Pumper Opens Sprberry Pool In Andrews Area

A pay opener was completed in Andrews County, and another field gained its third well. Amoco Production Co. No. 1-ET-University, former Strawn pay-opener in the Block 6, Northeast field of Andrews, has been recompleted as a Sprberry pay-opener, to pump 48 barrels of 33.5-gravity oil and 18 barrels of water per day, with gas-oil ratio of 396-1.

Production was through perforations at 8,467-8,810 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons and fractured with 72,400 gallons and 87,700 pounds. Drilled to 12,615 feet, it has 5 1/2-inch pipe set at 11,211 feet, and is plugged back to 9,906 feet.

It was completed as the Strawn opener last June for 65 barrels of oil daily, through perforations at 11,097-11,116 feet. Location is 1,827 feet from north and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 25, block 6, ULS, 10 miles-south of Patricia.

Field Project
Texaco Inc. recompleted its No. 228-A-1 J. E. Mabee, former Silurian, well, as a third Mississippi producer, 3/4 mile northwest and 3/4 mile southeast of Mississippi production in the Lowe field.

It gauged a 24-hour flowing potential of 25 barrels of 48.1-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 10,886-1. Production was through an 8-64-inch choke and perforations at 11,145-11,275 feet, after acidizing with 6,000 gallons.

Wellsite is 1,995 feet from north and 1,974 feet from east lines of section 42, block 46, T-2-N, G&MB&A survey, 22 miles southeast of Andrews.

Glasscock Area Gets Fifth Well

The Zant (San Andres) pool of Northwest Glasscock County gained its fifth well and a location northeast extension with completion of Waldrop Co., Odessa, No. 1 Zant.

The new well had a 24-hour pumping potential of 18 barrels of 29-gravity oil and 41 barrels of water, producing through perforations at 3,810-3,814 feet. The pay zone had been acidized with 500 gallons.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and west lines of section 26, block 36, T-2-S, T&P survey, 10 miles south of Stanton.

Sutton Project Opens Gas Pool

Tri-State Oil & Gas Co., Inc. of Houston, has completed a Strawn gas strike in Southeast Sutton County, about 14 miles southeast of Sonora.

No. 1 L. Wallace was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow of 500,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio measuring 158,000-1. Distillate gravity was 57 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 5,828-5,838 feet, which had been washed with 1,500 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 8,000 gallons.

Drilled to 6,488 feet, it has 4 1/2-inch pipe set at 6,106 feet, and is plugged back to 5,870 feet. Top of the Strawn was (Continued On Page 9A)

1,541 Viet Refugees On Guam To Be Sent Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Ford's approval, 1,541 Vietnamese refugees now aboard a Vietnamese ship to an uncertain fate. U.S. officials said the refugees, who have appealed persistently for repatriation, turned down advice that they wait until it was clear they would be accepted by the Communist regime in Saigon. Several had threatened immolation if they were not put aboard the Vietnamese ship now docked in Apra Harbor. The U.N. high commissioner for refugees, Prince Saoruddin Agha Khan, and his special assistant, Zia Rizvi, have just completed a mission to Hanoi. They reportedly advised State Department officials to try to delay the return of the refugees until acceptance was certain. Because of adamant refugee leadership, a decision was made to send the refugees home, hoping they would be taken in as were two other shiploads from other countries. Some 130,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees were evacuated by U.S. forces last spring as the Communists took control of Saigon and Phnom Penh. Although tens of thousands have resettled in the United States, many others have had severe difficulty adjusting in California, for instance, 9,000 or more than half of the 17,000 in that state, are on welfare.

Undercover Agent Offered $25,000 To Kill President

WASHINGTON (AP) — An undercover agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was offered $25,000 within the past month to kill President Ford, the director of the bureau said today. Rex D. Davis, in a statement prepared for a Senate subcommittee investigating the Secret Service, said the individual who approached the agent was arrested the day following the offer, after sufficient evidence was gathered. Secret Service sources said the incident occurred during Ford's visit to St. Louis, Mo., in September. It was during that visit that a man with a .45-caliber pistol was spotted by a policeman on a catwalk in Kiel Auditorium an hour before the President was to speak there. The man escaped despite an extensive police search, and the President delivered his speech on time and without harm. It was not immediately clear whether that incident and the offer of money for Ford's death were related. The White House and the Secret Service would not comment. In his statement, Davis also said his agents acquired information during the past month from an informer "relating to the informer's contact with a member of a militant organization." "The subject was a twice-

Spanish Policeman Dies

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A Barcelona policeman died today of wounds suffered in a holdup blamed on the Basque separatist movement that has vowed vengeance against the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco for the execution of Basques. The death of one of two policemen wounded in the $600,000 robbery of a government pay office Monday raised to 19 the number of policemen killed in political violence since January 1974. The robbery was carried out by three men and two women disguised as doctors. The Spanish government's tough new antiterrorist law requires the death penalty for persons convicted of killing policemen. Five convicted police killers — two of them Basques — were executed at dawn Saturday.

Despite thunderous foreign protests set off by the executions, the Franco government was believed planning to go ahead with trials of 15 other Basque guerrillas and the hanging down of death penalties for some of them. The government denied new trials were imminent. But lawyers for 10 men and five women held on terrorist charges said they had been told to prepare for the trials before military courts. Basque lawyer Juan Maria Bandres said he had been asked to defend the country's top guerrilla leader, Jose Ignacio Mugica Arregui, the 30-year-old military chief of the Basque nationalist movement ETA, or Basque Land and Liberty. Mugica, charged with having a leading part in the December 1973 assassination of Premier Luis Carrero Blanco, was transferred Monday night from police headquarters to prison, the lawyer said. He added that the trials could begin Wednesday and that he expected the prosecution to demand the death sentence for at least four of the male defendants. The 15 ETA militants were arrested Sept. 19 in a roundup in Madrid. They were charged with ambush killings of police officers, bank robberies and other terrorist acts. The outcry against the executions was the biggest in Western Europe since World War II. It stemmed from deep-seated opposition to Western Europe's (See SPAIN Page 2A)

Patty Hearst Taken From Cell For Mental Tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was taken by federal marshals from her Redwood City jail cell today and driven to the Stanford University Medical Center for psychiatric testing, a spokesman for the center said. Miss Hearst also was taken Monday to the center less than 10 miles south of the San Mateo County Jail for a three-hour examination by Dr. Donald Lunde, said medical center spokesman Spyros Andreopoulos. Lunde is one of four specialists appointed by U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to determine whether Miss Hearst is (See HEARST Page 2A)

LATE BULLETINS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam said today the Sinai agreement between Israel and Egypt "has closed all the doors" to further progress in Middle East peace efforts. WASHINGTON (AP) — Mark Lane, long-time critic of the Warren Commission investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, said today the FBI warned its southern offices five days before Kennedy was shot that an attempt would be made to kill him in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A General Motors Corp. plant manager, his wife and three children were released unharmed today after the auto company paid an undisclosed ransom to their abductors, police said.

Gunmen's Friend Urges Surrender

LONDON (AP) — A woman member of the Black Liberation Front told three gunmen besieged in the basement of a restaurant today that they had been disowned by the immigrant organization and should free their six Italian hostages and give themselves up. The woman, reportedly a friend of the gunmen, said they had no chance of escaping the police net around the downtown restaurant or of being flown out of Britain. "You are on your own. Give yourselves up," she said. The gunmen, identified as two West Indians and a Nigerian, ignored her pleas as the siege went into its third day. "We're staying put," one of the gunmen shouted Monday night through a hole drilled in the wall of the 10-by-12-foot room after Scotland Yard twice refused their demands for a plane and safe passage out of Britain. "They ain't going nowhere," declared Deputy Asst. Commissioner Ernest Bond. There were fears the trio might crack under the strain and start shooting the captives in an attempt to force compliance with their demands. "The situation seems to be worsening," said Bond. "But if it does get worse, we've got contingency plans to meet any emergency." Asked if that meant going in shooting, he replied, "It hasn't come to that yet. Right now we don't care how long we have to wait." The gunmen invaded the Spaghetti House in Knightsbridge, headquarters of a chain of Italian restaurants, early Sunday morning to steal the night's proceeds from the chain. One of the nine Italian employees in the restaurant escaped after shoving the money under a table, and at the speedy arrival of the police the gunmen herded the other eight Italians into the storeroom. They let one man go Sunday as a "good-will gesture" and released Pasquale Cenicola, 34, after he collapsed Monday in the foul air of the tiny room.

Helping Hands Program Proves To Be Successful

By COURTNEY BARBER
Midland's Helping Hands program was begun in 1972 to protect children walking to and from school against child molesters. "Fortunately Chief (Harold) Wallace had the foresight to incorporate a crime prevention department," Sgt. Fred Johnson said. "Midland was the first of 60 crime prevention departments across the nation. When we started crime prevention and looked back over the statistics, we found that child molesting was the lowest in cleared cases. Indecent exposure to school-aged children had built up. In 1971, there were 35 reported cases. "In 1972, we took the Helping Hands program to the PTA. Only two cases were reported that year. There was an unfounded case in 1973. And for the past two years we haven't had one reported case of indecent exposure to a school-aged child around the schools. Eleven schools are in the Helping Hands program. "It (the program) has been extended out to seven days for some neighborhoods," Johnson said. "We all believe that if the children will go to a Helping Hands volunteer's house, when they are approached by a stranger, we can keep indecent exposure and child molesting down. When the children come to a volunteer's house, the volunteer will call the parents and notify the police department. Each volunteer displays a sign that has a hand on it, which is visible to children as they walk to and from school. "Last year, one school dropped out of the program. There was a small incident, so the school rejoined. Even though child molesting is disappearing from the crime scene in Midland by the use of the volunteer mothers, it is no sign to drop it (the program)," Johnson said. "We should continue under our present conditions. The Helping Hands program is a deterrent, because the child molester doesn't want to take chances. "Most child molesters think the younger the child is, the less the child is likely to know what to do, therefore they expose themselves or try to entice the child into a car. Once the child is in the car, the offender has the opportunity to fondle the child. "We show a 10-minute film on the do's and don'ts to the children at assemblies and to the parents and teachers at PTA meetings. The Junior League has a film also that they began showing to groups last year," Johnson said. "I can't begin to express my appreciation for the PTA mothers and volunteers who've helped with this program. They've made it a success. Volunteers are recruited on every street leading to the school." Johnson said the following suggestions on what a child should do and should not do to remain safe whether on his way to school or playing in the neighborhood are included in the program:
Do — write down the license number and color of the car of anyone who bothers you.
Do — remember what that person looks like and what kind of clothes he was wearing.
Do — take a friend along to the playground, movies or the store.
Don't — take money, candy or gifts from anyone you don't know.
Don't — let any stranger touch (See HELPING Page 2A)

Family Learns About Mysterious Illness

BY STEPHEN FOX
 OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — More than 100 descendants of Antonio Joseph, a Portuguese immigrant whose genes carried a crippling and fatal disease, are finally learning about the mysterious family illness that has killed some members of the family for the first time last week. They are victims of "Joseph's Disease" when Dr. William Nyhan, professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego, conducted a special clinic for them at Oakland Children's Hospital.

