Terrorists Free Last Hostages, Head For Libya

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Five Japanese Red Army terrorists today freed 15 hostages, including U.S. Consul Robert Stebbins and a Swedish diplomat, before taking off from Kuala Lumpur airport for Libya with four substitute hostages and five other radicals.

The terrorists stormed a building housing the U.S. Embassy Monday and took the 15 hostages to the airport after demanding transportation out of the country and the freedom of the five other radicals from Japanese jails.

En route to Libya, the plane put down for a refueling stop at Colombo, Sri Lanka—formerly Ceylon. It left after two hours and was expected to arrive in Tripoli, Libya, at 2:25 a.m. Friday — 8:25 p.m. CDT Thursday, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said.

Stebbins, 42, of Clovis, N.M., said he believed the terrorists would have killed the hostages, originally numbering 52, if their demands were not met. Stebbins and other freed hostages agreed that the terrorists treated them well, however, and gave them candy, cushions and in one instance a bottle of perfume. Stebbins said the terrorists also took valuables and money from the hostages, but later gave them all back.

Stebbins said he believed the terrorists were "very precise, assured, well-organized, courageous people who knew exactly what they wanted and how to get it." He said they were very good toward their hostages but very firm and that if they had not received their demands they would have killed everyone.

"I hope they would some day be people with whom I can sit down and have a cup of coffee and talk about girls and politics and everything. Politics—I did not talk with them. This was not one of their hangups," he added.

"I have to admire their dedication," Stebbins said. "They were very kind." He said aboard the plane the terrorists took turns resting and the leader wrote a careful record of all the negotiations.

Stebbins was hugged by his wife when he got off the plane. He later received a phone call from his mother, Mrs. Odessa Lloyd of Hemet, Calif., expressing her happiness that he had been freed unharmed.

The freed Swedish diplomat, Charge d'Affaires Fredrik Bengtstrahle, said that while he and the other captives were treated "very well," the three-day ordeal was a frightening experience because "these people are tough and one can never know what they will do."

Another of the 15 freed hostages, Tee Wah Kwung, 20, of Malaysia, said that in the plane, where they were held for the last 24 hours, they were given regular airline food, and that when he left the aircraft one of the gunmen gave him a bottle of perfume as a souvenir.

Others among the 15 hostages released included Gerald Lancaster of Houston, Tex., an engineer, and George Burton, an employee of a San Francisco brokerage firm.

The four substitute hostages were Ramli Omar, Malaysian parliamentary secretary to the Communications Ministry; Osman Kassim, secretary general of the Malaysian Home Ministry, and two senior Japanese Foreign Ministry officials — Ryohsei Murata and Ochi Keisuke.

The 15 hostages were the last to be freed of a total of 52 persons seized in the drama that began Monday when the terrorists invaded the U.S. Embassy building. Most of the others were released Wednesday.

The plane's takeoff was delayed for a full day as the terrorists and Malaysians stumbled on new snags in the complex negotiations. These included the raiders' destination and whether they should be armed.

The terrorists had already obtained their main demand — the release of five comrades imprisoned in Japanese jails. The five arrived in Kuala Lumpur on Tuesday and had spent most of their time since their arrival waiting in an airport building.

Earlier, two Malaysian explosives experts boarded the plane and came out with two hooded terrorists carrying some packets containing six homemade bombs. They drove in a car about half a mile down the runway, walked a short distance across the grass, placed the bombs in a hole and detonated them.

The explosion, which could be heard a mile away, sent smoke and debris more than 40 feet in the air.

Officials said the terrorists were allowed to keep their firearms, but the bullets were to be kept by the government officials acting as substitute hostages.

At every step of the drama, long drawn-out negotiations were required on such issues as handling of the hostages, where the terrorists would fly, whether they could take arms on the plane and the number of the plane crew.

Officials said that Indonesia, Syria and Egypt agreed to let the plane fly through their air space, but Iran refused permission, threatening to shoot at the aircraft if it flew into Iranian air space.

Japanese officials in Tokyo said Libya told them it could not "formally" accept the landing of the plane but would permit it to put down at Benghazi as an "emergency landing."

Manges Insists He Needs Money Posted As Bond For Parr

By ED TODD

South Texas millionaire Clinton Manges said in a federal court hearing here near noon today that he "wasn't too concerned" about rumors that Archer Parr might flee the country and forfeit Manges' $121,500 cash bond he had posted to gain Parr's freedom.

Manges wants his bond money released and other securities found to get Parr, the ousted Duval County judge, out of jail.

"I want my money," Manges told U. S. Atty. John Clark. "I need my money."

Manges said he had posted the bond "as a friend" to Parr, who had been convicted of lying to federal grand jury investigating income tax evasions of his late uncle, George Parr, the "Duke of Duval."

The Duke committed suicide on his 15,000-acre ranch April 1 after his conviction on federal income tax evasion charges had been upheld.

Manges said that he had heard of rumors that Parr might "flee the country" and take his assets out of Duval County. But the millionaire said he took no stock in the gossip or in newspaper accounts.

"I wasn't too concerned about it," he said.

Clark asked Manges if the "government in Duval County was stable" prior to George Parr's death and if the Parr family was "very influential in Duval County."

"I don't think there's any question about that," Manges replied. "... I try to stay out of it (politics) as much as I can."

Earlier, Parr's attorney, James Gillespie of San Antonio, turned over to U.S. Dist. Judge D. W. Suttie's court a

Wholesale Prices Again Leap Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that higher costs for food and fuel triggered the second-sharpest jump of the year in wholesale prices during July, offering fresh evidence of a resurgence of inflation.

The Labor Department said its Wholesale Price Index climbed 1.2 per cent, reversing a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in June. The rise was the largest since April's 1.5 per cent and was only the third monthly increase of the year.

The increase, which had been expected by administration economists, works out to an annual rate of 14.4 per cent. Combined with June's increase in consumer prices at an annual rate of 9.6 per cent, the latest report indicated that inflation is

Withdrawal By Hoffa Reported

(Related Story Page 8A) DETROIT (AP) — State and federal officials are investigating reports that ex-Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa withdrew about $1 million shortly before he vanished last week, according to informed sources here and in Washington.

A Michigan law enforcement official said the allegation came from unnamed informants and he left the impression that the informants were Teamsters officials and knowledgeable underworld figures.

The official said he believes the $1-million withdrawal allegation is not tied to the Hoffa disappearance. Another source in Washington (See HOFFA Page 2A)

Gurney Acquitted Of Five Charges; Judge Declares Mistrial In Others

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Confident that he's finally "out of the clutches of the Justice Department," former Sen. Edward J. Gurney says he will try to regain his health before deciding whether to attempt a political comeback.

"The government had its shot. They never had a case to begin with," the elated 61-year-old Republican said Wednesday after a jury cleared him of five charges in a $233,000 slush fund scandal and left two other counts unresolved.

After 36 hours of deliberation over 10 days, the six-man, six-woman jury found Gurney innocent of bribery, accepting unlawful compensation and three counts of lying to a federal grand jury.

ing Administration officials from Florida, were found innocent of the conspiracy charge. The panel said it couldn't agree on a conspiracy count against ex-Gurney aide Joseph Bastien, 33, but acquitted him on a charge of accepting unlawful compensation.

The case centered around an alleged scheme to sell Gurney's influence to Florida builders in return for FHA favors.

Jury foreman James Baker said jurors voted 7 to 5 to acquit Gurney on the conspiracy count, 9 to 3 to find him guilty on the fourth count of perjury and 9 to 3 to convict Bastien of conspiracy. U.S. District Court Judge Ben Krentzman ruled a mistrial on the three counts.

Asked if he would run for office again, Gurney said, "That's an option. I'm going to take a little vacation to recover my health a little better. I'll think about my future after that."

William Taylor, state GOP chairman, said he wants to persuade Gurney to run for the Senate in 1976 against Democrat Lawton Chiles.

Steelman Still Undecided About Senate Candidacy

By STEPHANIE WARD
Still undecided about his candidacy for the U.S. Senate race, Rep. Alan W. Steelman, R-Tex., said here today. "Should I decide to run, my campaign will be an 'old time religion' campaign."
"The people are hungry to reach out, touch and feel the candidate they will support. The way to get across to them is best accomplished by public rallies and walking door-to-door to the people instead of spending so much money on TV advertising and newspaper ads," he said in a press conference at the Sheraton Inn.
As a leader in the reform movement in the 94th Congress to require policymaking persons in the federal government to file statements of personal financial disclosure, Steelman has already voluntarily released statements on his own personal finances.

In doing so, however, he said that he did feel that in the area of revealing income tax returns, persons were in a sense "waiving their right to some amount of privacy."
"This disclosure," he said, "can become a bit touchy if, for example, either the candidate or his wife have at one time sought psychiatric care. People often react adversely to such news and I don't think that it is really a matter of public concern."

Steelman also spoke at a noon luncheon as a guest of the Midland Rotary Club. Public appearance in this area are part of a tour he is conducting to assess the feasibility of running for the U.S. Senate next year.
Of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Steelman said, "He is taking positions contrary to earlier opinions because his ambition to become president is overruling his principle."
As an example, he cited Bentsen-sponsored legislation to have the federal government "hail out" New York City from its financial crisis.
"I sincerely hope Congress won't allow it. Texas as well as other states will be involved in the revenue sharing and the consequences won't be favorable," he said.

"I want to be a part of the Senate because next year's Congress will be a decisive one and the next six years will be decisive years," he said.
Questioned about decontrol of oil prices Steelman said, "I would like to see the decision take effect Aug. 31. The decisions concerning the legislation will be constructive."
"We've got to do something to put incentive back into production for the sake of supply and demand — the only ultimate answer," he said.
"In all candor," he said, "I don't think we'll be able to see the entire situation for a while yet. At that time it will be a program of 'phased-in' control."
Steelman said public trust and credibility is vital to those depending upon elected officials. "We can talk of issues," he said, "but there's nothing more important than the trust the public has in us as representatives."
"As Texans are becoming more and more independent, they are also becoming less and less interested in partisan control and support — they are more interested in progress, regardless who does it," he said.

Bullock Shuts Down Three Tire Shops

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State comptroller Bob Bullock shut down three tire shops Wednesday—one about a mile from his office—claiming the owners owed $47,038 in state and city sales taxes.
Bullock immediately turned his attention to Houston, saying, "The sad truth is 12,000 Harris County delinquents owe the state treasury $11.9 million."
The comptroller scheduled a 10:30 a.m. press conference today at the Shamrock Hotel to discuss Houston raids on next Monday.

"Apparently people are not taking too good a warning," said Bullock. "I phoned the four (Houston district) offices yesterday and the response (to his plans to raid businesses) has not been very good. I'm afraid that lightning will have to strike before they understand that we really do mean business."
In Austin, his agents closed all three stores of Jackson Tire Co., and Bullock said the merchandise will be sold after 20 days at public auction if the owners do not pay the delinquent taxes.

Bullock identified the owners as William A. Jackson and James T. Jackson. He said they owe $37,102 in state taxes and $9,936 in city taxes.
"We've even gone to the extent on this man here of helping him fill out his returns, but he never will put a check with it," said Bullock.
Asked by reporters, who had been tipped of the raid by Bullock aides, if he would be visiting others, Bullock said, "There's quite a few others... they're kind of like old shoes, though. You've got to tie them up one at a time, and that's what we're doing."

"Throughout the state," he added, "there's 70,000 of them representing somewhere in the neighborhood of $60 million—eventually we'll get to them."
"I think you'll see it happen almost every week from here on out," he said. "Before long, this won't be news."

Passenger Boarding Record Set At Midland Air Terminal

Midland Regional Air Terminal set a record for enplaning passengers during July, and at the same time had close to 2,000 more boardings than Lubbock or Amarillo airports, Wilson/Banks, director of aviation, has announced.
A total of 21,780 passengers boarded commercial air carriers at Air Terminal during July, Banks said. The figures reflect an increase of 2,118 passengers over July of last year.

Lubbock boarded 20,711, and Amarillo boarded 20,054 passengers during July.
Air Terminal boardings for the period from January through July is 134,453, while Lubbock has a seven-month total of 130,479 and Amarillo 119,331.

passengers, while Texas International boarded 2,450.
The 134,453 passengers boarded at Air Terminal during the seven-month period reflects an increase over the same period last year of 9,951 passengers.
Banks said total aircraft landings and takeoffs at Air Terminal during July was 11,524 as compared to 10,166 in July last year, an increase of 1,358 operations.
Total aircraft operations during the seven-month period this year amount to 78,836, an increase of more than 8,000 landings and takeoffs over the same period last year, he said.

That latter check reportedly was from South Texas rancher Clark referred to newspaper accounts that Archer Parr and Manges had a political-friendship falling out.
Testimony in the hearing was to resume this afternoon.
The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Parr's conviction July 24 and federal officers quickly arrested him.
James Gillespie, Parr's lawyer, said the July 24 arrest was unusual because it came no time for further appeals, possibly to the United States Supreme Court.

Hoffa—

Rumors have circulated since Hoffa's disappearance that Hoffa had obtained a large sum of Teamsters pension money before he dropped from sight. But family members told The Associated Press they were unaware of any such transaction.

Meanwhile, federal officials were still pursuing theories that Hoffa was kidnapped or killed because union foes had learned he might win a court effort to make a comeback bid for Teamsters power.
The significance of the alleged pension withdrawal was not clear. If true, it would tend to support a published theory that Hoffa arranged his own disappearance and is still alive. However, U.S. Atty. Ralph R. Guy was quoted today as saying there is "no evidence" to support that theory.

The jury had reported Monday that it had reached all the verdicts it could and was hopelessly deadlocked on unspecified counts. Krentzman had the returned verdicts sealed and ordered the panel to try again to reach a unanimous decision on all counts.
Wednesday afternoon, jurors said they tried and failed despite 10 more hours rehearsing the 86 days of testimony and weighing more than 500 pieces of evidence.

Prices—

The retail level were up 1.4 per cent, the biggest increase since November.
The Labor Department said food and farm products accounted for three-fourths of the jump in the over-all index. That category rose 4.6 per cent on the strength of higher prices for vegetables, grain, fats and oils, sugar and sweets and all basic protein—meat, poultry and fish.
Industrial commodities advanced four-tenths of 1 per cent due to higher prices for fuels and related products and power.
The latest advance left the index 8.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This was the smallest 12-month advance since the 8.2 per cent figure recorded in February 1973.
Still ahead are increases in aluminum and steel prices, which will affect a wide range of industrial and consumer prices. Coffee prices are Brazil, and the price of wheat is thought likely to rise as the market anticipates Russian purchases.
Also in the future is the prospect of higher oil prices if the exporting nations make good their pledge to implement a September boost. Moreover, price controls on some domestic oil are scheduled to expire Aug. 31.

Vasquez Gets 90 Years In Murder Of Woman

LAMESA — Faustino Vasquez, 21, Wednesday was found guilty of murder and sentenced to a 90-year prison term after admitting from the witness stand that he drove a car over Juanita High, but claimed that he didn't do it intentionally.
He was on trial in 106th District Court for the Feb. 4 slaying of the 32-year-old Lamesa woman.
A defense motion was made to have the trial moved out of Dawson County before the one-day trial began. Judge George Hansard, however, overruled the motion.
Defense attorney John Mann of Lubbock asked the judge to grant the venue change, because Vasquez' brother, Ray, 18, had faced trial and had been found guilty of murdering Mrs. High and was given a 99-year term when a jury convened only nine weeks earlier in Dawson County.
He argued that publicity surrounding the earlier trial would prejudice a jury in the second trial. Taking the stand in his own defense, Vasquez told jurors Mrs. High's death was an accident.
The three were riding together in a car on the night of the slaying and had been drinking,

Terrorists Free Last Hostages

Japanese Plane Jets Criminals Toward Tripoli

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Five terrorists freed 15 hostages today from an airliner at Kuala Lumpur airport. The Red Army terrorists were joined by five other radicals released from Japanese prisons and four substitute hostages before the plane took off for Libya.

Among the 15 hostages were U.S. Consul Robert Stebbins of Clovis, N.M., and a Swedish diplomat. They were released in exchange for the four substitute hostages who boarded the plane with the terrorists.

Officials said the Japan Air Lines DC8 would make a refueling stop in Colombo, Sri Lanka, and then fly straight to Tripoli, where it was expected about 10:45 p.m. Tripoli time (3:45 p.m. CDT). The flight would cover 6,900 miles.

Earlier reports said the plane would refuel at Aden. Officials said the Colombo government warned it would shoot anyone who tried to get off the plane during the refueling stop.

Others among the 15 hostages released included Gerald Lancaster of Houston, Tex., an engineer, and George Burton, an employee of a San Francisco brokerage firm.

Substitute Hostage

The four substitute hostages were Ramli Omar, Malaysian parliamentary secretary to the Communications Ministry; Osman Kassim, secretary general of the Malaysian Home Ministry; and two senior Japanese Foreign Ministry officials—Ryohji Murata and Ochi Katsuke.

The 15 hostages were the last to be freed of a total of 52 persons seized in the drama that began Monday when the terrorists invaded the U.S. Embassy building. Most of the others were released Wednesday.

The plane's takeoff was delayed for a full day as the terrorists and Malaysians stumbled on new snags in the complex negotiations. These included the raiders' destination and whether they should be armed.

Comrades Freed From Jail

The terrorists had already obtained their main demand—the release of five comrades imprisoned in Japanese jails. The five arrived in Kuala Lumpur on Tuesday and had spent most of their time since their arrival waiting in an airport building.

Earlier, two Malaysian explosives experts boarded the plane and came out with two hooded terrorists carrying some packets containing six homemade bombs. They drove in a car about half a mile down the runway, walked a short distance across the grass, placed the bombs in a hole and detonated them.

The explosion, which could be heard in the city, possibly set off civil war.

Parr Bond Hearing Begins Today

Arguments were to begin this morning in U.S. District Court here on whether to revoke the bond for Archer Parr, Southeast Texas political boss who was jailed when his federal perjury conviction was upheld.

Parr, who has been in Midland city jail since Monday, was taken to the federal courthouse before 8 a.m. today. Judge D. W. Suttle called another case first when court opened at 9:30 a.m.

Parr, recently ousted as Duval County judge, had been free on a $121,500 cash bond posted by reclusive millionaire rancher Clinton Manges.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Parr's conviction July 24 and federal officers quickly arrested him.

Since then, Manges has filed a motion to reclaim the $121,500 posted as bond and the U.S. attorney's office has asked that Parr's bond be revoked although appeals still are pending.

James Gillespie, Parr's lawyer, said the July 24 arrest was unusual because it gave no time for further appeals, possibly to the United States Supreme Court.

Gillespie said he had never seen such an arrest "except in the most extraordinary cases where a man was truly a menace to the community."

The lawyer added, "I think they're getting carried away a little bit because of the controversial factors that have revolved around Archer Parr."

Parr was convicted of lying to a federal grand jury investigating the tax returns of his uncle, George B. Parr, known as the Duke of Duval.

George Parr eventually was convicted of tax violations and his conviction upheld. The uncle committed suicide, leaving Archer Parr the heir to the South Texas political dynasty centered in Duval County.

Gillespie filed a motion last April which would have allowed Manges to withdraw his bond money to be replaced with funds from Duval County rancher Praxedis Canales.

However, Gillespie said this week that the offer no longer is good because the Manges money may be needed if the bond is raised.

