Anderson Assails Oil Industry's Tax Incentives

By LARRY LOVELACE Staff Writer ODESSA — Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson Monday night labeled tax incentives and benefits for the petroleum industry as "welfare for the rich."

Anderson, first lecturer of the school year at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin (UTPB), initially made the remark in a section of his talk dealing with President Ford's economic program.

He narrowed the scope to specify the petroleum industry alone in response to a question from an unidentified member of the audience who said without those tax incentives and benefits, "You're going to get pretty cold in Washington."

"If they need encouragement (for domestic exploration)," Anderson replied, "I would like to see them come before the Congress and say how much they need. That's what we do with the poor," he said, repeating a statement made earlier.

"I suspect one of the reasons we're not doing anything to develop solar energy," Anderson said, "is because the oil companies are quite powerful and they don't own the sun."

He told his questioner he would like to see "a crash program to find new sources of energy."

In addition to the question on energy, two others — out of about 20 asked in the 45-minute question-and-answer session — were at odds with the philosophical argument put forth by Anderson.

Ford Questions Reports U.S. To Supply Israel With F16 Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today he believes the federal courts apparently have not taken sufficient notice of 1974 legislation that would make forced busing of school children a last resort tactic.

At the first news conference he has held in his Oval Office, convened on short notice, Ford also questioned reports that the United States has agreed to supply F16 fighter bombers and Pershing missiles to Israel for having concluded a new Sinai agreement with Egypt.

However, Ford said, he would provide no more documents to the congressional investigators until he was assured the documents would be handled properly.

CIA Spent $3 Million Developing Poisons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency spent nearly $3 million developing and maintaining a supply of deadly poisons and sophisticated devices for using them, Director William E. Colby testified today.

He told a Senate committee that one device for using the poisons was a silent dart gun that could kill without leaving a clue about the cause of death.

ed that some of the most deadly poisons — shellfish toxin and cobra venom — had been kept by the agency despite a presidential order to destroy such substances.

first public hearing by the eight-month old intelligence committee, Colby said only two instances could be found in which poisons had been used operationally.

In the second operation, agents fed guard dogs a meat treated with an incapacitating drug while conducting a clandestine operation in Southeast Asia, Colby said.

Colby produced an electric dart gun resembling a .45-caliber revolver. He said it could silently fire darts treated with shellfish toxin.

The dart would hit the victim without his knowledge and the poison, which produces almost instantaneous death, would not show up in an autopsy, Colby said.

Jelly Side Down Ready To Cough

Regrettably, I have never acquired a sufficient degree of social aplomb not to view entertaining of any sort as a source of potential disaster. My inherent unease is not helped by the knowledge that my children are at an awkward age—too old to be put to bed before dinner guests arrive, too young to be relied upon not to poke holes in the tablecloth with their salad forks. I am glumly certain that either or both of them—rather than retreating sullenly to their rooms as most teen-agers do—can be counted on to regale a guest for hours with a patter of social commentary which includes the life history of Mick Jagger as well as a repertoire of startlingly obscene jokes. I do try to anticipate trouble. Well before any social gathering, both children are subjected to Lecture Number 373: "We

Wake-Up Suggestions For Deaf Persons

DEAR ABBY: Your recommendation for an alarm clock that lights up to awaken the deaf may not be seen if the sleeper's face is turned away from the alarm clock. A deaf person I worked with was never late for work, due to the following homemade alarm system: He removed one blade from a small electric fan, which vibrated when operated because it was unbalanced. He attached the fan to his bed springs, then plugged the fan into an alarm clock with an electric "timer." When the alarm went off, the bed would vibrate and he'd wake up!
B.W.
DEAR B.W.: Another reader offers this suggestion: DEAR ABBY: I've been deaf since the age of 15 and have been practicing law since the age of 21. I have been living alone for the last five years and have yet to miss a morning appointment. Upon retiring, all I do is concentrate on the time—I want to wake up, and some mystical equipment in my subconscious does the rest. It's infallible!

Hospital Opens Therapy Clinic For MS Patients

A new maintenance therapy clinic has opened at Midland Memorial Hospital. This clinic is a service provided by MMH and the Junior League of Midland, Inc.

The clinic is named after Sara Woodriddle, who was executive director of the Permian Basin Chapter of Multiple Sclerosis until her death last year. It had been Mrs. Woodriddle's dream for several years to have a clinic of this type.

Initially, the clinic is serving only multiple sclerosis patients. If the clinic is well-received and utilized, future plans are to expand its services to arthritic and stroke patients.

The clinic is headed by a registered chief physical therapist, Mrs. Donna Hamm, who evaluates and designs individualized therapy programs for the patients. A patient's eligibility is established by his referring physician. The league volunteers, Mrs. John Zant and Mrs. Verne E. Griffith Jr., are trained to be familiar with all aspects of the clinic, and assist the therapist in anyway needed.

The clinic opens officially today. It will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesdays, with the exception of school holidays. The charge to the clinic patients will be minimal.

A Widower Makes Greaseless Pork Chops

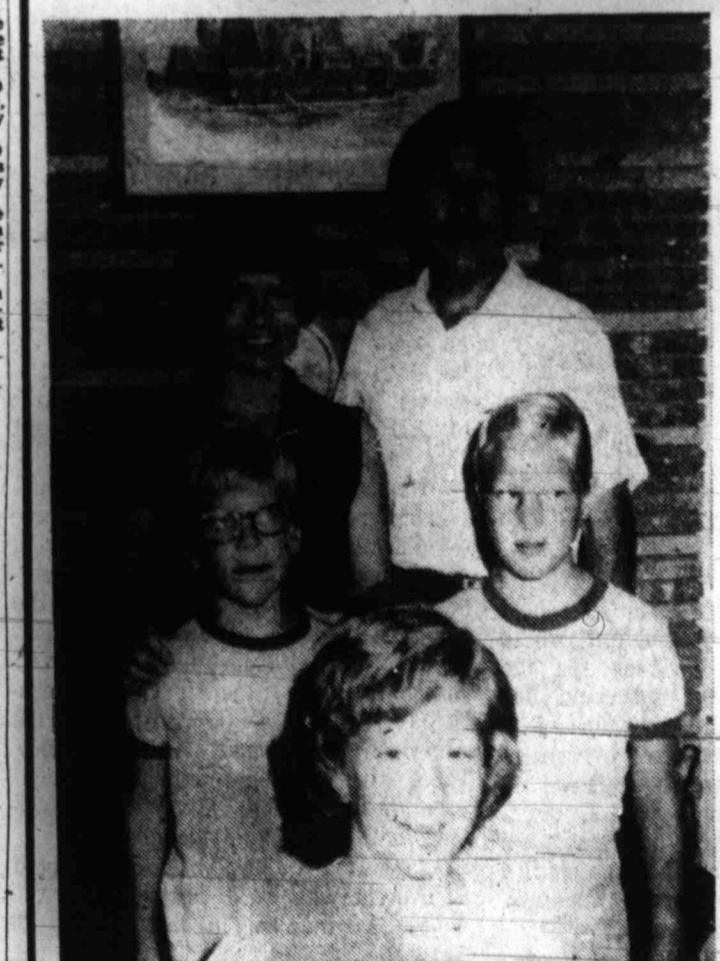

Dear Heloise: Here is a tip from a widower who had to start cooking for himself after losing a companion of 44 years. I love breaded pork chops and finally figured out a way to have both sides nice and crisp, and practically greaseless. I place the breading mixture on a sheet of wax paper, then press the chops into it firmly until no more will adhere. Do both sides this way. Now, place a wire cake rack in a baking pan and bake away. The grease will be in the bottom of the pan, and both sides will be delightfully brown and crisp. Gentleman Lew

Encouraging Anyway

Gov. Dolph Briscoe said last week that he is encouraged by the fact that President Ford and federal officials have adopted a firm position against nationwide allocation of natural gas supplies.

The prospect of such action was one of the most dangerous facing the Lone Star State, as has been pointed out on previous occasions.

But the fact that the governor became actively involved in protesting any such action was pleasing to all.

"Any attempt to pre-empt or allocate natural gas would, to any producing state like Texas, mean only closing industries and losing jobs," the governor explained.

Briscoe, at a news conference following an organizational meeting of the Governor's Energy Advisory Council, said he was pleased with the results of a meeting on energy policy between Ford and several governors the week previous.

Still A Great Idea

Marvin Rosenblum, a Chicago lawyer, has proposed a "Hands Across the Nation" Bicentennial spectacular for July 4, 1976.

He estimates that his project to form a hand-to-hand link from East Coast to West Coast would involve approximately 5 million persons, assuming 1,320 to the mile.

But since this massive display of unity will cross state lines, it obviously will be subject to federal regulation, taxing severely the capabilities of the bureaucracy.

Can't you just hear the Department of Health, Education and Welfare demanding certification of the proper ethnic, racial and religious elements in the human bridge?

The Labor Department also would require assurances that the standards of the Occupational Safety and Health Act are observed.

The Educationists: A Most Powerful Lobby

WASHINGTON — A sign of things to come flashed here last week when both houses of Congress voted overwhelmingly to override President Ford's veto on the record $7.9 billion aid-to-education bill.

What's coming is the emergence of the huge educational apparatus as the most powerful lobbyist and political mover-and-shaker in the republic.

Acting on analytical and the conviction that there must be some motivation for a young person to go to college, President Ford requested that $1.5 billion be cut from the fat education appropriation. His veto was kayeod by about a 9-to-1 vote, and the education lobby has good reason to crow.

It wasn't as though the President was whacking away with a meat cleaver. The reductions that he recommended had sound backing and were aimed at programs certainly considered either dubious or luxuries.

Take "category B" of the impacted aid program, for example. Impacted aid was set up after World War II to provide financial relief to school districts with substantial attendance by children of servicemen living on military bases.

Since these bases paid no real-estate tax, it seemingly made sense for the federal government to make a contribution. This became known as "category A" impacted aid.

