Oil Shows In Dawson Explorer

Miller Exploration Co., Midland, No. 1 W. W. Miers Dawson school scheduled 8,900-foot explorer, seven miles northwest of Lamesa, has indicated production in the upper Spraberry with the recovery of gas and oil on a drillstem test.

Tool was open 2 1/2 hours on the straddle-packer test taken from 7,300-7,460 feet, which recovered 1,300 feet of gas, 15 feet of 40-gravity oil and 920 feet of drilling fluid. Flowing pressures were 317-563 pounds; one-hour initial and four-hour shut-in pressures were 3,246 and 3,203 pounds, respectively.

An earlier drillstem test from 8,150-8,206 feet recovered 20 feet of drilling fluid.

Total depth is 8,596 feet, and operator has set 8 1/2-inch casing 8,361 feet for completion attempt.

Location is 1,000 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 3, D. L. Cunningham survey, 1 1/2 mile northwest of the Britt (Spraberry) field.

Chaves Wildcat Hits Shallow Oil; Logs Being Run

Franklin, Aston & Fair, Inc., operating from Roswell, was running logs at No. 1 Union-Federal, Chaves County, N.M., wildcat, after it recovered oil on a drillstem test in an unidentified formation, probably San Andres.

Tool was open an unreported time on the test taken from 2,900-4,125 feet, total depth. Recovery was 300 feet of oil and 750 feet of oil-cut water.

The project, slated as a 9,000-foot prospector, spots 600 feet from north and west lines of section 1-2-31e, 20 miles east of Elkins and one mile east of the Tom-Tom (San Andres) pool.

Borden Explorer Drills After Test

J&R Oil Co. of Abilene was drilling below 6,270 feet on an 8,500-foot contract at No. 1 Billy Mack West, Borden County venture, nine miles southeast of Gail, after recovering oil and gas on a drillstem test in the Leonard.

Tool was open 1 1/4 hour on the test taken from 6,015-6,000 feet. Recovery was 2,200 feet of gas, 90 feet of oil and 30 feet of filtrate water.

It spots two miles south of the Lucy multipay field, 600 feet from north and east lines of section 226, block 97, H&TC survey.

Northwest Cottle Wildcat Flows Oil

Perkins-Prothro Co., Wichita Falls, has shut in, for erection of storage tanks, its No. 2-A Carroll, Northwest Cottle County wildcat, 10 miles northwest of Paducal.

Midlanders Vote Thursday On Air Conditioning

By LUANNA CROW
 Midland public school patrons will again decide whether or not to air-condition all the city's schools in Thursday's $4.2 million bond election, the second such election called in two years.

The proposal calls for installing refrigerated air in 20 school buildings not already cooled.

If passed, the election will boost the school district's bonded indebtedness past $14.6 million, less interest on the bonds. With the inclusion of the $4.2 million air conditioning bond and the projected interest on both that bond and those already outstanding, the bonded indebtedness would total more than $18 million.

According to the schedule of bonded indebtedness in the district's sinking fund, eight of the 16 outstanding bonds will be paid within the next five years. When paid, however, the debt will be reduced by less than $1 million.

The bonded indebtedness with interest also would slightly outdistance this year's budget and come within $3 million of the district's physical plant and land value of more than $22 million.

The indebtedness would, however, be only 3.13 per cent of the district's $580,062,690 assessed valuation of taxable property.

According to the district's business manager, Don Furgerson, the indebtedness ratio still would fall within the "safe limit" of bonded indebtedness rising to no more than 10 per cent of the school district's assessed valuation.

The "safe limit" guideline was formulated by the Texas Education Agency.

Midland voters last voted on the air conditioning issue in May 1973 when they rejected a $2.55 million proposal by a margin of 2,751 to 2,655. It may be noted that Shell Oil Co. announced a large-scale transfer of families out of the city on the day of the bond election.

In July 1965, voters approved a bond issue for $450,000 to cool both Midland High School and Carver Junior-Senior High School. The air conditioning was completed a year later, but Carver was closed down for desegregation purposes only two years after the project was finished.

Although the building is used for a variety of school and public programs, no regular classes have been held there since the close of the 1967-68 school term.

Dr. Douglas W. Brown, assistant superintendent for instruction, said it is unlikely the school district will close any schools currently in use as the result of current disputes with the Justice Department regarding racial concentrations in several elementary schools.

Brown said the schools are operating "at capacity" and indicated it is unlikely that any (See MIDLANDERS Page 4A)

NO PROMISE OF DELIVERY MADE Kissinger Says U.S. Agreed To Consider Supplying Pershing Missiles To Israel

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The United States has agreed to consider supplying Israel with sophisticated battlefield missiles capable of carrying nuclear weapons, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today.

He strongly denied, however, that Israel has actually been promised delivery of the weapon system, known as the Pershing missile.

There has been constant speculation that the Israelis have developed nuclear weapons, but the government has neither confirmed nor denied it.

Kissinger told a news conference in Cincinnati the United States has "agreed to study supplying them (the Israelis) with the missiles."

But, he went on, "we have not agreed to supply the Pershings."

The United States has about 250 ground-to-ground Pershing missiles, most of them stationed in western Europe. The missiles can carry nuclear warheads of between 60 and 400 kilotons. The atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima at the end of World War II carried 20 kilotons of destructive power.

The question of supplying Pershing missiles as well as other American military supplies was raised after a Washington Post report detailed a memorandum of agreement between the United States and Israel and previously kept secret.

According to the report, Kissinger promised Israel that in return for signing the latest Sinai interim settlement the United States would undertake a study of the rearmament of the Jewish state "with the view of giving a positive response."

At his Cincinnati news conference, Kissinger said "there is not a commitment" on either the Pershing missiles or the new American F16 fighters, due to begin production in about 1980.

Kissinger said the Israeli arms program will be discussed with that country's defense minister, who arrived Tuesday in Washington.

Referring to the Washington Post report, the secretary suggested that such disclosures "raise questions about how we can deal with such things" as confidential understandings between governments.

While stating, "I am in favor of the general public knowing of our commitments ... there has to be a balance" between public knowledge and the importance of trust in confidentiality between the United States and other governments.

In a speech Tuesday night to the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, Kissinger pointedly told the Soviet Union to drop any thought of interfering with the new Israeli-Egyptian accords.

In the same speech and in remarks earlier Tuesday to the Southern Governors Conference in Orlando, Fla., Kissinger also warned Arab oil producers that any new increase in petroleum prices would "seriously jeopardize" efforts to stabilize the global economy.

UT-Austin Students Conduct Rally

AUSTIN (AP) — Students protesting the selection of Dr. Lorene Rogers as the new president of the University of Texas held a rally at noon today on what Dr. Rogers admits is a "troubled campus."

The faculty said it felt an obligation to hold classes, but added, "We pledge to inflict no reprisal of any kind upon students whose duties cause their absence from class."

More than 700 faculty members out of a total voting strength of 1,668 voted to ask Dr. Rogers' resignation. Officials said it may have been the largest general faculty meeting in UT-Austin history.

Following the meeting Dr. Rogers issued a brief statement saying:

"My decision was made before I took the position. I have no intention of resigning. I will be carrying on the university's business."

She told the faculty members before the vote that she thought she had done what was best for the school.

"I had to choose between these two situations," she said.

"Start the search process over again, because the (faculty-student) advisory committee and (regent) selection committee could not arrive at a consensus, or accept the nomination of the selection committee without the approval of the advisory committee."

"The need for long-range direction was weighed against the knowledge of the dissension that would arise from choosing the second alternative. . . I believe I made my decision in the best interests of the university," Dr. Rogers said.

The three regents who had opposed Dr. Rogers on a 5-3 vote last Friday appealed to the faculty to give her a chance. "To deny her this opportunity would not serve the cause for which we have labored but would encourage trial by combat and breed chaos whenever there is a temporary loss," said a statement by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, Dr. James Bauerle and Thomas Law.

The resolution adopted by the faculty said the advisory committee had unanimously recommended (See RALLY Page 4A)

Hurricane Kills At Least 25 In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The storm center was located early today about 80 miles north of Santo Domingo, the Dominican capital, and was moving west-northwest at about eight miles per hour.

More than 6,000 persons were reported driven from their homes in Puerto Rico. The dead included two persons crushed in the collapse of a building, two electrocuted, two drowned and an oil refinery worker burned to death when flood waters caused an electrical fire.

Utua, a town of 35,000 in the central mountains, was hit hardest. Ponce, the island's second-largest city, was flooded, with 1,500 persons reported evacuated. Another 1,500 were evacuated in Mayaguez, on the west coast, and the collapse of two bridges isolated 25 persons. More than 3,000 squatters were moved from flooded shanties in San Juan's Carolina suburb, beside the flooding Rio Grande.

Dozens of villages were flooded.

Kissinger, Others Said To Feel Soviets Renewing Cold War

By MARK ARNOLD FORSTER
 The Manchester Guardian LONDON — The Soviet Union has reopened the Cold War not just in Portugal but with attempts at subversion in at least three other areas of Western Europe. This is reported to be the considered joint opinion of the foreign ministers of Britain, the United States, France and West Germany, as expressed at a recent private meeting in New York.

British Foreign Minister James Callaghan, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher reviewed at the meeting the following "worst-case" possibilities:

—A Soviet intervention in Yugoslavia following the death of President Josip Tito.

—The election of Communists to power positions in Italy.

—Civil disorder — or worse — in Spain following the death of President Francisco Franco.

—A Communist-dominated government in Portugal, or one too weak to resist a Communist-led trade union movement.

—Soviet intervention or subversion in Finland following the death of President Urho Kekkonen.

—Renewed Soviet intervention in Berlin.

The four foreign ministers seem to have been unanimous about the seriousness of the first four possibilities but were less sure about the last two. Their meeting took place over dinner in Kissinger's suite at the Waldorf hotel in New York Sept. 5. Kissinger had returned that morning from the Middle East and was anxious to inform his three principal colleagues about the situation there. However, the conversation seems to have moved on from there to Portugal — where the situation was then graver than it is now — and thence to Spain, Italy and Yugoslavia.

The general conclusion, which seems to have been unanimous, was that in spite of the benign formalities of the Helsinki Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe the Warsaw Pact states (East Germany, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union in particular) still were intent on nurturing communism in Western Europe by all available means.

One example was the money (about $8.4 million a month) supplied to the Portuguese Communists. The Cold War was being resumed, ministers recognized, at a time when two more or less absolute monarchs — Franco and Tito — were about to die without obvious heirs, when the Italian Communists were within reach of power for the first time in post-war history, and while Portugal was still in a state of political turmoil.

Underlying their discussion of the separate possibilities was the question none of the four ministers felt able to answer — why do the Warsaw Pact countries keep so many men under arms and so many ships in commission? Among the possibilities arising out of the Yugoslav case was that of the establishment of a Soviet naval base in the Adriatic. This, according to naval sources, would multiply enormously the range and therefore the effectiveness of the Soviet navy's Mediterranean squadron, now based in the Black Sea or else — precariously — in Syria.

British sources have emphasized that there is no way of knowing what might happen in Spain after Franco's death (Continued On Page 4A)

New York City Teachers Return To Work With New Contract

By The Associated Press
 New York City teachers returned to work today after a week-long strike to prepare for the return to school Thursday of 1.1 million pupils whose class time will be reduced 90 minutes a week by the teachers' new contract.

Strikes affecting almost one million other pupils continued in nine states, and classes were suspended for 30,000 public school pupils in Fort Wayne, Ind., after teachers went out on strike this morning.

The New York teachers grudgingly went back to work after union leaders said their two-year pact was the best they could get in view of the city's financial problems. Many parents and local school boards voiced opposition to the provision reducing the school week.

The vote to return to work was 10,651 to 6,695, but some of the 65,000 teachers accused United Federation of Teachers President Albert Shanker of "selling out." Shanker said, "We have gotten the most we can, given the fiscal situation in the city."

All but a smattering of the schools in the New York system, the nation's largest, were closed during the walkout.

In Fort Wayne, the 1,500-member Fort Wayne Education Association went on strike after an all-night negotiating session ended about 4:30 a.m. Indiana state mediator William Leahy said negotiators had reached an impasse. Association leaders said the dispute centered on teacher demands for a 10 per cent salary increase and binding arbitration.

In Pawtucket, R.I., about 400 teachers staged a candlelight march outside the city jail Tuesday night in support of eight union leaders jailed earlier in the day for contempt of court. Teachers of the district's 11,500 pupils have refused to obey a court order to return to work.

A new teachers' strike also began in the New Jersey communities of Parsippany and Troy Hills, shutting 11,000 pupils out of class. Officials of the 600-member education association for the district said the strike centers around wage demands.

Coastal States Loses Bid To Combine Suits

AUSTIN (AP) — Coastal States Gas Producing Co. lost its bid today to fight seven lawsuits at the same time.

The Texas Supreme Court ruled none of the trial courts involved in suits pending against Coastal States are prohibited from proceeding with the suits.

In instructions intended for Judge Robert Hamilton of Houston, the court said it "would not be justified in enjoining the parties from proceeding in the causes pending elsewhere and in requiring that all of those claims and issues be tried" in the Houston court.

The supreme court ruled after a recess of almost an hour following oral arguments.

Dallas School Plan Struck Down

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the Dallas school board to take its desegregation plan back to the drawing board and to meet behind closed doors until it comes up with a constitutional plan.

U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. ruled Tuesday the plan proposed by the board only six days earlier was "patently unconstitutional" because it left at least 46 one-race schools.

The plan had called for desegregating 73 mostly white schools by pairing, clustering and the busing of about 18,000 pupils, mostly black. The district has about 142,000 pupils — 46.28 per cent Anglo, 41.39 per cent black and 11.53 per cent Mexican-American.

The judge said in his ruling the board failed to "address itself to providing for a quality education" and said it "did not uphold its end of the bargain."

Taylor emphasized that he wanted negotiations on a new plan to take place out of the public eye, saying, "I want the participants in these conferences to be left alone for information and leaks. The reasons is simple — it's not to procure secrecy alone."

He appointed a desegregation expert, Dr. John Finger of Rhode Island University, to aid in drawing up a new plan.

The board members, who had agreed on the plan by a narrow 5-4 vote, expressed varying reactions to Taylor's decision.

Charles Fletcher, who voted for the plan, said, "I'm disappointed but I'm not surprised. We're still at that give-away stage. Nobody knows what is constitutional any more. We worked hard coming up with the plan, harder than he (Judge Taylor) worked rejecting it."

One of those who opposed the plan, Kathryn Gilliam, said, "I'm not surprised. I don't see that Judge Taylor had any alternative."

Board President Bill Hunter, who also voted against the plan, would only say, "I have no comment — either as an individual or for the board."

Odessa Porter, president of the United Council of Black Parents and Citizens, said she was "elated" at Taylor's rejection of the plan. "He had no choice," she said.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the Dallas Independent School District has the resources to come up with a plan," said Mrs. Porter, who has four children, including three now being bused, in the Dallas schools.

Four New TV Shows In Top 20

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, 18 new shows began their fall season runs. Now, the national Nielsen are in, bringing the new folks the traditional good and bad news of "premiere week" on the networks.

Only four newcomers — CBS' "Phyllis" and "Switch" and ABC's "Starky and Hutch" and "When Things Were Rotten" — wound up among the 20 top-rated shows in the week ending Sept. 14.

"Phyllis" got off to a nice third-place start, while "Switch" topped seventh place, "Starky and Hutch" took 10th place and "When Things Were Rotten" was rated 20th in viewer popularity.

Four other new shows — NBC's "Joe Forrester," ABC's "On the Rocks," CBS' "Joe and Sons" and ABC's "Welcome Back, Kotter" — got good, fairly good and passing marks in the Nielsen audience samples.

There were ranked 23rd, 28th, 36th and 37th, respectively, in viewer popularity out of 66 network shows rated last week.

But 10 other new shows got sub-marginal to disaster grades in the ratings, most notably CBS' "Three for the Road" on Sunday. It was the lowest-rated of all network prime-time shows last week.

The nine other slow-starting newcomers, in order of their descending ratings, were NBC's "Invisible Man," "Ellery

Queen" and "Doctor's Hospital," CBS' "Doc," ABC's "Swiss Family Robinson," CBS' "Kate McShane," NBC's "Medical Story" and ABC's "Barbary Coast" and "Mobile One."

Keep in mind that the estimated "premiere week" ratings for new and returning shows — and more importantly, how they did against the competition in their time periods — may change markedly in coming weeks.

Viewers now only are sampling the new-season wares, and it may be a month until any real viewing patterns emerge.

Consider CBS' highly-publicized "Beacon Hill." It premiered on a Monday three weeks ago against a "Lizzie Borden" rerun on ABC and baseball on NBC. It won its time period and was the week's top-rated show.

The next week, it again won its time period, starting in its regular Tuesday time period against TV movie reruns on ABC and NBC.

Last Tuesday, facing its first real test against NBC's new "Joe Forrester" and ABC's returning "Marcus Welby," it was third in its time period, getting a 27 per cent share of the estimated national audience against the winning 36 per cent share copied by NBC's entry.

Whether this will continue probably won't be known until mid-October. But even if such is the case, CBS may stick with it to see what happens, as it did with "The Waltons," which now is in its fourth season.

For the record, CBS' "All in the Family," an instant hit when it premiered, is back at it again, despite its shift from Saturday to Monday nights this season.

It reopened last week as the nation's top-rated show.

President Plans To Revamp Central Intelligence Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford intends to revamp the Central Intelligence Agency, and among plans being considered are stripping the agency of its covert operations and naming an over-all coordinator of U.S. intelligence activities.

The coordinator would not be the CIA director, according to administration sources who also cautioned not to expect any major change for several months.

Ford told a news conference

Tuesday that no matter what the fate of the CIA, American political action aimed at influencing events in other countries is likely to continue.

"I wouldn't rule out necessary political activities by the United States if it involves our security," the President said.

This might be one role transferred from the CIA, the sources said.

Ford said his staff and appropriate federal agencies are studying recommendations made by the Murphy and Rockefeller commissions, which have investigated the CIA.

From these and other sources Ford will make administrative changes in the agency and propose legislative recommendations to Congress on the nation's intelligence-gathering apparatus, he said.

Ford declined to spell out what changes might be made in the CIA or when.

"Don't expect in the next two or three, or even six months, to suddenly see 4,000 persons transferred from the CIA to some other agency or something dramatic like that," a White House official reported.

C5As Need $1 Billion Worth Of New Wings

By WALTER PINCUS

SPECIAL TO THE WASHINGTON POST

WASHINGTON—The Air Force wants $1 billion to put new, stronger wings on the C5A or else the giant military cargo planes will have to be grounded after completing only one-third their originally planned service life.

Money to design and test a new C5A wing was approved last summer by both the House and Senate Armed Services committees as part of the defense authorization bill, contained in a category entitled "aircraft modifications." Both committees agreed to the Air Force program after being told the controversial $4.4 billion C5A transport fleet already had been put on limited duty only four years after becoming operational.

Under the original C5A contract, the plane was to have a service life of 30,000 flying hours; and be able to carry a load of 220,000 pounds on a flight of up to 3,000 miles.

When early design models of the plane weighed too much, the Air Force and Lockheed Aircraft, the plane's manufacturer, decided to take some of the weight out of the wings. Fatigue and stress tests, made as early as 1969, showed cracks might occur in the lighter wings after only 7,500 hours of flying.

with maximum loads. To fix that defect, the Air Force proposed in early 1970 the first of a series of wing modifications—this one to cost $15 million.

Later in 1970, a technical panel appointed by the then-Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans suggested that an entire new wing might be needed. That advice was not immediately taken. Instead more changes in the wing were made, delaying final fatigue tests for over two years.

Although the first C5As were accepted by the Air Force as operational in 1971, the fatigue tests were not concluded until September 1974. They proved the plane would last between 6,500 and 10,000 hours. Since then, the decision to produce a new wing has been made by the Air Force. Faced with the option of keeping the plane grounded, except for unique situations, the Air Force decided to go for the costly but new wing program.

Air Force Secretary John McCluskey told a congressional committee last summer that it would be at least four years before the new wing would be tested and refitting of the 78-plane fleet begun. Another two years might be needed to complete the job.

Meanwhile, the plane must be flown with less than maximum loads during emergencies. At the time of the October 1973 Middle East war, C5As carried an average of 73.2 tons, though the plane is supposed to be capable of carrying 107 tons. In fact, the heaviest load it carried was 98.7 tons, according to a General Accounting Office study.

Viewer Registration Deadline Set Oct. 3

AUSTIN — Deadline for filing new voter registrations for the upcoming Constitutional election is Oct. 3.

In a statement issued from his Capitol office, Secretary of State Mark White said, "As the state's chief election official, I sincerely urge you to participate in the electoral process. Your vote is your voice in government and it is your right and privilege to cast that vote."

Bilingual instructions and forms are provided with each voter guide now being mailed to all postal patrons in Texas.

Those who have voted during primary or general elections of 1972, or anytime since then, do not need to re-register, White said.

Completed voter registration forms may be delivered in person or mailed to the tax assessor-collector's office in the county in which the applicant legally resides.

Plane Crash Kills Two

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A single engine plane crashed in a wooded area near here, apparently after running out of gas, and killed both men aboard.

The Rapides Parish sheriff's office identified them as Clyde Kelley and Ross Plumlee, both of Gainesville, Tex.

Deputy Edward Lyles said the two "apparently were taking some kind of oil drilling equipment to Houma, but couldn't reach Houma because of bad weather."

Midlanders Vote Thursday On Air Conditioning

By LUANNA CROW
Midland public school patrons will again decide whether or not to air condition all the city's schools in Thursday's $4.2 million bond election, the second such election called in two years.

The bonded indebtedness with interest also would slightly outdistance this year's budget and come within $3 million of the district's physical plant and land value of more than $22 million.

Midland voters last voted on the air conditioning issue in May 1973 when they rejected a $2.55 million proposal by a margin of 2,761 to 2,655. It may be noted that Shell Oil Co. announced a large-scale transfer of families out of the city on the day of the bond election.

Dr. Douglas W. Brown, assistant superintendent for instruction, said it is unlikely the school district will close any schools currently in use as the result of current disputes with the Justice Department regarding racial concentrations in several elementary schools.

Hurricane Kills 25 In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Hurricane Eloise hit the north coast of the Dominican Republic today with 80-mile winds and heavy rains after killing at least 25 people and causing extensive damage in Puerto Rico.

More than 6,000 persons were reported driven from their homes in Puerto Rico. The dead included two persons crushed in the collapse of a building, two electrocuted, two drowned and an oil refinery worker burned to death when flood waters caused an electrical fire.

Dozens of villages were flooded. Civil Defense Director Edma Santiago said Utuado was "a total disaster," with at least four housing developments under water. Dozens of cars were swept away by overflowing rivers.

Durkin Says Victory Rejection Of Ford's Economic Policies

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Democrat John A. Durkin says his smashing victory in New Hampshire's Senate runoff is a rejection of President Ford's economic policies and a warning to Congress to get to work.

"I accept it in the spirit of the majority way," He said he didn't think New Hampshire voters "would elect an organized labor candidate," adding he didn't know why he had lost and declared the outcome "indicates that next year's general thrust of politics is going to be the left of center."

Kissinger, Others Said To Feel Soviets Renewing Cold War

By MARK ARNOLD FORSTER
The Manchester Guardian LONDON — The Soviet Union has reopened the Cold War not just in Portugal but with attempts at subversion in at least three other areas of Western Europe. This is reported to be the considered joint opinion of the foreign ministers of Britain, the United States, France and West Germany, as expressed at a recent private meeting in New York.

—A Communist-dominated government in Portugal, or one too weak to resist a Communist-led trade union movement.

