of high school boys traveling all over the State from the Red to the Rio Grande and from Caddo Lake to the Davis Mountains to see a ball game? Who said boys would not appreciate the useful, practical essential things of the State did go to the expense of providing the equipment and furnishing the teachers?

Somebody did but somebody did NOT know BOYS. Boys are MEN in embryo and some day the world is going to recognize and accept that fact. Boys want to be men. And boys try their best to act and grow and do like men and that is why they make so many mistakes. That is why they get into so much devilment. The trouble is they follow the line of least resistance and that line leads them to copy the men who are the easiest to copy. But whose fault is it? Surely not the boys!

Last week 365 high school boys traveled all the way from 100 to 1,500 miles by autos, by rail and every other way, from their home high schools to College Station to take part in the first Smith-Hughes stock and agricultural judging contest held at the A. and M. College. They came from 49 different high schools. It may be interesting to know some of the Texas high schools that are so fortunate as to have the advantage of the Smith-Hughes work in their course. For this reason we are giving the names of the high schools represented at the first Smith-Hughes stock-judging contest ever held in Texas. It was one of the greatest high school contests ever held in the U. S. A. But that is natural. Why should not Texas have the greatest contest in agriculture and stock raising, when she is the greatest agricultural and stock producing state in the Nation. And for this same reason can anybody find a just excuse for not teaching stock judging and agriculture to every farm boy in Texas? Give the farm boys of Texas what the future life and their stars call for and every man Texas 25 years from today will be a self-supporting and independent citizen. There is room in Texas for every school boy in the state to own a farm and have a home of his own in Texas if he is only trained how to get it and raise the stock and do the kind of farming that will pay for it. But those schools were: Parwell, Littlefield, Lubbock, Silvertown, Mineral Wells, Farmersville, Junction, Stephenville, Moore, Prairie Hill, Lewisville, Calvert, Bellville, Mason, Groesbeck, Lindae, Livingston, Taylor, Granger, Willis, Mt. Calm, Flatonia, Goforth, Buda, Eden, Martin, Dilley, Alto, Athens, Austin, Big Foot, Canyon, Coolidge, Corsicana, Cotulla, Del Rio, Dublin, Fort Worth, Hillsboro, Justin, Kerrville, Kress, Leoville, Pearsall, New Waverly, Austwell, Panhandle and Wallis.

Does your school come in this list? If it does not do you realize you are cheating the boys of your school and your county out of this training while YOU pay the tax to help support the work for all these other schools. That's just what you are doing if you have not spunked up and put the Smith-Hughes agricultural work into YOUR OWN HOME high school. It is for everybody who is willing to make the effort and sacrifice and pay their part of the cost. However, it is a mistake to mention the word "sacrifice." It is not a sacrifice to any school in this state to provide the Smith-Hughes work. Instead it would be the very best INVESTMENT a county could make for its boys. And so far as cost is concerned any county would save the cost of such education on the cost of the courts.

All right! If you do not believe this look up two things. First look up just for your own curiosity just what it would cost your school to put in the Smith-Hughes work. Find out what it is and how to get it. Second, go to your county records and look up what your delinquent boys have cost the county this year. And then there is a third thing that every school patron and school trustee ought to know. So suppose you find out just how many boys there are in the reform school who have had this training. And you might go a step farther and see how many men there are in the state penitentiary who are high school graduates and who ever had a chance in-school to learn anything that helped them to make an honest living with their hands and feet and time.

WE BELIEVE in Texas BOYS. They are the finest bunch of boys on earth. And if the state will treat them right and fair and keep them growing physically and mentally, and give them the kind of a high school education that the whole half million can use to help them make a living, and cut out some of the war and dead languages and higher mathematics and give them in their younger and more dangerous years something that appeals to their nature, something that they can use every day of their lives something that will tie them onto the life they are to live and the work they must do to make a living, something that will actually educate them for the duties of life instead of simply cram their brain cells full of facts and figures and data and other educational junk to be forgotten as quick as the month's examination is over and NEVER used or put into practice it will hold boys in school until their most dangerous period is past. And then when they do leave school they will know something that will help them climb the hill of success in life.

Those 365 high school boys were welcomed to the A. and M. College by Dean E. J. Kyle and C. H. Winkler of the Department of Agriculture when they assembled in the judging arena of the Animal Husbundry building at 8 o'clock in the morning and immediately went to work judging livestock, poultry, seeds, grains, and cotton. And after their days work was over they gathered in the great dining hall where they were greeted again by Governor Neff and the college officials. Do you see anything worth while in such education for boys? It would cure more crime than all the courts in America; and save and make more money; and save more broken hearts than anything else parents could give their sons.

TWO WORKMEN HURT WHILE UNLOADING POLES

BREMOND, Tex., May 3.—One man, Jack Skains, will probably lose his right leg below the knee and another man named Griffin is also seriously hurt as the result of an accident in the Southern Pacific freight yards here this afternoon. The two men are in the employ of the West Public Supply freight company, engaged in construction of a transmission line from Calvert to Kosse. They were unloading a car of poles from a freight car when some of the stakes supporting the poles gave way permitting them to roll on Skains and Griffin. Skains' leg was very badly crushed below the knee and he was taken to a hospital in Dallas tonight. Griffin's chest was crushed and it may be that he has other internal injuries. Skains lives at Franklin while Griffin's home is in Somerville.

There are plenty of opportunities in life for one to get himself run down without trying to beat the limited to the crossing.

SLATON WOMAN GRANTED DIVORCE ON PETITION THAT SHE HAD BEEN CURSED AND ABUSED BY HUSBAND

Mrs. Mary Alice Jordan, wife of J. J. Jordan, of Slaton invoked the power of the law to protect her from the outrages of an alleged "vicious, cursing, abusing and insulting" husband and her petition for a divorce was heard in the 72nd Judicial Court here Friday before Judge Clark M. Mullican.

Attorney R. A. Baldwin, of Slaton, represented the plaintiff, while the defendant who is serving a term in the Lubbock county jail on a charge of carrying a six shooter, appeared in court without the defense attorneys.

During the progress of the trial when the plaintiff's attorney called witnesses to the stand, and after he had finished questioning them Jordan pronounced such questions as were permissible, showing complete record of procedure evidently having been desired by the plaintiff's attorneys.

It was alleged in the hearing that the defendant had abused, cursed, beaten and intimidated the plaintiff since shortly after their marriage at Spur, Texas, more than twenty years ago, that in 1916, being unable to bear the life to which she was subjected, the plaintiff fled from the home, going to the home of her brother where she resided for some months but was unable to remain away from the home of the defendant because of the fact that she retained custody of their children.

On promise that he would be good to her, plaintiff alleged she returned home, but almost regular domestic upheavals have occurred since that time, the most outrageous of which

"THAT'S JUST LIKE THEODORE ACTED BEFORE HE CAME DOWN WITH BULL MOOSE-ITES."

By MORRIS.

Protected by George Matthew Adams

Realizing that as a race, Americans are not musical, those vitally interested in music in this country, started a movement some years ago, to have one week in the year designated as "Music Week." This year it is the first week in May, or rather beginning the 4th of May and continuing through the seven days following. In Lubbock this week has fallen on such dates as to make it impossible to put on an extensive program, as the Federated Clubs will be here during the week, and the music committees have decided that they will observe music week by having the schools of the city put on a musical program each morning at chapel.

Without music this would certainly be a dull old world, and hence the importance of increasing interest in it, and so great is the need of a stimulation of the taste for music in this country that many of the cities of the United States have put on very elaborate programs in an effort to interest more people in the art.

The Washington Herald commenting on the subject of observing music week in its issue of May 31st last year, says that the man who has no music in his soul, if there be such an unfortunate creature, is indeed a most miserable human.

Thousands of people have sung during those past days in large and small groups. The children of the public schools have sung in their schoolrooms and their assembly halls. Concerts have been given at which eminent artists have taken part. On Friday afternoon the events of the week reached a climax in the assemblage on the Ellipse with 60,000 children present singing to the President of the United States. Nothing like this great concourse of Washington's youth has ever before been known here. The music the children rendered was excellent and the picture they presented was an inspiration.

This city will, in time, become the musical center of America. It has now the elements to make it that in the excellent conservatories of music here established, and particularly the spirit of community musical effort that prevails. The success of Music week will greatly stimulate those devoted to the vocal art.

One result of the Music week program has been the training of a number of group leaders by the general director, who throughout the preparatory period and the week itself has exerted an inspiring influence upon others. These leaders will remain to continue the work of occasional, perhaps regular, musical demonstrations. They will be qualified to train other leaders. The foundation has been laid for a lasting structure of community singing.

The results of this endeavor cannot fail to be wholesome. Music makes better men and women. It makes for cleaner living and a brighter outlook upon life, and a greater enjoyment of the pure, fine things and thoughts. A singing city, such as it is hoped Washington will become, will be a better city in which to live."

MONDAY WILL BE A WHOLE OF A DAY FOR LUBBOCK.

Monday will be a whole of a day for Lubbock, and don't you forget it. Monday is the day that many big things will happen in the hub of the plains, and you will not be able to stir for the people, for they will be here from all over the state, and many out of state places. It is not the occasion of a Democratic National Convention or an inauguration of the President of the United States, but many people will be here just the same. Locally, it is First Monday, and there will be people here for miles and miles around to take advantage of the bargains that the business men of Lubbock are offering for that regular monthly event. We are confident that many thousands of people will be in Lubbock for that occasion.

It is also the occasion of the Dallas Trade Trippers, who will be here in their special train on their Twenty-third annual Dallas good-will tour. They will arrive here about six o'clock in the afternoon, and will swarm out of their cars and onto the streets of this live and bustling city and will no doubt be surprised at the great number of people that they will find here to greet them, and who are here trading, with no thought of meeting any of their delegation. They will remain in Lubbock over night, and will no doubt enjoy a very royal time until a late hour at least, for the people of Lubbock will make those fellows feel at home to the fullest extent.

Then, to crown the day, the delegates of the Seventh District, Woman's Federated Clubs, will begin to pour into the city Monday, and the town will be swarming with lady delegates from the various towns in this district which comprises all of Northwest Texas, and it will be an event that will long be remembered by our fair city, for these ladies are coming here with a purpose in mind, and that purpose is for the betterment of Avalanche, under ordinary conditions would be in favor of an instructed delegation, but with the line-up that confronts the National Convention, we could not very enthusiastically advocate instruction for any man that is in the race. In our opinion, the Democrats so far have not brought out the proper man for president, and we further more believe that with any of the candidates now in the race, democracy is defeated to begin with and unless there can be found a man with a record clear of oil, and absolutely free from the contaminations of the recent scandal investigations that the Republicans will have easy sailing this fall.

McAdoo is our choice of those now in the race, but we are not strong for him, and doubt if he can be elected if nominated, and do not think that the Democrats should have to depend on him for the nomination of a presidential candidate, for that reason, we believe that Texas should go to the National Convention with her hands free to vote for a better and stronger man should one be put in the race. It is our candid opinion that the National Convention will not nominate either of the present candidates for the honor, and that there will come from some source a man strong and capable, a real democrat and popular with the people.

Coolidge will in all probability be the nominee from the Republican ranks and will be a strong man in the race. He will no doubt be hard to beat, and unless the Democrats can trot out a man that is without fault, their doom is sealed. An uninstructed delegation might save the day, and it would be a great day, and it would be a great honor to Texas to be in position at the National Convention to be able to land a stronger man than any of them in the race in the successful column. Under the present conditions we are for an uninstructed delegation.

GOOD FOR "YONSON"

Senator Magnus Johnson boasted to his hyphenated folks back home in Minnesota that when he went to Washington he would "straighten out" the Senate and make those "big fellows" like Lodge sit up and take notice, but after he reached the capitol he got into the papers only in connection with his cow-milking and wood-chopping contests. For a long time nothing more was heard from him, but the other day he came to the front. Senator Heflin of Alabama was discussing the pending immigration bill and orating on the "Nordic" theme now so much in vogue, making it quite plain that, though he is himself a Southerner in this country, he will have none of the Southerner in Europe. Then, as soon as there was opportunity, the big voice of Senator Magnus Johnson sounded as follows:

"Mr. President, the gentleman from Alabama wants to restrict immigration. And some of the Senators want to discriminate between the people of the north and south of Europe. But I came over as an immigrant from Sweden, and while it might be good politics for me to stand up and claim that the immigrants from Sweden and Norway and the slums of London are better than those from the country that gave the world Columbus and Marconi, I don't care for politics. I'll tell the truth. There are good ones and bad ones from all nations."

Good for Magnus. He can not match English with the "big fellows" of the Senate whom he too readily and fatuously expected to "straighten out," but he spoke to the point. After all, there is something in him, even if he does play to the gallery back home by milking cows in Washington and can do no other than call himself "Yonson."