The incurable neurological disorder occurs only in Joseph's descendants. "A single gene carries it," Nyhan said. "Every time you have a child, there's a 50-50 chance of transmitting it and that, in genetic terms, is a huge risk, the biggest risk we deal in." Nyhan and Dr. Robert Rosenberg, a neurological expert from The University of Texas, counseled and tested family members in the clinic sponsored by the National Genetic Foundation of New York. "Early on, people notice that they start getting wobbly and staggering and their speech becomes slurred," Nyhan explained. "As time goes on they become increasingly spastic. Usually it's at least 10 years from the onset of the illness to the time of the patient's death." Nyhan told parents who face the possibility of passing the disorder on to their offspring: "We had two brothers and one said, 'With this information, I'm simply not going to have any children.' The other said, 'I'm not going to limit my life in any way, I'm going to live my life regardless of like it's someone's fault,' said David Balls of the foundation. "But it's just hereditary. In this case, nature throws the dice and all four children in a family may have it or they may all be OK." Harold Herber of San Jose, whose brother and two sisters have the disease, said family members have reacted in different ways to being told about the disease. "People can get emotional over this because when you talk about marriage, the only way you can stop this in a family is not to have children," said Herber, who is 40 and believes he has escaped the disease. It is normally detected in a person's 20s or 30s. "I wasn't really hoping for anything for myself," said Violet Weldon of Redding, who has known about her illness since 1964. "Basically I am quite peaceful with myself anyway."

Postal Service Unveils Plan To Allow Airing Of Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did that package marked "fragile" arrive in your mailbox in a battered condition? Did this month's girlie magazine arrive dog-eared with the centerfold torn out? Now you can tell it to the post office. Beginning Wednesday, the Postal Service is launching a program that will invite disgruntled postal patrons to air their complaints. Unhappy customers will be able to obtain a "consumer services card" from post offices and from letter carriers. The complaints written on the card will get quick attention, the Postal Service says. The new system will "let us know, in a quick and simple way, about service problems," Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said in announcing the program. Bailar's announcement came before the House voted Monday to revoke the Postal Service's financial independence as a result of dissatisfaction with the way the service operates. The campaign "reflects our feeling that the idea of good service must mean more than the speed of delivery. It involves responsiveness and understanding, too," Bailar said. The Postal Service decided on the national program after trying out the consumer service card this summer in Arizona, Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The number of complaints over the six-week test period in the four states was 9,890. In the same period last year there were 7,473 complaints taken to postal officials by residents of those states. The consumer service card is a two-piece card, two postal cards with carbon paper between them. After filling out the top copy, the two cards can be separated. One of the prepaid postal cards goes to the local postmaster. The other goes to the Postal Service's Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington. After acting on the complaint, the local postmaster is to explain on the reverse side of his copy of the card how the problem was handled. Then, he is to mail his copy of the card to Washington. Meanwhile, in Washington, the information from the other card is used to create an index of consumer satisfaction. The card allows not only for complaints, but also for information requests, suggestions and other comments. "I believe that once the new program is firmly established, it will demonstrate both our willingness to solve people's problems and the over-all high quality of our service," Bailar said.

Wade Believes Oswald Given Encouragement

DALLAS (AP) — In the opinion of Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas, "somebody encouraged Lee Harvey Oswald to shoot President Kennedy." The Dallas County prosecutor nevertheless said Monday he believes that a reopened investigation of the 1963 assassination would be a waste of time and money. Wade, who also was district attorney at the time John F. Kennedy was slain in Dallas, said, "I've always had a gut feeling, which I still have, that someone — one or more persons — encouraged Oswald to shoot the President. There may have been an arrangement for someone to meet Oswald and get him out of Dallas. "But if a conspiracy did exist, a new investigation would not shed light on the identity of those involved. They wouldn't step forward. So why go to the time and trouble?" Acknowledging that he has received inquiries about his views on further investigation of the case, Wade said, "I wouldn't oppose it but I see no point in it." The district attorney said he agrees with the Warren Commission's findings that Oswald fired the shots which killed President Kennedy and gravely wounded John Connally, then governor of Texas. "I question the sequence which the Warren Commission gave for the bullets which hit Kennedy and Connally," Wade went on, "but I agree with its conclusions that Oswald was the only assassin at the scene."

Lamesa Police Hunt For Gunman

LAMESA — The owner of a gun allegedly used to fire at a Lamesa police officer Pat Moffatt Monday is being sought by the Lamesa Police Department. Moffatt was fired at early Monday morning while making a courtesy house check on South 2nd Street. He apparently had surprised a burglar when the shots were fired and returned two rounds of fire. Police units responded to his call for assistance, searched the area and fired additional shots into the ground in the hopes of flushing out the suspect. The gunman, however, had apparently escaped before the search had begun.

Bicycle Craze Here To Stay

From what I have been able to determine, the bicycle craze is here to stay. I'm sure that this is a Good Thing; bicycle riding is endorsed by the entire medical profession. Except orthopedic surgeons, who are quite out of sorts, as they rarely have time to play golf these days. Many people insist that riding a bicycle is something that, once mastered, is never forgotten. Before you rush off to buy a bicycle, it might be well to recall all the things that you once mastered that you have since completely forgotten. Unless you can still find the square root of something, sing your college fraternity songs, and list seven causes of the Paganonnesian Wars, you probably won't have the remotest idea of bike riding, either.

Jelly side down
By NANCY STAHL

Learning to ride a bicycle at thirty years of age is potentially traumatic. Not only is your dad not going to be particularly eager to lope around the block behind you, holding the seat, but you will soon discover that bicycles have changed dramatically since you were a child. But once you master two basic differences, you should be all right.

- 1) Bicycles now have gears. Bicycle gears are like newborn babies; they need to be changed roughly twenty-three times an hour. Changing a baby is infinitely easier, however, in that you can devote your entire attention to the process without the possibility of running into a rose bush.
- 2) Bicycles stop differently now. Facing a potentially messy confrontation, resist the urge to pedal backwards: Rather than causing the bicycle to brake, or, even more desirable, reversing forward motion, pedalling backwards accomplishes nothing at all except tiring your legs. Remember that the brakes are located on the handlebars somewhere between seventh and eighth gear. Or is it between fifth and sixth? Ninth and tenth?

Tube Phonies Pain To 'Enjoys'

DEAR ABBY: Why are people ashamed to admit that they watch television? I have friends who say, "I NEVER watch television, but I just happened to catch 'All in the Family' last Monday evening, and..." That kind of snobbery irks me no end. What's with these phonies, anyway?

ENJOYS TV
DEAR ENJOYS: Most people would like to appear to be more intellectual than they really are, and since they regard watching TV as something less than an intellectual pursuit, they're reluctant to admit that they're constant viewers.

It's the same kind of insecurity that causes people to say they read the book when they only saw the movie.

DEAR ABBY: With all the important problems you get, mine will probably sound like nothing, but I sure need some advice.

I am married to a stubborn, hot-tempered man who has a terrible foot odor. His feet perspire, and he won't change his shoes and socks or bathe his feet when he comes home. He leaves his shoes on right up until it's time to go to bed, then he takes them off and leaves them in the bedroom. This smells up the whole bedroom like you wouldn't believe. It sure repels me from any romantic ideas I might have.

I have bought him foot deodorant and anti-fungicide sprays, which he used a few times reluctantly, but it didn't help much.

I can't sleep anywhere else because I have a bad back and have to sleep on an extra firm mattress that is in the bedroom we share. What do I do now?

ASPHYXIATED
DEAR AS: Move the extra firm mattress to another room, and pleasant dreams.

DEAR ABBY: I am a clergyman, and as such, I perform many marriage ceremonies. My pet peeve is the well-

Letters To Heloise

A 'CRUMBY' IDEA SHRINKS YOUR BUDGET—NOT THE CHOPS
Crystal L. Thilman

Your letter made my day! It was like finding a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow. Bless you always!

Dear Heloise: I have a hint that a lot of people might know about but if it only saves one or two people what I went through, I think it would be worth printing.

I was carrying the laundry basket down to the basement, missed a step and landed in the hospital.

A friend told me she puts her clothes in a plastic bag and throws them down the steps. Less danger of falling!

Connally Says Cities Can't Cope

HOUSTON (AP) — John Connally says the states or the federal government will have to rescue such cities as New York from their economic problems. The former Texas governor blamed New York's problems Monday on the demands of unionized public employees and said such problems will spread to other cities.

"The New York situation is going to catch up with a lot of cities," Connally said.

New Structure Needed
"We are going to have to create some structure to deal with these problems and frankly take the decisions out of the political hands of the city fathers because they are not going to be able to deal with it," he said.

"We are going to have to have some other kind of structure. Either the state will have to do it or the federal government is going to have to set up an entity to deal with it. You are going to have to have somebody in the position to say 'No.'"

Connally told the International Oil Industry Tires, Accessories, and Batteries Group that mayors and city councils "simply do not have the power to withstand the demands (by city workers) nor do they have the power to impose enough taxes to pay those demands."

Inflation, Unemployment
The former Treasury secretary also said that Albert Sindingler, a national pollster, told him privately within the past 30 days that some consumers think the nation will be facing double digit inflation and unemployment by the end of the year.

Connally said Sindingler told him a survey of 300 Americans shows they fear a return of aggravated inflation and unemployment.

"We are in deep, serious trouble and one of the reasons is the lack of an energy policy," Connally said.

"The Congress has refused to act, refused to buckle down, and refused to make the hard decisions."

Carrillo Case Nears Jury Stage

By GARY GARRISON
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Was there ever a Zertuche's General Store at Benavides in Duval County?

Defense and prosecution lawyers in the income tax trial of suspended state Judge O.P. Carrillo and Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo have been trying for the past three weeks to get a final answer to that question.

A sequestered jury of seven women and five men will be called upon soon, perhaps late today, to give an answer to what has become the all-important question in this federal court trial.

Conflicting Testimony
If you believe the government's witnesses, the store never existed. But if you listen to defense witnesses, including a tax expert, the store did operate.

The Carrillo brothers are accused of conspiring with Arturo Zertuche, a cousin, to file false income tax returns and of actually filing false income tax returns.

At the center of the government's case against Carrillo is a contention that the brothers and Zertuche set up the general store at Benavides as a front to conceal what would have been illegal sales to Duval County government agencies.

