YOUNG PEOPLE TO ARRANGE FOR WEEKLY ENTERTAINMENT FEATURE

COMMUNITY-WIDE ENTERTAINMENT AT METHODIST CHURCH THURSDAY NIGHT SUCCESSFUL

GREAT BANQUET IN CHURCH DINING ROOM

Idalou Delegation Took Prize for Rendering Most Interesting Part of Play, Which Was Highly Enjoyed. Between-Acts Features Were Properly Executed, Adding Much to Program.

Lubbock young people's amusement and recreational problems will be given due consideration, and, if possible, a practical solution will be offered.

That was the decision handed down by more than a hundred of the liveliest youngsters that ever assembled Thursday night, at the Methodist church, where Rev. Chas. Ferguson staged one of the peppiest entertainments this town has ever known, insofar as church activities are concerned.

The Thursday night's entertainment was the outgrowth of the contest carried on throughout daily meetings of the young people of all the churches throughout the revival conducted in July by Evangelist Fisher and party of Fort Worth, and the fact that young Ferguson is attempting to continue a program of conservation of the enlivening spirit that got into our young people thru that meeting, by a program of continuation of the work started, assures us that he will not stop at the success of that entertainment, but there made tentative plans to organize the young people of this community into a group which shall have as their objective the creation of entertaining features which can be carried on within the church that will be instrumental in advancing the cause of every institution of that nature in Lubbock.

While the "Rah, Rah, Boy," the four-act comedy drama, which was presented Thursday night, was certainly a good one and worth mentioning, we are not so eager to stress the importance of that entertainment as we are to stress the importance of the things which will spring from that meeting, though to give some of the young persons who were not there an idea of what was missed, we will give some idea as to how the program was carried out.

"The Rah, Rah, Boy," being a four-act comedy was all the funnier in that only the first act was presented before the actors reached the church. The remaining three acts were presented by groups from the audience who had little or no time for preparation, and as their acts were to be sequel to the first, and getting up something that would in anywise fit in the program required much hustling about, a prize was offered the winners, which would in some way compensate them for the mental agony and physical exertion required in carrying on such work.

The second act found the "Rah, Rah, Boy" had first appeared on his trip home from college, somewhat changed, as his school days had ended, and he had made of himself a small town sport of the ho-flapper type, whose interest in the ladies was easily discovered, but just at the time he had all required information from the local bureau of information, and had rounded up a fair delegation of the fair sex, the Ku Klux Klan interrupted his party with a fair warning that his activities were to be immediately checked by an over-supply of "tar and feather."

RANKIN DOW UNDERWENT APPENDICITIS OPERATION

Rankin Dow, son of the Avalanche Editor, underwent an operation for appendicitis in a local sanitarium Friday morning.

Rankin was one of the leading athletes in the past term of high school, leading the field as one of the four letter men. That work plus a strenuous lot of work pertaining to his studies and other school activities, kept him on the go thruout the school term, and it was possibly that at that time that the appendix became subject to disease, but no acute pain was experienced until recently. And the operation was performed before any serious complications set in. He was editor-in-chief of The Westerner, the school annual, and the first part of his vacation was consumed in completing the publication, delivery of which was made to the purchasers only recently, and we regret very much that the summer months found him with but little rest.

He is getting along nicely at this time, and will be able to enter college this fall in prime condition for the work he will do there throughout the coming term.

HULL MAKES $1,000 BOND ON OPEN PORT VIOLATION CHARGE

Ralph L. Hull, charged with violation of the Open Port Law, waived remaining trial Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace C. G. Ladis, and was released on bond in the amount of $1,000.

Four charges for violation of the open port law have been filed against Hull, and one charge of assault with intent to murder, according to the records.

Hull has been released and will await the action of the grand jury at the September term of District Court.

Houston Upton Given Life Sentence On Charge of Killing His Sweetheart Last February After a Quarrel

Fort Worth, Aug. 11.—Houston Upton, 18 years old, was given a life sentence by a jury at Clarendon this morning for killing his school-room sweetheart, Gladys Solomon, as she slept in her bed at the Solomon ranch home in Floyd county. The killing occurred February 27. The case was transferred to Clarendon on a chance of venue.

At the time of the tragedy, three girls were sleeping in the same bed. Young Upton, who is the son of a wealthy ranchman of Floyd county, had accompanied them home from church. After they were asleep someone crept into the room and shot and killed two of the girls. The third escaped as the intruder fled. A short time later, Upton was found in a school house badly wounded and for a time it was thought he would die also. He has not been arraigned on the second murder charge.

The plea of the youth was insanity. The jury was out fourteen hours.

Brief History of the Upton Case.

Houston Upton, Floyd county youth, who was convicted of murder in connection with the killing of Gladys Solomon, 15, on the morning of Monday, February 27, in District Court at Clarendon, Friday, also stands charged with the killing of Nell Umberson, 14, at the same time.

The two slain girls and Vera Wilson, who resided in the neighborhood where the killing occurred, were sleeping in the same bed at the home of Mrs. Mattie Umberson, a widow. Miss Wilson was unhurt when her two companions were shot to death about 4 o'clock in the morning of February 27.

Some two hours after the shooting, young Upton was found in a school house about a mile from the Umberson home suffering from a bullet wound in the region of his heart. It was thought at the time that Upton's wound would prove fatal, but he was removed to a hospital at Floydada where he completely recovered.

Some time after Upton was indicted for murder on two counts by the Floyd county grand jury at Floydada. One charge cited him as the slayer of Gladys Solomon and the other alleged that he killed Nell Umberson.

The case was transferred to Donley county for trial on charge of venue. The actual trial of the case began at Clarendon before Judge Henry S. Bishop of Amarillo Monday of this week.

The charge on which Upton was convicted was the killing of Gladys Solomon. Evidence brought out during the trial showed that the killing followed what is supposed to have been a quarrel between Upton and Miss Solomon over a ring which Upton is supposed to have given the young woman. It was shown at the trial that after the two had walked to the Umberson home together from a B. Y. U. meeting at the neighborhood school house the young woman was found crying, but she refused to disclose the cause to her two girl companions on the right of the tragedy.

Later in the night some one came into the room and held a whispered conversation with the Solomon girl, according to Miss Wilson's testimony at the trial. Some time later in the night the shooting occurred.

One of the defense pleas was that Upton was insane at the time of the shooting. Several experts testified on the phase of the case.

Young Upton is a son of J. H. Upton, a prominent Floyd county ranchman.

Church of Christ Revival at Community Auditorium Is One Of Great Influence and Power

Community Auditorium main floor well filled to hear Evangelist Arconeaux in another great sermon Sunday morning. Rom. 10:1-17 and 2-Cor. 4:16 were scriptures read: "For which cause we faint not; but the inward man is renewed day by day. For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; For the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."

It was a powerful lesson to the Christian on walking by faith, not by sight. The temporal things keep the Christian from usefulness in God's service and also the sinner man out of Christ. Man either keeps his soul on top or sinks to the level of the brute. This is done by bestowing all his attention to things of the body, with none to the spirit. "O, I'm all right," says the man of the world. If that's true why not all of us remain out of Christ? What need have we for the church? For a Saviour? In fifty years imagine, if you can, comedians, while we shudder now in spite of all our efforts. Reports of crime by papers bring a blush of shame to civilized men. Of the 18 who have conferred faith in Christ, all have been women and girls.—I'm going to hold you men up so you may have one good look at yourselves. The best way for you to better the world is to accept Christianity and live it before your boy. You know God, but you glorify Him not as God. How shall you escape if you neglect so great salvation? Did Jesus stain the sands of Judea in vain for you? Responsibility is not with God but you must do your part. The trouble is you do not realize what God has done. Follow me in surveying God's love.—"God so loved the world that He sent His only begotten Son,—O, what love! Have you seen the Son of God in all his trials and suffering? "The love of Christ constraineth me." In the garden how He moaned, weeping there, yet the awful cup was drunk for you and me. Have you seen Him bearing His cross, there to die for the sins of the world? His remarkable words on the cross should cause us to "Behold the Man!" In behalf of the soldiers who gambled for his raiment He prayed "Father forgive them, they know not what they do." We will never know the depth of His suffering for us because He suffered for our sins. Will you return that love in your feeble human way?

MANY PASSENGERS MAROON-ED ON ACCOUNT OF STRIKE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 12.—A plea that some attempt be made to send a Red Cross relief train to Seligman, Arizona, to rescue women and children marooned there as a result of the refusal of the big four brotherhood members to move Santa Fe trains were received tonight the Los Angeles Times from Charles P. Reiniger, of this city, one of those marooned.

Several women passengers are ill, according to Reiniger's telegram, many babies and small children are suffering from the extreme heat and from the lack of milk. "Only limited medical attention is obtainable," it is pointed out "sanitary conditions are bad and growing worse, while elderly men and women among the marooned are beginning to exhibit symptoms of approaching breakdown."

All passengers as a unit," concludes the message, "urge that a relief Red Cross train be operated to take suffering babies, small children and elder and feeble women to Los Angeles and that automobiles be furnished promptly to transport the remainder of the passengers."

PAVING CONTRACTS LET BY ABILENE

Abilene, Aug. 9.—The City Commission has closed contracts with the Abilene Construction Company and West Texas Construction Company for the paving of South First Street, Butternut Street, Hickory Street and Grape Street. Included in these contracts are 25 or 30 blocks of pavement. The material to be used is concrete.

ROTARIANS AND KIWANIS WILL STAGE FAIR PROGRAM NEXT WEEK

COMMITTEES ARE WORKING JOINTLY TO ARRANGE MOST EFFECTIVE PROGRAMS—INTEREST MEMBERS IN WORK

CLUBS ARE CITY'S STRONGEST SUPPORTERS

Lubbock, Today Is An Infant As Compared With Lubbock of Ten Years From Now, and the Panhandle & South Plains Fair Association Is to be Recognized As a Great Drawing Card.

The September event of the Panhandle & South Plains Fair Association must be a success if Lubbock keeps her promise with the people of the many counties represented in the association, and as usual Lubbock business men are going into the thing to make it even go beyond the expectations of its most enthusiastic patron, and that the businessmen may get a better insight into the work, the Kiwanis and Rotary Club programs next week will be turned exclusively to Fair talk, and if there is anything that will help a man get in line with the program of the Fair Association, a speech by its president, E. L. Klett, will.

The above mentioned Clubs are awake to the needs of Lubbock, and realize that talk has never completed a job, but that it has in many instances been the starting of a really big thing, and they are going to spend two hours talking one of the biggest propositions that has come to the attention of our people for some time.

Just how big a thing the Fair is for Lubbock, and the part we should play in making it a success is liable to be discounted if something isn't done to keep the bigness of it hammered into our minds. Let's not forget that Lubbock is an infant as compared with what she will be within another ten years, and that the fair will be one of the things that will bring the many people here who will join hands with us in making this one of the best towns in all West Texas, therefore realizing the important place it will take in that particular, is important.

The fair will be just what we make it. No more, no less. The Clubs mentioned are going after it in a business manner, making a business proposition of it, and real businessmen will discuss its problems at the luncheon Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The fact that united forces of those Clubs will do something is known to all familiar with their activities, and the things they have accomplished stand as bold emphasis of what a bunch of level-headed businessmen can do for a common cause, and if the members of those two clubs have ever placed their shoulders to a task which is designed to bring about something for the betterment of their interest, both as citizens as a whole and as individuals, the Fair work is that thing.

Farmers, merchants, bankers and professional men constitute the membership of those clubs, which are without parallel insofar as centering the power of the community on one objective is concerned.

Another thing the clubs are to promote is kinder feeling between the school trustees of the country, in order that they might work for a common good, and Superintendent of Schools, E. R. Haynes, is working on the program to be carried out by the two clubs, which will assist materially in bringing the trustees of every school in Lubbock county into Lubbock for a get-together meeting.

These are things which the Clubs are working on at this time, and it is well known that as soon as these jobs are completed something else of almost equal importance will be tackled, making the work of the members an endless chain, which revolves ever for the betterment of Lubbock.

We must not lose sight of the Fair proposition though in discussing the merits of the two clubs, for the fair is important beyond expression, and the people of Lubbock and Lubbock county keep it in their minds to do everything imaginable for its betterment.

The program committees of the respective clubs are working one with the other in helping to make the programs just as similar as it is at all possible, in order that the same atmosphere may be created at those two meetings.

From this co-operation on the part of the club members, good will be derived, and Lubbock will be placed a few steps to the front when the Fair has proven the success we are sure it will under the directions of such able leaders, assisted by the people of Lubbock and Lubbock County.

Possibilities of Business Growth In Lubbock Indicated By Rapidity With Which Local Institutions Grow

All there is to do to get business on the go in Lubbock is to get back of it with a few good business principles and a whole lot of that push and pep so well known in Lubbock businessmen.