—Soviet intervention or subversion in Finland following the death of President Urho Kekkonen.

—Renewed Soviet intervention in Berlin.

British Foreign Minister James Callaghan, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher reviewed at the meeting the following "worst-case" possibilities:

—The election of Communists to power positions in Italy.

—Civil disorder — or worse — in Spain following the death of President Francisco Franco.

Dallas School Plan Struck Down

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the Dallas school board to take its desegregation plan back to the drawing board and to meet behind closed doors until it comes up with a constitutional plan.

U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. ruled Tuesday the plan proposed by the board only six days earlier was "patently unconstitutional" because it left at least 46 one-race schools.

The plan had called for desegregating 73 mostly white schools by pairing, clustering and the busing of about 18,000 pupils, mostly black. The district has about 142,000 pupils — 46.28 per cent Anglo, 41.30 per cent black and 11.53 per cent Mexican-American.

The judge said in his ruling the board failed to "address itself to providing for a quality education" and said it "did not uphold its end of the bargain."

Taylor emphasized that he wanted negotiations on a new plan to take place out of the public eye saying, "I want the participants in these conferences to be left alone for information and leaks. The reasons are simple — it's not to procure secrecy alone."

He appointed a desegregation expert, Dr. John Finger of Rhode Island University, to aid in drawing up a new plan.

The board members, who had agreed on the plan by a narrow 5-4 vote, expressed varying reactions to Taylor's decision.

Charles Fletcher, who voted for the plan, said, "I'm disappointed but I'm not surprised. We're still at that give-away stage. Nobody knows what is constitutional any more. We worked hard coming up with the plan, harder than he (Judge Taylor) worked rejecting it."

One of those who opposed the plan, Kathryn Gilliam, said, "I'm not surprised. I don't see that Judge Taylor had any alternative."

Board President Bill Hunter, who also voted against the plan, would only say, "I have no comment — either as an individual or for the board."

Odesa Porter, president of the United Council of Black Parents and Citizens, said she was "elated" at Taylor's rejection of the plan. "He had no choice," she said.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the Dallas Independent School District has the resources to come up with a plan," said Mrs. Porter, who has four children, including three now being bused, in the Dallas schools.

Four New TV Shows In Top 20

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, 18 new shows began their fall season-runs. Now, the national Nielsen are in, bringing the new folks the traditional good and bad news of "premiere week" on the networks.

Only four newcomers — CBS' "Phyllis" and "Switch" and ABC's "Starsky and Hutch" and "When Things Were Rotten" — wound up among the 20 top-rated shows in the week ending Sept. 14.

"Phyllis" got off to a nice third-place start, while "Switch" topped seventh place, "Starsky and Hutch" took 10th place and "When Things Were Rotten" was rated 20th in viewer popularity.

Four other new shows — NBC's "Joe Forrester," ABC's "On the Rocks," CBS' "Joe and Sons" and ABC's "Welcome Back, Kotter" — got good, fairly good and passing marks in the Nielsen audience samples.

There were ranked 23rd, 28th, 36th and 37th, respectively, in viewer popularity out of 66 network shows rated last week.

But 10 other new shows got sub-marginal to disaster grades in the ratings, most notably CBS' "Three for the Road" on Sunday. It was the lowest-rated of all network prime-time shows last week.

The nine other slow-starting newcomers, in order of their descending ratings, were NBC's "Invisible Man," "Ellery

Queen" and "Doctor's Hospital," CBS' "Doc," ABC's "Swiss Family Robinson," CBS' "Kate McShane," NBC's "Medical Story" and ABC's "Barbary Coast" and "Mobile One."

Keep in mind that the estimated "premiere week" ratings for new and returning shows — and more importantly, how they did against the competition in their time periods — may change markedly in coming weeks.

Viewers now only are sampling the new-season wares, and it may be a month until any real viewing patterns emerge.

Consider CBS' highly-publicized "Beacon Hill." It premiered on a Monday three weeks ago against a "Lizzie Borden" rerun on ABC and baseball on NBC. It won its time period and was the week's top-rated show.

The next week, it again won its time period, starting in its regular Tuesday time period against TV movie reruns on ABC and NBC.

Last Tuesday, facing its first real test against NBC's new "Joe Forrester" and ABC's returning "Marcus Welby," it was third in its time period, getting a 27 per cent share of the estimated national audience against the winning 36 per cent share copied by NBC's entry.

Whether this will continue probably won't be known until mid-October. But even if such is the case, CBS may stick with it to see what happens, as it did with "The Waltons," which now is in its fourth season.

For the record, CBS' "All in the Family" an instant hit when it premiered, is back at it again, despite its shift from Saturday to Monday nights this season.

It reopened last week as the nation's top-rated show.

President Plans To Revamp Central Intelligence Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford intends to revamp the Central Intelligence Agency, and among plans being considered are stripping the agency of its covert operations and naming an over-all coordinator of U.S. intelligence activities.

The coordinator would not be the CIA director, according to administration sources who also cautioned not to expect any major change for several months.

Ford told a news conference Tuesday that no matter what the fate of the CIA, American political action aimed at influencing events in other countries is likely to continue.

"I wouldn't rule out necessary political activities by the United States if it involves our security," the President said.

This might be one role transferred from the CIA, the sources said.

Ford said his staff and appropriate federal agencies are studying recommendations made by the Murphy and Rockefeller commissions, which have investigated the CIA.

From these and other sources Ford will make administrative changes in the agency and propose legislative recommendations to Congress on the nation's intelligence-gathering apparatus, he said.

Ford declined to spell out what changes might be made in the CIA or when.

"Don't expect in the next two or three, or even six months, to suddenly see 4,000 persons transferred from the CIA to some other agency or something dramatic like that," a White House official reported.

C5As Need $1 Billion Worth Of New Wings

By WALTER PINCUS
Special to The Washington Post
WASHINGTON—The Air Force wants $1 billion to put new, stronger wings on the C5A or else the giant military cargo planes will have to be grounded after completing only one-third their originally planned service life.

Money to design and test a new C5A wing was approved last summer by both the House and Senate Armed Services committees as part of the defense authorization bill, contained in a category entitled "aircraft modifications." Both committees agreed to the Air Force program after being told the controversial $4.4 billion C5A transport fleet already had been put on limited duty only four years after becoming operational.

Under the original C5A contract, the plane was to have a service life of 30,000 flying hours; and be able to carry a load of 220,000 pounds on a flight of up to 3,000 miles.

When early design models of the plane weighed too much, the Air Force and Lockheed Aircraft, the plane's manufacturer, decided to take some of the weight out of the wings. Fatigue and stress tests, made as early as 1969, showed cracks might occur in the lighter wings after only 7,500 hours of flying with maximum loads. To fix that defect, the Air Force proposed in early 1970 the first of a series of wing modifications—this one to cost $15 million.

Later in 1970, a technical panel appointed by the then-Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans suggested that an entire new wing might be needed. That advice was not immediately taken. Instead more changes in the wing were made, delaying final fatigue tests for over two years.

Although the first C5As were accepted by the Air Force as operational in 1971, the fatigue tests were not concluded until September 1974. They proved the plane would last between 6,500 and 10,000 hours. Since then, the decision to produce a new wing has been made by the Air Force. Faced with the option of keeping the plane grounded, except for unique situations, the Air Force decided to go for the costly but new wing program.

Air Force Secretary John McClellan told a congressional committee last summer that it would be at least four years before the new wing would be tested and refitting of the 78-planes fleet begun. Another two years might be needed to complete the job.

Meanwhile, the plane must be flown with less than maximum loads during emergencies. At the time of the October 1973 Middle East war, C5As carried an average of 73.2 tons, though the plane is supposed to be capable of carrying 107 tons. In fact, the heaviest load it carried was 98.7 tons, according to a General Accounting Office study.

Voter Registration Deadline Set Oct. 3

AUSTIN — Deadline for filing new voter registrations for the upcoming Constitutional election is Oct. 3.

In a statement issued from his Capitol office, Secretary of State Mark White said, "As the state's chief election official, I sincerely urge you to participate in the electoral process. Your vote is your voice in government and it is your right and privilege to cast that vote."

Bilingual instructions and forms are provided with each voter guide now being mailed to all postal patrons in Texas.

Those who have voted during primary or general elections of 1972, or anytime since then, do not need to re-register, White said.

Completed voter registration forms may be delivered in person or mailed to the tax assessor-collector's office in the county in which the applicant legally resides.

Fromme's Bail Dropped To $350,000

By LINDA DEUTSCH
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette A. Fromme, wrapped in a hooded red robe, fought back tears as she pleaded from the witness stand for freedom to resume the "simple life" of a Charles Manson disciple.

Miss Fromme, charged with the attempted assassination of President Ford, made a surprise witness stand appearance at a pretrial hearing Tuesday but failed to win release from jail.

Instead, U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride reduced bail from $1 million to $350,000. Miss Fromme's roommate, Sandra Good, conceded outside court, "We don't have that kind of money."

Miss Fromme, her voice cracking with emotion, had asked to be set free on her word.

"Before the world at this time, my word to myself or anybody is my life," said the 26-year-old defendant.

MacBride did modify a gag order imposed on all officials connected with the case to allow Miss Fromme to speak freely with visitors, including reporters, as long as she doesn't discuss the court case.

MacBride is expected to rule Friday on a request by Miss Fromme that she be permitted to act as her own attorney. He indicated he might allow her to act as her own cocounsel, but only if a qualified attorney advises her on legal matters.

At Friday's hearing, Miss Fromme is scheduled to enter a plea to the charge that she tried to kill Ford as he walked across Capitol Park here on Sept. 5. A Secret Service agent said he wrestled a loaded .45-caliber gun from her hand as she stood two feet from Ford.

Authorities said there were four live rounds in the clip of the military semiautomatic but no cartridge in the firing chamber.

Manson, now 40, was convicted with three women followers in the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others. He is serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison.

During the bail hearing on Tuesday, Miss Fromme and the 30-year-old Miss Good, another Manson "family" member, said:

Justice until Manson was freed.

They gave up after two years of living on the sidewalk.

—They and a new friend who shares their apartment, Susan "Heather" Murphy, have money problems.

Miss Good said she receives $200 a month from a trust fund, which will decrease to $100 a month next year. Miss Fromme said she had at times applied for food stamps and that she had received a $1,100 loan to attend Sacramento City College.

—They no longer are involved with drugs, although Miss Fromme said she smoked marijuana occasionally and took LSD "about once a year."

Delegates Say Conciliation Replacing Confrontation Mood

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western delegates to the special economic session of the United Nations General Assembly say they are convinced conciliation based on give-and-take is replacing the mood of confrontation between the rich and the poor nations.

They believe the final declaration of the assembly adopted unanimously on Tuesday to narrow the chasm between the two groups reflects recognition by the industrialized nations of the Third World's demands for more power and realization by the developing nations that only through bargaining can they obtain the technical know-how and capital they need.

Jan Pronk, a Dutch cabinet minister who helped draft the declaration, said the lengthy document was "a commitment to commit something real and substantial in the very near future."

He said it was the first time in U.N. history that "serious, genuine negotiations" took place on economic issues. This is "a clear signal that we are entering an era of a new international economic order," he declared.

Pronk's assessment was endorsed by Thomas O. Eenders, U.S. assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, who said the special session "put the rich and poor nations squarely on the path toward negotiations."

The session dealt with a wide range of economic issues including financing of Third World development, restructuring of investment and aid systems, food and agriculture, streamlining of the U.N. economic and trade agencies for greater efficiency and the creation of cartels among poorer nations to fix commodity prices.

Two weeks of marathon negotiations produced a 16-page declaration of intent on development and international cooperation, devoid of the inflammatory language some radical countries of the Third World group insisted on until the last minute.

Pronk paid tribute to the Third World group for "giving away" some of their major demands. Among these was the proposal to link the prices of the raw materials they export to the prices they pay for manufactured imports.

The United States in turn offered to work for financial machinery that would compensate developing countries for losses they suffer whenever international prices for their major exports drop seriously. The document also directs U.N. agencies to consider a Third World proposal for a system of buffer stocks, funded by the industrial powers, to stabilize prices.

The final report includes reservations by a number of nations, among them the United States, the members of the European Common Market, the Soviet Bloc countries, Austria, Japan and Spain.

The United States entered a reservation against one provision saying the developed countries should turn over, by 1978, at least seven-tenths of 1 percent of their gross national product to Third World development programs. Washington also objected to a call for a link between the International Monetary Fund's special drawing rights (SDR's) and development aid so developing countries could use SDR's to meet balance of payment problems.

North, South Vietnam Appeal Cases To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — North and South Vietnam, vetoed from U.N. membership by the United States, are appealing their cases to the General Assembly.

Their bid comes up first in the assembly's 25-nation steering committee, which holds its first meeting tonight.

To become a U.N. member, a country must first get the recommendation of the Security Council and then the approval of the General Assembly. Because the council on Aug. 6 refused to consider South Korea's membership application, the United States on Aug. 11 vetoed the applications from both Vietnams.

In a statement at the time, U.N. observers Dinh Ba Thi of South Vietnam and Nguyen Van Lau of North Vietnam said they were sure the General Assembly would "demonstrate the strong support of the great majority" of U.N. members for their admission and refer the question back to the council.

Shortly before the assembly began its three-month annual session Tuesday, they asked that their petition be put on the assembly's agenda. Since all the big powers are members of the steering committee, it seemed certain to become an issue between the United States and China and the Soviet Union.

Even if the committee recommends against the Vietnamese appeal, the Communist countries can muster a large majority to bring the matter to the assembly floor and to get the assembly to appeal to the council to reconsider the membership applications. But the United States would undoubtedly continue to block them in the council unless the Communists agree to let South Korea in.

The assembly at its opening session Tuesday elected Prime Minister Gaston Thorn, 47, of Luxembourg as its president. He was the unopposed candidate of the Western European group, which was entitled to the presidency this year by regional rotation. In his inaugural address, he called for international action "to enable the inhabitants of this globe to live better."

Pardoned Pair Goes Free Friday

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two more nights in a cell and Freddie Lee Pitts and Wilbert Lee will be free at last after 12 years and 48 days in prison for murders another man confessed to nine years ago.

"I want to head out of here, crawl off by myself and unwind," the 31-year-old Pitts said Tuesday after he learned that final action had been completed on a pardon.

"I just want to see that pardon," said Lee, 40. The two black men will walk out of the Florida State Prison at Raiford as free men on Friday, then they will be whisked into seclusion by supporters who fought for 10 years to free them.

"I feel a bittersweet sense of great joy and yet underlying sorrow," said Public Defender Phillip Hubbard of Miami. "Joy at this incredible victory after long, hard years and sorrow that it didn't come sooner."

Pitts and Lee were convicted by an all-white jury of the July 1963 execution-style murders of service station attendants Jesse Burkett and Grover Floyd Jr. at Port St. Joe.

They had confessed to the murders, but later claimed that they were coerced and beaten into confessing.

Sentenced to death in the electric chair, they spent most of their first nine years in prison confined to 6-by-9 foot Death Row cells.

Supporters of Pitts and Lee, including Hubbard and Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter Gene Miller of the Miami Herald, embarked on a crusade to free them.

But even after the 1966 confession by white convict Curtis "Boo" Adams to the Floyd-Burkett murders, the legal struggle to free Pitts and Lee was not over.

The two won a new trial in 1972, but were convicted a second time by another all-white jury when Circuit Judge D. R. Smith of Ocala ruled that Adams' confession was inadmissible hearsay evidence.

Gov. Reubin Askew issued a pardon last week after an 18-month investigation of his own, but under state law, such a pardon must be signed by the governor and three Cabinet members.

Askew, Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin and Treasurer Philip Ashler signed the pardon last week. Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington added his name Tuesday.

Texas Indian Tribe Offers To Buy New York City

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Smoke signals on the horizon here spell good news for financially-strapped New York. Message say, Tigua Indians will pay $24 and some beads for New York City, then get bell off island and take buildings with you.

But he adds the Tiguas will be happy to live up to their offer should New York Mayor Abraham Beame accept. The Tiguas are a band of 550 Indians nestled among the foothills and sand along the Rio Grande. It is unlikely one has ever been to any of Texas' major cities, much less metropolitan New York.

“That's true,” Newkirk said. “They are very poor. But the tribal council voted and decided they'd buy New York for the same price the Mohicans got for it. They figure that if New York is in such financial straits people up there would be happy to sell out and leave.”

Newkirk quoted Jose Garbillo, the cleric, or tribal chief who speaks no English. Manhattanites who might decide to stay behind after the sale should have no fear of the Tiguas.

“But many of them served as scouts with the 10th Cavalry in West Texas during the old days,” Newkirk said. “And they served bravely.”

Closing Arguments Begin Today In Dunford Trial

Closing arguments in the murder trial of Lorenzo Leon Dunford, accused of slaying Charles Ray Collins in 1973, were to begin today in 142nd State District Court here.

Dunford, testifying in own defense Tuesday, was unable to explain why he shot the 28-year-old Collins several times with a pistol and then once in the head with a shotgun.

“I opened the door, and he was right there, and I just shot him right down,” Dunford testified in his own defense before an 11-man, one-woman jury.

“I didn't have any thoughts at the time. I just went in there and shot him. I hadn't shot anybody before,” he said under questioning of his attorney, Bill Smith of Midland.

“... He didn't curse me or say anything at all,” Dunford said.

The one-sided scuffle was broken up by other guests at the club, and then Dunford said he went outside and from his wife's car picked up a nine-shot .22-caliber revolver and a shotgun. He said he re-entered the club, looked for Collins, didn't find him, but started shooting anyway. His wife, now his ex-wife, was wounded by gunshot. She said Collins was a stranger to her.

Dunford said he then drove over to the Ponderosa night spot where he heard Collins was. He said Collins was exiting the place as he was coming in.

Without uttering a word, Dunford said he shot Collins several times with the pistol and then with the shotgun.

“I didn't know what I intended to do, man... At the time I was a pretty good shot. I just didn't know why I did it... so it's done.”

Dunford seemed composed and unshaken in giving his testimony.

He told Mashburn how he shot Collins.

“Yea, man, I just pulled the trigger. It was a double-action revolver.

“I never said a word. He never said a word... I just done what I done and left.”

Dunford said he then drove over to the Ponderosa night spot where he heard Collins was. He said Collins was exiting the place as he was coming in.

Without uttering a word, Dunford said he shot Collins several times with the pistol and then with the shotgun.

“He didn't threaten to kill you, did he?” the prosecutor, Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn, asked Dunford.

“He never said a word,” Dunford answered.

Mashburn asked Dunford why he didn't do something more rational, such as calling the police.

“Well, Mr. Mashburn,” he said, “I guess I could have just done about anything, but in my state of mind...”

“I guess I was going to shoot the man. That was the only logical thing I could do,” Dunford told the prosecutor under cross-examination. He said he didn't think of calling the police.

“I guess I did (intend to kill Collins). I just didn't rationalize it that way. If I did, I guess I would have had enough sense to call the police.”

2,000th Student To Enroll Today

Midland College's 2,000th student is expected to enroll today for fall semester courses, and the surprisingly large enrollment figure was presented at Tuesday night's meeting of the board of trustees.

A headcount enrollment project made several years ago by Caudill, Rowlett and Scott had predicted only 1,500 students for 1975, although an update done by Midland College staff later estimated 1,800.

Although the new campus already is operating at capacity, trustees expressed pleasure that the college is growing so rapidly.

In other business, the board members took no action on a proposal to alter the duties of the trustee vice president, discussed dedication ceremonies set for Oct. 2, approved end-of-the-year budget amendments and approved two new faculty members for the college.

Trustees also discussed the Oct. 3 meeting of the American Community College Trustees in Miami, Fla. Attending that session will be Reagan Legg, Jack Huff, Ken Peeler, the Rev. Horace Doyle and college president Dr. A. G. Langford.

“If they should, however, I also own a moving company so there wouldn't be any problem in getting it out here,” he added.

“Unfortunately, it belongs to the U.S. government and I don't think they will sell,” said Gerzymisch.

Durkin Says Victory Rejection Of Ford's Economic Policies

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Democrat John A. Durkin says his smashing victory in New Hampshire's Senate runoff is a rejection of President Ford's economic policies and a warning to Congress to get to work.

“We have sent a message to Washington and I hope they listen,” the 39-year-old Durkin told jubilant supporters in Manchester Tuesday night as his margin over Republican Louis C. Wyman swelled past the 20,000-vote mark.

The combative, wisecracking former state insurance commissioner, who will become the Senate's 62nd Democrat, pledged, “I am going to stand up, I am going to speak out and I am going to rock the boat in a responsible manner until Washington starts listening to the people again.”

The decisive Durkin victory came in the unprecedented re-election in the nation's history and gave this once solidly Republican state two Democratic senators for the first time since 1855.

Both the turnout, more than 240,000, and the margin of Durkin's victory exceeded the pre-election forecasts of both parties.

Unofficial returns from all of the state's 299 precincts gave Durkin 140,273 votes, or 54 per cent; Wyman 113,044, or 43 per cent; and Carmen Chimento of the American party 8,833, or 3 per cent.

In the original election last November, three different tallies produced three different outcomes, with Durkin and Wyman each polling more than 110,000 votes and Chimento just 1,372.

Two public-spirited Midlanders will be recognized Thursday night at the annual installation banquet of the Optimist Club of Midland, at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

The “Friend of Youth” and “Community Service Award” will be presented to recipients selected from a list of nominees.

The evening's activities also will include the installation of 1976 club officers by Zone 11 Lt. Gov. David Hancock of Midland, Larry Willard of Big Spring, lieutenant governor-elect, will introduce persons presenting the awards.

New officers for the club are Ronnie Williams, president; Neil McDonald, vice president; David Hoelscher, vice president, and Don Byers, also a vice president.

Incoming directors include Mike Joyce, Dan Macklem, Pat Sheehan, Art Sharp, W. E. “Shorty” Nance and the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand.

New officers for the Opti-Mrs. Club are Mrs. John McVickar, president; Mrs. Marvin Nash, vice president; Mrs. Les Cobb, secretary, and Mrs. Bob Meyers, treasurer.

Lee High School's “Origin” will provide entertainment for the banquet, and Connie Mac Hood will act as master of ceremonies.

“I want you to get up and leave. This is my table,” Dunford said he told Collins, whom he said he slightly knew.

Dunford said Collins declined, gave him some round-about talk, and then starting slugging and kicking him. Collins, Dunford said, gave no warning of his punching.

This “extraordinary cynicism” and “blatant disregard of the processes of orderly university governance” will make it “well nigh impossible” to attract qualified candidates in the future, the resolution said.

“While the faculty does not claim the right to name the president, it does assert that a person whose credentials have been carefully reviewed by a representative faculty-student committee and found wanting should not be thrust upon it,” it added.

Dr. Rogers, 61, had been acting president, succeeding Dr. Stephen Spurr, who was fired last fall.

“I hope we can join together in transforming the present conflict into the pursuit of quality and diversity that should characterize this university,” Dr. Rogers said.

Fair Weather Returns To State

Calm and fair to partly cloudy weather returned across Texas today.

About the only blot was dense fog in early morning along the Red River Valley and in the northeast part of the state, The Associated Press reported.

Except for a little warming, forecasts promised no change.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 76 degrees at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley down to 57 at Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle. Tuesday's top marks ranged up to 92 at sunny El Paso in the far west.

Fair weather conditions should prevail over the Midland area today and Thursday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Forecasts call for warmer temperatures this afternoon, with highs today and Thursday in the middle 90s.

Low tonight should be in the middle 60s.

The weather station at Air Terminal recorded a high Tuesday of 89 with an overnight low of 64.

At noon today the mercury had climbed to 85.

