Record School Budget Calls For No Tax Increase

By ED TODD

The Midland Independent School District has proposed a budget of $18,066,642 for the 1975-76 school year, an increase of 17.4 per cent, but no tax rate increase is seen at this time, Supt. James H. Mailey said.

School officials are estimating 16,409 pupils will be enrolled this fall, meaning the average cost per pupil will be $1,101.

Classes start Monday in the district, but the proposed budget will not be in effect until Sept. 1.

And at 1:30 p.m. next Tuesday, Midland residents will have a chance to air questions and views on that budget proposed for the new term.

At that time, the schools' trustees will hold a public hearing on the budget at 702 N. N St., the system's Administration Building.

The budget, which has been revised upward by 1 per cent since it was issued in early July, now stands at 17.4 per cent above the $15,402,296 of the 1974-75 fiscal year.

The increase is $2,664,346.

"A lot of it we had no control over..." School Board President James E. Winget Jr. said in the most recent (Aug. 5) trustee meeting.

Winget said that around $400,000 of the $2.6-million boost in the proposed budget reflected local funding. The rest is coming from the state treasury.

A tax rate increase is "not likely at this time," Supt. Mailey said.

The Midland ISD's tax rate stands at $1.42 1/2 per $100 valuation on more than $580-million in assessments. For tax purposes, assessment is made at 75 per cent of the fair market value of property.

The $1.42 1/2 tax rate may be boosted six or seven cents should voters approve a proposed bond election to finance air-conditioning of the city's schools. The cost is estimated at about $3.8-million.

Of the school system's 26 schools, 19 are without air-conditioned classrooms.

More than half — $9.3-million — of the $18-million budget will be fed with state revenue. For 1974-75, the state filtered almost $7.2-million to Midland's public schools.

Direct federal revenue is climbing from $98,000 to $103,000 for the upcoming school year.

Incoming funds — maintenance taxes — from the Midland taxing district are projected to nudge $6.9-million. At a 97 per cent collection rate, that is to total out at $6,892,476. For the fiscal year coming to a close Aug. 31, that lump sum amounted to $6,339,018.

Overall, local funding is projected to be $7,364,943, which amounts to a $450,506 increase over the 1974-75 local income. This does not include funds to pay off debts.

Of the school district's $1.42 1/2 tax rate, $1.22 1/2 goes toward maintenance taxes. That additional 20 cents is pinpointed toward the debt service. Going toward bond indebtedness is a proposed $1.125-million. This money goes toward paying off bonds issued, for instance, for building programs.

The line-by-line proposed budget schedule, minus the latest revisions, includes:

 Administration — $619,760.
 Debt Service — $1,139,067.
 Division of Instruction — $571,630.
 Driver Education — $68,775.
 Special Education — $851,497.
 Summer School — $23,502.
 Lee High School — $1,891,734.
 Midland High School — $1,596,436.
 Austin Freshman High School — $754,867.
 Edison Freshman High School — $593,911.
 Alamo Junior High School — $829,717.
 Goddard Junior High School — $749,864.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen at press conference.

Bentsen Discusses Energy, Says His Chances Are Good

By BO BASKIN
Staff Writer

ODESSA — U. S. Senator and Presidential hopeful Lloyd Bentsen discussed national energy needs and described his chances in a wide-open field of Democratic candidates "as good as anyone else's and better than most" in a press conference today in the Inn of the Golden West.

Bentsen emphasized the importance of immediate action in combating the nation's energy woes.

"We need to act now. We can't wait for another energy crisis," he said.

Points To Conservation

The senator pointed to conservation, the acceleration of the search for oil and gas as well as the search for new energy sources as important to a strong energy program.

The Congress, which failed to come up with a major energy bill before it recessed Aug. 1, did produce several smaller energy bills before recessing, Bentsen said. He added that he "expects to see a major energy bill before the end of the year."

Asked for an explanation for his being voted "Man of the Year" by the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO), Bentsen discussed his support of the independent oil man.

He said he "fought to save the oil depletion allowance for the independent"—a fight he said he "led" in the Senate but which was ultimately lost in the House. He also expressed to reporters his opposition to a recent attempt to plow $500 million worth of government funds into offshore drilling—a proposal he called "a classic attack on free enterprise."

Bentsen also pointed to his opposition to the proposed federal intrastate control of gas. The proposal's fate has not yet been determined, but the senator said he "thinks we'll beat them (the supporters of the proposal)."

In searching for an ultimate energy solution, Bentsen said, the nation's citizens "are not looking for a Republican plan, a Democratic plan, an executive plan or a congressional plan." He said the American people merely want a strong energy program.

Bentsen said he supported President Ford's energy compromise, which would have gradually eliminated oil controls over a 30-month period. He said he preferred the compromise, which was rejected by Congress, to the complete decontrol of oil prices, which will take place Sept. 1 if the President vetoes Congress' six-month extension of the oil controls.

He said complete decontrol of oil prices "would strengthen the hand of those wishing to effect punitive legislation on the oil industry."

Asked what he believed his chances would be of defeating President Ford in the 1976 Presidential election, Bentsen said, "If I get the Democratic nomination, I expect to win."

However, he said that right now "no one is out in front" among the many seeking the Democratic nomination. Bentsen said the polls, which do not currently list him among the front runners, "do not tell anything."

He cited the early strong running of Sen. Edmund Muskie which later soured in the 1972 presidential election as an example of the fallibility of the polls.

"At present, my chances are as good as anyone else's," he said, "and are better than most."

When asked about what he thought of grain sales to foreign countries, Bentsen said his feelings were contingent upon a report on grain supplies, which he said he had not yet seen.

He said he would favor the sale of grain to other countries if the U. S. was currently running a grain surplus. If the U. S. is experiencing a shortage, however, he said he would not support such grain sales, because of the inflation they might cause domestically.

Food Stamps Draw Bitter Simon Blast

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon referred to the federal food stamp program today as a "haven for the chislers and rip-off artists."

President Ford recently asked Congress to tighten eligibility requirements for the stamps, calling the program "another massive, multibillion-dollar program, almost uncontrolled and fully supported by federal taxpayers."

Simon used food stamps, which supplement the food buying power of about 19 million Americans, as an example of the growth in federal spending which he identified as one of the threats to the free enterprise system.

"The free enterprise system is the foundation of our economy, the rock upon which we have built our earthly kingdom," he said in remarks prepared for a conference of Junior Achievement, an organization that teaches business skills to teen-agers.

And yet, Simon continued, "we see the threat to free enterprise in the growing domination of government spending within our economy."

"Why has government spending exploded? Because, I would suggest, we have been willing to assign to the government the responsibility for solving many of the problems that people should be solving for themselves."

"We begin with the best of intentions but wind up with social programs that are spinning out of control."

Simon said the food stamp program began as a $14 million experiment in 1962 but will cost $6.6 billion this year, "and it is a well-known haven for the chislers and rip-off artists."

Army Announces Drug Tests Once Killed Civilian Patient

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today its investigators have discovered that a civilian psychiatric patient died after receiving a drug injection in a 1953 test under Army contract.

It was the first death reported as a result of extensive Army-sponsored drug experiments dating back more than 20 years. These experiments involved about 4,000 soldiers and civilians.

Pentagon spokesman Joseph Laitin called a news conference to announce discovery of a file revealing the death of a 42-year-old male civilian patient "in the course of a drug test program administered by the Army New York State Psychiatric Institute under an Army contract."

The Pentagon withheld the name of the victim, as well as other names in the case, saying this was done while it tried to locate surviving relatives and attempted to piece together more information on the case.

The only other death reported so far in the disclosures of drug experiments by government agencies was attributed to a Central Intelligence Agency operation 22 years ago. In that case, Dr. Frank Olson plunged to his death from a hotel window shortly after he was given LSD without his knowledge.

Laitin said a representative of the Army inspector general discovered a file disclosing the second death while examining records last Thursday in a vault at the Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland.

Fox is a fashionable restaurant where Hoffa was last seen.

Hoffa also said "We feel that there is evidence to be made available in Southern California."

Jimmy Hoffa's biographer, Charles Ashman, said in Los Angeles, "We have received information that there are persons in Southern California who witnessed meetings prior to the disappearance of Mr. Hoffa in which that disappearance was discussed."

In Los Angeles meanwhile former gangster Mickey Cohen said in a brief telephone interview, "I feel Jim is gone... I know what I know from my own connections."

Cohen did not elaborate. He said his telephone is "not safe."

At the Hoffa compound, James P. Hoffa said, "This is a nationwide search for evidence and it's not going to stop. And we think, again, that we are going to have a successful solution to this crime."

Hoffa Kidnap Witness Claim Rebuffed By FBI

LAKE ORION, Mich. (AP) — James R. Hoffa's son said a new witness claims he saw the ex-Teamsters president kidnapped, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation today rejected the man's account as "a complete fabrication."

The Hoffa family said the witness underwent an "intensive interview" by the FBI and offered "substantial leads."

But Jay E. Bailey, FBI agent in charge of the Hoffa probe, said, "We went into this one in depth and it has absolutely no basis in fact."

Hoffa dropped from sight 13 days ago.

Speaking to reporters at his father's lakeside home 41 miles north of Detroit, the younger Hoffa said, "One lead we thought was very interesting and which is being checked out has to do with an individual who claims he was an eyewitness to the abduction at the 'Machus Red Fox.' The Red periments involved about 4,000 soldiers and civilians.

Uncle Sam Might Owe You $5

By STAN BENJAMIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government, collecting oil import fees illegally for the past three years, could owe every American about $5 plus a price reduction of about 4.3 cents per gallon on gasoline and other petroleum products.

But don't run out and spend that money just yet — you may never see a penny of it.

For one thing, President Ford is considering appealing Monday's U.S. Court of Appeals ruling that he does not have the authority to place fees on imported oil. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said

Ford would discuss the possible appeal with advisers today in Vail, Colo.

The import fees began in April 1973, when then-President Richard M. Nixon ended direct quota limits on U.S. oil imports and replaced them with import fees. Ford raised the fees this year.

But the court said the fees "are beyond the scope of their (the Presidents') authority and cannot stand."

The decision could block further government collection of import fees now totaling up to $2.21 per barrel on crude oil and $1.23 on gasoline, other refined products and unfinished oils.

It also could provide the legal basis for further court or congressional action to refund to the public the fees already collected since April 1973.

Robert Moore, head of the Federal Energy Administration's oil import division, estimated in an interview that fees still being collected for imports in June, July and early August would bring the total fees to around $1.1 billion.

That amounts to about $5 for every man, woman and child in the United States, and there was already talk of forcing the government to make refunds.

A Federal Energy Administration official said it was conceivable that consumers may receive "some type of rebate" should the decision stand.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said they would propose such legislation.

Jackson said the court decision "should result in substantial reductions in the price of gasoline, heating oil and electricity."

Cancellation of the full effects of the oil import fees might reduce petroleum product prices by something like 4.3 cents per gallon, but there is great uncertainty whether those effects can be fully felt and even whether consumers will really see any benefits at all.

Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., pointed out that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the foreign oil cartel, already was scheduled to discuss new price increases in September.

If the court decision wipes out the U.S. import fees, "this will make it easier for them to raise prices on foreign oil, because they could raise it $2 a barrel and put us right back to where the tariff was," Conable said.

County Roads May Get Stripes

By ED TODD

Those paved but unstriped county roads soon may be sporting white center-line stripes.

Midland County commissioners Monday adopted a resolution to take on federal funds to pay for the markings on those roadways that carry at least a 250-vehicle traffic count per day.

C. E. "Buddy" Kennedy, superintendent of the county's road and bridge department, this morning said the county maintains between 210 and 220 miles of paved roads.

Federal highway funds to finance the painting will be administered through the governor's Office of Traffic Safety. The striping will be carried out by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Commissioners, before passing the resolution, hashed around thoughts on getting additional revenue for roadside markers and signs conforming to international road and highway safety signs.

County Judge Barbara Culver signaled for the commissioners to take some measures on the proposal.

"They'll run out of funds while we're dilly-dallying," she commented.

The commissioners passed the resolution.

Commissioner Charlie Welch pointed to the potential hazards at Fair Grounds Road where it runs into U. S. Hwy. 80 on Midland's far eastside.

Welch cited a "blind approach" from Fair Grounds, and the lack of signaled traffic lights. Welch said he at times has been blocked by traffic on Hwy. 80 for "30 minutes" stopped at Fair Grounds. That road has stop signs.

"It's just a bad backeroo," Welch said. "It's a bad thing."

"We'll take a look at it," Peoples promised. Whether or not that intersection will be fitted with controlled traffic signals in part will depend on the traffic count, Peoples said.

In other business, the commissioners: —Scheduled public hearings for 1:30 p.m. Aug. 18 and 25 on a $11,000 Community Development Funds grants.

—Passed a resolution requesting Secretary of State Mark White to exempt the county from supplying bi-lingual election supplies for those voting precincts having less than 5 per cent residents of Spanish origin or descent.

Of the county's 27 voting precincts, only four — on Midland's eastside — exceed that 5 per cent. These are precincts 1, 10, 17, and 24. In those precincts, bi-lingual material is to be furnished in the Nov. 4 statewide Constitution election.

—Agreed to give Midland lawyers access to the county's two photo-copying machines for reproducing pages from books and other materials in the Law Library, on the courthouse's fourth floor. Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn, in pushing for the action, said that the county has spent "$4,000 to replace stolen volumes . . . not returned items from the Law Library. We can't always watch the books." The commissioners talked about a 15-cent charge per copy.

—Listened to the district attorney's remarks on the difficulty of finding physicians who would make examinations on victims of sodomy, fondling, and rape. "When I've got to find a doctor," Jim Mashburn said, "we (the county) have got to pay a doctor a substantial amount of money" to make the examinations and to testify before a grand jury and trial jury.

