Midland bank robber gets $6,100

A man robbed Western State Bank of $6,100 this afternoon and apparently made good his escape.

A bank spokesman said the robber. described as a white man in his late 20s, confronted teller Mrs. Laura Glass and ordered her to fill a white paper bag, which he gave her.

Mrs. Glass, about 25, placed some money in the bag and the man walked from the bank, the spokesman said.

As the robber drove away, a drivein teller saw his car and furnished police and the FBI with a description and a partial license tag number.

The car was believed to be a late model Ford, dark green, with license tag number B - 417. The drive-in teller told officers a trailer hitch obscured her view of the remainder of the number.

No one other than Mrs. Glass observed the robbery, said Bill Mewhorter, bank president.

After officers interviewed bank employes and customers, they determined that the robber was about 5-foot-8, wore a dark sports shirt and dark heavy sweater. He had dark shaggy hair.

Officers could not immediately determine whether the man had a p.m. Midland Police Department units immediately fanned out over the area around the bank, located at 1030 Andrews Hwy.

Officers at first concentrated their search in areas north of the bank after it was reported the robber had fled north on Whitney Street.

As officers this afternoon searched for the robber's car, they reported seeing cars which matched the description, first at a construction site in north Midland, then on Rankin Highway headed south.

More than an hour after the holdup, Mewhorter again met with reporters and quoted Mrs. Glass as saying the robber told her he was armed and that he wanted big bills.

House OK's energy bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - This year's temporary tax cuts would be extended for another six months under a Senatepassed bill that may be heading for a presidential veto.

The Senate approved the tax cut bill 73 to 19 on Monday night as Congress rushed to wind up last minute business before this week's scheduled adjournment of the 1975 legislative

In other action, the House passed a compromise energy bill that would temporarily reduce fuel prices, the Senate approved a controversial laborbacked construction union picketing bill and both houses approved a measure to supply funds to aid New York City.

Congressional leaders are optimistic that Ford's expected veto of the tax cut bill can be overridden. If the veto stands up, a typical worker would face a tax increase of about 8 per cent in January.

Failure to extend the tax cuts would cost a married man earning $15,000 a year and supporting a wife and two children an additional $4.73 a week in withholding, or about $250 more in income taxes for the year, according to the Internal Revenue Service. For a single person earning $15,000, withholding would be increased by about $3 per week or $156 for the year. The bill approved by the Senate now goes to a Senate-House conference before going to the White House.

House approval of the energy bill came shortly before oil price controls expired at midnight. Ford may sign the bill, although he has expressed reservations. Reports indicate his advisers have told him the measure is the best he can expect from Congress this year. The energy bill would roll back the average price of domestic oil from the present $10.75 a barrel average to $7.66 but allow the price to rise by as much as 10 per cent a year over the next 40 months

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb estimated that may result in a temporary cut of some 2.5 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline or heating oil, but prices would rise above the present level by mid-1977.

The bill also requires car makers to build autos averaging 18 miles per gallon in model-year 1978 and 27.5 miles per gallon by 1985.

The Senate completed congressional action on the laborbacked bill to allow one union to picket and possibly close down an entire construction site even though the union had a grievance with only a pressure from conservatives to veto the bill, although he earlier said he would sign it.

Bell requests rate increases

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which today asked Midland City Council for rate increases for pay phones, unlisted numbers and service connections, will be seeking permission to charge Midland residents for directory assistance calls, but not for at least a year.

Handicapped persons, hospitals, hotels and motels would be exempt, but the handicapped exemption hasraised questions of invasion of privacy in some parts of the country.

District manager Royce Brookmole said that Bell in Dallas had asked for a 20 cent charge for every directory assistance call after the first five made each month. "We in Midland have no plans at this time of implem nting this procedure," he said. 'We are not equipped for charges such as these and probably will nothave the equipment for at least another year. Brookmole said the charge is designed to reduce the costs of operating this service, plus curb the excessive calls to "information" for listings already in the directory. "It's almost like a user tax in that those using the service should be paying for

Some 6,700 calls are expected to be made to directory assistance this month alone, Brookmole said. The phone company utilizes the services of 12 operators daily with nine working at once during peak hours to provide directory assistance, he said.

"The number of operators working is going to change drastically about March of this coming year," the district manager said. "Bell will be operating a new unit and taking all directory assistance calls in the 915 add some 90 operators then." Brookmole said phone company patrons often feel the directory assistance service is free, but that's not the case. He said labor costs, plus the costs of equipment, were forcing the company to charge for the service in some places.

Harris said he would resign his post by Jan. 1 to campaign.

Merritt, 71, who began his career in law enforcement in 1941, also today filed for reelection to his post. He has been constable since September 1968, and from 1950 to 1960. He launched his career in 1941 as a patrolmen with the Midland Police Department. Merritt announced his candidacy some 24 hours after Harris said Monday he would challenge the sheriff in the Democratic primaries. "I feel like I'm qualified for the job. Harris said, "after working with three real good departments - police department, sheriff's department, and the constable's office." "Since I am well known in Midland." he said. "I'll contact the people personally and get their views. I feel I know the people pretty well. "I won't say a word about nobody. I'll run it (the campaign) just for myself." MC buildings plan could cost $6.2, million

By LUANNA CROW

Proposed new construction on the Midland College campus likely will cost $6.2 million.

The estimate was presented Monday afternoon in a called meeting of the board of trustees. No action was taken on the matter and board members are continuing study on the expansion project.

In the group's November meeting, however, Jack Huff, chairman of the Long Range Planning Committee, suggested February as "an appropriate time" for a bond election. According to Texas law, bond elec-days in advance of the election date.

Bob Phillips, the college's business manager, said this morning college officials have not decided yet on the method of financing construction. He said they likely will combine revenue bonds out of student funds and general obligation bonds to finance the venture.

Robert, Bradley of Preston M Geren Architect & Engineer and Associates presented several alternative plans to board members Tuesday on the proposed fine arts building which had been seat back to the drawing board last meeting for possible revision.

The other two proposed projects are a multi-purpose facility and an addition to the occupational technical as proposed, would be $2,423,600 and the occupational-technical addition would tally up $1,008,600. If the two were separated from the multipurpose facility for purposes of a bond election, they would total $3,432,200. The multi-purpose facility, a 5,000-seat structure, could be expected to cost $2,517,900. The 5 per cent contingency fee on the three projects would be $250,000. Trustee president R. M. Leibrock said he and the remainder of the board will review the plans between now and the January meeting.

In the interim, he appointed Huff, Murray Fasken and himself as a liaison committee between the college and the Midland Independent School District "and others in the community, if necessary" to ascertain potential building usage for the proposed multi-purpose facility.

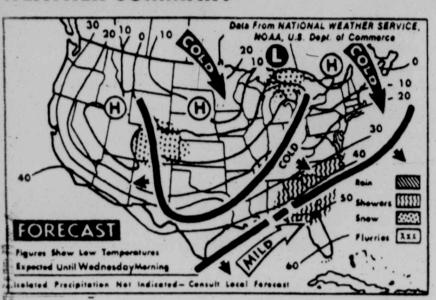

In other action, trustees approved Underwood, Neuhaus and Co., Inc., as the college's fiscal agent, awarded a contract to Midwest Electric for $5,899 for additional exterior lighting and sanctioned Leibrock and the college president to negotiate with the public schools on cost sharing on a mineral appraisal contract. They also agreed to assume 12.8 per cent of the operations cost of the tax office shared with the public school system. Cost to the college would be $2,734.71.

Big Spring funds released by HUD

BIG SPRING - The City of Big Spring learned Monday that $287,000 in funds approved last year from the Department of Housing and Urban Development have been released and are designated for sewage improvements and housing demolition.

Paul Feazelle, administrative assistant, said the funds will be obtained this week. Funds in the category may only be used for the two designated items, he added.

Wintry temperatures continued in mercury slipped to 24 and the thermometers in Rankin and Lamesa read only a degree or two higher.

> A Big Lake spokesman, who also reported temperatures in the 20s, said the sun had come out by 9 a.m. today. Crane and Stanton also experienced the chill weather overnight although an employe of the Crane County Sheriff's Department described this morning as "pretty."

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal has said the temperatures should be warming today, with an anticipated high near 60. Tonight's low is expected to sink back near 30 and rise only into the upper 40s on Wednesday. Monday's high mark in Midland was a cool 50 degrees. Another blast of frigid air bore down from the north today while Texas was still shaking off effects of a cold front which finished a sweep across the state into the Gulf of Mexico only Monday. It was chilly in all sections again this morning and rain fell in Central Texas and along the coast. Skies were at least partly cloudy elsewhere except for the Panhandie and a few areas in West Texas.

After a limited warmup, forecasts, promised a renewed chill and a chance for rain throughout the state with arrival of the new norther Wednesday.

A layer of warm air sitting atop a shallow shelf of cold air was credited for thick clouds and rain extending as far inland as Del Rio, Kerrville, Austin and Temple, the Associated Press reported. Temperatures near daybreak plunged to 14 degrees at Marfa in the West Texas mountains, 17 at Wink and, 18 at Dalhart in the Panhandle, and the warmest spots at 47 were Brownsville and McAllen in in Hawaii from the mainland and the other airlines report their flights to the islands are booked solid. Officials estimate the strike is expected to prevent about 30,000 tourists from having a Hawaiian holiday this Christmas.

Travel agents are working overtime to try to get their customers on alternate flights. The airlines say there are seats on many routes but some people are making multiple reservations and not canceling the ones they don't use. That means planes that are all booked up will have empty seats and persons who wait at the terminal stand a good chance of getting on a flight.

William F. Hughes of the Hughes Travel Service in Milwaukee said Monday that the real crunch came last week when the United cancelations were announced. "It was quite an ordeal," he said. "You just couldn't get through to the airlines ... I set the alarm for one o'clock in the morning and started calling from home. It worked."

Other travel agents told stories of having to route passengers thousands of miles out of their way. A Columbus travel counselor, for example, said that he had to send a passenger bound for Hawaii via Chicago and Anchorage, Alaska.

City traffic mishaps hurt child, woman

Three-year-old Aaron Noel Bawcom, injured when he was struck by a backing car while he was playing between the car's front fender and the curb in the 3500 block of Princeton about 6:30 p.m. Monday, was listed insatisfactory condition this morning in a Midland hospital.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bawcom of 4316 Princeton, suffered a broken left leg, bruises and abrasions in the mishap.

Midland police reported that Curtis Leonard Thurman, 33, of 310 E. Wadley, driver of the car, was unaware of the child playing at the curbside when he waa backing from a parking space.

The boy was struck by the car's right front fender and wheel, police

In another mishap eariler Monday, Elidia D. Brito, 32, of 606 N. Colorado, was injured when the car she was driving went into a skid at Colorado and Tenneasee streets and struck two cars parked in the 500 block of North Colorado.

The woman was treated and released at a Midland hospital.

She said the car skidded after she applied brakes to avoid slamming into a car intersecting hers at the streets' intersection.

'welfare Cadillac'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - Santa Claus brought the Fort Worth City Council a "welfare Cadillac" for Christmas Monday, fulfilling the Christmas list written by councilman John O'Neill several months ago. The Cadillac will be for the welfare of Mayor Overcash, members of the city council and the city staff, O'Neill explained, and it will not cost the taxpayers a cent: The part of Santa Claus was played by Fort Worth Cadillac dealer Frank · Kent who said he donated the luxury car to the city because of his appreciation to the people of Fort

Tower, Church tangle over Bush nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chairman of the Senate intelligenc committee asked today that George Bush be required to pledge that he would refuse any place on the 1976 presidential ticket as a condition to being confirmed as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The chairman, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who is considering a try for the Democratic presidential nomination, told the Senate Armed Services Committee: "This committee should require a disavowal (from Bush) of any place on the 1976 presidential ticket.

'Otherwise, his position as CIA director would be hopelessly compromised," Church declared.

The Armed Serices Committee was in its second day of hearings on Bush's nomination by President Ford to succeed William E. Colby as head of the CIA. Bush refused Monday to rule out accepting the Republican vice presidential nomination if it were

He also told the panel that he could not rule out any future CIA support for foreign military coups.

Sen. John Tower, ranking Republican member of the intelligence committee, whose investigation of the CIA and FBI has thrust Church into the limelight, demanded of the Idaho senator: "Would not our investigation have more credibility if you were to forswear any ambition for president of the United States?"

Church, who has formed a committee to explore his presidential chances, replied that he would step down as chairman of the intelligence committee if he decides to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

Tower noted that Bush has similarly agreed to resign as CIA director if he decides to become a vice presidential candidate.

Declaring he personally admires Bush, Church nonetheless said his nomination to head the CIA should be rejected "unless he is at least willing to withdraw himself as a vice presidential candidate in 1976."

Church added, however, that he did not expect Bush to take himself out of consideration for any political office after 1976.

Capitol Yule tree now problem

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - As with so many natural things, the cone-shaped cedars from Bastrop County that have graced the Capitol's rotunda every Christmas since 1939 may be passing from the scene.

Howard Tiner, superientendent of Buescher State Park near Smithville, says he "hunts for weeks" to find the right tree.

Yule punchbowl can be festive

By BARBARA RADER

The punches of Christmas can be as festive as the holiday itself. At just about no other time of the year are they as popular as during this season. It stands to reason: Parties tend to be large and a punchbowl aids the host and hostess. A bowlful of something delicious, refreshing, spirited will appeal to a large number of persons. who might otherwise be hemming and hawing over which drink to order. The punch tends to cut down on fussy ordering, it is there for those who want it, and besides, a lovely punchbowl looks so

Here are two punch recipes to get you started. CRANBERRY BUBBLE PUNCH

4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled 1 cup orange liqueur, chilled 1 bottle (4-5 quart) champagne, chilled Lime slices, ice cubes

1. In a 3-quart punch bowl, mix cranberry juice and liqueur; refrigerate.

2. When ready to serve, slowly stir in champagne. Add lime slices and ice cubes. Serve at once, icy cold, in small punch cups. Makes 8

MOLASSES EGGNOG

4 eggs 1-4 cup dark molasses

3-4 to 1 cup rum

3 cups milk 1 pint heavy cream, divided

Freshly ground nutmeg

1. In a bowl, beat eggs and molasses. Stir in rum, milk and 1-2 pint of the cream.

2. Just before serving, pour into punch bowl. 3. Whip remaining 1-2 pint cream and spoon over top. Sprinkle with ground nutmeg. Makes 12

AT WIT'S END

Does CWT know everything?

