Three Die In Gas Explosions, Fire At Goldsmith

GOLDSMITH — A series of three explosions in the El Paso Natural Gas Co. plant just outside this Ector County community of 387 people killed three Odessa men early this morning. A 12-inch line between two gas compression plants ruptured, causing a flash fire and three explosions, a company spokesman in El Paso said.

Three other employees were injured in the blast. Virgil Faulkner, 49, of Odessa suffered severe burns and is listed in guarded condition in Odessa Medical Center Hospital. Mike Auther, 23, of Goldsmith suffered a broken foot and smoke inhalation and shock. He is listed in satisfactory condition in the Odessa hospital. Howard Frymire was treated for facial cuts and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Service for the three men is pending at Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home in Odessa. Easterling Funeral Home is handling arrangements for Lackey and Carpenter. The Goldsmith Volunteer Fire Department was the first on the scene, arriving shortly after the explosion at 12:01 a.m. Fireman Toby Browder said two tall cooling towers and the trucks and an ambulance from nearby residential area where blast occurred, one fireman said. The three dead men reportedly had just left a building to check a monitoring station when the main blast occurred. Goldsmith firemen went through the community telling residents to evacuate. John McFall, company spokesman in El Paso, said the plant is designed to handle 200 million cubic feet of gas per day.

Major Fire Rips ARCO Refinery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A nine-alarm oil refinery fire which sent Mayor Frank L. Rizzo to the hospital with a broken thigh was confined to an area near one of the storage tanks this morning, fire officials said.

The 54-year-old mayor, who is campaigning for re-election, will have to use crutches for about two months, according to the doctors. The 6-foot-2, 250-pound former police commissioner broke his thigh when he collided with either a fireman or one of his bodyguards and fell on a concrete strip, according to preliminary reports.

Parental Input Minor Factor In School Plans

By LUANNA CROW
Parental input: Does it carry any clout with the Midland public schools? Well, yes, but the "results of the educational process" may well carry more.

There is some opposition to the program, especially a significant amount first into schools where parents are receptive and the trustees who have any political opposition, as laymen while depending on the advice of professional educators, and for students who cannot function in a sense of dedication. Winget said.

Winget said school boards are an extension of the community and to take data to evaluate and to reach decisions. While Mailey asserts that board in policy making for each community, he is nevertheless in good faith, a policy-making body which boards in determining which courses will be offered in Texas schools and how they will be presented.

Such is the case with bilingual education, career education, drug abuse prevention, drug abuse prevention, and others. Although endorsing the important limitation placed on the superintendent's authority, the state superintendent feels the need to allow more flexibility on the part of the board in policy making for each community. State Rep. Tom Craddock said he is totally in favor of the local school boards setting their own curriculum. He added, however, he thinks Texas will see "more and more" (See PARENTS Page 2A)

Goldsmith Numb Following Pre-Dawn Blast At Gas Plant

By GEORGE MASSEY
Staff Writer

GOLDSMITH — The immediate shock was worn down to numbness, and the people of Goldsmith seemed to be back at their normal pace of living late this morning.

During the early morning hours, an explosion had ripped through a scrubber unit at the nearby El Paso Natural Gas Co. plant. Three men had been killed and several others injured in a tremendous blast and ensuing fire.

After daylight, anyone driving through the streets of the small community of 387 persons could see the normal routine of the people there continuing on its course. Children and their mothers walked along the streets on the way to school. There was the usual crowd of oilfield men at the main street cafe.

But this day the men and the women and their children had more to talk about than the routine. The topic was tragedy.

Guards had been stationed at two gate entrances to the gas plant — no one was allowed inside the area except firemen and plant workers by late morning.

One gate guard, a plant worker who said his job is that of an operator, described what he saw and heard during the earliest moments of the blast and fire.

The man, who did not give his name, said, "I was at home at the new camp about a mile south of the plant when the explosion rocked the area. I came out and saw the place lit up with flames over there."

"No one knows what caused the blast or fire," he said, "the only ones who could say for sure are dead. They found the bodies on that gravel embankment on the south side of the scrubber units."

The guard pointed to an area about 300 yards to the northwest of the road where the plant gate is located.

There were the remains of a pickup truck parked alongside the gas scrubber unit. Everything within a 50 to 60-yard radius of the unit was charred black and burned.

The guard said the fire trucks from Goldsmith were the first to arrive at the scene. He said, "Mike Arther, an oilfield worker in the large metal building south of the plant had made a run for it and got to the camp where I live."

"Arther was hysterical," the guard said, "he could barely get to the camp. He could barely even talk to us."

Arther had been working with another operator, a man named Faulkner, inside the building Electric Service Co. and on when the blast occurred.

The guard said, "Maybe there was a leak in one of the lines. As a matter of fact, I don't know. It was about 10:30 p.m. for the men to go out and check the lines and make sure meter planning and zoning minutes checks. I don't know how it happened. I don't think anyone does."

Another plant hand then drove up in a company truck and notified the gate guards that nearly all of the outside pumps shut down. The pumps at the plant were shut off immediately following the blast.

At Medical Center Hospital in Odessa, Faulkner and Arther had both been admitted for treatment. Faulkner was in guarded condition with burns while Arther was in less serious condition being treated for shock and smoke inhalation.

Arther's wife said one of the men killed in the blast was "her husband's best friend. She said her husband had not been told of his friend's death, and could not talk to anyone until the shock had worn off."

Someone has let it out that he suffered burns in the blast, but that's not true. It was all smoke and he passed out while trying to help another injured man into a car. Mike then fell to the ground and in the excitement the driver took off and the car ran over Mike's foot."

Asked if she was going to suggest that her husband get into another line of work after this incident, Mrs. Arther said, "We're not making any decisions yet. It's just too soon."

The guard expressed it another way, "You can get killed driving your car. This looks like I slept through the blast," he said, "I don't know how many hours put in at the plant, I did it, but I did. The first not many people have been hurt I knew that anything was going here."

Connally Predicts Reagan Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally says President Ford should be "much bolder, much more forceful" in order to provide the leadership the nation needs.

"I think he's a fine fellow, but it's not clear whether or not he has the capacity of leadership to challenge and inspire the nation," Connally said Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Connally, a Democrat who turned Republican in 1972 and served as secretary of the treasury under former President Richard Nixon, predicted Ronald Reagan will challenge Ford for the 1976 Republican nomination.

"And I think it's going to be a horse race and I don't know what I will do," Connally added.

He said that while he likes Ford personally, "the still has a long way to go."

Big Spring Will Discuss Annexations

BIG SPRING — Big Spring City Councilmen will conduct two public hearings on annexations south and east of town when they convene Tuesday.

The issues involve 2,000 acres of U.S. 87 south of town and 629.06 acres between the city, Place Extension and Interstate 20 east of town.

The city will also be holding a public hearing on a rate increase for another operator, a man named Faulkner, inside the building Electric Service Co. and on when the blast occurred.

The guard said, "Maybe there was a leak in one of the lines. As a matter of fact, I don't know. It was about 10:30 p.m. for the men to go out and check the lines and make sure meter planning and zoning minutes checks. I don't know how it happened. I don't think anyone does."

Delegates Discuss Economic Plan

By ELIJAS ANTAR

PARIS (AP) — Delegates from 18 industrial and developing nations were meeting in Paris today to make arrangements for the long dialogue on changes in international economic arrangements that they failed to agree on last April.

The meeting is expected to formalize an understanding worked out during the summer for foreign ministers of 27 nations to meet in December said Louis de Guiringaud, United States.

They would appoint four commissions — on energy, raw materials, development and financial matters — which would work for at least a year. Then the foreign ministers would meet again to see where things stood.

The four commissions will be in a position of making block grants to let everybody do as they would with the money."

