

Amarillo Has Crude Strike In Glasscock

Amarillo Oil Co., operating from Midland, has completed No. 1 Hubbard as a Wichita-Albany discovery in Glasscock County, five miles east of Spraberry production in the Trend Area.

It had a 24-hour flowing potential of 107.5 barrels of 37.2-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 2,605-1.

Production was through an 18-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,212-7,268 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons. Drilled as an outpost to production in the Trend Area, total depth is 7,850 feet, with a 4 1/2-inch liner hung from 2,770-7,850 feet. The plugged-back depth is 7,365 feet.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 2,681 feet: Spraberry, 6,900; Wichita-Albany, 7,202; Dean, 7,558 feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 18, block 34, T-5-S, T&P survey, 12 miles southwest of Garden City.

Midland Concern Finals Discovery

W&W Production, Inc., Midland, has completed No. 2-A Todd, a Queen gas pay opener in the Howard Draw, Northeast (1,165 San Andres) gas field of Crockett County.

Calculated, absolute open flow was 540,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 870-880 feet, after the producing zone had been acidized with 500 gallons.

Total depth is 1,100 feet and the plugged-back depth, 881 feet, with 5 1/2-inch pipe set on bottom. It is 660 feet from south and 900 feet from east lines of the southwest quarter of section 36, block WX, GC&SF survey, 20 miles northwest of Ozona.

Palo Pinto Well Takes Potential

Second Palo Pinto producer and location east extension to that pay in the Briley field of Runnels County has been completed by Richard R. Berry of Carrollton.

No. 1 Orgon finaled on the pump for 30 barrels of 48-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio of 1,467-1, through perforations at 3,694-3,699 feet. The pay had been acidized with 1,750 gallons.

A reentry project, slated for tests of the Gardner sand, it originally was drilled by Jocelyn Varn Oil Co. as No. 1 Yates, and plugged and abandoned in 1957 at 4,407 feet.

It is 2,246 feet from south and 2,425 feet from east lines of F. J. Ford survey 318, in block 64, four miles northeast of Winters. The discovery, completed in 1956, was Lone Star Producing Co. No. 1 Stoker.

House Passes Bill Extending Controls 60 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House passed a bill today to continue domestic oil price controls until Oct. 31 to gain time to hammer out an energy compromise with President Ford. Democrats indicated they do not expect the President to object to a 60-day extension in place of the 45-day extension to which he had given conditional approval.

House approval came by voice vote. The bill had been approved earlier at a special meeting of the House Commerce Committee. Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said that if President Ford were allowed to immediately decontrol oil prices it would fuel inflation and there would be "revolution in America."

The House action came only one day after the Senate failed to override President Ford's veto of a six-month extension of oil controls. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the energy and power subcommittee, said that if President Ford accepts the extension of controls he must sign the measure "with no strings attached."

Dingell said the President must not insist on any qualifications relating to price ceilings or on how long the period of decontrol should take. The House-passed extension is retroactive to Sept. 1. Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, told the House it would be difficult administratively, and therefore costly, to have control authority expire in the middle of a month.

Brown said that when the House resumes consideration of the main energy bill, which is expected to do next Wednesday, "then should we reach agreement... any further extension could be drafted into that bill." Earlier, Speaker Carl Albert was asked at a news conference whether he thinks the prospects for a compromise between Ford and the Democratic Congress will be any better 60 days from now.

"I certainly hope so," Albert said. "The Democles sword hangs over us now. Complete decontrol is now a matter of law." The House is expected to take up the energy bill next week, while the Senate may act earlier on the House-approved extension.

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., told newsmen he expects the House to pass a basic energy bill by the end of next week. After the Senate fell six votes short of the two-thirds needed to override Ford's veto Wednesday, the House Democratic leadership immediately began work on a 60-day price control bill. Ford has indicated a willingness to consider a gradual removal of the controls. "If the Congress wished to achieve decontrol more gradually I will work with the members to achieve that objective," Ford said. By all accounts, the battle over energy pricing policy involves billions of consumer dollars. The White House says the net effect of Ford's program would be a three-cent hike in the (See HOUSE Page 2A)

Oilmen React Favorably To Senate Vote On Veto

By The Associated Press Oil industry spokesmen and the Texas Railroad Commission reacted favorably—and predictably—today to decontrol of petroleum prices.

President Ford vetoed a six-month extension of oil price controls and the U.S. Senate Wednesday voted 61-39 to sustain his veto.

Producers in the oil-rich Permian Basin of West Texas said they can look forward to an increase of $5 million a day in old oil revenues.

Excising controls on the price consumers pay for petroleum products means a boon for producers but Democrats have argued "America's working people" will pay heavily. Ed Thompson, vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said the end of price control on old oil will mean 3.2 million barrels a day of domestic oil will no longer be sold at its regulated price of $5.25 a barrel. Unregulated oil is now bringing $11 a barrel.

"If we could keep Congress in permanent recess we would be in pretty good shape," Thompson said. Thompson said increased income on oil will not necessarily line the pockets of oilmen. "That money is not all profit. It's income that will be rolled back into the industry for more exploration, production and expansion products," he said. Midland independent oil producer Bob Yeates said decontrol will "help the majors more immediately but a healthy industry is good for the whole country. Decontrol is a must even though it will cramp the style of the independents a little. The overall picture will be good."

Yeates questioned, however, the windfall profits tax which he said is "like the government taking it out of one hand and putting it into another." Frank Stainton, a spokesman for Shell Oil in Houston, said, "Shell feels that a six-month extension of federal oil price control is not in the best interest of the nation or of the oil industry. We support President Ford's veto of the extension and hope that the president and Congress will be able to work out a meaningful national energy plan."

An Exxon USA spokesman at Houston, Tom Target, said, "Exxon USA believes the immediate elimination of controls and the return to free market conditions in the petroleum industry are highly desirable in order to stimulate domestic energy production, encourage energy conservation and reduce the United States' dependence on imported petroleum. It is also clear that a phased-out approach spread over three or four years runs the risk of three or four more years of uncertainty and indecision."

With price controls lifted, Jack Elam, head of the Permian Basin Graduate Center at Midland, said, "Those 20 to 30 rigs we have stacked around (See OILMEN Page 2A)

Good Says 75 Executives Death Targets

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Sandra Good, a disciple of mass murderer Charles Manson, said today that an "International People's Court of Retribution" has marked for assassination scores of business executives whose firms damage the environment. Miss Good, 30, is the roommate of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, another Manson follower, who was indicted by a federal grand jury here Wednesday for the attempted assassination of President Ford.

In an interview in her apartment, Miss Good gave The Associated Press a list of about 75 names of persons she said were marked for death. She identified them as executives primarily in the power, lumber, oil, food and chemical industries. Miss Good gave the AP a statement saying, "the International Peoples' Court of Retribution is a wave of assassins. It is made up of several thousand people throughout the world who love the earth, the children and their own lives. They have been silently watching executives and chairmen of boards—and their wives—of companies and industries that in any way harm the air, water, earth and wildlife."

She declined to say where the names came from. She said the wives of executives who are marked for death are being watched as they keep social dates. Asked who the assassins are, she said "they're underground." Asked who would order the killings, she said, "They move of their own accord—necessity dictates policy."

In an interview with AP Radio, Miss Good said that executives of any company which destroys the earth, water, trees, air or wildlife are potential targets of assassination. She said executives of "Exxon, ITT, Standard Oil, Union Oil, lumber company executives, Gulf Oil, must get out of the country or you'll be killed. We want to live, you maggots, you monsters. Get out of the country or you'll be killed."

The six businessmen Miss Good named in her interview were: Floyd Lewis of New Orleans, president of Middle South Utilities, Inc., which the woman said threatened the people by planning to build nuclear reactors; Gordon Ryan of New Orleans, an attorney and executive with Starr Broadcasting Co.; Fred Kaiser of Atlanta, a candy manufacturer; Herbert Grey of Atlanta; William Berlin of Atlanta; and Richard Davis of Houston, Tex., an oilman.

Judge Ejects 'Squeaky'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, charged with trying to assassinate President Ford, was ejected from a federal courtroom during her arraignment today after she demanded that the judge "save the Redwood trees" and told him: "The gun is pointed, your honor."

Miss Fromme, clad in the red "nun's robe" she has worn in dedication to her leader, convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, repeated twice, "The gun is pointed." Then she told the judge, "Whether it goes off is up to you."

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride, presiding (Related Photo Page 11B) over the arraignment, ordered her removed from the courtroom when she refused to stop a rambling dissertation on the need to save Redwood trees. She was taken from the courtroom without entering a plea to the federal attempted assassination charge. At today's proceeding, the judge tried to discourage Miss Fromme, 26, from speaking out, telling her she might prejudice her chance of a fair trial. He urged against any political statements. But Miss Fromme insisted on speaking. "There is an army of young people and children who want to clean up this earth, the Redwood trees," she began. As the judge interrupted, she went on, "I want you to order the corps of government engineers to buy up the parks"

The judge told her that her statements had nothing to do with her trial, but Miss Fromme declared, "You have jurisdiction over the Redwood trees. Will you think about it?" The judge said he would, but it would not influence his judgment in the case. Then she mentioned the trees again and declared, "The gun is pointed, your honor. The gun is pointed. Whether it goes off is up to you."

At that point MacBride ordered her removed from the courtroom.

Bob Bullock Calls Off Tax Raids In Midland

AUSTIN—Plans for Comptroller Bob Bullock's "Raiders" to close down several businesses in Midland, San Angelo and Odessa for delinquent sales taxes were called off today when several of the delinquents came in and settled up.

Bullock said that between 15 and 20 of the worst delinquents in the Midland and Odessa area either paid off their liability or made satisfactory payment arrangements in the wake of warnings that they would be shut down.

Other property seizures were still in progress in El Paso, San Antonio and other places, Bullock said.

Bullock said delinquents who took themselves off the list certainly weren't all the delinquents in the Midland, Odessa and San Angelo area, but they represented the oldest, most aggravated cases. "There are others and we will be back," Bullock said.

Bullock said at least $40,000 in cash payments had been made by delinquents in the area.

Other property seizures were still in progress in El Paso, San Antonio and other places, Bullock said.

Aides Didn't Want To Bug Him With It

WASHINGTON (AP) - A former State Department official said today his staff had enough information to predict the outbreak of the 1973 Middle East war, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's aides didn't want to disturb him with it.

Ray Cline, who was the director of the State Department's intelligence bureau at the time of the war, told the House Intelligence Committee that his staff concluded the night before the war that "hostilities probably were imminent."

But Cline said he was unable to get that information to Kissinger, who was in New York City, because Kissinger's staff "did not want to trouble him."

By the time the message was relayed to Kissinger the next morning, Cline said, the war had started. A Central Intelligence Agency official told the committee that it was "an intelligence failure" that allowed the U.S. government (See KISSINGER Page 2A)

Museum Officials Making Every Effort To Accommodate Largest Crowd Possible

Officials of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame said this morning that every effort is being made to accommodate the largest crowd possible for Saturday's 5 p. m. opening day ceremonies.

The attraction of having the President of the United States as the dedication speaker, and the museum itself, are certain to draw one of the largest crowds ever to Midland, Russell Ramsland, president of the museum's board of trustees, said.

It was announced this morning that the City of Midland has agreed to cut an access road from State 349 (Big Spring Street) to the museum's northeast parking lot provided by the county.

Members of the Midland Police Department, other law enforcement agencies and volunteer organizations will be on hand to direct traffic. "We don't expect to have too difficult a time seeing that everyone gets comfortably parked in time to hear the President," Homer Fort, museum director, said.

The President has not indicated that he will curtail his practice of mingling with the crowd at the museum. After landing at Midland Regional Air Terminal, he will drive directly to the museum. An eight-foot-high chain link fence at the airport will prevent any handshaking. "The best place to see the President will be at the museum," Fort said. Fort said that special provisions will be made for wheelchair patients.

"These persons will leave today to a drilling site just across the Texas-New Mexico line 16 miles northeast of Orla where her grandfather drilled for water in 1855-58 as part of a military mission. Her hosts for the trip are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Denham of Midland. Lee Myers of Carlsbad, N.M., a military historian, will meet the party at the drillsite. While in Midland, Miss Pope's host will be Mrs. John P. Butler. "We are very appreciative of all the professional and volunteer help we have had in an attempt to make the visitors' attendance at the ceremonies as comfortable as possible," Ramsland said.

The museum dedication, because of the President's appearance, will be one of the most thoroughly covered events of its kind, according to Fort. He said that 75 press people will be in the President's party, and 125 regional news people have requested admittance credentials.

Hunt lawyers moved for dismissal of the indictment, citing a technicality—that an unauthorized Justice Department official questioned witnesses before the grand jury which indicted the brothers.

Energy Crisis For Real, Positive Approach Needed

Robert O. Mills of Amarillo told members of the Downtown Lions Club at their Wednesday noon meeting in the American Legion Hall that the energy crisis is for real and that "we need a positive approach to the problem now."

Mills, public relations director of the Pioneer Corporation, said that this particular section of the country is in a much better position energy-wise than most of the nation, but that the situation can change overnight.

He said that Pioneer Natural Gas Co., due to its far-sightedness in acquiring and developing new gas reserves, is in a position to take care of its customers for a number of years, but again "the situation can change." He pointed out also that the cost of natural gas is going up and will continue to go up.

Mills, quoting from a nationwide poll which shows that only 24 per cent of the people feel that there is an energy shortage, said this is a real problem.

"Our people in West Texas are considerably better informed on the subject," he added.

Testifying before the House Intelligence Committee, Parmenter read excerpts from an Oct. 3, 1973 report of intelligence agencies, but he refused to read a sentence outlining the Defense Intelligence Agency's prediction. The report was made three days before the outbreak of the war.

J. S. Johnson Dies At Odessa

Jimmie Sam Johnson Jr., 43, of Midland died Tuesday in an Odessa hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Church of God in Christ in Big Spring with Elder W. W. Witherspoon, Church of God in Christ minister, Midland, officiating. Interment will be in Mt. Olive Memorial Park in Big Spring under direction of River-Welch Funeral Home.

Born June 22, 1932 in Big Spring, he had been a Midland resident for three years and was employed by Town and Country Barber Shop. He was a member of the Church of God in Christ.

Survivors include the father, Jimmie Sam Johnson Sr. of Midland; the stepmother, Mrs. Aquilla Evans of Midland; five sisters, Mrs. Delores Johnson, Mrs. Francis Dunn, both of Fort Stockton, Mrs. Barbara Nell Daniels of Great Falls, Mont., Mrs. Patsy L. here every week will get some work in the fields. The consumer prices for petroleum are going to go up gradually but the industry needs to operate flat-out for about five months to a year to get us away from foreign oil dependence. The oil companies are going to play the wait-and-see game to determine what prices and expenditures will be."

He said gasoline prices will probably jump 7 to 8 cents a gallon.

Jerry Atkinson, a Midland producer, said reliance on foreign oil will not end at once but "eventually imported oil will be reduced or eliminated and we won't be blackmailed by the OPEC nations because of our dependency."

Atkinson said "an ultimate reduction of consumer prices should be the result of price decontrols as foreign control on price is reduced by competition in a free market which will eventually bring the market price per barrel down to around $10 a barrel."

increase in inflation and increased unemployment of 100,000 persons.

But the Congressional Budget Office has said that sudden decontrol might increase consumer prices by almost 2 per cent by the end of 1977 and increase unemployment by about 0.5 per cent — some 600,000 jobs.

The Library of Congress issued a study estimating that oil decontrol would cost the economy an extra $72 billion over the next five years.

The Agriculture Department said ending the controls would increase retail food prices about seven-tenths of 1 per cent over 27 months.

The removal of controls on price of gasoline, an 8-per-cent oil price is the cornerstone of Ford's policy designed to reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil. Ford contends higher fuel prices would force conservation and give the oil industry the money needed to find new energy sources.

The Democrats call the Ford plan a prescription for more inflation and higher unemployment. Their efforts have been centered on such mandatory conservation plans as forcing Detroit to build more-efficient cars and requiring the states to develop conservation programs.

"Today the Ford administration and minority government won another victory over the majority of Americans," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. "And consumers and workers lost another round in the continuing battle with the oil companies and their friends in the White House."

But Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott portrayed the vote as another indication to Democrats that they must work with Ford to develop an acceptable policy. "The people are just mad as hell because they are not getting action," Scott told reporters.

Two Midlanders Arrested, Jailed On Drug Charge

Two Midlanders arrested early this morning for possession of marijuana and cocaine were jailed today in lieu of a $7,500 bond each on the cocaine charge.

Charged before Peace Justice Robert Pine were Jerry Lawrence Brown, 24, of 106 W. 19, of 210 Gulf St. They were charged with possession of cocaine.

Both were arrested by Midland police Sgt. Ed Ward and patrolman D. J. Wilks in the 3400 block of West Wall Street.

Officer Wilks said Brown and Miss Lent were alone in a sedan at a restaurant parking lot at time of the arrest, shortly after 1 a.m. today.

Both were initially arrested on a drunk charge.

Wilks said he spied a plastic bag containing a substance, alleged to be cocaine, in open view in the car. He also said he spotted a vial on the car's floorboard and a pipe containing ashes of marijuana, he alleged. He said a "cut leafy substance" was in the vial.

Contest officials have advised tobacco chewers that "expectorating in washer holes will be frowned upon."

Ford Takes To Crowds For Wyman

KEENE, N.H. (AP) — President Ford, beginning a Republican vote-hunting mission, plunged into crowds lining the streets of this New Hampshire hamlet today in a hand-to-hand campaign on behalf of GOP Senate candidate Louis C. Wyman.

On his first political outing since a woman in Sacramento, Calif., pointed a pistol at him last Friday, Ford worked his way along the town square in Keene, shaking hands and greeting well-wishers.

The President rode a presidential limousine with the roof hatch pulled back so that he could stand and wave along the way.

He told a crowd of several thousand people in Keene that Wyman will make New Hampshire proud if the voters send him to the Senate in next Tuesday's special election against Democrat John A. Durkin.

Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf, who grabbed away the gun wielded by a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson in the Sacramento incident, was on duty, often at the President's elbow.

There were no signs of unusual security precautions, although police and federal agents carefully scouted the route of the motorcade, which covered more than 120 miles and 14 communities, from Keene in the west to Portsmouth on the seacoast.

Boyle Gets Three Life Terms In Prison

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle was sentenced today to three consecutive life terms in prison for ordering the assassinations of United Mine Workers rival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Autumn Arrives Early In Texas

A southbound cool front packed a promise of autumn's arrival nearly two weeks early in parts of Texas today.

Official forecasters looked for the frontal system to push into the Texas Panhandle and set off widespread thunderstorms by tonight. The cooler air was expected to spread all the way to the Upper Texas Coast by Friday night.

Temperatures Wednesday afternoon mounted as high as 97 degrees at Waco in the middle of the state. Readings early today stayed as warm as 80 at Galveston and Palacios on the coast while the mercury dipped to 64 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Forecasters called for readings as low as 50 in the Panhandle by early Friday.

While the cooling trend approached from the northwest, another round of showers was expected by this evening in the humid air enveloping South Central and Southeast Texas.

Houston Airport Suit Under Way

HOUSTON (AP) — The vice president of Ball Construction Co., San Antonio, says there were more general changes from the original design of Houston Intercontinental Airport than any project for which he had ever worked.

James T. Hubbell testified Wednesday at a pre-trial hearing prior to Ball's $8 million suit against the city of Houston.

The city paid a final contract amount of $20.1 million for construction of the airport but Ball officials said the project cost $25 million and sued for $8 million.

Sadat Assassination Attempt Denied

By The Associated Press An Egyptian spokesman says a Palestinian report of an attempt to assassinate President Anwar Sadat is "untrue, a lie and rubbish."

The Voice of Palestine in Baghdad, which the Cairo spokesman described as unreliable, claimed gunmen opened fire on Sadat in the garden of the summer presidential palace in Alexandria a few hours after the signing of the new Egyptian-Israeli agreement.

American officials in Washington also discounted the report and described the Baghdad source as "very unreliable."

The Voice of Palestine is a one-hour daily program prepared by local Palestinians in Baghdad, Cairo and Damascus and broadcast by the government radio stations in those capitals. The broadcasts from Cairo and Damascus are prepared by the local offices of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, but a PLO spokesman in Cairo said the Baghdad broadcasts are the work of a group of "mercenaries" who have nothing to do with the PLO.

Israel, meanwhile, continued to balk at negotiations with Syria.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, in a statement after the weekly cabinet meeting, said his government is prepared to negotiate a final peace settlement with all its Arab neighbors but has not decided whether to work for an interim agreement for the Golan Heights front with Syria.

TSTA President Doesn't Think Strikes Probable

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The president of the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) says he doesn't think Texas teachers will use strikes as tools to solve their problems.

"The teachers of this state are very determined in how they are going to handle their situations and their problems," Larry Yawn said Wednesday at a TSTA regional workshop. "I don't think teachers see striking as the answer."

He said there have been instances when a teachers' strike was justified.

"We usually think of strikes in terms of a salary issue, but that has not always been the case," Yawn said. "Forty-five to 50 students in a classroom has become the issue in some instances. There we're talking about quality education, and I believe those people were justified."

Mrs. Osa Shinn Dies At Andrews

ANDREWS — Mrs. Osa Lavonia Shinn, a resident of Andrews the past five years, died Wednesday in a hospital here where she had been a patient since July.

Services for Mrs. Shinn, 83, were to be at 2 p.m. today in Calvary Baptist Church with the Rev. Ronnie Armstrong officiating. Additional rites will be at 3 p.m. Friday in Mountain View Cemetery in Oregon City, Ore. Local arrangements are being handled by Singleton Funeral Home.

Mrs. Shinn had resided in both Oregon and Arkansas.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Vivian Latham and Mrs. Vera Wilson, both of Andrews; a son, James Harold Shinn; two sisters, Mrs. Nita Bassett and Mrs. Peggy Stakes, both of Gentry, Ark.; eight grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren, and 13 great-great-grandchildren.

Canada Bans Hijacker's Visit

OTTAWA — Canadian immigration authorities have told former Palestinian hijacker Leila Khaled that she will not be allowed into the country to promote her autobiography, which has just been published here.

A spokesman for the Immigration Ministry confirmed that if Khaled made a request for a visa, as she had planned, it would be turned down.

Sadat Assassination Attempt Denied

By The Associated Press An Egyptian spokesman says a Palestinian report of an attempt to assassinate President Anwar Sadat is "untrue, a lie and rubbish."

The Voice of Palestine in Baghdad, which the Cairo spokesman described as unreliable, claimed gunmen opened fire on Sadat in the garden of the summer presidential palace in Alexandria a few hours after the signing of the new Egyptian-Israeli agreement.

American officials in Washington also discounted the report and described the Baghdad source as "very unreliable."

The Voice of Palestine is a one-hour daily program prepared by local Palestinians in Baghdad, Cairo and Damascus and broadcast by the government radio stations in those capitals. The broadcasts from Cairo and Damascus are prepared by the local offices of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, but a PLO spokesman in Cairo said the Baghdad broadcasts are the work of a group of "mercenaries" who have nothing to do with the PLO.

Israel, meanwhile, continued to balk at negotiations with Syria.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, in a statement after the weekly cabinet meeting, said his government is prepared to negotiate a final peace settlement with all its Arab neighbors but has not decided whether to work for an interim agreement for the Golan Heights front with Syria.

TSTA President Doesn't Think Strikes Probable

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The president of the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) says he doesn't think Texas teachers will use strikes as tools to solve their problems.

"The teachers of this state are very determined in how they are going to handle their situations and their problems," Larry Yawn said Wednesday at a TSTA regional workshop. "I don't think teachers see striking as the answer."

