Perfecting of Internal Combustion Engine—Lower Power Costs Mean Big Increase of Irrigation By Pump

Pumping for irrigation is rapidly becoming the most popular mode, and the farmer irrigators of the Blackwater valley may well congratulate themselves that this valuable river flows under the ground rather than on top of it. The irrigator by pump is virtually master of his own water conditions. He may apply the life-giving fluid to his crops when he likes, as he likes and in such quantities as he likes. He is independent of the water supplying company and the ditch boss, and when his turn comes, as in the gravity system, if he does not need water and does not wish to be made to take it nor pay for it. When he does use water from his own private pumping system he has ample opportunity of controlling the supply and volume, running the water slowly or rapidly, according to his needs and the fall of his land.

One hundred thousand acres of the Blackwater valley have been officially declared to be of profitable irrigation, and as yet the potential wealth production of this valley has scarcely been touched. The hundred or so pumping plants already located within this declared and proven shallow water area have been sufficient to establish and confirm beyond a doubt the great adaptability and riches to be taken from the soil by the farmer with his own pumping plant.

more or less problems of its own peculiarities. The writer has been familiar with irrigation by pumping for the past eighteen years, he is familiar with many of the leading irrigation by pumping areas in the United States, and is frank to say that the Blackwater valley presents fewer problems to be solved than that of any other valley to his intimate knowledge. Here nature has produced as near the ideal as could be possibly asked, and with the working out of the mechanics of the situation the contemplative irrigator is soon ready to begin reaping his harvest of dollars.

As stated above, the cheaping of fuel, the increasing efficiency of irrigation pumps and engines, the bringing forth of any invention which lessens the cost or increases the convenience of pumping installation, or reduces the cost of power, likewise, widens the area of profitable lift, renders a vaster natural wealth accessible to the farmer and also opens a larger market for the manufacturer of pumping machinery. Similarly, the discovery of some high priced product that is adaptable to a certain pumping region increases the area of profitable lift by reason of enhancing the value of an acre foot of water applied by irrigation. Reynolds Attends Turkey School At San Angelo 20-25

County Farm Agent Fred S. Reynolds left Tuesday for Lubbock, where he will be joined by a number of agents of this section, going from there in this section to San Angelo to attend the Turkey Grading school, held there October 20 to 25, under auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This is the first grading school of this kind ever sponsored by the government and representatives will be in attendance from a dozen or more of the western states. The farm agents of this section will spend a couple days enroute visiting various demonstration farms and projects before arriving at San Angelo, where the last two days of the week will be devoted to attending the grading school.

The purpose of the school is to give correct information regarding feeding prior to killing, correct methods of sticking and dressing, chilling and packing, actual demonstrations being made, also, information as to handling, grading and packing for market. It is understood that certificates will be issued to those who can qualify as expert graders and much benefit will accrue to both the raisers and marketers in assuring the proper grade for the price paid.

Band Instruments and Music Here; Members Begin Earnest Work

It won't be long now until Muleshoe will have a full fledged band of which any municipality may well be proud.

During the past week several new instruments ordered by Director Monte Bowron have arrived and been delivered, and the owners are hard at work on them solving the mysteries of the little black dots, slugs and other peculiarities perched here and there upon the five strand fence.

In a little while they will become well acquainted with the difference between large, andante and accelerando. The proverbial "big eye" will mean something different than the staccato mark, and the music will begin rolling from out the ends of the brass and wooden instruments in flowing strains of melody ticking the toes of the most sedate and kindling rapturous symphonies in every human breast within hearing distance.

In this musical aggregation there are several experienced players, and they will be quite helpful in carrying the major parts until the beginners have become more skilled in flipping the valves and tripping the keys. Prof. Bowron has ordered a new lot of music, private instructions were begun late Thursday and rehearsal will be held in the court house every Monday and Thursday nights.

RECENTLY ORGANIZED COUNTIES SHOULD RECEIVE MONEY EQUIVALENT FOR STATE SCHOOL LANDS

(An Editorial)

Every county in the State of Texas should be entitled to some state school land of its equivalent value, but there are some that never have obtained either, including Bailey County.

Years ago the State instituted the plan of giving every organized county in Texas four leagues of the public domain, the income from which might be used for school purposes of the county receiving it. Practically all of this land granted these counties lay in the western portion of the state. State officials at that time were not far-sighted enough to realize that some time this section of Texas would become populated as vastly as other sections of the state, and that this land would be as productive and as valuable as other land of the state.

Since much of this school land was disposed of by the State, new counties have been organized in West Texas, but the land having been already divided among other organized counties there was no more land to be given the newly organized ones. There are at least eighteen counties in West Texas that have never received any grant of school land. In the Panhandle area the unawarded counties are Lamb, Hockley, Cochran and Bailey. In other sections of the state are the counties of Andrews, Brooks, Crane, Culberson, Hudspeth, Hogg, Jim Wells, Kennedy, Kleberg, Real, Upton, Willacy, Winkler and Yoakum that have not been favored with their allotment of state land. From the standpoint of fairness and equality, they are entitled to a similar amount of school land granted other counties, or to its financial equivalent.

On September 1, 1924, the State recovered some 57,000 acres of the Capitol Syndicate lands, and in justice to the recently organized counties having no school lands, this acreage should have been prorated among them; but such was never done. Clearly if there is no land for these newly organized counties, they should be given a financial equivalent.

An analysis of the map of Bailey county shows nearly half of this county was originally composed of school land granted other older organized counties of the state, some of them bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, and many of them having decidedly eastern locations. In this county there is school land owned or that has been owned by the counties of Sutton, Ector, Ochiltree, Hale, Roberts, Garza, Fisher, Foard, Motley, Deaf Smith, Irion, Lubbock, Floyd, Crosby, Fisher, Freidling, Garza, Hansford, Uvalde, Blanco, Walker, Lamar, Young, Childress, Hall and Collins, besides a vast acreage that was Capitol Syndicate lands deeded for the building of the state house at Austin. It is a noteworthy fact that not until three years ago were these newly organized counties wherein this land was located permitted to draw tax remuneration from such land, notwithstanding such taxable income would have been of great assistance to the new counties in building and maintaining their greatly needed schools.

