AMENDMENT TO DELAY PASSAGE TAX REDUCTION

MEASURE INTRODUCED BY GARRETT PROVIDES MANY CHANGES

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The first victory won by the coalition of democrats and progressives in liberalizing house rules—a change providing for broad amendment on the floor to revenue measures—will seriously delay, if not actually endanger, the passage of a tax reduction bill, in the opinion of republican leaders who fought the change.

Final adoption of the amendment offered Monday by Representative Garrett of Tennessee would create a situation that "would be so chaotic that there would be little or no probability of a tax bill being passed," Representative Green of Iowa, chairman of the Ways and Means committee which is considering the bill, said afterward.

"The adoption of Mr. Garrett's amendment places one more stumbling block in the way of tax legislation," Green said. The amendment to the resolution from the rules committee was adopted 208 to 177, having the solid support of democrats and progressives, and a few scattering republican votes. The full resolution providing rule changes is expected to be voted upon finally on Tuesday, and if it is accepted the change offered by Garrett will go into effect.

"Therefore, revenue bills have come from committee and gone to the floor of the house as almost a closed issue. Because of the restriction of the nature of amendments, the house had to take the measure practically as the committee had written it, or do without. This has led to a good deal of dissatisfaction, which crystallized into the sentiment for a change fostered by progressives and democrats."

This restriction on revenue measures was provided in the so-called "Underwood rule," adopted when Senator Underwood was a member of the house. It restricts amendment to a revenue bill on the floor only to those germane to the subject and relating specifically to the item under consideration. The Garrett amendment to the rules kills the section restricting changes to only those which bear directly on the point being considered. This will allow wide-spread debate and amendment.

Republicans see in this the delay after delay danger, especially because of the disagreement of tax reduction in this congress. Rules changes were proposed over a month ago, but at that time the revenue bill had not started on its way thru the house and the danger was not apparent to regular republicans. However, they were powerless in the face of the combined strength of progressives and democrats and had to swallow it.

CLAIMS PURE MILK ONLY WAY TO OBTAIN LASTING BEAUTY

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Advertise bossy by showing American women that ruby lips and rosy cheeks from the milk can be everlasting beauty and more attractive than those from the drug store.

This is one of the specific objects brought before the farmer-manufacturers convention dinner at the Congress hotel Monday night by John M. Kelley of Baraboo, Wisconsin, national secretary of the Holstein association.

"For those who use Oleo cosmetics," Kelley said, "imitation color should go with imitation food."

"The railroads carry only two products that are not sold at a fair return of profit, farm and dairy products," he continued. "The farmer is too busy following the plow and the cow. He knows nothing about the merchandising of his product."

"Now everybody loves pictures of beautiful girls and all women want to be beautiful. The farmer has the real health food, but he needs to convince the nation of it."

"We should tell the world in advertising that the way to beauty is the way to health and thus we can sell the milk can and farm produce habit to the world."

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association which arranged the conference, hopes to induce farmers to avail themselves of the expert merchandising service which manufacturers long ago installed.

SUIT WOULD PREVENT PAYMENT INSURANCE

By United News.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 14.—A son whom Alex Kels, former wealthy butcher-ranchman of Lodi, Calif., did not want, through his mother, "Princess Whitecloud," a vaudeville actress, filed suit here Monday to prevent payment of $105,000 in insurance to Kels' second wife and her children. Kels was hanged for murder January 4.

"Princess Whitecloud," as she prefers to be known, asks $40,000 as "reasonable estimate" of the damages her son has suffered for alleged pilfering of his share of the estate.

Kels furnished one of the late sensations on the west coast when, after slaying a laborer on his California ranch, drove the automobile carrying the dead body into a hay stack in an endeavor to pretend that he had taken his own life. Discovered later he admitted the hoax and said he wanted his wife to have his insurance money. Kels asked that he be sentenced to hang.

Armande Andrew Kels, the son, is 16-years-old. He was reared and educated in Fresno, Calif.

Draped in costly furs and wearing expensive jewelry, "Princess Whitecloud," who is known off the stage as Mrs. Margaret Ruby Kels, told of her marriage at the age of 15 to Kels, who was then 19, and of the bitter opposition to the match by her relatives, who, she said, were wealthy.

"Alex was clever," she began. "He knew of a thousand ways to make money. But he had a little trouble

SOUTH TO UNVEIL PART OF MONUMENT TO LOST CAUSE JANUARY 19

By United News.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 14.—Stone Mountain Memorial, the gigantic monument to the South's "Lost Cause" being carved in the massive granite rock near here, will, January 19, reach the first climax of the task which will require ten years to complete.

Governors of six states, congressmen and prominent women will be here on January 19 for the unveiling of the head of General Robert E. Lee, a part of the project.

When completed the memorial will consist of General Lee and other southern leaders, on horseback, riding at the head of the phantom host. The memorial will be in relief, standing out 25 feet from the side of the mountain, and sculptors claim a pyramid of Egypt could be completely hidden behind the head of General Lee.

Among those who have accepted invitations to the unveiling ceremony which will commemorate Lee's birthday are: Governor Hardee of Florida, Governor Brandon of Alabama, Governor Leod of South Carolina, Governor Trinkle of Virginia and Governor Morrison of North Carolina. In addition, invitations have been sent governors of all other states, congressmen, officials of the U. D. C., U. C. V. and S. C. V.

The guests will be entertained by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Stone Mountain Memorial association with a breakfast, a tour of the city and a dance in the evening.

MAKES ATTEMPT TO SUICIDE IN CELL

By JAMES M. CLAIN
United News Staff Correspondent.

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 14.—Close watch is being kept over Warren J. Lincoln, confessed murderer of his wife, following an attempt on the part of the eccentric lawyer-florist to take his own life late Monday. The man was found beating his head violently against the bars of his cell door.

The incident occurred shortly after Lincoln had made a second confession, refusing to permit his questioners to shake his story and force him to admit he killed Byron Shoup, his brother-in-law, also.

Lincoln's attempt on the killing, giving additional information regarding the tragedy and his subsequent wanderings about the country, which, authorities believe, will either substantiate or break the man's confession.

Lincoln claims he murdered his wife with a stove poker after she had shot and killed Shoup, her brother, and then burned both bodies. The double murder followed in an attempt by his wife to poison him, a year ago, he says.

A charge of first degree murder will be lodged against Lincoln early Tuesday.

Detectives shifted ashes at the Lincoln greenhouse Monday in search of remains of the two bodies which Lincoln says he burned the night following the murders. Evidence in addition to the man's confession will be required, it is said, for Lincoln is expected to plead self defense when brought to trial. A lawyer himself, the erstwhile florist refuses to accept advice and is preparing to plead his own case before the grand jury.

The pale-faced "mystery man" was perfectly calm until his attempt to kill himself. Except for a momentary collapse at the end of his first confession Sunday night he has appeared unaffected by the new developments in the strange chain of incidents that have marked the last year. He has, however, eaten but little since first led to his cell.

Meanwhile, there are some, among them John Lincoln, the florist's son, who believe the confession is just another hoax, no more real than the supposed scene of his own murder which Lincoln prepared last spring to cover his crime and his disappearance.

"I have been with my father during almost all his waking hours," the son said. "It would have been impossible for a thing like that to happen without me knowing about it. My father has been so hounded by his relatives that he concocted this story as a means of ending it all."

LOCAL MAN BACK AFTER ATTENDING MEETING IN FT. WORTH

Secretary Curtis A. Keen, of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, will return to his office this morning after having spent Monday at Fort Worth attending a meeting of fair secretaries of the state at which time a schedule of dates for the big fairs of the state were made.

This meeting was held and the schedule arranged in order that the dates of none of the big fairs of the state conflict, which will make it possible for exhibitors to make all fairs with their exhibits.

A like meeting will be held at Abilene Thursday at which time dates of the fairs of West Texas will be set, for the same purpose, and this meeting will also be attended by Secretary Keen.

