Proxmire tags Zarb wastrel of fuel, people's money

HOME EDITION

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bypassing commercial airlines, Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb flew on Air Force or chartered planes that burned 19,000 gallons of fuel this year on speechmaking trips aimed at encouraging energy conservation, a senator said today.

An FEA spokesman confirmed Zarb had made the trips but disagreed with the conclusions of Sen.

William Proxmire, who called Zarb a "winged wastrel of energy, fuel and taxpayers' money.'

Proxmire said that on at least half the 13 chartered flights Zarb flew "in a plush, four-engine Air Force jet which burned enough fuel in an hour to supply the average American driver with enough gasoline to drive for an entire year."

In response, the FEA said that on eight occasions, Zarb flew a sixJetStar because commercial flights would not have allowed him to meet his schedule. And on four of the trips mentioned by Proxmire, Zarb chartered a small twin-engine Piper because there was no other way to fly into four small towns, the FEA spokesman added.

Proxmire, a Democrat from Wisconsin, released a list of the 13 charters arranged by Zarb during the first 10 months of the year, along with the cost of the flight and the estimated fuel usage

Seven of the trips were mainly for speeches to urge local business or civic groups to conserve fuel. In several cases, Proxmire said, Zarb could have taken a commercial flight at a far lower cost and at little or no

For example, Proxmire said a May 9 trip from Washington to Little Rock, Ark., cost the government $3,053 and more than 2,500 gallons of jet fuel. "At 12:55 p.m. on that date a direct commercial flight was scheduled to leave Washington National Airport and arrive in Little Rock at 3:10 p.m. (local time)," Proxmire said.

"According to FEA records, Mr. Zarb's first scheduled event in Little Rock was set for 5:30 p.m. This cost of Mr. Zarb's chartered round-trip flight was more than 20 times greater than the round-trip commercial coach fare," Proxmire said.

But the FEA spokesman said Zarb could not take advantage of the 12:55 p.m. commercial flight because Zarb testified until mid-afternoon before a House committee and had to fly back to Washington late that night to fulfill a schedule of commitments the following morning.

Brush blazes now threaten Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) - An eerie orange glow settled over the Los Angeles metropolitan area today as three wind-whipped brush fires sent hundreds of residents fleeing from their homes in the foothills north of Several fire fighters were injured, many more homes were damaged or destroyed, and morning commuters choked on smoke and blinked out cinders as the fires spread out of control. The smoke was so thick in some areas that motorists had to turn on headlights.

AUTHORITIES were evacuating hundreds of persons whose homes were threatened by the largest of the blazes, burning out of control after charring some 25,000 acres in the Big Tujunga Canyon area about 15 miles north of downtown Los Angeles. They said the flames - fanned by hot, dry winds gusting to hurricane force at times — had destroyed at least 13 homes and damaged scores of others after breaking out Sunday.

About 1,800 fire fighters were positioned to keep the fire away from populous suburbs such as Glendale. where burning embers carried by the high winds were starting many wild chase at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) - Pursuing police shot the tires off a car and finally, hours later, used tear gas today to capture a man accused of robbing a plush restaurant and forcing its assistant manager to flee with him.

Reports indicated the holdup may have netted as much as $3,000 in the two nights' receipts taken shortly before midnight from nine employes of the Smugglers' Inn on Lubbock's south side.

Police arrived in time to see a man holding the assistant manager, Mike Langston, at gunpoint as they sped southward on U.S. 87 in Langston's car.

Lubbock officers gave chase at speeds up to 115 miles per hour, they reported, and halted the vehicle 20 miles south of town by using bullets to puncture its tires. Police of neighboring towns. sheriff's deputies and state patrolmen teamed to surround the disabled car with a force of about 20

Thereafter they parleyed with Langston's captor in a standoff lasting until about 5 a.m., when-with the aid of tear gas-the gunman was forced to surrender and Langston was freed

Authorities said the only injuries were minor and resulted from exposure of Langston and a police ieutenant to the tear gas.

During the standoff officers tried in vain to persuade the gunman to release his hostage and surrender.-The man taken into custody was. not identified at once.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Asian and African churchmen insisted today that the World Council of Churches step up its fight against "racism and colonialism" as essential to a unified Christianity.

"Unless we are liberated, we cannot be united," the Rev. Canon Burgess Carr, general secretary of the All Africa Conference of Churches, told the global interdenominational body's fifth septennial assembly.

"We believe Jesus frees before he

The issue was an underlying ferment as the mixed concourse of Christians began work at solidifying their ranks across boundaries of tradition, culture and the new shadows of an economic, racial

That line ran between the undeveloped, dark-skinned nations and the richer, mostly white West. For the first time, assembly delegates from the undeveloped Third World held a slight voting edge.

The Rev. Mr. Canon Carr, garbed in a brightly patterned robe and headdress, told the church representatives that their program to combat racism has "enhanced the credibility" of Christianity in Africa.

But he said the council must give 'greater effectiveness' to the fight against "white racism and colonialism" which he called of central significance to the churches of

Meanwhile, it was reported that the Evangelical Church of West Germany has rejected a request by the All Africa church group that the German church urge the German government and industry first to stop giving aid for nuclear development to whiteruled South Africa.

The dispute circulated in the background as the assembly started business sessions of its meeting. The spread of the church cooperative movement, and rapid growth of Christianity in Africa and Asia, has given Third World delegates added muscle in the assembly.

White domination of the council was being challenged for the first time.

"It's going to be a hard situation for some Americans to take," said Dorothea Snyder of Dallas, Tex., a delegate from the United Presbyterian Church. "We've been the 'great white father,' but the image is being resented more and more. What seems right for us may not be Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic denominations with nearly 500 million members in 90 countries.

"It's quite wholesome," said the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Donald Coggan, the spiritual leader of the Anglican Church. "We don't think in terms of domination or empire here but of brotherhood and the wider empire of Christ."

Bishop Athanasios, a Coptic prelate from Egypt, said he doubts the shift will "make a big difference. When the Westerners were a majority, we all worked in an ecumenical spirit. This time, with the increase of non-Westerners, if the process of learning continues, we still will help each However, Lutheran Bishop Stefano R. Moshi of Tanzania said, "One will have to wait and see.

"Our white friends may choose not to support decisions that are made by not making the money available for them," he said. "That's another way of domination - to block decisions by not implementing them, despite the votes. I'm fearful this could happen."

The showdown is expected on proposals for the application of Christian teachings to advance social justice and combat poverty and racism, and to support liberation movements in whiteruled Rhodesia and South Africa. Previous grants by the council to African liberation movements stirred up considerable

Meeting for the first time in a Third World area, the assembly opened Sunday night with a service of scripture, prayers and hymns ac-companied at times by African drumming and the singing of a barefoot, beaded Masai chorus.

West Texas apprehensive of NEA

By LUANNA CROW

While strong opposition among educators to compulsory alliance with the National Education Association (NEA) has not been generally evident throughout the state, West Texas could prove to be an exception.

After the Texas State Teachers Association last spring voted for affiliation with NEA, membership in the Midland Educators Association (NEA) dropped from 847 last year to 650 this year. NEA is the local TSTA Local units in McCamey and president, said the district membership has dropped from almost 4,500 to an estimated 3,000 since last Dottie Powell, a second grade teacher at Burnet Elementary School, is among the 200 Midlanders who out of the organization after the affiliation. She had been a member 12 years — the length of time she has taught in Midland schools and had been a faculty representative for the organization the past three Hers was among the 27 votes against affiliation during the second referendum vote, which passed by a statewide margin of 2 to 1. Out of District XVIII's 34 votes, only seven were cast in favor of the measure.

Mrs. Powell said one of her objections is that an organization on the national level is "too big" and the people in charge "get out of touch."

Previously, TSTA had no direct national affiliation. Gene Isaacs, NEA president and a counselor at Lee High School, agreed that many members were disgruntled with affiliation because they felt "we had a strong state organization" and resented the possibility of being relegated to lesser status in a national group.

Isaacs said many West Texans, too, were leery of the NEA's reputation of being pro-union, having negotiated with the AFL-CIO a few years ago. Mrs. Powell agreed. "A lot of people were afraid NEA was playing footsie with the union, which they did at one time and they claim they aren't now. The hazy position on unionization also could affect TSTA's convention days' status as inservice training, according to Bryant Saxon, director of program development and research for the Midland public Saxon said the district counts the District XVIII annual convention day as inservice training "courtesy to teachers. Up to this point the state has allowed it" although there is been dissention because of the organization's sympathy with the union. Saxon also forsees a time when administrators will be excluded from the organization due to more rigid lines being drawn between teachers and administrators - similar to those between union workers and management.

While TSTA had made some moves toward excluding administrators, he said, NEA appears to be even more interested in omitting them.

Still another common objection to the TSTA-NEA affiliation is the hike in annual dues. NEA dues, added to state and local, have boosted cash outlay from $37 per teacher last year to $64 this year.

The $64 includes both the $25 NEA dues plus a $2 hike in state dues.

Regarding the unification, Buttery said, "Really, I think it's for the best. The reason I favored unification was that TSTA had to become part of the future or remain part of the past.

