Bailey County District Court Will Begin Nov. 17; Three Weeks Term; Several Tax Suits are Reported Filed

Bailey county district court opens at Muleshoe the third Monday of next month, which is November 17, Judge Charles Clements and District Attorney Meade F. Griffin in charge.

Three weeks is the time set apart for this term of court, and it is now thought the docket will be cleared in less than that time. There are not a large number of cases on the civil docket, and perhaps only three cases on the criminal docket of general interest.

The first week of the court will be devoted to grand jury work, setting of cases generally and hearing of some civil cases, the criminal cases following the second week.

It is understood several tax suits have been filed.

The list of the jurors for the coming term is as follows:

Grand Jury
 J. W. Alexander, W. W. Cardwell, Charley Coffman, George Fine, Carl Hall, A. L. Davis, J. M. Murrah, G. W. Henderson, J. C. Bulloch, Albert Ramm, A. C. Haley, W. M. Daley, W. T. Black, Roy Bayless, A. W. Coker, W. M. Pool, Jr.

B. Y. P. U. Association Will Hold Next Meet In Muleshoe, January

By a unanimous vote of the West Plains B. Y. P. U. association, which includes the greater portion of Lamb and Bailey counties, in session Sunday afternoon at Lums chapel, seven miles south of Littlefield, it was decided that the next meeting, which will be the fourth Sunday in January, 1937, will be held at the Baptist church of this city. This came as a result of the determined efforts of the sixteen delegates in attendance from Muleshoe. Amherst was also nominated as the next convention city, but after a talk by C. A. Joiner, local Baptist pastor, the nomination was withdrawn in favor of Muleshoe.

This association was recently organized, and this is the first time Muleshoe has been selected as its meeting place. The association is headed by C. L. Ogilvie, Littlefield, as president. D. L. Kendrick and Jack Mcintosh of this place will have charge of the program of the meeting here in January.

KIWANIS WANTS FACTORY

The dinner enjoyed last Friday noon by members of the Kiwanis club came through the courtesy of T. L. Mansfield, Farwell, who attended the meeting here.

The principal discussion of the members was regarding the organization of a canning factory here. Neal Rockey, R. L. Brown and Dr. A. R. Matthews were appointed a committee to prosecute the movement.

SHOOTS THUMB OFF WHILE DUCK HUNTING MONDAY

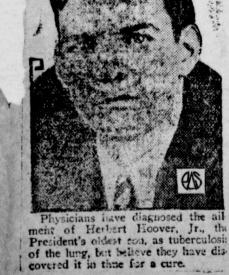

While duck hunting Tuesday evening, Emory Colbath, of Flags, accidentally shot the thumb off his left hand. It was rushed to Muleshoe for medical attention. According to a local physician who attended him, the thumb was badly mangled, and the bone entirely shot out of it. The member was removed at the first joint.

REV. BOZMAN TO PREACH

Rev. S. S. Bozeman preached last Sunday at Friona, and will preach at Muleshoe this coming Sunday morning at the Court house, his subject being "The Ten Virgins."

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Has Tuberculosis

Physicians have diagnosed the ailment of Herbert Hoover, Jr., the President's oldest son, as tuberculosis of the lung, but believe they have discovered it in time for a cure.

Expert in Wells Says This Valley Equal Portales

That the Blackwater valley will, in many ways, eventually surpass the Portales, New Mexico, valley, is the statement of John E. Plummer, of Portales.

Mr. Plummer has been closely identified with the business of irrigation for the past 15 years, and has visited the Blackwater valley numerous times during that period watching the various stages of irrigation development here. He is a dealer in pumps for irrigation, and consequently, knows whereof he speaks when he makes such a statement.

Ten acres in potatoes, 10 acres in grapes, 10 acres in tomatoes, onions and peppers, and 30 acres in peanuts would make an ideal proposition for one putting in 30 acres under cultivation, Plummer said. This amount could be nicely handled by a pump delivering 300 gallons of water per minute, and should bring the owner an average of $200 gross per acre or a total of $12,000 gross for the entire 30 acre tract.

The cost of installation for an outfit to take care of this acreage, using a centrifugal pump and industrial auto engine, would be approximately $625.00. This outfit would irrigate an acre per hour, said Mr. Plummer, putting 48,000 gallons of water on each acre, and at a cost of $1.65 per acre for fuel for each five waterings.

Mr. Plummer declared there were several products this valley should excel in over the Portales valley. In the growing of Irish potatoes, onions and peppers, for instance, he said, the farmers of the Blackwater valley should excel in, while there are numerous other crops they can grow here as well as in the New Mexico valley.

Band May Make First Public Presentation On Armistice Day

That the recently organized Muleshoe band is rapidly whipping into musical form is the consensus of opinions expressed by several members this week. The band now totals 26 members and several others contemplating coming in, and the instrumentation is one of the best ever secured in small town bands.

Many of the new, as well as the old, members have spared nothing in the purchase of their instruments, and have as fine a layout as could be desired for a band of several years experience, and under the direction of Prof. Monte Bowron, they are rapidly learning to play them.

It has been intimated that they may make their first public presentation Armistice day.

S. A. GOODSON IS AGENT

S. A. Goodson has been appointed receiving agent at Muleshoe for the Texas Cotton Co-operative association, succeeding M. G. Miller, resigned.

His office will be in the Blackwater Valley bank.

A Nebraska man will remain a bachelor, he says, because his sweetheart will not marry him when he is drunk and he will not marry her when he is sober.

TELL YOUR FRIENDS ABOUT MULESHOE, U. S. A.

This is the only Muleshoe in the United States, and the people should know more about it. Why not tell them?

Every week the Journal is telling of the virtues of Muleshoe and Bailey county. At its own expense, the management is sending out extra copies of this newspaper every week to prospective settlers and citizens.

It is as much your town and county as any one else's, so why not help in spreading the good news. Send a copy of the paper each week to some of your friends or acquaintances back east. It will acquaint them with the opportunities and bring them out here to investigate and invest.

Leave the list of addresses you wish papers sent to at the Journal office by Wednesday morning of each week, and the papers will be wrapped, addressed and mailed for you for five cents each.

What Muleshoe and Bailey county needs most is wider publicity. Let the word know of our assets and folks will flock here by the hundreds.

Geraldine Skeeters Is Bitten By Rattler Last Saturday Noon

Geraldine Skeeters, small daughter of F. C. Skeeters, local barber, was bitten on the finger by a rattlesnake Saturday at noon and was rushed immediately to a Lubbock hospital where she was given the rattlesnake serum. Latest reports were that the little girl was not suffering, but that she had a very serious wound on her hand.

It is reported that the girl was bitten while playing in the street near her home with some other children. As she reached down to pick up a toy, the snake bit her on the middle finger of her right hand. The snake was about eighteen inches long and had one rattler.

Immediately after the accident her arm was corded and first aid remedies were administered by a local physician, and she was rushed to Lubbock.

TOURIST HAS SMASHUP

Sam M. Kaplan, of San Diego, Calif., a tourist enroute to New York City, N. Y., suffered a fractured tibia and considerable damage to his Dodge automobile on Highway 70, about three miles from Muleshoe, last Friday afternoon, and was detained in Muleshoe for several days for automobile repairs, as a result of his car turning turtle.

According to reports of Valier motor men who repaired the car, Mr. Kaplan, a gentleman of Jewish descent, proved very good company while here, and made many friends of those with whom he came in contact.

Soon be time for hunting about Christmas.

Foundation For Ideal Section Laid In Blackwater Valley Where Nature Lavishes Her Inexhaustible Treasures

Sound reason preceded by anticipation is always acceptable, and hopes, though they seem the doing away with of stereotyped forms and conventionalities and the ushering in of new modes of living and systems of doing business, yet they are to be fostered, if they contemplate the bettering of humanity. The Blackwater valley has a future before it, which in behalf of mankind, can be limited only by the degree of faith maintained by its citizens.

