MCCRAY ADMITS FORGING NOTES PAYABLE TO HIM

HIS TESTIMONY FOLLOWS DAMAGING EVIDENCE BY GOVERNMENT

By United Press. INDIANAPOLIS, April 26.—Fighting a lone battle for freedom, Governor Warren T. McCray, of Indiana today admitted signing names of other persons and companies to notes payable to himself in testimony in his own defense in federal court.

The governor took the stand to answer charges of fraudulent use of the mails and to tell "his side of the story" that he had been waiting eight months to give the people of Indiana who elected him their chief executive.

His testimony came at the end of a day of damaging evidence given by witnesses for the government.

Farm managers and business associates of the governor whose names appeared on "cattle notes" testified they had not signed the notes and had never authorized McCray to sign their names to notes.

Hand writing experts examined exhibits of notes and testified that in their opinion the notes were in the handwriting of the governor.

As the government stated its case a mass of notes totalling nearly $1,000,000 were presented in evidence. The notes were those the government witnesses swore were issued without their knowledge or consent.

A hush fell over the court room as McCray took the stand. He was questioned by James Noel, his chief attorney.

McCray frankly admitted signing the names of other persons to the notes.

"As governor, I had a pride that I did not care to have my name in too many banks," McCray said, "I felt sure my responsibility was so great that no one would lose a nickel."

"I believed I would be amply able to take care of these obligations with the vast properties behind them. I felt I had a right to sign them."

"I did a foolish thing, but I always kept myself in mind as a partner in the firm. I was caught in the maelstrom of depression."

He told of signing the name of the Howard Cattle Company to a note and placing it in a bank as collateral and of similar transactions with notes bearing the names of other "cattle companies" which the government claims had no real existence.

McCray was questioned as to farm holding of the alleged cattle companies.

"What difference does that make?" Judge Anderson interposed. "He is charged with putting out the notes as cattle paper. Stick to that. We haven't time here to listen to a lot of stories about real estate."

The governor persisted in an attempt to go outside the field covered by the questions, asked him. Judge Anderson reminded him that he appeared in court as a witness and in no other capacity.

"I realize that," McCray said.

DOUBLE CHARGE IS DENIED BY WARREN

By United Press. HOUSTON, April 26.—Jack Bruce Warren, 36, alleged bootlegger and underworld character of Houston, and Galveston, arrested aboard a train at Corrigan, Texas, denied the charges of double murder and arson placed against him in connection with the death of two persons in an apartment fire early Tuesday morning.

In a statement made at the time of his arrest Warren asserted he knew the house was to be burned to collect insurance on the furniture but declared that he was in Galveston at the time the tragedy occurred.

The arrest of Warren by a deputy sheriff of Corrigan lends a sweeping search which was launched by the city and county officials of Harris county and which was participated in by officers throughout this section of the state. Believing that Warren was in Houston, police searched dozens of rooming houses Friday night without success. He was recognized however, shortly after leaving Houston on a train for Shreveport shortly after 8 a. m. and his arrest followed.

Warren is charged with murder in connection with the fire which destroyed his apartment early Tuesday and in whose gutted interior the bodies of Mrs. Ethel Raab, a nurse and E. W. Flagler, a collector, were found. The body of Flagler was charred almost beyond recognition while that of Mrs. Raab was scarcely burned. It is believed Mrs. Raab died of suffocation.

Information given by Evelyn Patterson, a sister of the dead woman, is believed to be the basis for the charges against Warren.

NON-RESIDENTS SUBJECT TO STATE TAX

By United Press. AUSTIN, Texas, April 26.—The attorney general construing the new inheritance tax act in an opinion given the state comptroller held that personal property situated in Texas, regardless of whether owned by residents or non-residents, is within the jurisdiction of this state and is subject to inheritance taxes. Also, that personal property belonging to residents of this state, regardless of where located is within the jurisdiction of Texas and is subject to inheritance taxes. Furthermore, that real estate situated in Texas is within the jurisdiction of the state and subject to inheritance taxes but that real estate belonging to residents of this state and not subject to Texas inheritance taxes.

MANDAMUS PETITION ASKED IN VALIDITY OF VOTED BONDS

AUSTIN, Texas, April 26.—The suit contesting the validity of the election at which $4,800,000 of improvement bonds for the city of San Antonio were voted, reached the supreme court, when the contestants of the election filed motions for leave to file petition for mandamus to compel the fourth court of civil appeals to certify their disqualifications to the governor to sit in the case because they are property owners and tax payers of the city of San Antonio, thereby being interested parties.

The contestants lost in the district court and they have appealed to the court of civil appeals.

Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet For Traveling Men to be Held Here June 14th; Biggest "Party" Yet is Expected

The "Gang" will be here June 14th. This date has been set aside as the one on which the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will entertain the traveling men who make this territory over heard of this territory or ever intend to make a sale within a hundred miles of Lubbock.

Plans are being made and it now looks as though "the little party" will be one of the liveliest ever held in Lubbock.

"Traveling Men's Dutch Lunch and Smoker" has been the official name put on the party, but to use the most heard expression among the travelers it will be a "great big party," with pep enough to make everyone glad to be in attendance.

This is an annual affair and ranks among the most important meetings held annually in Lubbock.

There is a spirit of friendliness and good cheer at these meetings that lasts for a year, this fact having been emphasized just last week when a prominent hardware salesman who was a guest of B. Sherwood at the Kiwanis Club spoke to the Kiwanians, declaring that Lubbock has more boosters among the travelers than any other city in the state. "Get a bunch of traveling men together, and regardless of how much they talk or what they start on, Lubbock will sooner or later be brought into the conversation and everyone of them will have something good to say about your town," the traveler declared.

Lubbock business men appreciate the travelers. They occupy just as conspicuous a place in the business of this community as any other business men and they have been looked upon as being an integral part of Lubbock's community and business life therefore the annual party given to them and in their honor by the other business men of Lubbock is an appropriate and fitting expression of the friendliness existing between them.

MANY FEDERAL COMMISSIONERS' PRISONERS LAND REPORT APPROVED

By United Press. LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 26.—Clemency was extended tonight to many inmates of the federal penitentiary convicted of various crimes while serving in the army during the world war.

Sentences were commuted for some of the men and others were pardoned and paroled.

Sentences for the several negroes sentenced in the Houston race riots were reduced from 10 to 15 years.

Eight prisoners involved in the murder of another inmate of the prison and who were sentenced to death but later reprieved by President Harding, were among those whom clemency was granted.

The action was taken by federal commissioners after a military committee visited the prison and reviewed cases of the "lost legion"—former service men serving sentences for war time offenses, after all "political" prisoners, draft evaders, and conscientious objectors had been released.

Names of those affected by the commissioner's decision will be made public Sunday, Warden Biddle said. One hundred and eighty nine cases were passed on, he said.

Seven former soldiers were granted full pardons. Among them was one overseas veteran. Clemency was refused 74 and 115 received commutations.

Sentences of 28 prisoners serving life terms were commuted to 30 years, twenty to 20 years, two to 22 years, and three months, two to 21 years and nine months, two to 19 years and three months, and two to 15 years.

Warden Biddle said the men involved in the murder of another inmate, and granted commutation of sentence were Francis J. Cooney, Millard Bowers, William Cook, Donald Fisher, Alexander Kahn, R. W. Leceppu, William Peters, and George W. Jerue. Their home addresses are not available, Biddle said.

The men were sentenced to hang for the slaying of Shelby Hisle, in the federal disciplinary barracks in July, 1919. Hisle, Biddle said, was regarded by the other prisoners as a "stool pigeon." He was ganged and beaten to death.

The eight were found guilty by court martial and sentenced to hang.

OFFICIALS BELIEVE PEACE IMMINENT IN HONDURAS

By United Press. WASHINGTON, April 26.—War-torn Honduras has passed the crisis, state department officials believe tonight. With envoys of three Latin American republics already on their way to the port of Amapala to attend a conference of mediation between the warring factions called by the United States, the department is certain that peace is imminent.

No confident are officials that differences will be satisfactorily settled, they now declare American intervention is virtually out of the question.

This country's part in the conference will only be an advisory one, Secretary Hughes has made clear.

MAL DAUGHERTY IS ORDERED ARRESTED

By United Press. WASHINGTON, April 26.—Mal Daugherty, brother of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, and brother of the former attorney general, will answer before the bar of the senate next week for his contempt of its justice department investigation committee.

Arrest of Daugherty and his removal to Washington was ordered by the senate today in adopting a resolution presented by Chairman Brookhart of the committee formally citing him for twice refusing to respond to subpoenas.

A deputy sergeant at arms of the senate will go to Washington Courthouse over the week end to serve the warrant on Daugherty and take him into custody. Late next week, according to plans, he will stand before the rostrum of the senate to answer questions put to him.

If he then refuses, he will be ordered confined in a "common jail" until he decides to answer. His only resort is to habeas corpus proceedings and subsequent argument of the senate's power to compel him to speak in the courts. It is considered probable that this is the course Daugherty will pursue.

Declines Comment

WASHINGTON, April 26.—M. S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, was on the links of the Washington golf club this afternoon when told that the senate had ordered his arrest on a charge of contempt.

He appeared little worried and resumed his game. He declined to make a statement until he had consulted his attorney.

Friends of the banker whose bank records are sought by the Daugherty committee believe this last move by the senate will be unsuccessful. They predict Daugherty will get out a writ of habeas corpus thus forestalling for the present any attempt by the senate committee to seize the bank books.

U. S. OUTCLASSED BY JAPAN IS CHARGE

NEW YORK, April 26.—The American is outnumbered and outgunned by the Japanese and the British, William B. Shearer, formerly a special expert employed by the navy department and inventor of the one man torpedo boat, and the amphibian tank, charged today in a statement.

The treaty ratio of 5-5-3 does not exist, he says, it is actually 5-3-1, with America last. Our navy is outclassed in guns, ships and fuel, in armament and range, Shearer stated. His figures grew from his challenge that figures on stored oil given out last week by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur were misleading. With the exception of 1,500,000 barrels stored in Hawaii, the navy has no oil in reserve, Shearer claimed.

The British, he said, have 19 naval bases, Japan as many, some of them secret, while the United States has none. The Atlantic fleet is out of commission because the boilers of four ships need repairing and there is no money to do the work.

Coolidge Seeks Solution

WASHINGTON, April 26.—President Coolidge today moved to find a "way out" of the strained situation that has arisen with Japan and the American congress over the measure to exclude Japanese immigration from the United States.

The president called the white house Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, a member of the senate conference committee on the new immigration bill, which carries the force of the question.

Later in the day Mr. Coolidge had another one of the numerous conferences that he held recently with Secretary of State Hughes on the Japanese problem.

Forest Fires Raging

PORTLAND, Ore., April 26.—Forest fires continued to sweep through Clarke county, Washington tonight with heavy damage. An idle mill of the Northfork Lumber company, a house and two barns all near Yale were destroyed by fires that swept from the cut-over timber lands into the clearing Saturday morning. Loss of the mill alone is estimated at $100,000.

Four Oil Workers Scalded

WHITTIER, Calif., April 26.—Four oil workers were possibly fatally scalded, two others painfully burned and six more slightly injured when a boiler exploded tonight on a Standard Oil lease at Santa Fe Springs.

HOUSE PASSES AMENDMENT BY VOTE OF 297 TO 69

BILL EMPOWERS CONGRESS TO REGULATE CHILD LABOR IN U. S.

By United Press. WASHINGTON, April 26.—Overcoming a sustained and resourceful parliamentary opposition supporters of the proposed child labor constitutional amendment put it through the house by a vote of 297 to 69.

Scores of attempts to limit its scope by various exemptions by the restrictions were rejected by the backers of the bill.

As adopted, the amendment empowers congress to limit, regulate or forbid the labor of persons under 18 years of age. It now goes to the senate.

An amendment by Representative MacLafferty, California, to reduce the age limit to 16 years, was passed in committee of the whole but was rejected on a roll call in the house.

The resolution will become the twentieth amendment if passed by the senate and adopted by three-fourths of the states.

A protracted and determined debate of the principle of state rights marked the closing hours of debate.

Among influential opponents of the child labor amendment were democratic leader Garrett, Tennessee, and Representative Montague, democrat, former governor of Virginia. Garrett deplored the increasing tendency to centralize power in the federal government.

Representative Forster, Ohio, author of the resolution, proposing the amendment, led the debate in its support. In the long prepared speech he declared child labor had been scientifically proved to be a vicious social evil.

PROSECUTION OF WHEELER SCORES FIRST SUCCESS IN PROBE SATURDAY

By United Press. WASHINGTON, April 26.—The "prosecution" scored its first victory in the senate "trial" of Senator Wheeler of Montana today.

Henry G. Glosser, of Great Falls, Montana, testifying before the senate committee investigating the indictment of Wheeler, declaring that he was present at a conversation between Wheeler and Gordon Campbell, of Montana, in January, 1922, in which he said Wheeler "left the impression" that his influence as a senator would get action on Campbell's case before the interior department.

Glosser's testimony created a sensation in the hearing room.

All previous witnesses have testified that Wheeler consented to act for Campbell only in cases before Montana state courts and consistently refused to handle any matters for him before government departments.

Wheeler was indicted for alleged violation of a statute which forbids a congressman accepting employment as a paid attorney to appear before government departments.

MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER OF WIFE

SUPERIOR, Ariz., April 26.—Frank Hutchinson pleaded guilty to first degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, killed when a bomb wrecked their home near here April 13. He was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Stephen Abbey.

Hutchinson first tried to divert suspicion by saying they had quarreled with Mexican laborers some time before and that he believed the murder was their revenge. Officers doubted his story, however, and arrested him on a complaint of a step-son.

He confessed, after grilling, that he set a charge of dynamite under his home after he had quarreled with his wife over property.

NATION-WIDE MOVEMENT TO HALT SPREAD OF DIPHTHERIA NOW UNDER WAY; MANY ALREADY INOCULATED

NEW YORK, April 19.—A spontaneous nation-wide movement against diphtheria is now under way. Hundreds of thousands of school children and tiny youngsters of pre-school age have been immunized by the harmless toxin-antitoxin inoculation, especially in the larger cities. In a state-wide campaign in Ohio already more than 60,000 children have been immunized and the authorities plan to reach 200,000 before 1924 closes. In New York and Detroit a special drive is being conducted to reach the little children who are more likely than older children to die if they catch the disease.

The extent of the effort was disclosed by the Welfare Division of the largest insurance company in the world during the process of spreading health educational material through their agents. So far the existence of seventy-two separate community campaigns against diphtheria has been recorded. In twenty-two of these special provision was made for actual test and treatment in addition to the general publicity. About one in three of these activities was initiated by the agents of the company who have distributed over 1,300,000 anti-diphtheria leaflets in homes or elsewhere through the country.

The company is making a survey of the entire country through its agents to learn the full extent of the campaign and the number of persons immunized. Health authorities believe that the success of the campaign this year will have an important influence toward making the job complete next year and toward reducing diphtheria deaths among children to a minimum.

In Detroit, in a congested area where the disease is an annual problem, an intensive campaign is getting under way. Here as in a majority of the communities fighting the disease the company has employed its agents to help spread the health literature and secure the consent of parents for the immunization inoculation.

The company gave impetus to the anti-diphtheria fight by the publication last November, in many of the largest magazines in the country, with a total circulation of 16,000,000, of a page advertisement entitled "No More Diphtheria." The copy was devoted entirely to setting forth the facts concerning diphtheria and urging parents to help stamp it out. The gist of the message was that diphtheria can be absolutely stamped out with proper co-operation from the general public. In Ohio where they have already immunized a large proportion of the children, Dr. John E. Menger, State Health Director, declared that it was much easier "to secure consents since the appearance of the advertisements."

"We expect by the end of the year," declared Dr. Menger, "to be in a position rapidly to Schick Test and immunize the entire population of the State of Ohio."

The most effective type of campaign has been that conducted by the state or large city health officer, with the immunization treatment given at clinics in schools or by private physicians. In general publicity and the work of securing consent from parents and public social agencies. Largely as a result of this work, under the direction of Dr. Wm. H. Park, of New York City Health Department Laboratories, a pioneer in this field, the death rate from diphtheria has dropped in New York from 22 to 9 per 100,000 in a few years—a measure of what can be done everywhere.

INSTRUCT FOR McADOO AT PRECINCT MEETINGS SATURDAY, MAY 3RD

Wall street and the Wets are endeavoring to control the next Democratic National Convention, to be held at New York.