He said there have been instances when a teachers' strike was justified.

"We usually think of strikes in terms of a salary issue, but that has not always been the case," Yawn said. "Forty-five to 50 students in a classroom has become the issue in some instances. There we're talking about quality education, and I believe those people were justified."

Amarillo Has Crude Strike In Glasscock

Amarillo Oil Co., operating from Midland, has completed No. 1 Hubbard as a Wichita-Albany discovery in Glasscock County, five miles east of Spraberry production in the Trend Area.

It had a 24-hour flowing potential of 107.5 barrels of 37.2-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 2,605-1.

Production was through an 18-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,212-7,268 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons.

Drilled as an outpost to production in the Trend Area, total depth is 7,850 feet, with a 4 1/2-inch liner hung from 2,770-7,850 feet. The plugged-back depth is 7,365 feet.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 2,681 feet: Spraberry, 6,800; Wichita-Albany, 7,202; Dean, 7,558 feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 18, block 34, T-5-S, T&P survey, 12 miles southwest of Garden City.

Midland Concern Finals Discovery

W&W Production, Inc., Midland, has completed No. 2-A Todd, a Queen gas pay opener in the Howard Draw, Northeast (1.165 San Andres) gas field of Crockett County.

Calculated, absolute open flow was 540,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 870-880 feet, after the producing zone had been acidized with 500 gallons.

Total depth is 1,100 feet and the plugged-back depth, 881 feet, with 5 1/2-inch pipe set on bottom.

It is 660 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of the southwest quarter of section 36, block WX, GC&SF survey, 20 miles northwest of Ozona.

Palo Pinto Well Takes Potential

Second Palo Pinto producer and location east extension to that pay in the Briley field of Runnels County has been completed by Richard R. Berry of Carrollton.

No. 1 Oragon finished on the pump for 30 barrels of 48-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio of 1,467-1, through perforations at 3,694-3,699 feet. The pay had been acidized with 1,750 gallons.

A reentry project, slated for tests of the Gardner sand, it originally was drilled by Jocelyn Varn Oil Co. as No. 1 Yates, and plugged and abandoned in 1957 at 4,407 feet.

It is 2,246 feet from south and 2,425 feet from east lines of F. J. Ford survey 318, in block 64, four miles northeast of Winters.

The discovery, completed in 1956, was Lone Star Producing Co. No. 1 Stoker.

Super-Tight Security Set For Fromme's Arraignment

By LINDA DEUTSCH
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Alice Fromme of mass murderer Charles Manson's "family" faces arraignment today on a charge that she attempted to assassinate President Ford.

Super-tight security precautions were expected at the courtroom of U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride for the appearance of Miss Fromme, the first person ever indicted under a 1965 federal law covering the attempted murder of a U.S. president.

The law was enacted after the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes said he hopes the trial of Miss Fromme, known as "Squeaky" by the Manson clan, can begin within 60-90 days.

Miss Fromme, 26, was seized by Secret Service agents last Friday after she pointed a .45-caliber semiautomatic pistol at the President from a distance of only two feet.

The red-haired, freckle-faced defendant is being held in Sacramento County Jail in lieu of bond of $1 million. She has indicated she may contend at her trial that she never intended to kill Ford.

Manson trial attorney Dwayne Shinn, who visited Miss Fromme in jail on Monday, said she told him that all she was trying to do was gain attention for Manson, now serving a life term at San Quentin prison for the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

In recent months, Miss Fromme has conducted a vocal campaign to win a new trial for Manson, saying he was unjustly convicted.

Although the indictment names only Miss Fromme, Keyes said he has not discounted the possibility of a conspiracy. He said "the investigation is continuing."

Keyes and other officials were barred under an order by MacBride from commenting on evidence presented to the grand jury. But it was learned the panel heard from some 15 witnesses.

One, Dennis Warren, 30, a photographer who is a neighbor of Miss Fromme, said witnesses were assembled at the FBI office about six miles away and taken to the courthouse in a convoy of cars.

"I would say there were probably 100 agents around," he said. "We were led down a maze of corridors. There were six to eight locked doors that we had to go through."

Keyes said the circuitous route was arranged because "there was concern expressed by potential witnesses that they didn't want to be identified."

He declined to say if they feared they were in danger.

Roommate Says Six Couples Death Targets

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sandra Good, roommate of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme who is charged with trying to kill President Ford, said in a broadcast interview Wednesday that at least six businessmen and their wives are targets for assassination.

"Assassinations are necessary, since people are asking for trouble by hurting the earth and from what they are programming on television," Miss Good told Bob Ruby of WWL Radio in a taped telephone conversation from Sacramento, Calif.

In Sacramento, Miss Good confirmed the interview and said she would later give the names of other persons in the United States and abroad who are marked for death because of their polluting activities.

The FBI picked up a copy of the taped conversation from the station, a WWL spokesman said. The FBI said the tapes were in its possession and a spokesman added, "an investigation is under way here and in California to determine whether the voice is actually that of Miss Good and whether there has been any violation of federal law."

Miss Good and Miss Fromme are both followers of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson.

Miss Good said an "International Court of Retribution" would kill six businessmen within the station's broadcast area, which covers the Southeast. She did not mention other areas of the country.

The names on the tape were: —Floyd Lewis of New Orleans, president of Middle South Utilities, Inc., which Miss Good said threatened the people by planning to build nuclear reactors; —Gordon Ryan of New Orleans, an attorney and executive with Starr Broadcasting Co.; —Fred Kaiser of Atlanta, a candy manufacturer; —Herbert Grey of Atlanta; —William Berrin of Atlanta; —Richard Davis of Houston, Tex., an oilman.

Miss Good said the businessmen's wives would be hacked to death first, since they are guilty of pushing their husbands to continue instead of reconsidering their actions.

"Anyone who pollutes the Earth, destroys wildlife, or cuts down trees had better stop now or they and their wives will be terribly, terribly murdered," said Miss Good.

She avoided saying she was personally involved in the plots, saying only she had direct access to information on who would be assassinated.

Museum Officials Making Every Effort To Accommodate Largest Crowd Possible

Officials of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame said this morning that every effort is being made to accommodate the largest crowd possible for Saturday's 5 p. m. opening day ceremonies.

The attraction of having the President of the United States as the dedication speaker, and the museum itself, are certain to draw one of the largest crowds ever to Midland, Russell Ramsland, president of the museum's board of trustees, said.

It was announced this morning that the City of Midland has agreed to cut an access road from State 349 (Big Spring Street) to the museum's northeast parking lot provided by the county.

Members of the Midland Police Department, other law enforcement agencies and volunteer organizations will be on hand to direct traffic.

"We don't expect to have too difficult a time seeing that everyone gets comfortably parked in time to hear the President," Homer Fort, museum director, said.

Fort said that special provisions will be made for wheelchair patients.

"These persons will leave their transportation at the intersection of the Interstate 20 frontage road and the museum's paved entrance. They will be taken to a location near the speakers platform," Fort said.

Invitations have been extended to persons coast-to-coast who have assisted the museum during its planning and construction period.

"We already have received confirmations from the East and West coast area," Fort said.

Mary Pope, granddaughter of Gen. John Pope, an early-day driller in the Permian Basin, already has arrived.

Fort said she was being taken today to a drilling site just across the Texas-New Mexico line 16 miles northeast of Orma where her grandfather drilled for water in 1855-58 as part of a military mission.

Her hosts for the trip are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Denham of Midland. Lee Myers of Carlsbad, N.M., a military historian, will meet the party at the drillsite.

While in Midland, Miss Pope's host will be Mrs. John P. Butler.

"We are very appreciative of all the professional and volunteer help we have had in an attempt to make the visitors' attendance at the ceremonies (See MUSEUM Page 2A)

Man-Made Sandstorm Predicted At Big Spring

By LUANNA CROW
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A favorite diversion of clodbusters, ladies, country folk, loafers, knife traders and wild story tellers, the Second Annual National Championship Sand Washer Pitchin' Contest, may well be the cause of an unseasonal sandstorm this fall.

The event, scheduled Sept. 17 and 18 in conjunction with the Howard County Fair, will be held indoors in an effort to control ecological air pollution.

Contest officials particularly are concerned about man-made sandstorms created by a mixture of sand disturbances and a lot of hot air.

Entry fee for the contest is $5 or 25 washers, depending on the existing needs of the Second Annual National Sand Washer Pitchin' Association, payable at the time of registration.

Other expenses may be incurred because washers lost by contestants during the match must be paid for due to funding and underwriting expenses borne by 1975 crop year dry land farmers.

Contest rules for the popular event include harassment and cheering by spectators, although the tournament sponsors are not liable for the consequences. Also permitted are insults directed by one contestant to another, but only in a normal tone of voice. Hollering is permitted for "hit holers."

Duration of matches will be limited to 15 minutes, timed by a clock or a reasonable facsimile.

The contest champion will be awarded $50 at the end of the tournament or $500 one year from the date (depending on the rate of inflation) at the discretion of the officials. Also named will be a runner-up who will receive either $30 or $250 and a consolation winner who garners either $10 or $100.

In the event players do not score at the end of the time limit, the winner will be determined by the flip of a coin if one is available.

Judges and scorekeepers for the national event will be provided only if enough loafers volunteer their time.

Contest officials have advised tobacco chewers that "expectorating in washer holes will be frowned upon."

The deadline for entries is 6 p.m. Sept. 17, and no entries will be accepted prior to Monday in order to enable contestants from such locales as Sandy, Utah, Big Sandy, Tex., Sand Point, Alaska, Sandy Spring, Ga., and Pitcher, Okla., to have an equal opportunity.

Bob Bullock's Coming To Midland

AUSTIN — Controller Bob Bullock said Wednesday that teams of agents from his office are on their way to visit sales tax delinquents in Midland, San Angelo, Odessa and El Paso.

"I guess some of them think they're so far from Austin we won't do anything if they don't send in the sales tax that they collect from their customers," Bullock said.

But Bullock pointed out that in the districts served by the San Angelo, Odessa and El Paso district offices owe more than $2.6 million in back sales taxes.

"I don't think we'll have to drill too deep before we'll have a gusher," Bullock said.

Man-Made Sandstorm Predicted At Big Spring

By LUANNA CROW
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A favorite diversion of clodbusters, ladies, country folk, loafers, knife traders and wild story tellers, the Second Annual National Championship Sand Washer Pitchin' Contest, may well be the cause of an unseasonal sandstorm this fall.

The event, scheduled Sept. 17 and 18 in conjunction with the Howard County Fair, will be held indoors in an effort to control ecological air pollution.

Contest officials particularly are concerned about man-made sandstorms created by a mixture of sand disturbances and a lot of hot air.

Entry fee for the contest is $5 or 25 washers, depending on the existing needs of the Second Annual National Sand Washer Pitchin' Association, payable at the time of registration.

Other expenses may be incurred because washers lost by contestants during the match must be paid for due to funding and underwriting expenses borne by 1975 crop year dry land farmers.

Contest rules for the popular event include harassment and cheering by spectators, although the tournament sponsors are not liable for the consequences. Also permitted are insults directed by one contestant to another, but only in a normal tone of voice. Hollering is permitted for "hit holers."

Duration of matches will be limited to 15 minutes, timed by a clock or a reasonable facsimile.

The contest champion will be awarded $50 at the end of the tournament or $500 one year from the date (depending on the rate of inflation) at the discretion of the officials. Also named will be a runner-up who will receive either $30 or $250 and a consolation winner who garners either $10 or $100.

In the event players do not score at the end of the time limit, the winner will be determined by the flip of a coin if one is available.

Judges and scorekeepers for the national event will be provided only if enough loafers volunteer their time.

Contest officials have advised tobacco chewers that "expectorating in washer holes will be frowned upon."

The deadline for entries is 6 p.m. Sept. 17, and no entries will be accepted prior to Monday in order to enable contestants from such locales as Sandy, Utah, Big Sandy, Tex., Sand Point, Alaska, Sandy Spring, Ga., and Pitcher, Okla., to have an equal opportunity.

Boyle Gets Three Life Sentences

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle was sentenced today to three consecutive life terms in prison for ordering the assassinations of United Mine Workers rival Joseph A. "Jack" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

"All I can say is I'm innocent," the frail, former UMW president told Judge Francis J. Catania in Delaware County Court just before the sentencing.

Boyle, 73, who spent 11 years as president of the 200,000-member coal miners' union, was convicted on three counts of murder, each carrying a mandatory life sentence. The Yablonskis were murdered 5 1/2 years ago.

Boyle, who suffers from heart disease and stomach problems, arrived Wednesday night at Riddle Memorial Hospital in nearby Middletown. A hospital spokesman said he was in satisfactory condition.

Bob Bullock's Coming To Midland

AUSTIN — Controller Bob Bullock said Wednesday that teams of agents from his office are on their way to visit sales tax delinquents in Midland, San Angelo, Odessa and El Paso.

"I guess some of them think they're so far from Austin we won't do anything if they don't send in the sales tax that they collect from their customers," Bullock said.

But Bullock pointed out that in the districts served by the San Angelo, Odessa and El Paso district offices owe more than $2.6 million in back sales taxes.

"I don't think we'll have to drill too deep before we'll have a gusher," Bullock said.

Report On Sadat Labeled 'Rubbish'

By The Associated Press
An Egyptian spokesman says a Palestinian report of an attempt to assassinate President Anwar Sadat is "untrue, a lie and rubbish."

The Voice of Palestine in Baghdad, which the Cairo spokesman described as unreliable, claimed gunmen opened fire on Sadat in the garden of the summer presidential palace in Alexandria a few hours after the signing of the new Egyptian-Israeli agreement.

American officials in Washington also discounted the report and described the Baghdad source as "very unreliable."

The Voice of Palestine is a one-hour daily program prepared by local Palestinians in Baghdad, Cairo and Damascus and broadcast by the government radio stations in those capitals. The broadcasts from Cairo and Damascus are prepared by the local offices of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, but a PLO spokesman in Cairo said the Baghdad broadcasts are the work of a group of "mercenaries" who have nothing to do with the PLO.

Israel, meanwhile, continued to balk at negotiations with Syria.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, in a statement after his weekly cabinet meeting, said his government is prepared to negotiate a final peace settlement with all its Arab neighbors but has not decided whether to work for an interim agreement with Syria and Jordan were "practically non-existent" (See MIDEAST Page 2A)

Energy Crisis For Real, Positive Approach Needed

Robert O. Mills of Amarillo told members of the Downtown Lions Club at their Wednesday noon meeting in the American Legion Hall that the energy crisis is for real and that "we need a positive approach to the problem now."

Mills, public relations director of the Pioneer Corporation, said that this particular section of the country is, in a much better position energy-wise than most of the nation, but that the situation can change overnight.

He said that Pioneer Natural Gas Co., due to its farsightedness in acquiring and developing new gas reserves, is in a position to take care of its customers for a number of years, but again "the situation can change."

He pointed out also that the cost of natural gas is going up and will continue to go up.

Mills, quoting from a nationwide poll which shows that only 24 per cent of the people feel that there is an energy shortage, said this is a real problem.

"Our people in West Texas are considerably better informed on the subject," he added, "but we must do a better job of informing the people nationwide."

Mills, who was introduced by Lion Norman Henry, program chairman, cited the problems of natural gas supply nationwide, and pointed out that the critical situation didn't come about overnight.

Government interference, largely through price restrictions, taxes and regulations, have contributed to the gas shortage, he said.

"Irrational orders and edicts issued by a bunch of instant experts in Washington haven't helped," he continued. "Nothing has been done by government to add to the supply. Rather, the government has acted to slow down exploration and development."

Mills termed Senate Bill 602, which would "share the shortage," one of the most hazardous and harmful pieces of legislation now before Congress. He said this bill would allocate Texas' natural gas to other states at set prices.

"Share the shortage and we will all be short," he said.

Explaining the need for a positive approach to the problem, Mills said the problem can be solved by developing "our own solutions."

"But in order to do this, we must have the full cooperation of everybody, including the environmentalists. This will require compromise, but we can solve the energy problem," Mills concluded.

Minority Attendance Rises In Boston

By TERRY RYAN
BOSTON (AP) — School attendance is rising as court-ordered desegregation continues, but many white children are staying home. And for the first time, blacks and other minority children outnumber whites in Boston public schools.

A quiet day on Wednesday was marred after darkness fell when about 200 young demonstrators in the Charlestown section barricaded Bunker Hill and Concord streets with barrels and stoned police cars.

Police said members of the Tactical Patrol Force were called in and quelled the disturbance in about an hour and a half.

Police said four persons were arrested on charges of destruction of city property. There were no reports of injuries.

During the day Wednesday, streets were quiet outside schools across the city, including those in the Charlestown and South Boston sections.

centers of antibusing sentiment. Inside the schools, students and administrators reported little tension.

"Last year the black kids sat on one side of the room and whites on the other. This year it was all mixed," said Sasa Tikos, a senior at Roslindale High School. "It was nice."

Citywide attendance was 68.4 per cent Wednesday, up from 64.9 per cent Tuesday and 59.2 per cent on Monday. There were 52,109 pupils in class out of a projected elementary, intermediate and high school enrollment of 76,127.

The white attendance on Wednesday was 24,630, and there were 27,479 black and other minority children in school. Until this year, whites were a majority in the schools of Boston, where the population is 20 per cent black and 15 per cent Hispanic and other minorities.

More than 1,800 city and state police were on the streets during the day Wednesday when the school buses rolled. There was little for them to do, but officials said there were no plans to reduce their numbers.

"It's like Sunday out here," said Police Capt. Lawrence Quinlan. "I've never seen it this peaceful, even in normal times."

Autumn Arrives Early In Texas

By The Associated Press
A southbound cool front packed a promise of autumn's arrival nearly two weeks early in parts of Texas today.

Official forecasters looked for the frontal system to push into the Texas Panhandle and set off widespread thunderstorms by tonight. The cooler air was expected to spread all the way to the Upper Texas Coast by Friday night.

Patches of fog hung low around Lufkin and other points in East Texas and skies were overcast in the central part of the state this morning. The Associated Press reported.

Thunderstorms died down Wednesday evening in the west from Big Bend National Park into New Mexico and over much of South and Central Texas. During the turbulence tornado funnels were sighted near Cotulla in the southwest. Hail the size of golf balls pounded the countryside 10 miles south of Austin.

Temperatures Wednesday afternoon mounted as high as 97 degrees at Waco in the middle of the state. Readings early today stayed as warm as 90 at Galveston and Palacios on the coast while the mercury dipped to 64 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Forecasters called for readings as low as 50 in the Panhandle by early Friday.

While the cooling trend approached from the northwest, another round of showers was expected by this evening in the humid air enveloping South Central and Southeast Texas.

Midland is due for much cooler weather for the weekend as a cool air mass moves through the area.

Forecasters at the Midland Air Terminal are calling a drop in temperatures tonight and continuing through the weekend. The low tonight will be in the upper 60s, with the high Friday near 80. Rain chances will be near 50 per cent Friday.

Looking ahead to Saturday's visit from President Ford, the weather bureau says it will be "around 80, cloudy but little chance of rain."

Midland Businessman R. Guy Brantley Dies

R. Guy Brantley, 73, Midland businessman since 1947, died this morning at his residence, 1608 W. Pecan St. He had been in ill health for three years.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. Ted Brian, pastor of The First Baptist Church, officiating. Services are under direction of Newell W. Ellis Chapel.

In Midland, Brantley was a wholesale distributor of beer until he sold the business in 1963. Afterward, he was a beer licensing consultant and maintained offices at Midland Air Terminal.

He was born June 12, 1902, in Novice and spent his early life in Throckmorton, and later lived in Breckenridge.

Brantley moved to West Texas in 1920 and lived in Amarillo and Abilene before transferring to Dallas in 1939. He came to Midland eight years later.

He was a past president of the Wholesale Beer Distributors of Texas.

Brantley held memberships in the First Baptist Church, the Abilene Masonic Lodge, the Suez Temple and Hella Temple of Dallas, and in the Midland Shrine Club and Suez Patrol.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Guy Brantley of Midland; a son, R. G. Brantley Jr. of Houston; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia B. Smith of Houston; five brothers, Melvin Brantley of Odessa, C. V. Brantley of Monahans, E. B. Brantley of Lovington, N.M., and Z. V. Brantley and D. Brantley, both of Houston; a sister, Mrs. M. L. Wade of Odessa, and seven grandchildren.

Democrats Seeking New National Energy Policy

By JIM LUTHER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Their efforts to restore oil-price controls blocked by Republicans, congressional Democrats are searching anew for a national energy policy acceptable to President Ford.

Despite the reluctance of some Senate Democrats, the short-range solution is expected to be a 60-day extension of controls. But no one can guarantee that Ford will accept whatever long-range energy plan Congress is able to write during that period.

After the Senate fell six votes short of the two-thirds needed to override Ford's veto on Wednesday, the House Democratic leadership immediately set to work on a 60-day price-control bill.

Ford has indicated a willingness to consider a gradual removal of the controls and House Democratic leaders pushed for a vote as early as today on a bill extending oil price control authority.

"If the Congress wishes to achieve decontrol more gradually, I will work with the members to achieve that objective," Ford said.

By all accounts, the battle over energy pricing policy involves billions of consumer dollars.

The White House says the net effect of Ford's program would be a three-cent hike in the price of gasoline, an 8-per-cent increase in inflation and increased unemployment of 100,000 persons.

But the Congressional Budget Office has said that sudden decontrol might increase consumer prices by almost 2 per cent by the end of 1977 and increase unemployment by about 0.6 per cent — some 600,000 jobs.

The Library of Congress issued a study estimating that oil decontrol would cost the economy an extra $72 billion over the next five years.

The Agriculture Department said ending the controls would increase retail food prices about seven-tenths of 1 per cent over 27 months.

The removal of controls on oil prices is the cornerstone of Ford's policy designed to reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil. Ford contends higher fuel prices would force conservation and give the oil industry the money needed to find new energy sources.

The Democrats call the Ford plan a prescription for more inflation and higher unemployment. Their efforts have been centered on such mandatory conservation plans as forcing Detroit to build more-efficient cars and requiring the states to develop conservation programs.

"Today the Ford administration and minority government won another victory over the majority of Americans," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. "And consumers and workers lost another round in the continuing battle with the oil companies and their friends in the White House."

But Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott portrayed the vote as another indication to Democrats that they must work with Ford to develop an acceptable policy. "The people are just mad as hell because they are not getting action," Scott told reporters.

ment can tax away. Internationally, he said, the United States should make clear that "we will not buy peace if it means sacrificing either our freedom or the freedom of people in other lands not ours to give."

That drew one of the rounds of applause that periodically punctuated the Reagan speech.

In other circumstances, it could have been a Reagan campaign speech, but the Californian came to New Hampshire saying that he hasn't decided whether to challenge Ford for the Republican nomination.

Wyman and his managers hope the Reagan and Ford appearances will spark interest and spur the GOP voter turnout next week when New Hampshire settles an election that has been in dispute since last November.

Wyman and Democrat John A. Durkin wound up in the closest Senate election in history. The Senate deadlocked in efforts to determine who had won, so the issue was sent back to New Hampshire's voters.

Council Approves Project To Upgrade Air Park

The first phase of a proposed $959,000 project to upgrade Air Park, Midland's general aviation facility, was approved by city councilmen Tuesday.

Midland's share of the project, funded by the Federal Aviation Administration, would be $146,125.

The facility would undergo paving and lighting improvements as a major part of the program.

Each portion of the six-phase project has to be approved by the FAA. The council noted that funding from the federal agency is not available now because Congress has not yet turned the FAA funds loose. City property at Midland Regional Air Terminal was authorized to be put up for bids on a request by the West Texas Education Center. The center's request stated a need for larger facilities at the Air Terminal.

