HOSPITALITY OF SOUTH PLAINS WAS SHOWN LEAGUERS AT LAMESA

DELEGATES TO DISTRICT EFFICIENCY INSTITUTE WERE WELL ENTERTAINED—PRAISE LAMESA

DISTRICT OFFICERS WERE ELECTED SUNDAY

All Leagues in District Were Represented by Delegates Who Were Permitted to Witness Development Features of One of the Leading Towns of the South Plains.

The bigness of all towns does not rest upon the structures of steel, brick and mortar, humming industries or busy workshops, and an Avalanche reporter is glad to have been with those who attended the District Efficiency Institute, of the Lubbock District, which was in session at Lamesa from Friday evening until Sunday evening, where we had that fact demonstrated to us beyond any reasonable doubt.

Of course Lamesa has her work shops, business houses, busy shops and crowded streets, but the bigness of these is dwindled in comparison with the bigness of the hospitable citizens of that thriving little West Texas city.

From the time we entered the city limits going to the institute until we had passed the last house in the city limits enroute home, the spirit of friendliness was everywhere to be seen. Young folks, old folks, laymen and all, made themselves exceedingly busy offering every comfort and entertainment to the visitors, and anyone would have certainly been void of any responsiveness to have failed to receive some inspiration from the manner in which the delegates were entertained while guests of the people of Lamesa.

W. C. Rylander, E. E. Halley, and others of the League had been in Lamesa some several hours before our arrival, and we were at loss to understand why men of such sombre countenances should have been changed to the happy personalities they were, but before long the miracle had been revealed, and we were made to know that all the good people in the world do not live in Lubbock, nor has life the bitterness that some would have us to believe for those upon the "hollies" of the Lone Star State.

There is somewhere back of the development of the plains country a dynamic force that it not to be met with any where else. We admit that in the few days we have spent in Lubbock the very atmosphere of this town has so enveloped us that we have been made to believe, thru the fault of no other than ourself, that all that is great and powerful insofar as citizenship is concerned, lies only within the confines of The Hub of the Plains, but our stay in Lamesa has impressed upon us the fact that the same bigness which characterizes the people of Lubbock characterizes all the people of the Plains.

That same force which has made Lubbock is set to work in the construction of another great little Plains city. Citizens who are more interested in the development of educational institutions and better homes and streets than anything else that is material, populate Lamesa, working faithfully, hopefully and steadily for the coming of the time when that part of the plains may be spoken of as "being thoroughly developed."

Lamesa businessmen have voted bonds for water and sewer system there, and at this time one of the most modern ditch digging machines manufactured is ploughing into the earth to a depth of from twelve to fourteen feet where the sewer lines may be laid, and when we asked a business man of that city why they were going about the work in such big way he abruptly replied that "before long we are going to have a big town here," and there was an expression of confidence about his face as he spoke.

One dry goods man there sold sixteen hundred dollars worth of dry goods in one day recently, showing that the development of that section is taking into Lamesa sufficient monies to make things hum from all other business enterprises records of such exchanges are shown, and yet the bigness of Lamesa is not to be measured upon a basis of how many dollars are in circulation in that vicinity, for there are other means of measuring a town, and certainly the genuineness of the folks of Lamesa outmeasures in every proportion the material resources.

The District Efficiency Institute had so taxed the people that it was decided that on Saturday evening no work of any serious nature whatsoever would be done, and the delegates were turned free to present to the audience such stunts as were believed to be appropriate at a meeting of that character, as a result of which many funny and interesting numbers were shown, but Lamesa's League had the world beat, by presenting a typical "chair act" scene in which all those characters with which we meet enroute to the nearest or remotest point along the lines are encountered—the newly-weds, the kids returning from the country fair, that old character who knows a remedy for every ill and has ample flow of language with which to present her claims, and last but not least the backwoodsmen were presented so realistically that we didn't blame the judges a whit for their decision.

Owing to a downpour of rain at the "morning watch" hour Sunday, that part of the service was omitted, but at eight forty-five the delegates were guests of the Sunday school, following which W. C. Rylander of Lubbock, introduced as Layman, made a beautiful and impressive talk on the "Importance of God's word." Mr. Rylander took his audience upon the tours he has made in comprehensive study of the Bible, and without doubt, that was one of the greatest messages that has been brought before the Leaguers since the Lubbock District was organized.

The afternoon was taken up with study periods for the various departments, prominent among which was a discussion of work in the Junior Departments by Mrs. J. W. Sims of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Watson were especially busy during these study periods, and to their efforts much of the success of the institute may be attributed.

The writer is indebted to those on the entertainment committee for having directed us to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Gray, where we had occasion to learn of the true hospitality of Lamesa.

The concluding number Sunday evening was the election of permanent officers, as follows:

President, Neal Douglass, Jr., of Lubbock; Vice-President, Mrs. Bonnie of Halls; Secretary, Miss Kiker, of Wake; Treasurer, Miss Stovall, of Prid; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Ruby Lusk, of Lamesa.

Rio Grande Floods Are Over-Estimated Says the Red Cross

The United Press. Pharr, Texas, Oct. 23.—The final report of the disastrous Rio Grande Valley flood this spring, has been made by Henry N. Baker, disaster relief chairman of the American Red Cross, who took charge of relief operations at the height of the flood.

While damage from uncontrolled flood waters was high, the majority of reports of damage, upon investigation, were proven to be highly exaggerated.

Of hundreds of thousands of acres in the valley only 48,150 were inundated. Of this number 16,966 acres of growing crops were saved, making a total loss of crop acreage 29,185 acres.

Of 1846 families reported affected by the flood only 412 of them were given Red Cross assistance. The remainder could care for themselves. There was very little sickness from unsanitary conditions following the flood. Only one death from this cause was reported.

The final report, which represented weeks of untiring work by Baker and his associates, showed that $16,909.50, or $64.81 per family was spent in relief work in the Valley.

Four Shots Fired In Fracas On Local Streets Friday P. M.

J. W. Davis of Halls, but at one time a resident of Lubbock, was shot through the right foot in a fracas on a main street here Friday evening, at about seven-thirty. F. A. Saunders, local man, surrendered to officers, turning over to them a small pistol which was used.

It is alleged that Davis went to the store where Saunders is employed Saturday week, and attempted to give Saunders a whipping, but his plans were interfered with, and the Friday evening affair was a direct outgrowth of the trouble. It is alleged that Saunders was followed from near the store by Davis, who caught him at Martin's Bakery, and the fight was started.

Saunders was hit twice and knocked down, then he started shooting to keep Davis away from him. Four shots were fired, with one entering the foot, doing slight damage.

Saunders made bond, awaiting the action of the grand jury. Cause of the trouble has not been made known.

H. A. Davidson, of the Davidson Feed and Grain Company, went to Littlefield and Sudan on business Friday.

Time Is Greatest Need of Lubbock School Boys, Is Opinion of Those Interested In Work of Recently Organized Hi-Y Club

Lubbock school boys have organized a "Hi-Y" club, which is titled the Lubbock Hi-Y. This is one of the strongest little organizations of the city, and will no doubt, ere the close of this term, become one of the great factors in developing character and leadership among the students of the city.

The local club is affiliated with the Texas Hi-Y Clubs, and is an auxiliary to the Texas State Young Men's Christian Association.

Giving reason or definition for the name, the guide book of the organization says: "The Hi-Y Club is a popular contraction of the words, 'High School' and 'Young Men's Christian Association,' the 'Hi' standing for High School and the 'Y' for Y. M. C. A., showing that the two are closely related and working hand in hand." The establishment of the club in Lubbock is indeed gratifying to those interested in the young life of the city, and hopes are high for its being very effective in developing the characteristics which command a people great and invincible, and as the plains country is going to take a leading place, and is to some extent at this time, it is encouraging to know that the High School boys are being given membership in an organization designed to better equip them to take and hold places of leadership in whatsoever vocation they may enter, and those who have studied the workings of the Hi-Y organization feel that it is filling a long needed want in the school life of the pupils.