The wet and reactionary politicians know from their experience at San Francisco in 1920, that their only chance of success lies in misleading and manipulating un-instructed delegations from dry States and progressive states.

If you want Texas to send a Progressive Delegation and a dry delegation, to the Democratic National Convention, then go to your Precinct Conventions on Saturday, May 3, and get your friends to go with you, and fight for the adoption of the following Resolutions:

"Resolved: (1) That we favor the nomination of a Progressive Democrat for President of the United States on a Progressive Platform.

"(2) We recognize William Gibbs McAdoo as the outstanding Progressive Democrat, whose Progressive record is a Progressive Platform.

"(3) We instruct our Delegates to the County Convention to vote for Resolutions and for Delegates favoring his nomination."

(Get out this Resolution and take it with you to your Precinct Convention)

REMEMBER THAT THESE CONVENTIONS WILL BE HELD AT 2 P. M. IN THE RURAL DISTRICTS AND AT 8 O'CLOCK P. M. IN CITIES; OFFER THIS RESOLUTION OR GET SOMEONE ELSE TO DO SO.

METHODISTS TO MEET IN NEW ENGLAND IN MAY

CHICAGO, Ill., April 26.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, which normally meets in 1925, will probably be called in special session to consider the plan. Acceptance by that body will make the plan effective. Large sections of the membership of each of the two churches are in favor of unification. Another question to be reviewed by the conference is the status of the Episcopacy. The entire system of Episcopal supervision will be considered. The entire organization of the benevolent boards of the denomination is to be considered. Several plans have been discussed and a commission appointed to study the question. The general conference will decide whether the present ten highly specialized boards will be combined into a single general board with many departments or left as they are.

BUICK STOLEN FROM DUNCAN RECOVERED

Sheriff Bud Johnston received a communication from Albuquerque, New Mexico, Saturday stating that the Buick car which was recently stolen from W. J. Duncan, of the Duncan-Perry Land Company, of Lubbock, had been located there and being held.

something would have been said of it. The car will be returned to Mr. Duncan here in the very near future. Few more significant indications of Christian progress have appeared than the act of Viscount Kiego Kiyoura, Premier of Japan, in giving official recognition to Japanese Christianity by including with Wuddhist and Shinto priests, a group of representative Christian pastors in a conference called a few days ago to secure the aid of religious organizations in rebuilding the morale of the Japanese people. Dishes can be washed and bottles cleansed with a new attachment for kitchen sink faucets.

JUSTIFIED SARCASTM

Those who have allowed themselves to be persuaded that the members of the Senate investigating committee are wilful slanderers, and that the persons investigated are persecuted innocents, might well take note of Senator Glass's pointed remark that it makes a difference whose ox is gored by an investigation, and consider what he said about the baseless character of the Senate investigations of President Wilson and the fruitlessness of the fifty-one inquiries begun by the Republicans as soon as the Harding administration took office. It is a patriotic duty to investigate a Democratic President even though he be innocent, but it is a crime to investigate members of a Republican cabinet even though they be guilty—such is the bitter but justified sarcasm of Senator Glass.

Equally pointed was his remark, in reference to Senator Pepper's sudden call for a world conference and a world court dissociated from those already in existence, that "the United States, having refused to associate with other nations of the world, is now proposing to extend to other nations of the world an invitation to associate with the United States." Senator Pepper proposes an international court differing from the one in existence only in the removal of the name of Woodrow Wilson as its founder. Possibly he thinks this would be a great gain, but probably his real object was merely to furnish Senator Lodge a new pretext for postponement of action by his committee on the World Court resolution. President Harding backed by Mr. Hughes committed his party to entry into the International Court without participation in its parent, the League of Nations, but Senator Lodge has managed to delay any sort of action on the resolution for 14 months. Now Senator Pepper proposes that everything be done anew with the seeming object of indefinite delay and doing of nothing at all. No wonder Senator Glass has cast a sarcastic eye upon an equivocal situation.

FIXING THE INDEMNITY

Woodrow Wilson was harshly criticized for not forcing the Peace Conference to fix definitely the German war indemnity. The American delegation did make a determined effort in this direction, but encountered stronger opposition than could be overcome. Then the Dawes committee began its deliberations five years later the same critics demanded and expected a fixed indemnity but failed to get it. "If General Dawes failed five years after President Wilson failed, at precisely the same point," comments of the Springfield Republican, "it is evident that the original failure can not be ascribed to Mr. Wilson's personal weakness or inaptitude. The cause is not personal either to Mr. Wilson or to Gen. Dawes. The British, too, are helpless. Evidently the indemnity will be fixed when the French want it fixed or when they get security, and not before.

This overlooks the difficulties of the undertaking—difficulties increased by the attitude and claims of inability on the part of the Germans. As for the French, it has been widely supposed that they were eager for a fixed indemnity, provided the figures were satisfactory. It is not surprising that the Peace Conference left the matter open, in view of the multitude of affairs on its hands and lack of the needed investigations. That the Dawes commission after five years, with only one matter before it and ample time for investigation, should have failed to fix the indemnity ultimately to be paid, is proof by itself of how great have been the difficulties attending a just and acceptable decision in the matter.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS

A report issued by the National Live Stock and Meat Board states that the consumption of meat reached a peak figure of 18,481,000 pounds last year, the largest recorded since 1908, though on account of increase in population, the consumer capita is slightly less than in the year of 1908, being 167 pounds per capita. Meat consumption last year represented an increase of more than 2,000,000,000 pounds over the average of the last five years. Approximately 90 per cent of this increase was shown to be in pork, attributed to record production of hogs. The consumption of meat in United States last year was divided as follows: Beef, 6,918,000,000 pounds; veal, 873,000,000 pounds; lamb and mutton, 574,000,000 pounds; pork, 10,113,000,000 pounds; goat 3,000,000 pounds.

About a year ago Col. George Harvey announced that Europe was "in a mess" and that America was "doing well out of it." Now that it is Washington that is "in a mess" Harvey has indicated his desertion of the party he joined in order to get a coveted diplomatic position by announcing that he is an "independent" in politics.

THE LAST DAY OF SCHOOL

Did you ever stand on the platform in a little country school house and make your first attempt at "speaking pieces" by stammering out: "You'd scarce expect one of my age To appear in public on the stage."

"Many fishes in a brook Daddy catch 'em with a hook?"

It was the last day of school and mothers, fathers, and friends had come to hear the dialogues and recitations in which the teacher had so carefully trained the children. You were one of the youngsters and made your initial bow with the same classic half dozen lines that most beginners used. After the "speaking" was over you and your school mates told the teacher goodbye and went home for the long summer vacation. The last day of school celebration is a good old American institution that ought not to be abandoned. It was an expression of good will and neighborliness, a community gathering very much worth while. Of course it can be made somewhat different now. It is so easy to hop into the auto and run over to the school house for that last afternoon. School work is different; the children have more poems, games, dialogues, music, and drawings to show their elders and they meet grown folks more naturally. The teacher is not under the strain of making a show time of it but can have a school "at home" day. Whether you are a patron of a one-room school or a good big consolidated school, by all means try to keep up the old, fine custom of a "last day of school."

Many of the schools are now having their closing, and we hope that the patrons will show a deep interest in this event. It is an event in the life of the school child that is never forgotten, and you as patrons of the school should make the event one of the most pleasing possible. For the next six weeks these events will come in regular succession every community in the country will have one, do not become too much absorbed in politics, in business, in the farm or the livestock to give the children attention, for after all they are the most valuable products of the land, and should have more attention than they are ordinarily given.

SECRETARY HUGHES' KEYNOTE SPEECH

In launching the candidacy of President Coolidge, Secretary Hughes made an earnest and eloquent appeal at New York in which he arrayed accomplishment and prophecy in a brief which invites logical contradiction. But declamations made in these keynote speeches are seldom accepted as the final word. Perhaps it is never intended that they shall be so accepted. In fact the charge has been repeatedly made on the floor of the Senate, that they are never recalled after election.

As viewed by Secretary Hughes, and probably by those in whose behalf he speaks with authority, the question of fuller participation by the United States in the organized councils of the Old World governments is not to be made an issue in the present political campaign. He expresses the belief that the measure of present participation is adequate to protect American interests and to lend, as needed, the advice and good offices of their government in those matters in which they are most concerned. He denies that a policy of aloofness is being adhered to. He remarks: "Whoever says that America stands aloof and withholds her support from a stricken world is guilty of reckless slander. We do stand aloof from political entanglements, but not otherwise." He accepts and reaffirms the pledge of the President that there shall be "immediate, adequate, unshrinking prosecution, criminal and civic, to punish the guilty and to protect every national interest."

HOW'S YOUR STOCK OF CONCEIT?

Whom do you like best, the fellow who prefers favoring you, or the one who defers doing so until he has had his fill? There is quite a difference between preference and deference. One is positive, therefore grateful, while the other is negative, therefore distasteful. To show preference is to show forth respect and high regard, while to show deference is to be slavish, or make a show of respect in order to gain favor. To honestly prefer the comfort and welfare of another is to make a friend of him, and being a friend thus bound he will naturally show you preference when opportunity offers. The fellow with more money than brains is usually of the deferential sort, really feeling that he is doing a lot by condescending to notice you. This, you know, gives him a chance to show his money. You may know some good fellows who are so burdened with self conceit that they are positively borsome, being forever trying to crowd themselves into the spot light. Has it ever occurred to you that they are annoying chiefly because they crowd you out? How are you off for conceit? It is well for you to take stock once in a while in order to see if you balance all right. If you don't believe in yourself you can hardly expect others to believe in you, even when you are right.

Oregon will probably vote on a plan to change representation in the State legislature. The proposed plan will assure a certain number to represent housewives, a certain number to represent clerks, a certain number for bankers, and the professions. Organized labor is behind the plan and circulating petitions to place it on the ballot.

Little Avalanches

Eggs are very plentiful and very cheap, but hotel and restaurant men evidently refuse to read the newspapers.

Only a few years ago the bread made from a barrel of flour sold for $10. Now, with wheat lower in cost, the bread sells for $18.

PUBLIC OPINION

Lubbock, Texas, April 16, 1924
Lubbock Morning Avalanche,
Dear Sirs:

I am a subscriber to the Morning Avalanche and enjoy the opening of your paper each week. I am sure you can handle your editorial columns as it is through the press that we can exchange ideas for the betterment of our citizenship and guard against evil influences.

There is a menace to the future of our city already in our midst and which must be exposed and driven out or our fair city will suffer the fate of hundreds of other cities by people refusing to move here on account of this menace, thus checking the growth and hindering the building of a real city such as we are entitled to and destined to have if such things are wiped out.

The menace I refer to is the "rent hog" who are already here and you may print any part or all of this letter over my signature as I have the courage of my convictions and am not afraid to express my opinion or sound a note of warning.

The recent city ordinance providing for the connecting of sewer and water, I think has been sadly misconstrued as it was intended for property owners—but, the "rent hogs" have raised rents to almost prohibitive figures. In some cases the cheapest plumbing to be had is used and rents increased one fourth which were already too high.

I believe that the average renter is a wage earner. We must have this class of people to help build our city. In fact, a majority of our population is the wage earning class.

The wages as a whole are much lower in Lubbock than in other cities with rents higher than other cities. This condition cannot exist if we are to prosper as a city. I think the average wages paid in the city for all classes of work will average about $18.00 per week or about $72.00 per month. With war prices on some commodities and the "rent hog" standing by, there is but little left the tenant at the end of the month. In some cases you will find rent houses that can be built for $800.00 renting for as high as $25.00 per month.

Widows are being charged by the "rent hogs" the same rents as are men who are heads of families. Are we going to tolerate this condition or are the public spirited citizens going to rise up and declare a war on these "rent hogs"?

What I mean by "rent hogs" is the fellow (I was about to say man) who raises his rent on every pretext and charges it because there is a demand for his houses and because he can get it, as people must have shelter.

I know a party who raised the rent on one of his houses $1.50 per month for putting in a door, that is taking out one door and putting in a new one.

I can give and will publish this "rent hog's" name if I am called upon for it.

Are we going to stand by and see the rent hog ruin our future prospects for a city? I think not! Before we will do that we will induce—our public spirited people to erect more dwellings and rent them at a reasonable figure, leaving the "rent hog's" buildings vacant.

Something must be done and I would like to hear from others through the Avalanche, as to what they would think of these "hogs."

Yours for a bigger and a better Lubbock,
M. W. WALDRON,

Scissored Editorial

Fort Worth Record: Few parents know the event and value of the health inspection and hygiene activities of the Fort Worth public schools. Those who are familiar with the work that has been done in the short time since it was authorized by the citizenship are almost unanimous in regarding it as one of the most important functions of the school system.

The number of cases of preventable disease in comparison to the cases of disease not of the easily preventable type is astounding. Only the doctors and a few of those who have taken an interest in public health, have any idea how many sicknesses are preventable by the use of the simplest sort of precautions. The farmer would not think of trusting to luck to prevent disease among his animals or in the plant life of his farm. He has the resources of the national government and of county agents in helping him, not so much to cure, but to prevent maladies that will hit his income a body blow. It is strange that people have been so slow in developing a sim-

WINDY WOLF SAYS

I have just lost two of my best pals. It seemed to me that from the day that I was brought in to this world, they were with me. In my happy moments they were part of me, when I was sad they were sad too. True friends though they were, stanch allies that they were, there were times when they caused me trouble. And, when they caused this mood, it seemed they swelled up. Possibly it was their loss.

But these were only moments. Through the thick of it, they were well-being, in short, stood the test. My well-being, in short, stood the test.

But they are gone now. It was inevitable. Their departure sickened me. And, when they gave me a final view of my old pals, I became choked at the throat. Gone where Alas, I know not. Where do all good tonsils go?

The Editor says he is growing alarmed. Is this deadly hair-bobbing epidemic among women to take away from us the hairpin—the old twisted hairpin, the right handy hairpin; the wavy-ribbed hairpin, that hung on so well? Time was when everything about the place from a leak in the plumbing to the family clock could be, and was deftly repaired by means of a hairpin. Is this new craze which abbreviates woman's chief glory to deprivation of the two-pointed hairpin, the celluloid hairpin, the black glossy hairpin, that hung so well?

Tattlers had gone to Abernathy for a short holiday. Wishing to be in style he went to the Hotel and stepping inside the door surveyed the crowded lobby with a good deal of interest and some embarrassment. Evidently his nervousness was ruling emotion for when he stepped up to the desk he said, "Er—I'd like a room with wife for myself and bath."

Now that so many ladies are divorced, and some of them more than once, we need a new term for them. "Exwife" is crude, and one can hardly refer to an ex-ex-wife. Perhaps it would be well to take a hint from the Free-masons, and refer to her simply as the Past Grand Master.

An Lubbock man confesses to a moment of great embarrassment recently. "My wife is a club woman," he says, "and she's been studying up on geography. I guess. She asked me last night where Esthonia was, and I stammered around and finally had to admit that I'd never heard of such a place. I think woman's place is in the home, but I don't dare say so."

A pretty slender girl of twenty who has a lot of fat ancestors has plenty to worry about, muses Mrs. Windy Wolf.

"Us farm folks are in an awful fix," declared Farmer Fumblegate, bent "neath an overload of awe. "We are looking money year after year, selling everything we raise for less than the cost of production. We can't get any more credit, nor pay the debts we have already contracted, and soon we will be shoved out into the cold world as near naked as young jaybirds. We can't educate our children, and so our girls will go to town to work in restaurants, and so forth, and our boys will become garage hands or plain hold-ups. We are losing our religion, our clothes are out of fashion, and we are rapidly sinking into a quagmire of hopeless misery. We are 'peopoo' to live and we can't afford to die, so what."

Great guns! ejaculated Farmer Flint. What makes you talk that stuff?

Because my wife does. She got her information from the hordes of town folks who are everlastingly writing, shouting, and weeping about, at and over us.

Billie Flinter thinks it takes a prophet to tell us what we are going to do to the profiteer.

A story of a Lubbock auctioneer is told as follows: The auctioneer who was holding a sale east of Lubbock, had been vainly trying to arouse some enthusiasm for a horse on which he had called for bids. The horse was rather a hony specimen and apparently no one cared to bid. "Some one start the bids on this horse," cried the auctioneer. At first protracted silence and then a voice from the rear of the crowd piped out, "Two dollars." "Gentlemen, gentlemen, gentlemen," protested the auctioneer, "this horse is alive."

