

Pecos Dual Well Completes Tests In Two Sections

Atlantic Richfield Co. has completed four-point gauges at No. 2 State-McIntyre, Ellenburger and Devonian producer in the Rojo Caballos, South (Ellenburger) area of Pecos County.

The Ellenburger zone extends that pay three-fourths mile northeast, and the Devonian zone opens a new pay for the area.

The project is nine miles southwest of Coynosa.

Four-point gauges from the Ellenburger: four hours, 24-64 inch choke, 6 million cubic feet of gas per day; two hours, 17-64 choke, 4.4 million; one hour, 14-64 choke, 2.68 million, and 2 1/2 hours, 11-64 choke, 1.72 million.

Four-point gauges on Devonian: 3 1/4 hours, 1/4 choke, 3.5 million cubic feet of gas per day; 2 1/4 hours, 12-64 choke, 2.7 million; 1 1/2 hours, 7-64 choke, 1.8 million, and 3 hours, 1-16 choke, 1.1 million.

Operator now is calculating the absolute open flow potential. Location is 1,170 feet from north and 1,270 feet from west lines of section 30, block 48, T-8, T&P survey.

The Ellenburger flows were through perforations from 21,487 to 21,613 feet, and the Devonian gas came from the perforated section at 17,821-963 feet.

Estoril Extends Andrews Sector

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland No. 1-H University, three-fourths-mile southwest extension to the Hutek (Dean) field in Andrews County, finished for 60 barrels of 39-gravity oil, plus eight barrels of water.

The fluid was pumped from pay behind casing perforations from 9,662 to 9,818 feet.

Pay was fractured with 50,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio on the potential test was 1,500-1.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 20, block 7, University Lands survey and 19 miles east of Andrews.

Field In Gaines Gets Second Well

Western Reserves Oil Co. of Midland No. 1 Muriel T. McNeill has been completed as a pumper in the Block A-28 (Wichita-Albany) field of Gaines County.

Operator reported a 24-hour potential of 75 barrels of 36-gravity oil, plus 50 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,316 to 7,584 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 1,190-1.

The pay section was acidized with 5,500 gallons.

No. 1 McNeill is the second well in the Gaines County part of the field.

Terry Oil Area Gets Fourth Well

The Kingdom, North (Abo) field of extreme Northwest Terry County gained its fourth producer and a 1/2-mile northeast extension, with completion of Gulf Oil Corp. No. 49 Mallett Land & Cattle Co.

The 24-hour pumping potential (test gauged 188 barrels of 28.2-gravity oil and 14 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measuring 335-1).

Ford Urges End To 'Red Tape'

CHICAGO (AP) — Declaring America's economic machine is not running at top speed, President Ford today called for tax incentives for industry and an end to the "quicksand" of federal business regulation.

Ford said U.S. industry is starving for capital to expand but is strangled by inflation, restrictive tax laws and government red tape.

"Our financial ability to increase production is declining," the President said in remarks prepared for the convention of the American Hardware Manufacturers Assn. "This decline is curtailing needed growth in jobs and income and undermining our ability to compete internationally." He said his administration policies, if adopted by Congress, would lead to "increased jobs, income and full recovery."

Ford noted that despite a high unemployment rate, 85 million Americans are at work. He said the challenge is to create 14 million new jobs by 1980 "to meet the needs of our expanding population."

The President said that just before Congress recessed for August he proposed to stimulate capital investment through tax incentives. Those proposals included an increased investment tax credit, tax exemptions on preferred stock dividends and an end to "double taxation on dividends — in which both the corporation and stockholder are taxed."

Justice Watchdog Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi is considering appointing an internal Justice Department "watchdog" to investigate any future department scandals.

Levi and Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler Jr. are weighing the question while dealing with allegations of misdeeds in four major department agencies — the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The department as a whole and several of its branches have been brushed with accusations of scandal, some serious and some mere personality clashes, over the past three years.

The peak, of course, was Watergate and charges that department officials helped in the cover-up. The key department officials involved in the Watergate case all have resigned or retired, and their successors now search for ways to avoid being suspected of covering up crimes in the future.

Elliot L. Richardson, the attorney general who Nixon forced out of office during the Watergate case, proposed creating an inspector general's office as an independent investigator of department scandals.

His successor, William B. Saxbe, issued an order establishing such an operation last January. But the order took effect about two weeks before Saxbe resigned and never has been implemented.

Levi and Tyler now are considering whether to create a permanent full-time investigative office or to employ the same technique on a temporary basis in response to specific allegations.

