

Big Fruit Crop On the Plains Should Be Saved

"Those who plant trees love others beside themselves," and from all appearances the God of production has smiled down with favor upon the people of the plains, as the fruit crops were never better, and really and truly the fruit growers are reaping their reward for the time and work spent in caring for their orchards. Peaches, plums, apricots, berries, cherries, and all the fruits grown here have been wonderfully successful this year, and the housewife is busy making arrangements to take care of the large production.

Prof. M. M. Dupre, local fruit growing enthusiast, has equipped his kitchen with a Scott peach peeler, and one thousand three-pound sanitary cans have been purchased, which he declares he will fill with the choicest fruit of his orchard, and will have a surplus above that amount. He says he has three peach trees from which he will gather twenty four hundred pounds of fruit, and as he has been on the plains for many years, and is an experienced fruit grower, we are taking that estimation as authentic.

The Plains section is a little ahead of the rest of the world in more ways than a few, but the fact that it was once a treeless plain has molded the opinion in the minds of some of the less thoughtful visitors that fruit growing and keeping up shade trees will not be successful here, but a little information gathered from among the old timers out here will prove that the orchardist, like the farmer, stockman and truck-grower, is favored by the ideal climatic conditions and rich soil on the plains.

The fact that Lubbock County has a Home Demonstration agent, may not sound much like an investment proposition to some folks, but to the writer the action of the Chamber of Commerce in securing the agent was simply an investment proposition, which will be enjoyed by the entire citizenship of Lubbock county, especially those interested in bettering the condition of the nation's greatest institution—the home. The agent will be a great help in instructing our people in fruit preserving, which will be a great part of her work for a while.

There are thousands and thousands of pounds of fruits to be canned in Lubbock county this year, and we are in hopes no one will permit a waste of the fine food, as there are always seasons of scarcity after seasons of plenty, and there is no time more opportune for taking care of the grocery bill than in such seasons as now exists when fruit is everywhere plentiful.

"It takes a whole lot of living around a place to make it home," and that verbiage is just as applicable to the community in which you live as it is to the house in which you live. Let's live around here, and let everybody know we like it.

Plant fruit trees this fall, and get in line with the fellows who are making Lubbock.

Let's go.

PACKARD

The tremendous outpouring which greeted the new Packard Single-Six will go down as one of the most significant occurrences in fine car history.

It was probably the first time that such complete and instantaneous approval has been given to a car of the highest class.

It indicates, moreover, that those who desire the dignity and wealth of beauty so typical of Packard, fully recognize the masterful value now presented by Packard resourcefulness.

It would, indeed, be difficult to imagine how one who prizes all that is high and fine in a motor car, could see this latest Packard without giving it immediate and positive preference.

THE PRICES OF THE SINGLE-SIXES DELIVERED HERE ARE:

The district attorney and the county attorney have practically the same line of work in the discharge of their official duties under the law. With but few exceptions the law that imposes a duty upon the district attorney also in the same connection imposes the same duty upon the county attorney to be performed by the latter in case of the absence or inability of the former to be present, or for any reason can not perform the duty or task imposed by the law. In other words, in the absence of the district attorney the county attorney steps into his shoes with the same authority and power of the district attorney under the law and does whatever needs to be done. In other words still, from the view point of the statutes, both civil and criminal, these two officers are supposed to have the same qualifications and perform the same duties under the law as may be necessary, with this one exception, the county attorney is made the legal adviser of the commissioners court in matters of law, but not in matters of discretion and judgment, or the advisability or necessity for doing or not doing certain things within the range of that court in its line of work; the county attorney is also the adviser in matters of law with every person or officer, directly or indirectly connected with the affairs of the county government, and also to represent the county in any litigation that the county may be interested in any way. When the grand jury is not in session and a felony offense is committed the county attorney is called upon to write the complaint charging the offense and file it with the magistrate for the basis of the issuance of warrant for arrest or accused, and attend to all matters until party is bound over to wait the action of the grand jury, and in the absence of the district attorney to conduct the examination before the grand jury. Some people have the idea that it does not require much knowledge of law to fill the office of county attorney, and this statement is made to correct that idea and to show to the people in a brief way the duties and responsibilities falling upon the shoulders of the person taking that office.

Respectfully,
38-1p JOHN E. MCGEE.

FRUIT IS ESPECIALLY GOOD IN LUBBOCK COUNTY

J. A. Burgess and son Herbert, were in town Thursday from their fine farm five and a half miles east of town, and brought a prize peach of the early Alexander species, to the Avalanche office.