Freight Train Derails, Explodes

EDGEWOOD, Tex. (AP) — A freight train left the rails and exploded shortly before dawn today between Edgewood and Fruitdale in East Texas. There were no injuries and a spokesman for the Van Zandt County sheriff's department said that the fire was burning itself out.

The explosion occurred about 200 yards from a natural gas processing plant but officers said the plant was not in any danger. The cause of the derailment was not determined immediately.

Cars Collide At Intersection

Cars driven by Sharon Howell Babcock of Eunice, N. M. and Ernest Charles Murphy, 811 W. Wall St., were in collision at the intersection of Main Street and Oak Street Tuesday at 5:49 p.m., police said.

Murphy sustained a concussion and is listed in fair condition at a Midland hospital, a spokesman said.

Two Men Rob Midland Store

Two men robbed a Midland grocery store and took an undetermined amount of cash Tuesday night, police said.

Mrs. Bernice Smith, manager of Conner's Grocery at 2420 W. Illinois St., told police she was taking the register till to the office at 8:54 p.m. when a man reportedly grabbed her wrist, took the money and forced her backwards. He was 5 feet-9 inches, weighed 150-160 pounds and has brown hair medium length, police said.

Mrs. Smith said she called for one of the employees, who tried unsuccessfully to hit the second suspect with a bottle of catsup, police said.

The second suspect is 6 feet-2 inches, weighs 200 pounds and has dark medium length hair.

Mrs. Lewis Dies In California

Mrs. Rosa Lee Sanders Lewis, former Midland resident and sister of several Midland residents, died Monday in Los Angeles, Calif., following a brief illness. She was 54.

Arrangements for services still are incomplete.

Born at Granger, she moved to Midland with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sanders, and attended Carver High School. She moved to Phoenix, Ariz., in 1940, where she was married to A. J. Lewis in 1941. The couple moved to Los Angeles in 1944.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Corine Aguilard of Midland, Mrs. Lorene Mosely of Amarillo and Mrs. Bessie Taylor of San Bernardino, Calif., and six brothers, including Howard Sanders Jr., Milburn Sanders, Thurman Sanders and Elijah Sanders, all of Midland, and Walter Sanders of San Antonio, and Ed Sanders of Denver, Colo.

Fromme's Bail Dropped To $350,000

By LINDA DEUTSCH
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette A. Fromme, wrapped in a hooded red robe, fought back tears as she pleaded from the witness stand for freedom to resume the "simple life" of a Charles Manson disciple.

Miss Fromme, charged with the attempted assassination of President Ford, made a surprise witness stand appearance at a pretrial hearing Tuesday but failed to win release from jail.

Instead, U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride reduced bail from $1 million to $350,000. Miss Fromme's roommate, Sandra Good, conceded outside court, "We don't have that kind of money."

Miss Fromme, her voice cracking with emotion, had asked to be set free on her word.

"Before the world at this time, my word to myself or anybody is my life," said the 26-year-old defendant.

MacBride did modify a gag order imposed on all officials connected with the case to allow Miss Fromme to speak freely with visitors, including reporters, as long as she doesn't discuss the court case.

MacBride is expected to rule Friday on a request by Miss Fromme that she be permitted to act as her own attorney. He indicated he might allow her to act as her own cocounsel, but only if a qualified attorney advises her on legal matters.

At Friday's hearing, Miss Fromme is scheduled to enter a plea to the charge that she tried to kill Ford as he walked across Capitol Park here on Sept. 5. A Secret Service agent said he wrestled a loaded .45-caliber gun from her hand as she stood two feet from Ford. Justice until Manson was freed. They gave up after two years of living on the sidewalk.

—They and a new friend who had received a $1,100 loan to attend Sacramento City College.

"Heather" Murphy, have money problems.

Miss Good said she receives $200 a month from a trust fund, which will decrease to $100 a month next year. Miss Fromme said she had at times applied for food stamps and that she had received a $1,100 loan to attend Sacramento City College.

—They no longer are involved with drugs, although Miss Fromme said she smoked marijuana occasionally and took LSD "about once a year."

Authorities said there were four live rounds in the clip of the military semiautomatic but no cartridge in the firing chamber.

Manson, now 40, was convicted with three women followers in the 1969 murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others. He is serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison.

During the bail hearing on Tuesday, Miss Fromme and the 30-year-old Miss Good, another Manson "family" member, said:

—They moved to Sacramento some 2½ years ago. Miss Fromme said they were emotionally troubled because they had broken a vow to camp outside the Los Angeles Hall of

Delegates Say Conciliation Replacing Confrontation Mood

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western delegates to the special economic session of the United Nations General Assembly say they are convinced conciliation based on give-and-take is replacing the mood of confrontation between the rich and the poor nations.

They believe the final declaration the assembly adopted unanimously on Tuesday to narrow the chasm between the two groups reflects recognition by the industrialized nations of the Third World's demands for more power and realization by the developing nations that only through bargaining can they obtain the technical know-how and capital they need.

Jan Pronk, a Dutch cabinet minister who helped draft the declaration, said the lengthy document was "a commitment to commit something real and substantial in the very near future."

He said it was the first time in U.N. history that "serious, genuine negotiations" took place on economic issues. This is "a clear signal that we are entering an era of a new international economic order," he declared.

Pronk's assessment was endorsed by Thomas O. Enders, U.S. assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, who said the special session "put the rich and poor nations squarely on the path toward negotiations."

The session dealt with a wide range of economic issues including financing of Third World development, restructuring of investment and aid systems, food and agriculture, streamlining of the U.N. economic and trade agencies for greater efficiency and the creation of cartels among poorer nations to fix commodity prices.

Two weeks of marathon negotiations produced a 16-page declaration of intent on development and international cooperation, devoid of the inflammatory language some radical countries of the Third World group insisted on until the last minute.

Pronk paid tribute to the Third World group for "giving away" some of their major demands. Among these was the proposal to link the prices of the raw materials they export to the prices they pay for manufactured imports.

The United States in turn offered to work for financial machinery that would compensate developing countries for losses they suffer whenever international prices for their major exports drop seriously. The document also directs U.N. agencies to consider a Third World proposal for a system of buffer stocks, funded by the industrial powers, to stabilize prices.

The final report includes reservations by a number of nations, among them the United States, the members of the European Common Market, the Soviet Bloc countries, Austria, Japan and Spain.

The United States entered a reservation against one provision saying the developed countries should turn over, by 1978, at least seven-tenths of 1 per cent of their gross national product to Third World development programs. Washington also objected to a call for a link between the International Monetary Fund's special drawing rights (SDR's) and development aid so developing countries could use SDR's to meet balance of payment problems.

Even if the committee recommends against the Vietnamese appeal, the Communist countries can muster a large majority to bring the matter to the assembly floor and to get the assembly to appeal to the council to reconsider the membership applications. But the United States would undoubtedly continue to block them in the council unless the Communists agree to let South Korea in.

The assembly at its opening session Tuesday elected Prime Minister Gaston Thorn, 47, of Luxembourg as its president. He was the unopposed candidate of the Western European group, which was entitled to the presidency this year by regional rotation. In his inaugural address, he called for international action "to enable the inhabitants of this globe to live better."

Two more nights in a cell and Freddie Lee Pitts and Wilbert Lee will be free at last after 12 years and 48 days in prison for murders another man confessed to nine years ago.

"I want to head out of here, crawl off by myself and unwind," the 31-year-old Pitts said Tuesday after he learned that final action had been completed on a pardon.

"I just want to see that pardon," said Lee, 40.

The two black men will walk out of the Florida State Prison at Raiford as free men on Friday, then they will be whisked into seclusion by supporters who fought for 10 years to free them.

"I feel a bittersweet sense of great joy and yet underlying sorrow," said Public Defender Phillip Hubbard of Miami. "Joy at this incredible victory after long, hard years and sorrow that it didn't come sooner."

Pitts and Lee were convicted by an all-white jury of the July 1963 execution-style murders of service station attendants Jesse Burkett and Grover Floyd Jr. at Port St. Joe.

They had confessed to the murders, but later claimed that they were coerced and beaten into confessing.

Sentenced to death in the electric chair, they spent most of their first nine years in prison confined to 6-by-9 foot Death Row cells.

Supporters of Pitts and Lee, including Hubbard and Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter Gene Miller of the Miami Herald, embarked on a crusade to free them.

But even after the 1966 confession by white convict Curtis "Boo" Adams to the Floyd-Burkett murders, the legal struggle to free Pitts and Lee was not over.

The two won a new trial in 1972, but were convicted a second time by another all-white jury when Circuit Judge D. R. Smith of Ocala ruled that Adams' confession was inadmissible hearsay evidence.

Gov. Reubin Askew issued a pardon last week after an 18-month investigation of his own, but under state law, such a pardon must be signed by the governor and three Cabinet members.

Askew, Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin and Treasurer Phillip Ashler signed the pardon last week. Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington added his name Tuesday.

Pardoned Pair Goes Free Friday

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two more nights in a cell and Freddie Lee Pitts and Wilbert Lee will be free at last after 12 years and 48 days in prison for murders another man confessed to nine years ago.

"I want to head out of here, crawl off by myself and unwind," the 31-year-old Pitts said Tuesday after he learned that final action had been completed on a pardon.

"I just want to see that pardon," said Lee, 40.

North, South Vietnam Appeal Cases To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — North and South Vietnam, vetoed from U.N. membership by the United States, are appealing their cases to the General Assembly.

Their bid comes up first in the assembly's 25-nation steering committee, which holds its first meeting tonight.

To become a U.N. member, a country must first get the recommendation of the Security Council and then the approval of the General Assembly. Because the council on Aug. 6 refused to consider South Korea's membership application, the United States on Aug. 11 vetoed the applications from both Vietnams.

In a statement at the time, U.N. observers Dinh Ba Thi of South Vietnam and Nguyen Van Luu of North Vietnam said they were sure the General Assembly would "demonstrate the strong support of the great majority" of U.N. members for their admission and refer the question back to the council.

Shortly before the assembly began its three-month annual session Tuesday, they asked that their petition be put on the assembly's agenda. Since all the big powers are members of the steering committee, it seemed certain to become an issue between the United States and China and the Soviet Union.

Even if the committee recommends against the Vietnamese appeal, the Communist countries can muster a large majority to bring the matter to the assembly floor and to get the assembly to appeal to the council to reconsider the membership applications. But the United States would undoubtedly continue to block them in the council unless the Communists agree to let South Korea in.

The assembly at its opening session Tuesday elected Prime Minister Gaston Thorn, 47, of Luxembourg as its president. He was the unopposed candidate of the Western European group, which was entitled to the presidency this year by regional rotation. In his inaugural address, he called for international action "to enable the inhabitants of this globe to live better."

Texas Indian Tribe Offers To Buy New York City

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Smoke signals on the horizon here spell good news for financially-strapped New York. Message say Tigua Indians will pay $24 and some beads for New York City, then get hell off island and take buildings with you.

"Yes, it's all tongue in cheek," admits Bill Newkirk, tourist coordinator for the Tiguas. But he adds the Tiguas will be happy to live up to their offer should New York Mayor Abraham Beame accept.

The Tiguas are a band of 550 Indians nestled among the foothills and sand along the Rio Grande. It is unlikely one has ever been to any of Texas' major cities, much less metropolitan New York.

"The Tiguas couldn't afford a pouch of tobacco," said Alton Griffin, consultant to the Texas Indian Commission. "That's true," Newkirk said. "They are very poor. But the tribal council voted and decided they'd buy New York for the same price the Mohicans got for it. They figure that if New York is in such financial straits people up there would be happy to sell out and leave."

Newkirk quoted Jose Garinillo, the chief, or tribal chief who speaks no English. Manhattanites who might decide to stay behind after the sale should have no fear of the Tiguas.

The tribe moved into this area with the Spaniards in 1680 and maintained a pastoral lifestyle of farming and crafts. "But many of them served as scouts with the 10th Cavalry in West Texas during the old days," Newkirk said. "And they served bravely."

Closing Arguments Begin Today In Dunford Trial

Closing arguments in the murder trial of Lorenzo Leon Dunford, accused of slaying Charles Ray Collins in 1973, were to begin today in 142nd State District Court here.

Dunford, testifying in own defense Tuesday, was unable to explain why he shot the 28-year-old Collins several times with a pistol and in once in the head with a shotgun. "I opened the door, and he was right there, and I just shot him right down," Dunford testified in his own defense before an 11-man, one-woman jury.

"I didn't have any thoughts at the time. I just went in there and shot him. I hadn't shot anybody before," he said under questioning of his attorney, Bill Smith of Midland.

Dunford is charged with slaying Collins, an All-State halfback on the old Carver High School's football team in the Ponderosa Club here in the early morning hours of June 16, 1973.

"I long before the self-confessed shooting, Dunford, 30, said Collins was sitting, uninvited, with Dunford's wife Rose at a table at the Greenwood Country Club where Dunford said he was singing with a combo.

"I want you to get up and leave. This is my table," Dunford said he told Collins, whom said he slightly knew.

Dunford said Collins declined, gave him some round-about talk, and then starting slugging and kicking him. Collins, Dunford said, gave no warning of his punching.

"... He didn't curse me or say anything at all," Dunford said.

This one-side scuffle was broken up by other guests at the club, and then Dunford said he went outside and from his wife's car picked up a nine-shot, 22-caliber revolver and a shotgun. He said he re-entered the club, looked for Collins, didn't find him, but started shooting anyway. His wife, now his ex-wife, was wounded by gunshot. She said Collins was a stranger to her.

Dunford said he then drove over to the Ponderosa night spot where he heard Collins was. He said Collins was exiting the place as he was coming in.

Without uttering a word, Dunford said he shot Collins several times with the pistol and then with the shotgun.

"He didn't threaten to kill you, did he?" the prosecutor, Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn, asked Dunford.

"He never said a word," Dunford answered.

Mashburn asked Dunford why he didn't do something more rational, such as calling the police.

"Well, Mr. Mashburn," he said, "I guess I could have just done about anything, but in my state of mind..."

"I guess I was going to shoot the man. That was the only logical thing I could do," Dunford told the prosecutor under cross-examination. He said he didn't think of calling the police.

"I guess I did (intend to kill Collins). I just didn't rationalize it that way. If I did, I guess I would have had enough sense to call the police."

Mashburn asked Dunford if he had been scared of Collins that night.

"I'm scared now, for that matter," he said. "I know I was scared. I guess I was mad, too."

"I didn't know what I intended to do, man... At the time I was a pretty good shot. I just didn't know why I did it... so it's done."

Dunford seemed composed and unshaken in giving his testimony.

He told Mashburn how he shot Collins.

"Yes, man, I just pulled the trigger. It was a double-action revolver."

"I never said a word. He never said a word... I just done what I done and left."

Closing arguments in the case were to begin this morning in Judge Perry D. Pickett's 142nd State District Court.

ACLU Attacks Houston Jails

HOUSTON (AP) — An attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union says the population of the Harris County jails has increased by 500 since county commissioners agreed in February to improve the overcrowded conditions.

Gerald Birnberg also told a federal court hearing Tuesday that the number of inmates released on bond in the pre-trial release program has decreased by 80 per cent since December.

"Animals in the city dog pound enjoy more humane conditions than the inmates of the county jails," Birnberg told U.S. District Court Judge Carol O. Bue.

The hearing was convened to enable Bue to determine if a $15 million proposal by the county would sufficiently improve the jail system to satisfy the requirements of an out-of-court settlement of a 1972 federal court suit filed by six jail inmates. The inmates had alleged that conditions in the jail violated their constitutional rights.

Birnberg told the hearing that prisoners got without water because there are not enough faucets; prisoners sleep on floors and benches because no beds are available; and prisoners have only 20 square feet of living space, despite a state law requiring a minimum of 40 square feet and a federal statute calling for 70 square feet.

Asst. County Atty. Edward Landry, speaking for the county, said the $15 million would be enough when coupled with the county's efforts to reduce the jail population with liberalized policies on releasing prisoners on bond.

Services for Roy Howe, 72, will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in Singleton Funeral Home Chapel of the Chimes with the Rev. Carl Grissom of the First Baptist Church officiating.

Interment will be in Andrews Cemetery.

Howe died early Tuesday morning in an Andrews hospital following an apparent heart seizure.

Howe, who had come to Andrews a year ago, was a retired farmer and a dozer operator for the K. L. Towle Oil Well Construction Co. of Hobbs, N.M. A Baptist and a native of Ong, Neb., he had observed his 50th wedding anniversary a few days before his death.

Surviving are the widow, Lester Howe; two daughters, Mrs. L. D. Chappell of Collinsville, Okla., and Mrs. Buford R. Andrews of Andrews; three sisters, Mrs. Betsy Austin and Mrs. Dorothy Gunter, both of Marysville, Calif., and Hazel Howe of Colorado Springs, Colo.; six grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Services for Tobias Rites Set For Thursday

LAMESA—Graveside services for Eleasio Tobias, 26, will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in Lamesa Cemetery with the Rev. Jerome Vitek of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church of Lamesa officiating.

Arrangements are being handled by Branon Funeral Home of Lamesa. Tobias was killed in a shooting incident here Sunday.

A native of Mexico, Tobias has resided in Lamesa the past four years and was an employee of the Cotton Oil Mill.

He is survived by the widow, Celia Tobias; a son, Jose Ramon of the home; two daughters, Micaela Ramon and Angela Ramon, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Tobias of Biena Union, Mexico; a sister, Landina Tobias of Biena Union; two brothers, Julio Tobias and Amadio Tobias of Biena Union; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Hernandez of Biena Union, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Santiago Tobias of Biena Union.

Senate Panel Okays Boorstin

WASHINGTON — The Senate Rules Committee Tuesday unanimously approved the nomination of historian Daniel J. Boorstin to be the librarian of Congress but cautioned on his future writing activities.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., Rules Committee chairman, said the committee "will make clear in its report on the nomination that he is not to carry out any writing activities to the detriment of the library or his official duties."

"Moreover, we do not expect him to use employees of the Library of Congress to further his writing activities."

Boorstin was questioned sharply by committee members last week about possible conflicts of interest between his duties as librarian and work he would do during his tenure that would produce royalties.

The conflict-of-interest issue was raised after it was learned that several federal employees had done research for Boorstin's "The Americans: The Democratic Experience," which won a Pulitzer Prize in 1974.

Fanne Foxe Wants To Marry Wilbur Mills

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Fanne Foxe says the reason she still wants to marry U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills is that "he made me feel secure and important."

"I had felt low for many years. But being with him made me feel the way I felt when I was in school, or the way my father felt about me. I still want to marry Wilbur. The decision is up to him," she said here Tuesday.

The 39-year-old Miss Foxe, a stripper whose real name is Annabel Batistella, was here to promote her autobiography. She began to cry when she was asked if she really cared about Mills, 67, an Arkansas Democrat.

"I love him in my own way," she said, "I don't like to talk about it."

She first came to prominence when she left a car with Mills in it and jumped into the Tidal Basin in Washington, D.C.

Painting Slasher To Undergo Test

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — A psychiatric examination has been ordered for Wilhelmus A. de Rijk, 38, who was detained by police after the knife slashing attack on the Rembrandt masterpiece, "The Night Watch."

After the examination was ordered by the court on Tuesday, the Amsterdam district attorney said the case against de Rijk in the Sunday slashing of the 17th century painting probably would not be pursued because of the man's unbalanced condition. He was charged only with the theft from a hotel of the knife used in the attack.

Museum officials said it will take about four months to restore the painting.

Ira Robinson Dies At Lamesa

LAMESA — Ira Robinson, a Dawson County resident the past 70 years, died Tuesday in a Lamesa hospital following a long illness. He was 88.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Second Baptist Church here with the Rev. Chester Sylvester, a Baptist minister from Runge, officiating. Interment will be in Lamesa Memorial Park directed by Branon Funeral Home of Lamesa.

A native of Corgell County, Robinson was a pioneer rancher and farmer in this area.

He is survived by the widow, May Robinson; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Harris of Lamesa and Mrs. Ethel Barton of Lamesa; two brothers, Frank Robinson and Bill Robinson, both of Lamesa; nine grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren.

Midland Youth Killed; Driver Of Car Charged

Luis Gallardo Briones, 16, of 404 N. Dallas St., was fatally injured and a 13-year-old girl companion was injured when they were struck from behind by a sedan as they were walking in the 1800 block of East Front Street early Tuesday morning.

Briones died at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital about 3 a.m., two hours after he and Cecilia Castellon, 13, of 207 E. Ohio St., were hit as they walked on the roadway alongside the west-bound curb.

Miss Castellon was treated and released at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Police identified driver of the car as Filomeno Chavez Cardosa, 75, of 1300 E. Garden Lane.

Cardosa was charged with involuntary manslaughter this morning by Justice Robert Pine. He is being held in county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond.

C. W. "Buzz" Cupp, investigating officer, said the west-bound Cardosa sedan carried the Briones youth 177 feet following impact, but that the girl was knocked away.

He said Briones was knocked onto the car's hood and then apparently over the car's passenger canopy, onto the trunk, and then was sprawled near the curb on the roadway's shoulder.

The mishap was reported at 12:33 a.m.

The youth's death brings to nine the number killed this year in traffic-related accidents in the city, Midland police traffic Lt. H. M. Wicker said this morning. Briones was the first pedestrian to die in a traffic mishap this year in the city, he said.

Services for Briones are pending at Thomas Funeral Home here.

Midland Attorney Tevis Herd Cited By MH-MR Centers

Midland attorney Tevis Herd was awarded a plaque of appreciation Monday at the regular board of directors meeting for the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Meeting in the conference room of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, the directors honored Herd for his service from 1969 to 1974 as a board member and legal consultant.

A partner in the law firm of Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe, Morrow and Dawson, Herd was board of trustees chairman from 1970 to 1972 for the Midland Community Centers for MH-MR, the forerunner of the present agency.

The following two years he served as chairman of the board for the Permian Basin Community Centers, after being instrumental in its organization. He had drafted the contract which created joint provision by the City of Midland, Midland County, City of Odessa and Ector County for MH-MR services.

In addition to honoring Herd, directors tabled action on membership in the National Council for MH-MR pending more research on membership and on the agency's affirmative action plan.

They also heard a report from Wayne Dismukes on the goal attainment scale, an evaluation program within the centers.

Mrs. Busby Dies; Services Today

Mrs. Pearl L. Busby, a Midland resident since 1942, died Monday night in a Midland hospital. She was 84.

Services were held this morning in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel with the Rev. Roy R. Havens, minister of Asbury Methodist Church, officiating. Private interment rites were at Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Busby was born Nov. 9, 1890, in Booneville, Ark. She spent her early life in Arkansas and was married in 1909 to Loy Busby. Before moving to Midland, where her husband died in 1963, the couple resided in Ardmore, Okla. The Busbys were charter members of Asbury Methodist Church.

Mrs. Busby is survived by a son, Horace R. Busby of Midland; three grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

Fair Weather Returns To State

Calm and fair to partly forecasts promised no change. Cloudy weather returned across Texas today.

About the only blot was dense McAllen in the Lower Rio fog in early morning along the Grande Valley down to 57 at Red River Valley and in the Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle. Tuesday's top marks ranged up to 92 at sunny El Paso, in the far west.

Cocaine Charges Dismissed; Lesser Complaint Filed

Felony charges of possession of cocaine were dismissed against two Midlanders Monday by Peace Justice Robert Pine.

But charges, of a lesser offense, were filed this morning against the two — Jerry Lawrence Brown, 24, of 106 W. Stokes, and Cynthia Jean Lent, 18, of 2210 Gulf.