Bell Telephone Operators Protest Working Conditions

Telephone operators picketed a row of cars parked in front of the telephone building on Missouri Street. He said, "I'm not the organizer of the pickets, but I have empathy with them. The operators want to be treated like adults — not like a bunch of kindergarten kids."

There are approximately 80 operators who are adversely affected by the "kid rules," he said, "about asking permission to take a restroom break. They're adults and want to be treated as adults," he said.

One of the pickets said negotiations have been going on with Bell management here for about a week concerning the operators' working conditions and break requirements, but so far "no one has been able to come up with any answers."

Four female sign carrying operators were protesting a requirement "that we have to ask permission to go to the restroom or leave our station to get a drink of water."

A male supervisor of operators was standing beside the pickets.

Middle East Peace Prospects Brighten

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Egypt today on his diplomatic shuttle amid high hopes for a new Sinai pact.

Kissinger went into session with President Anwar Sadat at his seaside summer residence at Mamoura, near Alexandria. Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and Vice President Hissi Mubarak also attended the meeting.

Prospects for an Israeli-Egyptian pact were brightened by an Israeli report that Egypt had agreed to another key point.

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon announced that Egypt had agreed to let Israel station its men in an electronic warning post on the western slope of the Gidi mountain pass, one of the two Sinai Desert gateways which Israel would return to the Egyptians. This would be located in the territory being returned to Egypt.

The post, at Umm Khashiba, would enable Israel to monitor Egyptian military moves and has been a key Israeli condition for relinquishing the Gidi and Mitla passes.

Allon said Egypt could have a corresponding surveillance post on the Israeli side of the Gidi pass to monitor Israeli military movements.

Kissinger was jovial and confident as he talked to newsmen late Sunday after five hours of negotiating with Israeli leaders.

"We are continuing to make progress and have not encountered any unexpected difficulties," he said. "On most major items agreement is close."

But he added: "You can run into difficulties, and I don't want to make a final judgment."

Allon said "a great deal of agreement has been reached" between Israel and the United States.

Ismael Fahmy, Egypt's foreign minister, met twice with U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts to review reports Kissinger sent from Israel. Presidential spokesman Tahseen Bashir said the Egyptian government considered the negotiations "fluid and promising."

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said Kissinger would have to shuttle at least twice more between Israel and Egypt before he could conclude a pact. This would take him at least until Wednesday.

Among the problems still to be cleared up were:

—Israel's demand that U.S. technicians help man six additional surveillance posts it wants set up in the Gidi and Mitla passes. "We are making progress in that direction," Kissinger said. But he also told the Israelis the U.S. Congress would have to authorize this use of American personnel.

—The line to which Israel will withdraw, and the distance that Egyptian forces will be able to advance after the pull-back. Kissinger said "differences are narrowing" on that point.

—The wording of the numerous clauses in the proposed agreement. Israel wants exact language that will leave no room for later "misunderstandings."

—Future American peace moves, chiefly on the Syrian front. U.S. officials say there is an understanding that Israel will negotiate another interim accord with Damascus when the Israeli-Egyptian agreement is settled, but the Israelis say they will make only insignificant "cosmetic" territorial concessions on the Syrian Golan Heights.

Gomes Plans To Dismiss Goncalves

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Reliable sources said today President Francisco da Costa Gomes has decided to dismiss his pro-Communist premier, Gen. Vasco Goncalves, and replace him with politically moderate military men.

The sources said the president had conveyed his intentions in confidence and was hoping Goncalves would agree to go on his own accord before other officers delivered on a threat to oust him by force.

The Communist party, which has spread its influence under the premier's patronage, was standing behind Goncalves with vague threats of mobilization to protect him. Some army units loyal to the premier were reported on alert.

There were more civilian demonstrations and show-of-strength military maneuvers by both sides in the power struggle.

Anti-Goncalves army units had access to most of the approaches to Lisbon, but a light artillery regiment reported to be one of the few units backing the premier commanded the main highway on the northern outskirts of the capital.

The pro-Goncalves regiment parked mobile howitzers at the gates of its barracks less than a mile from the Lisbon airport and stacked sandbags in defensive positions inside the camp. Antiaircraft emplacements were manned by soldiers in camouflage uniforms.

At Leiria, 75 miles north of Lisbon, besieged Communists used fireworks and rifle grenades Sunday to drive back more than 300 anti-Communists trying to burn down their party headquarters.

MC Offers Credits On TV

College credit courses will be offered by way of television this fall, according to Dr. Raymond H. Yell, Midland College's associate academic dean.

Four courses will be televised by KERA-TV, the Public Broadcasting System station in Dallas. The station's beam may be picked up by television sets fed by cable television input.