The various fairs and expositions of Texas have grown to unexpected proportions during the past few years and the additional number of big fairs at this time makes a schedule of dates that won't conflict necessary.

WOMAN HELD BY BANDITS IS RESCUED

By United News.

PEKING, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Julia R. Kilen, American missionary, who has been held captive by Chinese bandits since late in December has been rescued by Chinese government troops, according to a telegram received here from the civil governor of Hunan.

Mrs. Kilen was kidnaped by Lao Yang Jan, notorious bandit chief, when he attacked the town of Tiao Yan, in Hupah. Members of his band carried off Mrs. Kilen and wounded two other persons of the staff of the Lutheran brethren mission there. One of those wounded, Rev. Bernard Hoff, has since died.

The dispatches from the governor of Hunan report that his troops surrounded the bandits at Yo Chow in Hunan and attacked them, killing Lao Yang Jan and his understudy, the famous bandit leader "White Wolf." Both men have long terrorized central China.

Mrs. Kilen, who is said to be in excellent health, is proceeding to Lo Lang, and will arrive there on January 17. Fellow missionaries from Peking are hastening to meet her.

TWO NEW COURSES TO BE OFFERED AT A. & M. COLLEGE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 14.—Two new two-year courses, one in cotton classing and marketing and the other in textile engineering, will be offered by the Textile Engineering Department of the A. & M. College of Texas beginning with the opening of school next fall, and with the addition of these two new courses it is expected that all demands for instruction in the cotton business can be met. There will be the four year course for those who want to cover the entire field of cotton business and textiles thoroughly; a two year course in classing and marketing and a two year course in textile engineering for the student of college grade who desires to qualify for professional work in those lines in the shortest possible time, a two year course in textile engineering for mature men not qualified to pass a college entrance examination, the summer course of six weeks' duration for the man already in the business who can afford only a short vacation and the short term course given in the spring semester for ex-soldiers who are being rehabilitated by the government. Both of the new courses will be of college calibre, open only to those of college grade. The course for federal students will open on February 4, of this year, and will continue to the end of the semester. The summer school of cotton classing will open June 9 and continue until July 19, and the two other courses will open with the fall term of school.

ONE MEMBER OF HUNTING PARTY CRASHED THRU ICE ON LAKE AND TWO DROWN ATTEMPTING RESCUE

Bodies Lay On Bottom of Lake Nine Hours While Hundreds of Men Dragged The Waters In Effort At Recovery

CLAUDE, Texas, Jan. 14.—Following an all-day search during which time hundreds of men assisted in dragging a lake near here, the bodies of John Hayhurst of this city, and J. Hammer and Glen Randall of Amarillo, were recovered last night at about 6 o'clock, after they had lain on the bottom of the lake in which they had drowned for nine hours.

The three drowned men were members of a hunting party that left here early Sunday morning. John Hayhurst, the first victim, ventured out too far on the ice-covered pond to recover game which he had shot, broke through the ice and disappeared into the icy waters. Hammer and Randall, in an effort to rescue him, also ventured too close to the thin ice and broke through.

The three men were never seen again until their bodies were recovered, according to Dan Cavanaugh and his son, who witnessed the tragic scene from the bank of the lake, but were powerless to help.

The bodies of Hammer and Randall were shipped to Amarillo today, and the body of Hayhurst is being held here pending funeral arrangements. All three of the men leave families, it is said.

DRY FORCES RAID AN ILLINOIS VILLAGE

By United News.

MARION, Ill., Jan. 14.—Johnson City, the only Williamson county town untouched by the K. K. K. dry raiders led by S. Glenn Young, learned what all the fuss was about late Monday.

Sheriff George Galligan's deputies swooped down on the mining village and seized liquor in six out of eight alleged "blind tigers." It was the first raid ordered by Galligan since his appeal to Governor Len Small brought state troops here to prevent a "moonshine war."

Galligan left his sick bed and tended jail during the raid so that Jailer Lewis Allen could go with the deputies. The county board has failed to provide additional men asked by the sheriff in order to enforce the law.

Leading Italian residents of Herrin, scene of the famous massacre of 1922 and where the tension has been greatest during the last week, have offered to co-operate with Carl Neilson, leader of the citizens' committee in restoring order. They even have agreed to quit bootlegging, Neilson has announced.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS IN JAPAN

By United News.

TOMIOKA, Japan, Jan. 14.—(Via Radio Corporation of America to United News).—A severe earthquake visited the Tokyo and Yokohama vicinity about six o'clock this morning. Trammers running between and in Tokyo and Yokohama were stopped by landslides which occurred as a result of the latest shock. Land communications to Tokyo and Yokohama have been interrupted but are expected to soon be restored.

Clocks in Tokyo and Yokohama, Funabashi and Choshi were stopped by the tremor. The earthquake was not felt strongly at Shizuoka and Tanioka however. It is not known whether there had been any loss of life.

MELION TAX PLAN PROBABLY BE MADE SUBJECT FOR NATION WIDE POLL TAKEN AMONG ALL CLASSES

By United News.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The Melion tax reduction plan is about to be made the subject of a nation wide poll in which 15,000,000 voters will be asked to register themselves for or against the secretary of the treasury's proposal.

This poll is planned to be the greatest ever undertaken, according to the Literary Digest, which is conducting it. The magazine mailed 1,000,000 post card ballots Monday and 14,000,000 more will follow.

The ballots are printed on post cards especially designed to prevent duplication and permit of a "yes" or "no" vote on the plan.

The publishers announce their intent of seeing that these are distributed impartially among all classes, occupation and political classifications. First returns in the balloting will be available early in February.

COTTON LANDS COMPANY OFFICIALS MAKE INITIAL TRIP TO PLAINS IN A SPECIAL CAR WITH PROSPECTORS

The Cotton Lands Company, of Dallas, is taking renewed interest in the further development of the south plains country, and last night at twelve o'clock a special car of twenty-two prospectors, accompanied by the men who compose the company, returned to their homes at Dallas after having spent two days looking over lands in Cochran county which are being sold by the company.

The Cotton Lands Company of Dallas is composed of W. P. Sash, prominent in West Texas as one of the pioneer immigration agents of the country, and who has had to do with the sale of numerous tracts of land on the plains; A. E. Harp, formerly of Plainview, and who was at one time owner of the Callahan ranch near there; Bob and C. C. Slaughter, of Dallas and New York City.

Jack Carter, who for eight years was school land classifier for the state, and who is well known to the pioneers of West Texas, is a representative of the company, and was among the occupants of the special car which left last night. Mr. Carter stated that he will make regular weekly visits to Lubbock in interest of the company.

The company officials entertained several of the men who are with them and local parties with a turkey supper at the Elk cafe last evening. O. L. Slaton of the Lubbock State Bank; R. E. Karper of the experimental farm of Lubbock; and W. J. Jennings, state surveyor of Plainview, were among the guests.