Brown and Miss Lent were arrested Sept. 11 by Midland police in the 3400 block of West Wall Street, and later that day were charged before Judge Pine with possession of the stimulant drug, cocaine.

However, an analysis of the white substance by a Department of Public Safety chemist indicated that the drug was phenylcyclidine an hallucinogen.

Assistant County Atty. Leslie Acker said that misdemeanor charges of possession of a dangerous drug were filed this morning against Miss Lent and Brown.

Judge Pine dismissed the felony charges Monday on basis of the DPS chemist's report.

Midland Police Department To Add Two Detectives

The Midland police department will have two additional detectives when personnel are found to fill the two new positions created by the Midland City Council during a special session at City Hall Tuesday.

The council voted to make an addition of two detectives to the police department after hearing an appeal from Police Chief Harold Wallace.

The council agreed with Wallace that additional personnel are needed to bolster the police crime preventative effort.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said the police and the council "want to do all we can to reduce the incidence of crime in Midland. We must continue to battle against the criminal element."

Martin Neil, councilman, said, "Midland is below the national average of 17 per cent in the crime incidence rate increase, but we are at 13 per cent and need to keep our force up to strength."

After making the personnel decision, the council went into executive session for consideration of "another personnel matter and one matter dealing with a piece of litigation," Angelo said.

Briones Rites Set For Today

Graveside rites for Luis Gallardo Briones were to be at 2 p.m. today at Fairview Cemetery directed by Thomas Funeral Home.

Briones, 16, was fatally injured early Tuesday morning when struck by an automobile while walking along the 1800 block of East Front Street.

He resided at 404 N. Dallas St.

Former Midlander Dies In California Traffic Accident

Brent Woodard, a former Midland resident, died Saturday evening following an automobile accident in Ventura, Calif.

A resident of Austin, Tex., he had been visiting in Oxnard, Calif., the past three weeks.

Services for Woodard, 26, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel with the Rev. Ted Brian, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Born Sept. 28, 1948, in San Saba, he moved at the age of 10 to Midland, where he was graduated from Lee High School in 1967. He received an associate degree in 1972 from Odessa College and was graduated from The University of Texas with a B.S. degree in anthropology in 1974.

Woodard, a member of the Baptist Church, served two years active duty and two years inactive duty with the Marines. He also was in the Navy from January 1974 to November 1974.

He had been commissioned a lieutenant in May 1974. He then returned to UT until four weeks ago.

Surviving are the widow, Mary Woodard of Odessa; a daughter, Marjorie Carole Woodard of Odessa; his father, William B. Woodard of Cleburne; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Springer of Houston; his grandmother, Mrs. C. A. Williams of Mullin; a half-brother, Mike Woodard of Cleburne; step-sister, Mrs. Kim Powers of Anaheim, Calif., and a step-brother, Mark Springer, who is stationed in Washington with the U.S. Army.

Mrs. Lewis Dies In California

Mrs. Rosie Lewis, 54-year-old Midlander, died Sunday in Los Angeles, Calif.

Services are pending with Thomas Funeral Home of Midland.

Mrs. Lewis is survived by five brothers, Ed Sanders of Denver, Colo., Howard Sanders, Milburn Sanders, Thurman Sanders and Elijah Sanders, all of Midland, and three sisters, Lorene Landers of Midland, Mrs. Beesie Taylor of San Bernardino, Calif., and Mrs. Corine Aguilard of Midland.

Midlanders—

(Continued From Page 1A) outcome of the situation would result in the closing of school facilities. "I don't see any buildings closing down for a long time to come," he said.

Commenting on the recent trend of declining enrollment in the city's schools, the administrator said the Midland Independent School District has already experienced its decline in the elementary grades where any desegregation shifting might take place.

Any further decline, he said, should be on the secondary level which is unaffected by the discord with the Justice Department.

Balloting in Thursday's election will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and the trustees will canvass election returns on Tuesday.

Voting at the Lee High School gymnasium will be persons residing in Midland County voting precincts 4, 8, 11, 13, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 26 and 28. Casting ballots in the auditorium foyer at Midland High School will be those residing in precincts 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 12, 14, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25 and 27.

Three hundred and thirty-three Midlanders had voted absentee before the deadline at 5 p.m. on Friday.

The bond issue, if passed in Thursday's voting, would raise taxes from $1.45 to $1.50 per $100 on 75 per cent valuation of market value according to the present formula.

The tax boost would mean, for the owner of a $20,000 home, an $11.25 annual increase for a total of $225 in property taxes.

The approval of the $4.2 million bond would average an estimated $1 more a month in taxes.

The school district projects an annual cost of $126,602 for operating air conditioning units in the presently uncooled schools.

This total includes $30,602 for utilities, $52,200 for maintenance and $43,800 for service on the units.

Opponents of the air conditioning issue contend that such a project saps the city's energy at a time when future energy supplies are unknown.

They further protest that the undertaking is a luxury and is too expensive considering the nation's unstable economy.

Advocates claim, however, that Midland which currently is experiencing an economic upswing, can well afford to air condition the schools. They cite reasons for the project's desirability as health of the children, their comfort in relationship to the learning process and the ability to attract quality teachers to the area.

Students Plan X-Ray Contest

Hospital Workers Hear Craddick

State Rep. Tom Craddick was the speaker for a meeting of the general membership of the Women's Auxiliary, Inc., of Midland Memorial Hospital. Craddick presented a discussion on malpractice legislation in Texas.

Mrs. W. L. Peyton, volunteer chairman, reported 141 women worked 1,688 hours during August. The membership chairman, Mrs. John Armstrong reported 123 active members, 95 contributing members and six honorary members.

Mrs. James L. Davis Jr., Junior Auxiliary chairman, announced 29 girls worked 248 1/2 hours in August. Linda Caldwell received the Candy Stripper award with 23 hours.

Twenty-one memorials were received by the auxiliary in August, and 33 items were mended by the sewing department.

Mrs. Robert Hobbs, treasurer's assistant, announced a total of $38,881 in hospital equipment have been donated to MMH by the auxiliary this year.

Members were reminded of the District II, Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, meeting to be held in Midland Sept. 23.

Dear Abby Only A Dream?

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you know anything about dreams? My husband calls out his ex-wife's name in his sleep, so he must be dreaming about her, right? When I tell him that he was calling her name in his sleep, he says he must have been dreaming—but he never can remember what he has dreamed. (Is this possible?)

Abby, if a person dreams about someone, doesn't it mean that that someone must be on that person's subconscious mind? My husband swears that he loves me and that he never even thinks about his ex-wife, but if that's true, why is he dreaming about her? And if he's not dreaming about her, why is he calling her name?

He says he can't help what he dreams or what he says in his sleep. I can't believe that, can you?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Yes. And if you're wise, you'll lay off and quit reminding him of his ex-wife while he's awake.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to tell PHILADELPHIA, whose Jewish cousin passed away, not to worry about whether she goes to heaven or not. As a good person, her goodness will precede her no matter where she goes.

I came across an article by a reverend in which he said: "Adolph Eichmann had a better chance of going to heaven than his millions of victims because he believed in Jesus."

I cannot imagine myself being in heaven with Eichmann and his co-murderers.

If believing in Jesus is the only condition to getting into heaven, I refuse to go there!

CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: I wonder where that reverend thinks the millions of Buddhists and Muslims go.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a bank where there are 21 employees.

One of the girls was getting married. The hat was passed, and I was asked to give a certain amount. I felt I couldn't afford that much, so I gave what I could.

The next day I left on my break, and when I returned, the amount I had contributed was in an envelope on my desk. I had no idea who placed it there. Everyone I asked denied it.

Finally, one of the girls told me who had put it there. It was the office troublemaker.

I asked her what her idea was in returning my money, and she said she did it for "a purpose." What the purpose was she never did tell me.

Was she right in returning my money? Or did she just show her ignorance? And how should I treat her in the future?

HURT

DEAR HURT: She showed not only her ignorance but also her rudeness and meanness. Avoid her.

"YOU BETTER WATCH THAT CONSCIENCE"

A very oft quoted saying is, "let your conscience be your guide." I would not for a moment recommend such a standard as a way to determine when one is right or wrong. Man's conscience is the faculty that passes judgment upon actions, approving or disapproving, as he has been taught. Conscience either excuses one, or accuses one, and this is based upon what one has been taught. So I would say that it is dangerous for one to allow his conscience to be his guide.

Let me mention here a few ways that the Bible speaks of the conscience. In 1 Peter 3:21 the apostle speaks of "A good conscience." A "pure conscience" is mentioned in 2 Timothy 1:3. Again the Bible speaks of "seared conscience" (1 Ti. 4:2) and again "an evil conscience." (He. 10:22) Paul mentions "a weak conscience." (1 Co. 8:12) Which ever your conscience may be, it involves the process of education. One cannot have a good conscience separate and apart from truth. The wise man said "There is a way that seemeth right unto man, but the end thereof is the way of death." (Pr. 14:22)

The apostle Paul described himself, before he became a Christian, as "a blasphemer, a persecutor, and injurious." Yes, "chief of sinners" (1 Ti. 1:12-17) While persecuting the Christ of God by casting saints into prison, he did so with a "good conscience." You may ask, "how was THAT possible?" I reply simply by saying, "He thought he was doing right."

Dear reader, when error is taught and believed, it will produce a "good conscience" if one believes it to be the TRUTH. In other words, when we believe error to be the truth, it will produce the same emotion as the truth would produce. This is why one is foolish to trust his feelings when it comes to religion. TRUTH makes men free (Jn. 8:32) and not the conscience. Conscience is like a watch: set it by the wrong standard, and it is worth absolutely nothing.

Hence when you hear someone say, "That's alright my conscience does not bother me," you just remember, that many men are in prison for crimes committed against God and other men, whose consciences do not bother them. I suspect that hell will also be full of men whose evil deeds led them to the awful place, and whose conscience did not bother them while they were on earth.

HINTS FROM Heloise

More On What To Do In Case Of Fire

Dear Heloise:

In your column headed "Rules to Live By in Event of Fire," you presented an excellent article by a firefighter named R. Erickson.

He is right that you should not take time to save clothing if your house catches on fire. Don't stop for anything except other people.

Lives have been lost by people taking time to dress or to try to stuff the cat into a pillowcase. The most important instruction of all did not appear in your column.

In the presence of smoke, keep low and get out, unless to do so you would have to pass through an area filled with smoke and flames or would have to open a door which was hot when you touched it.

Under those conditions, find another way out or, if that is not possible, close as many doors as possible between you and the fires, stuffing something in the cracks to keep out the smoke. Then open a window, top and bottom, for air and wait for the fire department. Smoke is now the major killer of fire victims.

In some cases, two breaths at a height of five feet can kill you, while the air at knee-height may sustain life.

Finally, never telephone the fire department from an area which is filled with smoke, but also never assume that someone else has done it. The earlier the fire department is called, the greater the chances that those who are trapped can be saved.

Anne W. Phillips, M.D. Executive Director of The Smoke, Fire and Burn Foundation

God Bless you!

Dear Heloise:

There is no such thing as a FREE breakfast... think that one over!

And I'll bet you don't even give me space in your column to print it.

Allen D.

Sir, I printed it after thinking about it for three weeks! You're

HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much confusion exists today. It is wise to confine your efforts to the mundane and the practical. Try to organize your day so you can utilize your time to get better results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study quietly and come to the right decisions where important matters are concerned. Seek an expert if you need advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be invited to a social affair. Make sure you don't become involved in an argument. State your goals to a trusted friend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some work connected with your career is an novator but has to be done. Don't jeopardize your credit by not paying a bill.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A new project needs more study before putting it in operation. Don't go by appearances with anyone or anything.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) Talk over moot points with loved one and avoid misunderstanding that now exists. Don't rely too much on intuition now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) Know exactly what is expected of you by associates and consult with them before you get into any new deals. Be alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Quickly handle obligations awaiting your attention. Use the direct approach with others. Don't neglect health treatments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show in some tangible way that you appreciate your friends and add to the goodwill you now enjoy. Show devotion to mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give attention to those problems at home that require immediate handling. Show that you are a loyal family member.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being alert in motion could prevent an accident. Think before you speak or you could say the wrong thing today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you don't spend your money on foolish things or you will later regret it. Avoid the social tonight and be safe.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have personal aims that require proper perspective if you are to attain them. Improving your charm is important now.

'One Man Not Enough' For Countess

By JURATE KAZICKAS
 NEW YORK (AP) — "Sex is only one per cent of my life. Why is that all that anybody's interested in?" the beautiful countess complained.
 Christina Paolozzi Bellin has raised money for hospitals in Cambodia and Gabon, orphanages in Afghanistan, sponsored a Vietnamese family, and supports 18 foster children. But it seems that these days the only thing people ask her about is her interesting, unconventional married life.
 The 35-year-old mother of two young sons, Christina is married to Howard T. Bellin, a prominent New York plastic surgeon and for the last five years has been happily involved with Claude Dolgier.

 "Just the way life is today, one man is simply not enough," said Christina.
 "This life-style suits us," said Bellin, who has a special girl friend as well. "We'd have an awful lot of tensions in our life otherwise."
 With her enormous green eyes, blond hair, tawny skin and aristocratic profile, Christina, the daughter of an American heiress (United Fruit) and an Italian count, was a successful model when in 1962 Richard Avedon photographed her svelte nude torso for Harper's Bazaar. That launched her career as the ultimate free spirit, the jet set's answer to Lady Godiva, as she was hailed.

 More headlines were made when she married Bellin 10 years ago in a mixed marriage of an Episcopalian and a Jew.
 "But now getting married across religious barriers is accepted," said Christina. "And I'm sure our life-style will be accepted one day, too."
 The Bellins live in a rambling 18-room apartment filled with a constant explosion of children, dogs, half a dozen servants, jangling telephones and walls papered with photographs and newspaper clippings of their adventures. Claude, a 33-year-old French-Israeli airline purser who always makes a point of bringing gifts back for the Bellin boys, is a frequent visitor.

 Occasionally the trio, plus children and dogs, board one of Bellin's several planes he pilots himself and take off for the weekend.
 Their wide circle of friends (the Bellins entertain up to 60 at least once a week and the door of their apartment is always open for midnight out-of-town visitors) have adjusted to this open marriage with amusing diplomacy.

 "If it's a black tie event, they invite me and Howard because they know Claude hates formal dinners. If it's for the ballet, they invite Claude because they know he used to be a dancer," explained Christina, fluttering her long fingers with dagger red nails.
 "I adore Howard. He's brilliant, talented, exciting and imaginative. But Claude is wonderful, too. If I had to compare them I would say Howard has the drive for life, and Claude has the art of living."

Many Experts See Little Hope Of Slowing Crime

By MARGARET GENTRY WASHINGTON (AP) — As robbers, rapists and murderers prey upon more and more Americans, many experts are conceding that little if anything can be done to stop it.

Some suggest that any politician who promises more is a fool but one who dares ignore the issue may be a bigger fool because many, many voters fear that they, too, may become victims.

The politicians and the professional crime-fighters may tinker with the system of police, prosecutors, courts and prisons and they may actually improve it in slow and small ways. But whatever the improvements, those who deal with the problem say there's hardly a chance in a million that the nation's crime rate will drop significantly, quickly or permanently.

A collection of 15 men and women who have made it their business to fight crime or study it examined the problem with a group of reporters and editors last week in a conference sponsored by the Washington Journalism Center.

This group of liberal and conservative government officials, lawyers and researchers disagreed sharply on the changes that ought to be made in the sluggish and often unfair criminal justice system.

But all were pessimistic that any changes could bring about a swift national decline in those crimes which touch their victims most closely — murder, rape, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle thefts.

The nation's crime rate, based on the number of those seven offenses reported to police, rose 17 per cent last year and the upward trend is continuing at about the same rate this year. Other studies indicate that the number of crimes actually committed may be two or three times as much as is reported to police.

"I don't feel the crime situation will improve immediately. We're in for a long, hard fight. It's going to get worse before it gets better," said Charles R. Work, deputy chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

"I'm of the belief that there is not any really effective deterrent to crime," said Glen D. King, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and a 21-year veteran of the Dallas police department.

"I don't see any glimmer of hope for the present criminal justice system in our present society. We don't have the glue any more," said Donald E. Santarelli, a Washington lawyer, former head of LEAA, and a former District of Columbia prosecutor.

This group of experts generally agreed that neither they nor any other students of the problem really know what causes crime.

Connally Says U.S. Needs New Traders

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally says those who believe in the U.S. system of democracy "had better start defending it."

"Never before has our system been so in danger," he told a group of engineers, scientists and executives. "It's up to you and to me to defend our system."

Connally, speaking to some 800 members of the Gulf Coast section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers Tuesday, said he was alarmed that "the democracies which we helped to promote... have fallen slowly by the wayside."

"Show me a country that has no economic freedom and I'll show you a country that has no personal freedom," he said.

The former governor criticized Third World countries who have in recent days called on the United States to share its wealth with them.

To those countries who have been saying to the U.S., "You've got to deplete your strength," Connally declared, "I say nonsense."

He said the United States has "helped countries large and small" in the generation since World War II, giving away money, technology and exploring for natural resources.

He said the Third World countries now are "calling us exploiters because we helped, because we found the resources."

Connally said that oil companies have explored the outer reaches of the world and discovered oil "not just for us but for the world."

In return, he said, the oil-rich nations have boosted oil prices 400 per cent "not because of economics but because of political decisions."

He said this country needs a new generation of traders in its relations with other nations instead of generation of givers.

Connally said it may take a severe energy shortage this winter before Congress will de-regulate the production of natural gas.

Connally answered numerous questions from the audience on a variety of topics. He said he hopes he never holds political office or an appointive office again but added, "you never know what the future holds."

Uranium Fuel Not Available For Glen Rose Plant

DALLAS (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. has told the Dallas Power & Light Co. that it cannot meet contracts to supply uranium ore to fuel the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant being built in Glen Rose.

The contract covered the first three years of the plant's operation, from 1980 to 1983.

A Westinghouse spokesman said the company considers the fuel portion of the contract with DP&L void.

A DP&L spokesman said the price of uranium under the original Westinghouse contract is about $8 to $9 per pound.

The Westinghouse announcement apparently came after the company realized it did not have enough ore in hand or under contract to meet promises to deliver 70 million tons of uranium.

To make up the shortage, Westinghouse would have to buy ore at the current $26 per pound price.

The company says that the "commercial impracticability" of delivering at the low contract price excuses them from the contractual obligation to deliver.

DP&L has contracted with Exxon to provide uranium fuel from 1983-1989. That contract has a fuel escalation clause.

30 Passports Reported Stolen By 'Red Army'

Agence France-Presse TOKYO—About 30 passports were stolen from the American embassy in Kuala Lumpur by five Japanese "Red Army" guerrillas during their occupation there last month, it was reported here today.

The newspaper Asahi, quoting informed government sources, said that the stolen passports were more than 10 blanks U.S. passports and more than 10 issued passports of the U.S., Malaysia and third countries. An embossing stamp for passport photographs also was believed to have been stolen.

It is feared that the stolen passports will be forged for the use of Japanese radicals to enter the United States for operations against the forthcoming U.S. trip of the Japanese emperor and empress.

The serial numbers of the blank U.S. passports have been posted worldwide by the American Embassy, the paper said.

FCC Chairman Proposes Two Rule Changes

The Washington Post NEW YORK — Federal Communications Commission Chairman Richard E. Wiley proposed here Tuesday two major changes in government regulation of broadcasting.

In a speech to the International Radio and Television Society Inc., Wiley said that he will propose an experiment in which the FCC would discontinue its enforcement of the fairness doctrine in the larger radio markets of the country.

He also said that previous FCC decisions which have the effect of banning broadcast coverage of political debates and presidential news conferences during an election year should now be rescinded. He said the FCC will hold hearings on the question this week.

Geological Survey Director Warns Against 'Monopoly'

HOUSTON (AP) — The director of the U.S. Geological Survey said today a government monopoly does not include qualities that are required for successful petroleum explorations.

Dr. W. E. McKelvey said some proposals now before Congress would put the government squarely in the business of oil exploration. He said a matter of such immense significance deserves much more analysis than it has so far received.

McKelvey, in remarks prepared for an energy policy seminar, said he has no position on the matter but that successful petroleum exploration "demands the widely varied experience, the differing insights, the intuitive hunches, and the outright heresy that are available in a large group of participants."

"These qualities are not to be found in a government monopoly committed to its own programs and its own singular point of view," he said.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., Tuesday advocated a new policy under which the government and oil operators would share profits, or losses, from offshore explorations.

Hollings said many are waiting in the wings to nationalize the petroleum industry.

Hollings said many are waiting in the wings to nationalize the petroleum industry.

"I think this would be a terrible mistake but what could be even worse is for us to become unrealistic and intransigent, resisting all change in policy even though the world itself is drastically changed," he said.

"We have a good chance to work together now but if we don't take it, nationalization will result because America is getting mad."

McKelvey said the role of the private sector is not quite clear under some of the proposals now before Congress.

"But it obviously would be dramatically less significant than the dominant part it plays today, and has played over the lifetime of the petroleum industry," he said.

McKelvey said bright prospects have prompted an accelerated leasing program for federally owned offshore areas.

"We expect this program to be one of the major contributors to our energy supply over the critical years-between now and the time when sources other than oil and gas can assume a larger role in the energy economy," he said.

McKelvey said formidable problems complicate the task of developing the offshore resources.

"These problems run the gamut of politics, economics, technology, and the slowly metamorphosing attitude of a society which increasingly views itself as emerging upon the post-industrial stage of its development," he said.

Adobe, Flintkote Close Stock Deal

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland and The Flintkote Co. of White Plains, N. Y., today announced closing of a deal in which Flintkote purchased 1.4 million newly issued shares of Adobe common stock.

Officials of the companies said Flintkote paid $21 million, or $15 per share. Flintkote has five year options to purchase an additional 600,000 shares of Adobe common at prices ranging up to $25 per share.

Adobe now has 6,619,070 shares outstanding of which Flintkote owns 21.15 per cent.

The transaction also provides Flintkote a five-year option to purchase up to 2,000 barrels of oil per day and/or refined products from Adobe's producing and refining operations.

James D. Moran, chairman and chief executive officer of Flintkote, and Thomas C. Frick, formerly a vice president of Atlantic Richfield and energy advisor to Flintkote, will join the Adobe board of directors.

Adobe also reported a new engineering report shows the company has proved oil and gas reserves in excess of 22 million barrels equivalent, up 26 per cent from last year.

Offset Scheduled In Fisher Sector

Sojourner Drilling Corp., Abilene, plans No. 1-A Beulah Boyd as a southwest offset to the one-well Rice Brothers (Canyon) field of Northeast Fisher County.

Drill site, two miles west of Hamlin, is 2,400 feet from north and 4,700 feet from west lines of S. J. Swenson survey 13. Scheduled depth is 4,800 feet.

The discovery, the firm's No. 1 J. D. Ferguson, was completed in August, for 105 barrels of 38-degree oil per day, through a 16-5/8-inch choke and perforations at 4,476-4,486 feet.

Oil Nominations Show Decrease

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — October requests for Texas crude oil have fallen far below September nominations because Exxon did not submit a complete total, the Railroad Commission announced Tuesday.

The commission said the nominations for October total 3,744,509 barrels a day, a decrease of 233,210 barrels from this month.

"This unusually large decrease in nominations is due to the fact that Exxon Co., U.S.A. did not submit an additional demand total as they have in previous months, the commission said in a statement.

It added that Exxon had stated, "The existing uncertainties resulting from the expiration of the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973 and its possible extension or replacement do not allow us to estimate an 'additional demand' to be nominated by Exxon Co., U.S.A. for October."