Some enthusiasts out West, stimulated by large pocketbooks, have induced Senator Wheeler trying to discourage his able investigating. By this time they probably regret it, for the Senator is investigating THEM to find out just what and who are behind the indictment.

Washington knows that when Senator Wheeler entered public life in Montana he found two political parties out there, one called Republican, one called Democratic, both owned by copper mines.

When he ventured to oppose the copper capitalist he was informed that he would be run out of Montana. But he had other plans, got himself elected to the Senate of the United States, and now the people are hearing from him.

Even the fattest pocketbook ought to realize that this is no time for financial "rough stuff."

Dr. Chapman, excellent scientific worker for the American Museum of Natural History, returns from the Andes mountains bringing a bird that brays like a donkey and a duck that can't fly.

Before amazement carries you away at thought of a duck that can't fly, ask yourself how many human beings there are that can't think?

New York is proud, learning from United States authorities that New York's port handled more than one-half of the total ocean passenger traffic of the United States. Seattle, Boston and San Francisco were next.

Well, that's to-day's news. How long do you suppose it will be before Jacksonville, Fla., and Los Angeles both have an ocean traffic bigger than that of which New York is so proud to-day? This country is only starting, and the really big ports and cities are still to find their place.

Those that rile the oil market say there won't be any big advance in gasoline prices this Spring because "muddy roads will hold down the price." Muddy roads diminish automobile. Less automobile means smaller demands for gas, and smaller demands means that the rulers don't put up the price. In other words, "What will the traffic bear?" not "What does the gasoline cost?" is the important question.

Henry Ford will buy a trolley line connecting Muscle Shoals with the Gulf at Pensacola, Fla., according to report. He might utilize the gas engine trolley car that he once showed this writer in his Dearborn laboratory. Light in build, his car could cross the Continent at the rate of sixty miles an hour without taking on fuel, and at less than half the present cost of transportation. That ought to interest railroad men now. If it doesn't, the kind of competition it will give them will interest them later—and TOO late.

Robert D. Towne says religion is handicapped by a "lack of good news." There are no more firm assurances, such as the one given by Peter and Andrew: "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." There are no definite assertions about hell, if you are wicked, and heaven, if you behave. Clergymen split hairs. Each one believes a part and denies a part. The simple mind wants to believe everything.

Perhaps a few miracles would help to revive faith and fill the churches. Suppose the Rev. Dr. Straton should say: "I warn you dissenting clergymen that you are all bound for perdition, and to prove it I shall now change Dr. Jones into a stick of peppermint candy." Would not that convert all if Dr. Jones did stiffen up and slowly turn into striped peppermint?

You'd think so, but the human heart is hard. You remember the Arabian philosopher, who said to the holy man: "You may say to me, 'Twice two are five, and to prove it I'll turn this walking stick into a live serpent,' but, even if you change your stick into a serpent, I'll still say, that is interesting, but twice two are not five."

A gorilla, just arrived, is living in a fine New York hotel. How it would surprise him if his dull, worried brain could realize that the world was built, according to Darwin, by the gorillas, a small, feeble tribe of his own relations, weak in muscle, teeth and claws, and therefore, compelled to think. Thinking, they became rulers of the world.

Frederick Landis says that this country, instead of admitting gorillas that come here to die of homesickness, ought to admit more of the right kind of European immigrants that would come here to build up the United States and LIVE.

FLOYDADA WHIRLWIND TAKES BASEBALL CROWN

ROMP AWAY WITH FINAL GAME OF DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP AGAINST LUBBOCK HIGH WESTERNERS 16 TO 2

Three Western pitchers were ineffective against the Floydada whirlwinds here Saturday afternoon, and were bunched to all corners of the lot, giving Floydada an early lead on the final game for district championship in the University Interscholastic League, and they took the big end of the listless affair by a count of 16 to 2.

Williams, having worked Friday against Stanton, which was one of the hardest contests of the meet was nursing a stiff arm when he entered the box. He made it through the first inning, however, with only one counter against him, and this was directly attributable to an error by Sullivan. In the second inning, Sullivan again went wild, bunting the visitors into a rally which netted them five runs, and sent Williams to the showers disheartened.

He was replaced by Cate, who came in from the short field, Nesmith replacing Cate. He fared but little better, the visitors driving relentlessly for extra base hits. In the fifth Cate had a bad inning, and on two brawn errors and three singles, the visitors counted five more runs. The seventh was uneventful, and in the eighth Nesmith took charge of mound duty giving up three hits in the two innings following for as many runs.

"Lefty" Holmes went well on the mound for the visitors, giving up nine safeties, which were so well scattered that they were ineffective.

Castleberry hooked up in the eighth for a mighty drive over center field, and but for a slight tangling of his feet as he rounded third base would have had an easy pivot out. As fate would have it he stumbled between third and home and was thrown out at the plate, relayed in by the previous play in center field. He drove out two singles and a triple out of the first trips. Hensley crossed the plate for Lubbock's only two runs, scoring one in the fifth and one in the ninth.

As a fitting climax to the day, and to the closing of the official season, the Westerners last night were banqueted by several local business men lead by S. D. Hunter, baseball enthusiast, at the Merrill hotel. It was pointed out during the course of the evening that more real school spirit had been shown toward the team this year than at any time in previous history, and that owing to the fact that practically every man on the team was new to the school this year, an exceptional record had been made.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 26.—Taking two more shut outs in the final day of the Pennsylvania relay carnival, England's team of star athletes finished their American invasion in possession of a total of blank and a lot of generous cheers. The British champion, Eric Liddell, finished fourth in a field of five starters in the 100-yard dash.

MANY RECORDS BROKEN IN DRAKE RELAY CARNIVAL

DRAKE STADIUM, DES MOINES, Ia., April 26.—One world's record was smashed, an intercollegiate mark and a national high school record lowered and three records for this set of games were broken in the intercollegiate Drake relay carnival here today.

Despite a cold wind and threatening clouds more than 7000 people attended the meet. Charles F. Hornum, of the University of Iowa, carried the 100-yard dash in 12 seconds flat, 104 tenths of a second over the time set by C. Sherill, Yale University, in 1889. GERMANS ARE CLAIMING VICTORY IN DYE CONTROVERSY

By United Press
BERLIN, April 26.—German economic experts claim that America's infant dye industry is not greatly troubling the German dye producers. On the other hand, American producers of pharmaceutical goods are making inroads on the German production and competing with the German products on the world market.

There appears to be real anxiety in the one strong fortress of the German chemical barons. Light is thrown on the dye chemical situation by the trade review of the S. P. D. agency which writes: "America made great efforts during and after the war to make itself independent of the German dye import upon which it almost completely relied in 1914."

"A good view of the extent of these efforts partially undertaken under protection of the American government, is furnished by the fact that from the beginning of the war until the end of 1923 not less than one and a half million dollars was invested in the American dye-stuff industry."

"The statistics for the year 1923 should not be underestimated, even though they are not in proportion to the amounts expended. The American dye-stuff industry was able to increase the production of dye-stuffs and to put new lines on the market; but in general the industry was not in a position to replace the German coal tar dyes, especially the special brands of the German factories. Leadership in this line is still held by the German dye industry, despite all the blows it received as a result of the war, the Versailles Treaty and the consequences of the Ruhr occupation. This is proven by the fact that similar American articles could scarcely compete with the German products on the American market.

The American production in 1923 went exclusively into the export trade and was disposed of on the world market, while American consumers preferred German goods. This explains the increase of the German dye import in America, which was estimated by the American Chemical Society as 50 per cent higher than in 1922. Consequently it can be concluded that the German dye industry has maintained in general its original market in America. The figures would have been greater if the Ruhr battle had not lamed the dye export of the German factories.

"In comparison to dye stuffs German pharmaceutical preparations came off worse. This can be ascribed to the fact that the American production made recognized advances, although even today it cannot compete with German medications. However, the American producers succeeded in increasing the export of pharmaceutical articles one fifth above the 1922 export, and doubled the figure for 1913."

CHAMPION HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS WILL MEET AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—The champion high school orators of eight Texas districts will meet at Southern Methodist University May 7, to compete for first, second and third prizes aggregating $500, offered by Lynch Davidson of Houston. Each orator is to talk for twelve minutes on the Constitution of the United States. Dr. E. D. Shurter, director of the School of Citizenship at Southern Methodist University, arranged for the contests in Texas. Similar contests will be held in other states on the same date.

The contest will be made an annual affair in Texas, Dr. Shurter said, as a means of arousing interest in the Constitution and American ideals of government.

The state contest in Texas is part of a campaign fostered by leading newspapers of the country. Winners in sectional contests will compete in a national contest in Washington for first, second and third prizes, aggregating $5,000.

FAMOUS TWO-GUN MAN DIED IN BED WITHOUT HIS BOOTS

By United Press
DENVER, April 26.—Newton Vorce, one of the most picturesque of the old West's two-gun men and a maker of history in the days that gave rise to tales of the wide open spaces and all the rest of it, is dead. But he committed two errors. He lived to the ripe old age of 92 and he died in his bed—with his boots parked in the closet.

Vorce received his training in the handling of firearms during the war between the States, when he served with Mosely's guerillas. Anxious for more fighting, he came to Colorado after the war, settled in the Deer Trail and Byers country, and set out to fight Indians.

The exploits which made his name a State legend, however, began in 1887 when he was arrested for a minor offense and confined in the Arapahoe County jail. Desiring more of the aforesaid wide open spaces than was available behind the bars, and remembering he had a leg with a gill in Deer Trail, Vorce kicked a hole in the jail wall, helped himself to a brace of pistols on the sheriff's wall, appropriated a horse, and rode away.

A posse was organized to capture him. Two horses were shot from under him in the ensuing battle, but he fought off the posse and was not captured until an army posse ran him out of his dugout with a stick of dynamite and subdued him after he came out with both guns blazing.

Shot Out New Lights

Some years later, in another fit of exuberance, he rode into Evans and shot out every one of its new acetylene street lights and coolly rode back down the main streets through crowds of infuriated citizens, shooting as he rode.

Still more years later, in 1905, this was Vorce, who was a firm believer in restricting immigration of foreigners into Colorado, happened on a carload of Greek section hands near Byers, walked into the car and "shot up the joint."

Sheriffs were none too anxious to capture him, and the next day, until the next September, when he walked in to a saloon in Byers, only to be covered by "Lon" Smith, the bartender, and knocked unconscious by a chair in the hands of a traveling man.

Taken to Denver for trial, he ran into a jury which detected foreign labor as thoroughly as he did, and he was free.

Returned from the trial he wanted to celebrate and stopped off to call on Fred Norcross, then station agent but now president of the Greeley Chamber of Commerce, at La Salle. With a revolver in each hand he forced Norcross to dance a jig on the station platform and answered threats that the sheriff would be summoned from Greeley with a retort that he would wait.

When the sheriff and his posse arrived, Vorce was hidden behind a huge cottonwood, and from his ambush covered the men, disarmed them all, mounted one of the horses and drove them all back to Greeley forcing the men to submit to being driven through the streets under his weapons.

They soon had more weapons after he left town, reorganized and started in pursuit. Cornered in the badlands near Greeley, he forced a sheepherder to put on his clothes and "escape" and while officers pursued the sheepherder made off in the opposite direction.

Thereafter he worked at the profession he had followed between sprees in his earlier years—cow-punching. He was a good puncher.

IRISH ANGRY OVER BOUNDARY DEADLOCK

LONDON, April 26.—Both Ulster and the Irish Free States are getting with anger over the deadlock of negotiations here on the boundary question.

Ulsterian declare that if the British attempt pressure by removing their troops the Ulster special volunteers, will defend the border against attack.

Newspapers in Dublin claim the Anglo Irish treaty will be null and void unless the boundary clause is enforced.

The British cabinet is expected to meet Monday or Tuesday to permit Colonel Minister Thomas to report on the deadlock. The London Evening Standard predicted that Britain will attempt to arbitrate the matter with a neutral chairman from one of the dominions presiding at the discussions. The newspaper suggests that it might be easier to find some prominent American or League of Nations officials to act as arbiters.

PRODUCTS FILLED IN EAST SHOULD BE MADE IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—More than fifty articles of commerce, derived from cotton by-products, now made almost exclusively in the factory centers of the North and East, logically should be manufactured in Texas and other Southwestern States, according to a report of the industrial relations committee of the Dallas Manufacturers Association.

This conclusion is reached after a careful analysis of the industry and in the opinion of the committee is of vital interest to every community in the State that is striving for development along factory lines.

Primarily the Southwest should fabricate cotton derivatives because this section is the cotton center of the world and raw material is at hand in unlimited quantities. The second factor is that intelligent labor is available for every industrial need and last, 10,000,000 pecks of this land's territory can be supplied with the finished product.

Government statistics show 1,219,921 tons of cotton seed, or more than one-third of the Nation's yield was produced in Texas in 1923. A large part of this seed is crushed in the 190 mills in the state. These mills represent an invested capital of approximately $10,000,000 and give employment to about 3,800 workmen.

Seed crushing however, is only the first step and the opportunity for Texas towns lies in the further manufacture of the by-products. At present thirteen Texas mills refine the raw oil. Dallas leads in volume with four refineries. There are four in Houston; one in Greenville; one in San Antonio; one in Sherman; one in Terrell and one in El Paso and possibly others. It is estimated that 85 per cent of the refined oil goes into lard compounds; 10 per cent into cooking oils and the remaining 5 per cent into salad oils and oleos. The refining centers, Memphis, Dallas, Houston and New Orleans, listed in the order named as to importance.

Roughly speaking cotton seed is divided into two main classifications during the milling process; meats and hull. From the meats come ergide and refined oils, putty, cosmetics, salad oil, cooking oils, medical emulsions, shaps, washing powders, nitroglycerine, fat acids, cake and meal. From the hulls are produced feed, fertilizer, fuel, fiber batting, wadding and stuffing material, absorbant cotton, yarns, felt, cellulose, paper, gun cotton, rope, twine, carpets etc.

It is in the above named abundant list of by-products that manufacturing opportunity in Texas lies today. Texas town interested in industrial development probably investigate the possibilities. One of the leading cotton authorities declares that a mill to make paper from lint would if properly financed and operated, be valuable to the Southwest.

An effort is being made by the Dallas Manufacturers Association to foster factory development along approved and practical lines in the entire Southwest. A bureau is maintained by this association in Dallas to give information concerning the possibilities of any line of manufacture. This service is available to the entire citizenship of the Southwest.

TOMBSTONE DATED 1832 UNEARTHED IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—A tombstone dated 1832 was found in the debris scattered when the vault of the New Republic bank building here was blasted by workmen who were razing the structure.

The tablet of stone bore the initials "J. W. O." and is an enigma to bank officials who have tried to trace its history.

The widow of the builder of the building and other local pioneers were unable to recall "J. W. O." or the significance of the tombstone.

WOMAN DESPAIRS OF LIFE, LEASED WIRE UNITED NEWS KILLS SELF AND THREE CHILDREN FRIDAY

DENVER, Colo., April 26.—Desperate because she and her husband could not make enough money to provide for their children and to prepare for their own retirement, Mrs. Maude Ward, 39 years of age, turned on the gas in her home here Friday night. She and her three children, all under the age of five, were found dead.

Ward had a long struggle on a torn envelope which read: "Well, folks, I guess you all think I should be sorry, but I'm not. It's awful to be poor and worse to have children and no way to take care of them. I would have another in about five months and I made up my mind not to. Don't blame Geo. He has always done his best, but he was up against it like me—put into the world to work, no education, no training, nothing to do but work like dogs."

The "George" mentioned in the note is the woman's husband.

lar service to cut down the tragic and tremendously expensive inroads of preventive diseases on human beings. If hogs and cattle and trees and plants deserve health protection how much more should it be given to children and human beings. One of the biggest steps forward Fort Worth has taken came when the people of this city voted a special tax rate of 2 cents for the purpose of establishing and operating a department of hygiene in our public schools. It has already saved many lives, corrected many physical defects, eased much suffering and cut down the toll of preventable diseases in the schools and so in the homes of the city. A school doctor, a school dentist and a corps of trained school nurses with a specially trained nurse working on tuberculosis alone, makes up the health department of the public schools in Fort Worth. By a careful and systematic physical examination of the children, by a series of reports to the schools and to the parents, they are raising the health standards of the schools and benefitting the individual children. Two things are needed to make the work more effective and beneficial. There should be the closest cooperation on the part of the parents. Each parent should think of the interests of his own children and see that they are given the proper care and treatment. Each parent should think of the welfare of other children than his own and see that regulations are compelled with, so that communicable diseases may be checked. Further, there should be the closest cooperation between the city health department and the school department of hygiene. Without this it is impossible to get the best results. The city department of health should cooperate always by promptly reporting to the school hygiene authorities all communicable diseases and the placing or raising of all quarantines. In this way the schools will be able to shut out disease carriers before it is too late. Fort Worth's health record, from the standpoint of low death rate, is one of which we have a right to be proud. The school health system is going to better that record and extend it to all angles of the health problem, if it gets the right sort of cooperation from everyone.

