were so tough down there — and come to think of it, they are so tough down there — why didn't they fight the bears, man to bear, instead of shooting them?"

"We suggested that they dress up the toughest loggers in motorcycle leathers, a helmet and spiked track shoes and let them run through the woods trying to capture the bears without weapons."

"We even set up a fund to buy the necessary equipment — $400, which we sent to them. They sent it back."

Steady Rain Soaks Midland, Basin Area

Unusual gray cloud-laden skies produced an abundance of rainfall in the Permian Basin Sunday, and Midland recorded a new low maximum temperature of 74 degrees for a July 20.

Steady rains fell on the city during most of the day, and the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal measured Sunday's precipitation at .68 inch with another .03 measured this morning.

Total rainfall at the weather station over the weekend amounted to more than 3.5 inches.

Cosmonauts Land Safely In Russia

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Soyuz cosmonauts, partners in history's first international space mission, blazed safely back to earth today, parachuting their capsule to a dusty landing on a flat, featureless wheat field in their homeland.

Three hours after Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov rode their bell-shaped spaceship to a landing, they arrived in a propeller-driven plane at the cosmodrome where they had been launched.

"We feel fine," Kubasov told a welcoming crowd. Soyuz Commander Leonov said, "It is very fortunate to be sent into space, but it's more fortunate to return home to earth."

Both were then whisked off in a bus to the cosmonaut hotel for medical tests. They were reported healthy but tired.

The landing, at 5:51 a.m. CDT, was televised around the globe, a first for a Soviet mission.

They left the Apollo astronauts behind in space for three more days of exploration. TV cameras mounted in helicopters picked up the Soyuz as it descended from the skies toward the plain in south central Russia, about 300 miles east of the Baikonur Cosmodrome, where they were launched last Tuesday.

Midland streets were curbed deep in rainwater runoff for several hours late Saturday and water could be seen making its way across the city Sunday.

Wadley-Barron and Grafton parks began to fill as the water coursed through the city.

Normal rainfall in the Midland area amounts to only 1.82 inches for the entire month of July, but measurements this month have totaled six inches by this morning's count.

The weather station at Air Terminal is listing the yearly rainfall total at 13.36 inches through early today.

Chances for more precipitation are good with the weather station calling for a 40 per cent probability this afternoon, 50 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Tuesday.

Weathermen say the unusual rainfalls are being caused by a low pressure system that is hovering over the West Texas area, causing a rotating air flow which pulls moist Gulf air into the region.

Flash flood watches were common during the weekend, and the weather service has posted a flash flood watch for the Midland area tonight.

Across the Permian Basin rainfall reports Sunday indicated most areas getting more than two-inch measurements.

Andrews County stations recorded from two to six inches at various locations Sunday with some minor and temporary road flooding.

Garden City had a weekend total of 2.3 inches while Rankin and Big Lake both measured only traces of precipitation.

Lamesa weather stations and others in Dawson County reported Sunday measurements of two to six inches with roads between Tarzan and Lenora flooding.

Egypt, Israel Work Out Three-Year Truce

By The Associated Press

The Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said today that Egypt and Israel have agreed to a three-year truce under which U.S. troops will man electronic listening posts in the Sinai Desert and Israel will pull back from key mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield.

Official sources in Jerusalem said Israel had proposed that U.S. personnel staff four radar stations between the Israeli and Egyptian front lines, with Israel and Egypt each operating one radar base.

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet issued a communique saying it would "resist any change" in the status of the United Nations peacekeeping force patrolling the six-mile-wide buffer zone in the Sinai Desert.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat has said his country will not renew the mandate of the 3,919-man force unless the Security Council adopts new resolutions calling for an Israeli pullback from occupied Arab lands.

Al Anwar, which has good connections in Cairo, published details of what it described as a five-point disengagement accord conveyed to President Sadat by U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts, who returned Sunday night from Washington.

The paper said the proposals "resulted from intensive contacts in the past few days between Washington and Jerusalem" and that "both sides have notified the United States of their approval of the accord."

There was no official confirmation from Cairo, where Sadat is scheduled to announce the Egyptian stand Tuesday in a speech to the opening session of the newly-elected National Congress of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only legitimate political organization.

Al Anwar said the new disengagement accord centers around Egypt's agreement to a three-year truce with Israel. It listed the following five points:

- Israel will withdraw "completely" from the Mitla and Gidi mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield.
- Israel will withdraw "gradually" from the rest of the Sinai Peninsula without the need for new disengagement agreements.
- The mandate of United Nations forces in the Sinai will be extended annually and will be renewed after each fresh Israeli withdrawal.
- Electronically equipped C-130 aircraft of the U.S. Air Force will discontinue their surveillance and reconnaissance.
- Israel will withdraw "completely" from the Mitla and Gidi mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield.

U.S. officials said the agreement "is a victory for collective bargaining, a victory for the postal unions and a victory for the Postal Service."

U.S. ratification by all of the four postal unions would take "upwards of 30 days."

"We still have a lot of work to do. We have a lot of language to clean up. But an agreement has been reached and we have had a handshake on it," U.S. said.

The negotiations continued more than two hours past the expiration at midnight Sunday of the old two-year contract. Union leaders had instructed members not to leave their jobs while negotiations continued past midnight, and there were no reports of job actions.

Postal Pact Tentatively Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new labor agreement for the nation's postal workers is expected to contribute to an increase in the cost of mailing a letter before the end of the year.

The new contract, tentatively agreed to early today, averted the possibility of a strike by the nation's 600,000 postal workers. Details of the settlement were not announced but the postal unions won one major victory, retention of a no-layoff clause.

"The wages which we pay postal workers is one element of our costs. They're going to go up," Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said at a news conference at which the settlement was announced. Labor-related costs are 85 per cent of the Postal Service's costs.

Bailar also said that the Postal Service expects to lose $800 million in the fiscal year that began July 1. He said the Postal Service needs higher rates to start breaking even.

"I'm certain there will be (postal rate) increases before the end of the year," Bailar said. The largest possible increase would be 13 cents per first-class letter.

Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. called the labor settlement "a victory for collective bargaining, a victory for the postal unions and a victory for the Postal Service."

Oldest Mode Of Transportation Definitely Cheapest Way To Go

By GEORGE MASSEY

Finding a parking space in downtown Midland is not the easiest job in town.

Between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on most weekdays, the most often answer is "full-up" and the downtown area visitor must circle the block several times, patronize a commercial parking lot or settle for a parking spot several blocks from the place of business he wishes to visit.

The problem stems from two sources, city officials say—the "meter feeder" (an office worker who makes a fast trip down the elevator every two hours) and the shopper who was lucky enough to find a parking space and turned a planned 15-minute trip into a three-hour shopping foray.

Whatever the cause, that single-post guardian over the parking space, the parking meter, generates considerable money for the city budget.

Not only does the city get the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters, but an additional amount comes in on parking tickets.

A recent report made by the traffic engineering department listed parking meter revenues of $3,761 for the month of June and $26,937 for the first six months of the year.

Parking tickets produced $4,308 in revenues last month, the Municipal Court reported. The court records listed a six-month revenue from tickets of $25,687.