The organization was effective in its work during the past term, and though those members are now in higher institutes of learning, their example is left in the memory of their friends here, who are eager to take up the work and carry it on in a manner that will command them to those who shall follow them as they are now following those who have just vacated the positions of responsibility in the club.

Alvin Hutson is president of the new organization, Scott Turner, secretary, with a strong board of directors and standing committees to support them in carrying on the work, with Neal Douglass of the Avalanche and Ray C. Mosery, instructor of Animal Husbandry in the school given places of responsibility in helping to carry on the work.

At the second meeting of the new organization held at the Animal Husbandry class room Thursday evening plans for carrying on the work were discussed, and if the school boys continue in the work with the same enthusiasm and efficiency which characterized this meeting, we can assure our readers that much can be expected of them.

The purpose of the Hi-Y Clubs is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character, and with the disposition of the boys toward this purpose already amply and well stated, the purpose of the organization is, we are prone to believe, a lasting characteristic of the life of the individual member, and at the Thursday evening meeting the objectives of the organization which may be signified by the members standing squarely for "clean living, clean speech, clean athletics and clean scholarship" were approved.

Time is far gone in Lubbock when finding employment for the "idle" boys of the schools may be looked upon as a problem, for certainly idleness is unknown to Lubbock boys as in suppressing that great destroyer of character, "idleness." Lubbock boys have thrown themselves body and soul into so many phases of community and school work, that to find time to carry on this work was indeed a problem. After studying closely the rules as laid down by the headquarters office, it was decided that the work merited a great deal of attention, as a result of which Tuesday evening, from seven to eight o'clock was designated meeting time for the members.

To give each and every member a great deal of training and experience in public speaking, is one of the greatest ambitions of the club leaders, and to this end a great deal of time will be devoted to practicing, and every boy of the club, from the "brassiest" to the most timid, will be given ample time to develop along that line.

In meeting the requirements of the headquarters office the members will necessarily have to do a great deal of studying, and on that account, and in view of the fact that the Athletic Association of the school claims as its most worthy members a large per cent of the boys in the Hi-Y, little time will be given to athletics, but becoming well versed on matters of public concern, and learning to express their views on these matters, will be a mainstay of the members, and Members will please remember that Tuesday evening, beginning promptly at seven o'clock, has been set as meeting time.

This leaves $1 yet to be apportioned out of the $13 per capita allotment made for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1922.

Collin County Farmer to Pay the Death Penalty For the Murder of Hardy Mills Last September

McKinney, Texas, Oct. 21.—Ezell Stepp, Vineland farmer, was Monday afternoon sentenced to "hang by the neck until dead," for the murder of Hardy Mills, McKinney laborer, on Sept. 2, 1921. The date of execution was set for Friday, Nov. 17, 1922. Judge Frank E. Wilcox passed sentence on Stepp, while court room, while Judge Wilcox was delivering his address sentencing Stepp, every neck was craned to catch the words of the court. Judge Wilcox proceeded slowly, articulating distinctly. His voice carried to the far portions of the court room. Judge Wilcox sat in a large chair as he delivered the sentence. Court Reporter James M. Muse made a stenographic copy of the proceedings. Seated in the jury box were Senator Woodville J. Rogers, Judge George R. Smith, Assistant County Attorney H. Grady Chandler, and County Attorney A. M. Wolford, who directed Stepp's prosecution. Also Judge Martin Kindle, Attorneys J. D. Reese and Jewel Abernathy, who were attorneys appointed by the court to defend Stepp and who conducted his case until a few days ago when they were relieved of their assignment by Stepp, who so to speak, changed horses in midstream by employing Attorney A. S. Baskett of Dallas. Baskett argued a motion for rehearing before the higher court which was denied, and which was prepared by the McKinney triumvirate.

With all preliminaries out of the way, Judge Wilcox said: "The State of Texas versus Ezell Stepp, No. A. 1933. Mr. Ezell Stepp please stand up."

Defendant Ezell Stepp stood. "Have you anything to say why the court should not now pronounce sentence upon you?"

Ezell Stepp: "Well, Judge, I am not guilty of what I am charged with."

DEVELOPMENT OF SOUTH PLAINS HAS BEEN WELL PROPORTIONED

SIZE OF WORK ANIMALS HAS BEEN GREATLY ENLARGED DURING PAST TEN YEARS

DEVELOPMENTS ARE NORMAL AND SURE

The Resources of the South Plains Have Been Developed So Rapidly As To Characterize the Citizens As Builders and Boosters of the First Class.

Wonder if the ducks and geese going south notice any difference in the Plains country now, and several years ago when they were gozlings making their first flight across the Plains in company with the parent birds whose instinct lead them to take their young to warmer climates?

That is just one of the many problems that is bothering the writer.

A good many other problems that bother us don't have so much to do with the feathered variety of geese, but hinge on whether or not a good many of the people who cross the plains on the fast going Santa Fe trains realize that they are traversing a country where the greatest developments known to the human race are taking place in possibly less time than ever known?

Wonder if they know that a few years ago the man who sold leather goods to the population of this country was compelled to carry horse and mule collars from size fourteen to eighteen, and that if perchance some silver-tongued salesman sold said dealer a size twenty collar that the dealer was in a good many instances asked if he had any ambitions of selling goods to an elephant keeper on some circus? and his penalty for the "extravagance" was absolute inability to sell the collar.

Let's take it for granted that those fellows do know that that has actually been the case on the plains. Then let's present the fact that the dealers of the South Plains, including Lubbock, Lamesa, and other towns hereabout now sell an average of a size 23 collar the year through. That is some development in mule necks, and the writer is of the opinion that when we develop the necks of mules at that wonderful speed—this development having been accomplished in the past ten years—that there must certainly be other developments that are just as noteworthy, yet we are of the opinion that there are a good many unfortunate over the Plains with a heart filled with sympathy for the poor folks of "dry West Texas" and now that we have admitted this opinion, we will hope we may not be looked upon critically for having aroused within ourselves some curiosity of the knowledge of the feathered variety of geese that fly southward over the plains as regards local conditions.

This is just to present the fact to you, Mr. Reader, that the Plains country is growing. Our mules are developing more neck every day, our people have already distinguished themselves as having exercised that part of the human body which is often referred to as "gray matter" that we are of the opinion that the time has ever a good many developments along those lines. Our ranch lands have been cut into smaller tracts and each tract gives employment to citizens who are taking as their life's work a part of the work of developing the Plains. Agricultural developments have been just as noticeable, and even more conspicuous, than the developments of the necks of Plains mules, and anyone could draw just as favorable contrast between the equipment the implement salesman is compelled to carry to meet the demands of the people of this section as the harness dealer has.

The development of the great South Plains has been constant, sure and well proportioned, and just because of our great admiration for the ability of a mule to use better judgment in locating a place to do his kicking than a good many more enlightened animals, we have presented these startling facts that commend, at least to some extent, that sturdy beast of burden who has thrived on the great South Plains.

SANTA FE CONSIDERS BUYING TWO ROADS

Wichita Falls, Oct. 17.—A proposal to route the main line of the Santa Fe Railway through this city is being considered by Santa Fe officials here for that purpose last night. They spent the day in conference with Frank Kell, builder of five Texas railroads, at the hotel here.

It is understood they wish to take over the Wichita Falls and Southern and the Byers and Waurika Railroads, making a trunk line direct from St. Louis via Oklahoma City, through Wichita Falls and direct to the coast.

No official statement was given out at the close of the conference tonight, other than that "such a line is being seriously considered and would be extremely advantageous to the railroad."

MAN IS SHOT WHEN PISTOL DROPS FROM FRIEN'S POCKET

Clovis, Oct. 20.—Corey Raleigh, a young man of Texico, was accidentally shot Tuesday by Eugene Houston, according to reports received here. The men were engaged in a friendly scuffle when Houston's gun was imbedded out of his trousers and went off, the bullet striking Raleigh under the arm and coming out over the shoulder blade. None seemed to have heard the shot until Raleigh exclaimed, "I am shot."