McCRAY ADMITS FORGING NOTES PAYABLE TO HIM

(Continued From Page 1.) "but it is necessary for me to explain." At the conclusion of his direct testimony, McCray was subjected to a grilling cross-examination by District Attorney Elliott. McCray admitted to forging the note of the worth of one of the cattle companies about which Elliott questioned him. "We don't want estimates here," Elliott said. "We want facts." McCray was still on the stand when court adjourned. He will finish his testimony Monday and the case will go to the jury late this afternoon or Tuesday. The indictment under which McCray is being tried, charges him with using the mails in a scheme to dispose of fraudulent notes of state banks. He has already been tried in criminal court on charges of embezzlement growing out of his financial failure. The result was a hung jury. If he comes clear in the present trial he will face a second criminal court trial on other indictments still pending against him there.

OPTIMISM FELT OVER GERMAN SITUATION

PARIS, April 26.—J. P. Morgan let fall a strong hint today that if the allies patch up their differences over reparations there will not be much trouble about an international loan. Prospects for American bankers putting up the 800,000,000 gold marks suggested by the Dawes committee of experts are excellent, if the political situation in Europe develops satisfactorily. What happens at the forthcoming German elections May 3, will have some bearing on the matter, as will the stability of other European governments and their relations one to the other. These words from Morgan cheered those who are praying for speedy settlement of the tangled reparations problem more than all the wordy agreements in principle published by the commission today. Raising the international loan will have to be the first practical step. Developments during the day included: 1. All the allied governments replied to the reparations commission in the playing an undoubted will for a settlement on the basis of the reports of the experts committee as recently accepted by the commission. The French reply, however, brought strong relief to the differences in the Franco-British viewpoints. 2. J. P. Morgan had a long talk with the reparations commission which, although diplomatically phrased, practically amounted to telling France and Great Britain that they must straighten out their differences if they want any moral or financial aid from the United States. It is said Morgan's plain talk will have a considerable effect upon Franco-British negotiations. 3. Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, visited Premier Poincare, pointing out that Prime Minister MacDonald in his recent speech at New York, said that "in case Germany defaults (on reparations payment or deliveries) England would be prepared to take strong action in conjunction with the other allies. This conversation, it was thought, may make an eventual Franco-British agreement depend upon penalties to be imposed on Germany in case of default. Thus despite reservations in the French reply, it appeared the current moving toward an eventual settlement had been considerably strengthened, as the British, Italian, and Belgian acceptances were practically unanimous. One of the principal British objections to Premier Poincare's reservation is that he clearly indicates that France does not intend to "fellowship" her economic neighbor. The United Press is informed that J. P. Morgan, in his conversation with Sir John Bradbury, the British representative on the reparations commission, and M. Barthou, president of the commission, said that if the political situation in Europe develops sufficiently the prospects for a loan in the United States along the lines drawn up by the experts, are excellent. The British also criticize Poincare for outlining a program for the reparations commission, especially that part of his reply which says: "The governments have a right to expect from the commission of reparations a definite decision which will embody the conclusion of the committees of experts and give them practical form since in most cases they were drafted as mere indications. The reparations commission must complete the experts' recommendations on certain points which the experts left to the commission to deal with and must complete a program on points upon which the experts did not express an opinion." The United Press is informed that J. P. Morgan, in his conversation with Sir John Bradbury, the British representative on the reparations commission, and M. Barthou, president of the commission, said that if the political situation in Europe develops sufficiently the prospects for a

FRENCH AVIATOR STRAINING TO BEAT U. S. FLYERS AROUND WORLD

By United Press. PARIS, April 26.—Winging his way eastward in a single handed attempt to snatch for France world supremacy in distance flight, Lt. Pelletier d'Osy has become the French hero of the hour. With American planes and a British machine already started on world flights d'Osy hopped off from Villa Couba, accompanied by a lone mechanic. He flew a biplane army plane with no spare parts. The first day d'Osy reached Bucharest without a stop and Friday "hopped" another thousand miles to Aleppo. Up to 6:20 p. m. today the air minister said it had no message of d'Osy's departure but it was considered possible he might have taken off without notifying Paris and already been on his way to Bassorah, at the head of the Parisian gulf.

MARION DAVIES IN Little Old NEW YORK

Thrilling days of America's youth are recreated in this remarkable photoplay—

—when the stars and stripes were raised at the prow of the first steam-boat—when the foundations of the American nation were laid by the brave men and women of a glorious age gone by—when men lived and loved to the full—

Romance and adventure crowd each thrilling moment of this truly great motion picture. Marion Davies as the heroine of a charming love story will capture your heart completely.

If you liked "When Knighthood Was In Flower" you'll love "Little Old New York."

What Prominent People Say

Captain Herbert Hartley, Commander of the Leviathan: "Little Old New York" is a most interesting and delightful photoplay, with Marion Davies simply irresistible. Both the American and European film fans will later envy the Leviathan passengers their rare treat. They enjoyed seeing it first." Albert Lasker, former Chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board: "Truly a tremendous achievement. I congratulate Cosmopolitan in setting a new standard of entertainment value with 'Little Old New York.' Marion Davies deserves all praise for her brilliant performance. The American motion picture industry should be as proud of this photoplay as the nation is of the Leviathan." Vincent Astor: "No photoplay has ever thrilled or delighted me like 'Little Old New York.' Marion Davies rises to new heights as its star." Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio: "Here is a motion picture entertainment every lover of real entertainment will find wholly worth while as Mrs. Longworth and I did." Howard Chandler Christy, the celebrated artist: "Little Old New York" surpasses anything ever screened for sheer artistry. My congratulations to Marion Davies and the Cosmopolitan staff." Secretary of Labor James J. Davis: "'Little Old New York' is a gorgeous entertainment. No one will want to miss this marvelous photoplay." Anna Fitzu, noted opera star: "The screen version of this popular play is superb, and Marion Davies is ideal in the stellar role. Like it much better than 'When Knighthood Was in Flower.'" Fortune Gallo, Impresario of the San Carlo Opera Company: "'Little Old New York' marks a notable advance in screen achievement. Beauty, brains and talent are perfectly blended to create this masterpiece." Marion Davies, in the star role, could not be improved upon." Albert Keller, general manager of Ritz-Carlton Hotels: "After witnessing Marion Davies in 'Little Old New York' it is easy to understand why America ranks miles ahead in motion pictures." John F. Hylan, Mayor of New York: "This production is unquestionably the greatest screen epic I have ever looked upon and Marion Davies is the most versatile screen star ever cast in any part. Every man, woman and child ought to see this splendid picture. I must pay tribute to the genius in all lines who created such a masterpiece."

From the Critics

"Miss Davies is one of the best actresses on the screen."—Harriette Underhill, in "New York Tribune." "One of the finest things the cinema art has yet given to the world. It will shine vividly in the memory of every picture devotee. It is a picture the industry may be proud of and will not have to boast of; this picture will take care of its own reputation."—Martin J. Quigley, in "Exhibitors Herald." "Here is one of the loveliest and simplest love stories ever presented, performed almost perfectly from start to finish. Miss Davies is irresistible."—Quinn Martin in "New York World." "Miss Davies proves herself one of the greatest artists on the screen today."—Louella O. Parsons, in "Morning Telegraph." "One of the most exquisite productions ever thrown on the screen."—Fred Hall in "New York Times." "It will reach the heart of every man and woman in the U. S. A., whether they live in a hamlet or in a metropolis. It will interest those who live in London, Paris, or any European city, for its appeal is universal. This film has everything. It's a pleasure to write about such a picture."—George T. Pardy in "Exhibitors' Trade Review."

A Wonderful Photoplay

—that's what you'll say about this great drama of the days when America was young. If you liked "When Knighthood Was In Flower" you'll lose your heart completely to Marion Davies in this stirring romance of the screen.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH PLANNED

The above picture is of the proposed new building for the First Presbyterian Church of Lubbock, of which Rev. Jack M. Lewis is pastor.

Actual construction on this splendid edifice is expected to be started in the very near future, the contract having been let several days ago to Contractor J. B. Maxey, who has done considerable construction work in Lubbock.

The First Presbyterian congregation has enjoyed a steady growth and the pastor is to be commended upon the work he has wrought in Lubbock.

He has worked faithfully since coming to Lubbock more than two years ago to help take all the churches of the city "out of the dogout," an expression that was coined in another building campaign which was put over successfully.

This expression was brought about because of the fact that when several of the local churches started building campaigns they were unable to complete the plans and after the basements had been completed they were put into use, this being the case with the First Presbyterian Church, and the basement was converted into Sunday school class rooms when the structure has been completed.

The entire citizenship of Lubbock joins the Avalanche in congratulating Rev. Lewis and all members of his congregation in this progressive undertaking, which will soon be completed.

POLICE REGISTRATION OF ALL LAUNDRY MARKS

LONDON (United Press)—Police registration of all laundry marks as an aid to tracing criminals, is being considered by the authorities here.

The unraveling of several of London's most mysterious murders has hinged upon laundry mark clues and one or two of the few cases that Scotland Yard has fallen down upon have balked the detectives because the laundry mark simply led to a blind trail.

The police plan now proposed is for each laundry in London to keep a complete record of all marks they place on clothing. These records will all be turned over to the police and a system worked out at headquarters to avoid duplicate marks, and to permit quick determination of ownership of any mark.

If the scheme is put through here an effort will be made to work out an international laundry mark system, and ask the police of other countries to have it established everywhere.

ENGLAND CULTIVATING ITS TASTE FOR LEMONS

LONDON (United Press)—England is eating more lemons now than at any time since the war—300,000,000 came in from Italy alone last month and Italian importers here predict that England will soon equal the lemon consumption of America.

The United States has been consuming an average of twelve lemons per capita per year, whereas England averages only six. But the importers pin their faith on the belief that Englishmen are rapidly becoming convinced that spiked lemonade is preferable to plain lemonade. And then, they say, England will show the United States what real consumption of lemons means—Italy will be in clover.

"And then, again," said the importer, "Russia is now using lemons again, almost as much as before the war. You know, the Russians drink a great deal of tea, and they take lemon with it. In recent months our Russian lemon trade has increased to three-fourth its prewar scale."

BRAZIL GETS JOY FROM U. S. SCANDALS

RIO DE JANEIRO (By United Press)—Scandal-mania at Washington is regarded as an amusing episode by the Brazilian press, for, as Jornal do Brasil, leading Brazilian newspaper, has discovered, "the strong and beautiful Yankee has more than one thing in common with Brazil."

"The oil scandal is a source of secret pleasure for Brazilians," Jornal do Brasil admits, "because it is thrown up to us every day of our lives that we are a people full of defects and that no other of the world suffers moral and spiritual degradation like the Brazilian people. Yes, even the Yankee is obliged to bow down to the level!"

ARGENTINE FARMERS IN DAIRY BUSINESS

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press)—The prolonged crisis in the beef cattle industry from which Argentina is just emerging has been largely responsible for the notable increase in dairy farming in the past three years.

When prices for choice beef steers tumbled around the middle of 1921, to bed-rock, and the demand dwindled away to but a small percentage of its previous volume, many of the richest cattlemen of the country found it hard to find ready cash to meet maturing obligations. Then, they all began to look around for new sources of income and dairying was the closest to hand.

No country is more favored for the development of a great dairy industry than the Argentine Republic. In no part of the world can a larger stretch of unexcelled pasture be found and where the conditions are more ideal. Milk winters make expensive housing facilities unnecessary. Dairy animals find plenty of forage on the open range all the year round.

There are, of course, certain drawbacks. In the first place, the country has not as yet built up its stock of blooded dairy cows to sufficient numbers, and many dairy men have not learned that they cannot hope to make a success unless they give up their old habit of trying to produce a milk and beef animal at the same time.

Likewise, there is a lack of a great home market for butter, cheese and caseine. But Argentine butter has at last secured a firm hold on the British market, which absorbs some 600,000 cases of 55 pounds each, yearly. At the present rate of growth, there can be no doubt but that within a few more years dairying will rank as one of Argentina's major industries.

CHANGE IN SEX POSSIBLE SAYS CHEMIST

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—The famous love philter which frequently has figured in the fantasies of poets, such as Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," has been discovered by a chemist and through it's potent charms males can be turned into shy, shivering females, and females into hairy-fisted males.

This magic fluid, scientifically called the hormone, always has been present in every living organism but like the elusive vitamin, it just has been cornered by the man of science and its curious effects are beginning to be realized.

Therefore, like the famous "Man Woman" who recently figured in a sensational Chicago trial, every human being potentially is of the other sex and chemists have achieved strange transmutations among creatures as high in the scale of life as the bird.

Speaking before the thirty-seventh annual convention of the American Chemical Society, Wednesday, Dr. Edward E. Slosson, noted scientist, said of the hormone:

"It therefore becomes wholly probable that all hereditary characteristics of every human being and every organism are capable of reversal and modification; and that the accomplishment of such modification and control is a matter which merely awaits the definitely directed efforts of investigators in this branch of science."

All of which means that in time the fond parent whose wife has lost him a baby girl can have changed into a sturdy boy.

Hormones have been found," Slosson says, "that will make female animals assume the prerogatives of a male, regardless of the calendar. A few injections of the magic fluid make baby rats take the initiative in courtship within two days after weaning."

PROMINENT AGRICULTURAL SPEAKERS AT WEST TEXAS CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, Texas, April 25.—Among the speakers along industrial and agricultural lines who will appear on the platform before group meetings during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting here May 13, 14 and 15, will be Col. C. C. French, industrial agent of the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, according to the program which has been released here.

Col. French is prominent in Texas as being well versed along industrial and agricultural lines and is the originator of the baby beef clubs which have proven so popular over the State. He is also urging the question of farm surveys by the boys and girls of Texas with an idea in view that every boy and girl will know the cost of farm productions.

Col. French is a veteran in the agricultural and livestock work of Texas and has made probably as many addresses along these lines as any one in the State.

The Fort Worth Stock Yards Company has made it possible for Col. French to co-operate with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce since its organization six years ago.

JAPAN TO SEND QUAKE VICTIMS TO BRAZILIAN FARMS

OSAKA, Japan, (By Mail to the United Press)—Japan has finally decided to send to Brazil a considerable body of the sufferers of the 1923 quake in the Tokyo district.

The municipal authorities of Tokyo are working as the intermediate agency in co-operation with the Home and Foreign Offices. The Central Employment Intelligence Bureau of the Tokyo municipality has started to entertain applications for emigrants who are willing to proceed to Brazil to engage in manual labor in the cotton plantations there in order to cope with the present situation regarding unemployment.

No fact will be charged these emigrants and they will be limited strictly to quake sufferers under the age of 50.

The officials taking charge of the plan are aware of the recent anti-Japanese expression in the Brazilian parliament, but they do not think it serious opposition against Japanese immigration. They are, however, very cautious in selection of the proper emigrants, considering the development of the anti-Japanese movement in the Pacific States in America.

The new plan is being managed

ADDITIONAL AUTOMATIC TRAFFIC SIGNALS FOR DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—Thirty additional automatic traffic signals will be added soon to the downtown corners in Dallas.

The added units are expected to almost double in volume the downtown traffic din, as 85 instead of 39 electric bells will sound off simultaneously, automatically guiding both motorists and pedestrians.

Critics of the unique safety system, which city officials declare has proven 100 per cent efficient, protest that the signals tend to slow up traffic.

Under the system green and red lights flash alternately on intersecting streets from 7 a. m. until midnight indicating when the traffic shall move, and in what direction. During the switch from green to red and vice versa, loud electric bells warn the pedestrians and motorists to stop.

Thousands of seconds are wasted daily when traffic is kept at a stand still, it is argued.

"Safety first—speed next," ruled the city fathers.