Mailey said, however, that state-sponsored programs tend to be in a position of making block grants to let everybody do as they would with the money."

Reflecting a somewhat different view, State Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson said he feels the local school boards "have considerable latitude" in structuring their programs.

"Personally, I favor as much latitude as possible for the local district. However, there must be certain requirements for accountability for state tax dollars," he said.

Otherwise, the state would be in a position of making block grants to let everybody do as they would with the money."

Other agenda items include approval of the 1975 tax roll bearing a report from the tax assessor-collector on current and delinquent tax collections and hearing a report on football games.

Contracts will be awarded to construct tennis courts for Austin Freshman School, to repair the roofs at Austin Freshman, San Jacinto Junior High, De Zavala Elementary and Washington Elementary schools, and to purchase band instruments.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Paul C. Foraker, Rebelee sponsor, at Lee High School, 694-2551, extension 34.

Reports from deputy district governors and zone chairmen concerning operations and activities of the clubs in the district were heard, along with reports from district committee chairmen.

Federal Trial Experts To Meet Here Thursday

Federal court trial experts from Dallas, Lubbock, Amarillo and Odessa will join W. B. Browder Jr. of Midland Thursday in a teaching faculty for a one-day State Bar of Texas Institute.

Set for 9 a.m. at the Holiday Inn of Midland, the institute is being co-sponsored by the Texas Association of Defense Counsel, the Texas Trial Lawyers Association and the Midland County Bar Association. This session is one of nine the State Bar is conducting across the state to familiarize lawyers with important new evidence rules.

State Bar president John M. Lawrence III said federal judges looked to past court rulings and some federal laws to determine admissibility of evidence until July 1. Since July, Federal judges have been operating under new legislation which compiled all these past court rulings into a concise set of rules which give the judges much greater discretion in what they allow into evidence," he said.

Midland's Browder will discuss "Hearsay Evidence" at the institute. Other speakers will include Texas Tech law professor Murl Larkin, Kent Wagonseller of Lubbock; Perry D. Davis Jr. of Odessa; John L. Estes of Dallas; SMU law professor James McElaney, and Robert L. Templeton of Amarillo.

Charles L. Tighe of Midland will preside over the program.

Midland students this month will join an estimated one million high school students across the United States in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Lee High School students will take the examination at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 21 in the school's cafeteria. Midland High students will be tested at 9 a.m. Oct. 25 in the Midland cafeteria.

The test is designed primarily for high school juniors who plan to continue their education after graduation. It also is the first requirement for the National Merit Scholarships which will be awarded in the spring of 1976.

According to Gene Isaacs, Lee St. between 6:30 p.m. Friday counselor, only a limited number of tests will be available to students at each school, so eighth, ninth, second and one-students planning to take the test must make reservations in the school counselor's office. A $3 fee will be required at the time the test is administered.

No additional test will be available, Isaacs said, and no further test date will be set.

Overconfidence Virus Found In Ford Camp

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The need by the Ford campaign to call on veteran California political pro Stu Spencer as a troubleshooter reflects how much Gerald R. Ford and his closest associates, all Washington-oriented, have been bedazzled and misled by the glitter of presidential incumbency.

Spencer, heading the Los Angeles campaign management firm of Spencer-Roberts Associates, quietly slipped into Washington to take charge of the president's campaign on a temporary but indefinite basis. Landing on the run, he quickly did what had been neglected for months: setting up a Ford-for-President organization in New Hampshire, where the nation's first presidential primary will be held Feb. 24.

This was caused by the Ford political braintrust for so many months dismissing the possibility that anybody — including Ronald Reagan, an ex-governor of California lacking a political base — would dare challenge an incumbent President. The call for help to Spencer shows a belated, grudging, still not entirely convinced realization that Reagan is virtually certain to announce his candidacy before Thanksgiving Day.

Tardy apprehension of reality has cost the President. Little has been done in campaign organization or fund-raising, and Reagan forces have a head start in New Hampshire. Thus, Reagan's long delay in announcing his candidacy is largely neutralized. Although Mr. Ford remains an overwhelming favorite, the odds have been narrowed.

The notion that Reagan would never really challenge the President was implicit in the selection of Howard (Bo) Callaway, Secretary of the Army, to run Mr. Ford's pre-convention campaign. Callaway, a spellbinder but no political organizer, was assigned to talk key Republicans into presidential endorsements. His choice as deputy was veteran party pro Lee Nunn, known for fund-raising rather than campaign organization.

Since nobody at the White House expected Reagan would run, there was no need to organize primary election campaigns. But we reported two months ago that some Ford supporters, recognizing the increasing likelihood of a Reagan candidacy, were pushing for a competent organizer to replace the Callaway-Nunn team.

The White House still reassured itself that Reagan wouldn't dare. Meanwhile, the Callaway-Nunn match was not made in heaven. Complaining of the fast-traveling Callaway's refusal to make decisions, Nunn packed his bags and prepared his return home to Kentucky two weeks ago. He was deterred by the pleadings of Jack Stiles, Mr. Ford's crony from Grand Rapids and personal agent at the campaign committee.

About the same time, however, Callaway traveled to California with a plea for Spencer to come East and take charge. Spencer accepted on a temporary basis, arriving here Oct. 1. Callaway will remain as nominal chairman and front man. But on Oct. 2, Nunn quit for good, telling friends he never had admired Spencer and the campaign committee was too small for both of them.

Spencer's staff work in signing up prominent Californians including many erstwhile Reaganites has been a bright spot of the early Ford campaign. A more important credential for Spencer, however, is intimate familiarity with Reagan's political traits. The Spencer-Roberts firm managed Reagan's campaign for governor, helped in his belated 1968 presidential try and consulted on his 1970 reelection.

With that background, Spencer will not join so many Democrats, liberal Republicans and Easterners in underestimating Ronald Reagan. Instead, Spencer last week moved quickly to get a Ford campaign going in New Hampshire with Rep. James Cleveland named as chairman. Spencer plans early trips to New Hampshire and Florida, another key early primary state, while also reorganizing the campaign and seeking his own permanent successor.

But when he gets to New Hampshire, Spencer will find a well balanced cast of Reagan supporters put together over several weeks by national campaign director John Sears. Right-wing Gov. Meldrim Thompson supports Reagan but will not run the campaign. Reagan's chairman is former New Hampshire Gov. Hugh Gregg, Rockefeller chairman in 1964. Ex-House Speaker Stewart Lamprey, Goldwater chairman in 1964, will be a fulltime Reagan staffer. Former state chairman David Gosselin, a younger moderate, also will back Reagan.

Beyond New Hampshire, Spencer faces state after state where Callaway has signed up party notables but done nothing about county-level support. That only $700,000 has been raised nationally in five months is another symptom of the overconfidence virus.

The virus is not yet totally eradicated. Ford insiders defy logic and fact by insisting Reagan in the end will decide not to run. Callaway reassures Republican politicians even if Reagan wins New Hampshire and Florida, he cannot exceed 15 percent in Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania. This is the lingering stage of overconfidence, which has unwittingly nourished Reaganite hopes and now forced the sending of an SOS to a Western political pro not intoxicated by presidential incumbency.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The closer we examine the relationship between the U.S. government and the Chilean dictatorship, the more curious it becomes.

The military regime in Chile holds the dubious distinction of being one of the most repressive in the world. Thousands of Chileans have been arrested, beaten and tortured for their political beliefs. Hundreds more have simply disappeared without a trace.

Yet U.S. support for the dictatorship has never waned. Indeed, it's getting stronger.

The year after Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet took over, for example, U.S. economic assistance to Chile doubled from $9.8 million to $20.5 million. According to current plans, Chile will get $77 million in 1976.

Of this, $55 million in "Food for Peace" funds alone will be earmarked for Santiago. Chile, in short, will get an 85 per cent slice of the first aid that will be pumped into all of Latin America.