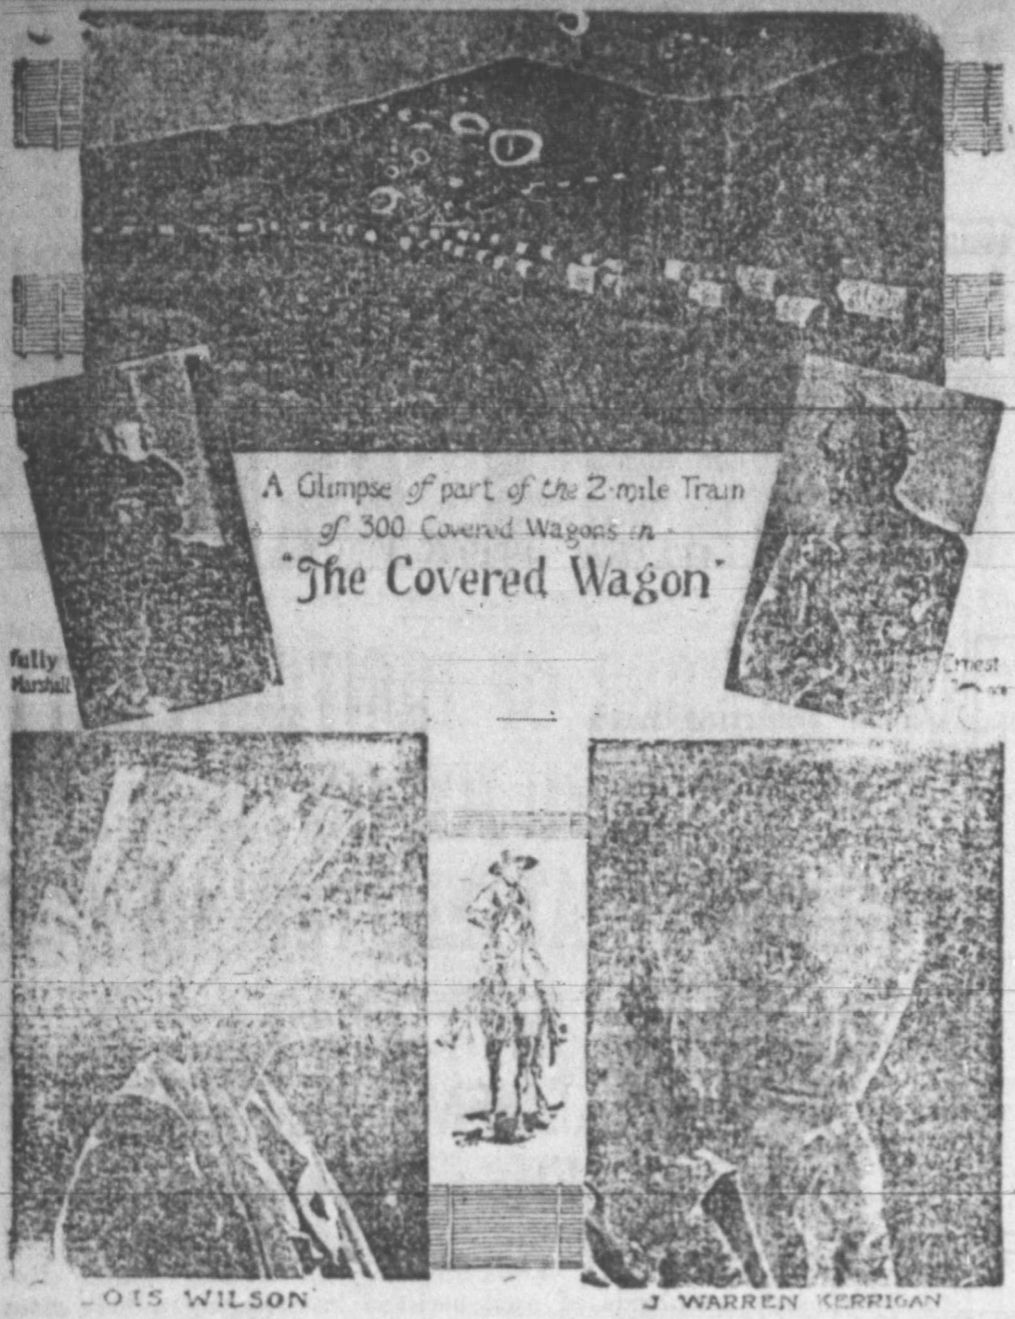

C. A. Pierce, of the Pierce Land company, is local representative of the Cotton Lands company and has been very busy with the sale of the lands that are now being placed on the market.

"THE COVERED WAGON"
 From Robert E. Irwin, Business Mgr.
 In the picturization of Emerson Hough's story "The Covered Wagon" a Paramount production, which comes to the Lindsey Theatre for one day only, on Tuesday, January 15th, an interesting point is brought forward regarding the organization and government of the wagon trains in the pioneer days. Mr. Wingate is the captain of the train concerned in "The Covered Wagon," and in many episodes in the course of the pictured narrative, the fact is clearly revealed that he is in supreme command and that his word is law. To many persons who have thought of the great migration to the West as simply a mad, unorganized rush of settlers and gold-seekers, this apparent despotism of Captain Wingate may not be understandable. Yet in this, as in all details of his story, Mr. Hough was true to historical fact. The great wagon trains that made the journey from the Missouri River to the coast in the forties and fifties were always under the command of an elected captain, and to him was given as complete authority as the authority exercised by the captain of a ship on the high seas. This was absolutely necessary because of the perils of the enterprise, which could be met and overcome only by concerted effort. Each wagon train was, for the time consumed in making the journey—usually about six months—a little world entirely cut off from established law, and it was therefore necessary that each train should have a government and a ruler of its own. The Mormon pilgrimage, in 1846, was successful of its organization and the leadership of Brigham Young, who had the advantage of possession of spiritual as well as temporal authority. So important was this matter of government of the wagon trains that a book was written on the subject by Captain Randolph B. Marcy, of the United States Army. A copy of this book, which is entitled "The

Stephanie insists the marriage must be annulled, and meantime the bridal suite in a Chicago hotel has been exchanged for rooms on separate floors.

 Sunday was a very important day for this church. The meeting began under very favorable circumstances. Dr. Johnston preached two stirring sermons which went to the heart of things. He presented the need of a real revival at this time and emphasized the fact that the only way to have it would be for the Christian people to get busy. Two splendid congregations heard these messages and departed from the church fully determined to do all in their power. Services will be held each evening during the week at 7:30 and every one is urged to attend.

I am called the barrelhead man because when I sell furniture I get the "cash on the barrelhead" for it. Also when I buy your furniture I pay "cash on the barrelhead". TOWNS, CHURCHES, SCHOOLS AND FARMS ARE DISPLACING CATTLE ON THE PLAINS; BOYDELL A NEW TOWN

Just as the pioneer herdsmen of the Plains found new and better ranges for their longhorns by traveling over the Plains until they reached the very borders of West Texas, so are the present day homeseekers of all the South finding that "Westward Ho!" is as significant in their search for better farmlands and more desirable homesteads and today new communities, schools and towns are springing up about over the Plains of Texas until the once fenceless range is becoming a densely populated area.

R. J. Ellington, of Lubbock, is one of the men of West Texas who are looking after the interests of the newcomer, and having just opened a large tract of land in Cochran county, fifty miles southwest of Lubbock, is making every effort to have every tract of it sold and in the care of farmers in time for them to start their crops next spring.

Boydell is the new town which has come into existence through this land being placed on the market, and announcement has been made that a substantial brick school building, adequately large to meet the demands of the population for some years, will be built in the near future, and that the company having to do with the sale of these lands will assist in paying for the erection of a church building there. A new gin will be at the service of the cotton farmers next fall, while it may be readily seen that mercantile operators will lean at the opportunity to establish a business in a community with such prospects as can be visualized by one familiar with the agricultural possibilities of the soil of that community.

Mr. Ellington is making headquarters at the Merrill Hotel in Lubbock, where he has already made several sales of Boydell farms.

SIMMONS COLLEGE HAS LARGEST SENIOR CLASS IN ITS HISTORY

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 14.—The class of 1924 of Simmons College which has a membership of eighty-two, the largest senior class in the history of the college, is sponsoring a big tree-planting day for the college campus. They are working on this in conjunction with the Simmons Round Table, an organization of faculty wives, responsible for much of the beautifying of the college acres in recent years, and promoters of the Simmons greenhouse.

An attempt is being made to enlist all classes in the college in the tree-planting day which is to be observed on the annual senior day, February 22.

Observance of this day as senior class day has been a tradition of the college life for a long period of years. On this occasion the seniors first appear officially in cap and gown; senior exercises are held at the chapel hour during which time the gift of the graduating class to the college is announced, and a class tree is planted with class ceremonial on the campus. The 1924 class plan to make the ceremony of tree-planting general, and to make a special effort along the line of campus beautification this year.