Physicians, he said, are reluctant to consent to making examinations because of the high probability they will be called upon to testify as witnesses in criminal proceedings.

For the doctor, he said, the examination is simple: "Take a look, make a report, run a swab."

Nevertheless, Mashburn commented, "It's not that big a problem per year."

Later, Commissioner Durward Wright said the county has paid a pathologist here from $200 to $250 to testify on results of an autopsy.

Dusty Road Woes Aired

Doris Ham's complaint was road dust.

And she aired her discontent Monday before the Midland County Commissioners' Court.

Her prime target was Precinct 3 Commissioner John Thomas.

Dust from uncollected caliche "just fogs up whenever a car goes by," she said of a two-block section of South 'K' Street just outside the Midland city limits.

"The street is horrendous. It is ruining our cars and everything," Mrs. Ham said. She said eight households are directly affected by the uncollected caliche dust.

"It's just aggravating," she said.

"Oil or anything" to settle the dust would make for a peace of sorts along the southern strip.

"It's just ruining everything we have, the dust," Mrs. Ham again told the commissioner. "If it could just be oiled . . ."

"What she says is quite true," Thomas commented. "The poor people there really do catch check' and, of course, if we did not have caliche the people would get bogged down in the mud. Hopefully, we can do something about it. I don't know what."

The commissioner said the rural road was too narrow for machinery to straddle and oil.

"It (the street) may have been intended as an alley" by the developers, Thomas said.

"We have some that think it's a race track," Mrs. Ham said.

"These streets can hardly be called streets," Thomas said, "and (has) left these people with a tough situation."

The homeowners out there, Mrs. Ham repeated, just want some oil sprayed over their caliche-laden road.

"I'm not asking for fancy works," she said. "If you just could, if nothing else, have it oiled. If you could do anything we would appreciate it."

The commissioner did not indicate what would be done.

Temperatures Drop In Area

Partly cloudy skies and somewhat cooler temperatures greeted Midland area residents this morning, a spinoff of thundershowers which hit parts of far West Texas during the night.

The mercury is expected to climb into the mid to upper 80s in the area this afternoon following an early morning low of 72, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal. Tonight's low will be in the upper 60s, with the maximum readings on Wednesday to be near 90.

A 20 per cent precipitation probability is forecast for the Midland area this afternoon, tonight and Wednesday.

According to The Associated Press, the West Texas storms, accompanied by gusty winds, concentrated over the Davis Mountains and in an area from around Kent to Balmorhea. They were severe enough to promote warnings against possible highway flooding in those sectors.

Skies were clearing across the state by early today except for patches of clouds in parts of West Texas and a few showers in the central sections. Scattered thundershowers are expected in most sections again by evening, however, The Associated Press said.

Temperatures climbed as high Monday afternoon as 97 degrees at Waco and Wichita Falls and 98 at Mineral Wells. Readings near dawn today ranged from the 50s in the West Texas mountains up to around 80 along the coast.

Sticky Valve Delays Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technicians are replacing a sticky valve on a Titan 3-E Centaur rocket that forced a three-day delay in the launch to Mars of America's twin Viking spacecraft.

The blastoff of the first spacecraft was postponed Monday after a last-minute test showed a valve about the size of a silver dollar was stuck in an open position. The launch was rescheduled for 5:08 p.m. EDT Thursday.

The valve is one of 24 which ring the inside of the rocket nozzle of each of two solid-fuel engines which serve as the first stage of the launch vehicle.

The chemical nitrogen tetroxide is squirted through the valves under high pressure to deflect the exhaust flame and steer the rocket.

Kennedy Space Center officials said they will not know what caused the malfunction until the valve is removed, a process which requires draining of pressurized tanks containing the nitrogen tetroxide.

The 72-hour postponement will force a similar delay in the launch of a Viking sister ship because workers need 10 days between shots to prepare. The launch of the second Viking was reset for Aug. 21.

Together, the two Mars flights will cost taxpayers $1 billion.

Meanwhile, Robert Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, dismissed speculation by a British space expert that Russia could try to upstage the U.S. effort to land on Mars July 4, 1976, the 200th anniversary of American independence.

Kenneth Gatland, president of the British Interplanetary Society, said the Russians could launch a faster vehicle in mid-September and get to Mars ahead of the United States.

"The Russians have tried most desperately to get something to Mars that works," Gatland said. "They have spent millions on the effort and it is inconceivable that they should give up now."

But Kraemer said NASA officials learned through informal channels that the Soviets do not intend to launch a probe to Mars this year.

"What Gatland says is theoretically possible," Kraemer said. "They could fly a smaller probe and get there faster. But I doubt if they would send a simple probe."

U.S. Vetoes North, South Vietnam Applications For U.N. Membership

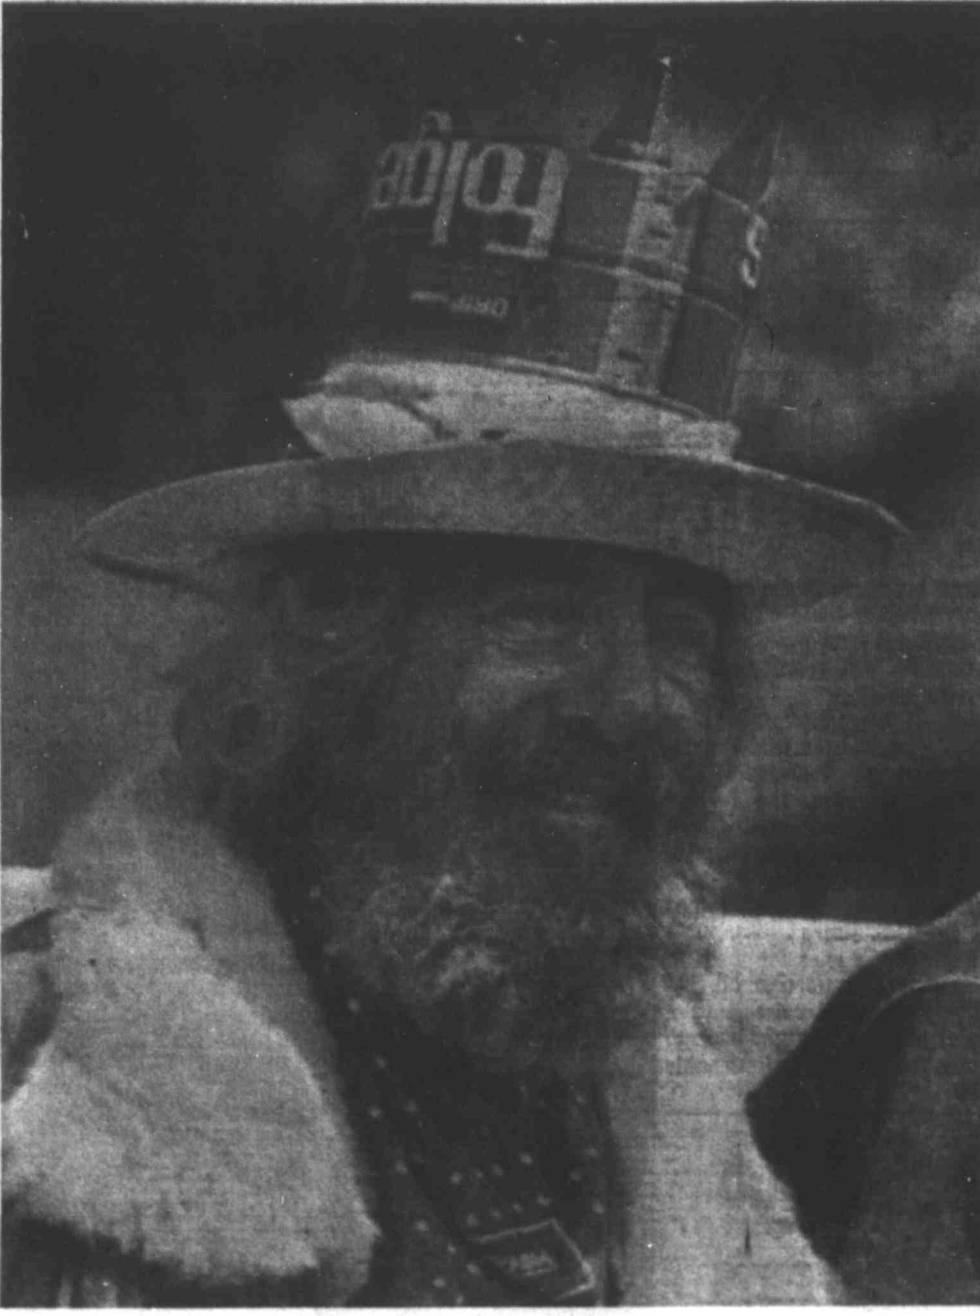

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has vetoed United Nations membership applications by North and South Vietnam in retaliation for the exclusion of South Korea.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan cast separate vetoes in rapid-fire succession Monday as the 15-nation Security Council voted 13 to 1 favoring admission of the Hanoi and Saigon governments. Costa Rica abstained.

Moynihan recalled that 26 years ago the United States forewore use of the veto on membership questions, but said it had changed its position because of the council's refusal last Wednesday even to take up South Korea's membership application.

The U.S. action brought charges from Communist and nonaligned countries that the United States was reviving Cold War practices and exercising a "tyranny of the minority."

Several council members charged that the United States, frustrated by defeat of its allies in Indochina, was using the Korean question as a pretext to keep Hanoi and the new Saigon regime out of the United Nations.

Dusty Road Woes Aired

Doris Ham's complaint was road dust. And she aired her discontent Monday before the Midland County Commissioners' Court. Her prime target was Precinct 3 Commissioner John Thomas.

Dust from unrolled caliche "just fogs up whenever a car goes by," she said of a two-block section of South 'K' Street just outside the Midland city limits. "The street is horrendous. It is ruining our cars and everything," Mrs. Ham said.

She said eight households are directly affected by the unrolled caliche dust. "It's just aggravating," she said.

"Oil or anything" to settle the dust would make for a peace of sorts along the southern strip. "It's just ruining everything we have, the dust," Mrs. Ham again told the commissioner. "If it could just be oiled . . . " "What she says is quite true," Thomas commented. "The poor people there really do catch 'heck' and, of course, if we did not have caliche the people would get bogged down in the mud. Hopefully, we can do something about it. I don't know what."

The commissioner said the rural road was too narrow for machinery to straddle and oil the street. "It (the street) may have been intended as an alley" by the developers, Thomas said.

"We have some that think it's a race track," Mrs. Ham said. "These streets can hardly be called streets," Thomas said, "and (has) left these people with a tough situation."

The homeowners out there, Mrs. Ham repeated, just want some oil sprayed over their caliche-laden road. "I'm not asking for fancy works," she said. "If you just could, if nothing else, have it oiled. If you could do anything we would appreciate it."

The commissioner did not indicate what would be done.

5 Area Students On Honor Roll
AUSTIN — Cynthia A. Savage and Stanley W. Turner, both of Midland, have been named to the College of Pharmacy honor roll for the 1975 spring semester at The University of Texas-Austin.

Also among the 318 students named were Lyn M. Vogler of Lamesa, Marvin D. Landers of McCamey and Joe A. Alcorn of Odessa.

According to The Associated Press, the West Texas storms, accompanied by gusty winds, concentrated over the Davis Mountains and in an area from around Kent to Balmorhea. They were severe enough to promote warnings against possible highway flooding in those sectors.

Skies were clearing across the state by early today except for patches of clouds in parts of West Texas and a few showers in the central sections. Scattered thundershowers are expected in most sections again by evening, however, The Associated Press said.

Hoffa—Sticky Valve Delays Launch

In Los Angeles meanwhile former gangster Mickey Cohen said in a brief telephone interview, "I feel Jim is gone . . . I know what I know from my own connections."

Cohen did not elaborate. He said his telephone is "not safe."

At the Hoffa compound, James P. Hoffa said, "This is a nationwide search for evidence and it's not going to stop. And we think, again, that we are going to have a successful solution to this crime."

The blastoff of the first spacecraft was postponed Monday after a last-minute test showed a valve about the size of a silver dollar was stuck in an open position. The launch was rescheduled for 5:06 p.m. EDT Thursday.

The valve is one of 24 which ring the inside of the rocket nozzle of each of two solid-fuel engines which serve as the first stage of the launch vehicle.

The chemical nitrogen tetroxide is squirted through the valves under high pressure to deflect the exhaust flame and steer the rocket.

Kennedy Space Center officials said they will not know what caused the malfunction until the valve is removed, a process which requires draining the engine.

Together, the two Mars flights will cost taxpayers $1 billion.

Meanwhile, Robert Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, discounted speculation by a British space expert that Russia could try to upstage the U.S. effort to land on Mars July 4, 1976, the 20th anniversary of American independence.

Kenneth Gatland, president of the British Interplanetary Society, said the Russians could launch a faster vehicle in mid-September and get to Mars ahead of the United States.

"The Russians have tried most desperately to get something to Mars that works," Gatland said. "They have spent millions on the effort and it is inconceivable that they should give up now."

But Kraemer said NASA officials learned through informal channels that the Soviets do not intend to launch a probe to Mars this year.

"What Gatland says is theoretically possible," Kraemer said. "They could fly a smaller probe and get there faster. But I doubt if they would send a simple probe."

HOUSTON (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock continued his sales tax raids today in the Houston area, where he said five retail firms were padlocked during the first day of raids.

KKK Candidate Abandons Plans To Run For Veep

He said Monday he does not expect to even support the Klan ticket in 1976 because "I feel like it just won't be the right thing to do."