By Erma Bombeck

You're going to think I'm crazy, but the CIA, the FBI, and the IRS hold absolutely no fear for me whatsoever. Beside the CWTs, they're as harmless as a cavity at an Osmond Brothers concert. The CWT, for the newcomers to parenthood, stands for Creative Writing Teachers. There isn't a parent who does not dread and fear a meeting with them. Why? The CWTs know everything from what your kid did last summer (in 500 explicit words) to family relationships, economy, ancestry and intimate details of heretofore unpublished home life. The Show and Tell number was a breeze. When my children told Miss Glasgow that we threw all of our bills into the air and paid only the ones that fell into a crack in the floor, I shook my head and said, "Aren't children too much, Miss Glasgow? I do believe that little rascal is going to be a fiction writer, don't you?

But when your children reach the age of 15 or so, you can no longer plead your own case. My son came home recently and announced, "I hope you don't mind, but I volunteered to write an essay on the problem, of the heavy drinker in the

'Well, the teacher asked how many kids had parents who were heavy drinkers and no one else raised his hand. I felt someone had to do it.'

It is not my imagination that Creative Writing Teachers believe what their students write. I can remember one occasion where the teacher dropped my hand suddenly. ran across the hall and yelled, "Hey, Peggy, this is the one I was telling you about who toasted 'No Baby Month.'

What this country does not need is another organization collecting secret (sometimes incriminating) information on the populace. The CWTs are a small organization, but unless we administer to them an oath to hold privileged information in the strictest confidence, we are in for some serious

Using am assumed voice, I called my son's Creative Writing Teacher last week and asked, "Regarding the heavy drinking essay, how creative

Jingle Bells, Dixie Bells, Rebels all the way. Oh what fun it is to have 16 vacation days. Only three more days and we're out! Christmas is just around the corner, so you better watch out and you better not pout, cuz Santa Claus is coming to

The Christmas season will be highlighted this week when the Student Council gives a Christmas party for children of Midland. The party will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Thursday at Super-Roll Arena. English classes are reminded to collect money for their gifts, and select a representative who will be responsible for purchasing the gifts and taking the child to the party. The representatives, if they have not previously done so, need to go by the office Wednesday and pick up the names of their children. Also all Student Council members are reminded to bring two dozen cookies to the office Thursday. Let's all get involved and make this Christmas Party a big success.

Our Rebel football team was honored Friday night at the 1975 Annual Football Banquet. Special awards were given to Rusty Laughlin for the top back and Bill Murrah for top lineman. Brent Hicks was presented the coveted Lena Douglas Award for the football player who has maintained the highest grade point average. Way to go, Brent! Special recognition was given to Junior Meller Tom Cloyd. Bobby Humble and Clyde Gary for being named to the All-District Team. Congrats to all. A mighty Rebel salute goes out to the 26 Senior Men for the never ending pride and determination they've shown during the last three years at Lee. We've been through it all and ya'll proved that the 'Spirit of 76" prevails. We love you.

The "Spirit of 76" is recognized again as Robin Malone will travel to New Braunfels to represent Midland in the Junior Miss Contest in January. Way to go!

Attention all Rebelettes (and all Rebels): Remember the big basketball game tonight between our Fearless Rebel Roundballers and the Hobbs Hobblers. The game begins at 8 in the Lee gym, and Rebelettes are reminded to be there at 7:30 sharp in full uniform. Let's all come out and support our Rebel men! Good luck, guys. The Booming Rebel Band truly has gotten into the Spirit of Christmas by planning its annual Christmas party and dance to be held Friday night in the Lee cafeteria, starting promptly at 7:30. All band members invited. Also congratulations to the 31 band members who made All-Region!

THE TREASURY, on the theory that too many kinds of non-wage income escape taxation already, would like to even things out not by exempting the housing allowances of ministers' widows, but by taking away the exemption of ministers.

accommodations for your wife's parents in Trinity Towers?'

"Nine months." came the answer, "and we were lucky at that.

This isn't at all surprising either, since Trinity Towers, a non-profit, non-secterian retirement center here, maintains a waiting list of more than 125 persons.

This, then, is why a $1,8 million expansion program for the community owned and operated facility was announced early this month.

A new five-story building containing 43,970 square feet will be erected in front of the present building at 2800 W. Illinois St. It will add 75 additional living units and increase the health care beds from the present 24 to 50.

The existing facility has 20 onebedroom apartments and 20 twobedroom apartments, along with 54 single rooms, a kitchen, dining room and lounge rooms. It is operating at full capacity, with the previously mentioned lengthy waiting list.

It is noteworthy that Trinity any government funds.

The idea for the facility first support was conceived in 1960 and construction started in 1969. It opened its doors to occupants the following year.

Trinity Towers officials explain that it is not a nursing home, but as the residents grow older, the more likely they are to become ill.

"It is this group of individuals. we are more concerned with today." P.F. Bridgewater Sr., president of the board of directors, said. "We dislike very much having to notify responsible relatives that a person no longer is able to be accommodated at Trinity Towers and must be transferred elsewhere: With the additional health care beds, we will be able to look after many of the residents who no longer are able to care for themselves, vet are not sick enough to be hospitalized.'

It is because of the wide general acceptance of Trinity Towers in . correct .. good.

"How long did it take to get the community, and because of the needs outlined above, that the facility's board of directors has decided to conduct a capital fund campaign, seeking pledges over a three-year period from certain foundations; individuals and interested corporations.

> Friends of the facility also are asked to keep Trinity Towers in mind for yearend gifts as 1975 draws to a close.

The mission of Trinity Towers, officials said, is to assure fullness and dignity to life for older men and women, who, within their personal abilities, freely participate in family, church, educational, cultural and community affairs, as well as in a broad range of stimulating activities at the Towers proper.

"We are hopeful that interested individuals will realize that an investment in Trinity Towers is an investment in the future of Midland and in the senior citizens we are serving." Bridgewater

Trinity Towers truly is a facility Towers does not participate in of which Midlanders well may be proud. It merits community-wide

WASHINGTON - There is so much bad news in the papers lately that when a bit of good news happens, we'll all grab it like a bobbing life preserver.

Last week the news that seemed to warm everyone's heart was that CBS News had been conned out of $10,000 by a man who claimed to know where Jimmy Hoffa was (in a cement coffin 20 feet below the surface of the water off Key West, Fla.)

CBS could have survived the financial loss without much difficulty, except that The New York Times got hold of the story and gave a detailed account as to how the network was taken. This embarrassed CBS no end because until then they hadn't considered the fact that being euchred out of $10,000 by a con man was a newsworthy event

That evening after the network belatedly admitted it had been taken for a ride (to Key West of all places), a group of us were discussing why it gave us so much pleasure to read and hear about CBS' misfortune.

Each person in the room had his own ideas as to what really happened. This was mine

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ford's campaign offends Demos

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON - President Ford has always had a cordial, locker-room relationship with Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill. They have been able to trade political punches yet remain on good terms.

But as the weather has turned colder, the political climate has heated up. Some Democratic leaders are losing their friendly feelings toward the President.

He has hit them with more than 30 vetoes. He has campaigned against them up and down the land, accusing them of fiscal irresponsibility. He has raised a howl about the "can't do"

Now he has written a private letter tributions to unseat Democratic Congressmen next year. A copy of the letter has fallen into Democratic hands, and it is raising Democratic

'Since becoming President." declares Ford, "I have tried to achieve many things." He then offers an heroic account of his efforts to hold the nation together.

"As you know," he continues, 'many of these efforts and other positive steps have been thwarted by a Congress heavily controlled by the Democrats. In some instances, the Congress has turned a deaf ear; in others it has written its own extravagant legislation...

Republican goals. Unless more Republicans are elected in 1976, inflation and excessive deficit spending will continue.

White House sources described the letter as a routine fund-raising pitch. But many Democrats on Capitol Hill believe the President is carrying partisan politics too far. This could lead to some jarring confrontations between the President and Congress next year.

MILITARY LAXITY: The new volunteer armed forces could be easily penetrated by spies, subversives, ex-criminals or anyone else who might be interested in a fraudulent enlistment.

This is the view of security experts who have told us the recruiting procedures are sloppy and security checks are inadequate. For example, 25 per cent of the enlistees' fingerprints are rejected as unclassifiable when they reach the FBI for filing.

The lax security is best illustrated by the astounding case of Thomas R. Faernstrom, 28, who re-enlisted at least 10 times and collected more than $30,000 in bonuses before the FBI chased him down.

The fast-talking Faernstrom would breeze into a town, set up headquarters in a hotel and offer jobs to recently discharged military men. When they came in for their job interviews, he would ask for copies of their separation papers, social security numbers and other vital documents.

Eisenhower, half Church's age and one who has already lived twice in the White House and doesn't pant for it as Church does, that spurred him to publish an article in the Dec. 4 Wall Street Journal defending his grandfather's reputation and criticizing the Church committee.

Sen. Church, apprised of young Eisenhower's strong feelings, said: 'If I were in his shoes, I would react the same way. He is the grandson of a famous man. We tried to be extremely objective and even-handed in the report, and it was signed by all the Republican committee members. I think Eisenhower is placing too. much stress on the word 'inference."

The committee report drew the "inference" that President Eisenhower authorized, the assassination of Patrice Lumumba. the Congro's pro-Soviet leader (Lumumba, it developed, died without any help from the CIA). If an "inference" is not rebutted in court, it can be admitted as a fact.

Young Eisenhower, in his article, reasoned that one uncorroborated everybody to release it, especially witness · testifying that President Eisenhower favored 'straightforward activity' against Lumumba did not warrant the 'inference" that he was thus ordering his execution. Moreover, Eisenhower argued, "At least three other witnesses at the same meeting did not recall any such order.

Eisenhower regretted that he had to confront the "Kennedy legend" in challenging the Church report. But he argues that the committee was protecting the Brothers Kennedy by applying a double standard.

Even though witnesses testified that discussions between the Kennedys and CIA officials included the terms "disposing of Castro" and "knocking off Castro," and at one point President Kennedy, according to CIA aide Richard Bissell, ordered the CIA "to get off its ass" against Castro, the gommittee didn't link the Kennedys to assassination plots the way it did with Eisenhower.

The article is strong, passionate, yet reasoned. It's clear that Eisenhower, a cautious young man, as contrasted with Church, who relishes flamboyant action, was against the release of the assassination report.

from now, when historians make judgments on Presidents, they are likely to come down hard on those linked to assassinations. He feels the Church committee report is "unfair and hurtful to the good reputation of my grandfather.

'I also feel badly for the Kennedys because the word assassination. though not 'inference,' was linked with them without proof. This report purports to be a legal document, which it isn't, and it was unfair to when there was no proof of presidential knowledge or involvement.

"It was slanted, but perhaps not maliciously. The members and staff were swept up with the times. They simply did not have the kind of information to write what they did. I discussed this with my father (Ambassador John Eisenhower) who is in a position to know.

Young Eisenhower says he can't understand why the Republican committee members acquiesced in the findings. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has barked some since the report was released, and there is good prospect that Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) will express his criticisms

Church, of course, leans heavily on the fact that, while Goldwater wrote his dissent, he signed the reort, and Sen. Tower actually served on the subcommittee writing it. Moreover, Church has fudged up his own public statements enough to provide a / murky picture of Presidents and

Angolan vote expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is maneuvering to end U.S. intervention in Angola with some members voicing fears that the newly independent African nation could become another Vietnam The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on foreign assistance may vote today on a resolution by Sen. Dick Clark, Dlowa, that would cut off U.S. funds for military or paramilitary operations in Angola.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said on Monday he will ask the Senate, after it holds a secret session Wednesday, to bar use of any funds in the $112.3 billion defense appropriation bill for anything except intelligence gathering in Angola.

The two moves resulted from published reports that the CIA has committed up to $50 million for the military support of two factions fighting Soviet-backed forces in

"It is shades of Vietnam all over again," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said in Senate debate Monday.

Wednesday's secret Senate session will be held to consider the compromise defense appropriations bill, which includes an undisclosed amount of money for the CIA. The move to hold a closed-door session blocks consideration of the bill until senators determine if funds in the bill can be used in Angola.

The appropriations bill was passed by the House last Friday

Chairman John J. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Appropriations Committee said he could not in open session disclose whether any money in the bill could be used for military

The defense bill normally contains funds in undisclosed accounts for the activities of the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

Tunney said he and other cosponsors of the Angola aid ban amendment suspect that $25 million in the bill is intended for use in Angola, although McClellan told the Senate there is no money in the bill specifically earmarked for Angola.

Tunney said that unless other senators were given the facts in secret session they might be voting for funds that would be used for purposes they oppose.

Church said that, despite the civil war in Angola, the determination for independence is so strong that whichever side wins it will be Angola, not Russian or American.' 'We don't belong in Angola."

Paris conference opens conference on international cooperation opened today with a warning from French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing that the "muted possibility of confrontation and selfishness" overshadowed the meeting.

"It would be illusory to underestimate the difficulty" of the ambitious conference whose work in commissions is expected to go on for at least a year, Giscard d'Estaing

Third World delegates told newsmen they were waiting to see whether U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would warn them not to gang up against the United States as earlier reports of his intentions had suggested.

The over-all goal of the conference is to kick off on realigning the economic balance of the world, now weighted in favor of the rich nations.