FIFTY THOUSANDTH PHONE IS INSTALLED AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—The fifty thousandth telephone in Dallas was installed in the home of C. N. Riggs, 1015 Marquette street, April 19. According to data of the telephone company this gives Dallas the greatest number of telephones per capita of any city on the continent. It places Dallas ahead of all other cities in the South in total number of telephones in use regardless of population. New Orleans, for instance has forty-seven thousand telephones while Atlanta has forty-six thousand.

The other large cities of Texas are close to Dallas in number of telephones per capita, the use of the telephone in each of them being greater than in cities much larger in many other states.

TEXAS-EXES ENJOYED BANQUET AT THE MELBA GRILL AND SECRETARY MAKES REPORT OF THE MEETING

On the evening of April 21st, a very successful banquet was held at the Melba Grill by the Ex-Students' Association of Lubbock. This town has been made famous thru out West Texas by its splendid class of citizens. They have the kind of initiative which is fostered by pep, push and persistence, and added to this is a well balanced education which makes them prosperous to the nth degree. Nothing on the green earth could possibly surpass them in their enthusiastic celebrations except a bunch of their own sons and daughters who call themselves Texas Exes. In this party of sixty succeeded admirably during the whole time the appetizing menu was being served.

In the absence of Dr. J. T. Krueger our president, Mr. Dupre acted as toastmaster. He skillfully drew from the ranks many snappy remarks, a few erstwhile reminiscences and some hot air. The evening being cool it was all thoroughly enjoyed. The other speakers and topics of the evening were announced according to the following program:

BRITISH CASTLE TO RENT TO SOME RICH AMERICAN

LONDON, April 26.—One of the largest castles in England is for rent—for only $40,000 per year—provided a "suitable tenant" can be found.

London real estate men are speculating just which American millionaire will qualify as the "suitable tenant"—their instinctive assumption seems to be that an American millionaire will certainly be the tenant. The specifications for suitability haven't been prescribed, but patently they are that the applicant must have no wolves hovering around his door; and must have the social graces that ought to go with the second biggest castle in England.

This is Arundel Castle, property of the Duke of Norfolk, on an estate covering 1,245 acres, located fifty-five miles from London.

The Norfolk family is one of the richest in England. The present Duke is only sixteen years old. His mother, the Duchess of Norfolk, in charge of the family affairs, travels a great deal. She has a large and splendid town house in the heart of fashionable London, as well as various estates elsewhere.

Arundel Castle, second in size only to Windsor Castle, really isn't needed any more by the Norfolk family, and a "suitable tenant" may have it for a period of years.

Although one of the largest English castles, Arundel is fairly new as things go, over here. Parts of it, and there are some sections that have actually been built, or at least reconstructed in recent years. That's another reason, some say, why an American is apt to get the place—some touches of the new will make it more appealing to him, according to the London real estate agent's theory.

AMARILLO SPOKEN OF AS METHODIST COLLEGE SITE

AMARILLO, Texas, April 26.—Panhandle churchmen are planning a new million dollar Methodist college for Northwest Texas.

The board of education of Northwest Texas will meet here May 2 to pass on the project as outlined by leading Methodists of this section.

It would offer A. B. and B. S. degrees. Smaller colleges in the Panhandle would serve as feeders to the proposed institution.

Prominent Methodist churchmen backing the project include: Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college, Abilene; Dr. George S. Cluser, president Clarendon college, Dr. W. H. Terry, Plainview and Dr. George W. Shorer, Dallas.

COLORADO SUFFERS ANOTHER HEAVY FIRE LOSS

COLORADO, Texas, April 26.—Fire of undetermined origin gutted the second floor of the B. F. Dulaney building on Second street here Friday morning, damaging the building and contents approximately $40,000. Damage to the building was said to have been $15,000.

The Southwestern Telephone Co. office was destroyed with a loss of $12,000. Equipment in the office of Dr. C. L. Root, valued at $7,500 including complete X-ray machinery, was destroyed. Dental work of Dr. H. H. Hargis was damaged by smoke and water.

Price Bros. Hardware and Price Bros. Co. stocks on the first floor of the building were damaged $7,000 by smoke and water.

The telephone company established long distance service this morning at offices of the Chamber of Commerce. Manager Jack Patterson, Sweetwater, and officals from Abilene were here this morning and stated that the new exchange will be shipped to Colorado from Fort Worth by express and installed immediately.

The fire is supposed to have been started from defective wiring between the ceiling and roof. The flames were discovered at 4:30 in the morning during a heavy thunder and electrical storm.

The Dulaney building is a total loss and will have to be entirely rebuilt, it was stated.

$30,000 TIED UP IN HOUSTON BANKS, EARNING NOTHING

HOUSTON, Texas, April 26.—More than $30,000 in currency and coin is lying in the vaults of one of the local banks out of circulation and emeshed in the legal wrappings of red tape, drawing no interest and benefiting no one.

The money, property of heirs whose cases have not been settled, cannot draw interest or put to any useful purpose because a law passed in 1876 requires the district clerk to hold the "actual and identical money" entrusted with him until it is awarded to the inheritor at his coming majority.

According to the bank officials, this money could be earning approximately $1,200 a year. Under the present statutes, minor heirs are losing the privilege of receiving interest and benefiting no one.

In addition, the statute takes out of circulation a great deal of money, not only in Harris county, but in the 246 counties in the state.

FIREARMS THE MORE FATAL

CHICAGO (United Press) Fire-arms killed more people in the United States than the automobile in 1921, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, declared Richard E. Kopf, Supreme Regent of the Royal Arcanum, in an address on safety here. Motorcar fatalities for this period numbered 12,500 as against 14,450 for fire-arms he said.

Geo. M. Hunt P. T. A. Holds Interesting Meeting
The George M. Hunt Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular session at the school building April 24th.

The house was crowded with both patrons and teachers. The program given by Mrs. Westler's first grade pupils was very much appreciated. It was an Easter program and the beautiful thoughts expressed by the little ones on the risen Christ and the cross and what they mean to us made one realize what wonderful opportunities Christian teachers have in the training of little children. It is not alone what they get from books that counts but the impressions made on their hearts and minds at this tender age.

Following the program a business session was conducted by the vice president, Mrs. Maedgen.

The evening of entertainment promised the public at our last meeting deferred until next September on account of the rush of work incident to the closing of school.

Our next meeting will be held in honor of George M. Hunt, for which our school was named. His picture will be placed in our halls with appropriate ceremony. A number of citizens will speak and it is to be hoped that a large crowd will be present.

This being the time for the election of officers the following were elected for the next school year: Mrs. W. L. Baugh, president; Mrs. Stockton, recording secretary; Stockton Henry, recording secretary; Mrs. France Baker, corresponding secretary and reporter; Mrs. J. H. Jenkins, treasurer.

Miss Koen's room won the flower for having the most mothers present.

Reporter.

Mrs. Lee Royalty Is Hostess to Club
Mrs. Lee Royalty was hostess to the Little-A-While Club at her home on West Broadway Thursday afternoon. The house was prettily decorated in spring flowers and the hours were pleasantly spent in bridge with Mrs. Anna Faluk making high score. A delicious salad course with ice tea was served to the following guests and members: Mesdames, Sam Arnett, Louie Moore Schugmann of Illinois, R. D. Benson, T. J. Hutchinson, Byron Brown, John L. Ely, Paul Barrier, Anna Paulk, Walter Myrick, Jr., Maple Wilson and the hostess.

A business session was held for the election of officers for the club's new year. Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson was elected president, Mrs. John Wilson, treasurer, and Mrs. Maple Wilson, reporter.

The club will meet next with Mrs. Walter Myrick, Jr., May 8th.

Delphian Club Meets
The Delphian Club met Wednesday at the Baptist church with the president, Mrs. Wells in the chair. This club meets every Wednesday to make up back lessons. A large number was present and reports from the different committees were given. The Delphians are putting forth every effort to make the coming Federation a success.

A very interesting lesson was led by Mrs. Harding, the different ladies, taking part. The club adjourned to meet next Wednesday at the Baptist church.

1916 Needle Club Meeting Postponed
The 1916 Needle Club will hold another meeting until after the Seventh District Meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Music Pupils Entertain Mothers
The second year pupils of Miss Margaret Huff's music class entertained their mothers at the home of Mrs. S. E. Cone, 1926 Broadway, Friday afternoon at five o'clock. A delightful program was rendered after which dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to about thirty guests.

Miss Leland Gives Recital
A musical event of the month was the piano recital Friday evening at the Presbyterian church, given by Miss Margery Leland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Leland.

Miss Leland was assisted during the evening by Mesdames Joe Hill, John Jarrott, J. T. Krueger and Wesley Von Rosenberg, who gave vocal and violin numbers. Miss Leland's personal program covered a splendid range from Bach to the modern music, showing the result of close work as to technique and interpretation. She possibly was at her best in the Trig compositions, for she caught the composers' ideas and charmingly gave her version of the Bridal March and Butterfly. She ended her program with a Schutt selection: To My Beloved.

Miss Leland shows unusual talent and promise of greater things. Here seems to be the real soul love of music which carries one far. At present she is studying under Miss Margaret Huff, later she intends to study under tion in the East.

Dr. C. J. Crow of La Grange, Texas, is here visiting his daughter, Mrs. Hal P. Bradley who is ill in a Lubbock hospital.

look with the boyish suit.

That women "are children at heart" is proven by the return of the bright-colored shoe. At the end of the last summer we believed that the colored shoe was as dead as the proverbial door nail. Colored shoes had become common-places and better-groomed women would have none of them. Now, as spring returns, they are re-entering the fashion world. Colored suede is much newer and smarter than colored kid, and the colored shoe of this season is to be worn on the ball-room floor—not on the streets.

Several of the younger women dancing at the popular Palais Royal restaurant last evening wore suede slippers in colors such as orange, red, light blue and gray, trimmed in rhinestone buckles. While suede doesn't seem the proper leather for evening wear, it is being worn by the smartly-gowned women. Stockings worn with the colored shoe are invariably flesh or peach-colored.

Paint. To remove paint from window glass use hot, strong vinegar.

Lace. To dry clean lace roll it in hot flour for an hour or so—then rub it lightly and shake well. It will be perfectly clean and look like new.

Fruit Tart. When baking fruit tarts rub the bottom crust with the white of an egg. This will prevent the juice from soaking through.

Iodine Stains. To remove iodine stains from starched material soak stained parts in ammonia diluted with water.

Kitchen Towels. When washing kitchen towels add a little borax to the water. The borax removes the dirt and grease, gives a good color and acts as a disinfectant.

Burn. The white of an egg applied to a burn or a scald will stop the pain.

Salt. If too much salt has been added to any dish add a little sugar and just a drop or two of vinegar. This often takes away the salty taste.

Rust. Rub kerosene on your kitchen sink to remove rust.

Paint Brushes. To remove dried paint from paint brushes, soak the brush for one night in water to which has been added one teaspoonful of soda. Wash the following day in plenty of warm, soapy water. If this does not take the paint out, soak the brush in equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine.

Whip Cream. If whipped cream is sweetened with a teaspoonful of honey instead of sugar, it will have a better flavor and will stay stiff longer.

Putty. To keep putty soft add a little olive oil.

Sentenced for Embezzlement.
TULSA, Okla., April 26.—Denver Spry, former westmaster of Kiefer, Oklahoma, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, when he pleaded guilty to embezzling $1,748 from his office. He was fined the same amount he embezzled.

Local People Attend First Annual Child Welfare Conf.

The Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association of the eighth district held their first annual Child Welfare Conference in Plainview, Thursday and Friday, with a large attendance. Several state officers were present, among whom was Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, state president.

The Lubbock delegates had the pleasure of attending Thursday and felt that they were very greatly helped by the splendid program rendered and is to be regretted that more Lubbock ladies were not present to hear the inspirational talks on child welfare by the foremost women speakers of the state, such as Phebe K. Warner, Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs and Mrs. Margie W. Barry. The conference convened at the Methodist Church at 9 o'clock. Upon arrival the delegates registered and were issued meal tickets and assigned homes. After the morning session adjourned the visitors and delegates were directed to the Presbyterian Church where a lovely three-course luncheon was served. Mrs. R. A. Underwood presided as toastmistress, and the guests enjoyed the various toasts throughout the luncheon.

The afternoon session began at 2:30 o'clock and after an interesting program a lovely tea was given at the high school for the visitors.

The Plainview boys band furnished music for the occasion. Following the tea the business men of Plainview took the ladies for a delightful drive through the city. The Lubbock delegates feel greatly benefited by the conference, and regret they could not stay through the entire session.

Dwight Brown, a former pupil of Pietro Yon, the world's greatest pipe organist, will appear on "Fine Arts" evening at the Methodist church and his promised appearance in Lubbock gives an opportunity to those who know and appreciate good music, to hear one of America's greatest artists on the pipe organ.

Further details of his appearance will be given later.

HOME EDUCATION

TERROR HANGS OVERS FROM CHILDHOOD

The women were grouped about the tea table. The talk had drifted to "fear." One of the younger women turned to Grace Maitland, a beautiful white-haired woman.

"Miss Maitland, did you really stay out in the woods in your camp alone? Did you walk alone that beach alone at eleven o'clock at night?"

"Why, of course," Miss Maitland deftly broke her slice of cinnamon toast. "I have done that many times; I have never been afraid, in that way, in all my life."

"I'd die of fright before I got half way to camp, let alone staying there by myself all night," shivered the first speaker.

Thelma Thorsen, a well known musician, set her teacup down thoughtfully. Her eyes were hungrily anxious as she stared at Miss Maitland.

"Do you know," she remarked, "I think that would be as near heaven as one could hope to get on earth to have no fear. Not to fear the dark, not to fear silence, not to be dependent on other people, just NOT to be AFRAID! It must be truly wonderful. I confess I envy you."

Miss Maitland was surprised and a bit abashed before the intensity of feeling displayed by Thelma Thorsen.

"You probably are just as unafraid as I, Thelma," she replied a bit lamely. "You've never put yourself to the test."

"Oh, but I have," exclaimed Thelma. "That's why I know! All the while I am suffering from fear because of the dark I know perfectly well that I am being silly but I can't help it. That fear is stronger than I; it is a terror hangover from childhood. There was an older girl who used to tell me that ghosts lurked in the dark and that they tapped on the windows. Since then I've learned that those ghost taps, the dread of which from that time on made the darkness intolerable to me were but the rattling of dry branches against the window pane. My mind has since known the explanation perfectly well, but to this day if I am in a dark room and hear a tapping sound my heart jumps into my throat and I am shaken with terror. Then, instead of being punished in a rational manner when I did wrong the threat was held out to me that the brownies would take my best doll if I misbehaved or the Snicker-boch, a fictitious bogey in our house would get me."

Thelma Thorsen's blue eyes were cold as ice as she related those memories of a terrified childhood.

"My mother," she continued, "probably meant to be kind; she was tender-hearted and did not have the courage to exact obedience except by such threats. She never knew what torture she inflicted, but I have never ceased to suffer from the effects of her method; my childhood was fear-ridden, and my life today is less efficient and worth while because of it."

"I think it is due to my mother's wiser method that I have never known fear," replied Miss Maitland quietly. "My mother was one of the bravest persons I ever knew. She had no fear of mice, lightning, dark, tramps nor any of the dozen and one bogey ideas that most women have and pass on to their children, nor would she permit anyone to frighten us."

"Lucky you," smiled Thelma tremulously, as they gathered up gloves and purses.

SLEEVELESS FROCKS RETURN

By HEDDA HOYT,
Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for United Press)

NEW YORK, April 26.—In spite of last summer's many controversies on the sleeveless frock, short-sleeved frocks remain in vogue. The frock of this season, however, is not as entirely sleeveless as last season's frock, which often displayed the entire shoulder, giving rather an "undressed" effect.

Palm Beach fashionables are sponsoring the gown that is cut with wide shoulder-line, covering the bone of the shoulder but leaving the entire arm bare. Most of the summery gowns of silk, crepe, voile, etc., use this wide shoulder effect, which is quite as cool as last season's model and a little less daring.

Many of the smart waistcoats designed to be worn under the suit this year are cut with the extended shoulder line and without sleeves. When the jacquette is removed they are quite as lovely as the blouse in effect. Sometimes fringed-end scarfs of the same material as the waistcoat are attached at the back neckline to give a finished appearance to the garment when the coat is removed. A stunning waistcoat of this type is made of henna-colored silk crepe and embroidered in navy blue and gold. This is fashioned very much like the gentleman's vest being cut with the V-shaped neck, buttoning down the front and terminating in points below the normal waistline. Pockets are embroidered in the colors I have mentioned and the entire border is outlined in color. The self-toned scarf is fringed on the ends and embroidered.