THAW'S BRAIN APPRAISAL

Does anyone outside of an insane asylum think that Harry Thaw would be released if he wasn't able to buy 100,000 worth of lawyers to show what pretty "brains" Harry has? For another $100,000 they would "fit him out" with a mind that could rule the universe.

Over 800 Ford tractors are on the way to Russia and 800 more are to follow as soon as possible.

Little Avalanches

Thaw may be sane, but if the case hangs on much longer most of us will be insane.

Be interested in the "how" of your job and the "how much" will take care of itself.

Washington rather than Wall Street, will control the stock ticket for the next month or two.

DEVELOPMENT OF IDALOU

By C. E. LYNN

Idalou, is located some fourteen miles northeast of Lubbock, and is in one of the most fertile sections of the great South Plains country. This section of the country with possibly one or two exceptions, is the most highly developed sections to be found in West Texas. The entire trade territory surrounding Idalou is one of fine, well improved farms and up-to-date homes, being operated by a sturdy and energetic citizenship who take great pride in making their section one of the leading sections of the entire country.

The little city of Idalou is nothing short of a marvel, when one thinks of the wonderful progress that has been made within the past two or three years.

The city is made up of one of the most enterprising set of business men to be found anywhere. In fact, it is difficult to find an equal of the set of men who have gotten under the proposition and made Idalou what it is.

Idalou is a town of something like 1000 inhabitants. Having recently incorporated their city, they are under the leadership of a wide-awake city commission, and are determined to keep their city to the forefront.

There are some thirty-five business concerns in Idalou. At the present time, there are being erected three new cotton gins, which will give to the community five of the best gins to be found in this section of state. There are at the present time, in course of construction, and in contract, seven brick business houses. One of the brick buildings now nearing completion, will house nine business concerns. This building would do credit to a city much larger than Idalou.

Almost every business to be found within the needs of a growing community is to be found running in Idalou.

Idalou has a brick school plant that is modern, commodious and up-to-date and withal one of the most attractive to be found in this great land of good schools.

There are 425 schoolastics in the district and this year 13 teachers were in charge of the education of the young life of the community. Another year the teaching force will have to be added too in order to take care of the needs of the growing community.

There are three splendid church buildings in the city: Methodist, Baptist and Church of Christ. These churches are well attended, ably supported and manned by up-to-date and efficient pastors, and the citizenship of the city and surrounding country are proud of their church enterprises.

Idalou has one of the very best community auditoriums of any town in West Texas and the community life of the little city is said to be very fine indeed.

This beautiful, building, bustling, little city is in the heart of a country with all but boundless possibilities is destined to be a city which will hold a place in the forefront as one of the real enterprising, up-to-date cities of this great South Plains country.

Cal Overlooks Ruth—A World of Mystery

We Need Airships—A Human Bluebottle—Sodom Found

President Coolidge advises American women to vote, and interest themselves seriously in politics, and in maintaining our form of government.

God advice. Luckily our form of government will maintain itself. And women are more and more taking an interest in politics.

Mr. Coolidge might say a few words to the men, millions of whom, presently, will forget all about the oil scandal, and everything else, because of their deep interest in Babe Ruth's home runs and similar important matters.

Out in the ocean, off Cape Race, is a gigantic iceberg, more than a mile long, towering a hundred feet in the air. To bump into it would mean destruction to any ship.

In old days men would have said, "Let us pray that no unfortunate ship will strike that fearful iceberg."

Praying is good, especially when accompanied by deeds. Now this Government sends the revenue cutter Modoc, to trail along beside that iceberg as it moves slowly and majestically to its melting place near the equator. And as the big iceberg moves, the little cutter broadcasts warnings, telling ships to keep away. That's a sign of civilization.

Mr. Le Boutillier is president of the Long Island Railroad. Nevertheless, a rude Government seized his private car, stocked with choice liquors, and threatens to seize and sell the car.

That is pushing prohibition beyond the joke stage. Keeping beer from workingmen is all right. Keeping champagne from the president of a great railroad is quite another matter.

This is a world of mysteries. We send messages by electricity, and we don't know what electricity is—only what it does. We send radio music and messages through the air without wires and say it goes through the "ether." We don't know what the ether is, and cannot even prove that it EXISTS.

Now Dr. Banting, a brilliant young scientist who discovered insulin, cure for diabetes, says that having discovered it, he is doing his best now to find out what it IS. One thing is sure, it is an expensive product.

The learned M. G. Kyle, on behalf of the Xenia Theological Seminary of Missouri, has carefully and scientifically explored that part of Palestine around the Lower Dead Sea, and announces discovery of the location of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Some graves there date back to Abraham. The discovery should fully confirm the Biblical story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, says Mr. Kyle.

First it's the jaw bone of the missing link. You're told the gorilla is your cousin. Then comes proof of Sodom and Gomorrah, and you are comforted and so is the gorilla.

In the Sing Sing death house, where murderers are kept, lives Mrs. Annie Buzzi, convicted of killing a man named Schneider. She has appendicitis, so a first-class surgeon will operate on her, and endeavor to save her life for the electric chair.

That reminds you of the little boy scolding his sister for killing a big bluebottle fly. He wanted to kill the fly himself.

If Mrs. Buzzi had killed no one and were living at home she might die of appendicitis forty times, for all great New York State would care. But when she's sentenced to death it's different. She must not spoil that plan.

Fisherman: "But my good man, it's not so. I have caught five nice ones already."

Cal Overlooks Ruth—A World of Mystery

We Need Airships—A Human Bluebottle—Sodom Found

President Coolidge advises American women to vote, and interest themselves seriously in politics, and in maintaining our form of government.

God advice. Luckily our form of government will maintain itself. And women are more and more taking an interest in politics.

Mr. Coolidge might say a few words to the men, millions of whom, presently, will forget all about the oil scandal, and everything else, because of their deep interest in Babe Ruth's home runs and similar important matters.

Out in the ocean, off Cape Race, is a gigantic iceberg, more than a mile long, towering a hundred feet in the air. To bump into it would mean destruction to any ship.

In old days men would have said, "Let us pray that no unfortunate ship will strike that fearful iceberg."

Praying is good, especially when accompanied by deeds. Now this Government sends the revenue cutter Modoc, to trail along beside that iceberg as it moves slowly and majestically to its melting place near the equator. And as the big iceberg moves, the little cutter broadcasts warnings, telling ships to keep away. That's a sign of civilization.

Mr. Le Boutillier is president of the Long Island Railroad. Nevertheless, a rude Government seized his private car, stocked with choice liquors, and threatens to seize and sell the car.

That is pushing prohibition beyond the joke stage. Keeping beer from workingmen is all right. Keeping champagne from the president of a great railroad is quite another matter.

WALKER WILL BE TRIED ON CHARGE MURDER GROWING OUT OF KILLING OF BUSINESS MAN AT SLATON IN 1923

J. R. Walker, of Slaton, charged with murder in connection with the killing of J. S. Lanham at Slaton last year, will be tried in the 72nd Judicial District Court here Monday, May 19th.

An order for one hundred special veniremen to be summoned to appear for that date has been issued by court officials and defense attorneys.

The defense is represented by Judge John L. Raliff, of Lubbock, and I. B. Lane, of Slaton.

District Attorney Gordon B. McGuire, assisted by County Attorney Owen McWhorter, will represent the state.

This case will probably attract wide interest, due to the popularity of the principals.

Walker has been a resident of Slaton for a number of years, while Lanham was a prominent business man of that place who enjoyed the friendship of a number of people throughout West Texas, as well as that of a large number of Slaton citizens.

WINDY WOLF SAYS

"Opportunity" would make a wonderful name for an automobile. For isn't it said that opportunity knocks only once?

"First Ade" would also be an excellent name for a new drink. Imagine the effect of drinking a beverage with that name on a hot summer day.

A good catchy phrase for an airplane manufacturer in advertising his product would be "Good to the last drop." Consider the number of people who would want to own an airplane after reading such a cheerful advertisement.

"We guarantee that you will never wear it out," could not be excelled as an advertisement for a suit of underwear.

If they keep on knocking public idols off their pedestals, what will new brands of five-cent cigars be named for? queries a Lubbockite.

A few friends dropped in to a prominent home the other evening, relate a Lubbockite. It was not long before his wife and the other women got into a discussion over period furniture they discussed from every angle their preferences for Tudor, Jacobean, William and Mary, Queen Anne, Mid-Victorian and other periods, also the fine designs of Sheraton, Phyfe, Hepplewhite and John Adams, of Colonial days.

When one woman asked him what his preference was. He replied he was thinking of refurnishing his home, one room with Early Larkin period, one with Sear Roebuck Renaissance, one with the late Montgomery Ward period and another with Middle Grand Rapids and for decorations he would use Mi-West John Rhodes bric-a-brac.

A psychoanalyst assures us that "in most cases insane persons are the happiest people on earth" that "insane patients who recovered have testified that most happy time of their life was during their insanity." Says Leslies Magazine. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes might have expressed the idea thus:

Little I ask; my mind's askew; I only ask for a padded cell; An unpretentious cell will do.

Where I, content, may dwell, Would it be going too far to say that the most cherished institution of the American people is the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of insanity?

"So I took the $50,000." People are judge by the gang with which they associate. The old stuff about birds of a feather. Thus by reading literary gems placed on the market by brilliant contemporaries we are led to believe that they never converse with anybody of lower rank than a major general or British ambassador.

This recalls a conversation I had recently with my old friends, W. G. McAdoo. Bill told me that he doubted seriously whether De Quincy had ever eaten a bit of opium in his life.

The next afternoon, I laughingly related the incident to Lloyd George while we were out on the links.

You can imagine my surprise a few days later when the subject was introduced at a game of Mah Jongg in which the Prince of Wales and I were partners. Our opponents, Suzanne Lenglen and Carrie Chapman Catt, failed to see the humor but the Prince and I laughed heartily over it. That evening when Flo Ziegfield was awarding prizes that he had won in a ping pong tournament, after a hard fight with Gabriel D'Annunzio and W. J. Bryan.

I had completely dismissed the matter, and thought no more of it until yesterday. On my way home from a conference with Gov. Pinchot and Haywood Brown concerning my recent controversy with Premier Mussolini. I saw Walter Hagen standing on the corner. I had George stop the car and turning to call Hagen, discovered to my surprise that the man was not Hagen after all but none other than Lady Astor.

She informed me that Jack Dempsey had told her he was greatly disappointed over my failure to endorse Sir Conan Doyle theories. I asked her point blank what she thought of the similarity in works of Bacon and Shakespeare.

I used her reply that night in an address to members of President Coolidge's cabinet and they seemed deeply impressed.

HOPE STILL HELD FOR MISSING COMMANDER

By United Press
CORDOVA, Alaska, May 3.—Search for Major Frederick L. Martin, missing leader of the American round-the-world airplane flight, tonight seemed resolved into a dogged battle against cruel arctic wastes and fading hope.

But with the courage which is the essence of the romance of these almost unknown spaces, searchers refused to accept defeat and merely pressed on the harder at each apparent set-back.

At 2 p. m. today Major Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey his mechanic had been missing 75 hours. They had practically no food with them when they roared away from Chignik hoping to reach Dutch Harbor in a matter of a few hours. They faced chill, snow laden winds and a wild almost unchartered country, dotted with volcanoes and so forbidding that only a few Indians inhabit it.

The odds now seem against them. But hope has never been abandoned.

Up to today six separate expeditions in small boats which have searched the coves and inlets of the coast line along the Alaskan peninsula have returned home with no word of the missing plane.

The coast guard cutters Algonquin and Haida and the survey ship Pioneer, have steamed over most of the course Martin was expected to follow, but have found no trace of him.

The only word thus far, has come from a group of native Indians who told of the great winged "bird" having passed over their village at the head of the Chignik lagoon.

It was headed towards Behring sea—the opposite side of the Alaskan peninsula from Chignik—which would indicate that Martin sought shelter from adverse winds on the other side of the volcanic range which forms the peninsula's backbone. Working on this theory a dog sled party with Indian guides started at daybreak today from Chignik to follow over the slow, probable inland course, which Martin would have taken.

This will lead them to Lake Chignik, a large body of water, now probably ice-covered in the center of the peninsula. There is some hope of finding the missing fliers there.

While the search for Major Martin continued to occupy the main attention, word was awaited as to whether Lts. Lowell Smith, Erik Nelson, and Leigh Wade, Martin's companion fliers, had succeeded in getting away from Dutch Harbor in their efforts to continue the flight around the world.

Last reports were that they planned to hop off today for Nazanon Island of Atka, and if conditions were favorable, to continue on without stop to Chicagoff, of the Island of Attuan flight of 880 miles.