Courses to be offered include basics in business, English composition, American government and psychology.

Dr. Yell said each lesson will be televised "a minimum of three different times during the week."

"For example," he said, "the English course might be shown at 7 a.m. on Monday, repeated at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, and repeated again at 10 p.m. on Friday." The lessons will be presented by instructors from the Dallas County Community College District.

Those interested in signing up for the television courses may contact the Dean of Students' office at Midland College.

Tuition will be the same as for similar courses offered on campus. Tests will be given on campus three or four times during the semester.

LATE BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today sharply criticized Lockheed Aircraft Corp. for paying bribes to foreign officials to promote the sale of its planes.

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 15 passengers aboard an American Airlines DC10 jet were injured today when the plane blew two tires during take-off from Kennedy Airport, crashed through a fence and caught fire. The plane was carrying 216 passengers and a crew of 13. The fire was extinguished "within seconds," Port Authority police said.

Reagan Must Decide Soon, Backers Say

WRIGHTSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ronald Reagan must decide soon whether to openly challenge President Ford for the Republican nomination next year, Reagan strategists say. A quick announcement of the former California governor's plans is necessary to stop the erosion of support detected here at a weekend meeting of Southern and border state GOP chairmen, according to his supporters. "It's time for a decision," said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., head of the Citizens for Reagan committee. He said he would press Reagan to announce "no later than Nov. 15, but I really hope it will be about Oct. 1." Laxalt made the remarks at the close of the two-day closed meeting attended by 13 party chairmen and other GOP officials. Howard "Bo" Callaway,

Fort Worth Man Charged In Death

FORT WORTH (AP) — Deputy Police Chief J. H. Urey said Nelson first told officers Thursday evening that the child might have been abducted from his car outside an east side bar. Urey said Nelson had accompanied the girl and her mother, Mrs. Mary Beam, to Fort Worth from New Jersey about three months ago. Urey said Nelson first led officers to one area where police searched unsuccessfully for the body. "The guy said he was drunk and couldn't remember where he had placed it (the body)," Urey said. "He said he came home drunk from the beer joint and supposedly found her in a bathtub." Nelson said he devised the kidnapping story because he had been drinking heavily and had left the child alone in the bathtub at her home. Mrs. Beam was at work at the time.

Parr Begins Term At Indiana Prison

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Former Duval County, Texas, Judge Archer Parr has started serving a 10-year prison term at the U.S. penitentiary here. Parr arrived Friday at the prison, some five miles outside Terre Haute, a prison spokesman said today. Parr is one of 1,400 inmates at the prison and was to begin his "admission program" today. The penitentiary has all forms of security from maximum to minimum in addition to a farm labor camp, said Warden C.L. Bentsen. Federal authorities in Texas declined to say where Parr was taken after he left the Bexar County jail in San Antonio last week. U.S. Marshal Jim Johnson in San Antonio cited security precautions in refusing to identify the prison to which Parr was sent. Johnson had said he would identify the prison today. Parr is serving the sentence for a federal perjury conviction. In Terre Haute, Warden Benson said Parr was not in a holding unit, but in the main prison population, indicating that he is there to serve the full sentence. Asked if Parr would be able to carry out his plan to marry Mrs. Syleta Hawn of Alice, Benson said, "We'll have to look at each individual case." He added, however, that general marriages are not permitted unless a pregnancy is involved. Parr's plans to ask U.S. District Court Judge D.W. Suttle for permission to marry were cancelled by his sudden transfer from Midland last Friday. Suttle had recommended when he sentenced Parr that he serve his sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. Benson said he did not know why Parr was sent to Terre Haute instead, but said Leavenworth is generally used to incarcerate more hardened and violent criminals. Parr was convicted in May 1974 on all six counts of a perjury indictment returned in November 1973. The conviction was upheld last month by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Parr was in Midland for a bond hearing before Judge Suttle. Suttle refused to allow Parr to post bond while he appeals the conviction for lying before a grand jury. Parr is the nephew of the late George B. Parr, known as the Duke of Duval because of his stronghold on the county political machinery. Archer Parr was the heir apparent to George Parr's political kingdom until George Parr committed suicide earlier this year. George Parr himself was facing a federal prison sentence at the time of his death.

Idiotic Expenditures

Chances are you didn't know that Congress, within more or less recent months, has authorized $375,000 for the Pentagon to study the Frisbee.

Now, the Frisbee, just in case you didn't know, is a plastic disc several inches in diameter which is sailed between players by a flip of the wrist.