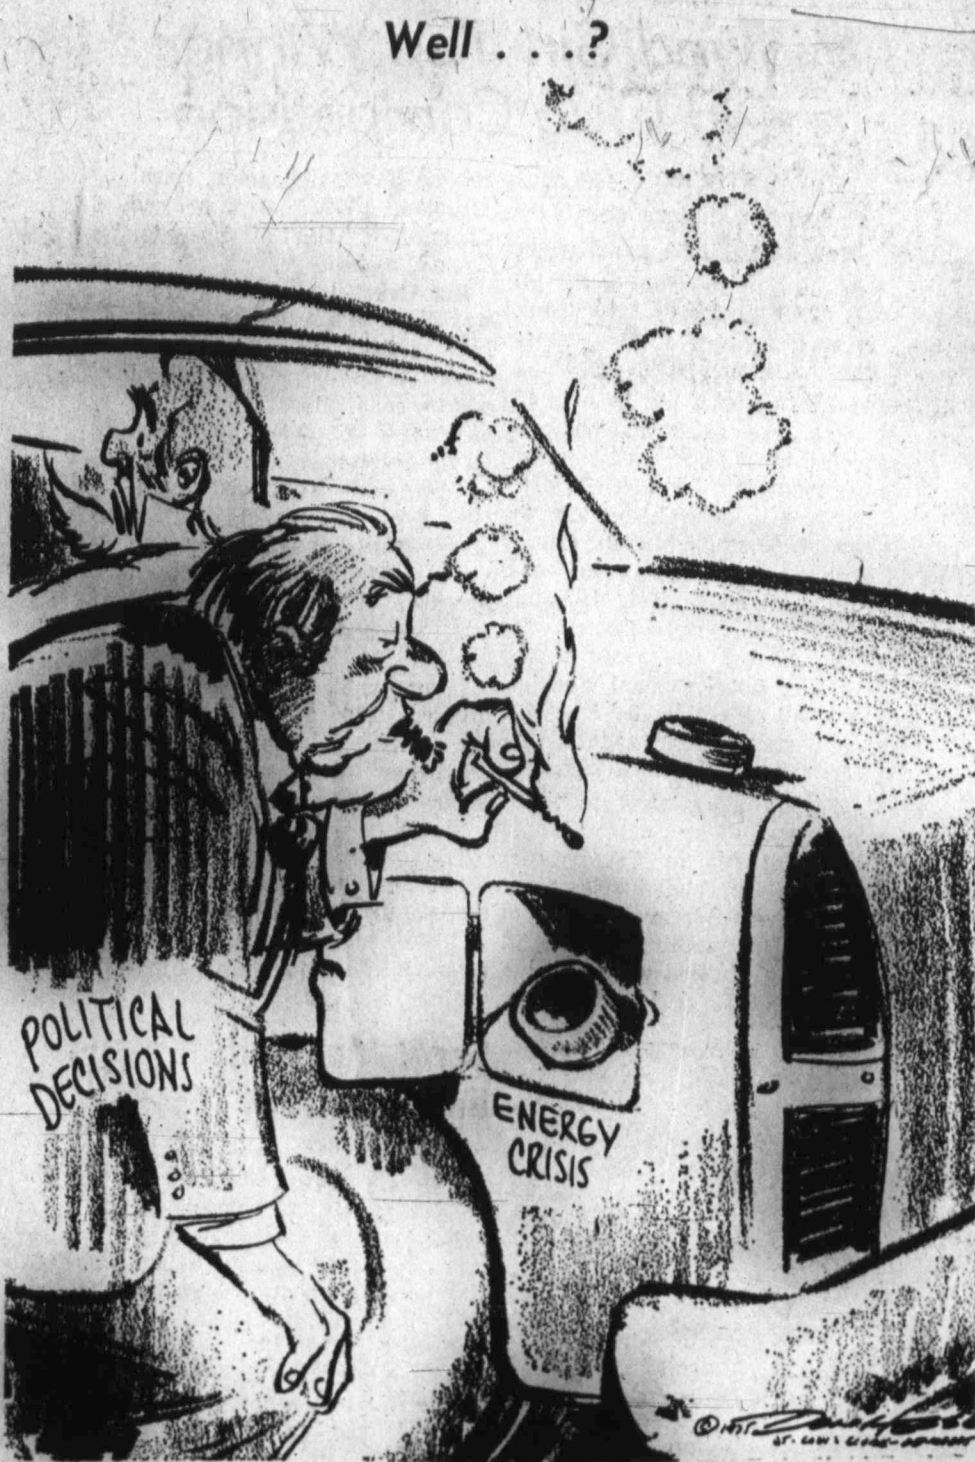

It became so popular with congressmen (who loved to announce it) that soon there was a "category B," a program providing funds to school districts attended by children whose parents worked as civilians for the government. Those parents could live in high-priced homes and pay substantial real-estate taxes, but the government still paid a bonus to the school district.

For a quarter-century, U.S. presidents, editorialists and other skeptics have tried to point out how unjustified "category B" is but without success. Congressmen and their school districts just plain love that money.

President Ford also asked that aid to higher education be kept at the $2 billion level, but Congress tacked on $434 million. Educational analysts and Mr. Ford concluded that college-age students still have enough resources to get through school without generous financial assistance from the federal government.

Consequently, the President was against a sizable increase in appropriations covering scholarship grants, subsidized campus jobs, low-interest loans and cost-of-living grants for deserving students. But lobbyists argued that an 8 per cent increase — $55 million — was needed to help college students,

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The U.S. has delivered a secret pledge to Israel that goes far beyond the $2.3 billion in military aid promised for 1976.

We have examined the secret accords, which promise "to continue to maintain Israel's defensive strength through the supply of advanced types of equipment."

Not only in 1976 but each year thereafter, the U.S. government will ask Congress "for military and economic assistance in order to help meet Israel's economic and military needs."

Experts who have studied the secret language claim it is more binding even than the SEATO agreement, which drew the U.S. into the Vietnam War.

Specifically, the U.S. promises to supply Israel with such advanced weapons as the Pershing ground-to-ground missiles and F-16 fighters.

The Pershing missiles are designed to hurl nuclear warheads, although the secret agreement carefully stipulates that Israel will get only missiles "with conventional warheads." Nevertheless, the implication, according to our sources, is that the Israelis will be able to attach their own nuclear warheads.

The F-16 is America's latest superfighter, which hasn't even gone into production yet.

Both weapons are mentioned in a separate, secret assurance to Israel. "The United States Government agrees to an early meeting," it stipulates, "to undertake a joint study of high technology and sophisticated items ... with view to giving a positive response."

From the secret accords, here are additional pledges that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made to Israel:

—Within the limits of its resources and subject to congressional approval, the U.S. agreed to be "fully responsive ... on an on-going and long-term basis project "for the construction and stocking" of Israeli oil reserves, "bringing storage reserve capacity and reserve stocks now standing at approximately six months, up to one-year's need."

—The U.S. agreed, its own oil resources permitting, to ship oil to Israel if the Israelis are unable to arrange their own supplies. The U.S. also promised to ask Congress to "give special attention," in calculating Israeli aid, to the cost of the oil that Israel gave to Egypt.

—The U.S. pledged to "view with particular gravity threats to Israel's security or sovereignty by a world power." In the event of such a threat, the U.S. promised to "consult promptly with the Government of Israel with respect to what support, diplomatic or otherwise, or assistance it can lend to Israel in accordance with its constitutional practices."

—Within two months, the U.S. and Israel agreed to "conclude the contingency plan for a military supply operation to Israel in an emergency situation."

—The secret accords also stipulate "that the next agreement with Egypt should be a final peace agreement."

—Further, the U.S. "shares the Israeli position that under existing political circumstances, negotiations with Jordan will be directed toward an overall peace settlement."

—The U.S. also "regards the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb (guarding the entrance to the Red Sea) and the Strait of Gibraltar (guarding the entrance to the Mediterranean) as international waterways. It will support Israel's right to free and unimpeded passage through such straits."

MORE GO-GO: The Navy scarcely had finished reprimanding the skipper of the submarine Finback for permitting a topless go-go dancer to perform on the deck when we learned about another go-go incident this month at Moffet Naval Air Station, Calif.

But on this occasion, a male go-go dancer burst out of a cake and entertained 85 enthusiastic Navy wives. Witnesses say the six-foot-five sex symbol stripped down, a la Burt Reynolds, to a crown of leaves and a scanty bikini. The rest was exposed muscle.

He wound up his performance by stretching out provocatively on a bearskin rug. Refreshments were served by four topless waiters recruited from the squadron.

By all reports, the man in the bikini did as much for the wives' morale as the topless Cat Futch did for the morale of the submarine crewmen. Mrs. Ralph R. Hodges, the commanding officer's wife, assured us the show was presented with "finesse."

ART BUCHWALD

'The First Time' Is Just Off The Press

WASHINGTON — There is a book that has just come out called "The First Time," which is a collection of 28 confessions of various people as to the circumstances surrounding their first sexual encounter. It has caused quite a stir because the people interviewed include Dr. Spock, Mae West, Liberace and Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

I have more than a passing interest in the work since I also confessed how I lost my innocence, and because the list is alphabetical my name appears second on the cover.

Many of my friends have been shocked that I would lend myself to such an enterprise. Half of them have said, "I can understand why Alice Roosevelt Longworth would do it, but why would you?" The other half have told me, "I can understand why you would do it, but why would Alice Roosevelt Longworth?"

I'll explain why. About a year ago a friend, Karl Fleming, called up and said he was doing survey on how people lost their virginity.

One of my dreams for the last 10 years had been to be interviewed by Masters and Johnson, and since they have never called I figured this was the next best thing. I thought I would be one of two or three hundred people who would share their experiences in some very scientific scholarly work which would be printed by the Oxford University Press or the Ford Foundation.

So I agreed. Mr. Fleming came with this tape recorder, and I told all

For those who have no intention of buying this kind of book, the lady responsible for my downfall was a chambermaid in a Long Beach, Long Island, hotel where I worked as a bellboy at the age of 15.

She seduced me with promises of clean sheets and clean towels which the management was very reluctant to supply the underpaid help. She didn't even say to me, as Deborah Kerr said tenderly in "Tea and Sympathy" after she went to bed with the young man, "When you think of this in future years, and you will, young man, be kind." The only thing I recall the chambermaid saying was, "Well, back to work."

But that is neither here nor there. The point is that after I filled up Mr. Fleming's tape recorder I thought nothing more of it until I went to the National Book Sellers Convention in New York. There, blown up larger than a picture of Mao Tse-tung, was the cover of "The First Time" which Simon and Schuster told every book seller was going to be the hit of the Christmas season.

I was furious, not at Fleming but at myself. I never realized that there was any literary value in how I lost my virginity. Had I known that anyone was willing to pay for it, I would have written it myself for Family Circle, McCall's or Ladies Home Journal. No writer in his right mind should give away something like "The First Time" because it can only be published once. I had bared my soul, and now Fleming was going to get rich on it.

I called my agent and said, "Do you think any body would like to buy the rights to 'The Second Time'?" It's a much better story, because then I wasn't so nervous.

My agent called back a few days later and said, "No one is interested in your second time or your third time or your 100th time. Why the devil did you give away your first time?"

"I'll be honest with you. I didn't think it was that important." Well, I guess there is no sense crying over a lost childhood. My main concern now is that the book will probably be sold to movies, and they might cast it wrong. If I have anything to say about it, I'm going to insist that I play myself, and that Elizabeth Taylor gets the role of the chambermaid.

Atlantic Richfield Makes Barge Report

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Atlantic Richfield Co. has announced that the unloading of oil field equipment brought into Prudhoe Bay, Alaska, by 10 ocean-going barges is almost complete. The company said 17 barges carrying heavy modular equipment are still waiting west of Point Barrow for possible reopening of the ice-blocked water passage to Prudhoe, and 19 other barges with general cargo are going from the Barrow area back to South Alaska ports.