It was indeed a wonderful piece of fruit, measuring ten inches in circumference, and we were indeed glad to have the opportunity to sample it.

Mr. Burgess has several trees bearing that specie of fruit, and we are glad to know that fruit growing in Lubbock County is attracting much attention of our people.

Banker Is Elated Over Conditions of Plains Farmers

E. B. Free, cashier of the First State Bank, of Plains, was here last Thursday, visiting with Ralph Bedford. The development of the farming country adjacent to Plains is being done with great rapidity, according to Mr. Free. He is of the opinion that the time for real prosperity among the smaller farmers of the plains is here, if the farmers of other sections of the plains are as fortunately situated as are those of his community.

In discussing the possible rush for plains lands with an Avalanche representative, Mr. Free expressed the opinion that before many months the farm lands of near Plains will be so thoroughly cultivated, and the country so densely populated that increased production will put things on a real boom up that way. He said that marketing the milk, butter, hogs and poultry, and close application of the principles of diversified farming was placing the farmers there head and shoulders above the earth as far as financial conditions are concerned, which he takes as an indication of even greater attention to the advantage of keeping the farm well stocked with poultry, hogs and dairy cattle.

NOW IS THE TIME TO CULL POOR LAYERS FIRST TIME

(By F. W. Kazmeier)
In July many of the hens are beginning to lay down on the job, when it comes to producing eggs. Some of these have gone broody, and are unwilling to start laying again. A hen that goes broody frequently and is hard to break up is a poor layer, route her to the soup bowl by the quickest way. At this time some hens are also beginning to shed their feathers, the houses and yards all being covered with feathers. A few hens may be quite advanced in a molt. It is well to watch the early molters very closely, because the time of molt in the majority of cases is a true indication of their egg producing abilities.

We can remember the time when in our flock of 2000 layers (this was many years ago) we made a practice of selling off about half or 1000 in the fall of the year. It was of course our ambition to sell the poor layers and keep the good layers. We concluded, like many people still do, that the early molting hen, the one that was then shedding feathers and wearing an entirely new coat of feathers by August and September was the best layer, because she could be laying in the fall and winter when eggs were high in price. On this basis, we selected the earliest molters, kept them and raised more like them the next year.

Since that time we have found that the early molting hens nearly always and as a general rule are the poorest layers in the flock. It has been found that egg production is very similar to milk production in a dairy cow. What do we think of a cow that goes dry a few months after she has come fresh into milk. We consider her a poor milk cow, just like we consider a hen a poor layer that stops laying in July and August.

A hen stops laying and then starts shedding her feathers. In other words when you see a hen molting you know she has already stopped laying or soon will. She has come to the end of her production, and it is natural for her to start molting. There are of course exceptions to this, but not very many.

The hen that you see walking about the yards in July and August, molting heavily or with a new coat of feathers, is probably the poorest layer in the flock, as you can see

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

and Their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Firestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tempering it before mixing, Firestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Firestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Firestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made these cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Firestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.

that in our culling work many years ago we had the thing just turned around, and culled out our good layers and sold them, saved the poor layers and bred from them. We are wondering how many more are making that mistake even at the present time.

The hen, with worn and ragged plumage, that has not started to molt, is hungry, active, working all day, and has pale and bleached shanks, a bright red comb and wattles, is too busy to become broody, early off the roost in the morning and upon examination shows a great distance (three or four fingers) between the lay bones and also between the ends of the lay bones and keel bone, is the greatest layer in the flock.

The hen with a new coat, or that has started to molt, is not laying—her comb and wattles are small, shriveled and pale, she is or has been broody most of the time, her shanks and toes are bright yellow, (among yellow skinned varieties only) is lazy, slow and sluggish, the last off the roost in the morning and upon examination reveals a small hard abdomen, with only one or two fingers space between the ends of the lay bones. These bones are coarse, thick and rigid, such are the habits, actions and characteristics of a poor layer. She shows these in July, August and September more than any other time. Cull these and sell them in July, saving in feed consumption and realizing more per pound for these hens than they would be worth later in September and October.

It pays to cull out all early molting hens, those molting in July, August and early part of September. They are not as good layers as those molting in October, November and December.

Many people still have worthless male birds on the yards. Box them up and send them to the market.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF TEXAS:

It is of the highest importance that the great commonwealth of Texas should at all times be fittingly represented in the United States Senate. This is particularly true during the next several years of reconstruction when national and international questions directly and vitally affecting the welfare of all the people will be shaped for the next half century.