In each league of school land there are 25 labors averaging 177.1 acres each, or a total of 4,427.5 acres of land; four leagues would be a grand total of 17,710 acres, and at $3.00 per acre, the average value of this land at the time of its allotment, would mean the sum of $53,130 to each county not receiving the state allotment. There is not one of these later organized counties without school and allotment but could use and greatly need this sum of money, and it is certainly asking nothing less than justice that they should each receive at least this minimum sum.

It is the firm opinion of this newspaper that this matter should be clearly and forcefully presented at the next meeting of the State Legislature, and, if the virtue of the claims of these counties is vigorously presented, it is further belief that in all due right and justice they will be duly recognized and granted.

Four-fifths of Cochran county is virtually supporting schools in other counties, three-fourths of Hockley, two-thirds of Bailey, and relative portions of other recently organized counties in the western area of the state are furnishing the land to keep up schools in other counties. This, in turn, means thousands of dollars in tribute these later organized counties are paying every year to other counties throughout the State.

This is indeed a most worthy move in behalf of these new counties that are struggling toward advancement and endeavoring to keep their schools up to a desired standard. It is a matter which should obtain the active interest of every County Judge, County School Superintendent, the Superintendents and Presidents of the various schools and boards, as well as the intense loyalty and support of every citizen and school patron living within the borders of these affected counties.

CONSOLIDATION OF BAILEYBORO AND LONGVIEW SCHOOLS PROPOSED IN AN EFFORT TO OBTAIN HIGHER PROGRAM

Looking forward to better educational advantages for the pupils in the central and southern part of Bailey county, a movement is now on foot to consolidate the schools of Baileyboro and Longview. "We are in possession of a letter which says that a school to classify as a four year high school it must have at least seven teachers," says the superintendent of the Bailey county schools.

It is understood that Baileyboro and Longview are now maintaining separate schools with a total of nine teachers. It is the expressed opinion of County School Superintendent J. E. Adams that the two operating together could be run very efficiently and successfully with eight teachers, and it is believed this would meet the state requirements for classification.

With eight teachers, three would be assigned to high school work. In the grades, the primary teacher would take the beginners and first grade. Four teachers would then have the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades, which would be a grade and a half to each teacher. This plan could be worked out with the present buildings. The idea that first suggests itself is that the primary and high school would fit in at Baileyboro and the grades at the Longview school. It is thought that four trucks might be able to meet the transportation needs, but a fifth might possibly be needed.

In an estimated budget it was found that the above plan would call for about the same financial outlay as the present systems would require, if Baileyboro should operate school trucks. It is understood that where two or more districts are consolidated, the rate per acre per truck of the transportation

REV. JOINER HEADS WEST PLAINS BAPTIST MEETING

At a recent meeting of the West Plains Baptist association held in Littlefield, Rev. C. A. Joiner, pastor of the Baptist church, this city, was chosen moderator for the coming year.

Other officers elected were: C. O. Robbins, clerk, Littlefield; C. B. Robinson, treasurer, Amberli. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. Joe Wilson of Hale Center.

Sixteen churches were represented at the meeting, and there were visitors present from Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Gas Distribution System Started In Muleshoe Sat'day

Work of constructing the gas distribution service was begun in Muleshoe last Saturday by the West Texas Gas Co. who hold a franchise for local service.

Several blocks of gas line have already been welded. The ditch digging machine arrived Monday and went to work Tuesday. About fifteen men are employed in the work under direction of E. E. Hendricks, construction superintendent. It is understood the total system will embody about 23,000 feet of gas mains of different sizes.

About 100 consumers in Muleshoe have signed for service, and it is stated by local Manager J. J. Williams there will be many more as soon as the system is completed. However, Mr. Williams urges contemplating consumers to make application for service as promptly as possible.

The main line put in by the South Plains Pipe Line Co. has been completed from Farwell to Muleshoe and a border station is this week being erected on a lot purchased of D. C. Cox from his farm property about one-half mile north of Muleshoe. The West Texas Gas Co. will also have two regular stations located in town.

Since the entire system will first have to be completed and thoroughly tested, it will probably be two weeks yet before service will be given.

Car Turns Turtle On State Highway Two Are Injured

Saturday night about 8:00 o'clock, the Buick car in which John Tushie and his sister, Mrs. Eva Tushie, accompanied by her eight year old child, were riding, turned over at the curve of State Highway No. 7, about three miles this side of Sudan.

The car taking fire was a complete loss. The woman suffered a broken collar bone and slight internal injuries, the man was cut and bruised, while the child was slightly bruised.

Passers lifted the car from off the occupants plumed beneath them, thus saving their lives. They were brought that night into Muleshoe where medical attention was given them, leaving the next morning for Clovis, N. M.

W. T. C. of C. Meet Be Held May 14-16 In City of Lubbock

The Board of Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has set May 14, 15 and 16 as the date for the annual meeting to be held at Lubbock.

Lubbock won the 1930 convention last spring at the annual gathering in Abilene upon pledging itself to obtain 90 new members in the regional chamber, which mark was passed in a recent campaign.

Lubbock has already begun making plans for the meeting of this great regional body, and gives assurances that the program will be one of the best, most interesting and instructive of any yet held.

Demurrage Charge Made On Parcels Held Over Limit

Effective last week section 1074 of the U. S. Postal laws was amended placing a charge of five cents per day demurrage charges on all C. O. D. packages left in the Muleshoe post office more than 15 days, according to Postmaster Mrs. B. W. Carles. The rule applies to both registered and unregistered matter.

The new ruling provides that if such matter is not called for within 30 days following receipt it must be returned to the sender with the accumulated demurrage marked thereon.

NEW STEWARDS ARE ADDED TO METHODIST CHURCH LIST

The Methodist church, on advice of their District Presiding Elder, have added three new stewards to their list. They are: J. B. Burkhead, John Gaele, and G. A. Glasscock. Following the announcement of the new members, Rev. W. B. Hicks gave some valuable advice to both stewards and congregation.

LEVELLAND TO PAVE

Ten blocks of paving, proposed for Levelland, will cost approximately $99,000, engineers announce.

This paving will include the four blocks around the court house square, two blocks north from the square, and one block each east and west from the square.

One-third of the cost is to be borne by the city.