The foreign ministers representing eight industrialized states and 19 oil producing and developing countries are expected to approve the formation of four commissions dealing with energy, raw materials, development and financial matters.

The United States and Saudi Arabia are expected to be named cochairmen of the allimportant energy commission. Kissinger is campaigning to have the oil-rich sector of the Third World contribute more to the economic assistance of their poor relations.

Giscard d'Estaing, referring to the scope of the conference and troubled year-old efforts to bring it together, said "it is without precedent because all economic problems are going to be examined together on a world scale."

It was essential, he said, that 'foreseeable conditions' govern international economic relations without "erratic or contradictory fluctuations in the prices of raw materials or industrialized goods.'

Kissinger on his arrival in Paris said the problems of development and social justice to be discussed by the conference would be dealt with "in a interdependent.'

Kissinger's primary goal is a system that will keep prices for the raw materials the industrial nations buy from the Third World at a reasonable level and safeguard against abrupt and arbitrary price

He also is urging development of a system of wide-ranging cooperation between the countries providing raw materials and the industrialized countries which are the developing countries' only source of the technologies they need.

In recent meetings with European leaders, the American secretary of state has also warned that his government expects the developing nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to do more for the developing nations that have no oil.

Officials of other delegations said if the conference fails to produce the necessary cooperative spirit, it might do more harm than good.

The United States and other industrialized countries originally wanted the conference to deal only with energy problems. The developing countries, including the oil producers, insisted that the problems of other raw materials, development and monetary reform be discussed at the same time so that they could use the bargaining power of their oil.

The industrialized world is represented by delegations from the United States, Canada, Japan, the nine-nation European Economic Community, Australia, Sweden, Switzerland and Spain. Italian Foreign Minister Mariano Rumor heads the joint EEC delegation.

Seven oil-producing nations are among the 19-nation group of developing countries: Algeria, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Venezuela, Iraq.

Indonesia and Nigeria. The 12 other developing countries represented at the conference are

Churches reacting

DALLAS (AP) - The aura of sanctity has been stripped from churches here - at least for would-be

Dallas churchmen, plagued by theft and vandalism in recent years, are taking precautions to ward off repeat offenses - up to installing sophisticated security systems similar to those used in large business

Some have installed television monitors which are trained on all entrances and hired round-the-clock security guards. Others use burglar alarms and "secret systems."

'We're not even allowed to-have a petty cash box," said a church secretary. "For awhile, churches were the prime target for every thief in town. They got a lot from us. But no

A North Dallas pastor said the new security systems have alerted him to several would-be thieves in recent

"One night two young boys broke in and the alarm warned us," he said. "When we arrived at the church, they were so angry at not finding any cash, they were in the midst of writing unreligious slogans across the corridor walls with crayons they found in a Sunday school room.'

Another pastor said when his people stopped leaving money around, the thieves took whatever else was left.

"Thieves began taking our electronic equipment and office equipment," he said. "Now we don't even leave our movie projectors here. Whoever uses them takes them to a specified place until the next authorized person calls for them.'

Moore hearing slated today

SAN FRANCISCO - U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti Monday found Sara Jane Moore mentally competent to change her plea to guilty to charges of attempting to assassinate President Ford.

But before accepting the guilty plea, the judge set a hearing for today to receive testimony to determine whether there is a "factual basis" for Conti said he must first be legally satisfied that Moore, as charged, fired a shot at Ford outside the St. Francis Hotel here Sept. 22, and that she was not mentally incapacitated at the time.

"This necessitates psychiatric testimony," the judge explained. "If you were insane at the time - or suffering from diminished capacity to the extent you could not form intent - then you have a legal defense and a jury could well bring back a verdict of not guilty."

Conti's ruling came after the 45-year-old housewife and former mental patient informed the court she was standing by a decision she announced Friday to plead guilty.

Burns says consumer resistance can curb inflation

WASHINGTON - Federal Reserve bring inflation to a halt, then our promote monopoly or limit price Chairman Arthur F. Burns hinted economic system is no longer Sunday that consumer resistence to high prices might help dampen inflation, which he said remains the nation's No. 1 economic problem.

speech at the University of Akron, Burns indicated in several ways that he was dissatisfied with the way in which the private sector of the economy is working.

"We must ... face up to the hard truth that competition has become less intense in many of our private markets," Burns told the graduating class.

working as we once supposed.'

Burns also expressed the belief that the bitter lessons of New York City's financial crisis may mark 'a major turning point' in In a December commencement the management of fiscal affairs of other cities and states, and perhaps at the federal level as well.

To deal with inflation, Burns recommended as he has on other occasions, that the government supplement classical monetary and fiscal policies with "structural reforms." In a speech at the University of Georgia late in September, he said that such reforms would include consideration of voluntary wage-price controls.

Answering a question he said he had received from a student on what citizens could do to "help the economic situation," Burns addressed himself to consumers in

"We can impose discipline on our business enterprises through our daily decisions in the marketplace." Burns said.

"The power of the consumer to force business firms to price competitively and to improve their products must never be underestimated. We as consumers can help to keep the spirit of price competition alive by shopping carefully and avoiding impulse

The Federal Reserve chairman observed that the "lax financial practices" evident in New York City's dramatic encounter with bankruptcy" has been spreading into the business community as well as into governmental units in the past

But he suggested that "the agony of New York City has made the consequences of financial mismanagement apparent to the entire nation, with the result that expenditures are being cut back and bond proposals more carefully ap-

"A federal budget deficit in the neighborhood of $90 billion, which stagger the imagination. But few of our citizens can grasp its impact on their daily lives.'

On the other hand, Burns said, everyone can easily relate to what has been happening in New York City - higher taxes, rising subway fares, fewer policemen and garbage collectors on the streets, downward adjustments in pension benefits, and free tuition at the city's colleges being placed in jeopardy.

The Federal Reserve chairman did not discuss the national economic impact of reduced state and local spending. Other economists have pionted out that this trend may be an additional

Burns reiterated his concern over the persistence of high prices at a time of heavy unemployment of both labor and capital. He warned that if double-digit inflation returns. it would cause a recession "even more serious" than the one from which the country is now emerging.

He pinpointed federal deficits as the primary cause of inflation, and called on the federal government to give control of inflation a "higher priority." He touched on monetary policy — which is controlled by the Fed — only by saying that inflation could not be contained if the Fed permits "money

Dallas mayor moonlighting to pay debts

The Los Angeles Times DALLAS - Someone said recently that Dallas is a curious city where things are done a little differently, and that certainly seems to be true in the case of Wes Wise.

Wise is Dallas' mayor. He is paid $50 a week. He considers it a full-time job, as do many other people. But he also works part-time as an early morning radio sports announcer to make ends meet, and to pay off a $30,000 business debt.

"It's a subject of constant conversation around town whether the mayor's job ought to be abolished or whether he ought to be paid a living wage," said a long-time city hall

Wise broadcasts four times each morning for station KVIL, which has reaped a harvest of publicity by having the city's mayor doubling as its sports announcer. Then he reports to City Hall for a City Council meeting or perhaps a discussion of the police pension fund

LATER WISE tries to put in some time at the World Trade Center where he is a public relations man. He was hired in 1973 at a salary of $24,000 by Trammel Crow, a Dallas real estate tycoon - reportedly to help the mayor pay off his indebtedness.

Some people here think it is demeaning for the mayor of a city the size of Dallas to have to rely on such financial assistance.

"Sure it is," Wise said. "That's exactly why we should have a fulltime paid payor.

Dallas is the only city among the 10 largest in the nation which has a city' manager form of government. The manager handles the nuts and bolts of city administration for a salary of

The mayor has a vote on the council but does not have veto power. He can make appointments to various commissions and is the official spokesman for the city.

As one city official put it, "The City

Wise has made no secret of his and by the means he is using to solve them. And, indeed, they are strange renowned for its millionaires and with an average annual income of $10,000 per person.

It is the kind of thing that prompted high official of the National Municipal League to remark recently: "Dallas is a curious town, you know. It has its way of doing things which is somewhat different from other places."

SPREAD across Dallas are 15 huge billboards picturing Wise, holding the key to the city, and disc jockey Ron Chapman. The billboards state in big letters "Wise with Ron," and Chapman often refers to Wise as 'Mayor' during their early morning chit-chat on the air.

"It's really paid off in publicity, having Weson," Chapman said.

The mayor is being paid $15,000 for four months of broadcasting at KVIL but will never see a cent of the money. It is all going to pay off the $30,000 debt that he incurred in a losing oil

Part of Wise's problems, according Ripley had achieved the to many observers here, including first successful breeding City Manager George Shrader, is that in the mainland of nenes the mayor of Dallas is not paid properly. Wise's $2,600 annual salary does not compare favorably, for example, with Houston's mayor who earns $20,000 plus $5,000 in expense money. There is a constant rivalry between the two cities.

Not to mention Chicago's mayor who earns $50,000, and Philadelphia's at $55,000, Cleveland's at $35,000 or Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles who earns $50,000.

Wise's red 1966 Volkswagen was seized by sheriff's deputies early this year to help pay his debt. The two businessmen who had backed him in the oil venture were suing for their

IN THE FACE of these difficulties, Wise's friends decided to form a 'Friends of Wes Wise Committee" to help him out of his financial bind. They ran an ad in the local papers all of this happening about three months before election time - calling for an appreciation reception for "our hard working mayor" at $10 a throw.

Special guest was to be Miss America, Shirley Cothran of Denton, Tex. But she failed to show up. So did about 2,300 other persons, the turnout predicted by Wise's friends. Only about 200 persons attended.

However, an old friend was there. Sitting in the middle of and Adolphus Hotel Grand Ballroom, was Wise's battered Volkswagen which by then had become a sort of symbol of the mayor. It had been purchased a few days earlier for $700, about $650 more than it was worth, at the sheriff's auction.

Bill Martin, owner of the TV Bar, bought it and is allowing the Wise family to use it.

Wise is sometimes referred to in Dallas by his detractors and even some of his admirers, as a bumbler, a naive man of limited abilities, and as Mr. Average Guy.'

"You have to keep coming back to the bottom line with Wes Wise: He's a lightweight," said one of his admirers, and a person knowledgeable about the mayor's office. "However, you have to admire

"But he's a man who needs to have a salary, with Social Security, group insurance, and a retirement plan and he should never ever be on his own in business. He hasn't the remotest idea how to pull it off. If anyone ever needed socialism, it's Wes Wise.

Wise is conceded to have political guts because he has opposed Dallas' wealthy establishment - the establishment that ran Dallas politics for years.

IT IS TRUE that in business he has not been as successful as former mayors of Dallas, most of whom were millionaires.

But enough Dallas citizens thought it was a good thing to have a mayor who was in debt like the rest of them, and evidently too honest to make money off the mayor's office, to vote him into office.

Others wondered how the mayor could run the multimillion dollar budget if he were too incompetent to operate his own private business and family affairs. (Wise's troubles included a $9.000 bank loan he couldn't pay off, he said.)

The outlook for a raise in the mayor's salary is grim. In 1973, Dallas voters turned down a move to boost it to $15,000 and observers indicated there was little chance of another attempt right away.

Trudeau upset with remarks by U.S. envoy

By ERIC MALLING Special to The Washington Post

OTTAWA - Candadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Monday rebuked parting U.S. ambassador William Porter for publicly warning that relations between the two countries are becoming severely strained. Porter's on-the-record comments to 10 journalists at a private dinner Saturday evening touched off, a furor in the House of Commons

The ambassador warned of a growing backlash in the U.S. Congress and the U.S. media against the increasingly nationalistic tone of Canadian policies.

He also urged that Trudeau and President Ford meet to discuss what he is reported to have termed "a bad turn of events" in relations between the two countries.

Responding to repeated questions in the House of Commons, Trudeau said that if Porter was quoted accurately, he had gone "well beyond the bounds in which an ambassagor should stay. "If Ambassador Porter has views to convey, he should convey them to his own government.'

He claimed that Porter's statements came "as a surprise to me in substance and in form ... and do not reflect in any way what I have heard from President Ford, Secretary (of State Henry A.) Kissinger or our own ambassador," Trudeau

In three meetings with Mr. Ford and one with Kissinger two months ago, various irritatns were discussed, but they were not considered to be any serious threat to continuing relations between the two countries, the prime minister said.

Porter, who leaves this week to take up a new post as ambassador to Saudi Arabia, has refused any subsequent interviews, but his aides confirm the published comments and his desire to have them in print. According to the report of his comments, the ambassador, who had been under secretary of state for political affairs and chief U.S. negotiator in the Vietnam peace talks before coming to Canada two years ago, said relations had steadily deteriorated during his two years in

Among the problems he cited:

-Canada's decision to charge the United States the full world price for oil and gas and the gradual elimination of oil and gas exports to conserve what Canada claims are dwindling

-Saskatchewan's plan to take effective control of the $1 billion potash industry by buying on the open market or nationalizing private mining companies, many of which are American-owned.

-Legislation that could lead to shutting down Canadian editions of Time, Readers Digest and several foreign medical publicaions by removing what is, in effect, honorary Canadian citizenship for tax purposes. The measure, aimed at strengthening the financial base of Canadian media, would deny Canadian advertisers the right to claim 100 per cent tax deductions for the cost of advertising in the American magazines or on border television stations.

-The Canadian Radio Television Commission's plan to have Canadian cable signals from American stations. investment to make sure it is of significant relations to become less economically and culturally dependent on the United States.

On a different note, but one that nonetheless between the two countries.

Canadian politics, Porter added, however, that

Tiny Tim seeking custody

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) -Singer Tiny Tim has countered his estranged wife's divorce action with a suit seeking custody of their daughter.

He claims in the suit that his wife is an unsuitable mother for 4year-old Tulip because she has been "intimately involved" with men and has posed for lewd magazine pictures since they separated.