"If the judge increases the bond, Gillespie said, 'we might be able to come up with funds to match the amount that the court would set.'"

Manges began drifting from the Parr political camp early this summer, observers said.

Judge Suttle postponed an earlier bond hearing at San Antonio when Gillespie said he had not had an opportunity to study documents in the matter closely enough.

Parr was moved from the Bexar County Jail to Midland last Friday after the hearing, Gillespie said.

Midland Man, 18, Charged In Rape

An 18-year-old Midland man was charged with aggravated rape today in connection with one of three rape-related incidents which have occurred in Midland in the past two weeks.

Charged was Ramon Diaz Espinosa, 18, 507 W. Nobles St. Espinosa also was charged with burglary and possession of narcotics.

Midland police said a resident in the 1600 block of W. Kansas St. called them around 4:30 a.m. today to report a burglary in progress at his home. The man's daughter had screamed after a man entered her bedroom, police said, and apparently scared the burglar, who fled.

Patrolmen Larry Bledsoe and Jerry Compton arrested the suspect at the intersection of Kansas and Broadway streets.

Assistant Police Chief Wayne Gideon indicated that the charge of aggravated rape is connected with a rape reported by a woman early Wednesday morning.

In that incident, a man reportedly entered the woman's home through an unlocked patio door and took the woman into her backyard where he raped her.

Two other incidents have occurred in Midland in the past two weeks. Both incidents involved young girls.

Gideon said he felt "sure" that today's arrest would "assist" in the investigation of other recent similar offenses.

Prior to today's arrest, police officials had placed additional detective personnel on the cases. Gideon also emphasized the importance of public support and (See RAPE Page 2A)

Portugal Communists Fire On Attackers, Killing One

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese Communists opened fire today on a mob attacking their headquarters in the northern town of Fafe, killing one person and wounding five, officials said.

Portugal's internal security chief, Gen. Otel Saraiva de Carvalho, and the army chief of staff, Gen. Carlos Fabio, rushed to the area.

Fafe, about 200 miles north of Lisbon, was the scene of anti-Communist violence earlier this week.

Other anti-Communist rioting was reported in Bombarral, 40 miles from Lisbon. Rioters tore apart the offices of the Communist party and the Socialist Leftist party, a small, militant group.

The riots marked the fifth straight day of anti-Communist violence in the conservative north. Military men and civilians expressed fear that the backlash would soon hit the capital, possibly setting off civil war.

Wholesale Prices Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that higher costs for food and fuel triggered the second-sharpest jump of the year in wholesale prices during July, offering fresh evidence of a resurgence of inflation.

The Labor Department said its Wholesale Price Index climbed 1.2 per cent, reversing a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in June. The rise was the largest since April's 1.5 per cent and was only the third monthly increase of the year.

The increase, which had been expected by administration economists, works out to an annual rate of 14.4 per cent. Combined with June's increase in consumer prices at an annual rate of 9.6 per cent, the latest report indicated that inflation is regaining strength. Consumer prices had subsided to an average annual increase of 5.2 per cent during the three previous months.

Wholesale price increases, of course, usually mean higher prices for consumers — and the latest report did not include several factors already in place which will push up prices.

Gurney Acquitted Of Five Charges; Judge Declares Mistrial In Others

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Confident that he's finally "out of the clutches of the Justice Department," former Sen. Edward J. Gurney says he will try to regain his health before deciding whether to attempt a political comeback.

"The government had its shot. They never had a case to begin with," the elated 61-year-old Republican said Wednesday after a jury cleared him of five charges in a $233,000 slush fund scandal and left two other counts unresolved.

After 56 hours of deliberation over 10 days, the six-man, six-woman jury found Gurney innocent of bribery, accepting unlawful compensation and three counts of lying to a federal grand jury.

The panel, which heard testimony from 106 witnesses in the 24-week-long trial, said it was deadlocked on a conspiracy charge and one other perjury charge against Gurney.

Codendantsants Ralph Kooz, 51, and K. Wayne Swiger, 61, both suspended Federal House-

Administration officials from Florida, were found innocent of the conspiracy charge. The panel said it couldn't agree on a conspiracy count against ex-Gurney aide Joseph Bastien, 33, but acquitted him on a charge of accepting unlawful compensation.

The case centered around an alleged scheme to sell Gurney's influence to Florida builders in return for FHA favors.

Jury foreman James Baker said jurors voted 7 to 5 to acquit Gurney on the conspiracy count, 9 to 3 to find him guilty on the fourth count of perjury and 9 to 3 to convict Bastien of conspiracy. U.S. District Court Judge Ben Krentzman ruled a mistrial on the three counts.

After rendering their verdict, jurors criticized the government for presenting a weak case — "The proof just wasn't there," said one.

The five prosecutors refused comment on whether they planned to try the case again. But Gurney, the first incumbent senator to be indicted in 50 years, said, "If they couldn't prove this case after two years and plea bargaining by every key witness, they're never going to prove it. Thank God for the jury system that got me out of the clutches of the Justice Department."

Gurney was at the pinnacle of his 20-year political career when the indictment was handed down a year ago, forcing him out of a 1974 bid for re-election.

Mrs. Gandhi's Problems Removed By Parliament

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government today pushed through sweeping constitutional amendments curtailing the right of the courts to pass judgment on her emergency decrees.

The amendments in effect removed her legal problems—conviction on electoral abuses charges—from Supreme Court review and gave her power to maintain emergency rule indefinitely, including police power to arrest political dissidents without trial.

The amendments passed 336 votes to none amid laughter and cheers in the lower house of Parliament, moving next to the upper house where equally overwhelming approval is assured.

The amendments marked a new departure in consolidating Mrs. Gandhi's authoritarian rule. They also represented the first substantial changes in the parliamentary democracy will be made to India by its former British colonial masters.

Jackson Enters Plea Of Innocent

Big Spring Group To Set Community Goals

BIG SPRING — City government, schools and organizations are scheduled to meet Aug. 25, 26, and 27 to compile a list of goals made by citizens of the community.

Hostages—

(Continued From Page 1A) heard a mile away, sent smoke and debris more than 40 feet in the air. Officials said the terrorists were allowed to keep their firearms, but the bullets were to be kept by the government officials acting as substitute hostages.

Prices—

Industrial commodities advanced four-tenths of 1 per cent due to higher prices for fuels and related products and power.

The latest advance left the index 8.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This was the smallest 12-month advance since the 8.2 per cent figure recorded in February 1973.

Still ahead are increases in aluminum and steel prices, which will affect a wide range of industrial and consumer prices. Coffee prices are headed up due to a frost in Brazil, and the price of wheat is thought likely to rise as the market anticipates Russian purchases.

Also in the future is the prospect of higher oil prices if the exporting nations make good their pledge to implement a September boost. Moreover, price controls on some domestic oil are scheduled to expire Aug. 31.

Vasquez Gets 90 Years In Murder Of Woman

LAMESA — Faustino Vasquez, 21, Wednesday was found guilty of murder and sentenced to a 90-year prison term after admitting from the witness stand that he drove a car over Juanita High, but claimed that he didn't do it intentionally.

He was on trial in 106th District Court for the Feb. 4 slaying of the 32-year-old Lamesa woman.

A defense motion was made to have the trial moved out of Dawson County before the one-day trial began. Judge George Hansard, however, overruled the motion.

Thinking the woman was clear of the road, Vasquez said he drove off and felt a bump, backing up to see what he had run over discovering he had passed over Mrs. High again.

Defense attorney John Mann of Lubbock asked the judge to grant the venue change, because Vasquez' brother, Ray, 18, had faced trial and had been found guilty of murdering Mrs. High and was given a 99-year term when a jury convened only nine weeks earlier in Dawson County.

An autopsy report introduced into evidence showed Mrs. High had been run over numerous times.

Also testifying were Dawson County deputy sheriff Jim Nance, who conducted the murder investigation; Norman Brown, who told him he and a woman companion had driven up to find the body of Mrs. High on a dirt road four miles east of here; Odell Johnson, a service station attendant who said he saw Mrs. High with the Vasquez brothers the night of the slaying; and an Abilene pathologist.

The three were riding together in a car on the night of the slaying and had been drinking, he said. Mrs. High, Vasquez and his brother had stopped along a dirt road, he told jurors.

Vasquez said when he got ready to take the woman home, she refused to go and he then ripped a zipper from her dress and tied her up intending to return later, hoping she would change her mind.

Thinking the woman was clear of the road, Vasquez said he drove off and felt a bump, backing up to see what he had run over discovering he had passed over Mrs. High again.

He argued that publicity surrounding the earlier trial would prejudice a jury in the second trial. Taking the stand in his own defense, Vasquez told jurors Mrs. High's death was an accident.

The three were riding together

Turquoise Boom Changes Way Of Life For Arizona Man

By MAX JENNINGS
KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP) — With both price and demand for turquoise skyrocketing, officials here are guarding the valuable blue stone with techniques developed in Africa's diamond mines.

Turquoise has become the most glamorous byproduct of the copper industry and Arizona's open pit mines yield it by the ton — to the man with the keen eye and the knowhow.

One is L. W. Hardy, 64, once a mine laborer who describes himself as the Turquoise King of the World and head of a company which grossed more than $10 million last year.

The L. W. Hardy Co., Inc., with headquarters in this northwestern Arizona community, picks turquoise from the open pit mines of Cities Service Co. and the Duval Corp. He then refines the mineral and markets it.

"The price of turquoise has skyrocketed," Hardy said. "The same turquoise we're selling today for $10 to $100 a pound we were selling from $2 to $15 a pound a few years ago."

Because of the stone's increased value, Hardy has hired guards round the clock at the two mines. A lunch pail stuffed with turquoise can bring $100 and a smuggled sackful would be worth hundreds, he said.

Now the miners have to change from work clothes to street clothes under the watchful eye of a guard who makes sure they don't carry anything off the job. "They used to get sacks of it and stash it away... if they had inside help. It still exists, but not so bad as it was. We have a guard who checks everything. This way they're eliminated from even taking a piece or two. This is the way they do in the diamond mines and it's been really successful for us."

"In India they believe turquoise is a sacred stone," Hardy said. "Even some Indians in the United States have a feeling that turquoise cures ills and keeps evil away."

The turquoise boom has made Hardy a rich man. He won't say how rich, but he has 150 miners of his own who are the first on the scene after the copper companies blast open a new area.

Hardy pays the copper producers by the amount of turquoise he finds, and then sells it wholesale for up to $100 a pound.

He said he pays the Duval Corp. between $100,000 and $200,000 monthly and Cities Service Co. receives between $40,000 and $60,000.

Hardy remembers the early 1940s when he found his first turquoise at a mine where he was working. He gave it away, but that was the last time.

"I just saw a future in turquoise, trading with the Indians and then other people," he said. "I found out what grade they wanted — the Germans, the Iranians and others, and I learned to grade it by experience. Today I'd say we're probably the largest turquoise dealer in the world."

Jacobsen Arrested, Freed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former dairy cooperative lobbyist Jake Jacobsen — perhaps better known as John Connally's accuser — was free on personal recognition bond today after his arrest on state charges of felony theft.

Jacobsen was arrested Wednesday after a Tom Green County Grand Jury in San Angelo charged him with four counts of felony theft stemming from an $825,000 loan he authorized as an officer at the San Angelo First Savings and Loan Association.

Jacobsen, who accused former Treasury Secretary John Connally of accepting two $5,000 payments to help the milk industry get higher government price supports, already is under federal indictment in the same savings and loan case.

State District Court Judge Tom Blackwell signed for Jacobsen's release from the crowded Travis County Jail late Wednesday after the Austin lawyer agreed to appear for a bond hearing Friday in San Angelo.

Travis County Sheriff Raymond Frank waited for Jacobsen outside a skyscraper near the Capitol Wednesday, after he checked the lawyer's fashionable home and found no one there.

When Jacobsen drove into the parking garage, apparently to go to his office, Frank walked up and said, "I guess you've been expecting me."

"No, why?" asked Jacobsen, apparently startled although the morning papers had carried a story of the grand jury's investigation.

Then Jacobsen rode to the county jail in the sheriff's yellow pickup truck.

Frank said officers took Jacobsen's tie and valuables and placed him — still dressed in a handsome brown pin-striped suit — in a cell with 23 other prisoners.

"But it's only built for 20," said Frank. "He's in there with blacks and browns, drunks and dopers."

Jacobsen, former legislative counsel for President Lyndon Johnson, worked more recently for Associated Milk Producers Inc., a San Antonio-based milk-marketing cooperative.

A jury in Washington acquitted Connally April 17 in what prosecutors said was a $10,000 bribe from the co-op to get Connally to influence President Nixon to boost milk price supports.

Jacobsen, in a plea-bargaining arrangement with federal prosecutors, had agreed to testify against Connally in return for a promised dismissal of the misapplication charges against Jacobsen.

A federal judge in Dallas later appointed special prosecutors to press the case, and state authorities said they would take action against Jacobsen if federal authorities failed to do so. The government appealed, and the case is pending.

Jacobsen and Ray Cowen, officers of the savings association, were accused in the federal indictment of making the $825,000 loan to Abilene developer Roy Herring without getting proper security.

Henley's Mother Files $1.5 Million Suit Against Media

HOUSTON (AP) — The mother of Elmer Wayne Henley Jr. has filed a $1.5 million invasion of privacy suit against the National Broadcasting System, Inc. (NBC), The Houston Post Publishing Co., Inc., KPRC-Radio and KPRC-TV.

Henley was convicted of murder in six of the deaths in the Houston mass murders case in 1973. Henley is appealing his convictions.

Mary Pauline Henley alleges in the suit that her son was prevailed upon by the defendants on Aug. 8, 1973 to call his mother on a radio-telephone in a KPRC-TV vehicle.

"The shattering and emotional conversation between Mrs. Henley and her son was recorded on sound and audio tape," the suit said, and a portion of the conversation was broadcast and televised across the nation.

Mrs. Henley said in the suit she did not know that her intimate words with her son were being recorded by the defendants, or that her motherly anguish would be displayed to the world.

The suit says the defendants' action caused Mrs. Henley "intense mental suffering, shame and humiliation." Mrs. Henley seeks $600,000 in actual damages and $900,000 in exemplary damages.

Retired Gymnast Gives File Recipe

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

When Cathy Rigby, formerly an Olympic gymnast, married Tommy Mason, former all-pro national football star, two and a half years ago, she admits she knew very little about cooking.

"My career allowed me very little time for cooking," she said. "I started my gymnastic career when I was 10."

"After Tommy and I were married, I was determined to learn to make some of the southern dishes he liked. He said he had not been able to find southern dishes like his mother made since leaving his home in Lake Charles, La.

"While visiting in Louisiana, I persuaded his mother to teach me how to make some of his favorite dishes."

Though her career has left her little time for cooking, Cathy says she has made an extensive study of nutrition.

"Nutrition is very important for athletes. Tommy and I both realize that," she says.

Though retired from gymnastics, Mrs. Mason says that her many-faceted career keeps her traveling much of the time. Her most recent commitment is serving as spokeswoman for the frozen-food industry.

She has served as TV commentator for network national and international gymnastic events. She also has had an acting and singing career, and runs her own summer gymnastics camp.

Lake Charles File Gumbo, a favorite with her husband, is made mostly with frozen foods.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

She Should've Stayed Neutral

DEAR ABBY: I was invited to a house party last Saturday given by a young woman who works with me. (I'm a 23-year-old divorcee.)

A rather good-looking guy introduced himself and said, "Another fellow and I have a $20 bet on. He says you're wearing falsies, and I say you're not. If you prove it to me, the $20 is yours."

It so happens that I am 38-36-34, and I don't need falsies. So I said, "You win!" Then I took him into the bedroom, unbuttoned my blouse just far enough to prove it and gave him a quick look.

He collected the $20 from his friend and gave it to me. I told him I was going to put it in the poor box at church the next morning, which is exactly what I did.

On Monday, it was all over the office that I had done a strip-tease dance at the party!

Abby, I swear, I'm telling it like it was. Do you think what I did was so terrible? It was for a good cause.

MISS JUDGED

DEAR MISS: Face it, dear. You sold a quick peek for $20—a foolish gambit for a young woman who values her reputation.

Letters To Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I am the mother of a two-and-one-half-year-old daughter who loves cinnamon toast. I don't mind fixing it for her, but I dread the sticky clean-up job afterwards.
I finally solved the problem by combining the sugar, cinnamon and margarine together. Simply mix the sugar and cinnamon with the margarine in a larger bowl and then spoon into a margarine tub.
Now when my little girl asks for cinnamon toast, I just spread on the mixture of "cinnamon butter."
She is happy and so am I.
Barbara Schmetzer
Sugar, my mouth is already watering. How simple for snackers to always have ready. I tried it with diet margarine and sugar substitute.

Scrumptious!
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Many jewelry and department stores stock a nice, decorated file card showing most information needed for a complete record to be used by the bride.
The backs of the file cards are Christmas card and gift records.
This is a most convenient item, easy to use and complete and inexpensive.
It would be a treasured memory chest.

INTRIGUING—These onion cheese muffins are given intriguing flavor with crushed corn cereal, sour cream and shredded cheese.

Bread Can Add Savoir Faire

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Hot homemade bread can add savoir faire to an otherwise ordinary meal.

Onion cheese muffins are similar to cornbread, yet different enough to be intriguing to the taster. One rule to observe in making the muffins—this is true of all muffins—is mix just long enough to moisten the dry ingredients.

Fresh corn is an ingredient in an innovation of an old southern recipe, spoon bread, a cross between a casserole and a bread. The history of this bread goes back to the first Colonists. They adapted a porridge flavored by the Indians to their own tastes by adding milk and eggs.

According to historians, a cook left this mixture in the oven by mistake and spoon bread evolved.

CORN SPOON BREAD
4 ears fresh corn
1 qt. milk
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 tbsps. finely chopped onion
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
2 tps. salt

1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
One-fourth tsp. ground white pepper
4 eggs, well-beaten
Cut corn kernels from cobs (makes about 2 cups); set aside. Scald milk in top of double boiler.
Gradually stir in corn meal, onion and parsley. Cook over simmering water until thickened, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in butter, salt, sugar, baking powder and white pepper; mix well. Gradually add hot mixture to eggs, stirring constantly. Mix in reserved corn. Pour into a buttered two-quart casserole. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) until set and nicely browned, about one hour. Serve immediately with melted butter or your favorite mushroom gravy and pork sausage or creamed chicken, if desired.
Yield: six portions.

ONION CHEESE MUFFINS
Three-fourths cup finely chopped onion
1 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 tbsps. sugar
Two and one-half tps. baking powder

One-half tsp. salt
One-eighth tsp. onion powder
1 egg, slightly beaten
Three-fourths cup milk
2 tps. vegetable oil
Two and one-half cups bite-size crispy corn square cereal, crushed to three-fourths cup
One-fourth cup dairy sour cream
One-fourth cup shredded processed American cheese
Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12 medium muffin cups. Sauté onion in butter until tender and golden, about five minutes. Set aside. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and onion powder. In mixing bowl, combine egg, milk, vegetable oil and two tablespoons sautéed onion. Stir in crushed cereal. Add dry ingredients.
Stir only until moistened. Fill muffin cups half-full. Combine remaining onion with sour cream and shredded cheese. Top each muffin with a rounded teaspoon of cheese mixture. Bake 20-25 minutes or until cheese is browned and crusty. Makes 12 muffins.