Commander Believed Alive
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Major Frederick L. Martin, lost commander of the American round-the-world fliers, and his mechanics, have ample food supplies and matches to last them several weeks in the Arctic fastnesses where they are believed to be. Lt. Lowell H. Smith, acting commander of the flight, notified air service officials by radio today.

Smith expressed confidence that Martin and his companion were safe and would soon be found.

UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATION BE SENT FROM COUNTY

The following resolutions were offered and adopted, instructing the delegates from this convention to the county convention as to principles of the democratic party:

"We, the democrats of voting precinct No. 1 in the County of Lubbock, in convention assembled on this the 3rd day of May, 1924, do hereby instruct our delegates who are to represent us in the county convention, to vote for delegates to the state convention who believe in a clean and honest government, honestly administered; who believe in the virtue, validity and vitalizing power of our state and National prohibition laws, and the right enforcement of these and all other laws; who believe in the full participation of the womanhood of our country in directing the affairs of government; who believe in a thorough cleaning of the National Capital of all bribery givers, bribe takers and sellers of political influence.

Believing in a representative form of government, and having full confidence in the integrity and sound judgement of a delegation which truly represents the above principles we instruct our delegates not only to write these principles into the platform of our party, but we further instruct them to stand for the selection of a delegation to the national convention who will name a democratic nominee for president who can conscientiously and in good conscience stand for such a platform.

"A motion was made and carried that the precinct convention of voting precinct number one of Lubbock county Texas, unanimously endorse the candidacy of Senator W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock for re-election. Senator Bledsoe's former services in the legislature in behalf of West Texas were passed in highest terms and unanimously endorsed."

The candidacy of Senator W. H. Bledsoe for senator of the new 30th senatorial district, was unanimously endorsed by all who attended the convention, and a spirit of unity that will result in advancing his candidacy was prevalent.

The good work that Senator Bledsoe has done in representing this district in the senate was referred to and much applause was given when his candidacy for reelection was referred to.

Practically the same procedure was carried out in the convention of the voters of precinct number 3 as that of number 1, no convention being held by the voters of precinct number 2.

Hot speeches were made during the convention of the voters of precinct number 4, and the question of instructed or noninstructed delegates to the county convention was discussed pro and con, with final votes showing favor to non-instructed delegation to the county convention.

The following delegates to the county convention were appointed: H. T. Kimbro, chairman; J. K. Wester, Chris Harwell, W. S. Posey.

G. R. Scott, J. C. Jones, Neil Wright, J. E. Watson, T. Teal, R. A. Sowder, Owen McWhorter and Franklin D. Brown.

STRICT QUARANTINE ON SMALL POX HAS BEEN MADE

Seven cases of small pox had been reported at the office of city health officer, Dr. G. G. Castleberry up to Saturday noon, according to statements made from that office.

By enforcing a strict quarantine this epidemic can be kept down to the minimum, and this is being done by the health officer.

Only the closest cooperation of the citizens of Lubbock with the health officer will make it possible to stamp out the epidemic without its spreading to all parts of the city, and in order to make it possible for the schools to be continued in operation and for the better health of everyone, all cases of small pox must be reported to the health officer immediately upon being discovered.

FIRE BELIEVED RAGING IN WHEELING COAL MINE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 3.—Fire is believed to be raging in the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation in which more than a hundred miners lost their lives by a gas explosion last Monday.

Jerome Watson, chief mine inspector of Ohio, who has been at the scene of the tragedy, returned tonight and reported carbon monoxide gas—the result of fire has greatly retarded the rescue workers and so far only forty eight bodies have been removed.

Watson said rescue workers have penetrated a distance of four miles into the mine, but further exploration was halted.

Considering the number of King Tut's priceless jewels, it seems strange that this country has had no good smuggling story.

Early Days on The Plains

By J. J. DILLARD

Well, I failed to meet my friends last week, which was unavoidable on account of sickness and other obstacles over which I had no control. However, it placed me in a position to make a discovery, a pleasant one. I learned that some people really enjoyed reading the reminiscences of an old timer on the Plains. Thanks!

A few days ago I met one of the early settlers of Lubbock county and I was reminded of the heavy coat of grass that once covered the earth, which grew rank, when we had favorable seasons.

Quite often, we had early spring rains, and occasionally it varied in June, and when it began to rain it usually was accompanied by heavy thunder showers, with vivid lightning, and often the lightning set fire to the grass and burned over hundreds of sections. When the range caught on fire, all ranchmen, cowboys, freighters and other help available, were brought into service to extinguish the fiery demon.

Various methods were resorted to in an effort to check the flames. All were equipped with brooms and many used their slickers, and others used wet sacks or blankets. Often a yearling or a grown cow was killed and the green hide was used to fight the flames by tying a rope to each end of the hide, with a cowboy on one side and another on the opposite of the flames, each man being about thirty feet or more from the fire, dragging the hide in a gallop over the fire, which was followed by the fighters armed with brooms, wet sacks and blankets.

I recall a fire that started at the ranch home of G. O. Groves, some fifteen miles northwest of Lubbock in the fall of 1897. Mrs. Groves had made a fire in the yard early in the morning, preparatory to doing the family washing, and suddenly and unexpectedly the wind began blowing from the west, which blew the fire out of the yard into the nearby grass, and immediately the flames were traveling rapidly eastward, toward the cap rock.

The wind was blowing perhaps forty to fifty miles per hour and drove the fire fully twenty miles an hour. The sides of the fire burned slowly, but after the head fire had reached Sierra Blanco Canyon, some thirty-five to forty miles east, and while the fire fighting forces were extinguishing the side fires, the wind changed to the north and drove the south line, which extended a distance of thirty miles southward, making it extremely dangerous for man or beast. The flames soaring ten to thirty feet high, with mountains of smoke as black as ink. The fire with its fury drove hundreds of antelopes before it, scores of rabbits, and hundreds of wolves, and thousands of cattle, horses and sheep.

I remember that Thad Tubbs, Andy Wilson, Warren and John Bacon and perhaps W. G. Nairn and E. V. Edsall had their sheep in the northeast part of Lubbock county and were expecting to start shortly to drive their herds down on the Concho and Rio Grande Rivers to winter.

Thad Tubbs had a herd of his own, and was also herding a flock for Warren Bacon. The sheep were being held a few miles north of the present site of Idalou, on this memorable day. When the wind changed and began driving the fire south, Thad Tubbs tells me that with the mountains of smoke, with the blaze leaping fully thirty feet high and traveling twenty miles an hour, that it caused him to think serious and fast. Something must be done and done at once for his safety, and for the protection of his sheep.

He searched his pockets for matches and only found one which had been broken, but he carefully protected it from the wind and succeeded in igniting the grass, which drifted fast to the south and he took his coat and extinguished the fire on the north and soon he had a half section of land with the grass burned off of it. He then attempted to drive his sheep on it, but they were terrorized and crazed by the smoke, heat and noise and refused to be driven, even with the assistance of his dog. The fiery demon came closer and closer, and finally he was forced by the dense smoke to seek protection. But the fire, driven by the high wind from the north, soon enveloped his sheep, which were now huddled closely together, even to the depth of three to five feet on top of each other and suddenly the blaze, twenty feet in height swept over and under them, and the flames were further replenished by the oily condition of the wool, which caused the flames to envelope the poor sheep in a sheet of fire, as though they had been saturated with kerosene oil, which continued to burn for fully one-half to one hour after the fire had passed, which was not extinguished until it reached the Yellowhouse canyon on the south. The sheep, huddled together, continued to burn, each trying to get on top, and the pitiful bleating was anything but pleasant to hear. When the fire struck them many of them would leap into the air and with a blast fall dead. After a time the fire subsided, and fully seventy-five per cent of the herd was dead or maimed by having their hoofs burned off and many were blind. The fire came near destroying the flocks of all the sheep men in Lubbock county, at that time.

Tubbs tells me that he lost his faithful dog in this fire, and he supposed that he was burned to death. He recalls an incident which occurred in the midst of the conflagration, which serves to illustrate the zeal of the human family, although, this example was exemplified by the meek and lowly and much despised skunk. Mr. skunk was busy working in the tall grass hunting for bugs and other insects, and appeared to be unconcerned about his future welfare and his immediate danger. The skunk was foraging somewhat early in the afternoon, on account of the dense smoke causing his skunkship to mislead his time-piece, thinking it much later in the day than it really was. But after a time he discovered, that something unusual was happening, and he prepared for battle. Just as the fire, in all of its terror and frightfulness, struck him, much like a cyclone. He reversed his motor, changed position and gave orders to extinguish the fire demon, by turning loose his fire extinguisher with all the power he could command. To his surprise, it only added fuel to the flames, and if it were possible, it was much like spraying the fire with some inflammable substance, and immediately his feeble efforts were brought to naught by his skunkship being entirely enveloped in the flames, and shortly he emerged from the fiery furnace, with his glossy suit of black, singed and looking much dejected and downcast at his failure to quench the devastating fire.

Thus in life of today, we meet people daily, who have much zeal and an exalted opinion of themselves, but when they attempt to destroy or for a short time, delay or change the public mind, find, to their surprise, that they have undertaken a work that required much thought and mature consideration before the attack—and after their defeat, can realize the weakness of our position, and we can take lessons from the brave, pompous and haughty, though much despised skunk.

The destructive fire just described, caused a misunderstanding between two citizens of Lubbock county, which caused them to settle their differences by a slugging match, which occurred on the west side of the square, in fact, in the entrance to the alley, between the Lyric Theatre and the pebble-dash building, which is at present under repair.

The battle occurred late one Saturday afternoon, and continued with unabated fury for a few minutes, when they both clinched, and went down on the ground together and a general hair-pulling, eye-gouging and finger-biting took place. The combatants were separated by the sheriff, but when the warring parties took an inventory of their persons, one of them found he had a perfectly good eye, a few minutes before, but now was almost extracted from its socket. And the other had to carry his arm in a sling for two weeks, on account of a thumb, which was caught by his adversary in his mouth, and was badly mutilated and had to be nursed for several weeks to prevent blood poisoning.

These parties are both in Lubbock today. They long since have been friends as they could not afford to be otherwise in a thinly settled country like Lubbock was at that time.

I remember that on another occasion, that an irate citizen from the west side of the county, come to town and succeeded to hunt up this man who experienced the destructive fire mentioned in the early part of this article and when they met on the north side of the square where the "Alamo" of Lubbock stood for a score and ten years, and the battle was staged at once, the outcome was that after several passes had been made with sledge-hammer blows, the taller of the two was standing on the ground the smaller one standing on the wooden floor of the porch in front of the law office, and unnoticed, perhaps, to either party, was the porch post, and in their fury, one of them struck at the other with all of the force of his command, and he struck the post with his bare fist, which crushed it, and placed him out of the contest, but with true western fellowship, his enemy a few moments before, called the druggist and had him administer to him and relieve his pain as much as possible.

Later, the unfortunate party in this controversy moved to Gaines county, and a few years later his former enemy and good Samaritan, was unfortunate in being caught in a blizzard in that county and it was a case of freeze or stay all night with his former antagonist, so he chose to stay and shared his hospitality.

I recall another incident that happened in Lynn county in 1894, at the only house in Lynn county, which was also the postoffice of Grassland and was operated by Enos L. Seeds. Seeds had the reputation of mavericking, and several head of cattle had been taken from his possession by our townsman, R. C. Burns, who on this occasion was returning from Stanton, where he had attended court. On his return he was met by a blizzard a few miles south of Seeds ranch, and when he reached the postoffice, he was almost froze and his team was exhausted. So he stayed for the night, though they had not spoken for months. However, he was furnished a bed and horse feed. Seeds informed me afterwards that he knew that Burns was afraid that he would poison him, but he was glad that the opportunity presented itself, so that he could kill him with kindness.

"His good-nature only wins the heart. It moulds the body to an easy grace. And brightens every feature of the face. It smoothes the unpolished tongue with eloquence. And added persuasion to the finest of men."

SAYS CHURCH CAN LEARN MUCH FROM THE PRESS

LONDON (By Mail to the United Press)—The press can teach a great deal to the pulpit, the Rev. E. L. Macasey, vicar of St. Peter's Hammersmith, declared. Clarity of thought, direct narrative and simplicity of style, to say nothing of the milk of human kindness, were some of the things in which he thought the pulpit might learn a thing or two from the press. He declared that "One will meet in Fleet Street (London's great newspaper row) a purer brand of the milk of human kindness than that obtainable in 'The High' at Oxford"—where many youths are trained for the clergy.

The vicar predicted that a fortune awaits the man who starts a church newspaper, wherein religious topics are handled by newspaper men "instead of by experts in church embroidery or internationalism."

WORLD COURT IS ENDORSED BY METHODISTS

By United News.
 SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 3.—An unexpected discussion of fundamentalism and a resolution endorsing the world court occupied the attention of the members of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference in its session here Friday.

