

Striking Kansas City Firemen Accused Of Arson

By ROBERT MACY
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — City officials say they believe striking firefighters are responsible for some of the 217 blazes which have erupted since firefighters walked off their jobs Friday in a pay dispute.

Fire Director Frank Spink said there are "strong indications that arson was involved in six fires" over the weekend, and police reported one firebombing Sunday night.

Spink said the city had asked surrounding communities which have mutual aid agreements with Kansas City for firefighting assistance, but "got no's, no's, no's. There were burning, and nobody would do anything."

He said union agreements in the other cities take precedence over the mutual aid pact.

Police Chief Joseph McNamara said many fires were deliberately set, "not random acts, but well-planned arsons, committed by people knowledgeable about fires."

Charles Shafer, an attorney for the Kansas City firefighters' union, denied that any union members were involved in starting fires. And Joe McMahon, an international union vice president, said Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. had "made a clown out of himself... by accusing the firefighters of arson and sabotage. This is a cheap shot being aimed at the firefighters."

Nearly 800 National Guardsmen assisted hundreds of police officers, public works employees and volunteers in battling some 50 fires Sunday — more than 10 times the number usually reported.

Wheeler dismissed 59 striking firefighters who refused to report for duty Sunday night, calling the dismissals a "test situation." He said he expected to take no further action before a Jackson County Circuit Court hearing Thursday on the city's request for an injunction against the strike.

A spokesman for Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters said its 858 members voted "100 per cent" late Sunday to continue the strike.

None of Sunday night's fires was major, although several occurred in apartment buildings in older sections of the city and residents had to be evacuated. No serious injuries were reported, but a number of substitute firefighters were treated for smoke inhalation.

Police say several firefighters have been arrested on traffic violations since the strike and flammable liquids have been found in their possession.

Wheeler said a grand jury will hear evidence soon on possible arson cases, and some of the witnesses to be called are striking firefighters.

Union spokesman Robert Black said some 20 firefighters arrested on traffic charges have been denied release on bail until they were served with grand jury subpoenas.

In seeking the injunction to end the strike, the city claims that the walkout is illegal because state law prohibits public employes strikes and because firefighters previously agreed to work through May 1976 while the city council worked on a new contract.

Firefighters are seeking pay parity with city police officers, a demand first stated in 1969. Firefighters currently start at $10,200 annually and reach top pay of $12,996. Police officers start at $9,432 and earn top pay of $15,305 yearly.

Tejas Extends Canyon Pay Zone In Edwards Area

Canyon production has been extended 2½ miles southwest in the Frances Hill gas field of North Edwards County, with dual completion from the Canyon and Pennsylvanian pays at Tejas Energy Exploration, Inc., Midland, No. 1-68 Hill.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.3 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforated interval at 4,793-4,918 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 44,600 gallons and 42,000 pounds.

From the regular field Pennsylvanian pay, calculated, absolute open flow was 960,000 cubic feet of dry gas daily. Production was from pay behind perforations at 6,308-6,404 feet, and from open hole at 6,469-6,540 feet. The section had been acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 36,000 gallons and 38,500 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 6,540 feet, it has 5½-inch casing set at 6,469 feet, and under ground elevation of 2,223 feet, top of the Canyon was picked at 2,745 feet, and Pennsylvanian at 5,305 feet.

Location is 990 feet from North and west lines of section 68, CC&S&F survey, 24 miles south of Sonora.

At Least 29 Die In Guerrilla Raid On Army Garrison

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — In a daring coordinated raid, leftist guerrillas attacked a provincial army garrison Sunday in an abortive attempt to steal guns, then fled in a hijacked plane, leaving at least 29 dead by official count.

Government troops today combed areas near Rafaela, 290 miles north of here, where the Montonero guerrillas left the plane after the raid on an infantry garrison in Formosa, a small provincial capital on the Paraguayan border 575 miles to the north.

Security sources said 14 security men and at least 15 guerrillas were killed when police and soldiers repelled the assault by 50 guerrillas. At least 18 soldiers were seriously injured. The army said the government dead were two officers, 11 soldiers and a provincial policeman.

The newspaper La Nacion reported that the Montoneros had also tried to storm the Formosa jail where a number of leftists were imprisoned but were driven back with 10 wounded.

There was no official confirmation on the jail attack.

The guerrillas surviving the garrison attack fought their way to the Formosa airport, where they seized the terminal and held the visiting federal governor, Juan Taparelli, and other officials captive, security sources said, but Taparelli escaped unharmed during the confusion.

Meanwhile, fellow guerrillas hijacked an Aerolineas Argentinas airliner on a domestic flight between Buenos Aires and Corrientes, about 100 miles southeast of Formosa, and forced it to land at the Formosa airport.

They ordered the passengers to leave the twin-jet Boeing 737 and held off soldiers and policemen while some of the guerrillas on the ground got aboard.

The jet's original passengers reportedly were not injured. The plane's flight crew remained aboard.

Other guerrillas remained behind to defend the runway as the plane took off, then withdrew toward mountains along the Paraguayan border, the sources said.

The short-range jet headed for the 21-year-old Miss Hearst. The Post said it learned from "sources familiar with the interviews" that Miss Hearst confessed during discussions with court-appointed psychiatrists.

It said Miss Hearst decided to cooperate after her attorney F. Lee Bailey told her that the only way to avoid a long prison term was to turn state's evidence.

The Post's sources said Miss Hearst described her part in various crimes, including a bank robbery last April 21 in Carmichael, Calif., in which a woman was murdered. It said she also identified several persons who harbored her when she was a fugitive.

Miss Hearst, daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, already has been charged with a San Francisco bank robbery and various firearms offenses.

Albert Johnson, a partner of Bailey's, said: "This is absolutely not true. She has not confessed to anything... She couldn't make a decision like that, even if she wanted to, because of the state she's in."

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. said, "I don't know anything about any statements that she's made to the prosecution. I'm not aware of any cooperation that she is extending or offering to the prosecution. There have been no plea discussions. She has not offered to turn state's evidence. It's just a wild story, that's all."

Patty Hearst Story Draws Quick Denial

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst has confessed to several crimes, including a bank robbery, and will testify against her terrorist comrades in return for immunity or special treatment, the New York Post reported today.

Wildcat, Gas Well Reported In Pecos

Pecos County drew site for a shallow wildcat and a gas field gained an extension.

Robert Leon Gray of Fort Stockton will drill No. 1-B Heiner, a 100-foot wildcat, one location southwest of the two-well Chicklynn (Tansill) field.

Location is 1,920 feet from south and 2,155 feet from west lines of section 589, GC&SF survey, 15 miles north of Fort Stockton.

Field Extension

Hunt Oil Co. completed a ¾-mile northeast and one-mile southeast extension to the Elsinore (Devonian-Fussum) field of Pecos, 30 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

No. 60 Elsinore gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 70 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Production was from pay behind perforations at 11,740-12,344 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 30,000 gallons.

The project has 5½-inch casing set at 12,447 feet, on total depth of 12,458 feet, and is plugged back to 12,346 feet.

Location is 1,470 feet from north and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 25, block D, GC&SF survey.

Mrs. Elizabeth Herrema, wife of kidnaped Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema, awaits news of her husband at their home in Limerick, Ireland.

Dutch Company Ready To Pay Kidnaped Executive's Ransom

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — A colleague of kidnaped Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema said today his company is ready to buy Herrema's release. But police said cash would not divert the kidnapers from their demands.

Herrema, 53-year-old chief executive of the Limerick plant of the Dutch multinational steel firm Ferenka, was abducted near his home here Friday.

The kidnapers threatened to execute him Sunday unless Rose Dugdale, Kevin Mallon and Jim Hyland — all members of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army — were freed from prison.

Irish authorities refused either to meet the kidnapers' demands or to issue a reward for information on Herrema's whereabouts, and the deadline passed without word on Herrema's fate.

Today, Dan Hutter, a member of Ferenka's board, said the firm was ready to pay a ransom, but did not say how much. Herrema's son said earlier his family would "do anything" for his safe return.

Limerick police are seeking a man and a woman with IRA links in connection with the kidnaping. The man is Eddie Gallagher, 27, a laborer from County Donegal, and the woman is Marion Coyle, 19, of Londonderry.

Britain's Daily Telegraph alleged Gallagher was the father of the baby boy born in jail last December to Miss Dugdale, a socially prominent, economist-turned-revolutionary. She has not named the father, however. The baby is being cared for by friends in Ireland.

How About Br'er Fox?

Agence France-Presse GIPHORN, West Germany — A West German soldier is undergoing anti-rabies treatment here despite the fact that it was he who bit a fox and not vice-versa.

The fox, exploring a tent set up during maneuvers, accidentally stepped into the open mouth of the sleeping soldier whose teeth closed reflexively. The fox's cries woke the soldier up and he saw the animal limp away.

New Sinai Accord Draws Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said today the new Sinai accord is more likely to impede than assist progress toward a final peace agreement in the Middle East.

Ball said the accord "is very, very hard and difficult to find a good job in Mexico." He stroked his beard as he recalled the day he was caught. "The immigration officers dropped by the construction site I was working on in Lubbock. They came to check on the employees."

"My employer treated me well. He didn't know I was an illegal alien. I had gotten a Social Security card and he took out taxes. I've filed income tax returns for the last two years," Juan said as he crossed his feet and locked them together at the ankles.

"I worked eight to eight and a half hours a day and spent most of my spare time at home. I sent almost all of my pay back to my family in Mexico," he said as he lit another cigarette.

"In my case I've never been paid less, but I know of others who do get paid less—but since they need to work, they go along with it," Juan said.

Sometimes Juan would get homesick to see his family. "I've worked here for four to five months, and then I'd go back for up to two years. When the money starts to run out, I cross the border again and work construction jobs.

"If at all possible, I won't cross the border again," Juan said. Usually the federal courts

LATE BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled that the federal government "is entitled to all the lands, minerals and other natural resources" under the Atlantic Ocean more than three miles offshore of 12 Atlantic coast states.

Idaho Senator Says Castro Plots Span Three Presidencies

By DAVID C. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA attempts to kill Cuba's Fidel Castro occurred under three presidents but there is no hard evidence that any president authorized such schemes, according to the chairman of the Senate intelligence committee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Sunday that "plans and attempts" against Castro's life "span the years from the Eisenhower administration through the Kennedy administration and into the Johnson administration."

Appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Church also said, "We have no hard evidence that directly relates this activity to any order that was given by any president."

Church said the attempts against Castro had been confirmed by former CIA Director Richard M. Helms in secret testimony before the intelligence committee.

Although Church has made previous references to CIA plots and attempts against Castro's life, his remarks gave a much wider scope to the agency's involvement in assassination than previously reported.

CIA Director William E. Colby, in a separate appearance on the CBS program "Face the Nation," refused to discuss the allegations of CIA involvement in assassination, saying "the situation was very murky, and... I really don't believe that this subject is an appropriate one for an official to be talking about."

News accounts of CIA attempts to kill Castro have centered on a 1961 plot in which underworld figures Sam Giancana and John Roselli were involved in a scheme to poison the Cuban leader in connection with the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion.

That scheme has been publicly admitted by both Robert Maheu, a former aide to Howard Hughes, and Lawrence Houston, former CIA general counsel who said he informed then-Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy about the plot in 1960. Maheu said he was a liaison between the CIA and the Mafia.

Other news accounts based on anonymous sources have described a variety of plots against Castro, all of them occurring during the Kennedy administration. Church's comments marked the first official indication of CIA attempts to kill Castro during the Eisenhower and Johnson administrations as well.

For Illegal Aliens, 'Rewards Are Worth The Risk'

By COURTNEY BARBER
For many, it's a swim across the Rio Grande on a dark night, then a long hike across barren wilderness to civilization.

For others, it's a hot ride, smuggled across the border in false bottoms of trucks.

But for the thousands of illegal aliens who cross the Texas-Mexico border each year, the rewards are worth the risk.

Many are eventually caught, put in jail and deported, but for nearly all, the wages they are paid in the U.S. can mean the difference between eating and starving for their families in Mexico.

"To them (the illegal aliens) it is worth the risk of being put in jail," Juan (an alias) said in an interview in the Midland City Jail, "because we know that in a few weeks here we can earn more money than in a year in Mexico."

Juan wore a city-issued white jumpsuit with the sleeves tied about his waist in knots and a white tee shirt.

"We don't worry about being caught, as long as we have a chance to work," Juan said. "I've been here (in the U. S.) several times before. I came by myself, except the time before last, when I brought my wife and four children with me. Each time I used a different location to cross."

"In Mexico I made 40 pesos (12 cents) a day," he said as he shuffled his bare feet on the linoleum floor. "Working on farms was extremely hard. I didn't make enough money to feed my family.

"We lived on a composita, a small community of peasants who earn wages by working on farms. The housing consists of shoddy, cramped living quarters, without benefit of modern conveniences.

Juan is proud that he has been able to make a living for his family. "I know that we do help ourselves. We came to work, because we need to work," he said as he rubbed hand down six months as a sentence with a probation period of five years.

"They (his family) know I've been arrested. I wrote them. And I have heard from them," he said, clearing his throat.

"My wife and children are in Mexico," he wiped his cheek, "without any money or food. My wife developed complications from a hysterectomy she had after having our last child. These things weigh heavy on my mind."

"I've been here (in jail) two months. The court system here is slow," Juan said.

"I wish they would try me — I don't care if I'm found guilty or get a suspended sentence."

It's a helpless feeling to sit in a jail cell, knowing your family isn't getting one decent meal a day. Yet, Juan knew that when he crossed the border alone.

He also has to cope with the uncertainty of not knowing if he has an attorney and says, "No one has come to talk to me. I've been before a judge in Pecos, but I didn't have an attorney," Juan said.

He had an interpreter in the court in Pecos, but he is confused as to what actually happened. He must wait in Midland

Texas' Weekend Violent Death Toll Climbs To 24

By The Associated Press
A fiery plane crash which claimed three lives helped swell the violent death toll in Texas during the weekend.

The grim tabulation for the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday accounted for 24 fatalities, including 11 in traffic accidents, three shootings, two persons asphyxiated in a car, a drowning, a water skiing accident, a fire death and a fatal beating.

Gasfire killed two young brothers and left two others wounded Sunday at a farm near Floydada on the South Plains. Killed were Juan Mendoza, 21, and Carlos Mendoza, 22, both of Ralls.

Mike Ornelas Pena, 37, of Floydada died when his car burst into flames Sunday. Investigators said Pena's car was parked on the shoulder of U.S. 82-82 three miles east of Ralls when a pickup truck hit the car.

Linda McGruder, 30, was killed and her husband, the Rev. Carril McGruder, was injured in Fort Worth Sunday night when their car hit an overpass abutment. The McGruders were in Fort Worth for a United Pentecostal Church International convention.

Carrillo Impeachment Trial Gets Under Way

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' first impeachment trial in 44 years began in earnest today, with South Texas District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo, once a key figure in the George Parr political machine, facing possible removal from office by the Senate.

"The court will come to order," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby declared at 10:30 a.m. as he presided over the opening session of the trial.

Carrillo has been suspended from his state district court bench in South Texas since the House voted for 10 of 11 impeachment articles on Aug. 4-5.

His lawyer has said the federal conviction will be appealed. But the State Bar grievance committee in Corpus Christi could seek suspension of Carrillo's law license—which a district judge must have pending that appeal.

Therefore, even if the Senate exonerates Carrillo, he still could not get back on the bench if his law license is suspended.

In addition to these troubles, Carrillo faces a formal proceeding before the State Judicial Qualifications Commission Nov. 3 on the same charges involved in the impeachment.

The commission has the power to investigate alleged judicial misconduct and recommend suspension from office to the Texas Supreme Court.

Carrillo is not scheduled for sentencing in the federal case until Nov. 17. He could get as much as 14 years and a $25,000 fine.

The Senate voted last month to require House special counsel Terry Doyle to establish Carrillo's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, which Doyle said is a heavier burden of proof than has ever been required in an impeachment trial in this country.

Leon Jaworski, special state counsel, advised the Senate to adopt that rule, replying to Doyle's protest that "if you really have a case, then there's nothing to worry about."

A two-thirds vote of the Senate is needed for conviction.

Carrillo, 51, is accused of using Duval County money to buy his groceries; of using county workers and equipment at his ranch and store for private gain; of refusing to disqualify himself in legal matters in which he had a personal interest; and of trying to dominate the grand jury and Benavides school board.

The Senate exonerated Central Texas District Judge J. B. Price in 1931 in Texas' last impeachment trial.

Services Set Today For William Crisp

SAN ANGELO — Services for William R. Crisp, 55, of 919 Live Oak, San Angelo, were to have been at 11:30 a.m. today in the First Christian Church with the Rev. Michael Waco, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial was to have been in Fairmount Cemetery.

Crisp was born April 15, 1920, in Nowater, Okla. He attended Capitol Hill High School in Oklahoma City, Okla., Capitol Hill Junior College, Texas A&M University and received a chemical engineering degree from Oklahoma University. He had been employed by Warren Petroleum Corp. in Tulsa, Okla. and Texas Natural Gas Corp. in Tulsa.

He did research work for Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. and was employed in the research laboratory of Stanolind Oil and Gas in Tulsa. He moved to Rankin in 1948 and to San Angelo in 1959.

Crisp was an independent operator in the oil and gas business with various corporations in gas transmission, gas processing and marketing. He was president of Neleh Gas and Oil Corp., operating major gas gathering and transmission systems in Pecos, Crockett, Upton, Crane and Tom Green counties.

He was a former director of the First National Bank of San Angelo and was on the executive committee of the Concho Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Geraldine Crisp; two sons, Richard Crisp of Waco and Dewey Crisp of Irving; mother, Mrs. A. D. Crisp of San Angelo; a stepson, Terry Shannon of Dallas; a step-daughter, Kelly Shannon of San Angelo, and two sisters, Mrs. Wesley House of Midland and Mrs. Max Hinder of Oklahoma City.

Memorials should be sent to the Concho Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America or to the memorial fund for the First Christian Church.

Pallbearers were Dr. Tom Munter of Auburn, Ala.; Maurice Smith of Midland; Truett Smith, Jack Morgan, C. S. Conrad, Clyde Hoyt, Dick Davis and Jay Wolslager, all of San Angelo.

Pentagon Checks Defense 'Bill Paying'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon spokesman said officials are looking into published reports that the Defense Department picked up the tab for Northrop Corp. entertainment of high-ranking Pentagon officials and influential members of Congress.

The Capitol Hill News Service reported over the weekend that the Defense Department reimbursed Northrop, a Los Angeles-based aerospace firm, for $24,000 in expenses over a three-year period at its Maryland hunting lodge.

A separate article alleged the Pentagon reimbursed Northrop for as much as $6,336 in Washington Redskins football tickets over a two-year period. The aircraft manufacturer doled the tickets out to influential members of Congress and their aides as well as Pentagon officials, according to the article.

"We're looking into the matters discussed in the articles," a spokesman said. The articles appeared in the Washington Star.

The Pentagon acknowledged Friday that 33 high-ranking officials went against "the spirit and intent" of regulations in accepting Northrop's invitation to its duck hunting lodge at Easton, Md.

However, the Department told three congressional committees investigating the affair that those who have seen it, includes two members of the staff of the secretary of defense, numerous Air Force and Navy officers and some influential senators and congressmen.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on tactical air power, has confirmed that he accepted one hunting invitation from Northrop. Other names on the list include Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., chairman of the House subcommittee on military appropriations; Vice Adm. W.D. Houser, deputy chief of naval operations for air warfare; and Rep. Bill Nichols, D-Ala., and Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif., both members of the House Armed Services Committee.

Sikes has denied that he ever visited the hunting lodge and a spokesman for Northrop has said the company doesn't know if all those invited actually accepted.

According to the news service report, Northrop was automatically reimbursed by the Pentagon for the $24,000 in claimed cash expenditures for the hunting facility under a Pentagon auditing procedure which allows qualified defense contractors to routinely reclaim certain overhead costs without being subject to normal auditing procedures.

However, the news service said an armed services procurement regulation forbids contractors to claim entertainment expenses as part of their overhead costs.

The news reports were based on documents provided to the news service by "a Defense Contract Auditing Agency source," the articles said.

Telam said the jet's tires blew out on landing and the landing gear sank into the ground when the plane stopped. But none of the occupants were reported hurt.

Before police arrived the guerrillas ran to three waiting cars and drove west toward Cordoba, about 150 miles away, security sources said.

Imogene Fulkner, 72, of San Angelo was injured fatally Saturday night and two other persons were injured in a two-car collision in San Angelo.

Florencio Garcia, 22, owner of a bar in Alice, was shot to death during an argument over who would get a quarter in the bar's juke box. Police held a 22-year-old suspect in the Jim Wells County jail.

A two-month-old Marshall baby—Veronica Darden—died in a fire early Saturday at her home. Authorities said her stepfather, discovering the fire, ran two blocks to turn in an alarm and returned home to find the little girl aslabe.

A two-car crash near Slatersburg in West Texas took the life of Linda Sue Smith, 22, of Del Rio early Saturday. Two other persons were injured.

Robert Rossan, 36, of Big Spring, was killed Saturday when his truck smashed into a row of telephone poles and caught fire near Ozona in West Texas. Police said he apparently overrode to miss a deer in the road.

A Greenwood youth, Mark T. Gausepohl, 17, died at an Austin hospital Saturday of injuries suffered in a water skiing accident at Lake Travis. Police said he apparently suffered muscle cramps, went under and failed to surface.

Albert Hernandez, 17, of Houston died Saturday when a car carrying him struck a tree beside a city street.

A Richmond man, Isabel Salinas, 21, was killed Saturday when he was struck by a pickup truck one mile south of Rosenberg on Texas 36. Police said Salinas was examining his van, which had run off the road.

Howard J. White, 28, of Houston died Saturday when the car in which he was riding struck a utility pole and overturned on a caught fire near Ozona in West city street.

Limits are also placed on spending by congressional candidates, on political contributions and on expenditures by individual groups on behalf of candidates. The act also provides for partial public financing of presidential campaigns.

Appalling the circuit court decision are Buckley, R-Con-N.Y.; McCarthy, a former Democratic senator from Minnesota; philanthropist Stewart R. Mott; the Mississippi Republican Party, and the New York Civil Liberties Union, among others.

They say the act stifles political expression and discriminates against minor party and independent candidates.

The circuit court, rejecting these arguments, said that the "latest efforts on the part of our government to cleanse its democratic processes should at least be given a chance to prove themselves."

The court is generally expected to give the campaign financing law an early hearing, aiming for a decision in time to allow candidates to know the rules before the campaign is well under way.

Although the justices spent all last week meeting in an unprecedented pre-term conference, the term does not legally begin until today — the first Monday in October.

In the campaign case, minor party representatives and others have appealed a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upholding the Federal Election Campaign Act passed last year.

A study was compiled by the city of San Diego, Calif. earlier this year. They found the illegal aliens to be working in jobs in which American citizens chose not to apply for. Instead, they formed mile-long lines at the unemployment office.

The National Issues Conference being held this week at Midland College will offer a respite from the normal routine of city councilmen Tuesday as students of the college are given a chance to question and discuss city government policies with city officials first hand.

An 11 a.m. luncheon has been scheduled at the Student Center of Midland College to get the day's activities underway with Mayor Ernest Angelo, City Manager James Brown and members of the city council.

A forum will be held at noon in the Learning Resource Center, room 217, where students will have the opportunity to question the council concerning city business that was transacted during the council's session two weeks past.

At 1:30 p.m. the council will convene its regular session at the council chambers at city hall.

A 31-item agenda is on tap for council action including:

— A public hearing at 1:35 p.m. on the request of Frank

H. Smith, JEM Properties, Inc., for a zone change from commercial to commercial with a specific use permit for the sale of alcoholic beverages for on-premise consumption in the 3700 block of W. Wall Street.

— At 1:40 p.m., a public hearing on the request of Ray Franks for a temporary trailer permit at 3102 Loma Drive.

— Consider resolution approving specifications and authorizing the advertisement for bids for floodlight standards, fixtures and lamps for Redfern baseball field.

— Consider resolution awarding the bid for painting the Edgewood Street elevated water tank.

— Consider an ordinance vacating and abandoning the northsouth alley in block 52, Original Town and conveying the property to the United States of America.

— Consider resolution authorizing the advertisement for bids for two automobiles.

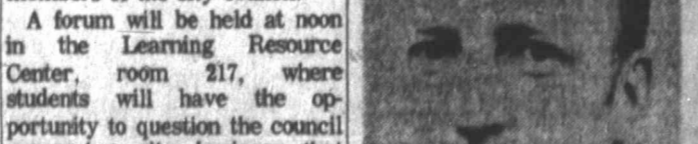

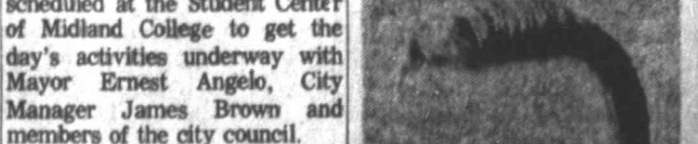

— Consider application for a grant to the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety for an engineering study.

— Consider approving the change in the city's application for Community Development funds.

— Hear a report from Ed Reed with regard to the city's effluent water permit.

High Court Opens New Term Today

By W. DALE NELSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — With Justice William O. Douglas participating in all but a handful of its decisions, the Supreme Court today agreed to review a Missouri abortion control law and take on the politically ticklish issue of campaign financing.

Douglas, 75, who suffered a stroke last Dec. 31, mounted the bench of the nation's highest court for the first time since April 21 when he heard arguments in a death penalty case.

Douglas spent much of last term in hospitals after his stroke.

Among cases which the court announced that it will hear were:

— A challenge to the constitutionality of spending limits and other campaign law changes which will apply to the 1976 presidential elections if upheld.

— An appeal from a lower court decision upholding a Missouri law which requires the consent of husbands or parents and imposes other restrictions on abortions.

The court is considering which appeals to hear of those filed by a list of opponents ranging from conservative Sen. James L. Buckley to independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy.

The court is generally expected to give the campaign financing law an early hearing, aiming for a decision in time to allow candidates to know the rules before the campaign is well under way.

Although the justices spent all last week meeting in an unprecedented pre-term conference, the term does not legally begin until today — the first Monday in October.

In the campaign case, minor party representatives and others have appealed a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upholding the Federal Election Campaign Act passed last year.

Mail Complaints? Save Envelope

Midland area postal customers with complaints about damaged or delayed mail should have the envelope or parcel wrapped to enable postal officials to track down the source of delay or damage.

Postmaster David E. Holster said the information on the envelope or parcel gives the Postal Service a place to begin investigating the delay or damage.

"Saving the envelope and parcel wrapping when you have a problem and bringing it in for us to look at gives us a better chance of tracing it. What's most important is for the public to come to us with their problems. We'll be glad to work with them to try to resolve them."

Seminar Features Leukemia Talk

"Leukemia — Current Approach" will be discussed Thursday by health professionals at Midland Memorial Hospital during a therapeutics seminar.

The session is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

The local participants will utilize a two-way communication hookup with The of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio where the seminar will originate.

Tips Given On Paper Bleaching

Dear Folks:
I want to pass along a fabulous hint today for those of you who might have old, yellowed newspaper clippings in scrapbooks, etc.

I have been knee-deep in the restoration of some of mine and have learned that those old clippings can be bleached and be made to look almost new by soaking them in a weak solution of household bleach and water.

This soaking also removes all of the old paste and scrapbook paper that adheres to the back of the clippings when removing them from the pages of the scrapbook.

When testing this hint, I tore each clipping in half and only bleached one part of it. The bleached clipping came out white as snow, the print did NOT smear and it looked like new again.

The amount of bleach used is optional. On very yellow papers, I used one cup of bleach to three cups of water.

For others, about one cup of bleach to a gallon of warm water is about right. It depends on the age and the yellowness of the paper.

Soak for ten to fifteen minutes, checking often. And be sure to test a small piece before you do the whole clipping.

Now for those who want to try this, let me give you a few tips:

First and foremost, do not put more than one clipping in the bleach water. I tried three at once and it just doesn't work. The clippings stick together and will NOT turn white where they touch each other.

The next secret is, as soon as you take your old clipping out of the bleach water solution, rinse it under the water faucet. Or, dip it in another pan of plain water. Then, "slap" it on the door of your stove, or refrigerator, and smooth it out. When it dries, it will fall off.

Vital Information Given For Saving One's Life

DEAR READERS: If statistics bore you, please read this anyway. One fact might stick in your mind that could save your life:

Last year approximately 12,000 Americans perished in nearly three million fires. And in Canada, there were nearly 900 deaths caused by approximately 79,000 fires.

A large percentage of those who died were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimneys and flues
9. Lightning
10. Spontaneous ignition.

The total loss due to fire in 1973 was an estimated $3,001,000,000 in the U.S.A. and $254 million in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

-Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

-Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.

-Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

-Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

-Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

-Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

-Never smoke in bed.

-Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 per cent of all fires on which they are sprayed, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word Is Truth" (John 17:17)
by Bryan Post

Baptism is symbolic of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Baptism receives its meaning from what Jesus experienced. Just as Jesus died, was buried, and was raised from the dead, so is the person who is baptized: he dies to his previous life of sin, the old man of sin is buried in the water of baptism (the burial necessitates immersion), and the person is raised from the water a Christian, experiencing new life in Christ. This is what the apostle Paul writes in Romans 6:3-4: "Do you not know that all of us who have been baptized in Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? We were buried therefore with him by baptism into death, so that as Christ was raised from the dead by glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life." The new life that baptism brings is the Christian life and leads to eternal life in heaven.

Stitch Calendar For Holiday Gift

By BETTY W. KINSEY
Copley News Service

Here's something to be thinking about during those long weeks before Christmas... a special gift idea: "Buy a calendar towel and sew sequins on the birthdates and anniversaries. I have six children, so I used six colors, one for each family." (From Tina Arnold)

There you are. A thoughtful, yet inexpensive gift. Thank you, Tina.

After making yards and yards of ruffling for chair cushions, I quickly learned to appreciate my ruffler attachment. It stayed with me all the way.

It's difficult sometimes to know how much fabric to start out with so that when you finish you will have the length of ruffling you want. So, we have to experiment a little. You can adjust the amount of ruffling by changing the stitch length on your machine, or by changing the gauge on the ruffler.

On the ruffler there are three numbers—1, 6 and 12, which indicate which stitch will be tucked in for a ruffle. "1" means that every stitch is ruffled; "6" ruffles every sixth stitch; and "12" every 12th. If you use a short stitch on your machine, you will have closer ruffles than if you use the longest stitch. Work with it awhile on scraps of fabric until you have the look you want.

American Awaits Execution Tuesday For Nassau Slayings

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A Wisconsin man who says "God, my father" told him to kill three other Americans waits in a Bahamian jail for execution Tuesday morning.

Michiah Shobek, 22, is to be hanged at 8 a.m. Tuesday for the murder of Ohio lawyer Paul Howell, 17-year-old Katie Smith of Detroit and New York City accountant Irwin Borstein.

A jury ruled Shobek sane, and the death sentence was imposed by a Bahamian court last Sept. 26.

"I never had an idea it would come to this," said Shobek's mother, Mrs. Juanita Spencer, Tuesday morning.

"I was waiting for the government to do something and they didn't. I do blame America for it."

Mrs. Spencer, a charwoman for the Milwaukee school system, said she has been "praying to God" that U.S. officials will step in at the last minute.

"I have done all I possibly could, so I'm just waiting to hear whatever's going to happen. I don't know how I'll take it if he dies," she said.

Shobek testified during his May 1974 trial that he killed the three Americans because they "were the angels of Lucifer."

"I did it because of love, and I was guided by my father, God," Shobek told the jury. He said he had been vacationing in Nassau, and "God, my father told me who to destroy."

Mrs. Spencer, a divorcee with three other children, said she last saw her son during his trial. She said she spoke with him by telephone Friday and "told him I was working on the case, and he told me he loved me and respected me."

"He was sad but not crying. I told him to take care. I said I was praying for him and that he should continue to say his prayers."

Mrs. Spencer said she sent telegrams asking for help from President Ford, Wisconsin Sens. Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire, Massachusetts Sens. Edward Brooke and Edward Kennedy and Wisconsin Rep. Henry Reuss.

Bahamian officials said Nelson and Reuss had messaged them, asking that "less than capital punishment... for humanitarian reasons" be imposed on Shobek. The two Wisconsin politicians, in asking for a reprieve, cited Shobek's youth and "serious questions... about his mental competence."

U.S. Ambassador Seymour Weiss and other American officials in Nassau have unsuccessfully sought commutation of Shobek's death sentence to life in prison.

"But there's nothing that can be done now," said Cyril Sterlenson, a spokesman for the Bahamian government. "The executive order has been signed and the time is running."

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Offers Easier Weight Loss

ORANGE, Cal. (Special)—An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal.

Easier and Convenient

Correspondence from thousands of satisfied people across the country substantiate the claim, "You save time and money while achieving convenient, easier weight loss results without strenuous exercise or starvation."

Candy-Like Pill

Fortified with vitamins E and C, the new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill and foods as prescribed by the diet plan will, through natural action, act to help keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat Favorite Foods

Best of all, you never miss a meal or leave the table hungry. You can still eat most of your favorite foods like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces, gravies, bacon, eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and grapefruit pills, send $5 for 10 day supply (or $8 for 20 day supply or $10 for 30 days supply) cash, check, or Money Order to: SUNNY HILLS DIET, Dept. H27, 1818 W. Chapman Ave., Orange, Calif. 92668. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) BankAmericard or Master Charge OK (send number and expiration date).