In choosing a candidate for the Senate, the man, his platform declarations, campaign utterances and past record should be fully considered. Altogether they should square with Senatorial requirements. He, only, can be trusted to vote right on the many now unforeseen questions that will arise during a six-year Senatorial term, who has in the past demonstrated his dependability.

It is our conviction that Cullen F. Thomas measures up to these standards for the Texas Senatorship. For more than twenty years Mr. Thomas has been an unselfish leader in the State for progressive policies. Time and again he has successfully crossed swords with the enemies of good government. He was a pioneer in the fight for prohibition and equal suffrage. He has never faltered.

He has wide knowledge of public affairs, rare ability, deep-seated convictions, never-failing courage and vigor to continue his demonstrated capacity as gladiator in the Senate

Change your crankcase oil regularly

Oil, after a few weeks' driving, becomes fouled with road dust, carbon and other impurities. Also thinned out by gasoline.

Severe damage to your engine follows its use. Scored cylinders, worn pistons and burned-out bearings are common results.

Have your crankcase cleaned out regularly—every 500 to 800 miles. This is the limit of safety. Automotive engineers say so.

Do this today. Drive your car to the nearest SUNOCO Motor Oil dealer. He will drain out the old, dead oil and refill with the proper type of SUNOCO.

You will be rid of carbon troubles, get greater power and mileage on less gasoline and oil, cut down your repair bills and prolong the life of your car.

SUNOCO is an unparalleled opportunity to save money and increase the value of your car. Prove it by a trial at once.

LUB-TEX MOTOR CO.
F. N. PAYNE, Manager Lubbock, Texas

The Lubbock Kiwanis Club attendance at its usual weekly luncheon, Thursday of last week, was not quite up to normal owing to the fact that so many members were necessarily out of the city. The club is composed of business men whose activities, in many instances, are not confined to the corporation boundaries but reach out into neighboring towns and communities. Much interest is being shown, however, in the program of the first regular administration for the half year remaining of 1922.

A number of guests were present, who, each expressed a most favorable impression of our city and county. A little flattery is always to be expected from visitors when confronted with the question of how the like the country, but when big men of other parts of the State without exception and voluntarily insist that our community and its people are unexcelled, we feel that their statements are sincere and, being sincere, must be true.

The program was in the hands of W. C. Rylander, as chairman of the program for the day. Rylander himself is an awful big man being advertised as one of The Big Three. The program itself was sort of introductory for the new administration, Rylander responding to the subject, "Good Bye, Doc. Hello Clark." In this he bade farewell to Doctor R. B. Hutchinson, as temporary president, and expressed a word of welcome to Clark M. Mullican as the incoming president.

Doc. Hutchinson presented the gavel to the new president with every good wish for the success of the new administration. Much credit is due Doctor Hutchinson and those other charter members who made the Kiwanis Club of Lubbock possible. It is no small job to create an organization of this kind and the splendid material represented by the club is proof of the time and attention devoted by those who were instrumental in forming this club.

The new president, Clark M. Mullican, upon receipt of the gavel responded to the subject, "What am I going to do with it?" His statement that with the help of the members he was going to build up a Kiwanis club, brought a hearty response from the members. With the unanimous help of the members there is no question but that Kiwanis in Lubbock, like it is in every city of any consequence, will become a power in the upbuilding of this community.

Louie Moore, the new secretary, responded to the subject, "How I like the Secretary's job." Louie is absolutely at home doing the work of a secretary. His office of District Clerk of the court here makes of him an ideal secretary for the club. It was needless for Louie to say he will constantly be on the job for the takes the confidence of the members seriously and will be faithful to their trust.

The new treasurer, L. C. Ellis, as is usual with bankers, said he would take charge of all the money. His statement that he had so far not seen any money to take charge of was lost on the club, however, as his selection for the office naturally carried with it the conclusion that he and his bank would relieve the club of any financial worries.

It was agreed that the program for Thursday of this week would be given over into the hands of the new president who will present and discuss the new constitution and by-laws of the club, under which it will operate, and who will outline the work for the remainder of the year and answer the questions in the minds of all new Kiwanians as to their duties, why they are Kiwanians, the object and purpose of Kiwanis, etc. It is earnestly requested that every Kiwanian neglect everything else to be present at this luncheon. It will be a direct loss to any member to absent him-

FARMER SAYS WORK MAKES FARMING PAY

M. S. Goodpasture, of the Carlisle community, has been about the unhappiest man in Lubbock county the past week, as he has been serving on the petit jury. He is one of the farmers who has made good on the plains by staying with the work, and we are of the opinion that if a few of the calamity howlers, who are predicting an immediate turn-over of the country to the dogs, would take a lesson from him the farms everywhere would be well worked, and no time would be spent in howling about how someone is trying to skin them out of the money they make. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but farming on the plains is not a boy's job, and should not be taken as such, at least Mr. Goodpasture looks at it that way. Shoulders to the wheel. Let's go.