On Dec. 30, 1974, Congress cut off all military assistance to Chile. Until Congress intervened, however, military aid to Santiago steadily was climbing. It stood at $16 million in fiscal 1974.

These are merely the obvious ways Washington has helped keep the junta afloat. Occasionally we also get a glimpse of the covert assistance given to Chile.

Take, for example, the Army's "School of the Americas" located in the Panama Canal Zone. The school, stuck back in the jungle near the Caribbean Coast, has been around in one form or another for three decades. It is specifically designed to train Latin American soldiers, all classes are taught in Spanish.

To no one's great surprise, we discovered that about a third of the school's students in 1975 came from Chile — 555 out of a total enrollment of 1,765.

One popular course, entitled "Officer Combat Arms Orientation," was attended by 993 students. Over half of them — 504 — were Chilean officers.

They were given standard military training in such subjects as map reading, first aid and signal communications. The emphasis, however, was on antiguerrilla warfare.

A full 16 hours of instruction, for example, were devoted to "basic concepts of counterinsurgency in urban areas." Another nine hours of "Psychological operations" were taught. But the most intensive instruction was given in 125 hours of "counterinsurgency operations, anti-guerrilla warfare in the field."

Until Congress put an end to military assistance to Chile nine months ago, in short, the U.S. government was teaching the junta's foot soldiers how to repel the "dissidents" who oppose them.

Footnote: Ten of the 11 countries that sent soldiers to the basic officers course in 1975 are outright dictatorships. Bolivia, presided over by the repressive Col. Hugo Banzer, sent 203 students. The once democratic Uruguay, which now has what experts believe is the highest per capita ratio of political prisoners in the world, sent 37 students.

BEHIND BARS: Prisons seldom make news until they erupt in riots. Americans tend to forget the approximately 212,000 convicts scattered through our state and federal prisons. But all is not quiet behind bars.

A major scandal is boiling, for example, at the 130-year-old Clinton Correctional Facility, a maximum security state prison in northern rural New York.

Clinton inmates are suing prison officials, alleging that the few enforcers are themselves violating the law. Most of the allegations center around the prison's disciplinary cellblock, Special Housing Unit number 14, nicknamed "the box" by its prison inmates. The suit charges that

Inmates are transferred to Unit 14 before the Administrative hearing which is supposed to determine whether the

Erosion Of Freedom

Business leaders should develop practical alternatives to the idea that only the government can solve problems.

This is the wise, sound advice sounded by Randall Meyer, president of the U.S.A. in addressing a group of business and community members of the Southern Business at Texas Christian University last week.

He told his listeners that as a result of government problem-solving, the nation has experienced a constant erosion of individual freedom.

He said that the story as told by the government is that it has experienced a constant erosion of individual freedom. He said that the story as told by the government is that it has experienced a constant erosion of individual freedom.

And now business has to fight an uphill battle to regain lost ground . . . and regaining it is a must. It is good to know that a businessman of Randall Meyer's stature is out preaching the gospel.

Businessmen, Meyer explained, must look to detailed prescriptions of law and regulation as criteria in such matters as the design, testing and advertising of products, the selection of processes and equipment, hiring and the promotion of goods.

This leaves the consumer to pay the cost imposed by various government requirements, he added.

"He is not allowed, for example, to evaluate for himself the costs versus benefits of a heavier bumper on a new car," Meyer said.

Until his protests aroused Congress, he wasn't allowed to choose whether or not to buckle his shoulder harness. By the 1975 model year, it has been estimated, various federal requirements had boosted the cost of a new car by $700.

Meyer expressed the belief that to counteract the government's role, businessmen must formulate practical alternatives which provide the needed benefits without the cost of sacrificing individual freedom.

This is a matter to which all Americans should give serious thought . . . followed by demands on Congress for a reversal of the trend.

'Good Place To Live'

The survey showed that central city dwellers gave their neighborhood a 71 per cent favorable rating, while 85 per cent of the suburban dwellers thought their location was a good place to live.

This is great, speaking well for the friendly, neighborly spirit of our Americans.

A CHANGING WORLD—

Bernie Schechter Due Applause For Trying

By JOHN PINKERMAN Editor, Copley News Service

One of the great aspects of living in this country like America has been the soft-stated realism that "any man can become president."

This has resulted in a vast collection of screwballs over the years running for president. Some have had money in their own right or have found lots of it for campaigning. None of the candidates has made much of a dent in the electoral process and their names have been forgotten soon or, in many cases, never known widely to begin with.

Now, 13 months before the 1976 election, another unknown has entered the picture. He is a retired Air Force colonel named Bernard R. Schechter of Oceanside, Calif., and he appears dead serious about entering 21 Democratic primaries in quest of his party's nomination.

recognizes the serious problems this nation faces plus the fact that the professional politicians and hangers-on in Washington cannot or do not choose to do much in the way of solutions.

"I think I can do something to help this country that I love," Schechter said in an interview. "My wife feels the same way about my plans and she even is willing that we sell the boat that gives us much joy in order to get the $5,000 needed to get into the New Hampshire primary next year and then qualify for matching federal campaign funds."

Schechter politically and philosophically seems to be a strange mix between an ultra-conservative and wide-eyed socialist, if such a combination is possible. He doesn't agree that this description fits him properly but he does say, "I don't fit any political mold. I've had varied experiences—from work as a mechanic to an executive. I think in these times such a background is more useful than the tired years the politicians have spent either in law or in the legislature or elsewhere in the bureaucracy.

"I think I know what all the people need. I think I have a feel for people." Corruption in government and crime in the streets are two of 56-year-old Schechter's targets. "Certain people in government are in cahoots with corrupt industries on the matter of energy," he said. "And, we've got to cut out the crime that is ruining our cities."

Wouldn't handgun controls help do this? Not by a long shot, in Schechter's opinion. "The Constitution guarantees our right to bear arms," he said. "What we need is gun handling education. Spoken like a true right-winger."

But, now—a quick 180 degree shift when he talks about the economy. "We have an energy crisis," he said, "and what we need is for the government to go into business with the auto manufacturers—if only to break the oil monopoly. This would be, in my opinion, true free enterprise." That's more like a socialistic approach.

Schechter wants a strong defense but says the arms budget can be cut by 25 per cent without any quality losses. He is hot after the nation's welfare bill and wants a real farmer heading the Agriculture Department.

But, more important for the moment is his plan for raising campaign money. He says he will depend on the veterans organizations and retired military groups to push his money-raising plans. He insists he will succeed and be on the ballot in primaries in New

UT-Austin's Opera Theater To Stage Strauss Work

AUSTIN — Those same 24, the opera will open the University of Texas folks who last year produced stunning sold-out performances of Verdi's great opera, "Aida," are at it again.

This time, UT-Austin's Opera Theater will stage Richard Strauss' melodic "Ariadne auf Naxos," described as a "wonderful bubble of wit and art" by Dr. Walter Ducloux, director of the Opera Theater and the UT Symphony.

To be sung in English, the hall has been transformed to evenings of Oct. 17, 20, 22 and almost silk-purse status with the addition of a foyer, orchestra pit, air conditioning, birch-paneled walls, carpeting, sloped continental seating and 300 upholstered theater seats in colors of brick red, burnt orange and ochre. A ramp leading to the auditorium has been provided for persons confined to wheelchairs.

The name UTOPIA for the small hall once stood for University of Texas Opera Project in Abeyance, but since the sprucing-up operations, the acronym now stands for University of Texas Opera Project in Ascendancy.

Dr. Ducloux, who is staging the opera and will conduct its 38-piece chamber orchestra, points out that the "understandability" of the production will be increased because of the size of the auditorium and the fact that the work will be sung in English. He notes the Strauss work has elements of both comic and serious opera styles and calls it particularly a "feast of female vocalism."

