Five Grain Companies Consolidate To Benefit Farmer

PRODUCERS BE SOLE OWNERS IN ORGANIZATION

STOCK IN NEW CONCERN TO BE DIVIDED IN THREE DIFFERENT CLASSES

By United News. CHICAGO, July 15.—Completion of arrangements for the taking over of operating equipment of five of the biggest grain companies in the United States by a Farmers Cooperative organization was announced Tuesday at the American Farm Bureau Federation here.

Approximately $26,000,000 worth of property will be transferred to the cooperative concern which will be owned solely by the producers. A loan of $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 already has been arranged but the money will not be available until the actual property transfer takes place.

Take Over Five Companies

The new farmers company will take over the property of the following firms: The Armour Grain company, of Chicago; The Rosenbaum Grain Corporation of Chicago; Rosenbaum Brothers of Chicago; J. C. Shaffer Grain company of Chicago, Davis, Noland and Merrill Grain company of Kansas City. It also was reported that within a few weeks, the Bartlett, Frazier company of Chicago would dispose of its property to the new corporation.

The new cooperative concern will have elevator facilities and floor space for approximately 50,000,000 bushels of grain. It is the intention of the backers to have the company actually in operation before the end of next week, in order to handle this seasons crop without delay.

Under a finance plan agreed-upon shortly before the filing of incorporation papers, 1,000,000 shares of common stock, par value $1, one million shares preferred value $25 a share to be sold to farmers and 500,000 shares of preferred stock with a par value of $50 a share will be issued.

Place Plant in Texas

In addition to its Chicago plants the cooperative organization will have plants in Toledo and Fairport, Ohio; Erie, Pa.; Buffalo; Kansas City; Omaha; Minneapolis; Winona, Minn.; Fort Worth, Texas and will export through Texas and great lakes ports.

The new company will be run by a board of directors, the farmers constituting two-thirds of the directorate. The rest of the directors will represent banks and elevator concerns.

It is said that among the vice-presidents of the new company, will be George Marcy, of the Armour concern, John J. Stream, of the Shaffer company, E. F. Rosenbaum and Edwin Rosenbaum and George Davis.

EUROPE TURNS TO AMERICA TO SETTLE CLAIMS

ALLIED CONFERENCE MEETS WED. TO ATTEMPT SETTLEMENT WAR DEBT

LONDON, July 15.—Nearly six years after the armistice, the allies are again assembling in conference to attempt to settle the bill for the great war. In the midst of the horror Europe turned to America for aid in 1917. When interallied committee meets here Wednesday to discuss the experts report America's voice again will be the deciding factor.

It is a new Europe that turns to America in the conference. Both England and France are under socialist rule. Italy's representatives come with instructions from the Fascist regime. The German die-hard as ever are protesting the new plan for meeting reparations pledges, but the German government has shown a marked desire to support the plan.

WHIPPING LEGAL WOMAN CLAIMS

HEAD PRISON ADVISORY BOARD SAYS ACT IS NOT INHUMAN

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 16.—Whippings administered at the state prison are not inhuman and are done in accordance with the law.

Thus stated Mrs. J. E. King, of San Antonio, chairman of the prison advisory board, just back from Huntsville. Recently a statement was made by George W. Dixon, Houston, candidate for governor in which he charged the prison officials with cruelly whipping several prisoners, flogging them until they bled profusely and until they were nearly unconscious. Mrs. King stated that she thoroughly investigated the matter and found that only one prisoner had been whipped and that it was done in accordance with law.

Davis and George White, Norman Mack, Cordell Hull, Daniel Roper, Norpan Davis and Clem Shaver—all democratic campaign leaders it was announced late Tuesday that no decision had been reached as to the new national chairman. It was stated that campaign strategy occupied most of the discussion and beyond neither Davis nor any of the conferees had anything to say.

LET'S CLEAN-UP OUR TOWN!

BODY OF SLAIN YOUTH IS FOUND

BOY BELIEVED KILLED BY DEGENERATE; WAS LAST SEEN MONDAY

PORT RICHMOND, S. I., July 15.—The mutilated body of eight-year-old Francis McDonald, son of a policeman, was found Tuesday evening lying hidden under weeds and grass in a clump of weeds a quarter of a mile from his home. The child, who had been strangled to death, disappeared Monday.

Police declare that the boy was murdered by a degenerate. The theory is borne out by the report of a neighbor who saw the child headed for the woods, and who told the police that he had later seen a man of about 50 or 60 years of age muttering and mumbling to himself, following the same path into the underbrush.

The spot where the body was found is within a mile of the road on which Mand Bauer was slain. When Francis failed to return home Monday, his father asked the police to send out a general alarm for him. Tuesday numerous searching parties scoured the lonely woods. It was just before dusk that Lester Woods and Henry Laverne, who were searching the woods together with boy scouts, and police, came on the corpse.

They had come upon a spot where the grass bordering the path had been crushed down as if a body had been dragged through it. Following this trail they came upon a large rock, about which was a cluster of newspapers. Near the rock was a suspicious mound of moldering weeds and grass. They brushed aside this debris, beneath it, face downward, lay the body of the child. He was nude to waist. The shoes and stockings had been stripped off. The child's knickers had been used to throttle him. The hands were torn, and the face was blue and covered with scratches.

The boys small hands were discolored with bruises and torn as if by the nails of a frenzied assailant. The face, too, was torn and clothed with blood streaks. There were other evidences of perverted violence which led the police at once to compare the revolting mystery with the death of 13-year-old Robert Franks, of Chicago.

George Stearns, a neighbor of the MacDonalds is the last person known to have seen the boy alive. At that time the child, romping gaily from the front door of his home, started up the path toward the woods used by boys of the neighborhood as a community playground.

Stearns remembers that a stranger, shabbily dressed, had followed the lad into the woods about thirty feet behind.

Four other Americans will be present with the delegation. Premier Herriot heading the French delegation arrived Tuesday, and was greeted at the station by Premier MacDonald. Both statesmen are believed that the conference has been achieved despite the opposition in France and in England to thwart the plan for the parity.

Premier MacDonald, who already has vacated his magnificent office for the office room, will formally welcome the delegation and then turn to discussion of the agenda. The British still are anxious to confine the conference solely to a discussion of the experts report, but officials grant that there is a possibility that other matters will come up due to the great scope of the report. An effort will be made to adjust all phases of the plan and then to call Germany for consultation.