The injured man was taken to a local hospital, where it is reported he will recover. Houston is being held pending Raleigh's recovery, it is reported.

HUGHES QUITS JAIL AT ALPINE, TEXAS

El Paso, Oct. 17.—Harry L. Hughes, 20, sentenced to pay the death penalty for killing C. H. Rogers, who fed Hughes when he was hungry, escaped last night from the jail at Alpine, according to word received at the sheriff's office in El Paso.

As this trial Hughes pleaded self-defense. Evidence at the trial showed that Hughes and Rogers, on their way to California, got off a freight train at Alpine. Hughes asked Rogers to buy him something to eat. The men went to a restaurant together and Rogers paid for the meal, getting change for a $20 bill. When a train pulled out of Alpine a few hours later Rogers was shot in the back as he went to board it. Robbery was said to have been the motive.

KIWANIS KOMMENTS

The weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club, held at the Methodist church dining room Thursday was another important meeting, bordering on the most important work to be done at this time, as well as what has been done.

Percy Spencer was called upon to tell what the city was going to do in helping to put over the sidewalk proposition, and the fact that the city forces are going to back the Junior Chamber of Commerce up in every move pertaining to this great work was evident. He even went so far as to say that the good citizens of Lubbock who were so unthoughtful as to in any manner try to curtail the progress of this work by refusing to sidewalk their property, the city would see what could be done to help push the work along.

Col. Mullican thanked the Mayor very kindly for his assertions, and assured him that the Kiwanis Club is back of him in this work to make Lubbock a bigger and better town. He was enthusiastic as to the ability of the Kiwanians to do things, and suggested several civic problems needing immediate solution, and expressed a desire to see the Kiwanians get back of the work, and accomplish the tasks.

George Briggs, of the South Plains Fair Association, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club, as well as of State Fair fame, was called upon to explain how the first place was won at the fair, and the whole situation was explained by him saying that "we won by having every place on the score card filled, and filled with good stuff."

Mr. Briggs was interrupted by Historian Easy Morgan, who declared that he had visited the booth at the Dallas Fair at morning, noon, mid-afternoon and night without finding any indications of where Briggs or Jennings had gone, which Briggs accounted for by stating that at the time Mr. Morgan had gone to the booth he was on his way back to Lubbock, and the question was withheld until the presence of Mr. Jennings.

A motion was put before the members to have Mr. Jennings guest of honor at the next meeting, which was unanimously adopted, and the secretary was requested to write him an invitation to that effect, this action being made in order that the Kiwanians may have an opportunity to thank Mr. Jennings for his exceptional services by one resolution, and was made by Prof. M. M. Durrie.

coming a citizen and a part of the Hub of the Plains, and assured the Kiwanians that he enjoyed the opportunity to be with them.

Neal Douglass, Sr., of Littlefield, was present, and made a talk to the Kiwanians in which he was not at all complimentary of the roads leading to and from Lubbock. Since the Sr., happens to be our Senior, and one with whom we are very well acquainted we take it for granted that inasmuch as the roads in the Littlefield district were constructed under his supervision, he took advantage of the situation to "pour it on" those in Lubbock who are tolerating our present road conditions.

Mr. Douglass, after making due apologies for having imposed upon the city of Lubbock in the manner he has, for which he was brought to task by Col. Mullican, said the only accounting he could give for his sons coming to Lubbock was that "I encouraged my boys from the time they were little fellows to go into the world and take the very best into themselves that the universe could afford, and the fact that they have followed those instructions faithfully is shown in that before they were hardly half grown they both landed in Lubbock."

When Col. Mullican announced that the next meeting would be devoted entirely to a discussion of roads, Mr. Douglass assured the Kiwanians that if Lubbock county would connect with the Lamb county roads on the Bankhead highway, the section of roads already completed through the west part of the state would help turn a great deal of travel through Lubbock, and would be instrumental in advertising the South Plains.

W. O. Stevens, chairman of the Good Road Committee, and his committee, will have charge of making out the program for the next meeting, and those acquainted with Mr. Stevens' way of doing things are encouraged to know that he will have charge of forming this program.

Boyce Cardwell, Double See Pearson and Ray C. Mowery, who were to have prepared a funny program for this occasion, but fell down on the job, were seriously condemned by the entire club, and their further participation in its activities depends entirely upon their future conduct eclipsing in a more admirable manner, their past work. Those old boys are all right, just want to get funny, and on trying found it was not at all an easy job, and the Kiwanians, being the big-hearted fellows they are, overlooked the ambitious youths' failure, and will offer them all the encouragement possible in the future.

Following are those who were guests at the Kiwanis luncheon, Thursday: J. C. Dunbar, guest of W. O. Stevens; Dyke Cullum and W. D. Cullum, guests of Dr. Castleberry; Aubry Thomas, guest of W. B. Atkins; Dr. M. H. Starnes, guest of Dr. W. E. Cravens; Roy W. Starnes, guest of Percy Spencer; Neal Douglass, Sr., guest of Neal Douglass, Jr.; Richard E. Douglas, guest of Rev. C. N. Ferguson; W. S. Posey and Ernest Conley, guests of Gerald V. Smith; J. O. Jones, guest of Fred C. Oliver; Geo. W. Briggs, guest of club; Mr. Yager, guest of H. E. Miller.

Lubbock County Singers to Meet Here Sunday

The Lubbock County Singing Convention will meet here Sunday at the Community Auditorium, according to an announcement of Ira Wilson, secretary, in another place in this issue.

The Convention is one of the strongest on the Plains insofar as the county class is concerned, and has as its members some of the best singers in the state, which will combine to make the Sunday meeting one of the best ever held on the plains.

The things the convention has accomplished since its organization stand out monumental to the progressiveness and abilities of the members, and the Avalanche is speaking the sentiments of the entire population of Lubbock when we

Noticeable Gain in Number of Pupils at Baptist Colleges

Dallas, October 19.—Baptist of Texas are elated over the great gains shown in the opening of their schools. Everyone of them from Baylor University, with its several professional schools, down to little Rusk Junior College, there is a decided gain over last year.

Texas enjoys the distinction of having more Baptist educational institutions than any other state within the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention and has been enabled as a result of the 75 Million Campaign to make a larger contribution to each of them. Under the method of distribution of Campaign funds the Southwide interests of the denomination are cared for in the spring and state institutions and interests during the fall, though each interest and institution gets its total quota from the Campaign fund within a year's time.

The Texas Baptists are now engaged in an effort to raise $1,500,000 in cash between now and December 1st, and when this money comes in, a considerable sum of it will go to the various educational and benevolent institutions fostered by the denomination in this state. Up to May 1, 1922, the Baptist schools of Texas had received the following amounts: Baylor College, Belton, $121,593.42; Baylor University, Waco, $173,400.00; Howard-Payne College, Brownwood, $52,012; Simmons College, Abilene, $81,700; Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, $86,700; Burleson College, Greenville; Decatur College, Decatur; College of Marshall, Marshall; Rusk College, Rusk; Wayland College, Plainview, and San Marcos Academy, San Marcos, $17,340.00 each.

In addition to their interest in schools the Baptists of Texas are seeking to care for their extensive State Mission interests, their several hospitals and their orphanage in this Campaign. It is believed that when the Convention meets in Waco the middle of November, this great sum will have been raised.

Santa Fe Reduces Rates On Feed Stuffs For New Mexico And May Soon Include Texas

Fort Worth, Oct. 16.—The Santa Fe Railroad today announced a 50 per cent reduction in rates on feedstuffs for New Mexico, effective Oct. 20, as a measure to relieve cattlemen in the drouth-stricken areas of the west.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf Railroad has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to make similar reductions.

Reduced rates are expected to include Texas within a short time. Application for the reduction was made by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association and later by the Santa Fe Railroad to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which granted the petitions.