That is not theory, it is a proven fact, and to better familiarize oneself with that fact one could go to the office of the Clover Leaf Creamery and see what those fellows are doing, then get out and ask some of the fellows who know them how they got started.

What information one could gather on the activities of the management of that thriving institution could be summarized as follows: "They have been on the job." For the past several months those fellows have been busy installing new machinery in their new brick building, 25x80 feet, which is located on East Broadway in the wholesale district, where business is certainly on the go from seven a. m. until long past six in the evening.

The newest things in that institution are two refrigerating rooms, where they solidify the ice cream, and keep their butter, cream and other perishable articles in cold storage.

The cream finishing room is kept on an average of about fifteen to twenty degrees below zero, the storage room for other articles being kept at an average of about twenty degrees above, which certainly keeps from that plant in fine shape until using time.

The cream storage room is of one thousand gallons capacity, enabling them to keep sufficient supply in readiness for immediate delivery to take care of the needs of their customers under the most rushing circumstances, which will make that creamery known for its reliability as well as for the superiority of the products they sell.

Cleanliness is one of the main features of the Clover Leaf Creamery.

Every employee is especially interested in keeping the entire factory in fine shape, that the products going therefrom may be just as perfect as care can make them, and a visit to that place will certainly enable one to enjoy their cream, for there is an appetizing neatness about the place that is good to come in contact with.

Business thus far this year, according to Mr. S. E. Holshouser, the manager, has been better than they have ever experienced, and he declares that they are growing beyond their greatest expectations.

Their next improvement will be the addition of a bottling plant which will be done in time for next summer's business. Mr. Holshouser said they would install the most modern and complete line of machinery available, and that that would be made one of the biggest bottling plants in West Texas.

The brick building will be enlarged, and the two plants placed in the same room, enabling the present workmen, who are experts at the work, to care for both plants.

The Avalanche feels that it is one of the growing institutions of the plains, and we are glad to see that there are also other plants in Lubbock that are taking their places from positions of practical obscurity to leading ones in the industrial affairs of this growing section.

All together for the institutions that are making Lubbock a bigger and better place in which to live.

Patronize the man who is doing something of which we might all be proud, and spend your money with the institutions that will put a few cents of the profits back into our city.

SHOTS FIRED AT STRIKEBREAKERS SUNDAY

Big Spring, Aug. 7.—John Schwartzbach and Eddie Polack were arrested by Deputy Marshal Swann and Texas Rangers following an attempt Sunday night to abduct two strikebreakers who were attending a theatre. The two were fired on four times by three men when leaving the show.

Ten shots were exchanged by guards at the T. & P. shops and unknown parties early Sunday morning.

The Rangers and deputy marshals forces are believed sufficient to cope with the emergency here.

Other arrests are expected as soon as officials are in possession of desired information.

Schwartzbach is a striker; Polack is a tailor's helper.

A man who is never on time often buys things that way.

The Signs of the Times

The fact that today the Ford Motor Company is making more cars than ever before is an indication that the fundamental conditions of our country are on the upgrade. It proves beyond a doubt that thrift is being practiced. Just so long as people in all stages of life find the Ford delivering dependable transportation in its usual economical manner, satisfied with millions of others, that the Ford is the best car money can buy where thrift is considered, just so long will prosperity reign.

Reflection will bring to your mind the period of inflation when everyone was spending wastefully, and it will also show many Ford owners turning to more extravagant cars. Today they have begun or are beginning over—and a lesson of great good has been learned.

LUBBOCK DROPS EXTRA TO STAMFORD THURSDAY

Stamford had the upper hand on Thursday's game on the local lot, and took the exhibition 9 to 6. Woodriddle was weak and was hit at will by the Orphans, who evidently were celebrating the fact that they are no longer Orphans, but now have a place they call home. Seven runs were gotten off Woodriddle in the fourth and fifth, after which he was relieved by Cantrell, who allowed two additional runs. The locals got to Mitchell in the sixth for three runs, after which he failed to duck, and Earnie's hot return to him knifed off his right arm, necessitating his leaving the mound at the end of that stanza. He was relieved by Appleton.

Brown starred for the locals in hitting, getting three out of four. The score:

HUBBERS TAKE SLUGFEST FROM SWEETWATER FRIDAY

Lubbock took one of the loosest contests of the season from the Sweetwater Swatters Friday, 12 to 5, seemingly being able to score at will and tacking up twenty-one hits against Gressett, every man on the lineup getting two hits or more with the exception of Swenson, which coupled with the seven errors on the part of the Swatters, gave the visitors an early lead.

Langford's two triples was directly responsible for four of the Hubbers' runs. Clapp, the new left-fielder, led the hitting, getting a double and three singles out of seven. The score:

SWEETWATER TAKES SECOND GAME; EVENING SERIES

Schrob, the new lefthander of the Hubber staff, allowed the Swatters eleven hits and eight runs before he was relieved by Edgar, Saturday, and lost his initial game with the club 11 to 7, evening up the two games series, and the Hubbers dropped to fourth place in the percentage column. He was driven to the bench after the Swatters had gotten four runs off him in the sixth, being relieved by Edgar, who allowed them three additional runs in the eighth. Lubbock took the lead in the early innings, getting two each in the first and third, and came back in the ninth by a rally for two, but could not tie the count.

Davis lead the hitting, getting a single, a double and a triple out of five trips. The score:

HUBBERS SPUD-IN GASSERS FOR FIRST BY SCORE OF 5-4

Ferguson was a little too much for the Gassers in Sunday's exhibition, and although his team mates stacking up a column of six errors behind him, they took the matinee 5 to 4. Ferguson allowed eight hits, which were well scattered except for the seventh when the visitors got three hits, netting them one run.

They counted two in the first on a hit, three errors and two sacrifices, and were allowed only two more hits until the seventh, getting three in the seventh for a run, and two in the eighth for their fourth and last count.

The locals came back in the seventh for two runs on two hits, two errors and a walk. In the third on two hits, two walks and a hit by pitcher, they counted two more, and again in the sixth Allen doubled, took third on a wild throw to second by Hill, and scored on Clapp's sacrifice.

Davis and Allen took hitting honors for the locals, each getting two out of four. Comstock for the visitors hit two singles and a triple out of five. Spectacular catches by Brown and Langford featured. The score:

NEW HOUSE ORGAN IS A REAL LIVE NUMBER

The Radford Grocery News, published by the J. M. Radford Grocery Company at Abilene, and distributed in Abilene, Brownwood, Sweetwater, Cisco, Marfa, Big Spring, Alpine, Brady, Amarillo, Stamford, Lubbock, Plainview, and Farwell, Texas, is a live number, Volume 1, Number 1, having come to us recently.

J. M. Radford is one of West Texas' greatest builders, and in an article entitled, "A Builder of West Texas," appearing in the initial number of the publication, written by O. A. Hale, President of Abilene Chamber of Commerce, accredits Mr. Radford of being a great factor in the development of this section, and we are glad to quote the first paragraph of that article, referring to him as "A builder of West Texas."

"That remark has probably been made a thousand times by a thousand different people in reference to J. M. Radford, of Abilene. And perhaps those few words, better than any others, sum up the dominating character and life of one of West Texas' best known business men."

Mr. Radford has had a great interest in Lubbock since his branch house was established here, and he has been equally interested in the other towns where his houses are located, and that fact stands out in bold emphasis of his willingness to work for West Texas as a whole. He is getting beyond the confines of one town, and making his development work sectional. He is boosting West Texas, and

Look to Your Battery Before You Start

The best reason we can give you for having your battery looked to before you start to tour is that it's just plain common sense. A good deal the same as taking along a spare tire, or an extra set of spark plugs, or a couple of headlight bulbs.

If it's right we'll say so. If it isn't we'll do what's necessary to bring it up to the mark.

Whether it's a Willard or not it will be given the benefit of Willard Standards of Battery Service.

something with which to tide them over unfortunate seasons, or to take care of themselves and families when the years begin to bear heavily upon them, is not a difficult task in that part of Texas known as the Plains. Drive out in any direction from any of the prosperous cities and villages in the Plains and you will see innumerable signs of prosperity, many of the farm homes being of such a character as to grace a city street in a select neighborhood.

Found the Man I Sought.

Writing in the first person, as Irvin Cobb is in the habit of doing, I will say, by way of explanation, that I started out of Lubbock one day recently with the purpose of interviewing some farmers who were digging their own living out of the soil and paying his way as he went along. I passed many fine farm homes where appearances indicated that the owner had prospered to such an extent that it was no longer necessary to go into the fields except to direct the work of his hired men. Finally I came to a little cottage set in among a wealth of trees, and looking out in the field saw a farmer and his young son getting ready to cultivate a cotton field. I drove in and introduced myself to Mr. O. H. Akin, a real dirt farmer who moved to the Plains about six years ago from the vicinity of Sherman, Grayson county. He proved to be the man I was looking for.

Mr. Akin came to this country six years ago and contracted for a quarter section of land, making a small payment. With the exception of a small house and barn and a few trees, there were but few improvements. The farm is now nearly paid for. More trees have been set out for windbreaks and shade, and a fine orchard is just coming into bearing. The orchard contains apples, pears, grapes, cherries and apricots. During this period of six years two years were considered out of the ordinary because of the absence of the usual amount of rain, but although these years were less profitable than the other four, the farm has paid some handsome dividends.

Home Needs Come First

Mr. Akin is one of those kind of farmers who looks after number one first. His first concern is to produce something to eat for himself, family and livestock, after which he produces something to sell. He seldom drives to town that he does not haul in a bigger load than he hauls back. Some weeks he makes two trips into Lubbock, selling a minimum of $15 worth of produce each trip, consisting of poultry and dairy products, fresh pork, in fall and winter, and fruits in season. Oftentimes, Mr. Akin says, he sells $50 worth of farm products per trip, his average for the year exceeding $900. This is exclusive of the sale of his cotton and other major crops.

Mr. Akin's young son joined the pig club three years ago. He secured a purebred Duroc brood sow and contracted to pay $50 for her. For two years he has won first premium with this sow at the Plains County Fair, his premium money amounting to $100. From this one sow the father and son made their start with purebred hogs.

Purebreds Better in Every Way

They are keeping the small herd pure in blood, but make no effort to sell for breeding purposes. He says he is not a breeder, but finds that purebreds make the best and cheapest meat. Last fall he killed ten hogs at various times and when the price of hogs was around 9 cents, he secured an average of 20 cents per pound for all he had to sell, by taking the dressed meat into Lubbock, where he had no trouble in disposing of it for cash.

Besides hogs, Mr. Akin has seven good Jersey cows which bring him a profit in cream, milk and butter. Thus far he has averaged 50 cents a pound for butter and has never had any trouble selling all he could make. Believing that he could raise his own horses and mules cheaper than he could buy them, he managed to secure two good brood mares when he first moved to the Plains, and now he has several head of good horses and is able to dispose of a pair at a good price nearly every year.

The garden on this farm is a model of neatness. It contains all the vegetables common to the average table. In season he will have watermelons and cantaloupes. Last year he sold $300 worth of melons from an acre patch, and had some left for the hogs.

Doesn't Overlook Anything

While nothing that will yield something for family use or for the local market seems to escape the attention of Mr. Akin, he does not neglect his other crops. This year he has approximately seventy acres in cotton and forty acres in corn, maize and kafir. Some years he grows wheat, but did not attempt it this season. He has a small acreage in peanuts and other small tracts in various crops that will produce well in this country. Having made his living and paid other expenses from his dairy, poultry, vegetables and fruits, the money received for his cotton is used to pay off his land notes. When these are fully paid the money from his major crops will be his for deposit in the savings account, for investment or further improvements on the farm.

Far-Seeing and Conservative

"Every farmer in this country," said Mr. Akin, "can make a good living if he will produce something to eat and something to sell besides cotton. While it begins to look as though West Texas will grow in importance as a cotton-producing country, I do not believe that we should let good prices induce us to abandon a sensible and safe farming plan. All cotton may pay well some years, but all cotton will never pay off the mortgage. We are finding something new to plant nearly every year. Our experiment station is developing and improving what we already have. I am going to continue the diversification plan with which I have made whatever success that I can be credited with. I will not be afraid to try new crops, but will not abandon my cows, chickens, turkeys, garden and orchard. I have no fear but what I can always make a living, even though I may not grow rich. During the dry years my family wanted to move back to East Texas, but I knew that we would have good years, and from the looks of things in this country now, I was justified in my judgment. I have no desire to move from the Plains into any other part of the country."—Farm and Ranch.

Lubbock Real Estate In Great Demand at Present

Many prospectors are coming to the plains at this time, and Lubbock realtors are enjoying their portion of the business their coming brings.

City property in Lubbock is in a position to change hands rapidly at this time, and anyone owning property here who doesn't think they made a good investment in its purchase is not guessing right, as there is a steady demand for residence property in Lubbock, and all there is to do is to put up a "For Sale" sign on the premises, and see how many inquiries will be received daily from such signs.