Refining Sector Saving Energy In Processing Area

WASHINGTON — The refining sector of the petroleum industry is well over halfway toward meeting its pledge to improve efficiency in the use of energy for petroleum processing by 15 percent by 1980, the American Petroleum Institute said today. Fifty companies, operating 172 of the nation's 297 refineries and comprising 87.1 percent of all U.S. refining capacity, have reported an 8.9 percent reduction in the consumption of energy as measured against the base year of 1972.

Big Spring Names Bogard Police Chief

BIG SPRING — A 22-year veteran of the Big Spring police force has been named chief of police. Stanley Bogard, 48, succeeds Vance Chisum whose resignation becomes effective Oct. 1. Chisum plans to return to Uvalde, his home town, to become police chief there. Bogard, formerly assistant chief, was named acting police chief here in 1971. Chisum was hired during the year, and the Big Spring City Council created the assistant chief's post which Bogard filled.

USC Sets New Program

By Bill Gardner
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Buildings topple. Looters ransack houses. Crowds stampede in panic. It sounds like a new movie but it's really the basis of a new graduate program at the University of Southern California.

The USC Institute of Disaster Preparedness begins this semester what it calls a first-of-its-kind program to train city officials to deal with emergencies in their communities. Effective coordination of police and fire departments, public utilities, hospitals and city administrators is required, says program director Robert Stallings.

Students have to unlearn many myths about disasters, Stallings says. There isn't as much panic, looting or breakdown in law and order as commonly believed.

"Studies haven't turned up mass panic," Stallings said. "It just doesn't exist. A breakdown of law and order just doesn't occur. There's more fear of looting in disasters than actual looting."

Stallings said many people are not too ruffled by the danger of disasters, particularly in areas subject to recurring disasters like floods, earthquakes, hurricanes and tornadoes.

"Hurricanes are so common in the gulf states that it's almost a festive occasion. People stay inside and have hurricane parties," he said. "During Hurricane Camille, 37 people were killed in Biloxi, Miss., while sitting around drinking at a hurricane party at a beach motel."

"And there are all kinds of jokes and predictions about what is going to happen when a big earthquake hits California, but nobody's running away."

The situation gets bad if a city is used to a disaster of a certain degree and is hit with an unusually big emergency.

Stallings told of a 1965 New Orleans hurricane that caused flooding from nearby Lake Pontchartrain.

"People were ready for a regular hurricane," Stallings said. "They figured they'd keep their heads down until it blew over. But the city was almost paralyzed by the flooding. They just weren't geared up for the flood danger."

USC also has an eight-day intensive program for full-time public officials, and Stallings said he hopes to take that program "on the road" to Washington, D.C., next summer and offer it to people in federal agencies.

Stallings said his study of disasters has made him a little more nervous than most people. He recently lived in the Midwest and says, "My wife and kids thought I was a nut. Whenever there was a threat of tornadoes, I'd be prancing around looking for flashlights and supplies to take to the basement."

Montoya Jury Selection Starts

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jury selection begins today in the theft trial of Greg Montoya, Democratic representative from the Lower Rio Grande Valley town of Elisa.

One lawyer in the case predicted it would take only a few hours to get a jury since the prospective jurors will be questioned en masse rather than individually.

Montoya is charged with illegally paying five employees in his auto parts store with state funds.

Montoya's prosecutor, Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith has won eight convictions in prosecutions of seven lawmakers and one high state official in the past three years. Six of these were representatives and one was a state senator.

Bexar Area Gains In Buying Power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The San Antonio metropolitan area, known for years as a sleepy town with a cheap labor market, surpassed the state average buying power for the first time last year, a study shows.

The city's chamber of commerce announced Monday figures compiled by Sales Management Magazine showed average household buying in Bexar County had increased 10.7 percent since 1974.

Montoya is charged with illegally paying five employees in his auto parts store with state funds.

Montoya's prosecutor, Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith has won eight convictions in prosecutions of seven lawmakers in the past three years. Six of these were representatives and one was a state senator.

One of the six representatives, of course, was Gus Mutscher, the 1972 speaker, and the high state official was his chief administrative aide, Rush McGinty.

Bexar Area Gains In Buying Power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The San Antonio metropolitan area, known for years as a sleepy town with a cheap labor market, surpassed the state average buying power for the first time last year, a study shows.

The city's chamber of commerce announced Monday figures compiled by Sales Management Magazine showed average per household buying in Bexar, Comal and Guadalupe counties was $12,941.

Texas' average for 1974 was $12,846. Buying power is computed as the amount a household has to spend after taxes.

Well, ya did it again, Rebs! Second game, second victory! The mighty Maroon Machine tumbled over the Tigers 7-3. The fans had a battle of their own — and lost.....they got drenched! All the way, Big Rebs!

After the big bout, the Rebels got together and boogied to the funky tunes of Tantron. Special thanks to Mrs. Jerry Roberts and to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Calhoun for minding the door at the Victory Dance. Clean-up detail included Ellen Anguish (who cleaned up the Rebelettes messy storeroom), Diane Robinson, Lynda Roquemore, Hillori Hall, Lis (Elsie) Hellinghausen, Kelly Westerman, Lori Smith and Wendy Goodwin. Jim Beights, thanks for helping set-up. Jill Hawley, Jeff Hull and all you others who helped to set up chairs. . . thanks! Because of the aforementioned who cleaned up — we'll have another VICTORY DANCE NEXT FRIDAY. Tantron will be here again so ya'll come after the big win.

From Sherrie Bassett, Rebelee editor — TO ALL SENIORS — If you have not had your Senior pictures made . . . Call Hollis Studio and make an appointment. No pictures will be taken after Oct. 31 . . . (pictures that for some reason have to be taken after Oct. 31 will require a deposit and cannot be promised for the Yearbook) DON'T WAIT. . . CALL NOW!

Now for organizational news. The Junior Council will have a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Everyone be sure to come because the Garage Sale is only a week and a half away. Start asking for donations NOW. Thanks, David Roberts, for picking up donations for the Garage Sale. Attention all Rebelettes; Please come to a meeting in the Youth Center at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Attention to all parents of Rebel Students. PTA Open House will be held Monday in the LHS Cafeteria in order to introduce the parents to the faculty. Be sure to attend and bring your son's or daughter's class schedule.

Everyone get out of the house and come watch the volleyballers spike Seminole tonight. Boys Gym is the place and the time is 7 for J.V. and 8 for Varsity. See ya'll there. Sophomore cheerleader tryouts will be held Wednesday after school in the auditorium. Everyone be sure to come and help with those who try out.

Congratulations to all the newly installed Rebel Brigade members: Felix Acree, Carl Comstock, David Hobbs, Brian Ramey, Donald Salinas, Steve Sledge, Steve Purdy, Jeff Mathews, Deniz West, Brian Crowell, Bobby Humble, Brit Hull, Doug Clark, Bryan Ellis, James Lundy, John Lowery, Chris Brown and Brad Wright.

Notice all the bangles lately? Be sure and buy yours this week from any Junior Class representative for only 15 cents. This will help promote spirit, so be sure and get yours early and watch the Maroon Platoon PULVERIZE PLAINVIEW! See ya' at the game at 8 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

Bye now,
Jana, Jolee and Lisa

P.S. Robert White — We're sorry to hear about your knee and hope you're up and around in no time. Hang in there, baby.

P.S.S. A very special belated Happy Birthday to Kathy Bright, Debbie Solari and Gretchen Wells. Happy Birthday this week to Vicki Green, Kathy Largent, Jeff Mathews, Beth Ormand, Cathy Henry and Tina Ashford.

P.S.S.S. Happy Anniversary to Bea, Phil and Grace.

P.S.S.S.S. Thanks, Russell and Bill, for fixing tables and Laura and Lisa for shampooing the rug in the Senior Room.

Astronaut Wins Beer Franchise

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Apollo 16 astronaut Charles M. Duke, who has announced his plans to retire from space flight, has been awarded a Coors beer distributorship in San Antonio.

Company officials here said Monday that Duke was among eight men awarded four new distributorships in San Antonio. Duke, 39, the 10th man to walk on the moon April 20, 1972, was named distributor for northeastern San Antonio along with Richard J. Boushka, president of Vickers Energy Corp. of Wichita, Kan.

Mid-Level CIA Officer Blamed By Colby

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former middle-level CIA officer decided to keep a secret cache of deadly poisons in spite of presidential orders to destroy them, agency Director William E. Colby said today.

Colby, without naming the retired officer, said he "made this decision based on the fact that the cost and difficulty of isolating the shellfish toxin were so great that it simply made no sense to destroy it, particularly when there would be no future source of the toxin."

Colby said the toxin was moved in 1970 from the Army's Biological Laboratory at Ft. Detrick, Md., where it was developed, to the Central Intelligence Agency's laboratory storage facility. Presidential directives in 1969 and 1970 ordered the destruction of such poisons.

Colby said in testimony prepared for the Senate intelligence committee that the officer was "not directly associated" with the drug project at Ft. Detrick. At another point, Colby said the officer "had been the GS-15 branch chief in 1970."

The same officer had provided the initial lead about the continued storage of the poison, the CIA director said. The officer's information led to the discovery of the toxin earlier this year, he said.

Storing the toxin instead of destroying it "was done on the basis of his (the officer's) own decision after conversations with the responsible project officer," Colby said.

"Both of these middle-grade officers agree that no one, including their immediate superior, was told of the retention of the shellfish toxin," he said.

The CIA director said, "The controls (over agency employees) involved in the shellfish case seem to have existed but not to have been applied."

He added, "I am confident that such episodes as the shellfish toxin will not be repeated."

Colby was the lead-off witness at the committee's first public session after eight months of investigation.

However, the key witness is expected to be Dr. Nathan Gordon, a former agency chemist who Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, says was given the responsibility for complying with the 1970 presidential order to destroy stockpiles of chemical and biological warfare agents.

Dr. Gordon claims he never was given any explicit directions to destroy the agency's supply of poisons, according to a source with first-hand knowledge of his testimony before committee investigators Saturday.

Gordon is appearing in response to a subpoena in order to take advantage of a committee rule which bars TV cameras and microphones from the hearing room during the testimony of a subpoenaed witness, sources said.

The hearings are expected to last two to three days and include testimony from Richard M. Helms, who headed the agency at the time the presidential order was issued, and Thomas H. Karamessines, former head of CIA covert operations.

In a related development, an Army spokesman acknowledged Monday that the Army retains a small quantity of deadly poison identical to the shellfish toxin kept by the CIA. However, Lt. Col. Hugh G. Waite maintained that the toxin was kept for "laboratory purposes" only and therefore does not violate the 1970 order. The amount maintained by the Army was approximately one-fourth that kept by the CIA.

Dr. E. L. Harris, technical director at Edgewood, said recently that the Army would be justified in keeping small quantities of toxins because of a provision in the 1970 order stating that the U.S. "should confine its military program for toxins . . . to research for defense purposes only." The same provisions also justify the Army's retention of quantities of cobra venom for medical research work, Harris said.

Church said last week that the quantities of shellfish toxin and cobra venom at the CIA lab "are such that no defense can be made . . . that they were limited for purposes of laboratory experiments."