Bailey Co. May Save $8,000 On Feed Shipments

More than 55 car loads of feed being shipped into Bailey county during the past 10 days have been authorized to receive the freight reduction by Fred S. Reynolds, U. S. Department of Agriculture representative for this county.

While Bailey county has not been classed in the drought stricken area, yet it has been included in the reduced freight rate area on feed stuffs coming about through a conference held between railway officials and representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The saving per carload in freight is an average of $40, and the total saving on the 55 cars authorized to date represents a sum over $2,000.

The reduced rate applies to both dealer and consumer. Where dealers take advantage of it they are required to sign an agreement that the freight saving will be passed on to the actual consumer.

It is understood there will probably be 200 cars of feed shipped into this county during the coming season under the reduced rate.

Kendrick; Burton Hills, a gospel singer, Vance Wagner; Miss Blue Bonnet, the physiologist, Miss Margie Moore; Minerva, a spinster lady, Miss Mickey Beatty; Janie Bell Branahan, married daughter of the doctor, Mrs. Kocny; Una and Kate Branahan, nieces of the doctor, Misses Opal Jean Haney and Nina Mae Bruce; Susie, a poetess, Miss Evelyn Boone; Sally, another spinster lady, Miss Mary Goodson; Wes Evans, son of the doctor; Thad Penny, a tease, James Arnold.

New Buildings Are Being Erected And More Contemplated

Considerable building is under way in Muleshoe this week.

H. C. Henington is putting a two story addition to his residence; R. L. Brown is adding another room to his office building; Hagemier hardware store is adding a 25x50 foot warehouse to his business place; E. H. Wood is erecting a plumbing shop; C. L. Eason is putting the finishing touches to a residence, and R. F. Moore is constructing a modern residence near the school house.

It is understood several other citizens are contemplating building operations within the near future.

SUDAN WANTS SEWER

Citizens of Sudan will vote next Saturday on the issuing of $35,000 in bonds for constructing a sewer system in that municipality.

It is reported the sentiment is largely in favor of the measure.

Orchestra Organized

The musicians of the YL community have organized an orchestra. Much talent has been shown, and great progress is shown at each meeting.

Perry McMinn, the violinist, was chosen manager. Others who play are: Kathleen Willman, pianist; Aubrey Truweek, trumpet; Ernest Parsons, Arlis Richardson, and Mrs. Perry McMinn, guitar; Emit Parsons, banjo. Several new members are expected to join in the near future. The orchestra meets twice each week. Everyone interested in joining is asked to be present at some of the meetings. Come on people! Help this orchestra to be a success. It is something that will benefit our community.—Reporter.

LAZBUDDIE EPWORTH LEAGUE

The young people of Lazbuddie have met and organized an Epworth League. The following were elected as officers: president, Connie Francis; vice-president, Glynn Young; superintendent of first department of Spiritual Work, Zenobia Brock; superintendent of second department of Missionary work, Bernice Henington; superintendent of third department of Social Service, Loriane Noble; superintendent of fourth department of Recreation, Junita Ivy; secretary, Gladys Treider; corresponding secretary, Edith Julian; treasurer, Robert Prather; Epworth Era agent, Leon Julian; sponsor, Mrs. Fina Jennings.

A committee, appointed for the purpose of arranging a young men's quartet and girls' quartet, chose the following young men: Connie Francis, Glynn Young, Lee Roy McDaniels, and Wayne Eubanks. The girls are: Pauline Seaton, Zenobia Brock, Joyce Julian and Gladys Treider.

At the present we have 33 members enrolled, and many who attend but have not committed themselves to membership yet. We appreciate the help and interest of Mrs. Lloyd H. Jones in organizing. We wish to have others meet with us each Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.—Zenobia Brock, Reporter.

It is reported that Henington, the grocer, last week received the following note: "Please send me six dozen eggs, if good, will send check." Henington, however, was not doing business on any risky terms, so he wrote back: "Send check if good, will send six dozen eggs."

According to one of the operators at the local telephone, a man called up the other day wanting to know how much it would cost to talk to Amarillo. The operator stated the required amount. "But," said the man, "haven't you a special rate for listening? I want to talk to my wife."

Found At 71 Very Medicine He Required

Venerable Citizen Of San Antonio Tells What Konjola Did In His Stubborn Case.

MR. WILLIAM DAVIS

"It was nine years ago that I began having trouble with constipation, indigestion, bloating and poor appetite," said Mr. William Davis, 71 of 732 Kayton avenue, Dallas. I took several kinds of medicine but nothing did me good that Konjola did. I had to take laxatives daily and gas and indigestion followed practically every meal. At times the pain was so severe that I could scarcely bear it. My entire system was run down.

"I read so much about Konjola that I decided to give it a trial. I noticed an improvement within three days and in three weeks I felt better than I had in years. I am telling all my friends about Konjola and expect to take it until I am free of all ailments."

Konjola has been taken as much for thousands when taken regularly over a six to eight week period. It is truly a master medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Konjola is sold in Muleshoe at Collins Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Deliveries To Cotton Co-op. Increased As Season Is Advanced

That the cotton cooperative marketing movement is sweeping the State of Texas is indicated in deliveries already this year of more than 400,000 bales of cotton, according to M. G. Miller, local representative of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

Mr. Miller states that he had just received word from the State offices at Dallas that the 400,000 bale mark was passed with Monday's receipts, and at the rate deliveries continue to be made from all sections of the state, the half-million bale mark will be reached by November 1st. Mr. Miller also stated that similar reports of substantial progress were being received from other cotton cooperative marketing associations throughout the cotton belt.

In the north part of Bailey county fully one-third of the cotton ginned is being delivered to the Co-op. association, while in the south part of the county the percentage is much greater. "The bulk of deliveries are now being made to the Seasonal pool," Mr. Miller said, "through which pooling plan the member receives a final return on the actual grade and staple of cotton delivered by him based on the season's average sale prices for each particular quality. In this manner, he does not receive either the season's high price or the season's low price, but rather the average price throughout the year."

The Association's 90% initial advance on the market value of classed cotton continues, it was said. Deliveries to the channels of cooperative marketing this season are already 150,000 bales greater than at any time during the past ten years.

B. A. U. SOCIAL

Friday evening the members of the Baptist Adult union were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Griffiths.