It is time for Lubbock to take on real growth, and we are of the opinion that something should be done to assist the new-comer to obtain the kind of property he desires.

It is positively necessary that the people of Lubbock do something to assist the new-comer find desirable homes in which to live. The man who will come to Lubbock and live in just any and all kinds of a shack is not the kind of citizen that we desire to people this city and much should be done to ward off just that kind of a fellow, or to make things more comfortable for the man who really cares about the kind of home in which he lives.

Build a house and let a man of a family who is willing to pay a little more for the convenience of a desirable home occupy that place. Built and boost Lubbock in every way possible, and remember that the fellow who really wins is the man who builds the kind of a home that is best suited to the kind of citizenship we wish to populate Lubbock. Let's go.

CLAUENE NEWS ITEMS OF THE PAST WEEK

Farmers are feeling quite hopeful since such good prospects of rain. There have been several showers the past few days, and it looks as though we would have plenty of rain before it quits.

Little Miss Juanita Teague spent Monday with her friend, Willie Mae Hice.

Mrs. Elliott and children, spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Nickell.

Mr. E. A. White, the Moody merchant, left Wednesday for Imperial, Texas. Mr. White will spend the fall at that place, buying cotton.

The families of Messrs. Thorp, Williams, Bill Murray and Gentry Murray, spent Sunday evening in the Nickell home. They enjoyed some good music and singing.

Amos Boyd, of Throckmorton county, is here visiting his father, and attending the bedside of his brother, E. B. Boyd, who is down with fever.

We were glad to report E. B. Boyd as some better. His fever still continues, but it is more easily controlled than it formerly was.

Mr. Robert Harliker and family, of Slaton, spent the latter part of the week here visiting.

Mrs. J. L. Thorp and children, have gone to Slaton, to spend a few days visiting with friends and relatives.

Becher and Don Swofford, spent Sunday with Kenneth Chism and John Hart, at the Bill Chism home. They spent the day feasting, yearling riding, etc.

We were sorry that Mr. Elliott, our Sunday School superintendent, was providentially hindered from attending Sunday school Sunday. Mrs. Bertha Palmer, the former superintendent, kindly consented to act as superintendent during his absence.

Mr. Nickell's cousin, Mrs. Morris and family, are spending a few days in the Moody vicinity. Mr. Morris is an invalid and they are traveling for his health.

A number of people met at Prof. Teague's home Saturday night and enjoyed a few hours playing games, cracking jokes, etc. All present seemed to enjoy themselves very much.

Mr. Will Moore's father and mother, of Lamesa, Texas, have been visiting him for several days. They left Monday for home.

Uncle George Thorp had the misfortune of losing one of his big, fine span of work horses Friday night. The horse, in some way, got a dose of strychnine that had been put out for rats. It took convulsions and died in a few minutes.

Messrs. White, Teague, Elliott and King were holding a school election Saturday. The people were voting as to whether or not to raise the school tax. The higher tax carried. I think the high school tax a good thing, if wisely spent, but if not, it is unnecessary.

John Swofford and Prof. Teague made a trip to Lubbock Wednesday. While there they attended the Mademoiselle Thorp trial.

Annie Lou Thorp spent Monday night with Miss Beryl Cheney, at the Claude Haven's home.

Miss Wilsie Teague spent Tuesday night with Miss Annie Lou Thorp.

Messrs. Ullis King, Harry Palmer and Clay Walker were sight-seeing and attending court in Lubbock last Thursday.

Mrs. Teague and children, visited in the J. L. Thorp home Tuesday. The families of E. J. Jones and Wesley Williams, accompanied by Misses Wilsie Teague and Annie Lou Thorp, went on a pleasure trip to Meadow, Wednesday of last week.

FRENCH TO ENFORCE PAYMENT OF DEBTS OWED

Paris, Aug. 5.—The French Government today ordered into effect the penalties against Germany for failure to pay in full the installments of the pre-war debts to French citizens.

The penalties concern German properties sequestered in France. Certain payments that were being made to Germany on account of war losses are suspended in Alsace and Lorraine as are also the indemnities under the arbitration agreements reached between France and Germany in August and September, 1921.

No military action is involved. The first of the French measures consists of the immediate suspension of all payments to German nationals for debts contracted with Frenchmen before the war, both in France and in Alsace Lorraine. The officers in Paris and Strasbourg which were set up to liquidate these debts were notified to cease functioning at once and to pay no more German claims until further orders from the Premier.

The initial measures also include the suspension of all further payments to Germans for German property sequestered in France. This property includes estates, villas, art collections, etc.

The agreement reached at Baden-Baden under which Germans were being compensated for the house furnishings, stocks, bonds and cash left in Alsace and Lorraine is also suspended.

It was explained at the Foreign Office that these first measures taken are not penalties in the strictest sense of the word, but merely action to safe-guard the French interests which have been jeopardized by the Germans refusing to pay.

If Belgium and Great Britain as has been indicated, desire to forego payments from Germany on the private debts due their nationals this will have no effect on the French position, it was said.

The German note asked the French Government to reserve its decision until the subject was discussed at the coming London meeting of the allied heads of governments, in view of the fact that both Belgium and Great Britain were willing to consider the debt question in connection with the moratorium issue. The French Premier takes the view that payments on pre-war debts is a matter for German business men who are obviously prosperous and that it cannot be coupled with German governmental finances.

JUDGE RANDOLPH IS CAMPING AND FISHING AT THE CLUB

Judge H. C. Randolph of Plainview, who was recently appointed a member of the Commission on Appeals at Austin, arrived in Hereford this week and is enjoying the camping and fishing at Sulphur Park Country Club, of which he is a member.—Hereford Brand.

Miss Myrtle Dunn, head of the department of vocal instruction at the Abilene Christian College, who has been attending summer school in Chicago, passed through Lubbock last week enroute to her home at Lorenzo, and stopped over for a short visit at the home of Miss Mina Ellis, secretary of the local chapter, American Red Cross. While in Chicago Miss Dunn studied under such eminent instructors as Professor Witherspoon, and is better equipped to take for her work at the college throughout the coming term.

Well Supplied

No store in Lubbock is better—few as well stocked and organized to care for your every drug need—however small it may be.

In buying drugs for our prescription department strong tests for purity are applied.

This then places at the disposal of our competent pharmacists drugs which they know to be absolutely pure, so the prescriptions they carefully fill can be relied upon to perform their proper functions.

We would discharge a clerk who would change even the 32nd of a grain without first telephoning the physician whose name appears on the prescription.

Last Thursday afternoon Clifton Clark, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clark had the misfortune to lose his left arm. He had been to the pasture for the cows and stopped by Jess McKay's well drilling rig to watch them drill and got too close to the machinery and had his left arm crushed which necessitated amputation just below the shoulder.

The meetings at the Tabernacle conducted by Joe S. Warlick, doing the preaching, and Ira Y. Rice leading in song, will continue indefinitely. It is expected, beginning Tuesday afternoon two services daily will be held. The services Lord's day, with dinner on the ground, is the program now.

On August 4th the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Moreman's and claimed for his, Mrs. Moreman's mother, Mrs. Ella Green, who came home with Mrs. Moreman on her return from a trip to Alvord, Texas, for a visit and also for her health. She was 71 years old the 22nd of July, and had been in bad health over a year. She was confined to her bed only one week.

Monday, the Farmers' Marketing and Warehouse Association shipped a car of No. 1 wheat (which is the best) to market. Pretty good for Garza county. Better come to Garza county where we grow the best.

Messrs. J. R. and S. C. Woodward of the Woodward Oil Company, are both in Post again and state that they expect operations at the well near Justiceburg will soon be under way again. Mr. S. C. Woodward arrived here last Monday, coming direct from Los Angeles, California, and is representing the El Paso-Pacific Oil Syndicate, with whom Woodward Oil Company recently closed a deal for the completion of the well, casing and other material needed, before actual drilling can be resumed, will be secured at once and a full crew of workmen will be employed to complete the well. It is not yet known whether the same men who have been working on the well will be re-employed.

HILL COUNTY MAN HERE TO VISIT OLD TEACHER-FRIEND

Asa Richards of Hill County, was here last week to visit with his old school teacher, P. F. Brown, the efficient county judge of Lubbock county.

Mr. Brown is not an old man by any means, and we do not want anyone to infer that the statement that Mr. Richards went to school to him some thirty-five years ago in anywise indicates his being ancient, for about that many years have intervened since Mr. Richards started taking instructions under Mr. Brown.

Needless to say they enjoyed the opportunity to talk over their yesterdays, and Mr. Richards is deeply interested in his old professor, and is grateful to him for the helpful instructions received at his hands during his school days.

The schoolman and his pupil are apparently the same age, but Mr. Brown claims a few years lead.

How to Select the Laying Hen

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Poultry Husbandman, A. & M. College)

Now is the ideal time to select the good from the poor layer. Remember that it is no secret. It is a task that anybody can learn to do. Study the following brief description of a good layer and a poor layer and go out to the yard and put it into practice. You will be surprised at the great results.

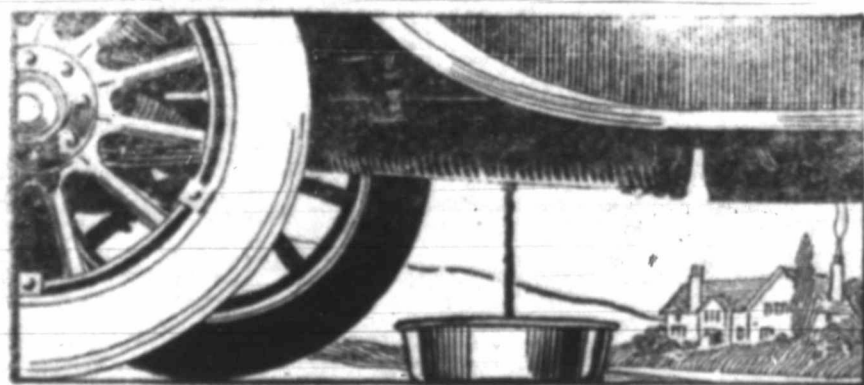

Fit One to Your Taste

Don't run your engine on "dead" oil

You should have the old, worn-out, lifeless oil cleaned from your crankcase every 500 to 800 miles without fail.

The maker of your car warns you to do this. He knows the damage that oil-fouled by dirt and impoverished by gasoline—will cause your engine. Also the loss you must suffer through poor car service.

Why not attend to this at once? Look for a dealer who displays the SUNOCO Motor Oil sign. It's the mark of a lubrication specialist.

He will not only drain and clean your crankcase thoroughly but will refill it with the type of SUNOCO scientifically refined for your particular engine.

SUNOCO is a motor oil—but it's different from and vastly superior to ordinary "oil." Try it and you'll be amazed at the difference in your engine power, gasoline mileage and repair costs.

characteristics.

We have gone in many flocks and culled out 50 to 60 per cent of the entire flock and the balance laid as many eggs as the entire flock. Some of our kind friends have taken the trouble to confine those we culled out as poor layers and fed them everything they could think of to make them lay, but without results. We are merely telling this to show the merits of the system. It is not 100 per cent perfect but it will do wonders when worked on the average flock of Texas farm hens. It might also be well to state here that it will work equally as well in mongrel or standard-bred flocks, with the exception that among mongrels it may cull out a discouragingly large number. It takes courage and back bone to cull chickens successfully. Don't be a piker, but get out there in the yard and isolate the poor layers and route them to the market. We have been instrumental to cull out many a Texas hen that old and grey from age was considered more or less of a fixture on the farm. They went to the butcher because they had passed their time of usefulness. The first step in culling is to get rid of some of the old timers. Those that you received as a wedding present about twenty years ago. In this connection it is well to know that after a hen has passed the two year mark, she ceases to be profitable from the market-egg production standpoint.

We believe that a hen that lays 150 to 200 eggs must look and act entirely different than the hen that lays only 60 to 100 eggs; and there are more in the latter class than the former.

The good layer molts late, say in September, October and November. The poor layer molts early, some of them are already molting. The later and quicker they molt, the better layers they are. There are of course a few exceptions to the rule, but they are so few and far between that it is not worth considering them. Keep the worn and ragged hen that doesn't seem to be able to find time to stop laying long enough to shed her plumage.

Among yellow shanked varieties like all Leghorns, Rocks, Reds, Wyandottes, Anconas and others, we have observed that the individuals with the most faded, palest and the most bleached shanks are the layers while those with the brightest yellow shanks, beak and skin are the poorest layers. When you see a hen with pale shanks, bleached beak, and in the case of Leghorns, white carlobes, they are good layers. The reason for that is, that the hen in laying eggs needs coloring matter with which to color the yoke of the egg and she takes this out of her shanks, feet, toe nails, skin, carlobes, beak and eye ring.