The ideal commonwealth is that which recognizes the human factor as paramount, and holds consistently to the fact that the people were made for the world, and not the world for the people. The Blackwater valley represents a sectional commonwealth where this truth is uppermost in its demonstration. Every factor of nature has entered into the making here and supplying of the highest conceptions of comfort and recreation which is the rightful heritage of mankind. Work there is to be done here, but work brings its happy returns. It is not the drudge of the care-worn toiler cramped through lack of opportunities and downcast because his labor brings not the needed sufficiencies of life; his home robbed of comforts and his children tasting the bitter dregs of privation up to the very moment they themselves are plunged into the grind—but the toil that brings peace, satisfaction—the feeling that the morrow will place him nearer the goal of his achievement, and that the passage of the years will find him in old age with a desirable competence; his children provided for and his departure into toward the goal of activity.

Not frequently people live as though life was a thing to get rid of as soon as possible. The restless night is not relieved by the horrors of the approaching day with its attenuating physical exertion and worry over the necessary nourishment required for perpetuating physical existence. They rush through life and fly into the face of Providence as though anxious to be rid of the "Night-mare" of earthly existence. The human body is the noblest work of Omnipotence, and in many phases of industrial life its purpose in the economy of the universe is lost to sight. Abuse, neglect, and the misdirection of valued resources are too often maintained with mock resignation as something beyond remedy. Humanity, in many instances, seems resigned to its limited sphere of existence. Selfishness and greed have forced these unfortunate beings into the farthest corners of worldly prosperity, and with the feeling that equality and justice are absolutely deficient; that the "rules" are against them regardless of their efforts, they stifle their hopes and fling themselves into the breach of the world's maw and are consumed by the gastric juices of industrialism.

In maintaining an ideal community, education is a big factor, and that factor has been overlooked in the moulding of this particular valley. Again, and again has it been demonstrated that the citizen who is liberally educated, even though he does manual labor for a living, is the one most likely to look beyond himself and discover the needs of his fellow beings, hence he becomes a stronger upholder of common justice and common welfare. The Blackwater valley provides for the mind as well as the body, and every facility possible is being brought to bear that its rising generation may have the best possible mental equipment.

The Blackwater valley has already become well known for its good roads, some of these highways being recognized as state and United States arteries of traffic, while practically all of the secondary roads of the valley are kept in the very best of condition the year 'round.

Co-operative associations have already been organized to some degree throughout the valley, one of the best. Farm agents in the state has been assigned to this section and operates exclusively in Bailey county where the Blackwater valley lies. Business here is being conducted on a stable basis. Farming in the area is done scientifically. Even children are raised according to the latest prescribed methods laid down by eminent psychologists and successful parents. Here political belief is subservient to human qualifications. Here even the wage earner gets full enjoyment from that which he receives as a just recompense for his arduous endeavors. Many theories are being adopted and found to be working out satisfactorily because their opposites have been disproven elsewhere. People come here and build successes over the failures of their neighbors elsewhere. The present development indicates that many things both practical and ideal are in store for those who dwell in this favored locality.

Milton C. Dyer Held On Charge Of Narcotic Act

Milton C. Dyer, 31, for sometime a citizen of Longview community, Bailey county, is being held under $2,500 bond for appearance before the United States grand jury for an alleged violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

Dyer's statement to U. S. Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey was as follows, according to the Lubbock Journal.

Dyer, Mr. Lindsey said, made a long statement to the federal officer as to his alleged narcotic work. Details of the statement were not made known other than Mr. Dyer claimed he had a wife and three children living in California.

According to the officers, he claimed to have attended Texas Technological college for about three months in 1928. He also attended West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, the East Texas State Teachers college at Commerce, the North Texas State teachers college at Denton and the teachers college at San Marcos.

For about five months, it was said, Dyer was assistant county superintendent of schools of Bailey county.

Dyer had been making Lubbock his headquarters for about two years it was said. He made his home in local hotels and also in private residences.

Unless he is able to make bond Dyer will be held for the federal grand jury which is to meet in Lubbock December 8, Mr. Lindsey said.

Red Cross Roll Call From November 11th To Thanksgiving Day

The membership Roll Call of the Bailey county Red Cross chapter, will begin here November 11th, Mrs. C. C. Mardis, chapter chairman, announced today. Workers will visit people at their homes and places of business to extend a personal invitation to join the organization for the coming year, she explained, and called attention to the fact that the Roll Call will be an annual event occupying the time between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving, emphasized by presidential proclamation and governor's statements.

Because Red Cross chapters are democratic in character, Roll Call is of great public significance. Membership carries a vote in chapter affairs, and signifies personal participation in local, national, and international service. The long history of Roll Calls has proved beyond question that the opportunity of joining the Red Cross is one of the most highly regarded privileges.

Red Cross memberships are: Annual $1.00, Contributing $3.00, Sustaining $10.00, and Supporting $25.00. Only 50c of each of these goes to support the work done in the name of all chapters by the national organization. The balance remains at home for local service. The local Red Cross has done much deserving work in this community and it will be remembered the splendid work it did in the case of the Gupton hotel fire last January.

FIDWATER'S CONTEST HERE

An old time fiddler's contest here was held at the Lone Star theatre last Saturday.

Those entering were I. W. Hardin, Harvey Brewer and Clarence Mitchell, of Muleshoe; Tom Lee and Milt Trout of Amherst.

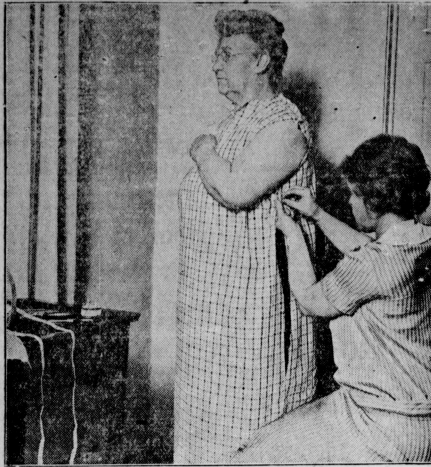

The winners of the contest were Tom Lee, first and Milt Trout, second. Harvey Brewer won first in the amateur contest.

MAKING PERMANENT PATTERN DIFFICULT

Alterations on a Foundation Pattern of Checked Gingham.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The "perfect thirty-two" figure—or that for any other measurement—is occasionally found, but more often, after buying a pattern of any given size, adjustments and changes must be made to suit the individual. A woman may have large hips and slender shoulders, or vice versa; extremely square or extremely sloping shoulders; an especially wide or narrow back; shorter or longer arms than the average; longer or thicker trunk in proportion to other measurements than the standard, or some other odd characteristic.

Changes can often be made on the person, after cutting out a dress and basting it up, or on the paper pattern, to conform to individual deviations in figure. But unless these alterations are transferred to a permanent pattern the fitting must be done over and over again with each new garment that is made. A better plan, suggested by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to make a foundation or guide or permanent pattern in some inexpensive material like gingham, cambric, or unbleached muslin. A gingham with a large check is especially good for the purpose because the lengthwise and crosswise threads show plainly.

Get a good commercial pattern of your size, plain in design, with normal shoulders, set-in sleeves, high neckline and other standard features. In cutting the material for your permanent pattern make any obvious allowances, such as a longer skirt for a tall woman or longer sleeves. Baste up the foundation pattern and try it on. It has to be fitted as carefully as the dress you expect to make from it. The shoulder seam is first balanced, and then the underarm seam is adjusted. Fit the bust, hips, armseye, sleeve, and mark the desired length for the skirt. The neckline and armholes should be trimmed out until they are exactly right, with a seam allowance uniform with other parts of the garment. Baste in darts where they are needed, and, if necessary, slash any sections which may need enlarging by having pieces inserted. After the material is cut it is too late to find that the back should have been an inch longer between the neck and the belt, or that a large bust required a longer front section than the pattern provided for. The hem is turned at the right distance from the floor.