Former Lubbock Boy Now Holding Important Position in An Oxygen Manufacturing Plant in Detroit

The following news items appeared in the Fort Worth Record, Sunday, July 2, and will be of interest to the people of this community, in as much as Howard Guthrie was a former Lubbock boy. He resided here with his parents, William Guthrie, for a number of years, and attended school at Lubbock. He later went to Fort Worth when his parents moved there and the news story tells the rest:

"Howard Guthrie of Fort Worth has just been promoted to the position of operator for the mother plant of the Burdette Oxygen company at Detroit, a very responsible position, as he has complete charge of the plant and personally tests all the oxygen manufactured there.

"Mr. Guthrie, who is now only 19 years of age, entered the employ of the Burdette Oxygen company two years ago as a helper, having had no experience in this, but through diligent efforts, working early and late, under the careful direction of the plant manager, he fitted himself for a more responsible position with the organization, and when an operator was needed for the Detroit plant, Mr. Guthrie, regardless of his youth, was selected as the most competent and efficient man to fill the vacancy.

"The Fort Worth branch of the Burdette Oxygen company, of which Sam H. Hord is manager, holds the record over other cities for having supplied the largest number of competent men for higher positions in that organization.

"Mr. Guthrie is a native of Palo Pinto county, but for the past several years has made his home in Fort Worth and his many friends rejoice in this recognition which he has so justly earned."

The Record states that Howard was from Palo Pinto County, while we all know that he was a Lubbock county boy. He is now 21 years of age but even then he is making a remarkable record, and his many friends will be glad to hear of his success, and will watch with much interest his future.

EDUCATING FORDS CARS MAY BECOME POPULAR PASTIME

H. W. Sims of the Sanitary Meat Market, claims to have the only educated flivver in Lubbock, and the things they tell on that little flivver is a shame.

Just last week it stopped in front of the Swift Packing Company's warehouse on the trackage, and after the driver, Lewis Crow, had been gone long enough to have returned to take the flivver on its regular run of delivering meats it decided to waste no more time waiting, and started back to the market driverless. A stranger, who was not familiar with the habits of the educated Ford, seeing it making its way down Avenue I toward the main part of town, decided that it would be better to stop it and parked it near the Security State Bank building. As it had made about four blocks alone it had thoroughly demonstrated its ability to take care of itself.

Sims claims that it is cheaper to work proper-trained help than the hit or miss kind, and that his Ford has gotten the habit of helping rush things along and is proving a great help to the business.

Inasmuch as the above mentioned Ford has proven successful it is altogether probable that educating the alert jitneys may become a popular pastime.

A BUSINESS COUPE FOR BUSINESS MEN.

This car represents a new and important achievement in commercial transportation.

For the first time in motor car history, business men are enabled to buy a closed car, the body of which is built throughout of steel.