One of the two contestants played low from dummy to make sure of four diamond tricks. East put up the jack, and South had to win with the king.

South next led a spade, and West played low. When dummy's king of spades produced a heart from East, South was a goner.

South could get to his hand with the ace of hearts to lead another spade. West's nine would force out dummy's jack. Dummy would eventually have to give up two spade tricks to West.

SEES POINT

The other player saw the point of the hand. The diamonds are meaningless: you must play the spades to use only one trick.

The correct play is to win the first diamond in dummy and lead the king of spades as once to flip out how the suit breaks. West takes the ace of spades and return some safe card.

South gets to his hand with the king of diamonds to lead a spade in rough West, capturing one diamond or spades with the jack. Then South gets to his hand with the ace of hearts to lead another spade in rough west. This brings in the rest of dummy's long suit and fulfills the slam contract.

DAILY QUESTION

With neither side vulnerable, your partner deals and bids one spade. The next player passes, and you hold: S. None, H-Q 10 8 6 3, D. J 8, C. Q 8 7 5 3 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. It would be fine if you could bid one of the long suits and make sure of striking a fit and still not getting too high. A bid will probably land you at a high doubled contract. Pass before you're hurt.

Carrasco Note Vows 'Respect' For Women

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Just days before he died covering behind women he used as shields in a daring prison escape attempt, South Texas drug kingpin Fred Carrasco wrote that from his infancy he was "taught to have respect for females."

At the time, Carrasco held 12 civilian hostages, including seven women, inside the "Walls" prison unit in Huntsville. Two of the women were killed in the shootout that ended the 11-day prison siege.

Throughout the ordeal in late July 1974, Carrasco, leader of the three inmate terrorists, boasted of his manliness and reverence for womanhood. Psychologists called his behavior a "macho complex."

An insight into Carrasco's mind is provided in letters published in "The Carrasco Tragedy," a new book written by Aline House.

Mrs. House is director of library services in the Texas Department of Corrections and was one of those who happened to be in the prison library the day Carrasco, Rudolfo Dominguez and Ignacio Cuevas captured her and 11 other civilians in a bold but fatal effort to escape.

During the siege Carrasco wrote this message: "From my infancy I was taught to have respect for females. But with all sincerity I assure you that if my family they would have seen that I had perceived that I was to have the honor of knowing Mrs. Davis (a hostage) personally, to me the female that has conducted herself as a female, as a human can give to her."

Well, then the male has to give the respect that is merited and she merits more respect than I.

In another letter, Carrasco wrote of Linda Woodman, another hostage held in the prison library.

"My heart at this moment in all sincerity is in pieces. For the simple reason that I have to see a woman like Mrs. Linda Woodman in the condition that unfortunately destiny includes her now. But by the word of a man, the Senora is worth her weight in gold. Because she has behaved herself like a woman worthy of homage. Lovingly, Federico Gomez Carrasco."

Carrasco died days later in a fusillade of bullets as he hid behind the hostages, using them as a shield to leave the prison walls.

Dominguez died with him. Hostages Julia Standley and Elizabeth Von Beseda also were slain.

Ironically, near the end, a woman may have been Carrasco's undoing as he wavered in what proved to be his blundering plan to escape prison.

"Fred, you just can't afford to scrap your plan to go out in the shield," Mrs. Woodman reasoned with Carrasco.

"It's no good. It won't work," Carrasco is quoted as telling her.

"Yes, it will," she retorted. Carrasco weakened and carried out his plan.

Retarded Rosemary Kennedy Found Unhurt After Straying

CHICAGO (AP) — The retarded sister of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy disappeared after attending a church service with sister Eunice Shriver but was found five hours later calmly wandering and "looking in the windows" along a busy downtown avenue.

Mrs. Shriver said she had taken Rosemary Kennedy to St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church for a Sunday morning Mass and was standing with her sister in the vestibule of the church afterward.

"I was looking at some books, and when I turned around, Rosie was gone," Mrs. Shriver told police.

She flagged down a patrol car to report her sister missing and then joined the search with foot patrolmen and officers in 10 cruisers.

WBBM-TV newsman Peter Nolan, assigned to cover the disappearance, spotted the 56-year-old Miss Kennedy near the Chicago Art Institute on Michigan Avenue, about four blocks from the church.

It was a windy but warm day, and the area is a favorite Sunday gathering spot for Chicagoans.

"She was just walking down the street looking in windows," Nolan said. "I went over and asked her if she was looking for Eunice, and she said yes." He said she did not appear nervous or distraught.

Two nearby police officers radioed for a patrol car, and Miss Kennedy was taken to police headquarters for a reunion with her sister. A half-hour later, the two left through a rear door.

Mrs. Shriver, wife of Democratic presidential hopeful Sargent Shriver, was in Chicago for a Saturday night charity function, a spokesman said late Sunday.

Miss Kennedy lives at the St. Colette Home in Jefferson, Wis., and had been taken to Chicago for the day to visit with Mrs. Shriver, according to

It's Time For Quality In Sound Home Movies

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures Now that the sound home movie has gone beyond its first innovative excitement, it's time to consider some factors toward improving its audio quality.

Basically, a good sound movie is a good silent movie accompanied by good sound. The fundamentals of a home movie remain the same: interesting subject matter with story-telling continuity, proper lighting, good color and proficient handling of the camera to achieve sharp focus and proper exposure.

To that list, there must now be added proficient handling of sound equipment to achieve clear audibility of voices and pertinent sounds.

Images, both stills and movies, are often spoiled by distracting backgrounds because the human eye tends to focus on the principal subject while it disregards other confusing elements in the field of view. However, the camera lens sees everything and records everything. With experience, photographers learn to evaluate the entire scene and select a camera angle to avoid or eliminate background clutter.

In sound movies, photographers must also avoid audio clutter, the intrusion of undesirable or unwanted sounds. The human ear, like the eye, is selective and hears only the sounds you're interested in and tends to disregard other sounds in the area.

But microphones, like lenses, record everything in range and do not reject unwanted sounds.

You've seen visual clutter often: unsightly lampposts and telephone poles, bushes and trees growing out of people's heads, etc. Audio clutter might consist of barking dogs, auto horns honking, radio and TV sets playing, and lawnmowers, air-conditioners or typewriters in action.

Since most camera amplifiers feature automatic gain control (AGC), it's especially important to make a conscious effort to exclude unwanted background noises. The AGC picks up the strongest signal available and adjusts the input volume to an acceptable level.

Even if it's an unwanted sound, if unchecked, extraneous sound can dominate a sound movie in extreme cases, or it can merely detract somewhat from its sound quality in milder cases.

One of the most important factors in good sound recording for movies is proper placement of the microphone. It governs the sound input for a strong signal or a weak signal and

The Midland Reporter-Telegram AMUSEMENTS

7A-MONDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1975

That determines whether you get good or poor sound. With the mike close to the primary sound source, there should be a strong signal and less chance of distortion or unwanted background noises. Best results are obtained with the mike no closer than one foot, or further than four or five feet from the principal sound source. However, when it's not possible to get close to the sound source, or if the sound is very loud, the mike may have to be placed at longer distances.

A microphone is the first step in the sound-recording process and its quality and its type are important elements in the final result. A unidirectional mike picks up sound primarily from one direction. A bidirectional mike picks up sounds on its two opposite sides. An omnidirectional mike is capable of picking up sounds from all directions.

Most sound movie microphones are omnidirectional. On occasions where it is necessary to exclude specific sounds, another type of mike may be used but it must match the amplifier with which it will be used.

standpoint the mike should be placed close to the subject, from a pictorial standpoint it may be too visible and distracting. In such cases, the mike may be concealed behind an appropriate prop like a book or vase. Outdoors, it may be hidden behind a bush or bench or placed just outside the camera view.

When filming closeups, the mike may be so close to the camera, it can pick up the camera's operating noise. Some 8mm sound cameras have an alternate microphone receptacle that reduces the sound pickup by 10 decibels for such a situation.

Avoid putting the mike on hard flat surfaces like tables, counters or appliances because sound bouncing off such surfaces is usually distorted when played back. For better sound, place a soft padding under and around the mike stand. Indoors, choose a room with drapes, curtains or carpeting and close the window drapes to absorb sound and prevent reverberations. Outdoors, shoot in areas surrounded by trees and bushes, which make good sound absorbers.

Hand-holding a microphone isn't advisable but if you must, use a firm, steady grip and cushion the mike. Finger movement over the mike and bending the wire makes noises that are magnified in the recording. Here again, unwanted sounds can be reduced by wrapping the mike in soft packing material.

In outdoor shooting, wind hitting the mike is a sure way to degrade sound quality. Some camera outfits provide a tube to protect the mike. A porous plastic foam, which covers the end of the tube, permits sound to enter but minimizes noise caused by wind rushing over the microphone. When there is no tube handy, cover the mike with a handkerchief or mitten or let it protrude from a pocket.

Nervous people who drum their fingers, clear their throats often or tap objects together create noises which can spoil sound recording. Caution subjects against these habits and try to regulate conversation to avoid a babble of voices at the same time.

Nero Man Of Many Talents

Peter Nero is a man of many talents.

Widely known as one of the most in-demand pianists on the scene today, not only in America but throughout the world, the versatile gentleman also is a highly-respected composer and conductor.

His pianistic and conducting abilities will be evident when he appears with the Midland-Odessa Symphony in concerts tonight and Tuesday night. Tonight's event will be in Odessa's Bonham Junior High repeat auditorium, and a concert is scheduled Tuesday in Lee High auditorium here. Both will begin at 8 p.m.

Determination and integrity, combined with the aforementioned talent, have been the main factors elevating Nero from a teenage jazz pianist in supper clubs to a very respected "pops" performer in concert halls and theaters around the world. Whether it be in recital with his Peter Nero Trio, or performing with and conducting more one of the major orchestras of the world, Nero's eclectic position within the small, select group of "top-notch" entertainers is unassailable.

In 1960, Nero was signed by a major recording company and through eight years and 23 albums with that firm he achieved and maintained the reputation of being the firm's consistently-best selling "star". He switched to another major record company in 1969 and since then has produced a half-dozen or more LP albums with such voluminous sales that Gold Records (signifying a million or more record sales) have become the rule rather than the exception.

His recordings of the theme from "Love Story," "Summer of '42" and "Lady Sings the Blues" all have been phenomenal best-selling items.

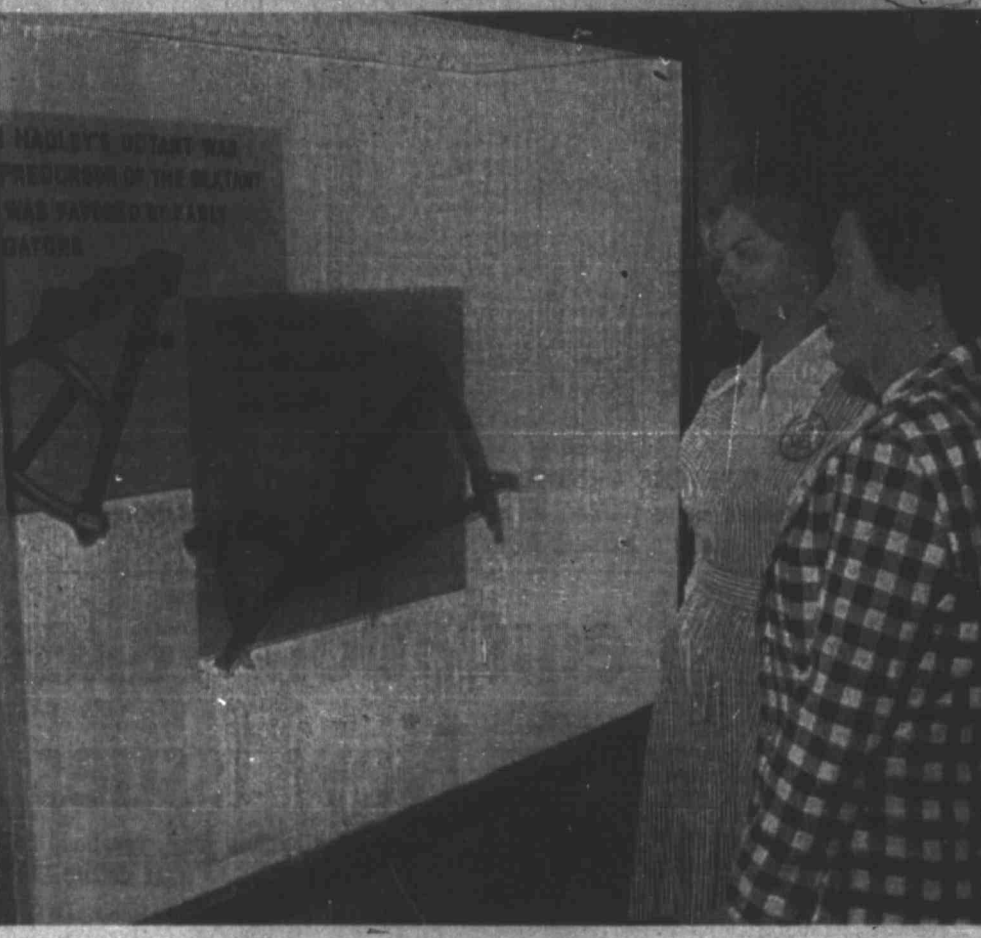

Stepping into the world of motion pictures and TV was a natural for Nero. In early 1972 he starred in the award-winning "S Wonderful," "S Marvellous," "S Gershwin" television special, a tribute to the music of George Gershwin. He appeared in the film "Sunday in New York" as well as composing the movie's soundtrack. And, Nero's good looks and gregariousness make him a natural for television talk shows and specials and he has made many such appearances in this country and in Canada and Great Britain.

Finally, Nero's own compositions have brought additional fame to the personable gentleman. Two of them, "His World" and "Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl," are probably his most ambitious undertakings thus far. "His World" is a three-movement work for piano, jazz trumpet, full orchestra and rock group. It is a work which has had successful performances by many major orchestras, with the composer as conductor. "Anne Frank" utilizes "young sound" superimposed on the traditional—that is, rock and symphonic sound together.

Nero's sensitive music combined with the touching words of Anne Frank conveys a powerful message, one that is alive with faith in the future. It took Nero 10 months to compose the work, made up of 15 original songs. The work is scored for full orchestra, chorus, a rock group and a young girl as narrator of the actual words of Anne Frank as found in her diary.

Nero's latest opus is a suite in four movements for piano and orchestra which was commissioned by the Detroit Symphony and given its premiere performance by that orchestra in July 1973 at the Meadowbrook Festival.

The instruments are on view at Museum of the Southwest here as part of a new exhibition, "Fallen Star," which has just opened in the museum's Turner Gallery. Guided tours of this exhibit on celestial navigation are being provided by docents of the Junior League of Midland Inc., and clubs and organizations may contact the museum office to arrange for such a tour. Mrs. Floyd is one of the League docents and Mrs. Barkes, a staff member of The Museum of Texas Tech University, assisted in preparing the exhibition.

New Film Censor Against Sexploitation In Movies

By RONALD THOMSON Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new film censor is an American-born moviemaker who says he's worried by a surge of sadism on the screen.

James Ferman, 45, has taken over as secretary of the British Board of Film Censors at a time of intense public discussion over the prevalence of cinematic sex and violence.

"I am not a guardian of public morals," he said in an interview, "but I am strongly against sadism and sexploitation in the movies. I can conceive of no society that would not place some limits on what is permissible on the screen."

Ferman, a family man who won a string of British awards as a television drama and documentary producer, was born in New York City but brought to England as a child. His parents are Americans and he retains U.S. citizenship — although his English accent never would betray his origins.

His wife, Monica, is English. They have two children, Lucy, 18, and John, 13.

Before being chosen for one of the most pressure-laden jobs in the film industry, Ferman was in charge of a community mental health program at the London Polytechnic. One of his educational films, "Drugs and Schoolchildren," currently is being shown to educators throughout London.

Ferman takes over as censor from Stephen Murphy, who gave up the hot seat to concentrate on writing and lecturing. Murphy had been blistered by personal criticism over such decisions as allowing the British public to see "Last Tango in Paris," "Straw Dogs" and "The Devils."

Now, for the first time since it was founded in 1912, the censorship board is being run by a professional moviemaker.

Ferman seems unlikely to turn the clock back, although he believes the film industry is "out of touch with the central strand of society which still places a strong value on family life and traditional morality."

The board is an independent advisory body, originally set up by the film industry to maintain standards and to shield moviemakers from possible prosecution.

It often asks for cuts in a film before granting a certificate for public performance, but rarely refuses a certificate.

There are four categories: "U," suitable for anyone not less than 5 years old; "A," the same, but containing material that some parents might prefer their children not to see; "AA," for persons not less than 14 years old; and "X," for persons not less than 18. The film "Jaws" got an "A" rating.

Local authorities, however, have the right to change the board's certificate for theaters in their areas and can even allow performances of a film that has been refused a certificate.

Whatever the censor decides almost inevitably stirs controversy. High-minded pressure groups try to convince him to ban more films; moviemakers fight to save their celluloid from the scissors.

The board declined to say which films — or how many — it had banned recently. "That is between us and the film company," an official said.

Texas Turkey Takes Trophy

CUERO, Tex. (AP) — The prestigious Travelling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph is back in this South Texas city today, along with a new world record for gobler trotting.

Ruby Begonia III, the queen of Texas turkeys, regained the trophy Sunday with relative ease, defeating Gopher Broke of Worthington, Minn., by a whopping 71.4 seconds.

Ruby skipped down the 150-meter Main Street course in 28.8 seconds while Gopher Broke finally checked in with the judge after 100.2 seconds.

The Great Gobbler Gallop is an annual event between Cuero and Worthington, which both claim to be the turkey capital of the United States. There were 25,000 spectators on hand for the race.

Ruby defeated Gopher Broke by 4.75 seconds in the first heat run three weeks ago in Worthington.

Neighborhood Feud Stirs Firebombing Leaving Five Dead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Santiago family over petty matters. Neighbors say a feud started by children playing in the street prompted the firebombing of a rowhouse in which five persons died, including a woman and three of her children.

One man was charged with murder, attempted murder and arson in connection with the attack Sunday. Another man was charged with a firebombing two weeks ago of the family's car.

"There's been feuding on this street for a long time," a neighbor said in stark explanation.

Killed were Ramona Santiago, 37; two daughters, Nancy, 14, and Roberta, 6; a son, Isradames, 13, and Luis Carricini, 14, a family friend spending the night.

A fourth child, Carlos Santiago, 11, was in critical condition at Crozier-Chester Burn Center with extensive burns. His father, Radames, 36, and a family friend, Nelson Garcia, 14, escaped serious injury. A fifth child, Leona, was away babysitting at the time.

Santiago, a security guard for a local hospital, reportedly left the city for New York with relatives who came to pick him up after the fire.

Neighbors said they had frequently quarreled with the

They said trouble began several months ago in the neighborhood with disputes about the Santiago children playing in the streets. The disputes, they said, escalated into conflicts involving the parents.

One neighbor said police had been called several times to intervene.

Police charged Robert Wilkinson, 28, with five counts of murder, three counts of attempted murder and one each of arson, conspiracy and endangering the lives of others. He lives on the same block of North 4th Street in the city's Hunting Park section as the Santiago family.

Several hours later, David McGinnis, 18, was arrested on charges of firebombing the family car two weeks ago. Police said he was not charged with the house firebombing.

A witness told police a bottle was thrown through a first floor window about 3:30 a.m. The two-alarm fire, which damaged two adjoining houses, was under control within 30 minutes.

"We had our eyes glued to the upstairs, hoping somebody would jump," an unidentified onlooker said. "But there was nobody left."

Violence Increases In Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Gunmen attacked a Basque bar in northern Spain and machine-gunned the owner to death in apparent retaliation for the spectacular bombing deaths of three civil guardsmen, officials said today.

Police said the incident occurred in a Bilbao industrial suburb a few hours after political terrorists, believed to be Basque guerrillas, killed the guardsmen by blasting their jeep with a remote control bomb, hurling the vehicle 60 feet in the air.

Special Cabinet Meeting Premier Carlos Arias Navarro called a special cabinet meeting today to consider the rising violence, but a high official predicted the government would not "overreact" by declaring a state of emergency.

Police sources in Bilbao identified the latest victim as Ignacio Echave, brother of two Basque guerrillas in exile in France. They said a group of men armed with pistols and machine guns shot Echave to death in his bar late Sunday evening, then fled.

The attack was believed to be the work of an extreme right-wing group called Guerrillas of Christ the King, blamed for more than 80 attacks on Basque-owned businesses in retaliation for Basque separatist assassinations of police.

Three Policemen Killed Saying the guerrillas were losing the struggle to bring down the 36-year-old regime, the official said the three new police killings Sunday in the troublesome northern Basque region would not provoke emergency measures.

"Three policemen were killed last week in Madrid," he told The Associated Press. "No emergency was declared then. There is a virtual state of war between the terrorists and the government. Retaliation by the terrorists is terrible but we expect it."

"They want to bring on a situation where violence is out of control on both sides," but the terrorists are losing ground and approaching a desperate situation because of the arrests of leaders, lack of funds and failure to gain real popular support among Spain's 35 million people, he added.

Tide Of Patriotism The official, who declined to be identified, said the cabinet meeting was mainly to take advantage of a tide of "patriotic fervor" orchestrated in a series of nationwide demonstrations supporting the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco, the 82-year-old chief of state.

The street rallies were called after the regime executed five political terrorists nine days ago for killing policemen. The executions stirred a storm of protest and criticism of Spain across much of Europe, but the Spanish government said it would not back down on its policy of punishing terrorism.

The latest anti-government attack took the lives of three paramilitary civil guards and seriously injured two others.

In another development, Spain on Sunday hailed its new military agreement with the United States as "an affirmation of friendship" that will help it "in a moment of extraordinary importance."

But the opposition attacked the pact — which continues the U.S. military presence in Spain that began in 1953 — and said the nearly 10,000 American airmen and sailors were not needed.

Energy Legislation Takes Back Seat To New Issues

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected this week to approve the stationing of up to 200 American technicians to monitor the new Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire.

Among other issues on Capitol Hill, energy legislation is simmering on a back burner, while President Ford's veto of a $2.75-billion child-nutrition bill faces a congressional effort to override.

Both the Senate and House aimed for floor votes Wednesday on the American monitors, which both Israel and Egypt requested as a condition to their Sept. 1 Sinai disengagement agreement.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a public hearing today after making a unilateral decision Friday to remove the secrecy classification from four documents spelling out related U.S. assurances of aid and support to Israel and Egypt.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who objected to the declassification as a jeopardy to confidential negotiations, is to be questioned in open session Tuesday. Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger is to follow to the witness table Tuesday afternoon.

The Senate committee may vote late Tuesday on the monitors, and it's expected affirmative action could clear the way for Senate floor debate and action Wednesday or Thursday.

The House, planning to recess Thursday night for a 10-day Columbus Day vacation, is expected to start debate Wednesday on the Sinai resolution, which was approved unanimously Friday by its International Relations Committee.

The House resolution requires that the Americans sent to the Sinai surveillance stations be civilian volunteers and that they be withdrawn immediately in the event of any new Israeli-Egyptian war. It specifies further that approval of the technicians "does not signify approval of the Congress of any other agreement."

The Senate continues debate today on legislation involving a battle over federal controls on the price of natural gas at the well.

Democrats are warning that Republican efforts, supported by the Ford administration, to end gas-price controls could jeopardize passage of an emergency bill aimed at averting a serious natural gas shortage in 14 states this winter.

If not completed, the gas bill is to be set aside to give priority to the Sinai resolution late in the week. The Senate also is scheduled for a 10-day Columbus Day recess at the close of business Friday.

A vote to override President Ford's Friday veto of the school lunch bill is scheduled for Tuesday in the House where it is uncertain whether a two-thirds majority can be mustered. If the House votes to override, the Senate will vote on the issue the same day.

The President objected that the bill provides lunch subsidies for non-needy children and would add $1.2 billion to his proposed budget.

Senate and House conferees will meet with Ford on Tuesday before starting work on a compromise long-range national energy policy.

House Clerk May Resign To Accept Post As Lobbyist

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — W. Pat Jennings, clerk of the House and its chief administrative officer, has been offered a private lobbying job that friends expect him to accept.

Should Jennings resign the $40,000-a-year post he has held for eight years, two candidates are already assured.

Former Rep. Jeffery Cohelan, 12-year House member from Oakland until his primary election defeat in 1970 by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums D-Calif., is being pushed by his brother-in-law, Rep. Phillip Burton D-Calif., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus, and by Rep. Wayne L. Hays D-Ohio, a power in the House by virtue of his control of members' office allowances as chairman of the House Administrative Committee.

W. Raymond Colley, deputy to Jennings for six years and his administrative assistant during the 12 years Jennings served in the House, is ready to announce as the candidate with experience if Jennings resigns.

To Children, 'Candy Man' O'Bryan 'Man Who Ruined Halloween'

By PAUL RECER
HOUSTON (AP) — They call him "the candy man" on Huntsville's death row. To Houston children, he's "the man who ruined Halloween."
He is Ronald C. O'Bryan and his role in a year-old horror story may have changed forever the traditional childhood celebration of Halloween.
O'Bryan was convicted last year of murdering his 8-year-old son, Timothy, with poisoned trick-or-treat candy. The youngster died on Halloween night only a short while after taking two gulps of a cyanide-laced confection.

Chilling memories of that October night still linger in this city, forming the final persuasion for many parents and civic groups to stop or to alter the trick-or-treat custom.
Thousands of children, who last Halloween went door-to-door collecting candy with the mock threat of "trick or treat," this year will go to carnivals, parties or just stay home.
"There are just too many nuts out there to risk it any more," said one father.

Officials in the Houston suburbs of Bellaire, Missouri City, El Lago and La Porte agree. Each community has officially discouraged-trick-or-treating.
In Deer Park, where the O'Bryan family lived, school and city officials plan a citywide carnival for some 2,000 children.
Many other officials, who believe the trick-or-treat tradition is just too deeply ingrained to stop altogether, are promoting an idea that will cut the risks and keep the fun.

Instead of collecting candy on their outing, thousands of children will collect "punkin' mony," the brainstorm of Mrs. Pate Nufer, a Houston mother.
At her suggestion, several Houston chain stores are printing sheets of five-cent and two-cent coupons which will be handed out to children instead of candy. The coupons can be redeemed at stores for "anything but cigarettes and beer," said Mrs. Nufer.
"I dreamed up

"punkinicks" for five-cent denominations and "punkiduals" for two-cent coupons," she said. "I think it sounds better than telling kids they're trick or treating for paper."
Homes participating in the coupon system will post a picture of "Jolly Jack O'Lantern," another creation by Mrs. Nufer.
Her plan is being promoted by the Houston area Jaycees who hope up to 200,000 elementary school children in Harris County will participate.
Mrs. Nufer said she believes the program will "keep the fun in Halloween, but take the fear out."

O'Bryan, the 30-year-old man convicted in the case that triggered the trick-or-treat changes, will spend Halloween this year on Huntsville's death row with 26 other men sentenced to death.
A Houston jury last June found O'Bryan guilty of killing his son to collect on more than $30,000 in life insurance.
According to testimony, O'Bryan distributed five packages of poisoned candy during a trick-or-treat outing.

He gave one each to his son and to his daughter.
Timothy was the only child to sample the candy and an autopsy showed the youngster ate enough cyanide to kill several people.
O'Bryan's attorney, Marvin Teague, said his client has "adjusted well" to living on death row at the Ellis Unit of the Texas prison system.

"He is still professing his innocence," said Teague, "but he still has faith in the system of justice."
Teague has started the long process of appeals and is prepared to test O'Bryan's death sentence in both state and federal courts.

Salute To 4-H'ers!

Midland County 4-H Club members, along with others across the width and breadth of the land, hold the spotlight for the time being as National 4-H Club Week is being observed with considerable enthusiasm.

And 4-H Club members know and appreciate the true meaning and value of enthusiasm as they apply it in their club endeavors.

This simply has to be one of the most meaningful, most effective youth organizations in existence today, just as it has been for almost three-quarters of a century.

4-H Clubs have been in operation in Midland County for well over 40 years, becoming stronger and more active in community betterment year by year.

Theme of this year's annual observance is "4-H '76 . . . Spirit of Tomorrow." The Bicentennial observance is designed to accent the history, ideals and goals of the 4-H program.

Approximately 7.2 million boys and girls, young men and young women, between the ages of 9 and 19 presently are enrolled in 4-H, nationwide, with more than 215,000 of them in Texas. More than 21,000 volunteer adult and youth leaders assist with local 4-H programs in the Lone Star State. This is great in itself.

Approximately 560 youths are members of the eight 4-H Clubs in Midland County, guided by 125 adult leaders.

It is pointed out that at the local level, 4-H is organized in both project and community clubs.

Soaring Deposits!

Did you notice those ever-soaring deposits in Midland's four banks, reported at the end of September? They would be difficult to overlook.

Yes, sir, combined deposits reached a record high of $476,017,754 . . . up $81,632,933 over the figure reported at a similar date last year. This indicates the possibility of bank deposits in this financial center hurdling the half-billion-dollar mark for the first time at the yearend.

Increased deposits also were recorded in most other West Texas cities, revealing the fact that

The eight Midland clubs sponsor more than 80 educational project areas, the most popular of which are food and nutrition, clothing and textiles, and livestock, including beef cattle, sheep, swine, horses and rabbits. The Midland County youths also participate in livestock shows, horse shows, dress revues, food shows, judging contests, demonstrations, and other competitive events.

It is a hard-working organization, which is kept busy in club projects and activities, in addition to school work. At the same time, the youths have plenty of fun at their scheduled club events of various kinds.

And if anyone doubts the pride taken by the 4-H'ers in their various projects, just attend one of the livestock shows or demonstration events in which the boys and girls exhibit the projects in which they have been engaged during the club year. It is a thrilling experience just to watch them in action.

It is interesting to note that today the 4-H program is designed to appeal to all young people, whether they live on a farm, in suburban areas or in the cities. The program operates in all 50 states.

Sponsors say that "4-H '76 . . . Spirit of Tomorrow" encourages 4-H'ers to set high standards and to establish realistic personal goals as they prepare to assume the responsibilities of adulthood.

They are challenged to build a better tomorrow by exercising the same spirit which 4-H has displayed throughout its history.

money is in abundant supply throughout the vast Permian Basin Empire.

The excellent financial position is brought about largely through increased activity in all phases of the petroleum and related industries. The sale and delivery of calves from West Texas ranches also has brought considerable cash into the region. Construction has been a big factor in the Midland economy.

Conditions continue excellent in Midland and throughout wonderful West Texas.

Wilbur Mills Situation Raises Questions

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Wilbur Mills gave a local newspaper a lengthy interview the other day about his battle against alcoholism. It was his first such interview, and in one respect it made us a little more comfortable having the stories confirmed.

Yet his comments were unsettling in a greater respect because they raised again the old but enduring, uncomfortable question: should friends or colleagues or the press take action to ease an incapacitated elected official out of office?

Mills, a representative from Arkansas, was one of the most powerful men in the world.

He was chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Taxes were raised and tariffs lowered at his sole discretion, and the nation and world were affected by it.

Yet for at least his last two years as chairman, Mills was an alcoholic, a very sick man whose normally keen mental capacity was severely impaired.

We have no evidence that anyone—friend, colleague, family, reporter—privately urged him to relinquish the reins of extraordinary power and get medical help during those years. It took a stripper's public leap into the Tidal Basin to get him into a hospital where he belonged. It is possible that a colleague privately told Mills that if he didn't give up the committee, formal House action would be instituted, but it is not probable.

Politics is a business where everyone is aware that he lives in a glass house and does not want to cast the first stone.