While the fitting is being done the bipline and natural waistline should be marked, and the points at which pockets should come if used. In some styles of dress with pleats or insets in the skirt it is desirable to know where the knees come. When the foundation pattern is entirely fitted, sleeves as well as body, it is cut down the center front and center back. The sections are separated, and each is stitched around with contrasting thread—once to show the actual seam line, and once, about an eighth of an inch from the edge, to prevent stretching. One-half of the pattern is used for a permanent guide, and the other as a basis for designing. Sometimes the two sides of a person's figure are so unlike it is necessary to save both halves, with careful marking, for the future pattern.

Possessing a guide pattern does not entirely eliminate the use of all ordinary patterns. It enables you to fit the fundamentals of each new garment with a minimum of trouble, but if you want special details of design you will need to get other patterns to provide them. In the present mode of dresses with trimming pieces of unusual shape, a foundation pattern that fits properly is a necessity to work with. In combination with it is a great boon to have a dress form that reproduces your figure, on which the pattern can be placed for trying the effect of the special shaped pieces with reference to your build.

The Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

DULL MEN

I am getting oldenough now so that some of the little acorns which I saw planted are beginning to show up as quite sizable oaks.

For example, there was an office boy in the place where I worked after leaving college. He was not a bright office boy. We did not think that he would ever amount to very much. He did not think so himself. He had some of the vision which we read about. He just kept on keeping on.

Well, the other day I picked up a trade paper, and there was a big photograph of our ex-office boy, and the announcement that he had just been elected president of a rather important company.

As years go on, and the business of the country expands, his company will expand with it, for he will be a careful administrator. And some day his associates will give him a dinner and hail him as a great leader, and his picture will be hung in the Board Room.

Perhaps you have read Mr. Woodward's biography of General Grant. If so, you remember he stood low in his classes at West Point, and was later discharged from the army. When the Civil War broke out he was such a failure that his letter offering his services to his country was not even answered by the War Department.

The army was full of more brilliant men. Halleck, for instance, knew all about tactics. In any crisis he could tell just what Napoleon would have done. McClellan had a touch of genius. What did Grant have?

He had a superstition. When he started out on anything he hated to turn back. It applied even to small things. If, when he left the house in the mornings he had forgotten something he never retraced his steps. Always he went forward. And when he came to command armies he did the same thing. Doggedly, ploddingly, but exorably he pushed ahead.

When I was in college, the president said, "Henry Ward Beecher, when a student in Amherst College, stood at, or near, the foot of his class. Nearly a hundred years have passed, and Amherst College has produced no second Henry Ward Beecher, though many have stood at, or near, the foot of their class."

Just being dull, or standing at the foot of the class, is no assurance of success, of course. On the other hand, it is nothing to be discouraged about—a fact of which I see more evidence almost every day.

Construction to be Started on New W. O. W. Chapel and Bird Sanctuary

Carillon of 25 Chimes in Beautiful Tower of $150,000 Building on Woodmen Hospital Grounds at San Antonio, Texas

This is the architect's drawing of the $150,000 Woodmen of the World Chapel and Bird Sanctuary to be built at San Antonio, Tex., on the W. O. W. Memorial Hospital grounds.

Construction will be started immediately on the $150,000 Woodmen of the World Chapel and Bird Sanctuary on the grounds of the Woodmen of the World Memorial Hospital at San Antonio, Texas. President W. A. Fraser announced today. The chapel will be built along similar lines to the Bok Tower and Bird Sanctuary located in Florida. As part of the chapel there will be a tower which will have a carillon of twenty-five chimes.

"This will be a universal church," said President Fraser. "Regardless whether a person be a Protestant, Jew or Catholic, he or she can hold services in this church," said President Fraser. The membership of the Woodmen of the World is made up of people of all religions and nationalities and the church must be universal in order to serve our membership."

The chapel will be located on a 250 acre tract within a short distance from the Woodmen of the World hospital. Patients will be encouraged to go to chapel and worship God according to their own religions.

"The chapel and tower will be a unique architectural design," said Mr. Fraser. The outside will be of Indiana limestone. Dark oak with large ceiling beams will be used in the interior. The main stained-glass window of the church will be a production of Tiffany of New York.

The chapel will also have a patio with a beautiful fountain, especially designed, according to Mr. Fraser.

"In my opinion, this chapel and carillon tower will be one of the most beautiful ever designed," said Mr. Fraser. "It will not be large, seating only two hundred, but the beauty will be there." He said that it will be one of the show places of Texas.

A special landscaping is now being carried on, and in the bird sanctuary will be various types of birds collected from various parts of the world.

Mr. Fraser said that the chapel and the bird sanctuary will be a memorial to the departed membership of the Woodmen of the World.

Phelps and Dewees of San Antonio are the architects.

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES REQUIRED

Various Fruits and Vegetables That Supply Vitamin C.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Nutrition specialists urge constantly that the diet for all ages, but especially for children, should include an abundance of foods rich in vitamins. There are now recognized, however, at least six independent vitamins. As each has its own function to perform in growth and bodily well-being, it is necessary to know which one is lacking and what foods supply it. Otherwise a diet might supply some, but not all of the different vitamins.

For instance attention is often called to the necessity for vitamin C in the diet. Especially good sources of this vitamin are the citrus fruits, (oranges, grapefruit, and lemons), raw cabbage and turnips and tomatoes, raw, cooked, or canned. Other foods mentioned by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture as supplying this vitamin are apples, bananas, young carrots, cauliflower, guavas, onions, peas, pineapples, potatoes, raspberries, spinach, sprouted legumes and string beans.

One reason for insistence on supplying plenty of these foods is that the body has only a limited capacity to store vitamin C. Replenishment must go on continually. Another reason is that this vitamin is very easily destroyed by heat and oxidation. If vegetables are cooked too long they may lose their vitamin C. All recent instructions on vegetable cooking stress quick-cooked methods. Canning often destroys vitamin C. In the case of acid foods like tomatoes, destruction is not so extensive. Tomatoes seem to retain most of their vitamin content either cooked or canned.

On diets deficient but not entirely without vitamin C, children become irritable and lacking in stamina, do not grow normally, and are less resistant to infectious diseases. Shortage of vitamin C is thought to be an important factor in the prevalence of tooth decay and of much of the so-called rheumatism in children and adults. When vitamin C is entirely lacking, scurvy develops. This used to happen on long sea voyages before present knowledge of the preventive value of lemons and other portable foods containing vitamin C.

In testing foods for vitamin C in the laboratory, guinea pigs are fed a basal diet complete except for this vitamin, and then given measured amounts of the food in question. If the animals thrive and grow well, the food is probably a good source of vitamin C; if the animal develops symptoms of scurvy—sore, stiff joints, a tendency to hemorrhage, sore gums, loosening of the teeth, and fragility of bones—the food under test probably is deficient in vitamin C. Similar symptoms are found in human beings whose diet has lacked the foods that supply this important vitamin.

VACCINATION IS REMEDY FOR POX

New Method Being Used by Nevada Poultrymen

Control of chicken pox in Nevada has been facilitated in Washoe county by a method new to poultrymen of the state, one that has proved itself speedy, economical and effective, according to Edward C. Reed, county agricultural extension agent.

The method, which in essentials is similar to the vaccination of persons against smallpox, consists of plucking feathers from the leg or the wing of the chicken and applying a concentrated chicken pox vaccine to the follicles from which the feathers are removed.

Advantages over the subcutaneous method by which the fowls are vaccinated with a hypodermic, consist in the much greater speed, often running as high as 2,000 vaccinations a day; less resulting illness among the pullets; and smaller expense for vaccine, as less is used.

Washoe county poultrymen are planning what they think will be an improvement on last year's method for immunization. Instead of using a stiff bristle brush for the application, they propose to use a small rake-like metal instrument and to scratch the web under the chicken's wing.

Vaccine for the method is especially prepared and is secured through the veterinary control service of the University of Nevada.

The method was first used extensively in Holland, but experimental work in agricultural experiment stations in the United States, particularly in California and Oregon, has resulted in some improvement in the European method.

The next meeting of the teachers will be in the Lazbuddy high school auditorium sometime about the first of December.

