McADOO TAKES A LONGER LEAD

Will Attempt Nominating Of Ralston

FORCES NOT YET MADE KNOWN MAY COME

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(UP Staff Correspondent)
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., July 2.—An attempt to nominate Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana is the next big item on the program of the democratic national convention.

McAdoo's end came when William Jennings Bryan, who took the platform during the 36th ballot in a spectacular attempt to stampede the convention, was howled down.

Thirty-eight ballots had been taken when the convention recessed for dinner late Wednesday and the last ballot showed nobody making gains.

McAdoo with 444—which is a bare dozen more than he started with last Monday—seems to have been finally stopped. His managers tried all the tricks in their bag Wednesday and they never once were able to jock up their candidate to the peak of 478 reached at the end of the first days voting.

All Smith has still the gathering with him and he has his closely organized band of faithful delegates who are ready to stick to the last gasp. But he finished the 36th ballot with 321 which is 1-2 less than when he began the day.

The eight ballots taken Wednesday were trench fighting of the most stubborn kind, marked by several spectacular raids by the McAdoo forces which brought little except momentary cheers.

None of the stinger candidates made any gains. The shrewd managers of these apparently are lying flat on the ground so as not to be hit by the crossfire of the Smith forces. At the proper time they will begin to show their strength.

Ralston, of Indiana is marked as the favorite at the moment and a determined push will be started by Tom Taggart at the proper time. Taggart is waiting for the forces behind Smith and McAdoo to exhaust themselves fully and for the delegates already to feed out at any time. This drive may start late Wednesday night or it may be held up until Thursday, depending on developments on the floor.

RALSTON'S MANAGER PLACES HIS MAN BEFORE THE BODY

NEW YORK, July 2.—Following a series of conferences after the close of the democratic national convention Wednesday night, Tom Taggart, manager of Samuel M. Ralston declared his candidate the logical man to unite the factions now torn in an exhausted deadlock. Taggart's statement was issued as attention began to turn toward Ralston as a compromise possibility.

Taggart declared that there would be no attempt to feed in Ralston's name until Thursday.

Some of Indiana are voting persistently for Senator Ralston, not because of hostility to any one, but because of a well justified partiality for him, Taggart said. "Under all the conditions as they have developed, we are convinced that his nomination is better calculated to unite the party than that of any one."

"In favor of his nomination of Senator Ralston solely because I think his nomination would result in the selection of a democratic president—and that's what we all want."

Convention Resumes Balloting.

The convention resumed its balloting at 7:17 eastern standard time and began taking the 39th ballot. The night session was presided over by the other Walsh, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. A large crowd had turned out for the night session under the impression that the deadlock might be broken and they might witness a nomination.

Sentiment of leaders indicated, however, that the speakers would be disappointed. There is no sign of the deadlock breaking until Thursday.

Under the assumption that there would be no decision Wednesday night, leaders are planning night conferences after adjournment to get set for a compromise Thursday.

FORTIETH BALLOT PUTS HIM WELL ALONG TOWARD A MAJORITY, BUT STILL LONG WAY FROM TWO-THIRDS

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 2. (UN)—Staging a terrific drive on the 39th ballot, William G. McAdoo reached his highest point in the democratic national convention by swinging Missouri, Oklahoma and some scattering votes back into line. McAdoo has now 504 which is 41 short of a majority.

In the next few ballots, the McAdoo forces will make their supreme effort—hoping for a majority of 550. If they get their plan to force the rest of their way on the strength of having passed the majority mark.

Conference efforts to agree on a compromise candidate proved abortive after adjournment. Neither McAdoo nor Smith leaders would weaken to the point of discussing second choices, and the prospects were that the convention might continue until Sunday before a presidential candidate is nominated. Smith forces will start their big drive Thursday, collecting all the stray votes they can muster in an effort to make the governor's strength strength sufficiently impressive to put McAdoo definitely out of the running. There are plans to put Senator Robinson, of Arkansas forward Thursday and test his strength as a dark horse.

MANY WILL VISIT SILVER FALLS ON THE 4TH

Silver Falls Lake, near Crosbyton, will claim the attention of a number of Lubbock people, who have already made plans to spend the Fourth of July at that popular playground of all West Texans.

The management of Silver Falls Lake, anticipating a large attendance on that date, has planned a well appointed program and a Water Carnival has been planned for the entertainment of the visitors.

Baseball, golfing, track contests and many other features are arranged and this connected with the already well known attractiveness of the place, will claim the attention of not only a great many local people and those from that immediate community, but from all sections West Texas Plains country.

Some of the Indiana delegates wanted to start the boom Wednesday night but Taggart still favors holding off until Thursday.

After Keegan challenged Missouri's vote Frank H. Farris called for a poll of the delegation.

Ralston's vote in the last ballot was 83, which is just more than he had at the start, but that is altogether negligible. That is all Taggart wanted him to have now. Ralston can begin his raids on McAdoo whenever he wants to, Oklahoma is ready to jump whenever Taggart says so. Mississippi is already to answer for voters.

Totals—39th Ballot: Smith 250 1-2; McAdoo 499; J. W. Davis 71 Underwood 38 1-2; Ralston 32; Glass 25; Robinson 23; Jonathan Davis 3; Ritchie 18 1-2; Cox 56; Walsh 1; Sansbury 6; Owen 4; Jackson 1.

One report was that Cordell Hull chairman of the national committee would bring leaders of the different factions together in a midnight conference to talk over suggestions for an agreement on a compromise candidate. Hull was sounding out sentiments on this suggestion early in the evening but not decided on whether to go thru with it.