The more eggs she has laid, and the more recently she has been laying, the more bleached these parts appear; while the opposite is true in the case of the poor layer. She did not lay many eggs, did not require so much yellow pigment and hence left it in the parts mentioned and the story tells the extent of her performance during the year. The color of their shanks gives them away. Bright, yellow shanks means laid few eggs and quit sometime ago. Pale shanks indicate heavy egg production and probably still at it.

The above characteristics, like most indications are only applicable in the case of hens in the fall of the year and not among pullets or at any other time of the year. It is necessary to bear this in mind. A constitutionally strong bird, and one that is seldom sick, and passes through the molt quickly and easily is a much better layer than a hen that molts slowly and develops weakness during the molting time.

A hen that does not go broody often and soon starts to laying again, is a much better layer than one that goes broody often and is broody for a long time and hard to get to laying again. The good layer does not waste much time on the nest playing. She recognizes that the modern hen only lays eggs and lets the incubator do the hatching.

A hen with a nervous disposition, and a hearty eater is a good layer. The good layer at feeding time appears more friendly and eats great quantities of food. She will be seen working all day, eating, drinking and laying; she will be the first off the roosts in the morning and the last on them at night. She is a working hen and looks like a working hen. She does not loaf on the job half of the time. She goes to roost with a full crop because she knows that the egg is made at night and she must be prepared for it.

The comb and wattles of a good layer are of good size; soft in texture, fine, warm, and bright red in color. Not so in the case of the poor layer, her head-gear on the other hand has shrivelled up, turned pale in color and in many cases covered with white scales.

Prices on G & J Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, effective May 8th, are not subject to war-tax, the war-tax having been included.

WHY is it that so many thousands of motorists stick to G & J Tires year in and year out?

To the man who is looking for tire economy the reason is worth finding out.

We'd rather let the tires do their own explaining, so we'll simply say—

Get started with one as soon as possible. Cord or fabric. You'll O. K. the quality as soon as you see it in action.

HODGE BROS.

We Recommend G & J Tires and Tubes

ered with white scales.

The eye of the good layer appears large, prominent, also bright, clear and active; it almost appears to snap at you. She looks intelligent. The poor layer has eyes that are shrunken, dull, listless, small in size, and sometimes especially in the case of old hens are half closed by large drooping eyelids. The good layer invariably has a sparkling, bright, clear, large and protruding eye. Keep her. Sell the kind with the shrunken eyes.

The face of good layers appears bright red in color, in the case of poor layers it appears pale and sickly. In the case of poor layers the face is more filled out and presents more of a masculine look.

The good layer has a good capacity between the lay bones. The pelvic bones from two to three fingers apart. These bones are thin, flexible and pliable. The distance between the lay bones and the end of the keel bone is even greater than between the ends of the lay bones. This is what we call capacity. In the poor layer these bones are much closed together at this time of the year, sometimes so closely together that it is impossible to get a finger between them. The abdomen of a good layer appears large and always is soft and pliable. Sell the hen with a hard and small abdomen.

The hen that lays persistently in the fall of the year is generally a good all the year round layer. The hen that lays well in October is an exceptionally good layer. Her kind deserves a place in the breeding pen.

To get winter layers hatch from hens that lay in the winter time. Remember that it is only possible to breed eggs into a hen and only possible to feed them out. Many culls you can feed hard boiled eggs. No amount of feeding them will make such hens lay. Among pullets the early maturing pullets are the best ones to keep. The cockerel that crows very early in life is a good one to select, if you are interested in breeding for increased production.

Remember that the hen that lays less than 100 eggs is not very profitable. A hen that lays 140 eggs produces a profit of about 40 eggs of its equivalent in money. It pays to cull, and cull all the time. A few hours spent in culling is a good investment.

ANTAGONISM BETWEEN TOWNS

In the great West Texas where the towns are not so close together as in other sections of the State, there seems to be too much jealousy for the better interests of this part of the State. Because of certain conditions that exist, some towns are just naturally going to be bigger towns than others, and are recognized as being wholesale centers and having the advantages of better marketing conditions, and for this reason there should be no really ill feeling toward the South Plains towns. Each should possess a spirit of thrift and have plenty of progressive citizens to keep them going and fulfilling their part of the program of development in this territory. We learned a few days ago that there is just a little too much inclination of some town on the South Plains to knock on the others, which should not be. We believe we are correct in the statement that Lubbock is destined to be the big town of this section. In fact it has passed the point where destined to be is hardly the proper way to express it, in as much as she has already gone ahead, and is the largest city on the South Plains from the standpoint of population. She is also favored at this time above others by railroad connection, which naturally makes it the distributing point of this territory, and a trading point for a very large section of the country; but this does not in any way suggest that Lubbock should not cater to the good will of every town within a radius of a hundred miles each way. Just because we are the big boy of the bunch is no sign that we should try to run things over the balance, and get it into our system that we do not need to give all the towns within our trade territory the closest consideration and co-operate with them in developing their respective territory, as we are bound to reap the benefits to a certain extent in every case. Lubbock, we fear, is neglecting this important matter, and the sooner the people of our city realize this and get to work to correct it, the better it will be for Lubbock and every town on the South Plains, every farmer and stockman within the trade range of this city, every truck farmer and dairyman around Lubbock. Lubbock business people should extend every courtesy and assistance to the business men and other citizens of the South Plains towns, that it is possible for them to do, that they may have a kindly feeling toward our city. It is worth much to have the good will of people, and Lubbock needs this if she is to be the city that we have hopes of her making.

Good roads will do much toward turning the trade Lubbockward, and without this we will lose much. Last issue we gave you an idea of how some of the people were feeling about the Lubbock county roads, and it is only necessary that we make a little round into the nearby and adjoining counties to get an expression about the condition of our roads, that show up clearly that Lubbock is not getting her share of the business that would come here if our roads were in better condition. Lubbock business men should certainly see to it that the condition of the roads are improved, and if the county cannot correct it, then other steps should be taken to put our roads on a par at least, with those of other sections of the South Plains. We heard one man remark a few days ago, that he could tell on the darkest night that ever was known when his car struck the Lubbock county roads. Now this is a condition that our people should be utterly ashamed of, and make an effort to correct at once.

The Avalanche is compiling a list of those who most frequently complain at errors in the paper, and at some future date we are planning to give them an opportunity to get out an issue of the Avalanche, which no doubt will be a most interesting number in as much as it will be perfect in every way. In this respect it will be the only one in existence and we look forward to the time with keen anticipation.

PLEDGE AID OF FARMERS TO STRIKERS

Washington, Aug. 2.—An appeal to all organizations affiliated with the farmers' national council to exert their influence to compel coal operators and railway executives to grant the demands of both miners and railway employees was issued here today by Benjamin C. Marsh, managing director of the council. The interests of the farmers demand that the men in both industries be paid a living wage, he declares. The appeal reads, in part, as follows: "A nation-wide campaign is being made, financed, of course, by the big financial interests, to justify the position of the mine operators and the railway executives, and so to turn farmers against mine and rail strikers.

"The members of your organization know that labor well paid for honest work is the farmers' best market. Few miners and few railway employees when the strikes were called. These strikes were inevitable to prevent miners and railway employees from being sacrificed to the greed of the same financial interests which have robbed the farmers of $20,000,000 during the past three years by hammering the prices farmers received for their products way down below the cost of production and to crush labor unions. "If the miners and railway employees lose their strike their power to purchase farm products will be seriously curtailed, and farmers will suffer."

FORT WORTH MAN IS SHOT TO DEATH

Fort Worth, Aug. 5.—Raymond J. Blystone, 29 years of age, was shot to death this afternoon as he sat in an automobile on Houston Street in the heart of the business district. Y. H. Shankle, 33, and married was detained. Blystone formerly was a lieutenant in the reserve signal corps and was stationed at Brooks Field, San Antonio.

THE NEGLECT OF CHURCH SERVICES

The general neglect of church services throughout the country is no doubt largely responsible for the conditions that exist in this nation at this time. The attendance upon church services is appallingly light, and the people turn their attention in another direction. The entire enrollment of the Sunday Schools is much less than the number enrolled in the literary schools, while it should be more. How can we expect this great nation of ours to make the progress it should when we allow ourselves to drift so far away from God. We are taught that He is a jealous God, "visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate Me." He will not withhold his anger forever, and when we, his children are disobedient we may expect to be punished in some way. We are disobedient when we violate His laws and commandments, and when we show our utter indifference toward His services. The great thinkers of this day and time, even among those who are not noted for their christianity are frank to admit that if America would stay off the rocks that will dash her to pieces as a nation, that we must return to God, repent of our wrong doings and serve the true and living God rather than the gods of our land, the gods of cattle, the gods of gold, and the many other gods that we are prone to follow after. There is certainly room for much serious thought along this line, whether it come from the press or the pulpit.

Lubbock is noted far and wide for her progressiveness in the matter of public buildings, her splendid business houses, her paved streets and her many palatial residences, but not much can be said of the churches of the town. She has three denominations now worshipping in basements. This is not a good indication of the feeling of the people toward the "Temple." Our people seem to be too well satisfied with what they have in the way of places to worship. Lubbock should see to it that her churches are kept in the forefront if they expect the town to have the respect of the very highest type of people who come this way to make their home. Nobody, we care not whether he be a Christian or the meanest old sinner on earth, would care to own property in a town where there is no church buildings or where the church buildings are dilapidated and old—all out of line with the balance of the surroundings. This is possibly not the best time in the world to proceed with the completions of the churches now under way, but it is a matter that should by all means have the attention of the Lubbock folks at the earliest possible time.

The matter of supplying Lubbock with rent houses is yet an unsolved problem. There is nothing like enough houses here to take care of the demands. Several parties come into our office every day looking for a house to rent. Some of them put up with light housekeeping rooms for a while, but others have to go to other places in order to find necessary accommodations. This condition is really commendable of our town in a way, but it is not pleasant to be confronted with these people every day, and have to relate the same old story to each, and inform them that there is "no such animal" in Lubbock as a rent house. Fifty new buildings could be filled with desirable tenants within a week we are sure, and if the word went out that there were that many houses here ready for occupancy, twelve hours would be sufficient to fill every one of them. Build more houses.

The life of the politician seems to be getting harder every day. Jim Ferguson has had to fight his way on to the Democratic ticket in both primaries, and now comes the new upheaval and some certain folks say that on account of Mayfield alleged allegiance to the Ku Klux Klan that he is not eligible to a place on the second primary ballot. Verily, Texas' political pot is a black one.

We know of some men in Lubbock who devote their entire time investigating things. We heard of a fellow a few days ago investigating a proposition that was eight or ten years back in the history of the town. We presume this is about as close up to the present day that this fellow ever lived. He could no doubt be correctly called a back number.