The government claims sales reported by the Zertuche store were actually sales made by the Farm and Ranch Supply Store, a Benavides firm owned by the Carrillo brothers, and should have been reported as income to them.

Expert Witness
Ed Rinehart, a St. Edward's University professor who is also an attorney and a certified public accountant, testified Monday as an expert witness.

Rinehart testified that he believes Zertuche's General Store existed as an entity separate from the Farm and Ranch Store. He said he based his belief on the fact that there has been testimony that the store had a bank account, a store license, a sales tax permit, printed invoices and a post office box.

Teachers In Boston End Strike

By The Associated Press

The flurry of teacher strikes is abating as Boston teachers end their walkout and schools in smaller communities return to normal. However, strikes continue today in nine states, affecting 115,000 pupils.

Communities still affected by teacher strikes are located in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, Ohio, Idaho, Indiana, Illinois and California. And teachers in Memphis, Tenn., voted Monday to strike Oct. 7 if no contract is reached by then.

Monday was the first day this school year that New York state was without a public school strike as teachers in Niagara Falls ended their walkout. Several communities had been affected earlier by strikes, including New York City with its 1.1 million pupils.

PENNSYLVANIA, which has had teacher strikes scattered all across the state since early September, had two more settled Monday. This left 13 districts with strikes today, affecting some 30,000 pupils.

In Illinois, where Chicago teachers struck earlier in the year, there was only one strike, in Sauk Village, affecting 2,344 pupils.

Schools were fully operational in Boston today for 86,000 pupils after the teachers voted Monday to end their week-old strike.

About half of Boston's teachers returned to their classrooms Monday afternoon, and all 5,000 were expected to report for work today.

School Supt. Marlon J. Fahey said, "It will be business as usual," with security the same as for the opening day of school Sept. 8 under citywide desegregation.

THE NEW contract provides job security for all but about 400 teachers in the face of declining enrollments. The enrollment dropped to 86,000 this year under a citywide desegregation plan calling for the busing of 26,000 pupils. Last year's enrollment was 95,000.

Boston teachers settled for a 6 per cent pay hike — instead of the 9 per cent increase they had sought — over the old salary range of $9,772 to $19,765.

They also compromised over the issue of the length of the work week, agreeing to work an extra 70 minutes every two weeks to talk to parents and attend staff meetings. The school committee had sought an extra 45 minutes each week.

Elsewhere, teacher strikes affected 5,650 pupils in Trotwood, Ohio; 4,200 in Jennings County, Ind.; 14,000 in Berkeley, Calif.; 20,000 in Hoboken and Parsippany-Troy Hills, N.J.; 14,200 in Wilmington, Del.; and 9,000 in Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Border Raids Net Four Tons Of Pot

HOUSTON (AP) — Charges were pending today against three men arrested over the weekend as U.S. Customs agents seized more than four tons of marijuana worth $1.25 million in two unrelated raids along the Texas border.

Regional Customs Commissioner Cleburne Maier said 1,350 pounds of marijuana were seized Saturday night at Garceno, in Starr County, when smugglers floated the cache across the Rio Grande in a boat.

Another 3,065 pounds were seized early Sunday morning at Escobares, just upriver from Garceno. It was smuggled into the United States on a flatbed truck.

Political Deaths Rise In Argentina

Agence France-Press BUENOS AIRES — Sixteen persons were killed in Argentina last week, bringing the death toll for political violence this month to 86, an average of more than three per day.

In a letter to the weekly Ultima Clave, an Argentine army officer said kidnappings were occurring at the rate of one every four or five days, a soldier or policeman was killed every 17 hours and an assassination was committed every six hours.

Official Blames Auto Emissions For 4,000 Premature Deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — A Department of Transportation official said today as many as 4,000 premature deaths and four million days of illness were caused by auto emissions last year.

"The realities of our energy dilemma need no explanation," said Deputy Secretary John W. Barnum.

"We must pursue the twin goals of clean air and reduced fuel consumption relentlessly and without apology," Barnum spoke at the annual meeting of the International Oil Industry-TBA Group which includes suppliers and marketers of such products as tires, batteries and auto accessories sold at service stations.

Barnum said that because of its advocacy of public transit the Department of Transportation often is accused of believing the day of the automobile is over.

"To the contrary, we believe the private car will continue to be the major means of transportation for most Americans provided it is modified in both form and usage to meet new national concerns, fuel conservation and emission control," he said.

Barnum said a joint study by the department and the Environmental Protection Agency concluded that significant fuel economy improvements are feasible by 1980 while meeting the statutory hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide standards.

Executives from General Motors and Continental Oil Co. told the marketers their industry is being threatened by government regulation.

Tom W. Sigler, Continental vice president for marketing, said the public must decide if the oil industry will go the route of a competitive marketplace or be controlled and managed by the federal government.

"Each new law gets the federal government more deeply into our business," Sigler said.

"Most people outside the energy industry don't realize that our energy situation, present and future, is determined largely by government action, not by the individual oil companies, the Arabs, or anyone else. Washington's control over the energy business is all-consuming," Sigler said.

Sigler said the government dictates to whom crude oil must be sold and at what price, how much crude must be purchased and run at refineries, to whom finished products must be sold, how much can be sold and at what price.

James P. Melican Jr., a General Motors attorney for trade regulations, described the proposed Consumer Protection Act of 1975 as "one of the most menacing pieces of legislation in Congress."

"No intelligent businessman looks on the consumer as his adversary, yet the net effect of this bill will be to foster the adversarial relationship," Melican said.

SPE Meeting Told Gas Most Efficient

DALLAS (AP) — A petroleum planning analyst says continued reliance on natural gas — even if federal price controls are removed — would be cheaper than making the conversion from oil and gas to coal as federal energy experts have advised.

Leslie J. Deman, planning analyst for Texas Eastern Corp., told the Society of Petroleum Engineers meeting here that with deregulation of natural gas and federal support of supplemental fuels, "continued reliance on gas is likely to be a more economically and socially effective alternative than Project Independence proposals."

The Federal Energy Administration's Project Independence report calls for the substitution of coal—directly or indirectly—for oil and gas for residential, commercial and industrial use.

Natural gas currently accounts for over 40 per cent of total U.S. energy production, he said. In addition, Deman said almost 60 per cent of all households using electricity also use natural gas, while over one half of all non-transportation energy used by U.S. industry comes from natural gas.

And considering the extent of natural gas use in the United States, Deman said the cost of converting "oil- or gas-burning facilities is likely to be prohibitive to many customers."

"Customer costs will increase not only from converting existing facilities, but the costs of the alternatives — coal and electricity — exceed the cost of gas and oil," Deman said.

He said costly new transportation systems for coal and a significantly expanded distribution system for electricity would also be required.

On the other hand, Deman said, deregulation of natural gas "is economically desirable, despite the uncertainties as to new price levels and future supply responses."

Deman concluded that "it is highly probable" domestic oil and gas production will be insufficient to supply the country's increasing energy demands. He said one source of alternative energy is supplemental gas produced from coal, and that while such supplemental gas is more expensive than present gas, it is the same or less expensive than alternate fuel oil or energy costs.

He said any legislation removing federal price controls from natural gas would have the following effects:

—Prices received by producers for new or uncommitted gas would be determined by what consumers are willing to pay.

—Higher prices at the wellhead would spur exploration.

—Over a period of time, interstate and intrastate markets would "clear," meaning that gas supply and demand would equalize.

Offset In Upton Shows Oil, Gas

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 10-McElroy Ranch Co., ¾-mile southeast stepout to the two-well Cisco part of the King Mountain, North field in Upton County, was drilling below 8,856 feet on a 9,600-foot contract, after taking a drillstem test in an unclassified formation.

Tool was open one hour on the test taken from 8,608-8,758 feet. Recovery was 6,200 feet of oil and gas in the drillpipe. The tool plugged, and pressures were not taken.

Location is 990 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 67, block Y, TCR Survey, 14 miles northeast of McCamey.

Monsanto Test Flows Deep Gas

Monsanto Co. No. 1 Felmont, Winkler County Ellenburger prospect, one mile north of assured Fusselman production and two miles north of Ellenberger production in the Apollo field, flowed gas at the maximum, daily rate of 8 million cubic feet per day, plus 25 barrels of load water in one hour.

Flow was through an open 2-inch choke and perforations at 19,085-19,287 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons and reacidized with an additional 30,000 gallons. Testing continued.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 46, block 27, PSL survey, five miles northwest of Wink township.

Fugitives Prepared Plans For Half Dozen Bank Heists

By LARRY STAMMER
And
WILLIAM ENDICOTT
The Los Angeles Times

SACRAMENTO — For at least three months, Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris made Sacramento a major base of operations during which time detailed plans for a half dozen bank robberies were prepared, The Los Angeles Times has learned.

The proposed Sacramento area robberies, which were professionally conceived down to the drawing of floor plans and timing but which never came off, were in addition to two other holdups they are suspected of, which netted $18,976 and resulted in the death of a woman customer.

The Times has also learned that William Harris, using the alias of Steve Broudy, bought a station wagon which authorities believe can be linked to the robbery of the Crocker

National Bank in Carmichael, Calif., at which the woman, Myrna Opsahl, was killed by a shotgun blast.

Both U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes and Sacramento County Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Geoffrey Burroughs were reviewing evidence Monday preparatory to filing murder and robbery charges stemming from the two holdups — at the Crocker bank and the Guild Savings and Loan Association.

There was no indication whether Patty would be one of those to be charged.

However, in San Francisco, the FBI said that among the effects found in the Outer Mission District apartment where Patty and Wendy Yoshimura were arrested just 12 days ago were papers from the Crocker bank and a green scarf similar to one worn by a suspect in that robbery.

Also found by authorities at the Hearst-Yoshimura apartment were a 9-mm. automatic pistol and live ammunition (9-mm. bullets were found on the floor of the bank after the robbery) and a red notebook with notations about San Francisco banks, along with six pages ripped out of a San Francisco telephone directory listing San Francisco banks.

Then, on April 7, a Ford Mustang, one of two getaway cars used in the Crocker bank robbery-murder, was stolen in Sacramento. On April 8, a local garage was rented to house the vehicle. Four days later, a Pontiac Firebird also used as a getaway car was stolen in Oakland.

Sources said that on April 16 and 17, stolen license plates were placed on the two getaway cars. The robbery was executed four days later. Both cars later were found less than two miles from the scene.

The purchased station wagon has not been found but is believed to have been used by persons involved in the Crocker robbery to make good their escape from the Sacramento area, along with a second car, a 1967 Ford Galaxie, which was bought here eight days after the holdup — again with $20 bills.

The Galaxie, believed by authorities to have been bought by SLA sympathizer Steve Soliah, was recovered in Pacifica, a San Francisco suburb, on the day Patty and the Harris were arrested.