McAdoo Climbed to 500 Mark in 40th Ballot

Wm. G. McAdoo went over the 500 mark on the 40th ballot at the democratic national convention scoring 505 1-2, his highest point. Announcement of this vote was the signal for a noisy demonstration instantly the Smith partisans began to yell for their candidate who has been slipping on recent ballots and is now down 317 from his high point of 523 1-2.

LOCAL MAN DIED SUDDENLY AT MOULTON

Word has been received that E. Studeman, president of the Citizens National Bank, died last night while on a visit at his old home in Moulton, Texas. Although Mr. Studeman had been in failing health and under the care of his family physician for some time, his sudden death was unexpected.

Mr. Studeman is survived by his wife and two sons, Edward and Jennings. Mr. Studeman's family had only recently made their home in Lubbock. Funeral arrangements will be published as soon as information is received.

Mr. Studeman, besides being interested in several South Texas banks, was also associated with Wm. Green of Shiner, L. Lupton of Wilson, and other capitalists, in the extension of their financial and industrial properties in West Texas, particularly in the sale of their large land holdings around Wilson, in Lynn county, to actual settlers.

Mrs. Studeman and sons, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. D. Green, left Tuesday for Moulton, and it is expected that funeral services will be held there, as the deceased was a resident of Moulton prior to moving to Lubbock.

The unexpected death of Mr. Studeman has occasioned quite a shock in local banking circles, he having been prominent in that business here and was active in the bank of which he was president.

ARE RUM RUNNERS USING SUBMARINES?

MYSTERIOUS SUBMARINES

For some time past vague rumors have been circulating through New York's underworld that a Brooklyn man, recognized as the "King of Rum Runners," who handles only 1,000 case lots, was actually using two submarines to make daily trips to Long Row, 15 miles off the Jersey coast, and bring in his illicit cargoes.

McADOO WILL STAND—FAST SPURNING EVERY SUGGESTION OF WITHDRAWAL; TO STAY TILL VOTED OUT

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 2.—Wm. G. McAdoo will stand fast spurning every suggestion of withdrawal his manager, David L. Rockwell, declared when asked about reports that conference had begun with the view of determining a second choice among the McAdoo adherents.

TWO THOUSAND ATTEND FINAL PROGRAM OF FORMAL OPENING OF WRIGHT & WRIGHT CO. STORE

More than two thousand people filed into the Wright & Wright hardware store Wednesday evening from seven o'clock until the doors of the new institution were closed. More than one thousand pieces of cake were served the visitors, among whom premiums valued at more than one hundred dollars were distributed.

by representatives of that company who attended the opening of the store and conducted demonstrations in the uses of these products. The Wright & Wright company, having bought a full carload of these products, attracted the attention of the company's representatives and received their hearty cooperation in making it known that that store is headquarters for these products in this territory.

McADOO TAKES LONGER LEAD (Continued From Page 1.) ... Bryan's speech came in as a surprise to both McAdoo and myself, Rockwell said. "There will be a marked indication of the effect of the speech. I believe its reaction for McAdoo will be good. Mr. Bryan clarified the atmosphere. The lines of demarcation between the progressives and the reactionaries are more clearly drawn since Bryan's speech. There are more progressives than reactionaries attending this convention and, remember, the delegates do not believe in the candidates. The convention was called to order at 10:15. The following candidates were recorded:

McADOO TAKES LONGER LEAD

Georgia, the state of McAdoo's birth, started another parade around the hall. During the demonstration Bryan left his seat in the Missouri section and went to the Missouri-Kansas delegates and mingled with them, plugging for McAdoo. McAdoo floor managers are now on their big drive of the convention. They took a running start when the convention convened after an unsatisfactory afternoon's balloting. They jumped ahead 55 votes at the outset of the night session and went over the 500 line when they added six and a half more on the fortieth ballot. All of the McAdoo state standards were in the parade which circled the garden. Mrs. McAdoo, holding a small California flag waved it to the crowd and acknowledged their cheering with animated nods of her head. During the parade, Miss Louise Mason, of Danville, Ky., a little progressiveness that has been exhibited by the management of the Wright & Wright store commends them to the consideration of all the people of the Lubbock trade territory. Quite a bit of interest was shown when the huge cake was cut, as one hundred dimes, and tickets, which entitled the holders to valuable prizes were contained in the slices that were served. Each of the dimes was valued at fifty cents in trade at the store. Those receiving the larger prizes are: Vina May Rose, hot point electric iron; Eunice Holcomb, pocket knife; Louise Pates, Pyrene fire extinguisher; Frank Chase, Kiddi Kar; Mrs. L. C. Ellis, monkey wrench; A. A. Nance, O U dust mop; Otis Taylor, flashlight; Calvin Harkey, boys wagon; Richard Cavett, Sunbeam electric iron; Homer Hall, set of dishes; Aubrey Prince, fruit dish; Billy Burkhart, rolling pin. Hundreds of samples of Sherwin-Williams products were given girl with long curls was carried on the shoulders of a delegate waving a sign "McAdoo forever." Anti-McAdoo gallery persons set up a loud boing as she was carried down the center aisle and resumed their chant of "We want Smith! We want Smith!"

Total vote cast 1098—totals—Smith 316 1-2, McAdoo 505 1-2; J. W. Davis 71; Underwood 41 1-2; Ralston 31; Glass 24; Robinson 23; Cox 55; Ritchie 17; Jonathan Davis 3; Saulsbury 6; Owen 4.

McAdoo Stampede is Checked in 41st Ballot

Temporarily, at least the McAdoo drive has been stopped, for on the 41st ballot which has been taken at the democratic national convention, the Californian dropped back a fraction of a vote to 504 9-10. Governor Al Smith recovered some of his strength, adding five and a fraction, getting back to 321 6-10.