Returning to the UT opera stage to fill important roles will be Nancy Olson and Deborah Miller, UT-Austin graduates.

Mrs. Goldberg's Book Sets Record Straight

The Washington Post of patriotism. He felt he would be serving his country more at the U.N. than on the Supreme Court.

Dorothy Goldberg sets the record straight about why her husband Arthur Goldberg left the Supreme Court to take on Stevenson, who was U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. And she called Goldberg at the Supreme Court and told him, according to the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in his book, "The President said that by Art's judgment and experience he was as acceptable to Congress as to the public, to resolve the U.N. crisis and to guide him to an early settlement.

In her own book, "A Private View of a Public Life," to be published on Oct. 18 by Charterhouse in New York, Mrs. Goldberg implies that the only reason her husband left the Supreme Court was a matter of students who alternated in the role of "Aida" last year. They will be joined in major roles by Jan Howell, who sang the role of Elvira in the opera and Thomas Dwyer, who sang Lindoro in "La Boheme."

"Ariadne," an opera in one act with a prologue, deals with the scenes in a private home. The plot revolves around the earlier production of "The Italian Girl in Algiers," which is learned that two entertainments — serious and comic — are to be performed simultaneously.

Jordan Will Debut With 'Butterflies'

ALPINE — Dr. Chet Jordan, a new member of the drama faculty of Sul Ross State University, is staging and directing the university's first production of the 1975-76 season here.

It is the adult comedy, "Butterflies Are Free," which was a Broadway hit of the late 1960s and has since become a favorite with college and community theater audiences.

Jordan, who came here this year from Madison College at Harrisonburg, Va., says he chose the Leonard Gersche comedy for production after holding preliminary auditions to survey theater interest and the talent available here.

"The audience will be able to identify with the play," Jordan said, "because the characters are so realistic and well-drawn. I hope for good audience response since the play deals with such timely situations as the relationship of a rebellious son with an overly-protective mother, and the romance between the young blind man and a free-spirited young actress.

"The play is a strong expression of important human values, particularly stressing that people should accept others as they are and not as they would like them to be."

Jordan's production will play Oct. 23-25 in the SRSU Little Theater in the Fine Arts Building. Tickets will go on sale to the public Oct. 20. Additional information on the production is obtainable from the SRSU drama department, or by telephoning 837-3461, Ext. 253.

UT Slates Symposium

AUSTIN — A major international symposium saluting Latin America's thriving contributions to the art and literary fields will take place at The University of Texas-Austin late this month.

Some of Latin America's best-known artists, writers and critics will be on hand to discuss the cultural explosion of the last 10 to 15 years from Mexico to Argentina and Uruguay.

Dr. Rodolfo Cardona, chairman of the U.T.A. department of Spanish and Portuguese and Dr. Donald Goodall, director of the U.T. art collections, are the symposium coordinators. According to them, participants will be concerned with such questions as:

- Does contemporary Latin American art and literature exist as a distinct expression?
- Can writers and artists produce independently of foreign interests and influences?
- To what extent do such creative people respond to their environment?
- Does the universal complaint of a lack of professional criticism compel them to seek "feedback" elsewhere?

The symposium, scheduled for Oct. 27-29, is sponsored by U.T.A.'s Institute of Latin American Studies, the College of Humanities and the College of Fine Arts, as well as by Elcoisior, one of Mexico City's largest and most influential daily newspapers. The firm also publishes Plural, a magazine devoted to art, literature and criticism in Latin America.

As part of the three-day conclave, a special exhibition of works by a dozen leading Latin American artists will be presented through Nov. 2 in the Michener Galleries of the university's Harry Ransom Center.

Mini-Workshop Slated Tuesday

That is, if it's printed on paper recycled by the Garden State Paper Co., whose mills here and in California and Illinois are the first in the country to work solely at converting old newsprint into new newsprint.

The three plants process more than 500,000 tons of recycled paper a year for over 200 newspapers. That's 10 per cent of all the newsprint produced in the country, says Joseph McColgan, an administrative vice president of the paper company.

Whether virgin or recycled, a piece of paper consists of hundreds of microscopic wood fibers interlocked by hydrogen bonds. Simply explained, recycling first separates the fibers and then reassembles them.

Richard B. Scudder, former publisher of the Newark Evening News and a founder of the paper company, opened the Garfield mill in 1961, a decade after he began experimenting with the de-inking of old newspapers. He and several colleagues first tried reducing old newspapers to pulp using a kitchen blender and eventually invented a method to recycle waste newspapers.

Separating the fibers in a blender was simple, Scudder has said, but it took 10 years before the experimenters could successfully remove the ink from the fibers so that it did not dye the entire batch.

Recycled paper must fit three specifications if it is to be useful to publishers, McColgan explained in an interview. "One is that the tensile strength of the fibers must be as strong as the virgin fibers. Then the paper must be opaque enough to allow printing on both sides of a sheet and, finally, the paper must be clean enough for clear printing."

Today at the mill here, the recycling procedure takes four hours. Trucks dump baled newspapers onto vibrating conveyors. The controlled vibrations separate the pages and pass them into a 20-foot version of the home blender Scudder improvised with. Equipped with a huge blade and filled with warm water and patented de-inking chemicals, the paper reduces the newspapers to separate fibers in pulp of an optimal consistency. A hose extends into the vat to remove excess materials.

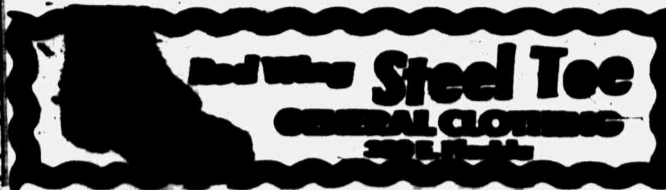

Rotating cylinders then send the stock through five wash cycles to insure cleanliness. Water is the only cleaning agent.

Some of the cleaned stock is stored in tiled towers called stock chests. The fibers that are not stored are directed into one of two papermaking machines. Fed onto a flat, heated screen to dry, when the water has been drawn off the stock lies on a wide, rotating "bar" that winds through the papermaking machines. A computer system monitors speed, weight, brightness and moisture content and automatically transmits electronic orders to correct any defects.

The recycled paper averages 90 per cent quality standards — an improvement or sell for scrap.

The rolls are wrapped and individually numbered so that any complaints can be traced to the plant and time of manufacture. Call rolls — paper that does not meet quality standards — are cut out on rolls to fit and re-processed or sold for scrap.

KC Chiefs Claim Love Did The Job

By The Associated Press
The Oakland Raiders might not believe it, but it was love that demolished them in Kansas City.

"I know this may make me sound silly, but love, as much as anything, contributed to our success," said rookie Kansas City Coach Paul Wiggin after his Chiefs won their first game of the season.

"Once we got the momentum guys on our bench who never even have lunch together, who have nothing in common but football, were hugging each other and dancing around in a strong feeling of unity. There were other factors, certainly, but an emotion that I can only describe as love was definitely one of them."

Besides love, the Chiefs had a number of other things working for them, including quarterback Mike Livingston's arm, the running of Woody Green and Ed Podolak and a defensive crew who came up with the big plays early.

The Chiefs shocked Oakland 42-10, handing the Raiders their first loss of the season and their worst defeat in 14 years.

St. Louis will be at Washington tonight.

Quarterback Bill Munson threw three touchdowns pass to Charlie Sanders. Ray Jarvis and Jon Stagers as Detroit smothered the winless Bears. Horace King ran 15 yards for another Lions score as Chicago scored its only TD on the final play of the game.

Steelers 20, Broncos 9
Lynn Swann made two spectacular catches, keying a first-half surge that gave Pittsburgh the victory. The Steelers' defense limited Denver's offense to just three Jim Turner field goals.