Nelson, also a candidate for mayor of Houston, said he will continue to seek that office.

School Budget Jumps 17.4 Per Cent

Collective budget for the 19 elementary schools — $5,282,379. (Ranging from $219,216 for Long Elementary School upward to $356,858 for Travis Elementary, which, at 596 projected pupils, has the highest enrollment of the 19 schools.)

Pupil Services — $131,528. Transportation — $432,372. Warehouse Services — $80,904. Maintenance and Operation — $814,784. Athletic and Stadium — $135,555. Other budget items include adult and continuing education, $8,750; Elementary-Secondary Education Act, which supplements learning programs for deprived children, $305,693 and for the migrant program, $233,250; headstart, $98,800, and health supplement, $5,000.

The most costly expenditure in operating the school system comes in teachers' salaries, which make up 60 per cent of the proposed budget. Dollar-wise, that amounts to $10,769,406. For the current fiscal year drawing to a close, the comparable dollar-amount was $9,060,114 — almost 50 per cent of the budget.

The school system's 598 teachers will be paid more than $6.65-million in the upcoming fiscal year. Overall, the system's 811 employees, from the chief administrator to the teacher aides, will be paid a collective $8,963,984.

The regular annual teacher proposed salary ranges from $12,324 for an elementary school teacher to $12,563 for a secondary school teacher.

Department chairmen in the junior high, freshman, and senior high schools are expected to be paid $15,711. The proposed year's pay to a vocational teacher is $13,616. (Actual salaries may be higher depending on seniority, advanced degrees, and post-graduate work by the instructors. A teacher's annual pay is based on the 10-month academic year — from early August through late May.)

The base pay for an elementary school principal is computed at 1.13 times the monthly teacher salary for 11 months. The comparable pay rate for junior high school principals is 1.25 times for 11 months; freshman high school principals, 1.30 times for 11 months, and senior high school principals, 1.35 times for 12 months.

Audrey L. Gill is principal of Midland High School, which has a projected enrollment of 1,700. L. Glen Neswick is Lee High's principal. Student strength there is figured at 2,176.

Proposed administrative salaries include:

Indoor Plumbing Missing In Ideal Vacation Cottage

As I wrote in my last column, we went on an eleven-hour weekend trip to look for a cottage to rent later in the summer.

A search such as this requires the dedicated investigation of any sign containing the words "lake," "resort," "cabins," or "cottages." We soon learned to ignore severely weathered signs in need of paint. While such signs could, perhaps, indicate that the resort owners were a happy-go-lucky lot, eschewing advertising as being simply cross-commercialism, more often than not a severely weathered sign meant that the owners had abandoned the whole project three years ago and moved to Miami Beach.

Most roads to resorts are singularly unpleasant one-lane gravel efforts that meander through bush country, cavort through forests, and continue undaunted across smallish streams.

After twenty-five miles of this agony, my car began making the clucking, chiding sounds that only a severely over-extended five-year-old Toyota can. Unfortunately in view of the fact that the road was only seven feet wide and dropped off on either side into a swamp, there seemed to be precious little to do but either press on or back up, trying not only to stay on the road but to avoid my muffler, which had fallen off two miles before.

"Look, Mom," my son pleaded. "We've seen twenty-three resorts. Eighteen were booked solid, four were boarded up, and one was beside a motorcycle scrambles track. Let's give up and go home."

"You have no faith," I retorted. "No spirit of adventure. I have confidence. I have hope. What I DON'T HAVE is room on this cow path to turn around."

Happily enough, one mile further on, we found a cottage to rent. It has a lovely beach. It has whispering pines. It has a complete kitchen. It has everything, in fact, but indoor plumbing.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

Today we are going to see how some of our readers clean their house or apartment on an overall yearly plan.

A lot of women had an overall yearly plan. Here are two of them.

Either spring or fall or both: clean closets, empty them and wash walls. Put up clean shelf paper.

Sort out old clothes and put them in Goodwill or some other charity.

Do only one closet at a time. When they are done, do dresser drawers, then kitchen and linen closets.

Do one room a week really good. Take down the curtains and drapes and clean them. (Drapes can be tumbled in a dryer.)

Vacuum the mattress or furniture.

Wash walls and clean up spots with a cleaner.

Wash and dust furniture. Put on a wax or polish.

Wash windows.

Make the bed after washing and waxing the floor.

Rent a carpet shampooer and do all the carpets at one time.

Mrs. "B" from Michigan goes by a monthly schedule for her yearly heavy cleaning:

January and February: clean closets and drawers.

Some Folks Clean House By The Month Or Year

March and April: Clean everything thoroughly.

Summer months: clean lightly. Enjoy your family.

September and October: clean good for the holidays.

November and December: clean lightly. Enjoy the holidays.

This last schedule might appeal to you if you are a clock watcher and like to see the time fly.

Mrs. A.F.A. says this method works well for her and any time gained is spent doing something special or just relaxing.

"Each morning (except Sunday) after loading the dishwasher and sweeping the kitchen floor, I get out my tray table on wheels loaded with cleaning supplies and a large grocery bag, and my minute timer.

"I spend 10 minutes in each room, racing the timer. It takes me only 10 minutes to pick up, dust or whatever is needed for a light cleaning.

"All of my house has been top-cleaned in less than an hour. I put a load in the washer and back to the kitchen for a cup of coffee.

"Then I am ready for the day's project whether it be cooking, sewing, or deep cleaning."

Now dear friends, if you have read all this, absorbed half of it, and when you finish with this paper put it away, you are on the right track.

If you don't think you can live by a schedule, wait and next you will find out how to do it all without one.

The decision is up to you and what is most suited for your life pattern.

Just remember, I love you. Let's keep sharing and helping each other.

The work has to get done, so we might as well find the easiest and quickest way possible. And learn to love it.

Don't think about it, DO IT! I do.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a hint for parents or grandparents for booster seats for the youngsters.

This year when the new phone books came out I decided to cover the old one to be used as a permanent booster chair.

We tied two books together with string, cut a piece of foam rubber the size of the book and glued it on.

Then we covered the entire thing with a beautiful flower print (you could also use adhesive-backed paper).

There was almost no cost involved and it really does come in handy for when the grandchildren visit.

Hope your readers are as pleased with this as we are.

Mrs. Carol Eberly

THIS COLUMN is written for you, the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

NEWLY REMODELED—Mrs. Donald Furguson, left, chairman of the Next to New Shop, and Mrs. George Staley, center, a volunteer worker from the Junior League of Midland, Inc., are shown in front of the newly remodeled shop, 509 E. Illinois St., with Mrs. Dorothy Cox, a shop employee. Fall hours for the shop will be 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., beginning this week. Back to school clothes and other fall fashions are available at economical prices.

Podiatrists Offer Foot Care Advice

By SHIRLEY GALLINA
Copley News Service

Is it a pain to stand on your own two feet?

Your age may be your Achilles' heel.

Mature feet are more apt to be troublesome than younger feet because they've been mistreated longer and because of circulatory problems.

But in both cases, says Dr. Olphelia Valentine, an Indiana podiatrist in private practice, foot sufferers can be helped with proper home care and early professional treatment where it's necessary.

"Be kind to those feet that you've squeezed into narrow, high-heeled shoes for so many years," Dr. Valentine advises middle-aged women like herself.

"Step into comfortable walking shoes such as oxfords, clink shoes or roundabouts. Or a built-up pump for a more fashionable look," she adds.

"One of the reasons mature feet cause more trouble is that the muscles and ligaments are not as elastic as when they were young," says Dr. Larry W. Hazen, a podiatrist.

"As a result, they fail to cover up some of the stress problems that were congenital.

"Older women who wore the high-heeled shoes in fashion years ago usually develop hammer toes.

"If they had a predisposition to bunions, they may have hastened this development. But, it is not likely the shoe that causes the deformity.

"The tendency usually is inherited," Dr. Hazen adds.

Even more harmful than too-tight shoes can be constrictive stockings or pantyhose, according to Dr. Valentine.

"Your toes need room to spread. Make sure stockings are long enough so they don't cramp the toes and cause ingrown toenails."

As for elasticized support hose, Dr. Valentine recommends them for women who must stand still for many hours, or for women with varicose veins, but not for general use.

"They can inhibit circulation in the legs and feet," she says.

"If properly fitted, they're a real adjunct," Dr. Hazen says.

"Support hose should be put on in the morning in bed, as that is when there is the least swelling.

"Exceptionally large thighs or calves will cause constriction, but this usually is found in obese people," he adds.

For greater comfort for your feet, Dr. Hazen recommends shoes not too tight and stockings properly fitted and to elevate feet whenever possible.

"A secretary should take the stairway instead of the elevator, and anyone with a sedentary job should make an exercise program mandatory.

Defense Plan Calls For More General Purpose Forces

By GEORGE C. WILSON
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — The overall thrust of Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger's new five-year plan for the nation's military posture is to beef up American forces designed primarily for less than all-out nuclear war. He sketched his blueprint for the nation's military future in a secret Program Decision Memorandum recently sent to the armed services. The memorandum serves notice that Schlesinger intends to transfer $5 billion from strategic forces — like intercontinental missiles and bombers — and invest the money instead in general purpose forces. It covers Fiscal Years 1977 through 1981 and directs the Navy, to turn away from giant nuclear carriers in favor of smaller ships. Aircraft carriers, fighter planes and tanks used in Vietnam are part of what the Pentagon classifies as general purpose forces. So are small nuclear weapons that were not used in Vietnam — so-called battlefield nukes which are supposed to destroy a limited area rather than whole cities.

Schlesinger argued anew in his memorandum dated July 28 that strengthening general purpose forces decreases the risk of all-out nuclear war. Toward that end, he promised to earmark more money for Navy ships, Army armored vehicles and Air Force tactical aircraft — keeping the latter at 26 wings. But, along with promising to speed up ship construction, Schlesinger in his memo told the Navy to shift its attention from the Nimitz class of giant nuclear aircraft carriers and focus on cheaper ones about half the size.

Under the Schlesinger timetable, the Navy would rough out the mid-carrier design between now and Fiscal 1979, when money would go into the first ship of the new class. The proposed step backward in size would save money since the Nimitz-class carriers are climbing toward $1 billion a ship. Schlesinger's allies contend the money saved by reducing size will provide the Navy with more ships.

House Armed Services Committee one expected source of political pressure for sticking with the quality they believe nuclear-power super-carriers represent. A related question stemming from the Schlesinger memo is what will happen to the destroyers and other combat ships whose main mission is to protect super-carriers? Will mid-carriers change the whole carrier task force concept — the heart of the Navy's surface combat force? If so, then the mid-carrier would represent more than just a change in the mix of ships to save money. It would mean a change in course toward a lighter fleet — an idea retired Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt sold to former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and President Nixon. Zumwalt charged recently that Rickover and his backers in Congress tore up that master plan by insisting on sticking to nuclear-powered combat ships.

Isabel Peron Swears In New Cabinet Again

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron, beset by a worsening political and economic crisis, has sworn in her third cabinet in less than a month with the first military representative in more than two years taking over the key interior ministry. Monday's reshuffle was widely seen as an attempt by certain sectors of the Peronist movement, the labor unions and the military to remove the last vestiges of the influence once exerted on the president by her former adviser and social welfare minister, Jose Lopez Rega. Lopez Rega was forced into exile last month following criticism of his austerity methods as a cure for Argentina's ailing economy, and accusations that he misused public funds and had links with a right-wing death squad. However, a number of people loyal to him, including former Foreign Minister Alberto Juan Vignes, had remained in the government. Military and labor leaders have also been pressing for firmer action on the economy amid rising prices, soaring unemployment and the fourth devaluation of the peso in five months. Inflation is running at an annual rate of 177.3 per cent and is predicted to top 200 per cent by the end of the year. Some 250,000 workers have been thrown out of their jobs in the past two weeks alone, and by the end of the month the total is expected to pass the million mark for an unemployment rate of 10 per cent.

President Peron called for the resignations of her eight-man cabinet Monday morning and swore in her new ministers later in the day. The appointment as interior minister of Col. Vicente Damasco, former government secretary in the executive office, followed press reports that influential armed forces leaders were concerned over the inability of the police to control urban guerrilla activity. Political terrorism has claimed more than 500 lives since the 44-year-old president took office 13 months ago on the death of her husband, Juan D. Peron, and guerrillas have seized several prominent businessmen for ransom. The latest is British-born executive Charles Agnew Lockwood, kidnapped for the second time three weeks ago.

The other new ministers are Angel F. Robledo, recently named ambassador to Brazil, as foreign minister; Pedro Jose Arrighi, minister of education and culture; Carlos Federico Ruckauf, minister of labor; and Carlos Alberto Emery, minister of social welfare.

ABA To Discuss Prostitution Laws

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
MONTREAL (AP) — American lawyers today were to discuss a proposal that would make hookers happy: Rewriting the statute books so that prostitution is no longer a crime.

Instead of asking for the "repeal of all laws prohibiting commercial sexual conduct," the proposal as amended asks for the "repeal of all laws which subject to criminal sanction commercial sexual conduct in private."