Total votes cast 1097 1-2—Smith 317 8-10; McAdoo 504 9-10; J. W. Davis 70; Underwood 39 1-2; Ralston 30; Glass 24; Robinson 23; Cox 55; Ritchie 17 1-2; Jonathan Davis 3; Owen 4; Saulsbury 6; Spelack 1.

Convention adjourned after announcement of 42nd ballot at 10:16 eastern standard time.

THE CONVENTION

Unable after 42 ballots to break one of the worst deadlocks in the history of the party, the democratic national convention was adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday night so that leaders of rival factions might gather in some quiet place and try to reach an agreement on a compromise candidate. W. G. McAdoo made another bold drive on the night balloting and by reclaiming several blocks of former supporters was able to shoot up to a peak of 505 1-2 on the 40th ballot. This is the most any one has polled at any time during convention but it is 44 short of a bare majority not to mention the two-thirds which must be won at the end. Hopes of McAdoo followers were high when this ballot was taken but on the next two he dropped one delegate and then another and then all efforts to push him further seemed futile. Meanwhile Gov. Al Smith, was hanging around 316 where he finished. This a few votes below his maximum reached Tuesday night and again on the 35th ballot Wednesday. With both of the leading candidate thus blocked, leaders saw only one alternative to an indefinite prolongation of the convention. So they accepted it at the end of the 42nd ballot. And before daylight the deal may be completed which will determine the democratic nominee. Ralston had the strongest undercurrent of strength when the balloting ceased though he showed only the solid 30 votes which Indiana has been giving him. There are many delegation, however, which are ready to jump in whole or in part to the Indiana senator whenever his manager, Tom Taggart gives the word. The hopes of John W. Davis seem to have withered for he wound up with only 67 having declined steadily from his high point of 129 1-2 reached Tuesday afternoon. Whatever Bryan have failed to do for McAdoo, he successfully stopped Davis by turning thumbs down on any Wall street candidate. Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Robinson of Arkansas are both hovering stationary, the former at 26 1-2 and the latter at 24. Both are compromise candidates, though not so favored as Ralston. The convention is now within two ballots of the number taken at San Francisco and within four ballots of the 46 which were required to name Woodrow Wilson. The only other convention which has outlasted the present one, in addition to these is that of 1960, when Douglas was named on the 59th roll call. Tradegy of the day was the humiliating reception which W. J. Bryan, for a generation the hero of the party, received at the hands of the new and boisterous generation. Thousands who cannot remember when Bryan stamped the Chicago convention in 1896 with his eloquent cross of gold speech, stood coatless in the galleries of Madison Square Garden and hooted out such an unseemly manlike cry as has often been vented upon an insignificant puglist on the same spot where Bryan stood. The aging leader trying to stampee the convention with a speech for McAdoo during the afternoon made a dismal failure and the galleries, fighting to the end for Smith, gave him no quarter. The heckling was carried into the night session when Bryan was booed and hooted when he moved from one part of the floor to another. Finally inspector Coleman, in charge of the Madison Square Garden police acted as a personal body guard to Bryan to protect him from embarrassment and impudent remarks by spectators who brushed by him.

PROSPERITY ADVANCING

Those who have been watching the great activities of the Stock exchanges during the past few weeks, cannot but feel much encouraged over the trend of things and one of the prominent newspaper financial writers is quoted with having put the matter in language that people can easily understand when he says that whatever the visiting delegates to the Democratic convention might think of New York exchanges there is one thing that they must admit and that is the trend of trade toward the area of prosperity that is just ahead.

The movement of prices on the New York Stock Exchange is an almost infallible guide to the coming business prosperity or depression of the country.

So delicate and sensitive is the stock exchange's nation-wide and world-wide system of news gathering and so skilled are its operators in estimating the future that stock prices generally give a six months' or nine months' warning of what we have before us. The present slump in general business in the North and East was accurately foretold by the slump in stock prices which began in March, 1923, and ran until late last fall. All this time business was booming. Industrial employment was full and the railroads could not carry the tonnage offered them. What was the matter with the stock market? It was predicting what was to come. And it predicted right.

The federal reserve board's summary, just out, reports that the index of production in basic industries is 18 per cent below the peak reached a year ago. The value of building contracts is 13 per cent less than in April, and in May the figures of industrial employment fell another four per cent below the low figures of April.

That is where we are. What are we coming to? The stock exchange figures tell us. The average selling price of twenty industrial stocks last Friday was $95.33, compared with only $90.15 a month ago, and $88.66 a year ago.

The average price of twenty rail stocks was $86.70 compared with $83.02 a month ago and $78.48 a year ago.

The average selling price of July cotton in the New York Cotto nExchange was 29.27 cents compared with 26.90 cents a year ago. Wheat in Chicago Friday sold for $1.14 3-4 a bushel, compared with $1.01 1-4 twelve months ago.

GENERAL CROP PROSPECTS IN WEST TEXAS ARE BRIGHT

This statement may be doubted by some people who have stuck right at home and have not even tried to find out about conditions in other communities. True there has been what is known as a scattered season, and the crops are spotted, but the general outlook is not at all bad, and with anything like a reasonable season from now on, there will be one of the biggest crops gathered in West Texas that has ever been known in this section of the state.

A writer who has covered practically of West Texas taking in the Panhandle and the South Plains in commenting on the conditions says that probably no time in the history of West Texas has the crop prospects at this time of the year been more promising just at this time, both in cotton, feed and grain.