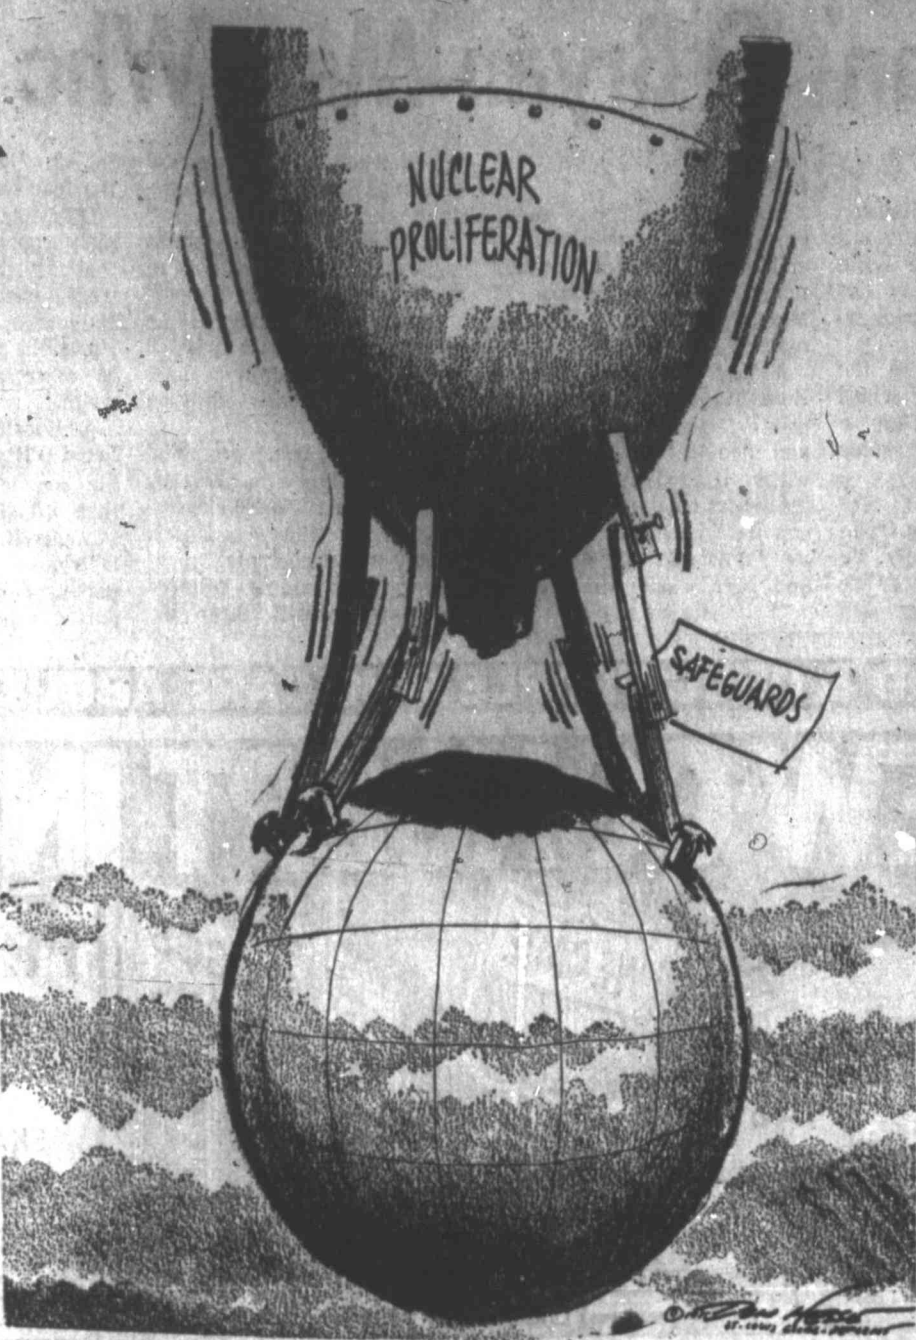

Journalist-turned-author Fletcher Knebel made this dilemma the central theme of "Night of Camp David," in which a young senator becomes convinced his party's incumbent president has had a mental breakdown. The senator hesitates to act for fear that his colleagues will think that he is trying to oust the older man to clear the way for his own presidential ambition. The senator has only the nation's best interest at heart, yet the "code" nearly paralyzes him.

The inability to step aside seems to afflict presidents and members of Congress more than Cabinet officers. President Wilson was one of the first modern examples.

President Roosevelt's physician years later said FDR had not been fit to run for a fourth term; the doctor understood he was to say nothing at the time.

We Can Hope, Anyway

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — There has been secret, sworn testimony that the CIA and FBI have plotted occasionally to murder enemy agents in this country.

We have been unable to document a single murder case. But at least two witnesses have testified that they were asked by the CIA or FBI to commit murder.

The Senate Intelligence Committee also has obtained vouchers, which prove exotic assassination weapons have been sold to U.S. agencies. Senate investigators have evidence, furthermore, that assassination teams were trained at secret sites somewhere in the southeastern United States. Both government and contract employees were taught how to use James Bond-style assassination weapons.

CIA employees have acknowledged to us that assassination plots have been discussed in their presence. The plotters were squeamish, said one source, about using the words "assassination" and "murder." They spoke more delicately about "eliminating" or "getting rid" of a troublesome Communist agent. But there was no question, insisted the source, that they were talking about murder.

Another source stressed that a Soviet spy or double agent might be marked for murder only if he were considered "a tremendous threat" to U.S. interests. Then the CIA wouldn't use one of its own agents but would recruit an outsider "to do the job," the source said.

Normally, the CIA would try, he said, to maneuver the victim out of the country before arranging his disappearance. But one CIA source, with only second-hand knowledge of the case, told of a spy who was thrown off a New York City bridge. A cooperative police lieutenant allegedly submitted a suicide report on the victim. We have been unable, however, to confirm the incident.

In secret testimony before the Rockefeller Commission, Frank Sturgis of the Watergate break-in squad confessed that he had once been asked to commit a murder for the CIA in the Miami area.

He discussed with a CIA agent, Sturgis testified, how to dispose of the body. One plan was to dump it into shark-infested waters near the Bahamas. They also considered ditching the body in the Everglades swamp, Sturgis swore.

The agent promised to identify the victim at a subsequent meeting. But, according to Sturgis' account, he began to have misgivings. He wanted to be sure the agent wasn't trying to use him to kill a personal enemy.

So at the second meeting, Sturgis insisted that the assassination order would have to be confirmed by a CIA staff officer. That was the last, testified Sturgis, he heard of the scheme. The CIA has denied having anything to do with domestic murder plots.

At a secret Senate hearing, meanwhile, an FBI informant in Tampa, Joseph Burton, testified that his FBI contact wanted him to do away with an alleged revolutionary.

The bizarre plot called called for Burton to conspire with the radical, Richard Arvedon, to kidnap a federal judge. Then Burton would gun down Arvedon on the judge's property, making it look as if a revolutionary plot had backfired, Burton testified.

He identified his FBI contact as agent Robert Helbel, who allegedly told him that Washington had approved the plan to kill Arvedon. This is vigorously denied by the FBI, which denounced as "spurious" the "innumerable allegations" Burton has made against the FBI.

Arvedon's attorneys, Judith Petersen of Tampa and David Rosenberg of Cambridge, Mass., told us: "We have been

INSIDE REPORT

Ford's $100 Million Fumble Is Denounced

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — During a break at a meeting of corporate magnates and Congressmen in Hot Springs, Va., recently, a major oil company executive sided over to a Republican Congressman and quietly denounced President Ford's $100 billion scheme to make the U.S. energy-independent.

"Send that plan to Congress and you have put the camel's nose of government ownership under the tent of the free enterprise system," the oilman said angrily.

Considering the firestorm of abuse — political and economic — that has fallen on the Energy Independence Authority (EIA), drafted in considerable secrecy by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's brain trust, the official's view was scarcely unique. No presidential program in recent memory has been shot at right from the launch pad with such withering fire from so many big guns as the Ford-Rockefeller energy scheme.

Pro-Ford Republicans see EIA as a thinly-veiled political stunt to come up with something "big," no matter how glaringly out of phase with Mr. Ford's repeated pledge to make government smaller, more controllable. Conservative anti-Ford Republicans see it as a lurch toward commercial welfare statism. The President's entire economic high command sees it as a camouflaged road to vast new "off-budget" spending not reflected in regular budget accounting (widely used by Rockefeller as governor of New York). Big business sees it as a threat to free enterprise, liberal Democrats as a sop to big business.

Indeed, in a rare departure from his normal hands-off policy of presenting economic options without offering his own opinions, White House economic aide William Seidman sent the President a toughly-worded memo just before EIA won Mr. Ford's backing. The memo's clear implication: accept this, Mr. President, and you are biting off more than the federal government can chew.

Why, then, did cautious, consensus-minded Jerry Ford embrace the $100 billion plan?

Answer No. 1: Stuck in a veto rut he dare not leave, the President wants one glorious made-by-Ford initiative for 1976 campaigning so he cannot be stigmatized as Mr. Veto. Insiders believe this view influenced White House chief of staff Don Rumsfeld, who was equivocal, and Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton, who supported the plan as chairman of the Energy Resources Council.

Answer No. 2: Rockefeller has been drafting plans for his $100 billion baby for months, tapping his far-flung brain trust. Rockefeller's commitment "up to his eyeballs," in the phrase of one unhappy energy official, had potent effect on the President, who had promised broad authority over domestic programming to his vice president.

Answer No. 3: Energy independence, Mr. Ford feels, is as important to the U.S. as national defense. After years of talk, he would be the President to make it happen, as John F. Kennedy put a man on the moon and Franklin D. Roosevelt built the atom bomb.

What infuriates the President's political allies in Congress was the absence of any consultation during the long evolution of the Rockefeller plan, despite its glaring departures from the President's perceived economic and political ideology.

In the House Republican cloakroom last week, one conservative Republican tongue-lashed a member of the party's leadership for not having informed the House Republican Conference about EIA. But the leaders themselves knew nothing of the plan until the President announced it in California Sept. 22.

Apart from all else that besets the new-born EIA, this failure to consult Congress — not in keeping with Mr. Ford's usual political tact — is another heavy load on its back.

Key Republican members of House energy subcommittees directly involved, Reps. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio and Louis Frey of Florida, had no inkling of EIA until the President's California speech.

The phalanx of administration advisers who have fought major parts of the plan during its birth pangs include Frank Zarb of the Federal Energy Administration and Robert C. Semans of the Energy Research and Development Administration. It is, therefore, a miracle that word of the fierce bureaucratic infighting never seeped through to Congress.

Rockefeller, not the President, is beneficiary of laudatory stories in liberal newspapers claiming his victory sets him apart from all previous vice presidents as a man of power. But even this dubious political gain may in the end do both Mr. Ford and the vice president more harm than good.

Fighting for second spot on the 1976 Ford ticket, Rockefeller has given Republican conservatives he has been wooing a sharp weapon: a new agency conceived in typically grandiose dimensions by the former governor of New York whose off-budget spending and big government of the past now have gone awry.

Red Sox Down Oakland To Near Series Berth

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, playing as if they invented baseball, are just one game from the American League pennant, ready to end the hopes of the mighty Oakland A's and owner Charles O. Finley for a fourth consecutive World Series championship.

The Red Sox, who laughed at pressure in ousting the Baltimore Orioles as East Division champs during the regular season, held a 2-0 lead over the A's in their best-of-five playoff for the pennant and a World Series berth.

The Red Sox, who whipped the A's 7-1 on Luis Tiant's three-hit pitching Saturday, completed a sweep of the two games in Boston with a 6-3 comeback victory Sunday.

Partisan fans serenaded Finley with "Goodbye, Charlie," and even the A's had to wonder what was hitting them. Now the A's are in a situation where they have to win three in a row as the series moves to Oakland for the third game Tuesday.

"It's do or die," Oakland Manager Alvin Dark said. "That's it. No refunds after Tuesday if we don't win."

"It still takes three to win this thing," Boston Manager Darrell Johnson cautioned. "We'll just go out there and do what we have to do."

Dark and Johnson agreed that the Red Sox played virtually a perfect game in rallying to beat the A's in the second meeting.

"Those fellows have done a great job," Dark said. "They just outplayed us today. They did everything you need to do in the game of baseball to win."

"We played a game of baseball as well as it can be played," Johnson said. "We

Mixed Foursome Winners Named

Bill Wilson, Betty Howell learned with Alan and Diane Roberts Sunday to win the Midland Country Club's monthly mixed foursome golf tournament.

Ralph and Jane Viney teamed with Ben Richards and Judy Mobley for a 61 and second place. Two other teams had 61 also.

Mary Ann Brimberry was awarded the special prize.

Ashford Takes Tennis Crown

Keri Ashford defeated Cary Garton, 6-2, 6-2, to win the girls' singles title in the Interscholastic Tennis Tournament Sunday while Chuck Fraser won the boys' singles with a 6-3, 6-2 win over Robert Fox.

Fraser teamed with Jim Hodge to win the boys' doubles with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Fox and Kevin Hopson. Miss Ashford teamed with Jan Goodwin to win the girls' doubles with a 6-3, 7-5 win over Cary Garton and Dinah Boyd.

OU-Texas Game Highlights Battle Of Unbeaten Teams

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Barry Switzer says a big-time boxing promoter couldn't have set a better stage for Saturday's annual shootout in Dallas between his No. 1 ranked Sooners and Darrel Royal's rampaging University of Texas Longhorns.

Hardly had the ink dried on the story of Oklahoma's heart-throbbing 21-20 victory over Colorado Saturday when Switzer turned his attention to the classic Cotton Bowl match-up.

It'll be the top-ranked Sooners, holding on for dear life to a 24-game winning streak against the seventh-ranked Longhorns, off to a 4-0 start and apparently better than most observers had predicted.

It'll be All-American halfback Joe Washington against Earl Campbell, the bulldozing Steer fullback Switzer says could be a two-time Heisman Trophy winner.

It'll be wishbone vs. wishbone, with both attacks guided by slick senior signal-callers—Oklahoma's Steve Davis and Texas' Marty Atkins.

It'll be a heralded Texas offensive line against a surprisingly strong Sooner defense which has carried the Sooners through two straight close scraps when the offense floundered in a sea of mistakes.

And although fans of the two teams usually work themselves into a frenzy before the big battle in Big D, this year the fervor is expected to be even more pronounced because of a running long-distance feud be-while Texas was warming up for this meeting which measures 9.999 on football's Richter scale. The struggle between the two schools starts early each year in the recruiting of Texas schoolboy athletes and comes to a climax with the annual collision in Dallas.

In fact, Texas Coach Darrell Royal and Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer have been launching verbal rockets across the Red River for 12 months because of recruiting.

Both coaches announced their staffs have taken lie detector tests and Royal has called, and raised Switzer with a suggestion the two schools swap polygraph operators. One wit thought it would be a cute idea to hook the machines to the scoreboard at halftime.

Anderson Still Fears Pittsburgh's Power

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are within one game of a sweep in the National League playoffs, but Sparky Anderson said it was still nip-and-tuck in the pit of his ulcer-ridden stomach.

"They are very capable of annihilating us in three games," the Red manager said after Cincinnati burned a trail around the basepaths and beat Pittsburgh, 6-1, Sunday.

Nevertheless, the Reds dominated the Pirates in the first two games and the best-of-five series could end Tuesday night in Pittsburgh.

"We are capable of playing this game as well as any team can ever play," admitted the white-haired Anderson, who swills milk to appease his stomach lining.

Indeed, the Reds set a championship playoff record with seven stolen bases Sunday with a running display on synthetic turf that would have looked more at home on a cinder running track or a football field.

They've also limited the Pirates to a total of 13 hits in the first two games. Pittsburgh managed just five hits Sunday off Fred Norman and Rawly Eastwick.

"But we are also capable of being very shabby for three games, so I'll stay very low key," said Anderson.

Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh, whose only key is low key, was stone-faced after the last weekend, which included an 8-3 setback Saturday.

"This is a five-game series. You don't win a five-game series in two games," Murtaugh reminded.

Tony Perez gave the Reds all the runs they needed Sunday when he stroked a first-inning pitch from Jim Rooker over the leftfield wall for a two-run homer.

The Reds added four more runs with the help of a running game that included three stolen bases by Ken Griffey, two by Dave Concepcion and one each by George Foster and Joe Morgan.

That total of seven surpassed the previous playoff record of four in one game, set by the New York Mets in 1969.

Morgan, who had three

Lee Boosters Meet Tonight

The Midland Lee Rebel Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. today instead of Tuesday night.

Coach Jim Acree will present the 39-10 victory film over Odessa High and give a scouting report on the San Angelo Bobcats, Lee's next opponent Friday in San Angelo.

The meeting is set for tonight so that the boosters can watch the Lee volleyball team play Tuesday.

"I'm not sure what they were doing... I'll have to look at the films," said Shipman.

A&M Coach Emory Ballard said of Shipman "He kept his poise."

There will have to be a lot of that "poise keeping" this Saturday.

And the fans and players at the OU-TU confrontation will be taxed most of all.

Scaplers have announced that tickets are still on sale.

Cowboys Face Lions Tonight

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — "No one runs the ball on Dallas," Rick Forzano says. "It's hard-blocking tight end."

Newcomer Jon Stagger could see quite a bit of action against the Cowboys at wide receiver, particularly if rookie Degas Franklin is still dizzy because of a concussion suffered last week against Atlanta.

Running back Bobby Thompson, formerly in the Canadian League, may also be the target of a number of passes, Forzano indicated.

Rookie Lynn Boden, Detroit's No. 1 draft choice, was originally expected to be at left guard in place of Gordon Jolley, who underwent knee surgery last Monday. But Jolley was placed on the injured list and Guy Dennis, who walked out of camp in pre-season, has returned and may start against Dallas.

Another Lion who could be counted on is quarterback Bill Munson, still rounding into form after an injury. He played briefly against Atlanta when Landry was shaken up.

Staubach, recruited for Navy in high school by then Middle assistant Forzano, completed 23 of 44 passes in last week's 37-31 Cowboy victory over St. Louis.

One of his prime receivers is tight end Billy Joe Dupree, former Michigan State star. Dupree caught seven passes against the Cardinals.

One of Landry's top targets is

Bengals Edge Houston

By BRUCE LOWITT
 AP Sports Writer

Ken Anderson is what you might call your cool customer. When Cincinnati's trailing, he's not a go-out-there-and-throw-the-bomb type of quarterback.

He's a sit-back-and-wait because - this game isn't over - yet - and we'll get another chance type.

With Houston leading 17-7 in the fourth period Sunday, he sat back and waited — and the Oilers eventually gave him the chance he needed to pass the Bengals to a 21-19 victory.

In Sunday's other National Football League game it was Philadelphia 26, Washington 10; Buffalo 38, Denver 14; Pittsburgh 42, Cleveland 6; the New York Jets 36, New England 7; Atlanta 14, New Orleans 7; Miami 31, Green Bay 7; San Francisco 20, Kansas City 3; Minnesota 28, Chicago 3; St. Louis 26, the New York Giants 14; Los Angeles 24, Baltimore 13; Oakland 6, San Diego 0.

Buffalo's O. J. Simpson piled up 138 yards and scored a touchdown against Denver. That was no surprise. The surprise was that Jim Braxton also went over the 100-yard mark with 102 and scored three touchdowns on runs of three, 19 and four yards.

Steelers 42, Browns 6 — "We were bombed right out of our minds," Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg groaned. Terry Bradshaw and Joe Gilliam did the bombing for Pittsburgh, combining for three touchdown passes in a 367-yard aerial assault against the winless Browns.

Jets 36, Patriots 7 — The Jets' Joe Namath threw four touchdown passes, two apiece to Rich Caster and Jerome Barkum. "It was one of those games you'd like to forget," observed cornerback Bob Howard, beaten on all four scoring passes.

Miller Wins Crown

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — It appeared Johnny Miller didn't have a care in the world. The triumphant came with relative ease. It was his fourth victory this season but the first in eight long months since he won three of his first four this year.

"It's not that it's been so long since I won, eight months or whatever. But with the regularity I was winning before, it seems like a long time," he said.

The outcome never was real to him to win but to beat Jack Nicklaus — or just finish ahead of the man he has chased since Sept. 15, 1974.

"I was gonna beat him this time, no matter what he did," Miller observed Sunday after cruising to the second $175,000 Kaiser Open crown of his brief career, leaving Nicklaus five strokes back in sixth place.

"I really wanted this one. I really wanted to win here. I'd let this one slip away. I think it would have left some scar tissue," he said after collecting the $35,000 winner's check with a final-round 69 and

All that remained was for Miller to top Nicklaus, who in their 12 meetings since last September had finished ahead of Miller nine times and tied him for position the other three.

It was a battle won early when Nicklaus ran into some rare putting problems. "I didn't make the puts and I didn't put any pressure on him," said Nicklaus.

But Jack continued his on-shipmanship on Miller in another department: money. He had clinched the money-winning crown before the event began and his $6,300 for the sixth-place finish put Nicklaus' final earnings on the American tour at $298,149. Miller's check gave him $226,118 for second place on the list.

Final scores and money-winnings Sunday in the $375,000 Kaiser Interlocking Golf tournament on the 6,529-yard, par-72 course at the Silverado Country Club:

Emotions High For Horn-OU Tilt

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — You know it's Texas-OU time here when:

—Old Texas grads are saying the Longhorns' quarterback fullback offense desperately needs help from the depleted halfback corps to beat Oklahoma.

Those Okies, of course, are loaded with blue-chip former Texas schoolboys, and this packs the game with emotion even when Texas and Oklahoma are not highly rated.

—There's never been a game that the two of us go into that hasn't been big," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal.

they won't be looking past us." Texas warmed up for OU by walloping Utah State, 61-17, while Oklahoma edged Colorado, 21-20.

The easy victory enabled Royal to pull his line-blasting fullback Earl Campbell after one quarter, but Royal predicted, "He's going to be a tired young man next Saturday night."

score and a 74-yard punt return for another. Billy Waddy tallied twice for Colorado, grabbing an eight-yard pass from David Williams before Mackenzie's fatal conversion miss.

Elsewhere, third-ranked Southern California trailed winless Iowa 10-0 before Rob Herfel, subbing for injured quarterback Vince Evans, rallied the Trojans to a 27-16 triumph by running for two touchdowns and passing for another.

Nebraska fell behind winless Miami of Florida 9-7 at the half but second-string QB Vince Ferragamo replaced Terry Luck, last week's passing hero, and led the fourth-ranked Cornhuskers to a 31-16 victory by throwing for one touchdown and engineering three other scores.

Michigan, down from second place to 12th after two consecutive ties, took it out on fifth-ranked Missouri 31-7 for Bo Schembechler's 100th career coaching triumph as Gordon Bell, Rob Lytle and freshman quarterback Rick Leach led a 372-yard ground assault.

Texas A&M's defense helped the sixth-ranked Aggies blank stubborn Kansas State 10-0. Stymied for almost three periods, the Aggies broke through late in the third quarter when David Shipman's 31-yard gallop capped an 80-yard drive.

Seventh-ranked tuned up for next Saturday's war with Oklahoma by mauling Utah State 61-7. The Longhorns, led by quarterback Marty Atkins, churned out 499 yards on the ground and 135 in the air.

No. 8 Notre Dame, in last week's rankings, suffered its first defeat in four starts under Coach Dan Devine, bowing to Michigan State 10-3 when Tyrone Wilson's 78-yard scamper set up Levi Jackson's four-yard touchdown sweep with 3:50 left in the game.

Alabama, No. 9, eased past Mississippi 32-6

Alabama, No. 9, eased past Mississippi 32-6. The offense piled up 405 yards while the defense kept Ole Miss scoreless for 59 minutes and 57 seconds. And 10th-ranked Penn State scored in the second period on Larry Sahey's one-yard run — following three passes from John Andrews to Dick Barvinchak for 56 yards — and Chris Bahr's 29-yard field goal and held off Kentucky 10-3.

In the Second Ten, 11th-ranked West Virginia, paced by its 1-2 tailback punch, remained unbeaten for next week's Eastern showdown with Penn State, defeating Southern Methodist 28-22 as Arthur Owens rushed for 171 yards.

No. 14 Arizona State, despite losing four fumbles, downed Idaho 29-3 as Freddie Williams rushed for 115 yards and two touchdowns.

No. 15 Oklahoma State, like Oklahoma, struggled to a one-point triumph. The Cowboys edged Texas Tech 17-16 on Mike Mitchell's five-yard run in the final period plus Abby Daigle's conversion.

FOLLOWING THE SUN — This deserted Tampa, Fla., beach is a perfect place for late afternoon jogging during the cool autumn months. With most vacationers gone and youngsters in school, the beach can be just the place to follow the sun. (AP Wirephoto.)

Five Children Die In Home Blaze

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP)—"I call authorities didn't know if anyone was in the house. The house was in a rural area, and fire runs to such areas are covered by a Sapulpa ordinance. It says that runs may be made only when life is involved or when a contract exists between the city and rural property owners, fire officials said.

A second call minutes after the first reported there were children in the house. A third caller reported the same.

"However, only a few minutes elapsed between the first call and the last," Sapulpa Fire Chief Dan Whitehouse said. "When we got there the house had collapsed and only portions of the walls were standing," Whitehouse said.

When the fire had died down, firemen pulled the bodies of David's three brothers, a sister and a cousin from their beds in a room on the south side of the house.

The four boys and one girl who died were all grandchildren of Mrs. Margaret Hill, who occupied the house. Four were children of Dolores Jean Robinson of Altus, Mrs. Hill's daughter, and the fifth was a mother.

David Robinson, 10, got out of the flaming frame house three miles south of here just as the windows were "popping and cracking out."

David ran screaming down the road, where a motorist found him and took him to a telephone.

Fire trucks from Sapulpa didn't start for the fire until several minutes after the first call because the first person to tried to wake the others but they wouldn't wake," the sole survivor of a Sunday fire said. Five children died in the blaze.

SLA Communique Urges Terrorist Kidnaping Spree

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A communique signed "Symbionese Liberation Army" and proclaiming that the "SLA lives on" urges terrorists to go on a kidnaping spree among the rich to raise bail money for their imprisoned comrades.

The FBI said there is no way to determine immediately the authenticity of the communique, similar in format to past messages from the SLA and delivered to media in three California cities during the week-end.

The missive promises future proof that the SLA remains strong and active, despite a statement by FBI agent Charles Bates after the Sept. 18 arrests of Patricia Hearst, Bill and Emily Harris that all members of the terrorist group were either dead or in custody.

A source close to the investigation said Sunday it is possible that some members of the SLA may be unknown and still at large.

Six Members Killed

Six SLA members, including leader Donald DeFreeze, were killed in a Los Angeles shootout with police in May 1974. Members Russell Little and Joseph Remiro were convicted earlier this year of the murder of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster.

But the source said about 28 SLA code names had been found in one early hideout and "only 11 of the SLA names have been accounted for. Six are dead. Two are in prison. Then there's Patty and Emily and Bill Harris."

Miss Hearst, who said in a court affidavit that she was tortured and brainwashed into joining the SLA after members of the group kidnaped her on Feb. 4, 1974, is being held without bail awaiting trial on a San Francisco bank robbery charge.

Her parents, Catherine and Randolph Hearst, visited her Saturday and Sunday at the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City, Calif.

Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, said as he left the jail Sunday that "it was a visit like the others we've been having. There was talk about family and friends, things like that."

Miss Hearst is being examined by court-appointed psychiatrists and a psychologist to determine if she is mentally competent for cross-examination on her affidavit.

Hearing Rescheduled

Her attorneys said Sunday that a hearing has been rescheduled from Tuesday to Wednesday at the request of the psychiatrists. Attorney F. Lee Bailey said Miss Hearst's state of mind would be the most important element in her defense.

Hearst said a report that his daughter was being given anti-psychotic drugs was "a lot of baloney." And San Mateo County Sheriff John R. McDonald also denied the Long Island, N.Y., paper Newday's story that Miss Hearst had been given 200 milligrams of thiorazine.

The Harrises, who were transferred from the San Mateo jail to Los Angeles on Sept. 25, are scheduled for arraignment Friday on an 11-count indictment stemming from a May 1974 robbery and kidnaping.

Sollah Interview

Meanwhile, the father of the man charged with harboring Miss Hearst and fugitive Wendy Yoshimura said this week-end that it was his tip to the FBI that led authorities to his son and then to the Hearst and Harris arrests.

Martin Sollah, of Palmdale, Calif., made his remarks in a taped interview with two California news organizations. He said he and his wife Elsie had met with Steven and their daughters Josephine and Kathy after the FBI asked him to try to locate them.

Weekend Texaco Walkout Settled At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — A weekend strike protesting the suspension of an employe at the main Texaco refinery here ended Sunday night.

Pickets posted by the Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union withdrew about 10 p.m. They had been posted at 6 a.m. Friday after the company's Sept. 25 suspension of C. M. "Mike" Fontenot.

Texaco officials accused Fontenot of insubordination, claiming he refused to let plant security guards search his van. Fontenot claimed he was beaten by four of the guards.

The union demanded that the company fire the guards and reinstate Fontenot with pay lost during his five-day suspension. Union leaders said, however, that these demands "probably will not be met."

Justice of the Peace John Knowles dismissed charges against Fontenot last Monday and a spokesman said the company did not want to pursue the matter further.

Prison Opens 1975 Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Eddie Holland of San Antonio, a convict serving 10 years in the state penitentiary here, earned $50 the hard way Sunday.

Holland removed a sack from between the sharp horns of a wild Brahman bull during the first performance of this year's 44th annual Texas Prison Rodeo. There is a five-minute time limit in which to seize the bull by the horns and grab the sack.

The event is called "Hard Money" and it's one of the highlights of the rodeo, which is presented each Sunday during October. A select group of 40 young convicts competes in the Hard Money event, which usually brings the crowd to its feet.

Tejas Extends Canyon Pay Zone In Edwards Area

Canyon production has been extended 2 1/2 miles southwest in the Frances Hill gas field of North Edwards County, with dual completion from the Canyon and Pennsylvania pays at Tejas Energy Exploration, Inc., Midland, No. 1-68 Hill.

It gauged a calculated absolute open flow of 2.3 million cubic feet of dry gas per day through perforated interval at 4,793-4,918 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 44,600 gallons and 42,000 pounds.

From the regular field Pennsylvania pay, calculated absolute open flow was 960,000 cubic feet of dry gas daily.

Production was from pay behind perforations at 6,308-6,404 feet, and from open hole at 6,469-6,540 feet. The section had been acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 36,000 gallons and 38,500 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 6,540 feet, it has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 6,469 feet, and under ground elevation of 2,233 feet, top of the Canyon was picked at 3,745 feet, and Pennsylvania at 6,305 feet.

Location is 990 feet from north and west lines of section 68, CCSD&RGNG survey, 24 miles south of Sonora.

Wildcat, Gas Well Reported In Pecos

Pecos County drew site for a shallow wildcat and a gas field gained an extension.

Robert Leon Gray of Fort Stockton will drill No. 1-B Heiner, a 100-foot wildcat, one location southwest of the two well Chicklynn (Tansill) field.

Location is 1,920 feet from south and 2,155 feet from west lines of section 509, GC&SF survey, 15 miles north of Fort Stockton.

Field Extension Hunt Oil Co. completed a 3/4-mile northeast and one-mile southeast extension to the Elsinore (Devonian-Fusselman) field of Pecos, 30 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

No. 60 Elsinore gauged a calculated absolute open flow of 70 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Production was from pay behind perforations at 11,740-12,344 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 30,000 gallons.

The project has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 12,447 feet, on total depth of 12,458 feet, and is plugged back to 12,346 feet.

Location is 1,470 feet from north and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 25, block D, GC&SF survey.

Pecos Field Gels Producers, Tests

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc. of Midland staked two sites and completed two producers in the Brookliaw multipay field of Pecos County, about 14 miles west of Girvin.

No. 1 Mooers Estate, a former lower Clearfork oil well, has been recompleted as a Tubbs gas well for a calculated absolute open flow of 1.05 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Production was from pay behind perforations at 11,740-12,344 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 30,000 gallons.

The project has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 12,447 feet, on total depth of 12,458 feet, and is plugged back to 12,346 feet.

Location is 1,470 feet from north and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 25, block D, GC&SF survey.

Striking Kansas City Firemen Accused Of Arson

By ROBERT MACY KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—City officials say they believe striking firefighters are responsible for some of the 217 blazes which have erupted since firefighters walked off their jobs Friday in a pay dispute.

Fire Director Frank Spink said there are "strong indications that arson was involved in six fires" over the weekend, and police reported one firebombing Sunday night. Spink said the city had asked surrounding communities which have mutual aid agreements with Kansas City for fire-fighting assistance, but "got no's, no's, no's. There we were burning, and nobody would do anything."

He said union agreements in the other cities take precedent over the mutual aid pact. Police Chief Joseph McNamara said many fires were deliberately set, "not random acts, but well-planned arson, committed by people knowledgeable about fires."

Charles Shafer, an attorney for the Kansas City firefighters' union, denied that any union members were involved in starting fires. And Joe McMahon, an international union vice president, said Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. had "made a clown out of himself by accusing the firefighters of arson and sabotage. This is a cheap shot being aimed at the firefighters."

Nearly 800 National Guardsmen assisted hundreds of police officers, public works employees and volunteers in battling some 50 fires Sunday — more than 10 times the number usually reported. Wheeler dismissed 50 striking firefighters who refused to report for duty Sunday night, calling the dismissals a "test situation." He said he expected to take no further action before a Jackson County Circuit Court hearing Thursday on the city's request for an injunction against the strike.

A spokesman for Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters said its 858 members voted "100 per cent" late Sunday to continue the strike. None of Sunday night's fires was major, although several occurred in apartment buildings in older sections of the city and residents had to be evacuated. No serious injuries were reported, but a number of substitute firefighters were treated for smoke inhalation.

Police say several firefighters have been arrested on traffic violations since the strike and flammable liquids have been found in their possession. Wheeler said a grand jury will hear evidence soon on possible arson cases, and some of the witnesses to be called are striking firefighters.

Union spokesman Robert Black said some 20 firefighters arrested on traffic charges have been denied release on bail until they were served with grand jury subpoenas. In seeking the injunction to end the strike, the city claims that the walkout is illegal because state law prohibits public employe strikes and because firefighters previously agreed to work through May 1976 while the city council worked on a new contract.

Firefighters are seeking pay parity with city police officers, a demand first stated in 1969. Firefighters currently start at $10,200 annually and reach top pay of $12,996. Police officers start at $9,432 and earn top pay of $15,305 yearly.

The man is Eddie Gallagher, 27, a laborer from County Donegal, and the woman is Marion Coyle, 19, of Londonderry. Britain's Daily Telegraph alleged Gallagher was the father of the baby boy born in jail last December to Miss Dugdale, a socially prominent economist-turned revolutionary. She has not named the father, however.

The baby is being cared for by friends in Ireland. Police said they believed Herrema was being held somewhere within a 50-mile radius of Limerick, and roadblocks were erected on major thoroughfares and vehicles were checked all across the country.

In a broadcast over Irish television Sunday night, Herrema's son, Jelle, urged the kidnappers to send a message saying his father, managing director of the Ferenka steel plant in Limerick, was alive and well.

He suggested they get his father to give them a codeword that would be known by the family so the message would be recognized as genuine. The only violence reported Sunday was from Northern Ireland, where gunmen firing from a taxicab seriously wounded a 10-month-old baby boy in the head, apparently an innocent victim of Ulster's civil strife. The baby was with his aunt in the doorway of a house in a Roman Catholic neighborhood when the shots were fired.