Joan Rivers Trying To Change Her 'Put-on' Image

By AL COHN
Newspaper

NEW YORK—Throughout her career, Joan Rivers has been compared with Woody Allen. Both write most of their own material, including comedy routines, plays, movies, books and magazine articles. Both rely heavily on humor that is self-deprecating. One big difference is that Allen's jokes are based largely on the truth about himself. Another is that Allen has become a superstar.

In making fun of herself, Joan Rivers depicts a one-time fat girl, none too bright, who was the black sheep of a wealthy family, a girl ridiculed by classmates and ignored by men. In fact, the girl from Brooklyn and Larchmont known as Joan Molinsky was neither fat nor unattractive, and was Phi Beta Kappa at Barnard.

The routines have brought her success since she made her TV debut 10 years ago on the Johnny Carson show, but a comparison to Woody Allen regarding status would be out of line. Miss Rivers still gets her greatest exposure on TV talk and game shows.

She feels that this may change soon. She wrote a major film that goes into production this fall, and the writing of another film is under way. During a recent visit to Manhattan with her husband, Edgar Rosenberg, and their daughter Melissa, 7, Miss Rivers discussed her hopes and frustrations while working on a needle-point pattern.

Q: You've said that your personal hero is Lenny Bruce.

RIVERS: Oh, yes, but everybody says that now. It's very chic.

Q: You said it 10 years ago.

RIVERS: Yes, he was and he still is, and I said it when nobody had the guts to come out and say it. I once said it on the Dick Cavett show and got in trouble. Now, since the movie ("Lenny") he's been so cleaned up—they made him into this wonderful kid who got into trouble by mistake—but he opened the door for all of us. You just can't make a movie about someone who was so complex. He just said the truth. People don't want to hear the truth, unfortunately. To this day people don't want to hear the truth.

Q: Why did you choose him as a hero?

RIVERS: Just because he really—I hate the expression—told it like it was. At the time I saw him, I was bombing in the Village, and a date took me to see him. And it just changed my life. I knew it was right for me to deal with the truth on stage. You worship a man for that. I mean, the man gave you your whole career. In my act, I say what everyone says to their friends in private. And I get very angry sometimes with an audience, because sometimes you have to say to them, "Oh, grow up," because they know what I'm saying is true. For instance, I'll ask how many women here were a little worried about finding a husband, and not one hand goes up. I start to scream at them. That never changes. A girl says her mother's thrilled when she's 27 and single. "Oh my mother doesn't care," a girl tells me from the front row. "Hmm. Your mother's dead. Shot herself," I say.

Q: How much is truth, or exaggeration, of your own personal experiences?

RIVERS: Everything is based on truth, and then taken to an insane degree. Because of course I keep a clean house. I mean . . . But I hate to do it. But the difference is, in my act, when I say I don't do it, period, the truth is, I do it but I'm bitching all the time. But the upholsterer said my house is the cleanest he's ever been in. Which made me feel terrific, like the little Dutch woman. I looked for little wooden shoes to come on my feet. But everything has to be based on truth. Everything about Melissa, about Edgar, is based on truth—that he's English and ritzy. But then you take and you just embellish to the point of nonrecognizability.

RIVERS: Of course I throw up all afternoon before going on. A day before the Carson show, even the dogs avoid me. I'm very shy with strangers. I'm never funny at a party, or with people. I don't know. In this business, we're all very basically neurotic and depressed. You have to hype yourself up to be funny and be the funny person that you'd like to be.

Q: You've been quoted as saying that you "never, never" watch yourself on TV. True?

RIVERS: In the middle. I don't watch myself because I get very depressed. I watch myself sometimes when it's been a very bad shot, because I want to see if either comes across. But TV is a great leveler—you rarely see the tremendous highs or the terrible lows. So when the panel died, or no one got a laugh, I'll watch. But just to go home and watch yourself . . . It's almost embarrassing, and you see all the things that are wrong.

Q: Where does your playwriting career stand?

RIVERS: Well, I will never—you can't say "never," chic. I have never been in that group.

Q: Do you feel it has anything to do with being a woman?

RIVERS: No. I just don't appeal to the so-called intellectuals. I've never been in Time magazine is never going to give me a cover. Woody, Dave Steinberg, Bette Midler—they're chic. Cavett, Jackie Onassis is never going to say, "I ride a horse saddle." I appeal more to the masses. I don't want to sound like I'm knocking Woody or others. I'm picked up by the right people. Not. It's just that I'm never going to be the intellectual dar-asked to donate to the radical

Q: You've been called "quite possibly the most intuitively funny woman alive." You've written and performed and done many of the things Woody Allen has done, yet neither you nor it seems, any comedienne enjoys the kind of success that he has had. Do you have any feelings about this?

RIVERS: I think Woody is just the most brilliant, that's to start with. I think my time is coming. I have never been picked up by the right people. I was never invited to Leonard Bernstein's house. I was never asked to donate to the radical

Narvel Felts Makes Big Hits With Oldies

By MATT YANCEY
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Narvel Felts takes people back. He talks of days when disc jockeys would relate a little tidbit about a singer before playing his song, of rockabilly bands in the '50s and of television shows like "You Bet Your Life."

He remembers he and his wife named their daughter Stacia after seeing a woman by the same name on the Groucho Marx show. Remurms of "You Bet Your Life" are on television again and, after 19 years, Narvel Felts is—on the record charts singing songs out of the past.

"Because I've been into it to that extent I don't really understand people who don't know who's singing a song now," Felts said. "It happens more often than not now because of the new radio formats where three or four songs are played in a row."

He has just had his first No. 1 record with "Reconsider Me," originally a rhythm and blues song recorded in 1960. His version of Willie Nelson's "Funny How Time Slips Away" is rising on the charts now.

Felts took up music on a full-time basis in 1957, dropping out of his senior year in high school after winning a talent show in Benrie, Mo. A year later he began working with Conway Twitty, when he was still Harold Jenkins, and Charlie Rich at Sun Records in Memphis.

"I had a lot of records that almost happened but didn't," Felts said. "Around 1970, I began asking myself what I was accomplishing and at times was even considering giving it up."

Frustrated because the small record company he was working for kept trying to push him into rock and roll, he came to Nashville and began knocking on doors.

"The ones that would see me, turned me down," he said. "I didn't record anything for about two or three years because they wouldn't let me do country."

Until his 30th record, "Drift Away," broke into the top five in 1973, Felts continued to help on his father's farm.

Reclining in his chair, he said he still enjoys living in Malden, Mo., a small town of about 5,000, and has no plans to move.

Beaten To Death

HOUSTON (AP) — Morris L. Williams, 46, parliamentarian of American party in Harris County, was found bound and beaten to death in his apartment Tuesday.

Police said Williams' wrists were bound behind him with cords from a U.S. flag.

Detective Don Martin said Williams, a bachelor who lived alone, apparently was beaten to death with several wine bottles found near the body. The body was clothed except for socks and shoes.

Sex Bias Charged

AUSTIN (AP) — Sex discrimination charges were made Tuesday against the Texas Education Agency by the Women's Equity Action League and the Texas Civil Liberties Union.

Our charges were filed with the federal government against the Texas Education Agency after three years of attempts to get various Texas school districts to comply voluntarily with federal law, which prohibits sex discrimination in the public schools," Dr. Paula Latimer, speaking for the Equity League, told a news conference.

Since both Texas schools and Washington agencies have shown themselves indifferent to these violations of federal law, we have decided to take the issue to court, filing suit against the Texas Education Agency."

She said that charges were filed today with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in San Antonio.

"If there are no concrete changes, we'll be back in six months with a court suit," she said.

Dr. Latimer said that although 70 per cent of Texas' teachers are women, only 20 per cent are school administrators.

She said schools use about 85 per cent of their athletics budget for boys.

"Every time we came for a visit and asked if there was anything we could bring him he would say 'Just bring me some dancing girls, so we decided to comply,'" says wife. Slagle, 52, father of five daughters, one of whom works as nurse on his floor, and a son, reacted to the gyrations of the 25-year-old secretary-dancer with "Whoo Whoo." National Monument Named Wrong

MONTEZUMA CASTLE NATIONAL MONUMENT, Ariz. — Park ranger Bob Huncilman.

There is no castle. It is a cliff dwelling. And it has nothing to do with Montezuma. Huncilman, 67, and other rangers at Montezuma Castle spend hours every day explaining to visitors that there is no connection whatsoever with the last Aztec emperor of Mexico.

"Every day we hear all the old stories and legends," says Ann Williams, 26, a ranger stationed at nearby Montezuma Well.

"Many people look into the well, convinced Montezuma dumped all his gold at the bottom to keep the Spaniards from getting it."

"Others tell stories how Aztecs in prehistoric times threw young maidens into the well as sacrificial virgins to their gods."

"No truth to any of it," Williams insists. "History notes that Montezuma lived from 1466 to 1520. He died in Mexico City."

The first Spaniards to come through this part of Arizona arrived on the scene in the year 1563.

"As far back as written records go, the cliff dwelling and well have carried Montezuma's name. There is no record why," Huncilman says.

In 1906, the area was set aside as a national monument, sprawling over 1,100 acres in Verde Valley, 90 miles north of Phoenix.

Oscar Has A New Home

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oscar, the 48-year-old golden boy, now has a home befitting his celebrated glamor.

It is a glistening seven-story glass tower on Wilshire Boulevard in Beverly Hills. The fifth location of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the $4.2-million building at last brings all the academy's operations under one roof.

This month the academy staff completed the move from the old headquarters in West Hollywood. A one-time neighborhood movie house, it had been Oscar's home since 1946 (from 1927 to 1946 the academy had occupied three different locations in buildings on Hollywood Blvd.)

The Melrose diggings were cramped and musty, and the staff was delighted to escape.

The formal dedication is due next month, when workmen complete the final touches.

On a recent day Walter Mirisch, recently re-elected president of the academy, gave a newsman a preview tour of the new building.

Mirisch, the producer of "In The Heat of The Night," "Hawaii" and "Midway," was as proud as a boy with his first hot rod. Indeed, the building is the realization of a longtime dream for him and other leaders of the academy.

"We started thinking about a new place for the academy 10 or 12 years ago," he explained.

"A lot of surveys were made as to the needs of such a building and its location. Also, financing."

"Finally we reached the point a couple of years ago when we had $2½ million built up, largely from income for the awards ceremony. Then we were ready to make our move."

The location was a major problem.

Finally a lot was located at the corner of Wilshire and Almont in Beverly Hills. Architect Maxwell Starkman designed a building of bronze-tinted glass and masonry walls.

Mirisch began his tour on the main floor, where the large, thickly carpeted entrance will be converted for cocktail and dinner parties to accompany previews.

Guests will proceed up a wide staircase to the Samuel Goldwyn theater.

"The theater holds 1,111 people and is equipped for everything — quadraphonic sound, 70mm films, Surround — as well as any new development that is likely to come along," said Mirisch.

Mirisch continued the tour through the seventh-floor executive offices.

The Players Director occupies another floor. The academy's library, the world's best collection of film lore, finally has adequate facilities.

Oscar's new home will have its formal dedication in October.

Music Scores With Students

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Youngsters returning to school this fall are just as likely to be reciting their "do-re-mis" as their "ABCs."

Music has been so integrated into school programs that it is used for teaching concepts ranging from the alphabet to geometry to social studies and history; from science to English composition and linguistics.

About 93 per cent of the nation's elementary schools have music programs involving nearly 63 per cent of the students, according to a survey made by the American Music Conference here.

On the high school level, about 41 per cent of the students are either taking a music course or are involved in some musical activity this year. This means some 28.5 million school-age children nationally are participating in music.

Activities offered include bands, orchestras, choirs, choruses, jazz ensembles, madrigal groups, symphonic field trips, instrumental clinics, exchange concerts with other schools, all-city orchestras and music lessons.

School guitar instruction is increasing fastest, followed by piano; band and orchestra programs, according to the AMC.

Recorders, harps, ukuleles and electronic music are also growing in popularity.

In St. Louis, specially trained teachers are using guitars and songs to stimulate interest in reading, math and most recently, history.

American Death Toll In Limited Nuclear War Could Reach 22 Million

By MURREY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The American death toll in a so-called limited nuclear war with the Soviet Union could be immensely greater than earlier Defense Department estimates, a Senate subcommittee reported Tuesday.

Up to 22 million people might die in one type of Soviet attack on U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) fields, compared to a previously estimated 800,000 deaths, according to new data obtained from the Defense Department.

An attack on U.S. missiles at one base alone, Whiteman Air Force base, could kill up to a million people in fallout spread by March winds through that heavily populated area, it was estimated.

These calculations emerge from questioning the limited nuclear war, or "flexible response doctrine," championed by Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

While supplying the new, greatly increased variations of possible nuclear casualties, the Defense Department said "the most representative scenario" for all-out attack on all U.S. strategic nuclear facilities is 6.7 million fatalities.

"These new estimates give a much clearer picture of the possible costs to our citizenry of these so-called 'limited' attacks against our military targets," said Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Symington is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's subcommittee on arms control, international organizations and security agreements.

The group has scheduled a public hearing Thursday on the new estimates, which resulted from challenges raised to the original Defense projections by a panel headed by Jerome Wiesner, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Schlesinger told the subcommittee last year that by establishing a new nuclear targeting doctrine with the option of attacking Soviet military installations, the United States could have the capacity to meet "limited nuclear aggression" without engaging in all-out nuclear war. If deterrence failed and war came under these circumstances, he said, American fatalities could be "less than one per cent of the fatalities associated with a massive attack against the United States which included direct attacks on our cities."

Critics contend that limited nuclear war is not a credible strategy because nuclear conflict would immediately escalate, and they charged that Schlesinger was underestimating the casualties in any event.

In a letter to Symington dated Monday Wiesner said that the flaws in the original calculations are revealed in new data submitted to the subcommittee.

"For example," said Wiesner, "the calculation originally presented to the committee showed that about 800,000 people would die as a result of a Soviet attack that was limited to our ICBM forces. The new results show that fatalities from such an attack could be in the range of 3 1/2 to 22 million."

"The previous calculations," Wiesner said, "indicated that the attack on the Minute Man ICBMs deployed near Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri would kill between 1,000 and 26,000 people living in St. Louis. The revised estimates show that 2 to 10 million people might die as a result of this attack."

"These figures, Wiesner emphasized, do not include casualties which could result from fires, long-term radiation exposure, the interactive effects of the loss of communications, hospital facilities, etc."

The new estimates were submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee July 11 by E. C. Aldridge Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense.

Projecting various types of possible Soviet attacks on different mixes of targets in the United States, the defense study showed:

A full-scale Soviet attack on all 1,054 land-based intercontinental-range missile silos in the United States could kill from 3 million to 21.7 million people, depending on the size of the warheads on Soviet attack missiles and whether they exploded in the air or on the ground.

Another computation, with different size Soviet attack weapons, estimated that an assault on all American land and sea-based missile installations and strategic air bases could produce from 3.2 million to 16.3 million fatalities. The middle range of this projection was 6.7 million fatalities, the figure cited by Schlesinger last year and the estimate which the Defense Department still maintains is "most representative" for "a comprehensive attack" on U.S. strategic installations.

Severe casualty effects on Canada as well were added to the new estimates of consequences from such a "comprehensive attack" on United States bases: "Prompt" fatalities of 1,400 from such an attack hitting U.S. bases close to the Canadian border, and fallout fatalities totaling 788,700.

Schlesinger said in defense of the limited nuclear warfare concept last year that the United States must have options other than launching nuclear strikes at urban centers in the Soviet Union. That kind of warfare, he said, would produce fatalities of "95 or 100 million people,

Jury Selection Continues In Trial Of Hunt Brothers

LUBBOCK (AP) — Government and defense lawyers resumed meticulous examination of prospective jurors today in the federal wiretap trial of Dallas millionaires Nelson Bunker Hunt and W. Herbert Hunt.

Lawyers Tuesday qualified six of the required 32-member panel from which a jury of 12 will be selected to hear the case.

U.S. District Court Judge Halbert O. Woodward indicated the jury would not be seated and testimony begun until sometime Friday.

The defendants, sons of the late Dallas oil baron H. L. Hunt, are accused of hiring private detectives to illegally tap the telephones of several of their father's senior employees late in 1969 and early 1970.

Convicted on all six counts of the indictment would carry maximum punishment of 30 years in prison and $60,000 fine for each of the Dallas businessmen.

As the questioning of prospective jurors unfolded, it became clear the defense will attempt to show that the charges stem from legitimate efforts to uncover a multimillion dollar embezzlement scheme within the Hunt business empire.

Likewise, government attorneys indicated they will attempt to establish that that despite the reasons such a crime is committed, it is nonetheless a crime under the law.

The prosecution also indicated it tends to introduce tape recordings of alleged conversations between three convicted wiretappers and the two Hunt brothers.

Since the Hunts were unaware the conversations were being recorded, chief prosecutor Frank McCown asked potential jurors, "Would you reject that evidence because of the circumstances under which it was taken?"

None said he would, although some confusion by one prospective juror prompted a government attorney to ask that the person be dismissed for cause.

Judge Woodward overruled the challenge.

The Hunt brothers, Bunker, 49, and Herbert, 46, sat behind their battery of four lawyers Tuesday, scribbling notes and frequently conferring with attorney Philip Hirschkop, a flamboyant, moustachioed New Yorker normally identified with liberal clients and causes.

Weather Radar To Be Improved

The Hunt family, particularly patriarch H. L. Hunt, has been considered ultraconservative.

The wives of the two defendants were in the courtroom all day Tuesday as was a third brother, Dallas sports entrepreneur Lamar Hunt.

U.S. Rep. George Mahon has announced that an improved weather radar display will be built at the Midland Flight Service Station at an approximate cost of $70,000 to be paid by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The installation, which is the first of its kind in an operating facility, will supply improved weather information for use by pilots from federal aviation weather briefing specialists.

The installation is scheduled to be completed by the end of this year.

The radar information will be removed from the federal aviation long-range radar at Andrews and used by Midland flight service specialists for pilot briefing in the West Texas and Eastern New Mexico area.

The Question Of Air Conditioning (Luxury or Necessity)

The Midland School District now owes 11.5* million dollars. Air Conditioning will increase this amount to over 18* million dollars!

Do you really believe that we can air condition our schools with only a 15% increase in electrical power bills? These operating expenses are NOT INCLUDED in the proposed tax increase for air conditioning of the schools.

Do you really believe these units will last 42 YEARS as projected?

Do not be misled. Other surrounding schools do not have REFRIGERATED AIR CONDITIONING as some say they do. Spend a dollar, call and find out for yourself.

There is no shortage of qualified teachers. Midland Schools had 16 applicants for every opening this year.

Our community NOW owes $26 million* from recent bond issues. We are faced with another $6 million bond issue for street improvements. With these debts we now owe, can we afford the luxury of air conditioned schools? Air conditioning would be nice but can we afford this luxury?

Remember we just had a 10% increase in water rates, a 17.4% increase in school budget and power rate increases are imminent.

We asked the Parents for Air Conditioning and the school board to have a public discussion on the facts of this issue and they refused. Wonder why?

Genealogical Trail Can Make Great Off-Beat Vacation

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The genealogical trail can make a great off-beat vacation right now for those whose pride at any time of the year. But it in their heritage has been lighted by the Bicentennial.

It may be a thrill to find that your family tree was really covered with Spanish moss on an old plantation. Or that your great-grandmother was born in a real sod house in Kansas. Or even to discover that the old sword found in the family barn was an ancestral relic from Gettysburg. It can all come to light with diligence on the part of the researcher.

Relatives unearthed may not all be little gems — one woman took her quest across the ocean and now avoids the relatives she found there "because they always ask for something, like a motorcycle."

On the other hand, one man discovered why he loves the sea — his forbears were sea captains, and he gets a lot of invitations now to visit some newly found salty relatives. Still another man found Lady Godiva suspended from his family tree.

Many sources can help you round out the tiny threads of family information you may possess. The research staff of the American Genealogical Institute provides a lot of good information in its publication, "How To Trace Your Family Tree," which includes a bibliographical list that is an index to genealogical records located in the National Archives as well as many public records.

Tracking the official records can be the most fun, especially when you must go back to towns where there are family roots. One man said that everyone in one small town was his "spittin' image."

It is not quite so exciting to get the information by mail but it can be done. The institute advises keeping the letter short and concise, with an offer to pay the cost for research.

You should begin any search with your own logical sequence. After exhausting your own supply of family data, go to the person in the family who might have the "most" information about a particular line — your maternal grandmother, for example. Many families recorded facts in Bibles. Visiting the person provides you with the opportunity of looking at the Bible and making your own notes. Then, too, you may be invited to look through an old trunk or diaries, letters, post cards for clues.

The institute staff suggests a number of sources that might be tapped for information:

... Probate records can be a great aid. A will can provide indisputable clues to the relationship of individuals and a great deal of filial information.

... State records are a veritable "treasure trove of information." The book provides a list of state offices, archives and record places.

Records of the federal government were not intended for genealogical use "but they serve as an extensive reservoir of information from which many researchers have located valuable family material..."

Unfortunately the census before 1805 did not distinguish between family members and individuals in households and can be misleading because the numbers listed for a family could include a cook, friend, boarder.

... Pension records provide good clues but the researcher must really know the state from which the person came. After 1826 all surviving soldiers who took part in the Revolutionary War were granted pensions. And a widow of a Revolutionary soldier could claim a pension after 1836. Documents listing men who fought in the Indian and Mexican wars are more complete. Ditto Civil War records. Information about World War I records must be obtained by writing to the Office of the Adjutant General in the state in which the man served.

... Bounty land warrants granted to veterans or their heirs for military service between 1776 and 1855 are another way to trace one's ancestors.

... Passenger arrival lists go back to 1798 but there were so many — in one year before the Civil War more than 300,000 arrivals — that the name of the vessel and its exact or approximate arrival date would probably be needed to succeed in getting information. The genealogical pursuit may not be a simple challenge but it could well prove to be a pleasurable lifetime hobby.

Jets, Redskins Join New England In NFL Strike

Fans Unhappy, Confused With Strikes, Lockouts

By The Associated Press

The National Football League, five days away from opening its 1975 season, is in a state of chaos.

The players are angry and disgruntled.

The owners are indignant, more or less unified, and feel they have a sacred trust to uphold the integrity of the game.

And the fans—remember them?—are confused, unhappy and tired of having their sports pages taken up with endless tales of strikes, lockouts and collective bargaining when they should be reading about flashy rookies and shrewd game plans.

Light The Spark

The New England Patriots lit the spark in this latest dispute when they went on strike and skipped last Sunday's exhibition game with the New York Jets in an attempt to force a new contract. New England officials responded by locking the players out of training camp. The fire spread Tuesday with the Jets and the Washington Redskins joining the Patriots on strike, and sources close to the New York Giants and Detroit Lions said those clubs may join the strike today.

Unity, however, is not the players' strong point. Houston, Cincinnati, Minnesota and Miami, among others, have come out firmly against the strike.

Determined To Play

"We'll play this week whether it's against the Shreveport Steamer, New Orleans or New England," said Oilers' player representative Skip Butler. "We voted 43-0 not to strike at this time. The Oilers will continue to practice and will play football Sunday."

"We're just going to sit here and see what happens when the smoke clears," said the Bengals' Bob Johnson. "The mainstream of the league isn't even behind it."

The latest bid by the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, was a six-point proposal that in essence called for the Patriots to return to camp and management to present a new contract offer by Sept. 25.

New England rejected the proposal and the strike spread to New York and Washington.

"We saw a lot of teams giving New England lip service and we decided to do nothing wishy-washy," said Jets' player rep Richard Neal. "We need something to show us they're serious about doing something to obtain a fair and just bargaining agreement."