Feed named in the special rate reduction announced are as follows: Cottonseed cake, meal, hulls, corn, and corn articles, taking corn rates, alfalfa and maize. The reduction will be effective from Santa Fe points in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and also from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Superior, Neb., to points in New Mexico. The special rate will continue in force until December 31 and it is said specifically that it is granted for the relief of the drouth-stricken live stock industry.

The special rate to be granted by the Rock Island, will be effective from the points on the roads in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Judge Sam H. Cowan, general attorney for the American Live Stock Association now is in Washington in connection with the stock car shortage, and will give part of his time to an appeal to the I. C. C. for a general rate reduction for the entire Western cattle country affected by the drouth, according to E. D. Spiller, secretary of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association.

It is considered practically certain by Texas cattlemen that the 50 per cent reduction will be applied to Texas territory which is declared in practically the same condition as New Mexico.

History Wants To Name the First Woman Senator After the Gov. Names Mrs. Felton to Place

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 20.—The first woman U. S. Senator is not yet an actuality. "In name only" seems now to be a situation in which an elderly and noble Southern woman finds herself. She likely will never be sworn in—nor will she ever appear on the floor of the Senate. She has been handed an honor, but the string attached to it is so tight that history will have to wait before it can inscribe the first woman's name upon the Senate roll.

When Governor Hardwick, of Georgia, named Mrs. W. H. Felton,

87 years old, of Cartersville, Ga., to the Senate seat vacated through the death of Senator Tom Watson, women voters of this state and the nation rejoiced and praised the act which they felt was another step for suffrage. But their joy was short lived, when events showed plainly that ultra and selfish motives had been at work.

No one here doubts the splendid nobility of Mrs. Felton. She is a fine, high-minded noble-spirited and patriotic woman. Her husband was for years a congressman, from Georgia, and she was his helper—in his campaigns and at home.

Governor a Candidate

The motive in naming her was not long in becoming apparent. Immediately after making a great fuss over naming Mrs. Felton, Governor Hardwick offered himself as a candidate to fill the Watson seat. The Senate is adjourned until after the November election when Georgia will elect by law a senator to fill out the unexpired Watson term. So there is no way Mrs. Felton could be sworn in—unless the Senate come here to her. There is no way she could even once occupy a senatorial seat—as there will be no session until a new senator has been elected by law.

Gov. Hardwick's naming of Mrs. Felton was not an appointment to serve. He merely named her as a legal filler of an appointment, not even as a sworn in officer.

Women Criticize Harwich

The criticism which has come from the women voters of the United States has caused Gov. Harwich to state that he will have Federal authorities here to administer the oath. But would the honor go to one who is sworn in as a pure stunt hundreds of miles away from the august Senate chamber—and during a recess of that branch of our government?

Governor Harwich may be elected to don the toga of the late Senator Watson. He may go to Washington ahead of Mrs. Felton as he planned, but his effort to make a "dayless" senator the "First Woman" is asking a great deal of future historians.

PARENTS AS EDUCATORS

Teaching Efficiency in All Things (By Edith Lochridge Reid)

A business man not long ago was complaining seriously of his inefficient office help and he remarked, "The trouble is, these folks never learned to use their heads when they were small." Now this man was very close to one-hundred per cent correct in his statement. Too many children are not trained at home to make decisions, take responsibility according to their age and strength, or meet emergencies without shrinking. Let us say that Bobbie's duty is to pick up his playthings. But he picks up two or three and leaves the rest scattered about. Right there he should be taught a lesson in thoroughness. Very young children can be taught to hang up their coats and hats if the hooks are placed within their reach, and thus they first learn the lesson of order and of care of their clothes.

Let us suppose that Dorothy is asked to wipe the dishes. But she asks, "Mother, where's the towel?" and calls from upstairs, "I can't find my apron!" and then she asks, "Where does this pitcher belong?" Some mothers expend as much energy getting a child ready to do a thing as they would use in doing themselves. Let Dorothy look around until she finds a place for it and if she uses her head a little she will discover both the towel and her apron without calling to her mother. If the daughter is dusting, see that it does not have to be gone over by mother afterwards. This is the most helpful method for mother, besides making little daughter competent—and a competent person acquires poise and confidence naturally.

"I want you to do an errand, son," says mother, and instantly she is besieged by a volley of questions "Where's the basket?" "Where's my pocket book?" "I can't find my roller skates." And if this mother is not using the efficiency method, she will be tired out simply making preparation for the trip.

"O I'd rather do things myself than get the children ready to help me," is often the excuse; but that is decidedly the wrong attitude for a mother to take, if she considers both herself and the child. Let the children find out by experience where things are and they'll soon be glad to take responsibility when they are trained to assume it. Even very young children will surprise you in making deductions and following out difficulties to a logical solution.

How often we see households where there is a panic from rising time until the last child is off to school. "Come, now, it's seven-thirty—you'll be late if you don't hurry. It's cold this morning and rainy too. Wear your mittens and rubbers and be sure to get a handkerchief." Thus mother follows the boys and girls about, and they know she won't let them be late or forget anything, so they are utterly unconscious of any responsibility in the matter.

Now the wise mother whose household is builded on methods of efficiency will let the children be late: JUST ONCE if necessary. That will be enough. The disapproval of teachers and school-mates will do more than months of talking and urging on mother's part, and in addition the children will have been thrown on their own responsibility. The share of the burden thus lifted from mother in no way equals the great gain made by the children in self-reliance.

A child at five is forming most of the personal habits that he will use at twenty, and just as far as mother does things for him now, so much will his efficiency be reduced in later life.

Let's make the children see that to stand up under responsibility and to cultivate resources within themselves are praiseworthy achievements. Only thus do the boy and girl grasp the idea of TRUE SERVICE.

Cotton Crop Is Making Good In Hale Center Section

Hale Center, Oct. 21.—One of the most alluring figures was brought to our attention this week in regard to the amount of cotton ginned to date and its value measured in dollars and cents. It was shown us that to date about $35,000.00 worth of cotton has been ginned and marketed here. Don't this sound good?
Farmers are ginning their cotton here from distances of 20 to 25 miles from Hale Center. A bale was brought in this week that was picked within 3 miles of Plainview. This is how the news spreads about 100 per cent work in ginning. Mr. Farmer knows when he gets good work, and the "buck" is passed along. Good work and service is mighty good advertising. That's why we are having more ginning than we anticipated.
We expect that there will be several thousand more acres put in next year. Farmers are learning that a one-crop system in the long run leads to ruin of finances and that's one reason why there will be diversification on a more extensive scale around Hale Center than we have had heretofore.

Senior Class to Present Play of Exceptional Merit

The Senior Class of the Lubbock High School will present "Bashful Mr. Bobbs" at the Lindsey Theatre, next Friday night, October 27, at 8 p. m.
Everybody enjoys a good play, well given. If you enjoy a good laugh and an interesting situation, don't fail to see "Bashful Mr. Bobbs." The characters are well chosen and unusual time has been taken in the training. If you have any sympathy for bashful people, come and see George Smith, as "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," ^{Excell Hunt,} as "Obadiah Stump," is one of the most original characters of the play. You cannot appreciate him fully unless you see the play, especially the scene when he bravely takes the gun and captures the burglar. Willette Waters makes a typical landlady of a country hotel. Weldon Woodbridge, as the real Mr. Bobbs, is a source of amusement to all, as he has so much trouble with his love affairs.

You cannot afford to miss the play for several reasons. First, it is one of the best plays that has ever been given by high school students. Second, the Seniors of the high school need the co-operation and help of the Lubbock people in putting over the 1923 annual. The proceeds of the play go to help finance the annual. So come to the play and enjoy a good laugh, and help a worthy cause.

USE OF ONE-MAN CARS GROWS IN ALL CITIES

Dallas, Oct. 24.—Employment of one-man safety cars on street and interurban railroads in the United States has increased materially during the past year. Experience has shown that these cars are economical in operation and safe. They add to the speed with which transportation is carried on. Use of these cars make the cost of operating street railways less and consequently tend to keep the fares at a lower figure than with the heavier cars.