"It is a growing group and we were the only state that had not unified. It would have put us completely without any national voice," he said. Although the membership has dipped, Buttery feels it will rebuild. For those who are dissatisfied with NEA's programs, the Fannin Elementary School principal said Texas, with the membership increase for NEA brought about by the merger, "will be able to exert quite a bit of influence at the national con-

And that sustaining membership, lot of people who paid their dues this

In the meanwhile, those unwilling to wait have gone other directions. Some are forming a new group; others are fortifying the ranks of a TSTA affiliate exempt from unification.

The new organization, Texas Professional Educators, was formed in the wake of the TSTA-NEA merger. It held its first convention early this month in Odessa, 137 West Texas educators in attendance. Among them were representatives from Mc-Camey, Garden City, Big Lake and Odessa

Stanton was represented by 31, Midland by nine and Fort Stockton by 70. As the group's first organizational session it was "successful" according to Dock W. Sewell, district coor-

It was held the same day as the District XVIII, TSTA, convention, also in Odessa.

TPE is affiliated with the National Association of Professional Educators which formed in California when that state's teacher organization unified with NEA. It requires neither unified membership, nor does it support any prounion stance.

Asked about the fledgling organization, Mrs. Powell said she sees the possibility of growth. "Most teachers do believe in professional organizations. If this one offers more, I can see some possibilities." Although she is not a member of TPE, she does belong to the Classroom Teachers Association of Midland, the TSTA affiliate. Through the years, many teachers have held dual memberships in NEA (it for merly was known as Midland County Teachers Association) and CTAM. Miguel Bustilloz, CTAM president, said his organization has realized a 10 to 12 per cent increase in membership over last year.

Dues in the organization are only $18 - $3 for the local chapter and $15 for the Texas Classroom Teachers Association.

Bustilloz said dues, dissatisfaction with TSTA and improved CTAM programs account for the organization's climbing membership which is open only to classroom

DEAR ABBY

What about lunch?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: This problem is making me physically ill. We live in the suburbs, and my husband works in the city. A bar-type restaurant recently opened near Vic's office that features a "go go lunch"-complete with nude girls who dance and wait on tables. Vic and several men in his department lunch there daily now.

I am very much upset over this, and Vic knows it, but he makes light of it. He's a hot-blooded Latin, and just the thought of his being aroused by naked girls every day is more than I can

How should I handle this? I've considered meeting him in town for lunches, but the trains don't run at the proper times. Also, I am tied down with small children.

PHILADELPHIA WIFE DEAR NAMELESS: What are your alternatives? Ordering your husband to quit going there for lunch? Sorry, but he's a big boy, and you aren't his mother.

I seriously doubt that the girls are nude. (Topless, maybe, but hardly naked at lunchtime.) After the novelty wears off-and it will-all that nudity will become about as exciting as looking at a lot of dressed turkeys hanging in a butcher-shop

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my nose! I hate it.

I am 18 and have a fairly good personality and lots of friemds, especially at church. But everybody seems to notice my nose, and I think it's high time I did something about it. What really hurts, Abby, is that there's this guy who goes to my church. I like him a lot, but because of my nose he calls me "747." If you could see my nose, you'd know what I mean. Where can I find a plastic surgeon who wouldn't charge me a fortune? Even the paator, in a very nice way, told me I had a nose problem. Help! DEAR "747": If you are convinced that you'll never land a guy with that 747, ask your family doctor if he knows a plastic surgeon who would operate now and let you make monthly payments.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't throw this in the wastebaskei. I must have Abby, I don't go out to dinner very often, so it's a special occasion for me, and I like to have my man near me. Sitting next to a stranger at dinner doesn't make me feel very romamtic after I get home.

The time is ripe for a tall celebration in the Tall City.

United Way of Midland has exceeded the record goal in its Bicentennial fund campaign. Contributions and pledges reported as of last Friday totaled $605,901, which represented 100.5 per cent of the $605,000 goal.

This is tremendous ... and what a grand and glorious feeling for the scores of volunteer workers, as well as for all residents of the community

The campaign represented a real challenge for the community, and the fact that the effort went over the top in record time is another feather in Midland's already well-feathered hat.

Success in such a communitywide effort does something for a community, boosting its morale and encouraging its residents to tackle even greater challenges beneficial to the community in the

This is the spirit which has been responsible for the fantastic growth and development of Midland through the years. It is a determined spirit on the part of a spirited citizenry which doesn't believe in looking back when it comes to community progress and betterment.

Midlanders have every right to be proud of the United Way accomplishment ... and thankful that United Way continues as an met, but this didn't in the least established part of community life in the Tall City

This is the second year in a row that the campaign has gone overthe-top, although goals have been reached on several occasions in recent years.

There was a time several years ago when the campaigns didn't quite reach their much smaller quotas, but once Midlanders realized that goals could be met with just a little more effort and that United Way was here to stay, goal-reaching became a reality.

BIBLE VERSE

For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone.

The agencies participating in United Way surely must be happy about the whole business. They include American Red Cross, Boys Club, Buffalo Trail Council Boy Scouts of America, Casa de Amigos, Community Day Nursery, Council on Alcoholism, Family Services, Inc., Free Tape Lending Library.

La Florecita Day Nursery, Midland-Lee Youth Centers, Permian Basin Girl Scout Council, Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, Inc., Salvation Army, United Service Organization, Washington Youth Center, and Midland Y.M.C.A. units.

The campaign organization again this year was supberb, accounting in part for the drive's

But it was the determined effort of the scores of volunteer workers, plus the increased giving of many firms and individuals, which really turned the trick for another successful United Way campaign. It is impossible to bestow upon them the thanks which they merit.

Congratulations certainly are in order for Chairman Bill Malone and his many associates in this great and far-reaching achievement. There seemingly was never any doubt in their minds that the challenge would be dull the thrill of success in this particular venture.

Thanks again to each and every one of them from a grateful

ST. JOHN'S JOURNAL:

Rockefeller's final power play revealed

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON -"There is no question," asserted Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, "that the Rockefeller move puts a serious crimp in Ronald Reagan's prospects.'

Former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's withdrawal from the Ford 1976 presidential ticket contains much more than stopping in its tracks the concerted conservative effort to take over the Republican Party.

For weeks prior to President Ford's Cabinet shake-up and the Rockefeller decision to step aside, eastern Republican liberals have been searching for a political strategy to sandbag the conservatives.

New York City's financial crisis is intimately connected with the power of the liberal eastern Republicans. A New York default would end for a generation the enormous political power eastern liberals have had on American political institutions. Mr. Ford's strong refusal to prevent a New York default, the mounting campaign of the Republican right's pressure on the President, and the loss of control of the Republican Party by the Rockefeller eastern liberals are the three underlying factors that went into the Rockefeller decision to step aside.

In late August this columnist was informed that Mr. Ford had worked out an agreement with Rockefeller that if he left the ticket, thus removing himself as a major bone of contention with Reagan Republicans. he would be given Henry Kissinger's post as secretary of state.

In return, Rockefeller's withdrawal from what he called "party squab-bles" would remove effectively the Reagan threat and give Mr. Ford hope of uniting the GOP.

However, at his press conference here shortly after writing Mr. Ford a letter taking himself out of the running for the vice presidency, Rockefeller gave the clear impression that he will make one final effort to gain the GOP presidential nomination. The pressures on Rockefeller to make one final political power play for the White House largely were the outgrowth of the New York financial crisis in which Rockefeller as the state's governor played a leading role.

The Rockefeller family financial interests (primarily Chase Manhattan Bank, of which his brother is president) stand to take a substantial setback if the federal government does not step in and aid New York.

The long-range political impact and loss of power by eastern liberals of both political parties is of even greater concern than the financial loss the Rockefeller family fortune might suffer. This helps explain not only the Rockefeller power play but the concerted nonstop public relations campaign for Mr. Ford and Congress to bail out New York City.

The boldness of the final Rockefeller bid for the presidency only can be appreciated if one realizes the central role he played in bringing New York to its knees financially in the 15 years he was New York governor. New York magazine in a recent issue was the publication to pinpoint Rockefeller's role. It cited, for example, 20 crucial decisions that led the city to the brink of bankruptcy; five of those decisions were made by Rockefeller.

"If there is a common thread weaving through these many decisions," writes Ken Auletta of New York magazine, "it would be what is called 'politics.' And since 'liberal' politicians have dominated city government these many years, it is they who are more guilty than others."

Nelson Rockefeller bailed out as New York governor before the current New York City financial crisis came to a head. Now he has abandoned the vice presidency and hopes to use that crisis in his last play for political power. If he succeeds he will do to the nation what he helped to do to New York City and state.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Odds on presidential candidates

WASHINGTON - The 1976 presidential race, according to the gambling odds, is just about a tossup. The foremost Las Vegas oddsmaker, Jimmy the Greek Snyder, wno figures the political odds exclusively for us, rates President Ford as a narrow 6-to-5 favorite over the Democratic contenders.