A bitter conference over the question of the Virgin birth was forecast when sufficient strength was mustered among the modernist delegates to block a fundamentalist resolution.

Dr. Harold B. Sloane, of the New Jersey delegation, making an impassioned plea for methodism to proclaim allegiance of the denomination to its ancient doctrinal standards, deplored the fact that the belief in the virgin birth and Christ as the Lord is being questioned in newspaper headlines.

"The Methodist church stands undivided for the principles and beliefs of common christianity," he said, "and a positive, tremendous expression of faith will go far in helping the church at this juncture of its history."

However, a silent but strong opposition to Dr. Sloane's resolution made itself felt resulting in deferred action on his plea.

With dissention the delegates including those from foreign countries approved the world court, as proposed by the late president Harding and voted that notice of their action should at once be conveyed to President Coolidge.

The conference also adopted a resolution asking congress to extend the prohibition law to the Philippines and voted to give the support of the church to the campaign for the establishment of prohibition in India.

FRENCH TENANTS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR TENEMENT FIRES

How would you like to have a fire in France?

The following information relative to French Personal Liability Legislation for fires caused by negligence is extracted from a report recently received through the State Department from Consul General A. M. Thackara, located at Paris. It was prepared at request of Insurance Department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The responsibility of tenants for fire damages is governed by Articles 1733 and 1734 of the French Civil Code, promulgated on March 1, 1804, which read as follows, in translation:

"Article 1733. The tenant is responsible for fires, unless he is able to prove: that the fire was accidental or due to circumstances beyond his control (force majeure) or due to faulty construction of the building, or that the fire was communicated by a neighboring house.

"Article 1734 (Law of January 5, 1883). If there are several tenants in the building, they are all responsible for a fire breaking out therein, in proportion to the income which the landlord receives from each of them as rental for their respective premises, unless they prove that the fire commenced in a particular apartment; in that case the tenant in whose apartment the fire commenced is alone responsible. If certain tenants prove that the fire could not have commenced in their apartment, those producing such proof are relieved from responsibility for the damage caused."

The Law of January 5, 1883, has modified the former law in that each tenant ceases to be held responsible jointly, and is now held responsible individually only in proportion to the rental value of that portion of the building which he occupies with regard to the surplus occupants by the other tenants.

Some changes have been made in the old laws as to division of individual responsibility but articles 1733 and 1734 of the Civil Code establish a presumption of fault on the part of the tenants, who cannot exonerate themselves unless they prove that the fire could not have broken out in their home, or that the cause of the fire resulted from improper or faulty construction or improper care of the building.

According to conversations with directors of several fire insurance companies in Paris, it appears that the laws concerning fire insurance are strictly enforced under articles 1733 and 1734 of the Civil Code.

A little such legislation in the United States might cut down our $500,000,000 annual fire bill and save thousands of lives each year.

SIMMONS BAND TO ATTEND C. C. MEET

ABILENE, Texas, May 3.—The Simmons College Cowboy Band, in bright new red shirts of the college colors, purple and gold, and in the chaps and sombreros which have gained them fame as the "Old Original Cowboy Band" will attend the annual meet of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Brownwood, May 13, 14 and 15, as the official band of Abilene to the assembly. The announcement was given out from the local chamber of commerce which will take the college organization as its official representative.

The Abilene delegation, including the college band of some thirty-five pieces will go in special cars from Buffalo Gap to the convention city.

The Simmons band was the official Abilene band at the meet last year, and was also taken on the Abilene trade trip last summer. Director D. O. Eiley is busy getting the college musicians outfitted in new corduroy shirts and typical cowboy bandannas for the occasion.

Eleven counties of Texas are represented by the personnel of the Cowboy band, besides two members registered from New Mexico.

SUPPORT OF BILL REFUSED BY LABORITES

By United News.
 LONDON, May 3.—What is interpreted as a grave blow to the labor party and a step which brings a general election nearer in Great Britain has come as a result of labor's defiant refusal to support the legislation.

The house of commons Friday rejected the proportional representation bill by a vote of 238 to 144, despite the fact that H. H. Asquith, liberal leader, had written MacDonald asking the laborites to support the bill.

Arthur Henderson, labor's home secretary announced that the government would leave the bill to "a free vote" namely that it would not instruct laborites how to vote on the measure. The defeat followed.

It is generally considered that the liberals and laborites have parted company as a result of the vote and that after the passage of the budget the liberals will obstruct laborite legislation. Then when they consider that the proper moment has come they will join the conservatives in defeating the labor party and forcing a general election, according to general belief.

During discussion Friday, a liberal member interrupted Henderson with the cry: "Turn them out."

"All right, go on with it," Henderson defiantly answered, continuing "it does not help in the governing if a government fails to take a certain course, this threat is hung over it. We are governing under circumstances more difficult than those faced by any government in history."

HOME EDUCATION

CO-OPERATIVE TRAINING.

By Margaret Conn Rhoades

I was somewhat astonished at the poise of a young child who visited in my home. She had been unexpectedly left by her mother who had been called away suddenly. She had all the earmarks of an experienced visitor, although to my knowledge she had never been out of town before. When her mother returned I asked if it had been home training that had made her so careful, so observant, so much a model visitor.

"Oh, that is a result of our neighborhood co-operative training," the mother replied. "You see there are some things children learn better in another home, so a few neighbors in our locality decided to co-operate. Occasionally one of us would invite week-end guests; these guests were the neighborhood children. They were required to pack their own bags, see that their clothes were in shape, and be prepared to visit for a day or two. We were formal in our table service during the stay of these little people and planned special entertainment for them. In fact they were treated throughout their stay as real company."

"And you know children delight in living up to an ideal. The training was splendid for them and the sightseeing trips we took about the town were instructive. There was no letting down of the company attitude with the maid today we feel sure these little folks understand wonderfully well all the simple rules for model visitors."

"The co-operative plan did not stop with visiting either, but we had sewing classes where each child demonstrated the making of a simple garment. This idea of learning something first and then teaching the method was very inspiring to them. They did this in cookery too. We found that the group idea worked out well, and one mother's idea stimulated other mothers' children to real endeavor."

"Many things are made possible through the co-operative training plan. A cheery little group of children who meet in a neighborhood living room to study the Sunday school lesson on Saturday night will put renewed zeal into the hearts of a Sunday school teacher the next day when she realizes that home effort is uniting with hers in teaching spiritual truths."

"The talent of one mother often finds a quicker response when shared with the child of another. Co-operation in child training is a worth while experiment as we have proved."

I felt sure she was right. As my little guest bade me a cordial good-bye she told me she had enjoyed her visit "besides learning a new desert."

BOY SCOUTS WILL AID IN RED CROSS LIFE SAVING

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Boy Scouts of America, with a membership of more than 600,000 will join this summer with the American Red Cross in the most extensive campaign for water safety ever attempted in this country. "Every Scout a Swimmer," will be the slogan at the numerous Boy Scout camps that will dot the country. Red Cross Life Saving technique will be used as a model and it is expected that an army of expert swimmers will be built up to decrease materially the annual toll of nearly 8,000 drownings in the United States.

Members of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps, with its 45,000 qualified life-savers, will be available throughout the country for instruction purposes upon the request of Boy Scout officials at the summer camps. The Boy Scouts have already made their merit-badge requirements in life-saving parallel those of the Junior Life-Saver of the Red Cross. The new plan will give at least two qualified Scout life guards in each of the 22,000 troops. They will be charge with the duty of helping their comrades to qualify in swimming and life-saving.

To encourage the movement, the Red Cross will give Honorable Service Medals to its volunteers who assist in the advancement of life-saving. Through the thousands of Red Cross Chapters free insignia are to be awarded to Scouts who qualify.

Under the direction of officials of the Life-Saving Service of the Red Cross, the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America has just prepared a water safety book which will be used as a text-book by the Scouts in their "Master the Water" campaign.

Life-Saving Institutes have been set up by the Red Cross in its six territorial divisions to give free training in advanced swimming, life-saving and first aid for Scout officials and camp counselors of other organizations.

These institutes are in charge of some of the most expert swimmers in the Red Cross life-saving organization and are expected to train thoroughly men and women who will in turn be in charge of water safety campaigns at the numerous summer camps.

The ultimate effect of the whole movement will be to develop thousands of young swimmers equipped not only to take care of themselves in the water, but even more important, to be able to render instant and efficient aid to others in water accidents.

A Portuguese company soon will begin work under a concession giving it the exclusive right to refine petroleum in Portugal and its colonies.

BROWNWOOD WILL TAKE NO PART IN 1925 MEETING PLACE

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—Brownwood will remain neutral in the selection of both the 1925 president and the 1926 meeting place for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, it was decided at a recent meeting held in the chamber of commerce headquarters, in which Linsey Dublin presided. Brownwood has a voting strength of ninety-two, and these voters, in considering the prominence and ability of the three candidates for the presidency as well as looking forward to the city where the Brownwood delegation will go next year, have no choice. To be partisan in spirit, or to vote upon the question of officials or meeting place for next year, would not accomplish this result, hence the decision reached.

In Brownwood every member of the local civic organization as well as members of the West Texas body, are keenly interested in making the meeting a great success, and it is believed that every visitor will leave a friend and supporter of the city.

The trial will be held at Gageva, Ill. If Lincoln is found sane, he will be tried for murder in the first degree.

The Good Maxwell Noted For Its Rugged Strength

Perhaps the most notable feature of the good Maxwell—besides its economical, care-free service—is the all-around satisfaction it gives its owners.

It is one of the strongest, most rugged cars built today. It is extremely durable. Owners will tell you that it averages well over 22 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and that it returns 18,000 miles or more to a set of tires.

Its performance is worthy of a far higher price. For instance, it accelerates from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 8 seconds. Its ease of riding and handling is outstanding, and its beauty is almost too well known to need comment.

POST-EASTER FASHION FOR THE FAIR AND FANCIFUL

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor of the United Press (Written for United Press)
NEW YORK, May 3.—The vogue for frilly neckwear is emphasizing in the following true story.

Last week a young couple from a small western town came to New York on their honeymoon. Among other places, they visited the New York Zoo and, for the first time in their lives, saw wild animals other than bears and bob-cats, which are indigenous in their part of the country. After wandering about from cage to cage gazing at the Latin names of these strange animals, they went back to the hotel thrilled with their experience.

That afternoon the wife went on a shopping expedition by herself. When she returned her husband asked her what she had bought. "I bought a jabot," she smiled sweetly. "Well, you can't take him home to Junction City," her better half cried. "I think they were the most repulsive looking animals in the Zoo."

Nevertheless, jabots are with us again and everyone is wearing them. They may be worn as separate neck pieces, as part of the blouse or frock, in self-material on coats, or bathing suits and what not.

"Slave bracelets," which have huge links and fetish pendants, are being rushed to death by the debutants. I have been told that one's boy friend—to use a popular New York vernacular is linked with love in some way and the fetish dangle also has a meaning of its own. Tiny jade buddhas, carnelian elephants and such things are used as danglers. Some of us can recall the days when the boys gave us link bracelets from which dangled silver hearts. Some girls had the heart of every boy in school dangling on her wrist.

Fashion Notes

Brown is one of the leading colors for spring. Numerous brown suits are being sold in New York and brown furs, shoes, hats and handbags are those finding favor. Short coats of seal, dyed a rich bronze shade, are among the newer short-fur wraps. And bronze shoes trimmed in bronze buckles are again in vogue.

Black lace frocks will undoubtedly be worn for semi-dressy occasions all during the spring and summer. In counting the different shades used for dinner frocks at Atlantic City last Sunday, two dresses out of every five were of black lace. Chantilly combined with chiffon being the general type worn.

"Harmony on the Beach means the Barbershop cord," comes the word from Palm Beach. This doesn't mean music, as one might infer, but unbelted frocks with barberpole stripes running vertically from the neck to the hem. Wide stripes in men's shirting materials are widely used at the resorts, it appears. Frocks of this type are extremely simple, sleeveless and slenderizing.

"Calf love" may have a meaning of its own in Paris. They are wearing their skirts 14 inches from the floor, which on the short Parisian means but six or seven inches below the knee. Americans continue to wear the sensible 10 inches from the floor length.

Coats of striped flannel, resembling blazer-jacquets are being worn for sports wear this season. Even knitted sweaters are shown in stripes of contrasting shades. Plaids are also used for both dresses and coats; plaid gingham, plain taffeta and homespuns being popular.

PROPER CARE OF CHILDREN

Editor's Note: In this second and last article of a series of articles written in connection with national child health day, Dr. Monaghan gives further advice to parents who study the physical welfare of their children.