DEDICATION — "In the ballet and in training horses you must dedicate yourself totally," says Daphne Edmonds, former ballet star. She gave up her dance career in 1971 to come to America. A native of Nairobi, Kenya, she met and married horse owner Beau Edmonds. She is shown with one of their stable of racehorses. (AP Wirephoto.)

Way Cleared For Settlement Of New York Teacher Strike

By The Associated Press

The hoped-for settlement to return 1.1 million New York City public school students to their classrooms came closer as key negotiators for the Board of Education and 65,000 striking teachers presented a tentative settlement to the full negotiating teams of both sides.

The break came early today after about seven hours of talks on last minute snags.

Approval by both sides would lead the way for immediate ratification votes by the union's Delegate Assembly and then the rank-and-file.

Both sides in the dispute still expressed hope that pupils could be back in classes by Wednesday.

Meanwhile, teachers' strikes affecting nearly one million other students continued in Chicago and school districts in eight other states.

In Chicago, 530,000 children stayed home from school for the 10th day as 27,000 striking teachers planned alternative schools and prepared for a long-range boycott of conventional classrooms.

Strikes continued in school districts in California, Delaware, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

Albert Shanker, president of United Federation of Teachers, and other union officials were scheduled to appear in court today for sentencing in connection with the New York strike, which was called in violation of state law. Shanker served two 15-day jail terms for leading school strikes in 1967 and 1968.

Negotiators in New York had hoped to submit a proposed settlement to union delegates late Monday night, but a snag developed and the teachers postponed their meeting.

New York teachers had a salary scale ranging from $9,700 to $20,350 under their previous contract.

Their strike has virtually shut down the city's 950 public schools.

Rotarians To Make Girls Ranch Visit Thursday Night

Members of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club will make their annual visit to the High Sky Girls Ranch Thursday night, President Dave Dorchester said.

Accompanied by their Rotary-Anns, the Rotarians will meet at the ranch at 6:30 p.m., with dinner served at 7 p.m.

The ranch residents will be introduced individually by Rotarian Jack Daniels, director of the ranch.

The visitors later will tour the facility.

High Sky Girls Ranch is one of the Rotary Club's major projects.

The club's regular Thursday noon meeting will not be held this week.

Higher F14 Costs Laid On Government

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP) — Last 111 planes are to be built at a reduced rate of three per month, with production falling off to 1 1/2 month by 1980.

If the final 111 aircraft were built at the original rate of six planes per month, the entire schedule could be completed by September 1979, the spokesman said.

Joseph G. Gavin, chairman of Grumman, said maintaining the six-planes-per-month rate would save $450 million.

"It is this reduction which results in the increase in unit costs and accounts for the reported overall increase," the spokesman said.

On Sunday, the Defense Department released a report that claimed an over-all increase of $582 million in procurement costs for the F14 Tomcat fighter for the fiscal years 1976-1980. The increase would bring the price of each plane to at least $20 million.

Fromme Lawyer Seeks Lifting Of Gag Order Against Client

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette A. Fromme's attorney says her trial may be "little more than a farce" because of a court order banning everyone connected with the case, including Miss Fromme, from talking to the public.

E. Richard Walker, the public defender representing Miss Fromme on a charge that she attempted to assassinate President Ford, made the comment in a brief seeking to remove the gag order against her. He did not ask the judge to drop the order as it affected others.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes responded that the gag order by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride is needed to curb "sensational media reports."

MacBride scheduled hearings today on motions by Walker to lift the gag order against Miss Fromme and to reduce her $1 million bail.

MacBride imposed the order last week on Miss Fromme, 26-year-old disciple of convicted murderer Charles Manson, after she was indicted by a grand jury on a charge of "willfully and knowingly" pointing a pistol at the President during a Sacramento visit on Sept. 5.

Miss Fromme is scheduled to enter a plea on Friday.

Walker said the order violates his client's constitutional rights to freedom of speech, a speedy and public trial and due process of law, as well as the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Keyes said the order would prevent a recurrence of news reports such as the interview in which a defense attorney in the Charles Manson murder trial said Miss Fromme told him she didn't mean to shoot Ford.

Attorney Daye Shinn said Miss Fromme told him she was only trying to focus attention on what she said was the need for a new trial for Manson.

Manson is serving a life imprisonment term in San Quentin Prison for the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Hollywood Bowl Chalks Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The box office gross of $141,206 for the two Tchaikovsky Spectacular concerts given by the Los Angeles Philharmonic on Aug. 1 and 2 was the largest for a two-night, regular-season symphonic event in Hollywood Bowl history.

The figure represents an attendance of 16,073 on Aug. 1 and 17,562 on Aug. 2.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic performed the "1812 Overture" augmented by military band, cannon and fireworks.

Ear Drops Recalled

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A shipment of possibly harmful ear drops distributed to 10 Western states is being recalled by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration after seven reports of injuries.

A spokesman in the Portland FDA office said the injuries involve a burning sensation in the ear after using the drops, which were distributed by Whitworth, Inc., of Gardena, Calif., the name that appears on the label.

The drops are sold in half-ounce bottles. The words "ear drops" appear in blue and black lettering on a white and blue label. The label also says the drops are for softening ear wax.

The drops, sold without prescription, were shipped to Oregon, Washington, Idaho, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Texas. The recall involves some 7,500 bottles.

The FDA spokesman said samples tested indicate the presence of about 5,000 times as much benzalkonium chloride as is declared on the label.

New Consumer Weapon Approved

By G. DAVID WALLACE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning next month, consumers will have a new weapon for dealing with those credit card company computers that just keep spitting out past-due notices in the face of protestations that the computer is wrong.

One of the requirements of a law taking effect Oct. 28 is that companies must advise credit users periodically how and where to file a claim for a billing error.

The Federal Reserve Board announced Monday the final regulations that will provide the basis for enforcing the Fair Credit Billing Act passed by Congress last year.

Everyone who uses a credit card or any open-end credit plan, such as a checking account line of credit, will come under the umbrella of the new law.

The document will spell out the procedure for filing a claim for a billing error. The claim must be in writing and must be filed within 60 days after receiving the contested bill.

Safety Deposit Boxes Catchalls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bank safety deposit boxes usually hold jewelry, money, old coins and other valuables. But that's not all. Try a cocktail napkin, old birthday cards or a pair of socks.

One box served its owner as a lunch pail. The inventory produced small jars of mustard, catsup, relish, salt and pepper shakers. The boxholder apparently brought his bag lunch downtown every day and at noon would go to the box to season his meal.

Deputy Auditor Harry Fell says many of the boxes contain cash, and $1,000 seems to be a typical sum.

Some persons keep a single box, and others, especially coin and collectors of other items, may keep up to a dozen boxes, he said.

After the dispute reaches the point where the credit card company insists the charge was valid, the creditor has 10 days to file objections with the lender.

Death Of Houston Man Possibly Caused By SLE

HOUSTON (AP) — Health authorities say the death of a 49-year-old man may be the first local death attributed to encephalitis since 1964.

The latest confirmed and suspected brings the total confirmed SLE cases to 10 and the suspected cases to 23 since the present outbreak of the illness was announced Aug. 27. Thirty-two persons died from SLE in the Houston area in 1964.

Dr. Albert G. Randall, city health department director, said the health department believes the outbreak of the illness is "on the downcurve" because most of the suspected and confirmed cases first became ill in August. However, he said cases of the disease may continue to crop up through October.

He said the outbreak is "relatively mild" when compared with other areas of the country presently experiencing encephalitis outbreaks.

FTC Accuses Safeway Of Selling At Higher-Than-Advertised Prices

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — Safeway, the country's largest supermarket chain, was accused Monday by the Federal Trade Commission of selling groceries at higher-than-advertised prices.

Customer losses between 1972 and 1974 amounted to about $340,000 according to FTC case lawyer Ann Fortney.

The overcharging complaint, the third such one issued against a major food retailer in three years, stems from a 1973 investigation of 53 Safeway stores in 14 cities, including Washington, D.C.

FTC shoppers purchased 285 food and non-food items at reduced prices in that week's newspaper. At the check-out counters cashiers rang up more than half of the items at the regular, higher prices still marked on the containers.

Chapin Asks Review Of '74 Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight L. Chapin, appointments secretary to former President Richard M. Nixon, has asked for a Supreme Court review of his April 1974 conviction in connection with Watergate.

Chapin is serving a prison term of 10-30 months stemming from his grand jury testimony on so-called political "dirty tricks" during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Increase By GM Pushes New Car Sales Close To '74 Mark

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
DETROIT (AP) — An increase in General Motors car sales, surpassing even last September's buying spree, has lifted the pace of U.S. auto sales to within 7.5 per cent of year-ago levels for the first third of this month.

GM was the lone domestic auto producer to report a gain from year-ago levels for the Sept. 1-10 period, notching a boost of two-tenths of 1 per cent.

Chrysler Corp. was down 2 per cent; American Motors was off 14.5 per cent; and Ford Motor Co. plunged 21 per cent.

Over-all, U.S. auto makers sold 150,241 cars during the period, with its eight selling days. The 1974 span, with seven selling days, produced sales of 142,172.

The daily sales rate, on which the industry bases its percentage comparisons, was 18,780 for the most recent period, compared with 20,310 during the 1974 period.

Industry analysts noted Ford's performance, while off considerably from 1974, was its second-best for the period in 15 years, trailing only last year's record.

Price Increases
In early September last year, consumers rushed to new-car showrooms to beat average $450 price increases for 1975 models.

The 1976 models carry price tags $200 to $250 higher than comparable 1975 models.

Analysts contend the boosts have not been high enough to bring about a similar consumer reaction. And, the sticker price increases often will not reflect the full price rise.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bob Bennett said Monday the office has investigated "every case of wiretapping" about which Carlos Avila and Anthony Zavala had knowledge.

Avila and Zavala, former Houston narcotics officers, were sentenced to three years in prison last Friday after pleading guilty to charges of placing taps on two telephones in 1971 and 1972 while they were still with the department.

They were fired from the department in 1973 after being indicted on state charges of selling marijuana. They drew probation sentences in that case after they testified before a Harris County grand jury investigating allegations of police misconduct.

The two former officers have repeatedly said that several police officers were involved in wiretapping. They have indicated that wiretapping by Houston police of criminal suspects was much more extensive than has been reflected by indictments or convictions.

Bennett said his office will stick to precedent. The average person's vocabulary is nearly complete at age 25.

