It is a dress that we admired the first time we saw it a week or so ago. Coming as it did from one of the smartest sports wear shops it never occurred to us that it could be copied by the home dressmaker. And then, examining it a little more closely, we realized that it was precisely the sort of dress that the home dressmaker could copy to perfection—that is, the home dressmaker who knows how to use a crochet needle.

The dress is of lightweight beige wool jersey—an admirable material for the seaside or mountain wardrobe. It is made with a slightly gored skirt and a simple slip-on blouse with long sleeves that are fluted a little at the cuffs. But in place of cuffs the sleeves are finished with a band of crocheting, which is also used to make the collar and the long girdle knotted at one side. Brown, beige, yellow and orange were the colors repeated in the tassels at the end of the girdle. The neckline of the blouse was finished with a narrow hem and the first row of crocheting was worked over this narrow hem. A stiletto may be used to make the holes for this first row. They should be made at regular intervals about three-quarters of an inch apart.

Muleshoe Gets In Public Eye And New Settlers Arriving

That Muleshoe and Bailey county is getting into the public eye and attracting interest and recognition, is clearly evident from the number of strange faces seen on the streets here daily. Local business men who are in a position to know say there is scarcely a day now but some prospector is here viewing out the land with the idea of purchase and location.

A general survey of local business men last week gave the names of at least 50 prospectors who were here, while real estate dealers say they are receiving an average of 200 inquiries weekly.

Every week now witnesses sales made and new families constantly moving in to possess their recently purchased land. Every week the Journal is receiving requests to change addresses of subscriptions of people who have moved to their new home in this section. Indications for a large immigration to this section this fall is quite favorable, say local realtors.

The white gold of irrigation will make Muleshoe millions.

Little more amorous affection displayed to the God of Rain and her exchequer would begin to fatten, for there are hundreds of sections all over the U. S. A. that would demand her valuable services.

A HALF INVESTMENT
The man who invests in Bailey county land is to be commended for his wisdom of selection, but he also lays himself liable to criticism for lack of further good judgment, if he merely allows his land to lie idle, bringing in no returns or revenue other than that which comes from its inherent valuation increase.

COMMUNITY BIGNESS
A man can accomplish more than a mule, and a little electric motor no bigger than one's two fists will pump more water than a windmill on a tower 75 feet high that can be seen for five miles across the prairie.

While developing this western prairie country for future generations we should not overlook the importance of planting more trees for posterity to sit in.

WHY NOT A BAND?

So. Plains Protest Report That Relief Is Needed In Area
There are doubtless many sections of Texas that need drought relief, but conditions on the Plains do not warrant any such relief measures, and numerous citizens of this area resent the story going out from Austin last week to the effect that a "committee from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce conferred with overnor Moody regarding the dry spell conditions in the Plains area."

While it is true that some sections of the Plains country are not this year enjoying an up to standard crop, yet there are also areas where the crop is practically normal. In Bailey county there is an average crop in many places, some farmers are raising a below normal crop, but there are plenty of them who will testify to the fact that their crops this year are equal to or above average, while all the farmers of this county who are practicing irrigation are enjoying bumper productions.

Rainfall in this area has been somewhat below normal, but it is stated by local elevator men there will be good cotton and sudan raised, lots of feed, in fact plenty to ship into some of the areas that are really suffering from drought.

As a general rule, Plains farmers have little to worry from drought conditions, each year producing its average crop. It is generally conceded, even in drought stricken areas that this section of the state is practically drought proof, and the farmers here, as well as other citizens, do not appreciate any reports to the contrary.

PASSING OF LONG SKIRTS LEADING GIRLS INTO BANDS
The short skirt has enabled women to enter one more sphere which heretofore has been regarded as inhabited solely by the stronger sex. In seeking an explanation for the large number of girls' bands springing up in various parts of the country, the Conn Music Center finds a number of authorities give the long sweeping skirt, now passe, as the chief cause for women's exclusion from playing in bands and marching in parades.