His wife, the former Victoria Budinger of Haddonfield, has been working as a go-go dancer in a Camden tavern. She dances under the name of Miss Vicky, which she assumed while engaged to the singer.

'Mr. San Diego' jailed briefly

SAN DIEGO - Beleaguered financier C. Arnholt Smith, once honored as "Mr. San Diego." was jailed Monday following his indictment by a San Diego County grand jury on various charges including conspiring to defraud ais now defunct bank.

Smith, 76, and business associate Phillip A. 53, were arrested and handcuffed by estigators from the district attorney's office the 19th floor suite atop the U.S. National Bank that Smith once controlled

Toft, former executive vice president of hith's Westgate-California Corp., was named in 42 counts of the same indictment which charged both men with committing "121 overt acts," in a conspiracy to steal more than $60

Bail was set at $50,000 for Smith, and $25,000 for Toft, but the two men were in custody only a hort time before San Diego County Superior Court Judge Douglas Woodworth set aside the bail and released both on their own

SMITH, FORMER PRESIDENT and board chairman of U.S. National Bank and Westgate-California Corp., was a high school dropout who became a close personal friend of former President Richard M. Nixon and a power in national Republican party politics.

Before he was indicted by a federal grand jury in July, 1974, on 25 counts charging him and Toft with bank fraud and related violations, Smith had amassed a personal fortune estimated at $20

He headed a vast $2 billion business empire that included an airline, tuna canneries, taxicab. companies, botels, real estate, a professional baseball team and the Westgate conglomerate and bank. One by one, they collapsed around

Smith pleaded "no contest" last June 12 to four federal counts of scheming to defraud his bank, while Toft pleaded guilty to three. The remaining charges were dropped and both men were given two-year suspended sentences.

Smith was fined $30,000, and Toft $25,000 in connection with the federal case.

Kissinger honored by Bavarian hometown

The Los Angeles Times

FEURTH, Bavaria - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was installed formally Monday as the most celebrated citizen of this small south German industrial 'city, his birthplace and the town from which his family fled Nazi persecution 37 years ago.

The occasion was the awarding of the city's golden medal of citizenship, a ceremony more than two years in the planning and conferred in a brief, unpretentious ceremony before some 250 townspeople, officials and newsmen in the ornate city opera house.

. Beaming, then bowing a bit awkwardly before addressing the audience first in English, then ina carefully prepared German text, Kissinger received the award from Lord Mayor Kurt Scherzer on a small stage decorated with rows of Christmas poinsettias:

Along with 5he dignitaries and present-day burgers of Fuerth in the audience were the secretary's parents, Louis and Paula Kissinger and his younger brother, Walter,

Onstage with Kissinger was the youth choir and chamber orchestra of the Helene-Lange gymnasium, the local high school from which Louis Kissinger was fired from a teaching job in 1933 for being a Jew. The family fled to the United States in 1938.

IRS survey of 374,000 returns covering tax year 1971. The survey showed that of the returns where the IRS provided assistance, 55 per cent contained errors. Considering only those returns where the taxpayers itemized their deductions, the error rate hit 74.3 per cent. One of the reasons the witnesses and congressman fixed the blame on congressional tax legislators rather than the IRS was that even highly qualified professional return preparers such as certified public accountants and attorneys fared no better.

The certified public accountants had an error rate of 61.7 per cent over-all and 68 per cent on returns with itemized deductions. For attorneys the over-all error rate was 66.4 per cent and the itemized deduction returns error rate was 78 per

NFL playoff berths undecided in AFC race

NEW YORK (AP) - First, let's look at what is known, National Football League playoffwise. There's

In the National Conference, the four playoff teams are set. There are the three divisional winners-St. Louis in the East, Minnesota in the Central and Los Angeles in the West-and Dallas as the "wild-card" team.

In the American Conference, Pittsburgh has won the Central Division title and, at 12-1, is the winningest team in the AFC, thus assured of a home playoff opener Saturday, Dec.

Oakland has won the West and. because the Raiders have beaten both Baltimore and Miami, the East Division contenders, Oakland will be at home Sunday, Dec. 28.

The Colts and Dolphins are 94 and vying for first in the East. The loser may yet make it into the playoffs as the AFC's "wild-card" entry-but only if the Cincinnati Bengals, now with the best runner-up record in the conference, lose to San Diego next

Now let's look at what we really don't know yet. Here's where things get tough

In the AFC, the Steelers will host Baltimore or Miami. The Raiders will host Cincinnati or Baltimore. In the NFC, Dallas definitely will be a visitor since a wild-card team, no matter what its record, can't play at home. St. Louis, 10-3, has a long shot at opening at home, but the two home spots appear to belong to Los Angeles on Dec. 27 and Minnesota on Dec. 28. Each team is 11-3.

Let's assume the Bengals defeat San Diego. That makes them the AFC wild-card team regardless of what happens over in the East.

If Baltimore beats New England and Miami loses to Denver, the Colts are Eastern champs and Miami is out if the playoffs. If Miami wins and Baltimore loses, then Miami takes the title and Baltimore bites the dust.

But if Miami and Baltimore both win, the Colts will be the East champs because they beat Miami twice. And if Cincinnati loses, the Dolphins would get the wild card because they have seven points-the lower the better-to 12 for Cincinnati in the league's rating system based on a team's standing against conference rivals in the area of points for and points against.

In other words, if a team is third in the conference in points for and second in points against, it has a five

If Miami ends up as the wildcard team, it would play at Pittsburgh and Baltimore would play at Oakland. If plays at Oakland and the East's winner, either Baltimore or Miami plays at Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati can't play a firstround game against Pittsburgh because the two clubs are in the same division.

St. Louis' chances of opening at home are less than slim. The Cards not only trail Minnesota and Los Angeles by one game with one to go but also by a significant number of rating points. The Cards would have to beat Detroit 80-0 Sunday and Los Angeles and Minnesota would have to suffer losses by equally monstrous margins to Pittsburgh and Buffalo

If the Vikings and Rams both win to finish 12-2, Minnesota will host Dallas and Los Angeles will host St. Louis. Minnesota would meet the wild card team because it has a 3-5 edge over Los Angeles in the rating.

Should Los Angeles win and Minnesota lose-or should the Rams overtake the Vikings in the ratingsthen Los Angeles would open against Dallas and St. Louis would play at Minnesota.

But really now ... wouldn't you rather put away your pocket calculator, turn on the television next weekend, watch the action and let the players decide who goes where?

Chargers down Jets; Namath put on bench

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Ken Shipp decided to teach Joe Namath a lesson. He benched and fined the star quarterback of the New York Jets for missing curfew Sunday night.

On Monday night, in front of a national television audience, the Jets, with Namath strolling the sidelines for the first 20 minutes and 29 seconds, lost 24-16 to the San Diego Chargers, one of the losingest teams in the National Football League. Shipp felt his decision had no bearing on the outcome...but Namath did.

Touchdown runs of four yards by Tony Baker in the first period, two yards by Rickey Young in the second and one yard by Bo Matthews in the fourth carried the Chargers to the victory, their second straight after they had lost their first 11 games of LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - Kansas Coach Bud Moore doesn't want to boost the hopes of Sun Bowl opponent Pittsburgh, but he isn't too happy about the way his Jayhawks have looked in practice.

MCC to hold golf tourney

Midland Country Club will hold an individual low net golf tournament with full handicap Saturday. Entry deadline is 6 p.m. Thursday. Members may contact the MCC pro shop to own. I felt I really let everyone down, especially Coach Shipp.

"I got caught talking to friends from back home who live in San Diego," he explained. "I knew what time I was supposed to be in. I just lost all track of time.'

Shipp wouldn't talk much about his decision or what led to it. "I don't care to say exactly what the incident was,' he said. "I don't think it cost us the game.'

He acknowledged, though, that he talked with Phil Iselin, president of the Jets, before he benched and fined Namath. "I am only an interim coach," he said, "and I had to consult the president of the club-and he was in favor of it.

Namath came on in the second period in place of young J.J. Jones and passed New York to the Chargers' goal line-but couldn't get the final yard in four tries.

Namath's aerials got the Jets, 3-10, into position for their two touchdowns, one-yard runs by Steve Davis in the third quarter and John Riggins on the final play of the game. The rest of the scoring came on field goals by New York's Pat Leahy and San Diego's Ray Wersching.

When the crowd of 52,446-the largest to watch the Chargers this year-was told shortly before game time that Namath would not start, the fans booed vehemently. And when Namath took the field for the first time, with 9:31 remaining in the first half, they cheered wildly Namath completed 15 of 29 passes for 181 yards and showed occasional flashes of brilliance. But he was also intercepted twice.

And in the end, Namath and the Jets were done in by both San Diego quarterbacks, Dan Fouts and Jesse Freitas, and by Young, a rookie running back who picked up 111 yards on 21 carries for his second straight

"I have to give most of the credit to the line," said Young. "It did an outstanding job up front. The big difference in the team now is that everyone believes in themselves. We're making the big play, which we didn't used to do.

And safety Chris Fletcher, who made two interceptions, one apiece off Jones and Namath, looked brightly to the future. "With some more good draft choices," he said, "we could become another Baltimore

Hobbs posts 103-100 win over Panthers

ODESSA - The Hobbs, N.M. Eagles downed the Odessa Permian Panthers, 103-100, Monday night in a wild inter-state basketball game in the Permian Fieldhouse

Permian missed 17 free throws much to the dismay of Coach Al Oglesby. "All we needed to do was hit one free toss in the first overtime and we would have won, " said a dejected Oglesby after the high-scoring game.

Nine players fouled out of the game - five for Hobbs and four for Permian.

Permian held on to leads of eight to 12 points in the first half, but 6-4 James Munter and 6-8 Monte Malone got into foul trouble and the Eagles started hitting free throws in the second

The Black Cats only managed to hit 26 of 43 charity tosses while the Eagles netted 23 of 33 free throws throws and that was the difference in

It was 88-88 at the end of regulation time and 92-92 going into the final overtime period.

Hunter flipped in 27 points and Tom McLemore 20 for the Panthers who are now 11-2 going into tonight's game with Odessa Ector. Darryl Jones scored 23 for the Eagles, but it was Kent Williams' 31-point performance that stole the show. Hobbs is 5-1 going into its game with Midland Lee in Midland tonight. Permian won the sophomore and junior varsity contests in easy fashion. The PHS sophs pounded the Hobbs soph unit, 73-47 and the Panther JV, behind the the 31-point performance of Huey Chancellor, whipped the Eaglets, 87-44.

All-American quarterback, John Sciarra said the Buckeyes showed "they are so well coached, because even when we tried something we thought would work against them, they stopped us the second time we tried it." He said UCLA's 7-0 lead was short-lived because of mistakes and when the Bruins tried to move the ball again, they were stopped cold.

Indiana holds slim AP poll

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Indiana, which avenged its only loss of last season by beating Kentucky 77-68 in overtime Monday night at Louisville, barely missed being a unanimous choice for the top spot in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Hoosiers were rated No. 1 by all but one of the 60 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in this week's poll, based on games played through Sunday Dec. 14. The only other first-place vote went to Marquette, and Indiana was rated second on that ballot.

That gave the Hoosiers, 3-0 through the period of the voting, 1,198 of a possible 1,200 points and first place by a wide margin over Maryland, 5-0, which garnered 1,016 points. Marquette, 3-0, was next with 882 points and North Carolina, 4-0, was fourth with 718.

Those four retained the positions they held last week, but the No. 5 spot went to Notre Dame, which climbed three notches after battling Indiana down to the wire before losing 63-60 last Thursday. Notre Dame, which also had a 72-64 victory over Kansas and a 10373 rout of St. Francis, Pa. last week, collected 644 points.

UCLA, 2-1 and idle last week, dropped one spot to sixth with 565 points. Cincinnati, 6-0 after beating Biscayne and Bowling Green last week, climbed two rungs to seventh with 478 points.

Alabama, 4-0, moved up from 11th to eighth with 421 points; North Carolina State, 4-0, jumped from 13th to ninth with 264 points, and Louisville, 3-1, fell from sixth to 10th

Hoosiers capture win in overtime by 77-68

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Coach Bobby Knight turned from the small group of well wishers outside the Indiana dressing room and started to gather his team for the trip back to Bloomington.

"Good luck," one fan said. "We'll take all we can get," Knight replied.

The top-ranked Hoosiers just escaped with a 77-68 overtime victory against college basketball rival Kentucky, and it was perhaps a bit of luck that enabled them to do it.

Officially, it was a tip in by Indiana center Kent Benson that tied the score

Kentucky had taken a 64-62 lead with 30 seconds to play on an in close basket by Rick Robey. The Hoosiers hurried down the court and got the ball on the baseline to forward Tom Abernethy, but the shot was deflec-

As Benson and Kentucky's James Lee went for the rebound, the ball bounced straight up off Benson's hand and dropped through for the tying basket with nine seconds left.

Knight nearly missed it in his anger over what he felt was goal tending on Abernethy's shot. "I jumped up to protest and just saw the ball squish through," he said.

Indiana took quick advantage of the reprieve, scoring eight straight points in overtime for an insurmountable 72-

It was a measure of revenge for the Hoosiers who lost an unbeaten season and a chance at the national championship last March, when Kentucky beat them 92-90 in the Mideast Regional. But the Wildcats lost four staters from the team, and Indiana was favored heavily in the rematch.

"I believe -we surprised a lot of people with the closeness that we played the No. 1 team in the nation,' Kentucky Coach Joe Hall said. "I think they really meant to beat us

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Beverly Hills, a city fabled for its wealth, is in fiscal trouble.

Facing a budget deficit next year estimated by Mayor George Slaff at $2.2 million, city officials are exploring cutbacks in mowing the lawns in the community's hitherto immaculate parks.

They are proposing to sweep streets and trim trees less often, pare the already slightly reduced number of city personnel further and put such traditional municipally sponsored activities as lawn bowling on a self-sustaining basis.