Summer Vacation Season Finds Yule Lights Burning

When it comes to summer vacations, I am either so super-enthusiastic at the prospect of a trip to look at cottages, in fact I think that they would have refused to go if I hadn't announced that the alternative was staying home and taking down the outside Christmas lights.

The children were less than enthusiastic at the prospect of a trip to look at cottages, in fact I think that they would have refused to go if I hadn't announced that the alternative was staying home and taking down the outside Christmas lights.

On the fact that that a well-aimed stone thrown from Deerwood Lodge will bounce off a meat-rendering plant.
No, there was nothing to do but pack a bag for a weekend and seek a resort with a week's vacancy sometime later in the season.

When it comes to summer vacations, I am either so super-enthusiastic at the prospect of a trip to look at cottages, in fact I think that they would have refused to go if I hadn't announced that the alternative was staying home and taking down the outside Christmas lights.

This July found me not only with no reservations, but with my outside Christmas lights still up.

Last year we booked in at a quality resort. Not only did they serve all our meals, make our beds, and give us cha-cha lessons, but I was given to understand that for a slight extra charge a chambermaid would floss our teeth each night.

While such luxury was delightful, I not only missed having the ability to pad out to the kitchen at 3 A. M. and fix myself a cup of coffee, but the total bill (not including flossing) was only slightly less than the gross national product of Lebanon.

What I wanted this year was a change of pace. A small cabin on a crystal-clear, sandy-bottomed lake. Bonfires on the beach. Murmuring pines and hemlocks. A stove.

Even in such desperate circumstances, I was unwilling to rent a cottage sight-unseen. Color brochures tend to dwell on photographs of small boys holding fifteen-pound trout and nubile girls waterskiing while waving one hand. They invariably keep completely mum

Polygraph Test Asked For Hoffa Foster Son, 41

By OWEN ULLMANN
DETROIT (AP) — Jimmy Hoffa's son says he believes Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, Hoffa's foster son, knows what happened to the ex-Teamsters union president. He demands that O'Brien take a lie detector test.

O'Brien, the 41-year-old union organizer raised by Hoffa from the age of 3, said he had no knowledge of Hoffa's whereabouts. He talked with James P. Hoffa, Hoffa's son, who demanded O'Brien take a polygraph examination.

"He hemmed and he hawed and he said he would have to consult his attorney," said James P. Hoffa. "I construed that to be a refusal."

O'Brien emerged Wednesday from several days of seclusion and was interviewed by the FBI for 3½ hours. He is expected to be questioned again as the FBI continues its probe into the disappearance of Hoffa last Wednesday.

"I think he has knowledge of what happened," James P. Hoffa told The Associated Press Wednesday night. Hoffa, a Detroit attorney, said O'Brien's FBI interview generated "some interesting leads."

"Some are being checked out. Some are very, very interesting," O'Brien would not comment. James Burdick, O'Brien's attorney, told The AP that O'Brien was not involved in Hoffa's disappearance.

Hoffa called home last Wednesday to say Detroit Mafia figure Anthony Giacalone hadn't shown up for a luncheon date. The 62-year-old former labor leader hasn't been heard from since. Giacalone denies he had planned to meet Hoffa, a longtime friend.

O'Brien provided corroboration of Giacalone's story that he was at a Southfield athletic club at the time of the luncheon meeting.

Friends say Hoffa said the meeting also was to include former Teamsters vice president Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano and a Detroit labor figure, Leonard Schultz. Both denied the appointment.

James P. Hoffa said he thinks O'Brien knows Hoffa's fate because "of his associations and his activities of the past week." Sources said O'Brien was in Detroit last weekend, then in the Memphis area.

The Hoffa family has received no ransom demands, but believes Hoffa was kidnaped. The FBI said it is operating under the assumption he still is alive.

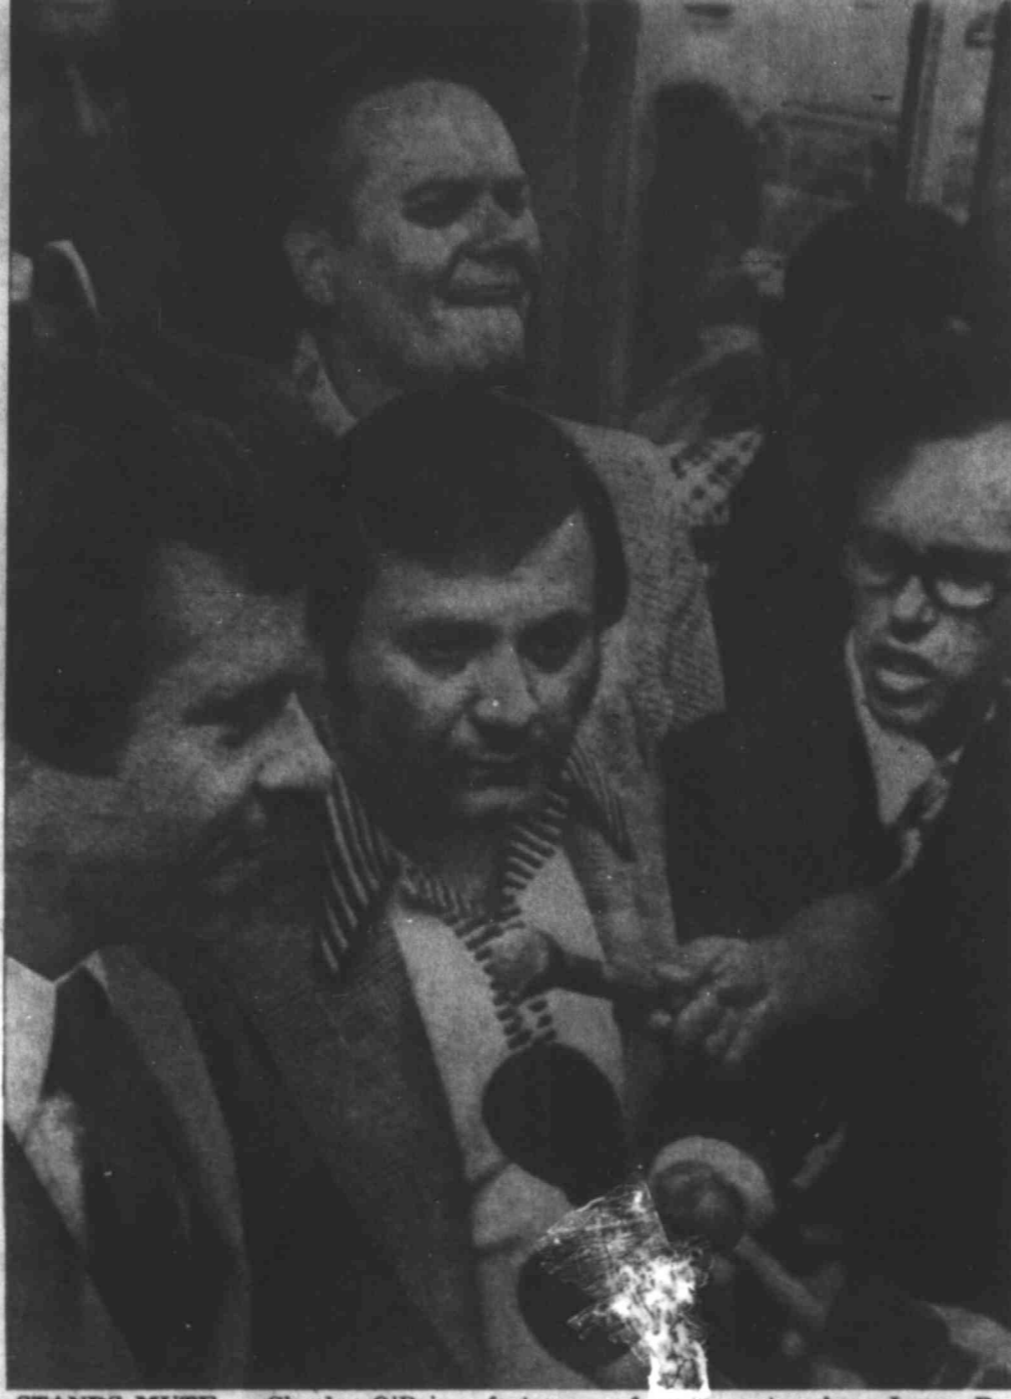

Hoffa's attorney, Leonard Boudin of New York, said he thinks Hoffa was kidnaped by opponents who feared he would win a key court case, opening the way for a challenge of current Teamsters leaders.

Kidnap Speculation
It was speculated immediately after it was learned Hoffa was missing that his opponents decided to get rid of him so he could not run against incumbent Frank E. Fitzsimmons for the Teamsters general presidency.

The case involves Hoffa's appeal of a clemency order issued by President Richard M. Nixon releasing Hoffa after he served 4½ years of a 13-year sentence for mail fraud and jury tampering.

The clemency order bars Hoffa from participating in union politics until 1980. Hoffa was unsuccessful in fighting the restriction in U.S. District Court, and the case is pending at the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hoffa has argued that Nixon was not acting within his powers by restricting a clemency order.

STANDS MUTE — Charles O'Brien, foster son of Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa, stands mute, center of picture, as his lawyer, James Burdick, left, answers questions from reporters about O'Brien's questioning by the FBI Wednesday afternoon at Detroit in connection with the disappearance of Hoffa, now missing more than a week. Reporter's First Balloon Ride Winds Up In Hurry

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — A rookie in the gentle sport of hot air ballooning is supposed to alight to handshakes, smiles and a glass of champagne. My first flight ended three minutes after launch, atop a dead tree.

"I'm terribly sorry," said Fritz Rosendahl, 41-year-old banker and hobby balloonist. "Me, too," I said, looking up at the red, white, blue and yellow shreds of the $5,000 balloon he had called "Gulliver's Travels."

Rosendahl, from Okoboji, Iowa, was runnerup in last year's National Hot Air Balloon Championships here and was back for his third year of competition.

He had agreed to let me fly with him in one of the week's competitive events. The object was to drop a bean bag on the bulls-eye — after floating in five miles from the target area.

"This is great flying weather," Sue Clark, a member of the launch crew, assured me. I managed a wan smile.

After we watched the paths of a few balloonists who had already lifted off, it was decided to move downwind half a mile. A balloon is truly at the wind's mercy.

"Okay!" Rosendahl yelled. "We're about ready to run with it."

"Dad, are you sure you have your bean bag?" yelled his 14-year-old daughter Jennifer.

I'm crouching down in this little cage, trying to strap the helmet on, as I feel the balloon tugging upward.

"Let's run!" Rosendahl ordered and a dozen people scurried along the ground, some bouncing as they clutched the lines of the balloon.

"Away!" and we're off to applause, waves and cheers.

I watch the ground crew shrinking. Rosendahl said, "This is the way to fly, isn't it?"

Then a slight frown came over his face and he fired up

Moderate Portuguese Vent Ire On Local Communists

An AP News Analysis
By JULIE FLINT
LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Moderate Portuguese, seeing their hopes of democracy being betrayed by their radical military rulers, are venting their anger on local Communists.

Moderate military leaders fear the backlash could quickly escalate into civil war. In the past five weeks, moderates have fired and flattened almost two score Communist offices from the spa town of Monchique in southern Portugal to the village of Minho on the northern border with Spain.

The armed forces rushed a company of marines to the north of the country as reinforcements for the hard-pressed troops there.

"We're tired of them running things," said a 22-year-old student caught up in the northern rioting. "They don't represent the people."

Four men have died — two soldiers and two civilians belonging to centrist political parties.

The backlash has so far been concentrated in the backward and conservative north and has not moved in on the major cities.

The largest town attacked so far has been Castelo Branco in east-central Portugal, a provincial capital. The momentum of the reaction appears to be accelerating daily.

"Our real fear is that the trouble will reach the capital," said a non-Communist journalist here. "The Communists here are armed."

Moderate leaders of the divided Armed Forces Movement — architects of the April 1974 revolution that ended a half-century of reactionary rule — warn that unless pro-Communist Premier Vasco Goncalves quickly produces a cabinet that satisfies both moderates and radicals, the violence will spiral wildly. They say he has only days left to act.

Goncalves has been struggling to build a new cabinet since the Socialists and Popular Democrats angrily quit the government last month to protest its rapid swing to the radical left.

The dissenters are fighting against what they see as the choking of democracy by the ruling Armed Forces Movement's disregard for last April's elections, the only test of popular will since the revolution ended 48 years of right-wing dictatorship.

The elections, for a constituent assembly to draw up a new constitution, saw the moderate-left Socialists and Popular Democrats emerge victorious with a combined 64 per cent of the vote. The Communists, who have a strong voice in Goncalves, took only 12 per cent.

In the 15 weeks since the elections, the assembly has been turned into a powerless shadow body by the military's directive that it adhere to the armed forces line.

Power is concentrated in the hands of a triumvirate of generals — Goncalves, internal security chief Otelio Saraiva de Carvalho and President Francisco de Costa Gomes, the only moderate in the junta.

Carvalho, after visiting Cuba last week, warned the nation that he favored shooting dissenters.

Freeway Builders Facing Money Pinch

By STEVE LAWRENCE
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California, king of the freeway builders, is putting away its road plans and looking for ways to keep its highway-building machine from going broke.

Faced with mounting costs and declining revenue, state officials have frozen new highway construction. They say they will eliminate 3,300 transportation jobs over the next 11 months.

The cutbacks will slice the state's $985 million highway budget by 25 per cent and halt three decades of freeway building.

"There is no money for any new facilities for the foreseeable future," said Donald Burns, business and transportation secretary. "By 1978-79 there won't be enough money to maintain the system, given the department's current definition of maintenance."

"Just paying the contractors who are already out there on the roads, paying our employees and paying for the maintenance — that will be more than 100 per cent of the projected revenue," he said.

"Therefore we have got to cut back on expenditures or find new sources of revenue."

Since the 1940s California has plowed more than $7.5 billion into a freeway system that was once expected to extend 12,000 miles. Only about 4,200 miles of superhighways are now in use.

Most of the freeway construction took place in the 1950s and '60s.

In recent years fast-rising construction costs, the energy crisis and air pollution problems have resulted in fewer miles of concrete and a greater emphasis on rapid transit.

In the last few weeks gloomy budget predictions have sent officials looking for cutbacks to make.

Nation's Heartland Mostly Dry, Cool

By The Associated Press
A large high pressure center over the Great Lakes kept most of the nation's heartland dry and relatively cool today. There were isolated thundershowers through much of the rest of the country as a quiet summer weather pattern continued.

Mild weather extended from New England through the middle Mississippi Valley. Temperatures elsewhere were higher under mostly sunny skies.

A cold front caused considerable cloudiness and thundershowers over the Appalachians and along much of the Atlantic Coast from New York and New England into northern Georgia. There were scattered showers also from southern Virginia into the Carolinas.

Some cloudiness extended to the eastern Gulf Coast with a few thundershowers in South Alabama and Northwest Florida.

A cold front triggered occasional thundershowers from Mississippi to eastern Kansas. There were also some isolated showers and thundershowers in parts of Montana, Arizona, Oregon and northern California.

Temperatures early today dropped into the 50s from the upper Mississippi Valley to the northern Appalachians and some 40s in Michigan and Wisconsin. Fifties also are reported through the Pacific Northwest with some isolated 40s in Oregon.

Mild 60- and 70-degree readings prevailed elsewhere, accompanied by high humidity in the Gulf and South Atlantic states. The southwestern desert areas still were simmering in the 90s.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 102 at Needles, Calif. to 46 at Pellston and Houghton Lake, Mich. and at Klamath Falls, Ore.

Some other reports: Anchorage 61 mostly cloudy, Atlanta 70 cloudy, Boston 65 rain, Buffalo 58 mostly cloudy, Chicago 66 clear, Cincinnati 62 clear, Cleveland 57 clear, Dallas 80 clear, Denver 69 partly cloudy, Detroit 56 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 60 clear, Kansas City 69 clear, Los Angeles 70 clear, Louisville 63 clear, Miami 82 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 60 clear, Nashville 69 partly cloudy, New York 62 rain, Phoenix 90 rain, Pittsburgh 57 clear, St. Louis 62 clear, San Francisco 53 clear, Seattle 58 mostly cloudy, Washington 68 cloudy.

Doctors Release Red Cosmonauts

MOSCOW (AP) — Soyuz 19 cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov have been released from medical supervision, 16 days after their return from their joint space mission with U.S. astronauts.

The Soviet News Agency Tass reported that Leonov and Kubasov were released Wednesday. The Agency said they were nearly in "preflight form" two days after landing July 21, but remained under scrutiny because of an agreement with U.S. space officials.

The three American astronauts suffered lung irritation when they inhaled fumes from the Apollo spacecraft returning to earth three days after the Soviets. That was not mentioned in Soviet dispatches.

Davis Elected Vice President

HOUSTON—John S. Davis was elected vice president of United Gas Pipe Line Co. by their board of directors, J. Hugh Roff, Jr., United's president and chief executive officer, announced Wednesday.

Davis, 33, has been director of financial analysis for United since August, 1974. He joined United in 1972 as a senior accountant. Prior to his promotion, he was assistant to the senior president of rates and regulatory affairs.

A native of Jonesboro, La., Davis received both his bachelor of science degree in accounting and his master of business administration from Louisiana Tech University.

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-K J 9 7 6 4 3 2 H-4 D-A Q C-K 8. What do you say?

In an expert game, bid four clubs, the Gerber Convention, asking partner to tell you how many aces he holds. 'Jaws' Terror Now Fading Arnold Acts Like Pig On Birthday

By DUDLEY LEHEW
Associated Press Writer

Swimmers and surfers apparently have survived "Jaws" and again are looking for fun instead of fins, although a few are keeping their eyes open wider than usual.

"Shark business is now old hat," said George Whitehead of the Cabrillo Beach, Calif., life-guard station. "We are being constantly asked about sharks, but it seems to be curiosity rather than fear."

Whitehead said that after the release of "Jaws," a film about a great white shark terrorizing — and eating — swimmers, the number of bathers dropped, but trips to the beach now appears average.

"When it gets hot, that's what people always do. Although this year maybe they are looking over their shoulders a little," said Dennis McCarbery, a spokesman for the Los Angeles County department of Parks and Recreation. The result apparently has been an increase in shark reports, but not necessarily sharks.

Dr. David Baldrige, a researcher at Mote Marine Laboratory in Sarasota, Fla., says "there is absolutely no evidence to support any abnormal increase in Florida shark populations."

"Although a number of minor attacks and large-sized catches are being reported, that would have remained virtually unknown several years ago."

"Jaws" author Peter Benchley agrees. He said from his Stonington, Conn., cottage Tuesday, "Suddenly they're seeing things that have been there forever. They are very shark conscious. There's been no change in the shark population."

"I think it's unreasonable for people to react hysterically and say they are never going to go swimming again. The animals have always been there."

"The incidents, eating people, attacking boats, have all happened. The only thing that is fictional is that the animal would hang around a beach like that for a matter of weeks."

Ed Joyce, director of the division of marine resources for the Florida Department of Natural Resources, says a chance of shark attack is "considerably less than the chance of being struck by lightning."

Janice Ransom, a Miami Beach swimmer, said that after reading a lot about the mechanical shark used to film "Jaws," she is not scared.

"I still swim as far out as I used to," she said.