The percentage of individual farm crops are in better condition in that nearly all of West Texas has good underground season at this time and crops of all kinds are better worked and most farms are practically free from obnoxious vegetation. The cotton acreage East of the Cap Rock is some twelve and one half to fifteen percent larger than heretofore, and above Cap Rock acreage increase is from thirty to one hundred fifty per cent and many communities and counties especially of the panhandle where last year was but one gin today have from three to ten and the acreage planted to cotton which will under normal conditions insure profitable operation of all gins constructed. At this time conditions of all crops are above normal. All small grain in West Texas are producing very much above the average and while small grain acreage is not one hundred percent for 24 yet increased production bids fair to make up for the reduced acreage. Land values have advanced in all West Texas counties, ranging from five to twenty dollars per acre, east of the Cap Rock, while in the last year in many counties above the Cap Rock land values have advanced from 50 to 100 per cent in the same time. Town and city properties are very much in demand at this time, especially business and residential property. There is, and for the last twelve months, has been a great demand for contract work in resident and business house construction. Numbers of small towns in West Texas have grown in the last twelve months from one gin, a store or two, blacksmith shop, postoffice and twenty to thirty people to in some instances a population of from 500 to 1,000. While all towns and cities have had their share of increased population. In many sections where a year or two ago, thousands of white faced cattle were seen grazing, now are to be found hundreds of new farm homes, occupying one hundred sixty to three hundred twenty acres with a large percentage of these new farms now growing young cotton and maize where but a year ago grass and weeds predominated. A good crop last year together with high price, also thousands of new comers (estimated to be more than two hundred and fifty thousand) from other section of Texas, Oklahoma, joined in with the West Texas farmers adding the Alabama and other Eastern States have come and financial values of their former homes and crops that of the large production in West Texas which explains the large deposits in all the banks of this territory and the abnormal growth of mercantile business which has caused the rise of West Texas financial property. Crop prospects are all that could be asked for today. Land and other real estate values advancing as new people come and bid for homes as well as many tenants of West Texas are buying homes. Weather warm with plenty of sunshine and moisture which are conducive to the rapid development of both maize and cotton. Also permitting the harvesting of considerable headway, indicates very small grains which has already gained, almost permitting the harvesting of large crop production for West Texas this year. It is that increased acreage in cotton and other field crops are much virgin acres of new land, which no doubt will exceed three and one half million acres west of the ninety-eight meridian, harnessed to the production of profitable agriculture that heretofore has never been in cultivation, much of this is incotton and is up and growing with present weather conditions very favorable, her present acreage production above normal, and with this year's high prices very flattering, can any one predict how high the financial thermometer of West Texas will go for 1924?

BRYAN HISSED MENTION OF M'ADOO

By RALPH H. TURNER

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 2.—Wm. J. Bryan, 64 years old, a great grandfather, and addressing what he conceded probably would be his last democratic convention, pleaded fervently for the nomination of Wm. G. McAdoo, brought upon himself a storm of hisses and bitter interruptions and wound up in retreat, his head high, but his ears flat.

It was Bryan's greatest effort of the convention. He lost. It was probably his last supreme moment of political gesture. As a spectacle it was the most dramatic moment the convention has produced. But as a coup d'etat for McAdoo it was futile. There was a hush among the delegations when old veteran, a democratic nominee 28 years ago, arose "to explain his vote" in the course of a roll call. The crowd sensed the significance of Bryan's impending move, and a hush fell upon the assembly. An effort all the more crucial because of the anti-climax that had greeted his effort a few days ago against the Ku Klux Klan. As Bryan proceeded the list of the first seven men he considered acceptable candidates, the crowd listened respectfully.

The interruption which inquired "what's the matter with Smith" or "never heard of Murphy" were comparatively mild, and then mentioning the one who made it possible for us to have a progressive platform. The man who is entitled to the credit, whether you nominate him or not, is William Gibbs McAdoo."

An outburst of hisses and boos crashed through the garden like machine gun fire. An angry shout and some yells roared forth with the volume of heavy artillery. Hand grenades followed through in the form of furious shouts from the New York and New Jersey delegations.

"The oil man! What about oil?"

"I'm from Jersey City. I voted for you every time you ran—and I'm sorry."

"I am from Wisconsin and Smith will get thousands of republican votes out there if you nominate him."

Delegates struggled to reach the base of the platform, that they might shake their fists and cones under the Commoner's nose and make sure that their expetives reached his ears.

Bryan stood calmly, a cardiac smile wreathed his face, his hand pressed for silence.

His plea was ignored. The gesture that has quivered political history for three decades had lost its effect. Bryan stood calmly, a cardiac smile wreathed his face, his hand pressed for silence.

"Allow me to answer the gentleman's question," Bryan pleaded addressing himself to the query about McAdoo and Doehney.

The tumult raged on. The gallery took up the cry for Smith. Bryan shouted through the most bitter roar of remonstrance that the convention has experienced.

"I'll answer the question" he promised.

"Give him time. Give him 20 years" some one yelled back.

"McAdoo's retainers had to do with oil in Mexico," Bryan explained. "But I'll go no further than that. If any oil has touched William G. McAdoo, the intense and fervent opposition of Wall street has washed all the oil away. I want to present an issue larger than any man."

As the pandemonium re-gathered its momentum, another heckler stepped on his chair.

"The investment Ohio where McAdoo got $200,000 for getting taxes back in Mexico?"

It was Dennis Danlevy of Ashabula, Ohio, speaking.

"You are dodging to something else."

"You are not willing to hang the case on oil," Bryan shot back to the man.

"How about the coal contract in Italy? Do you excuse that too?"

Teh mob spirit was after Bryan Smith men cried deafeningly for his blood.

Chairman Walsh hammered for order.

Ed Moore, of Ohio, apoplectic, moved for return to regular business.

Walsh moved that Bryan could not be interrupted.

There was sufficient order, finally, for Bryan to resume. But his return was found wanting. He maneuvered to get the crowd back on his side by an exposition of democracy and an attack upon wealth. It had worked before, but now the crowd wanted him to talk specifically about McAdoo, and Doehney.