After a short business session, games and contests were enjoyed under the usual efficient leadership of Mrs. G. H. Holland.

To our surprise we found that Mrs. L. S. Barron was a famous art critic and G. C. Danner a poet of note. They refused to tell their professional names. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames G. A. Joiner, G. C. Danner, A. W. Coker, W. C. Cox, J. L. Alsop, L. S. Barron, G. H. Holland, J. C. Buchanan, Byron Griffiths and Ray Griffiths.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR
By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

MARRIAGE

Two elements are at work in every legitimate marriage contract, "sex-urge," and "love." The physician, in his daily round of service to humanity, observes many phenomena which enter mightily into human existence for better or worse. I think the conscientious doctor may be a first-rate moral and spiritual adviser as well as a batter against disease.

The sex-problem, like the poor, "we have with us always." Without it, I fear there would be few marriages. Cut out sex urge, and the few marriage contracts, based on love alone, would endure unto the end, "when death do us part."

Sex urge is not love. Holy Writ refers to it as "lust of the flesh," a part of that evil triumvirate, "the world, the flesh and the devil." It is but a means to an end, to "multiply and replenish the earth." Sex urge is human, for human exercise and control. If uncontrolled—but who doesn't know the penalty?

Love is far above the lust of flesh. When men and women love each other truly, independent of sexual attraction, the divorce courts go a-begging. I have seen time and again, men and women live as husband and wife, regardless of sexual bankruptcy, and their devotion and happiness seemed far above the intensely animal nature of the sex urge. The sex urge is dangerous if wholly animal; it is not much higher than the union of the beasts of the field. The sexual marriage ceases when sex falls, then infidelity, unchastity, jealousy, the divorce court and its miserable attempts at self-justification. No, sex urge is not love; the latter rises above the coarse, animal passion.

When men and women learn that true love is an identity far removed from sex urge; when they try to occupy a plane above that of the beast of the field, then, and not till then, will the highest ideal of humanity have been realized.

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY—SPIRITUAL WEAPONS IN A WORLD WAR

Galatians 5:13-26
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
It is hard to find a new argument, for the liquor question has been making from the earliest days. The family of Noah, for example, had to face the shame and disgrace of a drunken father. Today no one undertakes to refute the facts that science presents when it is demonstrated that alcohol is a poison. These deadly reactions are always exact and clearly understood. Personal liberty is about the least argument that is presented in defense of the habit. Here our lesson text meets us and shows that Paul punctured that fallacy in his letter to the Galatians. Of course people have "dividual liberty but no one should do as he pleases to the detriment of self or of society. Real character makes one a servant of mankind and therefore one must not help forward the destruction of the other man. Paul was safe when he followed the teaching of Jesus and said "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Paul had the right kind of psychology in presenting the matter. He showed how to be constructive. If they would endeavor to walk in accord with the Holy Spirit they would at once cease to center their thinking in themselves and see what they might obtain for their own satisfaction. All were aware of the works of the flesh, yet Paul catalogues them. Nearly every one is intoxicated or increased by the use of alcoholic beverages.

Then note Paul's contrast—even the least argument that is presented in defense of the habit. Here our lesson text meets us and shows that Paul punctured that fallacy in his letter to the Galatians. Of course people have "dividual liberty but no one should do as he pleases to the detriment of self or of society. Real character makes one a servant of mankind and therefore one

FOLLOWING THE DEMAND OF W. T. C. C. GEOGRAPHIES BE CORRECTED; TEXAS LEGION SEEKS HISTORY RECOGNITION

Following complaint made by West Texas Chamber of Commerce that the geographies are incorrect regarding the State of Texas, the executive committee of the Texas American Legion further complains that the histories used in this state are also either incorrect or decidedly lacking in important information that should be given the pupils of today.

Four American histories now in use in the schools, one of them being purely a Texas history merely mention that Texas sent the Thirty-sixth and Ninetieth Divisions across to France, it was pointed out when the former made an outstanding record in the Champagne-Ardenne drive and the latter was active at St. Mihiel.

The World Almanac says the capture of St. Etienne was one of the greatest events of the war, but neither this book nor any of the Texas histories mention that it was the "Thirty-sixth that captured the town."

"It is high time that the legion should take some action on the little regard given to Texas troops in histories," State Adjutant Whiteaker said, "for only in that way will the people of this State and country learn what our soldiers accomplished in 1918. Units of the Thirty-sixth captured $10,000,000 in German war supplies at St. Etienne but no history mentions that fact."

"When the One Hundred and Forty-first and One Hundred and Forty-second Infantry Regiments were sent to the front to relieve the exhausted Second Division," commented Thomas D. Barton, "we faced one of the hardest situations of the conflict, admitted by all military leaders. For the German and French armies in that same sector had tried to dislodge each other without success and the Second Division failed as well. Then the Thirty-sixth succeeded, but history says it was the Second Division."

Barton, former adjutant general, commanded one of the assault units at St. Etienne. Of the 800 men who charged with him only 208 remained after the attack, and of 17 line officers only 2 survived. The German line was set back a total of 25 miles. Practically all of the One Hundred and Forty-second soldiers were from West Texas towns, the regiment commanded by Col. Alfred W. Bloor. Col. Will Jackson commanded the One Hundred and Forty-first.

Neither the Texas school history nor any other gives the name of any Texas officer, the name of Gen. John A. Hulen being omitted.

While history is fond of dwelling on the exploit of Sergeant York in capturing and killing many German soldiers, a Texan at Vimy Ridge just about equalled his record, but gets no mention. "All of this is just a matter of official record, easily confirmed," Whiteaker said, "and since it concerns Texas it is regrettable no Texas history gives to the youth of our State so little recognition. Texas history does justice to our war for independence and the conflict between the States, but there were 200,000 Texans in all branches of service during the World War and their valorous conduct is worthy of the attention of historians."

Key—"Mornin' Mr. Rokey, heard first and One and Forty-second Infantry Regiments were sent to the front to relieve the exhausted Second Division," commented Thomas D. Barton, "we faced one of the hardest sit-criptions. For a while it seemed as though the race was going to be a tie, but the reds just worked a little harder than the blues at the last. Since Myrtis and her side were the winners, Leon and his side will give the social. Things are rather rushing at the present, so the social will be detained for a few days, however, there will be a write-up about it under the school news soon after it happens.