Not so for Jeffrey Hanrahan, 20, who gave up surfing at Daytona Beach, Fla., "after I was bumped by one shark." He claims officials have kept comments on sharks low-keyed so tourism won't be hurt.

A sighting of shark fins was enough to close Southampton, N.Y., beaches for the first time in 10 years.

Southampton authorities promptly closed several swimming areas for about 45 minutes and then declared the water safe again. Scores of swimmers, however, made an "orderly" rush to shore when the alarm was sounded, officials said.

FORK MOUNTAIN, Va. (AP)—Arnold the pig made a pig of himself on his first birthday.

Bethel Mason, Arnold's owner, served a cake with one candle and the 600-pound pig ate all of it Wednesday. "He would have liked to eat the candle, too," Mason said.

Arnold, who shares the run of Mason's filling station with two German shepherd dogs, is about 100 pounds heavier than the average year-old pig.

No wonder. People buy him candy, soft drinks, pies and cakes. And when he isn't eating, he sleeps in the breeze from an electric fan.

"He has been known to drink a beer, too," Mason said. "He's been eating pretty good."

Mason, watching Arnold finish off two gallons of milk, said on the average day the pig eats "10 to 15 pounds of hog feed or corn meal."

But Arnold's birthday appetite appeared to have no bounds.

He gobbled up an apple pie, washed it down with chocolate soda — his favorite soft drink — then turned to desert. It was a nickel gum ball, nuzzled out of Mason's vending machine.

The pig then flopped down in the station's doorway.

If it's hot, Arnold spends most of the day in a nearby waterhole. But he always spends his nights on the pavement in front of the service station.

Arnold was part of a litter of pigs owned by Mason, and he began staying around the station in the winter because it was heated. He quickly became a pet.

"Everybody who comes along wants to know when we'll kill him," Mason said. "But I reckon we'll let him stay around here as long as he wants to."

Alcoholic Monks May Help

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Monkeys sporting plastic hats and a slight alcoholic buzz may help researchers determine the effects of withdrawal on the moderate drinker.

"There is a tremor of the hands and extremities even in early stages of alcohol withdrawal," said Dr. Walter A. Pieper, a scientist with the Yerkes Regional Primate Center.

"Our research focuses on moderate alcohol intake," said Pieper, who is working with the small rhesus monkey, "but the dependency is still there and can be seen in the tremors."

Pieper and his staff maintain different blood levels with different monkeys and it's done by infusing alcohol directly into a vein.

Monkeys used in the research have an external portion of a catheter left in a tough plastic box — somewhat resembling a woman's hat known as the pillbox style — permanently secured to their heads.

The animal is strapped into a chair and the tubing in the box on its head connected to the alcohol which then is infused at a rate that matches the monkey's ability to metabolize it into his bloodstream.

"We give them loading doses to get the blood alcohol level up to the desired level and maintain that by putting in alcohol at the same level they burn it up," Pieper said.

Dose levels are in range with those of human moderate drinkers, he said.

The tremors are measured by attaching a small device known as a transducer, which records the animal's tiniest muscle movement. It measures the change in frequency of the tremors during the period of alcohol withdrawal.

Pieper said that scientists already know a great deal about the large intake of alcohol from studying humans — their tremors, hallucinations and withdrawals.

"What we're trying to develop is a method for detecting a mild dependence," he said. "What remains to be done is to establish a relationship between the degree of physical dependence and the tremor frequency," Pieper added.

Oklahoma Minister Performs Weddings For Anything From Cash To Vegetables

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—The recession hasn't really hurt the marriage business in this southeastern Oklahoma community, but it has caused payment for the ceremony to range from legitimate money to bartered food items.

The Rev. Ross Beal Nix doesn't mind, though.

"I never have turned down anyone because they don't have the money," he explained. "I'm always just a little bit flattered that they selected me to perform the ceremony."

The former justice of the peace has had payment in rolls of pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters. He thinks 50 cents is about the lowest amount he was ever paid to perform a ceremony for a couple.

"People are coming by with fish, fowl and even fresh vegetables and offering them as their means of bartering for a wedding," the Rev. Mr. Nix said.

He remembers one country couple who came to him to perform their wedding vows offering barter for payment.

"I got some packages of steaks out in the truck," the farm-dressed youth said, nodding nervously in the direction of a pickup where a young girl was sitting. "Me and my girl wanna get hitched but I'm a little short of money. Could you fix us up for the steaks?"

The Rev. Mr. Nix suggested instead that the steaks could make a nice wedding night supper for the couple.

"We butchered a steer, so there's plenty more at home," the prospective bridegroom said earnestly. "I just wanted to swap these for the wedding."

Durant, not far above the Texas border, attracts brides and bridegrooms from the surrounding area like a modern day Gretna Green. Last year marked the first time in three years that the total of marriage licenses had fallen under 2,200. Only 1,885 were issued.

The pace is also off his year with 858 licenses issued during the first six months compared with 923 for the same period a year ago.

The Rev. Mr. Nix performs many of the weddings in this Bryan County community, and he has come up with another innovation which may increase his work load.

He has designed a "Re-Marriage License" for couples who have been wed 25 years or more.

"Many couples come back and want to renew their vows," the Rev. Mr. Nix said. "This certificate is designed along the lines of a regular marriage license, but it is just a re-marriage license. All I have to do is just fill in the names and sign it and it makes a nice memento of the occasion."

Although county records show that the issuance of marriage licenses is down from the first six months of last year, the Rev. Mr. Nix is confident that the situation will improve.

In the meantime, he is enjoying himself "just like in the good old days" when people paid things besides money for their weddings.

Dean Rusk Convinced CIA Assassination Reports False

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk says he's convinced no CIA agent ever assassinated a foreign leader.

"I'm convinced, for example, that no foreign leader was killed by a smoking gun in the hand of any employee of the CIA or agent of the CIA," he said.

"Now there are some involvements with some dissident groups that involved various kinds of relationships, chiefly for intelligence gathering purposes," he added.

He also said during his tenure under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson he never discussed assassination of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Rusk, now a law professor at the University of Georgia, made the comments Wednesday at a news conference. He was in New Mexico to visit his son, David and his family, who live in Albuquerque.

Rusk said the role of the CIA in foreign affairs has been exaggerated.

Asked by a newsman if he knew of any attempt to assassinate Castro, Rusk said, "No one ever recommended assassination to me. There was never any discussion of assassination between me and cabinet colleagues and never any discussion of assassination between me and either President Kennedy or President Johnson."

"I must say I was fully surprised to learn that somebody might have turned to the Mafia at some point."

"How in the world could anybody put the leaders of organized crime in the position to blackmail the government of the United States by getting them involved in something of that sort. It's stupid."

Asked whether he thought Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had too much power, he said, "I have no doubt at all that President Ford is in charge of foreign policy even if Mr. Kissinger gets all the attention."

"We shouldn't confuse the responsibility of the President with those who serve at his pleasure."

He was critical of Kissinger serving as both secretary of state and White House security adviser. Rusk said both are fulltime jobs.

"I think it was obvious that Mr. Kissinger learned while he was in the White House that a secretary of state should not permit a Henry Kissinger in the White House and therefore when he became secretary of state he made sure there'd not be a successor to him in the White House."

He said, "I think the pattern established by law, anticipating there will be two separate individuals there, is the right pattern."

On NATO, he said, "I don't think there ought to be any misunderstanding about the importance of the NATO alliance. Fortunately, it has succeeded so well that people can pay less attention to it."

"I think those problems of the moment lie with out European NATO allies. After all, Portugal and Italy are both to take on some of these responsibilities."

He described the 35-nation European Security Conference as "a kind of acknowledgment of the frontiers of eastern Europe that simply accepts a status quo that's not going to be changed except by general war, and if there's a general war, there won't be any people around to worry about."

Rusk was a leading advocate of the domino theory as a reason for U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

He said, "I don't think we've seen the end of the story yet... It may take another decade or two before we can really make a balanced judgment on where the course of wisdom lay, either in getting in or in the way in which we got out" of Vietnam.

"As far as I'm personally concerned," Rusk said, "I'm remaining with President Kennedy and President Johnson and the policies they adopted."

Iowa Police Chief Gets Food Stamps

CARLISLE, Iowa (AP) — Police Chief Don Porter began receiving food stamps this week. He has not been paid since July 1 when the city council refused to set his salary.

"I have to make sure my family has something to eat," Porter said. "I never thought I'd have to stoop so low."

The council in this Des Moines suburb of 2,250 reduced Porter's salary from $9,000 a year to $2.25 an hour in early June, claiming he was incompetent, insubordinate and did not follow regular procedures.

"That's the same salary they would pay a person to sweep the streets or fill holes in the streets — parttime help," Porter says. "They figured that if they drop my salary to $2.25 an hour, I would quit."

Porter didn't quit, so the council fired him. But under Iowa law, a mayor has the sole right to hire a police chief, so Mayor Larry Anderson reappointed Porter five days later.

So the council, which sets salaries for all city employees, has refused to set a salary for the chief.

"All I receive on payday is a letter from the city clerk stating she is not authorized to issue me a check," Porter says.

This week, he applied for the food stamps.

"I called up and wanted to know if I was qualified," Porter said. "The lady said if I wasn't qualified now, I never would be."

Porter, whose children are 10, 8, and 6, said his family has survived because his wife works for a printing company in Des Moines.

"The check that she brings in takes care of outstanding bills, but it doesn't leave enough to eat," Porter says. "We've still got a little savings account left that isn't completely used up. I can last for quite a while."

Porter says one councilman said he was not qualified for his job because "he puts in too much time and he spends too much money."

"If that makes you not qualified because you are doing your job, there's something wrong someplace," Porter said.

Federal Plan Might Cut Hospital Costs In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will spend $1.8 million in the next two years in experimental project that officials say could trim $8 from the average $110 daily charge for Texas hospital patients.

O. Ray Hurst, president of the Texas Hospital Association (THA), projected that participating hospitals may save as much as $14 million and that the program should be able to pay its own way at the end of two years.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Texas Hospital Association are sharing equally in the venture which officials announced here Wednesday. The program is designed to cut costs but not the quality of medical care.

In Texas, the average daily charge for a hospital patient was $18.17 in 1950. That had increased to more than $75 in 1970 and was just short of $110 last year.

The experiment involves introducing business management techniques such as group purchasing, collecting, manpower allocation and equipment sharing among as many as 300 of the 600 hospitals in the THA.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, chairman of the National Commission on Productivity and Work Quality, said the project holds "very exciting promise" for implementation nationwide.

Individual hospitals are limited in what they can do alone to control the rising costs of medical care," Rockefeller told a news conference. "But working together, through such programs as group purchasing and equipment sharing, hospitals can achieve impressive savings."

The recent meeting of the 46-nation Organization of African Unity at Kampala, Uganda, seemed a symptom of things to come. A conviction may be growing among Black African leaders that their countries, already caught up in a sort of cold war between rich and poor worlds, have too many problems of their own to permit direct involvement in the Middle East quarrel, unless there are more convincing signs of quick profit from it.

How a rift develops may depend on how the Black African leaders elect to use the weapons they hold. Poor as most of these nations are, they seem to have hit on the idea that they have considerable bargaining power.

That could explain, at least in part, the setback the OAU handed those Arabs who are campaigning most belligerently to get Israel expelled from the United Nations and other world bodies.

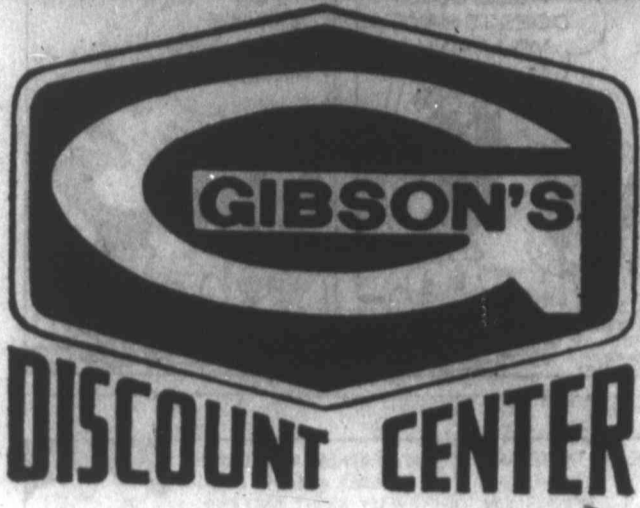

In effect, the Arabs had been urging Africans, despite Washington's warnings, to adopt a resolution proposing Israel's expulsion.

Instead, the Kampala meeting adopted a weak resolution proposing pressure on Israel to leave occupied Arab lands, "including the possibility of eventually depriving it of its membership."

Egypt, though at war with Israel, declined to support the militant Arabs' expulsion demand, and that was not surprising. Egypt's government still appears eager for enough movement in negotiations to represent insurance against a new war.

Egypt is also an African nation, closely tied to the continent racially and culturally as well as geographically. Although a religious and cultural center of Islam, Egypt sometimes is regarded by Fertile Crescent Arabs to the east as at least as African as she is Arab.

Much of Black Africa needs all the help it can get. In the poor "Third World," there are 30 countries regarded as poorest of the poor. More than half those are Black African. Like Egypt these have an eye on American technology as a help out of their backwardness.

School Integration Battle Not Over

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

Those long involved in fighting for integration see as much school segregation today as 21 years ago when the Supreme Court declared separate facilities for black and white students unconstitutional.

The civil rights leaders, interviewed recently about the status of school integration, said the nation still faces an uphill struggle to fully integrate Southern public schools and end de facto segregation in the North. They added, however, that the quality of education for Southern black children has improved slightly.

"We certainly do not have integrated schools," said Dr. Kenneth Clark, a retired City University of New York psychology professor.

Clark, who testified in the 1954 Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education case in which the Supreme Court ruled "separate but equal" schools inherently unequal, distinguished between desegregated schools and integrated ones.

Desegregated schools require only a legal mandate, he said, adding that the South now provides good examples of desegregated schools.

Integrated schools require psychological, social and human concerns so that race becomes a positive factor in learning, Clark said. The best examples of integrated schools are private schools in the North, he said.

Dr. Martin Deutsch, a professor of early childhood education at New York University who worked with Clark in preparing for the Brown case, said the number of schools that have become integrated since 1954 "is not that significant."

It is difficult to tell how many schools remain segregated since most integration suits are against school districts, not individual schools. According to the U.S. Office of Civil Rights, a federal suit was filed against districts in 17 southern and border states in 1973 and another suit was filed last month against districts in 33 southern and northern states.

James Farmer, a founder of the Congress of Racial Equality and now president of the Council on Minority Planning and Strategy, noted at least one reason school integration has not come about.

"In the early '60s, it was assumed that if we could get black children into those classrooms that were largely white, they would have a higher quality education, because white parents had more political and economic power," he said.

It didn't work, Farmer said, because white parents took their children out of public school and sent them to private schools, some of which, in the South, were created just to avoid integration.

Clark noted, however, that the number of white youngsters in private schools is decreasing "because of largely financial factors."

"White parents are no longer able to afford private academies for racial reasons," he said.

Nowadays, long-range weather is predictable, giving people a head start. And the National Weather Service passes on its forecasts of weather patterns to civil preparedness groups who alert townspeople and provide material explaining how to cope.

For example, a recent Severe Weather Seminar called by the Connecticut Office of Civil Preparedness was planned to alert town representatives that the northeast might face a natural disaster that could approximate one that took the lives of more than 500 people in 1938.

Warm winters and hot summers indicate tropical storm patterns, a pattern that has been spotted on Long Island — a big vacation area — by meteorologists. This area suffered considerable damage in the 1938 hurricane.

Taken unawares, people as well as buildings were swept away in tidal waves. At one summer inn, owners, guests and employees were carried out to sea during the night.

Being Prepared Good Motto For All—Not Just Boy Scouts

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Bad summer storms can put a crimp in a vacation. But big ones can cause serious problems. Tornadoes seem to pop up anywhere and hurricanes can be a threat.

People visiting shore points or vacationing in areas new to them should be especially alert — even some northeast points are showing tropical storm patterns. Those in mobile homes should be prepared to brace their homes if an emergency arises.

Fewer lives would be lost and there would be far less damage to property if people observed preparedness, civil defense groups caution.

Nowadays, long-range weather is predictable, giving people a head start. And the National Weather Service passes on its forecasts of weather patterns to civil preparedness groups who alert townspeople and provide material explaining how to cope.

In a way time breeds indifference because new generations have either forgotten about such disasters or they have never even experienced a mild hurricane, points out Weather Service Director George P. Cressman. It is one reason why the service, an agency of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, has been providing urgent messages to coastal people in the last years, he says. Mexico, the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico have been involved in hurricanes. The northeast could be next.

What to do about hurricanes and tornadoes? Acquire booklets or information containing hurricane and tornado safety pointers from local civil preparedness offices. In addition to that information, there are special booklets on lighting, flash flood, mobile homes. In the event of a hurricane warning or watch acquire a supply of boards, tools, batteries, nonperishable foods and other equipment necessary for comfort.

If it is a hurricane watch (a threat within 24 hours) normal activities should be continued but radio or television for National Weather Service advisories should be left on. If there is a warning (a strike within 24 hours) monitor the storm's position through the advisories. Check all battery-powered equipment. A portable radio may become the only link with the outside world. Emergency cooking facilities and flashlights might be essential if utilities are interrupted. Have your car fully fueled.

Board windows or protect them with storm shutters or tape. Secure outdoor objects that might be blown away or damaged or bring them inside. (Chairs, tables, barbecues may even come flying through a window unless brought inside.) Store drinking water — a town's supply may be contaminated or diminished by hurricane floods. (Run water in bathtubs, fill bottles for refrigerator, keep other containers of water in handy places.)

Leave low-lying areas when advised to do so. If you are in a mobile home, which is extremely vulnerable to high winds, leave it. If your home is sturdy and at a safe elevation, remain indoors during a hurricane.

Because hurricanes often cause severe flooding as they move inland, stay away from banks of rivers and streams. Tornadoes are often spawned by hurricanes and are among the storm's lethal effects. When a hurricane approaches listen to radio and television for tornado warnings. Immediate action can save your life, the civil defense points out. Even if the sky is blue continue to listen to a battery-operated radio.

A tornado warning means it has been sighted or indicated by weather radar. Seek inside shelter (in a cellar or reinforced building) and stay away from windows. Curl up so your head and eyes are protected. The basement offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under sturdy furniture. In homes without basements, take cover in the center part of the house on the lowest floor or in a small room such as a closet or bathroom or under sturdy furniture. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them.

If caught in an office building go to an east-facing or north-facing interior hallway on the lowest floor or to the designated shelter area. Keep away from south-facing rooms and windows.

In open country move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest ditch or ravine.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds. Damage can be minimized by securing trailers with cables anchored in concrete footings. Over-the-top and frame ties are suggested by the Department of Defense to keep the mobile home secure.

Wildcat Wells For Oil, Gas Show Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Wednesday that 15 wildcat oil wells and 16 wildcat gas wells were drilled in the state during the last half of July.

The 15 oil wildcats included three each in the Houston, San Angelo and Lubbock districts, two each in the Corpus Christi and Midland districts and one each in the San Antonio No. 2 and Pampa districts.

That raised the total of oil wildcats for the year to 230, or 67 more than at this time last year.