The largest crowd ever to see a basketball game at the home courts saw the Lazbuddy High school boys' and girls' teams defeat the strong Bovina teams Friday afternoon by the scores of 43 to 10 and 17 to 14, respectively. The girls' game was hotly contested from start to finish and no one knew till the last whistle had blown who was to be declared the winner. Mr. McDaniels is to be complimented on his very excellent refereeing.

The basketball teams go to Oklahoma Lane Friday afternoon of this week for a couple of games and probably the girls will play Muleshoe at Muleshoe Friday night, though this is only tentative. Friday, October 31, we play Spring Lake here, and Friday night, November 7, the girls play Friona there.

This week is examination week in high school and much midnight oil is being burned. All the high school classes are doing excellent work.

The senior class met last Wednesday and decided to stage a play sometime soon, the proceeds of which to be used on the purchase of class sweaters.

To the Citizens of BAILEY COUNTY

I want to take this opportunity of commending to the public generally and to the cotton ginners in particular, the excellency of the gins and the character of the ginners located in Muleshoe.

I have had considerable experience in the gin business, and believe that I know machinery and what it will do when I see it. I have purposely inspected both gins here in Muleshoe and find they are both first class plants, and will do just as good work as any gin on the Plains or anywhere else in Texas.

Now, from an economic standpoint, we need both gins. It saves the farmer lots of time in getting his cotton ginned quickly, so he can get back home for another bale, and it is worth something to the town to be able to care for the farmer's cotton when he comes to town, and to do it satisfactorily.

If one gin gets all the cotton, then the other gin would be out of business, and necessarily move out. So, let's patronize both gins about equally, giving each of them half of our ginning, and by doing so, they will be able to pay their taxes and insurance, and become an asset to the community. It won't be but a few years until we will need both of them badly, so let's be good sports and give both an even break.

Time of Feeding Hens Very Important Matter

The old idea was to give the hens some grain the first thing in the morning, because they are hungry at that time and will eat readily. The new idea is to feed in the evening enough grain that a little will be left over for the morning feeding.

This left-over grain will in no way satisfy their morning appetites, so there should be a good-sized mash hopper filled with laying mash for them to finish off on. Clearing up the left-over grain and eating mash should occupy the hens' time until ten o'clock.

At this time give them a light feeding of grain, about one-third of the total amount of grain they will get that day. The hens being tired from a morning of continual eating, they will rest for a while, after the ten o'clock feeding of grain.

As soon as this feed is exhausted the hens will begin to eat mash and continue until the regular grain feeding in the evening.

Poultry Notes

Get in touch with your county agent to obtain the rated culling schedule.

Although pigeons have long been reared only as a fancy, not as an industry, of recent years, the lofts are multiplying and the work of carrier pigeons in the war is accountable for this.

If pullets are cared for and fed properly during the summer months, they will start laying two to three months earlier than if they are given no attention and made to hunt for all their feed.

When the pullets and cockerels are distinguishable, they should be separated. The pullets should be allowed to grow normally while the cockerels should be packed on feed consumption for an early market.

Plans have been developed for a northwestern turkey marketing organization. The turkey marketing organization's leaders will meet as soon as the present crop has been sold to part a marketing program.

Tying strings crisscross over the chick yard, fastening the strings to the fence posts will keep away crows and hawks.

Small cement runs are probably best for use with long, continuous brooder houses. Dirt runs are quickly contaminated and trouble results.

To prevent infection through feed and drinking water, dry mash should be fed in hoppers; scratch grain from troughs, and drinking water from elevated, clean vessels.

A pedigree is a valuable aid to the poultry breeder since it expresses briefly the performance history of a bird. Although the possession of a good pedigree does not guarantee that the bird itself will be a good breeder it furnishes the most reliable means on which to base expectations.

The poultry flock which furnishes a food supply for mites has little energy left for egg production. Rld the birds of the pests by painting the perches with carbolineum, old crank case oil, or gas tar.

though the house is only half shingled... it matters not

That's one of the many fine features of this new method of re-roofing—the house is always completely protected in case of sudden storm or showers. By this plan, the new shingles are laid right over the old shingled roof—there's no sacrifice of protection during the process.

The "RED CEDAR METHOD" is widely used and entirely practical. It gives your home double insulation against heat and cold. Heat loss through the roof is reduced to a minimum. Fuel consumption is lowered.

Rooms that were cold in winter become warm and cosy. Cost of removing the old roof and of gathering up and disposing of the litter is eliminated.

Lazbuddy News

(Too late for last week)

The recital given Friday night in the High school auditorium by Wayne Eubanks, one of the High school teachers, was much enjoyed by a large crowd. Some of his private students were in some pleasing numbers, also and the musical numbers rendered by the visitors from Canyon were greatly appreciated.

The pie supper, under the auspices of the Lazbuddy Study Club, was a decided success, both from the social side and the financial side. The net proceeds, $52.80, will be used toward furnishing hot lunches to the school during the cold days this winter. The study club is to be greatly complimented for the success with which they put anything over that is undertaken by them.

One of the most appreciated improvements which has been made at the school recently is the installation of the walk from the front gate to the auditorium door. We are indebted to the Lazbuddy dramatic club for this much needed improvement. The Dramatic club is under the direction of Miss Greta Paul, and they have, from time to time, put on some very excellent plays.

The school truck drivers are busy this week putting up the play ground equipment and the children are very impatient because they have to wait a week for the concrete to harden before being allowed to use it. A giant stride, a junior stride, a giant wave, a

Entered as second-class matter at the Muleshoe Postoffice under the Act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

JESS MITCHELL, Editor; I. F. WILLIS, Business Manager

Subscription Rates: In Bailey County, one year, $1.50; Outside of County one year, $2.00.

Published every Friday morning at Muleshoe, Texas. Advertising rates given upon application. Telephone No. 54.

Subscribers who change their addresses, or fail to get their paper, should immediately notify this office, giving both new and old addresses.

Communications of local interest, and which are of general interest, will be accepted for publication on only one side of the paper, and must reach this office not later than Wednesday morning of each week.

Advertising that does not show in its text or typography that it is paid for must be marked as an advertisement. All local advertisements remain in this paper for the time specified or until ordered out. All notices, it matters not by whom nor for what purpose, if the object is to raise money by admission fee or otherwise, is an advertisement and when sent in for publication must be paid for at the regular advertising rate per line for each issue printed.

Obituaries, eulogies, and resolutions of respect will also be charged for at the same rate.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Muleshoe Journal will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

In case of errors or omissions in local or other advertisements, the publisher does not hold himself liable for damage further than the amount received by him for such advertisement.

CLEANER STREETS

The city officials are to be commended for the fine work that has been recently performed in grading the streets, and the Journal would like to suggest there are some alleys in the town that need their attention quite as an old saying: "The appreciation of the dead may be told by the way the cemetery is kept," and the same adage will apply to the living.

One's appreciation of the town they live in can be told by the way they keep it.

A prospective Muleshoe property buyer last week told the Journal that the principal reason he did not move here was the apparent lack of civic pride. A stranger's reaction toward any town is quite frequently correct. And it is a fact, that long familiarity with certain conditions often dulls one's senses to matters that could be easily corrected in a way that would mean much to the community's welfare.

The unsanitary and repulsive condition of some of the alleys in this town is a disgrace to the best citizenship and a very poor advertisement of its merits. It is certainly unneeded and unwell for. It is nearly as easy to clear as it is to be filthy, and much more satisfactory.

Sometimes after reading a daily newspaper, we can't help but feel that there isn't anything straight in Chicago but the shooting.

PAYING TAXES

No man retards the progress of his own community any more than the fellow who slacks in the payment of his taxes. He knows that it takes revenue to run his county, and that the chief source of that revenue is through taxation. And yet he endangers the prompt and successful operation of county affairs by either becoming delinquent altogether or withholding until the last second the tax money he knows he must eventually pay.

For some reason, none of us enjoy paying taxes. Yet we ought to know that we wouldn't have much of a county if we didn't pay them. Whether it is pleasant or not, we should, as good citizens, set an example by meeting this obligation the moment it is due.