It is understood that the German government has fully informed British men of the importance from the German international point of view, of having a full hearing of the German arguments here. Assurance have been given Germany, it is believed, that the conference is virtually certain. The British, it is learned, believe that any other course would be fatal and do not consider agreeing to the French demand that the Germans merely be summoned to sign a finished protocol, if they are summoned at all.

In arguing the necessity of German representation, the British will depend on the support of both Italy and America and perhaps to force France to agree. Informed observers believe that the French finally will consent to the plan. Despite the great problems which face the conference, the delegates are optimistic. American participation in the conference, coupled with the fact that the authoritative experts report is the basis of discussion gives a new caste to the assemblage. It is now expected that the conference will finish its labors by July 26.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 15.—In an indictment returned Tuesday by the county grand jury, Charles W. Doris, wealthy Long Beach business man is charged with the murder of Mrs. Emma Theresa Doris, his wife and Henry D. Meyer, a business associate.

The shooting occurred in the Doris apartment in Long Beach on June 13, 1924, and according to evidence already secured an argument over money matters started the quarrel.

CHEAPER GASOLINE PRICES PREDICTED FOLLOWING BREAK IN EAST; STATES IN MID-WEST TAKE UP FIGHT ON BIG FIRMS

By United News. NEW YORK, July 15.—Cheaper gasoline for the rest of the summer may be in prospect for motorists thru out the country, following an initial break in the east which brought the price down one cent a gallon.

Aided by favorable conditions in the crude oil market it is believed that local price wars in widely scattered sections may soon spread to somewhere near the proportions achieved by the gasoline "war" of last year, which began when Gov. McMeisters of South Dakota forced the price in his state down from 24 to 16 cents. Tuesday, the principal oil companies announced a cut of one cent that went into effect in New York, New England, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia and surrounding territory. The way was led by the Standard Oil Company, of New York.

This followed a cut of 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil by the Sinclair crude oil purchasing company, bringing the price per barrel down to $1.75. Other producing companies are expected to follow. Binding the situation is a large surplus in the mid-continental fields, where gasoline is said to have been selling in some instances at as low as nine cents. This condition led bargain hunters to send quantities of it to Rochester and Albany last week, with the result that gasoline is now selling at 12 cents in Albany—a drop of four cents from the price of Monday.

"Wildcat" jobbers also are reported to be invading other good markets. The Mid-Continent refiners have contracts with well owners and jobbers which they cannot break, and so must go on buying and refining the crude oil hoping for a turn in the market.

Reports to the United News from the middle west, the south, the southwest and the Pacific coast, have indicated that prices outside the east are holding firm. Price wars have been wont to begin in the middle west and in several isolated instances, these have already occurred. Others are just beginning.

Attorney General Barrett, of Missouri, is planning to prosecute oil companies operating that state for alleged price fixing combinations and Governor Jonathan Davis of Kansas Tuesday demanded that his attorney general investigate gasoline prices in Kansas. Davis said gasoline was selling general at 20 cents while some towns in the state

OFFICIAL ASKS OUSTER ORDER

FILES SUIT AGAINST CEMENT CO. FOR VIOLATION ANTI-TRUST LAWS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 15.—Jesse W. Barrett, Missouri "Trust breaking attorney general," late today filed suit against the Atlas Portland Cement company, of Pennsylvania, charging violation of anti-trust laws.

The attorney general demanded that the cement concern be ousted from the state on strength of purported evidence the company entered into illegal price fixing combinations. The Atlas Portland Cement company was a member of the Midwest Credit and Statistical Bureau, Chicago combination of cement companies which exchanged information on prices. This "open price plan" the attorney general contends is in violation of Missouri statutes.

Although incorporated in Pennsylvania the Atlas Portland Cement company operates one of the largest cement factories in the country near Hannibal, Missouri. Barrett brought similar charges against the Ash Grove Portland Cement company and the Dewey-Portland Cement company, of Kansas City recently. Both firms pleaded guilty, and were fined $10,000 each by the state supreme court and barred from doing further business in the state. Later, the ouster order was suspended and promised the cement companies "would behave" in the future.

Barrett today was planning his drive on the gasoline trust which is expected to culminate before the end of the present week in the filing of suits against all of the major oil companies operating in the state. He is convinced that the cost of gasoline in Missouri is unreasonable, and that the oil concerns have combined to fix prices.

Kansas Gas War Resopens

TOPEKA, July 15.—A war on gasoline prices in Kansas was re-opened here Tuesday when Gov. J. M. Davis addressed a letter to attorney general C. B. Griffith demanding an investigation into the variety of prices charged throughout the state. The governor pointed to the fact that in some places in the state gas was selling at 20 cents a gallon while in other parts it was down to 13.8.

TABBY ADDS CHICKEN TO HER FAMILY

WICHITA, Kas., July 15.—An old tabby cat at the home of a farmer near here has taken a baby chicken to raise in addition to her three small kittens.

The cat has been taking care of the chicken since it was a little fluffy follow a few days old and it is now feathering out. The chicken follows the cat around and they are seldom seen apart. The cat even washes the chicken like she does her kittens and the little chick seems to enjoy the attention and mothering.

FIFTY MISSING IN FIRE ZONE

GREAT APPREHENSION FELT FOR SAFETY OF THOSE YET UNREPORTED

KELLOGG, Idaho, July 15.—While minimizing reports of forest fire deaths, an official here Tuesday afternoon admitted that there were 50 persons not accounted for in the Pine Creek district.

In spite of the admission, however, there is no very great apprehension felt for the safety of those as yet unreported because of the numerous mine shafts and tunnels throughout the district which would afford them safe refuge from the flames. Late Tuesday afternoon a fresh fire broke out and the buildings and the Constitution Mine considered safe earlier in the day were again jeopardized.

New Fire Reported

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Threatening a mountain resort in the San Gabriel Canyon near Pasadena, a forest fire was reported late Tuesday by rangers on Mount Wilson. Fifty men have been dispatched from Opid's Camp, which is one of the resorts threatened. They are not making much headway against the flames, according to foresters reports, and a brisk west wind is making the fight more difficult.

After dying down somewhat during the night, fire which menaced the Angelus National forest, broke over into that reserve Tuesday. Several hundred vacationists, are camped at various points in this area and county forester Flintham has sent warnings to all places accessible.

The Ridge Route, a district of ranch homes, and highway resorts probably will not be reached by the fires raging north, foresters men said. Seven days of battling the flames have at last shown results in checking the fires growing as fresh outbreaks continue further south, moves to close all forest sections in this vicinity to campers, hunters, and fishermen are gaining support.