Only Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., has a chance to beat Ford by Jimmy's odds. He gives Humphrey a slight. 7-to-6 edge over Ford.

The President is a solid favorite, according to the oddsmaker, to win the Republican nomination. Those betting on him must put up $3 against

The President's leading challenger, Ronald Reagan, has only a 7-2 chance to win the nomination. In other words, betters could collect $7 on a $2 bet if he should be nominated.

The other Republican possibilities are rated by Jimmy in this order: Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, 8-Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, 50-1; ex-Treasury Secretary John Connally, 100-1; Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., 200-1.

The Democratic favorite, at 3-1, is Senator Humphrey. A $1 bet on him, in other words, would bring $3 if he should become the nominee.

Here are Jimmy's odds on the other Democratic contenders: Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., 5-1; ex-Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, 8-1; Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., 12-1; Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., 15-1; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., 15-1.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho., 20-1; ex-North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, 20-1; Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, 20-1; Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., 20-1; Alabama Gov. George Wallace, 20-1.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, 25-1; Sen. Ed Muskie, D-Me., 25-1; ex-Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., 40-1; Sargent Shriver, 40-1; Sen. George McGovern, 100-1; Sen. Adlai Stevenson; D-Ill.,

MOST MEMBERS OF Congress who have made their way into this column are villains in the drama of government. They are a minority on Capitol Hill, but, unfortunately, they often attract more attention than their more conscientious colleagues.

Few are more conscientious than Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., who has fought tirelessly for reforms for more than 20 years. He has scrupulously kept his own actions above criticism.

But there was a small slip, we now have discovered, in 1972. Case intervened in a federal criminal case to spare a loyal political confederate.

It is our duty to report the incident, although we emphasize it is merely a speck on an otherwise clean record. Here are the details:

Princeton, N.J., and explained the The prospective prosecutor was U.S. Attorney Herbert Stern, whom Case had installed to clean up New Jersey corruption. When Dimon spoke to Case at Princeton, Stern had already summoned Dimon to appear before the grand jury. The senator listened sympathetically to Dimon's story but promised nothing. Upon his return to Washington, however, Case asked his aide. Frances Henderson, to telephone Stern in New Jersey.

Shortly thereafter, Stern's office notified Dimon that his grand jury appearance had been postponed Dimon eventually made a brief appearance before the grand jury. The voting machine company confessed it had given money to the marshal who passed on the money to Dimon. But neither Dimon nor the marshal was

Case told us the 1972 telephone call was intended to find out whether Dimon Was under investigation, not to influence the outcome. The senator recalls admonishing his aide to be careful not to suggest anything the least improper to Stern.

"I'm satisfied in my own mind I did nothing for John Dimon that I wouldn't do for anyone," said Case. "I think a person is entitled to know what is going on." Yet the senator couldn't recall ever making a call to Stern on anyone else's behalf.

Stern is now a federal judge. The telephone call from Case's office, he told us, had nothing to do with the grand jury outcome. "Case never asked me to do anything for Dimon,' he said. On the contrary, Stern subpoenaed records and kept a dozen FBI agents busy for almost a year in an effort to prove wrong-doing against. Dimon or the marshal. Stern insisted that he had found absolutely no cause to prosecute either man.

Dimon denied he had asked Case to made the controversial telephone

THE BUREAUCRATS

INSIDE REPORT:

Gap between rhetoric and reality spells trouble

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - That the gap between rhetoric and reality was getting him in deep trouble again became evident to President Ford recently when he encountered Sen. Dewey Bartlett, a conservative Republican from oil-producing Oklahoma, at a White House dinner. Bartlett was a member of the Senate-House conference that had just finished a compromise energy bill blessed by the Ford administration. The President asked the Senator his opinion of the bill. Bartlett replied that neither he nor any other Republican on the conference committee had signed the report. Mr. Ford was silent, wearing an expression that could only be described

He might well be grim, for Bartlett's complaint began a furious campaign by the oil industry and its congressional allies to veto a bill that continues the oil price control. system so often condemned by Mr. Ford. But a veto, repudiating commitments by the President's own deputies, scarcely seems possible.

Much more than the energy bill is involved here. Mr. Ford's accelerating personal decline may be partially traced to his playing the righteous, inflexible conservative on the campaign stump and the pliable congressional-style compromiser in Washington. A similar duality is developing on the New York crisis and is threatened in the coming battle over tax cuts. Nowhere is the gap between presidential rhetoric and reality. ider than in energy Convinced by economic advisers that oil price decontrol was the best way to encourage production and discourage imports, Mr. Ford has travelled the country excoriating the Democratic Congress for insisting on controls. The issue also fits the President's campaign theme of governmental deregulation.

But when Mr. Ford faced the reality of decontrol in September following his veto of control legislation, he backed away from the abyss. Immediate decontrol, his advisers now privately told the President, might stifle fragile economic recovery. the Federal Energy Adminstration (FEA) began negotiations for new legislation which reached its climax recently. That compromise was worked out between Democratic members of the Senate-House conference (led by Sen. Henry M. Jackson) and FEA deputy administrator John Hill, with Republican conferees not deeply

The end product has the flavor of Scoop Jackson far more than Jerry Ford. It would roll back gasoline prices a few cents (a pet Jackson project) and maintain multi-tiered price controls for 40 months with neither a phaseout during that time nor guaranteed decontrol in the future. Marginally profitable 'stripper" wells would be newly controlled, with provision for control of future Alaskan oil. General Accounting Office (GAO) federal investigators would have access to the books of the giant oil companies. Worst of all, the bill departs from the Ford goal of energy independence by substantially increasing oil imports. "Let's call it the OPEC relief act of 1976," snaps one official at "This bill contains about everything the President is against," a Republican congressional leader from a non-producing state told us. One middle-level FEA official caustically compared his agency's endorsement of the bill to former Sen. George Aiken's famous suggestion that the U.S. declare the Vietnam war won and get out. Lacking Aiken's sense of irony, the oil industry is angrily demanding a veto.

Why then is FEA administrator Frank Zarb advising the President to sign the bill, with agreement from senior White House aides?

There are sound reasons. The Senate and House bills considered by the conference were far worse from the administration's viewpoint before the FEA's Hill began negodiating. Had he not negotiated, Mr. Ford would have vetoed the legislation -leading to two unpleasant alternatives: either a veto override resulting in a highly regulated oil industry, or a sustained veto resulting in immediate decontrol. Besides, as FEA senior officials lectured oil lobbyists last week, this was the best they could hope for considering deepening public hostility.

Such logic might go down better had it not been for a year of high-pitched energy pronouncements from Mr. Ford. Just two weeks ago, the President addressed a Republican fund-raiser in Charleston, W. Va., with an excoriation of congressional "retreat from responsibility" in its energy bill, for which he hinted a veto. Just 24 hours later, Mr. Ford's energy aides were approving a new bill, whose most important change was cosmetic: an increase in the composite oil price ceiling per barrel from $7.55 to $7.66. Since it is unlikely the President would repudiate Zarb and his other advisers by vetoing the bill, he faces new hostility from the Republican right on the eve of Ronald Reagan's challenge. By angering liberals with hard-line promises on oil decontrol and then infuriating conservatives by compromising on them, President Ford once again has secured the worst of two worlds.

By MARY CAMPBELL By The Associated Press

A lot of people drift into musical groups in college and take it from here as a career. Commander Cody started that way, while he was studying sculpture and painting, but he kept on for awhile in art. Then music became the career and art the

He named the group Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airmen while in college, trying to excite interest by novelty. They were playing goodtime country-western music. mixed with rock, and trying to give it a swing so it could be danced to, at the parties and dances where they played.

He went to the University of Michigan because it was a long way from his family's home on Long Island and because he thought he'd be good at the decathlon, discovering after he got there that Big Ten schools don't have the decathlon in their sports program.

After graduation, he went to Wisconsin State at Oshkosh, Wis., to teach. "I didn't keep attendance and they were shocked. I had some proven projects for the art students like making three-dimensional designs, like balsa wood airplanes, and that was frowned on. It was 1968 and in figure drawing they wouldn't let me have a nude model. I figured, 'This is not going to be my career.

"Every weekend I drove seven and a half hours to Ann Arbor to play with the band and see my friends."

Cody also went to New York to decide whether to become an artist there. He was told that he could make it if he socialized at the right parties and he decided that if he was going to be in show business, he might as wellreally be in show business.

The group's lead guitar player had moved to the San Francisco area from Ann Arbor and urged the rest to join him. "In June of 1969 I said all right. I cut my ties and went. My mom didn't speak to me for two years. I'd thrown away a good career.

Cody's father and brother are commercial artists and his mother is a color specialist.

A talk with Cody, whose real name is George Frayne, is a straightforward account, with amusing and unexpected asides. His road crew is experienced in carpentry so it will rebuild the inside of the bus the eightpiece band travels on. The plywood has arrived, addressed to "Commander Cody and the Lost People of Cody says he likes to be called Cody or George, but not Commander, because that sounds like he was in Vietnam.

Arriving in California, Cody stayed with various friends, slept for a time in a closet and would take some old painting his hosts didn't like and paint one of his own over it, sometimes with dime store brushes, to give instead of rent. Sometimes he'd sell one. The band tried to get musical jobs, too.