By DR. F. J. MONAGHAN
Health Commissioner of New York (Written for United Press)
NEW YORK, May 2.—Granted that average modern children have too many colds, too many bad teeth, too many weak eyes, too many unruly tonsils, what are you as a parent do to bring your boy or girl up to standard?

First, acquaint yourself with what your child ought to be. Make use of the people of your own community who are equipped by education and experience to know more than you about your children. Don't rush to the drug store and buy drugs from a box everytime something goes wrong.

Have your child examined once cause they come to visit the shrines and the institutions associated with Stonewall Jackson and Robert Edward Lee.

James Jett Green received his education in this historic and inspiring environment, and became imbued with many of those ideals, which he cherished through life.

He felt the call of the Great West at the age of 21, and came to Brown county, Texas where he engaged in the adventurous life of cattle raising for forty five years. Here he met Miss Georgetta George, the daughter of a pioneer, who embodied the charms and accomplishments of a native daughter of the Lone Star State. Five sons and 3 daughters were born of this happy union.

He moved to Canyon in 1920, where he was engaged in the real estate business, until the time of his death. This occurred recently at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William L. Baugh in Lubbock. Mr. Green is survived by his widow, eight children, and a brother in Virginia.

The writer had the pleasure of attending several evenings with this charming and cultured gentleman last summer at his daughter's home in Lubbock and has rarely enjoyed more the mutual reminiscences of people and places in the Old Dominion. One of the great heritages of Texas is the attraction of such men to her soil and the contribution they have made to her culture and history.

KANSAS SLATED FOR BIG WHEAT CROP THIS YEAR

WICHITA, Kansas, May 3.—Hopes of the wheat growers for a small 1924 crop have been dimmed by the announcement of agricultural officials that Kansas will produce a crop rivaling the one of 1914 which was the greatest yield in the history of the state.

The announcement comes on the heels of national reports that farmers have turned to diversified farming and that wheat growers need not fear a repetition of the 1923 fiasco when wheat dropped below $1 a bushel.

Weather conditions and moisture will be responsible for the crop this year, it was stated. Statistics show that in 1914 there fell 12.55 inches of moisture and the average yield that year was 19.85 bushels to the acre.

DALLAS FASHIONABLE SOCIETY FOLKS IN RIDING SHOW

By United Press
DALLAS, Texas, May 3.—Dallas society folk will be seen in a fashionable riding show here soon. Elaborate plans for an exhibition of fancy riding, polo games and a steep chase by members of the Dallas Bride and Saddle Club are underway, according to Otto Herold, president.

"The club members are already training their mounts for the show," Herold said, "and dates will be announced soon. It will be the first exhibition of its kind in Texas."

The Dallas Bridle and Saddle Club, with ninety-two members, was organized by aristocratic horse-lovers of Highland park, fashionable suburb. Forty blue-blooded horses, many of them show-winners, are put through their paces in Mocking Bird lane daily by club members and trainers.

The club boasts a jumping course a three-quarter mile track and a steep chase course of four and a half miles. It is said to be the first riding club in the South.

ARKANSAS MOTHER IS A STUDENT IN RED CROSS WORK

Because she wanted to be better able to select economical but healthful food for her family, one mother at Plumerville, Arkansas, a branch of the Conway County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has enrolled in the Mothers' Nutrition Class. This woman has seven children, four of whom are in school and three too young to attend school. This mother milks three cows every day and during the year cans about 1,000 quarts of vegetables, fruit, beef and pork for use when these viands are out of season.

The class which she has joined is conducted as part of the Nutrition program carried on under the direction of the Conway County Red Cross Chapter. Through this program, in the last two months the percentage of underweight of school children has decreased from 19 to 13.

SOVIET WORKERS DECIDE TO PASS UP THEIR TIPS

MOSCOW (By Mail to the United Press)—The anti-tip movement is spreading rapidly, with apparent success.

Following the decision of the union of workers employed in the food trade of auxiliary branches which make it obligatory for its members not to take a tip of any kind, placards were posted on the walls of restaurants, hotels, waiting rooms of the railway stations, etc.

"Workers and employes, you who value your own worth, do not reduce that of others by offering a tip," one of them read.

"Giving a tip is giving a bribe," a second says.

A third refers to the changed conditions since the Revolution, saying: "Giving and taking of tips re-establishes the system of master and lackey. After October (meaning the October Revolution) this should not be."

The public largely favors the tipless age. The waiters' wages have been raised, but if they keep to the letter of the new order they will get far less than formerly.

The younger waiters seem to take a pride in the new order. However, the old ones are willing to risk their consciences and the penalties. A man servant at the Hotel Savoy, while pasting one of the placards, printed in four languages, on the walls of a room said to a customer: "We know our guests and they know us."

FOOD IS SOLD DIRECT TO CITIZENS BY BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO (By Mail to United Press)—Efforts being made by the Brazilian Government to reduce living costs, which have doubled within two years, are considered by many as somewhat socialist but, nevertheless, are getting results.

Bearing in mind the truism that "hunger breeds revolutions" the Government has taken steps to regulate transport and supply and to adopt other measures in an effort to minimize the position of the population.

The cost of living in this country, generally thought of as a land of plenty, has increased to such an extent that today the cost of bread for a family of three would have covered all food costs for that family a few years ago. Even coffee, Brazil's one great source of wealth, went up 10 per cent in price in less than a month recently, and every other commodity has risen in proportion.

Profiteering is largely responsible for the present high cost of living in this country, especially high in Rio de Janeiro and other large cities along the coast. Transport conditions also come in for a good share of responsibility in the elevated living costs.

The Government is forcing wholesalers and retailers to declare their stocks of food with a view of breaking up hoarding. Furthermore, the Government has granted preference to food transported over Government-owned railways, has established a fixed price for milk, meat and bread, and has opened street markets where the Government itself sells first line commodities to the consumer.

The efforts of the Administration to reduce living costs has already been crowned with certain success.

SYLVESTER WILL SEND LARGE DELEGATION TO BROWNWOOD

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—Sylvester will be among the smaller cities which will be represented in Brownwood during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, May 13, 14 and 15, but despite the city's smallness, it will be represented by a large delegation, it was given out at the chamber of commerce headquarters here today.

Miss Floy Reed has been named to represent Sylvester, and will take part in the pageant, the coronation of the queen it became known here late yesterday afternoon. Miss Mayeda Young has been named as maid of honor, a long distance telephone call received here this afternoon revealed.

Sylvester is being congratulated by the local officials at the chamber of commerce headquarters upon coming here, being only a small city in Fisher county, on the Orient railroad north of Sweetwater. It is thought this city is taking more interest this year in the meeting than it has in previous years.

The delegation of approximately fifty will be brought here for the meeting, headed by secretary J. H. Reed, of the Sylvester Chamber of Commerce. A unique idea has been arranged by this delegation to be used in the delegation parade, in which this city expects to take a big part. Each delegate while here will wear a special orange and black emblem, the announcement received here stated.

THE PASSING DAY

By WILL H. MAYES, Department of Journalism, University of Texas

The Honey Grove Citizen calls attention to the fact that a recent murder trial cost Fannin county more than $1,000. If the Citizen will make a closer study of the question it will find that the average cost of murder trials exceeds $1,000. In the case referred to, doubtless the time of the court officers, district judge, attorney, clerk, sheriff and other court attendants was not considered, nor was the expense of the grand jury and its officers. While allowance was made for jury and witness fees, the fees paid to jurors and witnesses in no way compensate them for the time given to such trials. It would be nearer correct to say that the average cost of a murder trial in Texas is 2,000, which is but a small sum when compared with industrial loss due to the murder. Texas pays too much for murder and too little for schools.

The West Texas Historical Association has been organized for the purpose of preserving the history of that part of the State. Most states consider themselves fortunate in having a state organization for that purpose, but Texas is so large and has so much history that these division associations can serve a most useful purpose. One of the benefits that will come from the proposed Texas Central Exposition will be an awakened interest in the history of the State. There is much of historic interest hidden away in attics that the Exposition should be the means of bringing to light.

Joseph county is numerically and is not considered one of Texas' wealth counties, but that county held a fair last year that made a net profit of 50 per cent, that starts in this year with a nice cash balance, and that will be enlarged in every department. The citizens are showing much interest already in the preparation of exhibits. The county fairs throughout the State are developing a county spirit and pride that are sure to rebound to the good of every community where fairs are held.

The Texas Interscholastic League meets throughout the state, culminating in May in the final meet at the University of Texas, are doing much in the development of Texas young people. The contestants get acquainted with each other in a way that creates permanent friendship, and the various intellectual and athletic contests develop the best that is in youth. I heard several debates last week that would have been creditable to groups of leading lawyers and orators and showed an understanding of governmental questions hardly conceivable in such young students. The astonishing thing in connection with these debates was that the young girls were as well informed on the subject debated as the boys, and were even better in their presentation of the points involved. Our grandparents would have thought this impossible.

San Saba has organized a "Seventy and Over" club, composed of those who have reached seventy years of age. That is a good kind of a club provided it does not allow itself to grow too reminiscent. It does not pay to allow the mind to dwell overmuch in the past. While not forgetting the past, we should, as we grow older in years, live joyfully in the present, availing ourselves of the opportunity of the day, and look hopefully toward better days yet to come. Much retrospection is likely to develop morbid introspection. So far as it is humanly possible the aged should try to keep in touch and sympathy with all that is young about them.

Texas is abloom now, and the whole State looks like a great flower garden. Nature has done wonders in supplying the most gorgeous flowers and in distributing them so that almost every one may get them in great abundance for the gathering. The bluebonnet, the Indian pink, the cactus—multiplied acres of them—are vying with dozens of other native plants in the effort to put on the most beautiful display imaginable. Get out in the great open and revel in the pictures painted for you and that may be enjoyed without cost.

SALES AGAIN SET GREATER RECORD

For the third successive week Dodge Brothers dealers have broken all previous retail delivery records. During the week ending April 5th, 5694 cars were delivered to purchasers. This was more than 100 in excess of the greatest previous week's business in Dodge Brothers history. This record, however, was of brief duration, as the very next week saw the delivery of 6106 cars at retail.

And now it is disclosed by official figures from the factory that the week ending April 19th sets still another and much greater record, with 6576 deliveries to customers.

In neither case do these figures include cars delivered to purchasers in foreign countries.

The consistency with which Dodge Brothers business continues to mount is cited by factory officials as an indication of the public's widespread and emphatic endorsement of the unusual value in the new line of Dodge Brothers motor cars. Week after week and month after month, since the quantity production was attained on the new types, new records have been established.

Every week in this period has exceeded in volume of business the corresponding week of any previous year.

PROGRESS DESTROYS ONE GOOD TARDINESS ALIBI

By United Press
OREGON CITY, Ore.—One perfectly good alibi for tardy workers is going to go to smash here.

It all has to do with the reliability of the municipal elevator. Oregon city is so hilly that it has the distinction of having one of these rare contrivances. From the business and factory districts the elevator makes a straight lift of more than 200 feet to the residential section on the cliff above.

Hundreds of persons ride to and from work on it. But in winter when the hydraulic power was frozen and in summer when it was shut down because of the shortage of water, people had to make the long tedious detour around the hill to reach the summit.

That made the people late to work.

"The elevator's busted," was the timeworn alibi when the office-boy was late.

But now the City Commission has taken steps to make the service reliable. It took the stand that an electric driven elevator would be faster and surer and has accordingly advertised for bids on the new system.

Everybody's tickled because there is going to be a real elevator service.

"But some time they will find out it's not so good," declared the grizzled old elevator operator.

"They'll balkate, and then they can't say it's the elevator."

AND IT WAS ALL FALSE, TOO

By United Press
GALVESTON, Texas, May 3.—

At the rate of one pound of hair for each Chinese boy, it would take a Chinese city twice the population of Galveston to supply the 90,051 pounds—45 tons of human hair—which were imported into Galveston during the month of February, according to statistics for the month at the United States customs house. At 30 cents a pound the total import value of the human hair received at this port was $29,993. The retail value of the hair was not given in the report from the customs house, nor were the number of Chinamen who were needed to supply this huge quantity of hair.

How to Avoid Grade Crossing Accidents

Automobile drivers, when approaching railroad crossings, should go into second speed. Then look and listen. Absolute control thus is assured. Stop or go ahead, as conditions warrant.

During 1923 one hundred and three persons were killed and four hundred seventy-four injured at highway crossings on the Santa Fe Railway.

These regrettable accidents might have been avoided if these motorists had been careful.

The rapid increase in these grade-crossing accidents is due to the greatly increased and general use of the automobile in the hands of drivers ignorant or willfully disregardful of the perils which attend careless driving. Sometimes it is the careless driver alone who pays the penalty, but usually innocent ones pay it in part or entirely.