The city board of directors of Pasadena adopted a resolution Tuesday asking that this drastic step be taken.

Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles has sponsored the conscription scheme for securing fire fighters and preparations are being made to organize 10,000 men into a fire fighting brigade. No loss of life has been reported in Southern California.

GASOLINE REACHES 14c IN EL PASO TUESDAY

EL PASO, Texas, July 15.—Gas prices took another slump Tuesday when several retail distributors met the 14 cent price fixed by a filling station Monday. The Humble company is selling at 12 cents wholesale. Other wholesalers reached by telephone today quoted a price of 14 cents.

MEN ARE BEING CONSCRIPTED INTO SERVICE

ALL TRAFFIC INTO MANY NATIONAL PRESERVES BEING HALTED

By United News. SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 15.—Heroic rescues of human life, conscription of hundreds of men and the ever forward march of the flames in scores of rich timber tracts marked the forest fire situation on the Pacific coast Tuesday.

Fires were raging from British Columbia, 1,200 miles to the north to Los Angeles county 500 miles to the south, and inland as far as Idaho.

The situation, forest officials declare, is growing more menacing hourly and even more drastic efforts to combat the flames will be taken unless they are well in hand soon.

Although more than 100 persons—men, women and children—were reported trapped Tuesday by blazing infernos that were sweeping through stands of timber in Washington, Idaho, and British Columbia, reports from those sections Tuesday afternoon indicated all were safe.

From Wheeler Mill, Washington, where several families live, more than 50 souls, were trapped by flames which surrounded their ranch homes came word that rescue parties had succeeded in braving the rim of fire and that all would soon be brought to safety.

Thirty employes of the Constitution mine near Kellogg, Idaho, made their way to safety early Tuesday after their mine had been surrounded by a blaze. Latest reports, however, say that 50 persons are still unaccounted for in this district.

A fire sweeping Arrow Lake near Nelson, B. C. had surrounded the homes of 12 Doubor ranchers. Fear for their lives was allayed when they came through the fire lines, some of them badly burned by the terrific heat.

In California several separate fires battled by more than 2,000 men were sweeping through Angelus and Santa Barbara forests. Men were being conscripted from the streets of Los Angeles, packed into trucks manned by forest rangers and were being rushed to the scene of the conflagrations.

More than a thousand campers in the Angeles district were said to be in danger. A new blaze sweeping through brush lands near Monterey was engaging the efforts of 500 soldiers from the Monterey presidio late Tuesday afternoon. Two army airplanes were directing the battle and all soldiers stationed in Monterey were being held in readiness to combat the blaze.

In Northern California fires were still sweeping the Klamath, Sierra and Tahoe preserves. Near Shasta all automobiles were being stopped and men and boys were conscripted to battle the flames.

Rains in Oregon and Washington brought encouraging reports on the situation from those states, although many fires were still burning.

Situation Very Serious

"BROKEN OUT" FACES ARE NOT IN STYLE

The girls who can't wear clothes which are in style because they have eczema, rash, tetter, scrofula or a "breaking out" where it would show are more to be pitied than pitied, because there is no need for them to be unattractive in out-of-style dresses when they can get rid of these skin troubles so easily now.

RELEASE OF VALERA IS EXPECTED BY JULY 23RD

DUBLIN, July 15.—Eamonn de Valera, dynamic leader of Ireland's fight for independence, head of the republican opposition to the Free State and picturesque hero of countless dramatic incidents is expected finally to be released from prison within a few days.

It is known that all other prisoners held by the Free State probably will be released simultaneously. President Cosgrave of the Free State, answering questions in the Daily Tuesday regarding the republican prisoners, said that he would make a statement on the question early next week. It is generally understood that this statement will be made on the occasion of the release of the imprisoned men. A Free State government official informed the United Press that it is virtually certain that all prisoners will be free by July 23.

The decision of the Free State authorities comes after a long struggle on the part of the friends of the republicans throughout the world. For months efforts have been made to obtain the release of De Valera and his supporters who are in jails and detention camps in the south of Ireland.

FIRE THREATENS CALIFORNIA OIL FIELD

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 15.—Blazing out of control when a terrific gas explosion destroyed the derrick at the W. H. Fisher oil company's No. 7 well at Signal Hill late Tuesday, fire spread quickly to other derricks in the vicinity and threatened to devastate the whole immediate area.

Two derricks already have been razed, the Lari No. 7 and the Evans No. 7. A huge Union Oil company storage tank, containing 55,000 barrels of oil is directly in the path of the flames as they lap along the oil soaked ground.

Damage already done is estimated at $200,000 with the prospect that this will be greatly increased before the flames are subdued.

A 1,500 barrel tank of the Fisher company near the well at which the fire started exploded soon after the two derricks were destroyed. A large tank of the same company in addition to the big Union Oil company storage station is directly in the path of the blaze.

With the flames still raging unchecked, oil operators said that the fire probably would develop into the worst in the fields history. The tank explosion gave the fire new impetus and little hope was entertained for the companion tank nearby.

ROGUING DEMONSTRATION IS MADE BY EXPERTS AT PAT NIX FARM IN THE CANYON COMMUNITY TUESDAY

County Agent David F. Eaton, assisted by J. D. Tinsley, agricultural agent for the Santa Fe, and R. E. Kerper, superintendent of the agricultural experiment station, went to the Pat Nix farm in the Canyon community to conduct a demonstration in roguing grain sorghums.

This demonstration was attended by the students in vocational agriculture who took the course in the Lubbock high school last year, together with the club boys of that community and several adult farmers.

The agricultural experts are making every effort to have a sufficient amount of pure seed grown in the county to supply the needs of all the farmers another year.

The grain sorghum crop on the Pat Nix farm had been rogued one time before, and this made Tuesday's demonstration more effective as it was necessary for the agriculturalists to pick out the foreign plants that had escaped their attention that time, and the boys who attended the demonstration gained first hand information and valuable practice in assisting in this work.

Each of the club boys of the various communities in the county have plates of grain sorghum on which they are developing pure seed, and they will continue roguing work on these plates until pure seed have been developed.

This work is to be carried on in all communities of the county by the county agent who is determined to raise the standard of field crops here. Mr. Eaton, Mr. Kerper and the agricultural agent for the Santa Fe are rendering a valuable service to the people of this section of the state.