Soliah was arrested the same day and since has been indicted on a charge of harboring a fugitive.

Authorities said it was Soliah, the prints of another SLA sympathizer, James W. Kilgore, who rented the apartment where Patty and Yoshimura were found during the course of the Crocker robbery investigation, according to Times sources. Kilgore still is at large.

Oklahoma High Court Kills New Divorce Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—That controversial new law giving all property to the wife in a divorce is unconstitutional, the Oklahoma Supreme Court ruled Monday, much to the relief of the legislators who passed it.

The law, which had been scheduled to go into effect Wednesday, was passed by mistake in the closing hours of the 1975 session. Its language was publicized in news stories earlier this month and the high court was asked to rule on its constitutionality last week.

In killing the bill, the Supreme Court affirmed a ruling by District Court Judge Elvin J. Brown of Norman, who held the law unconstitutional last week.

The court said the language in the act does not conform to the language in the title.

The title provides for restoration to the parties of their separate property, allows alimony to be awarded and authorizes the judge to make a reasonable division of property.

But the body of the act says the wife shall be given all property owned by either party before marriage or acquired by either party during the marriage.

Legislators passed the act and Gov. David Boren signed it into law without catching the contradictions, which occurred when an amendment was inserted by mistake in the Senate during the confusion of the closing hours of the session.

The authors had urged the Supreme Court to act swiftly and Sen. Lee Cate, D-Norman, and Rep. Ken Nance, D-Oklahoma City, filed a Norman divorce case to provide the vehicle for the ruling.

The court, in reaching a speedy verdict, granted a motion of Johnita Sue Caywood and Robert Monroe Caywood Jr., the Norman couple seeking a divorce, to advance the appeal because of an existing emergency situation affecting all couples in divorce proceedings.

In addition to citing the difference in the title and the body of the act, the court noted that the bill itself contains contradictions. After stating that the wife shall receive all property, it states that a judge shall divide the property.

"Restoring to the wife separate property of the husband never owned by her is difficult to understand," the court said. "It is clearly contrary to that portion of the title calling for the restoration to each party of their separately owned property."

The court said the title "fixes a limit upon the scope of the act, and all parts of an act which are not within its title are unconstitutional and void."

TEXAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE Title XX Plan

The social services program for 1975-76 for Texas residents has been prepared by the Texas State Department of Public Welfare in cooperation with various citizens throughout the State.

COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PROGRAM PLAN FOR TEXAS Oct. 1, 1975 to Sept. 30, 1976

PURPOSE—The Texas social services program provides help to the residents of Texas in such areas as self-support, self-care, protective care, and adjusting to independent living.

SERVICES OFFERED—The services include but are not limited to day care for children, protective services for children, family planning, and protective services for adults (including homemaker, chore, and family care). Most of the services will be available throughout Texas, but some may be limited to pilot projects and others may be limited by resources. As resources become available, some of the services may be expanded.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?—All Texas residents who receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children, AFDC; Supplemental Security Income, SSI; Medicaid; or those whose annual income is less than 60 percent of the state's median income. (For example, a family of four cannot have income in excess of $7,740 annually.)

SOURCES OF ESTIMATED FUNDS—Maximum federal funds for Texas: $140,500,000; total budget for 1975-76: $185,604,376. Source: Federal $140,500,000; State $31,840,361; Local or donated $6,532,354; and certified public expenditures $6,731,661.

EXPLANATION OF DIFFERENCES—The proposed Title XX plan was published June 30, 1975, without benefit of the final Title XX federal regulations or the final DPW appropriations bill. Changes in the finalized Title XX plan reflect legislative enactment and intent, final federal regulations, and recommendations made during the 45-day comment period which ended Aug. 13, 1975. Following is a summary of the major differences between proposed and final Title XX services plan:

Section I—The DPW organizational chart was updated to show structure as of October 1, 1975.

Section II—Income Chart—Due to changes in federal regulations and because of limited resources, no services, other than protective services to children and adults and information and referral services, will be provided to persons whose incomes exceed 60 percent of the state's median income, instead of 80 percent as proposed.

Fees—There was heavy public opposition to mandatory fees for day care services. In response to these comments, DPW will not impose a mandatory fee.

Summary of Expenditures—Changes in the federal regulations, DPW's final appropriations, and public comment had a significant effect on estimated expenditures for Title XX services.

- The amount of available non-federal funds decreased from $47.9 million to $45.1 million, reducing total estimated expenditures from $188.4 million to $185.6 million.
- There was an increase in the estimated expenditure for several services including alternate care, protective services to children, day care, and family planning.
- There was a decrease in the estimated expenditures for several services including emergency homemaker, home management, health-related and most services provided through inter-agency agreement between DPW and other State agencies.

Catalog of Services—There were several technical changes in the catalog of services including:

- Dividing Home Care into three separate services: Homemaker, Chore, and Family Care in order to better account for funding.
- Deleting the objectives in health-related services for EPSDT and services provided by nursing home workers. These services will be funded through Title XIX.
- Showing Foster Care, Adoption, and Information and Referral services as being provided without regard to income. Information and Referral services will be provided only as components of other services listed in the plan.
- Redefining services related to employment and DPW's contract with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Section III—The section on Services for Expansion and Development has been deleted since it was included only as a planning tool during the comment period. Public response indicated interest in expansion of Comprehensive Information and Referral Services, Protective Services to Adults, Home Delivered or Congregate Meals, and Day Care Services.

QUESTIONS—Questions about the plan can be asked by telephone on a toll-free line. Call the Governor's Hot Line: 1-800-292-9600 between 8 a.m., and 5 p.m. weekdays, or call locally to one of the offices listed below.

MORE INFORMATION—To review, purchase, or ask questions about Title XX, and to apply for any of the services in the plan, please contact one of the offices listed below. In addition, personal copies may be obtained for $1 each from John Townsend, Title XX Services Plan, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701. Send money order, cashier's check, or cash. No personal checks, please.

A summary and file of all public comments received during the review period are available for examination from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at the DPW Title XX Office, John H. Winters Building, 200 E. Riverside, Austin.

- Addresses are for DPW offices. When there are no offices, the address of the county judge is given.

Ford Signs Compromise Oil Price Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price controls on domestic oil are officially in effect again, but President Ford says fuel costs will increase anyway and that only Congress is to blame.

MGF Well Rates Prolific Gas Flow

MGF Oil Corp. of Midland this morning announced that test results on its third well in Dimmit County, 80 miles north of Laredo, showed an absolute open flow potential of 84 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

The well is in the recently discovered J.F.S. (Edwards) field. The MGF well, No. 4 N.C. King, is the seventh to be completed in the pool.

Production is from the Edwards limestone through perforations from 7,600 to 7,630 feet. The pay was treated with 500 gallons of acid.

R. O. Major, MGF president, said casing has been set on a fourth MGF well in the field.

Amoco Appoints Vice President

CHICAGO—Kenneth J. Barr will become executive vice president of Amoco Production Co., the North American exploration and production subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), effective Oct. 1.

Barr will have responsibility for the company's exploration, producing and economics and administration departments.

Barr, now serving as an executive vice president of Amoco International Oil Co., joined a Standard subsidiary at Tulsa, Okla., as a junior petroleum engineer in 1948.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Tool was open two hours on the test taken from 11,330-11,430 feet, on which gas came to the surface in three minutes, flowing at the rate of 1.4 million cubic feet per day, along with an unreported amount of distillate, on a 3/4-inch choke.

Operator reversed out of the derrick 100 barrels of 42-gravity oil.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 17-16S-33E, 1 1/2 mile west of the Sombra, West (Atoka) gas field.

Atoka Explorer Set In Midland

Atlantic Richfield Co. will attempt to extend Atoka oil production 1/2 mile north and west in the Azalea field of Midland County, with the scheduling of its No. 7 John Henderson.

It spots 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 33, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey, 15 miles southeast of Midland. Contract depth is 11,000 feet.

The field has six Atoka producers.

Lea Exploration Flows Penn Gas

Dalco Oil Co. of Dallas was drilling ahead Tuesday at its No. 1-17 Bell-State, Lea County, survey.

Prudhoe Bay Flotilla Moving Through Pack

LOS ANGELES—Atlantic Richfield Co. has announced that its barges with cargoes of oil field equipment have been towed past Point Barrow, Alaska, and are headed eastward today to the Prudhoe Bay area 180 miles away.

Easterly and northeasterly winds have moved an accumulation of pack ice northward away from the Barrow shoreline, permitting tugboats to tow the shallow draft barges through the "opening."

A spokesman said the route ahead is covered by several inches of newly-formed ice but the Coast Guard cutters Citrus and Storus are leading the way.

Irion Gets Well; Stepout Slated

R. L. Burns Corp. of Dallas completed a producer and staked site for another project in the Cal, South (Canyon) oil field of extreme South Irion County.

No. 2-3 University, a third well and location southwest extension to the field, finished for 195 barrels of 38.5-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio measuring 1,238-1.

Production was through a 28-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,001-7,021 feet, which had been acidized with 2,400 gallons and fractured with 44,352 gallons and 90,720 pounds of sand.

Location is 1,808 feet from north and 1,677 feet from west lines of section 3, block 53, ULS, 12 miles southwest of Mertzon.

Raiders Pick Up Gambling Material

BEAUMONT (AP) — Government attorneys today were expected to present a federal grand jury with evidence gathered in a weekend raid of alleged illegal gambling operations in nine homes and businesses.

About $1,100 in small bills, documents believed to be football gambling paraphernalia, several telephones and one late model automobile were seized in Port Arthur and Beaumont by local and federal authorities. No arrests were made.

Tanzania Assails OPEC Price Hike

Agence France-Presse — DAR ES SALAAM — Tanzania has told the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) that its decision to raise the price of crude oil by 10 per cent will put a heavier burden on the least developed countries.

The government-owned Daily News, quoting Commerce and Industries Minister Amir Jamal, said the OPEC nations were "appearing to turn their back on the developing countries, particularly the least developed."

Official Blames Auto Emissions For 4,000 Premature Deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — A Department of Transportation official said today as many as 4,000 premature deaths and four million days of illness were caused by auto emissions last year.

"The realities of our energy dilemma need no explanation," said Deputy Secretary John W. Barnum.

"We must pursue the twin goals of clean air and reduced fuel consumption relentlessly and without apology."

Barnum spoke at the annual meeting of the International Oil Industry-TBA Group which includes suppliers and marketers of such products as tires, batteries and auto accessories sold at service stations.

Barnum said that because of its advocacy of public transit the Department of Transportation often is accused of believing the day of the automobile is over.

"To the contrary, we believe the private car will continue to be the major means of transportation for most Americans provided it is modified in both form and usage to meet new national concerns, fuel conservation and emission control," he said.