Have Civic Club
The Civic Class of Muleshoe High school determined a civic club Thursday afternoon. The following officers were elected: president, Adella Beavers, vice-president, Leon Morris; sec-treas., Ruth Evans, reporter, Maudie Douglas.

The purpose of this club is to learn all we can about the government of Texas and the United States, also, how to become a good American citizen.

Rheta Mae Arnold, a member of the Sophomore class, suffered a severe burn on the hand Monday morning of this week, but she is able to be at school.

Mary Frances Willis spent last weekend in Sudan and Littlefield.

Dumb. The other day Ruth Evans asked Miss Boone if hardships were made of iron or cement.

Another of the sophisticated seniors of Muleshoe High school, Miss Juno Glascock. She has gone to Farwell to attend school for the remainder of this year. She is staying in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thomas. The school hated to lose her, but she seems to be well satisfied.

Everyone come to the High school auditorium Friday night and see "Miss Blue Bonnet."

The first grade won the high attendance mark last week by having 100 per cent present. They have held this record for the past two weeks.

The first grade children have constructed a miniature farm yard in their project work this week. They are very interested in it.

The parts have been assigned for a little play which will be put on in chapel within a few weeks. Watch for the date and be present.

The third grade is making a study of Texas. We are making Texas maps, reading Texas history stories, learning to sing "The Eyes of Texas," and are learning the products and industries of Texas.

We have begun training for the story telling contest next spring. Several pupils are able to tell their stories now.

Station W. U. G. "Watch Us Grow." Those on program last Thursday were: Hattie Ray Griffiths, Jo Ann Alldridge, Eugent Birdsong, Jack Edwards, and Gladys Sammons. We had a good program. Carl Jr., Elrod is announcer for Thursday.

Grammar Grade Honor Roll
Fifth grade: Deward Douglas, Kathryn Evans, Nelma Moore, Goldie Jim Coy, Maxaline Birdson, Pauline Burton, Clifton Griffiths, Zoe McReynold, Irma Willis and Wayne Mann, Jr.

Fourth grade: Mary Hester Glaze, Lee.
First grade: Bettie Jo Holland, Lele Mae Barron, Francis Bartly, Junior Brooks, Myrleen Wimberly, Baxter Robinson.

Primer grade: Billie Frank Beavers, Marshall Morris, Connie Dale Cupton.

More men on the payroll and fewer men working overtime is a good motto for industry.

Do your trading at home.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Watch and pray; that ye may enter not into temptation.—Matthew 26:41. Every temptation is an opportunity of our getting nearer to God.—J. Q. Adams.

BE NOT DECEIVED

The business man who keeps his overhead business expense cut in proportion to the volume of business done is wise, but he should not confuse legitimate business expenditures that are vital and necessary to maintain his highest level of business activity with those that are merely incidental. When a business man cuts his newspaper advertising appropriation, under the guise of cutting down his legitimate overhead, he is making a big mistake, for advertising is one of the most important and most productive expenses. It is a noticeable fact that large corporations and other business concerns of magnitude often double and treble their advertising appropriation when times are dull. To get business during dull times may cost more but it is better than doing without business even though the profits are not so great.

It is a well proven fact that a merchant is either going to pay for his own advertising in accrued business, or else pay for his competitor's advertising in loss of business.

It's a good motto: "Keep advertising, and advertising will keep you."

LIVE AND DEAD TOWNS

Here are two questions often asked by residents of towns like Muleshoe: "What is the difference between a live and a dead town?" and "How does one community earn the reputation of being enterprising while another is called stagnant?" Both towns may look the same, and both have the same natural advantages—yet the one has the reputation of being dead and the other alive. As we see it the difference lies in the attitude of the citizens themselves.

A live town is one in which there are plenty of men and women ready to take hold and put over any worthy community enterprise, and a dead town is one in which every man is selfishly interested in his own affairs to spend any time on community matters.

That answers both questions—now you fit the answers to your individual efforts and see if you don't notice an improvement in your own community before 1930 has run its course. The way to make and keep Muleshoe a live town is for every one to get on the job and stay there.

NEED MORE HOUSES

It is the statement of one of Muleshoe's leading citizens that at least 25 or 30 more houses could be readily rented if there was some one to build them. The gentleman making the statement knows whereof he speaks, and the Journal adds that from four to 12 people come to this office every week seeking houses to rent.

It goes without saying that the population of Muleshoe could have been greatly increased during the past three months if there had been plenty of houses for the people wanting them during this period.

It would certainly be a good business proposition for some one or more citizens to start building dwelling houses for rent, as there are several lines of business not represented here now that would be if they could obtain housing accommodations. The general growth of the town will well warrant such an investment, and the returns will be profitable.

CLOSE GINNING

Linters are likely to find poor picking this year and for two reasons:

First, Muleshoe has a couple of first class gins that are doing excellent work, and second, because seed this year seems to be easier to gin than common, the seed being stripped especially clean.

A visit to local gins and a few minutes of watching the seed coming out will convince the casual observer that the grower is this year getting several extra pounds for his bale.

MIDGET MESSAGES

A doctor may do something for feet that are swollen, but the Muleshoe man whose head is that way is beyond relief.

Muleshoe mothers never realize what small homes they live in until they try hiding something from the kids.

Any man around Muleshoe with potatoes and cabbage in the cellar and canned fruit, bacon and lard in the pantry doesn't need to worry over what happens in Wall street.

Another thing harder than eating molasses with store teeth is trying to convince a modern Muleshoe girl that she could learn to be helpful in the kitchen.

The lively stable business might still be thriving in Muleshoe if some smart chap had thought of a plan for trading the old horse in on a new one.

Any Muleshoe woman can make her husband listen, but it is a rare one who can make him like it.

Nobody has as much the matter with him as a Muleshoe man who has just looked over the patent medicine almanac.

Insurance is what a Muleshoe husband works his head off to keep up so his wife's second husband can have things pretty easy.

There are still a few old-timers around Muleshoe who can remember when they put up "no smoking" signs because some woman objected to smoking.

SOME SNAP SHOTS

This community is safe so long as a majority of Muleshoe men prefer the old-fashioned night-shirt to embroidered pajamas.