Mrs. Elizabeth Herrema, wife of kidnaped Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema, awaits news of her husband at their home in Limerick, Ireland.

Today, Dan Hutter, a member of Ferenko's board, said the firm was ready to pay a ransom, but did not say how much. Herrema's son said earlier his family would "do anything" for his safe return. Limerick police are seeking a man and a woman with IRA links in connection with the kidnaping.

near his home here Friday. The kidnapers threatened to execute him Sunday unless Rose Dugdale, Kevin Mallon and Jim Hyland — all members of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army — were freed from prison. Irish authorities refused either to meet the kidnapers' demands or to issue a reward for information on Herrema's whereabouts, and the deadline passed without word on Herrema's fate.

The short-range jet headed toward Brazil, officials said, but ran low on fuel. The jet turned back and made an emergency landing in a field near Rafaela, 290 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, Telam said. Telam said the jet's tires blew out on landing and the landing gear sank into the ground when the plane stopped.

But none of the occupants were reported hurt. Before police arrived the guerrillas ran to three waiting cars and drove west toward Cordoba, about 150 miles away, security sources said. Other guerrillas remained behind to defend the runway as the plane took off, then withdrew toward mountains along the Paraguayan border, the sources said.

They ordered the passengers to leave the twin-jet Boeing 737 and held off soldiers and policemen while some of the guerrillas on the ground got aboard. The jet's original passengers reportedly were not injured. The plane's flight crew remained aboard.

Firm Ready To Pay Ransom

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP)—A colleague of kidnaped Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema said today his company is ready to buy Herrema's release. But police said cash would not divert the kidnapers from their demands.

Herrema, 53-year-old chief executive of the Limerick plant of the Dutch multinational steel firm Ferenka, was abducted mosa airport, where they seized the air terminal and held the visiting federal governor, Juan Taparelli, and other officials captive, security sources said, but Taparelli escaped unharmed during the confusion. Meanwhile, fellow guerrillas hijacked an Aerolineas Argentinas airliner on a domestic flight between Buenos Aires and Corrientes, about 100 miles southeast of Formosa, and forced it to land at the Formosa airport.

Soldiers and police repelled the attack in bloody fighting, and the army said at least 15 guerrillas, two army officers and nine soldiers were killed in the battle.

The action began when more than 50 Mootonero guerrillas raided an infantry garrison in Formosa, a small provincial capital on the Paraguayan border 575 miles north of here, security sources and the official Telam news agency said.

CIA Castro Plots Span Three Presidencies

By DAVID C. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA attempts to kill Cuba's Fidel Castro occurred under three presidents but there is no hard evidence that any president authorized such schemes, according to the chairman of the Senate intelligence committee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Sunday that "plans and attempts" against Castro's life "span the years from the Eisenhower administration through the Kennedy administration, and into the Johnson administration."

Appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Church also said, "We have no hard evidence that directly relates this activity to any order that was given by any president."

Church said the attempts against Castro had been confirmed by former CIA Director Richard M. Helms in secret testimony before the intelligence committee.

Although Church has made previous references to CIA plots and attempts against Castro's life, his remarks gave a much wider scope to the agency's involvement in assassinations than previously reported.

CIA Director William E. Colby, in a separate appearance on the CBS program "Face the Nation," refused to discuss the allegations of CIA involvement in assassination, saying "the situation was very murky, and I really don't believe that this subject is an appropriate one for an official to be talking about."

News accounts of CIA attempts to kill Castro have centered on a 1961 plot in which underworld figures Sam Giancana and John Roselli were involved in a scheme to poison the Cuban leader in connection with the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion.

That scheme has been publicly admitted by both Robert Maheu, a former aide to Howard Hughes, and Lawrence Houston, former CIA general counsel who said he informed then-Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy about the plot in 1962.

High Court Opens New Term Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opened a new term today confronted with the issue of the constitutionality of the new campaign finance law, a question that could profoundly affect the course of the 1976 presidential elections.

The court is considering which appeals to hear of those filed by a list of opponents ranging from conservative Sen. James L. Buckley to independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy.

The court is generally expected to give the campaign financing law an early hearing, aiming for a decision in time to allow candidates to know the rules before the campaign is well under way.

Although the justices spent all last week meeting in an unprecedented pre-term conference, the term does not legally begin until today — the first Monday in October.

In the campaign case, minor party representatives and others have appealed a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upholding the Federal Election Campaign Act passed last year.

Among other things, the act limits spending by candidates for presidential nominations to $10 million. Presidential candidates in the general election campaign are limited to $20 million.

Limits are also placed on spending by congressional candidates, on political contributions and on expenditures by individual groups on behalf of candidates. The act also provides for partial public financing of presidential campaigns.

Appealing the circuit court decision are Buckley, R-Conn.; McCarthy, a former Democratic senator from Minnesota; philanthropist Stewart R. Mott; the Mississippi Republican Party, and the New York State Democratic Party. (See COURT Page 2A)

For Illegal Aliens, 'Rewards Are Worth The Risk'

By COURTNEY BARBER For many, it's a swim across the Rio Grande on a dark night, then a long hike across barren wilderness to civilization.

For others, it's a hot ride, smuggled across the border in false bottoms of trucks.

But for the thousands of illegal aliens who cross the Texas-Mexico border each year, the rewards are worth the risk.

Many are eventually caught, put in jail and deported, but for nearly all, the wages they are paid in the U.S. can mean the difference between eating and starving for their families in Mexico.

Each time I used a different location to cross. "In Mexico I made 40 pesos (12 cents) a day," he said as he shuffled his bare feet on the limestone floor, "working on farms. It was extremely hard. I didn't make enough money to feed my family."

"We lived on a camposena," a small community of peasants who earn wages by working on farms. The housing consists of shoddy, cramped living quarters, without benefit of modern conveniences. Juan is proud that he has been able to make a living for his family. "I know that we do help ourselves. We came to work, because we need to work," he said as he rubbed his calloused hands together. "It is very, very hard and difficult to find a good job in Mexico."

He stroked his beard as he recalled the day. "The immigration officers dropped by the construction site I was working on in Lubbock. They came to check on the employees.

"My employer treated me well. He didn't know I was an illegal alien. I had gotten a Social Security card and he took out taxes. I've filed income tax returns for the last two years."

Juan said as he crossed his feet and locked them together at the ankles.

"I worked eight to eight and a half hours a day and spent most of my spare time at home. I sent almost all of my pay back to my family in Mexico," he said as he lit another cigarette.

"In my case I've never been paid less, but I know of others who do get paid less—but since they need to work, they go along with it," Juan said.

Sometimes Juan would get homesick to see his family. "I've worked here for four to five months, and then I'd go back for up to two years. When the money starts to run out, I cross the border again and work construction jobs."

"If at all possible, I won't cross the border again," Juan said. "Usually the federal courts hand down six months as a sentence with a probation period of five years. "They (his family) know I've been arrested. I wrote them. And I have heard from them, as he cleared his throat.

"My wife and children are in Mexico," he wiped his cheek, "without any money or food. My wife developed complications from a hysterectomy she had after having our last child. These things weigh heavy on my mind."

"I've been here (in jail) two months. The court system here is slow," Juan said.

"I wish they would try me — I don't care if I'm found guilty of get a suspended sentence."

It's a helpless feeling to sit in a jail cell, knowing your family isn't getting one decent meal a day. Yet, Juan knew that when he crossed the border alone.

He also has to cope with the uncertainty of not knowing if he has an attorney and says, "No one has come to talk to me. I've been before a judge in Pecos, but I didn't have an attorney," Juan said.

He had an interpreter in the court in Pecos, but he is confused as to what actually happened. He must wait in Midland (See ALIENS Page 2A)

Violent Death Toll Climbs Over Weekend In Texas

By The Associated Press
A fiery plane crash which claimed three lives helped swell the violent death toll in Texas during the weekend.

The grim tabulation for the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday accounted for 20 fatalities, also including 10 in traffic accidents, two persons asphyxiated in a car, a drowning, a water skiing accident, a fire death and a fatal beating.

The private plane crash, near McCamey in West Texas, killed three San Angelo business men who were identified by their rings—William Crisp, Horace Hartgrove and Evrard Ricci. The bodies were burned beyond recognition. They were en route home from McCamey.

Among other victims were: Floyd Frazier, 41, and his wife Billie Lou, 26, of Lubbock were found dead in their car Sunday as Abilene police checked the vehicle, first noticed the day before on an Interstate 20 access road. Officers said the two apparently were asphyxiated. They were en route to Galveston, where Mrs. Frazier was to undergo hospital treatment for a heart ailment. Gorey Dale Borders, 24, died Sunday before reaching a hospital in Snyder. Dist. Atty. Leonard Green said police told him the child apparently had been thrown to a floor. Police arrested a man at the hospital 30 minutes later and held him without immediate charge.

Savas Alcantar, 18, drowned Sunday evening in Ascart Lake in El Paso. Companions said he swam about 50 yards to retrieve a ball tossed into the water and was unable to make it back to shore.

Two persons died Sunday afternoon when the motorcycle they were riding collided head-on with a car about five miles south of Amarillo in the Panhandle. They were Emmett Allen Morris, 24, operator of the motorcycle, and Carol Sue Jennings, 18, a passenger, both of Amarillo. The two occupants of the car were not seriously hurt.

Imogene Fulcher, 72, of San Angelo was injured fatally Saturday night and two other persons were injured in a two-car collision in San Angelo. Florentino Garcia, 32, owner of a bar in Alice, was shot to death during an argument over who would put a quarter in the bar's juke box. Police held a 33-year-old suspect in the Jim Wells County jail.

A two-month-old Marshall baby—Veronica Durden—died in a fire early Saturday at her home. Authorities said her stepfather, discovering the fire, ran two blocks to turn in an alarm and returned home to find the little girl ablaze.

A one-car crash near Sanderson in West Texas took the life of Linda Sue Smith, 22, of Del Rio early Saturday. Two other persons were injured.

Robert Rosson, 36, of Big Spring, was killed Saturday when his truck smashed into a row of telephone poles and caught fire near Ozona in West Texas. Police said he apparently swerved to miss a deer in the road.

A Friendswood youth, Mark T. Gausephol, 17, died at an Austin hospital Saturday of injuries suffered in a water skiing accident at Lake Travis. Police said he apparently suffered muscle cramps, went under and failed to surface.

Albert Hernandez, 17, of Houston died Saturday when a car carrying him struck a tree beside a city street.

A Richmond man, Isabel Salina, 21, was killed Saturday when he was struck by a pickup truck one mile south of Rosenberg on Texas 36. Police said Salina was examining his van, which had run off the road.

Howard J. White, 28, of Houston died Saturday when the car in which he was riding struck a utility pole and overturned on a city street.

Carrillo Impeachment Trial Begins Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The long-awaited impeachment trial of Judge O. P. Carrillo begins in the Senate today, the first such trial in Texas in 44 years.

The trial, with the Senate sitting as a jury for the judge, was to open at 10:30 a.m.

Carrillo was convicted on income tax charges by a federal jury Thursday. His impeachment trial has had to be postponed until that federal trial was completed.

Carrillo has been suspended from his state district court bench in South Texas since the House voted for 10 of 11 impeachment articles on Aug. 5. His lawyer has said the federal conviction will be appealed. But the State Bar grievance committee in Corpus Christi could seek suspension of Carrillo's law license—which a district judge must have pending that appeal.

Therefore, even if the Senate exonerates Carrillo, he still could not get back on the bench if his law license is suspended.

In addition to these troubles, Carrillo faces a formal proceeding before the State Judicial Qualifications Commission Nov. 3 on the same charges involved in the impeachment. The commission has the power to investigate alleged judicial misconduct and recommend suspension from office to the Texas Supreme Court.

Carrillo is not scheduled for sentencing in the federal case until Nov. 17. He could get as much as 14 years and a $25,000 fine.

The Senate voted last month to require House special counsel Terry Doyle to establish Carrillo's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, which Doyle said is a heavier burden of proof than has ever been required in an impeachment trial in this country.

Leon Jaworski, special state counsel, advised the Senate to adopt that rule, replying to Doyle's protest that "if you really have a case, then there's nothing to worry about."

A two-thirds vote of the Senate is needed for conviction.

Carrillo, 51, is accused of using Duval County money to buy his groceries; of using county workers and equipment at his ranch and store for private gain; of refusing to disqualify himself in legal matters in which he had a personal interest; and of trying to dominate the grand jury and Benavides school board.

The Senate exonerated Central Texas District Judge J. B. Price in 1931 in Texas' last impeachment trial.

Nuclear Plants Called Dangerous

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Tulane University mechanical engineering professor says nuclear power plants are "extremely dangerous" and must be abandoned as a major source of energy.

Instead, Dr. Robert G. Watts is urging stepped-up development of solar energy plants and more research into harnessing the power of the wind and the seas.

Besides the dangers associated with nuclear plants, Watts said a shortage of the uranium needed to fuel the plants will make them all but obsolete within 20 years.

"They are extremely dangerous because they produce things that are difficult to deal with, especially in a turmoil-filled society like this one," Watts said.

Theft of plutonium from nuclear plants represents a major threat, he said. Even a tiny speck of the substance, said to be the most deadly known to man, can cause lung cancer.

Besides the shortage of uranium and the danger of theft, Watts warned of other dangers from nuclear plants.

"The plant itself may melt. The logistics of transporting fuel to and from the plants are unwieldy and unsafe, and no one quite knows how to store the radioactive waste securely," he said.

"These are terribly urgent, serious problems, and none of them has been solved. If even a small mistake happens, the results could be catastrophic."

"Solar energy is a good bet for the future and it can be developed more quickly than some people would have you believe."

He noted that homeowners can now buy a solar-powered water heater for $500 to $1,000. The device uses painted pipes on the roof to trap the sun's rays.

Modernized windmills may also have a place in energy generation, Watts said.

Services Set Today For William Crisp

SAN ANGELO — Services for William R. Crisp, 55, of 919 Live Oak, San Angelo, were to have been at 11:30 a.m. today in the First Christian Church with the Rev. Michael Waco, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial was to have been in Fairmount Cemetery.

Crisp was born April 15, 1920, in Nowater, Okla. He attended Capitol Hill High School in Oklahoma City, Okla., Capitol Hill Junior College, Texas A&M University and received a chemical engineering degree from Oklahoma University. He had been employed by Warren Petroleum Corp. in Tulsa, Okla., and Texas Natural Gas Corp. in Tulsa. He did research work for Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. and was employed in the research laboratory of Stanolind Oil and Gas in Tulsa. He moved to Rankin in 1948 and to San Angelo in 1959.

Crisp was an independent operator in the oil and gas business with various corporations in gas transmission, gas processing and marketing. He was president of Neleh Gas and Oil Corp., operating major gas gathering and transmission systems in Pecos, Crockett, Upton, Crane and Tom Green counties.

He was a former director of the First National Bank of San Angelo and was on the executive committee of the Concho Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Geraldine Crisp; two sons, Richard Crisp of Waco and Dewey Crisp of Irving; mother, Mrs. A. D. Crisp of San Angelo; a stepdaughter, Kelly Shannon of Dallas; a step-son, Kelly Shannon of San Angelo, and two sisters, Mrs. Wesley House of Midland and Mrs. Max Hindes of Oklahoma City.

Memorials should be sent to the Concho Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America or to the memorial fund for the First Christian Church.

Defense Department Picks Up Tab?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon spokesman said officials are looking into published reports that the Defense Department picked up the tab for Northrop Corp. entertainment of high-ranking Pentagon officials and influential members of Congress.

The Capitol Hill News Service reported over the weekend that the Defense Department reimbursed Northrop, a Los Angeles-based aerospace firm, for $24,000 in expenses over a three-year period at its Maryland hunting lodge.

A separate article alleged the Pentagon reimbursed Northrop for as much as $8,336 in Washington Redskins football tickets over a two-year period. The aircraft manufacturer doled the tickets out to influential members of Congress and their aides as well as Pentagon officials, according to the article.

"We're looking into the matters discussed in the articles," a spokesman said. The articles appeared in the Washington Star.

The Pentagon acknowledged Friday that 33 high-ranking officials went against "the spirit and intent" of regulations in accepting Northrop's invitation to its duck hunting lodge at Easton, Md.

However, the Department told three congressional committees investigating the affair that those who accepted Northrop's hospitality were "not necessarily in technical violation" of the Pentagon's standards of conduct rules.

A department spokesman later said that all the individuals involved have been contacted and reminded that they must "comply fully" with regulations prohibiting acceptance of gifts or favors from firms doing business with the government.

"No further action is contemplated at this time," the spokesman added.

Northrop's guest list, according to those who have seen it, includes two members of the staff of the secretary of defense, numerous Air Force and Navy officers and some influential senators and congressmen.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on tactical air power, has confirmed that he accepted one hunting invitation from Northrop. Other names on the list include Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., chairman of the House subcommittee on military appropriations; Vice Adm. W.D. "Houser," deputy chief of naval operations for air warfare, and Rep. Bill Nichols, D-Ala., and Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif., both members of the House Armed Services Committee.

Sikes has denied that he ever visited the hunting lodge and a spokesman for Northrop has said the company doesn't know if all those invited actually accepted.

According to the news service report, Northrop was automatically reimbursed by the Pentagon for the $24,000 in claimed cash expenditures for the hunting facility under a Pentagon auditing procedure which allows qualified defense contractors to routinely reclaim certain overhead costs without being subject to normal auditing procedures.

However, the news service said an armed services procurement regulation forbids contractors to claim entertainment expenses as part of their overhead costs.

The news reports were based on documents provided to the news service by "a Defense Contract Auditing Agency source," the articles said.

Mrs. Noret Dies At San Angelo

LAMESA — Mrs. Edward A. Noret, 84, longtime Lamesa resident, died early Saturday in a San Angelo hospital following a lengthy illness.

Services were to have been at 11 a.m. today in the First Presbyterian Church in Lamesa with the Rev. Clem Sorley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Gatesville, officiating. Burial was in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Noret was a native of Chicago, Ill. She moved to Hart, Mich. and in 1909 became the first female postal employee commission in the civil service there. She married Edward A. Noret in 1916, and they established the Noret Department Store in Lamesa in 1924. They became active in the Sky Vue Drive-In Theater in 1948 and remained in that business until 1962. Her husband preceded her in death.

Survivors include a son, R. A. "Skeet" Noret of Lamesa; a sister, Mrs. Esther Copersmith of Chicago; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Memorials should be sent to charity.

Series Features Angelo, Brown

City government will take the spotlight Tuesday in the fourth in a National Issues Conference series being held this week at Midland College.

Conference speakers will be Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo, City Manager James Brown and members of the city council.

The session will begin with an 11 a.m. luncheon in the Midland College student center, with a forum to follow at noon in room 217 of the learning resource center.

The conference series, open to Midland College students, faculty and guests, is under sponsorship of the Student Senate.

Ukraine Grain Harvest Low

MOSCOW (AP) — The Ukraine, which accounts for 20 per cent of Soviet grain, will harvest only about 33.6 million tons this year, official figures show.

One Western expert said the Ukraine harvest had been estimated at five to seven million tons higher, even considering effects of a drought.

While the Ukrainian yield could not be projected across the country, the latest figures explain the Soviet rush to buy 9.8 million tons of American grain and eagerness to talk about long term purchases.

The Soviet grain plan this year calls for 215 million tons for the entire country. But with the impact of drought, Western experts have lowered estimates to only 175 tons.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has criticized the United States for refusing to grant the Soviet Union trading concessions, and said the Kremlin will deal with Washington only as an equal.

In an article in a Communist, theoretical journal of the Communist party, he said "quite a few complications" exist in Soviet-American relations.

He specifically cited congressional refusal to grant economic concessions to the Soviet Union unless emigration restrictions on Soviet Jews are eased.

York Civil Liberties Union, among others.

They say the act stifles political expression and discriminates against minor party and independent candidates.

The circuit court, rejecting these arguments, said that the "latest efforts on the part of our government to cleanse its democratic processes should at least be given a chance to prove themselves."

Juan's case is not unusual. His anxiety is shared by those who pay the price of being caught as a result of their illegal journey. All share the problems of Mexico's economy. For them it is not so much a daring adventure, but a trip made out of necessity.

A study was compiled by the city of San Diego, Calif. earlier this year. They found the illegal aliens to be working in jobs in which American citizens chose not to apply for — instead they formed mile-long lines at the unemployment office.

"I spent 40 days in Pecos and was never visited by an attorney," Juan said. "Now I've been here two weeks and still haven't talked to an attorney."

Mail Complaints? Save Envelope

Midland area postal customers with complaints about damaged or delayed mail should have the envelope or parcel wrapped to enable postal officials to track down the source of delay or damage.

Postmaster David E. Holster said the information on the envelope or parcel gives the Postal Service a place to begin investigating the delay or damage. "Saving the envelope and parcel wrapping when you have a problem and bringing it in for us to look at gives us a better chance of tracing it for the public to come to us with their problems. We'll be glad to work with them to try to resolve them."

Whittington Dies At Big Spring

BIG SPRING — Billy Don Whittington, 18, of Big Spring, died at 1:08 p.m. Saturday in a Big Spring hospital following a short illness.

Services were to have been at 2 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood chapel with burial in Trinity Memorial Park. Whittington was born Oct. 3, 1956, in Big Spring. While in junior and senior high schools he was on the track, baseball and football teams and won numerous athletic honors. After graduation, he worked for Berkley Homes Inc. and Howard College.

Survivors include the father, Billy Bob Whittington of Big Spring; the mother, Mrs. Betty Smith of Big Spring; a sister, Mrs. Sonia Lynn Dean of Coahoma; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Milam of Big Spring; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Juanita Reed of Big Spring, and paternal grandfather, Shannon Whittington of Amarillo.

Big Spring Man Killed In Wreck

BIG SPRING — A Big Spring truck driver, Robert A. Rosson, 36, died when his tractor-trailer overturned at an intersection three miles north of Ozona Saturday morning.

Rosson had worked for an oil firm for the past three months, since moving to Big Spring. He had attended Texas Tech University after graduation from Taft High School.

Services were to be held today at 3 p.m. at Pieper Funeral Home in Taft, with Rev. John Taylor, officiating, and Rev. John Ott, assisting. Burial was to have been in San Patricio Memorial Gardens.

Seminar Features Leukemia Talk

"Leukemia — Current Approach" will be discussed Thursday by health professionals at Midland Memorial Hospital during a therapeutic seminar.

The session is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

The local participants will utilize a two-way communication hookup with The Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio where the seminar will originate.

Mrs. Parker Dies At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — Mrs. Hallie Parker, 91, of San Angelo, died at 11:20 a.m. Sunday at a San Angelo hospital.

Services are pending at Rathoff-Kerbow Funeral Home in Eldorado.

Mrs. Parker was born March 14, 1884, in Williamson County.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Mills of Big Lake, five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Two Gulf Refining Hands Retire; Four Get Long-Service Awards

Gulf Refining Company's Midland District has announced the retirement of two employees and the presentation of long-service awards to four others.

C. G. Graham, an engineer at the Colorado City Station, announced his retirement after 33 years and 10 months with the company.

L. W. Walling, a measurement technician in Midland, worked 30 years and three months before announcing his retirement last week.

E. W. Nunley, district gauger in the Monahans Area, Keystone Flying W Gathering District, has received an award for 40 years service with the refining company.

E. M. Branham, a field gauger in Gulf Refining Co.'s Judkins Gathering District, was honored for having worked 35 years with the company.

W. L. Shadow, an instrument technician in the Midland District Maintenance Unit here, also received an award for having worked 35 years.

Bill Taylor, another Midland employe who is a corrosion technician in the Midland District Maintenance Unit, was recognized for 30 years service with the company.

H. C. Meinzer, a mechanic in the Midland District Maintenance Unit, also has completed 30 years service with Gulf Refining.

White House Decides On Synthetic Fuels

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The White House has decided to go ahead with a $6 billion plan to create a synthetic fuels industry in the United States independent of Vice President Rockefeller's scheme to organize a $100 billion energy Independence Agency.

The move is not seen as downplaying the Rockefeller effort to free the United States from foreign fuels but is looked on as a more pragmatic way to get a synthetic fuels industry off the ground in 1976.

The White House expects long and tough opposition on Capitol Hill to the proposed Energy Independence Agency.

"We would like to have our first synthetic fuels projects under way by late summer or fall of next year," one White House source said Saturday.

MGF Adds Traeder To Geology Staff

MGF Oil Corp. has announced that William J. Traeder has joined the company as district geologist for the Permian Basin area.

Traeder has more than 21 years of experience as a geologist for Shell Oil Corp. Prior to joining the Texas International Petroleum Corp. of Midland as district geologist, Traeder had risen to senior geologist and assistant operations coordinator in Texas and Oklahoma for Shell.

Jack Major, president of MGF, announced the addition of Traeder to the MGF staff.

While with TIPCO, Traeder originated and evaluated geologic prospects in the South Permian Basin and supervised geological operations of the company.

Buchwald Enters Hospital Briefly

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Communist-humorist Art Buchwald, who had been hospitalized after collapsing from what doctors said was an intense pain in his stomach, has been released.

A spokesman for Wellborn Baptist Hospital said Buchwald, who was released Sunday afternoon, was believed to be suffering from kidney stones.

Buchwald was rushed to the hospital Saturday afternoon, prior to a scheduled speaking engagement.

million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 109,000-1. Gravity of the distillate is 36.8 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 3,060-3,064 feet, which had been acidized with 2,500 gallons.

It originally was drilled by Wellaw Corp. in 1973.

Location is 467 feet from northwest and 1,980 feet from southwest lines of section 137, block 10, H&GN survey.

Lawrence scheduled No. 5-C Mooers Estate as an offset to Tubb gas production, 2,198 feet from northeast and 467 feet from northwest lines of the same section.

Projected depth is 3,400 feet.

Oil Zone Tests

Lawrence completed No. 4-B Mooers Estate as an extension to lower Clearfork oil production in the field, to flow 154 barrels of 34-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio of 75-1.

Flow was through a 22-64-inch choke and perforations at 3,224-3,305 feet, which had been acidized with 5,500 gallons.

Wellsite is 600 feet from northwest and 2,100 feet from southwest lines of section 137, block 10, H&GN survey.

No. 4-C Mooers Estate has been staked as an offset to lower Clearfork oil pay. Planned depth is 3,400 feet.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from northeast and 660 feet from southeast lines of section 137, block 10, H&GN survey.

Daniel Challenges Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Price Daniel Jr., president of the 1974 Constitutional Convention, said today Sen. Peyton McKnight had refused to debate the proposed new constitution in public, choosing instead to hide "behind the coattails of his greedy, selfish, special interest friends."

McKnight, D-Tyler, is the leader of a group opposing adoption of the new constitution on Nov. 4.

"He is trying to turn this crucial election into a big Halloween party rather than the thoughtful, intelligent debate of constitutional issues that it should be," Daniel said.

Daniel, former House speaker, added in a statement that McKnight will not debate him, "I challenge him to meet" other supporters of the constitution, such as Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby or Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Socialists Win In Austrian Vote

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austrian voters rejected predictions of hard times ahead and returned Chancellor Bruno Kreisky's Socialist party to power Sunday with a gain of one seat and an absolute majority in Parliament.

The Interior Ministry said the Socialists captured 94 seats in the 183-seat legislature. The Christian Democrat Austrian People's Party under former banker Josef Taus won 78 seats, two less than in the 1971 elections.

The small Freedom Party gained one seat for a total of 11, while the Communists, who had hoped to gain one of Vienna's seats after going for 20 years without representation in Parliament, failed to make a significant showing at the polls and did not win a seat.

Texas Launches Investigation Into Phillips Contributions

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Secretary of State Mark White says his office will launch an investigation today to determine who in Texas received campaign contributions from the Phillips Petroleum Co. and if the candidates were aware of the money's source.

White said any evidence of wrongdoing would be forwarded to the attorney general for prosecution.

In a report filed last week with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission, Phillips said it had donated $585,000 to state and national candidates between 1964 and 1972. About $125,000 was spent in five Texas elections, the report said.

Such contributions violate Texas campaign finance laws and could result in fines and imprisonment for officers of the oil company and Texas politicians who knowingly accepted corporate contributions, The Dallas Times Herald said in its Sunday edition.

The newspaper quoted White as saying Saturday, "There seems to be no other choice than to prosecute." But he said no action would be taken until his office concludes its investigation.

The report named no candidates for state offices in Texas, but it did say Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., received $1,000, and U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson, Democrat from Anson, received $200 from the company in 1972.

Aides to Tower and Burleson have said their bosses did not know the contributions were from Phillips.

White said he does not believe the politicians involved were aware of the source of the oil company's contributions.

"There may be illegal contributions on the part of the contributors, but it doesn't indicate knowing malfeasance on the part of the office-holders," Dallas Times Herald said in its White said.

Three Americans Move To Oil Field

The Manchester Guardian at stake was face and protocol, no more but no less. Sunday was set as the first day of activity by the Israeli-Egyptian working group in Geneva, but Israel refused to sign the protocol until Congress had approved the dispatch of American civilian experts to supervise early-warning stations for the two sides.

Congressional blessing was expected by Sept. 30, but is not now likely before the middle of this week, Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin reiterated at a cabinet meeting Sunday that Israel has not changed its policy and that it still did not regard the agreement as being-in-force.

The military spokesman in Tel Aviv announced merely that the three technicians had arrived "to familiarize themselves with the oil installation." Foreign Ministry sources reminded correspondents that the agreement originally provided for between 5 and 15 to arrive Sunday.

The issue was not resolved until Saturday night. What was

Chicago Concern Elects Midlander

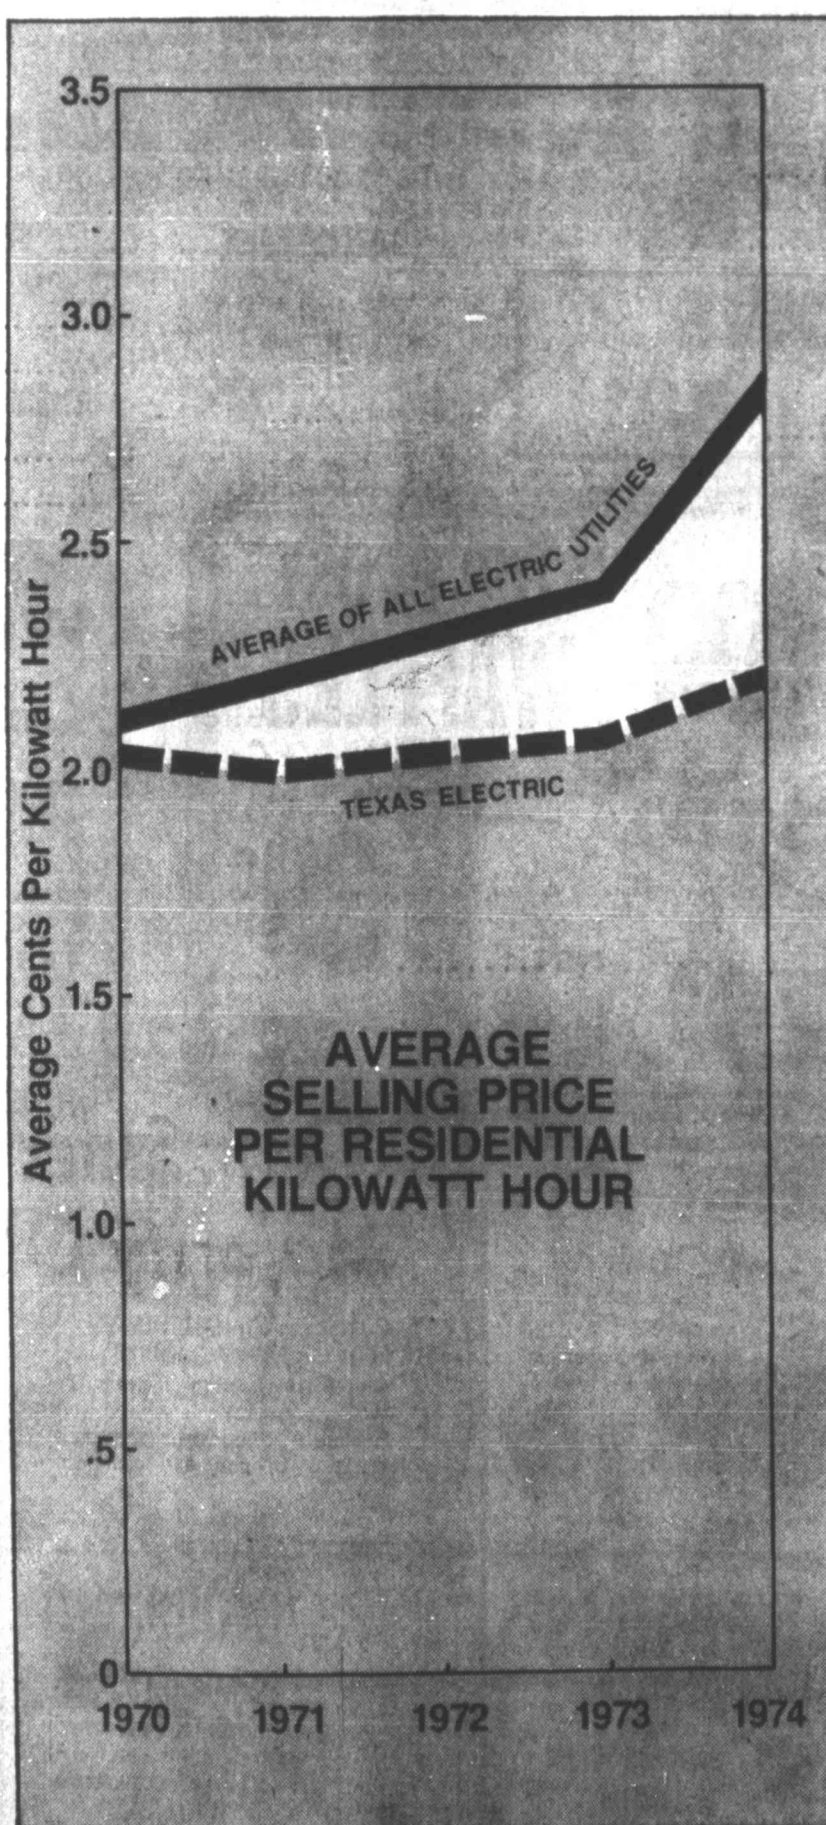

Midland oilman Arden R. Grover has been elected to the board of directors of Telegraph Savings and Loan Association of Chicago.