Bills 28, Colts 21
O. J. Simpson rushed for 159 yards and Jim Braxton scored three touchdowns, the final one to break a 31-31 tie with 6:04 to play, as Buffalo pulled out the victory over a tenacious Baltimore team. Lydell Mitchell, who ran for 107 yards and caught three passes for 53 yards, scored four times for the Colts.

Saints 20, Packers 19
Rick Szaro booted a 21-yard field goal with 22 seconds showing on the clock to lift New Orleans over winless Green Bay. The Packers had moved out front 19-17 with two minutes remaining on a 45-yard field goal by Joe Danele Green Bay, with Steve Odum taking the opening kickoff 93 yards for a score, built a 16-0 advantage before the Saints, behind Archie Manning, came roaring back.

Dolphins 24, Eagles 16
Fullbacks Don Nottingham and Norm Bulach roared through the Philadelphia line time and again to lead Miami to its victory over Philadelphia. The Dolphins were comfortably in front, 24-9, when the Eagles scored on a 39-yard pass play from Roman Gabriel to James McAlister.

Falcons 17, Oilers 3
After Atlanta jumped out to an early lead on Steve Barotowski's passing, the Falcons' defense intercepted four San Francisco passes to even the Atlanta record at 2-2. Barotowski was injured in the third period, but it was not believed to be serious.

Rams 12, Chargers 10, OT
A 22-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey at 9:27 in overtime lifted Los Angeles past San Diego. The two teams had tied 10-10 in regulation. Dempsey's three-pointer was set up by the running of Lawrence McCutcheon. Cullen Bryant and Jim Bertleson and James Harris passes.

HONOLULU (AP) — The World Football League has the choice of subsidizing its weak teams, retrenching or folding, says league president Chris Hemminger.

In a weekend interview, Hemminger said those options will confront the league's board of governors when it convenes in New York today for three days of meetings.

One thing we will not do is get involved with the arduous details of last year's players not getting paid, bills not being paid, things of that nature, said Hemminger.

He said there are three possibilities for the future.

To complete the season with 10 teams and subsidize the struggling franchises. "I'm not sure where that will get us," he said.

Eliminate the weak teams and finish the year with fewer teams.

Start down.

Hemminger said the league would prefer to carry on with 10 teams.

We have said publicly that we will finish the season with 10 teams. But we're here to see and we'll take an independent assessment of the situation.

The league may find that the league has no future, Hemminger said.

The decision would be made to shut down the league now, come clean and move into other areas independently, wherever they might be," he said.

If there isn't a 76 our interest in '75 will terminate," he said.

Hemminger's plan for reorganizing the league depends on each team averaging at least 17,000 paid attendance. Only Memphis and Birmingham have met that goal.

Walton Involved In Car Accident

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton of the Portland Trail Blazers suffered minor injuries in a traffic accident Sunday night only 2 1/2 hours after he left a National Basketball Association game with an eye injury.

Dad Misses West Liberty Game... And Is Sorry!

INSTITUTE, W. Va. (AP) — Former high school football coach Marty Flannery said the West Liberty coach in 1972 but the two West Liberty quarrels followed his sons' athletic setbacks, even though he was busy working in the yard.

It was at a wedding Saturday night when Mike walked and told his news. Needless to say, I couldn't believe it. He had some pretty good games in high school, but nothing like the River High athletic prowess. He was a star in seven touchdown passes as West Liberty State's quarterback. He was a star in the game before Flannery, who entered the game in place of regular Joe Pepp. Flannery's straight TD passes to the Hilltoppers in a 42-42 regulation standstill.

He then connected for his only touchdown strikes in the three overtime periods, guided by West Virginia Interscholastic Athletic Conference rules. It was the highest score ever recorded in a college football game before Flannery's. He set by Trinity College of Connecticut and RPI of New York in 1969.

This Afternoon's Market Report

New York Exchange

Market Virtually Unchanged In Morning Of Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The Friday stock market was virtually unchanged today in very slow trading. The Dow Jones average closed at 1,187.73, down 1.18 points from its opening level of 1,188.91. The market was characterized by a lack of significant movement, with most major indices showing only minor fluctuations. Analysts noted that the market's inactivity was likely due to a combination of factors, including a lack of major news events and a general sense of uncertainty among investors. The trading volume was notably lower than in previous sessions, reflecting the slow pace of the market.

Tower Says Ford Would Edge Reagan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., predicted today that President Gerald Ford could beat Ronald Reagan in a 1976 race in Texas for the GOP nomination. "It would be close but I think Ford would win," said Tower, who with former presidential aide Anne Armstrong, heads Ford's campaign in Texas. Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Sunday on a national television panel program that he thought Reagan could beat Ford in Texas. "If the election was held today, most Texas Republicans would just be divisive," Tower said.

District Organizations
Tower said his committee would make an announcement later in the week about setting up campaign organizations in every congressional district of the state and a state headquarters. "We have a good strong committee behind the effort," he said.

Tower commented at a news conference he called to announce that governors of all 50 states had been asked to work on the calling of a national convention to draft an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to prohibit forced busing. Foolproof Method
The only foolproof way to do it is by amending the Constitution, Tower said. Such a convention could be held by two-thirds of the states or 34 approving a Congress passed resolution on the convention.