Many Tickets Unpaid

Of the 3,326 parking citations issued during June, only 2,340 were paid. The court records department says that an average of 3,000 tickets are paid each month with an average of 1,000 of the citations going unpaid.

Municipal Court Judge W. B. Ahders said traffic citations for overparking that are not paid within five days are listed and a notice is mailed to the owner of the vehicle.

Ahders said an extra charge of $1 is tacked on to the five-day

HINTS FROM Heloise

A Homey Touch On A Mountain Highway

Dear Folks:
I often go out to my little cabin in the mountains (sure wish I could have you all there some week-end), and along the beautiful drive there is a little cafe and a darling little woman who runs it.

Her name is Pearl Boehme and she is a living doll.

As I sat with her one day at a table I noticed three bottles of fingernail polish and two emery boards along with the salt and pepper.

I couldn't imagine why.

Finally my inquisitiveness got the better of me and so I asked.

Miss Pearl told me that she kept it for her customers who needed their fingernails touched up from time to time and while they were waiting they used it free of charge.

Now that's about the snazziest idea I ever heard of. Don't you think so?

I do declare that if there were a neighborhood hamburger place like Pearl's near my home that would be the place where I would eat most of the time! But her idea would increase their business too.

Just thought some more neighborhood cafes should pick up this idea. What do they have to lose? A few smears of fingernail polish is all. And, believe me, it's far cheaper than the cast-up customers gobble up like wine.

Reckon some of them will take a hint, gals?

Just think what a boom it would be to working secretaries who just never have the time.

smiling on my way. It would lift the weight from painful portions yet the toes touch ground.

Well, in your "Heloise Column" you do this for our spirits. You lift the stress from our ickiest chores and encourage everyone of us to go lightly, joyously (and ingeniously if we can) about our homemaking and housekeeping.

You lift our hearts, too, Heloise, with the love and neighborly concern you express, as only you can. We would need Heloise even if we lived in a teacup. The leaves in my favorite one seem to say, "Bread Heloise 'casts upon the waters' is Angelcake!"

"Bobba"

You stole my heart away, Bobba. I shall never forget your precious letter. I appreciate it far more than you will ever know!

Dear Heloise:
I was cutting the grass with a push-type mower when I noticed I was getting blisters on my hands.

I didn't want to put gloves on because I was trying to get a suntan and white hands would look odd!

I decided to wrap a small bath towel around the handle of the lawn mower. My hands felt much better. They didn't get sweaty and slip around on the handle either.

Most of all — not one blister! Tanned — Not Blistered!

Dear Heloise:
Why peel hard-boiled eggs? Take a sharp knife, cut through the egg with a quick stroke, scoop out the half egg with a teaspoon.

Of course, this method is useless if you want the egg to be whole, but for other purposes it is a distinct time saver.

Mary Shipwash

Heloise:
P.S. If any of you see this actually happening around the country, do drop me a card on it. I shall see that all of them go to that precious Miss Pearl. She is the one who deserves all the credit.

Dear Heloise:
Sometimes I think, "Wouldn't it be wonderful if all the people who must flog along awkwardly, as I do now, or must depend on using their walkers, wheelchairs, crutches, or canes, could wear a buoyant little shoulder pack (with a selection of protty covers for ladies, of course!)"

With its help, we could peddle ourselves as easily as a tyre on a truck, no more with drawn-out, "Poor me!" looks, but

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?
"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
by Bryan Boet

In the 1870's William Ramsey set out to prove that the books of the New Testament were not what they claim to be. Like many today he thought that the scriptures were unreliable in historical detail and were not even the productions of the writers whose names are in the books. He singled out the book of Acts because of the numerous place names and historical settings given in that book. He thought that the book was a pseudonymous creation of the second century instead of the work of Paul's companion Luke, as the book itself indicates. He thought that by pointing out the obvious errors in the book he would shake the foundation of Bible-believing people. However, as he pursued his research and archaeological work, his point of view was completely reversed. Instead of finding what he expected — the book of Acts filled with historical contradictions and inaccuracies — he was faced with the evidence that the book was correct even in small details. He wrote, "Luke's history is unsurpassed in respect of its trustworthiness — Luke is a historian of the first rank."

Dear Abby There's Not One 'Conscience Place'

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if the U.S. government has what they call a "conscience place" where a person can go and pay the government what he has cheated them out of. If so, where is it? I want to die clean.

WANTS TO REPENT
DEAR WANTS: There is no one place. If you've cheated on your income tax, write to the Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C., with a note of explanation. If you've cheated on something else, send your remittance to any U.S. Treasury office with a note, and they will channel it to the proper place.

(P.S. In the meantime, pray. You know how slow the mails are.)

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Trapped." The young woman whose husband beat her and kept her a prisoner in her home with no money of her own. You told her to go to a family service agency for help. How could she get there? She doesn't drive.

My husband also kept me a prisoner, and I didn't drive. He never allowed me to have any friends, never gave me a penny for anything and wouldn't even let me go to church. He'd hit me when I complained.

When I threatened divorce, he said nobody else would have me. I had two children and no training for a job, so I put up with it for six years.

I finally started to talk with my minister on the phone. He told me that God didn't intend for marriage to be a test of anybody's endurance. He advised me to give my husband a time limit to seek help, and if he refused, to leave him with no regrets.

I took my minister's advice. My husband laughed in my face, told me no other man would have me and slapped me and the children around. Finally, I left.

I stayed with my parents for six months while I found a job and a place of my own. For two years I lived alone and found that I had an inner strength and a faith in God I didn't know was there.

I joined Parents Without Partners and dated when I could. I stayed with the church

Ford To Attend Oklahoma Fair

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—When the Oklahoma State Fair opens here Sept. 19, one of the speakers will be President Ford. The President has notified U.S. Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., that he has accepted an invitation to speak at the fair opening. "The purpose of his coming to the state fair is that the State Fair of Oklahoma was the first fair named as a bicentennial fair nationally," said Dean A. McGee, fair president and chairman.

SEE A DECORATING CONSULTANT — Hines-Wood, 5109 Andrews Highway, will send a decorator consultant to show fabric samples if you call 694-8891.

Plan Redecorating Around Re-upholstering

Are you planning to re-decorate? Before you buy new furniture check with Hines-Wood about re-upholstering your old furniture. Many times the old frames are better than new ones.

Generally the money saved by re-upholstering is over half the cost of new furniture. Hines-Wood has expert craftsmen, who re-work the furniture using the same machines and the same materials as the factory made, but Hines-Wood people take a little more time and give each piece individual attention.

Also Hines-Wood has a time payment plan with nothing down and 12 months to pay on approved credit. Hines-Wood also has a free pick-up and delivery. A decorator consultant will visit your home to show fabric samples. When the consultant quotes a price, it is the guaranteed price, not an estimate. Hines-Wood will re-do the furniture at the price quoted even though something more is found wrong.

"If it costs us more, we'll just have to be more careful with our examination of furniture next time," Mr. Hines said. "But the price we quote is the price the customer pays."

From The Easy Chair

There will probably never be a cure for the common cold as long as it remains a comparatively painless way to get a couple of days off. Nothing gets you into debt faster than trying to keep up with people who already are. Class reunions are going to be very confusing 25 years from now when everybody has a haircut. Worst thing about retirement is, you have to drink coffee on your own time. Money: Something that brushes past you on its way to the government. Grab a little and bring it to Hines-Wood Upholstery, 5109 Andrews Highway, for quality upholstery work at reasonable prices that will help you hold on to what you have left a little longer. Call us at 694-8891 for a free estimate in your home.