The property located at the southwest corner of LaForce Street and Earhart Drive, across from the post office, has been valued by the city at $58,520.

Of seven public hearings for zone changes and amendments to ordinances, the council approved six and denied one.

The request of T. O. White for a change from single-family to local retail on six lots in the 2900 block of Franklin Street was denied. The council noted that White's proposal to convert residential homes to businesses would be hampered by fire district requirements and nearly impossible without complete destruction of the present structures. The other cause for not granting the zoning request was stated by the council as to avoid spot zoning in the area.

Douglas To Hear Smith Arguments

SEATTLE (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is scheduled to hear arguments in Yakima, Wash., Thursday on a request by financier C. Arnolt Smith to deny California authorities access to transcripts of a federal grand jury which indicted him.

It will be the first public appearance Douglas, 76, has made since he suffered a stroke last Dec. 31. He has been staying at his summer home near Goose Prairie, Wash.

Smith, a longtime friend of former President Richard M. Nixon, was president and chairman of the board of the U.S. National Bank, which was declared insolvent in October 1973.

A federal grand jury indicted Smith on 25 counts of conspiracy, mishandling of $27.5 million in U.S. National funds and lying to bank examiners. Smith pleaded no contest to four of the charges last June 12. The rest were dropped.

He was fined $30,000 and placed on probation for five years by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Schnacke of San Francisco.

Numerous civil suits totaling billions of dollars are pending against Smith, and the companies he once controlled, including Air California and the San Diego Padres baseball team.

Ed Miller, San Diego district attorney, asked for the transcripts of the secret federal grand jury testimony used to indict Smith to see if there are possible violations of California state law.

Smith appealed to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but his request for a stay on transmittal of the transcripts was denied. The court also barred Smith from asking for a rehearing of the appeal.

Smith, a native of Walla

Walla, Wash., acquired the U.S. National bank in 1933. By 1972, his assets totaled $1 billion. His personal wealth was once estimated at $45 million.

Smith contributed heavily to Nixon's campaign and to the campaigns of ex-California Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Rape Report 'Unfounded,' Wallace Says

The alleged robbery-rape case which was reported Monday afternoon to the Midland Police Department was "unfounded," said Chief Harold S. Wallace.

The woman told police she was forced to drive to a Midland bank to cash two checks, one for $800 and another for $250 Monday morning and was raped afterward.

"I can't say how we discovered that it was unfounded," Wallace said, "other than we ran it down from discrepancies in her story."

"I don't know why she waited so long to report the robbery and the rape to us or why she went to a neighbor's house instead of calling from her home," Wallace said.

"We believe she did the forgery herself," Wallace said. "False report cases," Wallace explained, "are hard for detectives to work on. This type of case was unfortunate. We're nappy to have it cleared up. We got real good cooperation from the people involved. The checks were written on the reported victim's brother-in-law's checking account."

"I don't know if the parties involved are going to file charges or not," Wallace said. "We left it up to the family. Whether they get their money back or not, I don't know. We left that up to them also."

Mrs. Shinn had resided in both Oregon and Arkansas.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Vivian Latham and Mrs. Vera Wilson, both of Andrews; a son, James Harold Shinn; two sisters, Mrs. Nita Bassett and Mrs. Peggy Stakes, both of Gentry, Ark.; eight grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren, and 13 great-great-grandchildren.

Clifton Render Dies At Lamesa

LAMESA — Clifton Charles Render, 79, died Monday in a Lamesa hospital following a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 3 p.m. Friday in St. John's Baptist Church here. Military rites will be held at Lamesa Memorial Park directed by Branon Funeral Home.

Render, a Robinson County native, was a farm laborer and a World War I veteran. He had lived 34 years in Lamesa.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Rodell Rosemond and Minnie Brazel, both of Denver City; two sons, James Render of Lamesa and Nathan Render of Denver City; a sister, Mrs. Mae Etter Williams of Hearne; 23 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

Dallas School District Submits Busing Plan To Court

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas School District, under pressure from federal courts, has submitted a school desegregation plan that calls for the busing of 18,000 of the district's 142,004 students, but the plan is already under attack.

Minutes after school district officials submitted the busing proposal to U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. Wednesday, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) submitted its own desegregation plan. The school board's plan, which is estimated to cost $5 million to implement—including $3 million for the formation of magnet schools and $2 million for busing—was approved by a 5-4 vote. Judge Taylor, who is under orders from the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to formulate a new plan to replace an old busing plan rejected by the Appeals court, can modify it before submitting it to the higher court.

Basically, the school board proposed the busing of 6,000 Anglo, 10,000 black and 2,000 Mexican-American students. It also called for the closing of six schools and the pairing or clustering of schools and the creation of several magnet schools at both the elementary and secondary level. Magnet schools would offer special and advanced educational programs conceived and operated to attract students district-wide to 32 schools where the student population is already integrated. The schools are mostly in the southwest and east portions of the city and the Seagoville area.

Under the terms of the proposal 4th and 5th grade classes would be offered at specified schools in mostly Anglo areas and minority students would be bused to those schools. Sixth and seventh grade classes would be offered in mostly minority areas and Anglo students would be bused to those schools.

Most Of First Lady's Mail Critical Of Comments On Sex

By ANN BACKMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford's comments on premarital sex generated nearly 28,000 letters and telegrams, more than two-thirds of which were critical of her remarks.

Sheila Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said Wednesday that the first lady is answering this mail which, to date, includes "8,000 pros and 19,500 cons."

Mrs. Ford's letter to her critics explains that she does not believe in premarital sex, but that she realizes that many in today's generation do not share her views.

Answering an interviewer's question last month in which her 10-year-old daughter, Susan, was used as a hypothetical example, Mrs. Ford said she would not be surprised if Susan were to tell her at some point that she was having an affair.

"I want my children to know that their concerns, their doubts and their difficulties, whatever they may be, can be discussed with the two people in this world who care most—their mother and father."

Mrs. Ford said that during the television interview, she spoke "to the need of this communication—rather than the specific issues we discussed."

"My husband and I have lived 26 years of faithfulness in marriage," Mrs. Ford wrote. "I do not believe in premarital relationships, but I realize that many in today's generation do not share my views. However, this must never cause us to withdraw the love, the counseling and the understanding that they may need now more than ever before. This is the essence of responsible parenthood."

UTA Students Plan No-Beer Rule Test

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Bill Eden, president of the UTA Student Congress, says a proposal will be presented to UTA President Wendell Nederman about Oct. 1 which would allow serving of beer at campus functions.

If the president doesn't approve the proposal, Eden says he plans to set up a situation which would legally test the no-beer-drinking rule.

Dear Abby

She Wants Navel Diamond,
Not Engagement Ring

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is a rather kooky, unconventional but lovable gal. We plan to marry soon. I told her I wanted to buy her a diamond ring, and she said she didn't want a ring—she wanted a diamond for her navel instead!

I thought she was putting me on, but she wasn't. She says belly dancers wear them. She is not a belly dancer; she's a receptionist at a recording studio.

Can you please tell me where a navel diamond can be purchased? (How would it stay in?) Have you ever seen one? I don't mean a fake one. I mean a real one. Thank you.

SERIOUS IN LA.

DEAR SERIOUS: I've never seen a navel diamond and haven't the foggiest notion how one would "stay in." But if you have the money, I am sure one of many creative jewelry designers will be able to come up with something to fill the bill—and your girl friend's navel.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem concerns a young couple who lives near us. I'll call them Joyce and Bill. He's 30 and she's 19, and they've been married for 10 months.

We could be a happy foursome but they overdo the lovey dovey bit. They're always cuddling, kissing and fondling each other. It really gets embarrassing.

I suggested having them over for bridge last night because they really are good company otherwise, but my husband said the way they carry on is too sickening.

Is it possible for a couple

Fannin PTA Unit Sets Open House

Fannin Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association will have open house next week in the school's cafeteria.

Parents of children in the kindergarten and multi-level classes will meet Monday, primary grades 1, 2 and 3, Tuesday and intermediate grades 4, 5 and 6, Sept. 18.

Opening assembly will be held at 7:30 each night, with Cub Scout Pack 222 presenting the colors before adjournment to the various class rooms to meet the teachers.

to be TOO married. How can we let Joyce and Bill know that we would see more of them if they would save that love stuff for their own bedroom? We hate to hurt their feelings.

ANOTHER COUPLE

DEAR COUPLE: It's not possible to be TOO married, but it is possible to carry the lovey dovey bit beyond the limits of good taste in public.

Technically, Joyce and Bill are still honeymooning, so don't be too critical. In time they'll cool off. (But frankly, isn't their behavior preferable to couples who put down, needle and bittle each other?)

DEAR ABBY: I'll soon be having my first baby, and I plan to breast-feed it.

I'd like to know how you and others feel about seeing a mother nursing her baby in doctors' offices, waiting rooms, shopping center malls, restaurants, etc.?

With the increased popularity of breast-feeding, plus Women's Lib, I have seen more and more public breast-feeding.

Does it make some people uncomfortable to witness it? Should I hide from house guests and visitors?

MOTHER-TO-BE

DEAR M-T-B: Breast-feeding a baby is natural and beautiful, but if you have a choice, do it privately. If you do nurse your baby in public, wear a shawl that can be lightly tossed over your bosom while baby nurses and be as inconspicuous as possible.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose name, address, self-addressed envelope, please. H

Jelly Side Down Experience Drastic Change Beforehand

I long ago learned that, while I am not cut out to live in the country, I do enjoy a weekend there.

And, while I would detest facing the immense problems inherent in living right in the heart of a huge metropolis, again I take enormous delight in spending a brief period there.

Fortunately, I enjoy the ideal solution: I have close friends who live on a farm, as well as close friends who live in a high-rise in the heart of the city, both of whom I visit periodically.

And whenever the septic tank backs up on the former, or the latter haven't had their garbage collected for four weeks, I leave, chuckling smugly.

After giving considerable thought to the advantages of this arrangement, I have come to the conclusion that no one should embark on a drastic change of lifestyle without experiencing it briefly beforehand.

Rather than rush out to buy a $300 puppy, for instance, one could phone Rent-A-Dog, who would send one over for a weekend. Forty-eight hours of spot-cleaning off-white wall-to-wall carpeting may very well revise your thinking completely.

Especially before getting married, one should be permitted a rental husband or wife. An ideal Rent-A-Husband should arrive with a three-day beard growth, belch once, and fall asleep on the living room sofa for the entire weekend. The Rent-A-Wife will hang seventeen pounds of wet lingerie over your shower rod and vacuum the living-room rug during the Super Bowl.

And before deciding to have children, it would be most beneficial to dial Rent-A-Tot, who would send along an infant; I mean, if you are going to go all white around the mouth whenever someone spits up on your sport coat, isn't it better to find out about it before hand?

DRT Districts Have Workshop

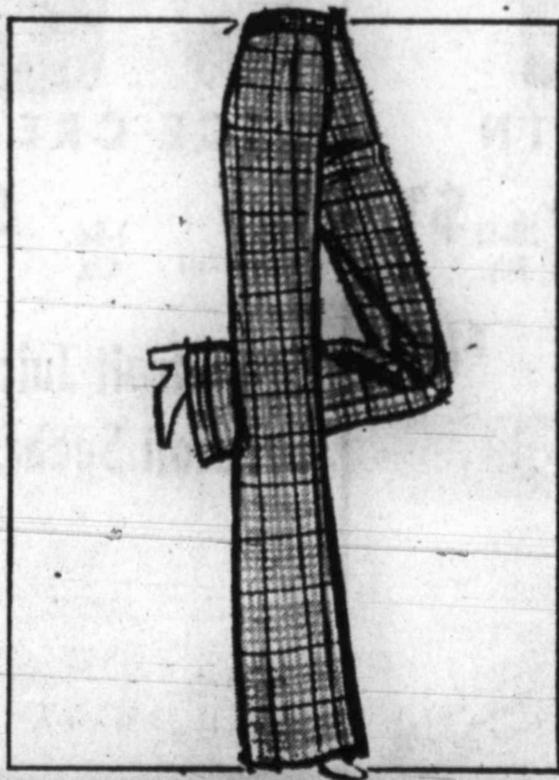

Mrs. John P. McKinley of Midland, assisted by Mrs. H. H. Rowe of Fort Stockton, is conducting panel discussions at the annual workshop meeting for District I and X of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas being held today at Ft. Davis.

The hostesses are Mrs. R. L. Walker of Fort Stockton, District I representative, and Mrs. R. P. Swafford of Lubbock, District X representative.

The meeting will close with a tour of McDonald Observatory.

Artist Is Without Home, Husband

By LUISE PUTCAMP JR.
For AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK (AP) — Zarina is packing again. She stuffs papers into a striped, woven bag. "My filing cabinet," says the Indian artist wryly. Into her new Honda, Zarina will put this and a portfolio of prints and her print-making tools. And a few saris.

Then she'll head once more into strange country. Zarina will be leaving behind a posh Manhattan apartment with many rooms, two house-boys and a view of the East River.

In Los Angeles, she'll live in one room on a modest street. (Nearby is India Ink Gallery, first to show Zarina's work in this country. She has friends there.)

The Manhattan pad is home for Zarina's husband, who is a career diplomat.

Zarina has no home, she says. She's a career artist. She has been an artist almost as long as she's been a wife. Her woodprints and silk screen prints have hung in India, Greece, Norway, Japan, Poland, West Germany — and here. Her art has won Zarina awards and brought her (some) money.

Zarina is a small, dark woman who likes French movies, often wears blue jeans and sometimes practices yoga. She can converse in five languages and cook in several.

Her problems are not exotic. Women and artists who aren't Indian will recognize many of them.

As a little girl in Aligarh, India, Zarina was determined "to be my own person, and to be an artist."

But the stern-visaged Moslem professor, her father, suffered her to study mathematics, instead. Then Zarina's marriage was arranged — to a boy she'd known most of her life.

"I thought marriage would be like one long date," mused Zarina, 17 years later. "I didn't realize it would mean always doing what the other person wanted, thinking what he thought, seeing people he wanted to see."

Zarina's Indian husband was "posted" to Bangkok. There, in 1968, she made her first print, from a laboriously carved linoleum block, under the dining room table.

Zarina's husband was sent next to Paris. There, in 1964, at the atelier of S.W. Hayer, printmakers' printmaker, she began learning — and unlearning.

And her husband's indulgences had turned to disapproval.

One day Zarina told her husband: "I'm leaving."

The darkly handsome diplomat was reasonable. "But how can you?" he said. "We're having a dinner party tonight!"

Zarina flew off to London. She wore a Courreges coat — with no money in the pockets. She was hungry. She was cold. But she told herself: "No man will ever again interfere with my life and tell me what to do!"

It was in New Delhi, in 1968, Zarina says, that "my life as an artist really began."

She rented a studio. This was not something a proper Indian wife does. (Unbidden, a solicitous concierge screened her callers.)

Zarina held Sunday soirees. "Everybody came," she says. "Even my husband. Bringing his friends."

Zarina tried tapestry design. People and institutions bought her large tapestries. She tried sculpture. A pipe company put Zarina's waving forest of flexible metal in the middle of its exposition pavilion.

And Zarina never stopped making prints.

Mexican Fiesta Luncheon Held

The Christian Women's Fellowship of Memorial Christian Church met Tuesday in the Fellowship Hall for a "Mexican Fiesta" luncheon.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Wanda Anthony and Mrs. R. Bristol of Alpine. Also recognized was Mrs. Ann Ridens, new member.

It was announced the Christmas bazaar will be held from 4 to 9 p.m. Dec. 4 in the church.

Mrs. John Long presented a program on "Caring," which will be the CWF study for the year.

HOROSCOPE

(Sept. 12)
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Argumentative and accident-prone. Be early, so wait until afternoon when plans improve and you can get the goodwill and active assistance of highly placed persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Know what is expected of you by others and keep any promises. Make new acquaintances of varied backgrounds from whom you can learn much.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use good judgment instead of intuition in a.m. Later, follow intuition. Find a way to reach more accord with the one you love most.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of one who is irate in the a.m. Afternoon brings more pleasant results, more stability around you. Don't argue.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although your work seems difficult in a.m., if you tackle it enthusiastically it goes easy and you enjoy it. Cooperate with co-workers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 22) Do not spend too much for pleasure; stick to the wholesome, satisfying. Show more love for you closest tie. Put talents to work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) There are changes to be made, at least in the early and well. Don't make changes now in business if uncertain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be alert to any changes you can make for a brighter future. Drive carefully. Evading can be fine with mate. You gain favor of higher-ups.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study finances to increase income and have freedom from worry. Use good judgment about those who ask for help. Do not be taken in by anyone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle personal affairs in a.m., then you have time for whatever you most like to do. Plan recreation for p.m. Live within budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The a.m. is ideal for whatever requires study and careful thought, then you can seek out expert for advice in a.m. Dial work brings fine results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Afternoon is best for meetings with good pals for whatever your purposes. You can enjoy yourself at amusement you like. Be your friendly self.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) By double-checking whatever comes up today you can be informed and things then can be your advantage. Discuss ideas with those who control matters.

Handy Storage Area Idea

Dear Heloise: Here's a novel idea for a handy storage area for those little spice cans and containers that always seem to get lost on the pantry shelf, or there's not enough room for all the varieties on your spice rack.

My husband removed the long narrow board from the front of the kitchen sink. Inside there's a small space just the right size to hold these small cans.

With thin strips of veneer, he boxed in the area and covered the wood with adhesive-backed paper so it's easy to keep clean. Then using two spring hinges, he reattached the board to the front of the sink. No one knows this handy storage cabinet is there until I flip down the little door and everyone is amazed to see my neat rows of spice containers!

A Happy Wife

Wrong Side First

When pressing a rickrack trimmed dress or apron, iron it, first on the wrong side. The rickrack then will lie flat. Instead of catching the iron when you iron the garment on the right side.

Calley Will Appeal Ruling Reinstating My Lai Conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — William L. Calley Jr.'s attorney says an appeals court ruling which reinstates Calley's court-martial conviction in the My Lai massacre will be carried to the Supreme Court.

J. Houston Gordon of Covington, Tenn., called the decision of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Wednesday an abdication of civilian responsibility.

Calley will take effect as soon as the legal outcome is final, made no comment.

The Court of Appeals said U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott of Columbus overstepped his jurisdiction when he ruled on Sept. 25, 1974, that Calley's conviction was unconstitutional.

A federal court may not intervene in a military case except where a substantial constitutional claim is made, or error causes a miscarriage of justice, and no such grounds exist in the Calley case, the appeals court said.

It knocked down Elliott's holding that extensive news coverage of My Lai and Calley made it impossible to find unbiased jurors and therefore he could not be tried. The appeals court said such logic was "extremely unsettling." It added: "If, in this age of instant mass communication, we were to automatically disqualify persons who have heard about an alleged crime from serving as a juror, the inevitable result would be that truly heinous or notorious acts will go unpunished."

Calley was accused of killing 102 persons in the bloody sweep through My Lai; he was convicted of murdering not less than 22. He sentenced to life in prison.

In subsequent appeals, his sentence was reduced to 10 years. He was freed on bail last Nov. 8.

Officials: SLE Outbreak No Reason For Alarm

By The Associated Press Public health officials say although 18 cases of St. Louis encephalitis have been confirmed so far in Texas, there is no cause for alarm.

In Houston, three more cases of encephalitis were reported Wednesday, bringing to 14 the number of suspected victims of the sleeping sickness in the Harris County area.

Nine confirmed cases of encephalitis have been reported in Houston since Aug. 27. All but two of the confirmed cases have recovered. Two hospitalized victims were reported ready to be dismissed.

Meanwhile, Dallas public health officials report three confirmed cases and one suspected case of the disease. However, two of the confirmed cases are believed to have been contracted outside the Dallas area.

The first reported in Dallas was a 28-year-old woman who became ill while visiting Arkansas. The second was a man who had been visiting Houston and became ill. He returned to Dallas, where the disease was diagnosed.

Houston's health director, Dr. Albert G. Randall, said there was no cause for alarm about the encephalitis outbreak. He said progress is being made by the Harris County Mosquito Control District to eliminate the mosquitoes that transmit the disease to humans and also the birds from which the mosquitoes get the virus.

In Dallas, Dr. Lowell Berry, director of the city health department, said, "We are on top of things and are spraying and oiling areas where water is standing. We are also rechecking areas where new cases have been reported."

Berry said he was encouraged because "the present number of cases is not that far from the norm."

The disease reached epidemic proportions in Houston in 1964 when 32 persons died and more than 750 were thought to have the disease, and in Dallas in 1966, when 100 cases were confirmed and seven deaths were attributed to the disease.

French Chief Plans Bicentennial Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing will mark America's Bicentennial with a visit to this country May 17-20, President Ford has announced.

Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain earlier accepted an invitation to visit the United States next July.

Giscard d'Estaing, in an Aug. 6 letter to Ford, accepted an invitation tendered in July, the President said Wednesday.

CPA To Testify Today In Carrillo Tax Trial

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A certified public accountant was to take the witness stand here today in the income tax evasion trial of suspended District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo and Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo.

Oscar Kirkland of Alice was called to testify late Wednesday by Assistant U.S. Atty. George Kelt of Houston, but his testimony was delayed while the jury and five men examined income tax returns filed by the Carrillo brothers and Arturo Zertuche, a cousin who was indicted and is to be tried later.

Judge Carrillo, who faces an impeachment trial in the Texas Senate when the federal court trial is over, and his brother are accused of conspiring with Zertuche to file false income tax returns. The indictments do not specify how much money was involved in the false returns, but claims their personal income and income from a partnership was "substantially greater" than the amount they claimed.

In opening remarks Wednesday, Kelt said the prosecution will prove that the Carrillos and Zertuche set up a sham business at Benavides so they could make illegal sales of merchandise to Duval County government agencies. He said the sales were to the county, the county's water district, and the Benavides Independent School District. Kelt said the Carrillos could not make legal sales to the government agencies through the Farm and Ranch Supply Store, their store at Benavides, because they are public officials.

Wallace To Tour Western Europe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will delay announcement of his presidential candidacy for a "fact-finding and goodwill" tour of Western Europe, an aide says.

Travel plans are incomplete, the aide said, but Wallace is expected to leave in about a month for the two-week trip.

The tour probably will put off formal announcement of Wallace's candidacy for the Democratic nomination until late this year or early 1976.

GUARD'S LIFE THREATENED McLean Woman Accused

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A McLean, Tex., woman accused of robbing the First National Bank of $41,787 was held in the Potter County jail today, while police provided protection for a bank guard who apprehended her Wednesday.

Verna Lou LeMond, 31, was charged before U.S. Magistrate Robert Sanders with bank robbery. Bond was set at $75,000.

Police said a woman armed with a .22 caliber derringer approached teller Barbara Ann Harlan, placed a white purse on the counter and said, "Fill it up and I won't hurt you."

Police said Mrs. Harlan put the money on the counter and the woman stuffed it into the purse.

"Is that enough?" Mrs. Harlan asked.

"That's fine," the woman replied, and left the bank. Police said bank guard Walter M. Hearn followed the woman outside to her car and ordered her to stop. At that moment police units arrived and the woman was arrested, authorities said.

Late Wednesday police said Hearn reported an anonymous caller telephoned his home and threatened his life.

Police said it was the third threat which had been received after Mrs. LeMond's arrest.

The first came minutes after she was taken into custody, police said. They said they received a call advising that a second bank would be blown up unless Mrs. LeMond was released.