The class is headed by Malcolm Crouch of Grandview as president, and Miss Regina Olsen, daughter of Dean Julius Olsen, secretary. Social officers elected for the class day stunts are: Myrtle Barber of Colorado, historian; U. S. Bird of Robert Lee, orator of the day and Gerald Jordan of Greenville, prophet of the class. Simmons seniors wear distinctive sweaters with Simmons monograms, and have class rings bearing a cowboy figure and the name and foundation date of the college.

"Few agricultural colleges in the United States have as many high producing Holstein cows," Professor George P. Grout, head of the Department of Dairy Husbandry, said in announcing the new record.

TRAVELING MAN COVERS ROUTE FOR 53 YEARS

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio, Jan. 14.—He is 76 and gray of hair, but the spring of youth is in his steps as he continues to travel his route—the same he has traversed for fifty-three years.

Lewis Hyman, veteran salesman, is laying claims to having covered the same territory for a longer time than any other living salesman. His home is in Columbus, but for fifty-three years he has been "calling on the trade" between Mount Vernon and New Lexington, Ohio.

During that time he has sold more than $15,000,000 worth of flour and feed, and expects to sell another million or so before retiring.

Hyman does not regard his feat as anything unusual. Although he failed only four times during the fifty-three years in carrying through his weekly schedule, he thinks anyone could do as well if they had the habit.

"My grandfather lived to see his 102nd birthday," he said, "and my father was 94 when he died. I see no reason why I should not keep at my work for at least another five years."

H. C. HAS BIG INCREASE IN COTTON SPINDLES

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 14.—In the great industrial drama, which marks the shift of the center of gravity of the American cotton industry from the northeast to the eastern cotton states, North Carolina plays the leading part.

Her spinning industry has hit a pace so rapid that no other state north or south of the Mason and Dixon line seems to be able to keep up with her in this respect.

During the last two decades the nation has increased its cotton spindles less than 50 per cent, while in North Carolina the increase has been more than 186 per cent, according to the University of North Carolina, extension service. Massachusetts alone possess a greater number of spindles than the Far West state now.

North Carolina has 18 per cent of the spindles in America. Massachusetts has 29 per cent. In 1904 the figures were 36.3 per cent for the New England state and barely 8 per cent for North Carolina.

The industry in the central and western sections of the state is rapidly expanding, while more and more mills are being erected in the eastern, or tidewater section.

MORE RENT FARMS, MORE RENT HOUSES A BIGGER HOTEL AND MORE SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The Avalanche is always wanting something, one fellow was heard to remark a few days ago, but after all he says: "The Avalanche is about right." The Avalanche is only a mouthpiece to Lubbock. The Avalanche speaks for the town. It carries the message of progress and development to the people every day. It notes the needs of the town, and merely states the cold facts about things that Lubbock needs, to continue her march forward. She is making great strides now, and many people are coming here. Still more want to come, and the needs grow as the town increases in population. The needs of the country increase as the number of people increase, so it is only natural that the Avalanche would have much to say regarding the things that the town and the country must have to continue to grow.

It is a foregone conclusion that more hotels are needed, and a big hotel—one modern and up-to-date. One that will accommodate the people who come here for several years at least. Of course, we do not anticipate that a hotel can be built now that will take care of the needs for an indefinite time, for Lubbock is destined to become a city much larger than even the most sanguine citizen possibly ever dreamed of.

Lubbock needs a large number of apartments. She needs half a dozen large modern apartment houses, and several hundred small modern dwelling houses for people of moderate means to occupy. We do not want to see Lubbock built up by a great number of small cheaply constructed houses, unpainted and only partly finished, but we refer to the need of buildings with enough rooms for an average size family, nicely finished and modern. There is a great demand for houses of this kind, and the demand will increase as more people come to Lubbock to make their home. Many are coming now to get their children in a good school as Lubbock is noted for her good school even now before the Tech College gets started, and with the coming of that splendid institution the number of people who will come here that their children may get the benefits of the school will be greatly increased. Lubbock schools are again crowded. Even with the new ward building nearing completion there is not going to be enough room for the pupils that will offer for the public schools in Lubbock, and Superintendent Dupre is at this time casting about for another suitable building site, and will no doubt have to begin the construction of another building some time next year. Hundreds of new pupils have been enrolled this year who were not counted when the census was taken, and before the end of the school and by the time the next census is taken there will in all probability be more than a thousand increase from the census last fall.

The demand for more rent houses, a bigger hotel, and a larger school building in the city, the rural districts are running the city a merry chase in development, and there is a heavy demand for more rent houses on the farms in this county. Many of the rent farms are too big now, and the renters are required to cultivate too much land. If the average to each farmer was cut down we are of the opinion that with more intensive farming the production would be greater. More, there are people here every day who want to rent farms. Several hundred good families could be located within a short distance of Lubbock this spring if the land owners would only build houses on their property.

The people want the farms and the country needs the farmers, so there is a demand that should be supplied if possible.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENTS ARE GREATLY NEEDED IN LUBBOCK.

Lubbock is in need of many public buildings and public improvements, but we doubt if any are needed worse than we need a new postoffice building and a larger postal equipment. The Lubbock postoffice will very soon go into the first class, according to our best information, and that will of course, give additional help in the office, and the present building is entirely inadequate to the needs of this office at this place.

The Lubbock postoffice handles much more mail than any other office on the South Plains, and even with the large number of people who have their mail delivered and gave up their boxes at the postoffice, there is not a vacant box in the postoffice today, and many people are anxious to get them, but there are none to be had, and there will be many more people wanting boxes before there can be any relief given. Lubbock is growing rapidly as everyone knows and we should do something for temporary relief. Even if the appropriation goes over for a federal building, Lubbock will be twice as big as she is now before the building can be completed.

Lubbock has never had a postoffice building that was big enough to take care of the business in the proper way. The town grows so fast that by the time the fixtures and equipment are installed it is all taken up, and the rush begins again. The present building is too small. The postal force is handicapped and cannot do the work that is to be done as they would like to on account of this condition, and with the addition of several additional men, the congestion will be still worse. There should be some way to relieve the situation, and it should be done right soon.

Just now there is considerable confusion as to the appointment of a new postmaster since the death of Dr. Deuring, but this is a matter that will no doubt be settled within a short time, and then the attention of the government should be given to securing another building—one more suitable to the needs of the postoffice here.

Lubbock is pleased with the delivery service, and the only thing that she lacks is just a little more of it. The delivery zone should be enlarged as soon as possible, and we are sure that it will be, but the people of Lubbock are going to have to build many more miles of cement sidewalks if they are to get free delivery to their homes. The walks are needed and even though the delivery is not started right away it will be money well spent to put walks in front of your home. Lubbock needs ten miles more of cement side walks.

AMERICAN PRISONS FILLED WITH YOUTH.

Breaking down and letting up of home influence nowadays for the major portion of our crimes, C. E. Matson, county attorney, said.

"If I were in the Legislature I would repeal the entire code of criminal procedure, indeterminate sentence and pardon laws, and let these young roosters know that when they stuck their fingers on a redhot stove they would get burned," Matson said.

A vast majority of the prisoners now serving time in the State's prison here are under 30 and the number under 18 has vastly increased, said Matson. Forty-four and six-tenths per cent. of the prisoners in State penal institutions today were sentenced when under 18 years of age.

"No other civilized country has more crime than the United States," Matson said. "The laws in other countries operate to protect the citizen and his property."