A resolution calling for decriminalization of prostitution in the 49 states that have such laws was to be debated today by the American Bar Association's governing House of Delegates, and supporters of the move are hopeful of success. Last year, the same governing body spurned the pleas of Margot St. James, a hooker from San Francisco and star attraction at the ABA's annual meeting, even though it was held at the height of Watergate. This year, supporters say chances for passage are better. The ABA's Criminal Justice Section dropped its opposition during a meeting after the Section on Individual Rights, author of the proposal, accepted

Ohio Appellate Judge Jack G. Day of Cleveland, last year's chairman of the section opposing the proposal, said it now reads to mean "you can still have some control with licensing, solicitation and offensive overt acts by prostitutes." Day said his objection last year centered on solicitation. "In other words, if the prostitutes take it off the streets and out of public view, there would be no law making it a criminal offense," he said. The report favoring the proposal lashes out at a "double standard of sexual morality" and entrapment by vice squad detectives. "The woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," it reads. Prostitution is now a crime in every state except Nevada, where local counties may opt for legalization. In five states — Indiana, Louisiana, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming — prostitution statutes explicitly apply only to females. According to traditional case law, the report says, a prostitute is by definition a female. Supporters of the resolution say the move could help unplug crowded court dockets by serving as a trendsetter in speeding decriminalization of other victimless crimes. It also would free law enforcement agencies to concentrate on violent street crime instead of victimless crime, which backers of the move say now constitutes 40 per cent of all arrests.

"We most generally fill the jail up every Saturday," said Clarence Bearden. Bearden operates the town's only gas station and has served as city marshal for 30 years.

When the sun goes down, Bearden trades his Texaco star for a real badge and drops by Jones' Place, an 80-year-old saloon noted for its cold beer and hot tempers.

Convicted Manson Holds Little Hope Of Freedom

By LINDA KRAMER
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Former hippie cult leader Charles Manson is pushing for appeal of his mass murder conviction, but he says he has little hope of ever being a free man.

Manson says he has a hard time getting along with other inmates at San Quentin Prison but that he doesn't believe they are afraid of him.

"I don't think I'm basically a threat to anyone," said the man whose followers testified during a nine-month murder trial in Los Angeles in 1970-1971 that he was "perfection."

The interview aired Monday night by station KTVU was Manson's first since he and three codefendants were found guilty of the murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Manson, now 40 and sporting a short beard and inch-long fingernails, was interviewed in the prison by reporter Stan Atkinson.

At one point, Manson said that "getting out (of prison) is so far away in my mind, I would just like to be left alone."

"If you spend a lot of time in prison, it doesn't get better or worse, you get a balance with whatever you have to deal with."

He said that if he ever regained his freedom, it might be difficult for him to confront the "fear of the Manson name and family."

Beaumont Dockers Continue To Balk At Loading Grain

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Shipping agents tried again today to find longshoremen willing to load American wheat into a Russian cargo ship which is to deliver the grain to Japan.

The ship, Captain Vasily Kulick, arrived Saturday to pick up wheat at the Continental Grain Corp. dock here, but no longshoremen have showed up to load it, said a spokesman for the American Stevedoring Agency.

Longshoremen have been unavailable for comment, but the refusal to load follows an incident last week in which the dock workers balked at loading American wheat onto a Russian-bound freighter.

The longshoremen said last week they were following directions from the International Longshoremen's Association's (ILA) New York headquarters that U.S. grain recently purchased by the Soviets not be loaded for shipment at East or Gulf Coast docks.

A spokesman for the ILA national headquarters in New York said Monday the union's position was only against loading U.S. grain bound to Russia, not against loading Russian ships with grain bound for other points.

Bell Accepts Rate Accord

By ROBERT HEARD
AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has reluctantly agreed to cut its proposed increase in intrastate long distance rates by more than $50 million over the next 19 months.

The company unilaterally announced a $45 million annual rate hike beginning last March 1. Atty. Gen. John Hill challenged the rate in court as unreasonable. It was up to him, Hill said, to protect Texans from unreasonable rates because Texas was the only state without a commission to regulate utilities.

Bell lawyer Ford Hall agreed to the cut Monday. He told State District Judge Tom Blackwell, "Even if we won the case, delay kills us. We desperately need the additional revenue now."

Bell has almost paid for a $739 million construction program in Texas this year, he said, and "substantial cuts" in a previously scheduled $896 million construction program in 1976 will have to be made because of the lower intrastate rate.

The new rates are effective at midnight Monday.

Many customers will get refunds for the 20-day period, May 15-June 4, when Bell imposed the new rate. That was after the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals reversed Blackwell's temporary injunction and before the Texas Supreme Court reversed the appeals court and sent the case back to Blackwell for a full trial. The high court said the new rate might be unreasonably high but that Hill would have a hard time proving it.

The refunds will amount to approximately $2 million in general intrastate charges and $1 million for WATS (wide area telephone service) customers.

But for a few customers, slight increases in past charges will be made. As a part of the proposed $45 million annual increase the company originally proposed, Bell said it would make a smaller charge for

Unionists And Secessionists

James W. Throckmorton, an old Texan, who had opposed Secession, then served as an officer in the Confederate Army, was president of the Constitutional Convention of 1866. This leader of the conservative element was typical of many members who were Unionist in sentiment, but put their Texas loyalties first. Representing the attitudes of many Texans of his time, he was elected governor soon after the close of the convention.

The group which gathered in Austin on February 7, 1866, to write a new constitution was large, often unruly and sharply divided. The strong Unionist element led by Throckmorton, included both Conservatives and Radicals, the latter led by Edmund J. Davis. With the backing of Provisional Governor A. J. Hamilton. The Secessionists were also divided by conservative and radical elements. Their leaders included O. M. Roberts, who had been president of the Secession Convention, ex-Governors H. R. Runnels and J. Pinckney Henderson, and Governors-to-be Richard Coke and John Ireland.

The delegates soon re-aligned into conservative and radical elements, with the conservatives which did not end military rule or secure full readmission to the Union. As soon as the temporary "Presidential Reconstruction" policies of President Andrew Johnson were replaced by the more militant "Congressional Reconstruction" of the dominant Northern politicians, Texas was to find herself in even worse position than at the start.

The result was a document (NEXT: Constitution of 1866.)

NFL Teams Face Cuts

By The Associated Press
Dozens of able-bodied young men will join the ranks of the unemployed today.

It's cut-down day in the National Football League, the first major roster trimming of the preseason. All clubs must be down to 60 players, not counting those who played in the College All-Star Game, by 4 p.m. today.

Some teams, like Buffalo, are already at the limit and don't have to do any cutting. Some must only drop a handful of players, while others must jettison a dozen or more.

Some of the cuts are obvious. Virtually every camp has a couple of players who are just there for the thrill of the tryout, knowing full well they have little more than a prayer of making the team.

But most of the cuts are painful ones, as any coach can say. It's not easy to tell a veteran who's heard the Sunday cheers for so many years that his legs just can't carry him fast enough anymore. Or to say to a rookie who has dreamed of jam-packed stadia and Super Bowl glory that he just doesn't have what it takes to cut it in the pros.

Monday nights are sleepless ones in the pro football training camps. For every Joe Namath or O.J. Simpson, secure in his stardom, there are many like Doug Cunningham and Tim Paulus, aching to hang on.

One week from today the roster limit goes to 55, then to 49 by Sept. 2 and 46 by Sept. 9.

Syms Earns Medalist Golf Tag

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—British champion Nancy Roth Syms had the honors today in quest of a Diamond Anniversary jewel—the 75th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

However, the 36-year-old veteran had time to enjoy a more leisurely breakfast with her husband after getting up with the birds and capturing medalist honors Monday with a sizzling two-under par 71 at Brae Burn Country Club.

Mrs. Syms, a five-time Florida state champion who now lists herself as a Colorado Springs, Colo., housewife, dominated a field of 150 in the 18-hole qualifying round. She hit into a bunker and bogeyed the first hole, but quickly settled down.

"I'm very pleased with my round," she said. "All I was looking for was to qualify."

Finishing in the sixth threesome, Mrs. Syms had little to worry about as her lead stood up on the 6,134-yard course the rest of the day and into the evening before darkness halted a playoff for two remaining match play berths.

Five players were scheduled to go into the second hole of the qualifying playoff today. Then Mrs. Syms was set to lead the way into match play, meeting Marcia Dolan, 34, of Danbury, Conn., winner of the 1962 Florida title before becoming a three-time New England champion. Mrs. Dolan, who also has won the Connecticut championship nine times, qualified Monday with 78, four strokes under the cut.

Weiss Loses Heart Breaker

SAN ANTONIO—Seventeen-year-old Miguel Alvarez made an impressive Texas League pitching debut here Monday night as the San Antonio Brewers downed the Midland Cubs, 2-1.

Alvarez was making his first start since coming up from the rookie league this week, and gave up only six hits to the Midland Cubs, 2-1, and a lone eighth inning run.

It was a real heart breaker for Midland in more ways than one. First, it left the Cubs 1 1/2 games behind Shreveport going into tonight's opener with the Captains at Cubs Stadium, but it was also the second tough loss in a row for Midland pitcher Mike Weiss.

In his last start, Weiss had a one-hitter going through seven innings only to lose, 2-1, to El Paso. He lost by the same margin Monday, this time a two-out bases loaded single in the ninth by Brewer catcher Manny Lantigua was the blow that did him in.

San Antonio jumped to a 1-0 lead when Gary Cleverly scored from third on a grounder by Rich Guerra. Alvarez then rode the slim margin until the eighth when he gave up the lone run to Midland.

Mike Umfleet opened the Cub score in the eighth with a triple to right. Alvarez struck out Mike Sember, but Al Montreuil, a pinch hitter, scored Umfleet with a grounder to short.

Weiss gave up three walks in the ninth, but managed to get two outs before Lantigua delivered his game winning blow, a single between third and short.

NCAA Considers TV Revenue Split

CHICAGO (AP)—Faced with a controversial proposal to redistribute television revenues, officials of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have begun considering ways to reduce the cost of college athletics.

The council met Monday without ruling on a proposal by Dr. Stephen Horn, president of Long Beach State College, that major football powers share their television wealth with the less affluent.

Horn said at a press conference Monday in Los Angeles that, "Only 10 per cent of the major colleges are making money from their football programs, and the rest of the schools are not breaking even."

Flakne said he decided not to retry Forbes because the community is "extremely split" on the matter of violence in professional sports and that a second jury would probably not be able to reach agreement on a verdict.

Charges Dropped In Forbes Case

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Boston Jurors said the final vote had been 9 to 3 in favor of convicting a lesser charge of dangerous manner towards another person, but he is not a danger to society, said the prosecutor who decided to drop aggravated assault charges brought against Forbes for his conduct in a National Hockey League game.

"We have now established the principle that an individual's participation in an athletic contest does not exempt him from prosecution for his conduct," said Hennepin County Atty. Gary Flakne Monday.

Forbes, 26, was indicted and tried for allegedly hitting North Stars hockey player Henry Boucha with his hockey stick during a game Jan. 1, but the trial ended July 18 in a hung jury.

Walter Bush, president of the Minnesota North Stars, said he also agreed with Flakne's decision to drop the charges.

Bush said he feels the NHL and other sports organizations should be able to discipline their own players on the field.

"On the other side of the coin," Bush added, "I don't think any player is entitled to take a stick and use it as a weapon."

Bush said, "The players don't want these kind of attacks. This is a rugged sport, and players take the checking and bumps. But an attack with a stick is not warranted and not a part of the game."

Forbes' attorney, Ron Meshbender of Minneapolis, said it was difficult to predict how the case would affect pro hockey.

"I suppose it depends on how the club owners themselves see the situation," he said. "Perhaps they will tighten their rules a little bit. Or perhaps they will make a wait-and-see attitude. They might deem this an isolated occurrence that will never occur again."

The Forbes case represented the first time in the United States that a professional athlete was tried on a criminal charge for an incident that occurred during a sports contest.

ing with the financial status of athletic programs, to be considered by the NCAA's Special Convention Thursday and Friday meeting in Chicago.

The first resolution, proposed by the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, calls for an outright ban on athletic scholarships, though NCAA President John A. Fuzak of Michigan State said Monday night that "the likelihood of its passing is very slim." He refrained from comment on Horn's resolution, No. 65 on the agenda.

Fuzak said the council must decide if the television resolution is in order. "We haven't formally considered it yet, though we've been talking about it quite a bit."

"Even if the Council decides it is not in order," he said, "I'm sure it will be appealed at the Special Convention. If not, we will simply have to face it at another time."

The larger members of Division I have indicated they might drop out of the NCAA if the resolution is approved.

The NCAA's TV committee views Horn's plan as "philosophically, economically and politically unsound."

If adopted, the proposal "would mark the end of college football on television," the committee predicted in an Aug. 1 memorandum.

Other primary considerations, Fuzak said, involve restricting coaching staffs, grants-in-aid in all sports, limitations on recruiting and various other economic measures.

A Houston businessman, Joseph Conte, talked Monday with NCAA staff members, offering to set up a $1.2 million trust fund to establish a national championship game for college football.

His plan, not yet formally presented to the NCAA, calls for a game matching bowl winners that appear closest to first and second in wire service rankings. The game would not eliminate bowl games, but rotate from one bowl site to another.

Conte reportedly is offering participants $500,000 each and the NCAA $200,000.

Fuzak commented that such a game "doesn't quit fit in with our bowl games," but said he had not heard Conte's proposal in full.

Pack Issues Shoes, Socks

Shoes and socks will be issued to Midland High varsity and junior varsity football candidates Wednesday and physicals will be held Wednesday night, it was announced by Coach John Reddell.

Reddell said shoes and socks will be issued from 1 p.m. on and physicals for both varsity and JV players will be at 7 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium Fieldhouse.

Workouts begin for the Purple Pack on Monday in shoes and shorts and pads will be donned on the following Friday.

A week later Midland will scrimmage Snyder at Snyder and will open the season Sept. 5 against Amarillo Tascosa.