THE RURAL SCHOOL

By W. M. PEVEHOUSE. (County Superintendent Public Instruction.) Recently, at a great gathering of Lubbock county people, the principal speaker of the evening dwelt long and fervently on the condition existing in our nation, of relationship between town folk and rural folk. And the impression was left on the hearers that town people were just country folk living in congested centers, and that that great imaginary barrier that some people think stands between the two? The truth of the matter is, that hardly can either live without the other. The city is ceaselessly ever built unless the farmers are there. I speak of the agricultural commonwealth. No city can be grown, in all probability, in a farming country, unless the man with the hoe comes and builds there his humble cot and later, his luxurious country home. And no country has ever been developed to any extent unless the business man comes and builds in the region a city, with tall buildings and paved streets. Well, to the point. It takes all kind of people to make up a world. It takes all kind of men to make an ordinary nation, and men means mankind in general. There are many some people who prefer to live in the country and we must have some who prefer to live in town. But why the difference of social standing that some people think exists. Recently a town lady of a distant city said, "Oh, don't call us rural, please." One of Lubbock county's foremost farm wives spoke next and said, "Call me rural, I am glad my lot has been cast in so great a land as the South Plains. I am glad to be able to stop forth into the open night air and breathe of the pure breath of the heavens, fraught with fragrance...

of daisies and violets. God's own country, in the wide-open, under the starry skies, far from the smoke and fowl of the struggling city, where one can have time to feel the power of nature, and see the glory of the Creator's hand." Congratulations to the lady who knows where she can call home and enjoys the thought. All praise to the man and wife who know what they want for their home and get it. Bring up your children in an atmosphere that and you set an example that may mean the beginning of a successful career for some boy or girl. Know what you want and go after it. We need farmers and we need city men. Make your choice and then lay it to. But if you choose the open country, do not be ashamed to be called Rural. Some of America's most famous men and women are from the country. Now having chosen your future home, do not imagine that your city friend feels herself above you. The fault is all yours. Set your standard of life just as high as here. Set your aim in society and religious matters on the same level as here. You have a community to work in. She has a town. Now, to the final point. Co-operate with each other in this society and worship, and "lay break down the imaginary barrier that know of rural communities where there is no sign of social activity. Older people should have it. If the children are directed right, we have solved the first problem of the youth of our land. Let them drift. Held in check and guided wisely, they become an asset to any country. Some people wonder why a certain family have such fine boys and girls. Study the case and you will find that some power is behind the throne of home. City homes and country homes are alike in this particular. Some folks turn their children loose to hunt society and others direct them. Each loves the children of the home. Each means well. The trouble is we forget. We are prone to be careless, and underestimate the dangers of a child's habits of immorality that may cling to him through life. This home making is a real business, and we should study it. As a final thought, place yourself in the other fellow's shoes and see what you think under the existing conditions. Follow the golden rule then you will not likely go far wrong. We need more co-operation between the town and country. We need men who know city life to attend to the affairs of the city, and we need men who have never forgotten the rural problems, and have spent their lives out in the open country with the farmer and his family, to help carry on the work that is so vital to an agricultural section. We need those East Texas dirt farmers to come and make their homes with us, bringing their families of children who know and appreciate farm life, and all its joys and woes. All get enough schooling on any right of line. There are rapids in every stream of some other hindrance. But we need more communication between these two groups of people. The farmer and the merchant should endeavor to be something of the homelife of their customers. The business man who makes a real success, must know something of human nature, and court things at the proper time and season. The farmer who stands in with the banker and merchant, must know something of the qualities that are necessary for a man ever to become a real home owner. Ever to be called a real successful business farmer. Some farmers get along well. Others in the adjoining fields do not. Some merchants do well, while others fail. Some communities progress, while others die a slow death. The remedy lies in close co-operation. United efforts, determination, ambitious careful planning. Meet your neighbor on any social problem. Lead the community if it is in your power. Meet the banker and tell him what you are doing on your farm. Have cooperation.

Tourist Are Warned About The Water Contamination

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Warning to vacationists to guard against the possibility of contaminated water to spend their summer recreation period, is given by a Lulu Hunt Peters of San Francisco, Calif., a noted health authority. In a recent article, in which she calls attention to the tests made at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research which revealed that carbonation of beverages kills dangerous bacteria, Dr. Peters says: "If you are in a place where there may be a doubtful or dangerous water supply, or if you are going to such a place this summer, take along some good grade of bottled carbonated soft drinks. In a series of studies on carbonated beverages which were bottled by reliable houses it was found that these carbonated drinks were quite free from bacteria. It was the carbonation and not merely the pressure effect which had to do with the sterilization of the carbonated waters. A little something of the mode of study may be interesting to you. "Different sets of bottles of both the noncarbonated and the carbonated ginger ale were inoculated with germs of typhoid and the colon germs. These samples were stored at room temperature and later, bacterial counts were made. In the noncarbonated ginger ale it was found that the disease germs had rapidly multiplied to the extent of becoming highly dangerous. In the carbonated ginger ale, however, the germs had been killed and the beverages were practically sterile. Dr. Peters heartily agrees with the Mellon Institute scientists who, at the conclusion of the tests she mentions and in announcing the findings that carbonic gas, the gas which puts the bubbles in bottled carbonated beverages, is a powerful germicide, also declared: "From the standpoint of the individual consumer, especially when one is in a strange vicinity with a doubtful or admittedly dangerous water supply, the chances of immunity from disease are better if one drinks only highly carbonated waters and beverages. The presumptive indication of safety is enhanced in such an emergency if it is known that the beverages have been stored for some time before being consumed."

KLAN ISSUE WILL SHOW ITSELF IN ALL ELECTIONS

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The spectre of the Ku Klux Klan, which hovered about the doors of the republican and progressive conventions at Cleveland and stalked boldly about the floor of the democratic convention in New York, is expected to rear itself again in several key-states during the local and congressional campaigns this fall. It is this resurrection of the Klan fight which campaign managers are considering as they begin mapping out plans for capturing seats in congress. As at the New York convention the Klan issue may rise up to overshadow other issues and cause considerable confusion. As a result of the injection of the issue, either covertly or openly into the two major conventions, the fight which began there is expected to be transferred to state conventions his fall, in those states which brought the Klan issue to the national meetings. There are nine states in which the Klan fight may break out afresh this fall. These are Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Missouri, New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. Besides asking state conventions to go on record opponents of the organization may request members standing for congress to state their positions on the Klan issue. Several of these are key states, where the election battles will be waged most vigorously. Injection of the Klan issue may lead to strange results. The progressives will conduct their fight for places in congress independent of the presidential race of Senator LaFollette. They will give new candidates of both parties and independents very close cross examination as to their positions on various issues in deciding whether progressive support will be given them. As for members up for re-election, their vote in congress on leading progressive issues will be the test. B. N. Wheeler commissioner of precinct number three is here from his home near Idalou, attending the commissioners court. READ THE CLASSIFIED ADS

JUST MEN.