Surely the Pentagon has reason for conducting such a study, but the information is not readily available.

Then there is an appropriation of $121,000 to find out why people say "ain't."

This one makes us wonder just a bit more as to why the study is being made and the benefits to be derived from the facts once they are uncovered.

And $70,000 went to study the smell of the perspiration of Australian aborigines. Another $28,361 was authorized for the purchase of an odor-measuring machine for this particular project.

Then there was a $20,000 appropriation to investigate the German cockroach. And yet another $5,000 for the analysis of violin varnish.

Just for good measure, here are a few more of the prize fund authorizations: $37,314 for a potato chip machine for the Moroccans; $6,000 to study Polish bisexual frogs; $20,000 to study the blood groups of Polish Zlotnika pigs; $5,000 to learn about Yugoslavian intertidal hermit crabs.

But this did not complete the list furnished the editor by a Reporter-Telegram reader.

The list also included $2,458 to train Good Humor peddlers; $17,000 for a dry-cleaning plant for the Bedouins; $71,000 to compile the history of comic books, and $19,300 for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to find out why children fall off tricycles.

Yes, these items sound idiotic, and most of them are, but they are so small when compared to the billions of dollars being spent on this and that by the federal government that they get by almost unnoticed in congressional action.

"Something must be done to stop such spending before we go bankrupt," the reader said. What can we average American citizens do to put an end to it?"

About the only thing we can do is to voice opposition to our representatives in Congress. The only trouble with this, insofar as Texans are concerned, is the fact that most members of the Texas delegation in Congress, particularly those from West Texas, already are doing their best to curb spending.

Seems like a hopeless situation. And it will be until more and more responsible citizens across the width and breadth of the land rise up in protest. This may not be too long in coming.

You may recall that Congressman George Mahon said here last week that "there must be a turnaround (in deficit federal spending) or we're in for a crash."

Serious is the word for it, and it is no wonder that people are concerned.

Congressman Mahon, however, expressed the opinion that a turnaround trend has been established and that the brakes on overspending will be applied before it is too late.

We join him in hoping for the best.

WASHINGTON — "The mood of the Senate in the light of Watergate was to write tough restrictions," asserted Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., of reformist measures over political campaign contributions.

Those are Cannon's own words when, as chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, he castigated then-Assst. Atty. Gen. Roger G. Dixon on Sept. 21, 1973, when Dixon urged caution on reforming the practice of political campaign contributions.

In general, the Democrats, with the help of the press and liberal activist groups like Common Cause, have focused their fire on Republicans and businessmen while members of their own party and organized labor have been free to collect questionable, if not illegal, contributions for the 1976 campaign.

to the senator's own financial statements. A quarter of a million is a huge amount of campaign cash for a small state like Nevada.

In fact, Cannon has not only amassed this amount 17 months before his 1976 reelection bid, but his list of contributors include two of President Ford's closest advisers: David Packard who gave $500 and Clark MacGregor, $100.

Besides heading the Senate committee that spearheaded reform of campaign contributions in the wake of Watergate, Cannon is also chairman of the Aviation subcommittee of Senate Commerce and chairman of the subcommittee on Aviation of the full Senate Armed Services.

Both bodies have powerful influence over this nation's commercial aviation and defense contracts. David Packard was formerly with the Defense Department.

Cannon's own financial statements, moreover, show that he received individual campaign contributions ranging from $1,000 to $200 from the top executives of commercial airlines like Eastern and National and defense contractors Martin-Marietta and Aerojet General. We offer eight names and amounts from a list of 35:

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department used recklessly inaccurate transcripts of secret tapes to help convict Oklahoma's former Gov. David Hall in a nationally publicized bribery trial.

The official transcripts are loaded with serious mistakes. For example, the word "most" is transcribed as "less," and "disobeying" comes out as "just being." Throughout the transcripts, innocent words appear incriminating and vice versa, lengthy tape gaps aren't mentioned and one person's statements are put in the mouth of another.

Hall's own conversations, recorded without his knowledge while he was still in office, were used to help convict him. Yet part of a key conversation, which tended to exonerate him, strangely was omitted from the transcripts that were used at the trial.

The enormity of the errors and omissions in the Hall transcripts — combined with similar mistakes we discovered in an unrelated Washington criminal case — casts doubt on the convictions of hundreds of suspects around the country.

For it has been common practice to tap telephones, bug rooms and rig informers with body recorders to gather evidence. The transcripts of these tapes have been used in countless proceedings, ranging from narcotics trials to Richard Nixon's impeachment hearings.