The new gas wildcats raised the yearly total to 314, or 111 more than a year ago. They included four each in the Houston and Corpus Christi districts, three in the San Antonio No. 2 district, two in the San Antonio No. 1 district and one each in the Abilene, San Angelo and Midland districts.

The commission said 276 oil wells were completed during the period, July 15-Aug. 1, raising the total for the year to 3,877, or 886 more than at this time last year. The completion of 135 gas wells raised the yearly total to 1,894, or 402 more than a year ago.

The commission reported that 504 wells were plugged during the two-week period, including 211 dry holes.

Texas' average calendar day oil allowable as of Aug. 1 was 3,903,735 barrels, a decrease of 9,489 from July 15.

Mills Postpones Decision On '76

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur Mills, saying he has to see if he can "take all the pressure that goes with the job and continue my sobriety," says he will decide by the first of the year whether to seek a 20th term in Congress.

The 66-year-old Mills, former chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, returned to work in May after an absence to cure alcoholism. He lost his committee chairmanship following publicity about his relationship with an Argentine stripper.

Burglary Charged Security Guards
DALLAS (AP) — Arrests of two private security guards led to recovery of $43,000 in goods stolen from homes they were assigned to guard, police said Wednesday.

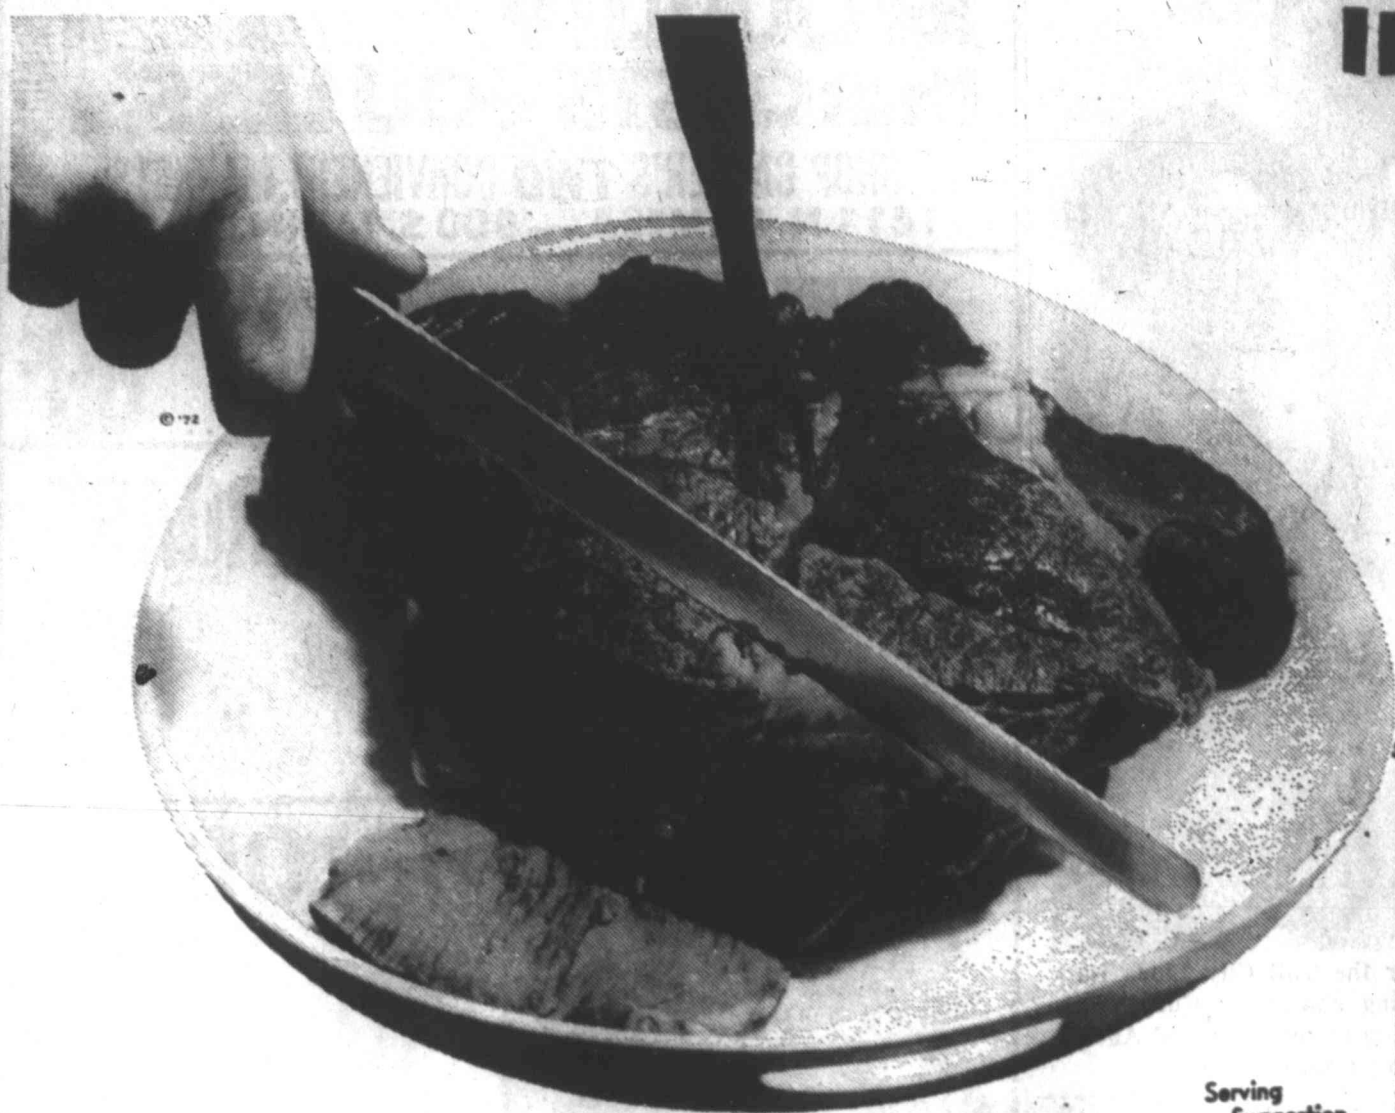

Authorities brought burglary charges against James Jenkins, 29, of McKinney and Anthony Steliga, 32, of Arlington in the case.

Detectives said the arrests last week followed word from Arlington police that one of the men had tried to pawn a stolen camera. They reported guns and jewelry were among other articles recovered.

Alaska Pipeline Contractors Facing First Big Project Goal

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Pipeline construction contractors on the trans Alaska pipeline project are facing the first major goal of their portion of the project: 50 per cent completion by the end of the 1975 construction season.

The goal was set by the pipeline department of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the firm responsible for the design, construction and operation of the 800-mile-long line.

For the week ending July 20, 22.6 per cent of the pipeline portion of the project had been completed, including placement of 55.6 miles of pipe (45.5 miles below ground, 5.5 miles above ground and 4.6 miles of river crossings).

Frank Moolin Jr., senior project manager of the pipeline department, said contractors will attempt to complete 50 per cent of the total work effort by the beginning of November.

This includes right-of-way clearing, workpad construction, a portion of the above ground pipe support system and a considerable amount of pipe installation.

The pipeline is scheduled to begin operation by mid-1977 and to reach initial operating capacity of 1.2 million barrels daily by November 1977.

During the week ending July 20, the contractor for section 3, H. C. Price Co., completed 124,000 cubic yards of gravel workpad, bringing the total completed in that section to about two-thirds of the workpad required. Section 3 extends 145 miles from south of Fairbanks, north to the Yukon River.

Also in section 3, with 10 drills now operating, 256 vertical support members were set during the period. This was an increase of 175 over the previous week.

Price has completed installation of 2,416 of the 13,278 vsm's needed in section 3. For the entire project, more than 70,000 vsm's will be needed to elevate about half of the pipeline.

The section 3 project manager for Alyeska, Marty Nelson, said some of the most unpredictable terrain on the pipeline lies in his territory. He said several design changes from buried to above-ground installation of pipe, and vice versa, have been required in the section due to soil conditions. Such changes require time not entirely provided for in construction schedules, Nelson said.

However, Alyeska engineers have discovered that a portion of workpad originally planned for winter construction can be redesigned for summer construction.

To make river crossings on the Chena River and Moose Creek in section 3, the pipe will be concrete-coated in the field. The crossings will be installed in winter when the river and creek are frozen.

Other winter work is scheduled, also. At Globe Creek, survey stakes indicate where crews will construct a workpad through the area during winter.

A girder bridge is scheduled for construction in the section at the Tatalina River. From Livengood pipeline camp to the Yukon River, work is under way on development of material sites, access roads and pipeline workpad.

Elsewhere, Associated-Green, the pipeline construction contractor for section 4 north of the Yukon River, placed 508 vsm's to lead all other sections. Total vsm's in place in section 4 was 4,298, of 14,638 vsm's needed.

In section 5, Arctic Constructors completed 3.9 miles of river crossings on the Sagavarrtok River, north of Happy Valley pipeline camp.

At the terminal at Valdez, tank construction continued on three ballast water treatment tanks, site excavation, the east tank farm and berths for crude oil tanker transports.

On one of three water ballast tanks, workers completed the top ring of steel wall, roof supports and framing.

Site work and excavation continued for the power plant and vapor recovery plant at the terminal.

Tank construction continued at the east tank farm. Roof supports and framing were erected on three tanks. Foundations were completed for two tanks and foundations were under construction on three others.

State Spending!

Just in case you might have wondered at times what the 64th Texas Legislature did during its recent 140-day regular session . . . well, for one thing, it spent money!

The legislature, just for the record, appropriated more than $13 billion . . . which is still a whole lot of money, even in government circles.

The Texas Research League, in its Aug. 4 Bulletin on Texas State Finance, reports that the so-called "general" appropriations act for the 1976-77 biennium calls for the expenditure of $12.09 billion, after allowance for $27 million in gubernatorial vetoes.

In addition, the legislature passed special appropriation acts applicable to the next biennium totaling almost $0.69 billion. Together, these raised the authorized spending for 1976-77 to $12.78 billion. To this, however, must be added another $0.34 billion in emergency appropriations spendable in the present biennium for a total of $13.12 billion.

It is interesting to note that outlays programmed for the 1976-77 biennium represent a 44 per cent increase over estimated 1974-75 spending from appropriations made by the 63rd legislature.

Distribution of final texts of the Appropriations Act began July 21, thus signaling the course Texas

State government is bound to follow for 1977. It has been said, and rightly so, that there now is little anyone can do to change it.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, in his veto message, emphasized the fact that the governor has little control over state spending patterns.

The Research League points out that although legislative oversight is more active than in the past, the legislature is not at the helm of state government during the interim between sessions.

Thus, for a period of two years, the billions of dollars appropriated will be administered effectively by the various state agencies, each acting independently of the other and, more or less, independent of any general supervision.

It is encouraging, however, to read the prediction that, with good fortune, the state will get through the biennium without serious fiscal problems.

But, please don't get carried away completely; because indications are that 1977 will bring with it the need for a large state tax bill.

There is nothing particularly new in this respect. Members of the legislature and other state officials speaking here and elsewhere during the session and since, have said more or less the same thing.

So, Texans had better get set for a hard, fast, tough tax ride during the next session. It takes money, lots of tax money, to run the fast-running branches of government today, particularly when they attempt to provide many of the services demanded by citizens, who most often do not think of cost until tax-paying time.

The figures presented by the Research League, totaling $13.12 billion, include appropriations made from all state funds, including those obtained from the federal government and earmarked for specific purposes and those which the state itself dedicates.

Regardless of where the funds come from, the appropriations still represent a great deal of money. Perhaps members of the legislature, and citizens generally, might give some thought now as to ways and means of curtailing government spending at all levels.

EYE ON CUBA:

United States Gives Up On Cuban Problem

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

The United States surrendered ideological leadership of the Americas when it voted in favor of lifting sanctions on Communist Cuba.

The United States supported the "freedom of action" resolution that Mexico proposed and which the inter-American conference in San Jose, Costa Rica, adopted as a way out of the Cuban problem.

To be able to vote in favor of Cuba, though, the United States had to abandon its long-standing insistence that communism is incompatible with hemispheric principles.

That was one of the themes of U.S. policy toward Latin America that Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon generally followed since World War II.

It was an idea almost unanimously accepted in Latin America, too, for many years.

Only Mexico has steadfastly refused to agree.

Mexico, it may be recalled, is the country where Fidel Castro, his brother, Raul, the Argentine revolutionary Ernesto (Che) Guevara and other exiles met, organized, trained and launched the invasion force that sparked the revolution that brought Castro to power in Cuba in 1959.

As early as August, 1960, when the hemisphere's foreign ministers first met in San Jose to consider tensions in the Caribbean, with particular emphasis on the Cuban situation, Mexico reaffirmed its belief "that each state has the right to develop its cultural, political and economic life freely and naturally." Mexico stated then that the declaration that came out of the conference "in no way" should be considered "a condemnation or a threat against Cuba, whose aspirations for economic improvement and social justice have the fullest support of the government and people of Mexico."

Mexico has never wavered. In 1962, in Punta del Este, Mexico objected vehemently to the exclusion of Cuba from the Organization of American States.

In 1964, in Washington, Mexico opposed imposition of diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba and was the only hemisphere republic that defied the OAS and refused to break relations with the Castro dictatorship. Bolivia, Chile and Uruguay, the only other Latin countries that then had relations with Cuba, went along with the OAS mandate.

In more recent years, other Latin nations have joined Mexico in the pro-Castro camp. Peru, for example, pioneered the "freedom of action" approach to Cuba in 1972 and when it was voted down in the OAS then, Peru restored relations with the Castro regime. In 1973, Argentina, under the Peronist government of President Hector Campora, followed suit, and Panama did in 1974. Venezuela and Colombia normalized their ties with Cuba after the OAS conference in Quito in November, 1974, failed to lift the sanctions.

The stumbling block was the article in the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance, under which the sanctions were voted in 1964, that stipulated that decisions be taken by a vote of two-thirds of the countries that had signed and ratified the treaty. That meant that the affirmative ballots of 14 countries were required. As a practical matter, so long as the United States remained opposed to resumption of relations with the Castro dictatorship, Castro's apologists could not seem to get more than a dozen votes.

Two more inter-American conferences were required before the hemisphere republics were able to amend the Rio treaty so that sanctions, which still require a two-thirds vote for imposition, could be lifted with a simple majority, that is the affirmative votes of 11 countries.

While the simple majority provision will not enter into effect until the profoundly amended treaty has been ratified by its signatories, Castro's supporters took advantage of the euphoria of the moment in San Jose to convolve another inter-American meeting in the Costa Rican capital to consider the freedom of action resolution.

It provides that the hemisphere republics be "free to normalize or conduct in accordance with the national policy or interests of each their relations with the Republic of Cuba at the level and in the form that each state deems advisable."

Again, 14 affirmative votes were required for adoption.

Once the United States reversed its position and let it be known that it would go along with the Mexican proposal, the necessary two-thirds vote was all but assured.

When the ballots were counted, it turned out that both Bolivia and Guatemala, which had been anti-Castro, anti-Communist in recent years, had followed the United States into the majority camp.

Only Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay voted against the resolution. Brazil and Nicaragua abstained.

'Doesn't He Seem A Little TOO Happy?'

INSIDE REPORT—

Henry Kissinger: A Capitol Problem

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The administration's failure to reverse Congress on Turkish aid leads to an inescapable conclusion with far-reaching implications: the tragic, perhaps irreversible break in the U.S.-Turkish alliance quite likely would not have occurred if Dr. Henry F. Kissinger were not Secretary of State.

The direct cause for Congress irresponsibly cutting off aid to Turkey is the brazen pressure campaign of the Greek-American lobby. But ethnic politics would not have been enough. What provided the margin of defeat was Dr. Kissinger. Feeling he had transformed Turkish aid into a test of who runs foreign policy, some liberal Democrats were tilted against Turkish aid. Even more damaging, rabidly anti-Communist Republicans opposed aid because of Kissinger's detentist foreign policy.

While not condoning such motives, Republican congressional leaders blame Kissinger for the Turkish debacle. Some even feel his usefulness as Secretary of State has ended, a view now shared by a few officials in the administration. These still anonymous critics are not Kissinger-haters of the far left or far right but responsible Ford supporters who until recently considered Kissinger indispensable.

President Ford views Kissinger as his most valuable adviser and wants him at the State Department through 1976, raising this question: what to do with a Secretary of State whose presence on Capitol Hill hurts more than helps in a Congress wildly assertive about foreign policy?

Evans

When Congress ended Turkish aid last December because of the Cyprus problem, Kissinger still cut a masterful figure on Capitol Hill. But Turkish aid quickly became personalized between four highly intense personalities — Kissinger on one side and three champions of the Greek lobby on the other: Reps. John Brademas of Indiana, Ben Rosenthal of New York and Paul Sarbanes of Maryland.

Matters grew worse Feb. 11 when the three Congressmen visited Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, who suggested a compromise to conceivably break the impasse. The Congressmen reported this to Kissinger, who gave them the impression of resenting Schlesinger's interference. Indeed, such resentment was promptly relayed from State Department to Defense Department.

At that point, Brademas and his colleagues hardened their conclusion — erroneous or not — that Kissinger was more interested in executive branch dominance over foreign policy than in compromising the Turkish problem.

Nevertheless, the administration's position improved through spring and early summer as the Turkish aid cutoff failed to soften Ankara's position on Cyprus. Lobbying to reverse the house, Kissinger met late July 9 with the huge Democratic freshman class of '75 members.

The results were disastrous. Some freshmen felt Kissinger was condescending in declaring that "you politicians" ought to understand motives of the Turkish leaders. Others felt him arrogant in asserting executive domination over foreign policy. Rep. Abner Mikva of Illinois, more experienced and usually calmer than his freshman colleagues, entered the meeting leaning toward support of aid; he left opposed, fearful that Kissinger intended the issue as the opening wedge to drive Congress out of foreign policy.

Even so, the administration would have won had Republicans held firm. They did not. The 223 to 206 defeat was authored by 39 Republican defections, 27 of them conservatives. Voting against the President were the vanguard of the right wing, including Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio, Robert Bauman and Marjorie Holt of Maryland, John Rousset of California and Philip Crane of Illinois. The underlying reason: Kissinger.

On the floor before the July 24 vote, conservatives told Republican leaders that if Henry Kissinger was for something, they were against it. They did not trust him, they added, and were bitter about detente, Helsinki, Cuba and the Panama Canal.

When Schlesinger met with the 39 recalcitrant Republicans July 30, they began denouncing Kissinger. Schlesinger refused to get into any discussion of his cabinet colleague and rival, instead stressing the adverse effects against U.S. national security from closing Turkish bases.

That turned around several anti-Communist Republicans, but nobody could absolutely guarantee a reversal in the House. So, Congress left town Aug. 1, to be idle for a full month in which U.S.-Turkish relations will grow more poisoned. Even a reversal on aid after Congress returns in September (by no means certain) would not unscramble the Turkish eggs.

Should Dr. Kissinger now stay out of the firing line on this issue? Beyond Turkish aid, should he abandon congressional duties and stick to diplomacy? But handling Congress has been part of a Secretary of State's basic duties for a generation.