The two sides couldn't even agree on the origin of the six-point offer. Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union, claimed federal mediator W. J. Usery had originally proposed eight points, two of which would have increased rosters from 43 to 46 players until Oct. 1 and temporarily reinstated the old 1970 contract. Both points were turned down by the Management Council.

Sargent Karch, executive director of the Council, said Usery never recommended the eight points and that Garvey had a hand in preparing them. "We're very upset by reading press reports and hearing from player representatives that Ed Garvey had termed these eight points a mediator's proposal made to both parties," said Karch. "That is absolutely not the case and Ed knows it."

Karch also said Garvey made excessive demands in connection with restoring the 1970 contract, insisting that clubs deduct one year's union dues from player paychecks and contribute $4.4 million to the pension fund.

At any rate, Miami was the only club that openly accepted the offer.

The Management Council met Tuesday night to talk things over and spokesman Terry Bledsoe said afterwards, "I would have to say the regular season is in jeopardy. We have three clubs which have voted not to strike and three clubs which voted to strike—and the rest are floating someplace in between."

An Associated Press survey found that five teams are on strike or on the verge of striking, seven teams are dead against a strike and the other 14 haven't decided what to do yet.

Should the strike spread into the regular season, the players will be hurt financially more than the owners, at least for the first few games. The average NFL player made $42,000 last season, 85 per cent of it spread out over the 14 weeks of the regular season.

The average player would lose about $2,550 for each game he misses. Someone in the upper bracket, like the Jets' Joe Namath, stands to drop about $30,000 a game.

The owners have long claimed that they are lucky to break even over the regular season and depend on the income from exhibition games to get into the black. Now that the preseason is over it would not be surprising if some owners, many of whom are independently wealthy, prove less than panic-stricken at the prospect of missing a game or two. Certainly they are unlikely to sacrifice what they consider the very structure of the game in order to insure a prompt kickoff.

Ryder Cup Golf Team Very Strong

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Eamonn Darcy, a member of the underdog British-Irish team that will test America's best in the biennial Ryder Cup golf matches this weekend, was poring over a magazine article concerning the unmatched exploits of Jack Nicklaus.

"Don't read that," cautioned Britain's Tommy Horton. "It'll just make you sick."

Darcy, a Ryder Cup rookie from Ireland, failed to heed the warning, however, and continued to read the record of the game's most feared competitor.

Then he closed the magazine with an impatient, disgusted gesture.

"I think I'll just go home," he said.

Nicklaus, the greatest player of his age, heads a 12-man American squad that may be the best in history. The British, on the other hand, have one of their weakest teams to send into the three-day matches that begin Friday on the Laurel Valley Golf Club, the home course for America's non-playing captain Arnold Palmer.

The location—in the United States—is enough to make the Americans heavy favorites. The British have never won on American soil, have won only three times in all and only once in the decades since World War II.

"For depth, for overall strength, this may be the strongest team I've ever seen," said Palmer, whose Ryder Cup associations go back to 1961.

In addition to Nicklaus, the American squad is composed of Tom Weiskopf, Billy Casper, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin, J. C. Snead, Bob Murphy, Gene Littler, Al Geiberger, Ray Floyd and Lou Graham.

"Everybody will get a chance to play," Palmer said.

Murphy, Irwin and Miller are Ryder Cup rookies. All the others have played at least once before. The 44-year-old Casper, a playoff loser to Nicklaus last weekend in the World Open, will set an American record with his first match. He has played on every team since 1961 and will be making his eighth appearance as an American representative.

SETS RECORD — Rennie Stennett of Pittsburgh had seven hits in seven trips to the plate Tuesday in game with Chicago Cubs to set modern day record. The Pirates won, 22-0. See story, 3-B. (AP Wirephoto.)

Rice Defensive Back Named Player Of Week

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice defensive back Larry Brune was a bit out of position and then bobbled the football momentarily but to the Owls his 86-yard interception return for a touchdown against Houston last week was picture perfect.

Brune's touchdown run came in the second quarter of the game between the crosstown rivals and ballooned Rice's lead to 21-0. Brune's TD run, along with his play during the rest of the game earned him The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week honor.

"Actually, I was a little out of position. I came up a little too quick," said Brune, who also threw a key block in the first quarter when Gary Cox ran 70 yards with a punt for Rice's first touchdown.

"I guess it was just instinct. Rodney (Norton) tipped the ball and I was just in the right place. I ran about five yards and then started bobbling the ball when I looked back to see if anybody was close to me."

No one was close and after Brune got control of the slippery football, he ran untouched into Houston's end zone.

"I missed an interception similar to that against Texas last year and I was thinking about that," said Brune.

Bob Dillon

Another Good Week

This corner doesn't get to brag too often so when the opportunity arrives, it's kind of fun to do so. Last week the upset special was Killeen over Coach Smitty Hill's San Angelo Bobcats and the Kangaroos came through with a big 27-18 win.

So, last week it was 23 correct and seven wrong, for a .767 percentage and on the year it stands 49 correct and 11 incorrect for a respectable .817 per cent.

Here comes weekend No. 3 and there are some dandy games to choose from:

Cooper Over Killeen

Another big upset special. This time, I have to go with the Abilene Cooper Cougars to down Killeen, 21-14, in Abilene. The Cougs finally have an offense to go with the defense this year and they are stout!

MIDLAND LEE lacks the offensive punch it needs, but this corner has a feeling that the Rebels will come out with fire in their eyes and take care of the big and burly Plainview Bulldogs, 20-7.

MIDLAND'S BULLDOGS have their work cut out for themselves this weekend in Lubbock when they battle the Monterey Plainsmen, 19-6 winners over Wichita Falls Rider last week. The Plainsmen may have a big letdown and the Pack has some things to prove. Hate to, but have to go with Monterey to win, 20-13.

ODESSA PERMIAN takes on Fort Worth Wyatt in Odessa Friday minus two starting tackles and its No. 1 quarterback, but the defense is still strong and the Panthers should win, 23-0.

SAN ANGELO takes on a good Dallas Carter team in San Angelo Friday and the Bobcats will be smarting from that loss to Killeen. The Concho Cats to win, 28-13.

ODESSA HIGH waits until Saturday night to take on the Hobbs, N.M., Eagles. Got to go with Darrell Shepard and Co. to defeat the New Mexicans 22-8 in W. T. Barrett Stadium.

ABILENE HIGH, like Permian, has yet to be scored upon after two games. The speedy Warbirds battle Temple and will be scored on twice, but will pull out a 20-14 victory.

BIG SPRING'S STEERS entertain Snyder Friday and it rates as a toss-up, but going to go with Burris' eleven to win, 14-10, in a dandy.

In other games, Dumas will hand Amarillo Tascosa its third straight loss, 20-8; Lubbock High over Amarillo, 13-7; Amarillo Palo Duro to take care of Clovis, N.M., 28-14; Caprock to edge past Canyon, 14-13; Pampa over Perryton, 22-20; Hereford over Borger, 20-13; El Paso Coronado over El Paso Jefferson, 23-13; El Paso Austin, 14, El Paso High, 0; Eastwood 20, Ysleta 14; Las Cruces, N.M., over El Paso Bowie, 20-6; Artesia, N.M., to roll over Ysleta Parkland, 35-0; Carlsbad, N.M., to edge Ysleta Bel Air, 18-14; Wichita Falls to beat Mineral Wells Thursday, 20-0; and Rider to storm back to whip Wichita Falls Hirsch, 24-0.

Rebels Lose Starting Tailback

The Midland Lee Rebels lost the services of tailback Robert White this week due to knee surgery. While injured his knee late in the fourth period of the Lee-Snyder game last week and is out for the rest of the season.

Rebel Coach Jim Acree addressed the Lee Booster Club Tuesday night and stated that Russell Kellner has been moved from quarterback to the tailback slot. Clyde Gary, who was slated to be the No. 1 tailback this season, may get to see some action Friday in Memorial Stadium when the Rebels take on Plainview.

"We plan to use Kellner and Brian Crowell at tailback and start Brad Wright at quarterback," said Acree. Acree also said that when Crowell or Gary are in at tailback, Kellner may shift back to the signal-caller chores.

Acree was not pleased with his offense, but had praise for the defensive unit. "Our defense is way in front of the offense, but we still feel that the offense will come along."

Lee takes on a team that whipped Amarillo Tascosa, 37-0, last Thursday and scouting reports has the Bulldogs bigger than Snyder. "Plainview has two fine quarterbacks and some running backs with speed. The Bulldogs also have four top linemen, two on offense and two on defense and I know it will be a great ball game.

"Plainview won't be at themselves that's for sure. They are well coached." The Midland High Third In Odessa Tourney

Midland To Face Passing Attack In Lubbock Friday

Midland High's defense showed marked improvement against El Paso Eastwood, despite a 3-2 defeat last Friday, but the Troopers are primarily a running team and Lubbock Monterey is a passing team.

So this Friday when the Purple Pack invades Lubbock for the annual final pre-district shakedown, Midland's pass defense will be under the gun for the first time this season.

According to scout Roy Blair, who has watched the Plainsmen in a 21-0 win over Canyon and a 19-6 success against Wichita Falls Rider, Monterey has an exceptionally good throwing quarterback in Scott Gardner, a rangy 6-5 who seems to have the downfield visibility of a seven-footer.

Gardner is blessed with two exceptional receivers in Richard Bowles and Mark Rodney.

"Defensively, Monterey likes to penetrate and force the mistake," says Blair. Apparently, they accomplished their mission against Rider, a veteran-loaded bi-district champion. Monterey forced five fumbles and so dominated the game it ran only eight offensive plays at its own end of the field.

"A typical Monterey team," agrees Coach John Reddell. "The only difference is that they have a fantastic quarterback who throws a football like a golf ball."

Reddell described Eastwood as the best Trooper team Midland has seen in his four seasons here, he noted. "We still could have won easily, but we were not sharp enough to

The Garibay family - Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garibay with Walter, 13, Carol, 12, and Sandra, 11, of 1102 E. Oak St.

"There are many reasons for air conditioning all our Midland schools, but one which is often overlooked is the fact that air conditioning provides a more healthful environment for students.

More children than we realize have allergy and respiratory conditions which are aggravated by wind, dust and pollen that blow through open classrooms.

And there are even children with health conditions aggravated by the heat, and in some cases these children can attend school only a half day during hot months.

Let's provide more effective learning and more healthful learning for our children.

Stennett Paces 22-0 Pittsburgh Victory Over Cubs

By The Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Pirates took some extra batting practice at Wrigley Field. Wasn't it nice of the Chicago Cubs to supply the pitchers?

With the aid of the Chicago staff, the Pirates raised their batting averages—and plenty of eyebrows—with 24 hits en route to a record-making 22-0 victory Tuesday.

Rennie Stennett was the most ferocious of the Pirate bombers—blasting out seven straight hits for a modern major league record. In addition, the Pirate second baseman tied a major league mark by getting two hits in two separate innings.

The Pirates as well set a record for the most lopsided shutout margin in modern baseball history.

"Unreal, just unreal," said Pittsburgh pitching coach Don Leppert, talking about Stennett's spectacular feat. "You know, I could throw batting practice forever and not have a guy get seven straight base hits. Imagine doing it in a game." Stennett called his extraordinary performance "lucky" and thought that his record hit—a triple in the eighth—might have been an out.

"I thought that last one might be caught," said the second baseman who raised his batting average 11 points to .287. "I hit it real good, but I was afraid it was starting to float. You have to be a good hitter to get seven hits in a game, but you have to be lucky, too."

The victory kept the Pirates six games in front of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East. The Phillies kept pace with the Pirates by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 13 innings. The Pirates and Phillies open a big, two-game series in Philadelphia tonight.

Stennett led the hit-happy Pirates with a triple, two doubles and four singles before he was lifted for a pinch runner in the eighth. You have to go all the way back to 1892 to find a player who got seven hits in a game—Wilbert Robinson of the old Baltimore Orioles.

Every Pirate in the starting lineup had at least one hit and scored at least one run. Their 22-run total was the highest in the majors this season and the most in the National League since Sept. 2, 1957, when the Milwaukee Braves routed the Cubs 23-10.

Dave Parker hit his 24th home run and Richie Hebner smashed his 15th in the Pirate onslaught which included sending 14 men to the plate in a nine-run first inning and 11 men to the plate in a six-run fifth inning.

Phillies 4, Cardinals 3
Mike Anderson's 13th-inning sacrifice fly sent home pinch-runner Alan Bannister with the winning run as Philadelphia beat St. Louis. Greg Luzinski drew a leadoff walk from Mike

Garman, 3-7, and went to second on Dick Allen's single, chasing Garman for Harry Parker, who walked Mike Schmidt before Anderson lifted his long flyball to center.

Reggie Smith's slow roller brought home Lou Brock and tied the game at 3-3 in the sixth. Brock had doubled and taken third on a groundout.

Astros 5, Reds 1
Larry Dierker pitched a five-hitter and Milt May knocked in three runs, leading Houston over Cincinnati. The Astros scored early off slump-ridden Jack Billingham, 15-9. Billingham has won only one of his last six starts during the tail-spin, with an earned run average of 7.12.

Mets 4, Expos 3
Del Unser's bases-loaded walk with two out in the 18th inning gave New York its victory over Montreal in the longest game of the major league baseball season. Unser walked on four straight pitches from Don DeMola, 4-6, to end the marathon four-hour, 29-minute affair. The previous longest game this year was a 17-inning meeting between the Texas Rangers and Cleveland Indians on June 8.

Mike Vail of the Mets had his hitting streak stopped at 23 games. New York's young sensation, who had tied the National League record for rookies with the hot streak, was held without a hit in seven official appearances.

Dodgers 5, Padres 2
Jimmy Wynn slugged his 18th home run and Dave Lopes stole two bases as Los Angeles defeated San Diego behind the five-hit pitching of Rick Rhoden and Charlie Hough. Rhoden, 3-2, struck out five and walked one in helping the Dodgers to their eighth victory in their last nine starts and their fourth straight. Hough bailed him out of a jam in the seventh inning for his fourth save.

Giants 7, Braves 6
Willie Montanez' run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave San Francisco its victory over Atlanta. Montanez' game-winning hit followed inning-opening singles by Bobby Murcer and Gary Matthews off Tom House, 7-7. The Giants had tied the game an inning earlier on Gary Thomasson's sacrifice fly.

Gilliam Anxious To Play For Minnesota

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—"Right now all I want to do is to get in uniform and get on the practice field," said wide receiver John Gilliam before going into contract negotiations with the Minnesota Vikings Tuesday night.

The National Football League modified its eligibility rule concerning players who played or practiced with teams in other professional leagues Tuesday. Gilliam had played out his option with the Vikings last season and signed with the Chicago Winds of the World Football League, but that team folded two weeks ago and Gilliam sought to return to the Vikings.

"We hope Gilliam will be in uniform tomorrow afternoon (Wednesday) and playing in our game against San Francisco Sunday," said Vikings General Manager Mike Lynn by telephone from his suburban Minneapolis home where the contract negotiations were started Tuesday night.

Even before the NFL announced its decision about Gilliam's eligibility he was spotted chatting with his former teammates at their practice field in St. Paul, Minn. Gilliam lives in Atlanta, Ga.

With Gilliam was attorney Tom Reich of Pittsburgh, who negotiated the $580,000 contract for Gilliam with the WFL last year.

Buckeyes Favored

By WILL GRIMSLEY
 NEW YORK (AP) — For years, the so-called experts have been saying Ohio State plays a patsy schedule. For years, the so-called experts have been saying Penn State plays a patsy schedule. So what happens when the twin shall meet? The answer is due Saturday when third-ranked Ohio State entertains seventh-ranked Penn State at Columbus in what promises to be one of the top college football games of the season.

This is the first meeting between Woody Hayes and Joe Paterno, two of the nation's winningest coaches, although Hayes went up against Penn State three times when Rip Engle was at the helm of the Nittany Lions and Paterno was an assistant coach.

The results may surprise you. Penn State won 7-6 in 1955, 10-7 in 1963 and 27-0 in 1964. And way back in 1912, Penn State beat Ohio State 37-0. Time for a change... Ohio State 24-17.

But take heart, Joe Paterno. Last week's predictions suffered a horrible fate... 33 right, 21 wrong, one tie for a percentage of only .611. For the season, 50-26-2—658.

Pitt at Oklahoma: Barry Switzer and Johnny Majors were on the staff at Arkansas in the 1960s and opposed each other in the 1974 Coaches' All-American Game. Switzer wins that one... Oklahoma 41-14.

Tennessee at UCLA: The pollsters say this is an even match with Tennessee ranked 10th and UCLA 12th. One hesitant vote for jet lag... UCLA 28-24.

Notre Dame at Purdue: Dan Devine isn't happy about playing two road games in five days. Alex Agase isn't happy about losing to Northwestern and then facing Notre Dame and Southern Cal back-to-back. One of them will be happy Saturday... Notre Dame 17-7.

Missouri at Illinois: Mizzou pulled the season's first big upset, whipping Alabama 20-7. Turnabout is fair play. Upset Special of the Week... Illinois 20-13.

Texas A&M at Louisiana State: Has anyone seen the Aggies' offense? Second Upset Special... LSU 13-10.

Stanford at Michigan: Cardinals gave the Wolverines a tough game last year in California. This one's in... Michigan 28-7.

Texas at Washington: Quickie Quiz—Who was Washington's coach in 1956? Darrell Royal, that's who. Welcome back, Darrell... Texas 40-14.

Oregon State at Southern California: If the Beavers couldn't score against San Diego State, how they score on the Trojans? Southern Cal 34-0.

Indiana at Nebraska: Indiana may be better than people think, Nebraska not as good, both of which are lucky for the Hoosiers. Nebraska 31-14.

Stennett Paces 22-0 Pittsburgh Victory Over Cubs

By The Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Pirates took some extra batting practice at Wrigley Field. Wasn't it nice of the Chicago Cubs to supply the pitchers?

With the aid of the Chicago staff, the Pirates raised their batting averages—and plenty of eyebrows—with 24 hits en route to a record-making 22-0 victory Tuesday.

Rennie Stennett was the most ferocious of the Pirate bombers—blasting out seven straight hits for a modern major league record. In addition, the Pirate second baseman tied a major league mark by getting two hits in two separate innings.

The Pirates as well set a record for the most lopsided shutout margin in modern baseball history.

"Unreal, just unreal," said Pittsburgh pitching coach Don Leppert, talking about Stennett's spectacular feat. "You know, I could throw batting practice forever and not have a guy get seven straight base hits. Imagine doing it in a game."

Stennett called his extraordinary performance "lucky" and thought that his record hit—a triple in the eighth—might have been an out.

"I thought that last one might be caught," said the second baseman who raised his batting average 11 points to .287. "I hit it real good, but I was afraid it was starting to float. You have to be a good hitter to get seven hits in a game, but you have to be lucky, too."

The victory kept the Pirates six games in front of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East. The Phillies kept pace with the Pirates by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 13 innings. The Pirates and Phillies open a big, two-game series in Philadelphia tonight.

Stennett led the hit-happy Pirates with a triple, two doubles and four singles before he was lifted for a pinch runner in the eighth. You have to go all the way back to 1892 to find a player who got seven hits in a game—Wilbert Robinson of the old Baltimore Orioles.

Every Pirate in the starting lineup had at least one hit and scored at least one run. Their 22-run total was the highest in the majors this season and the most in the National League since Sept. 2, 1957, when the Milwaukee Braves routed the Cubs 23-10.

Dave Parker hit his 24th home run and Richie Hebner smashed his 15th in the Pirate onslaught which included sending 14 men to the plate in a nine-run first inning and 11 men to the plate in a six-run fifth inning.

Phillies 4, Cardinals 3
Mike Anderson's 13th-inning sacrifice fly sent home pinch-runner Alan Bannister with the winning run as Philadelphia beat St. Louis. Greg Luzinski drew a leadoff walk from Mike

Garman, 3-7, and went to second on Dick Allen's single, chasing Garman for Harry Parker, who walked Mike Schmidt before Anderson lifted his long flyball to center.

Reggie Smith's slow roller brought home Lou Brock and tied the game at 3-3 in the sixth. Brock had doubled and taken third on a groundout.

Mets 4, Expos 3
Del Unser's bases-loaded walk with two out in the 18th inning gave New York its victory over Montreal in the longest game of the major league baseball season. Unser walked on four straight pitches from Don DeMola, 4-6, to end the marathon four-hour, 29-minute affair. The previous longest game this year was a 17-inning meeting between the Texas Rangers and Cleveland Indians on June 8.

Mike Vail of the Mets had his hitting streak stopped at 23 games. New York's young sensation, who had tied the National League record for rookies straight. Hough bailed him out with the hot streak, was held without a hit in seven official appearances.

Dodgers 5, Padres 2
Jimmy Wynn slugged his 18th home run and Dave Lopes stole two bases as Los Angeles defeated San Diego behind the five-hit pitching of Rick Rhoden and Charlie Hough. Rhoden, 3-2, struck out five and walked one in helping the Dodgers to their eighth victory in their last nine starts and their fourth straight. Hough bailed him out with the hot streak, was held without a hit in seven official appearances.

Giants 7, Braves 6
Willie Montanez' run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave San Francisco its victory over Atlanta. Montanez' game-winning hit followed inning-opening singles by Bobby Murcer and Gary Matthews off Tom House, 7-7. The Giants had tied the game an inning earlier on Gary Thomasson's sacrifice fly.

Gilliam Anxious To Play For Minnesota

an assistant coach. The results may surprise you. Penn State won 7-6 in 1955, 10-7 in 1963 and 27-0 in 1964. And way back in 1912, Penn State beat Ohio State 37-0. Time for change... Ohio State 24-17. But take heart, Joe Paterno. Last week's predictions suffered a horrible fate... 35 right, 21 wrong, one tie for a percentage of only .611. For the season, 50-26-2—658.

Pitt at Oklahoma: Barry Switzer and Johnny Majors were on the staff at Arkansas in the 1960s and opposed each other in the 1974 Coaches' All-American Game. Switzer won that one... Oklahoma 41-14.

Tennessee at UCLA: The pollsters say this is an even match with Tennessee ranked

Buckeyes Will Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — For years, the so-called experts have been saying Ohio State plays a patsy schedule. For years, the so-called experts have been saying Penn State plays a patsy schedule. So what happens when the twin shall meet? The answer is due Saturday when third-ranked Ohio State entertains seventh-ranked Penn State at Columbus in what promises to be one of the top college football games of the season.

This is the first meeting between Woody Hayes and Joe Paterno, two of the nation's winningest coaches, although Hayes went up against Penn State three times when Rip Engle was at the helm of the Nitany Lions and Paterno was an assistant coach.

The results may surprise you. Penn State won 7-6 in 1955, 10-7 in 1963 and 27-0 in 1964. And way back in 1912, Penn State beat Ohio State 37-0. Time for a change. . . Ohio State 24-17.

But take heart, Joe Paterno. Last week's predictions suffered a horrible fate . . . 33 right, 21 wrong, one tie for a percentage of only .611. For the season, 50-26-2—658.

Pitt at Oklahoma: Barry Switzer and Johnny Majors were on the staff at Arkansas in the 1960s and opposed each other in the 1974 Coaches' All-American Game. Switzer wins that one . . . Oklahoma 41-14.

Tennessee at UCLA: The pollsters say this is an even match with Tennessee ranked 10th and UCLA 12th. One hesitant vote for jet lag . . . UCLA 28-24.

Notre Dame at Purdue: Dan Devine isn't happy about playing two road games in five days. Alex Agase isn't happy about losing to Northwestern and then facing Notre Dame and Southern Cal back-to-back. One of them will be happy Saturday . . . Notre Dame 17-7.