"It took us a year to make enough money to get on food stamps. You couldn't make $25 a week and get them. They'd give food stamps, at that time, to a house full of people who weren't family. We lived in two houses next to each other. We got food stamps and food and cooked and we made it. It was rough. But we had a feeling of togetherness and we knew something better would happen in the

We started to make money and a lot of the guys got married and bought houses and became regular middleclass type people. Now they have house and car payments."

The band discovered its pedal steel guitar player, Bobby "Blue" Black in a country band in San Jose's Cowtown. "They had a $50 talent contest each week. One week we sent Andy Stein down and he won $50. John Tichy went the following week and he won. The third week Bill Kirchen went but he didn't win. They'd figured out we were a band. But we met Bobby that way."

Cody lives in a little town 35 miles from San Francisco, which stays small by being on a winding road. "I've become a bird watcher," he says. "The Bolinas Lagoon is out my back door and it has a pelican population of about 65. I never got into bird watching until I started watching them fish. They're a beautiful sight." Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airmen's first record contract was with Paramount, for whom they made four LPs. From the first one came their only top 10 single, "Hot Rod Lincoln," in the winter of 1972. "It sold about 900,000. It was a novelty record, talking with truck-driving

"Our new stuff, on 'Tales from the Ozone,' is more expansive. We've got some straight country-western, some straight rock 'n' roll, a disco song and a classic fiddle tune ends the record to show off Andy Stein. Sales are starting slowly but it's going to build." It is the group's second LP for Warner

Cody says that country fans like them but they don't get much airplay on country stations. He says, "There's only one dirty song we did. We put out a sticker for radio stations on one of our early albums, 'Do not play side 1 cut 2.' That was really a gospel song. Side 1 cut 5 was the dirty one. They played it and they swore they'd never play us again. Dirty stuff on country-western radio! It's one of the reasons we're not real big in country-western."

Recently the band appeared on an episode of "Police Woman" on TV. They wanted a far-out rock band for a show about payola and graft and murder and an evil guy manipulating poor rock musicians. I'm the leader of the Chromium Skate Board. I walked in and they said, 'Okay, we'll just have to make the guy a little older. They wanted teen-age glitter in the recording studio. I advised them against that. We worked out a bunch of compromises, but it's still going to

Stein and Cody also are scoring a movie, "Hello, Hollywood," for New World Pictures. "They did 'Candy Striped Nurses' and 'Death Rays 2000.' They're R-rated movies for drive-ins and the Southwest. There are five of our tunes in it. Somebody turns on a radio and we materialize. I never scored a film; we need the experience. At a certain profit level, if it gets there, they'll pay us some

Cody also paints and he has "discovered the electric typewriter" and is writing a book about the road, after six years on the road and 225 dates a year. "I'm an energetic person," he says. "I've got to be doing

When Jesus was tempted by the devil in the wilderness, his thought-provoking reply was, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God." While food is necessary for our lives, it is not all-important. Humans have a spiritual nature which must also be nourished. Indeed, the spiritual side of man is more important than the physical. Food for the spirit is the word of God. When lesus was tempted by the devil in the wilderness, his

Recent Texas governors put in long work hours

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas governors, just as most executives, are deskbound. Some more than others.

Price Daniel burned midnight oil to keep his desk clear, and John Connally and Preston Smith often extended their work days late into the Smith also rose by dawn and beat his staff to the Capitol, astonishing early morning callers by answering the telephone himself.

*When state government was a much smaller operation, Allan Shivers usually finished his chores by late afternoon: he did not like to do homework at the mansion.

The Associated Press reviewed the four former governors' work habits after an investigation revealed that Gov. Dolph Briscoe spent portions of 135 days during the first 10 months of this year at his Uvalde ranch.

Even when he is here, Briscoe is seldom seen in public, except at brief ceremonial functions, and he went 61 days without a news con-

Over the past quarter century, since Shivers became governor in 1949, Daniel perhaps ranks as Texas' hardest-working chief executive. Daniel frequently ate lunch and dinner at his desk, aides recall, and barbershop so he could sign them while he was getting his hair cut. He would stay up at the mansion until 2-3 a.m. on state business.

Saturday was a regular work day, and major announcements often were released late that day or on Sunday, a practice that has virtually disappeared in recent years.

One reason Daniel had to keep such long hours was that he personally drafted bills on his major legislative projects and insisted on scrutinizing even minor news. releases before they were distributed "Shame, shame," he would scribble across releases or speeches he did not like.

By the time Smith became governor in 1969, the staff had grown from about a dozen during Shivers' administration to more than 500, illustrating the increasing complexity of state government.

Smith was out the mansion front door so early in the morning that the first time he did it, the police officer in charge of his security panicked, thinking the governor had disap-rang. Smith loved the pomp and ceremony of proclamation signings, and he hired the first staff photographer so Texans would be sure to have their pictures made with the governor when they visited

When Connally was governor, a sign outside the reception room indicated that the office was open from 10 a.m. to noon and 1-3 p.m. Smith, a bit smug perhaps, had it changed to read, 8-12 and 1-5.

Connally's energy faded after his second legislative session, in 1965, a session in which, one reporter wrote, Connally had influenced legislators more than any governor since Jim Hogg, 1891-95.

After that, said his friend Will Davis of Austin, the office "no longer held any glamour for him," although he was reelected to a third term in 1966.

In 1960, reporters counted Connally absent 12 days of an 18-day special session on the state budget and liquor by the mini-bottle. "The public office was too consuming," Connally reflected. "It consumed my physical and mental energies almost to the exclusion of everything else."

Shivers, whose 71/2-year administration is the longest of any Texas governor, shaped the job to fit his desires. "He wasn't exactly married to the governor's office," recalls former aide Weldon Hart.

He accepted speaking engagements at his convenience, and it was customary for whoever invited him to provide air transporta-

Shivers, like Daniel and Smith. courted legislators, exhorting his staff, "Remember, these people come up here under the impression they are the smartest people in the state, and while the legislature is in session, we agree with them."

Connally, recalls former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, "just wasn't interested in sitting in his office and seeing legislators all day long."

Shivers' schedule gave him more time to visit informally with the press, and Connally alternately charmed and parried reporters at news conferences. Daniel, too, was at ease with the press, and Smith probably averaged two or three news conferences a month before the Sharpstown bank scandal.

After that, Smith was at least as reluctant as Briscoe about consenting to question-and-answer sessions. Although Connally and Smith nursed stomach ulcers, a malady associated with executive job pressures, Briscoe's four predecessors, like himself, were country boys and had country retreats to relax.

Aides to Shivers, Daniel, Connally and Smith generally informed the Capitol press corps in advance when . the chief executives were leaving Austin, even for weekend retreats.

Aides to Briscoe, who relishes such retreats more than his predecessors, generally do not reveal such trips in advance, and in such instances, reporters must ask where the gover-

Shivers liked to visit his wife's family estate at Sharyland in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where he hunted whitewing doves, and his farm near Woodville. Daniel occasionally would pick up his children after school on Friday, and the family would drive to their Liberty ranch for the weekend, where Daniel rode horses and, a former aide recalls,

"rumor has it that he fished." Connally often packed up work, such as pending appointments, and headed for his Flores-ville ranch, and Smith had a house on Lake Travis, near Austin, where he fished and cooked steaks outside for his staff and friends. "In Texas," said Hart, "more so, it seems, than in other states, everybody expects the governor to be in his office all the time. And, if they come to Austin, they expect to see him. There's no way you can win Clesner questioned why the Jacksonville, Fla., IRS agent was not contacted when Dallas agents went to Miami last July to interview a director of the Bahamian bank. "Furthermore, as it dealt with off-

Cowboys' surge clobbers Eagles

DALLAS (AP) - Retired Bob Lilly. Dallas' first draft choice in 1961, celebrated his day at halftime Sunday. As irony would have it, the only present player the Cowboys didn't draft beat the Philadelphia Eagles on the field

Preston Pearson raced five yards for a touchdown and snared four screen passes that his brilliant dashes turned into 109 yards in a 27-17 National Football League victory over the Eagles that kept Dallas' playoff hopes alive.

Lilly, the former All-pro defensive tackle, told the Texas Stadium crowd at halftime. "I always loved football because I always loved challenges. Pearson likes football for the same

Pearson, who was placed on waivers by the World Champion Pittsburgh Steelers in September, is the only player on Dallas' team that the computer-like organization didn't

'We couldn't believe Pittsburgh let him go but we were happy to get him." said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

"Dallas was the first team to telephone me and that's why I wanted to play for them," said the proud nineyear veteran from Illinois. "I wanted to show Pittsburgh something.'

In Pittsburgh's absence, Pearson took his vengeance campaign out on another part of Pennsylvania Sunday-the lowly Eagles.

Landry-with the ultimate compliment-put in a play for Pearson that he had designed for Calvin Hill, who defected to the now defunct World Football League.