Thus, the President must decide whether Dr. Kissinger's talents in negotiation with the Communists and in the Mideast outweigh his now obvious liabilities in Congress. Mr. Ford obviously thinks so, but some Republican congressional leaders may soon tell him they do not agree.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — FBI chief Clarence Kelley, whose square jaw is replacing the late J. Edgar Hoover's bulldog visage as a symbol of law and order, has strengthened the FBI, restored its morale and corrected past abuses.

Our assessment of Kelley may be noteworthy, since we were the first to expose Hoover's excesses. We told how the FBI, under Hoover, kept files on prominent Americans, photocopied their private papers, obtained their bank records without subpoenas and even committed burglaries.

Now we have uncovered another scandal, which Kelley inherited. We have established that FBI transcripts, marked as evidence and distributed to prosecutors and judges, are loaded with errors.

With the help of Washington's renowned private detective Richard Bast, we have reviewed 150,000 words in FBI transcripts and have found more than 30,000 errors. One 136-page transcript contained 6,500 goofs.

Yet these transcripts were distributed for use in criminal and civil cases to various FBI offices, the Justice Department and the courts. Although an FBI spokesman explained that the transcripts were merely rough drafts, they were stamped "Evidence" not "Drafts."

The circulation of grossly erroneous transcripts as FBI evidence strikes at the heart of the judicial process. In the name of justice, proper precautions should be taken to ensure their accuracy.

Even more serious than the errors are the omissions. For example, the tapes contain references to crimes that should have been investigated, yet these crucial references don't appear in the FBI transcripts. Here are a few examples:

— Bast put Treasury agents together with a Mafia contact and taped the interview. The mobster gave evidence of a "violation of the mails." The tape was later transcribed by the FBI, but mention of the postal violation strangely was omitted.

— Two references to a 10 per cent kickback, which a Mafia middleman had collected from a major New York shipping firm, were left out of the FBI transcript.

— In one tape, a Mafia courier tells how he and his pals had fooled FBI agents who had been keeping them under surveillance. Under the noses of the agents, boasts the courier, the mobsters had smuggled in "enough explosives in the truck to blow up . . . Union Station." This part of the courier's confession doesn't appear in the FBI transcript.

— Discussion of two other crimes, involving fireworks brought in as "pest control pebbles" and name-brand cigarettes fabricated by the Mafia "with their machines in their warehouses," is mysteriously missing from the transcript.

— A Mafia informant, talking to a T-man about a payoff case, is asked: "Did you tell the FBI anything about these payoffs and anything?" The mobster replies: "Yes . . . Yeah." But in the FBI transcript, he is quoted as saying "No." Nowhere on the tape is there a sound that could be mistaken for "No."

— An underworld fireworks dealer describes how his boss "always hires a few of the fire marshals" to cover up criminal fireworks sales. This reference to bribery also is deleted from the transcript.

— On one tape, a federal agent quotes "a guy from AID" as saying that "everybody at every level is taking their cut" of U.S. shipments to Vietnam. Unaccountably, the FBI transcript turns the quote around. "Everybody never knows who's taking a cut," states the FBI version.

The transcripts also are littered with Keystone Kops errors. In a reference to gangster Paul Coppola, there is a line about putting "up a witness bond to appear at Paul Coppola's trial." This appears in the FBI transcript as "up to Kichenape to appear in front of a Polish trial."

The term "bag man" is transcribed by the FBI as "bad man," and the crime of "shylocking" comes out "skylocking." A reference to "a soldier, you know, sneaks through enemy lines" is recorded in the transcript as "a sager who speaks the enemy line."

The phrase, "the rest of the members," is translated by the FBI astonishingly as "Richard Nixon." The name "Diddinger," perhaps in memory of past FBI glory, becomes "Dillinger." And the name of a California businessman, Charles Rulapaugh, is transcribed as "rule applys."

The phrase, "I was fired, Mr. Simpkins," becomes "You despise Mr. Simpkins" in the transcript. An ex-FBI agent William Turner, who wrote an unfavorable book about the late J. Edgar Hoover, is described in the tapes as "just interested in . . . prosecuting." But it appears in the FBI transcript as "just interested in . . . prostitution."

Among the comic mistakes are also some that are chilling. At one point, a tape contains this warning from Bast about a mob informer: "To be quite frank, his life is in danger."

In the FBI transcript, the phrase reads: "Unintelligible."

Glover Miller, 113, Plans 'To Live Seven More Years'

ASPERMONT, Tex. (AP) — Cane in hand, Glover Miller shuffles through the First National Bank here where he has been employed for as long as anyone can remember. Miller can remember pretty far back. He says he is 113 years old and few in this West

Texas community will quarrel with that. The oldtimer picks up trash at the bank and relishes memories obscured somewhat by time. Glover Miller says he was born into slavery near Montgomery, Ala., during the Civil War. "When the Yankees came around, I didn't know anything. Six white men came on horses and told my mama, 'You are as free as we are.' When the old master found out he turned over in his bed and never said another word. He had just bought a bunch of slaves from

New Orleans and the word killed him," Miller said. Here are his observations on life: "I heard about them on the moon. But I'll tell you one thing: they never fooled around with the sun. And I bet they never will.

"I bought a car from a white woman who didn't like the color. That must have been a hundred years ago." It was Miller's only automobile. "Let's see," he says, trying to recall how many children he has. "You'll just have to ask my children about that. I've got so many." His daughters say the old man had 21 children and two wives. Miller doesn't care much for television but enjoys the jostling of a "preacher friend. He always preaches my funeral. He tells me I am living on somebody else's time. "I don't reckon I'll ever retire," he said. "I'm the oldest man in Jones County and I plan to live seven more years." Why seven years? "Might as well make it even," the old man said, his face turning into a pious grin.

New York Fires Yogi Berra

Yogi Berra, left, was fired by the New York Mets Wednesday and replaced by Roy McMillan, right, by club officials. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — One night in St. Louis they poured into old Busch Stadium to honor one of their own. They came to pay tribute and they came to be entertained. They weren't disappointed.

Their man trudged up to the microphone in his shuffling, sad-sack gait and said: "I want to thank all the baseball fans and everyone else who made this night necessary."

That was the incongruity of Yogi Berra. On the field, his talent made him a hero; off the field, his slips of the tongue made him a legend.

What made that night in St. Louis necessary was his genuine greatness as a ballplayer; what makes this reminiscence necessary is his uncertain ability as a manager.

As a ballplayer, he was a Hall of Famer; as a manager, he's been fired twice.

The latest dismissal came Wednesday for this dumpy-looking man who pulled himself by his spiked shoes all the way from the Italian ghetto of St.

Louis to Cooperstown. He was fired by the New York Mets because, as M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board, said:

"We just felt we had to make a change. We were wondering if we were getting the most out of our material."

Yogi Berra always got the most out of Yogi Berra. How much potential he squeezed out of his players is open to debate. The record, if it speaks for itself, doesn't talk loudly. And it certainly has two sides.

After a marvelous 17-year career with the New York Yankees, in which he appeared in a record 14 World Series and earned a reputation as an awesome clutch hitter, he became manager of the Bronx Bombers in 1964. Yogi's friends became Yogi's players, and he ran into some trouble.

Phil Linz, playing his harmonica on the team bus after a particularly depressing loss, incurred the wrath of Berra in a celebrated incident, which has been credited with both sparking the Yankees to the pennant and costing Berra his job. The Yankees went on to win the pennant in 1964, their last one. Their best finish since then was second place in 1970 and second last year under Bill Virdon, who was fired by the Yankees Saturday.

In the World Series, the Yankees lost to the St. Louis Cardinals in seven games. A day later Berra was fired.

"Yogi Berra was my biggest mistake," said then General Manager Ralph Houk, who both hired and fired Berra. "Looking back, the mistake was made in hiring Yogi as a manager, not in firing him."

"The plain truth is that Yogi was not ready to manage. Everybody felt—me included—that Yogi would make a good manager. It did not turn out that way."

Berra took over the Mets 3½ years ago after Gil Hodges died of a heart attack in spring training. The Mets floundered in 1972 with a third-place finish and were in trouble in 1973, until a hot September carried them to the National League flag with an 83-79 record.

Berra's critics point to the Mets' winning the pennant with barely a .500 record. His backers say nine other NL managers didn't win the pennant and Berra was only the second man in history to manage pennant winners in both major leagues.

The Mets finished fifth in 1974 and were in third place, 9½ games behind the front-running Pirates Wednesday when the axe fell on Berra, who stepped out of character two weeks ago and delivered a "him or me" ultimatum to the Mets over the Cleon Jones affair.

Berra wouldn't let Jones back on the team after Jones refused to play the outfield one night. Grant wanted Jones reinstated, Berra balked and Jones was sent packing. Two weeks later, Berra joined Jones on baseball's unemployment list.

But there will probably be a job for Berra, maybe in New York with the Yankees under his old friend and roommate Billy Martin, who was asked Wednesday if he would like Berra on his team? "I sure would," he said.

It would be a good move for the Yankees, Berra and baseball. The Yankees lost a lot of fans when they fired their pennant-winning manager in 1964. Here's a chance to get some back.

And Berra said Wednesday he wants to stay in baseball. "I've been in it all my life," he said.

Baseball needs Yogi Berra. His breed is just too scarce these days.

In a happier time under happier circumstances, Berra declined to go to a fancy New York restaurant.

"Nobody goes there anymore," he said. "It's too crowded."

State Slow Pitch Tournament Set

Thirty-four of the top teams in the state will be in Midland Friday through Sunday to compete in the Men's Open State Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at Hogan Park.

Pairings for the three-day affair will be released on Friday, according to tournament director Freddie Ezell.

Four games are on tap Friday night with the rest of the teams set to open play at 8 a.m. Saturday on the four Hogan Park diamonds.

"We want to try and get Taylor Brothers of Corpus Christi, to play their first game of the tourney Friday night, but they may not be able to fly in time to help kick it off until Saturday morning," said Ezell. Goodrich Service Center of Midland, will also open play Friday if the schedule can be worked out with Taylor which won the state championship in 1972 and last year.

Two more teams qualified for the tourney over the weekend with the Denton Merchants and Commerce Athletics coming to Midland to round out a strong 34-team field.

"There are at least 17 strong teams that are capable of winning the whole thing," said Ezell. Lake Jackson's Brazos Sports are strong again after finishing second to Taylor Brothers here last year. Green's Jewelers of Corpus Christi is also reported to be strong along with Goodrich, Smith Brothers of Midland and the Lubbock Raiders.

Boxwell Brothers, runner-up to Smith Brothers in 1973, has another strong club and Herford Bi-Products is reported to be loaded again.

Goodnight Homes of Killean and the Temple Merchants has fielded strong teams in the past. Goodrich has never won the state championship, but did finish third in 1972 and 1974 in the star-studded tourney.

Rosana's Realty of Abilene has loaded up for this tourney, picking up several players off the Abilene Waugh team.

Superior Mobile Homes of Victoria is strong along with the Wichita Falls Baggett-Birdwell entry.

Besides Goodrich and Smith Brothers, there are two other Midland teams in the tourney with Snowwhite Cleaners making its first appearance while the other team — Lingo-ORD returns after playing here last season.

Wants To Forget Play In Westchester Golf

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tom Weiskopf shrugged off the galling memory of his $50,000 disappointment at Westchester and put himself high today on the list of half-dozen men—no more—he thinks capable of winning the PGA golf crown.

"I have forgotten the tournament last week. It is over. It is final. You can't let a thing like that bug you," said the temperamental stylist who blew a seven-stroke halfway lead last weekend in one of the world's richest events.

"I don't feel I gave it away. After all, Gene Littler had to sink a hole-in-one to win it. I didn't play a loose shot. Maybe it was for the best. If I had won there, I might not be as keen here.

"This is the PGA, a major. I would really like to win it."

The 6-foot-3 Weiskopf, who only a week earlier had beaten Jack Nicklaus in a playoff for the Canadian Open, is one of the strong advance favorites in the field of 138 touring and teaching pros who tee off in their family event today over the long and tough Firestone course, scene of two previous PGAs as well as the American Golf Classic and World Series. It is a 7,180-yard test of brute strength playing to a par 70.

"There is nothing subtle about this course," Weiskopf said. "It is blast, blast, blast. You just get out there and slug. That's the reason I think you can limit the real contenders to a handful.

"Nicklaus, of course. Lee Trevino because he drives so straight. Johnny Miller, streaky but tremendous. Arnold Palmer, still as good a driver as there is in golf. And Hale Irwin, with those good long irons and playing very confidently."

And, it goes without saying—Tom Weiskopf.

Many students of the game regard Weiskopf as the finest striker of the ball on the tour, a player of tremendous natural ability whose success has been slowed by a trigger temper and flashes of immature petulance.

It is a fault that Long Tom doesn't disavow. He admits he is highly emotional but contends he is learning to harness his outbursts. He believes he can play golf as well as anybody. Most people agree.

"I didn't start playing golf until I was 15," he said. "I played most of the other sports and had no one pushing me. I didn't become knowledgeable about the game until about my third year on the tour. "I only played in two big amateur tournaments. I won the Western the first time I played in it and lost in the third round in the National Amateur in 1963. I really don't think I learned the game, learned how to win until two years ago."

Weiskopf, now 32, turned pro in 1964. Then followed an erratic, unpredictable period—spurts of brilliance and occasional blowups—until 1973 when he won four U.S. tour events, the British Open, South African and World Series and became Pro Golfer of the Year.

Weiskopf inherited the unenviable role of following close on the footsteps of the great Nicklaus, whose 15 major championships have marked him as golf's all-time great. Three years younger, he grew up in Jack's home town, Columbus, Ohio, and followed Nicklaus through Ohio State.

Weiskopf has refused to let himself suffer from comparison.

"There is only one club in the bag that Jack can play better than I can—the putter," Tom said, during a break in his PGA preparations. "Neither Jack nor I is a great driver, although both of us have that reputation.

"I think I am better than Jack with my long and short irons. The medium irons are about the same. I am a better chipper—better from 100 yards in—but Jack is far superior as a putter.

"On the greens he is fantastic. I think he's the best putter in golf. And he has a big edge on me in concentration and determination."

Weiskopf doesn't concede Nicklaus much of an edge in the physical departments but gives him a wide advantage in the intangibles.

"Jack has the killer instinct," he said. "He has dedicated himself to winning golf championships. He drives himself.

"I made a very slight adjustment in my swing. That helped. But a lot of it comes under the heading of experience, maturity, confidence."

Irwin, in the midst of his best of eight tour years, isn't even sure he would alter the remainder of his 1975 schedule to pursue the money laurels.

"I will have to see what's happening around me. But I'll probably play only two more times. Possibly three, possibly four," said the 1974 U.S. Open champion Wednesday. There are nine tournaments left.

Hale Irwin Could Seize Lead In Money Winnings

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Hale Irwin could seize the 1975 golf tour's money-winning lead this week.

But that conquest was not uppermost in the former University of Colorado football star's mind before he teed off today in the 57th PGA National Championship at Firestone Country Club.

"I'd rather win this tournament than have the money lead. If you win enough of the Big Four events, the money title will follow," said the 30-year-old Missourian.

Of course, his first PGA victory would accomplish both feats since a minimum $45,000 first-prize money is at stake. Irwin's second-place total of $188,352 is just $15,000 shy of Jack Nicklaus' leading figure this year.

Royals, Baltimore Making Bid

By The Associated Press
Quick! Call a locksmith! Kansas City and Baltimore are beatin' on the doors, opening up what used to be called a couple of locked-up pennant races.

Just a few days ago, Oakland's three-time world champion A's were supposedly running away from Kansas City and the rest of the American League West with a 10-game lead.

Likewise, the Boston Red Sox owned an imposing 9 1/2-game bounce over Baltimore in the East and seemed ready to run away with the division title.

Today, though, those so-called runaway have been slowed to a crawl and both the Royals and Orioles are putting on charges that could change the rest of the season from play-out-the-schedule games to scramble-all-the-way days.

Oakland's potent bats were not muffled Wednesday night by Gaylord Perry, who gave up just seven hits—the only damaging one a toe-tot two-run homer by Joe Rudi—and the Texas Rangers rode Dave Moates' three runs batted in to a 5-2 victory over the A's.

That, coupled with Kansas City's 4-3 triumph over Minnesota—compliments of Tony Solaita's three-run homer that capped a four-run fourth inning—slashed Oakland's lead over the Royals to 6 1/2 games.

Boston, coming off two straight losses to Baltimore, seemed on the verge of taking it on the chin again in Milwaukee, trailing 2-1 in the ninth inning. But a four-run outburst capped by Jim Rice's two-run single made the Red Sox 5-2 winners.

Nevertheless they still saw their lead over Baltimore trimmed to seven games. The Orioles jumped all over Detroit, sweeping a two-night double-header 4-2 and 8-2.

come from behind—but we've done it many times. We'll probably do it some more."

Lee May doubled for a run and scored on Jim Northrup's single in a decisive two-run first inning that gave Baltimore its first game victory, then Don Baylor had two singles, a double and a triple, stole three bases, scored two runs and drove in one to make it a sweep of the Tigers. The Orioles have won 18 of 24 games and swept four twinbills since the All-Star break.

When asked about the Bird's annual August drive, Manager Earl Weaver coyly replied:

Captains Back On Beam Again

By The Associated Press

Shreveport's West Division leaders chalked up their 40th victory in 52 home games as they bested San Antonio 5-1 Wednesday night in the Texas League.

Jackson and Alexandria, bringing up the rear in the East Division, split a twin bill. Jackson triumphed 4-0 in the opener and Alexandria took the nightcap 4-2.

Rain forced a postponement for Lafayette at Arkansas in the only other game on tap for the evening.

Righthander Tim Jones, now 12-5, tossed his 11th complete game for the Shreveport Captains, struck out seven and walked none as he set down the San Antonio Brewers with eight hits. Mitchell Page and Harry Saferight socked solo homers back to back for the Captains in the fifth inning. Losing pitcher Jerry Bell, 6-12, likewise went the route, yielding 11 hits.

Brown Inks Pact With Denver Five For Five Years

DENVER (AP) — Larry Brown, the American Basketball Association's 1975 Coach of the Year, signed a new five-year contract Wednesday to coach the Western Division Champion Denver Nuggets.

"Brown's efforts in bringing about the best record in professional basketball certainly deserve an adjustment," said Club President and General Manager Carl Scheer.

The terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Scheer said Brown's old contract, signed in 1974 when he came to Denver from the defunct Carolina Cougars, was torn up to be replaced by the multi-year pact "and a substantial raise."

The 35-year-old New York native twice has been named the ABA's Coach of the Year in three campaigns, he has a record of 169-83 and has won divisional titles in both the Eastern Division and Western Division.

Morgan, 23, who was acquired Wednesday, was the Cowboys' tenth round draft choice in 1974 after a career as a running back and kick returner in Western Illinois.

In his rookie season, the 5-foot-11 speedster tied an NFL record when he returned a punt 98 yards for a touchdown against St. Louis.

Upsets Spice Clay Courts

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Upsets are continuing to abound in the $150,000 U.S. Clay Court Tennis Championships and tournament officials are beginning to wonder who'll be left come finals time.

"It's not funny," quipped tournament chairman Steve DeVoe after three more seeded players were knocked off Wednesday. "If this keeps up, nobody will want to come see the finals."

Although eight of 24 of the tournament's top players have been defeated in the tourney's first three days, the top two seeds in the men's and women's brackets were clinging to life.

Argentina's Guillermo Vilas and Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the top seeds in men's and women's singles, appear at this point to have a better grasp on the finals than anyone else.