"Hiss and scoff at my principles if you desire," Bryan shouted, at the hostile mob. "The democratic party is facing the greatest campaign in its great history. The world looks to us. In Russia, they have a class government. In Great Britain, they have a inhering man for a premier. In France a socialist is in control and it threatens Germany and Italy. That condition had brought about largely by the concentration of wealth."

Spent your money where quality and reasonable prices are always in style. If there is anything you need buy before next trades day—the dining-room white will be sold for one dollar on that day.

Faith will save you in the end, but at present it is a good idea to hire a lawyer. Jersey City Journal.

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND RACIAL EQUALITY

LYONS, France, July 3.—The International Federation of League of Nations Societies has adopted a resolution calling for racial equality, but it is understood that the resolution does not apply to the immigration question.

This is the final outcome of the argument between American and Japanese delegates to the congress following Japan's advocacy of the equality resolution. Representatives of the two delegations and agreed to a compromise whereby the resolution should be advanced on condition that it should not involve the immigration question.

As it now stands the resolution deals with equitable commercial treatment in all countries between nationals and foreigners.

AIR PLANE FALLS AND ALMOST KILLS FATHER AND CHILD

International News Service.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 2.—H. E. Robertson and his five months old baby escaped death only by the good graces of sky Luck when in driving peacefully along a country road, an airplane suddenly crashed into their car. The plane belonging to the government air service from San Antonio piloted by Lieutenant Twimling had developed engine trouble and in descending crashed through a fence and into Robertsons car. All received only minor bruises.

ONE OFFICER KILLED; TWO INJURED IN GUN FIGHT

DRUMRIGHT, Okla., July 2.—One officer was killed and two others were injured in a running gun battle with three bandits near here late Wednesday following the robbery of the State Bank at Avery, near Cushing.

The dead: U. S. LENNOX, Drumright, a policeman.

The injured: Jack Ary, Drumright, chief of police; W. D. Norris, Drumright, deputy sheriff.

A posse was organized and immediately started in pursuit of the fugitives who headed for the Ozone Hills when last seen.

The loot amounted to $1,500 of officials of the bank said after a check-up.

The holdup occurred shortly before closing time and no one was in the bank.

Patrolman Lennox who was one of the first to pick up the trail of the bandits and to engage them in battle was shot twice through the body.

Police Chief Ary and Deputy Norris were wounded in the firing that followed. Both are expected to recover.

A number of utterances at the Democratic National convention indicated the belief that the dead Wilson is the party's present great asset. Witness the concluding paragraph of Chairman Walsh's speech: "The honor of our country the prosperity of our people, demand that we return to the ideals of Woodrow Wilson, that we resume the place he won for us—the moral leadership of the world."

YOU

All that stands between your goal And the deeds you hope to do, Restless soul— Is you!

The way is rough and the way is long And the end is hid from view, But the one to say if you shall be strong— Is you!

Oh, the world may smile or the world may frown And the skies be gray or blue,

But the one who shall travel up or down— Is you!

Though far it seems to the gleaming top And the day brings dangers new, The only one who shall bid you stop Is you!

For whether you work or whether you play, Are false to your best or true, Rests not with your friends or foes to say— But 'you!

HELEN WILLS TO PLAY ENGLAND IN FINALS

By United News.
WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—Helen Wills, California's young blonde beauty will play Miss Kitty McKane, of England in the final round of the Wimbledon tournament for the women's championship of the world, but half of the glory will be subtracted from the victory, no matter which one takes the title. Suzanne Lenglen, of France, the holder of the championship set alone in the grandstand apart from the throng as Miss Wills defeated Mrs. Satterthwaite, of England, Wednesday, afternoon, a defaulter and the object of rather candid reproach.

Suzanne Lenglen Withdraws From Tennis Game

By United News.
LONDON, Eng., July 2.—Suzanne Lenglen has quit again. The French woman, holder of the world championship among women tennis players, is withdrawing from all further matches in the tournament at Wimbledon where she is defending her title, according to the Daily Express. Her doctors advised her to quit it is stated because she is still suffering from the after effects of a winter illness. Some of the observers of the tournament who are familiar with Miss Lenglen's way will be skeptical regarding the reasons for her withdrawal, however.

Lenglen, sitting on the side lines during the recent Wightman cup tournament made disparaging remarks about the woman players and spoke of Helen Wills the American champion, as a player with a few good strokes.

She seemed quite confident of defeating Miss Wills if they should meet in the final round at Wimbledon. In her first matches of the tournament, Miss Lenglen easily overwhelmed opponents without losing a single game. However, she was drawn to a long fight, before she could defeat Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, in their match Monday and some of the American observers will be sure to believe that she quit again, as she did at Forest Hills, when no longer confident of an easy and spectacular victory, so as to avoid a possible meeting with Miss Wills.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN FAILED TO LAND WILLIAM G. M'ADOO ON HOUSE PLATE WHEN HE STRUCK OUT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
NEW YORK, July 2.—William Jennings Bryan is like Babe Ruth. When he misses he misses big. He misses with everything he has. The crowd which has been hanging on waiting for a break in the extra-inning game at the garden, saw Bryan miss one Wednesday afternoon when he was sent up as a pinch hitter for Will McAdoo's club with the score still deadlocked.

They saw him knock a lot of long fouls as far south as Florida and as far West as Montana. And they saw him take one terrific slam at a shine ball pitched by a utility politician of Al Smith's club named Joseph F. Fitzpatrick, who learned his politics in the bush league municipal contests of Jersey city and Mississippi.