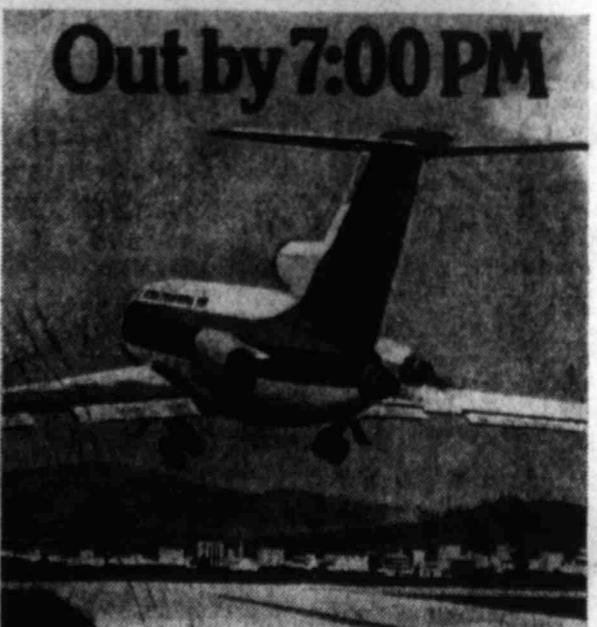

McCormick said Wallace formally announce his candidacy very soon and plans to make personal appearances in many of the primaries.

Nostalgia Affects Amateurs

By JACK SMITH
The Los Angeles Times

of Smith and men

As I have admitted here before, occasionally I feel nostalgic for times I have never lived in, places I have never seen. As far back as I can remember, a movie that began with a view of the Manhattan skyline or a few bars from "The Sidewalks of New York" would fill me with a pleasant homesickness, though I was 40 years old before I saw New York and even then I didn't get half a mile away from Times Square.

I never quite supposed I was the victim of this baffling malady, but none the less it is comforting to find that it has been observed also by a distinguished teacher, Edward W. Rosenheim Jr., professor of English literature at the University of Chicago.

In a talk on the subject of nostalgia, in its various forms, Rosenheim gives a name to this phenomenon. He calls it unfixed or floating nostalgia — sensations of longing with no very well defined object: "The feeling a person might have on hearing certain Strauss waltzes, even though he had never been closer to Vienna than Youngstown, Ohio."

Ordinary or fixed nostalgia, he suggests, though it might be "an astonishingly complicated emotion," is a longing for something which can always be identified as "an authentic, specific experience which the longer has actually undergone." Professor Rosenheim sketches a few such experiences from his own inventory: "Mother's dill pickles; the smell beneath the pier at the Winnetka beach; the opening pages of a Tom Swift book; the vanished water hole at Skokie Playfield golf course..."

Though Rosenheim's academic field is 18th century English literature (a century for which he undoubtedly feels a floating nostalgia) he recently taught a course in the novel of the 1930s. For the professor, who had read all the books when they were current, it was a plunge into fixed nostalgia; for his students, if nostalgic at all, it was nostalgia of that more elusive kind — unfixed or floating.

Right off, his students began running into words that their professor had to explain, obsolete words of the kind we have recently been searching for here; running board (believed by some of the students to be a kind of scooter); B.V.D.s, spats, smoker, blindpig, needle beer.

"You may likewise imagine the need to identify persons and institutions," he says, "particularly where they show up as symbols or initials or nicknames — the Blue Eagle and the Landon Sunflower; the CCC and NRA and WPA; Cactus Jack; the King of Swing; the Blond Bombshell; the Brown Bomber.

"For today's students labor in ignorance it appears, of the multiple uses of the Sears Roebuck catalogue. They speculate that Lydia Pinkham was a Pilgrim housewife in Plymouth; some of them believe that the hallmark of the burlesque show was that it was always satirical."

Understandably, the students were surprised to find that in the novels of the 1930s sex occurred between the end of one chapter and the beginning of the next, and that four-letter words were so taboo that even the supermacho Ernest Hemingway was obliged to represent them with the word OBSCENITY itself, and the reader had to supply whatever obscenity was suggested by the context.

Woman's libbers among the students resented the treatment of women, especially Maria in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." "I have been in love with her for years," says Rosenheim, "if only because she was played by Ingrid Bergman in the film — and my feelings were deeply injured at hearing her called passive, servile and — because she allowed Robert Jordan to call her Little Rabbit — a shameful monument to male chauvinism."

Ballerina Turns To Race Horses

MIAMI (AP) — Dancing Nairobi, Kenya, native met and proved the perfect background for her new career, former international ballerina Daphne Edmonds says. She trains race horses now. "I train horses as I would a dancer," said Mrs. Edmonds, currently working with three horses at Miami's Calder Race Track. "Horses and dancers have the same problems: knees and ankles and backs, and they are both performers."

A former star of the Grand Ballet de Marquis de Cuevas in Paris and a veteran of tours through Europe, North and South America and Africa, Mrs. Edmonds said: "In the ballet, and in training horses you must dedicate yourself totally." Giving up her dance career in 1971 to come to America, she

Texas Parolee Held In Death

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A man paroled from a Texas prison after serving 15 years for murder is being held by police in connection with the slaying of a Portland grocery store clerk. Donald Ray Rister, 36, Portland, was shot by police Sunday at a Plaid Pantry store. He was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at a Portland hospital. Dead is Barbara Carrico, 30, Portland. City police would not release any information about the murder or the shooting, citing Oregon's new criminal records law. "We had hired him as a rehabilitated felon. It was a tragic mistake — something we'll never do again," said Piacentini. He said the victim, who had six children, was stabbed several times and raped. One of her sons came into the store, saw the man and summoned a passing patrol car. Reportedly, when police dashed in, the man pulled a gun. But a policeman shot first, hitting the man in the head.

Youth Awarded $110,000 In Suit

DALLAS (AP)—A Garland youth was awarded $110,000 in damages Monday for injuries he suffered when a cola bottle exploded in his face.

The bottle of Pepsi Cola exploded unexpectedly in Lyle Davis' garage, blinding him in the left eye.

U.S. District Court Judge William Taylor ordered Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co. also to pay $6,189.81 in damages to the boy's mother for costs she incurred because of the accident.

Shakeup Of Peron Government Begins

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Acting President Italo Luder has begun a shakeup of President Isabel Peron's government, but the meaning in terms of government policies is not yet clear.

The government announced Monday night, less than 36 hours after Mrs. Peron flew to the hills of central Argentina for a month's rest, that Luder had accepted the resignations of Interior Minister Vicente Damasco, Defense Minister Jorge Garrido, Mrs. Peron's press secretary and her private secretary.

There was speculation that the other members of the cabinet had also submitted their resignations.

Luder, who is president of the Senate, named Foreign Minister Angel F. Robledo to replace Damasco and Tomas Vettero, an official in an earlier Peron government, to be defense minister.

The new foreign minister was not immediately named.

There was no indication, however, of whether Luder has any ideas for checking the country's runaway inflation and rampant terrorism, or for easing the split between the conservative and left wings of the Peronist movement.

The late President Juan Peron favored the conservatives after his return to power in 1973, and his widow continued this policy when she succeeded to the presidency on his death 14 months ago.

This resulted in an increase in political terrorism and the first serious political crisis of Mrs. Peron's regime two months ago, when the Peronist labor movement successfully challenged a proposed austerity program and with army backing forced the president to get rid of its author, conservative Jose Lopez Rega, who had been her chief adviser and closest confidant.

Damasco, the interior minister who resigned, was the cause of another confrontation between Mrs. Peron and the military a month ago which touched off rumors that a military coup was in the offing.

Mrs. Peron, who is reported suffering from extreme fatigue, has a 45-day leave of absence.

A spokesman said last weekend that she would return to the presidency before Oct. 17. But there is considerable speculation that she will never return to office.

Meanwhile, the peso was devalued for the sixth time in six months Monday, and officials reported four more persons — three young leftists and a policeman — killed by terrorists.

This brought the death toll by rightist and leftist terrorists to 420 since Jan. 1.

The peso, which was 9.9 to the U. S. dollar last March, dropped from 44.10 to 45.75 to the dollar.

Cattle Feeding Industry Reports Continuing Lag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cattle feeding industry continues to lag despite some signs that producers still show interest in boosting output of grain-fed beef.

Feedlots in seven major beef states as of Sept. 1 had 5,949,000 cattle in their inventories, down 13 per cent from the same date last year, the Agriculture Department said Monday. The year-earlier gap has persisted for about two years, largely because of high grain costs in relation to cattle prices.

But during August, officials said, about 1,250,000 new cattle were placed in feeding pens for marketing later this year or early in 1976. Those were up 4 per cent from the placement rate in August of last year.

The Sept. 1 inventory included these reductions: Arizona 358,000 head of cattle on feed, down 11 per cent; California 785,000, down 22; Colorado 667,000 down 1; Iowa 900,000, down 18; Nebraska 890,000, down 13; and Texas 1,339,000, down 24.

Duval Auditor Never Saw Zertuche's General Store

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — If there ever was a Zertuche's General Store at Benavides, Duval County Auditor Walter Meek never found it.

That was what Meek told the jury Monday in the federal income tax trial of suspended state District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo and Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo. The Carrillo brothers are being tried on charges of conspiring with Arturo Zertuche, a cousin, to file false income tax returns and with filing false income tax returns. Zertuche is to be tried here later.

Assistant U.S. Atty. George Kelt of Houston contends that the Carrillo brothers set up Zertuche's General Store to hide illegal sales from their Farm and Ranch Supply Store at Benavides to various Duval County agencies.

Kelt contends Zertuche's General Store never existed. The indictment alleges that the Carrillos and Zertuche filed false tax returns when Zertuche reported income from the store. The government contends Zertuche's income from the store was actually sales made by the Carrillos' store that should have been reported as income by them.

When Kelt asked Meek if he ever went to Zertuche's General Store at Benavides, a town of about 2,100 people, Meek replied that he had never actually been able to find the store. But he said someone once pointed out a building in the small town and said the store was located there.

Meek identified two large folders filled with invoices as bills submitted to the county by Zertuche's General Store between 1968 and 1970. Some checks Meek sent to the store also were identified.

Meek, the fourth witnesses to testify in the slow-moving trial in U.S. District Court, also told the jury of seven women and five men about procedures used by the Duval County Commissioners Court in approving bills submitted to the county.

"Our processes in Duval County are not exactly orthodox," Meek said, explaining that the commissioners usually approved all the bills submitted to them. Asked how closely the bills, Meek said, "I'll tell you frankly. It's rather haphazard."

Clemency Board Dissolved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's Clemency Board has ended its work after processing claims for 15,468 applicants out of an estimated 120,000 eligible men.

The board's tenure expired at midnight Monday under the law that authorized its creation to enable men convicted of draft evasion or punished for desertion in the Vietnam war era to earn presidential pardons.

Ford issued an executive order Monday delegating the Justice Department to tie up the loose ends of the board's work. This involves principally giving final recommendations to Ford on 910 applicants for whom more information is needed, board spokeswoman Nia Nicholas said.

The board received only about 21,000 applications, despite two extensions of the deadline before the door was closed March 31. The board found more than 5,000 applicants ineligible for various reasons, including some who got in trouble in World War I and

World War II. By last Friday, the board had sent the President recommendations on 5,361 and he had signed 2,402 warrants for clemency pardons. The breakdown between recommendations for outright pardons and for pardons conditioned on a period of public service employment was not available, Mrs. Nicholas said.