No. 2 Julie Heldman of Houston, who narrowly escaped elimination again Wednesday, said the rash of upsets in women's singles was caused by a strong field.

"It's the first big tournament since Wimbledon for a lot of Cliff Drysdale of South Africa was beaten by Australia's Bob Carmichael 7-5, 6-3.

"Cano broke Ramirez' service three times in the second set, forcing the lanky Mexican into a tiebreaker. The match was decided on the 20th point when Cano tapped a deep volley down the line and out of Ramirez' reach.

Vilas, who arrived here late from the Pro Classic in Louisville, Ky., got his game tuned up in a first-round match by defeating John Whitlinger of Neenah, Wis., 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Evert, the defending women's singles champion, had little trouble in her second match of the tournament, knocking off Glynis Coles of England 6-2, 6-0.

Rangers Defeat Oakland By 5-2

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger Manager Frank Lucchesi wished the season started Wednesday night.

Lucchesi had his contract extended through the 1976 season by majority owner Brad Corbett then guided his club to a 5-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

"What a nice present... That really makes it official," beamed Lucchesi after the third victory in four games over the slumping world champions.

Gaylord Perry, who had a 2-14 record against Oakland going into the game, cut the A's down on six hits. Joe Rudi's two-run homer in the ninth inning robbed the 36-year-old veteran of his fourth shutout in his last five games.

Players drifted in and out of Lucchesi's office to congratulate him.

"I owe my job to those 25 players in the room," said the 49-year-old Lucchesi, a bit misty-eyed. "There are 16 players on our roster who range in age from 22 to 27. This is the coming team in baseball."

Oakland's loss coupled with Kansas City's 4-3 victory over Minnesota moved the Royals to within six and one-half games of the A's in the American League West.

"The dog days are here," mumbled superstar Reggie Jackson in the Oakland dressing room. "We've had streaks like this before. We've lost five games in our last seven starts but the thing about this club is that you can lose a bunch of games and still be six and one-half games in front. We're not worried about Kansas City."

Jackson said Perry, now 11-15, "looked like his old self. He doesn't throw as hard as he used to but he throws harder than 75 per cent of the pitchers in baseball."

Lucchesi said he was aware of Perry's previous record against Oakland but added, "Gaylord could have been 0-50 but the way he has pitched the last two weeks he could have beaten the New York Yankees in their prime."

Perry has allowed just two earned runs in his last 49 innings.

Rookie Dave Moises drove in three runs with a single and a sacrifice fly, and Tom Grieve drilled four singles in as many times at bat as the Rangers rocked Stan Bahnsen, now 7-10 for the year. It was the fifth consecutive loss for Bahnsen.

Corbett said, "I knew 16 days ago that Frank was going to be our manager, but I wanted things to settle down first. He's done a fine job."

Lucchesi, now 8-7 since he took over from the fired Billy Martin, said, "Well, I didn't know I had the job. Brad looked me straight in the eye and said, 'You're the interim manager and the logical choice for next year.' As you know, I almost didn't take the job."

But Lucchesi is most happy about it now. Obviously, so are his players.

'Irene' Nears End Of Casa Manana Run

FORT WORTH — "Irene," available in limited quantity that "old" new musical from Broadway, is in its final week at Casa Manana.

The musical, which traces its origins back to 1919, was revived on Broadway in the early 1970s as a vehicle for actress Debbie Reynolds. The Casa Manana production, which opened July 28, stars television, stage and screen actress Ruta Lee in the lead role of Irene O'Dare, the plucky little Irish girl from Manhattan's Ninth Avenue. Memorable songs in the show include "What Do You Want To Make Those Eyes At Me For?," "The Riviera Rage," "The Great Lover Tango" and "Alice Blue Gown."

Final performances of the musical are scheduled for 8:15 p.m. today and Friday, and 2:30 and 8:15 p.m. Saturday. Reserved seat tickets for the concert presentations are available in limited quantity from the Casa Manana box office, 3101 W. Lancaster Blvd. or by telephoning 817-332-6221.

Mitzi Gaynor Appearing In Dallas This Week

DALLAS — Screen, stage and television personality Mitzi Gaynor headlines the "Mitzi Gaynor Show" onstage at the State Fair Music Hall here.

'The Knack' Opens Tonight In Lubbock

LUBBOCK — A last-minute substitution in scheduling has brought "The Knack," an English comedy farce, to the Hayloft Dinner Theater in place of a previously-announced vehicle which was to star comedian Joe E. Ross, who cancelled.

"The Knack," by Ann Jellicoe, has had a series of preview nights this week and will officially open Friday night at the dinner theater located on the southwest outskirts of Lubbock. The comedy will play through Sept. 7 and reservations for the nightly buffet dinner and performance may be made through the box office, 806-866-4213.

"The Knack," directed by Stephen Levi, has a cast headed by Larry Eisenberg and Renee Meeks, with other cast members including John Bratcher and Charles Luxenberg.

The one-week engagement is the current attraction of the Dallas Summer Musicals' 1975 series. It opened Tuesday night and performances will continue nightly through Saturday, with a matinee scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

The ebullient singing and dancing star, who made her mark as Nurse Nellie Forbush in the screen version of "South Pacific," is offering four-part entertainment in her Music Hall appearances. The first segment of her show is devoted to Broadway show tunes, the second portion is a "rock" concert with contemporary music, and the third section is given over to more intimate singing, including ballads and love songs. The fourth and final segment of the evening is devoted to the movies and presents numerous songs made famous by Hollywood and many of its most glamorous singing stars.

Tickets for remaining performances of the "Mitzi Gaynor Show" are on sale daily at State Fair box offices in all Titch's stores in the Dallas area.

Texas Folklife Festival Opens

SAN ANTONIO — West Texas will be well represented at the fourth annual Texas Folklife Festival, "Texas" biggest block party," which opens today and continues through this weekend at HemisFair Plaza.

Joining the more than 50 artisans and crafts people demonstrating unusual creative glassblower specialties at the fair are Joe Pyle of Odessa, knife maker Jim Barbee of Fort Stockton, and Alice Allen of Frich, demonstrating spinning on a stick.

There will be other West Texas participating in the event as well: Clifford Teinert, representing the Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford, will be serving beef barbecued over open pits, while cook Richard Bolt of the Pitchfork Ranch near Guthrie will be demonstrating the art of sourdough bread making, and a group of Tigua Indians from far West Texas, near El Paso, will also be demonstrating bread making, utilizing a "beehive" oven.

In fact, food of many forms, flavors and types will be one of the top visitor attractions at the festival, which will have booths offering culinary delights of 24 nations, prepared and served by representatives of these ethnic groups. Among the foods represented will be Chinese, Czech, Danish, Dutch, Filipino, French Alsatian, German, Greek, Irish, Italian, Japanese, Jewish, Lebanese, Mexican, Polish, Scottish, Swedish, Swiss, Welsh and Yugoslav.

In addition, the fair will offer a variety of special food demonstrations. A pioneer grist mill will stone grind meal, which will be made into hush puppies at a nearby booth. A pioneer cane mill and syrup cooker will be in operation, where visitors may see sugar cane crushed, then cooked and made into old-fashion molasses. There will be demonstrations of pioneer sausage making and stuffing by the Grobe family of Fredericksburg, while Mrs. Max Deike of Kerrville will bake cookies using con oil, the coons having been caught and processed by her husband "Trap-per Max" Deike. And, finally,

World's Largest Curtain
Made of velvet, 195 feet wide, 45 feet long and weighing 3,500 pounds, the world's largest curtain covers Jan Styka's painting, "The Crucifixion," at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Calif.

Mrs. R. L. Herndon of Aransas Pass will deep fry rattlesnake meal and offer samples to visitors to taste as they watch her husband stuff and mount the reptiles in coiled and striking forms.

Certain to draw hundreds of viewers each day will be such favorites with previous fair visitors as the corn shucking and shelling contest, arm wrestling, dominoes championship contests, railroad spike driving events, English darts, Scottish sheaf and saber tossing, Belgian bolls and the "buckin' barrel rides." Probably out-drawing them all in audience interest, however, will be the annual "Watermelon Seed Spitting Contest," scheduled for Saturday afternoon only. The preliminaries of the contest are to begin at 1 p.m. that day, with finals announced for 3 p.m.

The fair, in addition to all the above, will offer continuous entertainment on seven stages scattered over the 15-acre festival site, entertainment to include 19 bands, 24 different costumed folk dance groups (including Cajun, German, Polish, Scandinavian, Jewish, Japanese, Lebanese, Greek and Irish) plus choirs and gospel singers and a wide variety of instrumentalists and specialty entertainers.

In all, the folk festival will have an estimated 6,000 active participants and exhibitors, representing approximately 130 towns and communities from all parts of the state. The festival is sponsored by the Institute of Texan Cultures.

Prisoners To Get Painting Training

WASHINGTON — A resident artist program employing full-time professionals to teach prison inmates by example has been announced by the Federal Bureau of Prisons and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The one-year workshop project, starting in September, will be conducted at three federal correctional institutions, in Lompoc, Calif.; Leavenworth, Kan., and Tallahassee, Fla.

The artists taking part in the project are Leonard Castellanos, for Lompoc; David Melby, Leavenworth, and Betty Voelker, Tallahassee. Castellanos is director of Mexican Art Center in Los Angeles; Melby, an instructor of drawing and painting at Iowa State University, and Voelker teaches and paints in the Boston area.

Prison Bureau officials said the $72,000 project is the first use in federal prisons of full-time professional visual artists on a resident basis.

Dr. Donald Deppe, director of education for the bureau, said the program will seek to involve people in the arts communities surrounding the correctional facilities. An ongoing evaluation of the program will proceed, he said, and if it's judged successful in the correctional process similar programs may follow.

Among the artist-administrators who have conducted other prison programs is James Halthas, director of the Contemporary Arts Museum in Houston and originator of the arts workshop at the state penitentiary in Auburn, N.Y. He said several inmates in this program found work at museums following their release.

The cost of the project is being met by a $45,000 grant from the endowment and $27,000 from the Prisons Bureau.

New Words Changing English Language Rapidly

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The whole country today seems to be suffering from a bad case of "automobillitis." Not only that, but "decidophobia" and "loserism" are rampant, "rumor-tism" is rife, the "Nixonologists" are out in force, and "logocides" are filling the political air.

Loosely translated, what all this means is that the world has been changing rapidly within the past year or so, and the English language has been changing right along with it.

These new words are among some 125 that have come into the language from various sources and are being studied by editors of Merriam-Webster dictionaries for possible inclusion in future editions.

"Automobillitis," as though anyone has to be told, is the problem caused by the increasing use of automobiles. "Decidophobia" is abnormal dread of making decisions. "Loserism," according to the editors, is lack of faith in oneself. "Rumor-tism" is a state or condition marked by widespread rumors — one of the more common occurrences in the year of Watergate. A "Nixonologist" is one who studies the policies and practices of Richard Nixon and "logocide" is the distortion of the meaning of a word.

"This is the first time in several years that most of the new words did not come from young people, the black experience, or such areas as sports and music," said Dr. H. Bosley Woolf, editorial director for dictionaries for Merriam.

"Curiously enough, Watergate itself added few words," Dr. Woolf continued. "Such terms as 'impeorative' and 'deep six' are already in our dictionaries. Even 'water gate' is in, defined as a floodgate, although that definition could be expanded in the future."

Among new words found by the editorial staff, which reads hundreds of publications in its search are: "courtocracy," a form of government in which the courts make the laws; "carrotize," to entice into a deal by the promise of immediate gain; "ecolomics," the application of the principles of ecology and economics to land development; "ethnocide," the deliberate destruction of an ethnic culture.

Not all new words are serious or come from the striking events of the time. From sports, for instance, there is "sky surfing," in which participants tied to delta-wing kites glide down from cliffs. From fashion there is "baggies," high-waisted pants that flare from the thigh and have deep cuffs. From the world of drugs we get "soapers," small white pills containing a depressant drug.

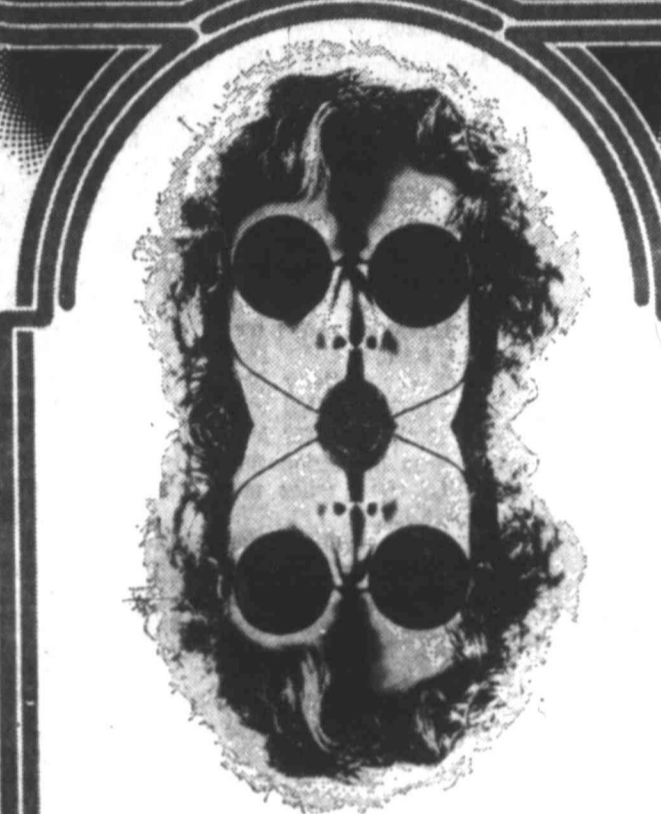

Some of the more colorful new words found by the editors include: "administrivia," unim-

The Constitution Of 1846

The delegates of 1845 wrote a constitution that was clear, concise and dealt with matters of constitutional principle, to the exclusion of purely legislative matters. It was amended only once in the next 15 years. Several succeeding constitutions were to repeat most of its basic provisions, making only such changes as the peculiar circumstances of their times required.

While basically Anglo-American in origin, it included elements inherited from Texas' Spanish heritage. Several of these spread from Texas to other parts of the United States, and even back to England. One was the combining of courts of law and equity. Another was the exemption of a homestead and the tools of a trade from foreclosure. Possibly the most important were the protection of a wife's property rights and the establishment of community property.

This was the first Texas constitution to contain a section on education and to pledge funds for its support. The legislature was directed "as early as practicable" to establish free public schools and support them by taxation of property. A tenth of the annual revenue of the state was dedicated perpetually to the permanent school fund. The establishment of this fund, later to be enriched by larger grants and income from tidal oil lands, was to be the greatest single stabilizer for public free school education in the history of Texas.

There was no relaxation of the bar against citizenship for "Africans and those of African descent," but a change was made with regard to Indians.

Only those Indians "not taxed" were barred from citizenship. This was a concession to the "civilized tribes," many of whose members had remained in Texas, acquired lands and become substantial members of society.

Significantly, the Declaration of Rights of the 1836 Constitution was moved from the back to the front of the document, expanded and renamed Bill of Rights. The Texas determination to protect the individual against encroachment by government was emphasized in the last paragraph:

"To guard against transgressions of the high powers herein delegated, we declare that everything in this 'Bill of Rights' is excepted out of the general powers of Government, and shall forever remain inviolate. . . . (NEXT: The Constitution of 1861.)

118 Petroleum Tests Set In Permian Basin Empire

One hundred and eighteen oil and gas tests were scheduled last week in the Permian Basin.

The count was down 17 from the 135 planned two weeks ago.

Eastern Basin counties under supervision of Texas Railroad Commission (TRRC) District 7-C, accounted for 10 of the 19 wildcats slated last week.

Fifty-six development projects were filed at the TRRC office in Midland to make that West Texas area the leader in number of planned field wells.

Development programs continued under way in the Mabree area of Andrews County, in the McElroy sector of Crane, and in the Kelly-Snyder field of Scurry.

Brash Young Press Kept Flames Going

EDITOR'S NOTE — The American press played an essential role in the struggle for independence. An important battle in that fight came 240 years ago this week at the trial of John Peter Zenger.

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
A brash young press, striving like the rest of America to be free, fanned the flames of revolution and kept them burning until independence had been won for all.

The cause of a free press and the cause of American liberty at the birth of the nation were inseparable. Born of a common complaint and need, each nurtured the other to fulfillment and to this day remains the other's friend and defender.

It was in newspapers and pamphlets that the unspeakable thoughts of freedom spread among the people in an authoritarian age and convinced them they had the right of self-government.

'Equal To Sword'
It was from the printed word that Americans heard and believed that independence was the only way they would get it. And it was the press that kept them fighting until it was won.

"In establishing American independence, the press had merit equal to that of the sword," said David Ramsey, first historian of the Revolution.

A crucial battle in the war for freedom was fought 240 years ago this week, a generation ahead of the Revolutionary War, at the trial of John

America Appears To Be Losing Its War On Crime

By LAWRENCE MEYER
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — In 1966, Lyndon B. Johnson pledged to spend his remaining days as president using "every single resource of the federal government to banish crime from the United States of America."

Nine years, more than $4 billion in federal funds, a lot of rhetoric and two presidential crime commissioners later, crime is increasing at a record rate and the rate of increase seems to be accelerating.

Two successive attorneys general, William B. Saxbe and Edward H. Levi, have used the same word — "failure" — to describe this country's efforts to combat crime.

The most recent Gallup Poll found that one household in every four had been hit by crime sometime in the last year. Another Gallup Poll found that nearly half of Americans are afraid to walk in their neighborhoods at night. In the nation's largest cities, the figure is even higher — 56 per cent.

Crime, which affects both rich and poor, has become one of this country's most serious and most enduring problems, apparently impervious to the vast amounts of federal money — $4.1 billion in federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds alone since 1968 — and billions more in state and local funds that have been spent.

Since President Johnson's speech of 1966, the crime rate has increased 82 per cent, as measured by the FBI's index of crimes, recorded by police departments across the country. Since 1960, the crime rate had increased 150 per cent.

Not only is the amount growing — that would be expected where the population has increased — but the amount of crime in proportion to the population also is increasing. And the most recent statistics indicate that the rate may also be accelerating.

The number of robberies per 100,000 population has more than tripled since 1960. The number of rapes per 100,000 has almost tripled. The murder rate has doubled, so that this year it may reach the record level of the Depression in the mid-1930s of 10 per 100,000.

In contrast to the optimism of the 1960s that crime and the other social problems could be brought under control, a consensus is developing among those who study crime that the little that can be done will have only a marginal effect. Barring elimination of the "root causes" of crime — assuming they can be determined — crime, like the poor, may well always be with us, these analysts say.

A variety of explanations has been offered to explain the current plague of crime — unemployment, poverty, youth. But where causes and solutions seemed so sure in the 1960s — hence President Johnson's pledge to "banish" crime from America — a new mood of restraint has come over public discussions of the problem.

When President Ford sent his message on crime to Congress, available, fewer than two persons out of every 20 arrested were sentenced to prison, according to the FBI.

Prisons in this country have been operating for most of the century on the theory that prisoners could be rehabilitated, transformed into honest, law-abiding members of society.