"We worked inside against the zone defense and our little screen passes to Preston were very effective," said Landry: "They (the Eagles) drop their linebackers 10 yards off and give you the short ones, so we designed the screen to Preston. We used to use it often with Calvin, but hadn't used it this season.

Pearson ran five yards for a touchdown and had jaunts of 16, 31, 49 and 13 yards on screen passes, setting up a oneyard touchdown run by soreshouldered Roger Staubach. Toni Fritsch's 20-yard field goal, and a five-yard TD romp by Doug Dennison.

Dallas is now 7-3 and trails the St. Louis Cardinals in the National Conference Eastern Division by only one game. Philadelphia is 2-8.

"Preston is just great in the open field," said Landry. "He knows how to use his blockers. He isn't a power back but boy can he find those holes."

The Eagle offense was inept for 21/2 periods before Coach Mike Mc-Cormack replaced twice-intercepted Roman Gabriel with second-year man Mike Boryla.

James McAlister scored on a 13yard run and Po James punched across from a yard out for two fourthperiod touchdowns on Boryla-led

Steelers, Oilers tangle tonight

HOUSTON (AP) - The ragstoriches Houston Oilers met defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh in an American Football Conference Central Division showdown in the Astrodome before a nationally televised audience Monday night. Pittsburgh took a division leading 8-1 record and a seven game winning streak into the game with the Oilers, a step behind at 7-2. Cincinnati, upset by Cleveland Sunday, has an 8-2 record in the hot AFC Central power

Injuries pile up for NFL teams

By The Associated Press

The short-range effects really aren't all that bad. Wounded pride, after all, fades with time.

But wounded bodies are a different matter-and with time running out, those could be literally killing blows to a few National Football League

Cincinnati, smack in the middle of the league's tightest divisional race, suffered a shocking loss Sunday at the hands of the previously winless Cleveland Browns 35-23.

And worse, Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson, who had been slicing up Cleveland's secondary the way he's cut up just about every other pass defense, was knocked out of action with a bruised chest. The extent of the injury was still in question today.

In Miami, the Dolphins wished there was a question about the seriousness of quarterback Bob Griese's injury-but there isn't. He's out for the rest of the season and scheduled to undergo surgery today to repair a torn tendon in his right big

That tear also helped Baltimore tear up the Dolphins. With Griese out and Earl Morrall ineffective, the Colts rallied for a 33-17 victory. But it was a costly once for Baltimore, too, when quarterback Bert Jones suffered bruised ribs. Like Anderson, Jones' status was uncertain.

Browns 35, Bengals 23

Cincinnati could have taken at least a temporary lead in the division-but the Browns in general and quarterback Mike Phipps in particular decided it was time to do something about their dreadful record.

"I enjoy playing against Cincinnati. It's a great rivalry," Phipps said after he burned the Bengals on 23 of 36 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. "There's little for us to win as far as stats go, but it meant a lot to our club.

Anderson completed 13 of 20 for 292 yards and two touchdowns before giving way to John Reaves, who had little success. He hit on just four of 11 for 68 yards and throwing an interception that was returned by safety Jim Hill 56 yards for Cleveland's last score

Colts 33, Dolphins 17

The Colts, with their fifth straight victory, moved within a game of the Dolphins in the AFC East-and right into the playoff picture.

"All you can ask out of life is an opportunity to get in the playoffs,"said Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda, "and we have that opportunity now."

Marty Domres replaced Jones and kept the Colts moving-although it was really Lydell Mitchell and Don McCauley who kept them going. Mitchell ran for 106 yards, 32 of them for a touchdown, and McCauley scored three times from one yard out. As Griese's replacement, 41 year-old Earl Morrall was ineffective, fumbling the ball away once, completing only one of nine passes and suffering two interceptions. "We'll just go with Earl and Don Strock," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "Earl's a proven backup man and Strock has been with us three years."

Buffalo, also a game back of Miami, rode O.J. Simpson's four touchdowns past New England. Simpson, the NFL's leading rusher, was held to just 69 yards but scored on runs of one and two yards and on a pair of three-yard passes from Joe Ferguson. Cardinals 37, Jets 6

Terry Metcalf's two touchdown runs, one on a 52-yard draw play, and Jim Hart's two scoring passes to Mel Gray, one of them a 74-yard bomb, blew out the Jets and kept St. Louis atop the NFC East, a game ahead of Dallas. Raiders 26, Redskins 23

"We beat George Allen. That just tickles the hell out of me," said Oakland's George Blanda, who missed a 33-yard field goal in the waning seconds of regulation play, then hit from 27 yards out in overtime to down the Redskins.

Rams 38, Bears 10 Two early touchdowns runs by Lawrence McCutcheon and Jim Bertelsen and two more by John Cappelletti enabled the Rams to breeze past Chicago.

Packers 40, Giants 14 John Hadl passed for 275 yards and two touchdowns and rookie Will Harrell caught one scoring pass and threw another to lead Green Bay's rout of the Giants.

Chiefs 24, Lions 21 Jan Stenerud's 26-yard field goal at 6:44 of sudden-death overtime carried Kansas City past the Lions. Detroit forced the extra period on Errol Mann's 44-yard field goal on the final play of the fourth quarter.

19ers 16, Saints 6

Larry Schreiber's touchdown sweep just two minutes into the game provided the only points San Francisco needed to beat New Orleans. Gene Washington's TD catch from Steve Spurrier and Steve Mike-Mayer's field goal in the fourth quarter broke it open.

Dave McNally takes renewal case to panel

NEW YORK (AP) - Major league baseball players were to drop the other shoe today when Montreal Expos pitcher Dave McNally took his case to arbitration

McNally's case, and a similar one heard last Friday involving Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messersmith, seeks a ruling on Paragraph 10a of the basic agreement between baseball owners and the players.

The rule in question allows the owners to renew the contract of an unsigned player. The owners claim they can annually renew the player's contract for as long as they want, while the players say it can only be done once.

McNally, who starred with the Baltimore Orioles, was traded to Montreal prior to the 1975 season. After winning his first three games, he lost his next six, compiling a 5.23 earned run average, before retiring from the game.

The Expos, who never reached agreement on contract terms with McNally, said at that time they wanted him back. But McNally returned to his hometown of Billings, Mont., where he now runs an auto dealership.

In a recent interview with The Associated Press, McNally said, "Right now I have no plans to return to baseball.'

The two cases will only affect Messersmith and McNally since the basic agreement containing Paragraph 10a expires Dec. 31. However, the decision by arbitrator Peter

Seitz in the two cases would supply heavy leverege for one side in the upcoming contract negotiations on the new basic agreement. "It sets a precedent," Dick Moss, counsel for the players association, said of the pending

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Baseball Players Association, said he sees no difference in the two cases. Asked if McNally's voluntary retirement last year separated the two cases, Miller said: "not in our

"I'd rather explain higher gas bills than why you don't have gas."

Your natural gas bill is higher. And, you have every right to know why.

One reason is lower temperatures brought on by winter

The main reason, however, is simply that you are paying more for natural gas. Because we are paying more. This chart shows how much:

Marathon event total success

More than $8,000 was raised for the City of Midland Swim Team, Midland College and the Midland County Olympic fund at the annual Marathon Relay held Sunday at COM's Mabee Memorial Pool. The final tally will not be known until this evening, but it has already passed the $8,000 mark, according to Mrs. Allen Beatty, who was in charge of the event.

This exceeds last year's record mark by $1,300 and is the most succesful fund raising event ever held by the team, according to John Lauderdale, COM President. The winning relay team swam a total of 210 laps of the COM pool in two hours which is equal to 10,500 yards or 5.96 miles. This exceeds last year's winning distance by more than 750 yards. The members of the winning relay team included: Jim Rulla, captain, Laura Halpert, Charles Beatty, Kerry owley, Jimmy O'Neill, Lindy Lauderdale, Bryan Birdwell, John Ramsey, Richard Snook, Gretchen Koch, Paula Harvard, Beth Murrah, Susan Ramsey, Christian Hyde, Chris Lysinger and Mary Anne

The relay teams were headed by 16 local VIP swimmers who started the event by swimming one length of the pool. Mrs. Katie Linehan, chariman of the Midland County Bi-Centennial Committee, appeared supported by three water wings and accompanied by her trainer, Mrs. Julia Stoddard. Midland Cubs General Manager

Stoney Feeney showed up complete with baseball uniform and Midland High School baseball Coach Arlen Dickson reported in a shirt that read "Eat Your Heart Out Mark Spitz." Not to be outdone, Dr. Dorothy Wyvell arranged for emergency medical assistance to be available if needed and made a grand exit on a stretcher. Other local VIPs who assisted were: John E. Cooper, Midland National Bank; Mrs. Ernest Angelo; Dr. Al G. Langford, Midland College; Jerry Blair, Commercial Bank & Trust; Joe Dominey, Midland Independent School Board; Fred Tyler, Executive Vice President of the Midland Chamber of Commerce; Ted Kerr, past president of the Junior Bar Association of Texas; Jim Acree, head football coach, Lee High School; John Braun, Midland Jaycees; Tom Craddick, Midland State Representative; Cecil Bybee, chairman of the Midland County United Fund and Steve Davidson, First National Bank.