Perry Zips Hapless Tigers, 7-0

Detroit Losing Streak Reaches 16 Contests

By The Associated Press

In the hot and uncomfortable dog days of August, Joe Schultz has the easiest job in baseball. Schultz is the third base coach of the Detroit Tigers, who haven't needed a third base coach in their last three games. The Tigers bowed to the Texas Rangers and Gaylor Perry 7-0 Monday night, becoming the first Detroit club to suffer three consecutive shutouts—one short of the major league record—and extending their team record to 16 losses in a row.

The Tigers haven't scored in 29 innings. They managed only five hits off Perry and only Aurelio Rodriguez, who doubled in the eighth inning, made it as far as second base. He was promptly cut down trying to take third when a pitch rolled a few feet away from catcher Jim Sundberg.

The Tigers didn't get a runner past first on Sunday as Minnesota's Bert Blyleven fourth them and the last time Schultz saw a familiar face was in the eighth inning of Saturday's five-hit blanking at the hands of Minnesota's Dave Goltz when Rodriguez made it all the way to third... on an error, wild pitch and an infield out.

Toby Harrah's two-run homer in the second inning was all the support Perry needed. "When you face a pitcher like that and you're trying to come out of a slump, it's tough," Houk said. "With a veteran ball club, in a situation like this the players would say the hell with it. But these guys are not a bit down. They're out early taking extra hitting. That's the good thing about it. They're all gang ho and say, 'Let's go, let's get out of this thing.'"

Texas Manager Frank Lachesis wasn't about to say anything bad about the Tigers, whose play these days speaks for itself. "I sympathize with Ralph Houk," he said. "I said to our players before the game to be nice to those ballplayers; don't wake them up. If they look at you funny, don't bother them."

Orlitos 4, Royals 0 Bobby Grich ripped a two-out, two-run double off Steve Busby in the seventh inning to break up a scoreless dud. Grich scored on Ken Singleton's single and Don Baylor homered in the eighth. Meanwhile, Cuellar held the Royals to John Mayberry's fourth-inning double and a single by George Brett in the fifth and retired the final 14 Kansas City batters.

Linne To Conduct Football Clinic

The Midland YMCA will hold its annual Football School Aug. 21-30 with former Baltimore Colt-Player, Aubrey Linne, as the instructor.

Team coaches will aid Linne in teaching basic fundamentals, team play and the philosophy of YMCA football.

Linne, a graduate of Kermi High School, played his college ball at Texas Christian University, earning three letters. He was on the last two championship teams TCU fielded and played in the Cotton Bowl and the first Bluebonnet Bowl.

While at Baltimore, Linne played with such receiving greats as Ray Berry, Jim Mutschler, Lenny Moore, R. C. Owens and Jimmy Orr. Linne also played in the Canadian Football League with Toronto. Linne now lives in Midland.

Registrations are being accepted now at the Central YMCA for boys in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades. The fee for this year's school is $6.

Kiick-less Dolphins Face Rebuilding Job

MIAMI (AP) — For his first five seasons with the Miami Dolphins, Coach Don Shula figured he had ingredients for the National Football League's championship with Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick.

Shula is just as optimistic as he should find out how right he is in the Sept. 22 opener with Oakland. The Raiders stopped Miami's bid for a fourth straight Super Bowl trip by taking last season's first playoff game 28-26.

The big hole we have to fill is Csonka," said Shula of the fullback who regularly gained 100 yards per game. "We have to take on a new offensive identity. Our whole training camp objective is to establish this."

He believes Don Nottingham, who scored eight touchdowns and averaged 4.1 yards a carry last season, can do an adequate job at fullback.

Nottingham agrees, saying, "It doesn't matter if you're only 5-9 or 5-10, don't weigh 240 light end Jim Mandich and wide receivers Nat Moore, Melvin Baker, Howard Twilley, and rookie Freddie Solomon for the challenge.

Griese, one of the best in the NFL at reading defenses and changing plays at the last second, completed 60 per cent of his passes last year for 1,968 yards and 16 touchdowns.

As a rookie, Moore replaced injured Warfield as the No. 1 receiver with 37 receptions for 606 yards. Linebacker Nick Buoniconti calls Moore "super star class."

The defensive unit, which ranked at the top of NFL statistics in 1972-73, returns intact. The defense gave up only 150 points in 1973 but yielded 216 last year, a fact many players blame on trouble adjusting to defensive coordinator Vince Costello, who is now with Kansas City.

Other defenders are linemen Vern Den Herder, Bill Stanfill, Manny Fernandez and Bob Heitz, linebackers Buoniconti, Doug Swift, Mike Koenig and Bob Matheson and cornerbacks Curtis Johnson and Tim Foley. Garo Yepremian remains one of the NFL's best placekickers.

Mississippi State Called By NCAA

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State will go before a committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Aug. 25 to respond to 34 alleged football recruiting violations, a Jackson newspaper reports.

The Clarion-Ledger, in its Tuesday morning editions, said the school will go before the NCAA Committee on Infractions in Kansas City to answer the allegations.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying the NCAA investigation had found Mississippi State, which had a 9-3 record in 1974, allegedly provided inducements for prospective players. The report said the school has been charged with promising added benefits and providing improper transportation and entertainment for potential players.

Dr. William Giles, president of Mississippi State, was not available for comment Monday. Vice President Dr. T. K. Martin refused to comment on the report.

Mississippi State Athletic Director Charles Shira also refused to comment, saying, "We can't talk about it."

Owner Denies Horse Sale

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Foolish Pleasure will be racing next year as a 4-year-old and there are no plans for immediate syndication, John L. Greer, owner of the Kentucky Derby winner, said Monday.

Greer denied a report in the Knoxville News-Sentinel that syndication papers already have been drawn up to sell the prize 3-year-old for $4.5 million. Greer said that while in all likelihood the horse would be syndicated, nothing that definite had been agreed upon.

"All talk of syndication is only in the nebulous stage," Greer said, adding that he and his trainer, LeRoy Jolley, had been approached by a number of persons wanting to buy into a syndicate, but that was as far as it has gone. Any syndication, he added, would be for breeding purposes only. "I don't have enough mares myself to make it feasible for me not to eventually syndicate the colt," he said.

The paper said official papers of syndication were drawn up in Lexington, Ky., a few days ago by lawyers representing Greer and agents of Greenree Stud, world famous horse farm in Kentucky owned by John Hay "Jock" Whitney.

Greer said current plans call for shipping Foolish Pleasure to Belmont this fall, where he will compete in the weight-for-age races. "That, of course, is based on his remaining sound. You have to play it by ear in this business," he said.

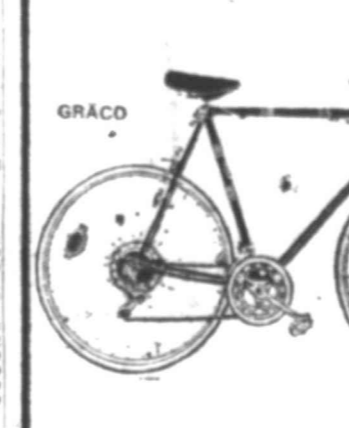

Foolish Pleasure has been working out in preparation for Saturday's Travers Stakes at Saratoga.

Greer bought Foolish Pleasure for $20,000 at a yearling sale at Saratoga Springs two years ago.

Detroit Losing Streak Reaches 16 Contests

By The Associated Press
In the hot and uncomfortable dog days of August, Joe Schultz has the easiest job in baseball. Schultz is the third base coach of the Detroit Tigers, who haven't needed a third base coach in their last three games. The Tigers bowed to the Texas Rangers and Gaylord Perry 7-0 Monday night, becoming the first Detroit club to suffer three consecutive shutouts—one short of the major league record—and extending their team record to 16 losses in a row.

The Tigers haven't scored in 29 innings. They managed only five hits off Perry and only Aurelio Rodriguez, who doubled in the eighth inning, made it as far as second base. He was promptly cut down trying to take third when a pitch rolled a few feet away from catcher Jim Sundberg.

The Tigers didn't get a runner past first on Sunday as Minnesota's Bert Blyleven fourth them and the last time Schultz saw a familiar face was in the eighth inning of Saturday's five-hit blanking at the hands of Minnesota's Dave Goltz when Rodriguez made it all the way to third... on an error, wild pitch and an infield out.

Detroit Manager Ralph Houk stocked his line-up with left-handed batters against Perry but right-handers Rodriguez and Willie Horton collected four of the Tigers' five hits.

The Tigers aren't winning and aren't scoring, and they aren't fielding very well, either. Left fielder Dan Meyer overran a fly ball which went for a double and first baseman Jack Pierce committed two errors—he booted a grounder and dropped a pop foul—in one inning, giving him 13 in 50 games.

Toby Harrah's two-run homer in the second inning was all the support Perry needed.

"When you face a pitcher like that and you're trying to come out of a slump, it's tough," Houk said. "With a veteran ballclub, in a situation like this the players would say the hell with it. But these guys are not a bit down. They're out early taking extra hitting. That's the good thing about it. They're all going and saying, 'Let's go; let's get out of this thing.'"

Stadium Wonder Built Within Budget

By ROSS NEWHAN
The Los Angeles Times

PONTIAC, Mich. — In a time of high inflation and unemployment, of work stoppages and material shortages, and unusual things is taking place in this city 20 miles north of Detroit.

A $55.7 million, 80,400-seat domed stadium is being built for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

That is not unusual. Domes stadiums are also being built in Seattle and New Orleans. What is unusual is that Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium is on time and within budget.

Work began in October of 1973 with a completion date set for August of '75. The estimate couldn't have been more accurate.

The Lions will play the Kansas City Chiefs here in an Aug. 23 exhibition game. The dome, not in the original work schedule, will be in place for the October opening of the regular season.

Comparisons provide an insight into the magnitude of the accomplishment. Others Year Behind

Both the Seattle and New Orleans stadiums are a year behind schedule. Seattle, which will seat 65,000 for football, 59,000 for baseball and up to 75,000 for shows, was budgeted at $40 million and will cost about $60 million. The Superdome in New Orleans will seat 80,000 and is expected to come in at $63.5 million or about $53 million over the estimate when work was begun.

The people in Seattle and New Orleans are quick to point out that the Pontiac Stadium is designed strictly for football and does not include such features as the shops and convention halls that helped inflate the price of the Superdome.

The Pontiac people respond that 80,000 seats are 80,000 seats, that their stadium will have concepts the others don't, that they faced and beat the same construction obstacles that entraped Seattle and New Orleans.

The on-time, within-budget aspect of Pontiac Metropolitan is not all that unusual. Robert Rummel executive director of the Stadium Authority, said he believes the stadium will operate in the black from year one and he presents statistics that are remarkable considering the depressed state of the automobile industry here and unemployment that has gone as high as 22 per cent.

Ticket Sales Boom — The Lions have sold more than 50,000 season tickets despite single-game prices of $8.50 and $11, not including a $1.50 service fee that the city of Pontiac adds to each ticket.

Motorcycle Races — Some critics say that going by motorcycle will be the only way to avoid a colossal traffic jam. Two streets immediately bordering the stadium are being widened, but freeway access is limited.

Once inside, the stadium offers all the comforts of the modern arena; fast-food service designed to feed 5,000 people a minute, a stadium club that affords diners a full-length view of the field through a 250-foot-long, two-story-high glass wall and electronic scoreboard with the latest in animation capabilities and computer-calculated sight lines that assure unobstructed viewing.

There are three tiers and no columns. And because it is designed for football, the seats are closer to the field than in multi-purpose stadiums. The sidelines and end lines are 40 feet from the nearest seats, which are raised seven feet above the field.

Air Dome — The dome is a woven, fiberglass fabric coated with Teflon. It is held down by steel cables and held up (21 stories) by blowers, up to 29 of which might be operating during an event.

A city of 150,000 Pontiac is comparable in size to Anaheim, Calif. It is the home of General Motors Truck and Pontiac Motor Co. and those plants alone defray over 50 per cent of the city's tax load.

Pontiac, however, was unwilling to build the stadium without a commitment, which it got from the Lions, who, according to vice-president Edwin Anderson, had simply become fed up with the politics surrounding plans for a proposed stadium in Detroit. Lions' owner William Clay Ford didn't have to look far. He was welcomed in Pontiac, which initially had plans for a two-stadium complex similar to the one in Kansas City where the baseball Royals and football Chiefs play. An invitation was extended to John Fetzer, president of the American League's Detroit Tigers, who turned it down, saying the Tigers were an urban team and would remain in Detroit even if it meant a continued policy annually refurbishing Tiger Stadium, which is exactly what it means.

That there have been no taxpayers' suits or angry marches onto the work site may stem from the fact that Oakland County, heart of a population market of 6.5 million, has replaced Nassau and Westchester as the wealthiest in the country.

The sale of season tickets and the reception to the private suits reflects that wealth. Meanwhile, in a neighborhood that displays increasing signs of poverty, the Tigers continue to play in a stadium built in 1912. Not only does the baseball team have no hope for a new stadium but it has lost a tenant that contributed 15 per cent of its gate and all revenue from concessions. The Tigers used the money on the expensive maintenance of the old structure.

Bench's Footwork Helps Cubs Fall

By The Associated Press
The Cincinnati Reds prefer to budge the opposition with base hits but a little fancy footwork now and again doesn't hurt. The fancy feet belonged to slugging catcher Johnny Bench Monday night. Bench made it all the way from home to third base on an infield grounder in the fifth inning and the Chicago Cubs never recovered, eventually falling to the Reds 9-3.

No one was watching him in the fifth, least of all the Cubs. The Reds, trailing 3-1, picked up a run when Pete Rose doubled. Ken Griffey singled and Joe Morgan hit into a force play to score Rose. Bench then grounded to Bill Madlock at third but was safe when first baseman Andy Thornton came off the bag too soon.

Morgan tried to go all the way to third on the play but was thrown out and Madlock, thinking the side was retired, rolled the ball to the mound. The Cubs trotted toward the dugout but Bench headed for third.