But City Council members have already been told that when all the "acceptable" cuts are enacted, expenditures may be reduced by only $500,000 or, at the most, $750,000.

The prospect, in short, is for sharply increased taxes or special charges in a community that has always prided itself on its low taxes and its high quality of municipal services — perhaps $1.25 million in refuse collection charges for what is now a free service, perhaps higher business license fees and perhaps the maximum permissible 13-cent increase in the property tax rate.

The 1975-76 Beverly Hills budget is $13,971,658. Projected, this would be about $16.6 million next year.

Already, it has been decided that parking meter rates will be doubled after Jan. 1 for a projected annual revenue increase of more than $300,000.

CITY MANAGER George Morgan promises to "preserve those things that make Beverly Hills a unique community in which to live and shop, to keep the characteristics that differentiate Beverly Hills from Los Angeles and other areas in the Los Angeles Basin."

But a veteran civil servant in the city, who asked not to be identified, mused last week:

"It intrigues me to think of Beverly Hills, the garden spot, renowned for its fine style, its shopping, and now that image will melt away like the snow and it will just be another city.

"Once you start cutting like Morgan is, once the lawns are not maintained as well and the trees aren't trimmed and the leaves aren't removed from the parks and the staff is cut, what will happen to the morale of those employes who are left? Maybe they'll work harder, but maybe they'll say, "To hell with it."

Several ranking city staff members have, indeed, recently taken early retirements, or left for other jobs.

Assessments of where Beverly Hills stands naturally vary. It is incorrect, most City Council members insist, to say that the city is in a fiscal crisis, because bonded indebtedness is low and the means are at hand to collect substantially increased revenues.

But the "five-year curve," the long-range projections, are not good. Beverly Hills will be able, with some sacrifice, to balance its budget next year and the year following, but if present governmental trends and general inflationary trends continue, it is unclear to city officials how it will manage to make ends meet in the long run.

Mayor Slaff, who wrote a six-page memo to his colleagues in city government in early November laying out the budgetary problems, was asked recently in an interview about this long-term prospect.

"It's a very fair question to pose," he responded, "and I don't know the answer. Somehow or another, man seems to adapt "

Morgan, answering the same question, said, "The curve for government is not good anywhere."

WHAT HAS GONE wrong in Beverly Hills? City officials differ, but these factors emerge as either definitely or probably contributlry:

— A liberal pension plan — which allows police and firemen to retire at age 50 and all other city employes at age 60 and contains a "widow's continuance" feature giving widows the full benefits as long as they live — was adopted by the voters last year by an 85 per cent margin. It stands to cost the city at least $500,000 a year, and some estimates go as high as $850,000 in the near future.

Now council members who backed the plan concede that its financial implications were not well understood. And one member remarked ruefully that city officials have since become aware that police divorce rates are high, that many police officers marry much younger women and that some of the widows may survive them by 40 years or more.

— Beverly Hills offers its citizens a number of services that are only dreamed of in most other communities — including heavily subsidized day care for 90 children whose parents earn less than $12,000 a year, an extensive senior citizens program for which individual participants pay only $31 a year, a $350,000-a-year paramedic program and playground recreational programs that do not begin to be selfsustaining.

MORGAN TOLD the council recently, for example, that only about 1,200 persons use a municipal swimming pool that costs the city $59,000 a year to operate and from which it realizes only $8,000 in revenue. Now, the city faces large expenditures to bring the pool up to county health standards. Instead, council members are talking about — General inflationary trends have hit Beverly Hills hard, juast as they have all other segments of society.

— Federal and state-mandated procedures, including a great deal of statistics gathering, have been costing the city more and more money. City officials express the view that many of the statistics they gather are not even ready by those who requested them.

— In recent years environmentally inclined council members have adopted severe restrictions on highrise buildings, and high-density apartments in the city and building has come to a virtual halt along Wilshire Blvd., where three stories is now the height limit in the city.

While Slaff has insisted that new buildings cost the city more in money for services than they provide in new tax revenues, others believe the building restrictions are impractical and have intensified the city's fiscal troubles.

Summing up the most generally held view among the officials, Councilman Richard A. Stone declared, "I don't really believe we're in a crisis, but I think we've suddenly found that the city of Beverly Hills is not immune from the problems other communities have.

"We'll just have to deal with them," he said in an interview, "with belt-tightening efficiency in the muncipal departments, cutbacks in luxuries, and higher taxes."

COMPARED to most other municipalities in this area, the Beverly Hills property tax rate ($10.97 per $100 assessed valuation) is low, but this can leave a deceptive impression because, due to the extremely high value of land in the city and inflated real estate market there, appraised values by the county assessor are quite high. In other words, the owner of a house in property tax rate may be lower in Beverly Hills.

Beverly Hills may be paying more taxes than the owner of a similar home elsewhere, even though the property tax rate may be lower in Beverly Hills.

City officials say, in any event, that sentiment against tax increases is probably just as strong in Beverly Hills as in less affluent communities.

Also, they are taking the troubles seriously and budget planning for the next fiscal year has begun several months earlier than usual to give time for lengthy consideration of the issues involved.

At one such discussions last month, Councilwoman Donna Ellman declared, "I don't know how important it is for the city of Beverly Hills to have its own jail."

Hills to have its own jail."

"Prestige," responded Councilman
Charles Aronberg, who wants to cut back in many areas but spend more on the Police Department.

"I think it may be time for the city of Beverly Hills to live without prestige," Ellman rejoined. "There are some things we can't afford any more."

Cattle feeding seems to be making comeback

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of financial setbacks, the cattle feeding industry appears to be making a comeback and probably will continue to gain strength if prices hold up as they have been recently, according to Agriculture Department economists.

As of Dec. 1, the department said Monday, cattle being fed for slaughter in seven key states totaled 8,252,000 head, up 25 per cent from a year earlier. It was the third monthly increase in a row.

Until this fall, feedlot inventories lagged below yearearlier levels ever since 1973 as producers cut back because of high costs in relation to livestock prices.

The report Monday showed feedlot inventories were up in each of the seven states on Dec. 1 from a year earlier, including:

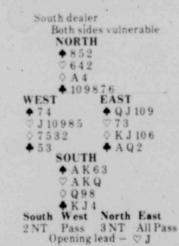

Arizona 501,000 head, up 50 per cent; California 938,000, up 12; Colorado 890,000, up 16; Iowa 1,400,000, up 23; Kansas 1,320,000, up 42; Nebraska 1,380,000, up 16; and Texas 1,832,000, up 28 per cent.

Know all the hands without peeking

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You often hear a bridge player say, "After all, I wasn't looking at all four hands." This is usually a poor excuse for missing the correct play. It's possible to know all four hands even if you're not looking at them.

South takes the queen of hearts and the next trick with the king of claus. South then leads the jack of clubs to East's queen.

East should be able to call the South hand practically card for card, and he should therefore find the correct defensive play.

South's opening bid has 22 to 24 points, counting 4 per ace, 3 per king, 2 per queen and 1 per jack. There are 40 such points in the deck.

East counts 13 points in his own hand, 4 in the dummy and 1 point in West's opening lead. These total 18 points, leaving only 22 points in the rest of the deck.

South must hold each of the missing 22 points for his opening bid. In short, East should know every high card in the South hand.

Best Return

Naturally, East finds the correct play after this counting. Upon winning the queen of clubs East must return the king of diamonds.

This forces out dummy's ace of diamonds and kills the long club suit. South gets two diamond tricks, two spades, three hearts and one club one short of the nine tricks he needs.

If East fails to punch out the ace of diamonds, South can make three club tricks. He takes six other tricks in top cards, making the contract with ease. DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 2 NT (22 to 24 Points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-QJ109; H-73; D-KJ106; S-Q2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Staymen Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four are more cards. You intend to get to six spades or six notrump and will explore grand slam possibilities on the way.

Introducing the new, improved Individual Retirement Account from The Midland National Bank.

Recently enacted federal regulations now permit the payment of the highest interest rates on IRA accounts with no minimum deposits. Midland National now pays you the highest commercial bank interest: 7½% - and you don't need $1,000. This higher interest is yours on as little as $25 deposits! However, you may deposit as much as 15% of your annual income, not to exceed $1,500.

Another good point: Midland National's IRA interest is compounded and paid daily. This means an effective annual yield to you of 7.7875%.

Your IRA deposits and the interest they earn are tax-deferred until time of withdrawal at retirement, at which time your taxes will probably be lower.

If you are not currently covered under a qualified pension or profit sharing plan, take advantage of the higher interest IRA now, before the end of the tax year - at The Midland National Bank.

March & Ratcliff of Dallas plans to drill a 2,800-foot prospector in Runnels. 11/2 mile west of Winters. It is No. 1 C. F. Busher Estate.

Drillsite is 1,400 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of Joseph Warner No. 76, abstract 928. It is 25% miles east of the King Sand Unit of the Winters, West field.

H&R Oils, Inc., Dallas, will deepen to 4,400 feet at No. 1 John Swatchsue, Runnels failure, for completion try as a second Goen well and location south extension to that pay in the Chick-Inn

It originally was drilled by Wayne Petroleum Co. as No. 1 R. Jones, and spots 1,240 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of Hugh Lewis survey

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 118, block G. W&NW survey. Planned depth is 7,200

The pool opener, General Crude No. 1-118 Young was completed August 8, 1955, for 589 barrels of 35.9-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio of 203-1, through an 18-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,776-6,793 feet.

LYNNSTEPOUT J. C. Williamson and D. W. Underwood, Midland, will reenter and deepen to 11,200 feet at No. 3 Reed. Lynn County 10,011-foot failure, nine miles southwest of New Home. It is 1/2 mile north of the lone well in the Lynn County part of the Mound Lake (Fusselman) field.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 39, block E, EL&RR survey

It originally was drilled by Fullerton, and plugged and abandoned in April, 1950.

Knox completes oiler in Kent

Knox Industries, Inc., Midland, No. 3 Morrison, has been completed as a third well and 1/2-mile northeast extension to the Lyn-Kay (6,150) field of Northwest Kent County.

It was completed to produce 120 barrels of 34-gravity oil and two barrels of water per day, with gas-oil ratio of 208-1. Production was through perforations at 6,168-6,178 feet. Total depth is 6.212 feet.

Nominations

ask increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Oil companies have told the Texas Railroad Commission they will buy 3,960,447 barrels of Texas crude each day in January, an increase of 3,547 daily over December.

The commission released the nominations Monday and will consider them later this week in setting the January oil production

Odessan named

to MGF board

David N. Fitzgerald, president and owner of Slough Equipment Co. of Odessa, has been appointed to the board of directors of MGF Oil Corp., a Midland-based concern

Fitzgerald was with Great Wester Drilling Company and Pioneer Well Service before purchasing Slough Equipment Co. in 1963. He has developed a number of related companies since that time.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee had asked Albert to bar amendments.

Instead, Albert turned Staggers down and asked him to take up the issue with the House Rules Committee, which could vote to permit amendments to the emergency

Earlier Monday the author of the bill, Rep. John Dingell, DMich., charged at a news conference that the natural gas industry had mounted one of the most intensive lobbying efforts ever in an effort to have the emergency measure broadened into total decontrol

He also said that the reason for the emergency bill may no longer exist and that he would rather see it die than be used as a vehicle for deregulation. Dingell's reference was to developments in recent weeks which have been significant quantities of natural gas made available to the interstate market under a temporary lifting of price controls by the Federal Power Commission.

in one state and sold in another at a price regulated by the FPC. Its counterpart is intrastate natural gas. produced and used solely within one state and sold at any price the market will bear.

Natural gas companies prefer selling in the higher-priced intrastate markets and have insisted that not enough gas supplies exist to meet the needs of both markets.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., a supporter of the narrow emergency measure, said that to allow floor amendments on a subject as complex as natural gas legislation "is the height of irresponsibility, and I can't see why the speaker would do that.'

Albert, in a letter rejecting Staggers request, said that it had been House policy to permit only noncontroversial bills to come up under the so-called suspension of the rules, which does not permit amendments to a committee-approved bill.

Plan offered to supply oil to Midwest states

By The Associated Press

A consortium of Midwest retiners has proposed shipping Alaskan crude oil into the Puget Sound area of Washington to link with an existing pipeline leading to its refineries in the Northern Tier states.

The proposal would benefit Murphy Oil Co.'s Superior Wis., refinery, the Continental Oil Co. refinery at Wrenshall, Minn., and refineries in

the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, all of which are now dependent on a dwindling supply of Canadian crude

It will take four to five years before the political and environmental questions can be answered to allow the project to proceed, Paul Bilger, vice president of Murphy Oil Co., El Dorado, Ark., said by telephone.

'The main hurdle is we've got to convince people in Washington they need an offshore loading platform to bring oil to the Midwest," Bilger said. "There are a lot of political and environmental problems which must be addressed.

Those problems must be solved before the companies can begin investing "a lot of money into the plan,"

Murphy perceives the proposal as its best longterm chance for getting crude oil to its Superior refinery, which is threatened with a shutdown under current Federal Energy Administration (FEA) plans to allocate Canadian crude oil to Upper Midwest refineries, Bilger said.

Under the proposal, the Trans Mountain Pipeline would have its flow reversed to pipe Alaskan or foreign crude oil from the Puget Sound area to Edmonton, Alta. The supplies then would be piped by the Interprovincial Pipeline, Ltd., to Superior.

Murphy, Continental, Koch Industries, Ashland Oil and Farmers Union Exchange are joining in the study of the proposal.

James E. Barnes, Continental vice president, said there is a critical need for short term and long term solutions to the problems of Canada's proposed export shutoff in 1981. Continental, a Houston, Tex., firm, has a refinery in Billings, Mont., as well as Wrenshall.

The plan envisions using the Trans Mountain links to pipe an initial 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily to the Midwest and eventually expanding the line to handle one million barrels per day.