Automobiles should be safer at railroad crossings than horses, because they do not become frightened and are better controlled; but the opposite seems to be the case. An experienced driver of horses describes the proper method of approaching a railroad crossing as follows: "Gather up the reins tight, take out the whip, and bring the horses to a walk." An experienced automobilist advises: "Always go into second speed."

You are urged to give this "Safety First" suggestion most earnest consideration. Better be safe than sorry.

The method is precisely the same in either case. The driver has absolute control, can stop or go ahead as conditions demand, and is alert to the situation.

If all drivers would but adopt this simple rule and adhere to it faithfully the problem would be solved. What a saving there would be of priceless human life, of griefuntold, ambitions wrecked, and hopes lost forever!

JAPAN PREPARES TO AID U. S. FLYERS

OSAKA, Japan (By Mail to the United Press)—Preparations to welcome the four American airplanes in the world flight are being made by the Japanese army and navy.

Major General Yasumitsu and Rear Admiral Shiozawa, assisted by several other officers, will make all necessary arrangements to entertain and give any assistance needed to the American aviators when they arrive in Japan in the early part of May.

According to the present schedule the American planes will reach Japanese territory about May 1. Lieut. Yamaguchi, of the Kasumigaura Naval Air Corps, will be sent to Shimushu Island, near Hokkaido, to assist the American fliers when they land on that island. Lieut. Okamura, of the Oppama Naval Air Corps, will go to Etorofu Island near Saghalien, where the American planes will also stop. The destroyers Kuwa, Keyaki and Sakai will transport gasoline to the Etorofu Island for the benefit of the American planes.

These destroyers, together with three other warships, will patrol the waters surrounding the Kurile Island while the American planes are in that region.

Lieut. C. Nutt, of the United States Air Service, who arrived from Manila about three weeks ago to co-operate with the Japanese government in making arrangements for the arrival of the American fliers, has just returned from Kagoshima, where he has been treated with high consideration by all the Japanese officials. These officials according to Lieut. Nutt, have promised full co-operation.

In Tokyo the army and navy will give a joint welcome reception to the American aviators. In other stopping places elaborate receptions are also being planned.

The arrival is awaited with keen interest and great enthusiasm by the Japanese public.

MONARCHISM IN GERMANY TO BE FOUGHT

By CARL D. GROAT (United Press Staff Correspondent) BERLIN, May 3.—Republicans especially laborers, seeing monarchism and Facism sweeping onward in a cloud threatening to destroy the infant German republic have founded a movement to counter the Hitlerites.

The new organization bears the Gold (republic banner black-red gold). It sets its flag against the iron cross, swastika cross, death's head and other emblems of Hitler's and Geisler's anti-semitites, anti-republicans and anti-almost everything monarchism and militarism.

The Reichsbanner organization had its first appearance in Berlin on the day that the Hitler-Geisler Facisti turned the funeral of Wiley Dreyer, Ruhr saboteur, into a nationalist demonstration.

The appearance of the little group of Reichsbanner men, with the republican colors was the first part of the "waterlandish" organization the upshot of which was the tearing of one of the republican banner.

The socialist organ, "Vorwärts" discussing the new organization says:

"The appearance of the Reichsbanner Schwartz Rot-Gold was the beginning of a counter action which in the future will try to kill the works of the so-called "waterlandish" organizations.

"If the Reich's government, ruled by the half monarchists Stresemann and Parres furls the national colors then the republications will undertake to unfurl them.

"With the assistance of the social democratic working classes they will see to it that the planned, but unsuccessful Hitler march against Berlin will not be carried out with in the borders of the metropolis itself by the Swastica Leagues."

MANY MORE TOWNS ARE COMING IN FOR THE CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—Childress, Midland and Olton, are among the latest cities to make extensive plans to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here May 13, 14 and 15, according to communications received by the chamber of commerce headquarters here from these places.

Childress, while making plans to attend the convention and take an active part along the various lines, is planning on making a good showing in Brownwood, according to information from the chamber of commerce there.

Midland is planning a big delegation and has named a duchess and maid of honor. A big delegation will come here from that West Texas point in automobile and the latest plan developed there, which is known here, is that each car coming will carry a big cloth banner, boosting that country which is famed over the United States as a Hereford raising section. Other plans are being made, it has been pointed out.

Olton, Lamb county, will bring 5,000 folders to Brownwood boosting that section. Delegates from that city will wear badges and other boosting and publicity matter is being arranged, according to communications received from secretary C. C. Covert of the chamber of commerce.

Plans are being pushed in practically every West Texas city, it is shown by messages pouring into the chamber of commerce headquarters here.

NOTED POET TO BE AT THE BROWNWOOD CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—"I am planning to be at your convention, May 13, 14 and 15, and I shall be pleased to sleep out in a lot somewhere, if I cannot get anything better. So anxious am I to get back to Texas, and to rub shoulders again with some real men. We have some fine men here in Chicago, but down in West Texas every man is a man. I have been telling the folks up here about your chamber of commerce meeting and the gas—think I am stringing them."

The above is a quotation of a letter from Jamie Heron, well known Scotch author, poet, lecturer, who has electrified thousands of people with his Scotch humor, wit, and philosophy, and who was the chief speaker at the recent district Rotary meeting in Wichita Falls. There are few men upon the lecture platform in America whose humor, pathos, poetry and enthusiasm is so charming and he is coming to this great convention, and it can be said, even if he does not appear on the program, at all, he is such a mixer with and a lover of humanity, that his presence will be a genuine inspiration.

FRENCH FLIERS FEAR GERMAN WIRELESS RAYS

PARIS (United Press)—Suspecting engine wrecking rays from Germany, the airplane service from France to Roumania has adopted a route by way of Strasburg, Baise, Innsbruck, Prague and Vienna, thus avoiding flying over German territory. Last year many French airplanes developed engine trouble over Germany, and were forced to land, with the result that the planes were confiscated. Most of them landed near Furth, outside Nuremberg. Experts concluded that the Germans had discovered a system of wireless rays which could put airplane engines out of action.

WHAT IS HUMAN SUCCESS

We here submit a short sermon from Dr. J. W. Holland of the Progressive Farmer if any of our readers have seen this it will do you no harm to re-read it and well consider its great truths.

It has ever been our conception of life that the true standard of success should not be measured by the accumulation of wealth, tho that is no crime if honestly acquired but the true or higher standard should be measured by the service we render to those around us, and to the world in which we live, we believe it is every individual's duty to render service to others, and any one who makes the acquisition of wealth his main purpose in life tho he may accumulate a fortune, he has lived in vain with the experiences of the past if each one can not or does not contribute something to the betterment of the worlds progress he surely has lived in vain. Hear Dr. Holland.

A letter from a correspondent asks this question, "When may one feel that his is a success?" It seems easy to answer, but is it so easy? The more I reflect upon it, the wider it flings its challenge to life.

A book that was current 20 years ago, called, "Pushing to the Front," fell into my hands, and its charmed pages were read with eagerness at nights when the farm work was done.

Jay Gould, Morse Whitney, Webster, and many other great names floated through my youthful thoughts and made them reel as with wine. Then, I was sure that to succeed meant to be great and rich and powerful.

Later, I read the life of Lincoln, and was sure that success was something based on goodness. I have not revised that later idea. Success in life is success in making a life that is full and free and good.

These lines by Walker ought to be pasted in thousands of kitchens, and dining rooms, and burned into the memory of every American boy and girl:

The key to success is not silver or gold.
It's not made of copper or steel;
But a longing, a sigh, and a yearning
to try,
A yearning for learning, a burning
to try

To climb to a goal where the soul dwells to bless—
That, you can see, is the key to success.

The key to success no man ever gave,
No man ever purchased for gold;
For it springs from the things that a perfect life brings,
A willing for stilling the bases thoughts filling.

To merit our place for the grace we possess;
And it's free as the sea, is the key to success.

Twice Jesus was asked, "Who is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven?"

Once, he took a child upon his lap and said, "Whoever, when he is grown up, is most like this child, is the greatest."

The other time, he girded himself, and washed the disciples' feet, and said, "He that would be the greatest, shall be the greatest servant." That truth runs a rent through the tattered and tawdry ideals of selfish people.

Who is a success?
If you can look up from honest toil, and enjoy the beauty of God's world, you are a success.

If you can look every man in the face honestly, day to day, and not be shiftysyed, you are a success.

If the money you call your own has not been pilloined from the defenseless, you are a success.

If you can live so that those who love you can know you and can still believe in your honor, you are a success.

If your own desire to be like you, you are a success.

If the great do not scare you or the poor make you cringe, you are a success.

If, when you lie down at last, a dozen trusty and trusted people are honestly glad that you have lived, you are a success.

If, when you are dead and gone, the memory of your life stirs others to love, to serve, to forgive, stoop and lift, then—
Your life is a success.

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF EXECUTIVE BOARD IS EXPECTED

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—Members of the executive board will be in attendance this year better than ever before for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention to be held here May 13, 14 and 15, in the opinion of Homer D. Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce who has established headquarters here, which will be maintained until after the convention.

The entire force of the West Texas organization will be in Brownwood, it has been announced by Manager Porter A. Whaley. The force numbers about sixteen. The Southern Hotel, official headquarters of the convention, has assigned an entire floor of the hotel to the executive officers and executive board. This is being done in an effort to approach more the family idea.

RUNNELS CO WILL BE REPRESENTED BY 3 TOWNS AT CON.

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 3.—Runnels and Mitchell counties are making big plans to bring county delegations to Brownwood for the sixth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, May 13, 14 and 15, according to communications received from chamber of commerce headquarters in each county.

Winters, Miles and Ballinger are the cities which will represent Runnels county, each sending big delegations. Ballinger is making plans to bring two bands, a junior band and a saxophone band, and probably an older band. A special train will bring the organized body here.

Winters is expecting to close the town one day during the meeting and come over 300 strong in an organized body. Miles is making rapid plans toward the selection of a duchess and maid of honor. It is thought that the Runnels county people will be well scattered among the visitors here and will well advertise that section.

All Mitchell county will assemble at Colorado before coming here for the convention. A special train has been assured there. The Colorado Boosters Band will abandon the plans of a trip to the Yellowstone National Park, which is being financed by a coupon sale there, which the merchants take as cash, and are planning to use the funds which have been secured to come to Brownwood. The coupons are sold by the band and merchants allow five per cent off for the coupons.

GAME OF NINEPINS 700 YEARS OLD

BERLIN.—The game of ninepins in its present form, can be traced back for more than 700 years.

So Dr. Erich Ebstein assures ninepin fans after having made an exhaustive investigation. The first trace of the game Ebstein discovered in an old chronicle of the Westphalian city of Paderborn.

Some 700 years ago, during the Lenten season, the ecclesiastics of Paderborn put up pins at which they threw skittle balls. These balls they called "heathen" Nothing, however, is stated in the Chronicle about asphalt bowling alleys, only the integral implements of the game, pins and skittle balls, being mentioned.

When the Westphalian monks invented ninepins they used but three balls. Later the number was increased until, in the decadent period of the game some 200 years later, it had been brought up to seven teen balls for one game.

During the Middle Ages ninepin contests were in vogue. They became actual sporting events. Excessive betting went on at the skittle grounds so that finally the authori-

EDUCATION IN CIVIC EFFECTIVENESS

To what extent can education be made practical, after all? Can good citizenship be taught in our schools? Can the boys and girls of our nation be instructed in their school days in "habits of activity for the common welfare?" Can they receive "morton training in civic effectiveness?" Is it actually possible for education to be an effectual preparation for the fundamental lessons of life, and not a thing to be kept in a water-tight compartment of its own?

All these questions are answered with an emphatic "Yes" in "Civic Effectiveness," a pamphlet written by Miss Elizabeth Carlisle, and issued by Better Homes in America, which advocates an education that carries over into life outside of school. This booklet is the exponent of a new and forward-reaching educational movement. It urges upon the public the desirability of education in home-making for the boys and girls of the United States, the urgency of school training in "good citizenship, the habit of recognizing common interests and acting with others consistently for worthy common ends," and the need of practical education in civic effectiveness in general.

It is all very well to say that boys and girls should learn civic effectiveness—but how? Dr. James Ford, executive director of Better Homes in America, and Professor of Social Ethics at Harvard University, answers that question in part in the Foreword to "Civic Effectiveness." It is not enough to teach domestic science, civics or citizenship by means of text-books, asserts Dr. Ford. Such courses, he charges "have too often been devoid of vivid interest and remote from the natural thought processes of the child. They have imparted information, but not interest or enthusiasm." The thing to do is to supplement class room study with actual practice in the fields of home-making or civics. That this can be done effectively is not a theory but an established fact.