"Long, sweeping skirts made women figures of fun as they marched along the streets," says Miss Marguerite Stocking, instructor in music in the Elgin (Ill.) schools, where a "thriving girls' band" is prominent among school activities. "With the sensible short, but not tight, skirts of today, a girl may march along the street playing an instrument and still be perfectly graceful and womanly. In fact, it is astonishing to see how a girl's carriage improves after she has learned to play on parade. Girls in the awkward, self-conscious stage, gain poise and self-possession and dignity through playing in the band."

"Not only that, but they are better musicians now that loose and free-hanging clothes permit them to take the full, deep breathing that playing a wind instrument demands."

Bailey county citizens with these fine irrigation wells ought to be a clean type of citizens physically as well as morally.

The weather isn't the only thing over which the average Muleshoe man has no control. There's his wife and daughter, for instance.

We have observed some Muleshoe girls who don't seem to know that the way to make a man run after a girl is for her to run away from him.

It used to be that the three R's stood for "readin', ritin', and rithmetick," but it seems that some of the modern Muleshoe girls have changed it to "rouge, ride and rest."

Banking Grows More Complicated
DENVER, Colo.—The increase in the technicalities of the banking business in the past dozen years was shown by a speaker before the American Institute of Banking which held its annual convention here recently when he pointed out that in 1918, when the institute last met in this city, it gave only three courses, while today it gives 19, with more subjects in preparation. At the earlier date, he said, the curriculum of the institute consisted of elementary banking, commercial and banking law, and money and banking, whereas today it consists of banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economic, standard banking, credits, investments, trust functions, analyzing financial statements, and public speaking, while the two new subjects of bank operation and organization, and bank management are to be added.

Business evolution used to move slowly—it measured off its gradual changes almost invisibly, like the hour hand on the clock. But today its tempo is that of the second hand. The movement of evolution that is quickening business with rapid changes is alarmingly visible and makes it difficult to keep up with them.—R. S. Hecht.

Taxes you need not pay

You pay more taxes in the barn lot than you do at the court house. For your county, state, federal and other taxes you have improved roads and other benefits of civilized government to show for your money. For the taxes in the barn lot you have but a total loss to show for your negligence—for the toll you pay in the barn lot is what you are feeding to rats and weevils—taxes you need not pay if you will but take the trouble to build rat and weevil proof barns and granaries. By ZEP people, in the main, are self-folks of high ideals. They stand for any slur nor insinuation regarding their character or verity. The time has been known in the past, a great deal more than once, when the word "liar" was equivalent to calling a cow man to draw his .45, and most of these latter day citizens are about as quick on brain-triggers as the old timer was in jerking his Colt.

"Next to a man's kith and kin comes the home he lives in," and most of the folks in this area of the great State of Texas are not only happy in the choice of their home spot but proud of the section of their chosen residence. Consequently when any slur is cast against the name of Texas or any one of its geographic divisions, such is generally a signal for verbal warfare at least, if not for physical action.

However, it appears from recent press dispatches that action of a general and specific nature is about to be taken by the great regional organization, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in behalf of an alleged slander that has been and is still being perpetrated against West Texas, and which is having a derogatory effect and influence upon prospective citizens who are looking for new locations, as well as upon the rising generation of school children who take the things learned from their text books with nearly the same authority as that contained in holy writ.

It has been stated that publishers of geographies used in the public schools of Texas and several other states have been making erroneous statements regarding the typography, climate, soil content, crops and rainfall.

For instance, some of these geographies say: "In western Oklahoma and Texas, the rainfall is so slight in the great plains area that vegetation is scanty."

"The Rio Grande is the fourth in length of the rivers of North America. The whole course of the stream lies through arid country."

"The winters of the west and northwest (speaking of Texas) are often long and severe. Ice winds from the frozen north sweep over this section and the ground is covered with snow for several weeks."

"Agriculture (in Texas) is chiefly carried on east of the 100th meridian." (This meridian passes through Abilene and Ballinger.)