Barnes said other long term solutions are a proposed $6 billion Northern Tier pipeline from the West Coast to Minnesota, a proposal by Standard Oil Co. of Ohio to ship one million barrels a day to the Midwest from the West Coast through Texas, and proposals to expand existing Potential test taken in Pecos

J. V. Atkinson, Midland, completed as a Tubb gas well in the Sun Valley field of North Pecos County his No. 1 HCT-State, seven miles west of

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 760,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day on potential test, taken through perforations opposite the Tubb, at 3,121-3,129 feet. The pay had been acidized with 4,500 gallons.

Drilled to 3,228 feet, it has 51/2-inch pipe set at 3,165 feet, and is plug9ed back to 3.142 feet.

Location is 330 feet from north and 1,550 feet from west lines of section 4, block 212, Mrs. P. Morgan survey.

The Tubb gas pay opener in the field was Atkinson's No. 2 HCT, which was completed last July for 2.28 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 3,138-3,146 feet. The latest gas schedule of the Railroad Commission shows no gas production from the field.

Workovers set in two sectors

Workover projects have been planned in Andrews and Crockett

NEW YORK (AP) - The index of all its listed common stock market swung upward today in buying credited to the American Stock Exhopes for a yearend rally.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 6.45 at 843.94. Gainers outdistanced losers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Brokers said it appeared some investors were picking up stocks on the theory that the market might head higher, as it did last year, once yearend tax selling was out of the way. There also appeared to be some encouragement over recent declines in interest rates.

Ford, Chrysler start new price hike round

DETROIT (AP) - Ford and Chrysler have announced new price hikes on cars only three months after the opening of the 1976 model year. when all four domestic makers tacked on substantial increases.

Auto analysts said strong sales improvements since the model year began made industry officials confident they could make the new price increases without renewing the industry's two-year slump.

"They wanted a price increase earlier and thought the market couldn't tolerate it," said Arvid Jouppi, an independent Detroit analyst. "And now they feel the market can bear it better than at the beginning of the model year.

Ford Motor Co.'s average $97 price hike, announced Monday, will be effective Jan. 5. Ford said the increase was needed because of unrecovered cost increases, sagging profits and government-mandated safety and fuel-economy im-

Chrysler Corp. also said on Monday it would raise prices as much as $60.95 on just a few of its cars to cover the cost of new government-required braking systems. The increase, effective Dec. 22, will average $3 when spread over the firm's entire model

In September, Ford raised combined base and option prices an average 4.7 per cent, or $247, while Chrysler increased prices 3.4 per cent. or $178.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the company had no plans to raise passenger car prices because its braking systems already meet government standards. But GM said the suggested price on light trucks would increase $35 on Jan. 1 to cover the cost of improved seat belts. Americans Motors Corp. said no decision had been made yet on whether to raise prices. General Motors raised prices (an average of $268 per car in September and AMC raised theirs an average of Ford said base prices of its cars would go up an average 2.2 per cent. In addition to the base price increase. Ford said prices of optional auto equipment would rise an average 1.6 per cent. It said prices for light trucks will increase an average of 2.8 per cent or $123. The suggested base prices of medium, heavy and extra-heavy trucks will increase an average of $320, or 3 per cent, as of Feb. 1, the Sales reports for early December,

'Beefdoggle' turned down in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House refused Monday night to accept a compromise proposal for a $60 million beef marketing research programafter critics said it would benefit corporate farmers but not the smaller

'This is a beefdoggle," said Rep. Sylvio O. Conte, R-Mass., who said the Senate had dropped the provision for a consumer advocate on the proposed beef board but had added five industry "advisers.

The vote to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee was 263-112.

The legislation would have provided for producers to assess themselves to finance a research and consumer information program to increase the production and sale of beef products.

The federal funds would have helped subsidize the development of the national plan and the assessment of it in a national referendum by individual cattle producers.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court is getting its last chance this year to decide if federal subsidies for presidential campaigns are legal.

The justices were scheduled to adjourn this afternoon until Jan. 12. One of the cases awaiting decision today was a challenge to the federal campaign subsidies, which are scheduled to begin Jan. 1, and accompanying limits on campaign spending.

The Federal Election Commission has scheduled a meetino for Thursday to make its initial certification of eligibility for preconvention funds for candidates.

The FEC also said that, if the court had not ruled against the subsidies by noon today, it intended to give notice that it will seek the funds from the treasury and begin dispersing them among the announced presidential candidates. Attorneys for independent and minor party politicians challenging the act have said that when they receive the notice they will file a new suit to block disbursement of the money. The election commission announced last week that three candidates had qualified for preconvention funds on a formula based on the candidate's own success in attracting small contributions. The announcement said President Ford was entitled to an initial payment of $390,000, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., $500,000 and former Democratic Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina $250,000. An FEC spokesman said the commission expected to certify former Sen. Fred Harris, DOkla., Rep. Morris K. Udall, DAriz., and possibly Democratic Gov. George Wallace of Alabama later.

The spokesman said former Democratic Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and former Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California appeared to have qualified also but had not filed the necessary papers to be certified for funds. To qualify, a candidate must raise $5,000 in 20 separate states from individuals contributing $250 or less.

The court on Monday also agreed to review an appeals court decision striking down a conviction in a sex murder case in Iowa on grounds that police questioning violated the suspect's

The suspect, Robert Anthony Williams, was convicted of killing 10-year-old Pamela Powers at the Des Moines, Iowa, YMCA on Dec. 24, 1968. Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard C. Turner had asked the court to reassess its nine-year-old Miranda rule, under which police questioning must cease if a suspect is not properly advised of his rights.

The justices also agreed to review a decision of a federal appeals court that Arlington Heights. Ill., discriminated on racial grounds when it refused to rezone an area to permit a low-income housing project.

Arlington Heights officials maintained the ruling would force communities to grant rezoning whenever it was shown "that a higher percentage of a minority group or poor people generally could occupy an area if the zoning was

Oklahoma high court hearing suit on funds

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)- The Oklahoma Supreme Court was to open a hearing at 10 a.m. today to determine whether to accept jurisdiction in a legislator's suit to block Gov. David Boren from transferring $80.2 million in state funds to a sinking fund to pay off state asked the high court to issue a writ of prohibition to prevent Boren, Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry and State Treasurer Leo Winters from making the transfer.

Wiseman contends only the legislature can appropriate funds. If Boren is successful in his transfer effort, next year's legislature will have $80.2 million less to appropriate than it would have if he had not initiated such action.

In a brief filed Monday for Boren, Derryberry and Winters, Asst. Atty. Gen. Mike Martin said Oklahoma voters wanted a "safeguard against the state overextending itself financially" when they passed a constitutional amendment ordering use of surplus funds to retire bonds.

The 1944 amendment is the focal point of Wiseman's suit to block the transfer. Boren cited that amendment as his authority for making the

The brief disputed Wiseman's contention that the 1944 amendment called for using surplus funds only to pay 1935, 1939 and 1941 bonds. Those bonds were paid off in 1945 and Wiseman said that nullified the portion of the amendment relating to bond payments. But Martin's brief said the amendment "was not adopted as a temporary measure, but is intended to be a continuing provision requiring the state's bond debt to be retired in order to maintain a balanced fiscal policy."

Education leaders are backing Wiseman's suit because they want the state to have $130 million in new revenue to spend next year, rather than the approximately $50 million it will have if the fund transfer is approved.

Wiseman contends the word "heretofore" in the 1944 amendment meant it applied only to bonds issued prior to the amendment's passage. Martin said, however, the word "heretofore" was used "with the word 'issued,' a past tense verb establishing the state of the bonds to which monies are to be applied ... ' He said that meant the constitutional amendment referred to all bonds issued by the state. "It is apparent that it was intended to be a continuing provision having force and effect on the retirement of the outstanding bonds of the state." Martin wrote.

Martin concluded by asking the high court to "refuse to assume original jurisdiction in this case" and deny Wiseman's request that the court prohibit the bond transfer.

Proposed MC expansion may cost $6.2 million

Proposed new construction on the Midland College campus likely will

The estimate was presented Monday afternoon in a called meeting of the board of trustees. No action was taken on the matter and board members are continuing study on the expansion project.

In the group's November meeting, however, Jack Huff, chairman of the Long Range Planning Committee, suggested February as "an appropriate time" for a bond election. According to Texas lay, bond elections may be called no more than 30 days in advance of the election date.

Bob Phillips, the college's business manager, said this morning college officials have not decided yet on the method of financing construction. He said they likely will combine revenue bonds out of student funds and general obligation bonds to finance

Robert Bradley of Preston M. Geren Architect & Engineer and Associates presented several alternative plans to board members Tuesday on the proposed fine arts building which had been sent back to the drawing board last meeting for possible revision.

The other two proposed projects are multi-purpose facility and an addition to the occupational technical

Total estimated cost for all three projects, including construction, site work, sidewalks, contingency fund and furniture, is $6,200,000

Total cost for the fine arts building, as proposed, would be $2,423,600 and the occupational-technical addition would tally up $1,008,600. If the two were separated from the multipurpose facility for purposes of a bond election, they would total $3,432,200.

The multi-purpose facility, a 5,000seat structure, could be expected to

The 5 per cent contingency fee on the three projects would be $250,000.

Trustee president R. M. Leibrock said he and the remainder of the board will review the plans between now and the January meeting.

In the interim, he appointed Huff, Murray Fasken and himself as a liaison committee between the college and the Midland Independent School District "and others in the community, if necessary" to ascertain potential building usage for the proposed multi-purpose facility. In other action, trustees approved

Underwood, Neuhaus and Co., Inc., as the college's fiscal agent, awarded a contract to Midwest Electric for $5,899 for additional exterior lighting and sanctioned Leibrock and the college president to negotiate with the public schools on cost sharing on a mineral appraisal contract.

They also agreed to assume 12.8 per cent of the operations cost of the tax office shared with the public school system. Cost to the college would be

Lebanese premier claims Israel preparing invasion

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -Premier Rashid Karami today claimed that Israel is preparing to invade Lebanon on the pretext of rescuing the tiny Jewish community in embattled Beirut.

Karami said he had heard of Israel's plan in an English-language broadcast over Israel radio this morning. But in Tel Aviv, Radio Israel denied broadcasting any such plan or anything resembling it.

The Lebanese premier, in a nationwide broadcast, called on the big powers and other members of the United Nations Security Council to note "Israel's preparations" for the attack.

Karami summoned U.S. Ambassador G. McMurtrie Godley to discuss the complaint and after confering with Godley for 30 minutes drove from government headquarters to the Defense Ministry. Karami also holds the defense portfolio in his sixman cabinet.

"I heard an English-language morning declaring the existence of such a plan by the Israeli army general staff in cooperation with the ministries of housing and religious affairs to attack Lebanon to rescue the Jews of Wadi Abu Jamil," Karami

Wadi Abu Jamil - also called Wadi Al-yahoud, or Valley of the Jews has been caught up as a battlefield in the savage civil conflict between leftwing Moslem militiamen and the right-wing Christian Phalange party.

It once harbored a Jewish community of 6,000. But most emigrated or dispersed following the 1967 Middle East war and only a few hundred were left when the Lebanese civil war broke out last April.

Fewer than 50 persons remain in the area, huddled in their synagogue under protection of the left-wing "Ambusher" militia that controls the area. Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat has given widely publicized orders to make sure they are not harmed.

Karami said he ordered the 18,000-man Lebanese army to stand by "to face all eventualities." He did not say when he expected the Israeli attack but called on all Lebanese "to rally round Lebanon and defend it against Israeli schemes."

This raised the possibility that Karami was using the charges against Israel as a tool to draw together Lebanon's feuding Christians and Moslems against their common Israeli enemy.

Security forces reported they were occupying Beirut's downtown battle zone, meanwhile, and that Christian gunmen were slowly pulling out of their hotel redoubts as part of a fragile day-old truce.

The 15th cease-fire of Lebanon's eight-month-old civil war, which began to take effect Monday; called for both factions to withdraw from the seaside hotel district and let the security forces take over while an army strike force established a buffer zone between Moslem and Christian neighborhoods.

Both the right-wing Christian

Phalangists and the leftist Moslems pulled out only part of their gunmen, withdraw the rest until the other side did so. The result was joint occupation of the hotels and other strategic points, with gunmen alongside security forces.

There was scattered gunfire also in several Beirut suburbs, and the government radio reported militiamen were maintaining barricades in the northern city of Tripoli and the town of Zahle, 35 miles east of the capital. But the cease-fire resulted in a marked reduction in the shooting, with only four dead and six wounded reported for Monday.

Mahon to meet with Ford

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Rep. George Mahon has an appointment this morning at 11 with the President, at which time he will urge the President to veto the Energy Conservation & Oil Policy Act of 1975. Mahon joined with 19 Texas members of the House in opposing the final version of the bill, which had been earlier agreed upon by the Senate and House conferees and which passed the House Action by the Senate is expected later this week.

Mahon said that enactment of the bill would be a disaster. "If the bill becomes the law, the American consumer will be the big loser because the measure would stifle incentive for increased exploration and production and make the nation increasingly dependent upon high-priced imported oil," feels that continuing the present system of price control for a while longer would be far preferable to the proposed energy measure.

The bill approved by the Senate now goes to a Senate-House conference before going to the White House.

House approval of the energy bill came shortly before oil price controls expired at midnight. Ford may sign the bill, although he has expressed reservations. Reports indicate his advisers have told him the measure is the best he can expect from Congress

The energy bill would roll back the average price of domestic oil from the present $10.75 a barrel average to $7.66 but allow the price to rise by as much as 10 per cent a year over the next 40 months.

Federal Energy Administrator

Frank Zarb estimated that may result in a temporary cut of some 2.5 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline or heating oil, but prices would rise above the present level by mid-1977.

The bill also requires car makers to build autos averaging 18 miles per gallon in model-year 1978 and 27.5 miles per gallon by 1985.