The announcement was made by William E. Strasser, president of the corporation.

Telegraph is one of Chicago's oldest financial institutions and was founded by employes of the Western Union Co. in 1894.

Grover, a vice president and director of Flag-Redfern Oil Co., also is a director of Pennant-Puma Oils, Ltd., Calgary, Canada, and O'Neill Industries of Midland.

Grover serves as a trustee of Trinity School and is a director of the Independent Petroleum Association of America and also of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

Your cost for electricity is below the national average.

And the gap is widening.

Today your electric bill is much lower than it would be in most other parts of the country. And while electricity costs are rising everywhere, your cost isn't rising as fast.

That's because Texas Electric is doing everything possible to keep the price of electricity down. For one thing, we're using the supplies of low-cost natural gas we acquired many years ago for fuel. And as our cost for gas goes up, we're building power plants to use cheaper lignite and nuclear fuels.

At Texas Electric, we're working to supply the electricity you need — at the lowest possible cost.

Churning Stock Market Keeps Experts Guessing

By HELEN L. CALL, Copley News Service

The internal workings of the stock market, analysts report, are doing little but churning and barping after the big binge. Those who favor the hair of the dog are out buying. Those who have joined the ice-bag set are sitting on the sidelines. Some action can be detected in the odd couple of "the old one, two" who are out covering shorts.

Will the market settle back into its 10 to 4 daily grind on Wall Street? Or is the bubble-water already on the way for the next roof raiser?

The market has been keeping its plans to itself.

But there is a gleam in its eye, according to Robert Archibald, who heads the research department at Bateman Eichler, Hill, Richards, Los Angeles.

In an interview, he said his department has been examining both the fundamental and the technical side, "but we don't see a convincing bias for the market either way."

Archibald added, "The internal market statistics are not currently providing any clues that might be missing from the economic scene. The issues of the rate of inflation and the measure of the economic recovery remain substantially in doubt. Once these are resolved, we think there will be a breakout on the up side."

A sampling of Merrill Lynch's research reports of recent days shows a number of interesting stocks now receiving the highest "buy" rating: McDonald's, Texas Instruments, Pitney Bowes, Sperry Rand, Perkin Elmer, Bendix, Fairchild Camera, National Semiconductor, Melville Shoe, Hilton Hotels, Rollins, General Signal and Mervyn's.

Merrill Lynch has issued a study of the paper industry and has upgraded its investment opinion on all paper products companies. None has ML's highest buy rating, but those listed for both intermediate and long-term are "2-OK to buy:" Diamond International, Fort Howard Paper, Great Northern Nevoosa, Hoerner, Waldorf, International Paper, St. Regis Paper, Southland Paper, Union Camp, Westvaco.

Vickers' study of holdings of principal U.S. and Canadian investment companies includes a group of over-the-counter industrials. Among those with heavy-buying interest in the first six months of the year were: Intel, Economics Laboratory, Betz Laboratories, Yellow Freight Systems, Penmold Offshore Gas, B. DeKalb AgResearch, B. Kaiser Steel, Alexander & Alexander, Mervyn's, Seven-Up, Steak & Ale, Commerce Clearinghouse, Friendly Ice Cream, Tymshare, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Gelco-Feld, Régency Electronics, E.F. Johnson.

Vickers' guide to bank trust portfolios shows that the oil and natural gas industry became the most favored group of stocks in the second quarter of 1975, moving ahead of chemicals and drugs, the first-quarter favorites. Exxon is the second most widely held by trust departments (after AT&T). Texaco is sixth and Standard Oil of Indiana is 10th, followed by Mobil Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Standard Oil of California and Gulf.

Lion Act Hard To Swallow

By DAN McLEAN, Copley News Service

It's not surprising that Mike Lettner, having spent most of his life on the road, joined the circus.

It's his job that's tough to swallow, something Lettner undoubtedly will have cause to hope applies as well to him at various times throughout his career.

Lettner is learning Wolfgang Holzmair's lion act, one of the highlights of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

It isn't the sort of job you just jump into. But master Holzmair and pupil Lettner both are pleased with the 26-year-old's progress since February.

Lettner is outside the cage during performances. But in practice he's inside with Holzmair, helping put the lions through their paces, studying the master's moves and trying to gain the animals' respect.

As the lions leave the big cage, he lies at the entrance to their individual cages. They depart over his live body.

"You have to develop a sense of when you're supposed to use the whip or stick or just talk to them," Lettner says.

"I'm still making mistakes. I'm getting too close to them with my back turned. Some of them are starting to respond to me, but it takes time."

"When Wolfgang walks by, they snarl. But when I walk by they just look at me. They're trained to react to him."

"I have to be more forceful. But when I'm forceful and they ignore me, I get frustrated."

Holzmair sees an even greater problem, but it's not one he doesn't think can be overcome.

"The most important thing is your reaction to the lions," he says. "You have to move fast. He's a little slow."

"I've been very happy with him in the cage, but he has to learn a lot. Before I can put him inside the cage, I have to be sure. It may be five months, six months, maybe a year or even two years."

Whatever the timing, Lettner is Holzmair's first apprentice and his heir apparent. And the day is coming.

At 42, Holzmair says he can't go higher and has no wish to backslide while hanging on. He says he feels older, can feel his reactions slipping slightly. A German native and French citizen, he hopes to semiretire at 45, returning to France as general manager of a circus.

Whether or not he takes the act with him is pretty much up to the Ringling organization. Holzmair owns the act. If Ringling renews the contract, Lettner will remain with the show, working for Holzmair.

But circus acts are based so much on reputation, Lettner says he expects he'll build his in Europe with his teacher.

Holzmair says he selected Lettner because "he's tall (6 feet 1), young and has a good figure—that's important."

"The qualifications may sound strange, but what should the standards be? You don't get many applications from experienced lion tamers."

Fluent in English and German, Lettner needs only to learn French to catch up with the cats. They respond to commands in all three languages.

His training really started with the basics—cleaning the cages and feeding the lions, so they'd get to know him.

"I wish I could learn more quickly," he says, "but it doesn't work that way."

"It's a chance for a boy," Holzmair says. "He can make a good living."

"In the circus it's always family. You give your act to your son. But I don't have a son (his daughter has joined the circus, but he won't let her in the cage), so I'm giving him the chance."

Lettner agrees the main advantages are a good career and good money.

Besides, he won't be bothered much by insurance agents.

Computers Likely To Run Your Life

By FRANK MACOMBER, Copley News Service

If your friendly neighborhood computer isn't running your life already, it likely will be in the next few years.

The computer already influences the life-style, social and business habits of the typical American from 30 to 40 times a day, says John Diebold, internationally known in the fields of management and technology.

Moreover, it is amending business and industry methods and processes about as often as the calendar changes days, according to Diebold.

He is president and founder of The Diebold Group, Inc., management counsel to such organizations as Xerox, Westinghouse, IBM, General Electric, Du Pont and Kodak along with more than 100 city governments, most states and several foreign nations, including Britain and France.

A pioneer in the field of automation, Diebold says the world has become so complicated that without the constantly improving computer "we simply wouldn't be able to do a lot of things as well as we do today."

In an interview, he pointed to weather forecasts, bank balances, psychics, insurance, supermarket inventories and check-outs as a few typical functions performed by computers which we take for granted.

Without computers, says Diebold, every American woman over the age of 18 would have to be employed by telephone companies to handle the vast network of domestic and long-distance lines over which we communicate.

Instead of knocking people out of jobs, the computer gradually has created three new industries—computer repair and maintenance, programming and production of a thousand and one computer varieties to satisfy the demands of the domestic and world market.

The layman with little or no firsthand knowledge of the computer traditionally has feared or mistrusted it, says Diebold.

Now, however, says the entrepreneur who coined the word "automation," the man and the machine are getting on more friendly terms as the computer becomes simpler to operate and understand.

Strangely, as the computer gains in sophistication it also gets more chummy with those who use it, according to Diebold.

For example, he says, one company (North American Rockwell) uses a computer which talks back to you when you address it.

"The computer is preprogrammed to quote the number of tools and where they are in the shop," Diebold explains. "It is programmed with fragments of human voices, so that when you ask for the status of a tool and then press the right button, the computer comes up with the answer."

Advanced computers actually understand words and have been programmed with 1,000-word vocabularies, Diebold says.

But the computers of tomorrow will be even more fantastic, he predicts.

At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Diebold says, an experimental computer reacts to human desires by picking up brain waves.

"They have developed a technology at MIT which connects the human nervous system to a computer," he explains.

"For example, a man with a mechanical arm, holding a glass of water in his hand, could think he wants a drink."

"His desire would be transmitted to the computer and it would trigger his nervous system to raise his arm and the glass to his lips."

Such a system, of course, could be of invaluable aid to amputees with mechanical limbs.

Eventually, Diebold predicts, the computer will all but eliminate the office typist and cut down on paper use.

"Office (computer) terminals and television tubes will replace letters," he says.

"The businessman simply will use computerized television to transmit information to other businessmen."

State Board Runs Low On Bilingual Education Funds

By Associated Press

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Education has voted against authorizing extended contracts for bilingual teachers and staff members after learning of $9 million shortage of funds for the program.

State Education Commissioner M. L. Brockette said he hopes something can be done to work out the apparent shortage in funds for bilingual education in public schools.

Board member Joe Butler of Houston prefaced the vote Saturday by saying Brockette and Dr. Arturo Gutierrez, director of bilingual programs, should have told the board of the shortage.

Brockette said the problem arose because $6.2 million was appropriated by the legislature for bilingual education before it approved another measure expanding the program.

Brockette said he would meet with State Comptroller Bob Bullock and State Auditor George McNiel within the next two weeks to try to resolve the problem. The three officials make up the Foundation School Program Committee.

Both are advanced (fifth-year) architecture students at Lubbock's Texas Tech University.

And both are on a team assignment to see what they can do — or propose — architecture-wise for the common good of the people of Quito, capital of the South American country.

Clear Skies Cover Majority Of Nation

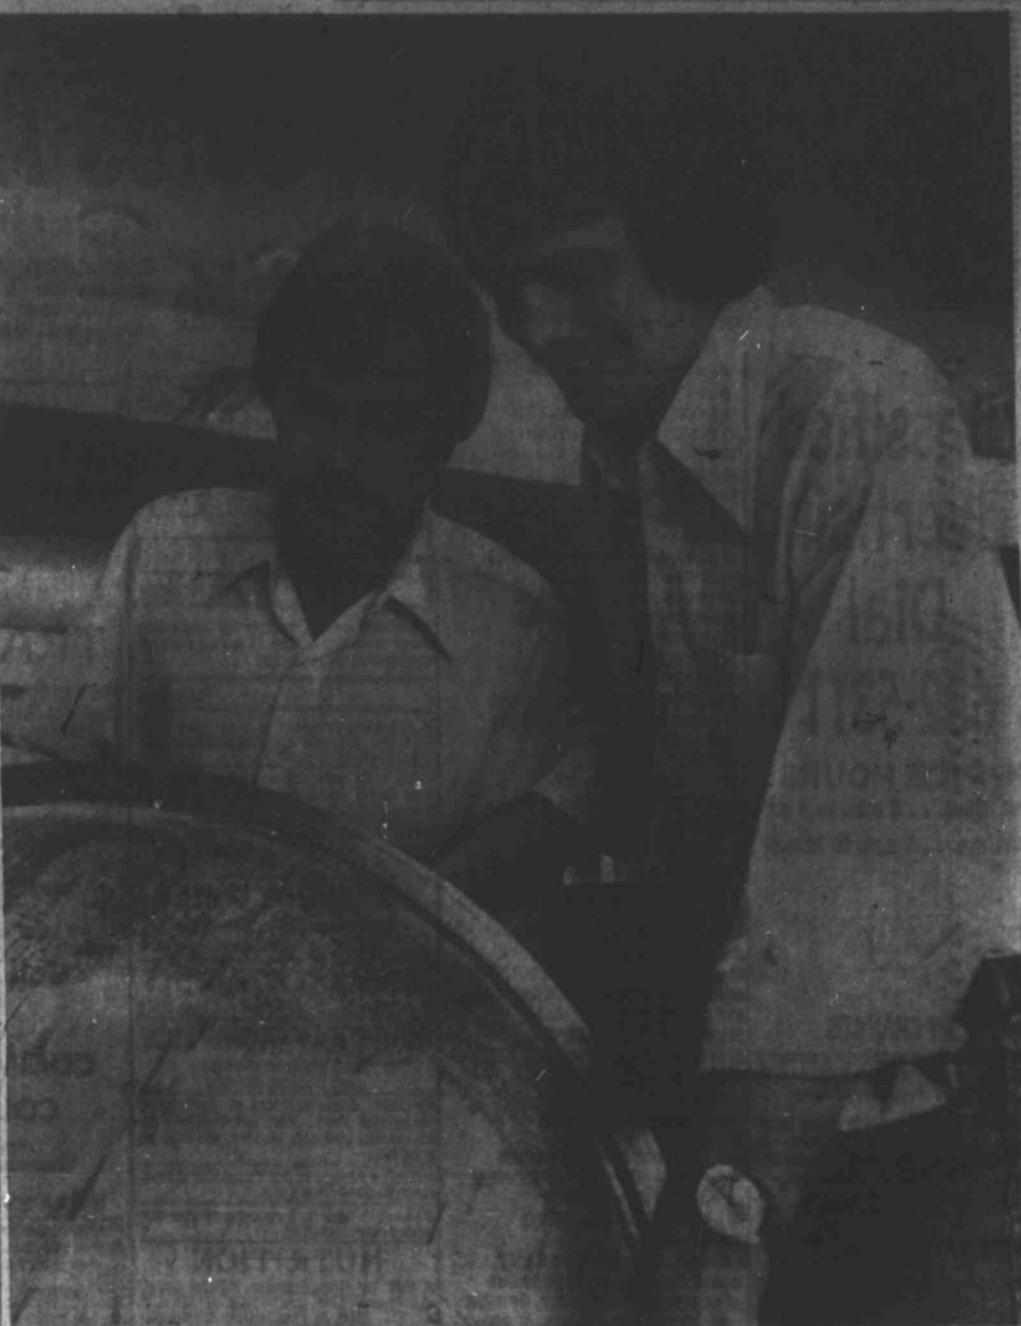

By The Associated Press

Showers and a few thunder-showers fell early today over parts of Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Rain also spattered western Oregon and northern Idaho.

Patchy but locally-dense fog persisted in coastal sections of southern California, with visibilities at times reduced to zero.

Clear skies covered the remainder of the West and most of the central United States. Mostly cloudy skies prevailed in the eastern portion of the country from New England to central Alabama.

Early morning temperatures east of the Rocky Mountains ranged from the upper 30s in the Dakotas to the mid 70s in Central Florida. The most common temperatures from the Rockies westward were in the

"It's a sort of a 20th century phenomenon," commented Kim Monroe.

Monroe and fellow Midlander Jim Rhotenberry are witnessing that unfortunate but often unavoidable technological spin-off — joblessness — in Quito, Ecuador.

Both are advanced (fifth-year) architecture students at Lubbock's Texas Tech University.

And both are on a team assignment to see what they can do — or propose — architecture-wise for the common good of the people of Quito, capital of the South American country.

Monroe and Rhotenberry, both 22 and both 1971 graduates of Midland High School, are on the seven-member Tech team in a project tabbed "Aspiricon Ecuador."

Their assignment is not to be do-gooders, but simply to wrap up their three-month study and to present a workable design to the Quito city government and to the Tech school of architecture, the university's Board of Regents and to the President's Council.

That's all.

But when Monroe and Rhotenberry left here in mid-September on their learning venture to Quito, neither knew exactly what the team effort would come up with. It could be a plan for urban housing for the poor masses or it could be a design for a mass-transit subway system. They just didn't know. Nor were they supposed to. The overall plan calls for the architecture students to understand the Spanish-speaking people of Quito, their diversity, culture, needs, wants and dreams. "We're dealing with a culture and the evolution of a nation . . . we don't know anything about," Monroe said. "They're different from us, but we don't know to what extent."

But one thing is certain, Rhotenberry commented: "We're not interested in Americanizing them." More than anything else, Rhotenberry said of the student study venture, "It's a cultural and technological exchange."

The Tech team, Monroe said, will have the cooperation of Quito's mayor, who himself is an architect, schooled in the United States, and Quito's city council.

Certainly, Monroe implied, the Tech team is not going to be presumptuous enough to assume it knows what's best for the inland city of 600,000. "The mayor of Quito is an architect . . ." Monroe commented. "So why should they invite us down? They're going to help us as much as they can." The seven Tech students plan to do as much for the city. In recent years, Rhotenberry said, Quito has undergone a mass influx of rural people. That wholesale migration, he commented, is "a real problem: no one knows how to take care of these people." Perhaps the study by the seven-member Tech team will propose a solution for one or more aspects of the overall problem. Their study, Rhotenberry said, may touch upon "anything that concerns the environment." Agriculture, the nation's economic basis, is shifting somewhat to petroleum and technologies foreign to an agrarian people. Ecuador's plateaus and mountain valleys are used for farming, grazing and dairying. The country, about the size of Nevada, is the world's chief source of balsam wood, and also exports bananas, coffee, and cacao used in making cocoa and chocolate. And Ecuador mines gold, silver, copper and lead and produces oil.

Notwithstanding . . . the new, bustling economic way is causing hardships for those warning to the city: "Rural people are finding it harder and harder to survive," Rhotenberry said.

In the ranks of the seven Tech students is Miguel Burbano. His home is Quito, and through him, surely, any language-barrier problem will be solved.

As Monroe and Rhotenberry were discussing their new venture on the eve of their departure for Ecuador, Rhotenberry made this comment on their architecture-grounded assignment:

"You really can't say what you're going to do until you see the problem. . . I guess it's a little too premature to say."

More certain, it seems, is one of the Tech team's reasons for electing to delve in the South American city.

"We picked Ecuador," Rhotenberry said, "partly because we were interested in working in a developing nation."

American University In Financial Crisis

CAIRO (AP) — U.S. political and economic influence is returning to Egypt but the American University here is facing a financial crisis.

The anticipated deficit for 1976 is $1.6 million.

"We are freezing all services and cutting back," says Dean of Facilities Thomas Lamont. "But Congress says squeeze more. The irony is that just as our mission is bearing fruit and we need more support to affirm the educational impact we have been able to make, the U.S. government is reducing its financial help."

The U.S. Congress approves allocations of the Agency of International Development provides for American schools and hospitals abroad.

In the past two years, administrators say, the U.S. contribution to the university's annual budget of about $6.2 million has dropped from 78 to 66 per cent of the total.

The administrators are bitter about the cutback and feel the government is letting them down after the university maintained a link between the two countries during the seven years when there were no diplomatic relations. Egypt and the United States resumed ties in March 1974. They were severed during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

At the same time the United States has begun to pump money into Egypt's sagging economy — $250 million in 1974 and maybe double that this year — in an effort to keep the government here from again turning to the Soviet Union for help.

To cut down the deficit, the university has raised tuition fees from $125 a semester to $175 and plans to boost the rate to $250 in four years. Egypt is a poor country where per capita income is $210 a year.

Alumni also are being asked to give. A recent fund-raising drive brought in $2,500.

A long-term solution to the financial problem may rest with a fund equivalent to $17 million that a group of American businessmen manage for the university. The money came from amounts the Egyptian government owed the United States for wheat purchases.

"The fund is separate from the university operating expenses and cannot be used for the deficit," explained William Stevens, vice president for financial development. "Its purpose is to generate income and eventually reduce the university's dependence on grants."

The American businessmen hope to invest the money in profitable projects in Egypt and have announced plans to open a travel agency in their first venture.

Administrators expect it will take five years before investment returns become meaningful.

Other than the Islamic University, Al-Azhar, the American institution is the only non-state-owned university in Egypt. Although it is 55 years old, the school has only recently won a long battle for academic respectability with a government decision last year to recognize its degrees for the first time.

As a result of official recognition, applications for admission have increased 18 per cent the past year, administrators say. Enrollment for the 1974-75 year was 6,500 students, counting graduate departments and non-credit education programs.

Most of the student body is Egyptian but there is a sprinkling of Americans, various Europeans, Africans and Arabs from other countries.

With "the government's opening to the West, the university is becoming more politically acceptable than it was.

East Germans, Soviets Sign Revised Treaty

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany and the Soviet Union formally put their relations on a new footing today, signing a revised treaty of cooperation, friendship and assistance that drops all reference to eventual German reunification.

Moscow by Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and Erich Honecker, first secretary of East Germany's Communist party. Virtually the entire East German party and government leadership was in the Soviet capital for the signing on the occasion of East Germany's 26th anniversary as a state.

For the first time, the day was called "National Day" instead of "Day of the Republic." With the leadership out of town, East Berlin conducted a low key observation of the anniversary except for a military ceremony at what once was Germany's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. It is now a memorial to the victims of fascism and militarism.

As reported by the official East German news agency ADN, both Honecker and Brezhnev said the changed situation in Europe made it necessary to update a 1964

East German-Soviet agreement. It still had nine years to go.

ADN said the new agreement has these features:

—The inviolability of state borders is paramount to European security and the borders of the Warsaw Pact states are not to be changed.

—East Germany and the Soviet Union will maintain and develop what were called their "ties" to West Berlin on the basis of the 1971 agreement on Berlin signed by the Soviet Union, United States, Britain and France. This stressed the Communist view that West Berlin is not a part of West Germany and may not be governed by it.

—Dropped from all references was the heretofore stated goal of a German peace treaty along with the possibility of the two Germanies one day coming together in a peaceful and democratic manner.

South Plains Sectors Draw Venture Sites

Exploration has been scheduled for Terry, Cottle and Crosby counties.

Tri-Service Drilling Co., Midland, will drill No. 1 Ackers, a 12,300-foot venture in Terry, nine miles southeast of Brownfield.

It spots two miles north and slightly west of the one-well Corigan, North (Fusselman) field in which Pennsylvania production is depleted. It also is 1 1/2 mile southeast of an 11,949-foot failure.

Drill site is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 10, block M, TTRR survey.

Cottle Prospector Tesoro Petroleum Corp. of San Antonio filed application to drill No. 1-L K. Johnson as a 6,300-foot try in Cottle, 15 miles southeast of Paducah.

Location is approximately 1,800 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 60, F. P. Knott survey, abstract 496, eight miles northeast of the Providence (Atoka) gas field.

Crosby Workover Leonard Latch of Lubbock, will attempt to reopen the Ha-Ra (Clearfork) field of Crosby County with the reentry of No. 1 John A. Wheeler, the depleted original opener of the field.

It was completed in 1957 by John A. Wheeler, and is 1 1/4 mile southwest of the Clearfork reopener, completed in 1974, and which is not currently producing.

Operator plans to clean out in the borehole to 4,100 feet. Location is 390 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 1063, block 1, H&OB survey, 10 miles south of Lorenzo.

Upton Gas Well Opens Penn Pay Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc. has reclassified its No. 1 Mobil as a Pennsylvania gas pay opener in the Heluma field of Upton County, 12 miles southwest of Crane.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2,475 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 130,000-1. Gravity of the hydrocarbon liquid is 42 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 8,000-8,044 feet. It was completed in September, 1974 through the above perforations for 173 barrels of 48.6-gravity oil and 25 barrels of water daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 1,994-1.

It was completed last January from the Devonian, for 75 barrels of 45.6-gravity oil and 182 barrels of water daily, through perforations at 8,630-8,984 feet. It has been plugged back to 9,100 feet, from total depth of 10,622 feet.

Location is 467 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 71, block Y, TCRS survey, 12 miles southwest of Crane.

Hostages Released As Bank Siege Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — An eight-hour siege of a Greenwich Village bank ended with the safe release of 10 hostages and the capture of a belligerent, rambling young gunman who said he was "sympathetic" to the Symbionese Liberation Army and a "fan" of Patricia Hearst.

Ray "Cat" Olsen of Merrick, N.Y., had fired one wild shot inside the bank where he held customers and employees hostage and alternately demanded $10 million in gold, a getaway airplane and the release of Miss Hearst and three radical companions from California prisons.

"EVERYONE'S OUT, everyone's all right," Deputy Police Commissioner Frank McLoughlin said Monday night moments after Olsen was distracted by a police negotiator and grabbed from the rear by other policemen who had sneaked into the bank.

The last three of the 10 hostages — six employees and four customers — were freed after Olsen's capture. Others were released at intervals during the tense siege of the Bankers Trust Co. branch that had given lower Sixth Avenue the look of an armed camp.

ARMED WITH a pistol and a shotgun, Olsen at first claimed affiliation with the SLA, the small terrorist band which kidnaped and claimed to have converted Miss Hearst. Later, he said the idea just "popped in my head."

"I wouldn't mind being affiliated with them, you know," Olsen told Scott Muni of radio station WNEW-FM in a telephone interview. "I'm sympathetic to their cause."

In reference to Miss Hearst, he said, "I don't know her personally. I'm just a fan." He also told Muni, "I was completely broke, man. I walked in here, with two cents in my pocket. When I got broke I do crazy things." Assistant bank manager John Moriarty, one of the hostages, described Olsen as "apparently unstable."

Ullman Challenges Ford To Specify Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief tax law architect in the House challenged President Ford today to say where he wants $28 billion cut from government spending in exchange for his proposed $28 billion tax cut, saying it is "preposterous" to expect Congress to do otherwise.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the Ways and Means Committee delivered the message to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon as Congress went to work on tax reduction legislation, including the $28 billion proposal which Ford called "the biggest single tax cut in our history."

However, Simon, in a quickly arranged appearance before the committee, insisted that Congress pledge itself to a $395 billion ceiling on spending, thus promising the spending cut, and leave details to be worked out in discussions with the administration.

The $28 billion total for 1976, which includes tax cuts totaling $22.9 billion already in effect that Ford proposes to extend, does not contain any provision for rebates. But individual taxpayers would get about $2.6 billion more in tax reductions in 1976 than in 1975.

Tables provided by the White House show that, if Ford's individual tax reductions are enacted, a family of four with income of $15,000 would be able to reduce its taxes by $287 more in 1976 than it can this year.

If the President's proposal is approved, the effect would show in tax withholding from paychecks beginning Jan. 1, 1976, and on tax returns due April 15, 1977.

As the House Ways and Means Committee took up various tax-cut proposals, there were some Democratic doubts that the legislative branch can meet Ford's request for a $28-billion reduction in government spending to match his proposed tax cut. But the President told Republican congressional leaders at a White House meeting he will veto 100 bills if he has to cut government spending in exchange for the tax cut.

The Republican leaders listed future anticipated increases in medicare, medicaid, food stamps and categorical grants in aids possible areas for reduction in spending growth.

Ford used the word "fight" repeatedly and declared that he believes his tax cut-spending cut plan will succeed because the public wants a tax cut.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., told reporters after the White House meeting: "The President said if he has to veto 100 bills to hold down spending he'll do it."

The Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation originates, also considered proposals for individual cuts in the $3 billion to $12 billion range for individuals, compared to the $20.7-billion Ford proposed in his nationally broadcast speech Monday night. Ford also proposed $7 billion in business tax reductions.

Ullman said today the committee is likely to approve $12 billion in tax cuts for individuals and from $2 billion to $3 billion for corporations as a stimulus to the economy. He said he expects Congress to enact the package by December.

Interviewed on the CBS-TV "Morning News," Ullman said Ford's plan of linking a tax cut and a spending reduction is "a mirage" because "we need to get a tax reduction into effect in January" but the new budget won't be submitted to Congress until the end of January.

Ullman said that while Congress shares the President's desire to cut federal spending, it wants to reduce defense, space and foreign aid proposals, while "the President would rather cut (See ULLMAN Page 2A)

Filipino Hijacker Surrenders At Manila Without Firing Shot

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A Filipino grieving over the kidnaping of his 4-year-old daughter hijacked a jetliner today and demanded to be flown to Libya, but gave up at Manila airport without firing a shot, authorities said.

All of the passengers and airline employees were reported safe after the nine-hour ordeal aboard the Philippines Airlines jet.

The man, identified as Camilo Morales, about 25, surrendered after the government "guaranteed to help the hijacker in solving his problem," according to the constabulary commander, Maj. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos.

Authorities said Morales' daughter was kidnaped a few days ago in Davao, the Philippines' second largest city, 600 miles south of Manila. Ramos said the abduction had made Morales "mentally unstable."

Police said the hijacker — armed with a .45-caliber pistol, a grenade and 160 rounds of ammunition — seized the British-built BAC-1-11 in the final minutes of a flight from Davao to Manila by claiming he had hidden a bomb aboard.

It was not immediately clear why Morales, a Christian, wanted to go to Libya, a Moslem country which has been accused by the Philippines of aiding Moslem rebels in the Mindanao region around Davao. Morales had also told authorities during the hijack that he was angry over the alleged arrest of a son, but there was no further explanation of that.

The plane carried 66 passengers and five crew members when it was hijacked, about five minutes before landing in Manila. During negotiations on the ground, 41 passengers were released in exchange for four airline employees who went aboard. They included Rafael Igoa, the executive vice president, and Capt. Cesar Alegarbo, the chief pilot, who prepared to fly to Libya.

Authorities refused the plane and installed a special radio to make it conform to rules for overseas flight. The plane then rolled out onto (See HIJACK Page 2A)

Food Stamp Program Overhaul Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration proposed today that the government eliminate the food stamp program's complicated system of calculating eligibility and benefits on the basis of loophole-prone itemized deductions from gross earnings.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard L. Feltner told a Senate Agriculture subcommittee the department is proposing a standard deduction from gross earnings after taxes.

Feltner said the proposal would speed up processing, reduce paperwork and put a ceiling on eligibility for the $5.8 billion-a-year program so that "we can redistribute program benefits to the most needy and reinforce the original program objectives.

Feltner was the first witness as the subcommittee opened four days of hearings on charges by some senators and the secretary of the Treasury that the food stamp program is out of control.

He did not specify what size standard deduction the administration was considering or what the uniform purchase price might be. It is known, however, that he recommended to President Ford a deduction of between $50 and $75 per month and the maximum legal price of 30 per cent of net income.

The current average total deduction using itemization is $58.65 per month, he said.

Lotion May Cut Glare From Domes

By C. G. McDANIEL CHICAGO (AP) — A lotion made from the female hormone estrogen reduces baldness in men when it is rubbed into their scalps, according to a New York City physician who says he has successfully experimented with the treatment for the past decade.

Estrogen cannot be taken by men internally without certain undesirable side effects, such as enlarged breasts. But Dr. Edward M. Settel says when estrogen is applied externally, it reduces hair fallout in men and stimulates hair growth in bald areas.

Settel reported the results of his experimentation in a scientific exhibit at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Family Physicians this week. He said the treatment is still in the experimental stage and is not ready for commercial distribution.

Of the 748 men he has treated in 10 years, 90 per cent had "markedly less fallout" after using the estrogen lotion and 68 per cent showed improved hair growth, he said.

"I don't make the claim that you're going to grow back as much hair as you had when you were 15 years of age," Settel said in an interview. But he said some hair does grow back on the heads of men with a hereditary condition called pattern baldness.

He said 45 per cent of American males have pattern baldness, caused by an oversupply of the male hormone androgen. His treatment tries to balance the androgen excess with the female hormone.

Estrogen, which does not get into the bloodstream when applied in a topical cream, is related to growth of hair on the scalp, while androgen is responsible for facial and body hair, Settel said.

That's why balding men may have an ample crop of chest hair.

Settel's estrogen cream, which has a lanolin base, is massaged nightly into areas of the scalp where hair has disappeared but which still have living follicles. A shampoo designed to reduce hair breakage is used three times a week.

He said younger men in his study showed a greater increase in growth of hair, with 74 per cent in the 17-30 age group showing improvement and 47 per cent showing improvement in the 31-70 age group.

Ford Flying To Knoxville

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is flying to Knoxville, Tenn., today to meet with Appalachian governors and address a domestic policy conference.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nease said the President planned to hold discussions of regional problems with the governors of Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, West Virginia, Ohio and Mississippi.

Nease said the White House had no word on whether two others who were invited, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Marvin Mandel of Maryland, would be present.

Ullman Assails Ford Tax-Cut Proposals in the people programs" such as health and education.

In an interview on CBS, Simon called the President's proposal an effort to restore the confidence of the American people in their government's ability to run the economy. He denied that the proposal contained any political considerations.
"People have lost confidence in their government's ability to run the economy," Simon said. "This is an effort to restore that confidence." But, in reply to questions, Simon declared: "There were no political considerations in this decision whatsoever."

The developing debate between Congress and the President centers on whether to extend or expand the tax reductions now in effect but which expire at the end of this year.

The cuts approved earlier this year totaled $18.1 billion for individuals and $4.8 billion for businesses.
Responding to the President's proposal, some Democrats said it would be impossible to make the spending reductions that Ford prescribed without cutting into such outlays as those for Social Security benefits, veterans' payments and food stamps.
Ford, however, told the nation Monday. "I will not hesitate to veto any legislation passed by the Congress which violates the spirit" of his proposed dollar-for-dollar trade-off between tax relief and spending cuts.