Since skirts have become longer and dollar bills smaller, it takes more money than ever to cover a girl.

An eastern doctor holds all candy healthy. But, even at that, gum drops are none too popular with Muleshoe people who have their teeth.

You can get that schoolgirl complexion at either one of the Muleshoe drug stores; put you can't get the giggle.

Old Colonel Hardwork makes people healthy and prosperous, and yet people hate him for it.

Goodrich, and the unknown heirs of each of said named parties and their heirs or legal representatives each of whose place of residence is unknown, the Security Savings Bank of Waterloo, Iowa, a defunct corporation and the unknown stockholders of such defunct corporation, each of whose place of residence is unknown, defendants said and before number 243 of the list of said court, the nature of the plaintiff's demand is as follows, to-wit: Plaintiff alleges that on the 6th day of April, 1930 he was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described property lying and being situate in Bailey County, Texas, to-wit: Survey No. 52 Block "B" Melvin, Blum & Blum Survey, containing 640 acres of land more or less; that on said date defendants and each of them entered upon said land and elected plaintiff herefrom and now without possession thereof from the plaintiff.

Plaintiff further alleges that he claims, had and owns same through consecutive chain of title from the State of Texas to himself evidenced by instruments the deed of conveyance specifically set out in said petition and that he is now the owner of all of said land and entitled to possession thereof.

Plaintiff further pleads specifically that he has had and held possession of said tract or land under color of title from the State of Texas with peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of same for a period of more than three years, and that he has likewise held such possession for a period of more than five years, paying taxes thereon and that he has likewise held such peaceable and adverse possession for more than ten years, enjoying and using the same so as to mature the title under the three, five, five years and ten years statutes of limitation, which plaintiff specifically pleads and invokes.

Plaintiff prays for title and possession of said land, that his title be quieted, that all clouds be removed from his title and that any and all claims, interest or estate in said lands, had or claimed by defendants be divested out of them and invested in plaintiff.

HEREIN FAIL NOT but have you then and there before said court this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

WITNESS J. L. ALSUP, Clerk of the District Court of Bailey County, Texas, GIVEN under my hand and seal of said court in the town of Muleshoe, Texas this 1st day of October 1930. J. L. ALSUP, Clerk of the District Court of Bailey County, Texas. (SEAL) Oct. 17, 24, 31, Nov. 7, 1930.

The subject for Hi-League program next Sunday evening is "How Conscience Judges Right and Wrong," the leader being Miss Clymena Peters. The principals underlying Jesus' decisions regarding right and wrong will be discussed by Mary Frances Willis, George Wood and Woodrow Glasscock.

CUT GINNING COSTS

Cotton ginner at Amherst, in keeping with other ginning points on the South Plains have reduced their price of ginning from 40 to 30 cents per hundred pounds.

The reduction was a voluntary one, the ginner meeting unexpectedly when reports came from other towns about reductions there.

YOU'VE GOT TO GIVE THEM TIME

A woman whose son is in his second year at college writes that her boy is well mannered and intelligent but does not seem to have any objective.

"His father and I urge him to decide what he wants to do in life," she says, "but he tells us that he can not make up his mind."

For then encouragement of this For the encouragement of this a certain man now stands near the top of his profession, with an income considerably in excess of a hundred thousand dollars a year. He worked hard in college, but his health was poor; he was frequently despondent, and at his graduation he felt that he was not trained for anything.

He took the first job offered, and made surprisingly good progress. Just about the time that his parents thought he was well established, he suddenly chucked the job and started around the world. After a year's travel, which used up all his savings, he started in another position. The company failed, and he was out again. A third time he started in a different line, but it did not interest him. He could not get to first base.

On his fourth attempt, when he was almost thirty years old, he finally found work that gripped him. Also, he became engaged to be married. He jumped into high speed and has been successful ever since.

I know another man whose ability was clearly recognized by the heads of the big company where he worked, but somehow they could not seem to fit him into the place where he would be really productive. Four or five times they shifted him into different departments. They were just about to turn him into the street when he struck the one thing for which he would be really fitted. Today he is vice president of the whole concern.

When I buy an automobile the salesman tells me that it has been perfectly manufactured for its work, and carefully inspected and tuned up. At the same time, he says that I must be patient with it. For the first two thousand miles I must run it slowly, and I must bring it in often and have it adjusted.

We expect this in an automobile. But in a youngster I have the notion that the factory—which is the school or college—ought to turn him out all ready for a championship race at high speed.

It takes a lot of wisdom and patience to be the father of a boy who is starting in life. Boys must have a chance to get adjusted. You've got to give them time.

SOUTH PLAINS COUNTIES ARE WELL REPRESENTED AT STATE FAIR, MANY PREMIUMS ARE AWARDED TO THEM

An agricultural exhibit, representing the 15 South Plains counties, at the State Fair at Dallas, is one of the most complete in the entire building and is attracting much attention.

The exhibit is different from any other exhibit in that it has signs that explain and supplement the actual showing of products.

In addition to showing all kinds of crops grown on the South Plains, the exhibit has signs telling the average production of crops, the use of the product, and other interesting data that is lacking in the regular exhibits.

The counties represented in the exhibit are as follows: Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Gaines, Dawson, and Borden. The exhibit has a map in the center of the background showing the State of Texas with the South Plains counties blocked off.

"The eyes of Texas are on the South Plains," a sign reads within the map. Other signs tell of pure shallow water in an inexhaustible supply, four million acres of fertile land awaiting the plow that can be purchased at from thirty to fifty dollars per acre.

A chart on one side shows the increase in land in cultivation from 544,000 acres in 1910 to 3,320 acres today. On the other side a chart tells of advantages for dairying and poultry raising, the yield of cotton and grain sorghums, the rainfall, climate, schools and other things of interest to a prospective new comer.

In the center of the exhibit a revolving wheel represented Lubbock's slogan, "The Hub of the Plains." This wheel carried the largest watermelon at the State Fair this year, in addition to grain sorghums, cotton, wheat, sudan and cane seeds, fruit and vegetables and miniature animals representing dairying, beef stock and hog raising and poultry raising.