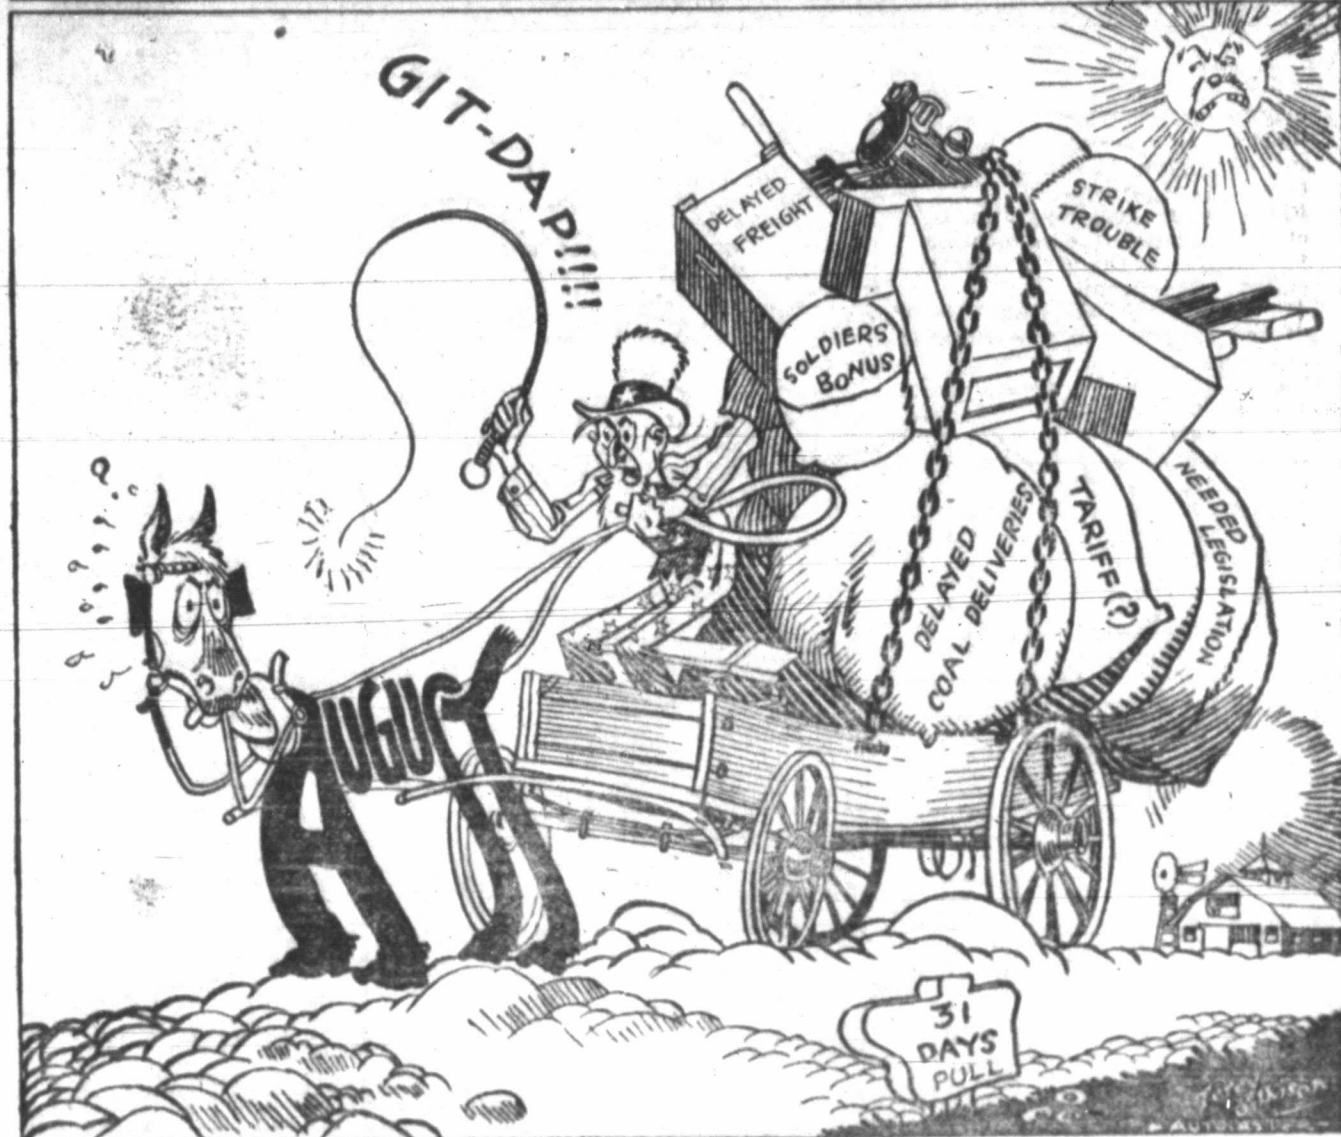

One Republican has announced that without a doubt Texas will be in the hands of the Republicans within the next eight years. Probably the old state will be able to withstand it as she has gone through some awful calamities in the past and still continues to sail on.

If the farmer struck every time they do not get just what they want or even get what they are justly entitled to, what would the various crafts say? We would not be able to repeat it in print and get by the United States mail.

The Plainview News says that Plainview will never be happy till she gets that direct railway with Fort Worth. That being the case, in all probability, that Plainview family will be very unhappy for a long time.

Beating trains is a great pass time with a lot of autoists, and it is usually a tie. The train ties into the automobile and the undertaker takes charge of what is left.

A Big Load For The Old Horse

FROM LOS ANGELES TO THE LUBBOCK AVALANCHE

Aug. 7, 1922.
I left Lubbock on the 27th day of July. Reached Los Angeles on the 3rd day of August. The habitable Golden West stops 100 miles west of Lubbock, and never shows again until within 100 miles of the Pacific Ocean, 600 miles from Lubbock. I reached the Continental Divide, which is 8500 feet above sea level. Heavy rain fell while I was there, and some of the water seemed puzzled as to which way to run—east, toward the Atlantic, or west to the Pacific. I waved in eastward and pointed toward Lubbock.
Yes, we had car trouble. Everyone does who crosses this rough range of mountains. We had blow-outs, blow-ups, and blow-downs. Broke brake and one bearing, two springs and smashed one hind wheel. This last occurred when we were on the desert, a long ways from anywhere except the desert, and caused regrettable delay.
We saw and inspected the petrified forest and the homes of the ancient cliff dwellers in Arizona. Architecture of those lofty habitations does not conform to any of the recognized orders except com-posit, but they are exceedingly interesting to lovers of nature.

Since arriving in Los Angeles, I have decided that this world is nearly full of people and the most of us are here in and around Los Angeles at the present. A large per cent of them are old worn out human fossils with complacency below the waist line which is evidence of an over-indulgent life. They are a hard looking lot, vainly looking for the fabled fountain that restores youth.

There are more pretty women on one block in Lubbock than there are on a quarter section out here. The population here is made up of Dudes, Dudens, Flappers, Flipprers, Chinamen, Japs and human beings. Some theories of evolution teach that animals were once people and people were once animals. These theories have some support in the fact that many people here love dogs better than they do people. Perhaps a few generations ago these people were nice little dogs and still love their distant kin. They dress their dogs up in expensive jewelry and place them by their side in their fine auto and feed them on loin steak while human children are half starving around them. There are people in Lubbock like this but do not judge them too severely because they may have ancestry like those above mentioned.

People from each Eastern state have a club here and meet once a month. I attended the Texas Club and was forced to make a talk. Brief extract of it follows:
After much travel I have found out that this beautiful world is composed of six grand divisions: Europe, Asia, Africa, North America, South America and Texas. The greatest of these is Texas, who in 1839 spanked her old dark skin mother on the south and took the United States of America under her protecting wing in 1845. The best part of the great Empire of Texas is the South Plains surrounding Lubbock, the most important city between the towns of Fort Worth and Los Angeles. Next in importance is California, which is the home of three of my daughters; some of the best products of Texas. While my audience was "hooray-ing" for Texas and California, I sneaked out and made my escape.
WALTER E. TAYLOR.

Punchettes

It may be trite to say that farming is the most necessary and one of the most honorable occupations in the world. The world will always be indebted to the farmer. Without him it would be impossible to progress in any line. The farmer has not always considered his position in the dignified way he should. In fact, it is only in recent years that he has been made to realize the scientific side of his work. Prior to that time he was really a trespasser on the soil; he was a robber; an invader. He scratched the soil; he mutilated it; he robbed it of its producing power. Any farmer who does not give back to the soil a proportionate part of that which he takes from it is an embezzler, not only of God's Providence, but also of Nature's bounty.

should have rendered an account to his son, paid him a just compensation, and given him an honest and equitable share in the profits of the farm.

The farmer has not always made the farm attractive to his son. You can't keep a boy at home if you give him a pine knot fire by which to read when the world offers him electric lights, a library, and a reading lamp. The farmer must bring the pleasures, amusements, books, magazines, and attractive things into his home and upon his own farm if he expects to keep his boy and make a great agriculturist out of him.
The parcel post, the rural mail delivery, the automobile, the paved highway, and other conveniences, are for the purpose of enabling the farmer to bring the attractions of the world into his own little country home, into his own desolated farmhouse, and to his own fireside. If he will seize the opportunity, fill his table with magazines, papers, and good books, bring in the music box, and the wireless radio, and show cheerful, magnetic, and fascinating, he will keep his boys and girls around him.

This is the day of the farm if the farmer will only realize it. This is the hour when the farm ought to be the most attractive spot in the country; this is the moment when the farmhouse ought to ring with music, and the barnyard ought to be the convention hall of agricultural and political activity. The farmer should make his son the leader in that convention and teach him how to mould public opinion and direct legislation.

Let the farmer learn how to be generous and kind to his children and to keep them in the atmosphere of agricultural purity, peace and prosperity.

poem UNCLE JOHN

This life we live is irksome, no matter where we be; the road is lined with boulders, an' breakers crown the sea. But we mustn't get discouraged an' declare that life's a cheat, for the prospects ain't so cheerin' when a feller gets cold feet.

The man that proves a winner, is the man that trims his sails, and steers his craft, unerrin' amid the storms or gales,—the hard knocks don't dismay him, which he squares his chin to meet, and his symptoms don't betray him—he never gets cold feet!

There ain't no road to glory, but what's beset with thorns, and it's purty hard to travel, if you're pestered some with possums, or snakes, or cats, wear y'r pants out on the seat,—it's a sign that allers tells me that a feller's got cold feet.

I like to greet the feller that can laugh at clouds an' cares that squares hisself in trouble, with his fists as well as prayers. . . . One that earns a benediction, that is mighty soft an' sweet. He blessed the world he lived in, and — he never got cold feet!

For Uncle John

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY for 1922

If a man should put a pair of handcuffs on himself, lead himself to jail, lock the door an' throw away the key, we'd most likely drag him out of prison an' put him in a padded cell, but we don't do a thing to the bunch that's trying all the time to strip themselves of human rights as well as liberty. Now we are considering censorship of the movies,—the censorship of the people. Moral conduct by royal command never has worked out. Let the people have what they want when they want it. Old Dame Nature will batter them into the line of decency. We wouldn't have steam heat today if our aboriginal ancestors hadn't been frozen into moral action.

ROTARY NOTES

(By L. T. Martin)

One of the most interesting and original programs put on by the Rotary Club was put on Friday night in the Conley building by the entertainment committee, of which J. E. Rix is chairman. Rev. J. L. Showell pronounced the invocation. Before allowing them to be seated J. E. Rix called on Antonio Zaphro Phonitis (C. L. Griffin) who sang the songs, "I had rather belong to Rotary than anything else I know," and "What's the matter with Rotary?" After singing them as a solo so that all present would catch the words and the tune they were sung as community songs, everyone taking a part. They were allowed to be seated then at the banquet table and after partaking of an excellent banquet prepared by the ladies of the Baptist church, Mrs. Carl Goodman, president of the 7th District of Federation of Womens Clubs, was called upon to give a talk as to how "we treat the new-comers." She gave a very interesting talk, telling of her trip to the Short Course put on by the A. & M. College at College Station. Mrs. Goodman lives at Abernathy. Next number on the program was a piano solo, entitled, "Prelude in Minor G—Rachmaninoff, by Mrs. Soelster." She was heartily applauded until she responded with an encore.

For a man who has nothing to say and nothing to talk on, Mr. Charles Ferguson, son of Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, kept everyone in an uproar by his witicism in regard to the different members of the Rotary Club. He is indeed an orator and I think was the surprise talk of the evening. Mr. Ferguson is a man that you could call out at two o'clock in the morning and he could talk on any subject. Hope the program committee will have him again.

Chairman Rix then turned the meeting over to the "Bingville visitors," who put on the program for the Bingville Rotary Club, as follows:

Roll Call—Constable Plumm. Song—Antonion. Educational Talk—Mrs. W. H. Meador.

Town Topics—Jack Dalton. Debate: "Kiwanis vs. Rotary"—Theodore Jenkins, Kiwanis; Jim Hardwork, Rotary.

Jess's Harp—Jennie Scruggs and Joe Chinkback. Neil Wright, presiding as John Caruthers, president of the "Bingville" Rotary Club, called upon Constable Plumm to call the roll—he did this in a very pleasing way which brought a loud uproar with his jokes on the different members.

C. L. Griffin, as Antonio, sang a solo and was heartily applauded. The educational talk was given by Mrs. W. H. Meador, who had an exalted idea of the talent of Bingville population and invited the Rotary Club of Lubbock to visit Bingville. She also seemed to think that Bill Meador, (a la natural) president of school board and chairman of Rotary educational committee for Bingville Rotary club, was the most prominent man in Bingville.

Daddy Dickinson, representing Jack Dalton, and looked the part, discussed the subject of "Town Topics." He opened his talk by peeling a banana and while doing so said that whenever he came to town he always bought bananas and peanuts. Taking a bite of the banana peel, he remarked that the only thing he didn't like about bananas was that they had such a large seed. Referring to the fruit of the banana. He had something funny to say about all the Rotarians.

Era Hawkins, slightly disguised, editor of Bingville Bugle and president of Bootleggers Union, was represented by L. T. Martin, who endorsed Harry Bluberson, town politician, for Justice of the Peace. Stating further his characteristics and ability as a criminal lawyer prosecuting in Justice Court, but was opposed by Deacon Witherspoon, doctor, druggist and undertaker, represented by Geo. W. Briggs, objecting to Harry Bluberson being endorsed by the Bingville Rotary Club for Justice of the Peace. Harry Bluberson, town politician, as represented by E. L. Douglas, was given a chance to defend himself, which he did in a very effective way. He romped on Constable Plumm, represented by G. L. Peterman and characterized him as "Two-gun Pete," which certainly got under Pete's hide. He wiggled in his chair and pounded the table with the billy he used representing the Constable. It struck him so hard that the next day when spoken to about it remarked: "That certainly got my goat."