Barnum said a joint study by the department and the Environmental Protection Agency concluded that significant fuel economy improvements are feasible by 1980 while meeting the statutory hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide standards.

Executives from General Motors and Continental Oil Co. told the marketers their industry is being threatened by government regulation.

Tom W. Sigler, Continental vice president for marketing, said the public must decide if the oil industry will go the route of a competitive marketplace or be controlled and managed by the federal government.

"Each new law gets the federal government more deeply into our business," Sigler said.

"Most people outside the energy industry don't realize that our energy situation, present and future, is determined largely by government action, not by the individual oil companies, the Arabs, or anyone else. Washington's control over the energy business is all-consuming."

Sigler said the government dictates to whom crude oil must be sold and at what price, how much crude must be purchased and run at refineries, to whom finished products must be sold, how much can be sold and at what price.

James P. Melican Jr., a General Motors attorney for trade regulations, described the proposed Consumer Protection Act of 1975 as "one of the most menacing pieces of legislation in Congress."

"No intelligent businessman looks on the consumer as his adversary, yet the net effect of this bill will be to foster the adversarial relationship," Melican said.

Locations Staked In Sterling Area

Sterling County gained locations for a prospector and a field outpost.

Cities Service Oil Co. staked site for No. 1-B Ferguson, a 9,000-foot venture, 18 miles south of Sterling City.

It is nine miles south of Canyon gas in the Conger field and spots 660 feet from north and east lines of section 29, block 7, H&TC survey, abstract 231.

Long Outpost

HNG Oil Co., Midland, accounted for a 6 1/2-mile northwest outpost to upper Cisco gas production in the Credo, East field of Sterling.

Plans are to reenter and plug back to 8,100 feet at No. 1-151 McDonald, depleted opener of the Konohasset (Fusselman) field.

It was completed in 1962 as No. 3-B Reed, by The Fluor Corp.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 151, block 29, W&NW survey, 23 miles northwest of Sterling City.

The field currently has eight wells.

New Encephalitis Cases Reported

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston area health officials have reported two more suspected cases of St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE).

One suspected case was dropped, leaving the present SLE totals at five suspected deaths, 14 confirmed cases and 32 suspected cases since the sleeping sickness outbreak first was reported on Aug. 27.

SPE Meeting Told Gas Most Efficient

DALLAS (AP) — A petroleum planning analyst says continued reliance on natural gas — even if federal price controls are removed — would be cheaper than making the conversion from oil and gas to coal as federal energy experts have advised.

Leslie J. Deman, planning analyst for Texas Eastern Corp., told the Society of Petroleum Engineers meeting here that with deregulation of natural gas and federal support of supplemental fuels, "continued reliance on gas is likely to be a more economically and socially effective alternative than Project Independence proposals."

Demans said that because of its advocacy of public transit the Department of Transportation often is accused of believing the day of the automobile is over.

"To the contrary, we believe the private car will continue to be the major means of transportation for most Americans provided it is modified in both form and usage to meet new national concerns, fuel conservation and emission control," he said.

The alternatives — coal and electricity — exceed the cost of gas and oil," Deman said.

He said costly new transportation systems for coal and a significantly expanded distribution system for electricity would also be required.

On the other hand, Deman said, deregulation of natural gas "is economically desirable, despite the uncertainties as to new price levels and future supply responses."

Demans concluded that "it is highly probable" domestic oil and gas production will be insufficient to supply the country's increasing energy demands. He said one source of alternative energy is coal, and that while such supplemental gas is more expensive than present gas, it is the same or less expensive than alternate fuel oil or energy costs.

He said any legislation removing federal price controls from natural gas would have the following effects:

—Prices received by producers for new or uncommitted gas would be determined by what consumers are willing to pay.

—Higher prices at the wellhead would spur exploration.

—Over a period of time, interstate and intrastate markets would "clear," meaning that gas supply and demand would equalize.

Conoco Reports Flow In Pecos

Continental Oil Co. No. 1 Allison-State, one-mile northeast of the Elnore (Devonian-Fusselman) field and 1/2 mile northeast of the GMW (Montoya) gas field of Pecos County, flowed 109 barrels of oil and 27 barrels of load water, plus 850,000 cubic feet of gas in 24 hours.

Flow was through a 42-64-inch choke and perforations at 13,178-13,420 feet, which had been fractured with 3,000 gallons.

Testing continued.

Location is 700 feet from south and 1,920 feet from east lines of section 4, block 170, TTRR survey, 27 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

Fugitives Prepared Plans For Half Dozen Bank Heists

By LARRY STAMMER
And
WILLIAM ENDICOTT
The Los Angeles Times

SACRAMENTO — For at least three months, Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris made Sacramento a major base of operations during which time detailed plans for a half dozen bank robberies were prepared, The Los Angeles Times has learned.

The proposed Sacramento area robberies, which were professionally conceived down to the drawing of floor plans and timing but which never came off, were in addition to two other holdups they are suspected of, which netted $18,976 and resulted in the death of a woman customer.

The Times has also learned that William Harris, using the alias of Steve Broudy, bought a station wagon which authorities believe can be linked to the robbery of the Crocker

National Bank in Carmichael, Calif., at which the woman, Myrna Opsahl, was killed by a shotgun blast.

Both U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes and Sacramento County Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Geoffrey Burroughs were reviewing evidence Monday preparatory to filing murder and robbery charges stemming from the two holdups — at the Crocker bank and the Guild Savings and Loan Association.

There was no indication whether Patty would be one of those to be charged.

However, in San Francisco, the FBI said that among the effects found in the Outer Mission District apartment where Patty and Wendy Yoshimura were arrested just 12 days ago were papers from the Crocker bank and a green scarf similar to one worn by a suspect in that robbery.

Also found by authorities at the Hearst-Yoshimura apartment were a 9-mm. automatic pistol and live ammunition (9-mm. bullets were found on the floor of the bank after the robbery) and a red notebook with notations about San Francisco banks, along with six pages ripped out of a San Francisco telephone directory listing San Francisco banks.

Though the FBI and local law enforcement agencies would neither confirm nor deny it, The Times learned that plans for the proposed robberies were recovered from the Precita Avenue flat in San Francisco where the Harrises were captured.

Indications were that all the banks had been carefully cased and that the Crocker bank, which had no camera surveillance system, ultimately was chosen to be hit. It was robbed April 21.

According to an inventory released Monday by authorities in San Francisco, pages from a loose-leaf notebook found in the Harrises' apartment contained reference to at least two Sacramento banks.

The banks were identified as "Wells Fargo-La Sierra" and "B of A-Marysville."

There is a Wells Fargo branch bank on La Sierra Drive in Sacramento and a Bank of America branch on Marysville Boulevard.

The inventory also showed a page headed "savings and loan," which contained several addresses not released by the FBI.

Two months before the Crocker holdup, the Guild Savings and Loan Association in north Sacramento was hit, and money from that robbery reportedly was used by Harris the following day, Feb. 26, to buy a 1966 Chevrolet station wagon from a Sacramento produce house.

The car, which was bought in response to a newspaper ad, was paid for with $20 bills.

Bundles of identifiable $20 bills reportedly were taken in the Guild holdup.

Two days after the purchase, using the Broudy alias again, Harris reportedly had the car painted at a cut-rate Sacramento paint shop.

Then, on April 7, a Ford Mustang, one of two getaway cars used in the Crocker bank robbery-murder, was stolen in Sacramento. On April 8, a local garage was rented to house the vehicle. Four days later, a Pontiac Firebird also used as a getaway car was stolen in Oakland.

Sources said that on April 16 and 17, stolen license plates were placed on the two getaway cars. The robbery was executed four days later. Both cars later were found less than two miles from the scene.

The purchased station wagon has not been found but is believed to have been used by persons involved in the Crocker robbery to make good their escape from the Sacramento area, along with a second car, a 1967 Ford Galaxie, which was bought here eight days after the holdup — again with $20 bills.

The Galaxie, believed by authorities to have been bought by SLA sympathizer Steve Soliah, was recovered in Pacifica, a San Francisco suburb, on the day Patty and the Harrises were arrested.

Soliah was arrested the same day and since has been indicted on a charge of harboring a fugitive.

Authorities said it was Soliah, using an alias of Charles Adams, who rented the apartment where Patty and Yoshimura were found.

His fingerprints, along with the prints of another SLA sympathizer, James W. Kilgore, were found during the course of the Crocker robbery investigation, according to Times sources. Kilgore still is at large.

Oklahoma High Court Kills New Divorce Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—That controversial new law giving all property to the wife in a divorce is unconstitutional, the Oklahoma Supreme Court ruled Monday, much to the relief of the legislators who passed it.

The law, which had been scheduled to go into effect Wednesday, was passed by mistake in the closing hours of the 1975 session. Its language was publicized in news stories earlier this month and the high court was asked to rule on its constitutionality last week.

In killing the bill, the Supreme Court affirmed a ruling by District Court Judge Elvin J. Brown of Norman, who held the law unconstitutional last week.

The court said the language in the act does not conform to the language in the title.

The title provides for restoration to the parties of their separate property, allows alimony to be awarded and authorizes the judge to make a reasonable division of property.

But the body of the act says the wife shall be given all property owned by either party before marriage or acquired by either party during the marriage.

Legislators passed the act and Gov. David Boren signed it into law without catching the contradictions, which occurred when an amendment was inserted by mistake in the Senate during the confusion of the closing hours of the session.

The authors had urged the Supreme Court to act swiftly and Sen. Lee Cate, D-Norman, and Rep. Ken Nance, D-Oklahoma City, filed a Norman divorce case to provide the vehicle for the ruling.

The court, in reaching a speedy verdict, granted a motion of Johnita Sue Caywood and Robert Monroe Caywood Jr., the Norman couple seeking a divorce, to advance the appeal because of an existing emergency situation affecting all couples in divorce proceedings.

In addition to citing the difference in the title and the body of the act, the court noted that the bill itself contains contradictions. After stating that the wife shall receive all property, it states that a judge shall divide the property.

"Restoring to the wife separate property of the husband never owned by her is difficult to understand," the court said. "It is clearly contrary to that portion of the title calling for the restoration to each party of their separately owned property."

The court said the title "fixes a limit upon the scope of the act, and all parts of an act which are not within its title are unconstitutional and void."

TEXAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE Title XX Plan

The social services program for 1975-76 for Texas residents has been prepared by the Texas State Department of Public Welfare in cooperation with various citizens throughout the State.

COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PROGRAM PLAN FOR TEXAS Oct. 1, 1975 to Sept. 30, 1976

PURPOSE—The Texas social services program provides help to the residents of Texas in such areas as self-support, self-care, protective care, and adjusting to independent living.