But figures released so far indicate about half the applicants are receiving outright pardons and the others pardons conditioned on job assignments generally ranging from a few months to a year.

The board could assign up to two years' service but has been lenient because those who came before it have either served time in prison or been given punitive-type military discharges.

There are two parts of the program not under the board involving unpunished military deserters and draft evaders. Most of these have been assigned near the two-year maximum by the Defense and Justice departments.

Chairman Charles E. Goodell, a former Republican senator from New York, said that while the number of applicants is disappointing, the program was worthwhile for those who took part in their efforts for "a second chance."

Texas Parolee Held In Death

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A man paroled from a Texas prison after serving 15 years for murder is being held by police in connection with the slaying of a Portland grocery store clerk.

Donald Ray Rister, 36, Portland, was shot by police Sunday at a Plaid Pantry store. He was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at a Portland hospital. Dead is Barbara Carrico, 39, Portland.

City police would not release any information about the murder or the shooting, citing Oregon's new criminal records law.

All information came from the Multnomah County medical examiner, store owner John Piacentini, ambulance attendants, hospital nurses and Texas corrections officials.

The Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville said Rister was imprisoned for murder from November 1959 until August 1974.

Piacentini said Monday that Rister once worked in the same store where the woman was killed.

"We had hired him as a rehabilitated felon. It was a tragic mistake — something we'll never do again," said Piacentini.

He said the victim, who had six children, was stabbed several times and raped. One of her sons came into the store, saw the man and summoned a passing patrol car.

Reportedly, when police dashed in, the man pulled a gun. But a policeman shot first, hitting the man in the head.

Youth Awarded $110,000 In Suit

DALLAS (AP)—A Garland youth was awarded $110,000 in damages Monday for injuries he suffered when a cola bottle exploded in his face.

The bottle of Pepsi Cola exploded unexpectedly in Lyle Davis' garage, blinding him in the left eye.

U.S. District Court Judge William Taylor ordered Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co. also to pay $6,189.81 in damages to the boy's mother for costs she incurred because of the accident.

Clemency Board Dissolved

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford's Clemency Board has ended its work after processing claims for 15,468 applicants out of an estimated 120,000 eligible men.

The board's tenure expired at midnight Monday under the law that authorized its creation to enable men convicted of draft evasion or punished for desertion in the Vietnam war era to earn presidential pardons.

Ford issued an executive order Monday delegating the Justice Department to tie up the loose ends of the board's work. This involves principally giving final recommendations to Ford on 910 applicants for whom more information is needed, board spokeswoman Nia Nicholas said.

The board received only about 21,000 applications, despite two extensions of the deadline before the door was closed March 31. The board found more than 5,000 applicants ineligible for various reasons, including some who got in trouble in World War I and

World War II. By last Friday, the board had sent the President recommendations on 5,361 and he had signed 2,402 warrants for clemency pardons. The breakdown between recommendations for outright pardons and for pardons conditioned on a period of public service employment was not available, Mrs. Nicholas said.

But figures released so far indicate about half the applicants are receiving outright pardons and the others pardons conditioned on job assignments generally ranging from a few months to a year.

The board could assign up to two years' service but has been lenient because those who came before it have either served time in prison or been given punitive-type military discharges.

There are two parts of the program not under the board involving unpunished military deserters and draft evaders. Most of these have been assigned near the two-year maximum by the Defense and Justice departments.

Chairman Charles E. Goodell, a former Republican senator from New York, said that while the number of applicants is disappointing, the program was worthwhile for those who took part in their efforts for "a second chance."

Shakeup Of Peron Government Begins

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Acting President Italo Luder has begun a shakeup of President Isabel Peron's government, but the meaning in terms of government policies is not yet clear.

The government announced Monday night, less than 36 hours after Mrs. Peron flew to the hills of central Argentina for a month's rest, that Luder had accepted the resignations of Interior Minister Vicente Damasco, Defense Minister Jorge Garrido, Mrs. Peron's press secretary and her private secretary.

There was speculation that the other members of the cabinet had also submitted their resignations.

Luder, who is president of the Senate, named Foreign Minister Angel F. Robledo to replace Damasco and Tomas Vettero, an official in an earlier Peron government, to be defense minister.

The new foreign minister was not immediately named.

There was no indication, however, of whether Luder has any ideas for checking the country's runaway inflation and rampant terrorism, or for easing the split between the conservative and left wings of the Peronist movement.

The late President Juan Peron favored the conservatives after his return to power in 1973, and his widow continued this policy when she succeeded to the presidency on his death 14 months ago. This resulted in an increase in political terrorism and the first serious political crisis of Mrs. Peron's regime two months ago, when the Peronist labor movement successfully challenged a proposed austerity program and with army backing forced the president to get rid of its author, conservative Jose Lopez Rega, who had been her chief adviser and closest confidant.

Damasco, the interior minister who resigned, was the cause of another confrontation between Mrs. Peron and the military a month ago which touched off rumors that a military coup was in the offing.

Mrs. Peron, who is reported suffering from extreme fatigue, has a 45-day leave of absence. A spokesman said last weekend that she would return to the presidency before Oct. 17. But there is considerable speculation that she will never return to office.

Meanwhile, the peso was devalued for the sixth time in six months Monday, and officials reported four more persons — three young leftists and a policeman — killed by terrorists. This brought the death toll by rightist and leftist terrorists to 420 since Jan. 1.

The peso, which was 9.9 to the U. S. dollar last March, dropped from 44.10 to 45.75 to the dollar.

Cattle Feeding Industry Reports Continuing Lag

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cattle feeding industry continues to lag despite some signs that producers still show interest in boosting output of grain-fed beef.

Feedlots in seven major beef states as of Sept. 1 had 5,949,000 cattle in their inventories, down 13 per cent from the same date last year, the Agriculture Department said Monday. The year-earlier gap has persisted for about two years, largely because of high grain costs in relation to cattle prices.

But during August, officials said, about 1,259,000 new cattle were placed in feeding pens for marketing later this year or early in 1976. Those were up 4 per cent from the placement rate in August of last year.

The Sept. 1 inventory included these reductions: Arizona 358,000 head of cattle on feed, down 11 per cent; California 785,000, down 22; Colorado 667,000 down 1; Iowa 900,000, down 18; Nebraska 890,000, down 13; and Texas 1,339,000, down 24.

Duval Auditor Never Saw Zertuche's General Store

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—If there ever was a Zertuche's General Store at Benavides, Duval County Auditor Walter Meek never found it.

That was what Meek told the jury Monday in the federal income tax trial of suspended state District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo and Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo. The Carrillo brothers are being tried on charges of conspiring with Arturo Zertuche, a cousin, to file false income tax returns and with filing false income tax returns. Zertuche is to be tried here later.

Assistant U.S. Atty. George Kelt of Houston contends that the Carrillo brothers set up Zertuche's General Store to hide illegal sales from their Farm and Ranch Supply Store at Benavides to various Duval County agencies.

Kelt contends Zertuche's General Store never existed.

The indictment alleges that the Carrillos and Zertuche filed false tax returns when Zertuche reported income from the store. The government contends Zertuche's income from the store was actually sales made by the Carrillos' store that should have been reported as income by them.

When Kelt asked Meek if he ever went to Zertuche's General Store at Benavides, a town of about 2,100 people, Meek replied that he had never actually been able to find the store. But he said someone once pointed out a building in the small town and said the store was located there.

Meek identified two large folders filled with invoices as bills submitted to the county by Zertuche's General Store between 1968 and 1970. Some checks Meek sent to the store also were identified.

Meek, the fourth witness to testify in the slow-moving trial in U.S. District Court, also told the jury of seven women and five men about procedures used by the Duval County Commissioners Court in approving bills submitted to the county.

"Our processes in Duval County are not exactly orthodox," Meek said, explaining that the commissioners usually approved all the bills submitted to them. Asked how closely the commissioners examine the bills, Meek said, "I'll tell you frankly. It's rather haphazard."

Irish Thump Boston College, 17-3

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Dan Devine is officially part of the Notre Dame legend... but even legends don't get much time to relax.

"We can enjoy it for all of about five minutes," an emotionally drained Devine said Monday night after his name was carved into the Notre Dame Football mystique along with Rockne, Leahy and Parseghian in a season-opening 17-3 victory over stubborn Boston College.

Chapter 2 in the 50-year-old Devine's reign as Notre Dame's head coach is just four days off when the Fighting Irish travel to Purdue on Saturday.

Monday night's game, before a record Schaefer Stadium crowd of 61,501 plus millions more watching on national television, was fraught with emotion — Devine's return to the college ranks as successor to Ara Parseghian, the emotion of two players back in school after a year's suspension having key roles in the triumph, the emotion of two brothers playing great football while their father is hospitalized with lung cancer.

"It's hard to put into words what it means to be back," said Ed Ross, a sophomore who was named the game's outstanding defensive player for making seven unassisted tackles and recovering a fumble that set up a tie-breaking touchdown on a 10-yard burst by his younger brother Jim late in the third quarter.

Speedy halfback Al Hunter, another of the five players who returned to school this semester after a harsh one-year suspension for violating dormitory rules, capped the triumph with an insurance 24-yard touchdown gallop just 50 seconds into the final period.

The ninth-ranked Irish started slowly, teasing the partisan New England crowd with the possibility of an upset victory by Boston College.

Notre Dame managed only one first down in the opening period and the teams were locked in a 3-3 standoff until the Irish took advantage of B.C. mistakes — Mike Kruczek's errant pitchout which Ross Browner recovered and an interception by Randy Harrison to set up Hunter's clinching touchdown.

For the first time, Devine admitted he felt some pressure in his debut as head coach at college football's winningest institution. But he shrugged it off as surely, as the Notre Dame squad held off everything up Atlanta's 18-hit assault that embarrassed the Giants... and the crowd of 851 fans who showed up to watch them.

A coach wouldn't be in this business 27 years if the press sure got to him," Devine said. "I wouldn't have gotten in this business, I wouldn't have taken this job if I thought I was going to die from the pressure before the first game... but I damn near did this week.

"I'm very excited, very thrilled. We worked hard preparing for this game and I'm glad the hard work was rewarded. Considering the amount of practice we had, I was pleased with our performance. We had an 18-year-old freshman (Jim Browner) and several sophomores in the starting line-up. I don't know how you gain experience without actually playing, and I'm glad we gained that experience tonight."

Notre Dame had a senior at the controls — quarterback Rick Slager, part of an all-new backfield. Slager completed only one of five passes in the first half for a measly three yards but connected on five of seven for 69 yards after the intermission. He hit on three passes for 39 yards as the Irish stormed 60 yards in eight plays for the tie-breaking touchdown and three one pass for 12 yards two plays before Hunter's insurance TD.

"I wasn't terribly nervous," said Slager, who threw only eight passes last season and made more headlines as Notre Dame's top varsity tennis player. "I wanted to go in confident, not nervous. I tried to play it low-key, but I found out that wasn't going to work, so in the second half I got excited."

It was controlled excitement.