The Senate completed congressional action on the laborbacked bill to allow one union to picket and possibly close down an entire construction site even though the union had a grievance with only a single subcontractor. Ford is under pressure from conservatives to veto the bill, although he earlier said he would sign it.

Both houses approved an appropriation of $2.3 billion in emergency loans for New York City. The bill contains the money for a loan program suggested by Ford and authorized earlier by Congress.

Secret assurances from Capitol Hill may have played part in Nixon decision

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - While Richard M. Nixon was agonizing over whether to resign as president last year he received a secret assurance fromCapitol Hill:

House Speaker Carl Albert (D-Okla.) and House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. (D-N.J.) would oppose continuation of impeachment proceedings if he resigned. Moreover, Rep. Robert McClory (R-Ill.), acting at the time as minority leader of the Judiciary Committee, assured the White House that if Nixon resigned, neither Albert nor Rodino would favor criminal proceedings against Nixon,

The message to Nixon was disclosed by McClory and other principals for the first time publicly in interviews with the Los Angeles Times Monday.

Whether the incident is only a footnote in history or whether it looms larger as a factor in Nixon's decision to resign only Nixon himself knows. The message was delivered a day before his resignation when he was under extreme pressure to resign.

Both McClory and William E. Timmons, a former White House aide who delivered the message to Nixon, say it could have been a factor in Nixon's ultimate decision. "I thought it was an extremely important development," McClory Timmons said, "It's difficult to assess if the message had an effect or how much of an effect it might have had. The President was agonizing over his decision during that period and I was uncertain of what he was McClory said he first attempted to relay the message to Nixon through then Vice President Gerald Ford's office by telephoning William Casselman, a Ford aide who formerly had served on McClory's staff. But he said Casselman told him Ford would not want to be involved, that he should speak directly to the White House. At Casselman's behest, Timmons telephoned McClory for the message. The matter of the Nixon message first came up during an interview in McClory's office Monday.

McClory recalled that he was in Rodino's office on the afternoon of Aug. 7, 1974, talking to him and Rep. Don Edwards (D-Calif.), another Judiciary Committee member, about the format for a House floor debate on impeachment scheduled for the

He said Rodino commented on a press statement McClory had issued calling for Nixon to resign and said, "I sure hope he does resign. It would save the country and everybody a lot of trouble because that would be the end of it. Nobody would want to go after him after that. McClory said, "We had all been shuddering about what two weeks of televised floor debates on impeachment would do, how it would tear the country apart and affect foreign policy. And we had been discussing what inducements we could offer him to get him to resign.' After Rodino's comment, McClory said, he turned to Edwards and asked. "Do you feel the same way?" He quoted Edwards as saying, "I definitely do.

"I asked Pete how the speaker felt," McClory continued, "and he said he had talked to the speaker and he felt the same way.

"I said, Pete, you're telling me this in a way that sounds like you want to communicate it and he said, 'Definitely, our guys don't want to pursue him if he resigns and if he does, that will be the end of it."

McClory said he then went directly to the House floor and told Albert, "Pete Rodino says if the President resigns that will be the end of it.'

Albert, McClory said, replied that this was true, that the House would not pursue impeachment proceedings and that it had no jurisdiction over criminal proceedings.

McClory said he understood both Albert and Rodino to say that they would not favor criminal proceedings if Nixon resigned.

"I thought it was urgent to communicate this message to the White House," McClory said, "and I immediately called Casselman."

He quoted Casselman as saying, "The vice president is not taking part in the events occurring now and would not want me to report to him. He would not want to have anything to do with it. It should be reported to the White House. About 30 minutes later, McClory said, Timmons telephoned him and said he understood he had a message for the President.

McClory said that after he relayed the assurances from Albert and Rodino, Timmons replied that he would deliver the message as soon as Nixon completed a meeting he was then holding in the Oval Office.

That meeting was with three Republican leaders - Senate Minority leader Hugh Scott (Pa.), Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (Ariz.) and House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes (Ariz.) — who were warning Nixon that unless he resigned he faced certain impeachment and his chances of escaping conviction in the Senate were "very gloomy." The meeting was publicized at the time. Timmons Monday recalled having received McClory's message, but could not remember precisely when he delivered it to Nixon.

"Those were hectic days as you remember," Timmons said. "But I took some longhand notes on my conversation with Bob McClory and he would remember the time in Hawaii from the mainland and the other airlines report their flights to the islands are booked solid. Officials estimate the strike is expected to prevent about 30,000 tourists from having a Hawaiian holiday this Christmas.

Travel agents are working overtime to try to get their customers on alternate flights. The airlines say there are seats on many routes but some people are making multiple reservations and not canceling the ones they don't use. That means planes that are all booked up will have empty seats and persons who wait at the terminal stand a good chance of getting on a flight.

William F. Hughes of the Hughes Travel Service in Milwaukee said Monday that the real crunch came last week when the United cancelations were announced. "It was quite an ordeal," he said. "You just couldn't get through to the airlines ... I set the alarm for one o'clock in the morning and started calling from home. It worked."

Other travel agents told stories of having to route passengers thousands of miles out of their way. A Columbus travel counselor, for example, said that he had to send a passenger bound for Hawaii via Chicago and Anchorage, Alaska.

Opposition to Bush appears to be slight

By DAVID C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Opposition to the nomination of George Bush to head the CIA appears to be minimal, but the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee says he still plans to fight against confirmation.

Bush ran into scant opposition Monday as he told the Senate Armed Services Committee he would take no part "in any partisan political activity." At the same time, however, he refused to rule out the possibility that he would accept the Republican vice presidential nomination if it were Bush also told he panel that he could not rule out future CIA support for foreign military coups.

Intelligence committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, who has his own political ambitions, said he did not consider the Bush statement to be "a sufficient disavowal."

Church, who is considering trying for the Democratic presidential nomination, is scheduled to testify against Bush's confirmation today as the panel holds a second day of hearings on President Ford's nominee to replace William E. Colby as CIA director. "I think his position would be hopelessly compromised as director of the CIA if the President were able to dangle the vice presidency in front of him," Church said. Of 10 committee members present for Monday's hearing, only Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., expressed outright opposition to Bush. A man with Bush's background as chairman of the Republican party is "not a good choice for this position at this time," Leahy said. Bush, who has been U.S

representative in Peking, told the committee he viewed his political background as an asset. "Some of the difficulties the CIA has encountered might have been avoided if more political judgment had been brought to bear." he said.

In addition to his chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. Bush served four years in Congress and ran unsuccessfully for the Senate in 1970 against Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. He also has served as United States ambassador to the United Nations.

Dallas mayor moonlighting to pay debts

The Los Angeles Times

DALLAS - Someone said recently that Dallas is a curious city where things are done a little differently, and that certainly seems to be true in the case of Wes Wise.

Wise is Dallas' mayor. He is paid $50 a week. He considers it a full-time job, as do many other people. But he also works part-time as an early morning radio sports announcer to make ends meet, and to pay off a $30,000 business debt.

"It's a subject of constant conversation around town whether the mayor's job ought to be abolished or whether he ought to be paid a living wage," said a long-time city hall

Wise broadcasts four times each morning for station KVIL, which has reaped a harvest of publicity by having the city's mayor doubling as its sports announcer. Then he reports to City Hall for a City Council meeting or perhaps a discussion of the police

LATER WISE tries to put in some time at the World Trade Center where he is a public relations man. He was hired in 1973 at a salary of $24,000 by Trammel Crow, a Dallas real estate tycoon - reportedly to help the mayor pay off his indebtedness.

Some people here think it is demeaning for the mayor of a city the size of Dallas to have to rely on such financial assistance.

"Sure it is," Wise said. "That's exactly why we should have a fulltime paid payor.

Dallas is the only city among the 10 largest in the nation which has a city manager form of government. The manager handles the nuts and bolts of city administration for a salary of

The mayor has a vote on the council but does not have veto power. He can make appointments to various commissions and is the official spokesman for the city. As one city official put it. "The City

Council decides what will be done and the city manager decides how to do Wise has made no secret of his financial problems and some Dallas residents are embarrassed by them and by the means he is using to solve them. And, indeed, they are strange the International Wild for the mayor of the eighth largest WASHINGTON - The Waterfowl Association, city in the United States, a city Annual Achievement which presented the renowned for its millionaires and with Award for Geese did not award to the zoo, credited an average annual income of $10,000 It is the kind of thing that prompted high official of the National Municipal League to remark recently: "Dallas is a curious town, you know. It has its way of doing about 50 of these things which is somewhat different from other places."

SPREAD across Dallas are 15 huge billboards picturing Wise, holding the key to the city, and disc jockey Ron Chapman. The billboards state in big letters "Wise with Ron," and Chapman often refers to Wise as "Mayor" during their early morning chit-chat on the air.

"It's really paid off in publicity, having Wes on," Chapman said. The mayor is being paid $15,000 for four months of broadcasting at KVIL but will never see a cent of the money. It is all going to pay off the $30,000 debt that he incurred in a losing oil sale venture. Part of Wise's problems, according to many observers here, including City Manager George Shrader, is that the mayor of Dallas is not paid properly, leave alone treated properly. Wise's $2,600 annual salary does not compare favorably, for example, with Houston's mayor who earns $20,000 plus $5,000 in expense money. There is a constant rivalry between the two cities.

Not to mention Chicago's mayor who earns $50,000, and Philadelphia's at $55,000, Cleveland's at $35,000 or Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles who earns $50,000

Wise's red 1966 Volkswagen was seized by sheriff's deputies early this year to help pay his debt. The two businessmen who had backed him in the oil venture were suing for their

IN THE FACE of these difficulties. Wise's friends decided to form a "Friends of Wes Wise Committee" to help him out of his financial bind. They ran an ad in the local papers all of this happening about three months before election time - calling for an appreciation reception for "our hard working mayor" at $10 a throw.

Special guest was to be Miss America, Shirley Cothran of Denton, Tex. But she failed to show up. So did about 2,300 other persons, the turnout predicted by Wise's friends. Only about 200 persons attended.

However, an old friend was there. Sitting in the middle of and Adolphus Hotel Grand Ballroom, was Wise's battered Volkswagen which by then had become a sort of symbol of the mayor. It had been purchased a few days earlier for $700, about $650 more than it was worth, at the sheriff's auction.

Bill Martin, owner of the TV Bar. bought it and is allowing the Wise family to use it.

Wise is sometimes referred to in Dallas by his detractors and even some of his admirers, as a bumbler, a naive man of limited abilities, and as "Mr. Average Guy.

"You have to keep coming back to the bottom line with Wes Wise: He's a lightweight," said one of his admirers, and a person knowledgeable about the mayor's office. "However, you have to admire

"But he's a man who needs to have a salary, with Social Security, group insurance, and a retirement plan and he should never ever be on his own in business. He hasn't the remotest idea how to pull it off. If anyone ever needed socialism, it's Wes Wise."

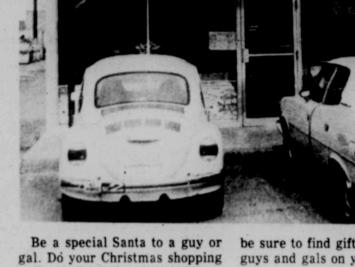

Wise is conceded to have political guts because he has opposed Dallas' wealthy establishment - the establishment that ran Dallas politics

IT IS TRUE that in business he has not been as successful as former mayors of Dallas, most of whom were millionaires.

But enough Dallas citizens thought it was a good thing to have a mayor who was in debt like the rest of them, and evidently too honest to make money off the mayor's office, to vote him into office.

Others wondered how the mayor could run the multimillion dollar budget if he were too incompetent to operate his own private business and family affairs. (Wise's troubles included a $9.000 bank loan he couldn't pay off, he said.)

The outlook for a raise in the mayor's salary is grim. In 1973, Dallas voters turned down a move to boost it to $15,000 and observers indicated there was little chance of another attempt right away.

Trudeau upset with remarks by U.S. envoy

By ERIC MALLING Special to The Washington Post

OTTAWA - Candadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Monday rebuked parting U.S. ambassador William Porter for publicly warning that relations between the two countries are becoming severely strained.

Porter's on-the-record comments to 10 journalists at a private dinner Saturday evening touched off a furor in the House of Commons

The ambassador warned of a growing backlash in the U.S. Congress and the U.S. media against the increasingly nationalistic tone of Canadian policies.

He also urged that Trudeau and President Ford meet to discuss what he is reported to have termed "a bad turn of events" in relations between the two countries.

Responding to repeated questions in the House of Commons. Trudeau said that if Porter was quoted accurately, he had gone "well beyond the bounds in which an ambassagor should stay. "If Ambassador Porter has views to convey, he should convey them to his own government," Trudeau said.

He claimed that Porter's statements came "as a surprise to me in substance and in form ... and do not reflect in any way what I have heard from President Ford, Secretary (of State Henry A.) Kissinger or our own ambassador." Trudeau

In three meetings with Mr. Ford and one with Kissinger two months ago, various irritatns were discussed, but they were not considered to be any serious threat to continuing relations between the two countries, the prime minister said.

Porter, who leaves this week to take up a new post as ambassador to Saudi Arabia, has refused any subsequent interviews, but his aides confirm the published comments and his desire to have them in print. According to the report of his comments, the ambassador, who had been under secretary of state for political affairs and chief U.S. negotiator in the Vietnam peace talks before coming to Canada two years ago, said relations had steadily deteriorated during his two years in

Among the problems he cited: -Canada's decision to charge the United States the full world price for oil and gas and the gradual elimination of oil and gas exports to conserve what Canada claims are dwindling

-Saskatchewan's plan to take effective control of the $1 billion potash industry by buying on the open market or nationalizing private mining companies, many of which are American-owned.

-Legislation that could lead to shutting down Canadian editions of Time, Readers Digest and several foreign medical publicaions by removing

what is, in effect, honorary Canadian citizenship for tax purposes. The measure, aimed at strengthening the financial base of Canadian media, would deny Canadian advertisers the right to claim 100 per cent tax deductions for the cost of advertising in the American magazines or on border television stations

-The Canadian Radio Television Commission's plan to have Canadian cable television operators block out commercials on signals from American stations.