Hines-Wood has the largest stock of instock fabrics in West Texas which eliminates numerous problems of delay when you are ready to re-upholster. You can be sure of your pattern and color when you select instock fabrics. If you are thinking of re-decorating, see one of the experts at Hines-Wood, 5109 Andrews Hwy. or call 694-8891, for a consultant to bring samples into your home.

Major Polls Differ On Ford Popularity

The Washington Post and Gallup polls, which generally move up or down almost in lockstep when measuring presidential popularity, this month have gone in opposite directions. Gallup says "President Ford maintains his post-Mayaguez gains in popularity. In the latest nationwide survey, 32 per cent approve of the way Ford is handling his job," one percentage point above the 1975 high he hit in late May-early June after the Mayaguez incident.

Louis Harris, however, says "President Ford's over-all job rating has slipped again and now stands at 56-41 per cent negative. These latest results represent a 9-point drop since his highest rating following the Mayaguez incident" and take him back to where both polls had him in April.

Americans "seem to have forgotten Mayaguez," Harris says, and in fact, "Ford's job rating has suffered primarily because Americans ... are dissatisfied with his handling of foreign affairs." The two polls were taken at almost the identical time. Gallup talked to 1,586 Americans 18 years old and older June 27-30; Harris, 1,877 adult Americans just a few days later, July 5-10. There were "no major events" in those two weeks to shift public opinion, a bewildered Alec Gallup said when questioned over the weekend. "I've never seen them that far apart," he said of the two surveys. "It's crazy."

Leftist Push Gains Steam In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Portugal's leftist leaders stepped up their campaign of support today for Premier Vasco Goncalves who predicted he would form a new government by the end of the week and sweep away the crisis that has brought on demands he resign.

Goncalves told a Lisbon newspaper the new government would be one of "national unity" without political partisanship. The army general pointedly ignored demands by the nation's biggest party, the Socialists, that he quit the military-dominated government he has led for the past year.

Premier Ignores Socialists. And if he was informed of Socialist party leader Mario Soares' announcement that the Socialists would return to the government only if Goncalves resigned, the premier gave no indication of it.

Soares announced his terms for ending Portugal's governmental crisis at a rally in Lisbon on Sunday attended by more than 50,000 Socialists. They cheered and chanted "Out With Vasco!" when Soares declared that the country was being turned into a concentration camp.

The rally climaxed a week-end of clashes between Socialists and Communists in which two persons died and about 40 were injured.

Fresh Support Pledges. Today the armed forces' chief political and propaganda section, the 5th Division, called for fresh pledges of support for the Communist-oriented premier.

In its second statement within 24 hours, the 5th Division said the powerful Armed Forces Movement (AFM) fully supports Goncalves.

The Socialist and centrist Popular Democrats, who together polled two-thirds of the votes in April's constitutional assembly elections, pulled out of the government because of growing Communist influence in the administration and the decline of press freedoms.

President Speaks Out. Lisbon's only Sunday newspaper said President Francisco da Costa Gomes might install another military officer as premier unless Goncalves comes up with another government.

The president issued a statement assuring the Portuguese people that a new government would be formed soon and, inviting political parties to take part in the military-dominated coalition. He did not mention Goncalves by name, strengthening the impression that the premier might be on his way out.

Church Starts Trust Account To Help Ease Surgery Burden

Open heart surgery is one of the more expensive operations a person can undergo, but, thanks to the Tall City Baptist Church, Mrs. Phyllis Bradford's recent operation isn't going to drain her savings completely.

The church has established a trust account at Commercial Bank and Trust Co. to help ease the burden brought on by the June 19 surgery at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Bradford is the widow of the late Odell Bradford of Midland, who died last year. She worked at the S. S. Kresge Co. store in Dellwood Plaza as a waitress in the cafeteria before surgery and was covered by the store's hospitalization insurance, but there is no major medical coverage.

The Bradfords were married in England during World War II and came to Midland in 1960. It was not until her husband's death last year that Mrs. Bradford discovered she was not automatically a U.S. citizen just because she married a soldier.

Henry's Garbage Interesting

LANTANA, Fla. (AP) — The household garbage of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger recently yielded a shopping list for three cases of whisky, a prescription envelope for a powerful tranquilizer, and hundreds of Secret Service documents, the National Enquirer says.

The trash was retrieved earlier this month by Jay Gourley, a reporter for the Enquirer, a weekly newspaper based in Lantana. Gourley sifted through five bags full of newspapers, old potatoes, empty jars, and other onerous items for information.

When the State Department learned of the trash-grabbing, it said the action "caused grave anguish to Mrs. Kissinger and the secretary is really revolted by what he considers a violation of the privacy of his house."

In a copy of its story released Sunday prior to publication in this week's editions, the newspaper said the discarded material "would be of vital interest to a potential assassin."

The Enquirer says documents

retrieved by Gourley included: —Work schedules which revealed the exact number of agents on duty at Kissinger's home and the names of most of the agents assigned to him.

—A document revealing that the Secret Service is testing a new code light signal system for all its limousines.

—A handwritten note on the back of an activity report which gave the number and type of arms and ammunition supply carried in each Secret Service limousine.

—A document presumably written by an agent indicating that a shotgun had been left behind during Kissinger's trip to the Virgin Islands last month.

The article, written by Gourley, said Kissinger's trash contained numerous handwritten and typed documents about the secretary's travel schedules.

Miss Finland Crowned As New Miss Universe

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — "I am homesick sometimes, but I have no time for it now," says Anne Pohjanto of Finland, the new Miss Universe.

The tall, green-eyed, blonde fashion model was crowned here Saturday night. One of her prizes is a $10,000 personal appearance contract which will keep her busy traveling for a year.

"I'm usually homesick before I go to sleep, but I've been so tired here that I really haven't thought about it," Miss Pohjanto, 19, said Sunday.

Wild Weather Widespread

By The Associated Press

The Southwest and the East braced for more torrential rain today following downpours and thunderstorms Sunday that caused flash flooding and mud slides. Sixteen persons were injured when lightning struck a picnic in Virginia.

Thunderstorms over the Rockies poured 2½ inches of rain near Alpine, Colo.

Heavy rains caused mud slides in Pennsylvania, where a 12-mile stretch of the Pennsylvania Turnpike between the Reading and Morgantown interchanges were blocked for two hours Sunday night. There were several minor accidents but no injuries, a turnpike spokesman said.

Sixteen persons were struck by lightning, which injured several friends and relatives gathered under an awning.

'Dependence Day'

An interfaith "Day of Prayer" will be observed Thursday at Dallas, with home, church and community participation.

It is reported to be an unprecedented event in Big D.

According to news reports, bells will ring throughout the city at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. to call residents to remember their religious heritage and what it means for the future.

The day has been designated by Dallas church groups and religious leaders as "Dependence Day," a "time to declare our dependence upon God as did the Continental Congress in 1775."

"The Bicentennial affords the church and synagogue a matchless opportunity to remember the significant role religion has played in the life of the nation," Dr. Louis Saunders, executive director of the Greater Dallas Council of Churches, said.