"We just tried to keep our cool and find a way to execute a little better," Devine said. "We tried to keep our patience, keep our poise. We kept waiting for Boston College to make mistakes, but it took a long time. They didn't make a mistake until the second half and then we were able to go in and score on them."

Boston College, like most straight men, was somewhat overlooked in all the fuss over Notre Dame, which hadn't played in New England since 1944.

"We felt good that we did as well as we did as long as we did," said Coach Joe Yuliska, whose club crushed its last six opponents a year ago and was hoping to use an upset of Notre Dame as the springboard to national recognition.

"I'm disappointed we lost," added quarterback Mike Kruczek, "but I'm not going to hang my head. I think we proved we can play anyone."

Except a legend.

Tech's Sloan Sweeping South Plains Off Feet

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — "I am Steve Sloan."

"I am not coach Bryant. I am not Ara Parseghian. I am not Frank Broyles. I am myself."

"In my heart, there is an abiding respect for these men and many other outstanding football coaches. But every coach must use his own plan."

So writes Sloan in his new book, "A Whole New Ball Game."

Sloan introduced himself and his plan to the Southwest Conference Saturday night as Texas Tech bushwhacked Florida State 31-20 in his debut as head coach of the Red Raiders.

"I haven't seen that many teeth on the street since Jaws," quipped one admirer as Sloan's toothy grin filled the television screen in a post-game show.

As Cher and Zsa-Zsa might attest, honeymoons, unlike diamonds, don't last forever but Sloan's youthful exuberance and Southern-flavored warmth and charm have made him an overnight hit on the South Plains.

He comes on as a stylish, Huck Finn but the news media calls him "Kid Coach," an affectionate illusion to his age, 31, which stamps him as the youngest head coach in the SWC.

Newspaper cartoonist Dirk West, who can be devastatingly brutal at times, portrayed a grinning Sloan Monday with his arm around a mustachioed Red Raider caricature.

The Raider is saying: "He may be new.

"And kinda slight,

"But, you can call him,

"KID DY-NO-MITE."

Asked if he felt compelled to emulate Bear Bryant, whose coach at Alabama where he starred at quarterback, Sloan laughed and said "The only thing I'd like to emulate about Coach Bryant is his won-loss record."

Sloan's predecessor here, Jim Carlen, now at South Carolina, was fond of the term "Get physical." Someone asked Sloan "Do you ever threaten to get physical?"

With arms outstretched and his palms upward, he replied "With this bod? You gotta be kidding."

Asked about the highlight of his triumphant opener here, Sloan praised the offensive line, the performances of several individuals and then said: "But most of all I really like that horse."

"The horse is a registered black quarter horse which traditionally leads the Raider football team onto the field and carries the masked Rider on a gallop around the stadium.

VAIL TIES 23-GAME RECORD Pirates, Cubs Split

By The Associated Press "I figured it was gonna be one of those nights," Mike Vail mused. It was... but not the way he figured.

In the fourth inning Monday night, the New York Mets' rookie sensation drilled a bullet-right into the glove of Montreal third baseman Larry Parrish. "I said to myself, 'That's it. That's the best shot I'll have at a hit.'" His chance at a niche in the record books, he decided, was fading fast. "I got discouraged for a moment. I figured it was gonna be one of those nights,"

Two innings later, though, Vail got the hit and the share of the record—a 23-game hitting streak, the longest ever by a National League rookie. It also drove in the Mets' first run.

And two innings after that, he got his second hit and second RBI of the game, an eighth-inning tie-breaking single that vaulted the Mets to a 3-2 victory over the Expos.

Cubs 6-1, Pirates 5-9

Two-out run-scoring doubles in the ninth inning by Jerry Morales and Jose Cardenal gave the Cubs their opening-game victory, then Jim Rooker hurled a two-hitter to bring Pittsburgh back in the nightcap.

Cards 7, Phillies 6

Singles by Ken Reitz and Ted Sizemore and a double by pinch-hitter Reggie Smith snapped an eighth-inning tie, dropped Philadelphia six games back of the first-place Pirates in the East Division and moved the Cardinals within seven games of the top.

Dodgers 5, Padres 4

Willie McCovey three-run homer in the top of the eighth inning gave San Diego a 4-1 lead. But in the bottom of the eighth, Willie Crawford's three-run homer capped the Dodgers' four-run burst that carried Burt Hooton to his 11th straight victory.

Braves 12, Giants 0

Dusty Baker's five RBI and a six-run fifth inning highlighted Atlanta's 18-hit assault that embarrassed the Giants... and the crowd of 851 fans who showed up to watch them.

Owners Offer Six-Point Plan To Ward Off Strike

By The Associated Press National Football League owners have made a six-point proposal, including the promise of a new contract offer by Sept. 25, in an effort to ward off a league-wide player contraction stemming from the New England Patriots' strike, a spokesman said Tuesday morning.

The NFL Management Council, the bargaining agent for the owners, reportedly made the overture during an all-night meeting with the NFL Players Association at the Washington offices of federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr.

Terry Bledsoe, NFLMC spokesman, said the council's offer was as follows:

- The New England Patriots' training camp will be open Sept. 16, 1975 and Patriots players will be permitted to practice and play.
- No lockout or strike shall take place during the period from Sept. 16 through Oct. 1, 1975.
- The Management Council will make a complete proposal for a collective bargaining agreement on or before Sept. 25, 1975.
- The entire proposal will be submitted to the players for acceptance or rejection.
- If more time is needed for the vote, the no-lockout, no-strike agreement will be extended until the vote is completed.
- No reprisals will be taken against any players for action taken before Sept. 16, 1975.

Bledsoe said NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey had said he would submit the offer to the Patriots' players but that he would not recommend it.

Garvey left his Washington office at 6:30 a.m., EDT, today, refusing to comment on the meeting and the reported owners' overture.

The Patriots voted Saturday to go on strike and not play their Sunday exhibition game with the New York Jets. Normally, the Patriots would report to camp at 9 a.m., EDT, today following a Sunday game but the Management Council had said they would be locked out unless a bargaining agreement existed or unless a no-strike pact was agreed to by the union.

The New England players' reaction to the reported offer remained to be seen, along with the effect on its other teams who voted support of the Patriots' strike Monday.

"If the Patriots don't practice, there will be problems," said player representative Brig Owens of the Washington Redskins, who voted to back the Patriots if they were barred from practicing. "There has to be unity."

Indeed, the call for unity among players resembled a rallying of the troops before a war. The problem is, the war may have started.

The Washington Post quoted an unidentified player as saying there was shouting, name-calling and bitterness at the one hour, 45-minute meeting where the athletes voted to back their field brethren.

The player was quoted as saying Redskins' President Edward Bennett Williams had told the players to "play—or else" in their season opener next Sunday, and even threatened to declare the corporation out of business if the strike continued.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Los Angeles Rams, had made a similar statement earlier Monday. "... there would be no choice but to fold up for the year," he said. "I am sure I speak for all the owners when I say we can not sit still for such blackmail."

Meanwhile, early returns began to come in from training camps across the country. The Dallas Cowboys voted 22-1 in favor of walking out if the Patriots were locked out of their Sunday home opener against Houston. The New Orleans Saints "unanimously voted to support the recent action of the Patriots and demand the reinstatement of the team," according to player rep Rich Kingree.

On the other side of the player coin, the Cleveland Browns took a "wait and see" attitude regarding the Pats' situation and player rep Bill Bergey of the Philadelphia Eagles said, "I can't think of anybody on our club who would support a strike."

The "recent actions" to which Kingree referred began Saturday with a job action that forced cancellation of last Sunday's Patriots-New York Jets game at the Yale Bowl. More action was to come today, when the New England players said they would release a statement drafted at a meeting in Foxboro, Mass., Monday night.

The Rams and Buffalo Bills held similar meetings Monday night, but reached no clear-cut decision on the situation.

"The issue now is protection for the Patriots," said Garvey. "And that is unifying the asso-

Irish Thump Boston College, 17-3

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Dan Devine is officially part of the Notre Dame legend... but even legends don't get much time to relax. "We can enjoy it for all of about five minutes," an emotionally drained Devine said Monday night after his name was carved into the Notre Dame Football mystique along with Rockne, Leahy and Parseghian in a season-opening 17-3 victory over stubborn Boston College.

Notre Dame had a senior at the controls — quarterback Rick Slager, part of an all-new backfield. Slager completed only one of five passes in the first half for a measly three yards but connected on five of seven for 69 yards after the intermission. He hit on three passes for 39 yards as the Irish stormed 60 yards in eight plays for the tie-breaking touchdown and three one pass for 12 yards two plays before Hunter's insurance TD.

Dame's top varsity tennis player, "I wanted to go in confident, not nervous. I tried to play it low-key, but I found out that wasn't going to work, so in the second half I got excited." It was controlled excitement. "We just tried to keep our cool and find a way to execute a little better," Devine said. "We tried to keep our patience, keep our poise. We kept waiting for Boston College to make mistakes, but it took a long time. They didn't make a mistake until the second half and then we were able to go in and score on them."

monds, don't last forever but started at quarterback, Sloan Sloan's youthful exuberance and Southern-flavored warmth and charm have made him an overnight hit on the South Plains.

"We felt good that we did as well as we did as long as we did," said Coach Joe Yulka, whose club crushed its last six opponents a year ago and was hoping to use an upset of Notre Dame as the springboard to national recognition. "I'm disappointed we lost," added quarterback Mike Kruczek, "but I'm not going to hang my head. I think we proved we can play anyone."

With arms outstretched and his palms upward, he replied "With this bod? You gotta be kidding." Asked about the highlight of his triumphant opener here, Sloan praised the offensive line, the performances of several individuals and then said: "But most of all I really like that horse." Owners Offer Six-Point Plan To Ward Off Strike

Where Are Battle Lines In Area Football Races?

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

With two weeks of the area high school football season in the record books, many West Texas grid fans are wondering where the battle lines will form. Two weeks of action have done little to declare major powers, but there have been enough surprises to keep just about every district in the dark.

A team that gave AAA Midland Lee fits. The Andrews Mustangs were supposed to be a better offensive team this year, but have managed only six points against two AAAA teams. District 3-AAA has only one undefeated team left after a bevy of losses Friday. Lake View, a cellar dweller in the past, seems to have a power house with 53 points against the opposition's 0. Snyder is 0-2 while Lubbock schools Dunbar and Estacado have shown little offense in two games.

Lamesa, hoping to be better than last year's 3-7 record, lost to AA Denver City, 15-6, Friday. So, Lake View is getting rave notices lately. District 7-AA still leans toward Crane as the loop favorite, but the Golden Cranes lost to AAA Kermit, 10-7, Friday. Still, that is an impressive showing, but Ozona may be making a strong bid. Ozona is the highest scoring squad in the area with 86 points in two games, 61 of those coming against Eldorado Friday.

Mississippi State May See Probation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State University's football team faces penalties of "more than one year" of probation and the loss of five grant-in-aid and the services of two players, the Clarion-Ledger said in a copyrighted article today.