The most laughable number on the program was put on by Neil Douglas, representing Theodore Woodrow Taft Jenkins and chief representative of the Kiwanis Club, and Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, representing Jim Hardwork and Town Loafer, representing the Rotary Club. These gentlemen were given all the time they wished in representing the different clubs, Neil Douglas speaking first for the Kiwanis Club. He emphasized a good deal on the slogan of the Kiwanis Club, "We Build" and made a very instructive talk along that line. He got sarcastic in regard to the Rotary Club, spelling Rotary—R-O-T, saying it was a state of decay—A-R-Y, pertaining to atmosphere, joining them he said, "Rotten Atmosphere." Of course this was all in good form and was for the fun that it would bring on. There was only one condition imposed upon the speakers and that was they hold a ten-pound cake of ice as long as they talked. Neal had a set of speeches all written out but when they handed him the cake of ice he had to put them in his pocket and never was able to get to it again. He handled the ice manfully but finally had to pass it over to Jim Hardwork of the Rotary Club, who is his slow and impressive way romped on the representative of the Kiwanis Club, saying that he had made a mistake in trying to hold the ice in his hands, who with a flat a head as he had, should have balanced it, on his head. In speaking of their slogan he said that it didn't take brains to build, but just muscle. He admitted that the Bingville Kiwanis Club built all right, but the Rotary Club furnished the brains with which to build. The doctor held the ice a little longer than the representative of the Kiwanis Club and it is remarkable that either one of them held it as long as they did.

They were both good sports. The program closed with Jew's Harp Solo by Jennie Scruggs, represented by J. W. Jennings, and it was so low that you could hardly hear it.

WORDS OF KIWANIS

Words. "Words, words, words, words!" cried Hamlet, frantic with the lying speech of hypocritical sycophants with whom he was surrounded, and thousands of men of position in the world echo his sentiments today.

One word, "Iconoclasm," tore the Roman Empire into halves and precipitated the dissolution of the greatest state the world had known.

Three words, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," sent the rabble of the French cities at the throats of the European monarchs under the conquering eagles of Napoleon.

Two words, "Spurious Versenkt," brought America into the Great War and hurled the invincible legions of the Great Republic against the levies of the Kaiser.

One word, "Kiwanis," is a coined word. It had no original meaning whatever. Its meaning—the soul of the word—has been given it by Kiwanians.

It is something clean, something serviceable, something that is not self-seeking—something essentially human, something bright, lovable and dependable.

All those things never could be expressed before in a single word. Kiwanis is in Lubbock to stay and build.

"A passin' the buck" somewhat put the Kiwanis items in our last issue on the bum, as the publicity committee composed of the writer and a few other fellows who are equally as efficient in the buck circulating art lost their tracks in making arrangements, as a result of which we are the only one with a sufficient reason to warrant issuance of an excuse, which we are sure the Kiwanians will agree immediately after hearing our side of the story: We were kept so busy perusing the pages of that wonderful little book that Boyce Cardwell presented us on that occasion, it being the first of its kind we have ever used, which Boyce will vouch for, that getting away from the interesting items contained therein was beyond our resisting force, and the time which should have been spent in making an account of that very interesting meeting was used in applying our every mental force in absorbing the great facts contained therein, and right here let me state that we have found Mr. Webster one of the best short sentence authors we have ever read of. Boyce is a fine fellow, and we are glad to have such a splendid present from him.

Believing that the excuse is sufficient, and that it will be a good idea to refrain from having to make one we will give in detail an account of the last meeting, held at the Manhattan Parlor Thursday of last week.

Roche Newton was chairman of the day, and though he was somewhat taken at surprise and handed that little job, went into it with true Kiwanian enthusiasm and helped to make that one of the snappiest programs that we have had in some time.

"Righteousness in City Building" was the subject of an address to be made by Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, and though he refused, because of lack of time to prepare to thoroughly discuss it, he gave a very interesting account of himself, and declared that the appetite of a Methodist preacher is uncontrollable when fried chicken is near at hand, and asked the fellows to please let him back to the table in order that he might partake of the food that made Methodism famous. Rev. Ferguson is a regular fellow, and the younger members of the Kiwanis Club appreciate his participation in Club activities, in that it gives them an opportunity to learn a few things from a man who has passed along the route they are going long ago, and who realizes that service to others is a great work, and one which should be indulged in with pleasure.

"What we could do for the Boys of Lubbock," was spoken of by one of the members, whose sincere opinion is that if Lubbock continues to lead, we must make leaders of her boys. The Kiwanis Club is one of the factors that can help develop the boy in the lines of civic pride and town patriotism, and that if we fail to do that work we are robbing Lubbock of one of her greatest assets—willingness to work for her advancement on the part of the coming generation of business men.

The Kiwanians were keenly disappointed to learn on their arrival at the cafe that one of the big verb slingers of the club who was scheduled to speak on "What Lubbock County Needs Most" was not present. The fact that George W. Foster had that subject, and that we were all tuned up to hear him say something about the betterment of Lubbock, and the ways to accomplish that work, put the bunch at a little discomfort for a few minutes, but Roche is a regular parlor fly when it comes to taking the punt out of who he is talking with, and soon brushed up a few of the fellows with a little of that high down comment on the general run of things, in a way that only a plumber can know.

Louie Moore, secretary, and some of the well known money changers, west of the Lubbock collection, and certainly proved themselves extractors of the first class. At any rate they took in enough of the dope they were going after to make L. C. Ellis look happy, and that takes a pretty good bunch of it.

It was planned to have the next program devoted to the Fair work, but the Rotarians are slow as usual, and we would have both clubs render a program along that line "the same week," and will save that program for the following meeting.

Claude Hurlbut, chairman of the program committee is in San Angelo, and we will have the fun of getting up that program, and are going to see to it that a few of the fellows who have been saving an over supply of hot air to be expelled on a bunch of their fellow club men have an opportunity to unburden themselves.

The following guests were present: L. H. Simpson, guest of Roche Newton; M. S. Ruby, guest of Percy Spencer; J. F. Carter, formerly of Temple, but now a full fledged Lubbock booster and substantial citizen, guest of L. C. Ellis; Roscoe Wilson, guest of Percy Spencer; Dude Germany, guest of Dr. G. G. Castleberry; E. E. Overstreet, guest of Rev. J. M. Lewis; E. L. Robertson, guest of L. C. Ellis; Wade A. Holman, Amarillo Big 3 Man, guest of Shelby Robbins; John A. Nicholson, guest of Dr. W. E. Cravens; A. M. Allen, guest of J. T. Collier; W. O. Arnold, guest of Herbert Stubbs.

The slogan, "Your Guests are Always Welcome," was emphasized when ovation was given each of the guests at their introduction, each of them having been given an opportunity to express their views of Lubbock and the Club.

All together. Let's build.

YOU WANT A HOME and YOU CAN HAVE IT. I can make you a loan on the easy Monthly Payment Plan, for the UNITED STATES SAVINGS BANK OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN, and also

LOCAL PLUMBER TO DO WORK ON TAHOKA SCHOOL. E. L. Law, local plumber and windmill, went to Tahoka Wednesday to figure with the school board of that city to do the plumbing work on the new school building at that place.

Needless to say, E. L. was successful in landing the job, as he went after it with the same enthusiasm with which he devours the menu at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon, in which he is one of the most willing attendants each week, and the contract calling for seventeen hundred and eighty-five dollars is a pretty good one to land at this time.

We assure the school trustees of Tahoka that they have secured the services of a real mechanic in hiring Mr. Law to do that work, and are proud to know that Lubbock will be represented by such able workman in making the Tahoka school a good one insofar as conveniences are concerned.

FLOYDADA SELLS $12,500 IN WATERWORKS BONDS. Floydada, Aug. 9.—The city of Floydada sold to the Brown-Crummer Company of Wichita, Kansas, $12,500 worth of waterworks improvement warrants recently issued for an extension in the Floydada waterworks system.

Fortune often rewards with interest those that have patience to wait for her.

LAMESA

The Journal Lamesa is not a "boom" town, but is steadily growing. The buildings on the west side will soon be ready for the occupants to move in. The Pierce building north of First National Bank is nearing completion, and work is under way on Mr. Shaw's brick adjoining it on the north.

W. C. Clement has material on the ground for a brick building on the north side.

We learn that O. Williams of Young county, has bought the lot north of White's Tin Shop on the east side and will put a brick building thereon.

Mr. Cox will build on the southwest corner of square as soon as he can get possession and move the old two-story frame.

Mr. Nix is preparing to build on his lot west of the First National Bank.

The hotel project is not dead by any means. Mr. Baker is in touch with parties who are considering the purchase of the lots on northwest corner of square for the location of a hotel building.

No, Lamesa is not on a "boom," just building to keep up with the actual demand.

Local showers are reported from various sections of the South Plains. Conditions in the Lamesa territory are holding up very well. The cool nights have been of much benefit to crops.

S. K. Bynum was here from Lubbock the first of the week shaking hands with friends, and incidentally, looking after business matters.

W. L. Clement and little daughter, autoed to Lubbock and back Tuesday. They found Mrs. Clement getting along very well and it is now thought she will return home the last of this week, or the first of next week.

Monday, just before noon, the scaffold in front of the O. K. Jones building gave way, carrying down with it a quantity of brick. Two men were at work on the wall, one of whom, Tom Houston, came down with the wreckage and for a few minutes it was thought he was buried under it. But fortunately Tom got clear and sustained no injury except a slight cut on one arm. It was a miraculous escape.

Several prairie fires have occurred during the past week. West of Lamesa on the Higginbotham ranch, a strip of about 8 miles long, embracing several sections, was swept clean. People camping out cannot be too careful about leaving fires. Be sure to extinguish every vestige of fire before leaving.

ANOTHER TROOP GIRL SCOUTS IS BEING ORGANIZED HERE. Mrs. Fred Boerner announced on Thursday of last week that another troop of Girl Scouts is being organized, sixteen members having been enlisted at this time.

Troop One, composed of girls of are of the ages that will be Sophomores in the coming term of school, and Mrs. Boerner said they were taking up the work with enthusiasm, and will no doubt make one of the liveliest troops in the Scouts.

Troop One, composed of girls High School age, is advancing rapidly in the work. The members are now exerting every energy to pass the second class tests, which will remove them from the tenderfoot class, and some of them are so well along with that work that they are now working for merit badges.

Lubbock's Girl Scouts are a live delegation, and are doing some splendid work.

CLARENDON CENTER OF MUCH BUILDING. Clarendon, Aug. 10.—Completion of the new unit to the Clarendon public school system is being rushed. The addition will cost approximately $75,000 and should be ready about November 1. School officials and trustees had hoped that the building would be ready for the opening of school, but a few extra weeks will be required to complete the addition.

The new addition will be an adjunct to the high school. The annex will have a standard size gymnasium, 40x50 feet. Included will be an auditorium and library. The entire school system will be heated by a heating plant.

Building is going on in Clarendon to the extent of $250,000, according to estimates made here. Three or four new residences estimated at $30,000 in value are being constructed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sims and daughters motored over to New Mexico Sunday morning to visit with relatives. They will be gone several days, and will no doubt enjoy a great trip into the interesting sections of that state before their return.

Wanted. I want to buy your second hand furniture or will sell you some. W. A. Terrell, at Model Grocery. 36-44.

NEWS OF THE PAST WEEK FROM IDALOU

The Baptist meeting is progressing nicely. Rev. Mat Harder of Ralls, is conducting the meeting and great interest is being shown.

Mrs. Tom Brabham of Abilene, is visiting with friends here.

Misses Viola Lambert, Gladys Mitchell, Sybil Weaver, Lillian Shelton, and Messrs. Cecil Peoples, Raymond Kerr, Artie Weaver and McCarty, attended the entertainment of the Epworth League, at Lubbock.

Mr. Estes, of Estes Brothers Garage, is having a new house built.

Mr. B. Sherrod is attending to business in Chicago.

Frank Bledsoe, Jim Brabham and W. B. Shelton, made a business trip to Seagraves Thursday.

Mrs. Harder of Ralls, who has been attending the meeting here, has returned to her home.

The singing school under the leadership of Mr. McLamey, is doing some fine work. They have an enrollment of 75.

Miss Vera Courtney, who has been attending the Normal at Canyon, is at home for a short vacation, before assuming her duties as teacher in our school here.

Miss Lillian Turner, who has been attending school at Simmons College at Abilene, is at home on a short vacation.

Miss Pearl Lambert of Bird, Dean and Company Store, is spending a short vacation in Winters, Texas.

Mrs. Lewis Summers and baby, are visiting in Post City.

J. L. Hankin, of Eastland county, owner of the old Abernathy ranch, was in Lubbock Friday, transacting business. He reports everything in the Gorman country progressing nicely, and as there are four oil wells, all from a respective direction from the city, absolutely surrounding it, much optimism is shown in the people's attitude toward their future. Mr. Hankin said: "We are sure to get oil from one of these wells, and all indications point that way." He is well pleased with conditions on the plains, and is optimistic as to the future of the cattle business here.