There ought to be a home run somewhere in Bryan's bat. He has the stance of a heavy hitter, the poise and fearlessness of a man who could slug the old cantaloupe a mile and a furling at a mere bunt. Although he has spent most of his life knocking long flies to the outfield which fell just short of the wall for circus put-outs, although he has never felt the actual pulsation of a home run wallop running down his bat, Bryan has the bearing of a mighty swifter and it is no wonder that McAdoo's team was willing to have him take a time at bat in an attempt to put over a stampee play and send the customers home before they all went broke buying hot dogs at 20c a piece in the garden commentary.

Voices were needed, as Bryan might come through, they remembered that screaming triple of his bat won for Woodrow Wilson in Baltimore the last time he took his full swing.

The shine ball that Fitzpatrick pitched to Bryan is a very difficult delivery for McAdoo's people to meet on the nose, being soaked in oil and slippery. Fitzpatrick hopped down on Bryan after the foul to Florida and the far northwesterly. "You have said that Senator Walsh exposed the oil scandal," Fitzpatrick hawled from the floor. "He has also exposed the fact that McAdoo took oil retainers?"

Bryan set himself dug his cleats into the earth, swung back as far as Twenty eighth street, clamped his determined, snappy turtle chin and came back at the oily delivery "McAdoo's oil retainers had to do with oil in Mexico," he cried. "But if oil ever touches McAdoo, Mobile 3 8 2." Calders and Withrow; Acosta and Devormere.

McAdoo's people didn't realize for a moment what Bryan had done. They were listening for the sound of the ballots pattering across the plate. What they heard was the soggy plunk of an oily ball in the catcher's basket.

"If oil touched McAdoo," Bill Bryan had struck out big but out nevertheless.

CHICKEN BARBECUE WILL CLIMAX SPORTS DAY PROGRAM AT PLAINVIEW JULY 4TH GIVEN LOCAL ELKS

Seventy five members of the local Elks lodge will go to plainview to be guests of the Plainview Elks for Sports Day events there, according to Walter Myrick who has been energetic in planning the trip.

W. T. Raybon, chairman, Elmer Conley and Grover Merrill compose the committee that will have charge of general arrangements for the trip, and they have called a meeting to be held at the lodge rooms this evening at four o'clock preparatory to making entries in the various events at Plainview. Final plans for the trip will be made at this meeting and all local Elks are urged to attend.

Plainview Elks have sworn that they will offer more entertainment for the local Elks than they were shown on their visit to Lubbock, "and we are glad to acknowledge that that will be some job," a congressman from the Plainview lodge declared in a telephone message to a member of the local lodge.

The local Elks will meet at the front of the Elks hall here at seven o'clock Friday morning and will go in a crowd to Plainview in order to make good showing on reaching that city.

All games will be started immediately upon their arrival in Plainview and will be continued right up to the noon hour when everything will be spread in honor of the visitors. Chicken barbecue has been disposed of.

Immediately after lunch the contests will be started again, and in the evening a chicken barbecue prepared in a Plainview Style, will be spread in honor of the visitors. Chicken barbecues have been made prominent by the Plainview folks and the local Elks are lucky to be guests as such feast as will be provided on this occasion.

Any member of the local lodge who has not made arrangements to attend Sports Day at Plainview is losing an opportunity to become better acquainted with the fellow clubmen of that city and will miss some mighty good sport.

John B. Barry, prominent farmer of Baileyboro, was here Wednesday looking after business.

Barry has 210 acres of new land in cultivation near Baileyboro and this time. Many new farms have been made in that community this year and with a continuation of favorable conditions for the crops bumper cotton and feed crops will be harvested, according to Mr. Barry.

TELEPHONE COMPANY FORCED TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

H. D. Phillips, manager of the local station of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, stated Wednesday that the improvements that are being made on the company's equipment here now will not only serve to enable them to accommodate a much heavier patronage, but that the steady increase in business has made the improvements absolutely necessary.

Two toll sections of switchboard and one local section are being installed, and in order that the installation work might be completed in the least time possible, two crews are working on the job in two eight hour shifts each day.

This work was started Monday and with the two crews at work can be completed by the first of August, whereas only one crew would have been until the last of September completing the work.

The Southwestern Bell Company has been very liberal in meeting the demands placed upon its local station by Lubbock, and its progressiveness in keeping abreast and when possible just a little ahead with the other developments of Lubbock is appreciated by the patrons.

"Venus too Fat for 1924 model" says the Royal academy. But Mercury is not half swift enough.—Oakland Tribune.

there was much side comment from the galleries as well as from the guests of the management in the official box behind the plate.

Congressman Upshaw of Georgia who has no delusions of political grandeur and is willing to take a job as hat boy or vice-president on McAdoo's team, wagged a skinny fist at the Smith delegation and cried:

"I'd rather have oil than booze!" This seemed to please the entire house for the floor and the galleries were wallowing in long, slick swells of sound:

"Oil, Oil, Oil!"

The cleagury quality of the word was never so well illustrated as in that cry.

However, the congressman was only indulging in a flower of speech for this correspondent willing to try anything once, caught his eye and accepted the implied invitation to take a slight touch of oil. Congressman Upshaw only clawed his coatails tighter around and sat all the harder on his hip pockets, where the oil, if any, undoubtedly was concealed.

The game has set out after distance records, not. But the big dramatic punch of the contest has been delivered. It wasn't the yowl of the electrical sirens for Al Smith; it wasn't the demonstration for McAdoo, the day his name was first placed before the concotion. It was the spectacle of W. J. Bryan in a crisis with the game on the bases and missing big.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Broadway Limited, crack twenty hour Pennsylvania train between New York and Chicago was wrecked near Lancaster, Pa., Wednesday evening. Several cars left the rails, but no one was seriously injured. Many were shaken up when the train hurtled from the track, but none required hospital treatment, according to Pennsylvania railroad officials.