Missouri at Illinois: Mizson pulled the season's first big upset, whipping Alabama 20-7. Turnabout is fair play. Upset Special of the Week . . . Illinois 20-13.

Texas A&M at Louisiana State: Has anyone seen the Aggie's offense? Second Upset Special . . . LSU 13-10.

Stanford at Michigan: Cardinals gave the Wolverines a tough game last year in California. This one's in . . . Michigan 28-7.

Texas at Washington: Quickie Quiz—Who was Washington's coach in 1956? Darrell Royal, that's who. Welcome back, Darrell . . . Texas 40-14.

Oregon State at Southern California: If the Beavers couldn't score against San Diego State, how they score on the Trojans? Southern Cal 34-0.

Indiana at Nebraska: Indiana may be better than people think, Nebraska not as good, both of which are lucky for the Hoosiers. Nebraska 31-14.

Permian's Hunt Starts For OU

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Norman Hunt will be Saturday when the Eighteen-year-old Daryl Hunt came to the top of his class in his first test as an Oklahoma Sooners, but the final exam is yet to come.

Hunt has something to prove: that a freshman can fill the bill on a team ranked No. 1 in the country.

When Oklahoma launched its season last Saturday against Oregon, two freshmen were in a lineup—Hunt and tight end Victor Hicks.

Hunt, a product of Odessa, Tex., Permian High School, responded by leading all Sooners tacklers with nine stops, four unassisted.

Linebacker has been a big question mark for the Sooners with the graduation of three-year starter and two-time All American Rod Shoate, plus his running mate a year ago, Gary Gibbs.

Oklahoma coaches were feeling a bit better after the 62-7 rout of Oregon, mainly because of Hunt's performance. "I think Daryl Hunt played well," said coach Barry Switzer. "He's going to help us in the future."

Hunt has the physical tools at 6-foot-4, 200.

Smith, Barton Win First Round

Ova Smith and Pat Barton took opening round wins in the Hogan Park Women's Golf Association Match Play Tournament Tuesday.

Mrs. Smith downed Marge Davis, 5-3, while Mrs. Barton took a narrow 1-up victory over Florence Mailey. The championship flight is a double elimination competition.

Other results are as follows:

Championship Flight: Ova Smith def. Marge Davis, 5-3; Pat Barton def. Florence Mailey, 1-up.

First Flight: Jane Wagner def. Lois Sherrod, 4-3; Marilyn Philby def. Merla Ketter, 6-4; Shirley Edwards def. Linda Ballard, 4-2; Golda Morgan def. Jean Nelson, 3-2.

Second Flight: Virginia Butterfield def. Thelma Johnson, 2-up; Dorothy Meizer def. Neil Kimball, 2-1; Joyce Parker def. Bernice Cox, 5-4; Dottie Turk def. Laura Richards, 6-5.

Nine-Hole Flight: Championship Flight: Ida McGuire def. Bernice Webb, 2-up; Frances Stahl def. Margaret Moore, 3-2; Marilyn Berry def. Betty Williams in sudden death on 10th hole; Keenan Ashland def. Lou Peters, 2-up. First Flight: Evelyn Ballard def. Annel Mack, 3-2; Chala Mee def. Mary Davis, 1-up.

Landry Takes Young Team Against Rams In League Opener

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry takes the highest number of green troops into National Football League warfare since the club's expansion years Sunday and he admits it will be an uphill battle.

"We kept 13 rookies and that's the most I can remember us keeping," said the only coach the team has had in its 16 years of existence. "We play two division champions (Los Angeles and St. Louis) to start with and that makes it an uphill fight."

Landry candidly assessed Dallas' position as below that of St. Louis and Washington in the NFL Eastern Division.

"We're down there with Philadelphia and the New York Giants," said Landry. "St. Louis is solid and Washington has a strong passing game. They should be the favorites."

Landry admitted the strike threats could be a disturbing factor for his young team.

"It certainly could be distracting," he said. "We're all concerned because certainly the future of pro football is at stake. But there are some good people working on the problem."

Asked if he had become disillusioned with the modern pro football problems of strikes, Landry said "I found last year very unenjoyable. I don't know if the game can stand back-to-back strikes.

"But I've really enjoyed this summer. It has been one of the highlights of my coaching career. We didn't have a good preseason record (2-4) but we have a team with tremendous attitude."

Landry was asked how he could be so optimistic about a team that had lost so many players off its Super Bowl clubs of the early 70s.

"Well, that's one thing about losing, you get a lot of people who become experts on the situation," Landry laughed. "We have a pretty experienced first team. But when you lose, you sure make those so-called experts look good."

"A Grassroots Movement"

The Riggs Family - Mr. and Mrs. George Riggs with Calvin, 12, Cassandra, 3, Carolyn, 12, Susie Brown and Leola Woods of 2101 Butternut St.

"This campaign to air condition all Midland schools is no Madison Avenue job.

We are just some Midland parents who feel that our children and teachers deserve the same quiet, comfortable environment most of us enjoy in our homes and offices.

We are not professional campaigners nor do we have much money. We are just a group of your neighbors who feel strongly that our children can get a better education for a relatively few dollars a year from us.

This movement started with just a few people and grew to more than 2,800 names on a petition to the school board asking for this election.

Refugee Family Waits In Thai Camp For Future To Happen

By DENIS D. GRAY

KLONG YAI, Thailand (AP) — Once before the war, Keut Sambo dreamed of being a schoolteacher, of owning a small house for his family and earning enough to buy clothes and playthings for his children. The house was to be built in the quiet Cambodian countryside near where he was born and where generations of his ancestors are buried.

The war came. Its cross-fires leveled his native village. His brother became his nominal enemy and was killed. His parents and friends vanished. Sambo, now a refugee nobody wants to accept, points to the few souvenirs left him after 27 years of life: 17 pieces of shrapnel embedded beneath his skin, forming small black lumps across his body.

Just over a mountain chain that plunges into the sea is Cambodia.

But Sambo says that he, his wife and two small children will probably never return. He has applied for entry to the United States and France, and says an American official told him he should get ready to go to the United States because as a former military man he was a "high risk case" and probably would be killed if he went back.

He has heard nothing since to encourage him about his family's future, from the Americans or the French.

And as the American refugee pipeline grows more and more constricted, Sambo's chances of going to the United States lessen. Thailand has made it clear it does not want Indochinese refugees to remain permanently.

"It is true that we lost the war. But even so, we still have confidence that America will help us," he says.

His 23-year-old wife, Pich Naroun, sitting in the dark, steamy but that is now their home, interjects, "Who knows if anybody will help us?"

Outside, the monsoon rains pound the soggy earth of Klong Yai camp, one of several in Thailand that hold some 7,000 Cambodian exiles among perhaps 40,000 from all of Indochina.

Sambo, a soft-spoken, somewhat shy man, sold the only two valuable items they brought out of Cambodia as they fled the Khmer Rouge advance in the closing days of the war — his own wristwatch and his wife's necklace. With the $27.50 they received they were able to add to their meager daily diet of rice and salted fish. But the money quickly dried up and now the family lives on the erratic charity of the Thais and of an evangelist group which hands out canned meat and "Jesus loves you" sweatshirts.

Life was very, very different some years ago, Sambo says.

His parents and six brothers and sisters lived together in a wooden house perched on stilts in the village of Sam Yong, surrounded by a cool bamboo grove and within easy stroll of two ponds and a river teeming with fish.

The family was not rich, but the rice paddy around their home and some cattle, oxen, ducks and chickens provided more than enough for good meals and money to buy a few extras at the market.

An accident of geography brought the first agonies of war to Sam Yong. When he was in his late teens, Sambo says, American and South Vietnamese warplanes thundered across the sky to bomb North Vietnamese infiltration routes that criss-cross his native region. Two of his cousins died in the air raids and several homes of the air raids were destroyed as the planes searched out suspected camps and supply lines in the area near the South Vietnamese border known as the "Parrot's Beak."

North and South Vietnam, the United States and China increased their involvement in the country, the conflicts sharpened and the Vietnam war spilled over into Cambodia.

Sambo recalled sitting in a high school classroom in Phnom Penh on March 18, 1970. Students and teachers enthusiastically relayed news of a coup that had just toppled Prince Norodom Sihanouk and installed a general, Lon Nol, in the seat of power. A patriotic war, backed by the United States, was to be waged to throw the Vietnamese out of the country.

Sambo said he was swept up by patriotism in the first heady days after the coup, before the bloodshed started — and before Cambodians fought Cambodians in a savage civil war fueled by foreign weaponry, Sambo said he was ready then to fight in the war.

A day after the coup, he made his last trip to Sam Yong. He did not know it then, but it would also be the last time he saw his father, brothers and sisters because in the opening months of the war his village fell to the North Vietnamese and Khmer Rouge. The family was irrevocably split.

From his mother, who was allowed to visit him briefly for the last time, in 1971, and from friends, he heard that Sam Yong had been razed by the South Vietnamese who, with U.S. troops, had invaded Cambodia to root out the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the Parrot's Beak. It was the operation that President Nixon hoped would shorten the war and help save American lives in Vietnam.

Sambo heard that his 18-year-old brother who, along with many of the village youths, volunteered or had been forced to join the Khmer Rouge guerrillas, had been killed in a clash with government troops. The two of them had been close, spending many afternoons together by the ponds, Sambo said. His brother was about his same height, lean and athletic. He liked to play basketball and soccer and help their father in the fields. He probably would have become a farmer.

Sambo joined the Navy, serving on patrol boats escorting supply ships that ran the gamut of fire on the Mekong River between South Vietnam and Phnom Penh. He earned the equivalent of about $10 a month.

He was at the naval base of Ream in southwestern Cambodia when Phnom Penh fell on April 17, 1975. "When we heard on the radio that the city had surrendered we were ready to celebrate," he says. "We thought there would be peace and that the killing had finally stopped."

The navy commander radioed them from Phnom Penh telling them not to surrender and continue the fight. Other radio reports told of massive evacuations, of Khmer Rouge brutalities upon former government soldiers and officials. Sambo realized the suffering had not ended, that the Khmer Rouge victory would not mean a healing of wartime scars.

Sambo, his wife, two children and several relatives boarded a boat and sailed for Thailand. Others at Ream took their chances in the Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore.

The Lord of Rubelia Rubelia: Working Rube Goldberg Contraption

By EUGENE L. MEYER

The Washington Post
SAN GABRIEL VALLEY, Calif. — In the irrigated desert east of Los Angeles, where there used to be citrus groves and clean air, there are now suburban divisions, smog that obscures the nearby mountains, and Rubelia.

Rubelia is not a disease, at least not a physical one. It is a state of mind, a state of confusion, a state that has seemingly seceded from sanity.

Rubelia is an evolving castle compound that has the kind of windmill Don Quixote was always tilting at which is used to irrigate a small vegetable garden and to run an old washing machine. Another machine, a 14-ton single cylinder natural gas engine, operated a bird bath. A similar four-ton engine turns a barbecue.

Rubelia is a Rube Goldberg contraption that works. The Lord of Rubelia is a rather prosaic-looking man of 35 in khaki work clothes and a moustache who used to build play castles as a kid and is now building one for keeps. His real name is Richard Clarke Rubel, but to strangers he introduces himself as George the Handyman.

"On weekends, I have to pretend I'm George and say the boss doesn't want anyone in," he confides. "You can't imagine how bad it is. I hate to hurt people's feelings, but you could have 10,000 around."

The Lord of Rubelia agrees to an interview and a tour only after a visitor promises never to divulge his exact location. Even the name of the town is conserved. Ever since the Los Angeles Times and a network news show did features on him, "George" has protected Rubel with increasing frequency. A TV crew that tried to bring its electronic paraphernalia into the stonewall compound was stonewalled. "My ego's been saturated," the Lord of Rubelia explains. "I can't take any more tourists here."

For one thing, tourists take up time that is better devoted to the task at hand: building. Or, as the Lord of Rubelia puts it, "People take energy. I have to devote my energy to concrete."

The Lord of Rubelia is a great-great-grandson of Gen. Winfield Scott, who helped capture California for the United States in the Mexican War; and the son of Hal Raynor, an Episcopal minister who also wrote songs and gags for Joe Penner, the '30s radio comic who made "Wanna buy a duck?" a national nonsequitur.

Michael Rubel reflects the same kind of daffy duck whimsy in Rubelia. "SAFETY THIRD" is a key work rule stenciled throughout the 2.5-acre compound. "Shut up and dig" is another Rule of Rubelia.

Rubel, you see, is not alone in his madness, although he is clearly in charge of it. As many as 38 people at one time have contributed their sweat to the project, for what is a lord and his castle without subjects?

One is Jonathon, a potter who lives in a house of concrete with steel-reinforced walls of many-colored glass bottles, through which the sunlight shimmers like a rainbow. Jonathon's house and studio are inside Rubelia, but he is required to sell his wares elsewhere.

There are also shops for woodwork and machinery, and eventual plans for leather, lapidary and metal shops. There are four rent-paying tenants at Rubelia who do normal things like computer programming and drafting. They live in what could be called "outbuildings" except that they are within the protective walls of Rubelia.

They are not here now because it is a weekday and their work schedules are traditionally defined by society. Michael Rubel's is not.

For 10 months of the year, he drives a school bus. His route is the canyons, and his 23 passengers, picked up and dropped off at stops often four and five miles apart, are his "canyon kids." It is a job, he says, that he waited seven years for.

Now it is summer and there are no canyon runs to be made. So the Lord of Rubelia adheres to his own work schedule, which consists of building his castle from 6 a.m. to around 11 a.m. when the smog chokes the lungs and slows the body. Work picks up again at 6 p.m. after the smog has burned itself out.

It is fortunate that it is mid-day and quitting time, because without a tour guide you would need a map to navigate the tunnels, stairways, passages and paths of Rubelia.

You enter the compound through a 4,500-pound gate topped off with menacing-looking iron spears and medieval metal letters that spell "RUBELIA." Inside, a road of railroad ties leads under a water tower that holds a 2,000-gallon storage tank.

To the right is a garage containing a fleet of 18 old (antique) somehow does not fit cars, truck and tractors — all of which Rubel will be ready for a big Bicentennial parade on Jan. 10, 1976.

On the same side of the compound are the garden and assorted animals including peacocks, rabbits, chickens, through which Rubelia takes its other name, "Rubel Farms." There are also five mongrels and an apry that last year produced 24 gallons of honey.

There are tall palm trees, avocados and at least one fruitful orange tree.

The Lord of Rubelia is nowhere to be found in these parts. You backtrack under the water tower and, passing under another gate of wooden spikes that is open, walk through a tunnel into an open courtyard, which turns out to be the foundation and the first of four planned levels.

It is here that the Lord of Rubelia — "George" to you — labors with a shovel and a wheelbarrow.

It is here, too, that the guided tour begins with the bottle house. A second level will be the Lord's quarters. The third story will have muzzle-loaded cannons protruding from windows. A fourth will contain "very ahchaic" stone-throwers to ward off the pagan attackers. Already, there is an upended oil tank that will serve as a watchtower on the north side.

"It will be hard to come in and borrow a hammer," the Lord of Rubelia says.

For the time being, Rubel lives in a 140-foot-long converter citrus (lemon) packaging plant inside the compound. Adjacent to it and overlooking the windmill and water tower is the kitchen. It has a fireplace, a floor from a bowling alley, a 1904 ice box that has been electrified, several lanterns and wagon wheels hanging from the ceiling. The kitchen chairs are heavy wooden stools from tree trunks.

The main building consists of a long living room with stained glass windows, a 1927 Chevrolet truck, a full size pool table, tables full of scrapbooks and six-cork-insulated side rooms once used for cold storage.

One room contains fuse boxes, and fire and earthquake alarm systems that shut off all power. There is also a heat warning system, triggered by a degree reading of 156 Fahrenheit, that starts water pumping from a canyon through a underground tunnel.

A guest room holds four easy chairs, three old saddles, a '30s modern dresser, a 19th-century bed. Rubel's bedroom offers a similar unlikely combination — a Tiffany lamp, stuffed rabbits, a 1924 table model radio, a wall clock from the First National Bank of Azusa, a tape deck and hi-fi inside an old gramophone and a framed portrait of great-great-grandad Win Scott.

In Rubelia, period pieces are mixed unashamedly. "Nothing makes any sense around here," explains the Lord of Rubelia. He adds with a shrug, "If I had to move, I think I'd kill myself."

Altogether, it is an amazing assortment of, well, junk. The National Trust for Historic Preservation and others concerned with authenticity would never approve of the haphazard helter-skelter arrangement of history.

But says the Lord of Rubelia simply "I just like the atmosphere of all this old junk."

What in the world is going on here? Is Michael Clarke Rubel for real?

That, it suddenly becomes clear, is for you to figure out. The Lord of Rubelia is neither a serious student of history nor a wealthy philosopher.

"I've never been very bright, but I can work hard," he says. "I'm not much of a thinker. People who think too much don't get much done. I'm not for holding onto anything that doesn't work. . . . although I have a lot around here that doesn't have a function"

"I'm not very consistent about everything," he shrugs.

What The Constitution Means To One Midlander

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Richard Lane Denham is Texas chairman of American History for the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. She is an honor graduate of the University of Georgia and has a master's degree in History. Mrs. Denham is a member of the Daughters of the American Colonists (1607 to 1776), the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Midland Garden Club, Midland Woman's Club, First Presbyterian Church, and the Heritage Society of Austin. Prior to coming to Midland five years ago, Mrs. Denham taught and was on the instruction committee for the DeKalb County School System, Atlanta, Ga.

By MRS. RICHARD LANE DENHAM

September 17 marks the beginning of the 188th Anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States. This day and the week that follows have been designated as Constitution Week by an Act of Congress and by Proclamation of the President of the United States.

The Articles of Confederation having proved inadequate and difficult of revision, the delegates produced in four months this Constitution of the United States by which the Government was divided into its three branches, giving each branch a check against the other two, thereby preventing any one branch from becoming too powerful.

This Constitution of the United States, the cornerstone upon which our Nation was founded, is a very remarkable document — the work of a handful of dedicated men under which millions of Americans are guaranteed protection of their life, their liberty and their property. It reflects the majesty, idealism, common sense and brilliance of the men who framed it. It is a living document which has withstood almost two hundred years of world changes. It is a monument to the Founding Fathers of this great nation.

Fifty-five delegates, differing in cultural and regional interests, representing twelve of the thirteen states (Rhode Island was not represented), came to the State House at Philadelphia in 1787 to begin the framing of a National Constitution.

The Constitutional Convention,

Mrs. Richard Lane Denham

for which Washington, Hamilton and Madison had been struggling for ten years, became a reality. Naturally, all three men became delegates. The great majority of delegates were drawn from the three groups that furnished most of the leadership in each state: lawyers, planters and merchants. Eight had been signers of the Declaration of Independence eleven years earlier.

George Washington was selected to preside over the Convention. His brief opening speech was: "It is probable that no plan we propose will be adopted. Perhaps another dreadful conflict is to be sustained. If, to please the people, we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterward defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and the honest can repair; the event is in the hand of God."

Benjamin Franklin, supplying wit and charm, said: "The older I grow the more apt I am to doubt my own judgement, and to pay more respect to the judgement of others. Most men, indeed, as well as most religious groups, think themselves in possession of all truth, and that wherever others differ from them, it is so far error. Steele, a Protestant, in a dedication, tells the Pope, that the only difference between our churches, in their opinion of the certainty of their doctrines, is: 'The Church of Rome is infallible, and the Church of England is never in the wrong.' Or as a certain French lady, who in a dispute with her sister, said, 'I don't know how it happens, sister, but I meet with nobody but myself who is always in the right.'"

The formulation of this Constitution was an outgrowth of the needs of a liberty loving group of people, the Colonists. They resented taxation without representation, wanted no established church, no limitation put on their freedom either of speech, press or movement, resented having to quarter soldiers in their homes without consent, and resented being put into jail for indefinite periods without just cause.

The reason for the Constitution is ably expressed in its Preamble — "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

As members came forward to sign, Franklin, looking at the back of Washington's chair on which a sun was painted said: "I have often, in the course of the session, and the vicissitudes of my hopes and fears as to its issue, looked at that chair with the sun painted on back without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting; but now, at length, I have the happiness to know that it is a rising, not a setting sun."

Provisions in the Constitution fall into two classes. First, the machinery provisions which have to do with the mechanics of government such as the election of a President and the members of Congress; the powers and prerogatives of the departments of government, etc. Secondly, the Charter provisions covering the principles of personal liberty, religious freedom, safety of person and property, right to assemble, freedom of speech and protection of life. On these human and property rights is founded all human happiness.

The individual rights embodied in this Constitution are guaranteed us by this document but they are given us by our Creator. This is expressed in the Declaration of Independence — "All men are created equal and are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness... for this purpose governments are created among men, deriving their powers from the consent of the governed."

Our present form of government under the Constitution may not be perfect but it is the best anywhere in the world. Today our Republic is endangered by the indifference of millions of citizens who take their inheritance for granted and think it unnecessary to defend that which others fought for. They do not realize that freedom is not free but must be earned and that with privileges come obligations. Let us determine to learn more about this Constitution of ours, about our rights under it and our responsibilities toward it during this Constitution Week of 1975.

Then, through constant vigilance we can protect it and preserve it from elements antagonistic to our American way of life, and we can truly say "that this Nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom... and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

The Lord of Rubelia

Rubelia: Working Rube Goldberg Contraption

By EUGENE L. MEYER
The Washington Post
SAN GABRIEL VALLEY, Calif. — In the irrigated desert east of Los Angeles, where there used to be citrus groves and clean air, there are now suburban divisions, smog that obscures the nearby mountains, and Rubelia.

Rubelia is not a disease, at least not a physical one. It is a state of mind, a state of confusion, a state that has seemingly seceded from sanity. Rubelia is an evolving castle compound that has the kind of windmill Don Quixote was always tilting at which is used to irrigate a small vegetable garden and to run an old washing machine. Another machine, a 14-ton single cylinder natural gas engine, operated a bird bath. A similar four-ton engine turns a barbecue.

Rubelia is a Rube Goldberg contraption that works. The Lord of Rubelia is a rather prosaic-looking man of 35 in khaki work clothes and a moustache who used to build play castles as a kid and is now building one for keeps. His real name is Richard Clarke Rubel, but to strangers he introduces himself as George the Handyman.

"On weekends, I have to pretend I'm George and say the boss doesn't want anyone in," he confides. "You can't imagine how bad it is. I hate to hurt people's feelings, but you could have 10,000 around."

The Lord of Rubelia agrees to an interview and a tour only after a visitor promises never to divulge his exact location. Even the name of the town is censored. Ever since the Los Angeles Times and a network news show did features on him, "George" has protected Rubel with increasing frequency. A TV crew that tried to bring its electronic paraphernalia into the stonewall compound was stonewalled. "My ego's been saturated," the Lord of Rubelia explains. "I can't take any more tourists here."

For one thing, tourists take up time that is better devoted to the task at hand: building. Or, as the Lord of Rubelia puts it, "People take energy. I have to devote my energy to concrete."

The Lord of Rubelia is a great-great-grandson of Gen. Winfield Scott, who helped capture California for the United States in the Mexican War; and the son of Hal Raynor, an Episcopal minister who also wrote songs and gags for Joe Penner, the '30s radio comic who made "Wanna buy a duck?" a national nonsequitur.

Michael Rubel reflects the same kind of daffy duck whimsy in Rubelia. "SAFETY THIRD" is a key work rule stenciled throughout the 2.5-acre compound. "Shut up and dig" is another Rule of Rubelia.

Rubel, you see, is not alone in his madness, although he is clearly in charge of it. As many as 38 people at one time have contributed their sweat to the project, for what is a lord and his castle without subjects?