The penitentiary was never known to reform anyone, and when you send a fellow there, you are rather instilling hatred in his heart, than reformation. You are creating within his life a spirit of criminality, and rather than curing him, you are making him a still greater criminal. Of course there must be some method of punishment. Some means of correction. The fellow who is a natural born criminal must be put some where that he will not prey upon the public, and the prison walls are about the best place for them. Usually men of mature age who commit some diabolical deed should suffer for it, but the boy who is breaking into crime for the first time, should be given some humane corrective treatment before the method of imprisonment be administered. You take the cause of crime, and in most instances it is not really the youth's fault. It is the lack of training at home. Take the home where there is nothing but war and strife between the father and the mother, where the father resorts to cursing and whipping his wife, drinks and gambles himself into poverty and disgrace, and you cannot find one single reason how you might expect the children to grow up under such surroundings to be other than criminals. The lack of proper food, the absence of decent clothes and absolute need will drive most any child to crime, and we believe that the parole system is a good move in the direction of correcting the youth of the land in the small crimes that they first commit. It is not a usual thing that a boy jumps right off into a brutal crime first thing. His career is usually started by a small deed of questionable nature, and with the proper corrective methods the child can be made to see the error of his ways and be brought back into the right path without bringing into use the more severe and disgraceful procedure of chaining them to a bunch of hardened criminals of all colors and nationalities and putting the murder the tyranny of the prison rules. Let this be the last thing to do.

The people of this and every other community should awake to the protection of the young people of the country. They should help them to live honest, upright lives by removing from the community the things that are questionable.

THE CITY BOY AND CONSTRUCTIVE WORK.

City boys, naturally, have little opportunity for constructive work, although schools and other organizations are doing their best to offset this lack. Home is the best place for boys. However, most city homes and yards do not afford room for their activities.

Here, then, is a problem for parents. A proper outlet should be provided for the energy of these boys. Failure to do this will develop habits of idleness, or worse, your son may associate with bad boys and get into mischief. When he longs for expression through some hobby, if you cannot provide the necessary room and means for it, be careful that in some way his desire for constructive work is gratified.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The fall of the franc was heard around the world Monday, and it proved the unsettling factor in the market. Paris, London, New York and Berlin reacted to the development, and the day wound up uncertainly. Nevertheless, transactions of the New York exchange in stocks amounted to over a million shares.

Some houses advised lightening of long commitments because of the possible effect of the situation in francs on economic conditions in this country. However, it was pointed out in banking circles that so far the only result of depreciation in foreign currencies has been stimulation of investment in American securities.

The low for the franc was $0.427 1-2, compared with a recent level of above-five cents and a nominal value above 19 cents. The close was better but sentiment in the foreign exchange market was not encouraging. The fact that French currency continued to drop after the Paris and London markets closed aroused considerable comment.

Sterling sank to its lowest point in two years, Belgian francs in sympathy with the francs reached new low levels, while the Italian lire for the first time since the close of the war was worth more than the issue of the Bank of France. Other continental exchanges were carried off on the movement to new lows.

A strange development was the rise in German marks which had been quoted continually for days at five trillion to the dollar. They rose Monday to 4,500,000,000,000 to the dollar, up 500,000,000,000. Could it have been a method of relieving or was it mockery? market observers asked themselves.

The "flight of the franc" Monday was more than a supposition. European money is fast being converted into American values and that means bonds and stocks. We are benefitting temporarily by the unsettled European psychology, but interests behind our security markets seem set up on holding down the pace.

The local stock market fell off during the day. There were several reasons for the reaction, and the primary one was that the reaction was normal and due right now. Values have been going ahead since the first of the year and much profit taking has been absorbed. The fundamental situation is healthy—on items in the watch word. But Wall Street ordinarily takes back fifty per cent of what it saves in a forward way. These qualifications have been lacking. The trend of thought has been one way and thus the sentiment of "be careful."

SIMMONS STILL CLAIMS EMPERORSHIP OF KLAN

By United News.
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 14.—"I am emperor of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan; doubt it not," declared William Joseph Simmons, founder of the hooded order, in a statement issued late Monday night.

Simmons, who was banished from the organization recently, denied charges of graft in connection with his leadership of the organization. After the Klan became self-supporting he refused offers of a salary, Simmons said, adding that he had worked for nothing and had mortgaged his home to promote the hooded order.

"Then I was presented with a 'gratuity' of $1,000 a month, and the K. K. K. also gave me my present home," he stated.

In settling a law suit last April Simmons said he gave up this sum and surrendered his copyrights on the Klan. For this he was to be paid $1,000 monthly.

"Dr. Evans also agreed that I was and should be emperor for life without salary."

"I am still emperor."

FELT TIRED, SUICIDE

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back a very long time, feeling in my limbs."

"I felt badly able to drag, but tired—so tired all the time."

"It was to effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as Mrs. Courtney says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Take Cardui. RC-14

JEROME SUCCEUMBS TO BLOOD CLOT ON BRAIN AS AFTERMATH OF RIGHT SWING TO HEAD IN TAYLOR BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The law of averages holds that every now and again some unfortunate kid must be killed in the fight ring. After 4,000 rounds of fighting in Madison Square Garden during the last four indoor seasons, it was time for some one to go.

So when Frankie Jerome died from a right swing to the head landed by Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., the prize fighters wagged their battered heads Monday and said it was just a tough break of luck for Frankie, although the doctor gave it a high school name and went into technical discussion of blood clots and skull pressure.

Dr. Charles E. Norris, chief medical examiner, examined the poor, skinny little fellow before they removed him from Bellevue hospital to his home Monday afternoon, and said no one was to blame. A blow on the head had ruptured a small blood vessel between the skull and the brain.

There was no exact check on the number of fatalities throughout the country in the thousand of rounds of boxing that are fought every year, but Dr. Norris thought that such happenings were so rare under proper regulation that boxing could still be considered a fairly safe sport.

Since boxing recommenced in New York there have been five deaths. New Jersey is believed to have had no more than three. Jerome's name was particularly distressing to the large crowd that saw the bout because he had made such a name for himself. He was a spry, snidery little fellow, 24 years old, who liked to be with friends at night and his manager had a time as a rule getting him to go home and get the required sleep.

At one minute the crowd saw Jerome, beaten but not badly marked, making the best of a bad situation, and fighting back at the heavy hitting two handed man from the middle west. The next minute they saw him down for a count of nine.

The blow saved him at the end of the eleventh round and he was hoisted to his corner. Jerome hardly recovered but he insisted on coming to the ring for the 12th and final round. Then Taylor missed him in a corner, bent him over with a left hook to the body and as he stooped down, whacked him seven tremendous smashes on his unprotected left kidney.

Jerome sank to the floor from exhaustion but got up at the count of seven. His trainer carried Jerome from the ring, threw an overcoat about the naked figure and whizzed through the streets of the East Side to the Bellevue hospital, where Frankie died 48 hours later.

Jerome's real name was Doberty. He was fighting for more than anybody at the ring side knew when he met Bud Taylor. His young wife had just had a baby girl and there was the doctor to pay, the nurse, the doctor, the landlord, Frankie had to "make the work" when it was offered by Tex Rickard. He needed all the money he could get.

"He's a fine kid," Taylor said. "I said to him afterward, 'Frankie,' I said, 'I'm sorry I had to do it, but you were betting me with that right hand and if I took chances you might have knocked me out.' I stopped in the hospital on the way in town and the nurse said he was all right."

BILL WOULD ABOLISH BOXING COMMISSION

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—A bill which would abolish the New York State Boxing Commission and strip the cloak of legality from boxing in the empire state, has been introduced in the state legislature by Assemblyman Bert Lord.

The measure is proposed partly because of the death of Frankie Jerome, boxer, who died in New York following his bout with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Indiana, and because "conditions in the boxing world in this state are anything but satisfactory," Lord said.

WILLS SEEMS OUT OF LUCK FOR BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The tough ones won't fight Harry Wills and the boxing commission won't let him fight the soft ones.

Therefore Wills probably will be unemployed on Wednesday night when he was to fight Buddy Jackson, another colored heavyweight, at Rochester, N. Y. Wills knocked out Jackson in two rounds when they met in New Jersey a couple of years ago. The boxing commission has ordered, therefore, that the promoters must get another opponent for Wills or cancel the match.