Turning down high prices will make them feel cheap.

Cultivation of Grapes in Connection With Irrigation Wells May Be Big Winner in Some Sections

In the search for the right lines of development work in every new country many schemes are presented and tried out. An overwhelming majority of them never pan out but now and then one turns out to be just what is needed and "sticks."

At Monday's luncheon of the business men G. A. F. Parker stated that one of these projects that had "stuck" and had proven its value, where properly used, was the now famous Hereford irrigation system. Mr. Parker expressed the belief that the irrigation farmers of this section were not using their water enough to get best results, but probably one cause of this in the past has been the high cost of fuel for the engines.

Proceeding with this line of thought Mr. Parker called attention to another idea that has been in his mind, and in the minds of many others, for years, that constantly grows in importance from year to year. This idea is the propagation of grapes on the fine land hereabouts, in connection with these un-failing irrigation wells.

Mr. Parker stated that it had long been known here that this is a natural grape country as they make fruit every year if given water and attention and the insects are kept off the vines. True, some years, the crop is heavier than others, but this is caused through the freezing of the first buds, which can in a measure be stopped with proper cultivation. Everyone who tries grapes in this country, said the speaker, makes a go of it. Recently, he said, a wealthy stockman and banker of Arizona, was the guest and visited some of the grape vineyards in this vicinity. This man, who has been around quite a bit, was amazed at the crops grown here and said that there was no reason why this land should not be worth $1,000 per acre if grapes could be grown so profusely in connection with irrigation wells.

"I believe," said Mr. Parker, "that the time will come when our grandchildren will laugh at the struggles we are now undergoing to develop this country and wonder what on earth we wasted so much time for trying to find out what was best suited for this locality as a money crop."

The speaker called attention to the fact that there is always a ready market for grapes everywhere and that if irrigation well owners would try out ten acres in connection with their wells they would hit upon a combination that would mean wealth and rapid development for this entire shallow water belt. He suggested that the Chamber of Commerce take up with the government, the Santa Fe railroad, the Capitol Syndicate and the various grape juice companies the question of raising, handling and marketing of grapes in this neighborhood, and pursue the matter to the bottom. After discussion this motion was adopted and the Secretary was instructed to accumulate this information at once.

Following Mr. Parker, Mr. J. J. Kaster, president of the El Paso Coffin Co., who was a dinner guest, supported the idea in a strong talk, stating that if grapes could be produced here every year there was no question about the money crop of the future.—Hereford Brand.

TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Whereas, by deed of trust dated June 7, 1921, recorded volume 15, page 562, deed trust records Lubbock County, Texas, Annie Ater and husband A. B. Ater, did convey in trust to me lot 12, block 106, town of Lubbock, Lubbock county, Texas, to secure E. P. Earhart in the payment of a balance of a certain judgment in Cause No. 1712, district court of Hale county, Texas, appealed by said Annie Ater and husband A. B. Ater, on the supersedeas bond therein the said E. P. Earhart was surety and a judgment on appeal was rendered against the said makers of the said deed of trust and E. P. Earhart, and the balance remaining on such judgment of approximately $750.00 the said E. P. Earhart agreed to pay, and the makers thereof to repay him on June 1, 1922, with interest from date of such payment at 10 per cent per annum interest, with 10 per cent attorneys fees, and on August 1, 1921, the said E. P. Earhart paid the balance of said judgment amounting to $751.20, and whereas said deed of trust further provided that the said Annie Ater and A. B. Ater should well and truly discharge all taxes and assessments, when due, against the said lot, and that if said taxes or assessments became delinquent the said beneficiary might so discharge and be entitled to receive interest thereon at 10 per cent from date of such discharge and be immediately due; and whereas, the said deed of trust provided that if the makers of said deed of trust should fail or refuse to repay said sum on the judgment aforesaid, or should fail or refuse to discharge all taxes and assessments before they became delinquent, that at the request of the legal holder of the obligations described, the said Trustee, or his substitute, should sell the property, as and in the manner required by law.

And whereas, the said property had legally laid and levied against same Paying Certificate No. 132, issued to the Panhandle Construction Company in the sum of $254.30 for paying abutting said property, and there was delinquent on August 9, 1921, the sum of $84.76, and on May 22, 1922, the sum of $98.32, which said sums were on said dates paid by the said E. P. Earhart, and Whereas, the said Annie Ater and A. B. Ater have failed and refused to discharge said sums or any of them, or any interest accruing thereon, though all said sums are past due and unpaid, the said E. P. Earhart has requested that I execute said trust, as provided in such instrument:

Therefore, on the First Tuesday in September, 1922, the same being the 5th day of September, 1922, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the courthouse door of Lubbock county, in Lubbock, Texas, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash said lot 12, in block 106, town of Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas, to satisfy the sums aforesaid and interest, and apply the proceeds as directed in said deed of trust, executing to the purchaser or purchasers a deed binding the said A. B. Ater and Annie Ater, their heirs and legal representatives to warrant and defend the title to the same against all lawful claims.

Witness my hand at Lubbock, Texas, August 4th, 1922.

"CREATIONS WERE NEVER MORE BEAUTIFUL" STATED

Mrs. L. H. Barkham returned last week from a two weeks visit to Chicago and St. Louis, where she purchased a complete stock of fall and winter millinery for her popular shop.

She declares that never before have the wholesale people offered the retailer better or more beautiful creations, as are being offered this season, and she is optimistic as to business conditions in that line this fall. Her store, she declares, will be better stocked to meet the demands of the ever growing trade territory of Lubbock, than ever before, and is using advertising space in this issue to carry that message to her customers.

Common Use of Pistols Blamed For Large Percent of Crime Wave Manufacture and Sale Should Stop

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Declaring that the pistol "serves no useful purpose in the community today," the committee on law enforcement included in its recommendations submitted to the American Bar Association tonight one for the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of pistols, and of cartridges or ammunition designed to be used in them, "save as such manufacture shall be necessary for governmental and official use under proper legal regulation and control."

"We find that more than ninety per cent of the crimes in this country are committed by the use of pistols," continued the report of the committee, of which Judge William B. Swannery of Chattanooga, Tenn., was chairman. "We find that the laws prohibiting the carrying of firearms or deadly weapons are ineffective—in fact, that they work to the benefit of the criminal rather than the law-abiding citizen."

"The criminal situation in the United States, so far as crimes of violence are concerned, is worse than that of any other civilized country," the report said. "Here there is less respect for law. From all available sources of information, we estimate that there were more than 9,500 unlawful homicides last year in this country, and that in no year during the last ten years did the number fall below 8,500. In other words, during the last ten years no less than 85,000 of our citizens have perished by poisons, by the pistol or the knife, or by some other unlawful and deadly instrument."

Burglaries Increase.
"Burglaries have increased in this country during the last ten years, 1,200 per cent."

"Deliberate murder, burglary, and robbery will be seldom attempted unless the criminal is armed. In European countries criminals are, as a rule, not armed."

"On the other hand, in crimes which indicate the dishonesty of the people, such as larceny, extortion, counterfeiting, forgery, fraud and other crimes of swindling, a comparison of conditions demonstrates the morals of this country are better than in any other of the large countries of the world."

"It is our united opinion that the means provided in the United States for coping with crimes and criminals are today neither adequate nor efficient, for example:

"First, we find that the parole and probation laws, as administered, very generally fails to accomplish the purposes for which the laws were designed and weaken the administration of criminal justice. We recommend that first offenders only should be eligible for probation. We recommend that the indeterminate sentence laws should be modified so as to apply to first offenders only, and we believe, too, that neither probation nor parole should be permitted those convicted of homicide, burglary, criminal assault or highway robbery."

Delay in Courts.
"Second, we find that more than ninety per cent of the murders in this country are committed by the use of pistols."

"Third, we find the causes for delay in criminal cases so varied and the conditions so differing that we hesitate to make specific recommendations. Dilatory motions—and many other causes for delay, all accrue to the benefit of the law-breaker."

"We recommend that every state be given every right to appeal now enjoyed by a defendant—except from a verdict of not guilty, and we recommend that the prosecutor in a criminal trial shall have the right to call the attention of the jury to the fact that the defendant has failed himself to contradict or deny testimony offered by the prosecution. "We recommend that the state be given the right to amend the indictment upon proper terms in matters of form. "We recommend that there should be but one appeal from a judg-

A WORD WITH THE VOTERS

It is reported that I am a wealthy man, that I have a 240 acre farm, and rent houses that are bringing me $250 per month, and that all I want with the office of Treasurer is a place to loaf. I do not own any rent houses, nor a farm of 240 acres. My property consists of three 5-acre blocks two miles from the court house, and a six room home. You do not have to take my word for this—go to the county records and see.

I am not making a poverty plea, I just want to correct some things which have been said that are not true. I have made a success of everything I have tried, by attending to my own business. I believe that anyone who has made a success with his personal affairs is more likely to do the same with the affairs of a county office, and will appreciate your investigating my record.

WRONG IMPRESSION ABOUT SINGING CONVENTION HERE

We are sure that when the Singing Convention met at Carlisle the 5th Sunday in January, that everyone understood that when the Convention met at Lubbock, in the new Auditorium, that every one was to carry dinner, and Mr. Pevehouse made it plain to the people. In view of this fact Lubbock people fed quite a bunch. In the bunch was one of the reporters from Carlisle, and we do not see why he said what he did; however, it was only the reporter and not the Carlisle people. We should be careful what we write or say, lest we should hurt some one's feelings.

Wall Street Is Fearful of the Effect of the Farm Bureau Ass'n. On the Price of Cotton This Fall

That the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and other State Cotton Marketing Associations are creating alarm on Wall Street is shown in a weekly letter sent out to cotton buyers by A. Norden & Co., 88 Wall Street. A copy of this letter has been made public by the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Fears are expressed among the big cotton brokers that the farmers of the South, through co-operative associations which have the backing of the War Finance Corporation, will be able to control the cotton and set a price for their cotton which will make the raising of cotton pay.

The Norden letter says that the cotton situation is in a bad plight from the standpoint of Wall Street and that "evidence is increasing that the situation will be rendered more serious by the determined stand that the South will make, with government assistance, for which the South believes to be a reasonable remunerative price."

"We have alluded recently to the progress being made in the co-operative marketing movement in practically every cotton growing state, and although the world in general has paid little attention to that progress, occasional items points to successful control of a large portion of the crop."

"The announcements that we have seen since our last letter have been:

"By the War Finance Corporation that applications for advances have been approved of $5,000,000 to the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association and $7,500,000 to the Arkansas Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association."

"If the crop should finally prove to be nearer 10,000,000 bales than 12,000,000 bales; trade should continue its tendency toward gradual improvement; if these co-operative cotton growers' associations should find as the marketing season approaches that they control the disposal of perhaps one-third or more of the expected crop, what will be the 'reasonably remunerative price' that they will set as their goal, in their efforts to attain which they will have the assistance of every farmer, merchant and banker in the South and of the War Finance Corporation?"

DROUTH HURTING CROPS SAYS MEMPHIS MAN

Crop and range conditions around Memphis and Wellington are serious due to the drouth that has prevailed for the past two months, according to Craver Browder, prominent ranch owner of Memphis, who is in Amarillo.

The present dry spell is the worst drouth the section of the country has undergone since 1916 Mr. Browder said, and he predicts a short cotton and feed crop unless rain is received soon.

Mr. Browder, who with his brother and their father of Dallas, own the Diamond Tail ranch, one of the largest of North Texas, is optimistic for the cattleman, though, declaring that cattle raisers who have withstood the adverse conditions facing the industry for the past three years can go through a drouth without anything to fear.—Amarillo News.

TO THE VOTERS OF LUBBOCK COUNTY

November 26, 1920.

Hon. J. H. Moore,
County Judge,
Lubbock, Texas.

Dear Sir:

The Attorney General is just in receipt of yours of the 15th inst., in which you state among other things that at the last general election C. A. Holcomb received 54 votes as Sheriff and 8 votes as Tax Collector and 1260 votes as Sheriff and Tax Collector of your county. You also state that S. C. Spikes received 1087 votes as Tax Collector.

From previous correspondence we understand that the 1910 United States census showed your county to have a population of less than 10,000. But after the primary election and before the general election, a certificate was issued by the Director of Census showing your county to have a population in excess of 10,000 inhabitants. Under these circumstances you propounded the following questions:

1.—This being the case, whose bond should the Commissioners approve for this office, and to whom should I, as County Judge, issue certificate of election for these offices?

2.—Should I issue certificate of election to C. A. Holcomb as Sheriff and Tax Collector, or should I issue certificate to him as Tax Collector? Should I issue certificate of election to S. C. Spikes as Tax Collector?

3.—In the event that bonds are presented to the court, should they approve bonds in accordance with the votes cast, or should they approve bonds as stated below.

(a) Holcomb as Sheriff and Tax Collector, or as Tax Collector, should he present a bond made out in that form; in other words could he under the present status choose which of the two offices he would assume duties?