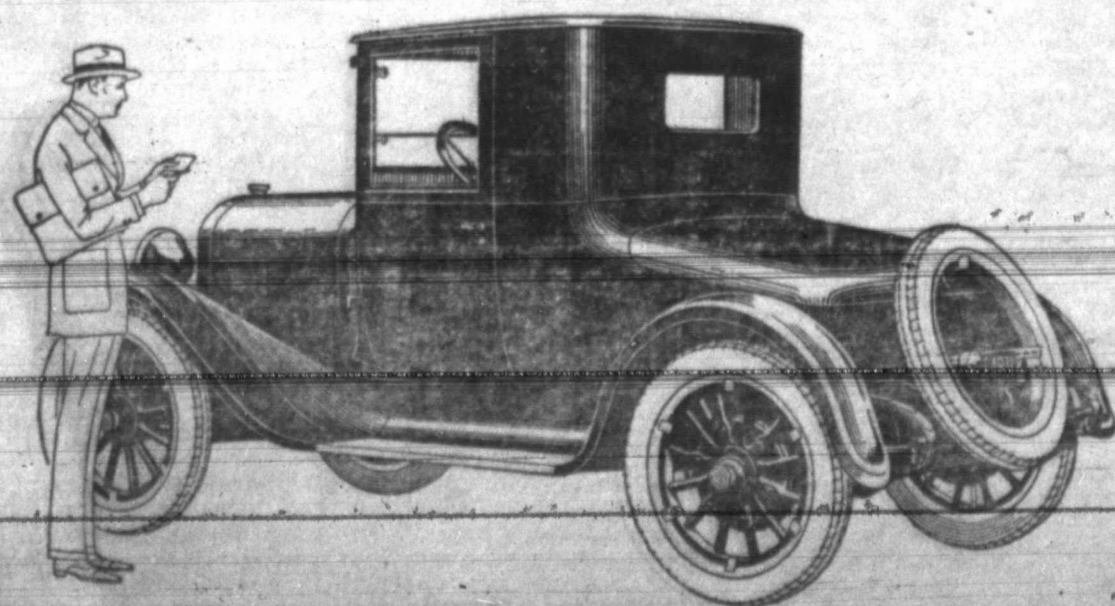

The advantages of this all-steel construction—reserved until now to open cars—are particularly marked in a coupe built to weather the wear and tear of hard commercial usage.

Immediately you will be impressed with the beauty and lightness of this coupe. Time will convince you of its unusual stamina. The doors snap neatly shut. Body squeaks are eliminated. Dodge Brothers enamel is baked on the surface of the steel—a permanent lustrous finish, impervious to wear.

The interior is roomy and thoughtfully equipped with every appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and all-weather protection.

Business houses that equip their salesmen with motor cars have been quick to recognize in this coupe a very unusual investment.

Club Girl Gives An Interesting Account of Experiences—Boosts Poultry Raising and Club Work

"And a little child shall lead them." Why not. There are few examples that so glaringly indicate the ability of one to make money more thoroughly than the following letter from a Lubbock County Club Girl, written at the request of Miss Myrtle Murray, Poultry Department, A. & M. College, which was made to some boy and girl in each community. The request for the letter was immediately put into the hands of Miss Potts, with the following letter as an example of her willingness to prove that there is something to Club Work worthy of the best efforts of anyone:

My Experiences and Profits as a Poultry Club Member
(By Goldie Potts—Age 13)
Lubbock, Texas

My parents being very interested in pure bred poultry I decided to join the Poultry Club, when I was 9 years old. I chose pure bred Rhode Island Reds as the breed to raise, believing them to be the best of all chickens.

The first year I only set three hens and raised thirty-six chickens. The second year I had 7 hens and one cock to start with, from these hens I raised 85 chickens. I showed my sewing and some of my birds at our County Fair and won $7.50 in premiums; also a free trip to the State Fair at Dallas, which was given by my community to the boy and girl doing the best club work. Besides all the pleasures of that year I made a profit of $177.50 and had 14 good hens left to start the next year's work.

Starting my third year I ordered a good cockerel for $10.00, and he was a dandy dark red fellow. With him and my 14 hens I made a profit of $255.00 that year. I showed my birds at the South Plains Fair, winning prizes over every one competing. Best of all though, I won the model poultry house offered by our lumber men to the Club member making the most profit with their poultry.

I started my fourth year with 13 hens and one cock in my pen and 75 hens on the yard. I again showed my birds at the Winter Shows held at Lubbock and got several prizes. One of my prizes was a $8.00 pair of oxfords. I feel that I was well paid for my efforts.

To date I have sold 25 hens and 40 dozen eggs. I now have 80 spring chickens. I have sold 45 baby chicks at twenty-five cents each.

I feel that this will be one of my best Club years as we have had no lady demonstrators for two years, but have one now. In all my years of Club work I have made $519.50. Besides all I have learned and the pleasure trip to the Dallas Fair. Every boy and girl should be a Club member.

My parents have always encouraged me in my club work and helped me in every way to obtain better poultry and eggs each year.

Since I have been a member of the Poultry Club I have fenced all my pens, built coops and houses, bought better breeding stock and fine setting eggs, getting better ones each year. I have bought all my clothes and have given mother and daddy money when they needed it. Last but not least I took music year before last and also last year with my money, and am planning to take lessons again this year as soon as school starts. I intend to continue to raise better poultry and hope to be able to pay my expenses in college with my profits from my poultry.

I think club work is great and has taught me lots I would not have learned if I had not been a club member. I think every boy and girl should be in some part of the club work striving to do his or her part and each year do a little better work than the year before and keep getting good stock until they have the best money can buy.