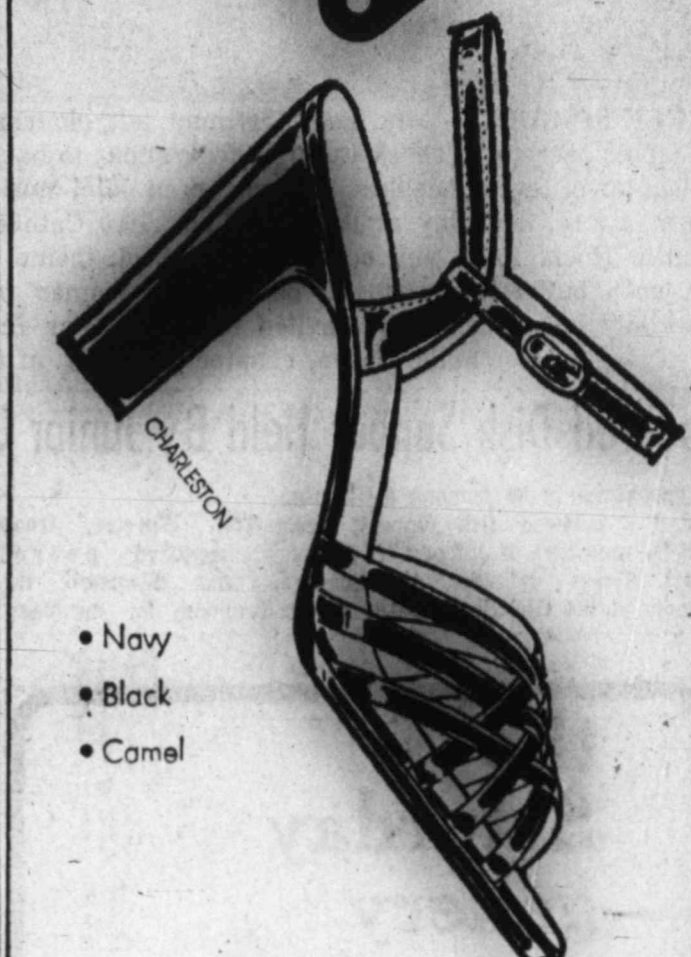

Officers said a similar threat was made by a woman caller to FBI agents in Dallas, nearly 400 miles distant.

Stubborn Priest Asked To Resign

Agence France-Presse LONDON—Father Oswald Baker, who has celebrated mass in Latin for 33 years and refuses to stop doing so, has been asked by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Northampton to resign.

The Catholic Bishops Conference of England earlier this year called for the end of the old Tridentine Latin ritual. Father Baker's parish is at Downham Market, Norfolk. He had no comment on the bishop's request.

Proposed Federal Regulations May Affect Texas Open Records Act

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas newsmen, and all others interested in public access to public records, will be watching closely the next few months as federal authorities draw up new security regulations on criminal information records.

Some say the federal regulations will have no effect on the Texas Open Records Act. Others predict they may supercede the state law guaranteeing public access to governmental records.

Also very much in the picture is a pending decision by the Houston Civil Appeals Court concerning city police records.

"What effect the federal regulations have will depend to a great extent on what the Houston court says our Open Records Act means," said Bill Reid, an assistant Texas attorney general.

"I don't believe it (the federal regulations) will affect the Texas Open Records Act," said Willis Whatley, general counsel of the Governor's Criminal Justice Division which will draw up the state's proposed regulations in answer to the federal order.

Last May, the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) issued new security regulations, under the federal Omnibus Crime Control Act, for criminal records which the LEAA said would "afford greater protection of the privacy of private individuals who may be included in the records of the FBI, criminal justice agencies funded directly or indirectly from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and interstate, state or local criminal justice agencies exchanging records with the FBI or these federally funded agencies."

Whatley said the state's version of the regulations will be submitted to Washington by Dec. 15.

The final version of the regulations will not be effective until December 1977, Whatley said.

"I don't think the Texas Open Records Act will be involved," he said. "These regulations are not to prohibit any authorized person from getting the information... It would prevent such people as employment agencies from getting criminal histories."

However, Bill Roberts, Tarrant County director of information systems, says he got a different idea after attending a workshop in Dallas held by LEAA personnel.

Roberts said the LEAA personnel said the new rules will supersede any state laws such as the Texas Open Records Act. "I was appalled... The new standard is stricter and requires not only a specific request from the press, but limits the information given to confirming or denying specific information in the inquiry."

Roberts said in Tarrant County's case this would mean purging the county's computer system of criminal justice files, purchasing another computer to handle those operations and organizing new computer department under the control of the district attorney, sheriff or some other law enforcement agency.

Whatley said Texas' proposal to carry out the new regulations will not be submitted until after the LEAA has completed holding five orientation meetings across the nation to get local comment. "They suggested we wait until we see what everybody thinks about the plan before we write ours," he said. Whatley said the proposed federal rules don't apply to any criminal history information contained in announcements about fugitives or wanted persons, about original records such as police blotters, court records or judicial records, published court opinions, or records of traffic offenses. The Houston appellate case involves a suit filed by the Houston Chronicle against the Houston Police Department for public access to police records. A lower court decision said the city had no authority to withhold criminal records but at the same time said the Open Records Act gave the newspaper no direct authority to open the records.

Legal authorities say that the question the Houston appellate court has to answer is: "Is the Open Records Act too vague to be enforced?" Asst. Atty. Gen. Reid says his department had been studying the new federal regulations and would have recommendations to make at the proper time.

Reid pointed out that one section of the regulations says: "Nothing in these regulations prevents a criminal justice agency from disclosing to the public factual information concerning the status of an investigation, the apprehension, arrest, release or prosecution of an individual, the adjudication of charges, or the correctional status of an individual, which is reasonably contemporaneous with the event to which the information relates. "Nor is a criminal justice agency prohibited from confirming prior criminal history record information to members of the news media or any other person upon specific inquiry as to whether a named individual was arrested, detained, indicted or whether an information or other formal charge was filed, on a specific date, if the arrest record information or criminal information disclosed is based on police blotters, court records and such."

Detroit Gets High Marks From Natives

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit gets high marks from the people who should know.

A six-month survey of a cross section of residents of Detroit and its suburbs reveals some surprising findings, including:

By 10 to 1 they are satisfied with themselves.

By 84 per cent to 16 per cent they are "very happy" or "pretty happy."

By more than 6 to 1 they give a positive rating to their police protection.

The study, undertaken by the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research, is the first attempt to survey the quality of life in an urban region.

It showed by margins that often reach 10 to 1 that Detroiters, both black and white, as well as suburban residents expressed satisfaction with their community, their neighborhood, their job, their marriage and family life, their health, their amount of leisure time and how they spend it and their income and standard of living.

Changes In Texas And Texans

The movement for a new constitution, resulting in the Convention of 1874, was a response, not to historical crisis, but to change, over a period of almost a century, in Texas and its people.

As the Indians and buffalo disappeared, to be replaced by settlers, with their farms, ranches and towns, the number of counties grew from 145 to 254. The Rio Grande border changed from an area of constant conflict to one of peaceful flow, in both directions, of people, goods and trade. Crime and lawlessness diminished very little, but changed in nature.

Agriculture, which had been the predominant way of life of Texans in 1876, became agribusiness, a well-organized, highly mechanized industry, requiring much more capital and skill and fewer people. King Cotton lost his throne to the cattle business, which with its feed lots, processing plants, and milk cooperatives, now produces far greater revenue than all row crops combined. Even among the crops, grain sorghum took the lead, with cotton second and rice third.

With the coming of oil at the turn of the century, industry boomed, first in the processing of natural resources, in refineries and chemical plants, and in the processing of animal and crop products of the land. This trend gave way to a boom in petrochemicals, followed by the development of aircraft, automobile, clothing and other manufactures, and finally, a major development in electronics. Texas now has some 13,000 manufacturing plants, employing 730,000 workers and adding 13 billion dollars a year to value by manufacturing.

The railroads, which reached their peak of development in 1932, with 17,078 miles of track, and by 1944 were carrying nearly 26,000,000 passengers, have now shrunk to some 13,000 miles of track and very limited passenger service. Their handling of freight peaked at over 211,000,000 tons in 1970, only to drop off until a shortage of gasoline boosted such traffic again in 1974.

The stagelines were replaced by bus lines, and the ox-drawn freighters by trucks. Texas now registers some 9,250,000 vehicles operating on 70,000 miles of paved highways. Airlines, using the 1,300 public and private airports, carry some 10,000,000 passengers a year. As a final touch, the Space Center at Houston guides men to the moon and back.

Most significant of the changes brought to Texas by time has been the urbanization of its population. This has brought changes in social and political viewpoints in sharp contrast to those of the Grange-dominated convention of 1875. The present population of the state is ten times the 1,200,000 of 1875. More importantly, it is distributed in a sharply different way. In 1875 about 92 per cent of the population lived on farms and ranches, with only 8 per cent in the towns and cities. Today only 20 per cent of the population is rural, and only 3.5 per cent are living on farms and ranches. Over 58 per cent of the people now live in the seven largest metropolitan areas: Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Austin, El Paso and Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange. (NEXT: A commission on revision.)

Festival Angers Atoka Residents

ATOKA, Okla. (AP)—The promoters may have called the big Labor Day Weekend music festival a success, but the sheriff, ministers and a banker are making plans to see that there isn't another one next year.

Approximately 40 ministers from Coal and Atoka counties, organized by Atoka County Sheriff Cecil Frazier, are researching efforts to prevent another "48 Hours in Atoka."

Frazier, calling this year's event "a disgrace to humanity," said he personally witnessed nudity and had heard from reliable reports of public sexual intercourse.

"If it's not the kind of thing or place I can take my mother, my wife or my children, then I'm against it," he said.

The protesters met last Friday with District Court Judge Lavern Fishel in an attempt to obtain a permanent injunction to prevent another festival next year.

Frazier said Fishel told the original group of 12 ministers that an injunction could not be filed unless there was actual proof that another festival would be held, such as tickets being printed.

Atoka banker Phillip Howard, who also is a lay minister at the Children's Chapel in Atoka, said the group would first attempt to convince the owners of the property on which the festival was held not to lease the property again.

One of the property owners, Bill Moore, an Atoka attorney, said he did not know of any plans to stage another show next year but said the promoters had an option on the land in case they decided to have another show.

After this year's show was over, the promoters said they planned to hold a larger one next year pegged to a Bicentennial theme.

In a public statement last Friday releasing official attendance figures, the promoters said Jerry Nix, executive producer from Dallas, stands to lose $100,000 on the event.

Official attendance records showed about 20,000 persons actually bought the $10 admission tickets while there were estimates that 4,000 to 5,000 other persons may have slipped into the area in the southeast Oklahoma hills without buying tickets.

During the course of the show, the promoters pegged the total attendance at 104,000.

TIA To Sponsor CC Breakfast

Texas International Airlines will be getting something other than airplanes off the ground next Thursday, Sept. 18, when the airline sponsors the season's first Midland Chamber of Commerce Early Bird Breakfast.

The breakfast, first since the two-month summer layover, is scheduled at 7 a.m. at Conner's Banquet Room, 302 Secor St. The cost is $2.50 per person.

The breakfast is open to chamber members and guests. Reservations may be made by contacting the chamber office by Sept. 17.

Camera Club To Meet
Irina Underwood's photographs of Alaska will be the program for the Monday meeting of the Midland Camera Club, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the Midland Nature Planetarium in Haley Park.

Theatre School Motivates Students Toward Creativity

Midland Community Theatre School, which begins its fall term Monday, has as a primary goal the motivation of students toward creativity—by first making them want to create and then by providing opportunities for them to do so.

The school, with classes for children and young people through 18 years of age, offers youngsters a unique opportunity to actively participate in the theater experience and thereby gain positive appreciation of themselves as creative individuals, points out Judy Yeckel, director of the school.

At the same time, the students gain solid understanding of theater performance and production arts, she says.

"With the classroom experience as a catalyst, enhanced by opportunities for seeing and participating in live theater, an entertaining and educational atmosphere is created in which students are free to look, to perceive, to think, and then to express and create," she added.

Classes for primary age (4-8) children explore the wonders of the creative process through play, that most natural activity for youngsters, the director said.

Imagination and group involvement are heightened through the medium of theater games and creative dramatics.

For intermediate ages (9-11), classes will concentrate on story dramatization as well as the building of theater pieces based on the immediacy of the youngsters' own feelings and experiences.

Finally, for young people aged 12 to 18, classes will provide in-depth exploration of all theater arts, with topics of study to run the gamut from musical comedy dance to problems in technical theater, and from concepts of design to audition techniques.

The director, Miss Yeckel joined Midland Community Theatre's professional staff in early summer. Following graduation from Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., she served for a time as director of the Mount Holyoke Children's Theatre.

She later was associated with a children's theater touring group, Periwinkle Productions, serving as both director and production manager.

Additional information on the upcoming term is obtainable from the Midland Community Theatre at P.O. Box 4847, Midland 79701, or by telephoning Theatre Centre, 682-2544.

Arts Association Sets UTPB Show

ODESSA — Texas Fine Arts Association's region 18 citation show is scheduled Sept. 27 at The University of Texas at Permian Basin.

The show, formerly held in the spring, this year has been changed to early fall. This year's exhibit has been organized by the Odessa Art Association.

TFAA members will be allowed up to three entries apiece in the show, with fee to be $3 per entry. Non-members also may enter works for the same fee, plus payment of the $4 TFAA membership.

Pamela Champion Price, currently an assistant professor of art at UTPB, will be the juror for the show. She holds a bachelor's degree in art from Georgia State University and a master of fine arts degree from the University of Georgia. She has exhibited widely

Tony Orlando And Group To Hit Dallas

DALLAS — Television and recording stars Tony Orlando and Dawn will be seen and heard in a one-night stand here this weekend.

The trio of performers will present their concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Dallas Memorial Auditorium. Tickets, ranging from $5.50 to $7.50, are on sale at Preston Ticket Agency and will be available at the auditorium before performance time Friday evening.

Fort Worth Ballet Honors Bicentennial

FORT WORTH — The Fort Worth Ballet, who is soon to join the Fort Worth Ballet Association, is announcing its 1975-76 season, a season that will be heavily American both in productions and in guest artists, in honor of the nation's Bicentennial.

Leading off the new season on Sept. 27 will be a performance by the Houston Ballet of its Bicentennial trilogy of Texas ballets. They are "Allen's Landing," choreographed by James Clouser and mounted to music by Fisher Tull; "Moonscape," choreographed by Jan Stockman Simons and with an electronic score by Michael Horvit, and "Galveston Suite," choreographed by Ruthanna Boris to music by the late Scott Joplin, America's first notable black composer.

The Sept. 27 season-opener is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in Tarrant County Convention Center theater in downtown Fort Worth.

Continuing the season on Dec. 17 will be performances of the famous "Les Sylphides," staged by Nancy Schaffenburg; "Ondine," staged by Fernando Schaffenburg, and a new work, "Trilogy," with music by Bob Dylan. The latter work had its Southwestern premiere performances here last year.

Featured as guest artists with the Fort Worth Ballet troupe in the December program will be Fernando Bujones of the American Ballet Theater and Yoko Morishita of the Tokyo

Austin Sound Due In Lubbock
LUBBOCK — Entertainer Willie Nelson brings his highly publicized "Austin Sound" to Lubbock Municipal Coliseum Friday night.

The show, which is expected to be a sellout, also will feature Tracy Nelson, Mother Earth and Joey Ely. Tickets are on sale in advance at B & B Music Center, Double T Ranch Western Store and the coliseum box office.

Nelson, whose most recent concert appearances have been at Denver, also was a featured performer in the Labor Day weekend music fest at Atoka, Okla. Another recent booking was at Las Vegas' Gold Nugget where he played to standing-room-only crowds.

Currently high on the country-Western music popularity charts is Nelson's single, "Blue Eyes Are Crying in the Rain," as well as his album, "Red-Haired Stranger."

M. A. Plans Demonstrations
Final planning is under way for Midland Arts Association's fifth annual "Demonstration Day" on Sunday.

The event spotlights artists and craftspeople, all MAA members, demonstrating a variety of creative techniques. This year's show will be held between 1:30 and 4 p.m. Sunday on the grounds of the Lancaster House of Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Indiana St. It will be open to the public at no charge.

Scheduled to present demonstrations are Marian Ford, Pat Metts, Faye Grissett, Dorothy Peterson, Stan Jacobs, Kay Sprecher, Charles Pruitt, Jean Posey and Sara Gilstrap.

How NOT To Buy (And Put Together) A Wheelbarrow

By JACK SMITH
The Los Angeles Times
For the last several years our wheelbarrow had been more of a landmark than an implement. I had used it to mix concrete in when I built the steps down to the second level, and never cleaned it up. The residue of the concrete hardened inside the barrow, forming a thick rough coat and making it heavy and useless for most garden chores. In time it had become an abandoned thing, rusting and filling with dry leaves beside the sidewalk under the Chinese elm, season after season.

of Smith and men

one, but Al said he'd put one on order. A week or two later he phoned to say it was in and I drove down to pick it up.

"Where is it?" I asked, looking about the incredibly cluttered store with that mixed feeling of dismay and wonder it always inspires. The Star must be one of the last of the Ma and Pa hardware stores, and by any odds the most disordered. I would call it complete chaos, except that either Al or Florence knows where everything is, down to the tiniest nut. Al has been bound to his chair in recent years, and Florence does the leg work whenever a customer takes her away from her soap operas on the TV set beside the cash register, climbing over cartons and up on precarious perches to blow away the dust and lay her hands on a Japanese screwdriver, a copper water closet float or whatever is required. If she can't find something, Al guides her by voice, as if he were talking down an airplane in the fog.

"Those little rubber washers you use for—what the hell is it you use 'em for?"

"I don't see any washers."

"Then we must be out of 'em. So look on the other side of where those copper faucets are . . ."

"There's your wheelbarrow," Al said, nodding toward a large yellow barrow leaning against the counter.

bad noised when you want them to, so I left it with him for a road test. That evening I stopped by to get the bad news.

"Jack," he said, "you've got a wheelbarrow in your trunk."

It wasn't until last Sunday that I found time to put the thing together. I decided to work on it while I was watching the Oakland-Pittsburgh football game on TV. When I'm doing something that doesn't take a lot of intelligence I like to do something intellectually engaging at the same time. That way I wouldn't feel guilty about wasting three hours on football, and I wouldn't be bored while I was assembling the wheelbarrow.

"Where's the rest of it?" I asked uneasily.
"It's in that box. You have to put it together."

If it had been any other store I wouldn't have bought an unassembled wheelbarrow. My assembling days are over. But I was afraid Al might be stuck with it for two or three years, and I'd see it every time I walked in.
I put the barrow and the parts in the trunk of my car and in a day or two forgot all about it. A week or so later my wife noticed a light rumbling when we went over a rough spot in the street.
"What's that?" she asked.
"I didn't hear anything," I said, but a moment later I heard it, too. My heart sank. "Sounds like the transmission," I said. The next morning I took the car down the hill to Mike, my mechanic. But cars never make

"How come you're watching the Dodgers," I said, "when they're 17 games behind?"
He shrugged. "What else? There's no soap operas on Sunday."

In a moment I had them switched over to the Oakland game while Florence was looking for a nut to fit the axle. She found it, but I didn't want to leave in the middle of the third quarter. By the time the quarter was over I had bought a Japanese screwdriver and two 10-inch tongue-in-groove pliers, a Japanese screwdriver and two cans of doghouse paint.
I hurried home between quarters but the game was over before I could get the wheelbarrow together. I expect to get back to work on it next Saturday while the Rams are playing Buffalo.
My wife says she just hopes I get it all together before the leaves begin to fall.

Library Opens New Fine Arts Department

The Midland County Public Library opened its newly-expanded fine arts and audio-visual department to the public with a flourish this week. The department, situated in an area formerly housing the young adult book department, offers hundreds of LP phonograph records, ranging from pre-Bach to late Rock; 8 mm movies and proper projection equipment on which to show them, hundreds of reference books and other source material on music, theater, art, art history and related subjects and — not least — almost 200 framed art works (reproductions of famous paintings as well as original works) for monthly rental at nominal fees.

Participating in ribbon cutting ceremonies opening the department Tuesday were County Commissioner John Thomas and Mrs. E. V. Mathys of Houston, former Midland resident who is credited with much of the vision and effort needed to bring the department to its present size and scope.

Also participating were Mrs. Frances Williams, county librarian; Mrs. Robert McLellan, current president of the Friends of the Library, the library's volunteer service and support organization, and Doug Henson, president of the County Library Board. Mrs. Williams pointed out that the evolution of the library from an institution centering all its services on the printed word to a multi-media resource center began in 1968 when the library board and county commissioners approved the facility's joining the West Texas Library Film Circuit. By becoming a member of the circuit, the library was able to provide 16 mm sound movies to local organizations for their use in programs.

At Mrs. Mathys' urging in 1969, the Friends of the Library purchased a collection of LP phonograph records which became the nucleus for the hundreds of recordings now available in the fine arts department. Later, as president of the Friends organization, Mrs. Mathys promoted the idea of having a collection of framed art works to be made available to library patrons for rental. This has been an immensely successful venture and the 50 art works initially purchased by the Friends have been augmented by later purchases to the point where there are now 181 art works available, with 30 more on order. The next step in the development of the department came in 1973 when the Friends, again at Mrs. Mathys' urging, acquired a number of 8 mm movies to be loaned. Another former Friends president, Glen Ford, later urged purchase of several film projectors which also could be checked out, and the Friends ultimately provided three projection machines, which are available on a rental basis.

Mrs. E. V. Mathys and County Commissioner John Thomas look over one of the framed art works available for rental at the Midland County Library. They participated in recent ceremonies opening the newly-expanded fine arts and audio-visual department of the library.

'Old' Newlyweds Subject Of Play

LUBBOCK — Middle-aged newlyweds are the improbable, but nevertheless loveable, subjects of the Hayloft Dinner Theater's new production, "A Girl Could Get Lucky."
The comedy, starring Susan Berger and Barry Corbin (real-life husband and wife) as the newly-wed couple, opened this week at the dinner theater playhouse with performances to continue through Oct. 11. Reservations for the 6:30 p.m. buffet dinner and the 8:30 p.m. performance each weekday may be made through the theater box office, 806-866-4213.
Director Leland Murray has termed "A Girl Could Get Lucky" as a tour de force for the two member cast. It concerns a practical and penurious New York taxi driver who marries an intellectual secretary. The comedy, by Don Appel, starred Betty Garrett and Pat Hingle in its original Broadway production.
Old Territory
Carbon 14 dating of charred wood from the remnants of a 500-mile-long earthen wall that once surrounded the present site of Kiev points to the existence of an organized state in the present territory of the Soviet Union in the 4th and 6th centuries, about 500 years earlier than previously thought.

Globe Offers Seminar Series

ODESSA — Entertainment-with-enlightenment might best characterize the series of seminars to be offered at the Globe Theater tonight and Friday and Saturday nights.

The seminars (or, actually, public discussions led by panels of experts) will focus on ecology, taxation and war and pacifism—issues taken up in the Globe's currently-running production, "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail."

The production last weekend, and will have additional presentations Sept. 19 and 20. The current weekend will not have performances, as such, although selected scenes from the play will be presented during each night's seminar to illuminate or delineate points in the discussions.

Panelists for tonight's session on ecology will be Dr. Dianne Peters, Dr. C. O. McKinney, Dr. Charles Bibart, Dr. John Marshall. Friday night, panelists on pacifism will be Dr. Tom Hohstadt, Gen. Henry Hise, Dr. J. W. Bastein, Dr. Leonard Neufeldt and Dr. Konstantine Kolenda. On Saturday the discussion topic is to be taxation, with panelists to be Dr. David Sloan, State Rep. John Hoestenbach, Dr. Gene Nini, Jack Anderson and Dr. Phillip White.