Earlier, we reviewed 150,000 words in FBI transcripts, which had been stamped as "Evidence" and had been circulated to prosecutors and courts. We found more than 30,000 errors, some serious enough to jeopardize the rights of the accused.

Wherever such transcripts have been used, the danger exists that the suspects have been improperly jailed unless their lawyers took the unusual pains of going over the government's transcripts word for word and comparing them with the original tapes, as we have done.

A veteran Justice Department lawyer, whose job would be jeopardized if we identified him, has confirmed that the "typical, normal transcription" is a "shoddy job." He considers it "horrendous" that suspects may go to prison on such fraudulent evidence.

In the Oklahoma case, Hall was indicted shortly after he stepped down as governor last January. He and Dallas financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor were charged with attempted bribery and related felonies.

Taylor allegedly offered $50,000 for Hall's help in securing a contract. The evidence against them was obtained largely from Oklahoma's Secretary of State John Rogers, who allowed his telephone to be tapped and permitted FBI agents to rig him with a body recorder and miniature transmitter.

In return for his cooperation, Rogers was granted immunity from prosecution on tax and securities charges.

The Rogers tapes were transcribed by the FBI, the U.S. Attorney's office and Oklahoma state personnel. The transcripts were used, mistakes and all, to get the two defendants indicted. Then the same transcripts were given to the defense attorneys who thus relied on tainted evidence to prepare their cases.

Hall and Taylor were prosecuted by U.S. Attorney William Burkett, a Nixon

U.S. Keeping Low Profile In Portugal

By ROWLAND EVANS

LISBON — The hidden danger to U.S. policy in the Portuguese revolution is that suspicious military officers, radical and strongly inclined to the Third World and away from the democratic West, will seize on any sign of pressure as a signal that Washington is trying to subvert the revolution.

That is precisely what the highly organized, deeply hated Communist party (PCP) is plotting. With the numerically dominant Socialists and Popular Democrats pressing for a Western-style, pluralistic government, the ruling military radicals would turn even more sharply toward the PCP to "rescue" the revolution from Western intrigue if Washington played a public hand.

Thus "Chile" has become the repeated refrain here of untutored military radicals whose political perception came from years of fighting Portugal's colonial wars in black Africa: "Be on guard or America and the CIA will steal your revolution as they did in Chile."

Such rancid suspicions at a time when the Central Intelligence Agency has been virtually destroyed in trial-by-headline may seem ridiculous, but in fact they have flattened opportunities for normal American diplomacy. Indeed, the shrewd U.S. ambassador here, Frank Carlucci, is well aware that the Communist-leaning prime minister, Vasco Goncalves, and his political confidant, PCP boss Alvaro Cunhal, would resort to anything to uncover an American "plot" aimed at the revolution.

Rowland Evans

Since no plot exists, the Goncalves-Cunhal plotters will try to invent one.

One such "plot" — declaration of independence by the Azores — is no plot at all. At this writing, the Azores could break away from Lisbon at any hour and Washington could do nothing to prevent it. Yet the political reaction inside the Armed Forces Movement, stimulated by Cunhal, would be an immediate charge that the breakup was instigated by the ugly beast across the Atlantic.

Likewise, if the right-wing underground "Army for the Liberation of Portugal," presumably based somewhere in Spain and probably only a corporal's guard, should reveal itself inside Portugal, the U.S. would immediately be blamed. Communist indoctrination of young military officers and enlisted men has created a rich soil for planting such anti-American seeds.

This indoctrination has made alarming progress under the notorious, Communist-controlled Fifth Division of the General Staff, the revolution's propaganda arm. A few weeks ago, an officer on a Portuguese submarine was overheard talking on the telephone to Adm. Vitor Crespo. Crespo was the navy's top member on the Armed Forces Council (but has now been suspended for signing the Gen. Melo Antunes anti-Communist manifesto).

Caught talking to Adm. Crespo, the submarine officer was reported to the ship's skipper, who was ordered to "get rid of" the officer. The sub commander refused. Within days the commander himself had been relieved — an indication of the climate of suspicions rampant in the military.

There will be no surprise here if the PCP manufactures a right-wing coup d'etat against Goncalves. What the Communists badly need is another March 11, when a pathetically weak coup against Goncalves instantly failed. But it had this traumatic effect: it gave Goncalves and the PCP a powerful argument with untutored military radicals that right-wing fascists, backed by Washington, were plotting their overthrow.

Accordingly, American policy here has been and will continue to be played in the lowest key to avoid entanglement in any genuine intention (intention for a coup d'etat or, more likely, any inventiona (an invented coup).