-A new agency that screens foreign investment to make sure it is of significant benefit to Canada.

-Canada's efforts to broaden its foreign relations to become less economically and culturally dependent on the United States.

On a different note, but one that nonetheless outraged many Canadian politicians from all parties, Porter said the defeat last week of the left-wing New Democratic party government in British Columbia was "helpful" to relations between the two countries.

Saying it was not his intention to meddle in Canadian politics, Porter added, however, that Canadians should be aware that what he called nationalistic attitudes are causing alarm and suspicion, if not hostility, in some quarters in the United States.

One of the journalists reported that Porter wanted Trudeau and Ford to get together before 'the majority opinion developed in the United States that Canada was no longer a friendly ally, or even a friendly country that could be trusted."

He said that at least 100 senators and congressmen seeking reelection next year in border states are becoming increasingly critical Canada and would probably demand retaliation on some of the alleged irritants. The plain-spoken ambassador is to be replaced by Thomas Enders.

Tiny Tim seeking custody

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) -Singer Tiny Tim has countered his estranged wife's divorce action with a suit seeking custody of their daughter.

He claims in the suit that his wife is an unsuitable mother for 4-year-old Tulip because she has been "intimately involved" with men and has posed for lewd magazine pictures since they separated.

His wife, the former Victoria Budinger of Haddonfield, has been working as a go-go dancer in a Camden tavern. She dances under the name of Miss Vicky, which she assumed while engaged to the singer.

The countersuit filed by the falsetto singer, born Herbert B. Kaury, was forwarded Monday to Camden County Court, which has jurisdiction over the divorce action. He filed the action in Trenton.

Nader group says IRS advice bad more often than good

WASHINGTON (AP) - People asking the Internal Revenue Service for help in filling out their tax returns are more likely to get bad advice than good advice, a Ralph Nader organization says.

In addition, the government will hold taxpayers responsible for making up any underpayments resulting from IRS errors, the organization told a House subcommittee on

The Nader group also said the taxpayer may get even worse advice by taking his taxes to a private outfit rather than getting IRS help.

After concluding an analysis based on the IRS' own surveys of the accuracy of both private and government tax advice, Louise Brown of Ralph Nader's Tax Reform Research Group said, "If these striking figures do not convince Congress that something is wrong with our federal income tax law, nothing ever will. The inaccuracy of the IRS tax advice is the fault of Congress, Charles Davenport of the Congressional Budget Office told a House subcommittee Monday. "Given the complexity of our federal income tax laws. I would think nothing but errors could be expected," said Davenport, who spent a year studying the Internal Revenue Service for the Administration Conference of the United States.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander also said the tax laws are too complex. Subcommittee Chairman Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y. added, "It appears to be unanimous that the law is too complex.

Henry A. Kissinger was installed formally Monday as the most celebrated citizen of this small south German industrial city, his birthplace and the town from which his family fled Nazi persecution 37 years ago.

The occasion was the awarding of the city's golden medal of citizenship, a ceremony more than two years in the planning and conferred in a brief, unpretentious ceremony before some 250 townspeople, officials and newsmen in the ornate

Beaming, then bowing a bit awkwardly before addressing the audience first in English, then in a carefully prepared German text, Kissinger received the award from Lord Mayor Kurt Scherzer on a small stage decorated with rows of

House speaker will allow floor amendments on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The fate of an emergency natural gas bill is up in the air in the House after Speaker Carl Albert refused to back an effort to forbid floor amendments.

The bill would have the effect of lifting price controls on interstate natural gas for two years. But House supporters of a permanent lifting of controls wanted to amend the emergency measure to do that.

Albert's statement Monday may have given them the opportunity to offer amendments to broaden the emergency measure. The Senate already has passed legislation that would lift all price controls over a five-year period.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee had asked Albert to bar amendments

Instead, Albert turned Staggers down and asked him to take up the issue with the House Rules Committee, which could vote to permit amendments to the emergency

Earlier Monday the author of the bill, Rep. John Dingell, DMich, charged at a news conference that the natural gas industry had mounted one of the most intensive lobbying efforts ever in an effort to have the emergency measure broadened into total decontrol

He also said that the reason for the emergency bill may no longer exist and that he would rather see it die than be used as a vehicle for deregulation. Dingell's reference was to developments in recent weeks which have been significant quantities of natural gas made available to the interstate market under a temporary lifting of price controls by the Federal Power Commission.

Interstate natural gas is produced in one state and sold in another at a price regulated by the FPC. Its counterpart is intrastate natural gas. produced and used solely within one state and sold at any price the market

Natural gas companies prefer selling in the higher-priced intrastate markets and have insisted that not enough gas supplies exist to meet the needs of both markets.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., a supporter of the narrow emergency measure, said that to allow floor amendments on a subject as complex as natural gas legislation "is the height of irresponsibility, and I can't see why the speaker would do that."

Albert, in a letter rejecting Staggers request, said that it had been House policy to permit only noncontroversial bills to come up under the so-called suspension of the rules, which does not permit amendments to a committee-approved bill.

Plan offered to supply oil to Midwest states

By The Associated Press

A consortium of Midwest retiners has proposed shipping Alaskan crude oil into the Puget Sound area of Washington to link with an existing pipeline leading to its refineries in the Northern Tier states

The proposal would benefit Murphy Oil Co.'s Superior Wis., refinery, the Continental Oil Co. refinery at Wrenshall, Minn., and refineries in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, all of which are now dependent on a dwindling supply of Canadian crude

It will take four to five years before the political and environmental questions can be answered to allow the project to proceed, Paul Bilger, vice president of Murphy Oil Co., El Dorado, Ark., said by telephone.

"The main hurdle is we've got to convince people in Washington they need an offshore loading platform to bring oil to the Midwest," Bilger said. "There are a lot of political and environmental problems which must be

Those problems must be solved before the companies can begin investing "a lot of money into the plan,"

Murphy perceives the proposal as its best longterm chance for getting crude oil to its Superior refinery, which is threatened with a shutdown under current Federal Energy Administration (FEA) plans to allocate Canadian crude oil to Upper Midwest refineries, Bilger said.

Under the proposal, the Trans Mountain Pipeline would have its flow reversed to pipe Alaskan or foreign crude oil from the Puget Sound area to Edmonton, Alta. The supplies then would be piped by the Interprovincial Pipeline, Ltd., to Superior.

Murphy, Continental, Koch In-dustries, Ashland Oil and Farmers Union Exchange are joining in the study of the proposal.

James E. Barnes, Continental vice president, said there is a critical need for short term and long term solutions to the problems of Canada's proposed export shutoff in 1981. Continental, a Houston, Tex., firm, has a refinery in Billings, Mont., as well as Wrenshall.

The plan envisions using the Trans Mountain links to pipe an initial 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily to the Midwest and eventually expanding the line to handle one million barrels per day.

Barnes said other long term solutions are a proposed $6 billion Northern Tier pipeline from the West Coast to Minnesota, a proposal by Standard Oil Co. of Ohio to ship one million barrels a day to the Midwest from the West Coast through Texas. and proposals to expand existing

Firms rated on pollution

NEW YORK (AP) - Texaco and Gulf have the worst overall pollution control records of eight major American petroleum companies. according to a study by the Council on Economic Priorities. The group said Atlantic Richfield (Arco) and Standard Oil of California (SoCal) have the best overall records.

Noting that pollution control varied widely by region, the council said New Jersey and Los Angeles refineries have the worst water pollution control performances, and New Jersey and Illinois have the worst air pollution control.

On the other hand, the council observed, control of water pollution was best in Illinois and Washington State No. 1 Miller, drilling 7,326 lime, and dirty air was best controlled in shale. Los Angeles.

These findings were released Monday by the privately financed, nonprofit council in a 475-page book entitled "Cracking Down," a study of petroleum pollution patterns.

The book said the oil industry, on the whole, has shown better compliance with pollution control regulations than many other industries including steel, paper, and

Among individual refineries, SoCal's plant at El Segundo, Calif., has one of the best records in controlling air pollution while Shell's refinery at Wood River, Ill., "has an abysmal air pollution control record," the council said. It said Arco's refinery at Cherry Point, Wash., is among the best in controlling water pollution while the Mobil plant at Paulsboro, N.J., is among the worst.

Rating the eight companies on air pollution control from the best to the worst, the council put Arco out front followed by SoCal, Mobil, Gulf, Shell, Exxon, Amoco and Texaco.

On water pollution control, Shell led the companies, followed by Exxon, 12,380; used 3,500-foot water Arco, Amoco, Texaco, SoCal, Mobil blanket, open 1 hour, 15 minutes; pumped 65 barrels of 43-gravity oil per Concor No. 96 SEMU-Penn, 12,380; used 3,500-foot water Conoco No. 96 SEMU-Penn, pumped 65 barrels of oil, 325 been indicted on stock fraud charges by a state grand jury investigating reports of wide spread dishonesty by companies selling Schedule D fractional shares in oil and gas leases.

Asst. Dist. Att.y. Chuck Cottingham said the Monday indictments involve the collection of approximately $650,000 over a six to eight month period by Rio Grande Oil Co. of Houston.

Cottingham left no doubt he anticipates additional indictments when the grand jury resumes its probe later in the week

Representatives of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and 15 states met last week in Dallas to discuss ways to deal with dishonest and fraudulent Schedule D com-

The operations involve Regulation B, Schedule D of the 1933 Securities Act. The federal exemption allows operators to raise up to $250,000 per well in drilling funds with virtually no disclosures of finances, experience or background. Cottingham said both the SEC and the Texas Securities Board participated in investigations that led to the Monday indictments. Investigators have said a major portion of the contacts made by dishonest Schedule D companies with potential investors are by telephone.

Named in thd indictments were David Northington, Tom Norton, and Lynn Machen, all officers of Rio Grande, and George Ham, Kenneth Nigrelle, and Milford Berner, all salesmen.

In addition to conspiracy to sell fraudulent stock, the eightcount indictments allege failure to disclose material facts to prospective investors, sale of unregistered stock. fraudulent misrepresentation, and sale of securities without a license.

The maximum penalty for conviction on each count is 10 years in

In a Nov. 30 story, the Houston Post quoted Worthington as saying there are dishonest Schedule D dealers but that Rio Grande "is running everything right above board.' The same story quoted a former Rio Grande salesman as saying salesmen were instructed to represent themselves as independent oil operators drilling in Texas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma. Most of the salesmen, the former employe was quoted as saying, were professional salesmen with no oil or gas background.

Cottingham had said on Friday that 13 men, including 12 Rio Grande employes, had been subpoenaed for Monday's start of the grand jury

Cotton

NEW YOORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher by as much as $3.00 a bale in midday dealings today. Renewed interest for U.S. cotton in the World export market prompted buying of futures contracts, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 1-16-inch spot cotton declined 11 points to 53.85 cents a pound Friday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Ford, Chrysler start new price hike round

Chrysler have announced new price hikes on cars only three months after the opening of the 1976 model year. when all four domestic makers tacked on substantial increases.

Auto analysts said strong sales improvements since the model year began made industry officials con fident they could make the new price increases without renewing the industry's two-year slump.

"They wanted a price increase earlier and thought the market couldn't tolerate it." said Arvid Jouppi, an independent Detroit analyst. "And now they feel the market can bear it better than at the beginning of the model year."

Ford Motor Co.'s average $97 price hike, announced Monday, will be effective Jan. 5. Ford said the increase was needed because of unrecovered cost increases, sagging profits and government-mandated safety and fuel-economy improvements.

Chrysler Corp. also said on Monday it would raise prices as much as $60.95 on just a few of its cars to cover the) cost of new government-required braking systems. The increase, effective Dec. 22, will average $3 when spread over the firm's entire model

In September, Ford raised combined base and option prices an average 4.7 per cent, or $247, while Chrysler increased prices 3.4 per cent, or $178.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the company had no plans to raise passenger car prices because its braking systems already meet government standards. But GM said the suggested price on light trucks would increase $35 on Jan. 1 to cover the cost of improved seat belts.

Americans Motors Corp. said no decision had been made yet on whether to raise prices.

General Motors raised prices an average of $268 per car in September and AMC raised theirs an average of

Ford said base prices of its cars would go up an average 2.2 per cent. In addition to the base price increase. Ford said prices of optional auto equipment would rise an average 1.6

It said prices for light trucks will increase an average of 2.8 per cent or $123. The suggested base prices of medium, heavy and extra-heavy trucks will increase an average of $320, or 3 per cent, as of Feb. 1, the company said.

released by the domestic makers Monday, showed the pace for the period was up 43.3 per cent from the depressed levels of a year ago to their best rate for the period since 1969.

The sales pace for General Motors Corp. was up 63.3 per cent over last year in the Dec. 1-10 period, Chrysler Corp. was up 22.1 per cent and American Motors Corp. rose 60 per Ford's sales span were up 18.7 per cent from a year ago on a daily selling basis, but the firm said the increase would have been greater if not for a dealer incentive program which ended Nov. 30 in the Ford Division.

Sales of domestic models are up nearly 30 per cent since the beginning of October, and company officials say the industry's worst slump since World War II appears to be at an end.

'Beefdoggle' turned down in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House refused Monday night to accept a compromise proposal for a $60 million beef marketing research program after critics said it would benefit corporate farmers but not the smaller

'This is a beefdoggle," said Rep. Sylvio O. Conte, R-Mass., who said the Senate had dropped the provision for a consumer advocate on the proposed beef board but had added five industry "advisers." The vote to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee was 263-112. The legislation would have provided for producers to assess themselves to finance a research and consumer information program to increase the production and sale of beef products.

The federal funds would have helped subsidize the development of the national plan and the assessment. of it in a national referendum by individual cattle producers.