It looks as though we'll be tied by the throat until we are dead, dead, dead! Or, until the scarf is dead. Scarfs are as individual as tooth brushes it would seem Every frock, suit, or wrap must have a scarf of its very own. Sizes range

STYLES—FRENCH AND AMERICAN

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor of United Press (Written for United Press)

NEW YORK, April 26—While the American woman dates on having clothes with French labels, there are many French styles which are not accepted in America just as there are many American styles which French women refuse to accept as fashionable.

The tailored suit, which has long been popular in America and England; has no place in the Parisian wardrobe. Plain, trim suitcases are not for her. She prefers the more dressy type of suit—the three-piece suit, which is a gown with a jaquette accompaniment in soft, feminine lines and clinging fabrics.

Even more than the three-piece suit, the Parisian prefers the long coat or wrap, which she wears over a clinging frock.

Shirtings are entirely out of the Parisian's vision. Although many of our lowliest blouses come from Paris, the fashion herself has little use for them.

Sports costumes also have no vogue in Paris. At the resorts they are worn to some extent, but always they are of a more dressy type than our simple modes. Knitted costumes and wadded hosiery are seldom worn as softer fabrics and silken hosiery are considered smarter by the Parisian.

The Question of Shoes

The short vamped shoe with the wide toe is never out of vogue in France. Now and then a few American actresses and women who pride themselves on the smallness of their feet wear them, but the majority of American women think that the long, slender foot is the artistic one.

An American woman is immediately recognized in Europe by her boots, for almost every country in Europe with the exception of England wear substituted, short vamped shoes. Russian women wear even shorter vamps than do the French women, the lacings of their shoes often beginning an inch from the end of the toe. The Swedish shoe is short vamped and the German shoe is rounded as to toe.

Flat-heeled walking shoes are never worn by the French woman. Even for sports wear she dons high-heeled slippers and sheers of silk or hosiery.

Spring Fashions

Lingerie Waists—Those of us who accept the tailored mode in everything except the "shirtwaist" will be interested in the new, lingerie waist-coats which are far more comfortable than the long-sleeved shirtwaist—and, besides, the jacquards of the suit is seldom removed, these appear to be veritable shirtwaists. Sleeves under jacquards are usually uncomfortable, and the sleeveless effects have comfort and coolness combined. Many of the newer types are shown in crepe, silk, lace, net and muslin. Some of them use the jabot neck finish, others have the rousing neckline and still others use the Eden collar effect, with the tucked shirtfront. Both the overblouse effects and the tucked-under-the-skirt models are shown in the shops.

Handkerchiefs—The vogue for the all-white handkerchief is gone, except for real dressy wear, where the handkerchief is almost entirely made of some lovely lace. Colored squares of violet, rose, lemon, etc., with borders of Chantilly lace, are among the newest models shown. Tiny round glove handkerchiefs, bordered in net and lace are either worn in the glove or in the pocket of the waistcoat.

Parasols—Parasols are either decidedly in vogue or decidedly out of vogue. Palm Beach has set her stamp of approval on them for the coming season. The most popular type is the taffeta one, with ruffles of taffeta with frayed edges. Shades of rose, orchid and yellow are used for these. Batiks and varicolored effects in plain materials are carried for beach use. Flat-topped parasols, with beaded fringe borders are sponsored by many of the stage favorites and debutantes. Chinese figured silks with Mah-Jongg handles are new, and several Scotch plaids with wood handles are seen. Cretonnes are also listed among the beach sunshades.

Chinese Mandarin Coats of three-quarter length will vie with Spanish shawls this coming season. It is said that the Mandarin coat is just a trifle smarter than the shawl for evening wear.

CHINESE BANDITS BOLDER; AMERICANS APPEAL TO BRITISH

PEKING, China (United Press)—South China bandits will become bolder now, many Americans here think, because of the reported United States policy not to increase greatly its gunboat patrol in the Yangtze-kiang, the great river linking Shanghai with the interior.

It is unofficially reported here that the United States Navy Department has decided to allow only three special boats for the Yangtze patrol. Americans here regard this as entirely insufficient.

America, Great Britain, Japan and France maintain gunboat patrols in this river to protect the lives and property of their nationals from attacks by Chinese bandits. These raids occur almost constantly, despite the presence of the foreign forces.

Recently, when bandits attacked an American Presbyterian mission near Shiklung, between Canton and Hongkong, the American Consul had to appeal for British gunboats which came, because the American gunboats were unable to navigate that shallow section of the river.

The Shiklung mission was first attacked in December and natives students carried away and held for ransom. During February bandits attacked the place again, killed one prisoner at the mission gate and posted a notice that unless the ransom was paid the mission would be destroyed. Then the American Consul asked for British gunboat relief and the mission was saved.

"A MAN AS RICH AS HIS POWER TO DREAM," SAYS BLIND

PHILADELPHIA (United Press)—"A man is as rich as his power to dream."

This homely philosophy is daily put into practice by Lorenzo K. Firestone, an inmate of the Pennsylvania Home for the Working Blind. He is now getting along into the evening of life and he has been blind since he was five months old. He spends his days winding carpet rags and he says his power to dream is of far greater value to him than any material wealth.

"As I turn this wheel of mine I sit on my magic carpet and travel all over the world. Today I take a trip to England and walk through the streets of London. Tomorrow I may go to the opposite ends of the earth.

"You see, it doesn't cost me anything to dream. I never get seasick and I don't have to bother with customs officials and passports.

"I have often wondered if the world is as beautiful as the little world I carry about in my head. Some people tell me they pity me. I wonder whether they should. People who have the power of sight should not forget that dreams are the only things that count in life. My skies are always pink. The faces I see are all beautiful and smiling. I travel to the far corners of the earth in the twinkling of an eye. The world is as rich as your dreams.

"If you would give me the choice between great riches and dreams I would take the dreams."

SENIOR WOMEN'S PARTY ROBS UNIVERSITY MEN OF SUITS

AUSTIN, Texas, April 26—University men either wore second-best suits today or stood in barrels, while the University of Texas junior co-eds escorted senior co-eds to the annual "Junior Prom."

The junior girls, in the role of fair Romeos, left the bulk of the male students stranded without presentable wearing apparel. They borrowed the best suits, shirts, ties and other men's furnishings that was "campable" in order to put a real kick in the party for the senior women.

The party was so "realistic" that chaperones were kept busy preserving propriety, it was rumored.

LOCAL MAN ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE BY POLICEMAN

J. E. Roberson is in jail on a charge of transporting liquor. Policeman Tom Cannon arrested him and he was unable to make bond.

Roberson is charged with transporting liquor, a quart of the prohibited beverage having been taken from him upon his arrest.

Local officers are making every effort to rid this section of the state of booze peddlers, manufacturers and drinkers, and with the progress that has been made during the past several weeks continues they will go a long way toward reaching their goal.

Inspector Ed Davis arrived in Lubbock Saturday with Sheriff Richardson, of Sherman, and they will return Jim and Dick Kennedy, brothers, to the county jail at that place.

The Kennedy brothers have been in the Lubbock county jail the past three months, having been brought here after they had successfully affected three jail deliveries, one at Amarillo, one at Canadian and another at a place near El Paso.

They are charged with larceny of cattle, larceny of an automobile and have one liquor charge against them.

The are considered "bad men" by peace officers throughout West Texas, and Deputy Sheriff U. L. George who has charge of prisoners in the Lubbock county jail was congratulated by officers Davis and Richardson upon keeping them in the Lubbock jail for three months.

NEW DISCOVERY WILL SPEED UP CABLE SERVICES

By United News.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Discovery of permalloy will speed up the cables, it is stated in a research narrative prepared by Dr. H. D. Arnold and G. W. Eimen, research engineers of New York City, and issued by the Engineering Foundation.

"To to engineer this discovery will mean the accomplishment of results heretofore believed impossible," it is asserted. Permalloy is described as an alloy of nickel and iron possessing remarkable magnetic properties and as the fruit of scientific research. The article says:

"Announcement is made of a new alloy, called permalloy, which has such remarkable magnetic properties that its use in the manufacture of submarine cables will permit messages to be transmitted at speeds many times that now obtainable, and that is only one of the many applications that this new alloy is sure to find."

"An old message carrier, the cable with advantages of control and privacy, has been given new wind in the race with its young rival in service to mankind, wireless."

"Permalloy is an alloy of nickel and iron which is characterized by extremely high magnetic permeability at low magnetizing forces. Its extraordinary magnetic permeability means the ease with which magnetic lines of force penetrate and make of it an electric magnet. It is far the most easily magnetized and demagnetized of all metals now known."

CHICKEN THIEF PLUCKING BUCKSHOT INSTEAD OF FEATHERS

By United News.

AIDENE, Texas, April 26.—Secreting himself in his chicken house one morning last week, armed with his old faithful "double-barrel," J. D. Spence, lay in waiting for persons who had in previous nights raided his roost.

As a result of the "ambushing" one of a trio of chicken thieves is plucking buckshot instead of feathers.

For more than a month farmers in this vicinity have been sleeping on their chickens because of the raids chicken thieves have been making on their roosts.

BAPTIZED 3,200 SOLDIERS IN ONE DRILL PERIOD

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Bishop Charles Edward Locke of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Philippine Islands is believed here to rank with the Apostle Peter in accomplishing wholesale baptisms.

When Bishop Locke landed here recently on his way to the national conference of Methodist ministers at Springfield, Mass., he told the story of how he and twenty-five assistants baptized 3,200 soldiers of the Chinese army.

The bishop went to China en route to the United States from the Philippines, and while in that turbulent republic met General Feng ranking officer of the Chinese army, and a Christian. The corps immediately commanded by the Christian General numbered about 20,000 men, whom he regarded as his "family," Bishop Locke learned.

No member of that crack corps was allowed to smoke, drink, swear or gamble. Breaches of that rigid moral code were punished with the same dispatch officers of the American Army would use in prosecuting theft, or some such serious misdemeanor.

Bishop Locke said he was much impressed with the bearing of the men, and the mutual respect with which the General and his corps regarded each other. He suggested to General Feng that he would gladly baptize any of those who wished to espouse Christianity.

Then and there the General ordered his men to turn out, and addressing the massed formation, informed his soldiers of the bishop's offer. He ordered any wishing baptism to step forward and they did, 3,200 of them. It required a good part of one drill period for Bishop Locke and his assistants to sprinkle water upon the heads of the penitents.

INDIANS WOULD ADOPT UNCLE SAM'S NOTED BIRDMAN

WASHINGTON (United Press)—The Yukon Indians want "Benny"

Eielson to become their "chief."

Eielson is the intrepid air-mail pilot who gave the Indians their first glimpse of a "manbird," and who afterwards lost his course in the night and wandered around for some time in the Alaskan darkness.

The Yukon Indians have notified the Post Office Department of their intention to confer upon "The Moose Parmifian," another sobriquet which the Indians have given him, the highest rank of their tribe

When the word of the arrival of a "manbird" reached the Alaskan Indians, they came from far and wide to McGrath to see this mysterious monster of the air. For some time they were skeptical, but they soon became friendly to the American air pilot.

Eielson also was made a member of the Fairbanks Igloo of Pioneers. The last previous member of that order was the late President Hard-

Closer inspection revealed faint inscriptions which identified it as the Columbus map and showed the ancient Italian name for Cape Verde islands.

OPERATION PLAN OF BONUS IS OUTLINED

By United News.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 26.—During the hectic days which preceded the passage of the soldier-bonus bill by the senate the Veterans Bureau worked quietly, shaping an administration plan along the lines of the measure before the upper house, and now they are ready to put it into effect, the minute the bill becomes a law.

Although the details have not yet been worked out, the terms of the plan have been formulated and on July 1, 1925, when the law would go into effect, the bureau will be ready immediately to issue the 30 year endowment policies to every ex-service man entitled to one.

Briefly, the plan is this: 1. Application blanks will be printed and placed in every post-office and federal office building in the country.

2. The ex-service man (or in the event he is dead, his dependents) will fill these out, giving his name, and the organization he served with during the war.

3. This he will transmit to either the army, navy or marine corps headquarters in Washington, as the case may be.

4. These branches will calculate the number of days service dividing them into overseas and home service, and transmit the application to the veterans bureau.

5. With this as a basis, the bureau will calculate the value of the policy and when the time comes to forward it to the bureau.

U. S. ARTISTS DESPAIR OF FOREIGN TITLES

PARIS, (By Mail to United Press)—The ambition of some American girls to enhance an artistic career by putting a foreign twist on their names is not shared by serious musical students here who are achieving success. They have discovered that this deception acts as a boom-crang, because foreign artists sneer at Americans who try to pass as foreigners.

"Countess Aldo de Zuliani is a worthy name; but it is Tess Davidson that is going to win or lose in Paris opera," said the pretty American from Sioux City, Iowa, who is starring at the Trianon in Carlos Pedrell's "La Guitare." Tess is very happy as the wife of the Italian Count, but she is very American despite many years abroad, and she could never be taken as anything else.

"My career would be ruined if I sang under a foreign name," she explained. American girls have trouble enough overcoming the prejudices of foreign singers against them without making matters worse by posing. Anyone can see I am American, and if I sang as Countess Aldo de Zuliani I would be snubbed by my coworkers and critics." As Tess Davidson she is the first American woman to score a legitimate success in opera here in many years.

Clara Rabinovitch has the same idea about the name, but she is not so fortunate. She is a New York girl of Roumanian extraction, and Rabinovitch is her real name. Her use is causing so many comments in musical circles here that she is seriously thinking of changing it to make it American. She is a pianist who has had marked success here and was enthusiastically received at the recent recital.

"What's in a name?—too much for me as a musician and a good American," she said.

TEXAS RESTOCKS WITH MANY BIRDS

By United Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 26.—Wild quail and pheasants will be greatly increased in Texas by next fall's hunting season, under the restocking plan now being carried out by the state game department and ranchmen co-operating with the department.

Game now being brought in is being placed in posted sections of the state, the growing flocks gradually scattering over a greater territory later.

Approximately 500 quail have been liberated on St. Joe's island, five miles off mainland at Rockport, by Dr. Frank Kent of San Antonio, who is operating under a state game permit. Dr. Kent has leased the 30,000 acre island to be used as a propagating field, the young to be trapped and distributed over the mainland.

The department has purchased several thousand quail in Mexico which will be liberated on large Texas ranches, it was announced.

During the spring and summer 15,000 pheasants will be imported and released as a nucleus for stocking the state.

FIVE SMALL KITTENS ADOPTED BY A HEN

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 25.—Five small kittens were adopted by a tender-hearted hen in North Fort Worth when their mother deserted them.

The scrawny little felines exchanged amorous purrs for solicitous clucks as they toddled about the barnyard with the prancing chickens, and at night sleeping together in the hay loft.

In turn when the mother cat returned, the kittens chose to keep company with the hen, which appeared jealous of the big feline's attempts to be reinstated in the good graces of its offspring.

COMPROMISE IN TAX FIGHT MAY BE ASKED

By United News.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Regular republicans in the senate have resigned themselves to the clang of the death knell of the major part in the Mellon tax rates and are casting about to see what they can save out of the debris to which democrats and insurgents plan to reduce the measure.

Although Senator Smoot, Utah, pushed the Mellon plan out of the finance committee by a close shave—after the house had killed it—and has inaugurated a valiant defense on the floor, republican leaders know the effort will be futile and are admitting it.

Democrats are as well organized behind their plan—and so well supported by a number of progressive republicans as to their course especially since the decision to give the Mellon plan a last try. It had been expected that a compromise movement, such as brought partial victory for republicans in the house would be started but none of any strength has yet appeared.

No concrete sentiment has crystallized among regular republicans in the senate as to their course up to this time, one leader admitted Friday.

After sounding out opinion, he said that he had come to the conclusion that the plan finally approved by the senate would be very similar to that provided in the house bill as far as the rate structure is concerned.

When the rate schedules come up for discussion the fight will rage about the surtax. This leader predicted that it would result in the same rate as in the house bill, 37 1/2 percent, maximum, beginning at $200,000. Democrats in the senate are asking a maximum of 40 percent to apply at $500,000 and over.

Others, however, seemed to think that the prediction of the 37 1/2 percent rate was a bit optimistic. Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, said he has fourteen senators lined up with him who will vote for the highest surtax rate offered. One of the insurgent group will ask fifty percent. This is expected to fail. The insurgents and the mild progressives, who will stand with them, will then vote for the democratic rate, Brookhart said.