CHICAGO BASEBALL KING RELEASES STOCK IN THE LOS ANGELES CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 14.—William L. Veck, president of the Chicago National league club, turned over 5,000 shares of stock in the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league Monday to Joe H. Patrick, who now holds the majority of the 25,000 shares in his own name.

The next time the Chicago club becomes interested in a minor league team, we will own it outright; but we will never again attempt to line up with a city as big as Los Angeles," Veck declared. "Trying to solve the problems of a Pacific Coast league team requires the attention of men who are in close touch with the local situation. It can't be done from a swivel chair in Chicago."

By this transfer, Patrick who has served as president of the team since its purchase by William Wrigley, Jr., became the largest single stockholder.

HUMAN MOTOR HORN TO MEET JOHNNY WILSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Howling Harry Greb, the human motor horn, so called because he squawks louder and longer than any other boxer when defeated, will give New York the first glimpse of a fighter defending a title that the city has caught since the indoor season began, when he clambors into the ring at the Garden, Friday night, to fight Johnny Wilson.

Harry, who also imitates a police whistle when in good voice, has been training in a soundproof room so as to be able to outsquawk himself if he should lose the title to Wilson from whom he won it at the Polo Grounds just before the close of the open air season. "I wish to assure my public," said Mr. Greb, "that I shall be squawking better than ever if I am defeated."

Mr. Greb is noted for two classic boasts emitted after being defeated in New York. The first, after Gene Tunney had beaten him all over the ring, he said he had been "held up" by New York prize-fight interests for a contribution of $3,000 for a home of indignant pickpockets. When the boxing commission evinced an official interest in the case, Greb unsquawked his squawk.

A few weeks ago when Tunney got a decision over him Greb caroled another piece entitled "the loser's lament" in four sharps and 50-50 time. In this offering he directed suspicion at the honesty of the judges. A day later he denied any such thing.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DR. DUERING HELD SATURDAY

Funeral services for Dr. H. C. Duering were held at First Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, assisted by Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Attorney Roscoe Wilson, representing the Rotary Club, of which the deceased was a member, spoke of Dr. Duering as a man, and stated that he had lived the Rotary Club's motto "Service before self," and was one of the highly respected and loved members of that club. Attorney Wilson stated that Rotarian Duering had not missed a meeting of the club since becoming a member until his health was so that he could not attend, and stated that his faithfulness was also shown toward his duties as postmaster.

The floral offerings were great evidencing the high regard in which the deceased was held by the people of Lubbock.

Members of the postoffice force were the active pall bearers, and the postoffice was closed for two hours in respect to the departed postmaster.

Temporary interment was made in the Lubbock cemetery and the remains will later be moved to the family vault at St. Louis.

CHICAGO "BAD MAN" JAILED FOR THEFT

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—"Sonny" Dunn has three notches on his gun. For years he has been one of Chicago's "bad men." Safes and other high class robberies were his meat, he wouldn't tackle a small job. And his technique was so good that admiration for "Sonny's" cunning spread from the dives of the underworld even into the detective bureau.

But the mighty have fallen. "Sonny" is in jail for the theft of a basket of meat and a handful of pennies.

13-YEAR-OLD BOY ARRESTED AS BOOTLEGGER

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 14.—Perston Posey, 13, the "boy bootlegger," is ready to take his medicine. He was arrested by police who say he sold a pint of liquor for 60 cents. They had to batter down a barn door to get the lad. In court, Judge Duvall gave him the alternative of telling where he got the liquor or going to Richmond reformatory. The youngster refused to "squeal." He was bailed out over night with the warning that unless he discloses the source of his liquor Tuesday he must serve an indefinite sentence.

McAdoo Candidacy Urged. WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Judging from the activity of various factions on the eve of the democratic national committee meeting, the McAdoo candidacy is most active of any. Many statements were issued by various state leaders here for the meeting, urging McAdoo as the democratic presidential nominee.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS HELP THE SICK

It takes a whole lot of patience and energy to be an officer in the Salvation Army, and this was demonstrated Sunday morning when the local officer, Captain Watson, found that he could not conduct the 11 o'clock services on account of having to be at the bedside of a sick person.

The captain, however, made the best of the situation, and after special attention had been given the patient, he returned to the hall at 1010 Avenue J, and started the services at about 12 o'clock being about one hour off schedule.

COTTON LANDS COMPANY OFFICIALS MAKE TRIP

Among the parties with the company representatives on their initial trip were G. H. Alford, of the agricultural engineering department of the Progressive Farmer, of Dallas, and Sam Acheson, financial editor of the Dallas Times Herald.

These gentlemen made the trip to the Cotton Lands company lands west of Lubbock and stated last night that they were very agreeably surprised that such valuable lands can be secured in West Texas at the prices at which it is being sold. They are thoroughly "sold" on West Texas and the plains country, and their publications will doubtless have much to say of the efforts being made by the Cotton Lands company to locate more farmers here.

in Fresno and we went to Merced. "It was there that I did my best to be the ideal help mate. He had started a small butcher business, but we had no money to pay for help so I worked with him, butchering, skinning and preparing meat for market. Day after day we worked there, right on the banks of Merced river; but I was happy. I loved Alex and would have done anything to have helped him get started.

"Our small business grew and I turned my thoughts to having a little family. I was so glad and looked forward to the day when the baby would be born. But this happiness I had worked for was not to be, Alex told me he did not want a child. "The blow was too much for me. I left him and two months later my baby boy was born. Alex saw him several times and he seemed to like him."

"I am asking nothing for myself," she concluded. "But my boy is not to be cheated."

Sunday School Class Entertained. Mrs. H. L. Thompson entertained her Sunday school class at her home, 1621 9th Street, Saturday afternoon. The little guests arrived at 3:00 o'clock. A very pleasant afternoon was spent in various games. Sandwiches, cake and hot chocolate were served to the following: Ruth Mildred Rylander, Opal Jackson Katherine Baskin, Ada Ruth May, Fern Holland, Robbie Lena Harding, Pauline Rowland, Mary Forson and Florence Thompson.

Ladies Will Meet in Prayer Meeting. The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will meet in prayer meeting at the homes of Mesdames A. W. McKee, Frank Knox and L. C. Ellis at 10 o'clock. Any neighbors are cordially invited to attend, the time will be only fifteen minutes.

H. C. Jones, mayor of Slaton, was a business visitor in Lubbock yesterday. The mayor states that the farmers are still bringing in worlds of cotton and the gins are very busy and the city of Slaton continues to keep pace with her building program.

FRISCO LEADS IN CONVENTION RACE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—San Francisco has swung into the lead over Chicago in the contest for the democratic national convention. By her offer to make the democratic national committee a gift of $200,000 in addition to defraying most of the convention expenses, San Francisco has appealed strongly to the financially embarrassed organization which has been struggling along under a deficit of $180,000. Party leaders here for the committee meeting Tuesday are beginning to feel that San Francisco's offer should be accepted regardless of the criticism that a trip to the coast would work financial hardship on the delegates who must pay their expenses for the long trip from the coast.

McAdoo supporters, who appear to be in the majority in the national committee, look favorably on the home state of the former Secretary of the Treasury, though they are not wiser to meeting in Chicago.

Some of the party leaders believe Chicago would be a better meeting place for political reasons as conditions in Illinois are regarded as favorable to a democratic campaign this year.

EDUCATION AND TAX PROBLEMS ARE UPPERMOST IN THE MINDS OF POLITICAL LEADERS IN TEXAS

CANYON, Texas, Jan. 14.—Returning today from a meeting of the Texas Council of Teachers College Presidents held in Dallas Saturday, at which important problems of public education were discussed, J. A. Hill, President of the West Texas State Teachers' College, issued the following statement:

"I hear much discussion of taxation as I go about over the State, and no little talk of education. In my judgment, the next two or three years are going to be more than ordinarily significant for the people of Texas. They will probably produce at least a partial solution of both the tax problem and the problem of adequate support for public education. That these are two of the most important questions before the people of the State, there will be few, perhaps, to gainsay.