There are as few chronic "tax dodgers" around Muleshoe as anywhere else in the country, and yet there are many who could be far more prompt than they are, and thus speed up the conduct of our county and city business.

Think it over, and we feel sure you will agree that it is a good business rule, as well as an example of good citizenship.

The world owes every man a living and there are a lot of folks who are getting it a dollar down and a dollar a week.

IRRIGATION PAYS

The drought condition existing quite generally over the United States during the past year has convinced farmers everywhere that an irrigation plant is a good thing to have around at least part of the time, the most of the farmers are not situated where they can benefit from such virtue.

Every farmer in the Blackwater valley who irrigated his land this year, or a part of it, has made extra good money, and really, there is no excuse for any farmer living in this valley not owning such a plant and getting the increased benefits from it annually.

No doubt there will be a large number of irrigation plants put in this valley during the coming six months, but even then, there will not be many more there should be. Many farmers who could be making from $150 to $250 per acre on their land will continue to be semi-content with an income of from $25 to $50 per acre.

Let Texas folks live for Texas.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY

Everyone who has a vocation should also have an avocation, and we are sure there are plenty of people in Muleshoe who have a hobby. In fact a diversion interest is practically necessary to get the most out of life.

One's hobby, generally speaking, should be completely divorced from their general run of labor incident to the time and talent of any citizen here would be that of making this little city a better place in which to live. We know of nothing that could be of greater interest and bring larger returns in satisfaction.

MIDGET MESSAGES

More than one Muleshoe man can tell you that a lot of cold cash is lost on hot tips.

Many a Muleshoe man can't sing a note often swears he can't finance one either.

After a few years of married life, a Muleshoe wife's birthday becomes just something else a husband forgets.

Muleshoe women can love some quick kissing hobby that no woman can love a man who can't be jealous of her.

There may be a Santa Claus, but we don't believe there ever was a Muleshoe man who had aches and pains without mentioning them to his wife.

The younger married women around Muleshoe want their husbands to buy them a lot of things, but a wash tub isn't on any of the lists.

An old-timer at Muleshoe man who can remember when cobwebs were something that gave a woman a fit to behold, instead of the name of a new kind of hosiery.

Pavement Pickups

Neal Rocky says he has heard of things done by absent-minded men, but the one who stepped on his wife and kissed the self-starrer takes the prize.

R. S. Little thinks another way the government could help the farmers would be to compel the bootleggers to make whiskey out of corn and mill maize instead of old shoes, concentrated lye and things like that.

The other day a customer in the Mission barber shop noticed that Tansorial Art Garret was wearing rubber gloves while cutting his hair. "Why do you do so," inquired the customer. "To keep our celebrated hair restorer from causing hair to grow on my hands," replied Garret. He sold a bottle.

One day the first of this week a young bride walked into the Western Drug store, and approaching Harley Davis rather timidly, said: "Some of that baby tonic you have been advertising in the Journal—does it really make bigger and stronger babies?" "We sell a lot of it," replied Harley, "and we've never had a complaint."

"Well, I'll take a bottle," said the bride after a moment, and went out. In five minutes she was back. She got Harley into a corner and whispered into his ear: "I forgot to ask you about this baby tonic," she said under her breath. "Who takes it—me or my husband?"

There was a young lady in Muleshoe Who from eating green apples went blouie. Within the lamented They quickly fermented And made cider inside her camisole.

permit or not in conformity with this ordinance shall be removed.

No building shall be moved from one location to another within the fire limits until a permit has been obtained therefor. Permit shall be issued only in case the construction is in accordance with this ordinance.

Section 3. INCOMBUSTIBLE CONSTRUCTION REQUIRED WITHIN FIRE LIMITS: Every building hereafter erected, altered or enlarged within the fire limits, shall be enclosed on all sides with walls constructed wholly of stone, well burned brick, tile or reinforced concrete, and shall have the roof, also the roof and sides of all roof structures, covered with incombustible material.

All cornices shall be of incombustible material.

Section 4. FRAME BUILDINGS: No structure whose walls are wholly, or in part, constructed of wood, shall hereafter, be built or moved into the fire limits as herein designated or as they may hereafter be established except as follows:

(a) Temporary one story frame buildings for the use of buffers.

(b) Small outhouses not exceeding 100 square feet in area and 8 feet in height, not located within 30 feet of any other building nor within 15 feet of any lot line.

Any existing frame or iron clad building within the fire limits, which may hereafter be damaged by fire, decay or otherwise to an amount greater than one-half its present value exclusive of the foundation shall not be repaired or rebuilt, but shall be removed.

Section 5. GAS CONNECTIONS: Gas connections to stoves and similar heating devices shall be made of rigid metal pipes. For small portable heating devices, flexible metal tubing may be used when there is no valve or other shut off in the device.

Section 6. FEES REQUIRED: The fee for any construction, alteration or repairs of structures shall be $2.50.

Ordinary repairs of buildings or structures may be made without permit provided the Building Inspector be notified and the cost of such repairs shall not exceed $50.00. In no case shall such repairs conflict in any way with the foregoing provisions of this ordinance.

Section 7. PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS: Any and all persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance or shall fail to comply with any order or regulation made thereunder, or who shall build in violation of any detailed statement or specifications submitted and approved thereunder, or in any certificate or permits thereunder, shall severally for each and every such violation and noncompliance, respectively, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than TEN DOLLARS and not more than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS. The impositions of one penalty for any violation of this ordinance shall not excuse the violation or permit it to continue; and all such persons shall be required to correct or remedy such violations or defects within a reasonable time; and each ten days that prohibited conditions are maintained or permitted to exist shall constitute a separate offense.

The appliance of the above penalty shall not be held to prevent the enforced removal of prohibited conditions as provided in Section 2 of this ordinance, by any legal or equitable remedy.

Section 8. CONFLICTING ORDINANCES: Any ordinance in conflict with this ordinance shall be null and void.

Section 9. APPLICABILITY: This ordinance shall apply to all buildings hereafter erected without NANCES REPEALED: All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 9. DATE OF EFFECT: This ordinance shall take effect legally and be in force from and after its passage and legal publication.

Section 10. The fact that there is no adequate law establishing the metes and bounds of a fire zone in the City of Muleshoe, Texas, and regulating the construction of buildings erected therein creates a public necessity, and the rule requiring the second and third readings of an ordinance is hereby waived and suspended.

Passed October 13th, 1930. Approved October 13th, 1930. C. G. MARDIS, Mayor, City of Muleshoe, Texas. Attest: DELMA MCCARTHY, City Secretary.

Progress News Notes

The Home missionary society met Monday with Mrs. T. L. Snyder in an all-day meeting to quilt. Each lady brought her favorite dish and at noon all enjoyed a sumptuous repast.

All quilted until three o'clock. At that time the president opened a short business session by reading the 8th chapter of Matthew. After the business was taken care of, they quilted until a late hour. Eleven members and two visitors were present. We meet next Monday with Mrs. Frank Snyder.

Cold weather is motor-punishing weather... Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY-STARTING OIL

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier! There are two good reasons for this. First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly de-waxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness. The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures. Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle. ART NAMES SHOW COMING TO CITY

Art Names and his own famous company, the leading dramatic organization of the West, will play in Muleshoe all next week in their heated tent theatre. Art Names is a member of the Kansas Author's club and is a well-known author and playwright and is personally in charge of his famous company.

Art Names show has an exceptionally high literary and artistic standard and stands alone in the tent theatre field. It is the show you will never forget. It is not high-brow but high class. When you have seen the show you will realize the difference.

Art knows people and knows just what makes them laugh and enjoy themselves and he spares no pains and labor to make every evening an evening of delightful entertainment. He has with him this season a group of splendid performers including Ted F. Chase and Ralph Dennis, two of the cleverest comedians in the West. Every night they will make you roar with laughter. The tent is heated and is warm and comfortable. Monday night the play will be "The Patsy," a famous Broadway success.

Art has several babies of his own and wants you to know that the babies are welcome.