VERY LATESTS

By MARY MARSHALL

Fine hand work and embroidery are coming back into their own. The home dressmaker should keep pace with this trend in present fashions by learning how to do some of the more effective sorts of embroidery. The blouses shown in the sketch is not at all difficult to copy, the embroidery being of the simple peasant sort that does not put too much of a tax on the eyes. It consists of triangles and straight lines, the straight lines as well as the outlines of the triangles being done with black and the triangles with color. If you like you may use three contrasting colors for the triangles—first one of blue, then one of red and then one of yellow.

This type of embroidery may be applied in many ways. Cut a piece of cardboard the size of the triangle and then measure with a ruler equal distances along the material where you want the embroidery to appear. Lightly mark the triangles at regular spaces, connect with straight lines and there you are. The triangles are worked with satin stitch, using mercerized embroidery cotton, and the outlining is done of fast colored black embroidery cotton of the same sort.

When Fowls Are Removed Pests Do Not Survive.

Under ordinary temperatures a louse will not live more than a week removed from a bird, so if louse-free chickens are to be placed in a henhouse previously occupied by other poultry, it is necessary only to clean the house a week or so in advance, according to F. H. Wilson of the department of entomology of the New York state college of agriculture. Incubator-hatched chicks can be reared louse free quite easily if they are isolated from other chickens, he says.

To rid birds of lice the sodium fluoride treatment is recommended. Drenches of this material distributed among the feathers is the usual procedure. It is a rather irritating substance so precautions should be taken to prevent its getting into the eyes or being distributed over the skin. Mr. Wilson warns. If the bird is dusted over a paper, the dust which does not stay on the bird can be saved and used again.

A new method to kill lice suggested by the makers of acetone sulphates is to paint the upper surfaces of the roosts with the sulphate, undiluted. It is thought that the fumes from this material rising among the feathers of the roosting chickens will kill the lice and cause them to drop off.

To merely clean the henhouse and leave it a few days will not kill red mites, however. These are small reddish colored creatures that live in cracks and crevices and crawl over the birds at night to feed, and then they return to hide during the day. Painting or spraying the roosts with kerosene or a properly diluted solution of nicotine sulphate usually eliminates the mites.

Weed Out Boarders and Save High-Priced Feed

Weed out boarders that cost thousands in feed. Failure to weed out and sell the unprofitable hens during the summer costs poultrymen thousands of dollars each year. Profits that could be realized from the laying hens is used to feed those boarder hens that eat high-priced feed without producing any eggs. This loss can easily be stopped by culling the flock about once each month during the summer. Culling at regular intervals makes it possible to remove from the flock of unprofitable hens shortly after they cease production.

Cod Liver Oil Helps Build Up Ailing Hens

Adequate roosting room is essential to the proper treatment of chicks on range. Chicks that are crowded at night are overworked and weakened. From four to six inches of roost space should be allowed for each bird. If there are too many birds for the size of the colony houses, summer shelters should be built. A summer shelter consists of a roof, sides and door covered with wire and with roosts on the inside running from end to end.

Poultry Facts

Pullets thrive better if separated from the cockerels soon after sex can be distinguished.

Leghorn chicks will usually start roosting on low flat roosts in two or three weeks while the heavy breeds still prefer to stay on the floor at that age.

A board or concrete floor, either is suitable for a poultry house. Concrete has the advantage of not warping and being more easily cleaned than a board floor.

Careful market men no longer buy thin, sickly birds. Since the grower has been responsible for the condition of the fowls, it is only fair that he should stand the loss.

The only difference between white and dark eggs is the color of the shell. The insides are exactly the same.

Hens are rarely profitable layers after two or three laying seasons. Production drops sharply after the second or third years.

The best treatment for sick turkeys is the ax. Ordinarily there is little that can be done after turkeys become affected and run down physically.

Training turkeys to roost while they are quite young helps avoid crowding in the brooders and may save many poult from being crushed or smothered. Laths tacked on four-inch blocks make good perches for the small turkeys.

To control red mites, paint the wood with some strong, oily penetrating material. Carbolicum, cresote, crude caustic acid and kerosene mixed in equal parts; whitewash; waste crank pine oil; and lime sulphur are all recommended.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PROGRAM

The subject for discussion by members of the Senior Epworth League at the Methodist church next Sunday evening is: "How Conscience Judges of Right and Wrong." Miss Iris Hardin, leader. Scripture lesson is taken from John 8:9 and II Cor. 1:12. Complimentary subjects are to be discussed as follows: "Is Conscience Always a Good Guide?" Miss Jewel Haney. Questions on Enlightened Conscience will be asked by Miss Boone.

J. R. Sheriff, of West Camp, is remodeling his poultry sheds and houses by making up-to-date nests, feed hoppers and roosts. When completed his houses will be equipped to keep his hens shut in for any length of time. He will be a poultry demonstrator, cooperating with the County Agent in keeping records on a flock for a year. This means he will endeavor to manage his flock in a manner to make the most money out of it. Arrangements are being made for other poultry raisers to become demonstrators.

A Chick Ration

This ration is to be fed as a mash in hoppers:
Ground wheat 200 pounds; threshed grain sorghum, 200 pounds; poultry meat, meal or scraps, 100 pounds; salt, 3 pounds.

This ration is an old and well proven one, used by practically all the A. & M. colleges of the United States and by many breeders. It will be found very palatable for the birds.

Hog Feeding Mixture

Any of the threshed grain sorghums fed in troughs or hoppers as a protein supplement—equal parts of cottonseed and tankage is probably one of the cheapest and most satisfactory feeds obtainable.

Repeated experiments show there is no real advantage in grinding or soaking grain to be fed to hogs.

Feeding headed grain sorghums to hogs is very satisfactory if the waste can be avoided. While the hog thrives largely on concentrated food, yet he does not eat too much of the stems in headed food.

I will be glad to furnish plans to assist anyone in the building of hog feeders of waterers.

PERFECTING OF COMBUSTION ENGINE—LOWER POWER COSTS

was started many years ago in Egypt with ox teams for motive power and bucket pumps as a device for lifting the water. With the crude appliances, the pumping area of the world was very small indeed. Therefore the growth of the pumping system for irrigation has been bound up with and in a large measure, dependent upon the invention of more efficient pumps and the lowering of the price of power.