"God is present in history and His Word thunders out for us to find directions for the future by remembering the past."

This is a great spirit and a marvelous, pace-setting opportunity for Bicentennial observance across the land.

This is something in which Midland and all other cities, large and small, can and should become involved.

One Midland civic leader several weeks ago suggested that Midland observe a community-wide Day of Prayer. Perhaps others have made similar recommendations, and it could be that plans already have been mapped for an event of this nature here.

Many Dallas churches, it is reported, will hold special services Thursday. A sacrificial fasting luncheon is scheduled at one church. All residents are encouraged to fast from sunup to sundown. Neighborhood services, as well as services in the home, are suggested.

It appears that Dallasites have planned well and thoroughly for their citywide observance.

Cyclamates Misjudged

Cyclamates, after taking it on the chin for five or six years now, may not be so hazardous after all.

In fact, the scientist whose research was cited by the federal government as the basis for its ban on cyclamates now says he was shocked when the artificial sweeteners were ordered off the market.

"It concluded nothing about cyclamates," Dr. Bernard Oster said of his study which was cited in the 1969 decision halting use of the chemical which millions of weight-conscious Americans were drinking in diet soft drinks.

Wonder how many other items and substances have been banned without just cause? This could be expensive.

Cyclamates were banned by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare because the agency said research revealed the sugar substitute caused bladder cancer in some rats. Oster's study was cited as the major scientific evidence supporting the official position.

Some more recent studies, however, have not shown that cyclamates cause cancer in laboratory animals.

The Food and Drug Administration has asked the National Cancer

Institute to have a panel of scientists study the issue, reporting its conclusions by January of next year. The FDA then may reconsider the cyclamate ban.

It is good to know that at least one government agency may admit and reconsider a possible error.

Playing With Fire In The Sinai Desert?

WASHINGTON—The proposal that American civilians man electronic surveillance stations in the Sinai for the Israelis was authored by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Alas, it revives that old concern about putting our citizenry in foreign hot spots, and by that I don't mean the desert.

Kissinger's proclivity to reach into Uncle Sam's magic gift bag for goodies to bargain with is known in Moscow, Peking, Hanoi, Saigon, Damascus and Tel Aviv. This artful dangle can produce results, but in this case the Israelis want no part of it.

In discussions over any troop withdrawal in the occupied Sinai, the Israelis express apprehension about giving up their "early warning radar system" against Egyptian aircraft.

Even if Americans maintained the system for them, the Israelis wouldn't be satisfied because they just don't want U.S. personnel performing military tasks on their soil unless absolutely necessary. Moreover, Israelis don't like the idea of being dependent on any outside nation for security intelligence.

While Israel welcomes the vast assistance it gets from the United States, the last thing it wants is the American people to think that one day U.S. servicemen will be needed to protect Israel. For the same reason, Israel has always rejected proposals for a mutual defense treaty, or an alliance of the kind J. W. Fulbright, former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has proposed.

There are events in the past which are exceptions to this Israeli rule, but they have not jeopardized the Americans involved. A fair number of U.S. civilian technicians have assisted the Israelis in learning how to use and maintain American military equipment. This practice is quite limited because it invites the Soviets to respond in kind with their Arab clients.

One notable exception was the period from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, 1973, when Israel had tough going in its war with Egypt and Syria.

When President Richard Nixon ordered a huge emergency airlift of military supplies to Israel, the Air Force installed 60 of its officers and men at Lod Airport, near Tel Aviv, for one month's duty.

Case For Business Stated By Writer

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Big business in this country must be run by fools. They spend $28 billion a year advertising their products, yet the average American is allowed to nurture a false — and politically crippling — idea of corporate profits and capital.

Talk of a corporation tax cut seems implausible until this mistaken image is corrected. Until then, business will lack the necessary money for modernization, expansion and keeping up with foreign competitors. But the person in the street doesn't know this, and business can't state its case with lengthy magazine advertisements about free enterprise or with "public service" grants to orchestras and urban coalitions.

The problem doesn't lie with people who read newspaper editorial pages. By and large, the men and women who must be reached are those who watch Archie Bunker, read only the sports pages in newspapers, or buy women's magazines for macaroni casserole recipes and Jackie Kennedy stories. And here's the message that ought to be put out:

"Hey, champ. Yes, you. Are you one of the people who answered a recent nationwide poll by guessing that U.S.

Kevin P. Phillips

manufacturing corporation profits averaged 33 per cent a year? If so, you're not alone — that was the average guess. It's also ridiculous — the average U.S. corporation earns just a 5 per cent profit after taxes. You get this number certified in hundreds of places — by libraries, by government offices, by congressmen or senators.

"Let's face it. Five per cent isn't a lot. Joe Citizen gets more putting money in a bank. But with only 5 per cent a year, our industries don't have much left after they pay shareholders a halfway reasonable return. They don't have enough to modernize, to keep up with new technology, and also meet growing Federal environmental requirements.

"You're probably saying 'my heart bleeds for poor, impoverished big business.' Maybe you're like some politicians who run around Washington waving figures showing that business now pays only 17 per cent of all federal taxes. Whereas back in 1960, it paid 23 per cent. Maybe you think that means business is getting a cushier deal now, and that corporate complaints are hot air.

"Well, let me tell you the reason why business pays a smaller part of the tax load — it's because business profits are a shrinking share of the U.S. national income. In 1965, business profits constituted 6.8 per cent of national income; by 1969, they were just 3.8 per cent and fell to 2.3 per cent in 1973.

"No sir, the money you believe goes to business is really being sucked up by the public sector — by expanding government programs and bureaucracy. Federal, state and local government outlays now take about 35 per cent of the Gross National Product.

"And how do they get all that money? By taxes, of course. For example, economists have estimated that more than 100 different taxes affect the price of a loaf of bread! That money winds up with bureaucrats, not businessmen. In fact, even though business profits constitute just 3 per cent of the national income, taxes on business raise 17 per cent of federal revenues! In part, that's because the U.S. government taxes business and capital at a much higher rate than in most other countries. Even Sweden, with its socialist economy and welfare state, taxes business at lower rates to allow capital accumulation for up-to-date technology and equipment.

"You probably don't believe all this. Maybe you think it's just more slick propaganda. So go to the library. Talk to your friends. Write to your congressman to check these figures (but be specific). Think about what we've said, and we'll have another message for you shortly." End of hypothetical advertisement.

Unfortunately, the boardroom bureaucrats who run American big business don't have the moxie to confront this issue head-on. Too many of them are content to live on past glory and past profits, using up the accumulated economic muscle of bygone decades. But by 1990 or 1995, if U.S. industry is not revitalized, the economy will be in sad shape — and the people who will suffer are exactly those poor chumps who now regrettably interrupt their baseball games or afternoon soap operas to give pollsters ignorant estimates that U.S. corporations are gorging at the trough of 33 per cent annual profits.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON With Les Whitte

WASHINGTON — In the American drama, reporters constantly try to uncover the misdeeds that the authorities cover up. It is not surprising, therefore, that some officials want to muzzle cantankerous reporters.

The big weapon against the press today is the subpoena. It is used to wipe out the reporter's First Amendment right to conceal the identity of his sources.