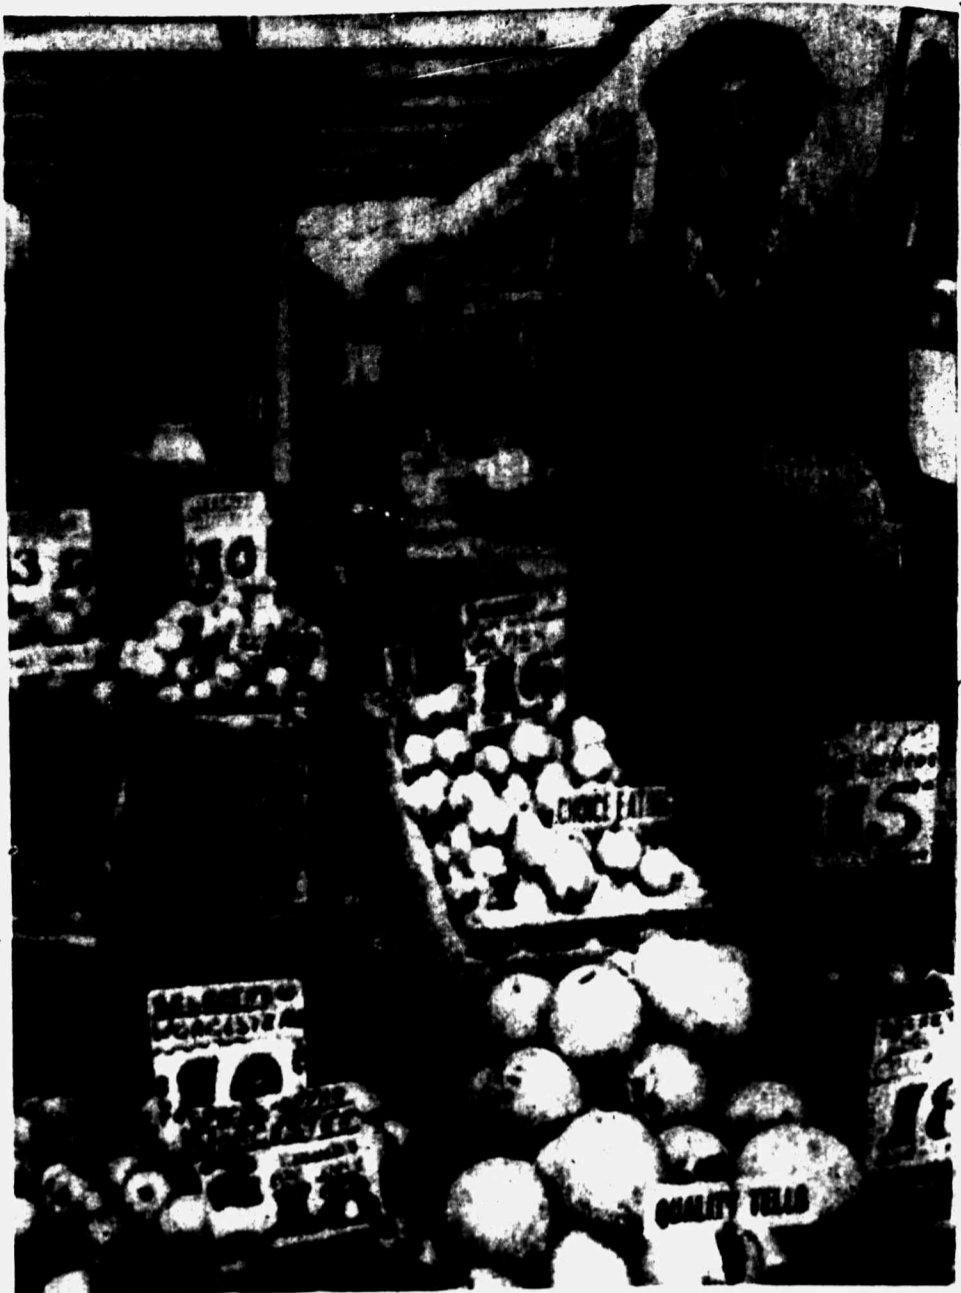

Tower said no amendment has ever been proposed by a national convention but he pointed out that about 10 years ago, two-thirds of the states passed an amendment that would have prohibited states from supporting federal court cases to support the busing of children from one school district to another.

Proposal Pending
Tower said the proposal for a national convention to amend the Constitution would prohibit a state from being bound by any case decided by the federal courts. He said the proposal would be introduced in the House of Representatives.

Texas' top political center today said it would support a proposal to amend the state constitution to prohibit the state from supporting federal court cases to support the busing of children from one school district to another.

Douglas' Health Major Concern Of Court Term

By W. DALE NELSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, crippled by a stroke, will be 77 on Thursday, and his health has emerged as a major concern of the court's 1975-76 term.

There are still no clear answers to the questions about his health, but one week into Douglas's 37th term on the bench, a few clues have emerged.

Although Douglas refused an interview, conversations with persons who have been associated with him, and observation of his public appearances, yielded this picture:

—He looks better, more animated, than he did in his few days at the court last term after his Dec. 31 stroke.

—Always quiet, he has apparently lapsed into complete silence on the bench.

—He once had to go lie down at 10 a.m., missing arguments in a case.

—Off the bench, he is capable of pertinent observations and searching questions — and of long silences and occasional irrelevancies.

What does all this mean for his future on the court?

He has said he will remain as long as he finds the work challenging. His colleagues are not commenting.

Former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg thinks it is simply too early to say how he is progressing.

"I think Justice Douglas is entitled to a reasonable length of time in which to establish whether he has been inhibited in his judicial performance," Goldberg said in an interview.

"I don't think enough time has elapsed for such a judgment to be made."

A random check of persons who have been in court during Douglas's 11 hours on the bench this session turned up none who had heard him ask a question.

Douglas moves around the court building in a wheelchair. His left side is paralyzed to hear arguments. He is lifted into his customary, custom-equipped padded chair and pushed up a ramp to the bench.

The justices' chairs are equipped with rockers, but Douglas does not rock. He occasionally leans forward, he studies papers in front of him, he whispers instructions to court attendants, he occasionally nods or smiles in response to a whispered aside from Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

At the end of a session, after all rise in the courtroom, the other justices walk out and Douglas is left facing the standing crowd until he is wheeled back down the ramp.

It does not seem to bother him, a source who has been close to him, however, got the impression that the justice, a hardy outdoorsman for most of his life, is pained by public exposure of his frailty.

At a hearing held in Yakima, Wash., in September, the court was cleared so that he could be lifted to and from his seat at the bench.

That was the hearing at which Douglas proposed a 12:30 p.m. recess when it was actually 1 p.m. activity. This led to suggestions that the justice's mental alertness was flagging. An observer who was in the courtroom offered another explanation: from where Douglas sat, he could see a clock which was out of order. It showed the time as 12:30 a.m.

After the recess, Douglas puzzled at- torneys and newsmen by sitting silently for 9½ minutes before announcing his decision. Some suggested he was pondering. Before entering the courtroom, however, he had been on the telephone to his office in Washington, apparently dictating his order, in which case he must have already made up his mind. The long silence was unexplained.

In one of its first orders of the new term, the full court overturned Douglas's decision. Some have asked if this was a signal of his colleagues' attitude toward him. However, such a reversal by the court is not exceptional.

Out of 678 other decisions announced by the court the same day, not counting routine procedural motions, Douglas participated in all but one. He dissented from 24. He took part in the justices' decision-making conference again on Friday.

Observers have described Douglas as alternately operating at his old pace and slowed down from it.

One person who has seen Douglas at work told of his spending about half an hour on one page of a summary of petitions to the court, then flipping through the remaining pages with the speed that has helped make him legendary.

Last term he heard arguments only four days after his stroke, although he took part in deciding many cases which he did not hear.

Douglas' insistence on staying on the bench has inevitably led to speculation that he does not want to allow President Ford, who once tried to impeach him, to name his successor.

One friend of the justice has indicated he believes this is a factor in his thinking. Douglas has denied it, however, and Goldberg backs him up on this.

"I am sure if he felt incapable of continuing he would resign regardless of who would appoint his successor," the former justice said.

"I'm sure he feels he can do it."

Premium Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Gulf Completes Terry Producer

The Kingdom, North (Aho) field of extreme Northwest Terry County gained its sixth producer and a location south and east extension with completion of Gulf Oil Corp. No. 51 Mallet Land & Cattle Co.

It pumped 179 barrels of 28-gravity oil on 24-hour potential test, with gas-oil ratio measuring 145-1. Production was through perforations at 7,728-8,066 feet, which had been acidized with 22,000 gallons.

It is 1,900 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 7, block D-11, 13 miles northeast of Tokio.

Ward Pool Gains Third Lamar Well

The Block 17 field of Ward County gained a third Lamar large oil producer and location east extension to that pay with completion of Holmac Oil Co. Midland, No. 3-S U-TEX.

The 24-hour potential test gauged 25 barrels of 30-gravity oil and 130 barrels of water through perforations at 4,988-4,998 feet, after treating with 700 gallons of acid.

Well site is 560 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 33, block 17, U.S. seven miles northwest of Pyote.

RK Perforating Martin Prospect

RK Petroleum Corp. operating from Midland, was perforating at an unreported interval, and preparing to acidize and test at No. 1 Exchange indicated 1/2 mile south extension and fourth well in the RK (Devonian) field of North Martin County.

Operator set 5 1/2-inch casing at 12,855 feet, total depth, after production was assured with the flowing of oil at the daily rate of 140 barrels for 30 minutes on a drillstem test at 11,585-11,855 feet. Water blanket surfaced in 15 minutes, oil and gas-cut mud in 24 minutes and oil in 34 minutes, flowing at the above rate on a 1/2-inch choke. Time the tool was open was not available.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 4, block 37, T-2-N, T&P survey, three miles north of Tarzan.

South Pecos Area Gets Fifth Well

Fifth producer and a 1 1/2-mile north extension to the GWN (Maploya) field of South Pecos County has been assured with the flowing of gas at the daily rate of 2 million cubic feet, plus 2 1/2 barrels of water per hour, at Texas Pacific Oil Co., No. 2-A Elsmore.