Uncle John Roy stuck his head in at our front door Saturday and said: "I've got a brand new house now, and the widows and old maids had better look out." Nuff said.

CUPID ON THE BUM CLERK'S RECORD SHOW

A peep at the Lubbock county marriage license record will prove that poor Cupid has been on the bum here for sometime, as instead of a marriage license being recorded every day, and sometimes two or three of them, as in the days of last fall, there is seldom an application made for the precious papers.

Whether the absence of much circulation on the part of old man E. Pluribus Unum is the cause or not, he is getting a great deal of the blame, and the clerk's office force are wondering when there will be a return of the good old times when a marriage ceremony at the court house won't be a thing of the past.

LITTLEFIELD PEOPLE RETURN FROM TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, was in Lubbock Friday and Saturday, having come here to meet Mrs. Duggan and son, Arthur Jr., who returned from an extended visit in California, where they visited all points of interest, making a trip through Utah, Nevada, Colorado, spending some time in all the principal cities of those states.

Mr. Duggan is manager of the Littlefield Lands, the estate of the late George W. Littlefield, and has been mighty busy the past few months making noticeable improvements in that community.

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN GOING AFTER BUSINESS

Elmo Wall, secretary of the Lubbock Mutual Aid Association, says things in the insurance business, especially the home-spun kind, is going along fine and dandy. At this time there are six eleven working on the Mutual Aid policies, and Mr. Wall says the reports they make are exceptionally good.

It all comes to those who go after it, and Mr. Wall is sparing no effort in making his business a going proposition.

J. S. Linder of Post City, is here under the care of specialists, and is getting back to normal health again, after several weeks physical breakdown, which has left him in a very nervous condition. He has been coming to Lubbock for some time, and we are always glad to welcome those to this city who are in need of good health, as the natural advantages, plus our efficient specialists, make getting well here a matter of only a short time.

Robert T. Dopson is in town from his fine farm twenty miles southeast of town holding down a place on the petit purry. Everything on his farm, he says, is going along fine and dandy, and a big harvest looked forward to.

Amarillo Man Here To Enter Electrical Supply Business

The demand for all lines of business in Lubbock is being met every day, and as the possibilities of future business are revealed by what is now easy accomplished, men of means analyze them with a view of getting in on the ground floor with their respective enterprises, as a result of which announcements of much importance are made almost daily, heralding to our people the news of the coming of another business into the Lubbock field.

This time it is an Electrical Company which has made arrangements to operate here, headed by C. O. Long of Amarillo, an experienced leader in that work, whose financial backing makes his coming to Lubbock something of real interest to her people.

While Mr. Long cannot be spoken of as one "who has grown gray in the business world," he has from all accounts a pretty good use of gray matter, inasmuch as he is using such extraordinary business judgment in selecting this field for his activities, and Lubbock is glad indeed to welcome him.

A permanent location in the type of business house he desires could not be had at this time, and Mr. Long will locate temporarily until the first of September, when he will move into a well located brick structure, of ample size for the proper display of his merchandise.

The new business will be conducted under the name of the Long Electrical Company, and together with a modern stock of electrical fixtures and supplies. Mr. Long will handle phonographs, machines, sporting goods, and other lines of merchandise for which there is a demand.

We heartily welcome the coming of such men to Lubbock, and are glad to know that she offers such splendid and exceptional opportunities to the businessman of sound judgment, and assure Mr. Long that his coming here is a move he will never regret having made.