Some non-U.S. Western diplomats talk seriously about the European "inoculation theory" of letting Portugal go Communist. With no Soviet troops to enforce Communist rule, Communist Portugal would be such a brutal, murderous disaster in the long run that it would "inoculate" Spain — and all Western Europe — against flirting with any possibility of future Communist rule.

Such a policy would hand Moscow this dilemma: throw all its resources into saving Communist rule here, making a mockery of the lofty sentiments of Helsinki and terminating detente, or let Communism's first Western European takeover die an ignominious death.

The "inoculation" theory has no American support. Yet the ablest U.S. experts are categorically certain that one part of it is correct: even if the PCP is able to penetrate all major control points of the government, military, labor and the media and seize total control, civil war, not Communism, would be the inevitable result.

But for the time being, the U.S. is keeping the lowest profile, as the formless revolution tries to decide where it is going next.

Arabs Seek Conference Backing For Ouster Of Israel From U.N.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Nineteen Arab nations and the Palestine Liberation Organization asked the Third World conference opening here today to join in a demand for Israel's expulsion from the United Nations.

The request to the conference of 78 self-styled nonaligned nations, which defied warnings from the United States and came in the midst of a new U.S. peace effort in the Middle East, was unanimously adopted Sunday night at a four-hour Arab caucus, a Syrian spokesman said.

The Syrian official, Mouaffek el-Allaf, predicted the resolution would be adopted "by an overwhelming majority" of the conference.

This Syrian proposal and a Palestinian draft submitted earlier to the conference accused Israel of violating the U.N. charter by continuing to occupy Arab lands seized in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

"If the Israelis understand the meaning of this resolution, then they will work for peace," said el-Allaf, indicating that the purpose of the proposal was to pressure the Israelis into relinquishing more territory.

The Arab proposals seemed likely to arouse the impatience of influential nations at the conference anxious to give priority to economic issues of more importance to them. There was considerable feeling that India and other non-Arab countries were primarily interested in forging a unified strategy for the special United Nations meeting on raw materials opening next week.

Some Africans said their delegations had reservations about the anti-Israeli campaign. Argentina among others was known to oppose it. Most of the foreign ministers also were keeping a close watch on developments in Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's latest shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, delegates from four Communist Asian countries accused the United States of imperialist economic and political aggression in their area.

Slayton Surgery Scheduled Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP) — Donald K. Slayton, an astronaut who has spent most of his space career battling medical problems, is scheduled to enter a cancer hospital here tonight for exploratory surgery on a lung.

The 51-year-old astronaut will check into M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute Monday evening and undergo the surgery on Tuesday.

Doctors recommended the surgery after a sophisticated X ray revealed a small lesion on the astronaut's left lung.

A space agency doctor said surgeons will remove a wedge-shaped specimen from the lesion and it will immediately be examined by a pathologist.

If the specimen is benign, no further surgery is required. If it is malignant, however, the doctors said part of a lobe of the lung will be removed.

The lesion was discovered on X rays taken of Slayton during his recovery from exposure to toxic gas. Slayton made his first spaceflight last month as a member of the American crew of the Apollo-Soyuz mission.

During their return to earth, Slayton and his crewmates, Thomas P. Stafford and Vance D. Brand, breathed toxic gas that was sucked into their Apollo craft.

They were hospitalized at the Tripler Army Hospital in Hawaii to recover from the effects of the gas.

The lesion showed up as a faint shadow on an X ray. A more sophisticated X ray, called a tomograph, was taken and confirmed the presence of a lesion.

Slayton is one of America's original seven astronauts, but he has spent most of his career grounded because of an irregular heart beat.

He was cleared for space flight in 1972, after being grounded for 10 years, and made his first flight on Apollo-Soyuz.

Panel Challenges Lockheed Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional panel is challenging Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s assertion that business reasons prevent the company from disclosing the names of foreign persons and groups receiving more than $22 million in Lockheed payoffs.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and Lockheed chairman Daniel J. Haughton testified today before the Senate Banking Committee probing the payments that Lockheed acknowledged making since 1970.

Simon chairs a government board created to oversee a $250-million government loan-guarantee granted Lockheed in 1971 when the company was in a precarious financial condition.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the committee, said in announcing the hearings that Lockheed may have violated the terms of the loan agreement by making the payments.

The company has declined to say who received the money, claiming such disclosure "could have a serious adverse impact on several hundred million dollars of the company's present backlog and could result in a material adverse impact with respect to the company's future operations."

Lockheed, asserting the payments "are consistent with practices engaged in by numerous other companies abroad, including many of its competitors," defended the practice as "necessary in consummating certain foreign sales."