The relays were sponsored by Ortloff Corporation and Elcor Chemical, Estoril Producing Company, F.M. Allison and Conners

This afternoon's market report Junk ordinance to get second reading by council

Midland City Council will consider second reading an ordinance regarding junk and secondhand dealers when they meet for regular session at 6 p.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

The ordinance, temporarily approved at the last council session, would require dealers to keep records of where they buy the goods. The proposed ordinance would also insure that the goods received would be segregated for easy check by the police department and that dealers would be required to secure a license from the city.

Council will discuss possible lease for additional land and possibly a building to Continental Airlines at Air Terminal. They will also review letters of qualifications from architects in connection with possible expansion of the Terminal building.

City Manager James Brown said the meeting should not last as long as the past few sessions, as there are only 33 items on the agenda.

Anong the agenda items are discussions of possible changes in the operation of the sanitary landfill and new Federal Regulations concerning the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO). The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission has been designated the MPO locally. In other action, Council will:

- Consider a request for use of the showmobile for a jamboree and dance in the County Exhibit Building;

- Discuss the possibility of selling two adult tigers at Cole-Park Zoo, as recommended by Zoo Director Bob Cooper;

- Consider on second reading an ordinance levying a three per cent tax on the occupancy of hotel-motel rooms in the city; Consider a resolution appropriating funds for the purpose of continuing the study of the landfill site in connection with the city's application to the Health Department for approval of the site; Consider a resolution approving masonry course

A mini-course on concrete masonry will begin Tuesday at Midland College under sponsorship of the community services department. The class will meet 7 to 10 p.m. for two weeks, and registration will be conducted in room 175 of the sciencefaculty building.

The course will deal with preparation of sub-grades, setting forms, concrete design and finishing concrete. Advantages of ready-mix concrete and procedures for mixing concrete also will be discussed.

Concrete Masonry I, or equivalent experience, is a prerequisite requirement.

Duet acting: Kevin West and John Hardwick, Amarillo High; Steve Wilkerson and Lynae Latham, Amarillo High; Merle Nickerson and LaMelda Sims, Amarillo Palo Duro.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The worst effects of recently increased oil prices are over and the Western industrialized nations should gradually adjust, Brookings Institution analysts private research organization con-"In the long run, paying prevent these countries from resuming a healthy rate of economic expansion and should have only a modest effect on the growth of living standards.

A study released Sunday by the

The analysts reported that the recessionary and inflationary consequences of the 1973 oil price increase have peaked and should diminish steadily over the next several years.

The report, entitled "Higher Oil Prices and the World Economy," says that by 1980 the cost of foreign oil will be nearly offset for the U.S. economy through increased job-creating export activity and by investment in

But instead of growing 19 to 20 per cent between 1973 and 1980 as it would have if oil prices had stayed at their pre1973 price, the U.S. standard of living may grow only 16 to 17 per cent, said one analyst.

Charles L. Schultze of Brookings wrote: "Living standards will not be 2.5 per cent lower than now, but 2.5 per cent lower than they would have been by 1980. There will also be a shift of wealth within the United States from consumers to domestic energy producers, but the proper way to deal with this is through higher taxes, such as a windfall tax on oil profits, said Schultze, who was President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget director.

The report contends that about half of the deep recession that began last year is attributable to a four-fold increase in world oil prices and the failure of Western planners to cushion their economies from it.

Schultze said that the United States and other nations overreacted to the threat of inflation and failed to foresee potentials for recession.

"All over the world, we completely sacrificed employment to keep in-flation down," he told a news con-ference. Had officials known how severe the recession would be, they probably would have accepted higher inflation and done more to stimulate employment, he said.

10-year shortage of gas forecast by transmission company official

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States appears destined for a chronic shortage of increasingly expensive natural gas for at least the next 10

Prodded by the gas industry and President Ford, Congress has moved toward ending federal regulation of wellhead gas prices, hoping to stimulate production that way. Even deregulation-backers don't advertise a quick cure; at best, they say, it may keep a bad situation from getting too much worse. Shortages this winter are expected to be especially severe. 'In the 1970's, even with deregulation, there is not going to be any surplus of gas, ever," says Edward Calland, vice president of Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., a pipeline which says it already is badly short of gas for its customers. "There is going to be a shortfall from now on. We won't be able to meet unrestricted demand.

Gas-burning electric power plants will generally be the first to have their gas cut off under federal and state priority plans, says the Federal Energy Administration - FEA. They will be followed by other large in-

Some industries may not be able to afford substitute fuels, the FEA warns, and some are simply unable to switch to other fuels.

If such industries can't get natural gas, they will shut down, bringing unemployment and economic depression to communities that

The FEA said that industries requiring natural gas to keep going include: the chemical industry, motor vehicle parts, textiles (the bulk of them in North Carolina, the state facing one of the worst shortages), fertilizers, primary metals, stone, clay and glass, food processing, paper, machinery manufacturing, and - ironically - the petroleum

From last April through next March, interstate pipelines expect a shortage of 2.9 trillion cubic feet of gas, 19 per cent of their requirements.

But the FEA estimates they could get another 200 billion to 400 billion cubic feet, now unsold within the producing states, if deregulation frees them to buy it - at triple the current in contracts.

The FEA says other fuels are available, largely because of the nation's economic slowdown, to replace most of the missing gas this

Switching fuels will multiply costs. The Federal Power Commission -FPC - reports that electric utilities paid an average of 48 cents for one million BTUs - energy units - in the form of natural gas, in 1974.

As coal, the same energy cost them 71 cents: as oil, it cost $1.92.

When power plants and other industries switch from gas to coal or oil, their higher fuel costs will show up as higher consumer prices for electricity, merchandize and services.

Gas bills, too, are rising. Restrained by federal regulation, it took 12 years for the wellhead price of natural gas to rise 4.6 cents to an average of 18.6 cents per thousand cubic feet. In only two more years, by 1974, the average climbed almost 12 cents to Last December, the FPC raised its ceiling price to 50 cents, plus annual ne-cent increases.

Even without further ceiling increases, the recent price hikes will gradually increase future consumer bills as contracts at old, low prices expire and are replaced at the higher prices.

If federal regulation ends, new gas contracts are expected to leap to prices of $1.25 or more, already paid within gasproducing states where gas, exempt from federal regulation, has brought as much as $2.00 per thousand cubic feet.

"We estimate deregulation would increase the cost to the consumer about 6 per cent a year," said Calland, referring to gas industry That would add about $10 a year to the average residential gas bill, which was about $170 in 1974. The FPC staff estimated last April that deregulation would add about $20 to the average residential bill in its first year, but the impact would shrink later on. Even if federal price regulation were kept in force, the FPC probably could not hold the line very long. It has already authorized small producers to charge 30 per cent more than the standard ceiling price, to compensate for their financial risks. Future gas supplies look more costly than the traditional fields of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

For example: -The FPC estimated last July that imports of liquefied natural gas may cost $1.30 to $1.50 per thousand cubic feet.

-Canada has raised the price of its gas to the United States, on Nov. 1, to $1.60 per thousand.

-The FPC estimated gas, from arctic Alaska at $2.50 to $3.00 per thousand cubic feet, and synthetic gas

-The FEA says southern New Jersey gas utilities are already. purchasing synthetic gas at prices up to $5.00 per thousand cubic feet/to cope with this winter's shortage. While the price trend is up, the supply trend is down. Compared with 1973 gas consumption of 22.6 trillion cubic feet, the nation as a whole had a 9 per cent everybody was able to squeak through," reports the Federal Energy Administration. This year, the overall shortage is estimated at 11 per cent - 19 per cent for interstate pipelines - and although other fuels are available, the FEA warns of scattered industry closings. Next year's shortage is forecast at an over-all 16 per cent; concentrated on interstate pipelines, that could mean regional shortages of 24 per cent or more, and substitute fuels may become unavailable if the general economy improves.

Gas industry forecasts indicate it may be 1985 before production could return to its 1973 level.

"We project a deep slump in domestic gas production, which could be only partially alleviated by deregulation," said Calland. "The rest of the gap would have to be filled, eventually, by gas from the arctic and new offshore areas, imported liquefied natural gas and synthetic

Houston park drilling studied

HOUSTON (AP) - George R. Brown, a retired industrialist, says he and other independent oil men are making an environmental study of the impact of drilling for oil in Houston's Memorial Park.

Brown aid Thursday the report should be completed in about 60 days.

"When we get our report then we will submit the proposition to the City Council," Brown said. "We do intend to make a proposition if and when we get the environmental report."

The city acquired in 1925 the 1,466acre park from the family of the late Miss Ima Hogg with a condition that the land could be used only for park purposes.

George W. Lanier Jr., city parks director, said Thursday Miss Hogg had wanted Brown to drill for oil in the park with the understanding the revenue would be used for park

Board charges airline crew training faulty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Simulated safety equipment on which some airline crews get emergency escape training may be so unrealistic as to be useless, the National Transportation Safety Board says.

A board spokesman said Sunday that evidence from two non-fatal crashes showed crews had problems operating emergency exit doors.