HERMIT WHO LIVED IN A MISS. HOSPITAL

By United News.

MERIDIAN, Miss. (United Press)—Following the death of W. C. Ware, 75, at Turner Hospital recently, attendants and physicians at the institution revealed a rather unusual life led by the aged bachelor, who had been a patient since the construction of the hospital 13 years ago, during that time it is estimated he paid more than $10,000 for his accommodations, to say nothing of the fees he paid physicians. Although he was able to get about he seldom left the grounds of the hospital. He always preferred to be alone and never invited friendship.

Dr. Turner, head of the institution, realizing that Ware could live but a short time, asked him if there were not someone with whom he desired to talk concerning his business affairs. The patient replied to Dr. Turner, that a brother residing at Vaiden, Miss., near here, and A. D. Simpson, vice president of the First National Bank here, knew all that was necessary for anyone to know.

When Ware died, a will disclosed that he had $75,000 in a bank which was left to his brother. The brother, attendants say, never visited Ware.

According to an Australian geologist there are three regions in that country with good prospects for the production of petroleum in large quantities.

 State?

DO YOU WANT A STATE PARK?

By Phebe K. Warner

Do you want a State Park in YOUR county? This is a question that is being asked of every county in Texas. It must be answered some time this year. The State Park Board of which D. E. Colp of San Antonio is chairman, wants to know your answer.

The plan as outlined by Governor Neff, for a chain of parks from one corner of Texas to the other and to every corner is a State-wide plan. But the very fact that it is a State-wide plan means that it must be worked out COUNTY BY COUNTY. Have you ever seen a road reach the whole State? Does your county want to be in this chain of parks? That is what the State Park Board wants to know just as soon as you can decide whether you want to become one of these ever-lasting links in Texas' great park system.

Here are a few items that may help you to decide. The motive back of the creation of a chain of parks for Texas is threefold. The first objective is conservation. The second is recreation. The third objective is education. Now the problem for you to solve is the answer to these three objectives. First of all, is there a spot large or small in YOUR county that should be preserved for all the future as well as the present generation to enjoy? Is there an historical spot that should be preserved in memory of some influential incident in Texas history? But if NO great historical event ever took place in your county, is there a natural beauty spot in your county that will be worth more to your county in all the years to come if it is preserved in all its natural glory for the rest and recreation of your own people? Remember Texas is only 37 years old. And there are a thousand years of history yet to be made. Perhaps several thousand years. Who knows how long Texas is to live? Is it right, is it fair, is it good business for the 5,000,000 people who have come to Texas in the past 37 years and who are still here, to plow up, or chop down, or clear out all the natural beauty in this State? Or is it the example of total destruction of everything Nature gave us Texas for everybody to enjoy as long as the world stands? Did God make Texas just for YOU and ME while we live to use and abuse as we wish for our selfish gratification, or did He make it for all the people who may ever be born in the years and centuries after we are dead and gone?

Not many of us who are here today will have any use for Texas after another 25 or 50 years. What right then, have we to destroy her native beauty, that will mean as much and even more to the citizens a hundred years from now? So first of all, is there a place in YOUR county that should be preserved and protected in its original state for all the people? If so then you are in line for a State Park for your county.

The next question we would ask is this: How many people live in your county? Are they all so wealthy that they can pick up and make a trip around the world or go anywhere in this world for rest and recreation? Are there any tired people in your county that need rest and recreation who cannot leave their homes and business to go away of somewhere to some other country to rest and have a little fun? One of the greatest needs of our older people in this day and this State is a little genuine rest and FUN. There is nothing better for tired nerves than out-door fun. Is there a place in your county where all the people may go to have some fun? How many people live within 100 miles of the most beautiful spot in your county? How many people pass thru your county every year driving around hunting somewhere to go and stop when they get there and stay awhile? How many people from other counties and other States do you think would stop in your State Park a few days and spend a little of their time and recreation money in your State park if you had one? Do you not believe in a very few years there would be more money brought to your county and left in your county by outsiders than it would cost your county to present a good State park to Texas? Did you know that our own Texas people carry out of Texas $8,000,000 every year and drop it down in other States where they have provided clean, beautiful resting places for them to visit? And did you know that the people of this Nation drop $2,000,000,000 (two billion dollars) in Colorado every year just driving around looking at Colorado's parks and play grounds? We do not know whether this is true or not. But that is what facts say. Wonder how much of that goes from Texas? And do you know that until about a month ago Texas did not own a park of any kind or size in all her 172 million acres of canyons, mountains, rivers, valleys, sea coast, fertile fields and forests? Do your people need a resting place within the reach of their time and financial conditions? Do you realize that most of the resting place who do most of the resting are the folks that do the least work and that the great mass of people who need to rest the worst never have a chance to rest? And that is just why we bury so many fine men and women in the very prime of their usefulness. Do YOU need a resting place in your county for ALL the people, rich and poor, sick and well?

And third, do you know all you want to know about your home State? We believe one of the cheapest, one of the best, and one of the most universal educational systems will be sent into operation when Texas' chain of State Parks is opened for the rest, recreation and education of all the people. There is no way to measure the influence on the future affairs of our State when ALL the people mix and mingle more together, and when all the people learn more about all Texas. The interchanging of agricultural ideas, civic ideas, commercial, educational and political interests will make better citizens of us all. Do the people in YOUR county need this new knowledge? If so then your county has all the requirements for a State park. Let's think about it this summer. Let's TALK about it. Let's plan for it. Let's have the most beautiful and the most useful park system in America right here in Texas. Let's turn our beauty spots that are going to waste and ruin into fun-making, health-giving and educational centers for ALL the people, both within and without our own beautiful Texas.

If Lubbock is to have the greatest college in the State, Lubbock county should have one of the most beautiful parks in the State. What will Lubbock county do?

HENRY FORD TO BUILD A NEW PLANT AT LONDON

LONDON, (United Press.)—Henry Ford is planning the establishment of a great plant here for the production of "100 per cent British" jitneys.

Negotiations are under way by representatives of an "unnamed principal," believed almost certainly to be Ford, for the purchase of a large tract on the Thames for use as the factory site.

Ford now has a plant at Manchester where about 3,500 workmen are employed. The proposed London plant to cover 225 acres would employ about 14,000 persons and be the largest Ford manufacturing plant outside the United States.

The Ford cars now produced at Manchester are made largely of British materials. It is said that the London plant will use British materials entirely. It has been suggested that the product carry the slogan, "A 100 per cent British Ford."

Ford's big-scale production plan in England, if carried out, will save an import duty of 33 1-3 per cent required on all foreign cars brought here for sale. There is some anxiety among British manufacturers of light cars at the prospect of large scale Ford production and competition here, but generally speaking the attitude of the people and the authorities seems favorable because they believe it will relieve the unemployment situation to some extent at least and bring the flivver nearer the range of average prices.

SHAKE-UP CAUSED BY DEATH OF MURPHY

NEW YORK, April 26.—"The king is dead—long live the king." And so Tammany, paying tribute to its lost leader, begins to search for a new genius who will direct the powerful democratic organ along the road to continued political triumph. Because of the presidential campaign in which Tammany has a well defined program to carry out, the business of choosing the right successor to Charles F. Murphy assumes immediate and unusual importance.

At the present time, it does not seem likely to democratic leaders here that a powerful figure such as Murphy will appear at once to assume the leader's mantle.

It is predicted rather, that a steering committee, probably a triumvirate will be organized to guide the destinies of Tammany Hall. The members of this body would be selected by the executive committee of the democratic organization.

From this group would merge eventually the man who had shown that his force of leadership entitled him to rule as Murphy ruled. The natural successor to Murphy were he not in the executive mansion at Albany would be Governor Al Smith.

Whether Smith would renounce his presidential ambitions in order to become Tammany boss, is a matter of speculation which remains to be determined. However, even if he does not become the actual head of Tammany, it is generally accepted that whoever becomes the physical leader, Smith will be the real power behind the throne.

Tom Foley, Murphy's right hand man, is mentioned prominently as his political heir, but Foley is 70 years old and there is some doubt as to whether he would accept the position.

There would be precedent for the establishment of a ruling triumvirate. After the late Richard Croker had surrendered his crown, a committee of three controlled Tammany for a time. Murphy was one of the number and soon became the acknowledged chieftain.

Formation of a directorate now is said to be favored, for one reason because it would prevent a struggle for control—a struggle that might threaten to disrupt the organization on the eve of the democratic convention.

HIS BEST SPEECH

"Of all the speeches you have made, over America and in foreign lands, what one really interested you yourself most of all?" was asked of Dr. William T. Ellis, the war correspondent who is to lecture upon "America's Way Out for the World—A Traveler's Conclusions," on the Redpath Horner Chautauqua.

"There were two of them. One was made to soldiers on relief just behind the lines, during the first all-American action of the war, at which battle I was present as the only correspondent. I wrote the story for the Saturday Evening Post. The occasion, when the muzz of the guns, I sought to furnish diversion and inspiration to those wonderful American boys, is the high spot of my experience. I spoke often to the soldiers in France; but that one night in the presence of my fellow countrymen who had just proved that our soldiers were all that we had dreamed they might be, was an occasion apart, and thrilling beyond words.

"The other speech that I myself enjoyed, was made last spring in Constantinople, aboard the U. S. S. "Pittsburg," where I was unexpectedly called upon to address the officers upon the "inside story" of the Lausanne Conference, which I had been attending. Every man of the highest and finest present was a commissioned officer of the United States Navy; so I did not have to be discreet or consider any international sensibilities. For almost an hour I told without reserve, what the Conference had really been doing, from a behind-the-scenes viewpoint; and for another hour I answered questions. I felt that I was serving my country in a peculiarly definite way—and it was a rare pleasure to be able to talk with utter freedom upon living international issues."

SOAD WATER MEN TO CELEBRATE MAY 7

WASHINGTON, (United Press)—The American Bottlers of Carbonated Waters, better known as the "soda water men," will on May 7, have a special celebration of their own as the culmination of the advertising campaign they plan this spring. Celebrations will be held in various cities on that day, and the public will be invited to visit bottling plants and partake free.

Townsend Speakman, a Philadelphia druggist, who supplied most of the medicines used by the Continental armies during the Revolution, first produced carbonated beverage. The industry grew until, today, federal statisticians estimate that eight billion bottles of carbonated beverages are consumed annually in America and are distributed by about 150,000 retailers.

A Serious Thought
Despondency is a fatal thing. A cheerful attitude wins in every case it is said. This explains a notice in a certain city man's office. "Remember the steam kettle—it is always up to its neck in hot water, but still continues to sing."

TRAFFIC OFFICER TO HAVE MAN EYES

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—A distinct innovation in traffic control devices is soon to be tried out in Philadelphia. It will consist of a steel booth, fitted with mirrors, arranged so that the officer on duty can view traffic in all directions without turning his head.

If the experiment proves successful, the new "glass-lined" traffic stations will be placed throughout the city.

"Our Home Is All Paid Up!"

Only a few short years ago they were harassed rent-payers. To-day they know the wonderful thrill of owning a home absolutely free and clear.

They wisely acted on our advice and moved out of their stuffy flat into the comfortable, soundly-built house that is now their own. They bless the day they came to us. For in an incredibly space of time, they had paid off the last instalment and said "good-by forever" to landlords and rent receipts.

To those who wish to duplicate this achievement, we offer the same opportunities to-day. Why not come in with friend wife and talk the matter over?

HOME EDUCATION

SPOILING THE CHILD

One often hears a mother say, "Let the children play now because they will have to work hard enough when they grow up." Does she stop to think that a childhood spent in play is inadequate preparation for the work to be done in manhood and womanhood? To be sure childhood is the time for play and we should not expect a child to do the things that an adult does, but he should be trained to assume small responsibilities, gradually increasing them until he is ready to go out into the world fully prepared to take his share.

Mothers think that they are helping their children by waiting upon them, but they are in truth harming them. I have in mind a young girl whose mother was devoted to her that she never allowed her to do anything for herself nor to share in the responsibilities of the home. She was scarcely allowed to think for herself. The mother assumed the working out of each of her problems. When she finally left home to go away to school she was helpless indeed. She was tardy at classes, lessons were improperly prepared, she lost her books and purse, and, in general, was a sad trial to her teachers and others with whom she came in contact. Finally her training completed, or supposedly completed, she secured a position as teacher in her home town. On the opening day of school she over slept. Her mother did not awaken her, and she entered upon her duties an hour late thus making a poor impression for herself at the very beginning of her work. Then unaccustomed to seeing things to be done unless pointed out to her, she failed to note many matters needing her attention during the first days. The principal did not find her in her room one morning, but after a search he found her in the school yard, playing with the seventh grade children. And that was where she belonged; she could assume just about as much responsibility as a seventh grader.

A child's training with regard to responsibilities should begin in babyhood. As soon as he can walk across the floor and play with a ball, he should be taught to put that ball in its place before he goes to bed. As his playthings become more numerous he should gradually learn to take care of each in the same way.

As he grows older he should be taught that each one in the family circle has his work to do. Father earns the money for the family, mother cooks, washes and cleans, and the mother constructively instructs, corrects and praises, he, too, will soon look for opportunity to prove himself an active member of the family circle.

HANDLES MAIL IN FORTY-ONE LANGUAGES EACH DAY

WASHINGTON, (United Press).—One of the busiest divisions in all of the Government's departments is the mail sub-division of the Veterans Bureau.

This section of the bureau is in charge of Lt. Col. F. A. Ayl and handles nearly 100,000 pieces of mail daily, written in no less than forty-one different languages. An average day's work, Ayl says, consists of handling about 30,000 pieces of incoming mail and more than 50,000 pieces of outgoing correspondence. The department is equipped with mail-handling machinery of the most up to date type. Thirteen employees are kept constantly busy translating about 300 letters written in foreign languages daily.

Telegrams, radiograms, checks and money orders in payment of Government premiums are handled through this important division.

BIT OF IRELAND IN NEBRASKA

—ALBION, Neb., (United Press).—A mile north of here, beside a lazy stream, is a "little bit of Ireland" transplanted from the Emerald Isle, for on the "little farm" lives a family whose members emigrated from Ireland and have since kept all of the Irish customs, even the language.

Mrs. Rose Garvey, mother of the family, recently celebrated her 112th birthday. Her children live with her. Anthony, the baby of the family, is only 68 years old. Michael is 72 and Patrick is 80.

"We're just kids," said Anthony. "All of us are bachelors, and we're going to stay with mother."

There is another child, Mrs. Garvey confided, who wandered from the home-fold and got married; John, 76, lives three miles from the home farm and is considered a stranger in foreign land.

Since 1882, when the Garveys took up their homestead near here, little by little additional acres of land have been added. To them it is still the "little farm."

In the county register of deeds office, however, are recorded hundreds of acres under the names of the Garvey family.

A scrubby rose bush lies dormant at one corner of the porch. "Soon be time to get my rose bush ready for summer," Mrs. Garvey commented. It's been there as long as we have lived here.

Despite her years, Mrs. Garvey gives the rose bush personal attention.

TEXAS UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATION

The time is ripe for the return of the Democratic party to power at the National Capital.

The amazing corruption which has been revealed in the Republican ranks during the recent investigations at Washington, has shaken the confidence of the entire nation in the present administration and in the outstanding leaders of the Republican party.

Any dry progressive democrat of proven ability who may be given the nomination will be able to win hands down in November, provided, of course, that he stretches the imagination can be in any way connected with anything that savors of corruption or impropriety.

Granting that Mr. McAdoo is a good man and probably would make a good president, it would be impossible to elect him in November, handicapped as he would be by the past misalliances of the law firm of which he is a member. Were he nominated, would become necessary for him, aggressively, to oppose the campaign in which explanations of his personal conduct and defense of his record would play the leading role, this making it impossible for him, aggressively, to oppose the Republican nominee, whoever he might be.

Those who say that the fate of prohibition makes it necessary for the Texas Delegation to be instructed for McAdoo are simply voicing a catchy campaign statement that will not bear analysis, the truth being that instructions for McAdoo, tying the hands of the Texas delegation, will in fact lend aid and comfort to the wet forces which are prompting the candidacy of Underwood and of Smith of New York, since McAdoo himself will certainly not receive a sufficient number of votes to nominate on the first ballot.

If McAdoo cannot be nominated in the early stages of the convention and the opposition against him crystallizes the dry forces will be compelled to look elsewhere for a candidate.