He proposed increasing the personal deduction, now $750 a person, to $1,000. His plan also would increase the standard deduction, used by those who do not itemize on their tax return, to $1,800 for a single person, $2,500 for a married couple.

Under the 1974 law, the standard deduction for married couples or single persons was set at 15 per cent of the taxpayer's income. The law also imposed a ceiling on the deduction of $2,000 for both single persons and married couples. Treasury experts said the average deduction amounted to $1,625 for single persons and $1,400 for married couples.
Thus, Ford's proposed flat $1,800 and $2,500 deduction would amount to an increase for most taxpayers, Treasury spokesmen explained.
Ford also proposed reducing corporate income tax rate from 48 to 46 per cent and making permanent the 10 per cent investment credit in force for this year. This credit goes to businesses making investments in productive equipment.

School Officials Field Questions On Education

By LUANNA CROW
Midland public school officials fielded a variety of educational questions at Monday's forum at Midland College, but probably the most provocative query was directed not to the educators but to the audience.
Board of Trustees President James E. Winget Jr. asked the group why the board meetings will attract 50 or more parents to hear transfer requests and every one of the spectators will leave before the next agenda item: a school budget totaling more than $18 million.
Winget expressed surprise that no one in Monday's audience asked about the qualifications for membership on the school board, how many members there are or even the amount of the trustees' salaries (there are no salaries).
"These are some of the things I think you need to know," he said.
Monday's meeting was the first in a week-long series of discussions featuring special guest speakers and local governmental groups.
Most of the questions in Monday's first session centered around the role of the school.
Gary Askins, director of student activities at Midland College, queried school district representatives about "competency-based education"—a system whereby a student must meet certain standards before being passed on to the next grade or, ultimately, graduated.

Dr. James H. Malley, district superintendent, replied that the concept "has a long way to go in much of its development." He said problems arise in classrooms "if a youngster gets too far away from his peers" in growth and maturity.
Malley said also he is unsure whether teachers "are ready to go back" to teaching students with a wide age span.
James Ramsoure, secretary of the board of trustees, pointed out that a higher drop-out rate was evident when students were retained.
Askins, a former teacher in the Midland schools, recounted the frustration of being a sixth grade teacher who had only a handful of students who actually were performing at sixth grade level.
A student in the crowd, however, pointed out that youngsters in the lower socioeconomic brackets often will skip school if he becomes embarrassed about not attaining the same educational level as his fellow classmates.

Malley confirmed Askins' observation that educators often are able to predict a student's scholastic performance on the basis of his economic environment.
Joe Dominy, the board's vice president, added that within the middle and upper class brackets there is little distinction regarding educational achievement.
The educators noted, however, that a student starts school with a handicap any time the language used in school is different than the language used at home.

Night Meet Canceled

The Midland Human Relations Council meeting, originally scheduled Monday night as part of Midland College's National Issues Conference, was canceled "due to lack of citizen interest."
Dick Schmidt, executive director of the Council, noted, "Most people were probably watching the Dallas Cowboys on TV."
Staff members present at the session were Schmidt; Bob Carter, coordinator of social studies and languages for the Midland Independent School District; Rodrigo A. Lopez, field worker for the Council; Orelia Cortales, former Council staff member now secretary-social worker with Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church; and Mike Preda, professor at McMurry College in Abilene.
Four Midland College personnel and one citizen also were present for the session.

Regional Phase Due Wednesday

"Democracy in Action" phase of the National Issues Conference at Midland College goes into its third day Wednesday with a meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Board of Directors.
The regional government board will begin the Wednesday program with a noon luncheon in the Student Center, followed by a forum with students in room 217 of the Learning Resource Center.
At 1:30 p.m. the PRRPC board will convene at the resource center to take action on a seven-item agenda, scheduled for its regular October session.
Business action will include:
— Consideration of resolutions accepting review and comment of the Government Application Review Committee on grant applications from West Texas Opportunities, Inc. (Head Start) and West Texas Opportunities, Inc. (General Services).

— Consider a resolution to accept review and comment of the Manpower Advisory Committee on a grant application for the Three Tier Learning Center.
— Consideration of a resolution to authorize the PRRPC executive director to submit a grant application to the Criminal Justice Division for continuance of the Permian Basin Regional Crime Prevention Project.
— Consideration of a resolution to authorize the executive director to submit an application to the Criminal Justice Division for a supplement to the Permian Basin Police Radio Communication Project.
— Consider approving new appointments to the Alcoholism Advisory Committee.
— Consider approving the 1975 Drug Abuse Plan for Region 9.

Conference Told Commissioners Courts Greatest Bargains In Government Today

By ED TODD
And DEBBIE PIERCE
County commissioners court, government at the local level, has been called "the best bargain in government today" since commissioners are elected from the populace and remain among their constituents.
Each of Texas' 254 counties has a commissioners court designed, in part, to insure the workings of grassroots democracy.
Members of the Midland County Commissioners Court expressed these views Monday as part of the National Issues Conference sponsored by the Student Senate of Midland College. The forum, although attended by only 10 persons, provided citizens a first-hand look at the workings of a local governmental body.
County Judge Barbara Culver noted anyone may attend meetings of the county commissioners court. "You don't have to have an invitation or be part of our agenda," she said. "We convene at 1:30 p.m. every second and fourth Monday of the month for our regular sessions and meet in a work session prior to the meetings."
Judge Culver explained that each commissioner, including herself, has certain special assignments so the work load can be divided among the group. Commissioners, for example, serve on the Midland County Public Library Board, the Regional Committee on Aging, the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, the Museum of the Southwest and the Midland Industrial Foundation.
Commissioners had nothing but praise for the new county jail located on the top floor of the courthouse. Commissioner Durward Wright noted that federal officials gave the group only vague requirements for the facility, but apparently the standards had been met satisfactorily. The jail has space for about 150 prisoners and handles some 35 county prisoners on a day-to-day basis and another 44 federal prisoners serving 90-day sentences.

Judge Culver said there was a push nation-wide for speedier trials, but "when you're out on bond, the last thing you want is a speedy trial. I'm certainly not reluctant to place defendants on probation because a productive citizen on the outside is better for himself and society than that same person, law-abiding, would be in jail or in a penitentiary."
Commissioner Win Brown estimated that 50 to 60 per cent of his productive time is spent on county-related matters. He added, "I really don't feel like I'm overworked though. I enjoy this job or I wouldn't be here."

Commissioner John Thomas said commissioners sometimes get the idea their constituents felt they didn't want opposition at the polls. "But this isn't the case," he said. "I would certainly welcome the opportunity to run against someone. We've got to get the best people we can in public office and this is one of the best ways."
Commissioners Wright and Thomas are up for a possible reelection bid in 1976, while the terms of Judge Culver, Brown and Charlie Welch will not expire until 1978.
Judge Culver wrapped the discussion up by noting the court felt they have been doing what the people of Midland want.
"We post notices of our meetings prior to the sessions so everyone will have an idea of our agenda," she said. "Our minutes are kept in the county clerk's office as part of the public record for inspection or research by anyone interested. At the conclusion of our sessions, anyone who wasn't on the agenda but still has something to say may speak out."

"We're right here, not in Austin or Washington, and feel we understand and represent our district. I don't think any other county is as involved as we are in community affairs, and we're quite proud of our achievements," she said.
State Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland and Emil Rassman, former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, also of Midland, are serving on the board of directors for the two-day event.

Three Delegates From MC Attend Angelo Conference

SAN ANGELO — Three delegates from Midland College are participating today in the West Texas Conference on State Affairs at San Angelo.
Representing the college are Dr. Gerald Heckman, government instructor, and students Marti Garza and Julia Robinson. The purpose of the conference, which concludes Wednesday, is to provide West Texans with an opportunity to become better informed about crucial issues of the state.
State Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland and Emil Rassman, former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, also of Midland, are serving on the board of directors for the two-day event.

Another Midlander participating in the conference is County Judge Barbara Culver, who will appear as a panelist during a discussion on Equal Rights Amendment.
Participating in the event are outstanding students and faculty members from West Texas colleges and high schools, city and county officials, chamber of commerce residents and key state leaders who will focus their attention on significant topics of interest.

College Offers Parents' Course On Relationships

Methods of improving communications with teen-agers will be the thrust of a special course which begins Thursday at Midland College.
The six-week course will be conducted from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays and will be taught by Betty Gaines, a Midland College psychology instructor.
Entitled "Young Adult and Parental Relationships," it is designed to aid parents in surviving the "often painful series of ruptures and stresses which occur during the maturing processes of their children."
Mrs. Gaines points out, "A lack of communications has been shown to be a major cause of misunderstanding between young people and adults."
"Through this course, we hope to help parents become better listeners and encourage better communication between all members of the family," she said.
Interested persons may enroll by contacting the department of community services at Midland College at 684-7851, extensions 216 or 147. Fee for the course is $12, with registration scheduled Thursday evening in room 176 of the science-faculty building.

Kissinger Pleads For Sinai Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger urged "prompt and positive" action by Congress today to approve stationing of American monitors in the Sinai Desert.
Without congressional consent, he said, there will be no interim accord effective between Israel and Egypt.
Kissinger urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee not to link the Sinai accord to any other undertakings by the United States. He said that for the most part, the other undertakings are statements of intention and not all are legally binding.
Kissinger said the administration's particular concern is "that statements of intention

House Votes End To Educational Benefits For GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons entering the armed forces next year will not receive post-service educational benefits like those received by veterans of World War II and subsequent conflicts, if a House-passed bill becomes law.
The House voted 298 to 108 Monday to end GI educational benefits for persons entering service after Dec. 31, 1975. The measure now goes to the Senate.
The bill would not affect military and former military personnel now entitled to the benefits and contains a nine-month extension to help some of them complete graduate training.
Persons entering service next year would continue to acquire eligibility for Veterans Administration-guaranteed home loans.

Mashburn To Attend Meeting On Texas Parole Procedures

Proposals to correct supposed flaws in Texas' parole laws will be dealt with Friday in Austin by a committee headed by Midland County Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn.
He is chairman of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association's committee charged with studying parole practices and procedures in Texas.
The "main complaint" to be considered by the committee is "the early release of inmates" from the Texas Department of Corrections, which runs the state's penitentiary system, Mashburn said.
He said the committee will be meeting with the three-member State Board of Pardons and Paroles, which follows state law in its release of prisoners.
And it's some provisions in Texas law governing paroles and pardons that the association point to change through the Texas Legislature.

The committee, Mashburn said, will study proposals for "meaningful and effective laws in the release of prisoners" from the state penitentiary.
"And our laws specifically say any individual shall be released in one-third of the time (of the sentence) or in 20 years," which ever comes first, Mashburn said.
For instance, he said, a felon meted a life sentence may be out in 9 1/2 years. And, he pointed out, a defendant sentenced to three years may, because of the penitentiary's credit system, get out in six months' time.
Critics of the present parole system cite the relatively high incidence of ex-convicts who are crime repeaters; the lack of effective parole supervision, and point to inmates deliberately "acting in the worst possible manner" and then radically changing their behavior to "show they have been rehabilitated."

That tactic speeds their release from prison, he said.
"We badly need more parole officers so that we can have more meaningful supervision," Mashburn said.

bank about 3 p.m. by a silent alarm or by a woman's report to a delicatessen employee next door. Their arrival cut off Olsen's avenue of escape.
He led police to believe that he had an armed companion, and in telephone conversations with reporters he reportedly said, "This is the SLA, and we've got a bank under seizure. All the hostages are in the line of fire.... We're heavily armed, I may die but so will they."
Three hostages who were released about 5 p.m. told police that Olsen was alone.
Although more than 100 policemen in uniform and plainclothes stood by at the scene, the elite police hostage unit was at the center of the highly charged drama.
And as the minutes and hours dragged on, Lt. Frank Boltz, head of the negotiating team, coaxed and wore down Olsen, who had kept his guns trained on the doorway of the bank.
After Boltz gave Olsen some food and beer, some of the hos-

College Schedules Hodge Carillon Tower Programs

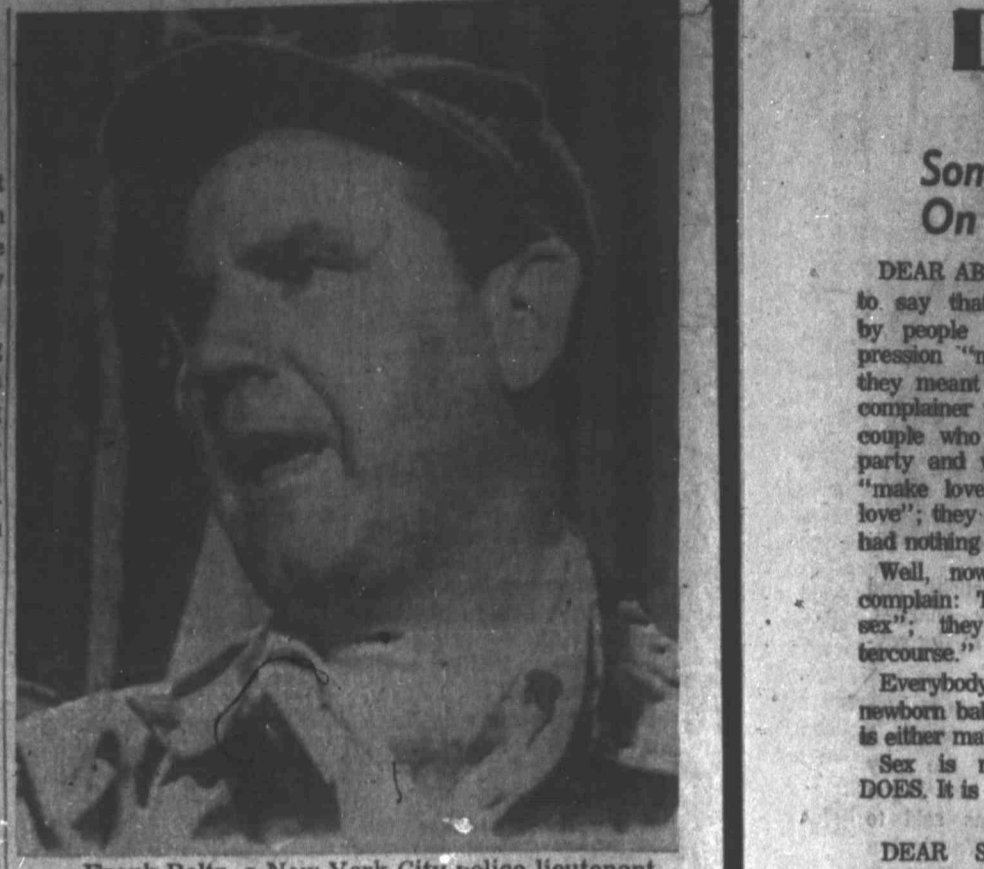

Chimes on the hour, popular selections and sacred music have been programmed for Midland College's Hodge Carillon Tower which last week gave its first concert in dedication ceremonies.
The traditional Westminster chimes are played hourly from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. Three popular music programs lasting an estimated six to 10 minutes will be played daily at noon and 4 p.m.
On weekends, the chimes will ring each hour from 8 a.m. through 8 p.m. The Saturday and Sunday concerts at noon and 4 p.m. will consist of eight sacred selections lasting approximately 25 minutes.
Dr. David Norton, assistant to the president at Midland College, said, "We hope the public will enjoy the carillon presentations and will feel free to come onto the campus during weekends at at other times to listen."
The 40-foot tower at the center of the campus supports eight large speakers. Actual controls for the carillon are located in the administration building, where the chimes and music programs are controlled through a calendar-clock.
This apparatus activates punched plastic rolls, in a manner similar to that used for a player piano. The carillon also may be played manually by means of a three-keyboard console.

Kidnap Victim's Family Waiting For Phone Call

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The family of kidnaped Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema was reported waiting today for a telephone call from his captors seeking to make a new deal for his release.
Dutch Embassy sources said a member of the gang that kidnaped Herrema Friday telephoned his son, Jelle, at the Embassy Monday and quoted a "pet family nickname" that could only have been known to the abducted businessman.
The kidnapers had demanded the release of three Irish Republican Army prisoners — Rose Dugdale, Kevin Mallon and Jim Hyland — by Sunday or Herrema would be executed. The Irish government refused and the deadline passed without word on Herrema's fate.

Networks Deny Ford Coverage

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS and NBC cited fears of "equal time" demands in denying a White House request for live coverage of President Ford's speech on his 1976 tax cut proposals, but CBS interrupted regular programming for a special news report on it.
Of the three major networks, only ABC aired live radio-TV coverage of Ford's speech at 7 p.m. CDT Monday from the White House.

Some People 'Hung Up' On Graphic Terminology

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote to say that he was irritated by people who used the expression "making love" when they meant "having sex." The complainant pointed out that the couple who met at a cocktail party and went to a motel to "make love" did NOT "make love"; they had sex, and "love" had nothing to do with it.

Well, now it's my turn to complain: They did not "have sex"; they had "sexual intercourse."

Everybody has sex. A newborn baby has sex. The sex is either male or female.

Sex is not something one DOES. It is something one IS!

DEAR STICKLER: You're right, of course. But some people are hung up by the graphic (though correct) terminology, "sexual intercourse." "Had sex" is easier to say and communicate, so let's live and let people have sex or make love—and who cares?

DEAR ABBY: Herewith a suggestion that "dirty old man" be retired from further use and "dirty young woman" be substituted.

I walked into the local supermarket yesterday and found myself surrounded by a forest of bare legs, bare backs, bare bellies and halter tops. They were all women and girls who seemed to be very proud of every square inch of exposed flesh.

The men in the store were reasonably well covered. If a man were to expose that much of himself in public, he would be quickly placed in confinement and labeled a "dirty old man."

Why not women?

YOURS FOR EQUALITY

DEAR YOURS: Your letter was marked Iowa City, Iowa, where it's hot enough in summer to fry an egg on the sidewalk, so I can't fault the women for their bare backs, legs and bellies. If a man chose to expose that much (and some men do), I'd call him sensible, not "dirty."

DEAR ABBY: It was a help to me to read your recent letter from the lady who was disillusioned by the delay in repayment of a small debt.

I recently had a somewhat similar experience. My solution was to reinstate a policy I formulated years ago and had partially forgotten.

To wit: Grant a loan only when you are secretly able to consider it a gift. Then, when the borrower pays it back, you will be pleasantly surprised. And if it's not repaid, you will be less hurt.

NOVATO, CALIF.

DEAR NOVATO: Sorry, but a loan is a loan and a gift is a gift, and very few people can afford the luxury of making a gift of a loan. Also, consider the recipient's pride. The burden of gratitude can be too heavy for some. Not everyone will accept a handout.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Snip, Snip, Snip For The Baby Scissors!

Dear Heloise: I use to teach kindergarten and am familiar with the problems children have learning to use scissors.

With our first little girl, I offered her the baby manicure scissors I'd used to cut her fingernails. They were a perfect size. Sharp enough to cut easily and they have a rounded tip.

She developed the skill of scissor-cutting with lots of fun and no frustrations.

I was dubious that even manicure scissors would help our more bulldozer-like boy, who is 2 1/2 years old, but to my surprise he began cutting on the first try with the same manicure scissors.

I really wish these scissors could be used in every kindergarten to let each child enjoy the fun of cutting up!

Dear Heloise: I took a double bed, turned it sideways and attached a twin bed, which would be the foot of the bed.

Then I made a headboard and called it my "Quing" bed (Not queen, not king, but "Quing"!).

Sheets were on problem. I just sewed a twin sheet to the side of my double sheet.

My husband, who is 6 feet, can now have a good night's rest without being cramped...me too!

AAUW Gourmets Meet For Dinner

The Bon Appetit Gourmet Group of the American Association of University Women, Midland Branch, met Saturday for a candlelight dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Largent, 2513 Terrace St. The theme was Bicentennial.

Co-host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Schatz, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald L. Lyle and Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Woods.

The Presidential menu featured broccolini and clam dips, White House chicken breasts in Hollandaise Sauce on noodles, whole baby carrots, and President Monroe's Tomato Aspic served with Johnny Cake previously called "journey cakes" in Revolutionary days.

The dessert was former President Nixon's Key Lime Pie.

Members attending were Dr. and Mrs. George Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Bob L. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Bill W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Vinson, Mr. and Mrs. Barton Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Jeri Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Parsley and Maj. and Mrs. E. K. Browning Jr. David Sparkman was a guest.

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column when ever possible.

Wise Buys Purchase Nutrition

By MARION WELLS
Copley News Service

As any frustrated shopper knows, the high cost of food today has not made us lose our appetites. At current prices, however, poor nutritional value for our money is something we just can't afford. If you're wondering how to make your food bill fit your pocketbook, a few of these simple tips can save you money without skimping on nutrition and make your shopping dollar go a longer way toward health.

First, are convenience foods costing you more than the same dish prepared at home? It depends on the item, but it has been noted, "As a rule the more ingredients or advance preparation provided by the processor... the slimmer the chance that it will be cheaper."

Highly sugared, refined cereals, also containing artificial coloring and/or flavoring, may be priced above various commercial whole grain, hot and ready-to-eat cereals and cost you up to double or more what you'd pay for unprocessed whole grains. Depending on where you live and shop, certain fresh fruits and vegetables may be cheaper in season than canned or frozen produce.

How else can you keep nutrition up and costs down? Buying in quantity may often save money, but wasting food is no way to cut costs. Take stock of present supplies, meal requirements and storage facilities before you shop. To compare prices between brands or between larger and smaller containers of the same item, look for a unit price (price per pound, per ounce, etc.) on the label or figure it out yourself.

When purchasing meat, the U.S. Department of Agriculture

The Midland Reporter-Telegram

Women

3A—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1975

advises you to consider cost per serving rather than simply price per pound. How high is the proportion of fat, gristle and bone? Can less-expensive cuts be prepared in an appetizing manner?

Poultry may prove to be a more economical source of protein than some types of meat. Do you have space to freeze part for future use? The USDA says, "Larger well-fleshed birds are often better buys than smaller ones."

Eggs, milk and cottage cheese are less-expensive sources of high-quality protein, and as dietary and caloric requirements allow, nuts (preferably raw), soy flour and grits, dry beans and peas may be used to supplement animal protein at lower cost. Brewers yeast, wheat germ, nonfat dry milk or soy flour or grits can make a variety of recipes more nutritious.

To maximize nutritional savings, prepare vegetables for cooking as close to mealtime as you can, use the minimum amount of water needed, shorten cooking time by covering saucepans so steam stays in, and slightly undercook rather than overcook. Save the water and the nutrients it contains for use in soups, gravies and sauces.

Keep your freezer temperature at zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower to minimize nutrient losses from foods you freeze, and package them properly.

Finally, consider that food prices are not the only thing that's high. Medical care costs plenty, too. A government report noted that the cost, incidence, severity or deaths from a long list of this country's leading health problems might be reduced if we just improved our diet. At that rate, good nutrition is certainly a bargain!

'Tyrannical' Agency

The demands of some federal government agencies are nothing short of unreasonable and ridiculous.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and its impossible demands of the City of Farmington, N.M., is an excellent example of the case in point.

The New Mexico city has been asked by EEOC to respond to 37 voluminous questions and furnish a myriad of documents as a result of charges alleging that the city discriminates against American Indians in employment practices. The EEOC commissioner, in making the charge, gave no specifics, such as names, dates or incidents.

The city was given 15 days to reply.

The questions requested of Farmington dealt with employment recruitment, hiring, promotion, training and terminations.

Read a few of the demands printed below and then draw your own conclusions:

"State the name, position, title, race, or national origin of each individual who does the hiring for each department (assuming that hiring and placement are accomplished by the department heads rather than the personnel department).

"List the names, addresses and telephone numbers of all colleges, universities, organizations and groups used by the city to recruit applicants. Submit the name(s) of the contact person(s) for each listed.

"Submit copies of all newspaper advertisements used by the City to advertise vacancies since March 24, 1972.

"Explain in detail the other recruitment methods used by the city.

"Submit copies of all letters and any other correspondence sent by the city to its recruiting sources requesting them to send applicants for employment.

"Explain in detail the extent of the city's recruitment on the reservation.

"Submit copies of all job vacancy announcements for each position in each department since March 24, 1972.

"Submit copies of all applications-resumes received by the city since March 24, 1972. Identify each applicant's race or national origin. Indicate the reason for rejection for each applicant not hired.

"For each department, submit a list by name of all persons hired since March 24, 1972. Identify each by race or national origin . . .

"Submit a detailed list of questions asked of applicants during interviews.

"For each department, submit a list by name of all persons promoted since March 27, 1972. Identify each by race or national origin . . .

"Explain in detail the criteria considered by each department head in promoting an employee.

"Submit a list by name of all persons terminated since March 24, 1972 . . ."

This should be enough to convince most anyone who had any doubts in the first place.

And remember, please, that no specific charges were made!

As a result of the allegation, it is reported that Farmington's Mayor Marlo Webb has addressed the New Mexico congressional delegation recommending an investigation into the "tyrannical" EEOC.

It would appear that his recommendation is in order and it is hoped that it produces favorable results.

In the first place, it is reported in a Farmington newspaper that the EEOC has established rules and regulations which are in direct conflict with the law.

The City of Farmington may have to take its case to the court-house.

'Symptomatic Of Where Our Values Lie'

WASHINGTON — There was a momentous announcement from academia recently which unfortunately was overlooked in the public prints (with one notable exception) and elsewhere. We had to read a current publication of Boston University to learn that the Mugar Library Special Collections unit had announced with pride (and noted the significance) that it had acquired the Dan Rather Papers.

That's right, the Dan Rather Papers, being the memoranda, news reports, commentaries and papers of the youngest Mr. Rather, the competent newscaster, performer and employee of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Thus, the Dan Rather Papers fall into the same genre of other valuable documents universities, colleges and libraries have collected for generations. One thinks of presidential papers, congressional memorabilia, the private papers of Cabinet members, authors, poets, great jurists like Felix Frankfurter, even the prodigious output of the Baltimore wit, H. L. Mencken (his best stuff is interred until 1981).

Now that academia, with a straight face, is collecting the gatherings of the bright lights of television, I see no reason why some enterprising university shouldn't pursue, say, The Complete Monologues of Johnny Carson; Selected

Nick Thimmesch

World War II Post Cards Mailed by Archie Bunker; The Best of Cher's Rhinestone Navel Jewelry, and, perhaps, a scattering of peanut shells and bottle caps from representative stadium broadcasting booths frequented by Howard Cosell but only on significant Monday nights.

In the meantime, though, Boston University's Mugar Library Special Collections director, Dr. Howard Gottlieb, is grateful for the Rather collection and observed: "Rather goes beyond reportage into journalistic literature."

Included in this literature, presumably, is the nationally televised exchange between former President Nixon and Rather which Spectrum, BU's publication announcing the acquisition, reported this way:

"The presidential press conference was in full swing when the intense young

Complete Breakdown

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—Former Beatle John Lennon's wife, Yoko Ono, has had not only her baby's life but her own put in possible jeopardy by harassment from immigration agents, secret affidavits attest.

The Immigration Service has suspended its efforts to deport her husband before the baby is born in November. This decision was taken with great fanfare "on humanitarian grounds." But immigration officials quietly reserved the right to oust Lennon after the medical crisis is over.

The 42-year-old Yoko has had several miscarriages and has undergone a major operation so she could have a child. A statement from her doctor says the child she now is carrying "in all probability" will be her last chance to give birth.

Her rare medical situation and the anxiety of not knowing whether she would be separated from her singer-husband has led to medical complications. Her condition still is in delicate balance.

Citing a minor marijuana conviction in England seven years ago, Immigration pressed deportation proceedings against Lennon but granted his wife residence rights.

The singing star explained in a secret affidavit that the marijuana had been "planted in my apartment by a police officer who sought to arrest popular rock musicians. Yoko was the only other person with me when our apartment was raided.

"The fact that I knew that her appearance as a witness at a trial would endanger her pregnancy was one of the reasons I chose to plead guilty, so as to avoid a trial.

"She subsequently miscarried anyway, and my insistence on being with her in the hospital at that time, despite the unavailability of a bed, created active press comment in England."

man from CBS was recognized. The television cameras moved in as his colleagues saluted him with a round of applause.
"The President was annoyed. Before the newsmen could proffer his carefully phrased question, the President attacked. 'Are you running for something, Mr. Rather?' he asked.
"The reporter turned beet red. 'No, Mr. President,' he responded, 'are you?'"

This historic moment will be tucked away with the written notes of Rather's seven years of Washington reporting for posterity to study and reflect on. The visitor to the Mugar Special Collections can also avail himself of the output of many celebrated journalists, working and deceased. But as Dr. Gottlieb says, in all wisdom, realizing there are thousands and thousands of gents and ladies in the news business, "We can't collect everyone."

Now Dan Rather is a good fellow, well liked by his colleagues, and should not be embarrassed that Dr. Gottlieb solicited him on behalf of good old BU. After all, Walker Cronkite, who has gray hair that Dan hasn't come into yet, already has donated his papers to The University of Texas.

What is there to say about all this?

BROADSIDES

"The Dan Rather Papers. Long may they live.

He added, under cross-examination, that his boss, former Immigration Commissioner Ray Farrell, "was very political-minded. He owed his job to political appointment."

Meanwhile, Yoko anxiously is awaiting her long-wanted baby, with her husband constantly at her side. The Immigration Service won't say whether it will compel John Lennon to leave the country thereafter. Their attorney, able Leon Wildes, has sworn he will fight the deportation with every legal weapon available to him.

Washington Paper Strike: 'Disruptive'

WASHINGTON — A strike of The Washington Post does not only affect a newspaper or a city. It affects the entire country. Very few people realize how this town works. Because of its size the only way the government can communicate with itself is through Washington's sole morning newspaper.

For example, when Secretary of the Treasury William Simon gets up in the morning he reads The Washington Post to find out what President Ford's latest economic policy is. The other day President Ford said he was maintaining the personal income tax cut. This was different from what Simon believed President Ford had on his mind. It was also different from what Simon said our tax policy should be. If the secretary of the treasury hadn't read President Ford's latest switch on taxes, he would have gone to his office that morning and ordered his staff to work on a program diametrically opposed to that of the President.

Take the CIA hearings as another example. Every day the CIA tells a different story to the Senate and House committees investigating the organization. It's impossible for the CIA to get the new story out to all its employees on such short notice. So the CIA leaks its new version to The Washington Post the night before, and everyone in the CIA is chuffed in the following morning. Without a Washington Post to give the CIA's party line, one CIA executive would be telling one story to the Senate and another executive an entirely different story to the House. This would cause chaos with our national security and could even lead to perjury charges, which is something everyone in the government is trying to avoid.

The Department of Agriculture also can have major problems without a morning newspaper. Usually the only way the President finds out how much wheat the United States has sold to the Soviets is through The Washington Post. It isn't that the department doesn't report directly to the White House; it's just that no one in the White House ever bothers to read a Department of Agriculture report until it's too late, and the deal has been made.

The same is true of HEW. The President has strong feelings about spending large sums of money for Health, Education and Welfare since it only contributes to the deficit. But without The Washington Post Ford has no idea what bills have been passed that he should veto. In fact the fear in the White House is that if the strike continues for any length of time the President might wind up signing a bill passed by Congress, and then the country would be in a whale of a mess.

It isn't only the administration that is dependent on a newspaper in Washington. Every representative and senator must read it to find out where he stands that day on a particular issue.

Congress has a different energy policy every day. No one knows what it is until he or she reads The Post.

The only way the legislative branch can keep up on foreign affairs is through the columns of The Post. No one knows what mischief Henry Kissinger has done the day before until he reads it in the newspaper.

The Pentagon is utterly dependent on the newspaper. There is no way the military can plan for war unless they find out from The Post who our enemies are. One day it could be Cuba, the next day Panama, the next day Portugal. The Post is also the only source of information for the U.S. Air Force to know what the U.S. Navy is up to, and it's the only way the U.S. Navy can find out what the U.S. Army is planning.

Even foreign governments depend on their Washington papers. There isn't an ambassador in town who can provide accurate information to his home government before he reads the society pages of The Washington Post.

The worst fear in this nervous city is that Cambodia could steal another ship like the Mayaguez, and nobody in Washington would know about it.

Mark's was asked whether he knew that Senator Thurmond had written a letter bringing pressure on the Justice Department.

"No," replied Marks. "I first learned about it when a fellow on Jack Anderson's staff called me about it and published something about it."

He admitted that he not only had received pressure from Washington to deport Lennon but had lied about it to the press. The decision to move against Lennon, Marks had told the press, was his own. But under oath, he acknowledged that he had not told the truth.

He had misled the press, he said, "not because I had been instructed to do it but because I had the feeling that ... they would have been unhappy if I had attributed it to them"

"Because it was irregular?" he was asked.
"They would have preferred me to take the flack than them, putting it bluntly," replied Marks.

He added, under cross-examination, that his boss, former Immigration Commissioner Ray Farrell, "was very political-minded. He owed his job to political appointment."

Meanwhile, Yoko anxiously is awaiting her long-wanted baby, with her husband constantly at her side. The Immigration Service won't say whether it will compel John Lennon to leave the country thereafter. Their attorney, able Leon Wildes, has sworn he will fight the deportation with every legal weapon available to him.

China now is getting technical assistance from Japan in its primarily land-based oil production.

But the big source may lay offshore and, so far, Peking has only dabbled in this area with an offshore oil drilling rig in operation on the Gulf of Pohai.