The derailment occurred on the Lancaster cut-off and did not interrupt traffic for more than a few minutes, officials said.

President Coolidge is said to insist that his proper place is in Washington and to be determined to veto all the demands of his party's leaders that he go on a speaking tour of the country during the campaign. Apart from the question of propriety, doubtless General Daves is better fitted for the touring job, both as a speaker and in ability to give ready answers to inconvenient questions.

ENGLAND LOOKING TO AFRICA AND ASIA AS SOURCE OF HER COTTON SUPPLY AMERICA CAN'T SUPPLY

By CLARENCE DUBOSE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 2th—A declaration of independence against United States cotton is in process of formation here.

It takes the form of the largest and one of the most interesting efforts in constructive agriculture the world has ever seen.

If it succeeds, great areas in Africa, which are now barren, will produce enough to supply the English spindles which now depend largely upon the United States.

The British plans for huge cotton production in Africa will be extended to India, where the present acreage will be increased as much as soil adaptability and climatic conditions will permit.

The ultimate result of these two plans, authorities here believe will be to make the entire British empire completely self-sustaining in the way of cotton.

Meanwhile Japan, which depends upon the United States for more than half her cotton, is attempting to get a supply nearer home. She hopes to establish or promote the establishment of very large cotton growing areas in China; or, failing in that, to be able to buy more and more of her cotton from India.

The fulfillment of these ideas will, naturally, be a matter of some years, and until they are fulfilled naturally applied to cotton in general, although large preliminary investments are required for building dams, establishing extensive irrigation projects and clearing great tracts of land.

But as for Africa, both in the Sudan and in the south, all experts are agreed. They say the cotton possibilities are almost limitless, although large preliminary investments are required for building dams, establishing extensive irrigation projects and clearing great tracts of land.

No Notice Against U. S. The preparations for Great Britain's cotton independence imply no dislike of American cotton, no desire to put it out of business. Upon the contrary, the plans are inspired by fear that the English cotton spinning industry will naturally be drawn out of business if it continues indefinitely to depend upon a supply of raw materials from America.

The spinners and all other cotton authorities here simply foresee that the time will somehow soon or later come when the United States will be unable to supply for itself most of its own cotton, and, accordingly, will have very little to sell in other countries.

England, for one, proposes to be ready for that day, whenever it may come. She intends to have her own cotton from Africa, Egypt, India, and it is possible that Japan may have hers from China.

If the experts are wrong and the African plans fail, if India and China cannot come across well, what of the world's big-league weavers may be fought yet, not for oil lands or gold or high ideals, but for possession of the sandy-lands and the black-waxy belts where hot sun is certain and a cotton crop secure. That is, it may come to that—war.

After all, most of the world's cotton clad population live in gentile climes where their birthday suits would be quite comfortable if they could only overcome the prejudices against that garment inherited since the little incident in Eden.

This, of course, sounds fantastic, and it is. It's just a way of reducing the situation to an absurdity in order to emphasize the bald fact that the world is, every year, approaching closer and closer to a cotton famine; and that it actually will arrive there some day unless new cotton growing regions can be developed, as the British propose to do.

It is estimated that the world's population is 1,500,000,000 persons, of whom only one-third are properly clothed. The other 1,000,000,000, presumably, would wear more clothing if they could get it—and most of it would be cotton, because most of them live in warm countries.

Cotton Decreasing This population is increasing every year. At the same time cotton production is decreasing. It is now 16 per cent below the pre-war average yearly production. The United States cotton production may continue to decrease and certainly will not increase for two reasons: 1. the boll weevil continues to get in his digs, and 2. Southern farmers are in more or less disfavor, instead of planting all their land in cotton, they plant parts of it to other crops, and make more money from the total of the varied crops than they ever did with "all cotton," even with cotton at a high price.

On top of these facts, the figures show that each year in steadily progressing ratio, the United States is spinning more of its own cotton at home and exporting less.

England is taking two definite steps to prevent being caught in the cotton famine which a continuation of the above tendencies will bring. The steps:

1. A huge irrigation scheme in the Sudan, to bring 1,000,000 acres under cotton cultivation, at a cost of $67,500,000, financed privately but backed by the government.

2. Great colonization schemes in South Africa, where, according to ex-Premier Smuts, "all the cotton" needed by England can be grown.

Dam the Blue Nile The first part of the Sudan scheme is the building of a dam across the Blue Nile and the irrigation of 300,000 acres. Subsequent dams, canals, and extensions of the system will irrigate 1,000,000 acres, between the Blue and White Niles, in the great valley below Khartoum.

In the other project—the colonization schemes in South Africa—the government has already spent $2,500,000 in building dams, for irrigating private companies are sending out colonists—young English farmers who have been trained in school of agriculture; and the government is ready to continue the building of dams and irrigation canals and the opening of land as fast as the new cotton farmers come.

F. K. Mitchell and family, of the Electric Bakery, are at home in the new brick residence recently bought by them, and which is located at 1620 Main street. This is one of the substantial residences of the city and one which anyone might be proud.

Fighting Companion of "Buffalo Bill" Tells of Close Call in Indian Battle

Cody, After Shooting Down Yellow Hand, Faced by Whole Tribes

(By International News Service) MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 1—The spectacular death of Yellow Hand, a Cheyenne warrior, in a thrilling battle with United States soldiers, in which Colonel William F. Cody declared he "had the closest call in his adventurous life," is related by General Charles King, of Milwaukee.

An Act of Congress a few days ago authorized a citation be issued to General King for gallantry in action against the Apache Indians May 24, 1864, when King, then a lieutenant, with fourteen enlisted men, surprised, attacked and routed a large band of Apaches near Diamond Butte, Arizona, killing eighteen and destroying their equipment.