SERVICES OFFERED—The services include but are not limited to day care for children, protective services for children, family planning, and protective services for adults (including homemaker, chore, and family care). Most of the services will be available throughout Texas, but some may be limited to pilot projects and others may be limited by resources. As resources become available, some of the services may be expanded.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?—All Texas residents who receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children, AFDC; Supplemental Security Income, SSI; Medicaid; or those whose annual income is less than 60 percent of the state's median income. (For example, a family of four cannot have income in excess of $7,740 annually.)

SOURCES OF ESTIMATED FUNDS—Maximum federal funds for Texas: $140,500,000; total budget for 1975-76: $185,604,376. Source: Federal $140,500,000; State $31,840,361; Local or donated $6,532,354; and certified public expenditures $6,731,661.

EXPLANATION OF DIFFERENCES—The proposed Title XX plan was published June 30, 1975, without benefit of the final Title XX federal regulations or the final DPW appropriations bill. Changes in the finalized Title XX plan reflect legislative enactment and intent, final federal regulations, and recommendations made during the 45-day comment period which ended Aug. 13, 1975. Following is a summary of the major differences between proposed and final Title XX services plan:

Section I—The DPW organizational chart was updated to show structure as of October 1, 1975.

Section II—Income Chart—Due to changes in federal regulations and because of limited resources, no services, other than protective services to children and adults and information and referral services, will be provided to persons whose incomes exceed 60 percent of the state's median income, instead of 80 percent as proposed.

Fees—There was heavy public opposition to mandatory fees for day care services. In response to these comments, DPW will not impose a mandatory fee.

Summary of Expenditures—Changes in the federal regulations, DPW's final appropriations, and public comment had a significant effect on estimated expenditures for Title XX services.

- The amount of available non-federal funds decreased from $47.9 million to $45.1 million, reducing total estimated expenditures from $188.4 million to $185.6 million.
- There was an increase in the estimated expenditure for several services including alternate care, protective services to children, day care, and family planning.
- There was a decrease in the estimated expenditures for several services including emergency homemaker, home management, health-related and most services provided through inter-agency agreement between DPW and other State agencies.

Catalog of Services—There were several technical changes in the catalog of services including:

- Dividing Home Care into three separate services: Homemaker, Chore, and Family Care in order to better account for funding.
- Deleting the objectives in health-related services for EPSDT and services provided by nursing home workers. These services will be funded through Title XIX.
- Showing Foster Care, Adoption, and Information and Referral services as being provided without regard to income. Information and Referral services will be provided only as components of other services listed in the plan.
- Redefining services related to employment and DPW's contract with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Section III—The section on Services for Expansion and Development has been deleted since it was included only as a planning tool during the comment period. Public response indicated interest in expansion of Comprehensive Information and Referral Services, Protective Services to Adults, Home Delivered or Congregate Meals, and Day Care Services.

QUESTIONS—Questions about the plan can be asked by telephone on a toll-free line. Call the Governor's Hot Line: 1-800-292-9600 between 8 a.m., and 5 p.m. weekdays, or call locally to one of the offices listed below.

MORE INFORMATION—To review, purchase, or ask questions about Title XX, and to apply for any of the services in the plan, please contact one of the offices listed below. In addition, personal copies may be obtained for $1 each from John Townsend, Title XX Services Plan, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701. Send money order, cashier's check, or cash. No personal checks, please.

A summary and file of all public comments received during the review period are available for examination from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at the DPW Title XX Office, John H. Winters Building, 200 E. Riverside, Austin.

Addresses are for DPW offices. When there are no offices, the address of the county judge is given.

Major Grid Upsets Spice Area High School Action

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Nothing seems sacred on the area high school football front after McCamey, Reagan County and Lubbock Estacado pulled off smashing upsets last Friday.

The McCamey Badgers, a heavy underdog to Coahoma, pulled off one of the upsets of the year on foreign soil when Clifton Pettis caught a last-second desperation touchdown pass from Greg Hicks to win 19-12.

The victory is the second year in a row that McCamey has pulled an upset over the Bulldogs. Last year McCamey knocked Coahoma from the top 10 with a similar upset.

Apparently irked Coahoma students so bad that they attacked the McCamey football and band buses with rocks. Two McCamey coaches had to receive treatment in a Big Spring hospital.

The Reagan County Owls, behind the 138-yard rushing performance of quarterback Jennings Teel, thumped AAA Lamesa, 25-7, in another key upset. The Owls also did it on foreign turf with only 17 players suited up for the game.

Estacado pulled off a 6-3 upset of AAAA Lubbock Monterey in the other major upset of the week. Kermit dropped from the list of the undefeated with a 29-19 loss to Hobbs, N. M., leaving only six teams without a blemish after four weeks of play.

Monahans, Pecos and a Seminole, all of District 2-AAA, ran to victories to remain undefeated, but Monahans did receive a 13-6 scare from Brownfield.

Crane's Golden Cranes got two touchdowns from Willie Neal to and a two game losing streak with a 14-8 victory over Denver City.

Lake View, the head runner in District 3-AAA, remained undefeated, but was less than impressive with a 13-0 victory over AA Ozona.

Snyder had the most impressive scoring performance of the week when they trounced the winless Andrews Mustangs by a whopping 61-20 margin. Andrews has now lost five games in a row, one coming at the tailend of last year.

The top ranked Class A team in the state, Seagraves, ran wild in a 42-8 win over Lorenzo, but the Stanton Bulldogs, who also play in District 5-A, looked impressive with a 34-13 win over Roscoe. Those two squads appear headed for an October showdown.

Balmorhea kept their unblemished mark in tact Friday with a narrow 10-7 victory over AA Fabens while Iran ran to their second victory in a row with a 46-0 bombing of Class B Sanderson. Rankin drew the open date last week and remain at 1-2 on the season after two tough early season losses to Jal and McCamey.

Player of the Week: McCamey's Clifton Pettis draws top honors for his last ditch heroics against Coahoma. Pettis not only caught the winning touchdown pass in that game, but rushed for over 100 yards and scored another touchdown on a 38-yard run. It was the hardest choice of the year, however, since Reagan County's Jennings Teel and Rex Poyner had great nights against Lamesa. Crane's Willie Neal also deserves credit with his performance against Denver City.

McCamey Halfback Clifton Pettis named R-T Player of the Week

Lakers To Look At Chamberlain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain shows up for his promised practice with the Los Angeles Lakers everyone will know he's there. Some might wonder why. Others might wish he weren't. Chamberlain, 30, out of National Basketball Association competition for two years, moved back into the spotlight when the New York Knickerbockers asked permission to talk to him. The Los Angeles Lakers said he had a year of playing time remaining which was allotted to them. "I'll report to the Los Angeles practice," said Wilt. "I'll see what they want to do with me." He spoke through his attorney, Sy Goldberg, and the obvious inference could be, "Why hassle me when you've got Kareem Abdul-Jabbar?"

Goldberg said, "Wilt is going to report to the Lakers. He'll go to their camp today or Wednesday. Apparently the Lakers think that Wilt owes the Lakers a year's worth of playing time. Wilt doesn't want to owe anybody anything." Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Lakers and other major sports enterprises, admitted he had talked with Goldberg and said, "Wilt Chamberlain owes the Lakers one year of playing

Miami Bruises Sooner Pride, But Switzer Still Optimistic

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's pride was bruised as result of its near upset last weekend at Miami, Fla., but coach Barry Switzer says the Sooners may become a better team because of it. The Sooners, considered five-touchdown favorites in many quarters, eked out a 20-17 win over the fired-up Hurricanes to keep their winning streak alive at 23 games. How did it happen? "First of all, Miami is obviously a better football team than our people thought they were," Switzer said Monday at his weekly press luncheon. "They played outstanding and were emotionally ready. ... Everyone took them very lightly—the press, the fans and our football team." Switzer said there were several factors which contributed to the Sooners' near downfall, including a host of offensive errors, ineffectiveness of the offensive line because of injuries to starters Jamie Melendez and Terry Webb and the slick artificial turf of the Orange Bowl which hampered the Sooners' end runs. In the final analysis, however, he said "it was 95 percent the play of Miami." Switzer said that because of inexperience and injuries in the offensive line, the 1975 Sooners "are not nearly as good a football team as we were offensively last year. ... It gets down to one thing, we didn't play as well as our potential. We've got to improve." But he said there may be some benefits from the closeness of the game. "Anytime a person is embarrassed and his pride has been bruised—if he's got anything in him at all—he'll get better." He said Oklahoma will have to improve in a hurry against Colorado. "I saw a horror movie last night—the Colorado offense," he said in reference to a game film of the Buffs' 52-0 clubbing of Wichita State. "They're leading the nation in everything offensively," he said. "Our defensive coaches think they are the best offensive football team we've faced since the 1971 Nebraska team." Switzer pointed to the huge Colorado line, running threats, Terry Kuntz, Tony Reed and Bill Waddy and the scrambling ability of quarterback David Williams. Of Williams, he said, "He's a scrambler with great speed and he's playing with a lot of confidence now." He said his defense saved the day against Miami and will need to be at their best Saturday. "Our defense played pretty well against Miami. ... There were some mistakes in the defensive secondary ... but Leroy and Dewey Selmon played great as did Jimbo Elrod.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seven professors of the University of Texas filed suit against the school's new president and the board of regents in federal court for allegedly punishing them for their outspokenness. The professors claim President Lorenz Rogers violated their First Amendment rights by cutting the merit raise recommendations for them by a concerted effort to punish the professors.

The seven are Edwin Allair, philosophy; David Edwards, government; David Gavenda, physics; Forest Hill, economics; Standish Meacham, history; Thomas Philpott, history, and Philip White, history. An eighth professor, James Kinney, English, had intended to join the suit, but Rogers restored the cut in the merit raise recommended for him. That made the issue moot for him, he said.

The seven have been among the leading critics of the choice of Rogers as UT-Austin president. She was four times rejected by a faculty-student nominating committee, which has no power but which allegedly was promised by the regents that its recommendations would be considered. "Ridiculous," says Rogers. Rogers issued a statement saying, "This is so ridiculous — when I cut back 70 people and eight of them singled themselves out and say, 'She's trying to keep us from talking.'"

White told a Capitol news conference he tried to save the university "acute embarrassment" in the case by meeting confidentially with regents chairman Allan Shivers in August when he first learned of the cuts. He left that meeting, he said, optimistic that the cuts would be restored and that no publicity would damage the school. "We believe she (Rogers) set out to do us in," Philpott told reporters. "We have made her look bad," said White. "She has punished us because we dared to challenge the presumed prerogative of the administration."

Humphrey Urges Artists, Patrons To Develop Needed Political Clout

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Artists and their patrons have been urged by former Vice President Hubert Humphrey to get out and develop the political clout that it takes to obtain greater federal, state and local support. "It isn't the Congress that is your problem, because Congress is the mirror of the public. . . . Go back home and start to develop a constituency," Humphrey told a Lyndon B. Johnson Library symposium on the arts Monday.