The crashes involved a Western Air Lines crash March 31 at Casper, Wyo., and an United Air Lines crash Oct. 16 at Seattle.

"Many times when we don't have just a black hole in the ground after a plane crash, but have a live crew to work with, we can discover things like this," the spokesman said.

He said the board has recommended to the Federal Aviation Administration that in training crews, airlines should be required to use 'accurate and realistic equipment and procedures which accurately simulate emergency conditions ...

In the Seattle crash, the board spokesman said, "It was found the door the stewardess had trained on a simulated one - had a throw on the handle of 30 degrees. In other words, you had to turn the handle 30 degrees

"But, in the real plane you had to turn it full circle. So, when she turned it 30 degrees and it wouldn't open, she figured it was jammed." The passengers and crew were able to escape the plane through other exits, he said.

In the Wyoming crash, two flight attendants reported difficulties in opening two separate cabin doors. Both attendants were able to rotate the handles and open the doors par-tially but not completely.

"Both flight attendants had received initial and recurrent emergency training using an actual aircraft door and using the mockup containing a B-737 door," the board

"However, neither flight attendant had ever opened an aircraft exit door with an evacuation slide attached; nor is Western's mockup door equipped with a slide," it said.

"Our investigators noted that the forces required to operate the mockup door are noticeably less than those required to open an actual aircraft door with the slidepack attached."

Thus, neither flight attendant "was adequately prepared to anticipate the forces necessary to open a cabin door in the emergency mode," the board

Fromme actions today may set course of trial

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -Lynette Fromme, entering the most crucial week of her trial, is expected to tell a judge whether she will end her courtroom boycott and testify in her own defense against charges of attempting to kill President Ford.

Her decision to be announced today before U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride could send the case to the jury before Thanksgiving or signal the start of a new phase in her so-far brief defense.

Miss Fromme's attorney, apparently urging her to take the witness stand, says that unless she testifies he will immediately rest his

"If she takes the stand, I will have several more witnesses," attorney John Virga said. "If she does not testify, I will rest."

The defense presentation so far has been extremely brief. Virga's major piece of evidence was the videotaped testimony of President Ford, who said he couldn't remember whether he heard a click as Miss Fromme pointed a gun at him from two feet away on Sept. 5 in a park outside the

Secret Service agents who wrestled the tiny red-haired defendant to the ground that day said the .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol, carried in a holster strapped to her leg, was not ready for firing. It had four cartridges in the magazine but none in the firing

The key question of the trial is whether Miss Fromme misloaded the gun by accident or whether she knew the gun was not ready to fire. There is also uncertainty about whether she pulled the trigger. Consequently, her testimony is crucial to the central issue of the case - her intent when she faced Ford with the pistol.

Virga is trying to show that Miss Fromme's failure to fire the pistol was deliberate.

In less than one day of testimony Friday, Virga called only six witnesses, two of them prosecution witnesses recalled to the stand. One of his witnesses was a government prosecutor in the case. The other was a young auto mechanic, Peter Perry, who said he practiced shooting with Miss Fromme. Perry indicated Miss Fromme knew enough about guns to load them properly. Virga told reporters the point of Perry's testimony was that Miss Fromme "knows how to use an automatic and pull the slide back. You don't forget, Virga took over the defense after the 27-year-old defendant, acting as her own lawyer, was ousted from the courtroom Nov. 7 for misbehavior. Since then, she has declined to return and U.S. marshals have had to carry her into the courthouse each day.

Miss Fromme's reluctance to participate in her trial is motivated by her devotion to Charles Manson, the convicted murderer who led a clan of young followers in the 1960s. Miss Fromme, known as "Squeaky" in the Manson Family, was one of the

"She's indicated this is not her trial because she cannot have members of the Manson Family present," said Virga. "She feels there are many things only Manson can explain. Obviously, she believes very strongly

10-year shortage of gas forecast by transmission company official

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States appears destined for a chronic shortage of increasingly expensive natural gas for at least the next 10

Prodded by the gas industry and President Ford, Congress has moved toward ending federal regulation of wellhead gas prices, hoping to stimulate production that way

Even deregulation-backers don't advertise a quick cure; at best, they say, it may keep a bad situation from getting too much worse. Shortages this winter are expected to be especially severe.

'In the 1970's, even with deregulation, there is not going to be any surplus of gas, ever," says Edward Calland, vice president of Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., a pipeline which says it already is badly short of gas for its customers. "There is going to be a shortfall from now on. We won't be able to meet unrestricted demand.

Some industries may not be able to afford substitute fuels, the FEA warns, and some are simply unable to switch to other fuels.

If such industries can't get natural as, they will shut down, bringing unemployment and economic depression to communities that depend on them.

The FEA said that industries requiring natural gas to keep going include: the chemical industry, motor vehicle parts, textiles (the bulk of them in North Carolina, the state facing one of the worst shortages), fertilizers, primary metals, stone, clay and glass, food processing, paper, machinery manufacturing, and - ironically - the petroleum industry itself. From last April through next March, interstate pipelines expect a shortage of 2.9 trillion cubic feet of gas, 19 per cent of their requirements.

But the FEA estimates they could get another 200 billion to 400 billion cubic feet, now unsold within the producing states, if deregulation frees them to buy it - at triple the current

The FEA says other fuels are available, largely because of the nation's economic slowdown, to replace most of the missing gas this

Compared with 1973 gas consumption of 22.6 trillion cubic feet, the nation as a whole had a 9 per cent everybody was able to squeak through," reports the Federal Energy Administration. This year, the overall shortage is estimated at 11 per cent - 19 per cent for interstate pipelines - and although other fuels are available, the FEA warns of scattered industry closings

Next year's shortage is forecast at an over-all 16 per cent; concentrated on interstate pipelines, that could mean regional shortages of 24 per cent or more, and substitute fuels may become unavailable if the general economy improves.

domestic gas production, which could be only partially alleviated by deregulation," said Calland. "The rest of the gap would have to be filled, eventually, by gas from the arctic and new offshore areas, imported liquefied natural gas and synthetic

Just to keep up 1973 consumption

In fact, it has managed to add that much gas in only two years out of the last 30.

Since big gas fields are usually easier to find than small ones, it seems likely that most of the jumbo fields have already been discovered: and 20 years of offshore drilling has brought nothing in the 25-tillion-foot league so far.

"I wouldn't expect many more of the 'elephant' gas fields," said a key industry supply analyst. "It's not a bright picture. It's a dismal one."

drilling studied

HOUSTON (AP) - George R. Brown, a retired industrialist, says he and other independent oil men are making an environmental study of the impact of drilling for oil in Houston's Memorial Park.

Brown aid Thursday the report should be completed in about 60 days.

'When we get our report then we will submit the proposition to the City Council," Brown said. "We do intend to make a proposition if and when we get the environmental report."

The city acquired in 1925 the 1,466acre park from the family of the late Miss Ima Hogg with a condition that the land could be used only for park purposes.

George W. Lanier Jr., city parks director, said Thursday Miss Hogg had wanted Brown to drill for oil in the park with the understanding the revenue would be used for park

Analysts says worst effects of prices over

By MIKE MOORE

WASHINGTON (AP) - The worst effects of recently increased oil prices are over and the Western in-lustrialized nations should gradually adjust, Brookings Institution analysts

private research organization concludes: "In the long run, paying today's high oil prices need not prevent these countries from resuming a healthy rate of economic expansion and should have only a modest effect on the growth of living

The analysts reported that the recessionary and inflationary consequences of the 1973 oil price increase have peaked and should liminish steadily over the next

The report, entitled "Higher Oil Prices and the World Economy," says that by 1980 the cost of foreign oil will be nearly offset for the U.S. economy through increased job-creating export activity and by investment in domestic energy sources. But instead of growing 19 to 20 per cent between 1973 and 1980 as it would have if oil prices had stayed at their pre1973 price, the U.S. standard of living may grow only 16 to 17 per cent, said one analyst. Charles L. Schultze of Brookings wrote: "Living standards will not be 2.5 per cent lower than now, but 2.5 per cent lower than they would have been by 1980.

There will also be a shift of wealth within the United States from consumers to domestic energy producers, but the proper way to deal with this is through higher taxes, such as a windfall tax on oil profits, said Schultze, who was President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget director.

The report contends that about half of the deep recession that began last year is attributable to a four-fold increase in world oil prices and the failure of Western planners to cushion their economies from it.

Schultze said that the United States and other nations overreacted to the threat of inflation and failed to foresee potentials for recession.

"All over the world, we completely sacrificed employment to keep inflation down," he told a news con-ference. Had officials known how severe the recession would be, they probably would have accepted higher inflation and done more to stimulate employment, he said.

Two wildcats, stepout staked in PB sectors

Two wildcats and a stepout have been staked in Permian Basin

A 4,600-foot wildcat will be drilled by Frizzell Exploration Co. of Abilene, in Runnels County, three miles south of Wingate. It is No. 1 Ronnie Poehls.