This is essentially an attack on investigative reporting, which cannot exist without confidential sources. Any reporter who divulges confidences obtained in his professional capacity will lose his sources.

Most of our own confidential informants are dedicated public servants, who become disturbed over mismanagement, mispending and corruption in their agencies.

To whom should they report the wrongdoing? Many come to us because they don't trust the government to investigate itself. They come in confidence because they fear reprisals from superiors who may be implicated in the misconduct.

There is nothing devious about this process. It is precisely what our Founding Fathers intended. It is the reason, indeed, that they established in the First Amendment certain freedoms and immunities for the press.

The reporter's function is to give the people an alternate source of information so they are not dependent only upon official pronouncements; to expose and thus stop a particular bit of public mischief; to set in motion the reforms that will prevent its recurrence.

Only tangentially is the reporter concerned with the conviction of the guilty parties, which is the task not of the press but of the state.

Good lawmen, prosecutors and judges welcome the help of the press in exposing corruption. So essential is this function that Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., has said: "With minor exceptions, every major scandal in public office over the past 20 years was uncovered by the press."

Legislators in many states have passed "shield laws" to supplement the First Amendment in protecting reporters from harassment about their sources.

Jack Anderson

But some prosecutors and judges wear the mantle of Richard Nixon, the king of coverups. Nixon was haunted by dark secrets and, in an attempt to hide them, committed first the blunders and then the crimes that produced the greatest political scandal in American history—Watergate.

A little of Watergate still lingers at all levels of government.

In California, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and Ohio, reporters have been subpoenaed — more than 50 in the last four months — and placed in varying degrees of jeopardy over this matter of confidential sources.

We will cite three cases at random: —In Fresno, Calif., four newsmen from the Fresno Bee have been sentenced to indefinite jail terms by Judge Denver Peckinpaugh for refusing to disclose where they obtained grand jury evidence of local corruption. California has a shield law, which supposedly prevents judges from ordering reporters to divulge their sources. But Judge Peckinpaugh considers himself above the law, saying it intrudes on his prerogatives. Appeal pending.

—In Moscow, Idaho, Jay Shelleby of the Lewiston Morning Tribune has been sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Roy Mosman for refusing to reveal a news source. Appeal pending.

—In Los Angeles, Calif., reporter William Farr awaits an appeals ruling on whether he will be returned to jail — where he already has served 46 days — for refusing to reveal his sources to Judge Charles Older.

Such judges are not necessarily corrupt. Some are merely incompetent, others arrogant. In their puffed-up importance, they demand that all considerations must yield to the majesty of their courts.

In their narrow circle of omnipotence, they resent the necessary immunities that make possible the institutions that preserve freedom — immunities traditionally given the family, the church, the university, the doctors, the press.

Others like Chief Justice Warren Burger with his talk of "pipsqueak reporters" regard the press that has embarrassed the Establishment as a menace to be put in its place.

So it is that in many places the courts, to augment their own power, are making war on the Constitution.

SPACE GENESIS: Last week's linkup between the Apollo and Soyuz spacecrafts is a monumental step towards peace on earth. Few people realize, however, how it all began.

The idea was conceived by editor Jess Gorkin of PARADE Magazine, who also first proposed the hot line between Moscow and Washington. His suggestion of a joint space flight was published in PARADE in 1966. Three years later, astronaut Frank Borman discussed the concept with Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov. A final agreement was signed on May 24, 1972.

Soyuz commander Aleksey Leonov has acknowledged Gorkin's contribution. Said Leonov: "Now we will meet in space as this man (Gorkin) said. Together we have begun an irreversible thing."

Old London Train May Be Buried Underneath Garden

LONDON (AP) — A team of subway train enthusiasts plans to dig up a suburban London garden next month in a search for a train that's been lost for 110 years.

Members of the London Underground Railway Society hope to find what could be Britain's earliest subway passenger train in a long forgotten tunnel, says the latest edition of London Transport News.

The train, designed by engineer T. W. Rammell, was blown along by compressed air in an early attempt to find an alternative to steam. It ran as an experiment between 1864 and 1865 but then the demonstration tunnel was closed up.

Society Secretary Samuel Jones said the tunnel has been located with the help of an old map.

When the society digs down to it from the garden of an abandoned house at Crystal Palace, south London, he said, "with luck we will find the train inside the tunnel. None of the reports say what happened to it."

The society's project has the approval of the Greater London Council, which runs London's present subway system.

James Brown Due Home Next Week

City Manager James Brown entered his second week of chemotherapy treatments at M. D. Anderson Hospital at Houston this week, and is expected to be back in Midland next week.

Brown is an outpatient at the Houston hospital while undergoing the chemotherapy treatments. The Midland city manager is being accompanied by his family while in Houston, where he recently underwent major surgery.

Khmer Rouge Reportedly Kill About 300 Fleeing Cambodians

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — Khmer Rouge soldiers ambushed three groups of Cambodians fleeing toward the Thai border last week and killed nearly 300 men, women and children without warning, witnesses say.

About a dozen survivors told The Associated Press over the weekend the ambushes occurred about 50 miles from the Thai border near the provincial capital of Battambang in north-west Cambodia. There was no official confirmation of their account.

"The killing was horrible. I saw blood streaming from their bodies which were riddled with bullet holes," one of the survivors said. "I heard them screaming for help as I ran from the scene. I nearly killed myself when I saw my friends gunned down."

Leo Club Talks Lions Camp Plans

Their upcoming visit to the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville was discussed by members of the Midland Leo Club at their recent meeting in the Southside Lions Club Building.

Other matters discussed included visitations this week to the sponsoring Lions Clubs—Downtown, Evening, Morning and Westside—and a membership effort tentatively set for late August and early September.

The Leo visited the Southside Lions Club, another sponsoring unit, at its meeting last Friday.

OFFICERS INSTALLED—Duncan C. Howard, right, of Waco, Past Grandmaster of the Grand Lodge of Texas, installed Hershel Beaty, center, as Warden, and Bert Cornelius as Worshipful Master, Saturday in ceremonies at the Academia Masonic Lodge.

The survivor, Ung Ties Seng, 32, said he and his two children were part of a group of 200 Cambodians who had slipped out of a forced labor camp but fell into a Khmer Rouge ambush about 20 miles northwest of Battambang City. Only about 30 of their group made it to Thailand, he said.

A second ambush occurred about 10 miles east of Battambang when the Khmer Rouge opened up on about 100 refugees strung out in a line, the survivors said.

"They didn't give us any warning, but just opened fire on us. Even babies were shot," recalled Ky Teng, 32, who said he and about 70 others were the only ones to survive.

The third ambush reportedly took place at a village some 15 miles west of Battambang. Uk Sam Hun said he witnessed the deaths of some 30 members of his group after he climbed a tree when the shooting started.

"I was so afraid. I looked down from the tree and saw everyone running in disarray," he said. "Some of them fell and died immediately, while others tried to take cover. But the Khmer Rouge kept firing."

Solzhenitsyn Turns Down 'Last Inning' Invitation

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — After once being snubbed by the White House, Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn turned down a "last inning" invitation and said he would go there only if invited by President Ford, according to Sen. Jesse Helms.