"This pamphlet is the outgrowth of an educational experiment of considerable merit which deserves to be brought to the attention of the American public," declares Dr. Ford in the Foreword. "The educational experiment," to which he refers is one of unusual interest, as the booklet goes on to show. The "experiment" was first made last spring in The Washington Junior High School of Port Huron, Michigan, where 150 boys and girls have constituted themselves into a group of "Junior Citizens" in a Community Civics Class under the direction of the head of the Civics Department, Miss Elizabeth Carlisle, author of the present pamphlet.

The outstanding features of the Port Huron plan of teaching Community Civics, Miss Carlisle points out are three-fold:

1. It is designed to train for social efficiency by creating opportunities to apply the knowledge gained.

2. It vitalizes technical instruction by concrete opportunities for cooperation and service.

3. It believes that the character of the teaching and learning environment very strongly influences the quality of the moral fiber developed.

Perhaps better than these rather bookish definitions of the course is Miss Carlisle's added remark that the course is not one in civil government but a study by the boys and girls of the class of themselves in their relation to their community. It does not follow any prescribed routine or any text-book. Most of the work done is field work, and the school, the homes of the students, and the city of Port Huron itself are all freely used as laboratories for the Junior Citizens.

Every worthy community movement is grist for the mill of the Community Civics students of Port Huron, not only a thing which they should be thoroughly familiar with, but also a thing in which they should have a share. It happened that at the beginning of 1923 their attention was directed toward the Better Homes in America movement. "To raise the standard of the American home is to raise the standard of the American people," President Coolidge, chairman of the Advisory Council of Better Homes in America, declared.

The Junior Citizens of Port Huron determined to have a part in thus raising the standard of the nation. Approximately 1000 communities in various parts of the United States were trying to solve the problem of home betterment by means of Better Home Demonstrations at that time. The usual plan was for each community to build or borrow a house, plan and plant the grounds, plan, equip and furnish the house itself, and then explain their methods and standards to all visitors through a committee of hostesses when the home was thrown open to the public during Better Home Week. Here was something worth doing, decided the Community Civics students of Port Huron. What happened is briefly and vividly related in the words of Dr. Ford:

"The boy and girl students in civics classes planned and built a five-room house, suitable for an industrial worker, as part of their regular school work. They fully equipped and furnished this home, planned and planted the grounds, conducted an educational publicity campaign, demonstrated the management of the home to the community, and then sold it for a little more than it actually cost." What is more, they did all this so effectively that they won the first prize in the Better Homes in America contest of 1923, with nearly 1000 communities competing!

"Seventy-nine civic, commercial, educational and fraternal associations participated in the success of this campaign, which proved to be an education in home-building and home furnishing, not only for the class in civics, but also for the entire community," Dr. Ford goes on with the story. "The educational value of this demonstration is in part suggested by the fact that the first house plan submitted by the pupils had called for an expenditure of over $20,000, which, after careful study and re-planning was cut to $5,000. Eight thousand people from this community of 30,000 persons visited the demonstration home."

"Education in home-building was only one of the things that the boys and girls of Port Huron learned through their notable venture. They gained also a familiarity with their city with civic procedures such as they could have got in no other way in so brief a time. Many of the things that students find in text books and never learn, or immediately forget, they learned at first hand through their experiment, to remember all their lives. Such things as city planning and zoning laws, the housing, building and plumbing codes, the fire limits, the regulation of transportation and public utilities as they affect the location and the construction of the home, and the welfare of its occupants are important and practical information included in this laboratory course in civics. They learned also exceedingly valuable lessons in thrift of time and the purchasing power of the dollar. They were given an opportunity to study the industries of their city at first hand. But the most valuable lesson they learned, as Dr. Ford points out, was how to co-operate in a valuable community project,—the essence of training for civic effectiveness."

What man has done, man can do, says the old axiom, and the same is equally true of boys and girls. The present pamphlet on "Civic Effectiveness" is issued "in the belief that the methods of the Port Huron experiment may be widely applied and that its values may be largely achieved elsewhere." Educational authorities everywhere are urged to utilize this new device in practical education.

"Because the home and the school are two of America's greatest institutions, the linking of the two in a community problem, offers the highest type of laboratory experiment for the junior citizen of any community," declares Miss Carlisle.

Junior citizens are able citizens, and their potentialities should not be neglected, says Better Homes in America. For their own sake and for the benefit of their communities, it is to be hoped that the Port Huron experiment may be tried out in many other cities and towns throughout the nation. Better Homes Week this year will be observed nationally from May 11 to 18. Better Homes in America has recently been incorporated as a national educational institution, and it is believed that the quality of this year's campaign will be higher than ever before.

In some places, the pamphlet points out, the Better Homes demonstration may originate with the students, as it did at Port Huron. Where other types of demonstrations are being planned, the work of the junior citizens may supplement these, or be co-ordinated with them. Participation by school students in community Better Homes campaigns is possible in communities where it is not possible for students to engage in actual house construction. Various special classes may be of especial aid in the campaign, at the discretion of the school authorities. Mechanical drawing classes, for instance, may draw house plans, mathematics classes may participate in the measurement of surfaces and the calculation of costs, home economics classes help in planning and demonstration of the kitchen, and the equipment and furnishing of the house, literature classes in the choice of the home library, and so on through the curriculum. Students may also compete in Better Homes essay contests, make posters, aid in the program at the demonstration home during Better Homes Week, and in other ways identify themselves with this nation-wide educational movement for home betterment.

An important outgrowth of last year's experiment at Port Huron is the erection of a permanent laboratory for education in home-making, on the campus of the Washington Junior High School. The community, having realized with pride the ability of its junior citizens in this direction, is now determined to give other young citizens ideal opportunities for training in this essential subject. That education can be made practical, that it can tie up with life itself, has been proved by the boys and girls of Port Huron.

Better Homes in America advocates not only the participation of students in Better Homes demonstrations as outlined in "Civic Effectiveness," but their nation-wide education in home making. For one of the chief purposes of the Better Homes demonstrations is to encourage the development of practice houses in the public schools for the teaching of home-making." By this means more adequate training for the most universal of occupations—home-making—can be accomplished.

"Put Money in Thy Purse"

Shakespeare inspires Iago to say—"Put money in thy purse" in a way that makes you want to obey the command.

It's a good thing to put money in your purse if you can do it honorably. PIGGLY WIGGLY offers an honorable way for you to do it by saving money on your groceries, vegetables and fruits.

In the PIGGLY WIGGLY store you are free to go behind the counters. You wait on yourself, pay for what you buy and take it home.

You will easily understand why PIGGLY WIGGLY prices are so much lower than other stores charge for the same goods. Clerk and delivery hire, bookkeeping and collection expenses, have all been overcome. You get the benefit of the saving.

You have no idea what a difference this makes on a month's food purchases. Many women report that they have cut their grocery bill $10 to $40 per month.

INTERNATIONAL RIVALRY MOVIES AS EFFECTED BY THE WASHINGTON AGREEMENT; KEENER THAN BEFORE

By CHARLES M. McCANN (United News Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 3.—Naval rivalry has been altered but not ended by the Washington agreement for the limitation of naval armaments. That is the opinion in British naval circles, where the case is presented as follows:

Where before there was rivalry in capital ships—dreadnaughts and battle cruisers, ships of the heaviest and most expensive types the rivalry now is for the best, and most, cruisers, speedy, lightly armored ships capable of protecting, or destroying commerce.

What the Washington agreement did was to prevent the threatened dangerous rivalry in big ships among the three great naval powers—the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Naval development in the immediate future is centered largely on cruisers. Dreadnaughts and battle cruisers are designed to fight other warships. Cruisers are designed to protect, or to attack, merchantmen—the drab, dull motor trucks of the high seas, which carry food and merchandise throughout the world.

The British Empire—Great Britain and her Dominions—has at present forty-eight cruisers and light cruisers. Japan has twenty-eight, France has sixteen.

All of the American, Japanese and French cruisers are suitable for the destruction of commerce. Twenty of the British cruisers are designed especially to protect it.

These two facts give an intimation of the situation as regards one of the great naval powers. Great Britain, British commerce must be protected, or the British Isles can be starved as they nearly were by German submarines during the war.

Japan to a certain extent almost entirely can feed themselves, and the United States and France Great Britain cannot.

Raw materials and food go to the British Isles from every producing country in the world. Unless, during the war as well as peace, she can keep open trade channels, she cannot wage war. If any other nation can close them, it can starve Great Britain into submission.

The fact that the new Labor government, pledged to work for world disarmament, has already announced that it will continue the cruiser program of its conservative sucsors, is an indication of what Britons think.

It explains the British desire for more cruisers; and the more cruisers Britain builds; presumably the more will be built by other powers. They are looking towards the destruction as Great Britain is primarily looking towards the protection of ocean trade routes.

The Labor government plans to build five new cruisers unless there is a new disarmament conference before Parliament is requested to appropriate the necessary money for them.

A naval lecturer here, outlining the British case for the cruiser, emphasized:

1. The necessity for maintaining numerous squadrons of commerce protectors capable of remaining at sea for long periods.

2. The necessity of maintaining such squadrons—in the centre of the trade basin lying between the east coast of Africa and the west coast of the two Americas.

The second point is the one most interesting to Americans. Here is the reason for it:

Great Britain imports these percentages of the following materials from this area: Jute 97, tea 97, zinc 96, rubber 90, wool 89, nitrate of soda 86, hemp 77, manganese 76, tin ore 71, rice 63, tin 57, hides and skins 53.

From Canada come wheat 23 per cent, timber 35, timber pulp 21, corn 16, oats 35, barley 20, sugar 4.

From the United States and the West Indies come wheat 38 per cent, corn 40, butter 40, hog products 47, oats 32, furs 30, hides 9, copper 54, zinc 15, timber 5, copper ore 50; nickel ore 94, cotton 64, petroleum 64, sugar 50, rice 15.

From around Ecuador and Peru come sugar 5 per cent, cotton 5, from Brazil come coffee 57 per cent, rubber 6, sugar 6; from Chile come nitrates 9, tin ore 23; from the Chile-Argentine area comes 49 per cent of tin; from the Argentine come wheat 17 per cent, corn (maize) 35, oats 23, meat 54, wool 56, butter 9, oils and fats 6, hides 8.

Great Britain's argument is that her cruisers are for the protection of commerce, others for destruction.

Cruiser rivalry is less dangerous than rivalry in great warships. Cruisers are policemen or raiders.

To what extent new rivalry is to develop, the United States will have a great deal to say and will be talking at, if not to, Great Britain.

In altering the character of naval rivalry, and removing its most dangerous aspect—rivalry among the United States, Japan and Great Britain—the Washington agreement to limit naval armaments also caused a general shuffling of fleets.

Except for the United States and Japan, the Mediterranean Sea is to be the cruising ground of the world's greatest fighting fleets. This, the most significant development since the world war, means a return to the situation of twelve years ago, before the menace of the German navy caused the British main fleet to be concentrated in the Atlantic.

But though it is a return to pre-war policy, and was announced over a year ago by Great Britain, after the Washington conference and its results had been thoroughly analyzed, and though the transfer of the necessary ships from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean fleet has been gradual, continental naval experts seem just to be waking up to the new situation and what it means.

It was this awakening that caused the failure of a recent League of Nations naval conference at Rome, designed to extend the Washington agreement to second class naval powers.

Spain demanded a large increase in capital tonnage. This was largely responsible for the failure of the conference.

Just after the conference ended, Premier Mussolini of Italy announced that the Italian navy would be increased "gradually, it may be incessantly." This was taken to foreshadow an extension of the Italian seven year scheme of expansion announced last year, and providing for five light cruisers, twenty destroyers, and twenty submarines.

Previously Italy and Spain had concluded a friendly agreement during a visit of King Alfonso to King Victor Emmanuel. His peaceful nature was emphasized; but French naval men became worried.

All are worried by Great Britain's concentration of its main battle fleet in the Mediterranean.

The Mediterranean means for Britain a vital gateway to the East—India, Australia, New Zealand.

It means the protection of the Suez Canal—more important to England than is the Panama Canal to the United States.

To France, Italy and Spain it means the home water for their fleets. They all would like to control the Mediterranean.

Italy has there her five dreadnaughts, her cruisers, her formidable destroyers, and her submarines.

France has the greater part of her navy, which comprises six dreadnaughts, a dozen other armored ships, and light cruisers.

Spain has but two capital ships. She is specializing in the new warships—light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, of which an opposing number are built or building.

Spain and Italy acting together, could menace French lines of communication to Northern Africa; it is considered doubtful whether they could seize command of the water.

Great Britain just now has a physically inferior fleet in the Mediterranean—four battleships, a squadron of light cruisers, and a destroyer flotilla.

But all the Mediterranean powers know that the British fleet is superior. Undoubtedly it could account for the combined fleets. France fears Spain and Italy; Italy and Spain have their fears from France and each other; all fear Great Britain's domination of the Mediterranean.