School officials received a letter from the NCAA last Friday which outlined the decision of the association's Committee on Infractions.

Dr. William Giles, president of Mississippi State, and other school officials appeared before the committee in August to answer allegations of football recruiting violations over a two-year period.

Huskies' Problems Mount; Steers Next

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington Huskies will have more than offensive inconsistency and defensive problems to cope with when they meet the Texas Longhorns Saturday; three more of their starting players are on the injured list.

Both Dave Labrousse and Willy Galois, who lined up 1-2 at left interior linebacker received thigh injuries. The severity of each was to be determined Monday.

The newspaper said sophomore defensive tackle Larry Gillard would be ruled ineligible. Gillard, one of 11 players cited in the NCAA list of allegations, was accused of obtaining clothing at a discounted rate, the Clarion-Ledger said.

Ford Proposes New Production Clear Fuel Production

By LEE MITGANG NEW YORK (AP) — It's a tall order, but there's a program on tap that the Ford administration claims will save taxpayers $30 billion, help create a giant new private industry and stimulate the economy.

The idea is to allow private corporations to join forces for the first time with the government in processing natural uranium into the fuel needed to run electric power plants. Fifty-five such nuclear power plants already exist and 70 more are under construction.

Women Executives Should Lead, Not Dominate

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In business women are so flushed with victory, they haven't learned self-control and may find it impossible to work with anybody if they project a dominating personality.

So says petite Margery Hurst, often called Britain's most successful businesswoman. Hitching her enormous energies 30 years ago to an employment agency for typists and others, she parlayed her tiny Brook Street Business Bureau in London into a public company of 220 branches over the world with a value of several million pounds on the London Stock Exchange.

In the last 12 years she has opened six branches in the United States, and in addition to secretarial, catering, banking and retailing jobs has installed an area for executive women in the $9,000-plus bracket.

An indefatigable businesswoman — she travels more than 100,000 miles a year — she feels her own experience proves women, too, can become millionaires in business. But they must learn the difference between leadership and dominance, she insists.

Showing how much you know can get you thoroughly disliked in any job, she cautions women executives and others. If you are good, your work will show it.

"Why keep swanking about how much more you know than others. Learn to listen. Others may have a viewpoint," she advises. "Everybody likes a quiet worker with a lot of strength behind her."

British army welfare officer, who learned how to cope even as she wriggled in red tape during World War II. Office dissolution can cut business profits as much as 70 per cent, she has found in her own offices.

Employers muddle, frighten and confuse workers by shouting at them and they invite their loathing, she says.

As for English secretaries, who are often in demand in the United States, it is because "the best come here, it isn't because they are better," she contends.

"For example, I think the American secretary leads the world in fact. She will always protect her boss, no matter

A Commission On Revision

In July of 1973 the Constitutional Revision Commission started the latest attempt at rewriting the constitution. More than sixty times since 1919, moves had been made in this direction. Most had died in legislative committee. At least half a dozen studies had been completed, however, by citizen committees or commissions, over the years. The most useful had been a 906-page report produced in 1957 by the Texas Legislative Council, aided by a citizens advisory committee. It finally resulted, in 1969, in the passing of 52 sections of the new constitution from the constitution and laid the groundwork for the 1973 effort.

The latest approach to constitutional revision was made slowly and cautiously. It started with a resolution presented early in 1971 by 66 members of the legislature, calling for submission of a constitutional amendment authorizing a study commission and constitutional convention. It was passed by an overwhelming majority of 500,000.

The commission, as set up by the legislature in 1973, was to consist of 37 carefully selected citizens, representing all areas of the state and all segments of the population. Appointments were to be made by the governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the House, attorney general, chief justice of the State Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. These officials invited nominations from the public. Over 1,000 names were submitted. The 37 finally selected were organized as a commission in March of 1973.

Judge Robert W. Calvert, former chief justice of the state supreme court, was named chairman and Mrs. Malcolm Milburn, a well-known civic worker, vice chairman. Before starting its actual drafting of a proposed new constitution, this commission spent three months in efforts to insure the involvement of all concerned Texans in the shaping of the document. Public hearings were held in 19 cities throughout the state and 3,000 interested Texans were appointed to citizens advisory committees to keep the commission aware of a broad spectrum of public opinion.

In July, the commission began rewriting the constitution, first in committees, then sitting as a body. The completed document was formally presented to the legislature in November. It was approximately one-fourth the length of the Constitution of 1876. An attempt had been made to eliminate all detail which could be handled better by legislation and to give the document strong statements of principle, with flexibility in operation.

Teetotaler, 105, Lives Long Life

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Silas Bettis says giving up alcohol and tobacco helped him live to 105.

His daughter Katie Roberson says he's not telling all the truth, adding, "He didn't give up smoking until he was 95 years old, and he still chews tobacco."

Bettis was celebrating his 105th birthday today.

"I'm going to say a few prayers first, to thank the Lord," he said in an interview on the eve of his birthday. "Then I'll have a little dinner and some pound cake."

Pound cake, he said, is his favorite.

His sight and hearing are still sharp, and so is his memory.

Born at Terrell, Tex., in 1870, he moved to Shreveport about 1880 and remembers the steamboats that used to ply the Red River.

He was a field worker in his youth, earning 75 cents a day hoeing cotton. His major complaint about today's world is the decreasing value of money.

The one unchanged portion was the Bill of Rights, which, by the requirements of the amendment authorizing this revision, was to remain untouched. The commission's draft became the starting point for the work of the convention, which could use, change, delete or add to any portion, except the Bill of Rights.

An 18th century English charlatan devised a "celestial bed" complete with magnetic and electrical gadgets that he rented for as much as 500 pounds a night to couples desiring ecstasy and or superior children.

PUBLIC NOTICE

SUBJECT: CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

PROPOSED FOR THE SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 4, 1975

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the separation of powers, legislative and executive provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article II, Separation of Powers, is amended to:

Provide that the powers of government of the State of Texas are divided among three distinct branches: legislative, executive, and judicial. Except as otherwise authorized by the constitution, members of one branch may not exercise any power properly attached to either of the others.

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Article III, The Legislature, is amended to:

Continue the present structure of the legislature consisting of a senate with 31 members and a house of representatives with 40 members. The present organization and procedure of the legislature are continued except that the provision allowing closed executive sessions of the senate is omitted. Provisions on the conflict of interest of members of the legislature are continued, as is the governor's power to veto bills or line items in appropriation bills. The article provides for single-member senatorial, representative, and congressional districts. A compensation commission is created to recommend the compensation and allowances to be received by members of the legislature. The legislative compensation, set by law, may not exceed this recommendation and does not take effect until after an intervening general election. The article provides for annual sessions of 140 days in odd-numbered years and 90 days in even-numbered years, and a veto session of 15 days upon request of three-fifths of the membership of each house. The legislature may meet in organizational sessions prior to the convening of the legislature in regular sessions.

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the voting and election provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article VI, Voter Qualifications and Elections, is amended to:

Provide for registration and qualifications for voting including voter residency requirements to be established by law. A citizen of the United States who is at least 18 years of age and who meets the registration and residence requirements provided by law is a qualified voter unless the person has been convicted of a felony and for that felony is incarcerated, on parole, or on probation, or unless the person is mentally incompetent as determined by a court. Voting by the people in all elections must be by secret ballot, and the legislature shall provide by law for residence, registration, and absentee voting

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the education provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article VII, Education, is amended to:

Provide that the Permanent and Available School Funds and the county public school funds are continued for the support of the free public schools. The State Board of Education is retained and the Permanent and Available University Funds are continued for the benefit of the University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. A new Higher Education Fund for Texas is established for the benefit of colleges and universities outside The University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. The state ad valorem tax of ten cents on $100 valuation is continued as the source of revenue for the fund. The ten cent higher education tax may be changed by law within the ten cent maximum. The legislature may allocate by law a portion of the Higher Education Fund to certain state vocational and technical institutes. The article provides that the public education system must furnish each individual an equal educational opportunity, but a school district may provide local enrichment of educational programs exceeding the level provided by general law. Authority to issue Permanent University Bonds is continued but the bonds may not exceed 30% of the Permanent University Fund.

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the finance provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article VIII, Finance, is amended to:

Provide that state taxes may be levied and collected only by general law and to prohibit any state ad valorem tax on real property or tangible personal property except the ten cent tax provided for in Article VII and a

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the local government provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article IX, Local Government, is amended to:

Provide that the counties of the state are those that exist on the date of adoption of the local government article and that county boundaries may be changed if approved by a majority of the qualified voters in each affected county who vote on the question. Counties may be merged or county seats relocated if approved by two-thirds of the qualified voters in each affected county who vote on the question. The present elected constitutional county offices are retained and four year terms of office are provided. The voters of a county may create additional offices, eliminate offices, or combine the duties and functions of offices. The voters may also grant ordinance making power to the governing body of the county. Cities and towns having more than 1,500 inhabitants may become home-rule cities. Tax limitations are established for operating purposes for cities and counties and the legislature is required to fix debt limits for cities, towns, counties, and school and community junior college districts.

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the general provisions of the Texas Constitution, Article X, General Provisions, is amended to:

Provide the basic requirements relating to public officeholders such as the official oath and residency requirements. The provision defining the separate and community property of spouses is retained, and the protection of a homestead from forced sale is continued. The legislature is required to protect certain personal property from forced sale. Current wages for personal service are not subject to garnishment. A private corporation may not be chartered except under general law, and no bank may engage in business at more than one place in this state. The legislature must provide for the regulation of bank holding companies. The present system of local-option elections for the prohibition or sale of alcoholic beverages is continued. The legislature is required to prohibit lotteries and gift enterprises but may permit certain bingo games and raffles. The presently existing provisions for retirement benefits of teachers and other public employees are modified to allow the state to con-and he played the king of hearts.

WRONG PLAY
It was the wrong play in any language. South won with the ace of hearts, drew two rounds of trumps with the king and ace, and then cashed dummy's queen of hearts to get rid of the losing diamond. It was then easy to set up the spades and concede one trick to the queen of clubs.

East should know that the king of hearts couldn't possibly be the right play. West couldn't be leading from the ace of hearts since the under-lead of an ace is one of the worst of all opening leads. South surely had the ace of hearts, and from the bidding it might well be unguarded.

Even if South had one or more low hearts with his ace, East couldn't gain by playing his king. At best, the king of hearts might break even; but it couldn't do East any good.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: ♠2 ♥J96 532 ♦K10873 ♣2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. If partner had opened with one of either red suit you would bid enthusiastically since you would count at least 6 points for the two singletons to add to the 4 points for high cards. In the actual situation, it is far too dangerous to risk any response at all.

If the Swedish expert in the West seat had lead a diamond, East would have taken the ace, and South might well have misguessed the trumps to go down one. Also, we'd have had no story.

Actually, West led the five of hearts, and the French dealer craftily played the ten of hearts from the dummy. "Third hand high." East thought to himself in Swedish;