Each of the sessions will begin at 8 p.m. and will be free to the public.

The MHS football team really was moving last Friday night as it rolled over the Amarillo Tascosa Rebels. At last report Kim Madden was in Odessa, football in hand. That boy just doesn't know when to stop running! Kevin Widner, playing at the quarterback position, helped to gain yardage. His passing game was very effective. Besides completing passes to various players, he hit one duck flying south for the winter. You thought Mike Beane was good at the game, you should have seen him dance. Keep those victories coming!

The "after game" dance was a great success. If you missed it, we hope to see you at the next one. "Thanks for coming," from Rasco.

Wondering why you didn't get your annual Monday? Rumors are that the boat from China sprung a leak (Get it, slow boat from China.) They will be here soon, so keep your ears open!

No time to sleep late Friday. There will be a pep-rally in the gym at 8 a.m. We hope that the sophomores and juniors have practiced the victory yell, so the seniors can hear them clear across the gym. Martha Cherry, thanks for being such a good sport last week. Football players (J.F.), remember the pep-rally starts at 8 sharp in the boys' gym.

The volleyball team travels to the Odessa College tournament Saturday. Good luck.

Best wishes also to the cross-country team in its practice session at Odessa.

Several MHS horsewomen will participate in the Charity Horse Show this weekend. They are Shannon Dillard, Kitty Sappington, Christine Blanks, Rosen Glenn and Corrinne Cahoon. The horse show will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Polo Grounds.

After the movie Friday night, drive on over to the Y.C. There is plenty of parking in the back. The gates to the patio will be open. Come on down for a good time. There are trash cans in the back for the aluminum can drive.

MHS is proud to welcome the new teachers. They are: Vermeta Alford (LLD), Coach Larry Burgin (tennis), Faye Daugherty (biology and algebra), Margaret McCall (DEM), Kathy Moak (art), and Bonnie Worley (English).

Has everyone recovered from all of that good German food and drink (?) at Septemberfest? Sure hope so because we want you to be in good condition to meet President Ford. He will speak at the formal dedication of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Check ya later,
Caroline

Hard Water Costs $6.3 Billion Yearly

LOMBARD, III. (AP) — Hard water costs consumers $6.3 billion annually, according to economists at the Water Quality Research Council. It wastes $1.8 billion in soaps, detergents, shampoos and other cleaning materials. It deteriorates plumbing at an estimated $2.7 billion rate. It does $1 billion in damage to sheets, linens, towels and washable clothing. In addition, by depositing insulating scale in water heaters, it adds $800 million to the nation's fuel bills.

About 80 per cent of the United States and Canada has hard water. On a per family basis, hard water damage costs each affected household $37 more each year for soaps, detergents, etc., $55 extra in plumbing repairs and replacements and $29 in shortened life for sheets, linens and other washables. Added annual fuel costs amount to approximately $18, the council reports.

Rusty Coffee Can Treasure Chest

LOVELOCK, Nev. (AP) — The Lee Olsons found treasure in a coffee can. They discovered a rusty coffee can half filled with $1,400 worth of $25 gaming chips from Harold's Club in Reno.

The Olsons were searching for old bottles near a dry lake when they came upon the frame of an ancient auto. Inside the car relic they found the rusty can and chips.

The game tokens were counted and verified by the club's assistant controller, Mike Mills. Some of the chips were partially burned and are about 15 years old.

No matter how sweetly you smile at them, some people will never warm up to you. If this happens at the bridge table, have patience: there will be other partners and other hands.

North has a respectable hand, and he should make it clear that he needs only a little help to make game. The point is that he must believe what his partner tells him.

South shows the nature of his hand by bidding a minimum number of diamonds at each turn. A player who bids one, two and finally three diamonds says: "I have a long suit of respectable strength, but my suit will not run at no-trump and my hand is not strong enough for game."

If South had six or seven diamonds headed by A-Q-J (or better) he might bid one diamond, but at his third turn he would be glad to bid three no-trump.

NO PLAY FOR GAME

There is no legitimate play for game. At diamonds, South should lose a spade and two diamonds. At no-trump, North cannot produce enough tricks to make game unless the opponents go crazy.

It is quite all right for North to invite game very cordially, but a realist should know when his invitation is being firmly turned down.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: ♦A1094 ♥Q1053 ♦54 ♠J96. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. Show the lower of two four-card major suits. Partner can conveniently show a fit for hearts or bid one spade, thus finding a major suit fit if there is one.

Midland College Landscape Group Appeals For Funds

The Midland College Landscape Committee this week is beginning a direct mail campaign appealing to Midlanders for funds to continue planting and beautification of the college campus.

The mass mailing will take place this week, with a request that donors contribute by Sept. 25 toward a goal of $100,000. Part of that sum already has been authorized for landscaping which is under way on the college grounds.

The committee was organized last year to help raise funds for Midland College's planting and beautification program.

According to Boley Embrey, who is in charge of the Public Gifts Division, tax money is not available for landscaping purposes and funds must be secured by individual contributions.

Embrey said donors will have their names printed on a parchment scroll which will be displayed permanently in the college's learning resource center.

"Gov. Dolph Briscoe will be in Midland Oct. 2 to formally dedicate the college, and it is our desire to have donations in by Sept. 25 in order that the donor's name be on the scroll when the dedication takes place," he said.

"It is vital that we have the support of our fellow Midlanders in this effort to assure that the campus is comparable to the beauty of existing facilities." Co-chairing the Midland College Landscape Committee are James N. Allison Jr. and John A. Steele Jr.

Other committee members include Bill Malone, Bill Mewhorter, Luke Thompson, Jim Myers, George Vineyard, Gordon Knox, Embrey, Bill Milner, W. B. Thrasher, Kent Randel, Joe Dominey and Carroll Kiser.

Six Midlanders Receive Degrees

DENTON — Six Midlanders were awarded degrees during summer commencement exercises at North Texas State University.

Receiving master's degrees were Linda Mills Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carvel M. Mills, 8 Cambridge Ct., elementary school supervision, and Warren D. Tervooren, 800 Stanolind, secondary education.

Bachelor's degrees in accounting went to Marilyn Gay Krizan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Krizan, 3117 Kansas St.; James Kent Hartman II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hartman, 2610 Cuthbert St., and Ronnie Ray Thomas, son of Mrs. Eliza J. Thomas, 2306 E. California St.

Pamela O. Tilley, daughter of Coke M. Tilley, 1601 Midkiff Road, earned a bachelor's degree in guidance studies.

Meeting Set

The conference room of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission at Midland Regional Air Terminal will be the site of the Monday meeting of the board of trustees of the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Reeducation. The meeting is set for noon.

Iron Replaces Bronze

The Iron Age is usually considered by archaeologists to be a period of some centuries immediately following the time when iron began to replace bronze as the principal material for implements and weapons.

APPOINTMENT — Kenneth Perry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Perry Jr. of 123 Dewberry St. in Midland, has been named director of the Museum of the Big Bend of Sul Ross University in Alpine. Perry, one of the first to receive a master of arts degree in museum science at Texas Tech, also will be archivist at Sul Ross' university library.

Casa De Amigos House Of Friends

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As a prelude to the United Way campaign, Reporter-Telegram reporter Bo Baskin visited several agencies receiving funds from the campaign with a member of the Visitation Committee. The following article is what he found out about the agency.)

By BO BASKIN
The Casa de Amigos is a tiny paint-chipped building. Only its not a building. As its name implies, it's a house — a house of friends.

The Casa is tucked away on a fairly obscure street on Midland's eastside. Four foot weeds cluster in some of the lots surrounding it. Some of the lots contain houses, which have shed their paint and sometimes their owners. The road, which is paved directly in front of the house, tapers off into dust and caliche only one block to the south.

Blighted and barren, the area surrounding the Casa beckons for renovation, for care. It is this beckoning which justifies the existence of the Casa, a United Way agency.

"We're here to help people in need," says Marcia Ingram, the tall and dignified-looking woman who serves as the Casa's executive director.

"Our purpose is to help people help themselves."

Helping people help themselves has taken a number of different forms at the Casa since the agency's conception in 1964. An emergency fund is maintained to meet the unexpected needs of disadvantaged families.

A language course is available for the many people who cannot speak English. Employment opportunities are sought out and sometimes provided by the Casa. Sewing classes are offered and used garments are sold for a dime apiece, giving some relief to the impoverished's need for clothes.

The Casa also gives tutorial help, provides weekly meals for the elderly and assists deserving high school students and graduates secure grants and endowments.

According to William R. Slater, the Casa "contacts more people on a smaller budget than you would ever believe." However, Mrs. Ingram says "there is always a lot more to do, a lot more people to reach."

Indeed, Mrs. Ingram indicates that the current recession "is affecting our people in the eastside community very drastically. Many family household heads are still receiving minimum wage."

She says there are "no houses for low-income families." She cites instances of two to three families living in the same home and of people living in cars and in previously abandoned houses.

Mrs. Ingram also points to the dearth of available transportation as a "real key" to eastside community problems. "How are you going to get people off the welfare rolls if they can't get to work," she asks.

Mrs. Ingram says that Midland is a unique community, that she has never seen so much volunteer help available in a town.

However, she says "it is amazing how totally unaware people are of problems within the city." She says she would like to see a more concerned attitude toward eastside community problems. Old clothing, books and equipment as well as a large amount of volunteer help are needed at the Casa.

The Casa needs and asks for the help of Midlanders so that it may continue in its declared role of helping others.

Bid To Force Opening Of Blue Cross Records Goes Before State Court

DALLAS (AP) — A freelance writer's attempt to force Blue Cross to allow her to inspect financial records on its use of state and federal Medicaid funds was to go before a district court this afternoon.

State District Court Judge Leonard Hoffman scheduled a 2 p.m. hearing on the open records suit filed by Jackie Cox, a former aide to Rep. Lane Denton, D-Waco.

Cox said at an Austin news conference Wednesday that Blue Cross invests Medicaid funds in corporations with which some of its directors and officers are affiliated.

She said Blue Cross had refused to show her its financial records and then failed to seek an attorney general's opinion on whether the documents are subject to disclosure under the Texas Open Records Act.

The act covers corporations that spend public funds.

The state contracts with Blue Cross to administer Medicaid, which provides health care for persons on the welfare rolls. In effect, the state buys a health insurance policy for each recipient.

Cox contended the firm is allowed to invest Medicaid funds in excess of those needed to pay claims, with the amount now estimated at $33 million.

While Blue Cross is not allowed to make a profit, she said some of its officers and directors have "ties with the financial community" and use the surplus as a "pool of investable funds" to benefit firms with which they are connected.

But, she added, profits on these investments on state funds are not returned to the state.

"Texas is the only state that buys an insurance policy on its welfare recipients," she said, while others normally use an insurance company only as a channel of funds to doctors and hospitals.

Cox said a recent report by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare said $500,000 in administrative costs claimed by Blue Cross for the Medicaid program were improper and could not be paid.

TWIN STAMPS — The U.S. Postal Service in Washington has announced the design of twin 10-cent commemorative stamps being issued Oct. 6 to honor banking and commerce in the United States. Appellate Judge Joins Drive To Defeat New Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr. of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals is among those named to the steering committee of an organization working to defeat the proposed new state constitution at the polls Nov. 4.

Members of the committee were announced by Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, chairman of "Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution."

In addition to Onion, they are Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth; Chief Justice T. C. Chadwick of the Texas Court of Civil Appeals; Dallas County Treasurer Warren G. Harding; Dallas County Judge W. D. Henson; and former Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard of Odessa.

Onion said he opposes the judiciary article, claiming that consolidation of his court with the Texas Supreme Court and the addition of an intermediate step to the criminal appeal process would delay justice.

"What good are speedy trials if you don't have speedy appeals? This would intensify the traffic jams in our courts instead of alleviating them," he said.

Convictions would be appealed initially to the new courts of appeals, standing between the trial courts and the supreme court. Only those cases accepted by the supreme court would be heard at that level.

Sheppard said he opposed provisions calling the legislature into session every year and setting up a commission to recommend salary limits for lawmakers, who would have the power to set their own pay within those limits.

"This would make us lose the input of business and professional people who now serve in the legislature because it would move us toward fulltime lawmakers instead of the part-time citizen-legislators who have enabled Texas to establish one of the best state governments in the country," he said.

Advocates of the provisions say they will make legislative service open to persons of all income levels and will enable the state to go on a more efficient yearly budget instead of budgeting for two years at a time, based on long-range—and often inaccurate—revenue estimates.

Panel Urges State Ownership Of Matagorda Island Acreage

By JACK KEEVER
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A special committee directed to create a state park of "matchless beauty" on Matagorda Island has voted unanimously that it would be in Texas' best interests if the state owned the federal's government share of the island.

Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong raised the possibility Wednesday of swapping land near Fort Bliss in El Paso County for part of the island, south of Port Lavaca.

The Air Force has announced that it is pulling off the island, which it condemned in 1940 for a base and bombing range. The Interior Department, however, has said it wants the federal land to expand the Texas coastal refuge for 49 rare whooping cranes.

The 30-mile-long island "probably has as good sports fishing as there is in the United States, and it also has as good hunting as there is in the United States," Armstrong told the 14-member legislator-citizen committee.

It is within easy weekend traveling distance of millions of residents of Houston, San Antonio and Corpus Christi.

Former Sen. Don Kennard, a faculty member at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, added that the island has the "broadest beach in the U.S., and it is one of the last on the Texas coast that is not eroding—it's growing."

"It's been cut off from man for many, many years," said Kennard. "Consequently, it hasn't been ruined as so many other areas have."

Currently, the federal government owns 18,972 acres on the island which it condemned during the pre-World War II national emergency in 1940, and has leased 16,369 acres from the state. Another 15,570 acres is privately owned, Armstrong said, either by Dallas oilman Toddie Lee Wynne Jr. or American Liberty Oil Co.

To gain clear title to the federal government land, Armstrong said, he might "be able to trade" more than 18,000 acres that the government has its eye on near Fort Bliss for the Matagorda land.

"I somewhat doubt" that the island acreage "is worth more than 18,000 acres of El Paso land," said Pearce Johnson, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"Remember," said Kennard, "the land is in the hands of the federal government, and they are not going to give it up lightly."

Sheriff Battles Rural Area Crime

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Crime appears to be moving to the rural areas nationwide, but the sheriff here is fighting that trend by having his patrolmen keep a close eye on strange cars.

Sheriff Lon Evans said Wednesday his men are presently stopping more than 1,500 vehicles a month on back roads throughout the county.

"We're doing something you can't do in the city," he said. "We can stop cars where, in the city, it would be impossible," said the sheriff.

The sheriff said all such activity is conducted by deputies on routine patrol, mostly in the unincorporated area of the county.

The sheriff said the program has resulted in many arrests in the past.

Folding beds are hardly new; ancient Egyptians had them.

PBRPC Okays Midland Application For Funding

Midland County's application for $11,000 in Community Development Act funds was approved Wednesday by the board of directors of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

The funds, available through the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will be used for street improvements in low-income areas of the county.

Also, if HUD approves, $1,000 will be used to complete renovation of the Valley View Community Center, located in a rural, unincorporated section of the county.

The regional planning board also approved Goldsmith's request for $24,000 in Community Development Act funds to pay for improvements to water and gas distribution systems in the community.

The board approved Odessa's request for $29,000 to finance a wastewater facility planning and improvement program. The funds are being sought from the Environmental Protection Agency, with the city's share of the project to be $9,000.

Also okayed was Ector County's request for $331,219, through the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Act, to fund "Coordinated Youth Services," a demonstration program for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Funds for the Ector County project would come from a combination of agencies, including the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The program will be open to all counties of the Permian Basin.

The board accepted the invitation of Midland College to hold its October session on campus as a part of the college's "Democracy in Action" program of the National Issues Conference.

Ernie Crawford, PBRPC executive director, was authorized to sign an agreement with a consulting firm to develop the Midland-Odessa Mass Transportation Feasibility Study.

The board agreed to appoint a steering committee for the development of a health service agency for the Permian Basin.

John Ehrlichman Keeping A Low Profile In Santa Fe

By LARRY CALLOWAY
Associated Press Writer
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — John Ehrlichman, suntanned and bearded after six months of his new life among the artists along Canyon Road here, might be writing about Watergate. But he's not talking.

His landlady says he's writing a book, and he did not deny a report that he is under contract with Simon and Schuster for a novel said to be autobiographical. "I just wouldn't comment on it," was his response, made through the cracks in the plank gate of the high adobe wall at his fashionable hilltop cottage.

Unlike other main characters in the nation's Watergate drama, Richard M. Nixon's former chief domestic adviser and long-time political lieutenant has shunned the lecture circuit and refused interviews.

In a grocery store conversation — he does his own shopping — he reasoned that if he grants one interview he'll be hounded. "And I would have broken faith with about 20 others who have asked and have been refused," he said.

Ehrlichman lives alone here; his wife is still in Seattle. Disbarred by the Supreme Court and facing two federal prison terms, he awaits the long process of court appeals. At age 50, he has traces of gray in his black beard and moustache.

He rents from Margaret Twyman, 60, who lives next door. "He strikes me as a very decent fellow. He's a good tenant.

He's growing vegetables over there and taking care of the lawn," she said.

"He commented one time he was writing a book, and I guess maybe he's writing it in long-hand."

Mrs. Twyman, incidentally, lived in the Watergate Apartments in Washington, D.C., before she moved to Santa Fe last October, leaving a job with the State Department for one with the National Park Service here. But she said she never met Ehrlichman in Washington.

Thomas A. Brown, a remodeler and craftsman, said he sold her the houses for about $65,000. The Ehrlichman cottage has one bedroom, corner fireplaces, Mexican tiles and an impressive view, he said.

This area's history dates to Spanish colonists in 1590, and many of the neighborhoods, including Ehrlichman's, are disorderly collections of old adobe houses and dirt roads. The Spanish-speaking neighbors are slowly selling to newcomers, many of them artists or owners of stores specializing in craft items. A 90-unit condominium is planned across the road.

The beard doesn't hide Ehrlichman in Santa Fe, which despite its 40,000 population and cosmopolitan residents, retains a small-town neighborliness.

But there's a tradition of leaving people alone that has let other celebrities, from John Wayne to poet Alan Ginsberg, pass through seemingly without notice.

Ehrlichman plays tennis, goes to quiet parties and frequents the more intimate restaurants. Meanwhile, his wife, Jeanne, has taken a job with the Seattle Symphony. She declines all comment about her relationship with her husband.

At least some of their five children have visited Ehrlichman here, and their youngest son, Robert, played guitar and sang for a while at a casual Canyon Road restaurant called "The Bistro."

William Kirschke, the young conductor of the Orchestra of Santa Fe, says on the basis of a conversation at a social gathering that Ehrlichman's knowledge of music is impressive.

They talked about the Santa Fe Opera's production of "Falstaff," which Ehrlichman saw. The ethic on Canyon Road, expressed time and again, is you don't talk politics with John Ehrlichman or you'll ruin the party.

"He's laid back. He's got some dues to pay," said a bearded musician. "But who am I to say how much?"

A waitress who has served him at a coffee house said, "I don't like him, but that's just politics. Heck, all he does here is eat."

His postman, Johnny Garcia, said, "He's nice to me. We talk about the weather. I think he's had enough problems as it is. Why try to bring Watergate up?" Perhaps in response to the "live and let live" attitude of the Ehrlichmans of the streets of Santa Fe is nothing like the scowling witness of the Senate Watergate hearings two years ago. He has a ready smile and a manner that one lady shopkeeper described as "very charming."

Politics can be serious business in this state capital where 37 per cent of the jobs are with state government. Watergate drew more interest than in some other places since this is the home town of Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Montoya says he hasn't come in contact with Ehrlichman here and. "It hasn't come to my attention that any problems have come up because he's living here. As a private citizen he's entitled to his privacy, and I hope he gets his matters with the courts straightened out."

Ehrlichman's initial explanation of why he moved to Santa Fe was that he wanted to do personal penance by volunteering his legal knowledge of land problems to the Pueblo Indians. But the governing body of the eight northern tribes turned him down.

So did U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica when Ehrlichman attorney Ira M. Lowe proposed the Indian service as an alternative to Ehrlichman's 2½- to 3-year prison sentence.

Car Sales Taxes Drop In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A hint of austerity showed up in automobile and related tax collections in Arkansas during the year of the energy shortage.

Automobile sales tax collections dropped 18.9 per cent in fiscal 1974, collections on automobiles bought in other states by Arkansians dropped 12.5 per cent. While gasoline tax revenue rose, this was due to an additional one cent tax per gallon. The previous tax rate would have netted less revenue.

Space Colony Being Studied

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A study on how it might be possible to colonize space either on an artificial planet or on Mars is being made by 25 scientists.

The exercise in utilizing engineering, social and economic theories, is an annual engineering systems design project sponsored by Ames Research Center at nearby Moffett Field and Stanford University.

Previous programs have centered on building a communications device to contact other intelligent life forms in the universe and creating new food supplies for earth.

This year project members will devise means to populate either Mars or an enormous man-made space habitat that would measure 19 miles long and four miles across.

Nursing Home Patients Studied

SOUTHPORT, Conn. (AP) — Yale University School of Medicine. The federal Medicaid program tends to extend patients' stays in skilled nursing homes and may keep them there longer than necessary, a study shows.