"On every hand we hear complaint about our 'high taxes'; and the problem of taxation consumed more time before the 38th Legislature than did any other question. Unless all signs fail, it will be an equally absorbing issue in the 39th Legislature. As to education, we are facing a thorough-going survey of the entire system, the purpose being to invigorate our stock, so to speak. Most people are aware that our rural schools are failing to measure up to the responsibilities placed upon them by a democracy, our colleges are failing to meet the demands of a rapidly growing desire on the part of our young people for college advantages and the call of the State for trained leaders, and the commonwealth takes low rank educationally in the sisterhood of states. Some of those who complain of taxes ascribe the cause to the extravagance and bad management of the schools, while some of those who seek a cause for the inefficiency of the schools find it in an insufficiency of funds for their support.

"This situation has led many of our citizens to believe that good schools and high taxes are complementary conditions. Some think that if our taxes were high enough our schools would be good enough; or, that, if our schools were as good as they ought to be, taxes would necessarily be high. In keeping with this view it is repeatedly asserted that 'the business' is opposed to public education and is fighting all kinds of tax reform except reduction. In other quarters it is as vehemently asserted that the school people care nothing for the burden placed through taxation upon business and, if given a free hand, would wreck the business fabrics of the country.

"Personally, I cannot see how any intelligent and patriotic citizen can find any real conflict in the permanent interests of business and education. I cannot believe that the business and broad visioned men of affairs in this State imagine for a moment that business prosperity will be measured by the density of ignorance among the producing classes. They must know that productive capacity increases with intelligence and that money spent for the education of all the people is a business investment of surpassing value. Moreover, they are too intelligent not to know that cultivated mind produces life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness and guarantees such conditions as make possible the orderly development of society. The wise and patriotic business men of this State only want to know that the money they spend for education is getting them a maximum of good results.

"On the other hand, I am very positive that the school people have no desire whatever to lay undue burdens upon business. They have sense enough to know that without a wholesome and vigorous development of the material resources of the State there would not be an adequate economic foundation for the intellectual and moral progress which they crave. Wealth must be systematically and energetically produced, intelligently organized and administered, and given such freedom of direction as will enable it to serve best the public welfare. Obstructions to the orderly and righteous development of business enterprise are also obstructions to the intellectual and spiritual progress of our people. School people, therefore, crave prosperity for every legitimate business interest in the State.

"It is inconceivable that the people of Texas will allow themselves to suffer longer under the delusion that there is any necessary conflict between the welfare of the taxpayer and our long-cherished system of public education. To fail to solve in the next two or three years the two vitally related problems of taxation and schools will be to confess our inferiority in the constellation of American commonwealths.

"Where are the candidates for high position that can produce a constructive program along these fundamental lines?"

FORT WORTH BUILDER MAKES HOME IN LUBBOCK

W. D. Roberts, building contractor of Fort Worth, has made his home in Lubbock and will work out of the Cicero Smith Lumber Company.

Mr. Roberts was at one time a citizen of Memphis, Texas, where he built many substantial homes, but has more recently resided in Fort Worth where he carried on an extensive contracting business.

DID YOU FAIL TO GET YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 14.—Did you fail to get as many Christmas cards as you expected? Are you kind of peeved because some friends forgot to include you?

Give them the benefit of the doubt. Postmaster Roy Nichols has a two-bushel basket of cards that were addressed incorrectly. Yours may be in it.

WORKMEN BUSY ON THE OSCAR LYKES BUILDINGS

Construction work on the Oscar Lykes buildings which face Avenue H, and are located immediately across the alley east of the Avalanche and armory buildings, was started last week, and Monday morning work was rushed by the contractor employing just as many men as could work on the job conveniently.

"These buildings have not been rented as yet, but Mr. Lykes feels that the many inquiries and applications for rentals that have been received by him indicates a greater demand for such buildings than can be met for some time.

EXHIBITORS GIVEN WEEK CLEAR PROGRAMS OF NORMAND FILMS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Vernon Reigel, chairman of the state censorship board, tonight gave Ohio exhibitors one week in which to clear their programs of movies showing Edna Purviance and Mabel Normand.

The order barring Normand and Purviance films was issued by Reigel January 9, and was to become effective immediately. His decision to extend the "dead line" on these films resulted from an announcement in Cincinnati this afternoon that a moving picture house had advertised an Edna Purviance film to start Sunday.

The films were barred, he said, because Misses Normand and Purviance are alleged to have been mixed up in too many shootings.

A. & M. ERECTING BUILDING FOR COLLEGE POSTOFFICE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 14.—A modern postoffice building is being erected by the A. & M. College of Texas which has been leased by the United States Postoffice Department and will be occupied by the College Station Postoffice as soon as it is completed. Since the destruction of the Boyett building which formerly housed the postoffice the mail business of the community has been conducted from temporary quarters established in a section of the Southern Pacific depot. The price of the lease for the building will provide interest on the college investment and dividends for sinking fund to retire the capital invested.

FORT WORTH MAN SAYS CARDS STUCK AGAINST HIM

FORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 14.—Martin Fagin believes the cards of fate are stacked against him.

Fagin's other limb was cut off in an accident several years ago. Doctor's fear the broken limb may have to be amputated.

VAN KATWIJK IS PRESENTED BY MUSIC CLUB

That the Lubbock Music Club has the endorsement and support of a number of local lovers of the finer arts was demonstrated Saturday evening when a goodly number attended the initial presentation of an artist here by that club.

Mr. Paul Van Katwijk, dean of the Southern Methodist University school of music, was introduced by Mrs. J. A. Rix, local social leader who is one of the members of the Music Club to whose efforts credit is due for the program which will bring many such artists to Lubbock. The Lubbock High School was chosen as being the most suitable for an entertainment of this character.

Mr. Van Katwijk made a few introductory remarks before proceeding with the following program:

- Ballade (Variations on a Norwegian Folk Song)—Grieg.
- Novellette in D major—Schumann.
- Margaret at the Spinning Wheel—Schubert—Liszt.
- Ballet Music from Rosamunde—Schubert—Ganz.
- Scherzo B flat minor—Chopin.
- Polonaise A flat major—Chopin.
- Kermesse—van Katwijk.
- Gavotte—van Katwijk.
- Bird Song—Palmgren.

BEAUTIFUL NEW BAPTIST CHURCH BUILDING DEDICATED BY PASTOR AND CONGREGATION SUNDAY A. M.

The beautiful new Baptist church was occupied Sunday at the regular service hours.

The Sunday School attendance was greatly increased by the entrance into the new structure, where every modern facility has been provided for the classwork, and where ample room is had for all who will attend.

At the morning hour Rev. W. A. Bowen, the pastor, whose unrestrained efforts in having the building erected to its present magnificence are appreciated by his congregation delivered the dedication sermon, using as his subject "The One Greater than the Temple," taking his message from the words than can be found in the 12th chapter of St. Matthews, sixth verse. This message was heard by a congregation that taxed the full capacity of the new auditorium, and has been referred to by devoted members of the pastor's congregation as "the best sermon he ever delivered in Lubbock."

At the evening service, which was well attended, the pastor spoke on "Successful Building," having, of course, made some reference to the completion of the church and commending the faithful members of the congregation for the splendid work they accomplished in making it possible.

Special choir and orchestra music was rendered throughout both the morning and evening services, which added to the program very much.

So rapid has been the growth of the B. Y. P. U. that the president and members are now considering dividing it into two groups, and giving each group a meeting place in the church that will make additional growth of each possible. The service Sunday evening was well in line with the other services of the day, and was added to by special quartet numbers being given by Messrs. Brooks, Burlison, Hilton and Gunn.

ARMED MEN OCCUPY ARGENTINE TOWN

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 14.—A group of armed men have occupied the town of Canale in the province of Cordoba, deposed the municipal authorities and organized a "patriotic committee" to rule the town. Inhabitants of Canale have requested the government to send troops to drive out the invaders. Authorities attach little importance to the movement which they believe is the result of local political quarrels.

CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

Looking Ahead

Last Spring a total of 350,000 people were disappointed in not being able to obtain deliveries of Ford Cars and Trucks, as orders were placed faster than cars could be produced.

The demand for Ford Cars and Trucks this Spring will, according to all indications, be far greater than last Spring.

Winter buying has been increasing at a greater rate than ever before.

Over 200,000 people have already ordered Ford products on our purchase plan, the majority of whom will take delivery in the Spring.

Actual retail deliveries the past 60 days totaled 308,170 Ford cars and trucks, an increase of 1,961 a day over a year ago.

The above facts are given with the suggestion that you list your order promptly with a Ford dealer if you contemplate the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer and wish to avoid delay in delivery.

Ford Motor Company

Detroit, Michigan

You need not pay cash for your car. You can arrange to make a small deposit down, taking care of the balance in easy payments. Or, you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. This puts you on the preferred order list and insures delivery of your car at a time to be determined by yourself.

BRITAIN FACING BREAK WITH FRANCE

LONDON, Jan. 14.—On the eve of the momentous session of parliament which opens Tuesday, Britain faces the most serious situation that has confronted her in months.

Whether Stanley Baldwin, conservative, or Ramsay MacDonald, laborite, is at the helm, Britain's government must tackle four great problems. They are:

1. A possible coal strike this spring.
2. A threatened strike of railway men the coming week end.
3. A serious de-line in the value of the pound sterling.
4. Strained relations with France over the question of the German palatinate.

It is declared authoritatively that Britain will break with France if the French persist in the view that the palatinate is autonomous and should be recognized as such by the Rhineland commission.

Cabinet members and liberal and labor leaders planned final conferences Monday night to discuss the situation.

King George opens parliament Tuesday, and the ceremony will be carried out with all traditional ritual, as if there were no question of labor's assumption of power in the coming days.

The king's speech, it is believed, will outline a program of non-provocative legislation, as if the conservatives were ignorant of their prospective fall in favor of Britain's first labor government.

As the situation now appears, it is probable that the government if defeated, will fall early, possibly Thursday night; the defeat will come on a vote of lack of confidence in connection with parliament's reply to the king's speech.

Leaders had originally intended that the debate on the reply be prolonged to give all parties an opportunity for expression of opinion, but the program is to be speeded up so that labor can take over responsibility before the crisis becomes acute.

Lancashire and Cheshire mines voted heavily in favor of terminating the existing wage agreement but the coal strike is still a future problem. It will come to a head in the spring.

The trades union council is doing its utmost to prevent the railway strike. Workers and companies are still completely deadlocked. The government and private companies are rushing preparations to organize a motor transport service to offset the effects of the expected strike. It is feared the strike would result in an almost complete stoppage of rail transportation.

What a labor government would do in regard to a labor strike is puzzling Great Britain. Meanwhile, however, whatever government is in Downing Street must come to terms with the sound and strained relations with France.

Bankers say that sterling is declining partly in sympathy with the decline of the French franc. They declare that the United States, which largely controls the exchange market, erroneously connects Britain with the continent. Well informed persons outside banking circles, however, say that a certain number of British financiers, in abject fear of a possible labor government, are sending huge shipments of sterling to the United States. One financier, it is said, has sent almost $100,000,000 of sterling.

The palatinate's situation forms a menace in foreign affairs. Britain denies that the Rhineland commission has the right to recognize the autonomous palatine government, and as it is she will demand a show down unless France recedes from her position.

It is said on good authority that Britain will not consent under any circumstances to the commission's recognizing that autonomous regime.

PLEA FOR REVIEW
WALTON CASE FILED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—For presentation of a plea for review was filed with the Supreme Court Monday by counsel for Jack Walton, former governor of Oklahoma. At the same time, the attorney general of Oklahoma filed a brief opposing the review.

Walton contended that since the legislature which deposed him acted as a judicial body, he was entitled to a review, but the attorney general asserted the question was entirely a political one and therefore not subject to a review.

REGARD BRYAN AS BIG FACTOR AT CAPITAL

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United News Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—With a smile extending from ear to ear, William Jennings Bryan has bobbed up again to worry leaders assembled here for the meeting of the democratic national committee.

It was exactly four years ago at the Jackson Day dinner here that Bryan nearly broke up a carefully planned love feast by attacking the League of Nations. To prevent another such affair, it was decided to have no democratic dinner this year.

But Bryan has been a democratic headliner for more than a quarter of a century and he was not to be pushed into temporary oblivion by any such trick as this. So, after blithely announcing President Murphee of the University of Florida as his presidential candidate, Bryan took a train from Miami for Washington and will be on hand for the democratic meeting Tuesday.

Worse than that he will make the big speech at the jubilee dinner of the drys Tuesday, to celebrate four years of prohibition, and the democratic leaders, trying to steer a harmonious course between Al Smith wets and the McAdoo drys, are fearful that the commoner will undertake to advise the party on the prohibition issue.

Democratic nominee in three presidential campaigns, the decisive factor in the nomination of Woodrow Wilson in 1912 and still full of fight, the commoner is regarded as a potential figure in the tangled row which is centering around the 1924 nomination.

Democratic politicians like to say that Bryan is a dead one politically, in a sense they may be right. Bryan has no organized machine. His endorsement of the Florida educator for president caused not a ripple here, except some minor comment to the effect that the commoner is merely trying to win local favor in his adopted state in order to get on the convention delegation. Active party leaders look upon him as a man who has served his time in politics. They think he should now stand on the side lines and keep quiet so the team can hear the signals. His advice is just about as welcome as that of an old grad who goes back to help out the coach on the eve of the big game.

But Bryan seems to be entirely oblivious to this state of affairs. He looks beyond the new generation of voters that has grown up since the free silver campaign and sees the old timers who voted for him three times and are ready to do so again. They, and the dry army, constitute his inspiration and his power. It is to this army of volunteers that Bryan appeals over the heads of his political enemies. In this sense, Bryan still is a powerful political personage.

The presidential campaign will be a much closer fight than it was in 1920 and Bryan's help might be needed. It is desirable, for the party as a whole, to keep him on the reservation because he could do irreparable damage if he deared. In fact, some say he contributed to the defeat of Cox in 1920 because of his suspicion that the party was playing too much on the wet vote. No matter what the party leaders think of Bryan, they would rather have him as a friend than as an enemy. Bryan's well aware of this, of course, and that is what leads to the fear among some of the party bosses that Bryan will attempt to dictate the party's stand on prohibition.

He is openly opposed to Al Smith and Underwood because of their wet views. The general belief exists among political observers that when the convention meets, Bryan will abandon his Florida candidate and throw his strength to one of the major candidates, probably McAdoo.

Bryan's dry speech here Tuesday night will be his curtain raiser. From then on, he will carry on a "one-man" campaign to lick the wet faction of the party.

AMENDMENT TO DELAY PASSAGE TAX REDUCTION

controlled only the rules as they would stand under Mr. Garrett's amendment, a situation would prevail under which it would be practically impossible to pass it even though a majority of the house was in favor of it," Green said explaining his situation.

"Amendment after amendment could be offered and the result would be very much as when the McKinley tariff bill was first brought before the house when it was found absolutely impossible to make any progress. It would be perfectly easy for a small group to prolong discussion of the bill for more than six months. In order to have hope of the passage of a new revenue bill of such length and complexity as the present one, there must be at least some limit on debate and some limit on the nature of amendments that may be offered.

"I do not mean by this that amendments should be unduly restricted, but there must be either by virtue of a special rule or agreement or arrangement whereby amendments which are not germane will be restricted to outstanding features of revenue legislation.

The only hope of the republicans lies in a special rule. Garrett stated on the floor that he would not stand for a special rule limiting debate on a tax measure, and the vote he controls is sufficient to block anything the regular republicans may want, as was demonstrated Monday.