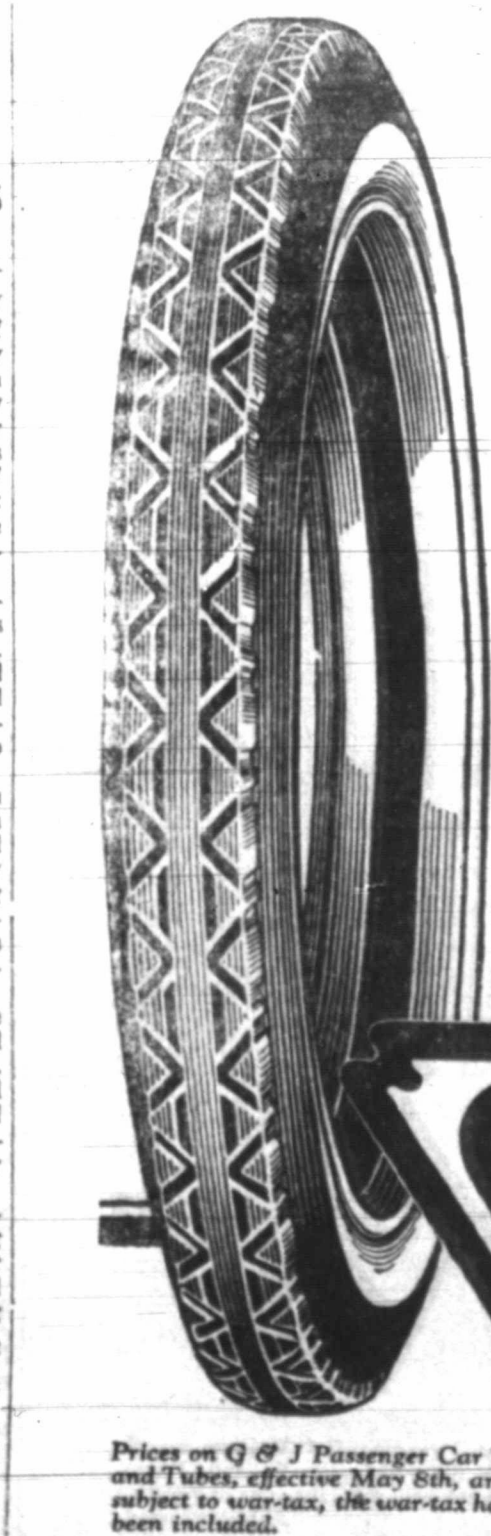

A carload of merchandise and store equipment arrived in Lubbock last Thursday, and Mr. Long will start things humming in his new location soon.

BYNUM AND PAINTER RE- TURN FROM FISHING TRIP

J. W. Painter and son Raymond, and S. K. Bynum, returned Sunday from a fishing trip along the Conchos, where they spent several days fishing.

The most of their time was spent at Water Valley, where Mr. Bynum once lived, and has many friends. While the river was up a bit when they arrived at that place, they patiently waiting it's going down, and splendid luck was enjoyed. They caught all the fish they could consume.

The last two and a half days of their stay along the river was spent at Carlsbad, where they attended a barbecue, where more than a ton of goat, veal and beef was used to

MR. GRIMES SAYS CROP BIGGEST EVER KNOWN HERE

W. C. Grimes, farmer, residing twelve miles east of Lubbock, was on the petit jury last week, and through conversation with him we learn that the farmers of Lubbock county are more optimistic about the future of their industry than they have been for some time.

With little rain throughout the summer, the plains farmers will harvest the biggest crop this fall they have ever known, and Mr. Grimes is of the opinion that they will certainly put things on a boom here.

Farmers, stockmen, merchants and everybody else have a perfect right to be glad to live here.

Paul Young, of Little Rock, Ark., was here last week on business.

DR. BLOOM SAYS LUBBOCK COUNTY BEATS THEM ALL

Dr. C. E. Bloom accompanied his family to Baird Thursday of last week, where they will spend some time visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wheeler. Dr. Bloom is back at his new office in the Burrus Building mighty glad to be in Lubbock, and said that all we have to do to be brought to a more thorough understanding of the greatness of the Lubbock country is to take a little spin through that country.

After all do we appreciate the things that are here for us?

M. F. Bailey Produced First Cotton Bloom For Lubbock County

Lubbock county as a cotton producing section is not so far behind as some might think, and our farmers are proving the fact every day. The Avalanche was visited by M. F. Bailey Saturday, who brought in a full developed cotton bloom, which was taken from a patch planted April 22. So far as we know this is the first bloom found in Lubbock county to date.
 Mr. Bailey's farm is two and a half miles northwest of Lubbock, and he has seventy-five acres of as fine cotton as ever grew, and he believes a big yield is assured. If the rain man favors him properly he will outstrip all records for cotton producing in Texas anywhere and at any time. He is a plains booster of the class that is always making things go, and is taking an active interest in the development of the cotton raising industry here.

ORDINANCE NO. 207

An Ordinance fixing the times within which taxes due the City of Lubbock for the years 1910 to 1920, inclusive, shall be paid to the City, prescribing penalties and interest if same are not paid by such fixed time; providing for returning of a delinquent list of such unpaid taxes, for publication thereof, notice and such procedure after delinquency as aforesaid as is provided by the General Laws of the State of Texas for collection of delinquent taxes, and declaring an emergency account of same being long unpaid and the need of the City for the Revenue. Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Lubbock, Texas:

Section 1. That all property subject to taxation within the City of Lubbock, Texas, for the years 1910 to 1920, inclusive, as shown by the supplemental roll approved June 8, 1922, shall have the taxes paid thereon by the owner, owners, or persons in charge before the 20th day of September, 1922, and all such taxes are due and payable as of this date. Whether such taxes be for one or more years.