Western oil companies are hungrily eyeing the continental shelf that stretches between China and South Korea in the Yellow Sea, and, further south, that area which lies between Japan-controlled Okinawa and Taiwan (Nationalist Chinese) in the southernmost part of the Japan Sea.

Control of those areas is very much in dispute between China, Taiwan, South Korea and Japan.

That point was emphasized recently when the U.S. government, fearful of arousing Peking's wrath, had to step in and prevent two U.S. oil companies, Gulf and Superior, from drilling in the disputed areas.

There are international agreements for control of a continental shelf but none of the disputants are party to them. In any event, the potential oil area lies in such areas that extend, in the Yellow Sea case, clear across from the China side to the Korean side.

This leaves only bilateral negotiations. Japan has just successfully concluded a pact with South Korea which establishes a median line through the Korean Strait between the two countries.

Japan and South Korea will conduct joint oil explorations on the Japanese side of that line, while Seoul will be left to its own devices on its side of the line.

"There is a very good prospect for oil in this area although the quantity may not be too large," said Yoshio Karita, a resources expert in Japan's Foreign Ministry, in an interview.

No other talks are under way, however, and there is nothing but silence from mainland China which, at least at this point, appears content to concentrate on domestic production.

How long China will continue oil exports is debatable. Hurt by a worldwide recession in textiles, China turned to oil exports last year to help pay off a $1.1 billion trade deficit.

China has ambitious plans which could soak up most of its oil given a favorable trade balance. Japan, still hurting from the Arab oil embargo and a resulting inflation-recession economy, obviously hopes that China will expand oil production and export to Japan in return for Japanese goods and technology.

At the moment, China, like it is in many other areas, is resting on its potentials—with the big oil combines hovering outside waiting for the nod from Peking.

Nation's Energy Problems Bring Regionalism Into Sharp Focus

By CLYDE LA MOTTE
Reporter-Telegram
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — One of the difficulties the nation is having in arriving at an over-all U.S. energy policy and program is the increase in regional interests.

For example, New England is far from any major petroleum producing area and therefore is interested primarily in obtaining its energy fuels at the lowest possible price.

The Southwest, by contrast, has an economy that has been built largely around the oil and gas it produces.

Regionalism is nothing new, but the energy problem has brought it into sharp focus.

This was evident at a meeting in Washington, D.C., last week. A conference sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute had as its theme the regional versus the national interest in energy.

Charles H. Murphy, chairman of Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., a panel member at one of the sessions, discussed regionalism — he called it sectionalism — and the problems it poses to a nation seeking to find the road to energy security.

"The railroads want to deny the right of eminent domain to coal slurry pipelines so they can head them off at the rail right-of-way," he said.

"Western interests, in the guise of protecting the environment, would deny to the Midwest and to New England coal and shale oil, when on suspects the real motive is to hoard water for some real or imaginary need in the 21st century."

New England seems to be searching for some way to become the Ontario of the U.S. (This was a reference to the fact that Ontario, a large consuming area, wants to hold down the price of oil and natural gas produced in the western Canadian provinces.)

But Murphy didn't spare his own region — the Southwest — either. He recalled that once during a coal strike the Louisiana legislature solemnly enacted an embargo on gas shipments and that another time Texas producers were talking about the unfairness of Louisiana crude oil "imports" into a Beaumont, Tex., refining complex.

Murphy said the U.S. Constitution has prevented regionalism in sectionalism because it does not permit an individual state, such as Texas, to restrict "imports" from another state any more than it would let Louisiana get away with banning shipments of gas to other parts of the country.

However, he said, it seems now that the "locals" are going to have another try at shaping national energy policies to meet their own needs.

Murphy concluded that if it were attainable, global rationalization would be the best approach because it would mean that world energy supplies were being utilized to the best interest of all.

Termining that an "impossible dream," Murphy said that enlightened nationalism is the next best thing.

Regarding sectionalism, he said there is no place for this in the United States and that efforts to dictate energy policy for sectional interests should be shouted down.

Jill Schuker, executive director of the New England congressional caucus, spoke in behalf of the 25 members of the House who are a part of the caucus. Her pitch was not that New England should get special energy treatment but that neither should it have to pay more than other regions for its energy requirements.

What she was talking about was an "equalization" of energy costs so that New England could be competitive with other areas.

She claimed that New England has sought to adjust to higher energy prices by reducing its consumption where possible but that in spite of this the cost of energy in New England as a percentage of value of manufacturing shipments has jumped 30 per cent above the national average.

One result: Rising unemployment in New England.

She said New England favors rebuilding of railroads because that would help solve the problem of transportation of coal to that region.

And it is hopeful that nuclear energy can meet the region's needs.

Offshore development is also important to New England, she conceded. She noted that because of the region's emphasis on fishing and tourism, New Englanders are naturally concerned about the onshore and offshore environmental impact of OCS development.

But she said basic agreement in New England about moving ahead on OCS exploration on Georges Bank.

Obviously, there will continue to be different regional views on the energy problem and what should be done about it.

But the purpose of the dialogue in Washington at last week's conference was to explore the possibility there could be some meeting ground regarding a truly national policy in which sectionalism would play second fiddle to what Murphy termed enlightened nationalism.

There is some reason to believe more awareness is developing that if this nation runs short of essential energy requirements, the entire nation will suffer.

In that respect, then, energy becomes a national issue begging for a national solution. It simply cannot be solved by a sectional approach.

Halbouty Says Days Of Cheap Energy Gone

HOUSTON (AP) — A prominent geologist and petroleum engineer said today Congress has done nothing to increase the domestic supply of energy by even one barrel of oil or one cubic foot of gas.

"The plain fact is the Congress has done nothing about the nation's energy supply problems and is afraid to tell the public the days of cheap energy for any and all applications are over," said Michel T. Halbouty.

"Those days are gone, they are finished and will never return."

The former president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists spoke at the annual meeting of the American Gas Association, a trade group that represents more than 300 natural gas transmission and distribution firms.

Halbouty said that over the long term it will probably take a mixture of the conventional and supplemental gas sources to keep gas systems and the nation's economy strong and productive.

"But the Wee-Willie-Wet-Legs we have in Congress have stymied every effort to produce those sources and by doing so put their personal political expediency ahead of the public welfare," he said.

"It is time for the voters to arise and rid this country of these irrational politicians who seemingly are dedicated to the downfall of this nation."

Halbouty said coal, nuclear, and shale oil should have had the proper incentives to research, develop and produce energy to supplement gradual shortages of petroleum supplies over the years.

"Then there would be no shortages of energy today and it would be far less expensive than what we are now experiencing," he said.

"Consequently, there would be no unreasonable and unmanageable economic inflation in this country. Also, disastrous recessions with high unemployment would have been avoided."

Halbouty said there would be ample supplies of natural gas today if it were not for 20 years of federal control of prices on interstate sales.

He said he doubts that prices on the intrastate market would have climbed to $3 per thousand feet had Congress deregulated interstate sales.

"I think gas would have sought its own level through the free market and that a reasonable wellhead price would have provided 20 years of full scale exploration and development instead of limited exploration," he said.

"It is because of this curtailed exploration, of course, that we are now in a natural gas crisis."

Halbouty said that over the long term it will probably take a mixture of the conventional and supplemental gas sources to keep gas systems and the nation's economy strong and productive.

Halbouty said coal, nuclear, and shale oil should have had the proper incentives to research, develop and produce energy to supplement gradual

Fort Worth Museum To Feature Cartoon Special

FORT WORTH — "The Image of America in Caricature and Cartoon," a special Bicentennial exhibition reflecting two centuries of American experience as viewed by satire-minded artists, will go on public display Friday at the Amon Carter Museum of Fort Worth.

The show of 263 caricatures and cartoons was assembled by the Carter Museum in cooperation with the Swain Foundation of New York City and the Lincoln National Corp., Fort Wayne, Ind., with assistance by the National Endowment for the Arts and by Mildred Constantine, formerly associated with the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and the Hispanic Foundation of the Library of Congress.

This new exhibition is the product of three years' research, one of the most thorough efforts ever conducted on the subject of cartoon satire. More than 2,000 detailed questionnaires were sent to institutions and individuals throughout the U.S. and in foreign countries. Many of the replies resulted in further correspondence as well as in personal visits by Carter Museum representatives to view collections, including a number in Europe. The selections for the new exhibition were distilled from thousands of representative drawings.

"The exhibition shows that throughout its history, the United States has been very quick with self-criticism," points out Dr. Ron Tyler, the Carter Museum's curator of history. "Political cartooning and satire have remained a strong part of American life through two centuries. America has never feared, and has always been responsive to, self-criticism."

Beginning with Benjamin Franklin's 1754 political cartoon toward the emerging United States, the exhibition reflects the views of both the Revolutionaries and the Loyalists through the American Revolution.

Included in the display are cartoons copied or adapted from British prints by such early American engravers as Paul Revere. Other cartoons reveal the attitudes of foreign nations toward the emerging United States.

Such political issues as freedom of the seas, domestic slavery and the "Texas Question" are mirrored in post-independence cartoons. The Mexican War and the complex emotional involvements of the Civil War are treated at length. A French cartoon depicts the puzzlement of foreign nations over the War Between the States. A middle class Frenchman is shown viewing a melee of battling contestants "en Amerique!" and lamenting that "I am starting to get mixed up in all this. Which one is North? Where is the South? I don't understand anything anymore!"

The post-bellum issues of political chicanery, economy, industry and labor, women's rights and the fears of inundation by the immigration of "foreign hordes" are revealed in cartoons dating from the last quarter of the 19th Century. President Woodrow Wilson's proclamation that "The world must be made safe for democracy" is reflected in cartoon comments through four wars, World Wars I and II, the Korean conflict and the Vietnam struggle. The great depression, Prohibition, baseball and military life also are treated at length.

Such famous Presidential figures as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson served as inspiration for many cartoonists. The exhibition demonstrates. Pollution, crime in the streets, the energy crisis, Vietnam and Watergate are among the subjects dominating the newest and final section of the display.

The show contains outstanding works by leading American political cartoonists from Franklin and Paul Revere through Thomas Nast and James Thurber, to Bill Mauldin, Pat Oliphant and David Levine. Drawings from well-known artists in numerous foreign countries also are shown, including those from Britain, Argentina, Mexico, Japan, Switzerland, Canada and the Philippines.

The exhibition will continue at the Carter through Dec. 14, after which it will have an extended showing at the public library of Fort Wayne, Ind., beginning next February.

Carter Museum hours during the run of the exhibition will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday each week, as well as 1 to 5:30 p.m. on Sunday. Guided tours of the show will be offered at 2 p.m. each weekday, at 2 and 3:30 p.m. on Saturdays, and at 2 and 4 p.m. on Sundays.

The true story that has captivated over 6,000,000 readers.

Networks Need Live Audiences

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to be on the laugh track in "Barnaby Riddle" or tell the neighbors it's your "ooh" they heard on "Gambit"? No problem. Networks need and welcome live audiences for 39 shows now on the air.

And they say you'll find it easy in most cases to get free tickets for the 17 daytime game shows and 22 nighttime situation comedies or variety shows currently appearing on CBS, NBC and ABC.

But you'll have to visit Los Angeles to see most of them personally.

Only two now come from New York, both on ABC. They're the "$10,000 Pyramid," an easy ticket, and Howard Cosell's live variety show, which ABC calls a "hot-ticket" program, meaning duets are scarce.

In Los Angeles, CBS has 12 nighttime programs and five daytime game shows taped before live audiences. In those respective categories, the count at NBC is five and six, while at ABC it's four and five at ABC.

Aside from the fans who write in for tickets to their favorite shows, is it getting tougher for networks to find audiences for the programs from among residents of Los Angeles and tourists visiting there?

Network officials say it's no harder than in past years. The degree of difficulty still varies according to the time of year, the hour a show is taped and whether the program is well-known to viewers.

As a general rule, network ticket-dispensers say the more popular the nighttime show, the greater the over-the-counter ticket demand.

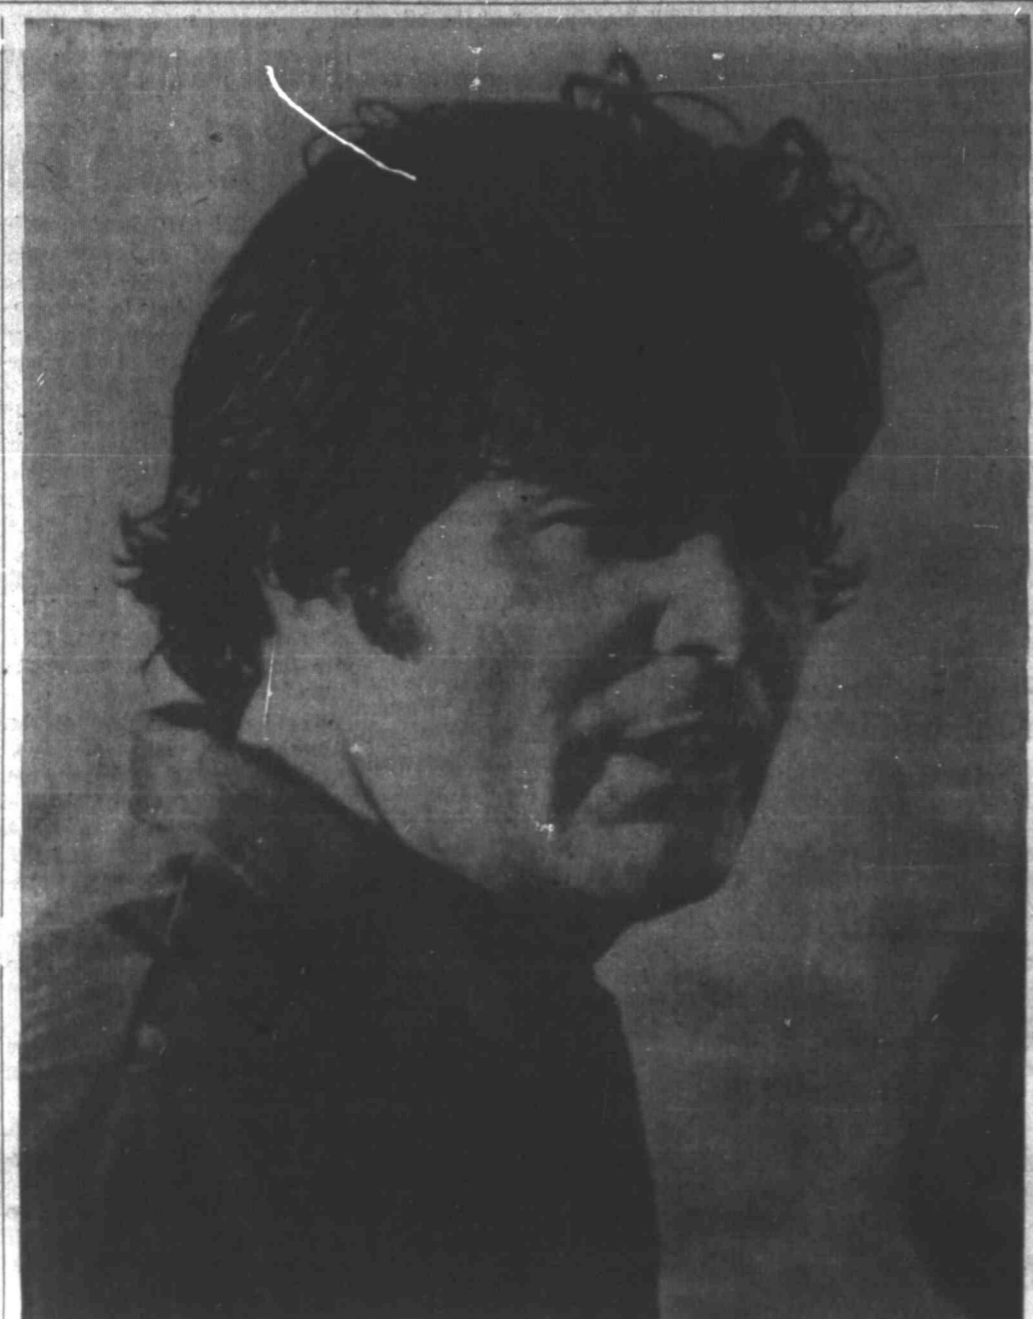

As might be expected, there's little difficulty getting tickets for new nighttime programs which haven't hit the air yet or only have been on TV for a week or two.

Network officials say that these usually are the hardest shows for which to drum up an audience. The drumming is done in a variety of ways — at the networks' ticket offices, through tickets supplied to hotels and by inviting area civic groups to the shows.

CBS and ABC each say that in a pinch they also send ushers bearing tickets to places like the Farmer's Market or the Hollywood Bowl in hope of finding folks interested in joining the studio audience.

NBC says its pages aren't dispatched on such chores, but when there's a possible audience shortage it hires independent ticket-dispensers to go forth and pull in a crowd or two.

Joe DiSanto, ABC's guest relations manager in Los Angeles, says "Let's Make a Deal" is so popular no over-the-counter tickets can be had for it. You have to write for them weeks in advance.

SUCCESSFUL PRODUCER — Max Baer, who for nine years was the feather-witted Jethro on a TV series, today is an actor-director-producer-writer. His first production, "Macon County Line," cost $300,000 and has grossed $40 million. (AP Wirephoto.)

Magic, Animals Combined In Act

By MICHAEL MITCHELL, Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Leo and Sarah don't always play nicely together. Sabu refuses to eat when Roy goes away on vacation.

But that's just normal home life for Siegfried Fischbacher and Roy Horn, a pair of German magicians who really take their work home with them.

Leo is a 650-pound lion. Sarah is a Siberian tiger. Then there's Sabu, the black panther; Sasha, the African leopard; and Rad-scha, a Bengal tiger.

After a long night's work, during which the magicians might make Leo disappear and Sasha reappear from inside a small box, Fischbacher and Horn and their five charges like to lounge around the pool, sip sodas in the garden or just about anything else any normal family would do.

There's not a whip or stick or harsh word in the house. "Affection training" is what Fischbacher and Horn say has allowed them to live and play with the five large animals.

Skill it's not all fun and games and Fischbacher and Horn definitely do not recommend a tiger for a house pet.

"We are against people having large animals as pets," Fischbacher said, "because when they're young they're cute, but when they get older, people pull out their teeth and claws and the animals die from shock."

"The animals are a 24-hour job having them in the house," said Horn. "They must be cared for constantly. One of us has to be with them at all times."

When Roy took a week's vacation recently, he said Sabu refused to eat.

On stage at a local resort hotel, the magicians say they are always on guard against a sudden unexpected move by the cats.

"You have to let them know just how far they can go," said Siegfried, 35. "If I go too far, then they do, and I can get hurt."

One night during their act, Fischbacher said he got Sabu too excited and received a sliced nose. More recently he was clawed on the head, but not seriously.

"There's really never been any big incident, they are perfectly well trained," said Siegfried. "But there is no such thing as complete security. There's always a chance one day, at a moment when you least expect it, they could turn on you."

To keep the big cats calm, Fischbacher says he tries to "look into the animal's head," to think as the animals might during their act.

Fischbacher and Horn met 14 years ago when each was working for a German shipping line.

Fischbacher was a magician, pulling rabbits out of hats and the like, and Horn was an animal fancier with an idea.

"I thought to myself that if he could make a rabbit disappear, why not a cheetah," said Horn.

They began the act with a cheetah and gradually worked the other animals into their routine.

"I was scared to hell at first," said Fischbacher, who had never been around large animals until he teamed up with Horn. "I didn't know what to do but I realized there was something in it."

"You have to be good in magic, but you also have to be different. Magic has grown out of the rabbit age."

The two toured Europe, eventually "arriving" at the Lido in Paris before coming to Las Vegas, where they now appear at the MGM Grand Hotel.

Fischbacher has learned about big animals and Horn has learned magic. In their act, they make the animals disappear and reappear, with Horn sometimes appearing in place of one of the cats.

To keep the animals in their home, Fischbacher and Horn had to get a special permit and they have installed "anchors" around the yard where the cats can be kept on a leash.

Nero Concert Is Tonight

The Midland-Odesa Symphony will launch its new season in Midland with a concert at 8 p.m. today.

The event will bring famed pianist Peter Nero to the stage of Lee High School auditorium as guest artist with the orchestra. Nero will join symphony instrumentalists in a performance of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," and he also will lead the orchestra in several other Gershwin works. The orchestra alone will offer a performance of Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5 under the baton of conductor-musical director Dr. Thomas Hobstadt.

Season subscriptions for the orchestra's 1975-76 year, which will offer six different concerts here through next May, will be for sale in the auditorium lobby before the start of tonight's event. The tickets are $20 for reserved seats, $15 for general admission and $4 for students.

Paris Cafe To Reopen

Agence France-Presse

PARIS — The famous "Cafe de la Paix" beside the opera, closed in Oct. 1974 for a complete overhaul costing $3.6 million, will be reopened next January or February, it was announced here.

The cafe, opened in 1862, will still retain its "Belle Epoque" decor so admired by tourists, and which earned it a place as a historical monument.

Fifteen firms are building a new pavement terrace holding 300 people, a 40-seat bar, a 78-seat grillroom and a quick-service 218-seat restaurant.

The old cafe staff of 220 will be cut to 152 when it reopens.

Up-And-Coming Actress Prefers To Be Alone

By JURATE KAZICKAS, Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Florinda Bolkan, one of the most up-and-coming movie beauties, wants to be alone.

"I have no intention of ever getting married. Love for a month here or there, a great affair every two years or so is enough. I like to be on my own and go where I want to go," said the Brazilian actress.

A chestnut-haired, lanky coquette who prefers to give her age as "over-25," Florinda does not deny a string of broken hearts all over the world.

"That's life," she says and laughs.

Florinda was in New York to visit friends and relax after completing her latest film in Eastern Europe. She was still glowing with the success of her role as Clara, the tortured working class wife who finds tender love in Vittorio de Sica's "A Brief Vacation." Some people say she may win an Academy Award nomination for the role.

"I learned so many things about myself from that movie," said Florinda, who has starred in 23, mostly European, films in the last seven years.

"I identified with the animal side and childishness of Clara and her fear of hurting people. That movie was so far away from the image people have of me: the party going, social type."

And although she says she hates parties and has to drink four vodkas to get through one, Florinda threw herself into the endless New York social scene to the point of flu and exhaustion. She made appearances at Halston's party for Liza Minnelli, Frank Sinatra's opening night and at the boutique of her favorite designer, Valentino.

"The screening of her new film, a satirical comedy called 'Royal Flash,' was attended by such friends as Lee Radzi-will, Kenneth and Nicky Lane, Elsa Peretti, Diane von Furstenberg and Lois Chiles.

"Europe is very down these days but there's always so much going on in New York," said Florinda, stretched out on the sofa of her apartment in jeans, white boots and a man's shirt.

She dresses casually most of the time and has no use for jewelry. But she spends her thousands on occasional fur coats and her favorite purchase: houses.

She owns homes in Sardinia, London, Brazil, and her home base, Rome.

Florinda, who likes men who can make her laugh, said she was not in love at the moment.

"Oh, there is a lot of flirting but nothing serious. I am like a butterfly," she said and grinned. "You can get all that you want in life today without marriage. People marry to get someone's name, to be supported, to have children. I don't need any of those things. I like to be alone."

Judge Dismisses Lawsuit Against Palmetto Project

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed an environmental lawsuit against the proposed $70 million Palmetto Bend Reservoir project near Edna.

U.S. District Court Judge Owen D. Cox dissolved a temporary injunction Monday and upheld the adequacy of an environmental impact statement on the project by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

Cox made the ruling in Victoria almost a year after the end of a three-weeks long trial of the environmental suit in Victoria last November.

The environmental suit was filed in March 1973 by the national Sierra Club and the Palmetto Citizens Group, an organization of Jackson County landowners.

156 Texans Give $8,701 To Push New Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — One hundred and fifty-six Texans have given $8,701 — most in small amounts — to a campaign for approval of the proposed new Texas constitution, says the campaign chairman.

Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Citizens for the Texas Constitution, disclosed Monday that his organization has spent only $4,253 of its donations so far.

The statewide vote on the proposed constitution is Nov. 4.

The donations include $250 from Calvert, former chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, and $200 each from Atty. Gen. John Hill and Speaker Bill Clayton.

The largest single donation was $1,000 from John Mark McLaughlin of San Angelo.

Ninety-nine of the 156 donations were for $25 or less, according to Calvert, who filed the group's financial report with the Secretary of State's office, as required by law.

DP&L To Request Another Rate Hike

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Power & Light Co. says it will ask the city council here next month for its second rate increase in just over one year. A company official says the proposed hike will be larger than an 11.3 per cent increase the company received last year.

Impeachment Trial In Second Day

By ROBERT HEARD
 AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The impeachment trial of South Texas District Judge O. P. Carrillo entered its second day today with at least 36 more witnesses scheduled to testify.

Only two witnesses testified Monday.

House special prosecutor Terry Doyle argued Monday that the Senate alone decides what constitutes an impeachable offense.

One of Carrillo's lawyers, Arthur Mitchell of Austin, said his client deserved to be told precisely what the House charged him with, just as he would in a criminal trial.

Doyle replied that an impeachment trial is a civil proceeding.

"Whether it is a civil or criminal proceeding, a quasi-civil or a quasi-criminal proceeding, or sui generis (legal-ese for unique), this man has a right to know what he is being charged with," Mitchell said.

For example, if the House accuses him of conspiracy, then Carrillo is entitled to be informed when the conspiracy allegedly was made and with whom, Mitchell said.

Doyle pleaded with the Senate to reject Mitchell's request for a "bill of particulars" spelling out the charges in greater detail. He and the House managers of the case lacked authority to change the charges, he said, and approving Mitchell's request would kill the trial.

"The sufficiency of it (any of the House's 10 charges) is as sufficient as you want it to be," Doyle said. "People can be impeached for whatever grounds the trying body decide is sufficient. You are the sole judge of what is impeachable conduct and what is not impeachable conduct."

The Senate rejected Mitchell's request, 24-2.

the afternoon session of the first day of the trial, Duval County auditor Walter Meek and Rodolfo Chapa, a water district employe from Benavides.

Meek, a thin, white-haired man who wore green sunglasses as he sat in the witness chair below the lieutenant governor's desk, was a boyhood friend of George Parr, longtime leading political figure in Duval County who killed himself last April 1. Critics of the impeachment trial have argued it is a political struggle between the Parr machine and the Carrillo forces, and that the legislature should never have become involved in such a local controversy.

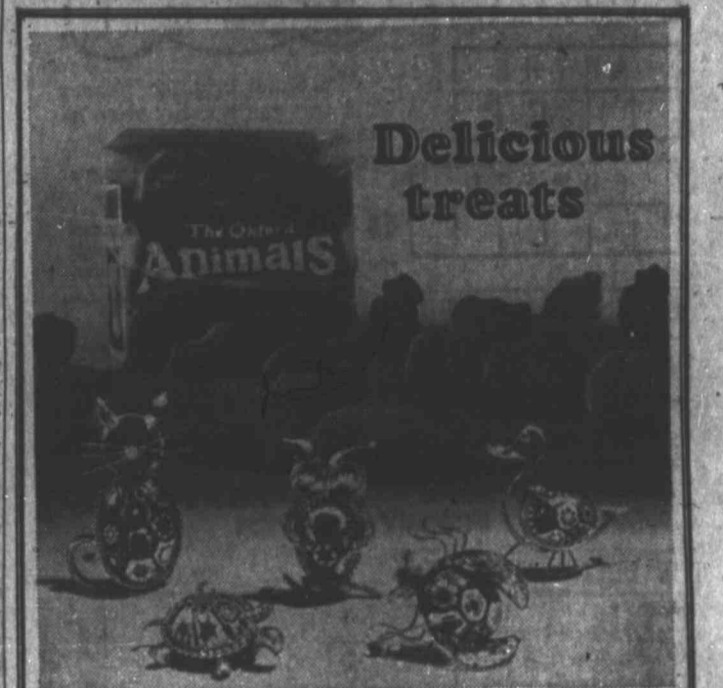

Meek testified he signed county welfare checks to the Cash Store in Benavides that reportedly paid for grocery purchases authorized by Carrillo.

Chapa testified he frequently picked up groceries for Carrillo at the store.

When asked if they had any personal knowledge that Carrillo conspired to have the county pay for groceries for his own use to which he was not entitled, both Meek and Chapa said no.

The Senate rejected five postponement motions before the witnesses were called.

Doyle told the Senate impeachment was an extraordinary procedure but that "I pray that nowhere else in Texas do things go on like

Richardson Appeal Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has declined to hear an appeal by the Richardson, Tex., school district that it is not responsible for the segregation of one of its elementary schools.

The school system's lawyer argued that "forced busing... is not working to achieve its legitimate end."

The high court let stand Monday a decision by the U.S. appeals court at New Orleans which reversed the finding of a U.S. district court in Texas.

In September 1970, the district court in Dallas issued a desegregation plan for the Richardson schools, a plan with which school lawyers said the schools complied.

But in May 1974, the federal government asked the district court to order further desegregation of the Hamilton Park Elementary School, which serves a predominantly black housing subdivision.

The Richardson Independent School District has 32,000 pupils, 3 per cent of whom are black. Hamilton Park Elementary School was designed only for blacks, when the district was racially segregated under Texas law. In the intervening 20 years, only black have attended the school.

When the Justice Department sought desegregation of Hamilton Park, the U.S. district court denied the request, deciding that the school district was not responsible for the entire population of the school being black.

However, the appellate court found that the school district had been responsible for discriminatory practices and for the segregation of the Hamilton Park Elementary School, reversing the finding of the lower court.

The school district's lawyer, Henry D. Akin of Dallas, argued that the appeals court was not allowed under federal court rules to reverse a lower court's findings of fact unless they are clearly erroneous.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork argued that the school district did not prove that the all-black composition of Hamilton Park was not the result of discrimination by the district.

Akin also argued that busing should not be used to achieve a racial balance in the area schools.

"Forced busing is inherently repugnant..." he said. "It is not working to achieve its legitimate end; and it should now be deemed unconstitutional as a means to achieve a legitimate and constitutional end."

"Forced busing was conceived as a 'tool' to speed up the process of elimination of the unconstitutional practice of school segregation," he argued. "This 'tool' will not do the job for which it was intended. Now the 'tool' should be eliminated."

Fire Fighters End Kansas City Strike

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A four-day-old Kansas City fire fighters' strike ended today after the city promised to rehire 59 men who were discharged for failing to return to work and the union agreed to cooperate in investigating cases of possible arson during the strike.

Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. and other city officials had accused members of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters of deliberately setting some of the more than 200 blazes which erupted in the city during the strike.

Union spokesmen angrily denied the accusations.

The city's 858 fire fighters began returning to duty this morning after Wheeler agreed to rehire the union members.

Fire fighters currently earn $10,200 to $12,996 annually, while police officers earn $9,432 to $15,305 a year.

Talks between the city and the union with a federal mediator were scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. CDT today.

Union leaders and city officials announced an end to the walkout after the two groups met separately for about two hours early today. While discussions continued, nearly 800 National Guardsmen and hundreds of police officers and volunteers patrolled city streets and manned the 59 fire stations.

Fire fighters said Monday they were prepared to return to work, but they refused to do so until the 59 dismissed men were rehired.

Wheeler stood by his refusal to rehire the men until late Monday night, when he said City Manager Robert Kipp assured him that the move would be something the city "could live with" to get the men back to work.

The city has maintained the walkout was illegal because state law prohibits public employe strikes and because the city has a valid work agreement with fire fighters until May 1, 1976.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Bellman. A non-injuring model of the smallest Bellman aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2189, Bellman Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Invitation to Ninth Biennial Pioneer Day!

Shortly following the first meeting of the pioneers which was held in 1959, Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers was duly chartered as a non-profit corporation. The governing body consists of a Board of Trustees which is made up of the 25 men who sponsored the first meeting of the Pioneers.

The regular biennial meeting of the Pioneers shall be held on the last Friday in October of each odd-numbered year.

Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers was founded for the purpose of gathering and preserving historical data and materials relating to the early day development of the oil, gas and mineral industry in the area defined by the trustees as the Permian Basin Area of West Texas and New Mexico.

The association has been financed solely by the sponsors and there are no plans to set up any membership fee whatever. What is being done today and that which was done in 1959, is purely an expression of appreciation on the part of the Sponsors for the role the Petroleum Pioneers have played in the building of the Greater Permian Basin Empire.

The Committee, however, realizes that somewhere down the line, when every person presently engaged in the oil business qualifies as a Pioneer, the sponsorship might have to be greatly broadened or some other steps taken to prevent the cost of the biennial celebration becoming too burdensome.

Your ideas and suggestions will be welcomed and appreciated. The association is especially anxious to have for its permanent files any biographies, auto-biographies, historical data, pictures and other material of major significance which relate to individuals and events dealing with the development of the Permian Basin. All such material should be submitted.

Basis for Qualifying as a Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneer

The designation "Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneer" is applicable to "any person who actually worked at some job connected with the exploration, development, production, transportation or processing departments of the oil and gas business in the Permian Basin 30 years or more prior to October first of the year in which application for membership is made"

To be eligible a person (male or female) need only meet the above requirements and register with the committee by submitting information giving the date and place of first employment in the Permian Basin, name of firm or individual by whom employed and occupation. It is not necessary for a person to have continued to live in the Permian Basin nor is it necessary for the person to have continued active in the oil industry.

Those termed "Pioneer Widows" are those "widows who lived with their Pioneer husbands in the Permian Basin 30 years or more prior to October first of the year in which application for honorary membership is made and were married to them at the time of the Pioneer's death and who have not since remarried."