Flow was through a 24-44-inch choke and perforations at 12,174-12,286 feet, after acidizing with 20,000 gallons.

The project has been shut in for pressure buildup.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and east lines of section 71, block D, GC&SF survey, 17 miles south of Fort Stockton.

Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo said a fire didn't think that any storage tanks had exploded, although the blaze was swirling around a 150 Atlantic Richfield Co. refinery in south Philadelphia where eight firemen were killed and three others injured early today when a 12-in. gas line between two natural gas processing plants ruptured and caused a flash fire at the El Paso Natural Gas Co. plant just outside this Ector County community of 387 people.

LATE BULLETINS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Joint teams of Lebanese security forces and Palestinian guerrillas hunted snipers in Beirut today as they tried to enforce a fragile cease-fire between Christians and Moslems.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A question of jurisdiction over a high seas mystery puzzled three nations today as a Panamanian freighter's five crewmen sat in a city jail cell after reportedly admitting they killed their four officers and scuttled the ship.

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Mid-term Senate elections gave Premier Suleyman Demirel a stronger role in Turkey's governing coalition today and greater scope for a conciliatory stand on the Cyprus conflict.

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — Four federal prison escapees who had held a 23-year-old man and his wife hostage for five hours, remained at large today following a high-speed chase that ended when their getaway car crashed near here.

Nearly 200 federal, state and local police officers and three tracking dogs — two German shepherds and a bloodhound — flown in from Philadelphia by the FBI combed a 27-square-mile area of woods and rolling hills about 5 miles east of Salem late Sunday.

Three officers and two area farmers said they had spotted the four men who escaped Friday with another inmate by using a homemade electronic device to open the gates of Marion Federal Penitentiary.

Bill Schaefer, the nation's most secure federal prison, said the fifth escapee was captured Sunday after the fugitives' car crashed, and police said the dogs had picked up a fresh lead on the other four late Sunday but then lost it.

Schaefer, FBI special agent in charge of the manhunt, halted the search and ordered the dog team and two five-man Special Weapons and Tactical Units to rest until early today.

Schaefer said the search will continue as long as it takes until we get them or have a good reason to believe they've gone.

Dynamite Plant Rocked By Explosion

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Exploding nitroglycerin rocked the world's largest dynamite factory outside Johannesburg today, killing five persons, injuring 28 and demolishing two buildings.

Officials said one of the injured at the factory at Meddevrostein was in serious condition. The death toll was established after a roll call of all 6,500 workers.

The full 361-member national committee then will consider the proposals Tuesday and Wednesday.

Parental Input Minor Factor In School Plans

By LUANNA CROW

Parental input: Does it carry any clout with the Midland public schools?

Well, yes, but the "results of the educational process" may well carry more.

James E. Winget Jr., president of the board of trustees for the Midland schools, said parents are vocal on a certain issue, usually indicating a negative reaction. Winget said that community input is "difficult to gauge" if only because the negative often is louder than the positive.

The school board president said it is difficult for trustees to gauge the impact of that pilot project for a year, its effort to insure that the program was implemented first into schools where parents were receptive and the trustees' adoption of a transfer policy for students who cannot function well within the concept.

Winget said school board decisions are based on the needs of the community and the acceptability of these ideas. He added that new programs will be unsuccessful if forced to reach decisions and not bow to small pressures.

In other curricular matters, such as what subjects are taught in the city's schools and how the trustee president feels the board is "sensitive to the com-

Board members are not folk who have any political ambition. Most do this out of a sense of dedication," Winget said.

"Our responsibility is to act as an extension of the community and to take data, to evaluate and to reach decisions. We have input, but we still have to reach decisions and not bow to small pressures," he said.

He said the school board is a policy-making body which can tie the hands of local school boards in determining what courses will be offered in Texas schools and how they will be presented.

Such is the case with bilingual education, career education, crime prevention, drug abuse and others.

Although endorsing the important limitation placed on the school board is what one state legislator described as "expanding governmental control."

While Mailey asserts that school-related decisions made in the state capital "are reached in good faith," they nevertheless can tie the hands of local school boards in determining what courses will be offered in Texas schools and how they will be presented.

State Rep. Tom Craythick said he is "totally in favor of the local school boards setting their own curriculum." He added, however, he thinks Texas will see "more and more" (See SCHOOLS Page 2A)

Iran Nears Agreement To Spend $700 Million For Uranium

The Washington Post — WASHINGTON — Iran is about to sign an agreement to buy $700 million worth of uranium from South Africa and to put up part of the money for a huge uranium enrichment plant to be built in South Africa.

Sources said that Iran may already have reached the agreement to buy uranium from South Africa, which would be the largest single sale of its kind.

Reports have it that Iran will buy 14,000 tons of uranium oxide from South Africa, which at today's market prices makes a $700 million deal.

The Iranian-South African sale is significant for two reasons, apart from its size. It makes the spread of nuclear weapons a greater threat and it breaks the stranglehold the United States has had on the worldwide enriched uranium market for electric power.

The White House and the Congress have long regarded the international uranium trade as an exclusive American club. One source said "Well, that club is taking in a lot of new members, none of them American."

Iran's agreement to buy South African uranium and involve itself in a South African enrichment plant is the second of its kind in the last few months. West Germany signed a similar agreement with Brazil, though it was a much smaller deal.

One source said he understands Iran has agreed to buy more than $1 billion of uranium from South Africa, not the $700 million worth mentioned by most sources.

"This is a very extensive deal," the source said. "Enough to run 100 nuclear power plants for the rest of the century."

Iran has four nuclear power plants under construction, two being built by the French and two by the West Germans. The Shah of Iran has opted to energize his country with nuclear power primarily as a means of conserving Iran's oil and natural gas.

Strong To Leave Environment Post

The Los Angeles Times — WASHINGTON — Maurice Strong, first head of the United Nations environment program, will leave his post at the end of the year to launch a new Canadian government oil corporation, it was announced Friday.

Strong, a self-made Alberta oil millionaire who later administered Canada's foreign air program, has served with the world organization since 1970. He organized the Stockholm conference on the environment in 1972 and when the permanent agency for the environment was formed the following year, he became its executive director.

At the insistence of African nations, the new agency was headquartered in Nairobi, Kenya, and although Strong supported the choice of site publicly, he was reported to be unhappy at communications and administrative problems which arose from UNEP's remote location. Earlier this year, he was among candidates named for director of the World Food Council.

The United States has agreed to build eight other nuclear power plants for Iran. Iran has publicly said it would like to have 20 atomic power plants operating by the end of the century, privately raising the number to 25 when discussing its plans with foreign diplomats.

The 20 plants it has talked about publicly would require 100,000 tons of uranium over their anticipated lifetimes.

One source said that Iran is talking with other countries in Africa about uranium purchases, with the idea of bartering its oil for uranium. This source said that Iran might soon be announcing two uranium agreements, the one with South Africa and another with a second African nation.

Central to the uranium purchase would be Iran's part ownership in a South African enrichment plant, which is expected to cost at least $1 billion to construct. South Africa already has a small enrichment plant, based on West German technology called the Becker nozzle process.

Enrichment plants take raw uranium oxide and turn it into fissionable uranium, "enriched" with at least 3 per cent U-235, the fissile isotope of uranium that generates power.

The only enrichment plants of any size operated today are operated by the same nations that have developed atomic weapons.

Brazil 'Breaks' Government Monopoly

By LEONARD GREENWOOD The Los Angeles Times RIO DE JANEIRO — Brazil will permit foreign companies to search for oil under service or "risk" contracts controlled by the state oil monopoly, Petrobras. President Ernesto Geisel has announced.

The decision came after months of heated debate over whether Brazil's urgent need to find more oil in its own territory justified breaking the state monopoly.