One of the prominent citizens of Lubbock approached us yesterday morning and said: "If you don't quit writing such strong editorials on the Klan question, people will begin to believe you are against the Klan." We are no more against the Klan than we are against any organization that will make a little proposition like that an issue strong enough to elect men who are absolutely not qualified for the office that they are asking for. When people vote for the issue rather than qualifications, we are not for that organization, whether it be Klan, anti-Klan, church, lodge, or what not, and we do not believe that the better class of citizenship will vote that way either.

As we see it, people have a perfect right to their views on questions of government, and if they want to belong to the klans that's their business, but we do not believe that they should print a ticket and distribute it around with the information that this is the fellows you should vote for. This is the Klan ticket and this is the anti-Klan ticket.

This question has done much to tear up many communities and divide towns and churches, and anything that will produce a result like that is bound to create a condition that is hurtful. It creates strife. It creates disorder. It tears up co-operation, the greatest thing and the most important and essential thing that goes into the program of building.

Lubbock is at that stage when the closest cooperation is needed. We must all pull together if we are to build a town here. We must work to the better interests of the community if we are to have the city here that we have hoped for. We must have harmony and with organizations operating that have nothing in view but to carry out a program outlined by a certain bunch of fellows because they wear a certain button hole emblem, slip you a certain grip, or wink a certain kind of wink, there is little chance of putting over real big things.

Let us put Lubbock over in a big way. Let's get a lot of this nonsense out of our system and get down to a sane building program. Construction work is the most important factor now. Lubbock must do a lot more building. The needs of the town are not yet supplied in matter of building homes, and there will need to be a large number of dwellings built.

The college work is coming along fine. There will be a large number of people come to Lubbock to take advantage of this wonderful school when it starts, and while it will be possibly fourteen months yet before the school is formally opened, that time will pass quickly, and the need will be upon us before we hardly realize it. We must go into the future with a vision of what we will need, and work to that need.

Within the next few weeks the public school will open. This will bring a number of additional families to the city, and we will need more dwelling houses, and they are not here. People are wanting houses every day, and they will have to go elsewhere if they cannot find them in Lubbock. Let's build, and get away from the isms, axes, and the anti-isms, and build.

DEVELOP A CIVIC SPIRIT.

Lubbock is in the eyes of the world. More is expected of this city than possibly any other city of the state, or the southwest. Lubbock is a word that is on the lips of people. It is the name of a city that has been read about possibly more than any other city in the United States, and it has gained its popularity and notoriety in a way that is commendable. Not through some great disaster was this notoriety given us, but by the location of the Texas Technological College, of which we are proud, and for that reason we should become more and more interested in the town from a civic view point. Let us unite in an effort to make Lubbock the cleanest and most beautiful city of any, and let us remember that cities are made by men and women far more than they are made by location or natural advantages. That fact is especially evident in the histories of the southwestern cities. Just as the will to succeed is half the battle in an individual's life, so the will to build a great, and beautiful city is half the battle in the career of a community. One hears frequently of the "spirit" of some particular city and one hears that it is responsible for a marvelous growth, an outstanding development; a reputation for beauty and culture. There is much truth in such assertions. Cities have characters just as men and women have because cities are but composites of the men and women who dwell within their boundaries. There is a city spirit in every city—it is the community character, and it may be good or bad, optimistic or pessimistic, forward-looking or dull, ambitious or self-satisfied. Some cities seem to have been fortunate in their misfortunes. Without natural advantages they have developed human initiative, energy and achievement to the point where they have passed cities that far outrank them in the 'bounties of nature. It is a distinct advantage to have the natural riches of position and production—unless it lulls the community into a false sense of strength and into a reliance upon the things that come without effort. There is no asset so important as a fine community spirit. It may well outweigh all other advantages. Failure is almost certain to the city which does not have it.

This city has wonderful natural advantages. It has a fine citizenship. It has a good civic spirit to a higher point. It cannot become too strong. It is the one biggest need that we have. The chief effort of our commercial organizations, our business community, all our civic agencies, should be toward the development of an outstanding and overwhelming city spirit that will brook no delay in progress and a failure in the achievement of this city's destiny.

ANOTHER WILSONIAN POLICY.

By all accounts the leading statesmen of Europe are more and more impressed with the possibilities for good of the League of Nations and more and more disposed to take it seriously as a practical proposition. And now another Wilsonian idea has been adopted as a definite policy. Commenting on Premier Herriot's and Premier MacDonald's intention of recognizing in practice Woodrow Wilson's distinction between democratic Germany and Junker Germany, the New Republic pointedly remarks that this new strategy in Paris and London is derived from Wilson's "much abused" policy—the German people "with whom the Western democracies could have no quarrel and the government to which it was impossible to extend quarter."

Though the present application of the idea must necessarily be adapted to new conditions, its Wilsonian origin is unquestionable. It is highly interesting to find two leading European statesmen, more than five years after the armistice, adopting and endeavoring to apply one of Woodrow Wilson's most original policies in their dealings with the most important European problem of the present time. Though still watchful and shrewdly suspicious of Junker Germany, they aim to cultivate the friendship and good will of the German democracy. Such a policy is as far-seeing and wise as it is humane, but not more so than it is when Wilson conceived and announced it in the very midst of war's passions. In seeking to apply this great and new idea, the Premiers of France and England are paying tribute to the range and vision of Woodrow Wilson's leadership even while they endeavor to grapple effectively with the most serious of Europe's problems.

LAFOLLETTE ROARS GENTLY.

LaFollette's platform, like too many platforms, appears to be designed as a catch-all for voters rather than as a clear statement of boldly decisive policy—although it bids especially for the German and Irish vote. In his speech of acceptance LaFollette boasted that he "never avoided or evaded issues" and would "not do so now," yet his platform, though declaring that war should be outlawed, is silent on both the League of Nations and the World Court. It says nothing about prohibition, and like the Republican platform, avoids mention of the Ku Klux Klan. The Democratic also evaded this issue at the last, but they at least boldly fought over it on the convention floor, finally deciding by the narrowest of majorities not to mention the Klan by name. An anti-Klan plank was denied discussion even in LaFollette's resolution committee, his "key-note" charging that Underwood brought the Klan fight to Madison Square Garden at the behest of Wall Street in order to disrupt the Democratic party. The obvious moral of this tale is that LaFollette's party is too shrewd and too lacking in boldness to touch this particular kind of dynamite.