Helms also said in a telephone interview Sunday that the Nobel Prize-winning author has left Washington and has no definite plans to return. But the North Carolina Republican says "he will come back."

Helms, who first became a pen-pal then a personal friend of Solzhenitsyn, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., suggested a meeting between Ford and Solzhenitsyn in a letter to the White House June 30.

While the response was at first favorable, Ford's aides later rejected the idea because they feared that such a meeting would offend Soviet officials, Helms said.

Helms said Sunday that the White House asked him last Tuesday afternoon if he could get Solzhenitsyn to a 5:15 p.m. meeting with Ford. The author and Helms were in Sen. Henry M. Jackson's office, Helms said.

Solzhenitsyn rejected the meeting because the author feared he was pushing himself on Ford and said he would accept only a written invitation from Ford, Helms said.

The White House "didn't want to get so much crow," Helms said, and no invitation was written.

Warren Panel Member Convinced Oswald All Alone

NEW YORK (AP) — John J. McCloy, a member of the Warren Commission that investigated the 1963 assassination of President Kennedy, says he is convinced Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone.

"I went down there (to Dallas) convinced, well, not convinced, but thinking there must have been a conspiracy," McCloy, 80, said Sunday in a television interview.

"It was a strange sort of a thing," he continued. "But when we got down there, I couldn't find any connection."

McCloy described as "just nonsense" theories that there was a conspiracy involved in Kennedy's death.

Schweiker Says JFK Death Investigation May Be Reopened

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Senate panel probing the CIA says there is a possibility of a reopening of the investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said Sunday that a fatal flaw of the Warren Commission that looked into the Kennedy assassination is that it made no reference to a number of attempts to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro prior to Kennedy's death.

Schweiker said the Warren Commission did not know of these attempts, which, together with a warning to U.S. leaders by Castro 2½ months before the Dallas assassination, led him to believe that "one of the spinoffs of our investigation could well be to reopen the Warren Commission investigation."

Schweiker spoke on the CBS program "Face the Nation." He said there was no doubt that there were attempts on Castro's life at the time from the United States "with governmental backing" and that these could provide "the motivational factor" for Kennedy's assassination. He added, however, that he had no hard evidence and that his comments expressed only his opinion and not the committee's.

Friday, committee chairman

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said that there was no direct evidence linking past presidents with assassination attempts outside the United States.

Schweiker, however, said that there also is no direct evidence exonerating presidents of assassination attempts.

Schweiker added that he believes Presidents Johnson, Kennedy and Eisenhower knew of assassination plots.

On another matter, he suggested that former President Richard M. Nixon might be called before the committee to testify on other CIA-related issues.

Schweiker said "there's a question of calling Mr. Nixon

(to testify) for several things. Chile would be one, Greece would be another... We haven't ruled that out and that is a line of investigation..." Schweiker said.

Evening Council Session Set Tuesday

A 6 p.m. session of the city council Tuesday will attempt for the second time this summer to draw more citizen participation in community affairs.

The council has indicated evening sessions were requested by various citizens and groups to allow "working people" to attend.

Fred Poe, assistant city manager, said the council has scheduled a third evening session for the second council meeting during August.

The first evening session of the summer, held last month, received less than a full house, but councilmen are expecting a larger turnout Tuesday to witness action on a 26-item agenda.

A resolution to approve plans and specifications and to authorize the advertisement for bids for a tennis center to be located at Midland College will be considered.

The cost of the public tennis center has been estimated to be $90,000, to be split by the city and college for eight courts without lighting.

Because funds are unavailable through the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for the project, college and council officials have expressed a desire to start the tennis project without the immediate aid of federal funds.

Dr. Al Langford, Midland College president, says the BOR can not consider the project until late September when additional funds become available.

Councilmen approved the go-ahead on the tennis complex after determining that the complex would be a public center.

A grant agreement authorized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development concerning Midland's acceptance of Community Development Funds will also be considered Tuesday.

The city has $250,000 coming in the first year's development funds for street, drainage and housing improvements in low-income areas.

Total funds over a five-year period will amount to more than $4 million.

Three public hearing on zone change requests are slated for the Tuesday evening session.

At 7:15 p.m. a public hearing on the request of Bessie O. Brunson will be heard for a temporary specific trailer permit at 206 E. New York St.

At 7:40 p.m. a public hearing on the request of W. M. Hickey will be heard to amend a planned district ordinance to allow a larger building at 3300 and 3302 Mogford St.

At 7:45 p.m. a public hearing on the request of Charles N. Wallace will be heard on an amendment to a planned district to allow a townhouse development in lieu of apartments on block 16 of Highland Park, section two.

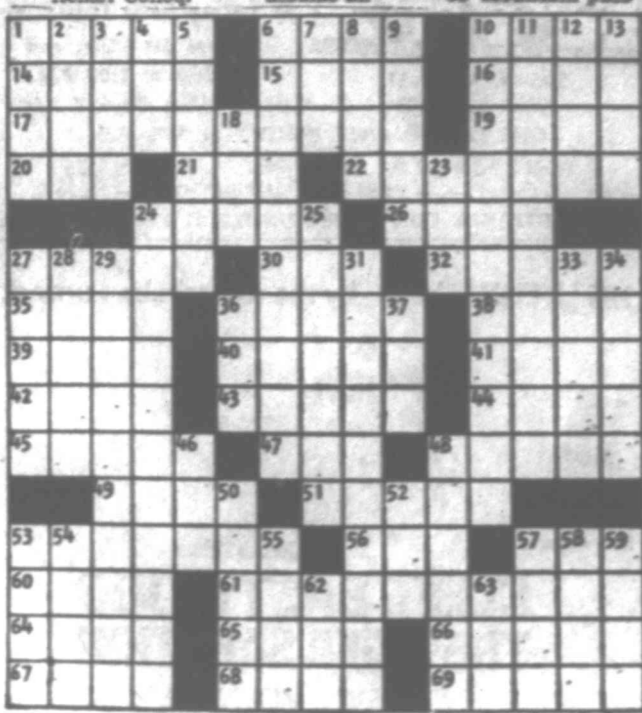

The council will consider accepting five units in the assessment paving program under street project 125 which have been completed on Gulf, Austin and Bedford streets.

Ford Will Veto Oil Price Rollback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will add another layer to the White House-Congress stalemate over energy policy when he vetoes a bill rolling back the price of new U.S. oil to $11.20 a barrel.

In addition to clamping a ceiling on new oil prices, which currently stand on the world market at about $13 a barrel, the bill would leave the price of old oil — oil produced from wells in existence prior to 1972 — at $5.25 a barrel. Ford was expected to issue the veto late this afternoon.

After the veto, the next round will come Tuesday in the protracted and complex battle between the Ford administration and Congress over energy policy. That's when the House is expected to reject Ford's proposal to raise the average price of all U.S. oil from about $9 a barrel to $13.50 a barrel over the next 30 months.

Ford sent his $13.50 plan to Congress last week, but it cannot go into effect if either the House or the Senate votes against it.

That Ford program reflects the administration's emphasis on higher prices as a means of curbing gasoline consumption.

Many congressional Democrats, on the other hand, prefer mandatory conservation measures.