More Than 1,000 Fruit and Shade Trees Bought Here

That the citizens of Muleshoe are well endowed with civic pride, and the farmers throughout Bailey County are convinced of the value of shade and fruit trees is evidenced from the fact that during the past 30 days nearly two car loads of fruit and shade trees have been sold in this immediate territory for fall delivery.

One nursery firm this week reported to the Journal the sale of 1,000 fruit and shade trees, about 200 of them to be planted within the corporate limits of Muleshoe, while the other 800 will go onto farms in this county. This firm has also placed orders for 1,300 grape plants to be delivered this fall, and the indications are that nearly this many more will be sold. Other vineyards that have been growing for several years in this section attest the value of grape culture here.

White Brays Orchard

J. D. White, an irrigation farmer living about four miles northwest of town, last week placed an order for $100 worth of fruit trees, including apples, peaches, pears, plums cherries and a few grapes.

It is understood several other farmers having irrigation plants are also contemplating the purchase of fruit trees this fall for their places.

Fruit Does Well Here

It is stated on reliable authority that practically every kind of fruit tree planted in this section grows and produces well. Cherries and plums are considered sure producers practically every year, while grapes, blackberries, dew berries, and gooseberries all do well when properly cultivated and given the required water. It has been freely predicted that the time will come, and in the near future, when the sandy land lying southeast of Muleshoe may be almost entirely converted into one great vineyard, so profitable is this particular fruit when grown on such soil.

Citizens Interested

"I do not know of any better investment that can be made from the standpoint of civic beauty," said M. P. Smith, "then the planting of plenty of trees in Muleshoe." Mr. Smith is one of the city's older citizens and has had opportunity of watching and measuring the municipal growth. "Every tree planted around a home, whether it be shade or fruit, adds $50 increased valuation to the property when it is one year old, besides the sightliness and comfort derived from it as it continues to grow. The general tone and grace of the city is always enhanced by the planting of trees, and especially in a prairie country, such as this, a town with trees always becomes more attractive to prospective citizens who are looking for a new location," he said.

She: "Where is your Chivalry?"

He: "I turned it in for a Buick."

McCarty's Drug Store
Muleshoe, Texas

The eastern part of the state (Texas) with heavy rainfall has thick forests and swamps. The western part has few streams, broad cactus plains, scattered bunches of grass and low bushes. One side of the state has so much rain it is in the cotton belt. The other has so little rain it has large ranches with few farms and few people.

"Another of the valuable rock products of the South is the petroleum or crude oil, found especially in the coastal sections of Texas and Louisiana and in Oklahoma."

Now, if some of these statements wouldn't make a loyal West Texan sore, we don't know what would. Talk about the great plains are being scanty of vegetation, when out here the most luxuriant crops desirable are being raised—cotton from one-half to a bale per acre; Indian corn from 30 to 45 bushels per acre; wheat from 20 to 40 bushels per acre; alfalfa from four to eight tons per acre, to say nothing of the bountiful crops of kafir cane, milo, fetterita; the luscious big apples, peaches, plums, cherries, grapes and strawberries, and the marvelous crops of all kinds of vegetables.

It is an old saying, "enough is enough." If East Texas has any curse at all it is perhaps that of too much rainfall, for even a good thing can be well overdone. Because of the altitude and the wonderful moisture retaining nature of the soil, West Texas does not need half the moisture required in East and Central Texas to grow as fine or finer crops that these older areas ever produced. True, there are some semi-arid spots in West Texas, but there are perhaps as great areas in other portions of this great state that are just as valueless because of their swampy conditions or because the soil has long ago been washed away by excessive rainfall where the land has been run to death to cotton and nothing but bare clay sub-soil remains which must be copiously fertilized before even a quarter crop can be realized on it.