Again, as important economies are effected in the use and application of water by the irrigator, higher and still higher lifts become practicable. Because water is plentiful there is no reason for the user to be prodigal with it. Indeed, it is not infrequently unprofitable and expensive to use an excessive amount of water on growing crops, to say nothing of the waste.

When irrigators of the San Joaquin valley in California first began to apply water on what had been dry farmed lands, they frequently used over nine feet. Now about one-third that amount is considered ample. The water users of Greeley and neighboring districts in Colorado used to think their crops would burn up unless they had a miner's inch to the acre. Now they are raising crops on the same ground that are producing four times as much with one-fourth of the water formerly used. In many instances they have learned that too much water is as bad as no water, and they have also learned that cultivation will, to a great extent, take the place of irrigation.

In the Blackwater valley the area of greatest profitable life has been placed at 100,000 acres, while it is known that the same water supply extends under a still larger area where pumping may still be practiced but with less profit, and, there is also a second outlying area underlaid with much water where the pumping depth is still prohibitive with the devices that are now in use. It is quite conceivable, however, that as fuel gets cheaper, as more efficient devices for raising water to the surface level are invented and put into use, as a more economic distribution is effected as the price for producing crops mounts to a higher level and the growing of higher priced crops adapted to this region are planted—as these conditions come about, even greater lifts will become profitable, and the irrigator will put out into wider and still wider areas.

Thus, with the inevitable conditions existing, any calculation of the ultimate population of wealth of the Blackwater valley would be erroneous which took as a basis the area of profitable lift as it is at the present time. Such a calculation must include a much wider scope of valley land, as the above economies are directly in line with the general development of the pumping system of irrigation.

Dr. J. W. Boyle, of Shiner, who has been visiting his mother in Clovis, N. M., and looking after his farm located about four miles north of Muleshoe, was in the Journal office Thursday of last week, leaving his subscription order for a year. He complimented the management on the excellent paper they are now printing, and was highly in his praise of the farming conditions of Bailey county.

RENOVATE PILLOWS AND OTHER BEDDING

Mild Sunny Days of June Are Particularly Good.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pillows that have been in constant use throughout the year may need freshening. This is particularly true if they have been used in a sickroom. June is a good month for any of the work connected with renovating the bedding, but especially the pillows, because of the many mild sunny days available when they will dry easily.

Pillows can be washed by either of two methods, according to the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. The first method of washing them is without removing the feathers. Scrub the pillow in a weak washing soda solution, using a good suds. Repeat in a second suds if necessary. Rinse in lukewarm water, changing it two or three times. If an extractor is used, extract, and then dry the pillows on a sheet in a warm place, preferably in the sun. Otherwise squeeze out as much of the excess water as possible and dry in the same way. Beat the pillows from time to time during the drying.

The second and more satisfactory way is to transfer the feathers to a muslin bag two or three times the size of the ticking by sewing the edges of the openings of the ticking and the bag together and shaking the feathers from one to the other. Wash and dry the bag of feathers in the same way as a whole pillow. After the ticking has been washed separately apply a very stiff starch mixture to the inside with a sponge to close the pores of the material and prevent the feathers from working through. Re-fill the ticking in the same way it was emptied.

Plus Elbow Grease

When scrubbing all woods or metals, use a damp but not too wet cloth, as too much moisture prevents the friction that is necessary for good results.

Apple and Rhubarb Pie

Favored by Everybody

Everybody likes apple pie and almost everybody likes rhubarb pie—so why not try both fruits together for a somewhat novel combination? The suggestion is from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, which has tested the result before recommending it.

- 1 large apple ½ to ¾ cup sugar
- 2 cups sliced rhubarb ½ tsp. salt
- 1 lb. butter Pastry

Line a deep pie tin with pastry and bake until lightly browned. Pare and cut the apple into thin slices, cover the crust with the sliced apple, and sprinkle with part of the sugar and salt, which have been mixed together. Put the sliced rhubarb over the apple, add the remaining sugar, and dot with the butter. Lay strips of pastry in checker board fashion over the fruit and bake in a moderate oven until the fruit is tender.

B. Morrison, filed in said court on the 13th day of October 1930, against the defendants, H. D. Chipley, W. L. Pirtle, J. H. Goodrich, J. C. Orr, The Peck-Wright-Peck Investment Company, a corporation, Texas State Bank of Farwell, a corporation, and

Western Cattle Loan Company of Kansas City, Missouri, and the unknown heirs, and legal representatives of each said all of said named defendants, and their heirs or legal representatives, each of whose place of residence is unknown, the Texas State Bank of Farwell, a defunct corporation, and Western Cattle Loan Company of Kansas City, Missouri, a defunct corporation, and the unknown stockholders of each of such defunct corporations, each of whose place of residence is unknown, said suit being Number 945 on the docket of said court; the nature of the plaintiff's demand is as follows, to-wit:

Plaintiff alleges that on the 1st day of October 1930, he was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described property, lying and being situated in Bailey County, Texas, to-wit: The Southwest one-fourth of Section No. 60, Block B, Melvin Blum & Blum Survey, consisting of 160 acres of land, more or less; that on said date, defendants and each of them entered upon said land and ejected plaintiff therefrom, and now withhold possession thereof from the plaintiff.

Plaintiff further alleges that he claims, holds and owns same through consecutive chain of title from the State of Texas, to himself, evidenced by instruments and deeds of conveyance, specifically set out in said petition and that he is now the owner of all of said land and entitled to possession thereof.

Plaintiff prays specifically that he has had and held possession of said tract of land, under color of title from the State of Texas, with peaceable and adverse possession of same for a period of more than three years, and that he has likewise held such possession for a period of more than five years, paying taxes thereon, and that he has likewise had such peaceable and adverse possession for more than ten years, enjoying and using the same so as to mature the title under three years, five years, and ten years statutes of limitation, which plaintiff specially pleads and invokes.

Plaintiff prays for title and possession of said land, that his title be quieted, that all clouds be removed from his title and that any and all claims, interest or estate in said lands, had or claimed by defendants be divested out of them and invested in plaintiff.

HEREIN FAIL NOT; but have you then and there before said court this writ with your return thereon, showing how you propose to execute the same.

WITNESS J. L. Alsop Clerk of the District Court of Bailey County, Texas.

GIVEN under my hand and seal of said court, in the town of Muleshoe, Texas, this 13th day of October, 1930.