Location is 2,335 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of C. D. Skidmore survey 13, a northeast offset to a prospective Fry pay opener and 1,500 feet northeast of Goen production in the Diecke field.

The Fry prospect is Tri-State Petroleum Corp. No. 3 Mantsche in lot 13, Menry L. Bays survey 444. It has 41/2-inch pipe set at 4,450 feet, for completion attempt. It flowed gas at the rate of 2 million cubic feet daily, and recovered 500 feet of free oil on a drillstem test at 4,573-4,585 feet.

Mapco, Inc., Tulsa, Okla., has staked site for a 6,200-foot exploratory test in Northeast King County, 17 miles northeast of Guthrie. It is No. 1 Masterson.

Drillsite is 2,400 feet from north and 1,000 feet from east lines of section 6, T&NO survey, abstract 1116, 10 miles southeast of the Providence (Atoka) gas field. It is % mile west of the Knox County Southern Union Production Co., operating from Dallas, plans to drill a 4-mile northwest and southeast stepout to the Fusselman production in the Chapman, Deep field of Reeves County. It is No. 1-38 State-Wynne.

Location is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 57, T-2, T&P survey, three miles southwest of Orla. Contract depth is 15,900 feet.

pipeline. Both firms are owned by the conglomerate Tenneco, Inc.

The majority report said that although Tenneco Oil and Getty have disagreed over the amount of gas in Bastian Bay reserves, they have not devoted "adequate resources" to resolving the disagreements, thus retarding development of the field since early 1974.

The report noted that the Federal Power Commission has held that the rate of return considered "reasonable" is 15 per cent. Because development of the field would not yield a return exceeding 15 per cent, "Tenneco has been unwilling to commit substantial sums to accelerate production," the report said. The report also said Getty and Tenneco appear to have violated their obligations under the natural gas act to fulfill contracts made with the minority statement said none of the evidence would "support the conclusion that producers are withholding gas in anticipation of higher prices.

Devine and Collins disputed the handling of key evidence in the report. For example, they accused the majority of ignoring uncontradicted Tenneco testimony that "additional drilling poses considerable risk of underground blowout and loss of remaining recoverable reserves." The report was the second in three weeks in which the subcommittee accused leading producers of failing to do the work necessary to deliver gas to their interstate pipeline customers in the quantities specified in contracts.

Wetlands now vanishing fast in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Play makebelieve a minute. The new century has just arrived and you'd like to celebrate with a seafood dinner.

But seafood now is reserved for the wealthy who have to import it when they can find it. Shrimp goes for $12 a pound. Blue crab are reserved for kings.

Replicas of oyster bars can be found in Louisiana museums and the federal government has just recommended that speckled trout and redfish also be added to the endangered

WILD DUCK would be a nice substitute for the dinner but hunting was banned five years ago when wildfowl began going the way of the passenger pigeon. What happened

Well, Louisiana's coastal marshes shrank to nothing, dried and invaded Inland residents never noticed the change and coastal folks paid little heed to the trapper and fisherman. The marsh was full of mosquitoes and alligators anyway. No sandy beaches. Just swamp. Good rid-

The state could afford to lose swamp area since Louisiana had eight million acres of it in 1975 more than any other state in the na-

THE FRIGHTENING thing about makebelieve, say marine biologists, is the speed with which it can become reality when man tampers with the environment.

In the past 25 years, a chunk of Louisiana marsh the size of Rhode Island has disappeared. The rate of loss now is 16 acres a year due to man-made structures, salt water intrusion into inland bayous and other

What everyday folks call marsh, the biologists call wetlands.

Those wetlands are the breeding ground for shrimp, oysters, menhadden and other wild life.

The state planning office has $350,000 to come up with a program to halt the attack on the environment along the coast.

By the end of next year the office hopes to have a coastal management zone mapped out, complete with state authority to stop unwarranted encroachment of wetlands.

THE TICKLISH problem, says the planning office, is to balance the needs of ecology with the needs of the state economy and the rights of private landowners who own most of the wetlands.

The planning office, which began work last year, will sponsor legislation to set up a management zone, but first has to answer these ques-

-What are all the coastal resources, what are their values and to what extent are they present?

—At what rate are the resources being used and how can future supplies be predicted on a scientific -AND MOST importantly, how stringent will the legislative steps be in protecting the coastal environ-

Gov. Edwin Edwards, who is expected to continue to hold sway over the legislature, has barnstormed the nation for more oil and gas production, demanding that the nation's entire environmental protection program be shelved for five years.

Edwards says that under coastal zone management, industry will be told "to take what reasonable steps are necessary to protect the coastline.

The argument in the next legislative session will be the defini-

Fromme actions today may set course of trial

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -Lynette Fromme, entering the most crucial week of her trial, is expected to tell a judge whether she will end her courtroom boycott and testify in her own defense against charges of attempting to kill President Ford.

Her decision to be announced today before U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride could send the case to the jury before Thanksgiving or signal the start of a new phase in her so-far brief defense. Miss Fromme's attorney, apparently urging her to take the witness stand, says that unless she testifies he will immediately rest his

"If she takes the stand, I will have several more witnesses," attorney John Virga said. "If she does not testify, I will rest."

The defense presentation so far has been extremely brief. Virga's major piece of evidence was the videotaped testimony of President Ford, who said he couldn't remember whether he heard a click as Miss Fromme pointed a gun at him from two feet away on Sept. 5 in a park outside the state Capitol

Secret Service agents who wrestled the tiny red-haired defendant to the ground that day said the .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol, carried in a holster strapped to her leg, was not ready for firing. It had four cartridges in the magazine but none in the firing

The key question of the trial is whether Miss Fromme misloaded the gun by accident or whether she knew the gun was not ready to fire. There is also uncertainty about whether she pulled the trigger. Consequently, her testimony is crucial to the central issue of the case — her intent when she faced Ford with the pistol.

Virga is trying to show that Miss Fromme's failure to fire the pistol was deliberate.

In less than one day of testimony Friday, Virga called only six witnesses, two of them prosecution witnesses recalled to the stand. One of his witnesses was a government prosecutor in the case. The other was a young auto mechanic, Peter Perry, who said he practiced shooting with Miss Fromme. Perry indicated Miss Fromme knew enough about guns to load them properly. Virga told reporters the point of Perry's testimony was that Miss Fromme knows how to use an automatic and pull the slide back. You don't forget," he said.

Virga took over the defense after the 27-year-old defendant, acting as her own lawyer, was ousted from the courtroom Nov. 7 for misbehavior. Since then, she has declined to return and U.S. marshals have had to carry her into the courthouse each day.

Miss Fromme's reluctance to participate in her trial is motivated by her devotion to Charles Manson, the convicted murderer who led a clan of young followers in the 1960s. Miss Fromme, known as "Squeaky" in the Manson Family, was one of the first clan members.

"She's indicated this is not her trial because she cannot have members of the Manson Family present," said Virga. "She feels there are many things only Manson can explain. Obviously, she believes very strongly

Board charges airline crew training faulty

WASHINGTON (AP) - Simulated safety equipment on which some training may be so unrealistic as to be useless, the National Transportation Safety Board says.

A board spokesman said Sunday that evidence from two non-fatal crashes showed crews had problems operating emergency exit doors.

The crashes involved a Western Air Lines crash March 31 at Casper. Wyo., and an United Air Lines crash Oct. 16 at Seattle "Many times when we don't have just a black hole in the ground after a plane crash, but have a live crew to work with, we can discover things like this," the spokesman said. He said the board has recommended to the Federal Aviation Administration that in training crews. airlines should be required to use "accurate and realistic equipment and procedures which accurately simulate emergency conditions ...' In the Seattle crash, the board spokesman said, "It was found the door the stewardess had trained on a simulated one - had a throw on the handle of 30 degrees. In other words, you had to turn the handle 30 degrees turn it full circle. So, when she turned it 30 degrees and it wouldn't open, she figured it was jammed.

The passengers and crew were able to escape the plane through other exits, he said. In the Wyoming crash, two flight attendants reported difficulties in opening two separate cabin doors. Both attendants were able to rotate the handles and open the doors partially but not completely.

"Both flight attendants had received initial and recurrent emergency training using an actual aircraft door and using the mockup containing a B-737 door," the board

"However, neither flight attendant had ever opened an aircraft exit door with an evacuation slide attached; nor is Western's mockup door equipped with a slide." it said.

"Our investigators noted that the forces required to operate the mockup door are noticeably less than those required to open an actual aircraft door with the slidepack attached.

Thus, neither flight attendant "was adequately prepared to anticipate the forces necessary to open a cabin door in the emergency mode," the board

We all need to use adequate lighting for reading, working, and security, but we also need to use it wisely. These ideas can help.

· Don't leave security lights on during the day. A photoelectric cell or a timer can control them for you.

· Use low-watt bulbs where you can. The lower the wattage, the less energy the · Use fluorescent lights where possible. They produce about 21/2 times more light per watt than incandescent bulbs.

· Leave three-way bulbs on the lowest setting until more light is needed.

· Use light colors in lamp shades, walls, and floors to get the most reflectivity from light. For more details, call us. We'd like to help.