Robert Martinson, professor of sociology at the City University of New York, was hired by the Governor's Special Committee on Criminal Offenders to study the most effective means of rehabilitation. Martinson's conclusion, suppressed until a state judge ordered its release: "With few and isolated exceptions, the rehabilitative efforts that have been reported so far have had no appreciable effect on recidivism."

One reason for the increasing frustration of those dealing with the crime problem is that the causes of crime, if they can be diagnosed at all, are remote and difficult to remedy.

Other cherished myths about the police are being questioned as well. A recent study in Kansas City of routine police patrols — a mainstay of crime prevention in almost every American city — found no difference in crime rates where patrols were intensified and eliminated altogether.

Another maxim of American crime prevention is that returning foot patrolmen to the nation's cities will reduce crime. DiGrazia calls the walking beat man "a complete loss as far as being effective or efficient as a police officer."

James Q. Wilson, professor of government at Harvard and an expert on crime, says, "If I were a criminal, I'd like nothing more than to see all the policemen on foot because I would know as a kid I would be able to outrun them and I'd be able to outfox them."

When a case reaches the courts — and statistics gathered by the FBI indicate that only one crime in five is "solved" — the chances are excellent that a criminal will emerge without having spent a single day in jail. In 1973, the last year for which complete statistics are the president of the Police Foundation.

"One hundred to 125 years ago," Murphy said, "during the 1850s, 60s, and 70s in New York City, the level of crime among Irish immigrants was probably higher than among blacks today. But again, they were the new wave. They were discriminated against. They were the unemployed when employment wasn't there."

"And so what we see in our cities, especially in our northern largest cities and I can't find much of a relationship between them and the crime rates among those cities."

Whatever the reason for the increase, the fact is that crime is increasing, putting additional pressure not just on the police but on the courts.

"When thousands of felony cases must be settled each year in court," Wilson writes in his book, "Thinking About Crime," "there are overpowering pressures to settle them on the basis of plea bargaining in order to avoid the time and expenses of a trial."

More crime means more defendants, creating greater congestion and greater incentives for plea bargaining and lighter sentences.

"For those who believe in the deterrence theory of sentencing, it is a grim irony: The more crime increases, the more the pressure on court calendars, and the greater the chances that the response to the crime increase will be a sentence decrease."

The solution suggested by Wilson and the solution adopted by the President in his crime message is to establish minimum sentences for violent crimes and require judges to impose them. The theory advanced by Wilson is that second and third-time offenders may be deterred if they know that a jail sentence is certain if they are caught. And if they are not deterred, Wilson argues, they will at least be prevented from committing crimes for the period they are in prison.

According to James Vorenberg, executive director of President Johnson's crime commission and now a law professor at Harvard, what is needed for Wilson's proposal to work "is that there be sufficient judges and prosecutors so that you don't have the incentive to plea bargain out those cases that no judge or no prosecutor really wants to plea bargain on. Those people are not being put on probation because people don't understand the value of swift and sure sentence. It's just that they are simply unable to give them."

Whatever steps are taken, it now seems clear, crime will be reduced only marginally, if at all, whatever is done to combat the problem.

"My view of it is that it's going to be there for a long time, and better police and better criminal justice might have an impact of who knows what — 20, 30 per cent up or down," Murphy said.

Crime, like the poor, may well always be with us, analysts say

As crime increases, the chances are the response will be a sentence decrease

Peter Beard Not Easy To Classify

By JURATE KAZICKAS
MONTAUK, N.Y. (AP) — Photographer, naturalist, author and occasional beam in the social light, Peter Beard is disarmingly intense about a lot of things.

He blasts gossip columnists who—not unfairly—see romantic ties between him and such beauties as Lee Radziwill and Candy Bergen.

He denounces man's destruction of the planet, the plasticity of the American scene, the tedium of most people's lives.

He praises with a lover's zeal Danish author Isak Dinesen, about whom he recently compiled a book, and her works about Africa.

He is equally at home with friends such as the Rolling Stones and Caroline Kennedy. Up to his neck in mud on the shores of Kenya's Lake Rudolph while studying crocodiles for his book "Eyelids of Morning," or in his mill house on a Long Island cliff overlooking the sea.

The 37-year-old Beard likes to save things — be they eroding cliffs, exotic memorabilia in big scrapbooks or the lives of wild animals. A Yale graduate with prep school manners and boyish looks, Beard "escaped" to Africa more than a dozen years ago. His first book of photographs, "The End of the Game," was hailed by Isak Dinesen as "an epitaph... over that old Africa which was so dear to my heart."

His latest book, "Longing for Darkness," is a loving tribute to Dinesen, the pen name of Baroness Karen Blixen, who died in 1962. The chapters, which closely parallel her book, "Out of Africa," were written by her friend and helper, Kamante. The book is illustrated with Kamante's drawings and old photographs, captioned with Dinesen's haunting, memorable words.

Beard asked Jacqueline Onassis to write an afterword for the book. She wrote, "Out of Africa" has always meant more to me than any other book. This book can show (young people today) that they had allies in an earlier time, who knew that courage was endurance as well as abandon. This book is a work of love."

Through his friendship with Lee Radziwill, Beard met the Kennedy children. He coached Caroline in photography — he says her work is excellent — and spent a summer on the Onassis-owned island of Skorpios.

After Aristotle Onassis died, one syndicated columnist hinted that the Greek shipping magnate was upset by Beard's visit to the island and by Beard's unusual diaries.

Beard groaned when reminded of the article. "Ari liked my diaries. He was impressed by the effort."

Those diaries, 20 fat, leather-bound volumes kept for a period of 20 years, are as fascinating as any book that Beard has done. Like three-dimensional Hieronymous Bosch paintings, the diaries are crammed with squiggly ink drawings, letters, clippings, exotica like a toe-nail Beard once lost, feathers, bullets, blood from buffalo hunts and thousands of photographs.

There is Ari Onassis up a tree, Jackie standing in her Mercedes, Mick Jagger with a bare-breasted Bianca, Andy Warhol, Truman Capote and an endless array of open lipstick-kissed mouths and pouty blondes. Then there are the pictures of hundreds of dead elephants, looking like huge, limp, lopsided blimps, which will be the subject of Beard's next book.

King's Authority

In March 1766, repeal of the Stamp Act in Britain was followed by the Declaratory Act claiming the King, by and with the consent of Parliament, had authority to make laws to bind colonies in all respects.

What's Meaning Of Increase In Consumer Borrowing?

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers increased their borrowing in June by the biggest figure in nine months, and now businessmen and economists are trying to understand why. The $545-million jump brought the total of consumer credit to $186.1 billion, $2.67 billion higher than a year earlier. More significantly, the latest increase was the second in a row after five straight months of decline. Understandably, the Ford administration would like to say the borrowings indicate widespread belief that it is now safe to take a chance, safe to use tomorrow's money to buy today's goods and services. Those who adhere to that interpretation believe the economy is steadily recovering from recession and that the recovery will be a solid one, that is, without a return of destructive inflation. Many others wonder, however, if the consumer isn't a bit more sophisticated in his adjustment to the economic society. While it is still too early to determine, they ask if something more complex isn't occurring. The basic questions they ask are these: Is the consumer borrowing now not because he has confidence in the future but because of precisely the opposite reason? Is he borrowing now in order to buy before prices rise any more? This is the old "flight from currency" phenomenon that Prof. George Katona, the pioneer consumer attitude scholar, describes in his new book, "Psychological Economics." But an entirely different mood prevails when consumers expect shortages or sharp price increases. Under such situation they might feel it is wiser to exchange their money for commodities while they can. "In August 1973," Katona writes, "close to 20 per cent of all survey respondents reported that during the preceding few months they had made some major purchase in order to beat inflation." And he added that "fear of future inflation outweighed the resentment of past price increases."

Postal Boss Says Rate Hike Certain

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Ballar, speaking in San Antonio Wednesday night, said flatly, "We're going to have a rate increase."

Ballar, here to address the banquet of the 71st annual convention of the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association, said the increase was necessary to help cure the U.S. Postal Services' present financial difficulties.

Pointing to the $850 million deficit incurred by the service in the last fiscal year, Ballar told the more than 2,500 convention delegates that "we are in trying times."

He said that the amount of the increase and when it would come was unknown but admitted that when it came "the increase will mean additional criticism of the Postal Service."

The convention of rural letter carriers opened here Monday and will conclude Friday.

PORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — After one year of battling red tape, the Fort Worth Zoo was informed by mail this week that federal permits have been granted to help the zoo ease its soaring alligator population.

Budget Experts Nervous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven months after Congress started its experiment of adopting a target budget and trying to hold to it, legislative budget specialists are modestly pleased but nervous.

The House, which originates all money bills, has passed 10 of the 14 regular departmental appropriations. Its Budget Committee says the total funding the House voted in these 10 bills before starting its August recess is slightly below the target figures set in the congressional budget and is close to President Ford's recommendations.

In the Senate last week, a $31.2-billion military weapons bill was rejected after Senate Budget Committee leaders warned that the figure would jeopardize congressional budget goals.

But there are catches that inspire the caution:

—The Senate, traditionally the bigger spender, has acted on only four of the 10 departmental appropriations. House budget specialists estimate that the Senate has increased the House figures in those four bills by $3.8 billion — and the Senate has six more to work on.

—The four appropriations remaining to be passed by the House include defense and foreign aid, both large and controversial items. The congressional budget calls for lower appropriations here than Ford recommended, providing a margin for more spending in other areas.

—Continued recession may build irresistible pressure for higher government spending.

—Much government spending is not controlled by appropriation. For example, Social Security benefits are automatic and interest on the public debt depends on the money market.

Suit Bids To Save Houston St. Paul's Methodist Church

HOUSTON (AP) — State Dist. Judge Reagan Cartwright has set a hearing for Sept. 3 on a suit filed by three parishioners of St. Paul's United Methodist Church who seek to assure the upkeep of the church's magnificent cathedral-like structure.

The suit alleges the church is in disrepair and asked the court to order a study of the deterioration and an audit of church funds. The suit also asked that the court halt construction of a proposed children's playground at the church.

"Repairs to the structure are urgently needed," the suit said. "Just viewing the structure shows a great deal of deterioration of the limestone due to climate and 29 slates are missing from the roof as well as an obnoxious air conditioning system in complete view of the public."

The church, now is an area growing more commercial, once was known as a congregation for the city's socially and financially elite Methodists. Its membership has declined from about 5,000 to about 3,500 in the past six years.

A church source said the playground proposal is part of a plan to attract younger families to the church.

Postal Boss Says Rate Hike Certain

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar, speaking in San Antonio Wednesday night, said flatly, "We're going to have a rate increase."

Bailar, here to address the banquet of the 71st annual convention of the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association, said the increase was necessary to help cure the U.S. Postal Services' present financial difficulties.

Pointing to the $850 million deficit incurred by the service in the last fiscal year, Bailar told the more than 2,500 convention delegates that "we are in trying times."

He said that the amount of the increase and when it would come was unknown but admitted that when it came "the increase will mean additional criticism of the Postal Service."

The convention of rural letter carriers opened here Monday and will conclude Friday.

Gator Problem Solved For Zoo

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — After one year of battling red tape, the Fort Worth Zoo was informed by mail this week that federal permits have been granted to help the zoo ease its soaring alligator population. "Hooray," remarked Zoo Director Elvie Turner, whose alligator pens have become filled by 33 small reptiles he previously had been forbidden to keep, sell or give away.

In 1976 the first measurement of the velocity of light was made by Olaus Romer, a Dane.

Budget Experts Nervous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven months after Congress started its experiment of adopting a target budget and trying to hold to it, legislative budget specialists are modestly pleased but nervous.

The House, which originates all money bills, has passed 19 of the 14 regular departmental appropriations. Its Budget Committee says the total funding the House voted in these 19 bills before starting its August recess is slightly below the target figures set in the congressional budget and is close to President Ford's recommendations.

In the Senate last week, a $31.2-billion military weapons bill was rejected after Senate Budget Committee leaders warned that the figure would jeopardize congressional budget goals.

But there are catches that inspire the caution: —The Senate, traditionally the bigger spender, has acted on only four of the 10 departmental appropriations. House budget specialists estimate that the Senate has increased the House figures in those four bills by $3.8 billion — and the Senate has six more to work on.

—The four appropriations remaining to be passed by the House include defense and foreign aid, both large and controversial items. The congressional budget calls for lower appropriations here than Ford recommended, providing a margin for more spending in other areas.

—Continued recession may build irresistible pressure for higher government spending. —Much government spending is not controlled by appropriation. For example, Social Security benefits are automatic and interest on the public debt depends on the money market.

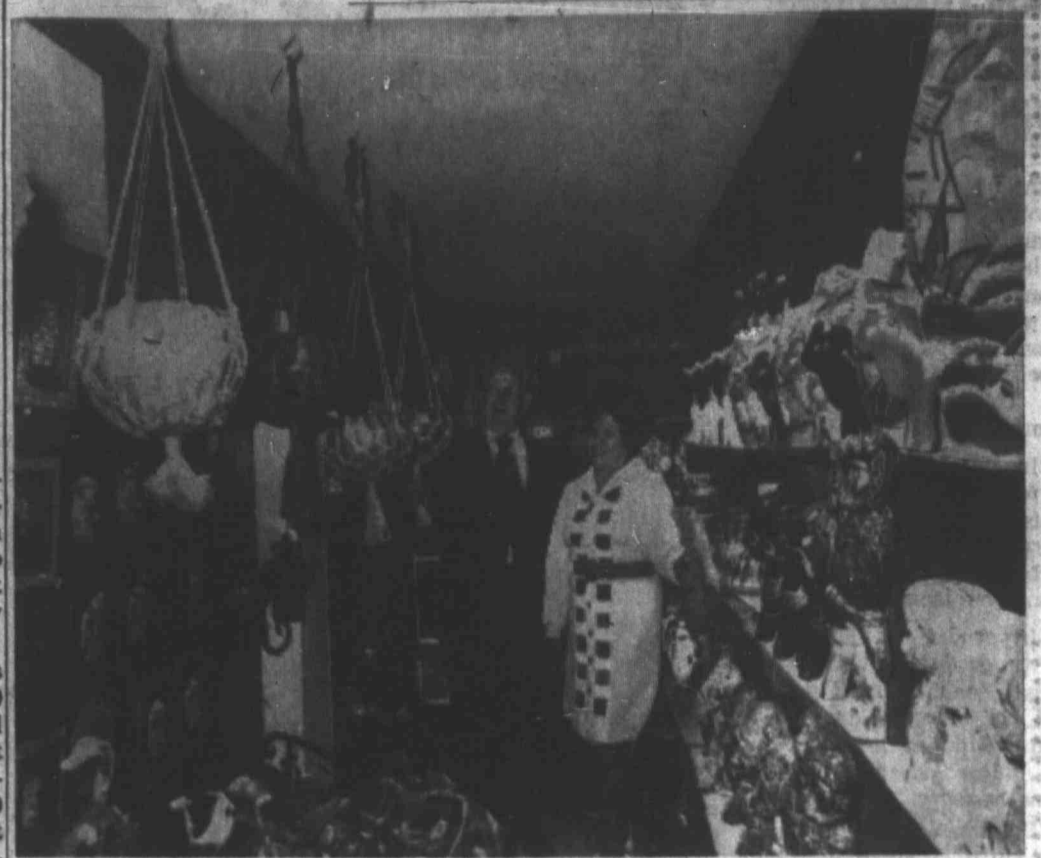

Suit Bids To Save Houston St. Paul's Methodist Church

HOUSTON (AP) — State Dist. Judge Reagan Cartwright has set a hearing for Sept. 3 on a suit filed by three parishoners of St. Paul's United Methodist Church who seek to assure the upkeep of the church's magnificent cathedral-like structure. The suit alleges the church is in disrepair and asked the court to order a study of the deterioration and an audit of church funds. The suit also asked that the court halt construction of a proposed children's playground at the church.

"Repairs to the structure are urgently needed," the suit said. "Just viewing the structure shows a great deal of deterioration of the limestone due to climate and 29 slates are missing from the roof as well as an obnoxious air conditioning system in complete view of the public."

The church, now is an area growing more commercial, once was known as a congregation for the city's socially and financially elite Methodists. Its membership has declined from about 5,000 to about 3,500 in the past six years.

A church source said the playground proposal is part of a plan to attract younger families to the church.

Carmen's Mexican Imports, 306 E. Illinois, is filled with hundreds of Mexican imports. Roy and Carmen Heaton, owners, make frequent buying trips to maintain a large selection of unusual imports for you.

Shelves Are Overflowing At Carmen's Import Shop

Treat yourself to a trip through a Mexican bazaar. You don't have to travel far. Just stop at Carmen's Mexican Import Shop, 306 E. Illinois. Every nook and cranny is filled with fascinating Mexican imports and the prices are reasonable. Roy and Carmen Heaton, owners, will be happy to help you.

Hanging flower pots are in abundance. See them in natural as well as blue, orange, gold, green and red. Also you will find a large selection of hand painted ceramic flower pots. Unusual glass pots for flowers or gold fish are available in several colors.

Macrame ceiling and window flower pot holders are available for as low as $3.98. These come in natural and a wide selection of bright colors. If you prefer a wrought iron holder, Carmen's has them.

Are you trying to save money? Carmen's has just the thing for you. Banks in many sizes and shapes line the shelves. Choose an elephant, donkey, owl, poodle, hound dog, gorilla, turtle or bull bank. Carmen's also carries traditional hand painted piggy banks and hand woven piggy banks.

Paintings on velvet are to be seen in a wide range of sizes and subjects. Each painting comes with its own hand carved frame. The vibrant colors make each painting a true work of art. Subjects include ships, flower and fruit arrangements, portraits of men, women, and children. Christ's head and many others. Choose a large one to set the mood of a favorite room or a small one to use with a wall arrangement.

Sombreros for children and adults are beautiful in rich velvet colors. They are available in pink, blue, wine, orange, black and dark blue. Each is highlighted with sequined trim. There are also painted straw sombreros for children.

Are you planning a party? Why not add a pinata to your plans. Carmen's has them in bright colors in many designs. Pick a shaggy dog, donkey, rabbit, elephant, clown, bull, lion, mouse, turtle or a Mexican boy. The pinatas are gay in bright colors of red, orange, pink, blue and gold.

Magnificent black wrought iron light fixtures are some of the most unusual items at Carmen's. Some are shaped like carriage lights with blown bubble glass in green and amber. Others come with single, double or triple lights with different shaped globes. One of the most beautiful lights features a red fluted glass globe.

Wall plaques in wood, ceramic, malachite, metal and bone are available in many interesting shapes and sizes.

Carved pictures, jewel chests, Roy Heaton offers service with authentic Samaritan pitchers, hand painted walking canes, wrought iron bird cages and candlesticks are there. Hand carved chess sets in wood and onyx, fruit and flower vases in many sizes, yard and indoor figurines, merry-go-round and ferris wheel wrought iron planters and winding stair imports are only some of the imports you will find.

In addition to the hundreds of Mexican imports, you will also find sewing machines. Carmen's carries Neccchi, Dressmaker, Nelco and Morse.

Carmen's also has a selection of stereo consoles and components and a stereo bar that must be seen to be appreciated. The front of the bar flashes designs in bright lights to the rhythm of the music. Carmen's also carries C.B. radios.

When you stop at Carmen's Mexican Imports, 306 E. Illinois, plan to stay awhile. There is much to see and you won't want to miss anything. Believe it or not, you may even see a Mexican.