The people of Texas, as well as the people of the Nation at large, demand a dry progressive, clean candidate for president, and uninstructed delegates from Texas, with a personal known to be representative of the dry, law-abiding people of the state, who can be trusted in the National Convention to vote for a dry progressive leader-whoever he may be when the proper moment arrives. They can be trusted not to cast their ballots for a wet reactionary candidate. Assembled in the convention uninstructed, the Texas Delegation will have a tremendous weight of influence when the time for a selection arises. Instructed this delegation will be just forty votes in the discard. The discarding of forty dry votes which cannot be used in any emergency except Mr. McAdoo is virtually adding forty votes to the wet forces. If event Mr. McAdoo cannot be nominated and the wets combine on a single man.

Friends of Mr. Neff know that in this fight for uninstructed delegation, the Governor has been actuated, not by selfish desires, as some have intimated, but by a resolve to stand for that which he believes to be for the best interests of his party and the nation. Unbiased thinkers will admit that since he gave notice months ago that he would fight for an uninstructed delegation, he could not consistently introduce in Texas a candidate who was making it a point to oppose that very policy, and he is too good a man to make a cheap trade for personal political preference at the expense of his party.

If the state convention should decide to send an uninstructed delegation for McAdoo to the National convention, a grave mistake will have been made and realization of that fact will come such a step when the history of the National Convention has been written. Mist of the old line Texas politics, not tied to Underwood, are attempting to deliver bag and baggage, the forty Lone Star votes into the hands of Mr. McAdoo.

For us here in the two counties, we will give thought to this matter and determine to make Texas a vital factor in the selection of a National Standard Bearer for the Democratic party this year.

J. W. MADDEN, Crockett, Texas.

CHICKENS ROOST IN THE CABINS OF ONCE GREAT SHIPS

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 26.—Ship cabins, designed for officers' quarters and built at neat expense, now house chickens and pigs on Virginia farms or furnish roadside dwellings for squatters or refreshment booths for tired tourists.

The deck-houses of a giant fleet of 205 wooden vessels, built for the World War at from $500,000 to $800,000 each have been sold as junk to whomsoever would pay the price—mostly the trouble of carrying them away.

The built-in banks are good nests for the chickens. The little houses, which resemble refrigerators and are built in much the same fashion, are practically useless for other purposes, because thousands of nails running through them at intervals of a few inches, makes salvage of the wood impossible.

The ships themselves, most of which never made a voyage except for a few in the last stages of dismantling, lie in James River waiting to be towed opposite Quantico, Va., and burned in the shallow water of the Potomac. A salvage

WILL BUILD A $23,000 HOUSE AS AN EXPERIMENT

By United Press

URBANA, Ill., April 26.—A three-story house, to be equipped with a warm-air furnace of ten-room capacity for the purpose of continuing and elaborating the program of research which started at the University of Illinois in 1918 and has been carried on jointly since that time by the Engineering Experiment Station of the university and the National Warm Air Heating and Ventilating Association, will be constructed near the campus of the University of Illinois this spring. The contract for the house to cost $23,000 has just been let.

The plans call for a living room, dining room, kitchen, sunparlor, laundry and breakfast nook on the first floor, three bedrooms and a bath on the second and two bedrooms and a bath on the third floor. It will be a frame building, of chboard construction, and of Colonial style. It is expected the house will be completed so that the testing program may be started next fall.

The heating plant to be installed is practically the same size as the experimental heating plant now in the university's mechanical engineering laboratory, with which the research work of this nature has been carried on since 1918.

The house is being constructed as a practical and desirable residence. Funds came from the National Warm Air Heating and Ventilating Association. The work, of which this new venture will be a continuation and elaboration, developed some noteworthy facts, one of which is that if heating pipes in the basement are to be covered at all they must be well covered. Poor insulation, in the tests already conducted by the university, proved less effective for heating purposes than bright tin pipes without insulation. Insulation should be at least as good as can be obtained with two layers of air-cell asbestos covering.

Another noteworthy result was that poorly designed and arranged cold-air ducts may decrease the heating capacity of the plant as much as 25 per cent.

The engineering experiment station of the university has already published three bulletins covering this work, and a fourth is being prepared.

During all the experimental work accurate measurements were made as to the weight of coal and the weight of air circulated, and complete measurements of temperature throughout the whole plant.

The work has been carried on under the direction of Professors Willard, Kratz, and Day.

BEND, Ore., (United Press)—Lava caverns from which rushes an icy wind have been discovered southwest of Bend, in the desert country, according to local persons. The winds which come from the caves are so cold that dripping water at the entrance is frozen. They tried to throw a bat into the cave, but the wind was so strong it was blown out time and again. So far the caves have been unexplored.

The house is being constructed as a practical and desirable residence. Funds came from the National Warm Air Heating and Ventilating Association. The work, of which this new venture will be a continuation and elaboration, developed some noteworthy facts, one of which is that if heating pipes in the basement are to be covered at all they must be well covered. Poor insulation, in the tests already conducted by the university, proved less effective for heating purposes than bright tin pipes without insulation. Insulation should be at least as good as can be obtained with two layers of air-cell asbestos covering.

Another noteworthy result was that poorly designed and arranged cold-air ducts may decrease the heating capacity of the plant as much as 25 per cent.

The engineering experiment station of the university has already published three bulletins covering this work, and a fourth is being prepared.

During all the experimental work accurate measurements were made as to the weight of coal and the weight of air circulated, and complete measurements of temperature throughout the whole plant.

The work has been carried on under the direction of Professors Willard, Kratz, and Day.

THE PASSING DAY

By WILL H. MAYES, Department of Journalism, University of Texas

From an acquaintance with Texas towns extending over a period of about forty years, I have learned that those places whose citizens keep some community work under way all the time are the places that enjoy the greatest prosperity and the most substantial development. Towns whose citizens are inactive soon become stale and uninviting as some of the people of progressive ideas do not matter so much what is undertaken just so it keeps the people meeting and working together for their common good. Whether it is a county fair, a poultry show, a clean-up campaign, a tree-planting, building a factory, a good roads movement, a school building campaign, whatever it may be, it is small, does not matter so much, if only it is carried to a successful finish. The good comes as much from the team work of the citizens as from the accomplishment of the thing in hand.

Many places make the mistake of putting through some one undertaking to their credit and stopping with the single achievement. When something else is to be undertaken the work of organization has to be done all over again. The result is that there are long intervals of community inactivity in which the town loses practically all it has gained by its progressive spirit. The business of town development is just like that of the individual. The merchant who would close his store for a rest after a big sale would certainly fail. The town that does only occasional things makes little progress. Unless your community improves, your business is not likely to improve beyond certain fixed limits. The way to help the town is to keep something doing all the while for the good of the place. In that way you will help yourself.

Brownwood is this year doing about the biggest thing of any place in its class in the state. The Chamber of Commerce is its annual convention. The estimates are that 25,000 people will be there, and Brownwood is going to spend $22,000 in giving them a good time. The town's enterprise is shown in the erection of an $80,000 auditorium, built on a bond issue, in which the convention will be held. This building is a permanent structure, and was erected as a memorial to the Brown county soldiers of the World War. A town with a spirit like Brownwood is showing can't be kept from growing. All people with life in them like to be among others who are alive.

Several thousand visitors from thirty East Texas counties are expected at the East Texas Singers' Association meeting at Athens, June 13-15. There will be vocal artists from different places in Texas, some celebrities from out of the state and the rest will be just plain East Texas singers. These East Texas singing conventions have brought about a renewed interest in vocal music all over that part of the state, and people are always the better for singing. Singing may not be a permanent cure for all the ills of mankind, but it does make those who do the singing forget their troubles for the time, whatever the effect may be on others. Community singing under good leadership brings about a close fellowship and when people sing together in the real spirit of song, hatreds, pickings and jealousies are likely to be forgotten.

Farm life is much easier now than it was in the days of our fathers. In one other field of labor has machinery come any more to lighten labor if only the farmer will do to the expense of the pains of equipping his farm as it should be. Of course, no farmer can get all the machinery he would like to have, but many do not use that which is available. On farms where wood is available as fuel the work of chopping or sawing the wood by hand is back-breaking, but seldom necessary. Most farmers now have automobiles. By jerking up the back of the car and attaching a saw the winter's fuel supply can be saved in a short time. The saw attachment costs but little. Lists of other cheap labor-saving devices are available to most farmers and farmers' wives. By providing them and making farm work lighter, the boys and girls will be more likely to stay on the farm.

Writing from Chicago to his friend, Thomas Carlyle, in 1860, Ralph Waldo Emerson, in a letter recently found, said: "This new hotel is built on a scale which one certainly does not expect. It is lighted with gas and so unlike the English tavern, there is no charge for candles. I am told there is a bathroom on every floor and the hotel is just like a high-class hotel. The nominal charge being made for towels and soap." What would Emerson think if he could look in on the modern city hotel of twenty or thirty stories, with baths in every room and the whole place a blaze of electric lights? Surely the world moves.

IDALOU SCHOOL BOOSTS FUND FOR ORPHANS

On Monday, April 7, 1924, I, with my husband (who is field man for the Orphans Home) went to Idalou, 14 miles east of Lubbock, while there I visited the school in the interest of the children in the Orphans Home at Lubbock, and the following report is evidence enough to show the free-heartedness and ready response of Idalou pupils, of which Idalou ought to be proud of.

I anticipate visiting the other schools of Lubbock county and sincerely hope all will respond as readily as Idalou. I am going to make a record book of the reports of all the schools as above and present it to the West Texas Children's Orphans Home as a souvenir. MRS. F. R. PICKENS.

MOTHERS SHOW THIS TO YOUR DAUGHTERS. OMAHA, Neb., (United Press)—Fifty dollars a year is all a girl needs to spend on her clothes, Miss Jesse Towne, dean of girls at Central High School, told the parent-teachers' association here. "A recent survey at Central High School showed that a majority of the girls dress for $50 a year or less," said Miss Towne. "Some may spend $500 a year on their clothes, but that is no excuse for sensible girls to be extravagant." Miss Towne defended the modern "flapper."

"Flappers are no different from young girls at the time when our grandmothers were dancing the Virginia reel," said Miss Towne. "Conditions have changed, however. The great need now is for greater companionship between girls and their mothers."

11.4% less to run. This supreme quality means lower operating cost. Owners of fleets of cars in this class made audited records to prove this. They compared 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles each. And they found that the Studebaker Light-Six cost 11.4% less to operate than the average of its rivals. This includes depreciation. The saving was nearly one cent per mile.

The reasons are these. The Studebaker Light-Six, in its chassis, represents the best we know. In steel and in workmanship it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

More Timken bearings are used in this car than in any competitive car within $1,500 of its price. There are 517 operations in making this car exact to 1/1000th of an

This is one of the cars which has made Studebaker the leader in quality cars. Our sales have almost trebled in three years. The trend toward Studebakers has become a sensation. Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars. Back of this car is an honored name, which for 72 years has stood for high ideals. Behind it are $90,000,000 of assets, staked on pleasing you better than others. Before you pay $1,000 or more for a car, these are facts you should know and compare. You owe that to yourself. MORGAN'S ADVICE SOUGHT BY GERMANY

By United News.

PARIS, April 26.—Reparations chiefs, including Colonel James A. Logan, Jr., unofficial American observer with the reparations commission, dined Friday night with J. P. Morgan here and informally discussed the expert's report with the American banker.

Morgan's advice was asked particularly of the possibilities of placing the 800,000,000 gold mark international loan to Germany, which is provided for in the report of the experts committee.

The dinner was the first move to follow the suggestion that the reparations commission should consult banking authorities regarding the loan.

Louis Basthou, French president of the reparations commission, and Sir John Bradbury, British member, are requesting a conference with Morgan Saturday.

They desire to get his opinion regarding conditions in various countries and amounts to be raised, as well as to find out whether Morgan will cooperate in raising part of the loan in the United States.

Louis Barthou, French president of the commission and Sir John Bradbury, British member, are expected to meet Morgan Saturday.

It is learned that the financiers' collaboration is practically certain if good assurances are given that political questions will be settled and France and Britain reach an agreement on the report.

Well informed persons here believe it quite possible that Dwight Morrow, Morgan's partner, may be chosen to negotiate the loan.

Members of the commission emphasize that Morgan is being consulted "because he happens to be the handiest big financier at the present time." They are not negotiating the loan as yet but are merely getting the lay of the land.

With the replies of all the powers except Italy before the commission the situation created by conflicting Franco-British viewpoints on the report is rapidly coming to a head. It is learned that the French reply to the reparations commission is regarded as unacceptable in British circles. Officialdom believes, however, that it will be possible to find a way out of the problem, owing to the mutual desire to avoid scuttling the report.

The newspaper L'Intransigeant carries a report that Morgan, while here, will talk with Premier Poincaré regarding the financial situation. The American banker, arrived here Friday from Venice after a cruise in Mediterranean waters on his yacht.

KILLED COUGAR WITH A RABBIT SHOOTER

By United News.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 26.—Edgar E. Watkins, government hunter of Grant county, holds the record. He killed one cougar with an automatic .22 calibre pistol and wounded another.

Watkins was out hunting rabbits to use as coyote trap bait when he came face to face with two cougars. He was about 30 feet from them when he came in sight. Watkins had carried a rifle many days expecting to meet a cougar. But in the history of the biological survey hunters in Oregon, dating back a decade, none had ever killed a cougar in the eastern part of the State.

So Watkins didn't have his rifle. His automatic pistol was his only weapon. Knowing full well that a .22 calibre bullet is not expected to make a showing against a big cat, and realizing that the animals if wounded might turn on him, Watkins nevertheless opened fire.

Fortunately for him neither attempted to attack him. Instead they tried to flee.

As the smaller one, a yearling, turned, Watkins dropped him. At the older beast, apparently the mother, Watkins sent four shots, which blood stains in the snow told took effect.

THE JAPS DON'T LIKE SOUTH AMERICAN COLONIZATION

OSAKA, Japan (By Mail to United Press).—The report of the establishment of a new large concern for sending Japanese emigrants to South America is somewhat premature. It is true that the plan is being contemplated and the promoters recently held several meetings, but the company is not yet established.

The plan has long been contemplated as the best measure to relieve the congestion of a fast-swelling population and thereby to save the growing scarcity of food supply in Japan. A business commission went to South America in the summer of 1922 for observation of the conditions there, and after their return here organized a South American business enterprise association with a view to making investments in industrial undertakings in Brazil and other South American countries. Recently, with the organization of the new ministry, the promoters made efforts to obtain an understanding with the government and to secure official support. According to the plan under contemplation, the company will be organized with a capital of about 10,000,000 yen. It is still doubtful whether the plan will become a successful business enterprise. There is little enthusiasm among Japanese people for emigration to South America. They are afraid that the white population will begin expelling them as soon as their number reaches 100,000 and their colonies become important. For example, the movement in California.

TO MAKE BARNYARD ANIMAL OF MOOSE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (By Mail to United Press).—The moose farm is looked to as a means of preventing the great American beef animal from extinction in Alaska. Not that the moose is threatened, for it abounds in large numbers all along the southern regions of the territory; only where settlement has driven the animals out or herds have been exterminated from natural grazing grounds has any appreciable inroads been made upon the animals.

However, it is rapidly becoming more difficult for the moose to find an isolated retreat, and many of his migratory rangers are now settled by farms and disturbed by timber and wood cutters.

Experience of trappers and residents of the Kenai peninsula, the greatest moose pastures of Alaska, has settled the question of the animal's tractability and ability to adapt itself to the usages of the barnyard. Often trappers felled large birches to give the moose food. During these periods the moose gather sometimes in herds of a dozen or more and stand about while the tree is being felled. The moose will also eat hay and grain when starved in winter.

The question now is to secure an area of natural feeding ground where the moose may be held by fencing. It is proposed to use horse fence with mesh sufficient to bar out predatory animals, such as wolves, and to gradually bring some of the herds under domestication.

FEWER DEATHS AMONG CHILDREN OF GERMANY

BERLIN (United Press).—The latest reports of the Department of Public Health record a surplus of births over deaths for January the latest period covered by the Department's statistics.

However, this is not a result of the increase in births. Their actual number was considerably lower than in the corresponding month last year.

The surplus is due, according to "Clinical Weekly," to a strong decrease in the death rate. The small death rate of infants, the comparative scarcity of fatal diseases of the lungs, influenza and tuberculosis were the chief causes for the decrease.

Germany so far has been lucky this year in that she has been spared from gripe epidemics afflicting most of the other European countries.