It is written that the meek shall inherit the earth, and that's the only way they'll ever get it.

Comparatively Easy to Make Roads Beautiful

Our roadsides are in no small way the nation's nearest public park. To millions who can go no farther they are the only out-of-doors. To the roadside come the trees and flowering bushes and the sunlight on the grasses. They are embassies of nature to those who cannot travel from the beaten path.

But the roadsides of America now are unkempt and broken. Nature is hacked away. Ditches are foul; the flats piled with dumpings. The slopes are bare beside the hot-dog stacks. The road goes through to a destination, but the main destination which very often is the beauty on the way, usually is ignored.

To the hitting costs and maintenance of roads a 1 per cent addition, more or less, for affording plants, trees and natural vegetation would double the roads' real value. At small expense parkways can be made along the public roads. Flowering trees can be set out. Slopes can be vine covered. The roadsides can be made the finest and most useful park of the entire nation.

Without doubt a great value of the public roads is yet to be realized. They are used by motorists seeking natural beauty. A trifle more expenditure, with restrictive measures against eyesores, would make them what the traveler hopes to find.

Too Little Attention Paid to Attractiveness

To some extent there has been a growing regard for attractiveness in building of dwelling houses and the design of premises; in both exterior and interior plans for business places, great and small; in the construction of hotels, office buildings and apartments, and even in filling stations. But we still have investors who insist upon putting up merely utilitarian houses, plain, unattractive stores, dry goods box styles of apartments and other merely serviceable construction, when for a little more outlay a much better investment could be made, or better results could be had even with the same expenditure of money and a little more application of intelligence. We still have home owners who could well afford to keep their houses and the lawns in order, but put no value on the factor of attractiveness; who do not appreciate the importance to themselves of making a "good appearance"; who are content to live in plain dinginess when they could give themselves a brighter outlook on life from their private domain.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Warning in London's Growth

London is pushing out its tentacles far and wide among what were once the rural beauties of the home counties. The existing population, encouraged by motor transport and electric railways, is creating new suburbs. Factories recently erected in the Greater London area are causing, according to Doctor Unwin, 20,000 people to move into it each year. A city which had all the potentialities of the most splendid did in the world is spreading, not splendor, but dinginess, tawdriness, inconvenience and muddle over an area of 2,000 square miles. And all this spoliation is occurring, not because there is no room, but because there is no plan.—London Daily Chronicle.

Environment Counts

People reflect their environment. Those who live in shabby, down-at-the-heels houses are likely to feel depressed and discouraged. We borrow much of our confidence and spirit from our surroundings. If they have nothing to give—no hope or confidence, no pride in home or joy in living—then they become a liability of such proportions that only the most herculean strength can resist them.—Exchange.

Give More Character

When discussing plans for the new home it should be remembered that "character" and "design" are two different things. A house may be designed well and yet be wholly lacking in character, or a house may be designed badly and possess character. Good design is obvious, but character is elusive and hard to visualize from a set of plans.

Trees Hurt by Wires

Wires or heavy ropes drawn tightly around a tree trunk or limb may slowly strangle the tree by retarding or stopping the free circulation of water or food, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The careless use of a long pruning-hook or other implement for breaking off small dead twigs should be avoided, the department adds.

Pecan Trees Line Highways

Terrell county, Oregon, has a pecan highway. By means of donations from various civic organizations more than 1,500 pecan trees have been planted along the highways.

To Beautify Roads

More beautiful highways are sought by the Missouri highway department. County and city schools are being asked to aid in improving the appearance of roadsides.

School Notes

Hallowe'en Carnival
Plans are being made for a school carnival for Hallowe'en Friday night at the school house, starting at 7:30 p. m. From the way it is starting out, it seems as if the carnival will be a success. There will be all kinds of interesting things to entertain all people—big, little, old and young. We will have home-made candy to sell, a play by the seventh grade will be put on and the grade school will put on two or three plays. There will be all sorts of booths, and we assure you that it will be well worth your time to come.

Leon Morris, "I want to put a death notice in your paper. How much do you charge?"
Editor, "A dollar an inch."
Leon, "Heavens, and he was over six feet tall!"

Not long ago Maude met an old flame of hers so she thought she would high tail him. When the hostess introduced her she said, "Sorry, I didn't get your name."
Old flame, "I know you didn't, but you tried hard tonight."
Miss Beauty: "How old is your little sister, dear?"
Marguerite: "She isn't old at all, she's this year's model."

Mr. Cox—What we need here in this school system is brains.
Mr. Kendrick—Yes, one doesn't have to be here long to figure out our difficulty.

Ikey, seeing his mother's new evening gown, "Oh, mother, how lovely will you wear it tonight."
Mrs. Thompson, "No, not tonight. This is only for times when ladies and gentlemen come to dinner."
Ikey, "Well, let's pretend just for once that dad is a gentleman."

Inspection Here

Of all the scrambling that has taken place around Muleshoe in some time, happened Monday morning when the school was notified that the state inspector was to be there at noon. The way some of the kids got their books covered and up in shape for inspection was a sight. The worst of it, or the funniest thing, was the fact that he did not show up at noon, so all the kids were sadly disappointed, for some lessons had been left unstudied in order to get the books covered by noon. He was there on time Tuesday morning, though.

Entertain Football Lads

The football boys were entertained by the pep squad girls Saturday night with a party given in the gymnasium.

It was decorated in gold and white, the school colors. Two sides were chosen, one was the white side and the other yellow. Through the remainder of the party these kids wore their yellow and white paper on their arms showing which side they were on. Everyone seemed to enjoy the games that were played and also the delicious refreshments that were served. The refreshments were a butter and bread sandwich, chicken salad sandwich, pickle, potato chips and fruit punch. I think the pep squad girls are expecting an entertainment from the boys some time before long.

The play, "Miss Blue Bonnet," which was sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association and played last Saturday night, had a good attendance and was liked by all who attended.

Mrs. Hardin (in discussion of how smart Lindberg was), "I do think he is above the average person."
C. Paul, "Yes, by about two inches."

Ec. Club Meet

The Home Ec. club met last Tuesday, October 21, with 17 members present and their sponsor, Miss Boone. This was mostly a business meeting. The program committee is planning an interesting program for next time. The motto for the club is "Not what we are, but what we want to be." The meetings will be held every second and fourth Tuesdays of the month. The dues are ten cents a month.

TATE-BARRINGTON

Miss Cora Barrington and Mr. Cecil H. Tate of this place were united in matrimony Saturday afternoon at 6:00 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. C. A. Joiner, local Baptist pastor, officiating in a simple, yet impressive ceremony. A small group of friends of the couple was present.

The couple departed immediately for Lubbock for a short vacation, returning Monday morning to Muleshoe to resume their duties in this city.

Miss Barrington, who came to this place from Crosbyton about a year ago, is employed in the real estate offices of R. L. Brown, and Cecil H. Tate is a well known attorney of this place, he having also been here about a year, coming from Lubbock.

The bride was dressed in a navy blue and tan traveling suit and the groom was dressed in black.

The Journal joins their host of friends here and elsewhere in wishing them much happiness.

LEAGUE MEET AT SILVERTON

A meeting of much interest to the young people of the Methodist church was held Sunday with the Epworth League of the Methodist church, at Silverton.

This was the district rally which is held each quarter. There was a good attendance from the local Methodist church. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Good Hardin, Miss Beth Mardis, Coy Burkhead, Nina Mae Bruce, Myrtle Burkhead.

We want all Leaguers to be present next Sunday night to hear these reports. We are planning for a big banquet on November 7 to be with the Epworth League of Oton. We are hoping we can have the largest delegation to our League services if you are not attending any other young peoples service.—Reporter.

JUNIOR B. Y. P. U. PROGRAM

The subject of Junior B. Y. P. U. program for Sunday evening at the Baptist church is "Faith Is the Victory." Eva Harper will lead the discussion, using as her subject "Crowds Follow Jesus." The time of meeting is 6:00 o'clock.