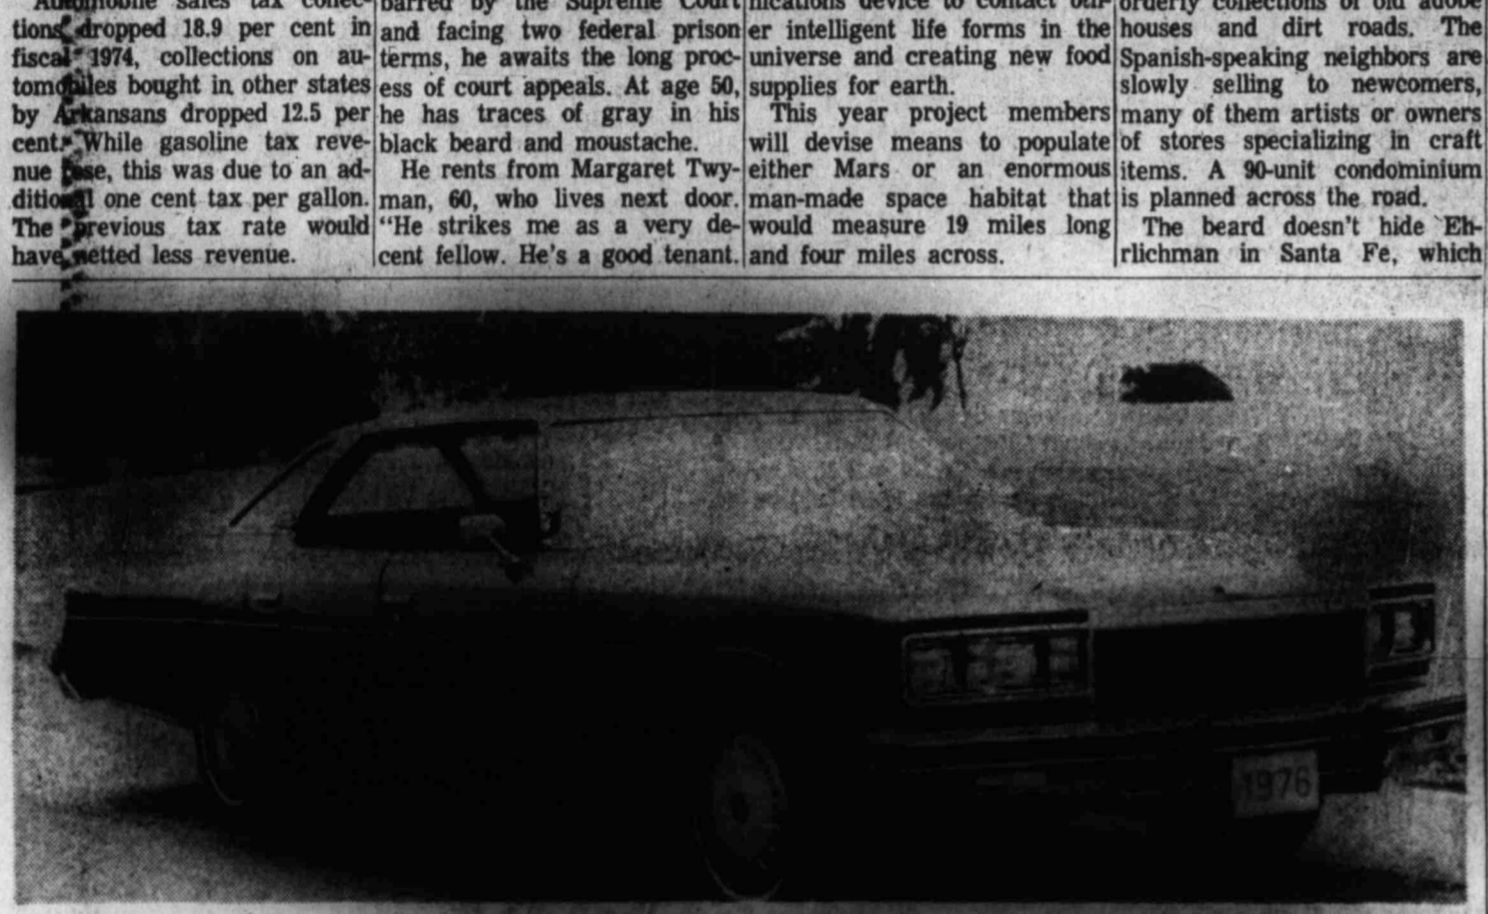

Edith S. Baum says the program provides more aid for nursing home care than for less intensive intermediate care and home care, such as visiting nurses.

As a result, Medicaid patients are less able to afford more suitable care than non-Medicaid patients, her study shows.

The 150-page study was Mrs. Baum's thesis for her master's degree in public health at the Leaders Of Congress Moving Cautiously On Sinai Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' commitment of U.S. technicians to monitor the Sinai peace accord appears assured, but leaders are moving cautiously to develop assurances that the Americans won't invade the United States in a Middle East war.

House and Senate staffers continue to work on language to require that the Americans be withdrawn immediately in case of war and to enable Congress to withdraw the technicians at any other time.

But House International Relations Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said he will put the commitment of technicians to a House vote as early as next Thursday if head counts confirm his belief that approval is assured.

No Senate action is promised that early, and Senate Foreign Relations Committee members say they want full hearings on all U.S. commitments involved in the Sinai accord before they vote on them.

Sources say the Senate committee, particularly, wants to be certain the resolution approving the technicians cannot turn into anything like the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution that after the fact became congressional approval of U.S. combat forces in Vietnam.

But little opposition has surfaced in either the Senate or the House to stationing the U.S. technicians to monitor the Israeli-Egyptian peace, even though mail in many offices is running against the accord.

"Many members are saying, 'I don't like it, but what's the alternative? You've got to vote for it,'" Morgan said Wednesday.

The only strong positions against the agreement in the Senate so far have been registered by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and William Scott, R-Va.

In the House, only Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., has publicly registered "grave reservations" about the accord, although a number of members in both the House and Senate have not yet taken any public position.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Morgan's committee this week that the U.S. commitment of technicians to monitor warning stations in the Mitla and Gidi passes is analogous to the United Nations peacekeeping force of 5,000 men that will be in the buffer zone below the passes.

Because of the isolation of the warning stations in the passes, Kissinger said, it will not be difficult to protect the Americans from terrorist attacks.

Longview Woman Slams Proposed Spelling Texts

By ROBERT HEARD
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Grade school spellers that dabble in creative writing rather than stress basics drew the fire Wednesday from Norma Gabler of Longview.

Mrs. Gabler built her reputation as a textbook critic with attacks in years past on books that failed to say evolution is a theory.

She said some spelling textbooks have promoted illiteracy. "Our parents are sick and tired of seeing the results," Mrs. Gabler told the State Textbook Committee. "Too much emphasis is placed on having a good time, of turning them on. Well, let's turn them off a little and turn them on to basics. We see too many kids who can't read or write or spell."

She said a 1971 Louis Harris survey showed nearly 19 million persons over the age of 18 in this country could not read and write well enough to fill out a job application form.

Mrs. Gabler attacked all six books in the grade school speller series that will be published by Merrill Publishing Co. next year.

The series "violates a basic principle of learning," she said. "Instead of going from the simple—individual sounds—to the complex—combinations of letter sounds, the student will be hindered in his learning how to spell or read."

"It has students write sentences before the letter sounds are learned. The child will be limited to what he memorizes. Can this type of teaching fail to increase the problem of illiteracy?"

In the third-grade book, she cited a page where students are asked to write something about the words spooky, silly and crash.

"Couldn't more encouraging, uplifting words be used?" she asked.

On another page students are told to "pretend you are living many years ago. You see one of these things (natural phenomena) and don't understand it. Write a myth to explain it. Make up your own names for gods."

Mrs. Gabler exclaimed, "This is humanistic!"

In the Grade 4 book, she said, nine of the 17 famous figures listed "are Negro (sic)," while only 20 per cent of the population is "Negro."

The publisher responded, "All of the 17 persons are black. As stated in the second column, the purpose of this activity is to enlighten students about the contributions of black Americans to our country."

Mrs. Gabler noted a reference to witches and Halloween, while "other, more significant holidays aren't mentioned in the book. Emphasis to the occult is given. This is religion."

In the fifth-grade book, she found a story about a Boy Scout helping an old woman across the street. "But I didn't want to get to the other side of the street," she sobbed.

This "bellies scouts and their creed," Mrs. Gabler said. The publisher responded, "If this passage bellies any group, it is not scouts but rather people who think they know what is best for others."

The textbook committee winds up a two-day hearing Thursday. It will meet Sept. 30 to select books it will recommend for adoption in 1976.

Foreign Students Ruled Not Eligible For Lower Tuition

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mexican students are not eligible for lower tuition rates in Texas state junior colleges, the attorney general has ruled.

The opinion was asked by Bevington Reed, state commissioner of higher education, concerning a bill by the recent legislature that says a student "who is a resident of a state situated adjacent to Texas" if exempt from normal non-resident tuition rates in Texas public junior colleges.

The attorney general noted that state college tuition rates for non-resident students and for foreign students have been treated separately by the legislature.

"We have discovered no indication of any legislative intent to make (the new law) applicable to counties adjacent to the Mexican border," the opinion said. "The word 'state' does not include Mexico."

Yarborough Debt Benefit Scheduled

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — About $2,000 has been donated to the cause of retiring former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough's campaign debt in advance of a fund-raising reception for Yarborough here tonight.

Art Brender, chairman of the reception committee, said response to the effort to pay off the remaining $22,000 of Yarborough's debt for his losing 1972 senate race has been good.

discovered Drake's coffin after a two-month search. But the 600-pound box contained only the bronze.

Expedition members said they would continue the search. They have already recovered cannon, ammunition, and other items from the 16th-Century warships resting on the bottom of the bay.

When the expedition made its final preparations last May, leader Sidney Wignall said that he was certain he would find Drake's coffin at the bottom of the bay. He said the famous sailor's body had been placed in a lead-lined coffin and been buried at sea in 1596, when Drake died of what some call dysentery and others say was poisoning.

The fire Tuesday apparently began in or near the kitchen, authorities said. Miss Ross, a cook and a handyman were at home but were not hurt.

Second French Atomic Test Expected Within Few Weeks

By MICHEL VIRIION
Agence France-Prese

MURUROA — France is expected to carry out the second of a series of underground nuclear test explosions beneath the Pacific Ocean atoll of Fangataufa, about 25 miles from the main French testing site here at Mururoa Atoll within the next few weeks.

The first underground blast took place June 5 on Fangataufa. It followed a decision to switch to subterranean testing

Bells On Way Out For British Sailors

Agence France-Prese

LONDON—In another blow to British tradition, Queen Elizabeth II has approved a reform which will abolish the famous bellbottom trousers and black silk scarves of sailors in the Royal Navy.

From now on, the sailors will wear trousers with narrower legs, but the Admiralty has not said whether or not the uniform alteration is an economy measure.

Without Rival

Roman troops in 146 B.C. destroyed Carthage and Rome then was without a rival in the western part of the Mediterranean.

after French atmospheric tests drew sharp protests from countries around the Pacific Ocean.

According to the reports, the second blast, code-named Hector, will be the last of the series to be conducted at Fangataufa, where officials of the French Atomic Energy Commission have decided to dismantle or "cocoon" the testing installations for later use if they are needed.

The first test explosion, code-named Achilles, was conducted at a depth of about 2,025 feet beneath the atoll in a drill-hole approximately three feet in diameter. The hole was sealed carefully with cement after a large number of cables leading to test instruments had been installed.

Following the test explosion, another oblique drill-hole was made to enable scientists to assess the results.

The third test, to be code-named Patrocles, will be conducted at a similar depth beneath Mururoa, according to the reports. A drilling derrick is already working around the clock to prepare for the test.

The reports quoted Claude Aycoberry, the director of the tests, as saying that France was now moving towards conducting underground tests at a regular cadence.

More than a month is required to drill a test hole and putting the testing equipment in place takes even longer. The cost of the first underground nuclear test was about $18 million, while atmospheric tests cost only $4 million, the reports said.

Aycoberry said the tests would continue at great depth in the hard basalt rock found beneath Mururoa. There was no danger of triggering an earthquake because studies had shown that the atolls were in a "zone of absolute calm" as far as seismic disturbances were concerned, the reports quoted him as saying.

SAT Test Averages Declining

NEW YORK (AP) — The average test scores of 1975 high school graduates on Scholastic Aptitude Tests took the biggest drop since the scores started a steady decline in 1964, the College Entrance Examination Board said Sunday.

The board also noted in its report on results of tests given last June's high school graduates that the women's movement may be having an effect on the tests used for entrance into college: for the first time more female than male students took the tests.

There was no decisive explanation of why the scores continued to drop in the standardized tests, which are used by most colleges and universities to judge likely students. And there was disagreement between board officials and others in education about the reason.

Critics of the tests say they are no longer relevant to the current teaching in high schools. Board officials dispute this.

In the tests of 1975 high school graduates, the scores for the verbal ability test dropped 10 points and those for the mathematical ability test were down 8 points. The tests are scored on a 200 to 800 basis.

In 1964 the average scores were 478 for verbal abilities and 502 for mathematical ability. The latest averages were 434 for verbal and 472 for mathematical.

The board also said fewer students were getting superior scores, above 600, and more were getting poor ones, below 400.

It noted that separate achievement tests for individual subjects had also dropped — with one exception, that of higher level mathematics skills. These achievement tests are generally taken by students with particular interest or skill in individual fields.

Among those reasons that the board eliminated for the most part as causes of the decline in score were:

- That the tests have gotten harder. The board says they have, in fact, gotten easier.
- That the number or type of people taking the test has changed. The board says the one million seniors tested was about what it has been for several years and that the shift in the type of prospective college students occurred years before the current decline.
- That not as many people are taking the tests twice, both as juniors and seniors. This would account for only a small part of the decline since the difference between scores in the junior and senior years is not that great, the board says.

Sam A. McCandless, director of the board's admissions testing program, noted that both the preliminary tests taken in the junior year and the tests in the senior year showed a decline in scores. But he had no clear explanation for the drop other than to say that the abilities of high school students in general have apparently dropped.

But Bernard McKenna of the National Education Association, the nation's largest teacher organization, maintained that the continuing slippage resulted because the tests are not relevant to what's being taught and students are increasingly coming to see this.

"Students are more alert to questioning and it's entirely possible that students aren't taking these things as seriously as they did 10 or 15 years ago because they now see the meaninglessness of it," said McKenna.

He added that the questioning approach now taken in schools could least be measured by the multiple choice tests.

"While the testmaker says there is one answer, the more you learn the more you are able to extrapolate two answers," he said.

McKenna said that the tests have never been very good and that the danger of depending on them too much has grown when, "in a computer age, people want to count everything."

"I think that the schools and students would neither one be worse off if standardized testing were to end tomorrow," he said.

McCandless argued that the tests were relevant and that follow-up studies showed the tests predicted how well students did in getting good grades in college. He said the tests were designed to measure rote memorization — a longtime criticism — but the reasoning ability of students.

"The test is of how well students think, not how well they memorize," he said.

He also noted that teachers and school administrators were becoming increasingly critical of the tests as they are more and more held accountable for education on the basis of the test scores.

McCandless said there was evidence of the women's movement's effect on the tests other than the growth in the number of women taking the test.

He said more women were indicating interest in taking post-graduate college degrees.

He noted that the myth that men were better in mathematics and women better in English seemed to be disappearing.

In the latest tests, the average score for verbal ability was 431 for women and 437 for men. In 1967 the verbal scores were 468 for women and 463 for men.

While men still do better on the math test — the average score was 495 for males and 449 for females — the decline over the years has been greater for men than for women.

In noting the decline in women's verbal scores, he said that a questionnaire accompanying the test showed women in particular, and students in general, were taking more physical science and fewer social science courses in high school. Some have said that social science courses tend to provide a greater help with verbal abilities.

The influence of the economy was also noted in replies to the questionnaire. There has been a drop in the number of those seeking careers in education, where jobs are tight, and an increase in those wanting business careers.

Black Africans Look To Past In Hopes Of New Future

EDITOR'S NOTE — In a wave of nationalism, old colonial boundaries became new African states. Now a rash of military juntas are replacing elected governments. Where are black Africans looking for their future? To their past, and a revival of the lost glories of tribalism.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

AKIM SWEDRU, GHANA (AP) — A tuba band belted out Dixieland and the girls from the Catholic orphanage sang "Old Black Joe," with Stephen Foster's original racist lyrics, as the local chiefs of the Ashanti tribe gathered to greet Ghana's head of state.

Dressed all in white, all twins born into the tribe had a special place of honor in the grandstand, and there were also separate cheering sections for each chief's several wives and his retinue of stool carriers, linguists, bathroom and wardrobe attendants, bodyguards, musicians and medicine men.

The "durban," or assembly of chiefs, in the bush country 65 miles north of Ghana's modern capital at Accra, was noisy proof that Africa's colorful and once all powerful tribal tradition has survived the wave of independence and nationalism that began breaking down the colonial system 15 years ago.

Under an enormous silken parasol, Nana Oware Agyekum II, the paramount chief, or local chief of chiefs, advanced to the microphone in robes agitter with gold, brandishing a golden sword, accompanied by two tiny page boys whose faces and arms were flecked with gold dust.

Col. Ignatius Kutu Acheampong, Ghana's head of state and Chairman of the National Redemption Council, came out to meet him in dark glasses, starched leopard skin fatigues, gold braided garrison cap and swagger stick, which has become almost the traditional uniform of all the ruling military juntas that since independence have replaced the elected democratic governments in at least 16 newly-created African nations.

Waving colorful handkerchiefs close to the ground, the mistresses of the tribe symbolically cleared the ancestral footpath for them with a weaving, chanting dance routine to the rhythmic beating of hundreds of tribal drums.

Speaking first, the "omanehene," or paramount chief, paid homage to the dead warriors of the tribe and the long line of past chiefs then quickly got to the main political business of asking the central government for a new road to the coast, more local industries to cure unemployment in the tribe and "automatic switching facilities for the regional telephone exchange." Each of these demands was underscored with a loud toot on the buffalo horn by the "linguist," or chief clerk, of the tribe.

Col. Acheampong, getting his licks in at the microphone without benefit of bullhorn, urged the local chiefs to get after their people to pay taxes, support the central government and practice economy in local administration "in view of the world economic crisis." He also had some stern words against renewed tribal rivalries among the feuding local chiefs.

"We have a saying in West Africa," he reminded them, "When two elephants fight, it is the grass that suffers. Think carefully before you plunge your people into chieftancy disputes. My advice is: if you are not entitled to be a chief, do not fight for it."

Born in Ashanti country, Ghana's chief of state has shrewdly attempted to use and curb the power of chiefs since taking control of the country in a bloodless coup three years ago. Under the slogan "one nation, one people, one destiny," the National Redemption Council headed by Col. Acheampong has cut down on the power of the chiefs to collect local taxes and run rural courts. But it has taken advantage of their local prestige and administrative know-how to spread the functions of the central government, while at the same time preserving the durbars, festivals and other cultural trappings that unite neighboring peoples and provide a pleasant diversion from drab village life.

While the Ashantis comprise 40 per cent of the nation's nine million people and cover two-thirds of the land area, Ghana has dozens of other tribal and ethnic groups speaking 36 different languages. Her tribal diversity is only one tiny corner of Africa's immensely rich and varied tapestry of peoples of many different physical, cultural, ethnic and linguistic backgrounds tenuously and often arbitrarily formed into nations at the whim of her former colonial masters.

As the present generation of revolutionary leaders, like Kenya's Jomo Kenyatta, grows older and democracy fades away, there is a grave danger that older tribal Africa will dissolve the new nations forged from the 19th-century colonial empires.

In their second decade of independence, the republics of black Africa have so far found only a police state or rule by military junta as the solution to the problem of welding together under a national flag diverse peoples who had little or no sense of common destiny before the colonial period.

Whatever else it was, the Biafran war was more than a religious struggle between Muslim and Christian factions seeking government control. The rivalry between the Hausa-Fulani ethnic grouping and the Ibo people had its origin in trying to achieve national unity in a remnant of the colonial map called Nigeria where 248 different languages were spoken.

Like the Congo, Nigeria passed through the tragic cycle of secession, civil war and uneasy reunification in a multi-ethnic state still under military rule.

The question still hangs over the rest of former colonial Africa: can the new as it grows old hold back the threat of tribalism's ancient past?

Plants Grow In Mine

By JOHN KUGLIN
Associated Press Writer

KELOGG, Idaho (AP) — Some 5,000 feet below ground in one of the world's deepest mines, Ken Miles tends a garden that includes flowers, fruits and vegetables.

In the garden, started years ago when miners in the Bunker Hill Mine threw away the pits and seeds from their lunch pails, the plants receive light and warmth from light bulbs.

"All I do is water them," Miles says.

"Over the years numerous miners have grown all kinds of little and big plants down here: cherry trees, lemon trees, prune trees and apple trees," said Jerry Furnish, a mine veteran of 46 years, who added, "I guess they do it for a hobby."

A hoist inspector, Furnish coated his glasses to keep them from fogging in the 100 per cent humidity in some places in the mine and slogged through mud several inches deep.

"If they threw a seed in here it would almost sprout before your eyes. But not many people eat their lunches here. It's too hot."

Higher in the lead, zinc and silver mine there's a rhubarb garden, Christmas cactus and a grapefruit tree.

"You ought to see that cactus," said hoistman Chuck Wynn. "It blooms like crazy."

A seven-foot lemon tree, perhaps 20 years old, spreads its leaves in an electrical shop 3,300 feet underground. It and the other trees bear no fruit.

Another of the mine's lemon trees — now gone — was featured in the 1930s in "Ripley's Believe It or Not." And the miners tell a beanstalk story to rival the adventures of Jack.

Fenway Revives Flattering Bosox

By The Associated Press
Fenway Park was just what the doctor ordered. Take one 315-foot wall every inning and the pain in your bats will go away.

So it went for the Boston Red Sox, whose hitting attack was feeling mighty low until it got an injection of love from Fenway Park Wednesday night.

"I had a feeling we'd start hitting again," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson. "I felt sure it was only a temporary thing. I think we'll be all right now. They hit the heck out of the ball tonight."

The Red Sox had limped home from a 4-4 road trip and were concerned about an amenable offense. But 21 hits in a doubleheader split with the Detroit Tigers had Johnson saying the Red Sox' prognosis was good.

"I'm happy with this split," said Johnson, whose team won the first game 7-5 before losing the second 5-3. "It would have been nice to win two, but I'll take this. As long as we continue to play like this and keep hitting the ball hard we'll be all right."

Orlando 1-4, Indians 9-5

Baltimore needed more than a split in its doubleheader but it couldn't be very choosy after dropping the first game to Cleveland, which profited from the combined nine-hit pitching of rookie Dennis Eckersley and reliever Dave LaRoche.

It took 13 innings but the Orioles finally got their split. Bobby Grich's 13th-inning single sent home Ken Singleton, and when Rick Manning threw past third, Don Baylor also raced home.

Yankees 5, Brewers 2

This season, Sandy Alomar hits homers as often as the Yankees change managers, and Alomar says there is a message there.

Alomar stroked his first homer of the year and gave credit for the resurgence in his hitting to the replacement of Bill Virdon with Billy Martin.

"Billy gives me confidence," said Alomar, who is hitting nearly 100 points better during Martin's tenure.

Larry Gura scattered 11 hits for the complete game victory.

A's 9, Royals 1

The Royals came out West acting like the fastest gun but they only fired blanks against the three-time defending world champion A's, who swept the three-game series.

Sal Bando hit a three-run homer and Gene Tenace hit his third homer in three games in support of Vida Blue, who fired a seven-hitter and won his 19th game.

Rangers 9, Twins 4

Gaylord Perry, supported by home runs from Toby Harrah, Jeff Burroughs, Tom Grieve, and Jim Fregosi, evened his record at 16-16 with a nine-hitter.

"I never gave up trying to get over the 500 mark," said Perry, who at one point was 7-14. "I've been looking for it for a long time and tonight I finally made it, thanks to a lot of help."

Angels 4, White Sox 2

Frank Tanana pitched a four-hitter for his 15th victory. He has lost seven times. Tanana retired the first 11 batters he faced until Jorge Orta doubled in the fourth inning.

Dave Chalk lofted his third home run of the season, helping send 20-game winner Jim Kaat to his 12th defeat.

Shreveport Loss Could Fold WFL

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — "If you drop one team, you fold the league," said World Football League President Chris Hemmner, adding that he expects the WFL to survive.

"But that will make it crystal clear that if Shreveport doesn't survive, you don't have a league," Hemmner told reporters after examining the books of the financially troubled Shreveport Steamer.

'Guns Of Autumn' Unfair Attack On Honest Hunters

By C. BOYD PFEIFFER

WASHINGTON — The Washington Post documentary that purported to characterize hunting in America, should receive an award for the most biased TV reporting of the year, possibly of the decade.

There could be no arguing its intent had it been properly labeled as an argument against hunting, or an expose of abuses in hunting. That indeed was what this "documentary" was.

The producers and writers apparently deliberately picked the worst examples of the sport, showing hunting at a city dump, running bears with dogs, hunting foreign species on questionable game preserves, harvesting buffalo in a "guaranteed hunt" and featuring inexperienced hunters.

The bias of the show lay not so much in untruth, but rather in its emphasis on aspects of the outdoor life that would prompt most hunters to vomit.

The quarter-hour sequence on buffalo "hunting" in which hunters are guaranteed an animal as part of an annual harvest of the herd, was no more hunting than angling in a rain barrel is fishing. Call it a way of harvesting the beasts, an income-producing method for the state, or what you will, but it is not sport hunting.

The show opened with the segment on bears, contrasting their feeding at a city dump (by hand mind you, something knowledgeable outdoorsmen and conservation officers strongly discourage) with hunting them at the same dump.