The Texas League Women in Their Annual Convention

The United Press.
Houston, Oct. 24.—The annual convention of the Texas League of Women Voters will open here today with a number of prominent persons scheduled to address the assembly during its four days session, ending October 27.
Prison reform in Texas; child labor, with a special discussion of the Shepherd-Towner Child Labor Act and its operation in Texas; the question of revision of the Texas Constitution; and re-organization of the league for legislative activity for the coming year, will be the principal matters to come before the convention.

The call for the convention was issued by Mrs. Jessie Daniel Amos, of Georgetown, president of the League, who will make the opening address here today.

Dr. E. Stag Whitton, chairman of the National Executive Committee on prisons and prison labor will be the chief speaker of the convention. Dr. Whitton is nationally known as a prison authority and will speak on "How human waste is being saved."

"The prisons of the state continue to drain our treasury without showing results for the money expended, while our schools are closing earlier because of lack of funds. Women and children, forced into industrial work to earn a livelihood are inadequately protected under the laws of our state. It is with these conditions in mind and a desire to remedy them that this convention is called," the call for the convention reads.

LOCAL JEWELRYMAN IS A SUPERIOR RACER

Buick automobile salesman is out of luck with O. R. Collier, of Watkins Jewelry Store. The incident which dooms the salesman occurred on main street here Friday evening, near the Watkins Jewelry Store. Mr. Collier was crossing the street, and on reaching the very center of the crossing, saw two automobiles racing for the turn in the center of Avenue I, and it was evident that each driver tried to beat the other fellow to the turn, as a result of which the cars met at the corner at the same time, and to prevent a collision, the drivers headed their cars up Eleventh street, and it was done so quickly that Mr. Collier was compelled to outrun the Buick to save himself from being run down, and his success in the race, he claims, has made him fall out with the Buick cars, however, he is mighty glad that on this occasion his speeding ability proved superior to that of the Buick, he having gained footing on the sidewalk about eighteen inches ahead of the car.
His friends who were unaware of his ability as a racer were eager to have him repeat the little show, but he claims there's more fun in fixing watches, and refused to accommodate them.

NEW YORK DEBUTANTE WANTS TO SEE K. K. PARADE

The United Press.
Dallas, Oct. 21.—"I want to see a Ku Klux parade and want some real Texas 'corn' and then I think I will have seen enough and done enough to last me for a while."
This was the statement of a New York debutante visiting in Texas for her first time.

This young lady has never been outside of New York before, in fact she was possessed with the idea that there was nothing worth seeing outside of that state—until she came to Texas.

Recently she saw a circus here. "I have seen them before but they always showed at Madison garden. I didn't know they ever held them in a tent. Why the tent was down almost before the show was over."

And then she was allowed to see a real medicine show. "I've read of them in books but I didn't have any idea there were any left." It was hours before she could be induced to leave the "Doctor" in his frock coat and "silk," who, with the aid of two dusky comedians, was selling a medicine that would "grow hair on a sidewalk, cure dengue fever and polish stoves," all for one dollar.

"A shorthorn steer looked as large as a subway train to her, so she said."

COTTON THIEF ACTIVE HERE LAST SATURDAY

Saturday morning at an early hour, a man giving the name of Ed Smith appeared at the cotton yards of this city, and asked for his cotton, which, he said was to have been thrown off here the night before. The cotton had not been weighed in, and no receipt had been issued for it, however with the aid of a forged ginner's ticket, the man was successful in getting a weigher's receipt for the two bales, which were immediately bought by Mr. Cone, of the Parks Grain Co.
The cotton belonged to J. H. Burroughs of the Carlisle community, and it seems that the thief had advance information that the cotton would be thrown off Friday night.

The weigher had gone home. It is believed that he watched the cotton and changed names on the bales, and appeared next morning with necessary receipts for delivery. Clues leading to the apprehension of the thief are being followed, and it is believed that within a very short time he will be landed in jail.

CRANKLESS ENGINE IS LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN AUTO WORLD

Dr. Edgar Hollis Armstrong, a New England mechanical genius has produced a crankless engine which is now being tested out at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by the most capable engineers attached to that famous institution.

The crankless engine is the goal that is beckoning on the world's leading automobile manufacturers, and it is generally conceded that its attainment is to be the next great advance step in the matter of automobile production.

Working in conjunction with Dr. Armstrong are Dr. William H. Tucker, a technology graduate; C. W. Clemons, a naval architect, and James Edward Hamley, another inventor.

There is no bulky and unsightly crank case with this engine. There are no wrist pins and connecting rods to break and get out of order. All parts are of easy access and the inventor claims that a large per cent of the most common motor troubles will be eliminated.

FIRE AT COTTON YARD LAST SUNDAY MORNING

The fire also was turned in from the cotton yard about 10:30 Sunday morning, and it was found upon arrival at that place by the fire department that four bales were already damaged very materially, and the fire was spreading rapidly under the heavy wind that prevailed.

Quick work on the part of the fire department prevented further spread of the flames, however, there being no water mains across the railroad necessitated stretching hose from the compress.

It is estimated that twenty-five bales were damaged, all but four being very slight, part of which was covered by insurance. The loss of the twenty-one bales slightly burned is estimated at $200.

COTTON LEAF WORM IS WORKING ON CUERO COTTON

The United Press.
Cuero, Texas, Oct. 20.—For the second time this year, the cotton leaf worm has invaded the cotton fields in this section and is stripping the plants of all foliage in many sections.

Farmers are making no effort to stop the ravages of the pest due to the fact that stripping the foliage of the plants will destroy the winter lodging places of the boll weevil, and will give lower bolls a chance at the sunlight and an opportunity to open.

With the cotton stripped and with few boll weevils farmers are looking forward to a much larger crop next year under more favorable conditions.

DENTON FAIR DOUBLES BISCUIT PREMIUMS TO BRIDES

The United Press.
Denton, Texas, Oct. 24.—Newly-weds will no longer have to face the horrors of leaden biscuits and soggy cakes made by the hands of the adoring but inexperienced brides if the movement started by the Denton County Fair proves successful.

As an inducement for brides to learn how to cook, officials of the fair, being held here this week, have offered to double the premium money where prizes are won by brides of less than one year.

Determined to show up the jokers, who have cast slurs on the ability of brides to bring joy to the stomachs of their new husbands, many newly-weds have entered samples of their culinary art in the women's department of the Fair.

TEXAS NEWSPAPER CIRCULATORS MEETING AT GALVESTON

The United Press.
Galveston, Oct. 24.—The Texas Newspapers Circulation Managers' Association annual meeting will open here tomorrow at the Galvez Hotel.

Circulation managers from all over Texas are expected to be in attendance when the convention begins.

A number of interesting addresses on circulation problems will be given by managers of different papers over the state.

"Why the successful circulation manager must be hard-boiled," by Herbert Peters, circulation manager of the Wichita Falls Times, will be a feature of the meeting.

TRAVELING MEN'S ORGANIZATION FOR LUBBOCK

Lubbock is to have a Traveling Men's organization, says S. P. Smith of the Great West Mill & Elevator Company. Plans are now under way for the completion of such an organization, and future plans will be in the hands of Claude McDaniels, of the Martin-Bakery.

The Order of United Commercial Travelers of America is the one under contemplation, and it is thought that within a very short time plans will be completed. Twenty-five new members are required for organization, and inasmuch as Lubbock now has something like one hundred traveling men making their home in the city, not including the men who practically have headquarters here, it is expected that no difficulty will be experienced in the primary work.

However, some of the local men are already members of the organization by their phones, and they cannot be "new" members here. The traveling men mean money, this territory, and many of them make this territory only occasionally, and such an organization is not only has a tendency to make them feel more at home here, but is a good boost to Lubbock as a progressive and forward-looking town. It is urged that all local traveling men get in touch with McDaniels at once for completion of the organization.

Boost the Seniors—Don't fail to see their play at the Lindsey Friday night.