SLA Group Tried To Compile Written Version Of Philosophy

By LINDA DEUTSCH
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Members of the Symbionese Liberation Army spent much of their 19 months underground attempting to compile a written explanation of their philosophy, according to a source close to the investigation.

The source said investigators have not yet made their way through the mountain of documents confiscated from the apartment where Bill and Emory Harris were living when they were arrested Sept. 18.

Patricia Hearst, who was kidnaped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, and later said she had joined the terrorist organization, was arrested the same day in another apartment, along with Wendy Yoshimura, wanted on federal explosives charges.

The SLA material which was carted from the Harris apartment by the FBI on Friday includes "some personal stuff," but there is no way to determine who wrote any of it, the source said.

There are no signatures on any of the pages and they are not filed in any identifiable order, the source said.

There is no elaboration in the documents about the kidnaping of Miss Hearst, the source said. "There is nothing in there that says, 'I put on a wig and black makeup and kidnaped her.'"

Witnesses said two black men and a woman were the abductors.

The Harrises, awaiting trial in Los Angeles on state assault and kidnaping charges, are under investigation in connection with the abduction, which remains a crime with which no one has been charged.

There were these developments in the case Monday:

—A hearing scheduled for today on Miss Hearst's competence to take the witness stand for cross-examination at a bail hearing on federal bank robbery charges was postponed indefinitely.

—Miss Hearst's original attorney, Terence Hallinan, resigned from the defense team but declined to comment on the reason.

—Miss Yoshimura's case was postponed in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland after her attorney said he wanted more time to examine the 3-year-old charges against her.

—A gunman attempting to rob a Greenwich Village bank branch in New York City took 10 hostages and demanded the release of Miss Hearst, Miss Yoshimura and the Harrises in return for the hostages' freedom. He later said the demand "just popped into my head" and that he was not connected with the SLA.

—A judge ordered Miss Hearst to appear in Los Angeles on the state charges she faces with the Harrises, but no date was specified.

Psychiatrists who have been examining Miss Hearst and were scheduled to report to the court today on results of their tests said Monday they are not finished with their work.

The hearing on whether Miss Hearst is competent to be cross-examined on the affidavit she filed claiming she was tortured and brainwashed by the SLA was postponed indefinitely until the psychiatric examinations are completed.

Hallinan, 38, a radical attorney who had represented Miss Hearst since her arrest, announced his resignation from the case, but another defense attorney, Albert Johnson, denied rumors that the resignation came because of "friction" on the defense team.

Attorney James Martin MacInnis resigned last week, leaving Boston trial lawyer F. Lee Bailey as head of the team that now includes Johnson, John Knutson and E. John Kleines.

High today and Wednesday is forecast for the middle 80s. Low tonight is expected to be in the middle 50s.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris' presidential campaign organization for Texas has officially registered with the secretary of state.

"We urge Fred Harris to give Texas a choice, to come to Texas and run in the presidential primary," Bill McAfee of Austin, treasurer of the Fred Harris for President Texas Campaign Committee, said at a news conference Monday.

He said in answer to a question that "we have every reason to believe he (Harris) will enter next year's presidential primary."

His wife, Anne, said Harris' campaign should appeal to those who supported George McGovern and George Wallace in 1972. Many former Wallaceites, she said, are "upset by the fact that they pay a bigger share of taxes than they ought to and the corporations are getting by without paying their fair share."

Harris, she said, advocates enforcement of the anti-trust laws and the closing of tax loopholes.

The 1976 presidential primary law gives all of a senatorial district's delegates to the candidate whose state gets a plurality of the votes, making it a "winner take all" situation. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is an announced candidate for president, and the primary law was tailored to his specifications.

While Harris will appeal to some liberals, others urge the election of uncommitted delegates.

"The conservative establishment helped Lloyd Bentsen rig the presidential primary, and now much of the liberal establishment wants to roll over and play dead for Bentsen," said McAfee.

Austin Bank Loses Pile To Robber

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A robber entered Community National Bank shortly before closing time Monday, pulled a pistol on the president and escaped with "a considerable amount of money."

"He's still running," said Lt. Bo Gregory, head of the police department's robbery detail.

Gregory said the man entered the bank shortly before 2 p.m. and asked to see the president, Ben Morgan.

"When he was seated, he pulled out a .387 magnum and said, 'Call in your head cashier,'" Gregory said.

When cashier Steve Watson entered Morgan's office, the gunman ordered him to go to the vault and "get all the tens and twenties." Watson complied, and was forced to accompany the robber from the bank.

Gregory said the man took Watson's car and made Watson come with him. But he released Watson unharmed in the Highland Mall shopping center parking lot across the street from the bank and abandoned the car on the other side of the sprawling parking lot. Gregory theorized the robber had another car and possibly an accomplice waiting for him.

The robber was described as a white male, 5 feet 8 inches tall, 175 to 180 pounds, 40 to 45 years old. He was wearing a short brown felt hat with a feather, multi-colored shirt and dark green trousers, Gregory said.

The FBI is taking part in the investigation, he said.

Knott Pumping Stopped To Avoid Flooding Cotton

BIG SPRING — The Howard County road department has stopped pumping water from a pond to avoid flooding cotton fields in the Knott area.

County Commissioner Cy Terrazas said the pond had filled during heavy rains in August, so the county decided to pump the water into playa lakes west of Big Spring. The result, however, placed much of the prime cotton crop under water.

At a small reservoir, two pumps and additional pipe are to be installed to bypass the cotton fields, Terrazas said.

The standing water caused by unusual amounts of rain which flooded FM 946 at Knott is being diverted down Buzzard Draw to a salt lake west of Big Spring.

Chaining Called 'Family Affair'

BIG SPRING — The reported chaining of a 19-year-old Big Spring man to a tree here Sunday has turned out to be a "family affair," police Det. Sgt. Avery Falkner said this morning.

Neighbors had reported the chaining.

Falkner said the man's mother was considering admitting him to a hospital for treatment.

He quoted the mother as saying that her son had become increasingly "withdrawn" in recent weeks.

The Pittsburgh Pirates will rely on rookie pitcher John Candelaria tonight in an effort to slow the Cincinnati Reds' dash for a playoff sweep.

Elimination Stares Pittsburgh In Face

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds can clinch their third National League title this decade here tonight and take another step toward the World Series triumph that has eluded them for 35 years.

"World Series? I'll think about that if we get there," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said as he awaited the third and perhaps final game with Pittsburgh.

The Reds, who'll pitch Gary Nolan against Pirate rookie John Candelaria, dominated two games in Cincinnati, 8-3 and 6-1.

They pounded the ball at a .348 clip, allowed just 13 Pirate hits, and stole 10 bases in 10 tries. Joe Morgan's four steals set the Reds' team total at already records for a league playoff.

The Pirates, league leaders in home runs, have yet to hit one in the playoffs. They're batting .203 as a team, and none of their pitchers has lasted more than four innings.

"We expect that to change here," Manager Danny Murtaugh said Monday from his rocking chair.

A reporter asked him what was so special about playing at home. Can Babushka Power make that much of a difference? "I'm stretching that because we did horse manure out there," said Murtaugh.

"Give me another excuse and I'll use it too. We're running out of excuses and time."

Anderson admits he's tightly wound. At age 41, he has white hair and stomach ulcers.

"I'm always nervous. I think you have to be nervous to perform," he said. "Take Frank Sinatra or any performer. To go out there and do a job, you have to be ready, your nerves have to feel it."

Danny Murtaugh takes a different approach. His team was one defeat away from extinction Monday, but he rocked placidly in his office.

"I try to take things in stride. I've always tried to encourage my players to do the same," said Murtaugh.

"There are ups and downs in baseball," he added. "Right now, Cincinnati is up, but I don't expect them to stay there."

Murtaugh remained mum on whether he planned any lineup changes, including a shift from Manny Sanguillen to Duffy Dyer behind the plate in a bid to stop the Cincinnati running.

"Right now, I haven't made any decision on what I will do," said Murtaugh.

Morgan of the Reds absolved Sanguillen and said it makes no difference to him who catches.

"We're stealing off their pitchers," Morgan said. "With me, once I get that lead and take off, no catcher is going to throw me out."

The Pirates were joking that perhaps even their locker room valuables aren't safe from Morgan.

Cincinnati won its last World Series in 1940. That was seven years before Reds' catcher Johnny Bench was born.

"The series is the goal of every team, but there's no way we can look past the Pirates," said Bench, one of the few Reds without a hot bat. He has one hit so far in the playoffs.

The Reds lost to the Yankees in the 1961 World Series, and they were disappointed by Baltimore in 1970 and Oakland in 1972.

"We've never gone into the playoffs with a team as good as this one," said Pete Rose of the Reds.

"If we continue to play as well as we have, we'll be in pretty good shape," conceded Anderson.

The youth-infused Cowboys clubbed:

A bad Detroit snap on punt formation that set up Dallas go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter.

A 29-yard draw play by Charles Young of the Cowboys, followed by Young's circus catch for a 42-yard touchdown pass from Staubach on the first play of the fourth quarter.

A 46-yard halfback pass from Robert Newhouse to Drew Pearson for another stunning Cowboy fourth-period TD.

A 37-yard scoring aerial from Staubach to Pearson after the Cowboys recovered a Landry fumble at the Lion 16 and lost 25 yards on penalties.

"That bad snap was the turning point as far as I'm concerned," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano insisted. "We had momentum up to that point. We had 'em. But that snap turned the whole thing around."

Richard Hicks, the center on kicks, snapped low and punter Herman Weaver was run out of bounds at the Lion 33, automatically turning the ball over to Dallas. Pearson, who caught six passes for 188 yards, grabbed a 30-yard toss from Staubach and two plays later Young, a No. 1 draft choice last year from North Carolina State, plunged over from the one.

Young's 42-yard TD catch came on the next Dallas possession. He tipped it with one hand, bobbed it for a few yards and then hauled it in over cornerback Levi Johnson, who was burned several times by Staubach.

The TDs after that were just frosting on the cake.

"I thought the Detroit defense played very well," said Staubach, who was recruited out of high school to play at Navy by then-Middle assistant Forzano.

"In the second half, we made some big plays on them and that did it."

The short-lived Detroit lead came at 5:47 of the third period when Dexter Bussey caught a seven-yard pass from Landry five plays after Johnson blocked a punt by Mitch Hoopes of Dallas at the Cowboy 22.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pontiac Stadium's majestic air-inflated dome didn't spring any leaks, but the Detroit Lions' bubble was burst by Roger Staubach's shotgun offense and alingshot arm.

A near-capacity crowd of 79,784 gave the Dallas Cowboys resounding boos when they were introduced before Monday night's National Football League contest against Detroit.

But the boos that reverberated off the newly raised fiberglass roof of the plush $55.7 million stadium at the end of the nationally televised 36-10 Cowboy victory were for the Lions.

Detroit seemed helpless as Staubach turned a 10-8 third-period Lion advantage into a Cowboy runaway.

Meanwhile, his defensive mates, led by 250-pound tackle Jethro Pugh, sacked Lion quarterback Greg Landry so many times he almost got artificial grass stains on his Honolulu blue pants.

Holtzman Gambles In Second Start

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Oakland A's, whose three-year championship reign could end tonight, it's time to gamble.

"I might be really sharp, or I might not be able to throw the ball 60 feet," admitted Ken Holtzman, the left-hander who lost the American League play-off opener in Boston and will be pitching against the Red Sox tonight with just two days rest.

"The more I thought about it, the more I felt we just had to go with our best," said A's Manager Alvin Dark, whose world champs are down 2-0 in the best-of-five series.

"If we lose now, there's no tomorrow," he added, using baseball's most worn-out post-season axiom.

He chose 18-game winner Holtzman over right-hander Dick Bosman, 11-6, who was the tentative third-game starter as of late Sunday.

Holtzman, who will face Rick Wise, 19-12, was knocked out in the seventh inning of Saturday's 7-1 loss at Boston. Bosman's last start was 10 days ago and he made a brief relief appearance in the playoff opener.

"We didn't know until four minutes before game time Sunday who they'd be pitching. So why should I worry 24 hours in advance?" Johnson asked as his players played catch and ran in foul territory and the outfield.

"The infield remained covered to protect it from a light, steady rain. Neither team took batting practice and only a handful of A's loosened up."

"At this point in the season, missing one day of batting practice isn't going to make much difference," said Johnson. When asked if he would feel the same way if his team was behind in the playoffs, he just smiled.

No team in either league has ever won a playoff after losing the opening two games.

"They're favorites now. There's no doubt about that," said A's captain Sal Bando. "But I honestly feel we can win three in a row."

The weather forecast called for the possibility of more rain today.

"We're set to play. We don't want a rainout," said Johnson, who spent Monday night at his off-season home in the Oakland suburb of Pinole. "I want to get back to Boston as soon as possible."

The World Series will start in Boston on Saturday if the Red Sox can claim a third victory over the A's, who went into their fourth consecutive American League playoff as slight favorites over the relatively inexperienced Eastern Division champs.

Holtzman pitched once with two days rest during the regular season, getting no decision in six innings of work May 3 against Chicago and coming back to win on May 6 when he went 6-1-3 innings against California.

"He's not tired now. He can handle it," Dark said after giving the southpaw tonight's assignment against the Red Sox, batting order which totaled 13 runs in the two weekend games at Boston.

Dark and pitching coach Wes Stock decided on Holtzman as the A's flew home from Boston on Sunday night. Then Dark conferred by telephone with owner Charles O. Finley, who doubles as the A's general manager, and the decision became official.

Holtzman was told when he arrived at the stadium Monday. "We usually send our pitchers engraved invitations," Dark joked. "The only thing that matters is that he knows the night he's pitching."

Bosman was clearly angry about losing the assignment but said, "I don't want to make a big thing out of it."

Bando said, "It really doesn't matter who pitches. We've just got to score more runs than they do."

Favorites Grab Wins In District Contests

by TERRY WILLIAMSON

Districts 2-AAA and 3-AAA opened loop play for the first time Friday night, and all of the favorites came away winners despite some struggling.

The Andrews Mustangs, holding a meager 0-5 record, played an inspired game against the third-ranked Monahans before dropping a 24-21 decision in a key 2-AAA outing.

The Mustangs led 21-10 at one point, but five fumbles helped Monahans come back to win with 14 points in the final period. The Andrews defense, however, was superb and forced Monahans to kick three field goals after the offense kept giving the Lobos good field position. It would have ranked as the upset of the year if Andrews had pulled out the victory.

Pecos remained undefeated with a 2-AAA victory over a stout Kermit team and Odessa Ector had a tough time against Fort Stockton, 14-7, in the other 2-AAA encounter Saturday.

Snyder, Lake View and Lubbock Estacado all took opening round victories in 3-AAA. Snyder hung a 20-8 haymaker

Host Of New Problems Depress Prices On Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A host of new problems engulfed the stock market today, sending prices sharply lower in straight-up trading after three straggled days of advances.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 8.66 at 811.00, following gains totaling 35.50 points over the last three sessions. The NYSE composite index dipped 44 to 45.54.

Losers swept past gainers 762 to 358 among the 1,537 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Declining groups included steels, farm implements, metals, forest products, drugs, oils, and glamours.

Analysts said the market was being hit by profit-taking, fears that the Federal Reserve had not eased up on credit as much as earlier believed, further worries about New York City, and skepticism that President Ford could sell to Congress his $23 billion tax cut plan with spending limits.

On the American Stock Exchange the market-value index was 91 lower at 63.48. The most-active stock, Imperial Oil, gained 1/4 to 24.

Block trades brought Middle South Utilities, off 1/4 at 13 1/2, and Boise-Cascade, down 3/4 to 21 1/4, into the lead of Big Board active stocks.

Glamours, which paced Monday's advance, highlighted today's decline. IBM fell 2 1/4 to 19 1/2, National Semiconductor lost 1 1/2 to 45 1/2, Xerox dropped 1 1/2 to 58 1/2, and Polaroid dipped 1 1/4 to 36 1/4.

General Motors, which Monday hit a new 1 1/2 high before retreating, fell 1/4 to 52 1/4.

WINS MIDDLE NAME — Allison Volk, 4, and Probate Judge Roger Nadeau review Allison's petition for a name change in the judge's chambers at Portland, Maine. "Your Honor, my brothers have a middle name, so I want one," Allison said. The judge granted her request, and she became Allison Jill Volk. (AP Wirephoto.)

Lee Youth Center Chatter

For those of you who traveled to Odessa Friday night to see a football game, you were witnessing the talent and skill of the greatest team in district 5-AAAA, our Mighty Lee Rebels. The Maroon Platoon branched the Broncos and sent them back to the stables.

That is only the beginning of our district winnings. Next week we'll prove our point further when we smash San Angelo. Everyone make plans to see the Mean Machine bounce the Bobcats.

Rebellettes: be sure your money and permission slips are turned in to your squad leaders or in Mr. Woods office for the bus trip to San Angelo. The cost is $5.75 and this includes your ticket. We need all the Rebellettes there to help lead the way to our second district victory.

Students Involved Through Community Action (SITCA) members were selected by the chamber of commerce last week. These Lee students were chosen due to their interest in homework early, grab a stapler, and get busy on your class organizational float. Seniors are working at M & M Enterprises, juniors are at Allied Van Lines Warehouse and the Sophomores are working at the fire station on the corner of Garfield and Golf Course. Let's make this Homecoming one worth coming home to.

Thursday night, you need to get yourself out to Memorial Stadium and witness the bombardment of a Bobcat. Our mighty JV will show their stuff Thursday at 7 p.m. See ya there.

FHA has chosen their officers for the year. Karen Bass is president with Debbie Young and Karla Stump vice presidents.

VOE has also elected their officers for this year with Jan Blacklock as president, Bobbie Salgado as vice president, Carrie Morgan as secretary and Julie Strickland as treasurer. Congrats to all!

Rebellettes are reminded of squad meetings at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday. Rebellettes are commended for their second half spirit. Let's work on the first half and prove that we're the best spirit group in 5-AAAA.

To those responsible for the destruction of our wonderful YC you better get out of town cuz the Maroon Mafia is out to get ya. If anyone knows anything about the people responsible for what took place please contact Mr. Collins. No one has to know anything about it and we really need to know. It's your Youth Center that was torn up.

And with that we close saying "See ya next week!"

Malcolm X's Home Gets State Marker

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state historical marker at the site of Malcolm X's childhood home will be dedicated Sunday by a local group which has spent nearly a year raising funds.

The Vincent Court Apartments now stand in the area where Malcolm's family owned property for about 25 years.

"Malcolm X, born Malcolm Little in Omaha, Neb., in 1925, lived on this site in the 1930s," reads the marker.

Producers Detected Vibrations, Moved In For Kill Like 'Jaws'

By JOHN GETZLE
The Los Angeles Times

In chapter one of "The Jaws Log," a bestseller about how the hit movie "Jaws" was made, writer-actor Carl Gottlieb compares the film's producers with novelist Peter Benchley's man-eating monster itself.

Just as the shark "detected vibrations" and moved in for the kill, Gottlieb says, producers Richard D. Zanuck and David Brown sensed very early that the story could make a smash motion picture, purchasing the movie rights almost a full year before Benchley's novel was ever published.

Gottlieb's analogy is a good one, maybe great, because it applies not only to Zanuck and Brown, but to the whole management team at Universal Studios and its parent, MCA Inc.

Like a shark smells blood, the studio executives smelled success, and with an advertising and promotion blitz perhaps unequalled in film history, Universal turned a mere hot prospect into the biggest U.S. box office hit ever — in terms of preliminary ticket sales — over $130 million to date.

LUCK HELPED, too. Dozens of local and imagined shark attacks and the overwhelming success of the movie itself made newspapers and TV news shows all over the country. The now-famous "Jaws" logo was used in dozens of political cartoons. Comedians used the film as the basis for new routines. Restaurants offered shark steaks and shark soup. It seemed for awhile as if the whole country had gone shark crazy.

"Sharkmania is what we call it," says Clark Ramsay, director of advertising and public relations for Universal. "I guess it's like Beatlemania a decade ago, except that the Beatles' popularity was largely concentrated in a particular age group, while sharkmania seems to know no bounds."

Whatever you want to call it, the astounding publicity surrounding the production and release of "Jaws" was a promotion man's dream. And when it paid off in ticket sales, Universal executives felt a satisfaction akin to nirvana.

"When I came into work Monday, June 23, it was hard to believe the figures," says Murray Weissman, chief of Universal's motion picture press department. "Over the three-day weekend, 'Jaws' had grossed $7 million; more than three million people had seen it."

UNIVERSAL BEGAN its promotion of the movie in May, 1974, two years before its release, with a press handout announcing the acquisition of film rights by Zanuck and Brown.

That's what what a bestselling book does for a movie. With this in mind, Universal sent producers Zanuck and Brown out on the "talk show circuit," promoting the book on TV and radio shows. Inevitably, the conversation would turn to the coming movie, says Ramsay.

PETER BENCHLEY was also on tour, of course, and following the book's publication, Universal began sending out a stream of releases as sales of the novel grew.

"Jaws" — both the book and the coming movie — were already generating widespread interest in the media, but it wasn't until production of the movie started in Martha's Vineyard (April, 1974) that the promotion men at Universal realized just how strong that interest was.

"The press seemed to be fascinated," says Weissman, "probably because of the book's success. At that time, 'Jaws' had just hit No. 1 on the bestseller list. But I think the location had something to do with it, too. Martha's Vineyard is an attractive place to visit (the studio provided dozens of free junkets for newsmen) and it's very close to much of the big Eastern media."

Weissman says media representatives conducted more than 200 interviews with actors, the director, the producers and others while the movie was on location — "about three times normal, even for a 'big' movie."

MEANWHILE, Universal executives were working with the paperback book publishers (Bantam), devising a logo for both the paperback editions and the movie. The key piece of art — a giant, toothy shark streaking up at a female swimmer — was agreed upon.

"It was a fantastic piece of graphics," says Joseph Hyams, vice president of advertising and publicity for one of Universal's major competitors, Warner Bros. Pictures. "It was simple and symbolic of the movie; just great."

Ramsay and Weissman say they were pleased with it, too, but they didn't understand its appeal totally until the movie, "Jaws" was shown in Dallas at a sneak preview.

"We ran ads in a Dallas paper telling of a sneak preview," says Ramsay. "There was no title, no message, just that logo of the shark rising up toward the girl swimmer. Well, the customers lined up in the rain for hours. It was a complete sellout. After that, there was no question that the logo was right."

TO CASH IN best on the movie's apparent mass appeal, Universal executives decided to try something different on the distribution end. Instead of the more common 125 to 150-theater release, it was decided to open "Jaws" June 20 in 407 U.S. outlets, plus 55 more in Canada.

This "saturation" distribution was carefully tied into Universal's advertising plans, Ramsay explains. "We tried to buy 30-second spots (commercials) on every prime-time television show on all three networks for June 18, 19 and 20," he says. "We couldn't get them all — maybe 80 or 95 per cent."

Translation: just about everybody who watches night-time television saw a "Jaws" commercial within three days of the picture's release. Counting duplications, the commercials ran 25 times and reached a total of 211 million homes.

"Both the distribution and the advertising were based on the same premise," says Ramsay. "We wanted the greatest impact in the shortest period of time. Nobody had ever done this before, but we thought 'Jaws' was worth it."

MOREOVER, these TV commercials — which cost Universal an estimated $700,000 according to industry sources — were not your everyday movie plugs. Rather, they were carefully planned spots.

"We did considerable testing of those ads," Ramsay says, "something we had never done before, but are now doing a lot. We tested them for audience reactions, gearing special ads for special groups of people."

Male-oriented TV shows got male-oriented "Jaws" commercials; female shows got female ads, and so on.

"It was expensive and a time-consuming to do all that testing," says Ramsay, "but we think it paid off handsomely."

Including newspaper ads, Universal spent $1.8 million on pre-opening advertising. Before the picture is through its present run, the figure should hit $1.4 million.

MEANWHILE, Weissman was in charge of generating free publicity from the nation's media. In total, he estimates that correspondents located inside the United States received between 200,000 and 300,000 press releases on various aspects of the movie.

A smaller group of media people also received free copies of the book (hardcover and paperback), a copy of Gottlieb's "The Jaws Log," and "Jaws" T-shirts.

Whether such efforts had any impact on the media can't be measured, but the newspaper, magazine and television coverage of "Jaws" and sharks was unprecedented, according to Universal.

Newspapers all over the country were impressed with shark news, but perhaps the biggest media triumph for Weissman came June 23 — three days after the movie opened.

Rose-Colored Glasses Vital To Search

By BOB CORBETT
Copley News Service

Astronomers searching for evidence of other civilizations in the far reaches of outer space would do well to wear infrared glasses.

"If there is any big technology anywhere (in space) you will see it first of all in the infrared," according to Dr. Freeman J. Dyson, a noted astrophysicist and professor of mathematics at the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton University.

The reason, Dyson said in an interview, is a subject very much in the news today.

"Oil is what makes the world go round," he said.

It is also very likely, he added, that oil is what powers other civilizations, wherever they may be.

Astronomers who have been depending on radio waves to provide a clue to extraterrestrial life, he said, may be looking in the wrong place.

Recent satellite photographs of earth taken in the infrared area of the electromagnetic spectrum, he said, show a very different picture of our planet.

In the infrared, he said, the brightest spot on earth isn't New York City, it's Kuwait. The oil fields of Alberta, he said, are many times brighter than Los Angeles.

"It's really quite dramatic," according to Dyson.

What Dyson is suggesting is that astronomers who are serious about detecting other civilizations in space really ought to begin with a study of infrared sources in the sky.

Listening for radio messages, he said, offers little hope of detection. It would mean pointing radio telescopes at every star in the sky, he said, a process that could take thousands of years.

By contrast, he said, there are only a few hundred infrared radio sources now known. Not only does this narrow down the field, he said, but the chances that some of these sources might be other advanced technological civilizations are much better.

Not all the infrared sources are good bets, he said, but there are some that don't correlate with any known stellar source of infrared radiation.

In these areas, he said, it is possible there is some planet where life has evolved and "technology has really run wild."

Dyson is not entranced with the idea of sending messages to such sources to establish any kind of dialogue. The distances are too vast, perhaps hundreds or thousands or even millions of light years away, he said.

Besides, he said, we've already been sending messages in the form of radio and television programs for years. It's possible, he said, that some distant civilization might pick up these signals, some scientist might guess they represent a picture and reconstruct the picture.

This is what Dyson hopes for the earth. If we could pick up the signals from other planets with civilizations and reconstruct pictures of what is occurring there, then we could gain information from them in much the same way we have learned from the ancient Greek and Roman civilizations of earth, he said.

The idea, he admitted, has certain dangers. For example, he said, "it would be too bad if the first picture picked up from us by another civilization was Donald Duck."

Experts Say Single Gun Killed Senator Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Only one gun was used in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968, a panel of firearms experts reported Monday.

The seven ballistics experts said that working independently they had all arrived at the same conclusion after examining the bullets taken from the assassination scene and firing new bullets from the 22-caliber Iver Johnson revolver of convicted assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan.

Since the assassination some people have believed Sirhan did not act alone and some ballistics experts who studied photographs have said a second gun was used. The Los Angeles Police Department said only one gun was involved.

evidence to indicate more than one gun," the experts said in a report read by Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke.

Sirhan, a Palestinian, was convicted of the assassination and is serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison — his original death sentence having been voided by the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling against capital punishment.

But critics questioned whether adequate ballistics tests had been performed.

The gun used by Sirhan was re-fired four times Sept. 26. The bullets were retrieved from a barrel of water and were used in the study by seven experts that led to the conclusion announced Monday.

Oil Spill Cleanup Almost Completed

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard says a cleanup of an oil spill off Pelican Island was expected to be completed today.

Vacuum trucks continued Monday mopping up about 2,000 gallons of diesel oil allegedly pumped into the ship channel after a dredging barge sank Saturday. The Coast Guard said most of the oil, driven by a north wind, concentrated in the Galveston Yacht Basin.

Musician Unhurt In Traffic Crash

MIDDLESEX, Vt. (AP) — Musician Skitch Henderson escaped uninjured when his car collided with a motorcycle near this central Vermont community.

The cyclist, Steven Juris, 34, of Winoski, suffered a broken arm and was taken to the Central Vermont Hospital.

Senator Looks For Flyweight To Debate With Young Daniel

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, says he won't debate former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. about the proposed new Texas Constitution but has debated other advocates of the document.

"I don't care to revive young Price," said McKnight, who heads an organization fighting the new constitution and calling itself Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution.

Daniel challenged McKnight to debate him or other supporters of the constitution such as Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton or Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

McKnight said he had spoken against Hobby, Clayton and Greenhill, as well as against former Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert and Rep. Ronnie Earle of Austin, director of the campaign for the new constitution.

"I'm not afraid to take anyone on, but if Mr. Daniel wants to finance a televised debate then I'll try to find some flyweight to fight him," McKnight said.

Daniel was president of the 1974 constitutional convention that failed by three votes to submit a new charter. The 1975 legislature finally submitted the document to the voters in virtually the same form as the convention's final draft. Voters will make their decision Nov. 4.

In another development, McKnight's organization issued the names of 13 other groups that it claimed oppose all or part of the new constitution, but at least one of them said it didn't belong on the list.

"We have not taken any position. We are neutral," said Dain Whitworth, director of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association.

Others on the list are Texas

Association of Counties, Gulf Coast Association of Municipal Judges and Prosecutors, Panhandle County Judges and Commissioners Association, Eastland County Bar Association, Texas Committee on Natural Resources, Greater Dallas Board of Realtors, Texas Association of Professional Sureties, Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee, AFL-CIO, Texas Sportsmen Club, Inc., Texas Bowhunters, Inc., and Harris County Republican Executive Committee.

IUDs Greater Hospitalization Cause Than Pill, Study Shows

By VICTOR COHN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Intrauterine contraceptive devices, or IUDs, send more women to the hospital with complications than birth control pills, though the pill problems have had far more publicity.

Two doctors from the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reported this Monday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

They added, however, that the pills cause more deaths. This is a fact that doctors have long known.

"But if you had asked me" which causes more hospitalization, "I'd have answered the pill," commented Dr. Bruce Stadel of the Center for Population Research at the National Institutes of Health.

"The CDC finding makes sense, however. People are hospitalized for IUDs for a lot of reasons that don't lead to death like excessive vaginal bleeding or pelvic infection. The more serious complications of the uterus—" fewer."

The numbers of deaths and serious illnesses are small compared to the total number of women using pills or IUDs, though whether or not users should consider the risks acceptable is a matter of medical and public debate.

The AMA Journal authors—Drs. Henry S. Kahn and Carl W. Tyler Jr.—estimated that IUD-caused deaths run between 1 and 7.3 per million women-years' use (that is, among a million women using the devices for a year or, for example, 100,000 women using them for 10 years).

The pill, they say, causes between 22 and 45 deaths per million users per year from blood clots, strokes and heart attacks.

As to hospitalizations, however, they estimate that IUDs cause between 3 and 10 for each 1,000 women-years' use of the pill.

NH next spring will start a three-year, $500,000 study of 20,000 women's hospitalizations to learn more precisely what IUDs do, Stadel reported.

In general, he said, the most serious IUD problem — perforated womb or uterus — varies in frequency according to the inserter's experience.

A woman who wants an IUD inserted, he said, "should go someplace where it is done regularly by trained persons" — a family planning clinic with an experienced medical director, or a university clinic devoted to family planning, and or obstetricians with strong IUD experience.

To usually be sure her IUD is in place, Stadel added, a woman need only check to see if she can feel the string attached to it but not the IUD itself. But also, "she should see a doctor right away for bleeding or any other problem" and see the doctor in any case at least yearly.

Earthquake Jolts Pacific Islands

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A major and potentially destructive earthquake struck the remote Santa Cruz Islands in the south Pacific Ocean on Monday, the National Earthquake Information Center reported.

The Santa Cruz Islands are located about 1,500 miles northeast of Brisbane, Australia.

A spokesman for the center said the magnitude of the quake was potentially damaging to populated areas, but said no damage reports were received immediately. The Santa Cruz Islands have a population of about 5,000.

The earthquake, which was recorded at 5:24 p.m. CDT Monday, measured 7.2 on the Richter scale, the Earthquake Information Center said.

Mexican Police Wound Texan, 29

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — A policeman's bullet halted an attempt to escape Monday by a young Texas man jailed the night before in a marijuana and concealed weapons case.

Nuevo Laredo police identified the wounded prisoner as Douglas Stuart Huntington, 29, and his companion as Ann Coulbert Tinn, 21, both of San Antonio.

Mexican customs agents arrested the two Monday evening after they crossed the border in a 1975 model pickup truck.

Begin With High Card To Keep Lead

It is usually proper to lead a conventional card on defense so that your partner will know what you are up to. In emergency situations, however, you must do what is necessary and hope that your partner will read the situation correctly.

East didn't have time to make a conventional lead. It was necessary to win four club tricks on the run.

East's proper return is the nine of clubs. If South plays low, East next leads the queen. This enables the defenders to take four club tricks.

East cannot afford to lead the queen of clubs first. South and West play low; and West must win the second club trick. West can take a third club, but South still has the king. If East leads the queen and West drops the ten, South will then cover the nine with the king of clubs; and this gives the defenders only three club tricks.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner bids 1 NT: (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-762, H-Q4, D-AQ108732, C-2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3 NT. There is a fine chance for nine tricks at notrump, particularly if partner has the king of diamonds. The chance for 11 tricks at diamonds is not nearly so good.

South took the king of spades and lost the diamond finesse. East wondered if his partner's spades were headed by the queen or by the ace-queen-jack.

East finally decided that South's jump to three notrump was more likely to show two spade stoppers than just the king. Hence East made a desperation shift to clubs.

When East led the con-