However, Proxmire has contended that "the public is entitled to know the full details of these payoffs, the names of the recipients, the countries and the items that are being sold through a system of bribery."

Lockheed now has about $1.6 billion worth of orders in some 30 foreign nations for its airplanes, chiefly the L1011 TriStar jet passenger plane and the C130 cargo plane. About 12 percent of all its sales are to foreign governments.

The company's acknowledgment earlier this month that it made the payments came after previous denials by Lockheed officials that such practices had gone on. Lockheed also has denied making any domestic political contributions with corporate money, which is illegal under federal and several state laws.

Meanwhile, government investigators said they had not been planning to question Robert Neil Waters, vice president and treasurer of Lockheed, who apparently shot himself to death at his Los Angeles-area home Friday. Waters, 54, had joined the company in 1954.

Altogether the toll mounted to 24 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including 16 in traffic accidents and eight homicides.

Three cars piled up during heavy rain in the worst crash, which occurred Sunday afternoon just north of Conroe on Interstate 45. Mine Kills 2 Americans In Ethiopia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Americans were killed when a land mine exploded as they drove between two communication sites on a road near Asmara, Ethiopia, a State Department spokesman said Sunday.

The men, employed by Collins International Service Co., were identified by a company spokesman in Fort Worth, Texas as Aldworth R. Brown Jr., 27, of Fort Worth and William D. Trower, 25, of Vandalia, Mo.

The two were working under a Navy contract at a naval communications unit in Asmara and the accident occurred Saturday, the State Department spokesman said.

"The mine was placed on a road also traveled by Ethiopians, including members of the Ethiopian second division," the spokesman said.

The Collins official in Fort Worth said the mine probably was planted by Eritrean insurgents who are in rebellion against the central Ethiopian government.

Mobil Chairman Says Immediate Decontrol Would 'Shock Recovery'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of Mobil Oil Corp. says oil price controls should be gradually relaxed rather than abruptly next weekend to avoid a "shock to America's fragile economic recovery."

Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of the third largest U.S. oil company, said "nobody really knows" what the total economic effect will be if controls end suddenly but it "could stimulate higher prices, higher wages and perhaps some loss of jobs."

Warner, in a letter to members of Congress, said a gradual end of price controls over several years "cushions the impact of higher prices on the consumer over a period of time."

Warner also criticized proposals that would impose a windfall-profits tax on the oil companies if controls end suddenly. Such a tax could fail to achieve its objectives in the future because today's windfall profits "may become tomorrow's vital earnings," Warner said.

Price controls that place a $5.25-a-barrel ceiling on about 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil automatically expire Aug. 31, allowing the price to climb to the unregulated world price of around $12 a barrel.

Congress has approved a six-month extension of the controls. President Ford has promised to veto that measure, and administration energy experts maintain the economic impact of decontrol will not be severe.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns predicted Sunday that gasoline would increase by 2 cents to 2 1/2 cents a gallon if oil price controls end suddenly. Ford removes his $2-a-barrel tariff on imported oil and there are windfall profits taxes on the oil companies.

Congress is scheduled to vote on whether to override the veto shortly after the lawmakers return from their August vacation on Sept. 3.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, in a speech Sunday at Libby Dam, Mont., with Ford sharing the rostrum, said he hoped the President would not veto the extension.

President Ford Considers Quasi-Public Corporation

By DOUGLAS WATSON The Washington Post WASHINGTON — President Ford is considering a proposal to establish a quasi-public federal corporation that could borrow up to $100 billion from private investors to finance projects aimed at making the United States self-sufficient in energy.

Vice president Rockefeller and Commerce Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton presented the proposal for an "Energy Resources Finance Corp." to the President on Aug. 9, the day before the President left for Vail, Colo., Ford Administration officials said Friday.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said that the proposed corporation is just one of several ideas presented to President Ford for a way to provide the investment capital needed by a wide variety of projects that seek to make this nation independent of foreign energy sources.

Nessen stressed that President Ford has made no decisions on any of the proposals, while asking that further staff studies be presented to him upon his return to Washington.

A Ford Administration official said the idea for the proposed corporation originated in the President's Domestic Council which is headed by Vice President Rockefeller who apparently is its chief sponsor.

The proposal, which would require congressional approval, has been prepared as a bill of more than 20 pages, the official said.

The quasi-public corporation is seen by its backers as a way to encourage much-needed energy-seeking projects without adding to the federal government's debts.