We wonder just how many thousands of people have been frozen to death in West Texas, and especially in the Panhandle sections where, according to some of these swivel chair geographers who probably wrote the text books without even seeing this country, the "icy winds from the frozen north sweep over this section and the ground is covered with snow for several weeks." Does anyone know of any person who ever lost their life in these "chilly blasts" and terrible snows that hang on for indeterminate periods except in some extraordinary circumstance. Think of a country where there are an average of 300 sunny days a year, where three-fourths of the winter one does not need an overcoat, and plenty of days one may go in their shirt sleeves and without even a fire in the house—just how many West Texans, how many citizens of Bailey County appreciate such slanderous statements!

With all due credit to the oil productions of coastal Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma, it would doubtless be a great surprise to some of these wise-axe lexicographers to learn that one of the greatest oil fields in the entire United States has, in the past few years, been developed in the neighborhood of Amarillo where there are only a "few bunches of grass and low bushes," yet that section has been noted for many years for its great fields of wheat.

When a citizen knowing these facts as above stated, and further realizes that 40 per cent of the entire cotton produced in this state is raised in West Texas and that West Texas today produces one-seventh of the petroleum and crude oil of the entire United States, he is quite liable to get warm under the collar.

It comes as no surprise then, to learn that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is contemplating a suit against the producers of the alleged geographical scalpers who make havoc with their inaccurate and slanderous misrepresentations, and that damages aggregating around a million dollars will be asked for when the case comes to court. Facts backing up the contemplated suit have been set forth in a 3,800 word brief which contains excerpts from public school text books, some of them published as late as 1929, in which West Texas is described as a semi-arid region, unfit for agriculture, swept by piercing windstorms and subjected to severe snow storms and sudden and marked temperature changes, and having no production of cotton, wheat, oil or other minerals. It is stated by competent attorneys that the organization has sufficient grounds for entering such suit and excellent opportunities for securing favorable judgment on same.

There is no doubt but thousands of prosperous and satisfied citizens in every portion of West Texas would be glad to testify in behalf of this organization in such a suit. Right here in Bailey County there are plenty of farmers who would literally jump at the chance of making affidavits as to their crop productions that would readily give the lie to any erroneous or derogatory statement regarding the chosen place of their residence.

Yes, Texas people are still true to their lineage and the traditions of their fore-fathers. They think a lot of themselves, their kin folks and their home places, and for any easterner to make an untrue statement about them is about as healthy as spitting tobacco juice in the face of a rattlesnake.

A low-brow tells you what he thinks while a high-brow tells you what someone else thinks.

What A Shame!

Your boy may not be the one to suffer—but what about his buddies? Will their parents be as considerate as you are? Will they realize the importance and need of an eye examination for their children at the beginning of school?

WISE MEN

I spent a day in the research laboratories of the largest electrical company in the world. If two hundred years ago anybody had predicted the marvels that can be seen there to-day the God-fearing citizens of the time would have burned him as a witch.

For example, as you know, the metal radium is constantly giving off little particles which are called electrons. The electron is infinitely smaller than the atom. Indeed, the atom is a comparatively big proposition, a sort of universe with lots of electrons flying around inside it.

Of course, neither the electron nor the atom can be seen by any instruments which we have yet devised. But listen to this! The scientists in that laboratory have rigged up a radio apparatus, attached to a loud speaker, which is so delicate that it can detect the flight of electrons through the ether.

I held the dial of my wrist watch on the dial are radium coated. And I could hear the electrons pounding into the loud speaker like a shower of hailstones on a tin roof.

On another floor I sat in front of a motion picture screen and saw talking movies of three great scientists of England, Sir Ernest Rutherford, Sir William Henry Bragg, and Sir Oliver Lodge.

Each one of them was photographed in his own laboratory. Each proceeded to perform certain experiments and explain them. It was thrilling to sit in the living presence of such men and think how valuable those pictures will be to future generations. Suppose there had been a talking movie of Archimedes demonstrating the lever, or of Newton explaining the discovery of gravitation.

But what stirred me most was not the experiments they performed but the spirit of their talk. Sir Oliver Lodge, for example, picked up a little weight from his laboratory table and let it drop with a thud. "That experiment," he said, "is the simplest that one could possibly perform and yet there is hardly an experiment about which we know less than we do about that."