NON-METALLIC MINERALS OF TEXAS
In the Magazine Section of the Lubbock Avalanche, which will be published November 3, Mr. E. H. Sellards, geologist of the University of Texas, writes of the non-metallic minerals of Texas. He tells in this series of our resources in minerals, such as fullers earth, potash, salt, sulphur, copper, lead, zinc, iron, gold, silver, quicksilver, graphite, etc. Texas and Louisiana mines produce ninety-nine per cent of all the sulphur mined in the United States, the greater production coming from Texas. Our state is full of valuable minerals, and when fully developed, will rival the world in production of mineral richness.

REMODELING AND PATCHING UP THE OLD HEN HOUSE

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Poultry Husbandman, A. & M. College)

(All rights reserved)

The question of housing at this time of the year is always an all important one. Some of us are not so fortunate that we can build a new hen house. These must find a cheaper way of providing protection for the fowls in inclement weather, which we are sure to have very soon.

The housing of chickens is important, they must be kept comfortable in the cold weather or they will contract disease of all kinds and at best will not produce eggs. The hen house may be very inexpensive, but one thing it must provide, and that is comfort. The house may appear like patched up trousers, but it must provide comfort and protection to the occupants. The kind of house depends to some extent on local conditions, also the section of the state. In the Gulf coast country we require a different house than in the Panhandle of Texas. The big idea is to protect against rain and the cold north winds. In all cases and in all sections of Texas, we believe that the south side may be left open, at least the biggest part, excepting for the inch mesh wire netting, to keep the varmints out, and confine the fowls when necessary.

Remodeling

By remodeling in this instance we mean the rebuilding of the present hen house you may have. The majority of hen houses do not provide sufficient fresh air. We have seen many hen houses with closed up fronts. Here we recommend cutting out the biggest part of the front to bring the hen house up-to-date and make it a better house for the hens to live in. A lack of fresh air causes a large number of poultry diseases, the most common of which are roup, sore-heads and a long string of other ailments. Open up the front and let in the light and air.

Don't be afraid of getting the front too open. The ends and the north side of the house should be arranged that they can be closed tight in cold weather and opened up in hot weather. The best way of accomplishing this is by arranging shutters hinged up at the top to swing out and up.

Roof

No doubt the roof needs repairing. It must shed water. If it leaks look into the matter now before it is too late. The hen house must be kept dry. If it is not, a fit place for chickens, it should be used for something else. We have been using paper roofs, or composition roofing paper, but find that in open front houses it does not last long enough. For this reason we are covering all of our hen house roofs as fast as they require repairing with galvanized iron. Then we have a roof that lasts. We place the galvanized iron right over the composition roofing. This does away with the serious disadvantage of iron roofs making the houses too hot in the summer. Shingle roofs are not satisfactory because they provide an excellent harboring place for mites and blue bugs.

Floor

In old hen houses with a dirt floor, now is the time to get in there and remove about five inches of the top and replace with fresh and clean dirt. This is important and should be attended to now. We also like to go around the hen houses on the outside and see to it that all of the surface drainage is so the water runs or drains away from the house. Sometimes a few hours work with a wheel-barrow and shovel will greatly improve the dryness of the floor, and in turn the health of the fowls. Hens will not do well in houses with damp floors.

Fixtures

The fixtures like nest boxes all should be cleaned out thoroughly and disinfected and if they require repairing now is the time to do it. We have found quarter inch mesh hardware cloth very good bottoms for nests. If any hinges are off, repair them. The roosts should be put in good shape. Short roosts are better than long ones. Roosts running with the narrow side of the building are better than running with the long end of the building. It is a good idea to paint the roosts with a coat of wood preservative or liquid mite killer. If possible, install trap nests, dry mash hoppers and ways of providing artificial light during the short winter days.

Foundations

All permanent buildings should be built on concrete foundations. The present prices on all building material makes it unwise to locate houses directly on the ground, or in such a way that they will soon decay or rot. A house lasts only as long as the foundation lasts. Movable houses should be blocked up on brick, rock or concrete blocks made for the purpose. It is a great mistake to place a hen house directly on the ground.

Rats

Now is a good time to spend some time killing out the rats, especially if they infest the hen houses. A rat eats about as much feed or at least destroys as much as 25 hens will eat in a year. They multiply much faster than most varmints, hence it is important to kill as many as possible. There are many ways of accomplishing this, although not any seem perfect. Poison is only satisfactory in special cases. Traps always are good. Cats and dogs that will kill rats are very good. All buildings, especially where feed is stored, should be blocked up from the ground so there are no harboring places for the rats.

Painting Houses

Too few farm buildings are painted. It may be that most people are not financially able to paint the home, much less the hen houses. Where possible, we firmly believe that it pays to keep the buildings painted. We find they last much longer, and do not leak as bad in rainy weather which is important in all poultry houses. White, Grey and Red are desirable colors.

Lamesa Loses to Lubbock, 66 to 6
 "Sixty-six to six at six minutes to six," was the war cry of the Lubbock Hi rooters at the close of Friday's exhibition against Lamesa, Lubbock, of course, holding the stronger end of the unevenly matched affair.

Lamesa was never near a score with the exception of the first quarter. When from kick formation, McFarland faked a kick, and carried the ball over for a touchdown, failing on the try for goal. Repeated gains were made by the locals from all and any form of formations. Touchdowns were made from forward passes time after time. Wilson got away in the first quarter, and scored a touchdown from the kickoff, the second the squad has put over this season. Interference was perfect practically the full game.

On next Saturday, the Floydada bunch, the "Jonahs" of the East Plains will be here, and the hardest game of the season is expected.

Friday's game by plays:
 Lamesa receives, returning 15 yards from kick-off; line play nets 2 feet; line plunge 1 yard. On the next play—a fake—Lamesa is thrown for a loss and then punted out of bounds; Lubbock's ball. On the first play the ball was fumbled and Lubbock made no gain; Hawes makes 4 yards through line; Wilson 15 yards around end; Hawes 35 yards around end for first touchdown; Woodriddle fails for point.

Lubbock kicks, McFarland for Lamesa returning 13 yards; fake play gains 3 yards. On the next play—a fake—Lamesa was thrown for 6-yard loss; third down and 13 yards to go. Lamesa punts and Dupre returns punt 40 yards in a good broken field run; Wilson goes over 15 yards for touchdown; Woodriddle kicks goal for additional point.

Lubbock kicks and McFarland returns 15 yards; line plunge nets 1 yard; fake end run nets 45 yards; McFarland carrying the ball. Line plunge nets 2 feet; line plunge on right side nets one yard; fake end run gains 6 yards; McFarland makes it first down; fake end run nets 13 yards; another fake gains 1 yard; end run no gain; McFarland makes 4 yards; from kick formation McFarland fakes kick and carries the ball over for touchdown. Lamesa playing a hard game. Drop kick for additional point fails.

Lamesa kicks and Lubbock receives. Barton replaces Reese; Pryor is replaced by Rankin; Wilson receives ball on kick-off and runs 85 yards for touchdown; good interference for part of the way. This was a duplicate of Hawes great run of the previous week. Drop kick for additional point is successful.

Slaton Beats Lubbock Grammar School Squad Friday

While the High School was putting the "heat verdict" to Lamesa here Friday afternoon, the local Grammar school boys were clashing with the Slaton bunch at that place. Prof. Bishop, accompanied the bunch to that place, and says the boys put up some fight, although they were beat out 12 to 0.

The local Grammar squad only average about 115 pounds, and were up against a club composed partly of full grown men, the team as a whole averaging about 140 pounds. Many long gains were made by the locals, and at one time Slaton was within a couple of yards of the goal and in three downs could not make goal.

Some good stuff is in the making in this squad for passing on to the High School next year, and Prof. Bishop, assisted by Slagle, of the High School, who is coaching the boys, not only is rounding out some good stuff but is putting in lots of pep into the Grammar division of the school.

Floydada Here Saturday For Grid-Iron Clash

We have been hearing about that hard eleven from Floydada all the year and have been wanting to see them in action. They tell us they are some husky set, and not only do they carry lots of beef, but they know how to take advantage of that feature.