Of course, LaFollette demands public ownership of railroads. He also requires the "democratic operation" thereof—whatever that may mean. He calls for withdrawal of the power of the courts to nullify legislation, the abolition of injunctions in labor disputes, an elective Federal Reserve Board. But all these are pale issues at the moment. His declaration against "financial imperialists" and "oil monopolists" is as safely general as his promised relief to farmers is vague. His platform is refreshingly brief, but this is to be accounted for by its significant omissions and evasive generalities.

THIRD PARTY CONVENTION.

Delegates and officials of the Conference for Progressive Political action and the LaFollette for-President Committee to the number of more than 1,000 gathered at Cleveland July 4 and 5. These delegates represented organizations of Labor, Farmers, and Independent political groups having at the lowest estimate 5,000,000 members. In this progressive movement, women have taken a conspicuous part both in matters of organization and in drafting the platform, and the importance of their future services in the campaign has been recognized by giving them an equal voice with men in the national committee and in the management of the campaign. The convention unanimously decided to permit Mr. LaFollette to select his own running mate, which is a very important matter from several angles. Owing to the prolongation of the Democratic convention, Senator LaFollette is embarrassed for the moment in making that selection. He wants a progressive Democrat if he can get one. Geography also has to be taken into consideration. If the election should go to Congress, and that body should be unable to agree, the Senate will be compelled to elect one of the vice presidential candidates.

The assessed value of all property subject to taxation under the general property tax in 1921 was $128,667,000,000, and the true value $178,306,000,000. This does not represent the total wealth, inasmuch as personal property largely escapes taxation.

DEBS ENDORSES LA FOLLETTE AND URGES ALL SOCIALISTS TO FALL IN LINE AND GIVE HIM SUPPORT

International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Eugene V. Debs today formally declared himself for LaFollette, for president, and urged all members of the socialist party to support the Wisconsin senator. This is the first formal statement that Debs has made since the adjournment of the socialist convention at Cleveland, where they met and adjourned without putting a candidate in the field.

As head of the socialist party, Debs declared the socialist alliance with LaFollette constitutes the "grasping of this golden opportunity at this supreme juncture with formation of an American labor party in sight."

Labor Urged to Vote for LaFollette. NEW YORK, July 15.—A movement to force the American Federation of Labor to back the candidacy of Senator LaFollette for president is said to be in progress among a number of the leaders of several national labor groups. The plan being formulated would bring pressure to bear upon Samuel Gompers to endorse the independent ticket in the hope that a third party will come out of the November elections.

The American Federation of Labor, under the guidance of Gompers, always has stood alone from any partisan affiliation in politics. It has fought its enemies and backed its friends with no regard to party lines. Now labor leaders indicate that the executive board meeting in Atlantic City August 1, will not adjourn until the matter of lining up with the independent party has been fought out thoroughly.

Meanwhile Gompers, conversing at Coney Island has remained silent to the newspapers. It is said, however, that he has not withdrawn his opposition to joining with a political party.

PUBLIC OPINION

To The Avalanche: A democrat solely for the information I ask: Who are the Citizens Campaign Committee?

By What Authority was this committee created? What authority are they acting as such a committee?

My object is not to take sides for any candidate; but I ask only for information as a citizen and a democrat.

THE ABOVE QUESTIONS PUT BY GEO. L. BEATTY IN TUESDAY MORNING'S AVALANCHE SEEM TO ME TO BE TIMELY AND APPROPRIATE.

I am a democratic woman voter, and it is time that "Citizens Committee's" Klu Klux Klan Constitutional League" etc., etc., were made to realize that they are only minorities, instead of majorities, when it comes to making out tickets for the masses to vote upon. The day is now, right now, at hand when the men and the women of Texas and the Nation, must demand that clean, competent men be put into our public offices.

I can't see much difference in those running "political advertisements" and signing same "Citizens Committee," and in those being endorsed by the three K's, Farm Labor League, Farm Bureau" etc.

If a man is not competent for office to be elected by the masses, the democrats of Texas, without entering to the various committee's and issues of the present day, he is not worthy of a public trust.

I, too, would like to know, who composes the "Citizens Committee," the "Constitutional League" and various other non-meaning non-democratic being signed to political advertisements, circulars, etc.

I expect to vote the democratic ticket, and to vote for the aspirant for office on that ticket, who after investigation, I believe to be best fitted for the office to which he aspires. Not because he has the endorsement of this or that ism, but because I believe he will make the best officer.

In closing it might be well to state that there are hundreds of democratic women who will have a say at the ballot box in the coming primaries.

WOMAN VOTER.

CAMPAIGN BOSS TO BE SELECTED BY DEMOCRATS

By LYLE C. WILSON. NEW YORK, July 15.—John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, expected the national committee man who also will act as his campaign manager to be chosen this week. Davis made this known Monday at a meeting with newspapermen, but added he would "make no pretense of saying who the new chairman will be."

The decision was expected to be made at a conference Monday night between Davis and Cordell Hull, the present chairman of the national committee, who came from Washington for the meeting with the nominee.

Davis' political conference since his nomination have devoted largely to consideration of who shall direct his campaign, and to the speech of acceptance. Davis said Monday that in all of his conferences with political leaders he had been gathering their views on the speech he will make when he is officially notified of his nomination. This ceremony will take place at Clarkburg, W. Va., the first week in August.

In this speech, the democratic candidate will stress the issues on which he and his party will wage their fight this fall. It will mark the official opening of the democratic offensive.

An earlier expression of the nominee's political views, but not the complete pronouncement such as he will make at Clarkburg, may be heard Wednesday night, when Davis will speak before the first reception tendered him since his nomination. This has been arranged by his fellow citizens at Locust Valley, L. I., where Davis has his country home.

Davis has announced he will make wide use of the radio in his campaign and the speech Wednesday morning from a short trip to his experience since his victory at Madison Square Garden. Davis has declared all along, however, that his public utterances would not go deeply into politics until after the notification. The identity of the new national chairman remains as obscure as ever, with the names of Frank Polk, Clem Shaver and Vance McCormick prominently mentioned.

Davis was asked Monday whether the choice would probably fall on Polk.

"Frank's a good man," was the reply. Polk has said he did not want the position.

Shaver, the man who led the loyal group of West Virginians in support of Davis at the convention, is returning from a short trip to his home state and will confer with the presidential nominee in the morning.