And he added, "You are not to suppose that you understand things because you call them names.

He proceeded to talk about the mysterious properties of "empty space," and he concluded with this paragraph.

"If we ever find, as I think we are beginning to find, that life and mind need not be associated with matter but can inhabit empty space, then life will not be subject to the troubles of a material organism and existence will be perpetual."

As contrasted with many of our smartest wise-crackers who know everything, these wise men of science admitted frankly that we are only on the furthest borderland of knowledge. And that anything is possible—even eternal life.

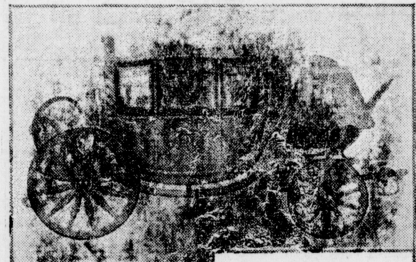

INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

J. C. Vinson, of the Progress community, north of Muleshoe, was seriously injured Thursday of last week when a truck he was driving collided with a touring car, throwing him out of the vehicle, fracturing a hip and breaking an arm. He was taken to a Lubock hospital for medical attention, and is said to be resting easily.

According to report, Vinson had been having some trouble with his truck engine, had just adjusted it, and upon starting was run into by the other car, the driver being unknown. Other men riding in the rear of the car at the time of collision were not injured.

They call this a free country, but the grand jury will soon be interfering.

U. S. Boys To Model This Coach With "U" Scholarships as Goal

Newly formed Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild offers $50,000 in awards to youths

Detroit, Mich. . . . Four university scholarships, each of $5,000, are being offered to the boys of America in an announcement today of the formation of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, an organization dedicated to a program of education in manual arts and to perpetuate the ideals of the ancient craft guild.

The scholarships and more than 900 other awards, having a total value in excess of $50,000 will be given to the boys who build the best miniature models of a Napoleonic coach. The contest is open to every boy in the nation between the ages of 12 and 19 inclusive. . . .

The Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild and its educational program are sponsored by leading educators and industrialists. Dan Beard, national commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, is honorary president of the Guild, and William A. Fisher, president of the Fisher Body Corporation, is active president. The honorary board of judges of the Guild is composed of the following nationally known educators:

Thomas S. Baker, president, Carnegie Institute of Technology; M. L. Brittain, president, Georgia Institute of Technology; M. E. Cooley, dean of engineering, Cornell University; J. D. Dana, dean, College of Architecture, University of Michigan; W. F. Durand, dean, College of Engineering, University of Alabama; W. S. Kimball, dean, College of Engineering, Cornell University; F. K. Kolbe, president, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn; Robert A. Millikan, California Institute of Technology; R. L. Sackett, dean of engineering, Pennsylvania State College; Rev. T. A. Steiner, C. S. C., dean, College of Engineering, University of Notre Dame; and S. W. Strahan, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Model of Napoleonic coach boys of nation will make in educational contest fostered by the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild. Inset, Dan Beard, national commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America and honorary president of the guild.

through the training received as Guild members, and thereby be enabled to achieve greater heights.

A comprehensive plan has been devised so that it will be easy for every boy in the age limit to enter the contest. To obtain this nationwide accessibility, the entire dealer organization of General Motors, of which Fisher Body Corporation is a division, has been drafted into service. Each of these 20,000 motor car dealers has been supplied with enrollment blanks with which to enroll the youthful entrants. In addition they will assist and assist the contestants in any questions which may arise.

At the conclusion of the contest, coach models made in each state in the country will be judged separately and according to their merit in their groups. The boys adjudged the best craftsman in both groups and in each state will be given a trip to Detroit as guests of the Guild and $50 in gold.

The four first awards of $5,000 scholarships may be used at any university selected by the fortunate young craftsmen. These scholarships cover a full college course of four years. In the boys' division, where the winners may not have reached college age, the scholarships will be held in trust by the Guild until the winners are prepared to enter the university of their choice.