"Ideally, this would be at no net cost to the United States," one administration official said, "as the public, as do such federal corporations as the Communications Satellite Corp. or the Federal National Mortgage Association, would hold all $103.501 billion worth of stock in the quasi-public corporation. The federal government then would sell bonds, probably through the Federal Financing Bank, to raise funds from private investors."

Ford Administration officials said the proposed corporation would use the money to make loans for many different promising energy-seeking projects that might otherwise have difficulty obtaining sufficient capital.

The proposal would place a $100-billion ceiling on outstanding loans that the corporation could make.

A New York banker who specializes on energy said Friday that projections of the total investment needed to make this nation self-sufficient in energy range from $40 to more than $60 billion annually through 1985.

The proposal includes a provision to have the corporation automatically phased out of existence 10 years after its creation.

The proposal is not specific about who would be on the corporation's board of directors, but one Ford Administration official said that most likely the board would include both public officials and private individuals, all to be appointed by the President.

The proposal would free the corporation from all but the broadest congressional direction, Civil Service requirements or other limitations.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Commerce Committee's subcommittee on energy and power, said Friday he has "great reservations about a proposal that is so limited."

Dingell, a leader in Congress on energy matters, said, "What is needed is a public corporation to develop energy sources on public lands," not the Ford administration proposal, "whose only real beneficiaries would be the bond houses."

However, Gerald Parsky, assistant secretary of the Treasury, said that Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and his aides are convinced that the needed capital for energy projects "must come from the private sector."

Parsky said Treasury officials will support the proposed quasi-public corporation to the extent that it provides for such investment. A Commerce Department spokesman confirmed that Commerce Secretary Morton is a sponsor of the proposal.

State Asks Dismissal Of Civil Rights Suit

DALLAS (AP) — Lawyers for the State Securities Commission and the Texas attorney general's office were expected to seek dismissal today of a lawsuit brought against the state by five oil and gas investment firms.

The firms allege in the suit filed in state district court here that their civil rights have been violated because officers of the two state agencies leaked confidential information to the news media.

All five plaintiffs are firms which fall under a federal exemption permitting them to operate with a minimum of federal supervision.

The exemption, called "Schedule D," permits the firms not to file application to operate within the state and not to disclose their financial structure.

Close Vote Seen In Mississippi Runoff Election Tuesday

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—William Winter, the lieutenant governor, and Cliff Finch, a former prosecutor who did manual labor in a "working man's" campaign, planned final rounds of handshaking today before their showdown in Tuesday's runoff for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Winter trounced Finch in the 1971 lieutenant governor's contest and led him 286,652 to 253,829 in the Aug. 5 primary, but the runoff is expected to be a close race.

This campaign has been Mississippi's first in generations without race as a major issue. Both candidates won endorsements from black leaders and have actively sought black votes, which will account for about a quarter of Tuesday's expected turnout of 675,000 to 700,000.

Winter led the first primary in the 1967 governor's race but lost the runoff to John Bell Williams when segregationists tagged Winter a liberal on the racial issue.

A key to the runoff will be the 179,472 voters who cast ballots for Dist. Atty. Maurice Dantin, who finished third in the Aug. 5 primary. Dantin has not made an endorsement for the runoff.

Former Dantin campaign leaders have joined the camps of both Winter and Finch. Both runoff candidates say they expect to pick up a large slice of his votes.

However, both Finch and Dantin campaigned against the political "establishment" in the first primary and they described Winter as part of that establishment.

Besides the governor's race, the second primary ballot will include runoffs for nomination to four other state offices and to district, legislative and local offices.

The Democratic nominee for governor will face Republican Gil Carmichael, who was unopposed for nomination and is expected to make a strong race in the Nov. 4 general election. The November ballot will also include black independent Henry J. Kirksey of Jackson.

Winter, 52, has served as a legislator, state tax collector and state treasurer. He is a Grenada native and now is a Jackson lawyer.

Finch, 48, a former legislator and district attorney, entered state politics in 1971, losing to Winter in the lieutenant governor's race.

Finch has campaigned as a "working man's candidate" by performing manual labor such as running bulldozers and draglines. He says he'll continue the practice occasionally if he's elected.

The campaign's closing days were enlivened by allegations that Finch got contributions from organized crime and a man fighting extradition on a murder charge. Finch strongly denied both reports and accused journalists of slanting their stories against him.

Finch has rejected challenges to debate Winter and has avoided news conferences and interviews with reporters. He says his handshaking is the best way to communicate with voters.

Winter has denounced Finch's "working" campaign as gimmickry and has stressed his record. He reminded voters that as a legislator in the 1950s, he led the fight for the state's first workmen's compensation act.