Tanzania Assails OPEC Price Hike

The symposium concluded at noon today with an address by the late former president's widow, Lady Bird Johnson, who commemorated by the symposium. The budget for the National Endowment for the Arts has grown from $2.5 million to $75 million since the act became law. Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., a co-sponsor of the act, said Congress should be appropriating $250 million a year for the arts, "even in a period of entrenchment."

Dentist Defends American System As World's Best

Humphrey said, however, he would not be honest if he neglected to say it would be difficult to increase funding of the arts over the next two years "to the levels they merit." "But we can, and I believe will, achieve those increases in time, and this goes back to state and local political clout. . . . Infiltrate, if you please, your bicentennial commission and make it a part of your effort," he said.

Raiders Pick Up Gambling Material

BEAUMONT (AP) — Government attorneys today were expected to present a federal grand jury with evidence gathered in a weekend raid of alleged illegal gambling operations in nine homes and businesses. About $1,000 in small bills, documents believed to be football gambling paraphernalia, several telephones and one late model automobile were seized in Port Arthur and Beaumont by local and federal authorities. No arrests were made.

New Encephalitis Cases Reported

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston area health officials have reported two more suspected cases of St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE). One suspected case was dropped, leaving the present SLE totals at five suspected deaths, 14 confirmed cases and 32 suspected cases since the sleeping sickness outbreak first was reported on Aug. 27.

Sheinwold On Bridge Brilliant Falsecard Hoodwinks Declarer

The average tournament player is the greatest bridge player in the world. If you've any doubt about it he'll tell you so himself. It's remarkable, therefore, that Los Angeles tournament star Larry Weiss took great pleasure in telling how an expert whose name he still doesn't know hoodwinked him during the recent national tournament in Miami Beach. "When West produced the queen of clubs, Weiss discovered that he had been flimflammed. Whether South ruffed high or low in the dummy, East was sure to get a trump trick. South would have made his contract if he hadn't cashed the king of clubs, but he thought he was quite safe as long as East held that card. If West took the first club trick with the queen, South would later lead the king of clubs to ruff out the ace. No matter what he did, West would get only one club trick. The advantage in playing the ace was in giving declarer a false sense of security."

Partner bids one heart, and the next player doubles. You hold: S-A 7 2, H-10 9 3 2, D-8 6 5, C-8 6 5. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid two hearts. This type of raise over a takeout double shows trump support but very little else.

Seven Professors File Suit Against UT Regents, Rogers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seven University of Texas professors have filed suit against the school's new president and the board of regents in federal court for allegedly punishing them for their outspokenness.

The seven are Edwin Allair, philosophy; David Edwards, government; David Gavenda, physics; Forest Hill, economics; Standish Meacham, history; Thomas Philpott, history, and Phillip White, history.

One Raise Restored An eighth professor, James Kinneavy, English, had intended to join the suit, but Rogers restored the cut in the merit raise recommended for him. That made the issue moot for him, he said.

The seven have been among the leading critics of the choice of Rogers as UT-Austin president. She was four times rejected by a faculty-student nominating committee, which has no power but which allegedly was promised by the regents that his recommendations would be considered.

"Ridiculous," Says Rogers Rogers issued a statement saying, "This is so ridiculous, when I cut back 70 people and eight of them singled themselves out and say, 'She's trying to keep us from talking.'"

White told a Capitol news conference he tried to save the university "acute embarrassment" in the case by meeting confidentially with regents chairman Allan Shivers in August when he first learned of the cuts.

He left that meeting, he said, optimistic that the cuts would be restored and that no publicity would damage the school.

"We believe she (Rogers) set out to do us in," Philpott told reporters.

"We have made her look bad," said White. "She has punished us because we dared to challenge the presumed prerogative of the administration."

Johnson's signing of the act and their patrons have been urged by former Vice President Hubert Humphrey to get out and develop the political clout that it takes to obtain greater federal, state and local support.

"It isn't the Congress that is your problem, because Congress is the mirror of the public. . . . Go back home and start to develop a constituency," Humphrey told a Lyndon B. Johnson Library symposium on the arts Monday.

The symposium concluded at noon today with an address by the late former president's widow, Lady Bird Johnson.

Humphrey said, however, he would not be honest if he neglected to say it would be difficult to increase funding of the arts over the next two years "to the levels they merit."

Goals Possible On Time "But we can, and I believe will, achieve those increases in time, and these go back to state and local political clout. . . . Infiltrate, if you please, your bicentennial commission and make it a part of your effort," he said.

Most symposium speakers said they did not fear that greater government support might lead to overt censorship, but several said they feared the dead hand of bureaucracy.

State Sen. Arlen Gregorio of California said a potential problem exists in deciding which of several competing art forms are to receive the most support.

"Ethnic arts may find themselves shortchanged because of a concentration of power in a narrow decision-making base," Gregorio said.

Thomas Fichandler, executive director of Washington's Arena Stage, told of a Romanian director who admitted that censorship existed in his government-supported theater but preferred his system to ours.

Actor Kirk Douglas called the $250 million a year suggested by Javits a "piddling amount."

"I don't believe there is any danger of government interference," he said.

Harris, Udall, Bayh Emerging As Favorites Of Democratic Liberals

By DAVID S. BRODER
The Washington Post

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — As liberal Democrats continue to inspect the field of 1976 presidential contenders, a pattern is beginning to emerge.

It was visible two weeks ago in Minneapolis, when 1,500 party activists attended the first of five regional candidate forums and it came into sharper focus here Saturday, when 1,800 gathered for the second round of screening.

The most issue-oriented people of the Democratic left are gravitating to former Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma. Those liberals who talk more in terms of "electability" are dividing between Rep. Morris K. Udall and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, with Udall so far getting the larger share.

In an informal poll by The Washington Post of 126 people in Saturday's audience, Harris edged Udall for first place, with Bayh some distance back in third.

Two other speakers, 1972 vice-presidential nominee R. Sargent Shriver and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, finished far behind.

The unscientific sample was obtained by a reporter distributing 200 blank ballots to people in scattered sections of the audience, asking for anonymous rating of the five men as potential candidates and for comments on their performances.

One hundred and twenty-six ballots were returned after the session. The first-place votes were: Harris, 45; Udall, 38; Bayh, 24; Shriver, 9; and Carter, 1. Nine other ballots were returned with comments indicating no first choice among the five speakers.

In Minneapolis, where a similar informal poll was taken with 100 ballots distributed and 62 returned, the results had been: Udall, 27; Harris, 12; Bayh, 9; Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, 6, and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, 3, and five with no first choice. Shapp and Sanford were scheduled to speak here but were unable at the last minute to make the trip.

In the poll here 80 of the 126 responses came from Massachusetts Democrats, 24 from New York, and the remainder were scattered among people from other New England states.

Many of those in the survey seemed satisfied to make their choice among the candidates they had heard. When asked if there were someone other than the five speakers they would prefer to see the Democrats nominate, one-third came up with other suggestions:

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts was named by 10 people, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota by 7, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a declared candidate, by 4, and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, also by 4. No other write-ins got more than two votes.

The candidate forums were organized by Americans for Democratic Action and a group of liberal trade unions. The occupational identifies on The Post's ballots indicated many of those in attendance were teachers, students, government employees and party activists. Slightly over half the respondents were women.

Harris opened the program, on which each candidate in turn made a short speech and answered questions for most of an hour from a panel of experts and the audience. As always, Harris stressed a "populist" appeal for "a fairer distribution of wealth and power and income in America."

He advocated an end to capital-gains tax advantages, government development of offshore oil, provision of up to 10 million public service jobs and federal urban development banks to aid hard-pressed cities.

Harris argued that such a platform, far from being "too far out" for political success, offers the Democrats their only way of appealing to those who would otherwise support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace or stay home.

"Don't do this perennial elitist thing of saying, 'We're right on the issues, but the great unwashed don't understand us.' The people are way ahead of us, and we'd better catch up," he said.

The listeners' comments on Harris stressed agreement with his view of the issues and, secondly, hope that his political analysis would be right.

"Harris is clearly the issue leader," a 39-year-old Massachusetts lawyer said. "and he is the candidate with the most appeal to the working poor, who deserted the Democrats in droves in 1972."

"He is the only candidate who speaks strongly to the issue of concentrated wealth and power and provides the Democrats with the direction toward pulling together the FDR coalition," a 34-year-old New York teacher said.

Udall, while positioning himself slightly to Harris' right on such issues as amnesty and oil, put much greater stress in his talk on his legislative record on civil rights and the environment, and on the breadth of his support from other members of the House.

Along with his platform appearance, described as "eloquent, articulate, confident and commanding," by various supporters, Udall won support essentially on pragmatic grounds.

A 32-year-old Connecticut housewife and party worker, who described herself as "a liberal who is tired of losing," said, "Harris has only one tune, and I don't think he could possibly win. . . Udall is a solid liberal who I think could really pull together a winning party."

A 29-year-old New York community organizer said, "Intellectually, I tend toward Harris' responsiveness to the issues. But Udall is able to voice opinions acceptable to me in a manner which I feel will be strongly acceptable to the mass electorate."

Bayh's appeal is also a combination of issues and record and pragmatism. In contrast to Washington," a 29-year-old business executive said. "That is what I want, a non-politician, and I view Shriver as such a person."

Carter, whose strategy in the lead-off New Hampshire primary next February appears to be aimed at the conservative Democrats in that state, refused to adopt the popular liberal positions on aid to New York City, homosexuals' rights or the dangers of nuclear power plants.

The scarcity of his support in this audience appeared no surprise to his camp.

Howdy, Rebels! Hope all enjoyed their restful weekend cuz now it's time to get down to the nitty gritty. This Friday night, our Mighty Maroon Platoon will open district play by BREAKING THE BRONCOS in Odessa. Besides the fact that we are the champs of District 5-AAAA, the Robert E. Lee Rebels have folded, spindled and mutilated every team that we've played so far this season. Let's all show up in Odessa to see our Roaring Rebellites, Magnificent Marching Band and Fantastic Football team BRAND THE BRONCOS! See ya there!

Has everyone taken his or her donations down to the old post office? If not, you can either take them down any afternoon this week between 3:30 and 5:30, or call the Youth Center (694-2881) and have them picked up. Remember, next weekend is the big sale at the old post office-downtown. Be sure to come and bring your friends! Also, attention Junior Council members: there will be a very important meeting at the Y.C. at 7 p.m. today. All members please be there!