Orantes Pulls Clay Victory Over Ashe

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — If your name is Virginia Orantes, then the money your husband just got for winning two U.S. Clay Court tennis titles means "new shoes, a new dress and . . ."

But if your name is Manuel Orantes, and you sweated through a singles match with Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe and a doubles match right after that, then you don't let your wife keep dreaming. "You don't need new shoes, I do," the happy Spaniard told Virginia as they walked arm-in-arm from the Indianapolis Racquet Club's stadium court Monday night.

Government Asks Temporary Holdup By Grain Traders

By BRIAN B. KING
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is asking American grain traders "to refrain from further negotiations" with the Soviet Union for at least a month because of declining expectations for the U.S. harvest this year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Monday that it would take five months to unload at Russian ports the 9.8 million metric tons of U.S. grain already bought, so "there is no real hurry about additional sales to the Soviets."

Butz said it is more important now "to make sure American livestock production is not short-changed" for lack of feed grains just to boost exports or supply the Russians with their needs.

Butz said he expected discussions and good relations to continue between U.S. traders and Moscow until negotiations resume. Further sales definitely will be forthcoming, he said.

Butz has received heavy criticism for his support of the sales already made, which critics say will lead to price increases at American grocery stores.

He said he still feels consumer food prices will not be appreciably affected by the U.S. grain sales or the crop report, which lowered the Agriculture Department's forecast of the corn harvest by 3 per cent.

The department has predicted a 6 to 8 per cent increase in food prices this year over last year. Food price increases have been about 14.5

per cent in each of the last two years, with the 1972 Russian purchase of 19 million metric tons of grain one factor.

The secretary said he hoped for further but better-spaced Russian purchases. He told a news conference that "obviously... the actions we take are with the full knowledge and concurrence of the President."

Butz spoke shortly after the department's Crop Reporting Board announced that, based on Aug. 1 growing conditions, the corn crop should be a record 5.85 billion bushels. That would be 26 per cent greater than last season's drought-stricken harvest.

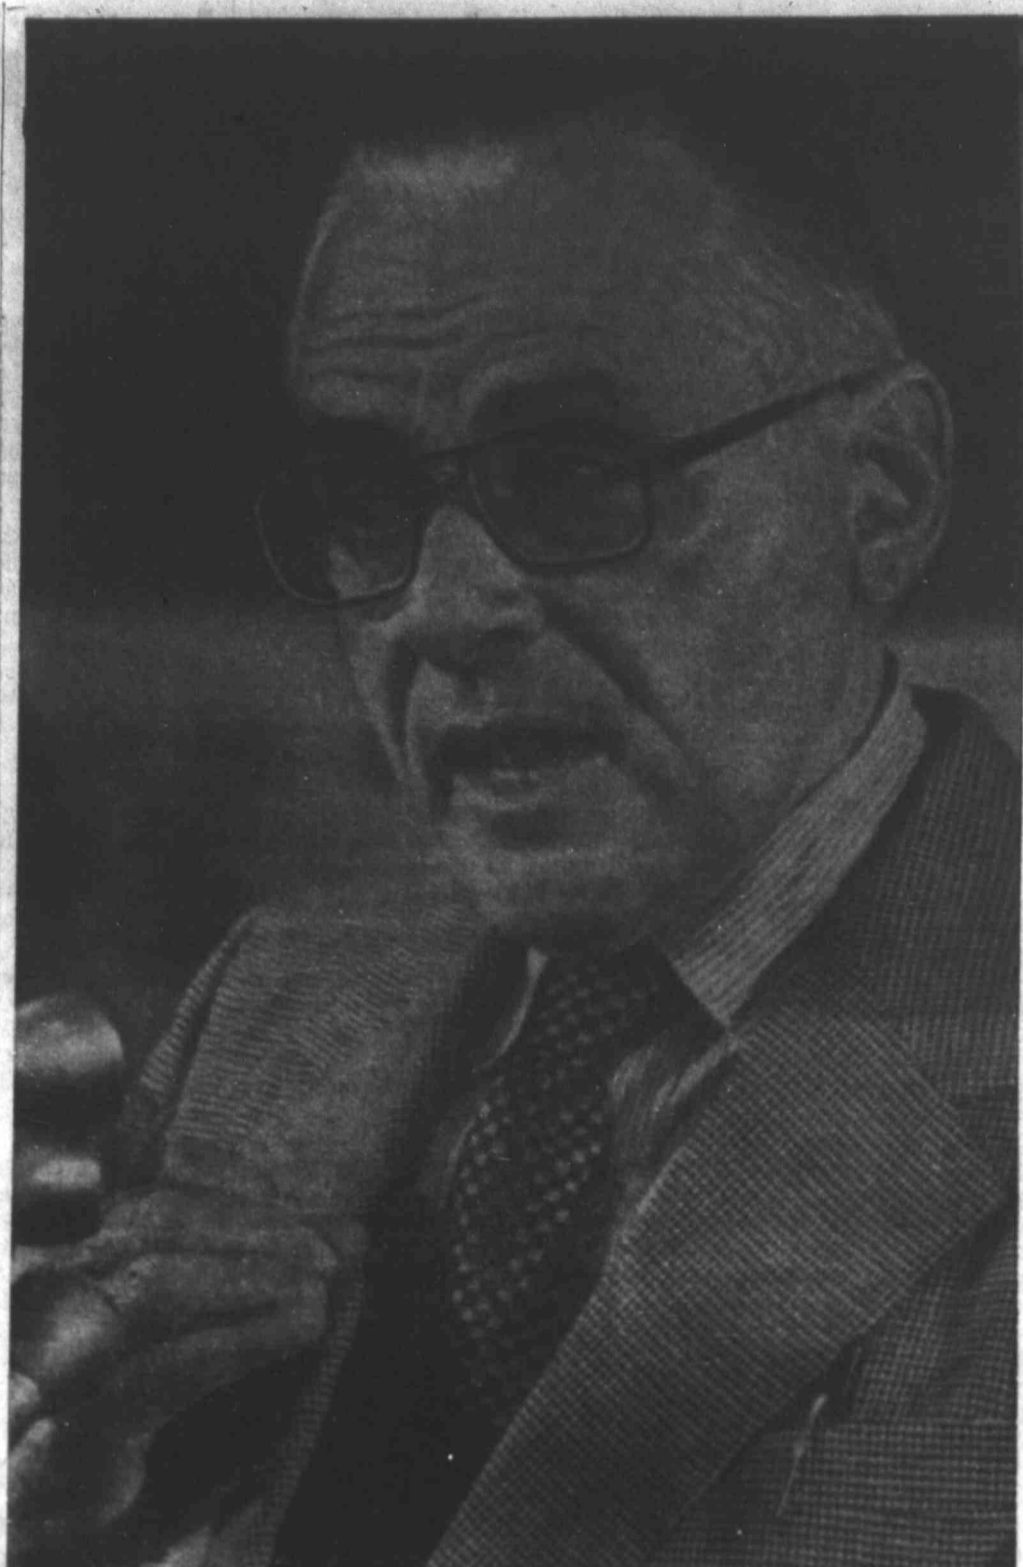

However, Iowa and Nebraska officials said the Agriculture Department estimates for their states were overly optimistic because the corn crop has deteriorated since the Aug. 1 sampling.

Don Paarlberg, the department's top economist, said that since the Aug. 1 field surveys, rain has been sparse in Iowa and other eastern Corn Belt areas and "continued or increased stress" on the crops is likely.

The soybean crop was estimated at 1.458 billion bushels, up 18 per cent from 1974.

Corn and soybeans, as livestock feed, are the key ingredients for producing the meat, milk and poultry products American families buy at the supermarkets.

The crop report also indicated a record U.S. wheat crop of 2.14 billion bushels, up 19 per cent from last year.

Portuguese Rioting Continues In Bid To Unseat Communists

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — late Monday night in the northern town of Viseu as demonstrators opposed to the leftist trend of the country's military rulers attacked a building housing the Communist party's offices.

Meanwhile, a member of the military's Revolutionary Council, the supreme body until the appointment of the triumvirate of generals, resigned in what he described as a gesture of support for beleaguered pro-Communist Premier Vasco Gonçalves.

The latest violence erupted on Monday night in the northern town of Viseu as demonstrators opposed to the leftist trend of the country's military rulers attacked a building housing the Communist party's offices.

The trapped Communists threw three grenades and opened fire on the mob, police reported. The mob replied by hurling molotov cocktails.

Troops rushed to the scene and forced the demonstrators to retreat, leaving one dead and about a score injured, four of them seriously.

First Nixon Law Office To Be Made Into Library

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP) — The first law office of Richard M. Nixon will be restored as a library on the former president's say two contractors who have agreed to pay off the mortgage on the building.

Donald Bendetti and John Barr, owners of the Pacific Land Co. of Paramount, Calif., said Monday they would pay off $18,500 outstanding on the mortgage to rescue from bankruptcy a corporation seeking to preserve the office.

A spokesman for Richard Nixon Law Office Preservation, Inc., said Bendetti and Barr had also agreed to restore the building and open a library with books and writings on Nixon.

Trustees of the preservation group decided to sell the building when contributions dried up after the Watergate scandal.

Bendetti said the purchase and restoration costs will be between $50,000 and $60,000 and the library may open within a year.

He said he and Barr "stepped in because we wanted to do something for Mr. Nixon."

He added, "The library will include all writings on Nixon, both pro and con," so students and researchers "could fairly assess the man's career."

The office, opened by Nixon in 1938 after his graduation from Duke University Law School, is a small room at the rear of a building most recently used by the La Habra Chamber of Commerce.

Further trouble was feared later today during funeral services for a man gunned down last week by besieged Communists in the town of Fafe.

The resignation from the Revolutionary Council by Gen. Duarte Pinto Soares, head of Lisbon's military academy, came as a surprise as he had been named by a Lisbon newspaper as a secret supporter of the military moderates seeking to oust Gonçalves and his four-day-old government.

Soares described his move as aimed against Gonçalves' critics, but it was not clear how his resignation could help the premier who holds supreme power along with President Francisco da Costa Gomes and internal security chief Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho.

The moderates claim they already have the backing of 65 per cent of the military nationwide for a petition calling on Gonçalves to quit. Nine of the council's 29 members signed the original petition and are hoping to force its acceptance by the council, perhaps at a meeting later this week.

Ex-Student Sues Methodist College Asking $1 Million

HOUSTON (AP) — A student who claims she was raped in her dormitory has filed a $1 million damage suit against Lon Morris College of Jacksonville.

The state district court suit filed Monday alleges Lon Morris College officials failed to ensure her security.

The 21-year-old plaintiff, a Houston woman now enrolled in another Texas school, alleged the rape took place in the early morning hours of Jan. 20, 1974 and that school officials secretly transported the alleged rapist out of town the next day after having dropped him from the registrar's rolls.

The suit claims school officials failed to give her medical attention and treated her as if the incident never happened.

The suit named as defendants school president John E. Cellers, the Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, which operates the school, and Bishop Paul Galloway and 46 other trustees of Lon Morris College.

Castro Happy At Portuguese Developments

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(An AP News Analysis)

Fidel Castro, basking in the warmth of smiles from neighbors who once feared him, has just been interviewed by the Soviet press on the Communist future in Latin America, and seems to scent a trend that promises the party rich dividends.

Castro obviously is enchanted by the idea of army officers tilting far left, as in Peru and Portugal, but especially Portugal. The long interview, printed last week in Pravda, suggests warm Fidelista admiration for the army officers running Portugal.

The admiration is mutual. The Portuguese Armed Forces Movement, and especially its security chief, seem to see Cuba as a model for what they have in mind. In turn, Castro seems to see Portugal's experience as a model for Communists in Latin America.

And why not? Army men and the Communists would have something to offer one another. The Communists offer strict discipline, secure dictatorship unencumbered by the nuisance of democratic rights. The leftist Army men like the idea of political order under centralized power.

Cuba was bumped by its neighbors out of the hemisphere community a dozen years ago on suspicion of exporting revolution. Now, with U.S. blessing, it's being welcomed back to the hemispheric bosom.

If he doesn't export revolution now, Fidel surely does all he can to encourage the local talent. The Tass interview dealt at length with the mid-June conference in Havana of Communist chiefs from all Latin America, whose declaration, unanimously adopted, sounded like a manual on what to do to hasten the takeover.

As Castro sees it, the "anti-imperialist struggle," meaning anti-Yankee, must involve collaboration with all manner of "progressive" forces, meaning any force willing to accept the party as an ally. This includes, says Castro "progressive elements in the armed forces, who show themselves a new factor in the revolutionary movement."

It is even all right to collaborate with "bourgeois" forces, Castro counsels, quoting the declaration, so long as the Communists never forget that the "struggle" is to be led exclusively by "the working class and its vanguard, the Communist party."

Castro quotes the new Havana declaration as paying admiring tribute to the Soviet détente policy — the policy that led to the recent 35-nation European summit — as an important factor in advancing the fortunes of the international Communist movement.

The interviewer said Castro emphasized that Soviet foreign policy efforts had immense meaning for "the cause of the international revolutionary movement."

"Latin American Communists," the Tass account goes on, "are unanimous that détente and the successes of the struggle for peace, which are the result of the shift in the relation of forces to the advantage of socialism, favor the strengthening of all revolutionary and progressive forces."

Only "reactionary forces," says Castro, want the cold war these days. The interview outlines what Castro calls "long-term strategy and tactics," and evidently all the Latin American Communist leaders now agree with the Soviet Politburo that for the time being, anyway, sugar is a better tool than vinegar — sugar in the form of trade relations and collaboration with all "progressives" instead of vinegar in the form of violence.