When General King heard of the bronze equestrian statue of Colonel Cody ("Buffalo Bill"), which is the work of Mrs. Henry Bassie Whitney, New York sculptress, and which the Buffalo Bill American Association will unveil July 4 at an entrance to Yellowstone Park, he recalled his intimate association with the noted scout.

"In 1871, when I first met Bill Cody at Fort McPherson, Nebraska, he was in the prime of his young manhood—tall, slender, straight as a lance, with clear, sparkling eyes and a complexion a girl might envy. Moreover, he was a celebrity—the unchallenged hero of the victorious campaign of the Fifth Cavalry in 1869 against a great band of renegade Indians, led by their redoubtable chief, Tall Bull."

Then General King related how, almost unopposed, the renegades had raided the valleys of the Upper Republican and Smoky Hill Forks, murdering, pillaging and carrying off some of the younger women.

The Fifth Cavalry, King said, was on their heels. Suddenly it swept down upon the Indians, recapturing most of the women and scattering the redskins far and wide. Cody himself shot down their burly chief.

"In 1871 the regiment was sent to Arizona to help quell the Apaches," General King continued, "but without its renowned Chief of Scouts."

"General Sheridan would not let him go, and Cody stayed behind to pilot Custer and the Buffalo Hunt in 1872."

"Next we heard of Bill who was 'play-acting' with a show company 'Sitting Bull on Warpath.'"

"But when the Sioux, under Sitting Bull, went on the warpath, Bill telegraphed the Fifth Cavalry asking for his old job, and the answer he could have it went instant."

"Six weeks later down found us crouching on a little ridge, watching a wary of new enemies—300 Southern Cheyennes—who, crazed by the news of Sitting Bull's victory over Custer and the Seventh Cavalry, had 'jumped the reservation' to join him."

"A dozen of them came tearing down a dry wash squarely toward my little outguard. With a yell, our party dashed over the low ridge into their midst, Cody leading for the superb young leader, whom he downed in a second's time, pony and rider sprawling on the turf."

"Shot through the thigh, the Indian was up in an instant and down again in the next. General Merritt had ordered me to stay behind and give the word when the redskins were within range."

"I had barely time to mount when the whole tribe, seeing only half a dozen footmen, came charging to the rescue, just as three of our groups came up from the rear to reinforce us."

"Cody always declared it was the closest call of his life, for trooper and warrior, squadron and tribe would have crashed together as he was struggling to his feet after the death grapple that laid low a second chief, the victim of his deadly aim; but amazed at the sight of reinforcements galloping into view, the Indians veered off and bolted for home."

"The death of Yellow Hand and the grim pursuit to the very border of the reservation ended the eagerness of the Southern Cheyennes to join Sitting Bull. A second time in Indian battle was our Bill the central figure in the tableau."

—Walker Posey, of the Lubbock State Bank, accompanied by his family, left the first of the week on a fishing trip on Devils River. They will be gone more than two weeks.

SCOUTMASTER SAWYER REPORTS OF SCOUT TRIP TO ROTARIANS AT THE REGULAR WEEKLY LUNCHEON WED.

The regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club which was held at the Armory Wednesday was well attended and a splendid program was carried out.

In the absence of both the president and the vice president, Rotarian, Jed Rix presided over the meeting.

Scoutmaster F. H. Sawyer was the first to speak and made a report of the Scouts encampment at Silver Falls Lake near Crosbyton.

After telling the Rotarians something of the duties of a Scout and outlining the principles of the organization, Mr. Sawyer told how well the duties of membership were observed by all of the boys who were their guests for the week. He said the boys were both courteous and obedient to him and to the public during the week and that the Rotarians could rest assured that the boys appreciated the encampment and are fully grateful to the Rotarians for the trip. He pointed out that the managers of the Silver Falls Lake company went to a great deal of trouble in extending courtesies to the boys and in looking after their interests in every way.

Attorney Roscoe Wilson who together with Mrs. Wilson, represented the local club at the International Convention at Toronto, made a report of his trip pointing out that twenty-six nations were represented by delegates to the convention, and that there were about two thousand wives of Rotarians in attendance also.

Mr. Wilson stated that some three thousand Rotarians attended the convention, and that these were the first to attend the Elks Sports Day at Plainview on July 4th and insisted that as many local Elks as possible can attend. He pointed out that the Sports Day idea is creating greater friendliness between Lubbock and Plainview and urged its encouragement.

Judge Randolph of the Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo, was present and was called upon to talk. He told of his early acquaintance with Lubbock and said the Rotary Club and other organizations are valuable to this section.

The Broadway Church of Christ has made quite an effort to "obtain" talent for this meeting, that will be appreciated by not only the Church of Christ members, but by the city of Lubbock.

G. A. Dunn of Dallas, Texas, is the evangelist and Ira J. Rice, of Norman, Oklahoma, will be the song leader.

It is said of G. A. Dunn, that he carries more Bible quotations than any other minister in the Church of Christ.

He is also a pleasing and forceful speaker thereby driving his messages into the hearts of his hearers.

Ira Rice is an artist in his chosen field of work and service.

AGED PROPRIETOR OF LUNCHEON FOUND DEAD AT HOME

FORT WORTH, July 2—When he failed to arrive as usual, at his little lunch room, with the morning supply of eggs and chickens for the day's business, search was conducted for Charles Weir, age sixty, and his lifeless body was found dangling from a cord at his home. He had frequently said that he was tired of the struggles of life, and it is presumed that he took his own life.

The Attorney General has just begun anti-trust proceedings against some 50 oil concerns. This is timely in the light of political expediency, but otherwise seems rather belated, for if these concerns are illegal trusts they have been such for quite a long time.