Well, guys, Homecoming is just around the corner, so it's time to start asking your sweeties for a date. To get ya'll into the spirit of things, the Senior Class has started selling mums of all varieties and all prices. There is even a special this year—maroon and white gingham checked streamers. So, men: get your dates, buy a mum and support your Senior Class all at the same time. Also Wednesday is the deadline for Homecoming Queen nominations. Ballots can be had in Mr. Woods' office. Be sure to nominate the queen of your life.

Float construction will start this week for most of the classes and organizations. The Senior Class float will be built at M&M Enterprises. Juniors ya'll are working at the Allied Van Lines Warehouse, and the sophomores are building a float at the Garfield and Golf Course firestation. Be sure to listen to the announcements for exact working schedules.

Congratulations to all volleyballers! Ya'll have won your first two volleyball games in district play. That takes real spirit and talent, keep up the good work. We're with you team so fight!

Did ya'll hear about the JV game against Permian? Ol' Mojo sure was surprised when Mike Kerley intercepted a pass and made a touchdown with only two seconds left in the game. The 14-7 victory showed Permian who was Boss. Way to go, Rebs!

That's about all for this week. Don't forget the garage sale Saturday and Sunday.

Love and Kisses,

House Shows Anger Over Mail Quality

By MIKE MOORE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, voting to revoke the financial independence of the U.S. Postal Service, is sending a message to the service about the "Pony Express" quality of mail delivery.

The House voted 267 to 123 Monday to cut a proposed extra subsidy of $1.7 billion for the Postal Service and to require the service to come to Congress annually for funding and to put its revenues in the general treasury.

Before finishing work on the measure for the day, the House spent five hours of debate full of stinging criticism of mail delivery.

Members from both sides of the aisle used the debate to cite numerous constituent complaints about slow deliveries and rising stamp prices.

The vote was on an amendment to a wide-ranging Postal Service bill. After losing on the amendment, supporters of the original bill withdrew it from immediate action in an attempt to regroup their forces. The amendment could be dropped in a later vote, which the bill's sponsors said they will probably seek next week.

The key vote came on a section of the bill that would have changed the formula for calculating the amount that the federal treasury pays to supplement the service's own revenues. Its effect would have been to raise the present subsidy of about $900 million to $2.6 billion.

The House instead adopted the amendment to cut the service's financial independence. It was offered by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., who said, "Maybe Congress can't run the post office, but it can't do any worse than the Postal Service is doing. . . The record is replete with overruns, mismanagement — the classic overtones of government mismanagement."

Rep. Wayne L. Hayes, D-Ohio, claimed, "The Pony Express was better than this."

Opponents of the Alexander amendment charged it overturned the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, which abolished the old Post Office Department in favor of an autonomous service.

Reorganization gave the Postal Service authority to handle its own revenues and annual subsidies for mail that does not pay its own way. It also created a rate commission to set the cost of stamps.

Rep. James L. Hanley, D-N.Y., whose postal subcommittee drafted the bill, said "a fundamental vendetta" against the service was responsible for adoption of the rider.

"I don't believe many of the members understood fully what they were doing," he said, adding he will try for a reversal, perhaps next week.

Gladys Heads Toward U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A suddenly revived hurricane Gladys, its 110-miles-per-hour winds expected to get even stronger, plowed through the Atlantic today on a course which might take it to the U.S. mainland, forecasters said.

"This could become a major storm," Gil Clark, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said late Monday. "Satellite pictures show a very well-defined eye."

For days Gladys had hovered just above the 74 m.p.h. needed for hurricane classification. It then rapidly picked up strength Monday and forecasters said the storm should strengthen further.

Denist Defends American System As World's Best

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — America's private dental care system, "unquestionably the best in the world," is threatened with extinction, says the president of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Lyndon M. Kennedy of Dallas, Tex., said Monday he doubts government can come up with a better system of dental care.

But, he said, the key question is "whether we retain our way of economic life or replace it with one which does not reward quality or initiative and places the state above the individual."

Speaking to the Georgia Dental Association, Kennedy urged dentists to unite in a fight to retain the present system.

"I am concerned," he said, "over the tendencies of our profession to become fragmented and polarized — when groups of special interest splinter off, hire their own lobbyists, go their own way and take the position that we will take care of ourselves and the devil take the hindmost."

Candice Bergen: She Fell Into Movies, But Didn't Pick Herself Up

By JOSEPH GELMIS
Newsday

Candice Bergen's beauty and intelligence have been at war for 25 years. Dumb blondes have become quite acceptable movie actresses. But Bergen's critical mind seems to have paralyzed any acting that she may possess.

There is anger, but no believable passion, in her mouth. She is still callow, unable to go beyond the easy, fies, sarcastic curled lips. Her face can often be read as a scornful judgment of the world that she is called upon to act in. "The Wind and the Lion" and "Bite the Bullet." She is self-conscious, self-mocking, facile, nearly always superior to a craft that she never really bothered to learn and to which she never made a serious commitment.

Candice Bergen fell into movies. She never visibly picked herself up, dusted herself off and tried to do something worth a damn with her opportunity. (The closest she got was as a memorable victim of male egoism in Mike Nichols' "Carnal Knowledge," in which even Ann-Margret attained a rare poignance as victim).

The camera has had a crush on Candice Bergen. So she has gotten work — in her 20s. It has paid better than modeling, which she used to do. It has kept her in the spotlight. So when she wasn't traveling (her great love) on a job with a movie company, she was wandering free-lance assignments as a celebrity photojournalist.

A college dropout, she made her movie debut in "The Group," based on the Mary McCarthy novel. She promptly displayed her astrigent wit and considerable writing skill in an Esquire article ridiculing the entire moviemaking process. She hurt the feelings of some of the other young actresses and publicly regretted having caused them pain. She alternates between being a wise guy and a regular guy.

Bergen's early sarcasms were directed against the plastic shrubbery and natives of the Hollywood movie colony, where she grew up a precocious daughter of the country's most famous ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen. At times, later, looking back, she wrote and talked of feeling pangs of remorse at having put down her home, and by inference, the folks. But she couldn't help herself. She was an adolescent in revolt. Those morning sessions at the breakfast table when, as a honey-blond child, she shared Edgar's lap with Charlie

McCarthy were golden moments. And yet, looking at it another way as she grew sophisticated, they were a joke, too — aspect of the surreal scene of "The Day of the Locust."

Candice Bergen gives half a performance in an otherwise rousing adventure film, "The Wind and the Lion," as the kidnapped widow of a U.S. diplomat in North Africa at the turn of the century. You might charitably argue that it is just a macho adventure movie and that she gave it what is worth. She apparently allowed herself to half believe in the role of the prim mother who became a companion-in-arms to a romantic desert sheik crusading to boot the foreigners out of his homeland.

But then, what do you make of Brian Keith in the same movie? His flamboyant Teddy Roosevelt is surely an all-out 101 per cent effort. Here is an aging character actor who brings something to the party. Gusto. His total absorption in the Roosevelt character may or may not be authentic, may or may not be hammy. That's a debate for historians, and for critics of acting styles. But, indisputably, Brian Keith cranked his generator and lit up his part of the movie screen while he was on. His commitment is total.

Pliable beauties like Garbo and Dietrich became real movie stars. But Candice Bergen has the soul of a critic. She seems to withhold herself. She can't be faulted for the size of her talent. But she won't, or can't, even play out those genuine human emotional conflicts that she surely must experience in her own life. Jane Fonda, an ex-ingenue, grew into a serious Bergen's mind mars her natural beauty. It resists surrender, rebuffs illusion. She hasn't been seduced by acting. She is using the movie screen like a Vogue cover in which she is being paid to be attractive and sell cosmetics and fashions.

The substance of her performance in movies like "The Group" and "The Magus" and "The Day the Fish Came Out" consisted of inscrutable pursed lips. (Less is more.) The camera was content to feast on her exquisite cheekbones. The only footage of her we carry away from "Bite the Bullet," in which she plays a horseback rider in a 600-mile frontier marathon race, is long-legged Candice in tight pants.

There is a whole school of cheekbone actresses. Faye Dunaway, Ali MacGraw, Katherine Ross, etc., etc., etc. But then there was Katherine Hepburn, too. And, at the beginning of Candice Bergen's movie career, because she was so desperately beautiful and reserved, there was a distinct, if remote, hope that her brains and self-esteem would make her want to learn, to grow, toward Hepburn and away from the Corps of Movie Models. But she has remained an outsider, a visitor, a dilettante. Her face has been her fortune these 10 years.

To give Candice Bergen her due, she is a Serious Person. She went to Vietnam on assignment. Her longtime boyfriend, producer Bert Schneider, is one of the more productive and admired Young Turks of Hollywood. It was he who, in an acceptance speech for the documentary Oscar for "Hearts of Howdy, Rebels! Hope all enjoyed their restful weekend cuz now it's time to get down to the nitty gritty. This Friday night, our Mighty Maroon Platoon will open district play by BREAKING THE BRONCOS in Odessa. Besides the fact that we are the champs of District 5-AAAA, the Robert E. Lee Rebels have folded, spindled and mutilated every team that we've played so far this season. Let's all show up in Odessa to see our Roaring Rebelettes, Magnificent Marching Band and Fantastic Football team BRAND THE BRONCOS! See ya there!

Has everyone taken his or her donations down to the old post office? If not, you can either take them down any afternoon this week between 3:30 and 5:30, or call the Youth Center (694-2881) and have them picked up. Remember, next weekend is the big sale at the old post office-downtown. Be sure to come and bring your friends! Also, attention Junior Council members: there will be a very important meeting at the Y.C. at 7 p.m. today. All members please be there!

Homer Watercolors Will Go To National Gallery Of Art

By PAUL RICHARD
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Seventeen watercolors by Winslow Homer (1836-1910) have been left to the National Gallery of Art by the late Ruth K. Henschel of New York.

The Henschel Homers, which will go on view on Sunday in the Gallery described them as "the largest and most important group" of watercolors by the Yankee master still in private hands.

There are many who rank watercolors somewhere beneath oil. Homer was one who disagreed. "I will live by my watercolors," he said.

Henschel (who as president of

M. Knoedler & Co., the international art firm, knew all the sources of the market), took the artist's word. Henschel bought his first Homer watercolor in 1912, his last not long before he died in 1956.

Some of Homer's oils, especially his Barbizon-mood pictures of setting suns and musing milkmaids, tend toward the sentimental. His quickly painted watercolors are the opposite of prissy, both in subject and technique. Homer was a sportsman, a fisherman, a hunter, and he loved the sea.

Though some scholars are not sure that Homer is the greatest of America's watercolor painters — they would, instead, propose the names of Sargent or Demuth — it is clear that Homer stands alone when it comes to painting water and water-broken light.

He who paints with oils can squeeze white pigment from a tube for the whiteness of the clouds or the foam of breaking waves. For the watercolor artist, the whiteness of the paper is the only source of light.