With the United States mainly interested in the Atlantic and Pacific and the Panama Canal, the working out of the situation probably will mean that while Great Britain may not dominate the Mediterranean, she will be in a position to do so if the necessity arises.

AGRICULTURE BE STRESSED AT INSTITUTE

CANYON, Texas, May 3.—According to arrangements which have been perfected by Professor Phillips, head of the agricultural department of the West Texas State Teachers' College, and who is in charge of the vocational division of the Teachers' Consolidated Institute which is to be held at Canyon next fall, there will be special attention given to agricultural education at this meeting.

Mr. C. L. Davis, supervisor of agricultural education for the State Department of Education, spent Tuesday at the college perfecting plans whereby the agricultural division will be consolidated with a regional institutional school for the department. Mr. Davis assured Mr. Phillips that the state department would not only have a man here, but that he would also have one or two men present from one of the teacher training institutions to discuss with the agricultural teachers the most approved methods of carrying out their work. Special attention will be given to shop work and projects.

According to Mr. Phillips, there is considerable interest being manifested among school people at the present time in regard to technical education.

PATIENTS MUST HAVE MONEY DENVER SAYS

By H. R. COX
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DENVER, May 3.—Tuberculosis patients who cast longing eyes toward Denver, centre of the Rocky Mountain resorts for sufferers from the white plague, are advised by medical authorities here to stay at home for treatment unless they have enough funds to keep them for from one to three years without having to work. Their chances of being cured without funds are better at home than here.

The part played by climate in the cure of tuberculosis is greatly over-exaggerated in the public mind, says Dr. Johanna J. Gilien of the Denver Municipal Tuberculosis Dispensary and of the tuberculosis wards of the General Hospital. "Rest, fresh air, good food, peace of mind and means of future occupation are the great essentials. Some physicians say climate plays about a 10 per cent part in the cure of the disease. Everything else can be got at home. And climate without these other things is worthless."

Problem for City
Her comments were inspired by the difficult problem faced by medical authorities here each year of caring for hundreds of penniless transient patients.

Every one of the large numbers who line up each day for admission to the dispensary has come expecting to find health and comforts, without the means to purchase the necessities. Being non-residents most of them have no legitimate claim on the city for free treatment.

Most of them, of course, are willing to work if they are able. But work is extremely hard to get in Denver. When a job is secured its pay is frequently too low to permit the necessities of the cure.

"The result is," says Dr. Gilien, "that these persons without money can't get the rest they must have away from home. They can't get good food. They may be forced to live in congested, smoky districts and in the poorest kind of rooms, so that the climate does them no good. And they certainly do not get peace of mind."

Better Stay at Home
"It would be far better for them to stay at home, where they can be provided for and where they have legitimate claims for local and State aid, even though they have to forego the climate."

"All this does not apply, of course to people with means, who can live as well in one place as another. For them a trip to this climate is valuable. The ones of whom I am speaking are those who have little more than enough money to pay their fares."

In general the policy of Denver has been to send as many as possible of these dispensary patients back to sanitariums in their home States. Many of these shifts have resulted in cures.

AMERICANS ARE 'LIP LAZY' SAYS BRITISH WOMAN

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—The pose of being "low brow" and the influx of foreigners is blamed for the slurring speech and alleged poor enunciation of the average American by Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, Hale, formerly one of the leading actresses of Great Britain. According to the former actress Americans are "lip-lazy," and they are enjoying it.

"It seems as though that everyone at present is terrified by the thought of being looked upon as 'high brow'," she said. "It is the fad of the moment to be considered a good fellow among college students of both sexes. Perhaps the word 'mornin'' that everyone uses will change that phase of it. As soon as someone calls a slovenly speaker a moron there may be an interest taken in correct speech.

"The foreign population has caused a variety of new sounds that fascinate the children and they imitate them."

It is Mrs. Hale's opinion that the "t" sound is rarely heard among Americans.

People are inclined to use the speech of the English for comparison with that of Americans, and to the latter's detriment, but they use examples the English lecture and the American child of the street. In England the class system protects the upper-middle classes from poor speech, because it damns them to a lesser position and correct speaking is therefore taught youth in private schools. To some Americans the English sound affected, but they are not, except in the "hazy" class, which is passing.

Mrs. Hale says there should be a rebirth of conversation in America. She says that in a roomful of people the women try to score on over the talk, while the men attempt to roar through it. She says the "poker face" is responsible for the flat monotone that many business men use, they attempting to conserve their energy in conversation by keeping the face muscles rigid.

RED CROSS WILL AID IN INTERNATIONAL WEDDINGS

The Executive Secretary of the Ft. Collins, Colorado, Chapter of the American Red Cross has been called upon to aid in the preparation for two international marriages which are to take place in Ft. Collins in the early summer. Because of the recently arranged active cooperation of the Travelers' Aid Society and the American Red Cross, this Executive Secretary has been asked to help in bringing a young woman from Greece, another from Poland, and a little child from Mississippi, all to Ft. Collins. None of the three can speak or write English, and the two young women are going to be married, their finances being already at Ft. Collins.

JEW BE BARRED FROM OFFICE BY FOLKISTS

BERLIN, May 3.—"In the Folkist state, only persons of immaculate German descent will be allowed to help in the shaping of its policy."

This is the keynote of the provisional Magna Charta drawn up by Professor von Freytagh-Loringhoven, the chief doctrinaire of the Folkist party, Germany's new Ultra-Fascist group.

Professor Freytagh, himself a Baltic baron and not long a German citizen, makes such sharp requirements in his tests of race purity that there will not be many left worthy to help in the shaping of the state's policy.

However, the Folkist theorist concedingly permits the so-called minorities to remain in the state, on condition that they are kept under control of the Aryan population.

He classifies as Jews all people possibly having in their line of ancestry some trace of Jewish blood, and would bar them from positions under the state.

However, with this definition he will find it hard to rally more than a dozen of people. The Folkist leaders at present have a hard time, as it is, to ward off the attacks of some other "congenial" Folkist faction—that their great-grandmother's aunt had been married to a Jew.

For the true Aryans the number of people of absolute immaculate descent is very small. Time and again doubt has been voiced as to the Aryan purity of blood of the ex-Kaiser. Other idols do not fare much better, and among the men accused recently of having in their veins a drop of Jewish blood was no less a person than Wulle, the Folkist leader in the Reichstag.

Not even the Reich that Bismarck established lives up to the requirements of this charta. Although it is conceded a certain glory, yet it is denied the honor of having been a Folkist state, at least not of the kind the present Folkists intend to make their state.

That the Folkists themselves hope to be near that ultimate goal is best pictured by Prof. von Freytagh-Loringhoven's own words in the draft of his constitution. "The present state is facing ruin," he declares, "and the way is free for the inauguration of the Folkist state."

MODERN YOUTH HURT BY FOOD DOCTOR SAYS

By United News.
By DR. F. J. MONAGAN
(Health Commissioner N. Y. City.)
NEW YORK, May 3.—To know what is wrong with young America one has only to look at the "ad" cards on the street cars. Many of them relate to health and reflect bad teeth, constipation, sour stomach and colds. These advertisements would not appear if they did not strike a responsive chord in the human breast and bring returns.

If the young men and women of America spend millions of dollars for health restoratives, that come from bottles, boxes and tubes, then there must be something wrong with the personal habits they formed in childhood.

Why is it that at thirty years of age, most people have too many things "the matter with them" long before they reach thirty? There are too many of these because parents do not teach their children sensible health habits when they are young.

There is an old custom in a good many parts of the country of giving sulphur and molasses to children in the spring. There is some foundation for this, too, since the compound helps to clean out the system. It would be well indeed if other family habits, such as regular physical examination could be established just as firmly. Good national health customs like these would save many lives and prevent much suffering.

Among the worst health habits of American children is the one that applies to their eating. Fond parents, thinking to give their children everything they want, are too soft hearted to refuse them even what injures them.

Candy before every meal, rich food of every kind will drive away a taste for wholesome eating and will too soon affect the stomach. The bad stomach eventually affects the entire body and produces the "out-of-sorts" feeling that makes a dull, unresponsive boy or girl instead of a healthy happy one.

SENATOR GLASS REBUKES COOLIDGE FOR OPPOSING INVESTIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.—With becoming dignity and temperate language, which, nevertheless, forcefully expressed just indignation, Senator Glass (Dem. of Va.) voiced the resentment of himself and his Democratic colleagues at President Coolidge's amazing message charging the Senate with having instituted "a government of lawlessness" in connection with Senatorial investigations of official wrong-doing and downright corruption.

After declaring that the President's message was not a discussion of an episode nor a protest against an irregularity of method, as it might with propriety have been, Senator Glass said: "There is nothing so sure in letter (Mellon's) or message (President Coolidge's) as the clearly revealed impatience of the Executive and his Secretary with the entire business of investigations."

Concerning the investigations, Senator Glass said:

"It seems to me, Mr. President, that Senate investigations, far from creating the condition graphically described by the President as 'lawless government,' have been fairly effective, and when the President angrily presents a contrary view he is enmeshed in his own criticism. It was a Senate investigation that sent Albert B. Fall to Three Rivers a disgraced man and a self-pronounced felon. It was a Senate investigation that revealed the utter incapacity and indifference to public obligation of Mr. Denby, compelled by force of public opinion to retire from the Cabinet, despite his repeated defiance and oft-stated determination to remain in office. It was a Senate investigation that confirmed the popular conviction of Mr. Daugherty's 'unfitness for high distinction by revealing an official situation and personal contacts which literally shocked the nation and compelled his dismissal from the Cabinet. It was a Senate investigation that revealed the appalling condition of the Veterans Bureau, with its fraud upon the Government, its immoral orgies, its wicked neglect of sick and disabled soldiers of the World War. The culprits, now headed for jail, will doubtless agree that Senate investigations are disturbing to the usual order of things. It was a Senate investigation that disclosed the criminal and fraudulent and sordid nature of the oil leases transactions which caused the Congress by sanction of the President himself to direct recovery of public domain and the prosecution of the criminals. It is by reason of a Senate investigation that attorneys chosen by the President and confirmed by the Senate are this moment engaged in the prosecution of civil suits and criminal actions to restore the Government's proprietary rights and to punish the men who acquired them by means of bribery and corruption and the betrayal of public trusts."

"Rather should the Senate be commended by the President and the country for exposing a condition of lawlessness in Government which has disgraced one former Cabinet minister, discredited another and confirmed the public detestation of a third. Rather should the Senate be thanked for its swift and earnest action to recover the nation's stolen wealth and to visit upon the thieves the severest reprimands. And unless the President of the United States desires to be regarded as a reluctant, rather than an eager, participant in this joint legislative and executive aggression, he must moderate the harsh condemnation contained in his message to the Senate and withdraw from a position which is not untenable, but positively distressing to his fellow citizens."

Senator Glass pre-eminently is qualified by high character as a private citizen and an experienced public official to effectively administer such a rebuke to President Coolidge. As author of the Federal Reserve Act, as a former Secretary of the Treasury he commanded the confidence of the financial and business world. He is not given to impulsive utterances or snap judgments. Throughout his speech he treated Secretary Mellon with great fairness and consideration, and his criticisms of President Coolidge was respectfully spoken and in the most respectful language that such an occasion would admit. If the President possesses in any degree the "Puritan conscience" with which he is accredited, Senator Glass' speech must have left a deep impression upon it as it has upon the public conscience, however, it may smart from the just rebuke administered.

MAP OF BOTTOM OF OCEAN TO BE MADE

By LORIN TARR GILL
(Written for United Press)
HONOLULU (By Mail to United Press)—If the United States Navy Department decides to allow the use of its vessels for scientific exploration; if the Department receives favorable opinions from the forty-odd representatives of national scientific societies to whom it has sent a request for an opinion as to the value of the scientific expedition which it proposes to carry out within the Pacific region, the participants will be supplied with plans made by the National Research Council and will carry them out under the guidance of the Bernice P. Bishop Museum of Honolulu which, under a co-operative agreement with Yale University, is now the world centre of Pacific investigation.

The expedition is planned to extend over a number of years and to have for its primary purpose the preparation of a map of the bottom of the ocean. The sounding operations will be conducted with the use of new sonic depth finder which in 1921, was perfected within the Navy Department and with which it is possible to survey the sea bottom, according to Commander Guy Davis, acting hydrographer, "with an accuracy, speed and economy of effort and expense that has heretofore been considered impossible."

At the same time the opportunity would be offered for taking scientists on board the vessels to make studies of oceanography, geology, zoology, botany and anthropology either at sea or upon the oceanic coasts and islands. It would even be practicable to make deep borings in reefs and on atolls at such positions as to supply an answer for some of the most vital questions in regard to the subsiding of the earth's surface.

It is considered probable that if the expeditions are proved of value such research work will be come a permanent feature in Navy Department activities.