Others who saw Davis at the Manhattan home of Frank Polk Monday were Ed Moore, of Ohio; Isadore Dockweiler, of California; Senator Owen, of Oklahoma; Governor Trappe, of Oklahoma; Scott Ferris, national committeeman from that state and Wm. M. Hinton, of West Virginia.

Governor Trappe said he had told Davis Oklahoma would go democratic in November by 6,000 votes.

YOUTH HALTED IN SPENDING BY BANK PROCESS

EL PASO, July 15.—A "highbrow" New England youth showed up in El Paso for an extended visit. He expected to spend freely. A banker back in his home town, chartered about 1870, wrote to a Elrat National banker a glowing letter about the young New Englander.

The young New Englander wanted $10,000 checking privilege here.

"His father was a big man here," his home town banker wrote. "His father's father and great grandfather were distinguished in New England."

He is a promising young heir. And his mother's lineage is notable. But no where did the latter say

Would willingly comply, Both men and women served his will Throughout the busy day, And no doubt felt a nervous chill Whenever he came their way.

Downtown he was a ruling force, A figure sharp and stern, And there both young and old, of course,

His whims were quick to learn; They knew what service pleased him best And hastened to obey, And seemed to take an interest In following his way.

Men listened to his simplest word, To none he ordered twice; With him financial gifts conferred Respecting his advice.

"Supreme, you are," I said to him, "From dawn unto the gloam, Downtown they heed your slightest whim, But how is it at home?"

Said he, "I get things quickly done For here they fear my wrath, At home I cannot get my son To wish to take a bath.

And though he is my pride and joy, No heed he pays to me, I cannot get that healthy boy To wash his hands for tea.

"I cannot wet that boy of mine My orders to obey; He doubts the wisdom that is mine And has a lot to say.

When I attempt to tell him why A boy should calmly be, He laughs my words to scorn." Said I— "That's how it is with me."

NEW HOTEL NEAR COMPLETION AT TAHOKA

TAHOKA, July 15.—The roof is being placed on the new 40-room brick Keltner Hotel at this place. The inside finishing work has begun. The Keltner Brothers, who own the half block on which the hotel stands, also plan to build two or three business buildings just south of the hotel in the near future.

The two new Holloway and Edwards Gins are practically complete, making five Gins to take care of the large acreage in cotton near Tahoka. Besides the five here, there are two other Gins in Lynn county.

KAW VALLEY POTATO CROP BIGGEST IN AMERICA

KANSAS CITY, July 15.—Shipping of potatoes is in full swing and Kaw Valley is "tolling in wealth." According to information received by officials of the Union Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads the valley's production of potatoes, the biggest production in America at this time of the year, is larger than last year and is a fine average crop.

Already the Union Pacific has taken out of the valley about four hundred carloads of Cobler and Red River Ohio potatoes, and the Santa Fe about 325 carloads since July 1.

With fifteen thousand acres in potatoes, the valley's production is estimated to require thirty nine hundred cars for shipment.

Officials of the Union Pacific railroad, which runs along the north side of the valley, declared they expected to carry 2400 carloads of potatoes from the 9,084 acres along the line.

The bulk of the potatoes is being brought to Kansas City and consigned to Chicago, Denver, St. Paul, Minneapolis and points in Illinois and Texas.

With 5,600 acres along its line on the south side of the river the Santa Fe expects to use about fifteen hundred cars, according to officials of that road.

Although the acreage this year is smaller than last year, the crop is expected to be larger, due to the more careful attention given this year.

U. S. ATHLETICS SWEEP FORWARD AGAIN IN OLYMPIC CONTESTS PLACING POINTERS IN EVENTS ON BOTH LAND AND WATER TUES.

PARIS, July 15. (UN)—America's Olympic athletics swept forward again Tuesday, both on the water and on land. The Yale team, which is America's representative in the eight-oared races, finished six lengths ahead of the Canadians in their heat on the Seine at Argentuil with Holland a trailing third.

Martha Norlieus, Helen Wainwright, and Gertrude Ederle finished one, two, three in the final of the women's 400 meters free style swimming races without any difficult change from the outside.

In the preliminary boxing matches, at the Velodrome d'Haiver, American knuckles swung with wood effect winning four of the opening bouts.

And on the tennis courts, the United States advanced with few casualties.

In the final of the women's 400 metre swimming race, the three American girls provided their own fight all of them challenging for the first place. The best position taken by the opposition was fourth which went to Miss Moiesworth. Miss Norlieus took the title by a sprint in the last ten meters. Miss Ederle led to the Salway Point where Miss Wainwright overhauled and passed her. Miss Norlieus saved herself off the pace until the last splash when she forged through the water to pass them both and win by an arm. All three were across the finish line within a space of two seconds.

Helen Wills Shows Much Form
Helen Wills of California showed brilliant form in defeating Miss Satterthwaite of England, 6-1, 6-2 in the second round of the women's tennis singles. Miss Wills seemed to be much more at home on the hard courts than she had been on the British turf and her game was much improved.

Francis Hunter, who has been short of practice owing to an injury in his right arm, was dismissed from the men's singles by Gene Wassser of Belgium after a hard struggle, 2-6, 1-6, 6-2, 6-1, 4-4. Hunter wobbled after winning the first two sets and Wassser went to him with terrific intensity bowling him before the power and enthusiasm of his attack. R. N. Williams, captain of the American team, defeated Macenean of Czechoslovakia, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. He turned an ankle and it was thought that the victory had cost the United States a valuable player for Williams said he would be unable to continue. He came back however in a doubles match with Watson Washburn. Washburn did most of the work and they beat Robert and Goussard of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Vincent Richards had a hard time with Sleem of India, but beat him 8-6, 1-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Washburn met Van Lennah of Holland in a singles match and won 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

U. S. Wins Mixed Doubles
In the mixed doubles, Mrs. Malory and Neilhausen of Norway defeated Mrs. Dupont and Wassser of Belgium, 1-6, 6-3, 7-5. Mrs. Marion Jessup and Richards of the United States won from Mrs. Elliott and Jean Borotra of France, 6-3, 6-1.

Miss Eleanor Goss of the American team took a match by default.

62 ENTRIES MADE IN 1ST ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

The first annual golf tournament on the municipal course got under way formally yesterday afternoon, with a total of 62 entries for the meet, including men, experienced in the game from their participation on the Country Club links, as well as a few who didn't know which end of a golf stick to use until the municipal course was opened here just a short time ago.