Geisel a former president of Petrobras insisted that allowing foreign companies in under "risk" contracts supervised by Petrobras would not break the monopoly.

He did not give details of the contracts Brazil would propose, but normally foreign companies supply all the capital and take all the financial risk in the search for oil.

If they find oil they are paid either in money or with part of the oil. If they do not find oil within a set period they forfeit their total investment.

There is no pressing need to find a replacement for Tipton. The sergeants are fully capable of handling their shift duties. The city manager said the chief's position will pay about $13,000 per year. He said he is reviewing qualifications of applicants both within and from outside the Andrews force. He hopes to fill the post within 60 days.

million looking for oil. In a radio and television address Thursday night on Brazil's economic situation, which has been hard hit by soaring oil prices in the last two years, Geisel said the recent increase of 10 per cent in world prices would add about $400 million to Brazil's annual import bill of $3 billion.

Geisel also announced that gasoline prices would go up another 25 per cent to discourage the use of private cars. The price rose 10 per cent only a month ago for the eighth time in 20 months.

Desel fuel will increase another 10 per cent, which for long-suffering Brazilians means another round of price hikes because 75 per cent of their goods are transported by road.

Taxes on luxury goods, which are already 300 per cent on some items, will go up another 100 per cent and on semi-luxury goods it will increase 30 per cent.

Geisel said the oil increase on world markets have hit developing countries very hard. Their total trading debt was $9 billion in 1973 and rose to $27 billion in 1974. This year the total trading debt of developing countries will go up to $36 billion, he said.

Brazil has avoided a recession since it was formed in 1963. It carries out a exploration in Brazil and also the Continental Shelf and the year is spending about $300 but its rate of growth has dropped well below that of the boom years of the early 1970s, when it was averaging more than 10 per cent a year.

To reduce all imports government ministries and state enterprises will be ordered to cut their import budgets by 15 per cent from this year's level. All government departments will be told to give preference to Brazilian products.

To increase exports, financial incentives will be extended and banks will be empowered to provide expanded credits for exports.

Geisel concentrated much of his speech on the impacts of more expensive oil and the measures Brazil will take to combat it. In addition to increasing gasoline prices, the government will go ahead with plans for mixing 20 per cent sugar alcohol with gasoline and will stimulate the production of sugar cane so there is no shortage.

'Y' Reschedules Parenthood Class

Family Focus, a course of training positive techniques for dealing with the intricacies of parenthood, has been rescheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Central YMCA.

The six-session course originally was to have begun Tuesday.

Amongst family dynamics, the class is based on the premise that the skills of being a parent are neglected in the maturing process.

The course uses transactional analysis, as conceptualized in the book "I'm Okay, You're Okay." Each session will deal with bridging gaps between generations, family communications, discipline and improvement of the quality of family life.

John M. Vacker, the YMCA's community program director, will instruct the course. Persons desiring further information may contact him at the Central Y, 682-2151.

KC Chiefs Claim Love Did The Job

By The Associated Press
The Oakland Raiders might not believe it, but it was love that demolished them in Kansas City.

"I know this may make me sound silly, but love, as much as anything, contributed to our success," said rookie Kansas City Coach Paul Wiggin after his Chiefs won their first game of the season.

"Once we got the momentum, guys on our bench who never even have lunch together, who have nothing in common but football, were hugging each other and dancing around in a strong feeling of unity. There were other factors, certainly, but an emotion that I can only describe as love was definitely one of them."

Besides love, the Chiefs had a number of other things working for them, including quarterback Mike Livingston's arm, the running of Woody Green and Ed Podolak and a defensive crew who came up with the big plays early.

The Chiefs shocked Oakland 42-10, handing the Raiders their first loss of the season and their worst defeat in 14 years.

St. Louis will be at Washington tonight.

Oakland lost three fumbles and had three passes intercepted. After Livingston and Walter White connected on a 48-yard touchdown pass, the Kansas City defense swapped two Oakland passes in the first play and the Chiefs' offense turned them both into scores.

One theft set up Green's five-yard touchdown run and another resulted in a one-yard TD dive by Livingston.

Vikings 23, Jets 17
After New York scored out front 21-20, Minnesota held a 10-0 lead at the end of the first half. A safety from Chicago's Forrest Maner, who caught two scoring passes, and Jim Braxton scored passes, ran five yards for another score to ice the Vikings' victory. Minnesota had led 20-7 with 5:22 remaining in the third period before quarterback Joe Namath led the Jets' comeback.

Bengals 27, Patriots 10
Cincinnati, riding the passing of Ken Anderson, scored a second period field goal by John Smith and two touchdowns in the third quarter to grab a come-from-behind victory, their fourth straight of the young season. After Smith's three-pointer knotted the score at 10-10, Essex Johnson swept around end for 12 yards and a TD and Anderson fired a 17-yard touchdown pass to Conrad Joyner.

Oilers 40, Browns 10
Billy Johnson raced 81 yards with the second half kickoff for one score, and quarterback Dan Pastorini threw three TD passes to Mack Alston as Houston buried winless Cleveland.

"We have to stop completely and re-evaluate everything we are doing both offensively and defensively," said Browns Coach Forrest Gregg.

Lions 27, Bears 7
Quarterback Bill Munson threw touchdown passes to Charlie Sanders, Ray Jarvis and Jon Staggers as Detroit smothered the winless Bears. Horacio King ran 15 yards for another Lions score as Chicago scored its only TD on the final play of the game.

Steelers 20, Broncos 9
Lynn Swann made two spectacular catches, keying a first-half surge that gave Pittsburgh the victory. The Steelers' defense limited Denver's offense to just three Jim Turner field goals.

Bills 20, Colts 21
O.J. Simpson rushed for 109 yards and three touchdowns, and Jim Braxton scored three touchdowns, the final one to break a 21-21 tie with 6:06 to play, as Buffalo pulled out the victory over a tenacious Baltimore team. Lydell Mitchell, who ran for 107 yards and caught three passes for 50 yards, scored four times for the Colts.

Saints 20, Packers 10
Rick Szaro booted a 21-yard field goal with 22 seconds showing on the clock to lift New Orleans over winless Green Bay. The Packers had moved out front 19-17 with two minutes remaining on a 45-yard field goal by Joe Daneo. Green Bay, with Steve Odum taking the opening kickoff 93 yards for a score, built a 16-4 advantage before the Saints, behind Archie Manning, came roaring back.

Dolphins 20, Eagles 15
Fullbacks Don Nottingham and Norm Bullock roared through the Philadelphia line time and again to lead Miami to its victory over Philadelphia. The Dolphins were comfortably in front, 24-8, when the Eagles scored on a 28-yard pass play from Roman Gabriel to James McAlister.

SWC- WFL Draped Over Ropes

The Southwest Conference (SWC) and the Western Football League (WFL) are both in a state of financial crisis, with many teams struggling to stay afloat. The SWC has a long history of success, but recent years have seen a decline in fan interest and revenue. The WFL, on the other hand, is a newer league that has faced significant challenges from the start.

HONOLULU, AP — The West Football League has the honor of subsidizing its own players, a move that has drawn criticism from fans and officials alike. The league's financial situation is dire, and it is unclear how long it can sustain itself.

He said there are three possibilities for the future. To complete the season with 16 teams and subsidize the struggling franchises, I'm not sure where that will get us. He said the league would prefer to carry on with 16 teams.

dependent assessment of that," he said.

The governors may find that the league has no future, Hemminger said.

The decision would be made to shut down the league now, come clean and move into other areas independently, wherever they might be," he said.

"If there isn't a '76, our interest in '75 will terminate," he said.

Hemminger's plan for reorganizing the league depends on each team averaging at least 17,000 paid attendance. Only Memphis and Birmingham have met that goal.