Aside from these basic philosophical differences, the stalemate takes on more urgency because the $5.25 price ceiling on old oil expires Aug. 31, and Congress is set to take a month vacation beginning Aug. 1.

Because 60 per cent of U.S. oil sells for that price, the expiration of the price-control ceiling would mean a sudden and sharp jump in gasoline prices. The White House estimates that jump at 8 cents a gallon, while some Democrats contend a gallon of gasoline would cost 15 cents more, almost overnight.

The congressional response to this possibility appears to be a move extending existing price controls through next March 1, mainly to give both sides more time to agree on a compromise. The Senate has passed such an extension, and it comes before the House this week.

However, White House officials said over the weekend that Ford will veto such an extension and that there is "no doubt" the veto would be sustained.

Oil Laps At Florida Keys Beaches

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An oil slick threatening about 60 miles of shoreline along the Florida Keys began to dissipate today, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said.

Environmental experts were at the site with booms to contain the oil, but currents seemed to be doing a good job of clearing it, the spokesman said. The slicky mess extends two to three miles offshore in blobs along the land chain, and varies in width from five to 15 miles.

The Coast Guard's Gulf Strike Team was called from Mississippi in case the slick moves closer to shore, but officials said that chance was slim.

Li. Cmdr. George Davis said the floating mass is a "moderate spill. It's big enough to be a pain in the neck, but it is not classified as a major spill."

Davis added, "From past experience, I would say the chances are very small that we'll catch whoever did it. It's fair to say that whoever dumped it is halfway to Norfolk, Va., or the Panama Canal by now."

Crews stood by to shovel up the unrefined crude oil in case the isolated bubbles of oil already washed up increased on today's tides to a wave of oil, Davis said.

"There's not much chance of it hurting or killing anyone," he said. "Some of this stuff is so thick that birds could land on it."

There were no reports of boating mishaps or wildlife kills due to the slick. "Mostly, this thing will just cause a lot of inconvenience," Davis said.

The slick hovered along 40 miles of beaches in the resort island chain late Sunday, from Marathon, about midway in the chain, to the southern tip and 60 miles into open sea to the south and west of Key West, officers said.

"I'd say we've got about 40,000 to 60,000 gallons of oil out there, which in oil spill language is not that much," Davis said.

He said the Miami Coast Guard station had requested additional personnel and 6,000 feet of oil boom, to be used as a kind of floating fence to help contain the oil if it drifts into sheltered waters.

Though first reports of the spill were made public Sunday afternoon, Davis said he learned the slick was near the Keys at about midnight Saturday.

Santa Rita Club Organized Here

A name was selected, a nominating committee appointed and a set of by-laws adopted at the first meeting of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum's new volunteer group.

The group named itself the Santa Rita Club. Santa Rita is the patron saint of the impossible and Santa Rita Number One was the name of the first large oil strikes in the Permian Basin.

About 30 persons attended the recent meeting of the club, which is being formed under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

The president of that group, Mrs. Reg. F. Hyer, presided at the meeting and appointed a nominating committee to select a slate of officers.

Homer Fort, vice president of the museum, told the group that volunteer activities at the museum would include secretary work, library work, artifact research, photography and art and work in the museum store.

The group, which will have its first full scale meeting in October, was given a tour of the museum.

David and Inez Faskan of Midland No. 1-X Feet, reentry project in the Northwest Midland County area, 8 1/2 miles northwest of Midland, is testing to complete.

During the last 24-hour test reported, the project flowed Wolfcamp gas at the rate of 62,000 cubic feet per day, through an 8-64-inch choke and perforations from 9,858 to 9,867 feet. It also made 39 barrels of oil.

Tipperary Net Up For Quarter

Tipperary Corp. has announced record net income of $6,498,000 or $1.57 per share for the third quarter ended June 30.

The figures compare to $1,382,000 or 34 cents per share for the comparable period of 1974.

Revenues for the respective periods were $4,956,000 compared to $3,294,000.

For the nine months ended June 30, net income was $7,290,000 or $1.76 per share compared to $6,777,000 or $1.65 per share.

Revenues for the nine months were $13,273,000 compared to $9,641,000.

Lightning-Set Fire Destroys Oil Tank

Lightning apparently struck a Gulf Oil Co. tank about 8 miles north of Midland late Sunday, setting a fire which destroyed the tank. Midland firemen extinguished the blaze.

A Gulf official said the tank was not being used but had enough gas mixture in it to ignite when the lightning struck. Part of the tank collapsed, a fireman said.

net income is approximately $1.40 per share earned from a Mobil Oil coal trade.

Officials of the company said last year's nine months net income benefited from a 58 cent per share extraordinary credit resulting from a tax loss carry-forward and in the third quarter of 1974, approximately 26 cents were reported from the coal trade to Mobil.

Clayton Rule Proves Stumbling Block To Press

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN (AP) — The days when a curious citizen or a reporter with a hot tip could see House expense account and payroll records at a moment's notice are gone.

Speaker Bill Clayton's policy governing access to those records provides an easy out to a legislator who wants to delay an investigation into how he spends the public's money in his office account.

It also has proven to be a stumbling block to the kind of journalistic "fishing expeditions" that turned up payroll padding and expense account abuses, even in the days before the 1973 Texas Open Records Act.

"Anyone wishing to look at representatives' expense account and payroll records must obtain each member's permission to do so. If one seeks to view the consolidated House payroll or make a sweeping probe of how the entire House spends its expense account money, he needs to get approval from all 150 representatives.

On June 25, The Associated Press had form letters placed in all House members' mailboxes requesting permission to see their records.

Unresponsive
As of Saturday, almost a month later, 55 had not responded with written authorizations. Some replied only in the past few days, after a complaint from The AP put Clayton's staff to work making phone calls and writing letters.

Clayton has said that since legislators do not usually remain in Austin when there are no sessions to attend, each member should designate someone to handle requests for records in his absence.

"If a member is not available or has no designee, I'll provide the information myself," he told a news conference June 12 after the Fort Worth Star-Telegram had encountered problems in obtaining records of Tarrant County representatives.

Clayton chose, however, to jog individual legislators to respond to The AP request and did not order House employees to grant The AP access to the records.

But, "if you need them by 5 o'clock tomorrow, we can get them," said Clayton's executive assistant, Jack Gullahorn.

"It's not a question of whether you get it. You are entitled to it. This is the methodology we use," Gullahorn said.

Each House member received $4,000 per month during the legislative session and gets $3,000 monthly now to pay for such office expenses as supplies, equipment rental, stationery, printing, pictures of himself, postage, telephone calls and publications.

Waste Uncovered
Newspaper investigations in the past have uncovered wasteful spending and payroll padding. Representatives have been convicted of misusing state postage stamps. One House member is awaiting trial on charges that he put personal employees on the state payroll.

The AP protested against Clayton's rule early this year, but Atty. Gen. John Hill issued an opinion that it did not appear to violate the Open Records Act as a matter of law.

Hill did not express an opinion on whether the procedure was unreasonable or restricted the rights of the public to government information, saying these were fact questions on which he could not legally rule.

Hill recently said privately, however, that he was disturbed to learn of the delays imposed by Clayton's procedure.