In addition to the principal awards and the Detroit trips for the boys, there will be cash awards for builders of the second best coach models in both groups. These awards and other cash awards for individual merits on particular parts of the model building, such as woodwork, metalcraft, trimmer, and paintercraft, these special awards will be equally divided among the junior and senior groups in each of the states.

MAYOR HAS INVENTIVE MIND

Scarcely anyone would think that a man who had been pushing a pen across a county clerk's desk for the past ten years would be of much mechanical nature, but if the fellow who has such an idea would see a windmill Mayor C. C. Mardis has recently invented and constructed, they will quickly change their notion.

Accurately fashioned, sturdily built, showing skilled workmanship throughout, noted for its simplicity and embodied of very simple materials that can be purchased at any hardware store and lumberyard, this wind-fan with its six foot wheel turns at the slightest murmur of the prairie zephyr and with its three to one gearing has power sufficient for a number of commercial purposes.

The Mayor didn't say how he was going to use it, but from the naughty little twinkle in his honor's eye, it is believed he is going to hook it onto an adding machine to figure up the tax rolls of the school and county, which is also his annual job. He says that's getting to be some task!

COTTON CO-OP. MEETINGS SLATED FOR BAILEY CO.

A DREAM OF THE NOT DISTANT FUTURE

West Texans are a hardy group of citizens, endowed with determination, energetic to a high degree and with a forward vision that brooks no defeat. Hardships have been the stepping stones to prosperity in the South Plains country where these sturdy pioneers with iron in their blood and steel in their fibre are now beginning to reap a handsome reward. The determination of brain and brawn is rapidly converting the Black River valley and its surrounding areas into a blooming paradise where happiness reigns supreme and wealth becomes the hand maiden of all who woo her enchanting charms. Conservation of moisture is making waste places glad, while irrigation conquers the fertile valley making it to blossom as the rose. Here is being opened a great domain that bids fair for a large contribution to the world's welfare and contentment—and the joyful task has only begun. In the coming years the marvels of Nature will continue to unfold and future generations here will witness with pleasure a modern Garden of Eden where in a superlative degree, mankind will rise and halt with the advancing and declining sun, entirely content with his lot in life and grandly proud of his noble heritage. The active co-operation of today's citizens will hasten the coming of this agricultural millennium.

LOCAL GINNER SAYS RAINS WILL DELAY THE FIRST SALE

The cotton ginning season in Muleshoe will probably not open before about the middle of this month, because of recent heavy rains, according to R. E. Edwards, manager of the Edwards Gin Co., formerly known as the Muleshoe gin.

Mr. Edwards states, however, that his gin has been completely overhauled and is now ready for service. It is of the 4-70 stand type. Much new machinery has been installed this year, including one of the best cleaning systems to be found on the Plains, said Mr. Edwards, and the establishment is also equipped to handle "bottle" cotton in the most efficient manner possible.

In keeping with other ginners of the South Plains, Mr. Edwards says his concern will use the cotton bagging this year, when desired, as a general aid to the cotton market.

BELLER-McMINN

An event of wide interest was the marriage of Mr. Perry McMinn and Miss Jeraldine Beller which was solemnized at the First Methodist church in Clovis, Monday evening, August 25, at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Jones, pastor of the church performed the beautiful ring ceremony. Only members of the families and a few relatives and friends were present.

The bride was lovely in a dress of white roire taffeta with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of white tulips. The attendants to the bride and groom were Miss June Beller, sister of the bride, and Miss Zora Mae Shofner and Messrs. Cecil Burthmann, and David Beller, a brother of the bride.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Thelma McMinn, who presided at the organ, and the only sister of the groom, played McDowell's "To a Wild Rose," after which Miss Estaline Harris of Canyon, sang "Truly I Do," and "How I Love Thee." Announcing the bridal party and for the recessional, Miss McMinn played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and as the bride entered on the arm of her brother, the strains faded into Lohengrin's wedding march. During the ceremony the soft strains of "Because" could be heard from the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Beller of Muleshoe, and attended schools in Rocky Ford, Colo. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McMinn of Canyon. He has completed three years at W. T. C. at Canyon and taught one year at Y. L. He will be athletic coach at Y. L. school again this year.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left for the mountains of New Mexico. They will be at home after September the 8th at the Y. L. teahouse.

