If you don't think it is wet after all this rain, ask Buford Green or David Isenhower. Buford got his pick - up stuck in the pasture Sunday afternoon. He called David to help pull him out. They then had two pick - ups stuck. Ray decided to check on them and discovered that they needed a tractor to pull them out, which they brought over. Small Grain Producers Should Check For Insects

BAIRD - Small grain producers in the area should check their fields for the presence of greenbugs and armyworms in the next few weeks. Cool moist weather may increase these insect populations, says County Extension Agent, Greg Gerngross.

Greenbugs are aphids 1 - 16 inch long and light green in color. Greenbugs with their piercing mouth parts such plant juices. Toxins are injected into the plant during the feeding process. Small grain infested with greenbugs first turn yellow to orange. As infestation increases, plants die and greenbugs move to uninfested plants, enlarging the affected area.

Insecticide need depends on the number of greenbugs present, size and vigor or plants, time of year, moisture conditions and stage of growth.

NATURAL GAS For Years To Come

With all the talk about conservation, many might believe that we have only enough natural gas for a few tomorrows. We'd like to assure our residential and other high priority customers that Lone Star has an adequate supply. Not only for the present, but for years to come.

We were actively engaged in exploration programs long before the energy crisis. And since the crisis, we're exploring even harder to insure your continued supply of natural gas.

Conservation is one way to extend the supplies we now have on hand. And they can last much longer by avoiding wasteful uses of energy. By making it last longer, more time is allowed for new forms of energy to be developed.

Of course new supplies are going to cost more. But natural gas is still the best buy for your energy dollar!

Conserve natural gas. Conservation will help keep the cost as low as possible.

CLYDE NURSING HOME NEWS

This week at the Nursing Home things have been pretty quiet, as we're still recovering from our Halloween Carnival. People are still talking about what fun they had, especially at the fortune tellers booth which was run by two exotic gypsies, Lela Stuard and Myrtle McElrath. Hopefully we have all the spooks back in the closets and under the beds for another year.

We had most of our regular activities this week, but a few were curtailed due to a death in the family of our activity director.

The Nursing Home sponsored a group meeting at the Community Center on Nov. 4. Dr. J. E. Mikeska and Lynette Manning, Director of Nurses at the Nursing Home presented the program. It was a very informative session. We hope to bring more of these programs to the public in the future. Keep an eye on the Nursing Home, we have exciting plans for the future, not only for our residents but for the community as well.

Tuesday Tillers Garden Clug Clyde, Texas

CLYDE - The yard of the month plaque has been placed in the yard of the Bill Brown's 460 Powell Drive, Shalimar Addition.

This is a new yard that has been brought to a lovely stage in a few short months. The deep green grass forms a carpet for the hot colors in the copper plants. The native oaks provide a natural setting without the long wait for the trees to grow to a size that can be enjoyed.

The shrubs have been planted, the annuals: Marigolds, Josephcoat, and Purple Petunias have added color to the landscape. The Elephant Ears have done well in this sandy soil, and help cover the foundation area.

The Browns have lived in Clyde about one year, coming here from Coleman. Mr. Brown is with Abilene Auction and his wife Jaynie assist him on sale days. They have a married daughter, and a son Jackie, a junior in Clyde High School. The Tuesday Tillers Garden Club is delighted to see the new residents of Clyde take pride in the landscaping of their yards, and accomplish so much, so quickly.

CLYDE - Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Maxwell of Ackerly visited Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Jennings in Clyde.