Other topics are as follows:

- "At Capernaum," Joe Bill Alsap.
- "The Nobleman Returns," L. S. Barron, Jr.
- "The Centurion Comes to Jesus," Juanita Coker.
- "Jesus Heals the Slave," Junior Winn.
- Poem by Ida Lou Glaze.
- Sword Drill, directed by Mrs. Glaze.

B. A. U. MEETING

The meeting of the B. A. U. at the Baptist church Sunday evening at seven o'clock, will be led by Mrs. Holland, the subject being, "The Church and Its Service of Worship."

Others to take part in the discussions are Mrs. Roberts, Mr. Cox, Curtis Taylor, Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Buchanan.

SPOOKS OF DEPARTED PLAY FRANKS ON LIVE MISSIONERS

The W. M. U. of the Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. G. C. Danner Monday afternoon in business and social.

There were 24 members present with two new members and one visitor.

The spirit of Halloween predominated. The guests were met at the door by the "Ghost." There were also wiches with high peaked hats, black cats and Jack-O-Lanterns doing their part to create a weird scene.

The President read the fifth chapter of Romans for our devotional.

After business was dispensed with we dismissed for the social hour. Mrs. Byron Griffiths led the games which were enjoyed by all. Those who were absent surely missed a fine time. Love refreshments were served, after which we adjourned to meet next Sunday at the Church in our Bible study conducted by the pastor.—Reporter.

ODD FELLOWS TO MEET WED. NIGHT TO FURTHER PLANS

After having met three times in the interest of gaining a charter for a lodge here, the Odd Fellows of this vicinity have called another meeting for Wednesday night, Nov. 5, in an effort to complete final steps in making their application.

Those interested in the organization have requested that every Odd Fellow in the community, whether in good standing or not, to especially be present, and all prospective members are invited to this meeting. There will be some good talks by prominent Odd Fellows, and a lunch will be served free to all who wish to come.

YL MISSIONARY SOCIETY

(Too late for last week.)

The YL Missionary society met at the home of Miss Dottie Wilterling Tuesday, October 21, with 12 members and one visitor present. The meeting was opened with song and prayer. After the roll call and reading of the minutes, a short business session was held. Sister Jones gave a very interesting talk on the 23rd and 34th chapters of Acts.

The devotional was given by our president. Plans were made for our Halloween party, and some work done on our quilt.

The next meeting will be at the parsonage on Tuesday, November 4, at 2:30 p. m.

METHODIST MISSIONARY MEET

Mrs. Harold Wyer was hostess to the Methodist Missionary society Monday afternoon in a social meeting.

Halloween contests furnished entertainment for the afternoon.

Delicious refreshments were served the following:

Mesdames W. B. Hicks, J. F. Wallace, I. W. Hancy, I. W. Harden, Delma McCarty, J. L. Taylor, W. H. Kistler, Clay Beavers, G. A. Johnson, A. P. Stone, C. H. Buzard, W. West, Albert Isaacs, Hill and Misses Elizabeth Harden, Marie Gwyn and Casey of Lubbock.

New Freedom of Women Raises Standard of Music

BERNARD BARTON'S PLAYING GIVES INSTRUMENTS RATING

New York City.—Though the drum is ordinarily relegated to the back of the orchestra, there are some super-drummers who bring it to the fore. Bernard Barton, manager of the Weede Meyer Orchestra, is one great musician who is a drummer.

"Though the basis of our music is the African drum, the drum has not developed as have other instruments in the band," Barton apologizes for his adored medium. "Yet the tom-tom beat of the drums from tribe to tribe in Africa has made the basis for American jazz. Though we have appropriated it, we have done little to elaborate this beat."

"Musicians as a rule do not take the drum seriously and it is only on rare occasions that one gets the musical value out of the instrument. Yet it would not be possible to have a dance orchestra without a drum, although any other instrument might be substituted for it. Drum beats are the teeth of the band."

Mr. Barton has studied the drum in many lands, he says. "In Haiti, natives often drop from exhaustion, trying to keep up with the rhythm of their elongated tom-tom."

"Many of our most popular tunes are real drum numbers and I am surprised that more leaders don't take advantage of the possibilities of the instrument. 'What's the Use?' the fox trot ballad that is played and sung everywhere, is typical of the kind of dance tune that shows up drum possibilities at their best."

International Sunday School Lesson for November 2

SIMON PETER—FROM WEAKNESS TO STRENGTH

Mark 8:27-29; Luke 22:31-34; John 18:25-27; 21:15-17

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Peter was the popular one among the twelve apostles. More is known about his life than any other and, in part, this is because he was the frequent spokesman. He was invariably human and because he made so many mistakes we find comfort in studying his life.

It is significant that problems arose for Peter as an adult. It is much easier to develop a worthy character when the task is entered upon in childhood. Here we have the training of an adult and the slogan is still true. "It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks." If Jesus had been the teacher of Peter in his early teens the work would have been less difficult and more successful.

Adults who are making serious mistakes will find much help in this study of Peter. Believe another saying and take courage: "It is never too late to mend."

Observe three distinct calls that came to Peter from Jesus. The first, when brought by Andrew his brother, was to become a friend of the Master. Then there was the invitation to go to school as a disciple (learner). Later twelve apostles were chosen from among the disciples and Peter was selected. After Jesus had been rejected by the multitude, because He would not become their bread-making kine the traveling school was taken to the base of Mount Hermon. Here there was a special quiz class as the Teacher said "Whom do the men say that I am?" While the others were still thinking Peter gave the right answer: "Thou art the Christ." For this right reply the pupil was especially commended.

ENTERTAINS SOCIETY

Mrs. Harold Wyer delightfully entertained the members of the missionary society at her home Monday afternoon. There were 20 present. The guests were met at the door by the spookiest of ghosts. Customary Halloween games were played. The "Cat Tale" was a special feature. Fortunes were drawn from a large pumpkin, each one getting the forecast for the future.

Guests other than the missionary ladies were Mrs. Marie Gwyn, Mrs. Coffey and Miss Elizabeth Harden.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Buzard's Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

SCHOOL HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL

There will be a Halloween carnival at the High school building Friday evening of this week, with the program presented by the school, beginning at 7:30 and continuing until 8:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend this gala affair.

WEEVILS OR WORMS THRIVE IN SUMMER

Pests Multiply Fast When Conditions Favorable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As warm weather approaches it sometimes happens that weevils or worms appear in cereals or flour, in spite of their having been bought in tight packages or kept in tin or glass containers. According to the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture, this may be because some almost invisible eggs were in the cereal or flour in the warehouse or factory before it was sealed, or because an infestation has occurred from some nearby source—perhaps staples bought loose and placed in the pantry. Whatever the cause, the cereals are rendered unfit for food when the higher temperatures cause insects to develop faster.

It is very troublesome to the housewife to have these pests gain a foothold among the supplies. They multiply rapidly where conditions are favorable, and may even necessitate fumigating the entire kitchen or pantry. Food once infested should be promptly destroyed and any infested containers thoroughly scalded and sunned. All cereals should be bought in very small quantities in warm weather, so that in case of infestation there is but little waste. Glass mason jars make good storage places if kept closed, or pound coffee tins or the sets of tight-lidded tins often sold for the pantry.

If the house is shut up at any time during the summer while the family goes away for a vacation, all remnants of cereals should be given away or thrown out to prevent all possibility of infestation by weevils.

A SPOOKY PARTY

On Tuesday night the ghosts invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Barron and made merry for the intermediate Sunday school classes of the Baptist church.

The house was decorated in keeping with the affair, and candles lent the necessary light for spooks to lurk and hide in every corner.

The guests began to arrive about 7:30. At the door a ghost was stationed to greet them and tell their fortunes.

Those present to enjoy the evening were as follows: Anna Margaret Hart, Eva Harper, Lillian Roach, Dora Nell McCarty, Ruth Eckler, Berrilee Arnold, Carrie Agnes Lee, Eunice Griffiths, Junior Winn, Charles Alsop, Justin Danner and L. S. Barron.

Refreshments of pumpkin face sandwiches, cookies and cocoa were served at 10:30.