The bears at the dump apparently are used by the chamber of commerce as a tourist attraction. The complaints come when bear season opens and hunters shoot the bears—still coming to the dump for a handout.

Deplorable, and I know of no hunter who would sanction such slaughter. But the fact that some few hunters do—or did in the TV sequence—only shows the fringe element of a large group. Most hunters are looking for the challenge of the hunt, not a handout. That the situation could easily be solved by making the city dump and its environs a sanctuary was never mentioned.

The closing sequence, showing inexperienced hunters inside the chain link enclosure of a questionable game preserve shooting a European fallow deer six times, was worse.

They talked endlessly about the deer, without trying to kill it humanely after the deer went down with the first two shots. Then they tried to drag it out while it was still alive.

The sequence casts aspersions on the tens of thousands of law abiding, knowledgeable, trained deer hunters who track whitetails in the woods, take them under fair chase, and dispatch any wounded animal as quickly and humanely as possible.

The Colorado hunter who was interviewed and implied that hunters had killed off all the deer gave hunting another unwarranted black eye. There are more deer in America today than 60 years ago, despite the increasing human population and habitat loss to housing, road development and farming.

There were other smaller things. If you saw the show, you will remember the film of geese flying, a cut to geese waddling on the ground and then another cut to hunters rising in a blind to shoot. The implication was that the geese were being shot on the ground, something no sportsman would do.

There was no coverage of whitetail deer, upland game birds, rabbit hunting, squirrel hunting, the million of dollars spent by Ducks Unlimited on preserving breeding grounds or the gun safety measure booklets and hunter safety training manuals circulated by the National Rifle Association.

The program was an insult to all the hunters I know, to the ethics of fair and responsible hunting practices and even to the practice of fair TV journalism. I object.

Republican Women To Be Addressed By GOP Leaders

By ROB WOOD
DALLAS (AP) — More than 2,500 Republican women will be in Dallas this weekend to hear a host of GOP leaders including President Ford, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, and two spokesmen of the conservative wing—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Ford, already an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and Reagan, still straddling the fence on his future political ambitions, will apparently test the political winds during the 18th biennial convention of the National Federation of Republican Women.

The President will speak at 11 a.m. Saturday, move across town for an address at Southern Methodist University, and then fly to Midland for dedication ceremonies of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame.

His appearance at the opening of the oil museum will come a few days after his veto of a bill to extend oil-price controls for six months.

Reagan will be the principal speaker for the Friday night banquet, and Goldwater will deliver the convention's closing address at noon Saturday.

In between will be appearances by Rockefeller, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., Rep. Bob Kasten R-Wis., and Texas Republican Reps. Bill Archer, Jim Collins and Alan Steelman.

A spokesman for the Dallas Police Department said extra precautions would be taken to provide security for the President and "of course there is greater concern since the Sacramento, Calif., affair. The whole business of concern has been highlighted since then, and I would be wrong in not saying that is the case."

Bob Shaw, information officer for the department added, "It is fair to say we will provide the best security possible, acting in cooperation with the other agents. All is going very well at this time and, of course, the level of protection is of great concern."

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a member of the Charles Manson "family," was charged with trying to shoot President Ford last week while he walked to the California state Capitol. She was being held under $1 million bond.

A spokesman for the Republican women said resolutions will be considered during the convention on energy, welfare reform, food stamps program and the Panama Canal.

Cook's Book Full Of Bargains For Gypsy Souls

By NEIL MORGAN
Copley News Service

During a summer when Europe has priced itself out of sight for many Americans, travelers, my own favorite dream book is a bulky paperback called Cook's Continental Timetable, more than 500 pages thick.

With it and a Eurailpass, which remains a great bargain for Americans with gypsy natures can still afford Europe. Summer is a splendid time to stay home and plan the trip; Europe, like everywhere else, is cheaper off-season.

The Cook's book lists every train on the continent, from the sleek Trans-Europe Express trains to the 50-year-old carriages, resplendent in carved mahogany and brass, that still clank over the rails of Portugal and Spain.

The Eurail ticket is higher this year, but a 15-day pass costs only $130. You would pay more than that for a first-class ticket one way between Paris and Stockholm.

The Eurailpass provides unlimited first-class rail travel over more than 100,000 miles of tracks in 13 West European nations, including the high-speed, extra-fare TEEs that link 184 cities.

The 21-day pass costs $180; one month, $200; three months, $330—each of them just $10 higher than in 1974. Children from 4 to 12 pay half-fare. The Student Railpass is $180 for two months. All of them must be bought in this country before departure, and any travel agent can handle the deal. Most travel agents also have a copy of Cook's Continental Timetable on hand, and can tell you how to send away for your own copy if you find yourself hooked like me.

My wife and I spent three midwinter weeks riding the rails in Europe. Without pushing into overly restive movement, we racked up the equivalent of about $400 each in regular rail fares, a saving for the two of us of about $500 in transportation costs.

Europe slides by painlessly outside your picture window. If you care to watch, it's all there.

Traveling from center-city to center-city, you may beat a jet's time on a short trip. You are likely to stay at cheaper business hotels within luggage-carrying distance of central rail stations.

On overnight journeys you will spend about as much for your sleeper compartment as you would for a hotel room, from $30 to $40 double in addition to your Eurailpass (which covers train fare only).

But if you are willing to travel the way most Europeans do, you will share a six-bunk couchette overnight at a cost of only about $6 per person extra. Neither you nor the strangers nearby will likely get fully undressed, and the toilet is down the aisle. But it is a restful way of going—say, from Paris to Rome or Madrid—overnight without hotel costs.

Dinner in the diner is expensive, and not all that exciting. In French railway stations it is usually possible to buy marvelous boxed meals at modest costs to take aboard.

The best train meal we had in three weeks of European travel came from two yellow sacks that we bought from a porter as our train stopped at Bordeaux.

Each had its split of red wine, its fresh French rolls and pate, thick slices of pork and prime beef, with fruit and cheese.

Off-season Europe is so uncrowded that seats and sleepers are no problem. Connections are so frequent that spontaneous moves are simple.

We learned to check our big bag to some future destination and catch up to it at leisure, jumping off the train here and there to visit a handsome town or take a detour.

We collected names and addresses of new European friends—and memories that are the stuff of travel: the clank of switching cars, the distant drone of departure calls in the night, the dinner chimes, the slap of tunnel air, the click of rails.

We are nostalgic for the stations that smelled like ancient smokehouses and looked like faded etchings. The train traveler sees a different Europe.

Tijuana Has Most Tourists

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Tijuana, less than a half hour's drive from downtown San Diego, is visited by more Americans than any other foreign city in the world.

According to the best available count, more than 30 million U.S. citizens crossed the border at Tijuana last year to eat a Mexican meal, watch a bullfight or a jai all game, or make purchases.

Persons reentering the United States may bring back $100 in merchandise duty free, provided they have not claimed a similar exemption within 30 days.

Comet Kohoutek Proof Of Planet X

By GEORGE ALEXANDER

The Los Angeles Times
SAN DIEGO, CALIF. — Comet Kohoutek, which promised a lot but delivered very little in the way of a cosmic spectacular a few years ago, has been cited as corroborative evidence of the existence of a huge planet which whirled through the solar system as recently as 16 million years ago.

Dr. Thomas C. Van Flandern, a staff astronomer at the U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C., offered the evidence at the 146th meeting of the American Astronomical Society here recently.

He said that a plot of the orbits of about 60 long-period comets — a class of which Kohoutek is a member — extended back into time shows that they all occupied approximately the same patch of sky somewhere between 10 million and 20 million years ago.

This time estimate, he said, was consistent with calculations made in 1971 by Dr. Michael W. Ovenden, a Canadian astronomer, in suggesting the existence of a 10th planet in the solar system.

The search for a 10th planet — sometimes referred to as "Planet X" — has attracted the interest of both quacks and serious scientists for many years.

Some UFO advocates, for example, have insisted that there is a 10th planet on the opposite side of the sun from earth and it is this planet which is home base for the UFOs periodically sighted on earth.

Scientists say this is impossible nonsense. These same scientists, however, have entertained seriously the suggestion that the asteroid belt — that ring of rocky fragments lying between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter — may well be the remains of a planet that either blew apart after it was formed or that never quite got it all together during the formative years of the solar system.

Ovenden's study of irregularities in the orbits of the nine known planets, especially those of Uranus and Neptune, led him to the conclusion that a major disruptive event occurred in the solar system approximately 16 million years ago. He also arrived at this approximate time by age-dating chondritic (carbon-bearing) meteorites which have fallen to earth.

He has theorized that both phenomena could be explained by the explosion of a gargantuan planet 90 times the size of earth, which would make it about the size of Saturn.

Van Flandern said that his computerized backtracking of the so-called long-period comets — comets which reappear, if at all, only at very widely separated intervals, on the order of millions or tens of millions of years — show that they had a common starting point about 16 million years ago.

His presentation was one of several that stirred the 740 astronomers attending the meeting.

Roger Doxsey, an X-ray astronomer from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, reported that for the first time science has caught a "nova" in the act.

A current hypothesis holds that a nova is a large-scale and rapid exchange of matter between one star and another, a process that generates quite a bit of energy. Until now, scientists have seen them only after the events had already taken place — usually by comparing photographic evidence of the event gathered at widely different times.

The conference also was somewhat surprised to discover that still another part of the electromagnetic spectrum, one which has generally been regarded as a blank wall, was in fact at least a partially open window.

Dr. Stuart Bowyer, a University of California at Berkeley professor of astronomy, told the meeting that a telescope built by the university and flown aboard the Apollo spacecraft in the joint American-Russian space mission in July had picked up the extreme ultraviolet radiation of a star.

Extreme ultraviolet (EUV) is a small segment of the spectrum lying between normal ultraviolet and X-rays. Bowyer explained that astronomers had tended to think that this radiation would be absorbed by interstellar dust and gas and therefore all but invisible when stars that might be emitting such radiation are observed.

According to Bowyer, the observed EUV radiation came from a white dwarf, the cinder of a star in its dying stages, 300 light-years away from earth in the constellation Coma Bernices (Bernice's hair).

Dr. Simon (Pete) Worden, a physicist at the Sacramento Peak Observatory at Sunspot, N.M., and Gary D. Coleman, a graduate student at the same facility, tried, for example, to knock down one of the pillars supporting the so-called "open" model of the universe.

An "open" universe is one which has insufficient mass to slow the expansion which can now be observed to be taking place everywhere. If this expansion does not have a halt, say the astronomers, the universe will continue to fly apart at the seams, the galaxies hurtling ever farther outward into the void.

A "closed" universe, on the other hand, is one with enough mass to rein in this headlong expansion. What would happen thereafter is by no means clear; some believe that the universe would fall back in upon itself and be annihilated, while others feel that such an implosion would generate a brand new universe.

A key element in this argument is the amount of deuterium (a form of hydrogen that contains one neutron and one proton in its nucleus, instead of a single proton) loose in the universe. That amount is linked directly and proportionately to the amount of mass in the universe; the more of one, the more of the other.

The advocates of the "open" model — and they almost certainly constitute the clear majority of astronomers today — contend that there is only a fairly small amount of deuterium adrift in the universe and that most of this was created at the instant of the "Big Bang," that stupendous fireball in which the universe is believed to have been forged.

Worden and Coleman argued that, on the contrary, deuterium is probably still being manufactured today by a category of stars called "red dwarfs."

"These are old stars," Coleman explained, "with perhaps one-third to one-tenth the mass of our sun and 1-100th the luminosity of our sun."

Moreover, he continued, red dwarfs make up between 75 and 90 per cent of all the stars in the universe.

He and Worden observed more than 100 red dwarfs and found that all of them gave off flares — huge, violent eruptions.

"In the flares we see on our own sun," Coleman said, "we know that deuterium is being made. So, by simple extrapolation, these red dwarfs can be presumed to be generating deuterium also. Therefore, the amount of deuterium in the universe may be variable rather than constant and not quite so directly related to the mass-density factor as the 'open' advocates believe."

But Edwin L. Turner, a California Institute of Technology graduate student, disagreed with Coleman and Worden, saying that it was unlikely to be sheer coincidence that the amount of deuterium observed in nature so closely matches the amount predicted by the open model of the universe.

"We just don't find coincidences like this," he said. "Nature is not capricious. There may be small amounts of deuterium still being made today in stars, but the amount is only a small model."

EL CERRITO, Calif. (AP) — Colorful flowers make the designs in three Persian rugs and one old-fashioned quilt in the hillside garden of Sundar Shadi. More than 8,000 plants were used to create living rugs and a quilt. There are 35 different plant varieties and the quilt has five kinds of marigolds. The Persian rugs all have different borders and designs.

It has not been an easy nor an inexpensive hobby, however. Shadi uses about 35 pounds of small pellets to protect the fragile plants and has had to eliminate about six gophers who were chewing holes in the "rugs." A further expense is the plants themselves. He buys flats from the nursery so they will all be blooming at the same time. They usually cost around $500 to $600 for this summer project.

Shadi has lived in the same place since 1935. During the holiday season he features Christmas scenes which attract thousands and create a traffic jam of viewers.

Harlan Ryan: A Troublemaker Whose Time Has Come

By BILL CRIDER
NEW ORLEANS (AP) —

People in the multibillion dollar grain trade have been calling Harlan L. Ryan a troublemaker for years. The difference now is that it is clear why he made trouble.

The havoc he has caused — at New Orleans' grain docks, at Chicago's grain terminals, in grain grading offices around Des Moines, Iowa — gained Ryan his reputation — and a group of detractors who used to imply he only imagined crooks along the grain chain.

But now — after indictments against 48 men and four companies from a continuing federal investigation of grain export operations at New Orleans — they no longer accuse him of an overactive imagination.

The crackdown pleases Ryan, who heads the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grain inspection field office here, which oversees private agencies that grade and inspect wheat, corn or soybeans being loaded into ships.

"You can be popular in this job, it's easy to give in to the grain trade, but I can't see that," he said.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, and others cite Ryan as a key figure in bringing on the federal probe which, along with a controversy over wheat sales to Russia, put the grain trade under a more watchful eye than has usually been cast on it.

The probe exposed a pattern of bribery, short-weighting, misgrading, theft and fraud amounting into the millions of dollars.

The FBI and the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, were subsequently assigned to check over grain operations in Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., Dallas, Portland, Ore., Seattle and other points. Congressional staff members pored over grain records. New laws were proposed.

The GAO is supposed to make its report to Congress in February, and the investigation may grind on another year.

Ryan, 47, said he got a strong push toward a role as reformer back when he was a farm boy of 14, growing up near Manchester, Iowa. One day his father took him along to drive the soybean crop to market. At the elevator, the Ryan beans were deemed to be of a lower grade than Ryan's father felt they actually were. On the trip home, with less cash than he counted on, his father was sunk in gloom. The trip left a vivid memory with Ryan.

"It made a deep impression on me," he said. "He knew he had been taken, but he didn't know how to do anything about it."

Ryan has known what to do about such things since he grew up and got into the grain inspection line: enforce the grain act and check for conflicts of interest.

His reform career started small and worked up.

At Des Moines, he argued that it wasn't right for the inspection and grading company to be owned by the very elevators whose grain it inspected. Not much came of that, but he did force the firm to adopt uniform fees for all instead of charging farmers more.

Transferred to the Chicago office, which oversaw the work of a state grain inspection agency, he quickly raised a stink about misgrading, incompetence, cheating on overtime, theft and featherbedding.

At the time, the state agency had 127 inspectors to work Illinois grain terminals and was losing $250,000 a year.

"Plain mismanagement," said Ryan. He helped have Illinois grain inspections turned over to a private company.

"When I left there, the company was doing a good job with just 44 inspectors," he said.

Word that Ryan was being transferred to New Orleans, the world's largest grain port, wrought dismay in some quarters. Ryan said that part of the resistance to his coming to New Orleans was in the federal operation here, but he would not elaborate.

"Some people fought my coming down here," he said. "There were things to overcome in our department. I was called a witchhunter, a troublemaker. But it worked itself out."

Shortly after arriving two years ago, he notified the federal grand jury investigation. In February 1974, U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallingerhouse got the probe under way.

Five private companies, plus one state-operated inspection agency at Baton Rouge, handle grain inspections at the eight big elevators beside the Mississippi River in the New Orleans area.

In late 1973, Ryan proposed a

"We kind of ate around the bottom and worked up," said Ryan, in a thumbnail description of the federal investigation, which began with inspectors and has extended into executive circles.

A vice president of Bunge Corp., one of six big grain companies that dominate the trade, was the highest executive indicted.

Ryan has often popped out of bed at 2 or 3 a.m. to drive 40 or 50 miles and back up a federal inspector involved in a hassle with grain elevator officials.

His efforts in exposing the grain mess have brought threats. One of his aides quit when told that a contract had been let to have both his kneecaps smashed.

Ryan shrugs all this off, but his wife does not. She insists on riding with him when he makes one of those unexpected night trips. She waits in the pickup truck while he's inside.

"I guess she figures if I'm going to be thrown in the river, she's going to get thrown in, too," he said.

Instrument Tests Effect Of Sprays

By MARVIN MILES
The Los Angeles Times

PASADENA, Calif. — A supersensitive infrared instrument carried on stratospheric flights by a onetime spy plane has produced greatly improved measurement data for monitoring the effects of aerosol sprays on earth's protective ozone layer.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists here conducted the study for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to establish a base for detecting any future upper atmospheric buildup of Freon gases used to pressurize cans of hair spray, room freshener, shaving lather, etc.

Filtering into the stratosphere, these gases, also known as fluorocarbons, can be broken down by ultraviolet radiation from the sun to release chlorine atoms and knock out ozone molecules that protect people, plants and crops from ultraviolet rays.

The levels of this breakdown can be read in the distribution of hydrogen chloride molecules in the stratosphere, a combination of hydrogen and chlorine atoms no longer active in the chain.

The JPL scientists, including Dr. C.B. Farmer, leader of the investigating team, and Odell F. Raper found that hydrogen chloride is distributed in a layer, starting at nine miles and reaching a maximum of about 1 part per billion at approximately 12 miles.

Their studies were made with an infrared sensing device called a Fourier interferometer mounted in a long-winded U-2 aircraft to record the absorption of solar radiation in the long atmospheric path that the sun's radiation must travel at sunset or sunrise.

Recordings obtained by the airborne instruments were then compared with absorption data in a computer and analyzed to determine the presence of various atmospheric constituents and deduce their abundance.

Raper said in an interview that the results do not necessarily represent the direct effect of the use of Freons.

"We can only report what we observe," he explained, "but I would say the distribution is not inconsistent with what would be expected at this time if the Freon mechanism is occurring in the atmosphere."

There also is a potential source of stratosphere hydrogen chloride from volcanic eruptions, he added, but most studies show a magnitude far less from this source than that shown by the JPL investigation.

Raper noted, too, that the JPL analysis indicated the oceans play little part in the establishment of hydrogen chloride in the stratosphere, although they release some of the compound naturally.

He disclosed, additionally, that other research has found what appears to be carbon tetrachloride in the atmosphere, which also could produce chlorine atoms, but where it comes from, he said, "is an absolute mystery."

The U-2 flights from NASA's Ames Research Center, Moffett field, permitted investigations up to 13 miles, while earlier investigations with a prototype of the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic transport were limited to a ceiling of about 10 miles.

In addition to the hydrogen chloride studies, Raper said, the obtained data should provide a great deal of new and useful information on the vertical distribution of many other stratospheric constituents.

Former Midlander Receives Grant

AUSTIN — Former Midlander Douglas G. Burton, a graduate student at The University of Texas, has received a grant to study at the University of Munich in Germany during the 1975-76 academic year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace N. Burton of Dallas and a graduate of Lee High School in Midland, he received the award from Deutsche Akademische Austauschdienst (German Academic Exchange Service).

Burton is working toward a master's degree in journalism at UT.

Stock Prices Slump Slowly From Interest Rate Worry

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined slowly but steadily today under the pressure of continued interest rate worries.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.61 at 813.05 after a net decline of 22.45 points in the two previous sessions. Losers outpaced gainers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

After Wednesday's close, the Treasury announced that it was raising its estimate of its borrowing needs through the end of the year by $3 billion to $6 billion. The news raised fears that the resultant increase in demands on the money markets would exert added upward pressure on interest rates.

De Soto Inc., The Big Board Volume Leader, Slipped 1/8 to 8 1/8

De Soto Inc., the Big Board volume leader, slipped 1/8 to 8 1/8. A 137,499-share block traded at that price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost 30 to 83.83.

Trading was quiet.

Gold stocks lost ground as the London bullion price fell $2.25 to $147.65 at the afternoon fixing.

Homestake Mining was off 1 at 36 1/4; ASA Ltd. dropped 1 to 34; Dome Mines declined 3/4 to 22 1/4; and Campbell Red Lake Mines slipped 3/4 to 22 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all listed common stocks dipped 1/4 to 44.38.

Syntax was the most active issue on the Amex, up 1/8 at 30.

Product Safety Chairman Opposes Consumer Agency

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Richard O. Simpson, said today he opposes creation of an agency to represent consumers before other agencies.

Simpson said he supported the creation of a consumer protection agency, but he opposed the creation of an agency to represent consumers before other agencies.

Judge Delays Hunt Brothers' Jury Selection

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Jury selection in the wiretap trial of two sons of the late billionaire H. L. Hunt of Dallas has been postponed until Tuesday.

The U.S. District Court Judge Herbert O. Woodward postponed the start of the trial, which originally was scheduled for Monday, because Monday is a Jewish holiday.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and Sylvia Herbert Hunt were indicted in 1973 on charges that they allegedly hired private investigators to wiretap the telephones of some of their father's employees.

The trial was moved here from Dallas on a change of venue.

Two Killed, Two Hurt In Collision

DECATUR, Tex. (AP)—Two men were killed and a woman and child injured Wednesday night in a two-car collision three miles west of here on U.S. 380.

The dead were identified as Ronald Gene Coates, 22, of Chico and Ernest Dwayne Walker, 31, of Jacksboro.

Coates' wife Patricia, 25, was reported in good condition at Arlington Memorial Hospital early today. Her daughter Ronald, 4, was in fair to poor condition while under treatment for fractures of both legs.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

West German, American Experts Now Building Huge Secret Command Post

By MICHAEL GETTLER

The Washington Post

RAMSTEIN AIR BASE, West Germany—Deep beneath the heavily wooded hills some 50 miles west of here, West German and American engineers are quietly putting together a secret new command post from where the future defense of Europe would be directed in wartime.

Located somewhere close to the French border and close to the West German village of Boerfink—from which the command center gets its current name—the new $50 million underground bunker is supposed to help the North Atlantic Treaty Organization eventually solve a problem that has plagued it for 20 years.

That problem is how, in the confusion of battle, to keep track of almost 2,000 warplanes from six different allied air forces and send them where they are most needed over a front line that could stretch from the Baltic Sea to the Swiss border.

If the Boerfink project works, U. S. military commanders here and in Washington believe it will help push back the nuclear alarm clock by giving allied forces the ability to fight longer and harder with conventional, rather than atomic, weapons.

One top American general recently described Boerfink as "the best control facility in the world for air and land forces."

Though the combined air and ground forces that guard Europe's critical central front are impressive, top-level military commanders privately acknowledge that their ability

Lee Teacher Meets With Book Committee

Anna Williams, a teacher in the Lee High School business department and a member of the State Textbook Committee, is in Austin today meeting with that committee.

The members this year are considering textbooks for spelling in kindergarten through sixth grade, math in kindergarten through sixth grade and bilingual social studies for first and second grades.