This will prosper, figures Castro, because "capitalism is in no condition to resolve any of the basic problems of Latin America." Castro's Cuba seems now to occupy the role of exemplar to other Communist forces of what can be done by following Moscow's "general line" and bringing about a situation wherein Soviet money and political wallop can play a decisive role. It could happen in Portugal and it could happen in a number of Latin American nations.

At the moment, though, the Organization of American States doesn't seem too worried about such a prospect. In fact, the main concern of many Latin American governments these days with respect to Cuba seems to be to beat a path to the door of Havana in quest of a piece of the Cuban market.

It is unworried too, evidently, that Castro has always held the OAS in contempt. He didn't ask to get back in. He had only demanded—successfully, it turns out—that Latin American nations lift the sanctions they had imposed in 1964 when they were more inclined to follow the U.S. lead.

Bumper California Wine Crop Will Not Bring Lower Prices

By ROD ANGOVE
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will be overflowing with grape juice again this year but it doesn't mean lower wine prices, industry experts say.

They say the price of grapes will probably drop in the near-record harvest, except maybe for the prime varieties that go into the best dry wines. But they say the cost of grapes accounts for so little of the retail price of wine that a decrease cannot make up for inflationary pressures on other factors.

If there's any price cutting, look for it in the wines from France or Italy, they say.

The state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service forecast Monday that this year's grape crop will be 3.85 million tons, including a record 1.35 million tons of wine varieties. It said the total crop should be one per cent larger than 1974, but one per cent under that of 1973.

The record is 3.97 million tons in 1965.

Earlier forecasts had placed this year's crop at 4.22 million tons, with 1.4 million tons of wine varieties.

Picking is just beginning. The first white wines from the 1975 crop should reach the stores in December and the reds in early 1976.

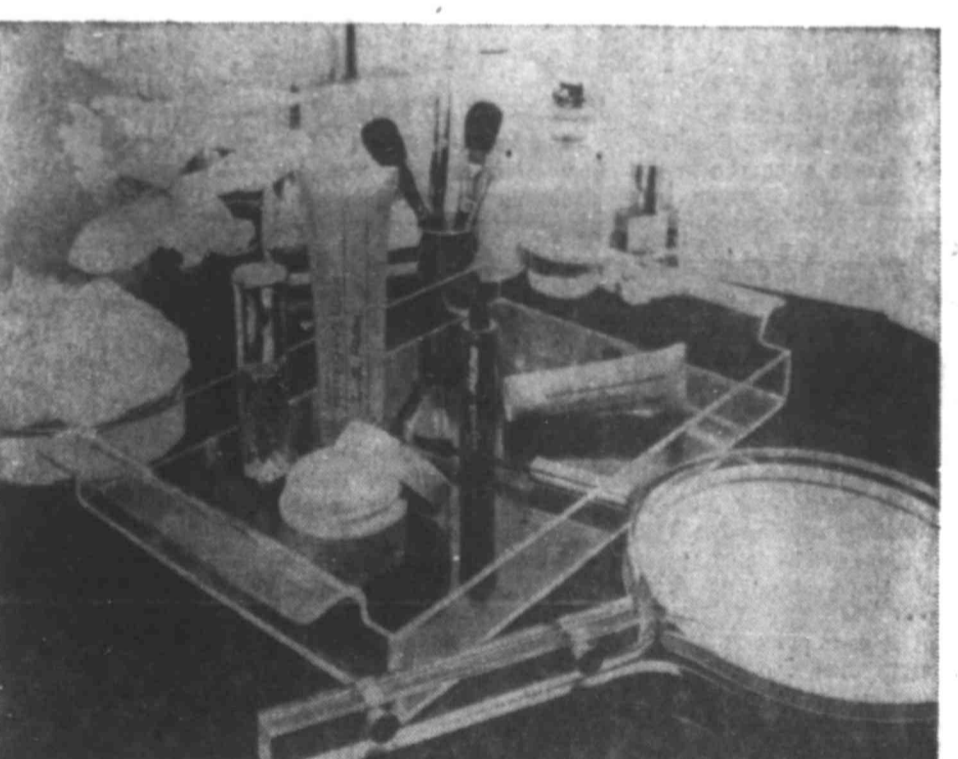

"Some people are predicting lower wine prices, but all we can say is that a lower price for grapes could offset other price rises," said Harvey Posert of California's Wine Institute.

First Lady's Views On Premarital Sex Draw Widely Mixed Reactions

By The Associated Press

First Lady Betty Ford got mixed reviews inside and outside her family Monday for her television interview in which she said she wouldn't be unduly surprised if her 18-year-old unmarried daughter disclosed that she was having an affair.

Daughter Susan, the Ford's youngest child and only daughter, said she thought her mother had done a good job. But she said she didn't have any affair to tell about. "Not yet," she said. "I'll leave it at that."

Michael Ford, a theology student, reportedly told his mother that he wasn't sure he agreed with her views.

The President's position, according to a spokesman, was that he has always told his wife to "speak her mind."

There was scattered criticism from some public figures. Mary Whitehouse, a British campaigner against pornography, said in London she was appalled. She accused Mrs. Ford of encouraging sexual promiscuity and described the comments as irresponsible.

Ken Van Derhoef, national president of Right to Life, a group opposing abortion, said in Seattle, that Mrs. Ford showed "a complete insensisitivity to the privacy of her own family and their personal problems... In spite of an endorsement by the First Lady, I feel confident that the American public won't accept premarital sex and abortion as their way of life."

Mrs. Ford repeatedly has spoken in favor of legalized abortion.

She gained support from Marion Malonson, president of the Washington state chapter of Church Women United, who said: "I'm happy to at least see her mention such things and talk about them. They too often get ignored and hushed up."

Elder Gordon B. Hinckley of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon) held a news conference in Manila and discussed Mrs. Ford's statements, made in a CBS interview broadcast Sunday night.

"We feel very strongly about this," he said. "We deplore the deterioration of morality around the world. Chastity is to be observed before marriage... and fidelity after marriage."

A spokesman for the Most Rev. Edwin Broderick, bishop of the Albany, N.Y. diocese said the Roman Catholic clergyman was "really shocked" at Mrs. Ford's statement. "He feels very strongly that this type of philosophy should not be espoused by someone who has such a prestigious position in the country," the spokesman said.

Mrs. Ford made her controversial comments in answer to questions from CBS' "60 Minutes" interviewer Morley Safer about what she would do if daughter Susan came to her and said, "Mother, I'm having an affair."

"Well, I wouldn't be surprised," said Mrs. Ford. "If she wanted to continue, and I would certainly counsel and advise her on the subject and I'd want to know pretty much about the young man... whether it was a worthwhile encounter..."

Mrs. Ford said Susan was "pretty young to start affairs," but added: "She's a big girl." She also said she thought that premarital sex in some cases might lessen the divorce rate.

A CBS spokesman said Monday that the network had not received any reaction from viewers — negative or positive.

Susan, in Kansas, where she is a photography intern at the Topeka Capital-Journal, said of the interview: "I think she did a good job."

"She talked about things people should talk about... Like abortion. It should be brought out of the woods."

Susan said she thought her mother's answer to the question about premarital sex was "very middle road. I like the idea she's open enough she might accept it, if it happened. She said it, would all depend upon the situation. I agree with that..."

"I think my Dad agrees with that. He's very protective of me, but he's willing to listen and if I feel strongly enough about it, he agrees."

In Vail, Colo., where the President and his wife are vacationing, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's "only reaction was that he has always taken the position that Mrs. Ford should speak her mind."

Michael Ford, 25, the oldest of the Ford's three sons and the only one who is married, was quoted by Mrs. Ford's press secretary as telling his mother he wasn't sure he agreed with her views on premarital sex. "I guess I'm more old-fashioned," he reportedly said. Michael has a year and a half of study to complete on his master's degree in theology.

Southern Baptist Minister 'Aghast'

DALLAS (AP) — The pastor of the world's largest Southern Baptist congregation says he is "aghast" at First Lady Betty Ford's views on premarital sex.

"I could not believe what I was reading. I thought surely someone was misquoting her. I cannot think that the First Lady of this land would descend to such a gutter type mentality. It's unthinkable," said Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church here.

What set the Rev. Mr. Criswell off was a newspaper account of Mrs. Ford's television interview Sunday in which she commented that she "wouldn't be surprised" if daughter Susan became involved in a premarital affair.

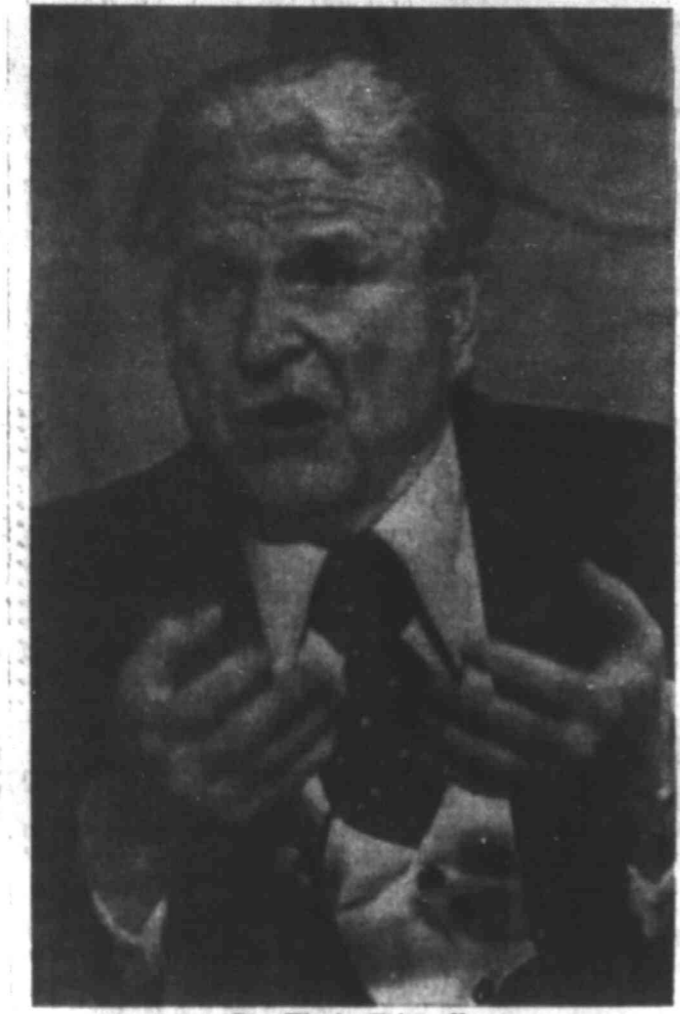

"I think she's a perfectly normal human being like all young girls," said Mrs. Ford. "If she wanted to continue, and I would certainly advise her on the subject..."

Said Dr. Criswell, after watching a replay of the interview: "I didn't expect the leadership of the nation to exhibit before our very eyes this kind of sewer."

He acknowledged there is "promiscuity. But we try to keep this kind of sewer underground. There is a Mafia but we go on fighting it. We know there is a great mass who believe in and live this animal way. But for her (Mrs. Ford) to offer her daughter in this kind of illicit sexual relationship with a man is unthinkable. What has happened to us?"

Dr. Criswell said he was astounded by Mrs. Ford's views as he was upon reading transcripts of the Watergate tapes of President Nixon.

"This is the same kind of thing," Dr. Criswell said. "I know the man. He went to church. And then to see the kind of language he used. I was appalled. Well, this is the same kind of thing. She has opened herself to a lot of criticism. I just can't believe our leaders condone this kind of thing. Her own daughter!"

Amin Said Planning To Kill Princess

Agence France-Presse LONDON — President Idi Amin has threatened to have his former foreign minister Elizabeth Bagaya murdered because she is planning to publish an autobiography with the "grim facts of life in Uganda," the Daily Express wrote Monday.

The newspaper said the president's "new found prestige as chairman of the Organization of African Unity and his improved relations with Britain could be irrevocably undermined by the revelations of Princess Bagaya."

"Already, Amin is believed to have dispatched 100 of his secret police into Kenya where the princess took refuge after leaving Uganda," the Express wrote.

A few weeks ago, the British government gave permission for the princess, an ex-fashion model, to visit Britain where she is believed to be planning to settle.

Houston expert Paul Hodge took the king of spades. The king of hearts then revealed the bad trump break.

Hodge led the ten of hearts from dummy, covered by the queen and ace. He continued with a club to the ace and a club ruff.

Now came the key play. Declarer led the six of diamonds from his hand and won a finesse in dummy with the ten of diamonds.

Declarer ruffed another club, dropping the king, led a spade to the ace and ruffed a spade. Then he led the queen of diamonds to dummy's king.

IN THE MIDDLE

When Hodge led the good queen of clubs from dummy, East discarded. Declarer threw away the ace of diamonds and led once more from dummy. East's last two cards, both trumps, were caught in the middle, and Hodge made his grand slam.

West should have put up the jack of diamonds when South led the six of diamonds. This would limit dummy to one diamond entry, and South would be unable to ruff often enough to execute his little trump coup.

It wouldn't be sporting to name West. Not as long as he keeps paying that hush money.

Nationalist China Reports Rioters Killed On Mainland

Agence France-Presse HONG KONG — The Nationalist Chinese Central News Agency in Taiwan Monday reported that Chinese troops killed an unspecified number of "rioters" in South China last month.

The report, published in several Chinese language newspapers here, said that riots erupted along the Kinshu River between Yunnan and Szechuan provinces.

Quoting intelligence sources, CNA said the riots involved more than 2,000 and started in Suikiang, a riverside county about 275 miles north of Kunming, the capital of Yunnan Province, which borders Burma, Laos and North Vietnam.