One is Jonathon, a potter who lives in a house of concrete with steel-reinforced walls of many-colored glass bottles, through which the sunlight shimmers like a rainbow. Jonathon's house and studio are inside Rubelia, but he is required to sell his wares elsewhere.

There are also shops for woodwork and machinery, and eventual plans for leather, lapidary and metal shops. There are four rent-paying tenants at Rubelia who do normal things like computer programming and drafting. They live in what could be called "outbuildings" except that they are within the protective walls of Rubelia.

They are not here now because it is a weekday and their work schedules are traditionally defined by society. Michael Rubel's is not.

For 10 months of the year, he drives a school bus. His route is the canyons, and his 23 passengers, picked up and dropped off at stops often four and five miles apart, are his "canyon kids." It is a job, he says, that he waited seven years for.

Now it is summer and there are no canyon runs to be made. So the Lord of Rubelia adheres to his own work schedule, which consists of building his castle from 6 a.m. to around 11 a.m. when the smog chokes the lungs and slows the body. Work picks up again at 6 p.m. after the smog has burned itself out.

It is fortunate that it is mid-day and quitting time, because without a tour guide you would need a map to navigate the tunnels, stairways, passages and paths of Rubelia.

Through a 4,500-pound gate topped off with menacing-looking iron spears and medieval metal letters that spell "RUBELIA." Inside, a road of railroad ties leads under a water tower that holds a 2,000-gallon storage tank.

To the right is a garage containing a fleet of 18 old (antique" somehow does not fit) cars, truck and tractors — all of which Rubel will be ready for a big Bicentennial parade on Jan. 10, 1976.

On the same side of the compound are the garden and assorted animals including peacocks, rabbits, chickens, from which Rubelia takes its other name, "Rubel Farms." There are also five mongrels and an apy that last year produced 24 gallons of honey.

There are tall palm trees, avocados and at least one fruitful orange tree.

The Lord of Rubelia is nowhere to be found in these parts. You backtrack under the water tower and, passing under another gate of wooden spikes that is open, walk through a tunnel into an open courtyard, which turns out to be the foundation and the first of four planned levels.

It is here that the Lord of Rubelia — "George" to you — labors with a shovel and a wheelbarrow.

It is here, too, that the guided tour begins with the bottle house. A second level will be the Lord's quarters. The third story will have muzzle-loaded cannons protruding from windows. A fourth will contain "very archaic" stone-throwers to ward off the pagan attackers. Already, there is an upended oil tank that will serve as a watchtower on the north side.

"It will be hard to come in and borrow a hammer," the Lord of Rubelia says.

For the time being, Rubel lives in a 140-foot-long converter citrus (lemon) packaging plant inside the compound. Adjacent to it and overlooking the windmill and water tower is the kitchen. It has a fireplace, a floor from a bowling alley, a 1904 ice box that has been electrified, several lanterns and wagon wheels hanging from the ceiling. The kitchen chairs are heavy wooden stools from tree trunks.

The main building consists of a long living room with stained glass windows, a 1927 Chevrolet truck, a full size pool table, tables full of scrapbooks and six-cork-insulated side rooms once used for cold storage.

One room contains fuse boxes, and fire and earthquake alarm systems that shut off all the power. There is also a heat warning system, triggered by a degree reading of 156 Fahrenheit, that starts water pumping from a canyon through a underground tunnel.

A guest room holds four easy chairs, three old saddles, a '30s modern dresser, a 19th-century bed. Rubel's bedroom offers a similar unlikely combination — a Tiffany lamp, stuffed rabbits, a 1924 table model radio, a wall clock from the First National Bank of Azusa, a tape deck and hi-fi inside an old gramophone and a framed portrait of great-great-granddaddy Win Scott.

In Rubelia, period pieces are mixed unashamedly. "Nothing makes any sense around here," explains the Lord of Rubelia. He adds with a shrug, "If I had to move, I think I'd kill myself."

Altogether, it is an amazing assortment of well, junk. The National Trust for Historic Preservation and others concerned with authenticity would never approve of the haphazard helter-skelter arrangement of history. But says the Lord of Rubelia simply "I just like the atmosphere of all this old junk."

What in the world is going on here? Is Michael Clarke Rubel for real?

That, it suddenly becomes clear, is for you to figure out. The Lord of Rubelia is neither a serious student of history nor a weighty philosopher.

"I've never been very bright, but I can work hard," he says. "I'm not much of a thinker. People who think too much don't get much done. I'm not for holding onto anything that doesn't function. If it doesn't have a function... although I have a lot around here that doesn't have a function..."

"I'm not very consistent about everything," he shrugs.

USPS Executives To Attend UT-A Business Session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Forty-two U.S. Postal Service executives from throughout the nation are attending The University of Texas Graduate School of Business to learn to be better business executives.

"This is the same kind of program that many private businesses have for their chosen executives," said E.G. Vorwerk, director of customer services at the Austin sectional center.

"These are men from the mid to top level, handpicked because of their particular responsibilities or future potential. It's quite an elite group," he said.

The Sept. 7-26 training session is the first one held in the Southwest but similar three-week seminars have been held at the University of Virginia and the University of Southern California. A second Southwest session will be held here next spring.

Robert Anderson, director of management development programs for the graduate school, said the program will "zero in" on problems peculiar to the Postal Service. Topics range from "creative acceptance of change in an organization to unusual aspects of capitol budgeting," Anderson said.

Serving as faculty for the seminar are UT scholars from the areas of management, finance, business communication, advertising, marketing, accounting and business law, among others.

"It will upgrade management skills with the latest thinking, for such as computer planning and organization development," Vorwerk said. "Generally these are men who are being trained for greater responsibility."

The participants come from 18 states and Canada, including the Postal Service's headquarters in Washington and various postal regional, district and sectional centers.

Mozart Goes Multimedia In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Multimedia Mozart is coming to this Midwestern metropolis.

The Kansas City Philharmonic will launch its 43rd season this fall with three Mozart programs in the Multimedia Forum, an audio-visual communications facility in Crown Center, a city-within Kansas City.

The concerts will be preceded by a three-screen slide presentation on Mozart. There will also be intermission film shorts on Mozart, the prodigy, the composer and the man. Closed-circuit television will provide close-ups of soloists on TV monitors throughout the concert hall. However, there will be no movement of cameras, slides or film while the music is played.

"This is neither a gimmick, nor an effort to tamper with the musical purity of Mozart," conductor Maurice Peress said. "resident synthesizer-key-city concert-goers with a fresh format that showcases the talents of our gifted soloists and heightens Mozart's strength with visual dramatics."

Album Features Computer Sound

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Ned Lagin, an associate of the Grateful Dead, has produced an LP which he says is the first using a hookup to a computer.

"Seastones," the record released by Round Records here, Lagin says, "features music from a new electronic keyboard instrument centered around a 7-16 minicomputer with a high speed arithmetic-logic unit from Interdata of Oceanport, N.J."

The composition was written by Lagin, 27, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who is boardist for the Dead.

Grateful Dead Productions paid for the system's development. Phil Lesh, Jerry Garcia, David Crosby, Grace Slick, David Freiberg, Mickey Hart and Spencer Dryden.

Money Question Still Gets Answer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Is there a way of coexistence for money and the single girl?

"In spite of recent inflation raising her cost of living as much as 15 per cent in a year, facts indicate yes."

So emphasizes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., a financial services organization.

"There are some career girls who are prone to money problems — who often have trouble surviving in the world of business."

"For these women, there is the now legendary race to the bank each payday. Take-home pay is often virtually spent before the check is even in hand."

What causes this flurry, hurry — and most of all, worry? "Poor management," Bowler says. "A great deal of it could be alleviated with a little more stop, look and caution."

Budget, budget — and budget again. Get it down on paper — calculating in your head simply won't do.

First things come first. No. 1 on the hit — not miss — parade is rent. Never be in arrears more than two or three days. It can wreck your credit standing, to say nothing of your once warm relations with the building management.

Consider life insurance as a "cushion" for retirement years. Scrimp on buying things that are not really needed. Watch out for impulse buying. If an item strikes your fancy, let it simmer overnight before purchasing.

Plan — don't jump — into equity investments.

1974 Convention, 1975 Legislature

Precedent was shattered when the 181 members of the legislature met as a constitutional convention on January 8, 1974. All previous Texas constitutions had been written by delegates elected from the citizenry at large, with few members of the legislature included.

Under the terms of the amendment authorizing the convention, they were due to complete their work in May of 1974. Any agreement on a new constitution or revision of the old had to be approved by a two-thirds majority before being offered for ratification by popular vote.

Meeting in the hall of the House of Representatives, the Convention of 1974 elected House Speaker Price Daniel, Jr., as president and Senator A. M. Alkin, vice president. Committees were organized to write proposals for the various articles, to be acted on by the convention as a whole. These committees held public hearings, conducted open discussions, and hammered out their proposals. In a number of cases, the committee decisions were hotly contested and minority reports were prepared. Throughout the process, a toll-free telephone was maintained for citizens to call in questions and suggestions.

By choosing to sit as a constitutional convention, the members of the legislature put themselves under the greatest pressure ever experienced by a Texas convention to produce an acceptable document. The task was both difficult and politically dangerous. Dealing with highly controversial problems in a year in which many members were up for re-election, they ran a great risk of alienating partisans of many interests, no matter what they decided.

Political scandals, state and national, had created a public distrust of government comparable to that of 1875. An attempt by the legislative branch to draw up ground rules under which all branches of the state government would operate raised inevitable questions of conflict of interest.

The legislators failed — by a three-vote margin — to agree on a constitution, ending for a time this $3 million venture of framing a new document.

In the regular legislative session of 1975, the House and Senate set about to salvage the earlier work. After some changes, a new proposed constitution was approved by the legislature, first by the House, then by the Senate on April 16.

This action meant that the voters would have the last word on November 4, 1975.

The proposed document is only about a fourth as long as the existing constitution. It retains in full the former Bill of Rights guaranteeing freedom of speech, assembly, and religion; separation of church and state; right of trial by jury; right to bear arms; and the equal legal rights amendment.

The basic powers of the three branches of government are retained, but the new document calls for a legislative pay commission, single-member legislative districts after 1981, annual legislative sessions, and allows special sessions to override vetoes.

Some of the other changes include more appointive power for the governor, allowing some courts to handle both civil and criminal matters, a property tax system based on county-wide market value appraisals supervised by the state, and tax relief for the elderly.

The ultimate decision lies with the voters of Texas, who will accept or reject the document drafted by the commission, produced but never accepted by the convention, and altered and passed by the legislature.

Both the final authority and the final responsibility lies with the individual citizen. He and his children and grandchildren will probably have to live with the results for many years. (LAST OF A SERIES).

Duke Students Omit 'Him' From Hymnal

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Some Christians are taking the "Him" out of the hymnals.

"They say if humans were 'in the image and likeness of God,' then God must be both masculine and feminine.

"Unfortunately, some folks are attempting to see this as 'neutering' God," said the Rev. Robert Young, chaplain at Duke University. "It's more positive than that."

Under the Rev. Mr. Young's guidance, a group of male and female Duke students are rewriting not only hymns and prayers but passages of Scripture. Ultimately, an entire "nonsexist" Bible may develop.

For instance, in a standard translation, John 15:13 reads: "Greater love hath no man than this that a man should lay down his life for his friends."

The Duke group has converted that passage to: "Greater love has no one than this that one should lay down one's life for a friend."

The Rev. Mr. Young said

there has been no major opposition.

"We aren't making total breaks, anyhow. We still use the 'Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost,' and, of course, the Lord's Prayer, starting, 'Our Father, who art in heaven ...' he said.

In the main, he said, the Duke group has been substituting "God" for the pronoun "Him" whenever possible and, in some instances, praying, "Oh God, our Father-Mother."

So far, the group has left intact the masculine pronouns referring to Jesus Christ.

"Jesus was more than a man. He was the fulfillment of personhood, for all persons, both men and women," the Rev. Mr. Young said.

However, he said: "There are students and some faculty who in their own private prayers are referring to God as 'She' or 'Her.' But that kind of thing is still very personal, not public."

Mobil Opens Pay In Eddy; Strike Offset

Second pay was opened in an Eddy County, N.M., field, a Morrow field gained a new producer, and a strike offset was planned.

Mobil Oil Corp. has completed No. 2 Corral Draw Unit as a Wolfcamp gas pay opener, 1 1/2 mile southwest of the Morrow opener and lone producer in the Corral Draw field.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 6.577 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio measuring 1,440,000-1. Gravity of the distillate is 62.4 degrees.

Drilled to 13,840 feet, it has a 5 1/2-inch liner hung to 13,128 feet, and the hole is plugged back to 12,638 feet.

Location is 1,500 feet from south and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 22-25e-29e, seven miles southeast of Malaga.

Prolific Well

Yates Petroleum Corp., Artesia, finalized No. 1-EM Jackson as a location northeast extension to the Atoka, West (Morrow) gas field, two miles southwest of Artesia.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 11,510,000 cubic feet of gas per day, plus 105 barrels of 55.6-gravity distillate daily. Production was through perforations at 8,283-8,370 feet. Treatment was not reported.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 25-17s-25e.

Strike Offset

Monty J. Gist, Midland, filed application to drill a 3/4-mile southeast offset to the one-well Antelope Sink, North (Morrow) field of Eddy. It is No. 1 Maralo. State Communized.

Drill site is 660 feet from north and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 28-18e-24e, 12 miles west of Dayton.

The discovery, Midwest Oil Corp. No. 1-J Federal, was completed in November, 1970, for 1.375 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 8,442-8,457 feet.

Third Chisum Well Finals

The Chisum, East (San Andres) field of Chaves County, N.M., gained its third producer and location west extension with completion of Plains Radio Broadcasting Co., Lubbock, No. 2-9 LE Ranch.

It pumped 20 barrels of 21-gravity oil and 20 barrels of water on 24-hour potential test, taken through perforations at 2,131-2,175 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons.

Enemy Forces Said Deliberately Underestimated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ferocity of the 1968 Tet offensive in Vietnam took U.S. forces by surprise because top American officials deliberately underestimated the size of enemy forces, a former intelligence analyst said today.

Samuel A. Adams, testifying before the House intelligence committee, produced secret cables from Gen. Creighton Abrams, former U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Ellsworth Bunker, former U.S. ambassador in Saigon.

Adams, a former CIA intelligence analyst, said Abrams and Bunker insisted on keeping official estimates of Viet Cong troop strength around 300,000 despite intelligence reports that indicated enemy strength was about 600,000.

He said the figures were altered in order to support their contention that the Viet Cong were demoralized by U.S. military successes.

"Although our aim was to fool the American press, the public and Congress, we unintentionally succeeded best in fooling ourselves," Adams said.

The misinformation led to U.S. military forces, the Congress and the American public being caught by surprise at the intensity of the Tet offensive, launched on Jan. 30, 1968, Adams said.

The two cables produced by Adams were listed among secret documents which the Intelligence Committee had subpoenaed, but not received, from the Ford administration.

In a cable dated Aug. 20, 1967, Abrams reported that new estimates of the size of Viet Cong forces were "in sharp contrast" to the 229,000 figure given to the press. The cable suggested that two troop categories be deleted from the estimates in order to retain the old figure.

"We have been projecting an image of success over the recent months," the Abrams cable explained.

The cable said that if the true number of Viet Cong troops became public "all available caveats and explanations will not prevent the press from drawing an erroneous and gloomy conclusion.

"All those who have an incorrect view of the war will be reinforced," the cable said, "and the task will be more difficult."

Abrams' cable was to the former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler. A copy was sent to former CIA Director Richard Helms.

Adams said representatives of the U.S. intelligence community agreed at a conference 20 days later, "with the CIA caving in," to agree to keep enemy force estimates at the old size.

He said the Tet offensive was predicted by three CIA analysts on Nov. 27, 1967, two months before the attack. But they used the old figures and thus (See TET Page 2A)

Moslems, Christians Declare Cease-Fire Across Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian gunmen agreed to a cease-fire today, halting Lebanon's current round of political and religious warfare.

The truce went into effect at 4 p.m.—8 a.m. CDT.

Isolated explosions and shooting were still heard in Beirut but residents of eastern districts where most of the fighting was concentrated earlier in the day reported a lull after the cease-fire deadline.

Premier Rashid Karami's government arranged the truce with leaders of the battling factions.

Radio Beirut reported earlier that Moslem and Christian gunmen battled on street corners throughout the capital with machine guns, bombs and grenades.

"With pain in our hearts we report that no street in Beirut is safe," said the government's Radio Beirut. "Stay home until further notice. There are armed men in all streets."

The main thoroughfares were empty of traffic. Except for the warring leftist Moslems and rightist Christians, few people ventured outside their homes.

The rattle of machine-gun bursts mixed with the thump of grenade explosions.

Smoke rose over the central commercial district, and the government ordered all firemen off duty to report for work at once.

Radio Beirut appealed for blood donors and tanks of oxygen for the wounded because hospitals could not get hold of their usual suppliers. The radio called on the street fighters to quit firing on ambulances trying to pick up victims.

Bodies and wounded persons lay in the streets, and rescuers could not reach them, the police reported.

Eloise-Spawned Winds, Rains Lash Cuban City

By The Associated Press — Torrential rains and strong winds spawned by Hurricane Eloise lashed the Cuban city of Guantanamo today and threatened Santiago, Cuba's third-largest city, Havana Radio said. But the brunt of the storm apparently bypassed the big U.S. naval base nearby.

Havana Radio said low-lying areas in eastern Oriente province were being evacuated, and hurricane preparations were under way in Santiago, Cuba's second largest city.

A Pentagon spokesman reported no damage after Eloise passed over the base between midnight and 3:30 a.m. today, followed by intermittent heavy rain and gusts of up to 25 miles per hour. There are 3,000 military personnel plus their dependents on the base.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said, meanwhile, that the hurricane was moving inland with diminished force about 12 miles per hour. Its center was near latitude 20.3 degrees north, longitude 76.0 degrees west at 9 a.m. EDT.

The hurricane, which left at least 28 dead and 30,000 homeless in Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic, hit eastern Cuba after weakening slightly.

Eloise's top winds dropped from 80 to 75 miles per hour, which is minimum strength for a hurricane. The storm was expected to move westward over Cuba, and the National Hurricane Center in Miami said this movement, over land should prevent its picking up strength again for the time being.

The Miami center said it still could not predict whether Eloise might hit the United States.

Cool Air Turnout Hot, Heavy

FEA Chief Says Oil Price Hikes Probable By Nov. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb says oil companies might start raising prices by November if Congress has not reimposed price controls before then.

The companies so far are resisting the urge to increase prices freed of federal controls more than two weeks ago. But Zarb said in an interview that the companies would not hold out indefinitely.

"If, by Nov. 1, it has not cleared up the likelihood of having a prolonged period of uncertainty is pretty good,"

Zarb said. "I think that 60 days from the time controls went off is ample time to have a resolution of the issue, if we're going to have one."

President Ford has been pressing Congress to reimpose price controls on U.S. domestic crude oil, on a schedule which would gradually remove the controls over 39 months or some similar time.

Ford used his veto to block a simple extension of the price controls without an acceptable phase-out plan.

On Wednesday, however, the House voted strongly for a provision, opposed by Ford, to roll back U.S. oil prices far below current levels.

The House vote clouded prospects for an energy bill that the President would not veto. And without a compromise which could be passed by Congress and signed into law by Ford, oil prices remain uncontrolled.

About one-third of U.S. crude oil production was free of price controls even before Sept. 1. It has been selling recently at about $13 per barrel, roughly 50 cents cheaper than foreign oil. (See ENERGY Page 2A)

Street Bond Voting Slack

By GEORGE MASSEY — A proposed $6-million street bond election has failed to draw much interest with absentee voters, with fewer than 50 persons casting ballots at city hall through this morning.

The election scheduled to come to the voters Tuesday, just five days after today's $4.2-million school bond vote on air conditioning, will test the appetite of Midlanders for coming to the polling places twice in less than a week.

Several members of the city's administrative staff and city council have expressed concern about the bond issue passing. The city officials have indicated that without the bonds being voted in there will be no money left in the street bond fund for rebuilding, maintenance or new assessment paving programs.

Fred Baker, public works director, has said that right-of-way purchases for the state highway department project to widen Midkiff Road from U.S. 80 to Interstate 20 will deplete the existing street bond funds.

Baker said, "There is no way the city can continue to maintain and rebuild the city's thoroughfares or participate in any assessment paving programs without the street bond funds."

Carroll Thomas, city councilman, calls the street bond funds a "normal appropriation" to the city budget, but one which must be "brought before the voters for approval."

Thomas said, "One of the city's primary jobs is to see that the streets are taken care of and maintained — it can't be done without the necessary funds."

The city administration has recommended that $2 million in bonds be sold at a time, with a sale being consummated every other year to retire the debt, if the issue passes.

In a letter to the council, Fred Poe, assistant city manager, said, "You will note that the schedules do not create any real burdens on the tax structure."

"The $6-million issue would call for a 7 cent increase in the tax rate for one year if you scheduled them exactly as needed. However, if you equalized the increased tax rate over the life of the bonds, the average increase is something less than 4 cents," Poe said.

Baker has submitted a list of proposed capital improvements that could be accomplished with the street bond funds. He said the last street bond issue was voted in 1959.

Those funds are now depleted, and earlier this year the council made temporary adjustment in the 1959 funds to bolster the dollar level. At a council session during March, it was voted to return $80,000 to the street bond fund that had been set aside to construct safety devices at railroad crossings in the city.

At that time, a letter from the city manager to the council indicated that "recent discussions" of the council seemed to produce "no interest" in pursuing the installation of gates at the railroad crossings. The letter stated, "Since the street improvement bond fund is quite low, we (city administration) are recommending that this $80,000 be returned to this fund so that it can be used for future street improvement projects."

The first of 13 projects that Baker submitted to the council for possible improvement included $426,000 worth of work on Illinois Street.

Baker said the Illinois Street work would be done in three sections, the first on Illinois from Loraine to A streets. He said this section has a present traffic count at Big Spring Street of 8,435 vehicles per day.

"The state highway department projects the traffic count will eventually increase to approximately 20,000 vehicles per day," Baker said. "This section (See STREET Page 2A)

Warfare Agents May Have Been Transferred To CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department may have been obeying a presidential order to destroy stockpiles of chemical and biological warfare agents by simply transferring the material to the Central Intelligence Agency, a member of the Senate intelligence committee said today.

"I am very suspicious that whoever did it, instead of obeying the presidential order, sneaked the stuff out of the back door and then prepared an inventory for higher authority to suggest that it had all been destroyed," said Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

The inventory list showed that only two grams of the poison were being retained for research purposes. Evidence already presented to the committee has shown that at least five and probably 11 grams of the poison were transferred from the Army's Ft. Detrick to a CIA laboratory at approximately the same time.

Israel Promises No Warheads On U.S. Missiles

regretfully decline to sign the Hawk missile contract under the conditions and limitations contained in President Ford's message to Congress," said a statement from Prime Minister Zaid Rifa'i's office.

Ford has told Congress the Hawk missile batteries would not be mobile but placed at fixed sites. He also has assured Congress that Jordan would be forbidden to place the batteries under any multinational Arab force.

King Hussein of Jordan earlier had announced he will buy an antiaircraft defense system from the Soviet Union if the $270-million Hawk deal falls through.

Ford's plan to phase out oil controls over 39 months, rejected by Congress just before its August vacation, had included a temporary ceiling price of about $10.50 per barrel on U.S. oil, to prevent it from matching even-higher foreign prices.

The investigation stemmed from efforts by the internal affairs division to determine what happened to nine ounces of a substance believed to be high-grade heroin with a street value of more than $100,000.