Well, next Saturday as the clock strikes three and a half bells, the big contest will be on. Floydada carries the championship in their district, and that means that they must have something to deliver in the way of a football team. This is expected to be one of the hardest fought games of the season, as the local boys are yet undefeated this year, and they are going up against a squad that carry about the same record in their territory.

Well, let me tell you, this is going to be SOME exhibition, and although the games to date have not been up to the standard on account of unevenly matched teams, this one is going to be something out of the ordinary, and it is hoped that a good crowd will be on the field to greet the visitors.

You never heard of a squad that was invincible and unbeatable, but we believe that we have as near that this year as it is possible to reach—but, a club can't do it all. Support—both moral and financial, is very essential—Come out Saturday afternoon at the hour of 3:30. A great game is assured.

Clarendon Loses to Pampa High

Pampa, Oct. 2.—Pampa high school beat the Clarendon Bullpups here today 33 to 0, in a game that was hard fought until the end, but with the visitors playing on the defensive from the start, after Meer's long end run for a touchdown.

Clarendon attempted 32 passes and completed 4, while Pampa put over 10 out of 24 attempts. Four touchdowns with goals kicked, a field goal and a safety accounted for the scoring done by the locals.

Hale Center Loses to Silverton

The school squad journeyed to Silverton Friday and engaged that team in a lively, clean game of football, which resulted in Silverton's favor, the score ending 38 to 0.

Hale Center was crippled to a certain extent by having some of her best players on the sick list, still it's too late to lament. Silverton played a good, clean game throughout, which in the long run is the best part of sportsmanship and one that all admire, regardless of results.—Hale Center American.

The Texans repeatedly had opportunities to score, but in all but two instances the needed punch was lacking. The Texas defense, too, was far from airtight, while after the second period the Vanderbilt defense was impregnable.

SOME TEXAS HISTORY AND PEOPLE WHO MADE IT

Battle of Saltillo
Late in the summer of 1840 there congregated on the Rio Grande about three hundred Texans, allies of General Canales, under the command of Colonel Wm. S. Fisher, Captain S. W. Jordan and Juan N. Seguin. Captain Jordan with 112 men and a Mexican force under Juan Molano were dispatched in advance to the interior of Mexico. They advanced in a circuitous route through Mier, Tula, Victoria, Linares and other places, which excited the suspicion of treachery in the mind of Captain Jordan, but still he followed the Mexican officers until near Saltillo, on the 23rd day of October, 1840, they were confronted by over a thousand centralists under Vasquez, with several pieces of artillery. As soon as the line of battle was drawn, Molano and all his men deserted to Vasquez, shouting vivas to Mexico and death to the Texans. This act has been criticized as being as craven and base an act of treachery as ever disgraced the character of men professing to be soldiers. The whole villainous scheme was known in Saltillo, the population came forth to witness the annihilation of the 112 hated Tejanos-Americans. In this anticipation they were grievously disappointed, for when night closed on the scene, the Mexicans expressed the opinion that they had not been fighting men, but devils. When Captain Jordan perceived the treachery, he promptly seized an invulnerable position behind a wall approachable from one side only, and charge after charge of the Mexicans were repulsed, and when night came four hundred of their number lay dead in front of Jordan's position, while he had sustained a loss of five men. During the night the Texans ascended and crossed a mountain considered impassable and thence retreated with his 107 men to the Rio Grande. As the Alamo to Thermopylae, so the retreat of this little band, thru an enemy's country, abounding in towns and villages and pursued by ten times their number, has been aptly and justly characterized as a modern parallel to the great retreat of Xenophon. The gallant Captain Jordan, a physician of high character, died in New Orleans in 1849, from the effects of an overdose of opium taken while suffering great pain.

Gaines County
Gaines county was organized October 24, 1905, with Seminole as the county seat. This county was created out of Bexar county, August 21, 1871, but due to sparse habitation, its organization was delayed for thirty-four years. James Gaines, after whom it was named, was born in Virginia in 1779, and was a brother of General Edward Pendleton Gaines. James joined his brother at Nashville, Tenn., in 1803 and aided in making a survey of the waterway extending from Nashville down the Cumberland river to the Ohio, and thence to New Orleans. In 1805 he went with the United States troops to Nachdoches and shortly entered the mercantile business and established a ferry across the Sabine near the northeast corner of what is now Shelby county, and at the point where the old road leading from San Antonio to Nachdoches crossed the Sabine. Here he remained until 1812, when, being in sympathy with Mexico against Spain, he joined the Republican Army of the north under Gutierrez and Magee. After the defeat of Elisoondo at San Antonio, he resigned from the army and returned to Gaines' Ferry and resumed business. He was a delegate from Sabine Municipality to the Constitutional Convention in 1836, and was a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He was a member of the Congress of the Republic of Texas in 1839, but later moved to Bastrop, and when gold was discovered in California in 1849, he was lured there, where he remained until his death, which occurred a few years later.

Attack at Mission Concepcion
Another example of exalted heroism about which but little is known to the average reader of Texas history is the attack at Mission Concepcion. General Austin dispatched Colonel Bowie and Captain James W. Fanning with ninety-two men to San Antonio, preparatory to attacking the city. They camped in a bend of the river two hundred yards from the abandoned mission of Concepcion and posted a look-out in its tower. Early on the morning of October 28, 1835, these were attacked by the Mexicans, outnumbering them five or more to one, and using a five-pound cannon. The defense of Bowie and Fanning's men was so determined that the attack was repulsed after the Mexicans had lost sixty-five men and officers and in their hasty retreat the cannon was left in possession of the Texans. Only one man, Richard Andrews, was killed, though a man by name of Penjarvis had his bowie knife driven in his side by a bullet, and Henry W. Karnes was badly burned through the explosion of his powder horn.

"WFFA" INSTRUMENTAL IN ADVERTISING LUBBOCK

A bulletin was received at this office last week from the Dallas News and Dallas Journal, heralding the merits of radio, and advertising their "WFFA" station, and the following paragraph mentioning Lubbock is bound to have some effect on those receiving the bulletin, which is put in all envelopes mailed out of the Dallas office:

"The consistent daylight broadcasting range of 'WFFA' is around 200 miles. Letters from San Antonio, Lubbock and other points acknowledge 'WFFA' programs and praise the service."

"It take all kinds of people to make a world" is an old adage which is no doubt known by everyone who knows anything about what a world really is, and we are sold on the idea that it likewise takes all kinds of advertising to make a town, and if such is true, Lubbock is certainly getting her "making" along advertising lines.

TEXAS FARM BUREAU WILL MEET AT DALLAS NEXT

The United Press
Dallas, Oct. 25.—The Texas Farm Bureau Federation will hold its next convention in Dallas, January 17, it has been decided by the board of directors.

The county farm bureaus will hold their annual conventions a week before the state convention, it was also announced.

EX. FIELD SIGNAL MEMBERS MEET IN HOUSTON

The United Press
Houston, Oct. 23.—Two hundred of more former members of the 11th Field Signal Battalion, 36th Division, from all over Texas and Oklahoma, will be in Houston for the "round-up" and battalion celebration here Armistice Day, according to letters here.

Answers signifying their intentions of attending the reunion have been received from over two hundred of the five hundred invitations sent. Widespread enthusiasm for the meet is indicated in the letters.

Requests have been made to Secretary of State, S. L. Staples to allow the flags of the division—the battalion standard and the national flag, which were carried through the thick of the Meuse, Argonne and Verdun battles—to be brought to Houston for the meet. When the organization was disbanded after the Armistice was signed, the flags were turned over to the State Government.

TEXAS ORANGES ARE PLACED ON THE MARKET

The United Press
San Antonio, Oct. 21.—Texas oranges have already been placed on the market this year, according to H. M. Madison, general farm agent of the San Antonio and Arkansas Pasa Railroad.

The first oranges are Satsumas, a very sweet orange, and comes from the territory around Beeville.