(b) Should he approve the bond of Spikes as Tax Collector?

(c) Or should he approve all of the bonds and let the court decide which is entitled to which office?

Under the facts here stated your county was not entitled to elect or could not legally elect one and the same person the the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector. There being no such office to be filled in your county by election or otherwise, at such election.

On the contrary the county was required to elect and have two different persons for these respective offices. That is, one as Sheriff and the other as Tax Collector. (State Constitution, Sec. 23, Art. 5; State Constitution Sec. 16, Art. 8; R. C. S. 1911, Arts. 7119, 7120, 7605, 7606, 7607.)

Under these facts you are advised that in the opinion of the Attorney General, Mr. Holcomb is entitled to the office of Sheriff of that county, and is entitled to a certificate of election to that office, and has the right to qualify as Sheriff of that county, in the manner prescribed by law, but that he is not entitled to a certificate of election to the office, nor to a certificate of election as Tax Collector, also that he has not the right to choose between these two offices, as to which he will accept. You are also advised in the opinion of the Attorney General, S. C. Spikes, is entitled to a certificate of election to the office of Tax Collector in your county, and has the right to qualify as such in the manner prescribed by law. For your further information we are enclosing herein a copy of the opinion No. 20249, rendered by this Department September 11th, 1920, addressed to Peyton B. Randolph, and there is in which the question raised by your inquiry are discussed at some length.

Yours very truly,
W. W. CAVES,
Assistant Attorney General.

To The Voters of Lubbock County

Greeting:
The above and foregoing article, speaks for itself, and shows clearly that I was elected to the office of Tax Collector of this County, during the year of 1920. I was installed as Tax Collector of the County however, after a long hard-fought suit for the office was decided in my favor, and have actually had possession of said office since in April of this year.

Being a lifelong Democrat, I am naturally a candidate for re-election for a second term to the office, solely upon my own merits, and not upon the DEMERITS of some one else, and because I know that I am competent and qualified to fill the duties of the office.

At my OWN EXPENSE, I have employed a competent and reliable assistant, for NO MAN can be at the office every hour in the day, six days a week, twelve months a year, therefore the necessity of an office assistant, in order that I may give you the VERY BEST SERVICE POSSIBLE, and give it when you come for it, so that it will not be necessary for you to call a second time for the same service.

Considering the means at my command, I have contributed liberally to all worthy causes presented to me, or coming to my notice, including needy individuals, churches, schools and railroad bonuses, and only regret that I was not able to give more.

Lubbock is my future home, whether elected or defeated, and whether or not Lubbock County is the BEST COUNTY IN TEXAS, it is good enough for me, as is proven by the fact that I have lived in Lubbock continuously for 21 years, during which time I have had no desire to move away, and I hope to see Lubbock County continue to develop and come into notice and

Efficiency

Nowadays the chief indoor sport is studying efficiency books. For a couple of dollars you can buy a complete course in how to rise to the top in forty winks. There is no longer an excuse for anyone being stupid and incompetent. The only reason you can give is the lack of the two dollars or so to buy the course.

We read recently of a fellow who had worked for one firm eight years without once being promoted. Finally they fired him because he was too dull to improve himself. He told some of the fellows a few days later that he was taking an efficiency course so that he wouldn't be fired from the next place he got a job.

Sixty days later he was sole owner of the business from which he had been fired. Remembering his statement about the efficiency course, some of the chaps in the office asked him if the course had enabled him to progress so far so swiftly. He told them that it had, with the trifling assistance of a million dollars to which he had suddenly become heir.

No doubt the publishers of the efficiency course would be glad to use his experience as a testimonial.

point, his message being plain to all, which was responsible for the enthusiasm with which it was received. His hearers realized that he knew what he was about, and when he declared that the fields of service in bringing God's Kingdom on earth were not confined to foreign missions or the ministry, they waited in great eagerness to hear him divulge his opinion of the matter, and to know that he was delivering a message that was wonderful in its truth but simple in adaptability, stirred them all the more, and he endeared himself to his congregation with a message to every individual present, declaring that a Christian home, presided over by a Christian mother, is God's stronghold on earth, declaring the government or Christianity insignificant as compared with the power of such home.

PRICES OF MILLINERY ARE BELOW LAST SEASON'S PRICES Mrs. Wallace Barnes, of the Vogue Emporium, returned Wednesday of last week from St. Louis, where she purchased a complete stock of millinery and accessories for that popular store. The new goods began to arrive shortly after her return home, and we are glad to learn that the most beautiful creations are offered this year at greatly reduced prices as compared with the last season's stock, according to Mrs. Rhea, associate with Mrs. Barnes. The fact that heretofore the retailers have been compelled to ask seemingly exorbitant prices for goods has not been their fault, as they, like their customers, are at the mercy of the wholesalers who are responsible for the price expansions as we have experienced them for the past few months. Back to normalcy has been the cry of the thinking people everywhere, and we are of the opinion that when the price of hats for ordinary sport or dress wear is twelve and a half dollars, with some of the very beautiful creations as low as four and a half dollars, prices, so far as millinery is concerned, are about as far back to normalcy as can be expected under existing conditions, and we are reliably informed that those prices will be popular throughout the coming seasons.

OUR SCHOOL FUND The announcement from Austin that the apportionment of the State school fund for this year would be reduced from $13 to $10 per capita because of reductions in the taxable valuation of the State and the increased number of delinquencies in the payment of taxes is ample notice to the various school districts of the State and they must now set about to raise adequate funds for the operation of the schools the coming year. It is regrettable, of course, that the State apportionment will be cut down because there is need for every dollar in the school funds that is available, but the condition of the State Treasury is such that nothing else was to be expected. The State Treasury cannot be surfeited with money if the people are short of funds and unable to pay taxes. The only way the situation can be remedied is by special appropriations by the Legislature which will only tend to aggravate the situation by levying still heavier taxes upon the people. If the Legislature desires to be of service in such a situation it should devise means of reducing the cost of operating the government, instead of trying to improve things by making greater appropriations. Another result that will probably follow a reduction of the State apportionment is that the local school districts will increase their local school tax levies in order to provide adequate funds. It seems to The Tribune that this is the more desirable way of meeting the situation. A greater percent of the local tax levies goes into the funds for which they are intended than is the case with levies made by the State, because of the decreased cost of collecting.—Amarillo Tribune.

W. C. Edwards, foreman of the mechanical department of the Avalanche, has come to the conclusion that this is a good old world after all, as the expressman delivered sixty pounds of delicious Texas peaches to him Saturday morning, which were as good a reminder of the kindly feeling is not at all responsible, for the same condition exists everywhere, and we are glad to say that Lubbock merchants are on the square with their home town, and realize that every time they make price reductions on necessities they are forwarding their own interests. For "The Idle Class," Charles Chaplin's latest comedy, as a First National attraction, and we will guarantee it to kill any grouch, no matter how chronic, within the space of a few seconds. While "The Idle Class" is shorter than the "Kid," it is packed with more laughs than one would imagine a two reeler can hold. Charlie's first appearance on the screen—when he crawls out from under a railroad coach—is the signal for the laughing to start, and the comedian never gives it an opportunity to subside. It is a highly novel Chaplin picture, because it portrays him in a dual role, that of the well known tramp and as a "society swell." And Charlie in a frock coat and silk hat can be just as funny as in his customary hobo attire. There are some excruciatingly funny scenes on the golf links where Charlie, with his two clubs, essays to play the "rich man's game." Finding himself without a ball, he calmly hits one belonging to another seeker of recreation, and through some nimble footwork escapes retribution. "The Idle Class" is fast, furious fun. Any anybody who saw it yesterday. Today last day showing.

LEFT HANDED PREACHING CLOSED SUDAN REVIVAL Rev. D. C. Ross claims that in all his life as a preacher he has never given his hearers more left-handed sermons than he delivered to them at Sudan throughout last week. A controversy recently between the good man and a Ford car left him with a broken wrist, but his doctors were unable to keep him out of the work, and assured him he would be compelled to preach altogether with his left hand, as the right one was to be kept in braces to allow the broken tissues to knit together. Left-handed or not, the sermons were to the point, and a great revival was enjoyed. Rev. Ross declared that a great part of the success of the meeting was due to the assistance given him by Mrs. McNeely, an efficient pianist, in making the song service throughout the meeting interesting and appealing.

NEW HOPE MAN ENTERTAINED FRIENDS WITH ICE CREAM B. F. Brieger was in town Saturday from his home in the New Hope community, and reports everything in that section getting along pretty good in spite of the dry weather. He was host to a number of his friends several days ago with a big ice cream supper, which was given in appreciation of their kindly assistance in cultivating and chopping his crop while he was in a local sanitarium suffering with bruises inflicted by a mule, which kicked him in the face destroying the use of his left eye for a time. Mr. Brieger said it was his opinion that the best people in the world inhabit the plains, and the best bunch of the plains live in his community. We are sure he has done his part in making life in that community worth while, and that the assistance of his friends in caring for his crop during his illness was a reaction of the spirit that he has helped to create out there. We are glad to report that he is able to be about at this time, and will soon have the use of his bruised eye restored.

DOUBT AS TO DEATH OF JOE FUREY IS CLEARED Using the finger print system to positively identify the body of the man who died at Huntsville prison and later buried in San Francisco as that of Joe Furey, the noted swindler, who was sentenced to twenty years in prison from Tarrant county. California officials are now satisfied that there was no ruse resorted to and that the body is that of the internationally known confidence man. This information was received by officials here last night, after the grave had been opened by authority of the district attorney of Los Angeles and the body exhumed. Furey's fingerprints, which were in possession of the police in San Francisco, tallied minutely with those of the dead man. On account of Furey's faculty for posing as dead in the past, only to appear and bother the police at some place distant from the point of his faked demise, District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles, against certain charges are pending against the swindler wanted to make sure and asked that the body be exhumed. Three police detectives, one from Oakland where the body was reported to have been shot, shipped from Huntsville, Texas, newspapersmen and others attended the exhuming of the body. Exhaustive identification records of Furey tallied exactly with those of the dead man. Furey was sentenced to Huntsville for a term of twenty years after being arrested in connection with the swindle of Frank Norfleet, which en-

LAMB COUNTY ASSESSOR SAYS FOUR YEARS ENOUGH Ed. Burrus and son, Roy of Olton, Lamb County were here to spend Saturday and Sunday at the home of his brother, C. H. Burrus, on 10th Street. Mr. Burrus was Tax Assessor of Lamb County for four years, having not made the race this time, in spite of the solicitation of many of his friends in all parts of the county, as he had declared that four years was enough for one man to hold a county office, and that he desired to give another man a chance. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wylie, of Abilene have moved to Lubbock and will occupy the new residence of Mr. L. I. Rouse at 17th Street and Avenue I. Mr. Wylie is a traveling man and has made the State of Texas for 18 years representing a large tannery that manufactures harness and all kinds of leather goods. He decided to go into business for himself and after looking over the State found Lubbock to be the most logical from all viewpoints. He, with Mr. W. W. Jones, will occupy the new building on the corner of Broadway and Avenue K and known as the Texas Furniture Company. The many friends of Mrs. C. H. Burrus will be glad to learn that she is fastly recovering from a several days illness, of which heart trouble was the cause. Mrs. Burrus is a pioneer of Lubbock county, and is one of the most liked ladies of the city. Her daughter Miss Ala, who recently came to Lubbock, is at home again, and unable to be about very much, is gaining strength rapidly, and will be able to be out again soon. Mrs. Col. E. C. Sams of Benjamin, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Young. She will spend the balance of the summer here.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS Taking the other fellow's automobile without his consent is proven a very unprofitable occupation in Lubbock county, as Neal Duke and R. H. White, partners in that work, were given two years in the penitentiary each for stealing the Ford cars of Mrs. Rising and Rev. Hardesty, of Slaton, on the night of June 15. It is believed that there will be a check of such crimes in this section as the juries are looking to it that all found guilty are given sufficient punishment, and it is hoped that something can be done to check their activities in Lubbock county. Mrs. George Benson, Hank Benson and Miss Adeline Bellah, left last Saturday for Colorado, where they will spend several weeks vacationing in the cool climate of that state, visiting all points of interest. They are making the trip by automobile, and we are sure it will prove an enjoyable one, and hope they will return to Lubbock better pleased with conditions here. Mrs. E. E. Halley and sister, Miss Mildred Meacham, left last week for a few days visit with home folks in East Texas. Halley, the high powered salesman of the Stephens-Bacon McKee Company announced Sunday that the madam would be here the latter part of this week, and her many friends are looking with much eagerness to her return. She and Miss Meacham are both popular in Lubbock, and their absence has occasioned much keen regret. Mrs. W. L. Ross and family, of Floydada, were shopping in Lubbock Friday. Prohibition has come to stay, but it doesn't mix around among the folks much.—Washington Post.