The rioters were said to include "young intellectuals" drafted to the countryside and homeless peasants and workers led by demobilized and "discontented" army men.

An earthquake in May last year in the area left many homeless, the report said.

CNA said that a "Peoples Party" active along the borders of Yunnan, Kweichow and Szechuan Provinces had instigated the rioting.

The agency said that rioters in Suikiang used anti-aircraft guns to bombard administrative offices and granaries and crops.

It said that the troops opened fire, killing and wounding "dozens" of people, and arrested some 100 attempting to flee along the river bank. Some of the demonstrators escaped across a bridge into Leipo County in Szechuan.

'Most Hypocritical'

The transformation of India into a dictatorship perhaps has shocked many Americans who have been conditioned to regard that country as "the world's largest democracy."

Anthony Harrison executive vice president of the United States Industrial Council, says that actually there is very little reason for surprise.

Harrison, in his "Sensing the News" column, presents some interesting information on the subject.

He says, for instance, that India, since it gained independence from Great Britain, has been moving in the wrong direction.

Yet, all the while, India has been most successful in selling a bill of goods to the United States and other Western nations, persuading them that India was a democracy.

In fact, Harrison says, India has acted in a very undemocratic way since its establishment.

"Jawaharlal Nehru, the first prime minister and father of Dictator Indira Gandhi, favored a state-controlled economy," the columnist said. "He did everything possible to impose a regimented economy on the Indian peoples and to prevent the exercise of economic freedom."

Let's take a look also at India's aggressive foreign policy. First, it asserted its domination over Kashmir on the country's northern border, despite the overwhelmingly Moslem population and orientation toward Pakistan. Then, in 1961, India committed aggression against Portuguese Goa, forcing the people of that colony to accept Indian overlordship against their will.

Through the years—and here is the telling point—the Indian government consistently has been anti-Western. The late V. K. Krishna Menon, who served as India's defense minister, was a foe of the United States, and an advocate of close ties to the Soviet Union. Thus, India's military cooperation with the Russians has increased year by year.

Throughout the Vietnam war, India made plain its sympathy for the Communist side, despite the fact that America was spending billions of dollars to feed Indians.

It is a well-known fact that gratitude always is in short supply on the international scene. But India, even in the face of an almost endless stream of gifts from the American people, has been most conspicuous in its lack of gratitude for same.

You perhaps will recall that India objects vigorously to occasional visits by American warships to the Indian Ocean. On the other hand, India has not complained about the presence of a large Soviet fleet there.

Harrison says the Indian government has been the most hypocritical of governments.

For instance, it has criticized other nations which have used police or troops to quell riots. But Indian armed forces have been employed at the same duty on countless occasions.

"Indian diplomats at the United Nations," Harrigan points out, "have complained about other countries that suspended certain civil liberties. But India has had a preventive detention law since 1947. India has resorted to indirect censorship and thought control over many years, restricting the number of American university personnel, for example, and insisting on guidance for film crews working in the country."

"Perhaps the ultimate example of India hypocrisy was India's development of an explosion of a nuclear device—a basic bomb—at vast cost while appealing to the U.S. to provide free food to the Indian people."

India's record through the years does not make for a very pretty picture. Its government, as Harrigan explains, has failed and now "seeks to conceal its failures and corruption by resorting to the instruments of a totalitarian regime."

NICK THIMMESCH

U.S. Headed Toward Worker-Drone Society

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Nick Thimmesch is on a fact-finding trip to Eastern Europe. His guest columnist today is Caspar Weinberger, former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.)

By CASPAR WEINBERGER

Former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare

WASHINGTON — A few days ago I returned to private life after serving in Washington for nearly six years, the last several of which were spent as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The single most important observation I take away from this experience is this: The America we know is in danger of being swallowed whole by the power and cost of our growing government.

A vision of what big government can do to people was described 140 years ago, long before the advent of really big government, by Count Alexis de Tocqueville.

He saw a government "which takes upon itself alone to secure the citizens' gratifications and watch over their fate." A government that "chooses to be the sole agent and the only arbiter of happiness, provide for their security; supply their necessities, facilitate their pleasures, manage their principal concerns, and subdivide their inheritance."

"What remains," he asked, "but to spare them all care of thinking and all the trouble of living?"

The social timeclock has been ticking toward such a day since de Tocqueville uttered his gloomy vision. We are closer now than ever before and traveling faster.

Twenty-five years ago, social programs took a mere .05 per cent of the federal budget. When I came to Washington they were consuming 26.6 per cent. As I leave Washington, they are consuming 36.5 per cent, mainly as a result of increases and new programs demanded by the Congress.

The lesson is plain enough: If this trend persists, by the year 2000 America would be a worker-drone society with half the nation's people working to pay for the government benefits of the other half.

An egalitarian welfare state would have chilling consequences. It would mean, for one thing, an all-powerful and pervasive government licensed to poke and probe into the lives of every citizen — even down to telling families how to spend their income.

If you think that day is far off, consider the case that came to light recently of a Massachusetts mother of six on welfare. She is receiving cash and benefits equal to an annual income of $20,000, which is quite a tidy sum, especially when one considers that the median family income in the United States in 1973 was $12,061.

But in return for this largess she is told how and where to spend. The $7,188 in cash she receives must be accounted for to a social worker. Most of the remainder comes in the form of government benefits — free health care, free day care and free education in a private school for three of her children. She has every inducement to stay on welfare and to take all the qualifying steps such as ensuring that the father of her children is absent.

The growth of an American welfare state also carries with it the further danger that we will undermine our free enterprise economy. Our growing social programs are taking an increasing share of the surplus capital industry needs for growth and modernization. Without such funds, we will not have enough to invest in job producing activities that reduce our social ills and finance our social commitments to the needy.

It is in the nature of welfare states to spend beyond their means. New York City, which for decades spent more than it took in, is now staring into a fiscal abyss. So, too, will the federal government if it does not soon shake the habit of producing deficits, which 15 of the last 16 budgets have been.

We must limit the growth of the American welfare state — now. Only a wave of public sentiment can give Congress the spine to say "no" to more ruinously expensive social programs.

I am not urging that we turn the clock back and renounce our commitments to the truly needy. But I do urge

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Portugal's ruling generals have a secret adviser who has been teaching them how to impose a Communist dictatorship on an unwilling populace. He is none other than Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, a preeminent expert at subverting the will of the people.

On April 25, the Portuguese people voted overwhelmingly in favor of the moderate political parties which support democracy. A scant 12.5 per cent of the voters backed the Communist party.

But the military triumvirate received an urgent recommendation from Castro, according to intelligence reports, that they ignore the April elections, suppress the press and overthrow the opposition.

The Cuban leader cited the experience of the late Salvador Allende, the martyred Marxist president of Chile, as evidence that a successful revolution cannot be consummated in the framework of a democracy.

The advice from Havana was echoed in Lisbon by party boss Alvaro Cunhal who acknowledged with uncharacteristic candor: "We Communists do not accept the game of elections."

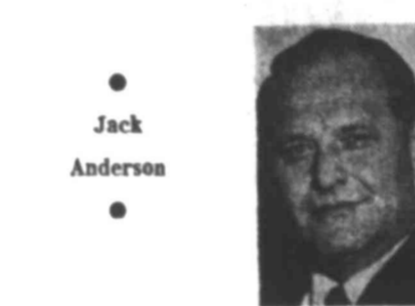

Cunhal began plotting with Castro two months before the Portuguese coup. The secret intelligence reports reveal that Cunhal made a secret trip to Havana in February, 1974.

Two months later, the Portuguese Communists, in cahoots with leftist military officers, overthrew the rightwing dictatorship of Marcello Caetano.

The triumphant military junta according to the intelligence reports, began listening to Castro from the first. A close working relationship was developed through Cuba's General Intelligence Directorate, which maintains a large Portuguese-speaking Brazilian section. This made it possible for the Cubans to communicate easily with the Portuguese leftists.

Already, the Cubans have helped the Portuguese organize an internal security apparatus, which could evolve quietly into a secret police force. Cuban-style "defense councils" are also blossoming all over Portugal.

These are little more than armed commando units, which the Communists use to intimidate the moderate majority. The disciplined rowdies break up demonstrations and beat their opponents into silence. Neighbors become afraid to speak to one another for fear of retribution from the Communist goon squads.

In late July, Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the Portuguese internal security chief and a member of the ruling troika, paid a nine-day visit to Cuba.

In heart-to-heart talks with Castro, according to intelligence sources, Carvalho was lectured on how to proceed with the "revolution." The Cuban dictator stressed that the Portuguese should avoid Allende's mistake of putting up with democracy and attempting "transactional settlements" with the opposition.

Castro described Allende contemptuously as "a fool" who thought he could achieve a revolution in Chile through the democratic processes. The press must be silenced, the opposition intimidated and the populace regimented, Castro urged. He warned it would take "mass mobilization" — meaning Communist control of every neighborhood — to carry out the revolution.

The brash, flamboyant Carvalho apparently was impressed. He is characterized by intelligence analysts as a racial Marxist, enormously ambitious, who may see himself as the Castro of Portugal.

He came out of his meetings with the Bearded One proclaiming: "I gathered profound guidelines, teachings even, which I believe will be extremely useful for the continuity of our revolution."

Back in Lisbon, Carvalho began put-

ART BUCHWALD-

All Right, Let's See Who Salutes!

WASHINGTON — Have you ever wondered what would have happened if the people who are in charge of tradition today were passing on the draft of the Declaration of Independence?

The scene is Philadelphia, Pa. Several men are sitting around holding copies of the declaration.

Thomas Jefferson comes in nervously.

"Tommy," says the producer, "it's just great. I would say it was a masterpiece."

"We love it, Tommy boy," the advertising agency man says.

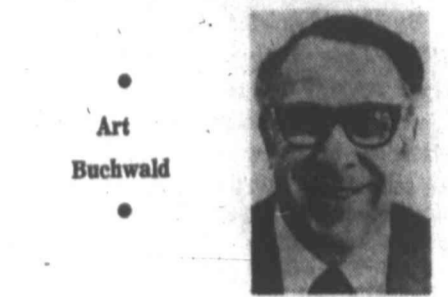

"It sings. Lots of drama, and it holds your interest. There are a few things that have to be changed, but otherwise it stays intact."

"What's wrong with it?" Mr. Jefferson asks.

There's a pause. Everyone looks at the man from the network.

"Well, frankly, Tommy, it smacks of being a little anti-British. I mean, we've got quite a few Tory listeners, and something like this might bring in a lot of mail."

"Now don't get sore, Tommy boy," the agency man says. "You're the best Declaration of Independence writer in the business. That's why we hired you. But our sponsor, the Boston Tea Co., is interested in selling tea, not independence. Mr. Cornwallis, the sponsor's representative, is here, and I think he has a few thoughts on the matter. Go ahead, Corney. Let's hear what you think."

Mr. Cornwallis stands up. "Mr. Jefferson, all of us in this room want this to be a whale of a document. I think we'll agree on that."

Everyone in the room nods his head.

"At the same time we feel — I think I can speak for everybody — that we don't want to go over the heads of the mass of people who we hope will buy our product. You use words like despotism, annihilation, migration and tenure. Those are all egghead words and don't mean a damn thing to the public. Now I like your stuff about 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' They all tie in great with tea, particularly pursuit of happiness, but it's the feeling of all of us that you're really getting into controversial water when you start attacking the King of England."

Mr. Jefferson says, "But every word of it is true. I've got the documentary proof."

"Let me take a crack at it, Corney," the agency man says.

"Look, Tommy boy, it isn't a question of whether it's true or not. All of us here know what a louse George III can be. But you remind people of all those taxes George has laid on us, they're not going to go out and buy tea. They're not going to go out and buy anything."

Mr. Jefferson says, "Gentlemen, I was told to write a Declaration of Independence. I discussed it with many people before I did the actual writing. I've worked hard on this declaration — harder than I've worked on anything in my life. You either take it or leave it as it is."

"We're sorry you feel that way about it, Tommy," the agency man says. "We have a responsibility to the country, but we have a bigger responsibility to the sponsor. He's paying for it. We're not in the business of offending people. British people or any other ethnic group. Isn't that so, Mr. Cornwallis?"

"Check — unless Mr. Jefferson changes it the way we want him to."

Mr. Jefferson grabs the declaration and says, "Not for all the tea in Boston," and exits.

The producer shakes his head. "I don't know, fellows. Maybe we've made a mistake. We could at least have run it up a flagpole to see who saluted."

"As far as I'm concerned," Mr. Cornwallis said, "the subject is closed. Let's talk about a western series on the French and Indian War."

It Happened Here—

40 Years Ago (Aug. 12, 1935):

Confirmation of Midland as a mid-afternoon control top in the Ruth Chatterton Sportsman's Air Derby was received this morning by the Chamber of Commerce. The stop here will be made on Aug. 26.

Sponsored by the Midland Pastors Association and the Texas League Against Whiskey, a prohibition rally will be held in the First Baptist Church Auditorium Thursday night. "Keep Texas Dry for Texas Youth" is the slogan of the statewide campaign.

L. E. Cook and son, Mack, after winning a matched race for three-eighths of a mile with their two-year old filly, Little Nell, at Spur Saturday, went on to Rock Springs for a race meet this week.

Nell Ruth Bedford presented a special reading at the meeting of the Naomi Class Sunday morning. The devotional was read by Mrs. H. C. Hannaford and Miss Mamie Belle McKee led the responsive reading.

"How Christians Should Use the Lord's Day" was the subject of a Bible study program presented Sunday evening by the Loyal Workers BTU.

A meeting of the Garden Club will be held Wednesday in the Children's Library.