ADDITIONAL SCHOOL NOTES

Second Grade

The second grade welcomes a new member to their room, Ross Thomas from Dimmit.

Jo Ann Aldridge, Betty McAdams, Hattie Ray Griffiths and Dorothy Peters have been promoted on trial to the third grade.

The second grade is going to give a program in chapel Monday, Nov. 3, as follows:

Health songs, by entire room.

"Borrowing," by Lowell Ginn

Thanksgiving Fable, by Hillis Duncan.

"Which Loved Her Best," by Virginia McCoy.

The first grade wins the honor of highest attendance with 99%.

Gas in Dental Surgery

In 1840, Horace Wells, American dental surgeon, expressed the idea that teeth might be extracted painlessly by the application of nitrous oxide gas. He tested the efficacy of the gas in this operation on his own person in 1844 and afterward frequently used it in his practice.

THE AUCTION SALE A GREAT FALL TIME INSTITUTION AND VALUABLE IN BOTH DOLLARS AND FRIENDSHIP

"Going once! Going twice! Going three times and sold!"

The auctioneer may be selling an old fashioned lamp or a modern tractor-threshing machine, or one of a thousand other things ranging between in size and value—but the bidder takes it and something else is put up for sale.

Every fall time is sale time in the Muleshoe section, and every other section on the South Plains, as that matter goes. Day after day and week after week for about three months time, the sales go on. During this period the auctioneer is one of the most popular and in-demand citizens and business men of the county. Many of these auction farm sales are not only good business enterprises, but also excellent social events, furnishing an opportunity for neighbors to get acquainted and the new settlers to learn more about the older ones.

Every year there are numerous farmers who have an accumulation of livestock, grain, seed, farm implements, household goods, etc., that they wish to get rid of, and every year there are numerous other farmers, many of them new settlers, who have of this very same stuff. Some of it they buy at real bargains, and both seller and buyer are satisfied. Some farmers declare the auction sale system is the most profitable manner in which to dispose of many articles unneeded and of much grain and livestock grown on the farm. Occasionally, exceptionally high prices are paid for certain commodities.

One is a great while a farmer has an auction sale with the intention of leaving the country for what he thinks a more desirable location; but no one in Bailey county ever worries about that, for where one leaves there are several dozen more coming in, and real estate dealers always have a big list of prospective land buyers on hand, while the applications for farms to rent runs up into the scores above the farms that are rentable.

The man who has a sale in this section because he has gone broke is about as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth—most of these sales being held just as a matter of good business, the same as a merchant holds a sale of his wares and merchandise.

In truth the auction sale is a great American institution and worth much more to the community than the dollars and cents it represents.

WEIRD ANTICS OF EARLY HALLOWE'EN PRANKSTERS CARRIED DOWN TO THE PRESENT, BUT IN MODIFIED MANNER

By Inez Peters

How many of the Muleshoe people, as well as those of other communities, know why they play hilarious tricks on their friends October 31st? Even the small child would exclaim with wounded dignity, that it is Halloween; and so it is. If we were to ask the oldest inhabitant here why he celebrates on the above mentioned date he would say it was because of the customs handed down by his forefathers.

Halloween, like many other festivals not of Christian origin, was derived from the ceremonies with which the heathen peoples of Europe had been accustomed to mark the exchanges of the seasons. Witches and fairies are supposed to assemble on this night, especially. They were supposed to have sold themselves to the devil, and, in return, received the power to work magic. They could change themselves, or others into weird beings. They had charms against the hurt of weapons, could raise storms, were pain to their enemies.

Halloween night, we may look out after it becomes dark and see goblins and witches with their black cats perched on their shoulders flying about provoking the spirits of mischief. They even tell me that the deceased are given their freedom for the one night, being allowed to haunt all their old earthly pastimes.

However, we realize that we are now living in a period when such fanciful superstitions do not exist. We just remember them as fun for the holiday spirit of Halloween. This gay festival serves as one of the things to furnish fun especially for the younger generation. It sets apart one day out of October in which we can wear the craziest of costumes, and no one will look at you with that queer smile as if to say: "Are you there one hundred per cent mentally?"

Remember, people of Muleshoe let's not abuse this good old festival by the damaging of property. So many boys, as well as girls, think when Halloween arrives on the calendar it is time to move freight train cars in the way of automobile traffic, pile tin cans in the most conspicuous places, destroy all property available, being no respecter of expense or value.

We ask the question: What shall we do? Let this good old holiday go by unobserved! Most of us would say no. I'm afraid there are some people that have had so much damage done to property they are willing for it to go by unobserved. Let's let the gay socials be our way of celebrating. We are all interested in the Halloween party.

Oh, witches they walk about on Halloween and cast their magic spell on all we do. Orange and black are the time honored festival colors. Decoration adds much to the party, so let us consider decorations. Crepe paper in those hues will obtain gay results. If a large room can be used for entertainment, real pumpkins, apples, and cornstalks may be used. The stalks can fill corners, the pumpkins can be made into Jack-O'-Lanterns to lend the ghostly feeling. Windows may be transformed by the use of black and orange crepe paper. Of course, we must not forget about favors insignificant in cost, but the real backbone of the party. Just some simple knick-knack will serve the purpose. Tiny black cats may be given as souvenirs. Crepe paper may be used to make these.

Considering costumes for Halloween, we find that the witch is the most common in use. The witch should carry a broom, and an owl or cat should be perched on one shoulder. Sheets and pillow cases may be used for ghost costumes. White gloves and masks should be used to give a scary appearance.

Entertainment should be very informal. Laughter and good hearty jokes should be the essence of the evening. Fortune-telling in rhyming verse, written on slips of orange paper with black ink, is appreciated very much. We must not forget the traditional entertainment such as bobbing for apples, cutting of fortune cake, walking backwards down stairs with mirror in hand to see who the future life mate may be, and making a contest of apples suspended from the ceiling.

The most important thing to remember on Halloween night is to have a good time in a moderate respectful way.

Through a Woman's Eyes
by Jean Newton

"LEAVE IMMEDIATELY!"

A JUGOSLAV proverb says: "Speak the truth but leave immediately after!"

That sounds almost like American efficiency. And the most veracious-minded person must admit that there are certain truths, which the telling over, will prove it is expedient to leave "immediately after!"

After telling a woman the truth about how old she looks, for instance.

After telling certain people the truth about their spoiled "little angel" children.

After telling many of the men you meet the truth about how their conversation strikes you.

After telling a fat, middle-aged Lothario the truth about his dancing.

After telling most people who want to write what you really think about their stuff.

After telling some hostesses the truth about their parties.

After telling some "fashionable" women how their clothes really look.

After telling certain authors or artists the truth about how their product impresses you.

After telling the amateur entertainer the truth about what her singing does to you.

After telling some of your relatives the truth about their dispositions.

After telling your husband or wife what you're thinking about 50 per cent of the time.

THE BEST GINNING

IS NEVER TOO GOOD FOR ANY COTTON GROWER IN THIS SECTION

—And we give You the very best!

It would be impossible for us to do otherwise. With a brand new gin equipped with brand new machinery of the very latest type—all strictly modern and up-to-date, and in charge of capable workmen having had years of experience in ginning, we can assure the patrons of this section absolute satisfaction in the service rendered.

We Save You Dollars

A dollar saved is just as good as a dollar made, and there is no need of working for that dollar twice. We get every dollar of it into possible from your load of seed cotton. Every dime saved you is an added dime to your crop returns.

It will help your bank account for us to gin your cotton.

YOUR HEALTH!

IS OF THE Greatest Import

Guard it well by supplying yourself and family with only the best and most wholesome of Groceries and other table provisions.

Inferior food may taste as well as the really sanitary kind, but it has its ill effect upon the system, and often invites sickness and he expense of medicine and doctor bills.

YOU CAN ALWAYS DEPEND UPON US FOR QUALITY GOODS SOLD AT LOWEST PRICES

We also have a complete line of Fresh and Cured Meats, the choicest of cuts—all fresh and wholesome.