In order to get in jail again at the expiration of his sentence, Andrew Farrer, a cripple of Chicago, broke two windows with his crutch and was sent back for three months.

This Six-Room Bungalow Adapts Self to Any Lot

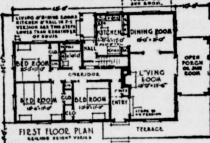

THERE is much to be said in favor of the one-story dwelling, and when the floor plan is as expertly arranged as in this Colonial bungalow the usual objections of lack of privacy and long distances to walk, are avoided.

This house may run either lengthwise or across the width of the lot. The exterior is of stained grey shingles with either a green shingled or tiled roof. The trimmings should be white and the shutters green to harmonize with the roof.

The three bedrooms are well shut off from the rest of the house. The large open porch or sunroom can be made to open off either the living or dining room. The kitchen has the desired built-in features, including the useful breakfast nook.

The cost of this house can be materially reduced by omitting the basement and allowing space on the main floor for a small boiler room. The walls and roof also are sheathed with celotex to keep the temperature at comfort point the year round.

Celotechnic Institute Studies Home Builders' Problems

THE Celotechnic Institute of America was recently established, with headquarters in Chicago, to study the problems of American home builders and to place at their disposal the latest discoveries in scientific construction.

It is the aim of B. G. Dahlberg, its founder, to delve into all home building problems and to give to the American public the benefit of its research work and to supply the very latest data on most modern building practices. It will be a veritable laboratory of building facts including structural problems, modern plans, roof and floor insulation, building trends, analysis, laboratory tests, experimentation in refrigeration, sheathing and interior finishes.

"Important discoveries are constantly being made which practically revolutionize previous home building methods," declares Mr. Dahlberg. "In all the facts we give the public we will have an eye on economy, as well as utility, comfort, health and beauty. It is the aim of the Institute to help the home builder build better homes without any material increase in the cost of construction. It will be a real service bureau for the home builder."

B. G. Dahlberg. Mr. Dahlberg is among the youngest of America's captains of industry. Born in Sweden, the early part of his life in America was spent in railroadng, a good portion of it as an associate of the late James J. Hill, the great empire builder of the Northwest. In more recent years he has been prominently identified with a number of large construction projects. A vision of great efficiency and economy in building, growing out of his experience, finally led to the decision to establish the Institute.

How the mighty have fallen H. L. Mencken, debunker, iconoclast, reviler of Babbits and disparager of women, has met just retribution, and at the hands of Montgomery, Ala., at that—Montgomery, with substantial claims of being the capital of the famed Southern "bible belt." Not only has H. L. M. announced his intention to marry a Montgomery girl, but he has been made an honorary member of the Montgomery Kiwanis club. Napoleon had his Waterloo; Mencken has his Montgomery.

HUNTERS INVADE PRAIRIE FOR CHICKEN SEPTEMBER 1

Hunting season opened here last Monday and several of the local Nimrods, both young and old greeted the annual occasion with dogs and guns. Several strangers, also, armed with the necessary artillery and government credentials were also noticed here early that morning getting ready to invade the tall grass of the sandy land country where prairie chickens are reported to hibernate.

During the early part of the week the hunters have been returning with their bags of game, running from two or three to a half dozen, most of them reporting the birds growing scarcer every year. Doves, too, seem plentiful, several marksmen having their daily limit with them.

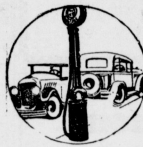

Several hushed tables of bridge lasted all afternoon when a score of women in El Paso accepted the challenge of Henry Ansley who wrote an offer to bet no woman in the city could go 10 hours without saying a word.