Section 2. On all property and assessment on which any taxes due shall not have been paid before the said 20th day of September, 1922, there shall be added a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of such taxes, and interest from such date at six per centum per annum, payable when such taxes are paid, which shall be a lien on the property.

Section 3. Immediately after the 20th day of September, 1922 the City Secretary shall compile and return to the City Commission a true and complete list of all property delinquent for taxes within the City, showing interest and penalties accrued, with the name, or names, of the owners if he can ascertain the same.

Section 4. After the return of such delinquent list as provided in Section 3, the collection of such taxes, penalties and interest shall be governed by the laws of this State governing collection of delinquent taxes, which laws are hereby adopted.

Section 5. The fact that there is a large sum due the City which is imperatively needed to support it, creates an emergency and necessity that the rule requiring an ordinance to be read at two meetings before adoption be suspended, and this ordinance shall be effective on the date of its adoption, after publication for the time required by law and the charter.

Approved this 22nd day of June, 1922.

(Seal) Percy Spenser, Mayor, City of Lubbock, Texas.
 Attest—J. R. Germany, City Secretary of Lubbock, Texas.

Approved as to form: R. A. Sower, City Attorney. 35-TF

CITY OF LUBBOCK IS BEING IMPROVED DAILY

Lubbock is making rapid growth, and the fact that we have one of the best towns in all Texas, is attributed to the hustling ability of her people.

The city of Lubbock is also keeping up with the building her people are doing, as City Secretary Ruby announced last week that one carload of poles, and three thousand dollars worth of electrical equipment had been received, and will be used in making the gas and power service just the more effective.

The business of the city of Lubbock has been so well and accurately handled that we have been making rapid progress in all phases of municipal development, and the Avalanche is appreciative of the good work the officials are doing.

Confession of Murderer Exonerates Man Who Served Term in Pen, But Later Died More Than a Year Ago

Austin, July 5.—The appearance in Atlanta, Ga., yesterday of a letter supposed to be the confession for a crime of which A. L. George was convicted thirty-eight years ago, brings to a close a desperate but futile campaign by George to have the state of Texas right the wrong he claimed had been done him. Active work by George was closed with his death in a local hospital last year, where he had been taken following a physical breakdown. He had come to Austin seeking to appear before the Texas Legislature in his quest for having righted the wrong he said had been done him. He never appeared before the legislature, his physical breakdown interfering. From his story of the killing of which he was convicted and sent to the penitentiary the following is taken: Back in 1884 George, then a young man, was accused of the murder of Ed Konerick, at Hottentot, a small town in South Texas. He was convicted, sent to the penitentiary and served his term, all the time protesting his innocence. Last summer, years after his release, he came to Austin to appear before the legislature to press his claim for a reward due him by the state for having held him in the penitentiary when he was innocent. But feeble in body, broken in spirit and scarcely able to walk, he was taken ill and lay for days in a small local hotel. Through the kindness of local relief organizations he was taken to a hospital. He died shortly afterward and his body was sent to Tennessee for burial. And with it was sent a small handbag, which the aged man had claimed contained papers that would prove his innocence. His presence in Austin was hardly known at the time. When he was taken ill he sought no help, but bore quietly his sufferings, hoping and looking forward to the time when he could appear before the Legislature—at least a committee of that body. But death intervened and he died with his hope and dream unfulfilled.

Woman Finds Confession
Atlanta, Ga., July 5.—A faded, wrinkled letter bearing a purported confession of a killing in Texas thirty-eight years ago was turned over to the Atlanta officials yesterday by an Atlanta woman who asked that her name not be published. The missive was found, she said, in the drawer of a sewing machine that she had bought fourteen years ago in Columbus, Ga., and bore at the bottom the name "Henry Sharp." The letter dated Hillsville, Texas, June 10, 1890, read: "I, H. M. Sharp, conscious of approaching death and knowing that I must soon die make the following statement: "On the first night of October, 1881, at a small village called Hottentot, in Fayette County, Texas, near his little grocery store I shot and killed Ed Konerick. I was drinking somewhat when I got in this trouble over a box of sardines. A. L. George had nothing to do with the killing. Nor was he present at the time. Under oath I sign my name to this statement."