The committee will make recommendations to the State Board of Education for the adoption of selected books for the 1976-77 school term.

Mrs. Williams will travel to Austin again on Sept. 28 for another committee meeting.

She was named to the 15-member body by the commissioner of education, Austin Freshman School principal John Blyis last year represented Midland on that committee.

center, well behind the front lines and able to survive virtually anything except a direct hit with a fairly large atomic bomb.

Theoretically, it is supposed to work this way: All the intelligence on enemy forces gathered by the electronic eyes of NATO's radars and other means will be funneled at high speed into the command post's computers. Similarly, allied commanders throughout Europe will put into other computers in their own command posts information about their own forces.

Permian Basin Sectors Draw 13 Prospector, 97 Field Project Sites

The number of petroleum tests planned by operators in the Permian Basin jumped to 110 last week — up 30 from the 80 tests scheduled two weeks ago.

Thirteen wildcats and 97 field projects were included in the count, while in the preceding week, 12 wildcat and 68 development test permits were applied for.

Texas Railroad Commission District 8, headquartered in Midland, processed 48 development test applications, and of those 18 were in Ector County, where a drilling program is under way in the Cowden, North pool.

RRC District 8-A drew sites for 26 field tests, and Hockley County accounted for 50 per cent of them, with Amoco Production Co. expanding its operations in the Levelland field.

RRC District 7-C showed the greatest number of wildcats, districtwise, with five, followed by 8-A with four, and 8, with three.

Penroc Schedules Dual Completion

Penroc Oil Corp., operating from Midland, has announced dual completion of its No. 1-B Allied Communitized, Morrow gas producer, as a Bone Springs oil pay opener in an undesignated field of Eddy County, N.M.

It flowed 48 barrels of oil and four barrels of water on 24-hour potential test, through a 3-1/2-inch choke and perforations at 6,472-6,525 feet, which had been acidized with 10,500 gallons and fractured with 10,000 gallons and 21,000 pounds.

Completion from the Morrow was effected in November, 1974, for 3,439,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 10,705-10,880 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 27-20s-27e, eight miles north of Carlsbad.

Operators Report Runnels Activity

Ronald Perkins of Dallas has recompleted No. 1-A Lucius Evans, former Goen line oil pay opener, to open Fry sand oil production in the Motley, North field of Runnels County.

It pumped 12 barrels of oil and 1/2 barrel of water on 24-hour potential test, with gas-oil ratio of 100-1. Production was natural, through perforations at 4,277-4,282 feet. Gravity of the oil was not reported.

It was completed originally in 1959 by Karl Hobbittzelle as No. 1-A Evans, for 138 barrels of oil daily, through perforations at 4,321-4,325 feet. It is 896 feet from north and 972 feet from west lines of Wallace Brandt survey 12.

Site Staked
W. W. West, Midland, plans to drill a 4,800-foot venture, No. 2 L. B. Hord, in Runnels, 6 1/2 miles northwest of Winters. It is a southwest offset to his No. 1 Hord, recent failure, and 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Deike (Goen) field.

It spots 15 feet from northwest and 1,205 feet from northeast lines of J. S. Richards survey 24, abstract 1177.

John W. Barbee, Abilene, filed application to reenter and clean out to wildcat depth of 4,350 feet at No. 1 Mary L. Bauer, Runnels 4,532-foot failure, five miles southwest of Winters.

Originally drilled by WESTEX Drilling Co. as No. 1 Mary L. Sparkman, it was plugged and abandoned in December 1967, after a drillstem test in the Strawn from 4,295-4,306 feet recovered 2,820 feet of gas, 70 feet of oil, 40 feet of heavy oil- and gas-cut mud, 63 feet of muddy water and 55 feet of salt water.

Location is 2,918 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 50, block 63, H&TC survey.

NRM Stakes Site For Eddy Outpost

NRM Petroleum Corp., Midland, has filed application to drill No. 1 Golden-Federal, a 1 1/2-mile east outpost to the Morrow reopener in the Golden Lane field of Eddy County, N.M.

It is slotted to 14,000 feet, and spots 910 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 33-20s-30e, 14 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

The Morrow reopener, Texas International Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Lowe-Federal, finished in May, 1974, for 821,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 12,147-12,262 feet.

Wildcats Scheduled In Hockley, Cochran

Wildcat locations have been scheduled in Cochran and Hockley counties.

Cities Service Oil Co. has staked site for a 12,400-foot prospect in South Central Cochran. It is No. 1-F Starnes. Drillsite is five miles northeast of the Landon (Devonian) oil field and 1/2 mile northeast of a 5,205-foot failure.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 20, Harrison & Brown survey, 10 miles south of Lehman.

Hockley Project
Cities Service also will drill No. 1-A Gresham, a 6,900-foot venture in South Hockley, five miles southeast of Levelland townsite and 1 1/2 miles northwest of the depleted Belk (Wolfcamp) field.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 18, league 18, Wichita CSL survey.

Long Island Dealers Charge Shell Forces Signing Of Higher Leases

By PETE BOWLES
Newsday
NEW YORK — A group of Long Island service station dealers has charged that Shell Oil Co. forced them to sign new leases which will increase their rents by 50 per cent to nearly 1,000 per cent as soon as federal price controls are lifted.

The dealers, members of the Shell Council of the Long Island Gasoline Retailers Association, claim that Shell's action will either force them to greatly escalate gasoline prices or to go out of business.

"Eventually, all dealers will have to pass it on to the customer," said Thomas V. Tullo, council chairman. "There is no other place to get the money."

In one case, the operators of a Shell station in Westbury said that last year they were given nine hours to sign a lease which would boost their rent from $250 to $2,840 a month when controls are terminated. "We were told if we didn't sign in nine hours they could cut off our gas deliveries," said Nick Bartolomeo, who with Thomas Cavolo operates Shell Country Service Center.

Tullo, a Shell dealer in Wantagh for 15 years, complained that he now pays rent based on sales of 80,000 gallons of gasoline a month although he actually sells only 40,000. "Here we are selling the same product, and one fellow (Shell) is becoming a billionaire and the fellow at the other end is losing his investment," said Tullo.

Shell's Long Island district manager, B. P. VanderMel, said the company has not increased the rents of any of its 240 dealers in Nassau and Suffolk counties since price controls were established May 15, 1973. He said Shell previously had told its dealers it has no plans to "immediately or abruptly" adjust service station rents upon termination of price controls.

In a statement, however, VanderMel said: "Although some long-term leases have been written for rentals in excess of FEA (Federal Energy Administration) controls, all dealers have been advised that they have 60 days after controls

Skelly Completes Strawn Discovery

Skelly Oil Co. No. 1-66 Slaughter, former Pennsylvanian detrital gas opener in the Yucca Butte, West field of Pecos County, has been recompleted as a Strawn oil discovery.

It pumped 60 barrels of 40.5-gravity oil and 85 barrels of water on potential test, with gas-oil ratio measuring 713-1. Production was through perforations at 8,157-8,594 feet, which had been acidized with 7,500 gallons.

Drilled to 11,310 feet, it is plugged back to 8,594 feet, and has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 8,950 feet.

It was completed in March 1973 from the Pennsylvanian detrital for 3.657 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 8,796-8,816 feet.

Location is 785 feet from north and 2,498 feet from east lines of section 66, block A-2, TCRS survey, 11 miles west of Sheffield.

Ward Explorer Rates Gas Flow

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1 North Burkholder, Ward County wildcat, 4 1/2 miles southeast of the Mi Vida (Delaware, Fusselman and Ellenburger) gas field, flowed gas at the rate of 1.4 million, decreasing to 1.3 million cubic feet per day in seven hours, probably from the Fusselman.

Flow was through a 48-64-inch choke and from open hole at 16,486-16,570 feet, the plugged-back depth. The section had been acidized with 15,000 gallons and fractured with 21,000 gallons.

Scheduled as a 21,000-foot Ellenburger try, it was drilled to 17,867 feet, and plugged back after a 4 1/2-inch liner was hung from 11,396-16,486 feet.

Location is 1,664 feet from northwest and 1,980 feet from southwest lines of section 199, block 34, H&TC survey, two miles north of Barstow townsite and 3 1/2 miles northeast of Fusselman production in the Barstow, North field.

The well is No. 54-3 Rosevelt KGRA.

Ford Nominates Dunham To Serve On Commission

By CARROLL KILPATRICK
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — President Ford Wednesday nominated Richard L. Dunham, deputy director of the Domestic Council and a former aide to Vice President Rockefeller, to be a member of the Federal Power Commission.

The President said that upon confirmation by the Senate he would designate Dunham chairman to succeed John N.

Nassikas, who has resigned. Dunham is a former budget director for New York state. He was named to the post in 1971 by Rockefeller when Rockefeller was governor.

Dunham came to Washington after Rockefeller was confirmed as vice president and was named deputy director of the Domestic Council in March when James J. Cannon, another former Rockefeller aide, was named director.

One of Dunham's duties has been to work on some of the presidential statements and speeches criticizing the federal regulatory agencies and urging a relaxation of regulatory rules and procedures.

Dunham said Wednesday he favored "sensible" regulation. The law provides that the FPC shall provide certain regulatory functions, he said, and until the law is changed the FPC has no alternative but to carry out the law.

Presidentially appointed panel is studying the whole problem of regulation and after its report is completed the President is expected to recommend legislative changes to Congress.

"The decision to change the law is up to Congress," Dunham said. He is expected to be questioned at length during confirmation hearings on the reforms he would recommend.

FPC has been the center of controversy over the setting of natural gas prices in interstate commerce. It has raised prices substantially in recent years but not so rapidly as the Ford Administration and industry leaders have urged.

The President has argued that higher gas prices would encourage the industry to tap new fields and produce more gas for interstate commerce.

The commission does not have power to deregulate prices entirely, and despite administration proposals Congress is not expected to permit it to do so.

Dunham has been active in formulating administration economic and energy policy and is regarded by his colleagues as an able administrator.

Now 45, he is a native of Rochester, N.Y., and a graduate of the University of Rochester. He has a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Britain Seeks North Sea Crude Holdings

The Washington Post
LONDON — Britain's Labor government is making fresh, multimillion dollar concessions to induce North Sea oil operators to part with 51 per cent of their holdings, it was learned Wednesday.

Authoritative sources disclosed that the government proposes to preserve almost intact the hundreds of millions of dollars in profit that the private concerns expect to extract from the North Sea.

Government negotiators are offering to put up 51 per cent of all future costs but will ask only for what has been described as a "modest" return on the public capital. Officials are bargaining over this level with the companies, now, and are looking for a sum close to the going rate of interest.

In effect, the government is seeking preferred shares with 51 per cent of the voting rights. This means that oil companies great and small will be able to keep a much larger share of the profits than had been expected. It was thought that the government would insist on 51 per cent of the profits for 51 per cent of the future investment.

The proposal reflects a government view that its revenue from the North Sea should come almost exclusively from the ordinary 52 per cent corporation tax and that additional 45 per cent Petroleum Revenue Tax imposed on the offshore bonanza.

The 51 per cent share, however, will give the government the final say in any decision in every field, a control that oil companies hate to relinquish.

To ease the pain, the official negotiators are offering the private concerns a guarantee against interference in the day-to-day operations of the fields.

Groups of companies that are running short of funds are welcoming the government's offer and several have accepted in principle the 51 per cent transfer. The majors, however, like Exxon, Standard Oil of California, British Petroleum, Shell and Mobil have money and are still unhappy. Among other things, some have asked the government to put up 51 per cent of past costs for exploration, and this the government will not do.

Labor intends to gain a 51 per cent stake in every field for a variety of reasons, some economic and others ineological. With a majority holding, the government can order a speedup or slowdown in the rate at which oil is extracted. A company-particularly a major—might hold back the flow to prop up the price of oil. Or, the government might fear that planned production rates are threatening the oil price and order a slowdown as Norway, Saudi Arabia, Libya and others have done.

Control will also give officials a measure of expertise in the industry. The government wants some day to run a company that explores, develops, refines, transports and markets oil and its products.

Finally, the Labor government believes that the oil off its shores is a national asset that must remain in public control.

The government's chief negotiator is Harold Lever, a member of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet who bears the honorific title of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Whether the planned Labor takeover will be permanent is a question mark. Just this week, Margaret Thatcher, the Tory leader, said she would denationalize the fields when the conservatives come back into power.

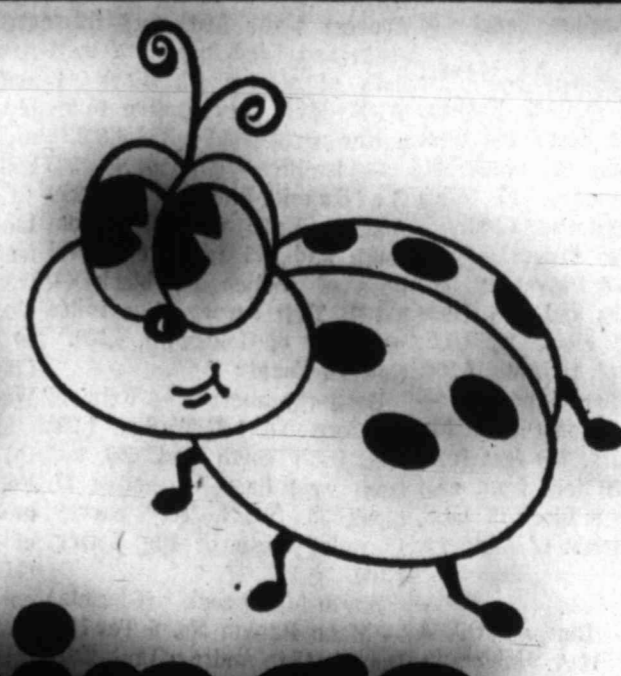

Energy Company To Purchase Stock

SAN ANTONIO—Gulf Energy & Development Corp. has signed an agreement to purchase 141,443 shares of Gulf Energy common stock from Consolidated Oil & Gas Corp.

These unregistered shares will be purchased for $1,414,430, a Gulf Energy spokesman said, with October 6 as the consummation date.

Gulf Energy will make a down payment of $394,430 October 6, and sign a secured note with installments of $510,000 principal plus accrued interest due Jan. 31, 1976, and Jan. 31, 1977.

Permian Basin Sectors Draw 13 Prospector, 97 Field Project Sites

The number of petroleum tests planned by operators in the Permian Basin jumped to 110 last week - up 30 from the 80 tests scheduled two weeks ago.

Thirteen wildcats and 97 field projects were included in the count, while in the preceding week, 12 wildcat and 66 development test permits were applied for.

Texas Railroad Commission District 8, headquartered in Midland, processed 48 development test applications, and of those 18 were in Ector County, where a drilling program is under way in the Cowden, North pool.

RRC District 8-A drew sites for 26 field tests, and Hockley County accounted for 50 per cent of them, with Amoco Production Co. expanding its operations in the Levelland field.

RRC District 7-C showed the greatest number of wildcats, districtwide, with five, followed by 8-A with four, and 8, with three.

Neat Official Theories Fail To Wipe Out Economic Facts

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — You suspect that it's your lack of understanding, of course, and you can't be blamed for that. When some of the top officials of the nation give their opinion, who are you to question it? Nevertheless, you sense that despite your ignorance of the subject matter there is something suspicious about the official explanations and the establishment consensus of opinion. Weren't we sold on the notion that stocks are a good hedge against inflation? Billions of dollars of stocks were sold on that basis, and thousands of people who brought those stocks never again will be so trusting. Over a long period of time it does seem that stocks rise faster than inflation. But over short periods of time—a few months to a few years—you just can't depend on stocks outperforming prices. What about prices reacting to the law of supply and demand? It's a very neat theory, but if that's the law then the market place is lawless. It breaks that law. You don't even need to have been exposed to Economics I in high school to observe that companies and industries with big inventories of unsold goods are raising rather than lowering prices. If you consider yourself and your family to be typical or average or ordinary—it hardly matters what term is used—you are well aware of the housing paradox. And you might ask how in the world we're going to resolve it. The problem is this: the typical single-family new house being built today sells for between $37,000 and $41,000 or thereabouts, depending upon the survey used. Contrast this with the median family income of less than $13,000. Given these figures, a good many mortgage lenders would tell the applicant: "Sorry, you just don't qualify." There are various rules of thumb for measuring an applicant's ability to handle a mortgage, and by most of them a $13,000 income doesn't qualify a family to buy a $37,000 house. Incomes have been chasing housing prices for several years now and haven't closed the gap. Moreover, there is no assurance that it will be closed, not with land and labor and materials costs as they are. You might console yourself by saying that somehow it will be worked out—that somebody certainly is working on the problem. Maybe so, but so far they haven't got the answer, and housing remains in the doldrums. And so do prospective buyers.

Ford Nominates Dunham To Serve On Commission

By CARROLL KILPATRICK
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — President Ford Wednesday nominated Richard L. Dunham, deputy director of the Domestic Council and a former aide to Vice President Rockefeller, to be a member of the Federal Power Commission.

Nassikas, who has resigned. Dunham is a former budget director for New York state. He was named to the post in 1971 by Rockefeller when Rockefeller was governor. Dunham came to Washington after Rockefeller was confirmed as vice president and was named deputy director of the Domestic Council in March when James J. Cannon, another former Rockefeller aide, was named director.

One of Dunham's duties has been to work on some of the presidential statements and speeches criticizing the federal regulatory agencies and urging a relaxation of regulatory rules and procedures. Dunham said Wednesday he favored "sensible" regulation. The law provides that the FCC shall provide certain regulatory functions, he said, and until the law is changed the FCC has no alternative but to carry out the law. Presidentially appointed panels studying the whole problem of regulation and after its report is completed the President is expected to recommend legislative changes to Congress.

Britain Seeks North Sea Crude Holdings

The Washington Post
LONDON — Britain's Labor government is making fresh, multimillion dollar concessions to induce North Sea oil operators to part with 51 per cent of their holdings, it was learned Wednesday.

Groups of companies that are running short of funds are welcoming the government's offer and several have accepted in principle the 51 per cent transfer. The majors, however, like Exxon, Standard Oil of California, British Petroleum, Shell and Mobil have money and are still unhappy. Among other things, some have asked the government to put up 51 per cent of past costs for exploration, and this the government will not do.

Presidentially appointed panels studying the whole problem of regulation and after its report is completed the President is expected to recommend legislative changes to Congress. "The decision to change the law is up to Congress," Dunham said. He is expected to be questioned at length during confirmation hearings on the reforms he would recommend. FCC has been the center of controversy over the setting of natural gas prices in interstate commerce. It has raised prices substantially in recent years but not so rapidly as the Ford administration and industry leaders have urged. The President has argued that higher gas prices would encourage the industry to tap new fields and produce more gas for interstate commerce. The commission does not have power to deregulate prices entirely, and despite administration proposals Congress is not expected to permit it to do so.

Government negotiators are offering to put up 51 per cent of all future costs but will ask only for what has been described as a "modest" return on the public capital. Officials are bargaining over this level with the companies, now, and are looking for a sum close to the going rate of interest.

Labor intends to gain a 51 per cent stake in every field for a variety of reasons, some economic and others ineological. With a majority holding, the government can order a slowdown in the rate at which oil is extracted. A company—particularly a major—might hold back the flow to prop up the price of oil. Or, the government might fear that planned production rates are threatening the oil price and order a slowdown as Norway, Saudi Arabia, Libya and others have done. Control will also give officials a measure of expertise in the industry. The government wants some day to run a company that explores, develops, refines, transports and markets oil and its products.

Finally, the Labor government believes that the oil off its shores is a national asset that should remain in public control. The government's chief negotiator is Harold Lever, a member of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet who bears the honorific title of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. Whether the planned Labor takeover will be permanent is a question mark. Just this week, Margaret Thatcher, the Tory leader, said she will denationalize the fields when the conservatives come back into power.

Long Island Dealers Charge Shell Forces Signing Of Higher Leases

By PETE BOWLES
Newsday
NEW YORK — A group of Long Island service station dealers has charged that Shell Oil Co. forced them to sign new leases which will increase their rents by 50 per cent to nearly 1,000 per cent as soon as federal price controls are lifted.

In a statement, however, VanderMel said: "Although some long-term leases have been written for rentals in excess of FEA (Federal Energy Administration) controls, all dealers have been advised that they have 60 days after controls have been modified or lifted to accept or reject the new terms." He added that "fairness, equity and the economic habits of each dealer will be the primary consideration" before any proposed rent increases are put into effect.

The dealers, members of the Shell Council of the Long Island Gasoline Retailers Association, claim that Shell's action will either force them to greatly escalate gasoline prices or to go out of business. "Eventually, all dealers will have to pass it on to the customer," said Thomas V. Tullio, council chairman. "There is no other place to get the money."

At the request of dealers and Hempstead Town Supervisor Alfonso M. D'Amato, the anti-trust division of the Justice Department said Wednesday it plans to determine whether the proposed rent increases are in violation of antitrust laws. The number of Shell dealers affected by the proposed rent increases is not known. But William Griffin, executive director of the Long Island Gasoline Retailers Association, said all dealers whose leases expired over the past year have been given new leases calling for exorbitant increases. The association represents 3,000 service station dealers in Nassau, Suffolk, Queens and Kings counties. "The dealers are incensed," said Griffin. "They feel put upon because actually this is putting them out of the competition. This is what the company wants — to put them out of business and take over their stations." Although they said they felt the lease agreement they signed in August 1974 was illegal, Bartolomeo and Cavolo said they signed it anyway out of fear of losing the station they had operated since 1971. The lease shows that their minimum monthly rent was to be increased to $2,640 on Sept. 1, 1975. The service station dealers said the money they earn from a gallon of gas ranges from about 4 1/2 to 9 cents. Out of this, the dealers must pay their help, rent, utilities and insurance.

"I had to kick in extra to pay the rent because I was afraid my customers wouldn't pay any more for gas," said Tullio, whose gas now sells for 61.9 cents a gallon. American Quasar Petroleum Co. was preparing to resume testing after being shut in for pressure buildup, at No. 1 Robinia Draw Unit, Eddy County, N.M., Morrow prospector, 15 miles northwest of Whites City. It flowed gas at the rate of 1.1 million cubic feet per day for an unreported time, on a 3/4-inch choke and perforations at 9,937-9,947 feet, which had been acidized with 1,750 gallons. Drilled to 10,615 feet, it has 5 1/2-inch pipe set on bottom, and is plugged back to 10,414 feet. During drilling operations, it flowed gas at the rate of 190,000 cubic feet per day, and recovered 285 feet of gas-cut drilling mud on a drilitem test in the Canyon from 8,740-8,875 feet. Location is 1,675 feet from south and west lines of section 7-23-24e, 1 1/2 mile northeast of the depleted Bandana Point (Pennsylvanian) field.

Britain Proposes Tightening Laws On Racial Bias

Agence France-Presse
LONDON — A "white paper" published by the British government today proposed tightening measures against racial discrimination. Racial segregation in golf and tennis clubs and working men's clubs should be forbidden by an amendment to the 1968 law on race relations, the report recommended. Clubs were allowed to bar colored people by a ruling of the House of Lords a year ago. The White Paper also calls for increasing the indemnities accorded by courts to victims of racial discrimination, and increasing fines for "incitement to racial hatred."

Phillips Wildcat Tests Gas Zone

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 1-A Coates, Pecos County Ellenburger gas strike, 18 miles southeast of Bakersfield, and 11 miles southeast of Ellenburger production in the Hokit field, continued production tests. It flowed 24 hours through various size chokes and perforations at 12,951-13,448 feet, making gas at the rate of 2,507,000 cubic feet per day, plus 24 barrels of condensate and 40 barrels of water. It is 1,200 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 87, block 2, CCSD&RGNG survey.