Without permission from all members, the procedure keeps reporters and the public from viewing the consolidated, computerized payroll showing all House employees. The chief payroll clerk said individual cards would have to be pulled for each employe unless written permission could be shown from all representatives to

Mrs. Hearst Puts Weed On Notice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mother says she will protect her kidnapped daughter from defamatory publicity, even if it means legal action against Miss Hearst's former fiance, Steven Weed.

The 27-year-old Weed says he has completed two-thirds of a book about Miss Hearst, her kidnaping and the effort to get her back. He said he doesn't now have a publisher for the book, but hopes to finish it in time to resume his graduate studies in philosophy at the University of California in Berkeley.

"I hope there is nothing negative in the book," Catherine Hearst said in a weekend telephone interview. "I wouldn't imagine that there would be."

Asked if she would take action against Weed if she felt material in the book would be defamatory, Mrs. Hearst replied, "I'm considering defending Patty and if that involves legal action, we'll certainly do that."

But she said that she currently was not considering any action to block Weed's book.

"How could I? I don't even know what is in the book," she said.

The Chicago Tribune reported Sunday that Weed said he was on "good terms" with the Hearsts until a magazine article appeared written by a former collaborator of his on the book.

The article detailed the couple's three-year-old love affair before Miss Hearst was kidnaped and told of the

Five Major Quakes Hit Solomons

HONOLULU (AP) — Five major earthquakes rocked an area in the Solomon Islands east of New Guinea late Sunday and early today.

No damage or injuries were reported.

The quakes were centered off the coast of the Solomons and not in populated areas. They struck in a massive trench at sea on the Asian side of the International Dateline.

The quakes ranged from 6.4 to 7.8 on the Richter Scale, which is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

Thus, a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

The 1966 earthquake which struck San Francisco registered 8.25 on the Richter Scale.

The fifth earthquake, at 4:37 p.m. Honolulu Daylight Time, registered 6.8. The first of the quakes had generated an automatic tidal wave alert for Hawaii. However, that alert was canceled when no tidal waves were sighted. No other alerts were issued.

If such earthquakes had happened in populated areas, scientists say massive destruction could have occurred.

The Solomons are about 2,000 miles southwest of Hawaii, just off the eastern coast of New Guinea.

Trial Date Set For Suit Involving Estes, Horton

PORT WORTH (AP) — A suit which alleges former West Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes is a silent partner in a real estate development near here will be aired in court Aug. 15.

The suit was brought by Fort Worth lawyer Stan Harrell on behalf of Hidden Valley Country Club Estates. That 1,000-acre development is headed by R. K. Horton of Midland and is located near Keller, north of Fort Worth.

Hidden Valley wants State District Court Judge Hal Lattimore to cancel liens which W. Kleih Maxwell, a Houston land use planner, filed against it.

Maxwell's lawyer, Jerry Weinstein, charged Estes joined Horton in the venture although Estes' name does not appear on any papers listing directors or other corporate officers.

Estes served time in prison for borrowing millions of dollars using non-existent fertilizer tanks as collateral. One of the conditions of his parole is that he not participate in any large-scale business ventures.

Harrell contends that Maxwell's claims are not liens since they do not fall within the constitutional definition of labor or material liens. He said the dispute should be solved through a civil suit, not liens.

Rose Kennedy Says Teddy Won't Run

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (AP) — Rose Kennedy, mother of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, says she can foresee no circumstances that might persuade her son to run for president in 1976.

"Teddy has taken himself out of the presidential candidacy," she said in an interview published Sunday in a Boston newspaper, the Sunday Herald Advertiser.

"There is no point in discussing politics since Teddy has taken himself out of the presidential thing," Mrs. Kennedy kidnaped and told of the

Four In Texas Family Killed In Plane Crash

MERIDIAN (AP) — Two brothers and their parents died Sunday as a private plane plunged into Lake Whitney near Lakeside Village in Bosque County.

Sheriff's officers identified the four as Ronald K. Carter, 31, the pilot, of Edmonds, Wash.; his brother, Robert T. Carter, 24, of Fort Worth, and their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon K. Carter, also of Fort Worth.

Witnesses reported the elder brother, an Alaska Airlines pilot, made two low passes over a fishing boat occupied by friends before the rented airplane's engines stalled and it rammed nose down into 12 feet of water about 200 yards from shore.

Divers recovered the bodies an hour after the forenoon crash.

Robert Carter and his father were owners of a Fort Worth boat firm.

Proposed Pan Am Loan Nixed By Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Although unconfirmed by Pan Am or Iranian officials, informed sources say proposals discussed to bolster Pan Am's credit base included:

- $300 million in credits backed by Iranian financiers to replace Pan Am's $125 million in loans from U.S. banks that came due this fall.
- Assignment to Iranian interests of mortgages on Pan Am aircraft offered as collateral to get the $125 million from U.S. banks.
- Iran gaining a majority interest in Pan Am's international hotels, but Pan Am continuing to manage the chain.

Pan Am officials in New York were not available for comment. The airline lost $81.8 million last year and $50 million in the first quarter of 1975.

Pan Am talks with Iran began last September.

Budget Minister Abdulmajid Majidi said last month that due to drops in oil revenue from $20 billion to $16 billion over the last year, Iran was cutting its foreign aid to emphasize domestic development projects.

Iran has said among other things it wants to upgrade Iran Air, which transported 1.4 million passengers last year, into a major international airline carrying 4 million by 1981.

Pan Am's last two predecessors, Rayford Price and Price Daniel Jr., newsmen were routinely allowed to examine the total payroll and virtually all expense records without asking anybody's permission.

The same is true of the Senate now.

Deadlines Set
When a representative gives permission to look at his records, it is not always unconditional.

Rep. Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, gave The AP a July 21 deadline to finish checking his records. Rep. Bill Clark, D-Tyler, said The AP would have to come back for a new authorization if it waited beyond July 31.

Hanna's records were examined last week and reflected no excessive spending or abuse of his expense account and payroll privileges.

Rep. John Bigham, D-Belton, responded with a letter that, in effect, requires The AP to return to him for specific authorization at the time it wants to examine his expenditures.

"I do not mind having my records made available to the press; however, I do not wish to have them subject to indiscriminate examination by persons who may or may not be reputable. Anytime you or anyone would like to examine them, I would be happy to give permission for you to do so," Bigham said.

The open records act gives any citizen an absolute right to see how his government spends its tax dollars.

Prime Rate Increase Holds Traders On Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was mixed today, held back by a continuing uptrend in the bank prime lending rate.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.04 at 303.37, while gainers maintained a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The First National Bank of Chicago raised its prime rate this morning from 7 1/4 to 7 3/4 per cent, matching an increase posted Friday by New York's First National City Bank in the key rate on loans to the most credit-worthy corporations.

Pan American World Airways was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 3 1/2, trading marked by a 125,000-shares block at that price. An official of Iran's national airline said his nation had decided to hold a summit with the United States.

Prices had opened the session with a broad advance on a Beirut newspaper's report that Israel and Egypt had agreed on a three-year truce. But the gains began to evaporate when the Chicago bank announced its prime-rate plans at midmorning.

Polaroid was up 1/4 at 41 1/4 on top of a 1 1/2 advance last week, when the company reported sharply higher second-quarter earnings.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks slipped .06 to 50.01.

Reliance Group warrants led the Amex's most-active list, up 1-16 at 13-16.