Seniors Entertained John Dupre entertained the Seniors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Dupre, Friday night. Mr. Marr and Miss Hudson were special guests of the evening. Various games were played in which everyone took part and enjoyed very much. Mr. Dupre and Mr. Marr evidently hadn't been around girls in so long that they forgot themselves and—(?)

Auction Bridge Club The members of the Auction Bridge Club have occasion to prize their affiliation with the organization, for at no time has the club been more thoroughly and beautifully entertained at a club party than Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Delia Wilkinson, one of the most popular members, and a leading society matron of Lubbock, had charge of the entertainment.

After a great deal of time had been pleasantly spent at bridge, the following were served with nut bread sandwiches, caramel cake and coffee; Mesdames Sam Cooper, F. R. Friend, Paul Barrier, O. E. Sears, E. Malone, Claude Smith, O. L. Slaton, Thad Thomas, L. T. Martin, C. L. Griffin, J. D. Slaughter, Jackson, Wesley Read, Heard Jones, and Wesley Read, Heard Jones, Curtis Keen and C. G. Bloom.

Miss Wilkinson Entertained Miss Delia Wilkinson entertained a number of her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Slaton, Tuesday evening.

This was no doubt one of the most beautiful parties of the week, the following participating in bridge which was the party game:

Messrs. and Mesdames: Neil Wright, Bill Meador, W. O. Stevens, Walter Posey, Roscoe Wilson, A. V. Weaver, J. E. Vickers, L. T. Martin, G. G. Castleberry, Fred Oliver, O. L. Slaton, F. R. Friend, J. S. Johnson and Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson. Guest prize was awarded Mrs. Slaton, which Mrs. Slaton presented to Mrs. Vickers, who assisted Miss Wilkinson in the entertainment. Mr. Wright was given guest prize for the men, a beautiful hand-painted humidior.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Friend were on this occasion celebrating their Crystal anniversary, and received appropriate and beautiful gifts from the hosts.

Wedding Shower As a fitting climax to the marriage of Hugh Slagle and Miss Florence Jackson, on Friday, October 13, the Phi Theta Class, and the Young Men's Bible Class, of the First Methodist church, on last Friday night, made a surprise attack on the happy young couple at their home in the northwest part of the city, and left with them many valuable and appreciative gifts.

The young ladies gifts were in the form of a miscellaneous shower, while the young men showed their appreciation of the comradeship by taking up two nice Ivory rockers. About fifty young people were present on this occasion, and a jovial good time is reported by all in attendance. After some few minutes spent in the usual congratulations and good wishes for the bride and groom, good nights were said, and the party disappeared as mysteriously as they came.

IT IS TIME TO START MAKING READY FOR BASEBALL SEASON

It comes to our attention before many months the baseball season will again be in full swing here, although it is several weeks away, but now is the time to start propaganda regarding this movement. Lubbock must carry a full-fledged West Texas League Club next year, and in fact already have the necessary men on the dotted line for the club. Several of the boys who participated last year have been re-signed by the management. Now is the time to begin activity on the program for next year, for Lubbock can't afford to drop out of the loop at this stage of the game. Support of the club was exceptional last season, all circumstances considered. In fact Lubbock has the reputation of the best proportional support of any club in the circuit, and inasmuch as that was the first year of professional ball that had been seen in Lubbock, we think that an extraordinary record has been made.

Also we understand that some few small debts yet hang over the management from last year. By all means, this should have the attention of the people at once, so that we can start with a clean slate next season. But let's begin to make some arrangements for the financial end of the game for next season. Miss Irma Pryor of Lubbock, spent a few days in Canadian this week visiting at the C. L. Fry home. From Canadian she goes to Wichita and Elks Falls, Kansas, for a few days visit with relatives and friends. Canadian-Record.

Perhaps congress put sugar in the tariff list to sweeten it.

AT THE CHURCHES

Baptist In spite of inclement weather the attendance at Sunday School was indeed creditable, and a most enjoyable and profitable service was realized.

Rev. Bowen was at his best Sunday, and filled his place at both services. Especially are the Laymen busy at this time, and it is gratifying to know that they are just as enthusiastic in the work as when summer weather made going about a matter of a great deal more pleasure than at this time.

Though the band was small Sunday afternoon they made their way to the Caldwell school, where the people were enthusiastically awaiting their arrival.

Mr. Bishop had charge of the singing, as a result of which that part of the program was ably cared for, and was instrumental in making the meeting the success it was.

The encouragement the Laymen received through acknowledgment of the people of the good their visits have done in keeping them strong in the work will no doubt prove of great help to them. Three young men were influenced at the meeting to offer themselves to the cause of the church and Christianity.

The Laymen accepted a call from the people of that community to render services each Fourth Sunday afternoon for an indefinite time. —Reporter.

FATHER OF MRS. A. C. WHITE DIED HERE LAST SUNDAY

James T. Teague died at the home of his son-in-law, A. C. White, at 9th Street and Avenue I here Sunday, after a hard struggle with the elements which threatened him.

All that his people, physicians and kind friends could do was of no effect, and his death was not at all a surprise to those who were acquainted with him, as for several days he lay in unconsciousness, during which time physicians knew that the end was near.

Deceased had reached the age of 75 years, 5 months and 12 days, through which time he was a worthy and respected citizen, and his friends, we have learned, were numbered by his acquaintances. He was born in Calhoun County, Ala., on May 10, 1847, and in 1886 moved to Ozark, Arkansas, where he married Miss Emma J. Chauncey on January 10, 1875, to which union three daughters, Nora, Lela and Gertrude, were born. Miss Lela died in 1902, and Miss Gertrude became the wife of A. C. White in March, 1908, and it was at the home of this couple that the aged father passed away, his wife, Mr. and Mrs. White, and a host of friends from Kenna, New Mexico, from which place he moved to Lubbock last September, survive him.

Funeral services were conducted at the A. C. White home at the corner of 9th Street and Avenue I, this afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Ferguson of the Methodist church, and Rev. W. B. Gilliam of Clovis, who was pastor and friend of the family, while at Kenna. Mr. White joined that church at Ozark, Arkansas, in 1893, since which time he has been a faithful member, having been in the churches at Paris, Texas, to where he moved from Ozark, and from Paris he went to Kenna, New Mexico, from where he came to Lubbock.

Full bearers are: W. L. Barnes, J. T. Innon, J. E. Murfee, A. E. Clark, Charlie Payne, and Frank Good, of Kenna, New Mexico.

It is generally agreed that one way to start a riot is to ask Mr. Daugherty to interpret a law.

BROWNFIELD Terry County Herald Married people grow to look like each other, it is claimed. Well, all we've got to say that it's a mean trick Mother Nature is planning to play on some innocent and trusting girls. This time it is a go. Postmaster Price has the real dope. Brownfield is now on par with towns on the main line of the Santa Fe. Mail came in Sunday from Lubbock for the first time under the new contract and the people got their mail promptly and probably answered and dispatched many letters on the Monday train that otherwise would have been delayed until Tuesday. J. S. Corning received the contract at around $400 per year. He does not have to deliver any boxes along the highway or haul parcel post packages. Come to a live town. Cotton is coming in at a lively clip. More than 1200 bales had been weighed at the local yard last Saturday night. Some of the farmers in the extra dry belts are nearly through with the gathering of their cotton, while in the rain belts they are just getting well started, for their cotton did not begin opening as soon as in the dry part of the county. Roy Collier has taken the agency of the Lubbock Steam Laundry and will make headquarters at the American Tailor Shop. Mr. Collier was in one day this week and informed us that he had just made an inspection of the Lubbock laundry and found it one of the most up-to-date and sanitary in this part of the State under its present management. They have recently spent thousands of dollars for new equipment and are ready to care for their trade promptly. We are quite convinced that Mr. Harding's cup is overflowing with bitterness when it includes kissing a congress which contains Henry Cabot Lodge. It was David who slew Goliath. But after looking over Lloyd George's variety of principles in the last eight years the conviction grows that he should have been named Joseph. Lloyd George stands on his record, and his opponents jump on it.