Despite the almost prohibitive hot weather which prevailed until the late afternoon of Tuesday, many of them were enthusiastically rampaging around the Tee box for No. 1 green at 3 o'clock and submitted themselves to the scorching rays of a burning sun until it had disappeared over the western horizon, bringing some relief from the sultry atmosphere. Several of the qualifying rounds were played but on account of the large number of entries, qualification contests may be prolonged for two or three days. However, this is one of the most interesting parts of the tournament, as participants will extend themselves some if necessary to successfully break through the preliminary rounds.

Contestants have been paired off, either by drawing or by personal arrangements and will be required to take on their opponent at the earliest moment possible. Many will be playing possibly in the wee small hours of the morning before old Sol rears his head too high in the warming process. Others possibly will take the early afternoon for their jamboree, while still others in their attempts to guard against the burning rays of the sun will run the gamut in the late afternoon.

The fairway on the municipal course is hardly as desirable as the one at the country club, and is some little trouble to some who have been accustomed to the latter course. Floyd Bowen, local enthusiast and one who has been long at the game, pounded his way through a nine hole round yesterday with Ona Sears, but not being accustomed to the course, evidently lost all count during some of his wild encounters with entanglements, and came out at the end much wiser. He says he will negotiate the course on the next attempt much more easily. McLarty, one of the Country Club's best, also experienced considerable difficulty in his practice round, and brought up the rear of a string of four. The water hazard from No. 3 seemed to be Mac's greatest difficulty, as he bathed two sinkers before he could negotiate the drive across.

More interest is being taken in this tournament than we had any idea would be," said J. O. Smith in commenting on the meet, "and more entries yet are expected."

BOMAR MOORE WILL MEET OLSON HERE NEXT MONDAY

Final contracts have been signed for the Bomar Moore-Chas. Olson tangle, and the match will be staged at the city auditorium here on next Monday night, July 21, beginning at 8:30. The match will be to a finish best two out of three falls, with no time limit.

Olson is working out daily, and according to his statement is preparing for one of the hardest tussles in his career of twelve years in the professional wrestling game. He also expresses an eagerness to get at the once local idol, and the one yet who has a large following of friends and boosters in this city.

"I am preparing for a hard match" said Olson last night in commenting on the coming tussle, "but I am also preparing for a win of the match and expect to down Moore three times in as many minutes, if possible." Meaning to say that there would certainly be no monkey business about it. "I claim to be a clean, straight-out wrestler," Olson continued, "and one who has that reputation in all parts of the country where I have appeared, but I can get rough if the other fellow does, and expect to tangle things to a fare-you-well with Moore here."

Moore is expected to arrive here Saturday. The mat will be constructed in the center of the spacious auditorium at the corner of 10th Street and Avenue J., with the seats arranged in a circle around the mat, and plans are being made to accommodate one of the largest crowds that has ever gathered on a similar occasion.

Tickets will be placed on sale today at Bowen's Drug Store.

RALLY IN THE EIGHTH BRINGS YANKS TO VICTORY

The old punishing power which once made the Yankee batting order famous under the name of "Murderer's row" returned in the eighth inning of Tuesday's ball game between the Yanks and the St. Louis Browns on the New York lot. Four consecutive singles by Witt, Dugan, Ruth and Bob Musel scored two runs, tied the count at four-all and chased Urban Shocker, the Browns pitcher, out of the box. Another run came in before the inning closed and the Yanks won 5 to 4.

The Washington club won from the Indians in Washington 4 to 2, even though Buck Harris, the young manager of the capital team was under suspension for poor deportment on the field. Covaleskie of the Indians started wildly, forcing in two runs in the first and Walter Johnson breezed along to another victory in his old age. The Senators thus maintained a close pursuit of the Yanks who led the league by a slight margin.

The other two games also were won by first division clubs. The White Sox made it three straight, beating the Red Sox in Boston 8 to 6 and the Tigers outwitted the Athletics in Philadelphia 11 to 9. There were 29 hits in this game.

In the National league the Cubs dropped their fourth consecutive

AIRLINE HIGHWAY TO LEVELLAND POSTPONED; RAILROAD SURVEY TO DETERMINE NEW DIRT ROAD

Promoters of the Lubbock to Cochran county branch railroad met Monday of this week with the Levelland Chamber of Commerce and the Hockley Co. Commissioners Court for the purpose of getting that county to postpone the opening of the "Airline" Highway from Levelland to Lubbock. That body informed the men interested in the railroad project that nothing definite would be done on the new Highway for at least a reasonable time and that they would be willing to let the new highway follow that a railroad would be constructed in the near future.

It is known that the opening of the proposed new Highway to Lubbock was holding off one man who owns a very large body of land and who is counted upon to help in securing the new railroad. After the meeting with the Hockley County Commissioners this man in question, it is reported from unquestionable sources, signed up for his part of the Railroad bonus.

Mr. Whaley of Gainesville, another large land owner of Hockley county is expected to be in Lubbock today or to-morrow and will assist if possible in securing the wanted bonus, approximately one-half having been subscribed at this time.

Will Name Meeting Tonight.
Mr. J. A. Wilson of this City who is working on securing the bonus will meet with the Levelland Chamber of Commerce tonight for the purpose of giving the people of that community all of the available information on the proposed road, also to explain the proposition and to secure members of that body to assist in securing the remainder of the bonus. This they will gladly do according to the President and Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of that City.

Believe Road A Certainty
It is now, for the first time, believed by the citizenship of Hockley County that a bonifide project which they are able to put over is at hand and to say that the people of Levelland are enthused over the prospects is to put it very mild. Some of the prognosticators are willing to venture predictions based on the ability to raise the bonus wanted, that surveys will be in that county within the next sixty days. However, the citizenship is afraid to express themselves too confidently for fear that some might not help on the bonus and thus knock the whole project in the head.

Fire fighters battling the advancing peril in the Angelus reserve and in San Gabriel canyon, near Pasadena, were preventing further spread in those sections. Government and county camps are established and volunteers are being sent out as rapidly as they come forward. Further conscription of man power is unlikely, it was stated.
The San Gabriel canyon fire in the first in seven months in the Sierra Madre range and the section is settled with resorts, summer camps, and private lodges. At present these are not directly threatened, but foresters do not deny the grave danger if the flames are not checked.

CHEAPER GASOLINE PRICES PREDICTED

were making a profit by retailing it at 16 cents.

The eastern reduction brought the retail price down to 22 cents and the tank wagon price to 19. In New England the New retail price is 21 1/2 cents and the tank price is 19.
Pennsylvania has a state gas tax of two cents a gallon which left prices at from 24 to 26 cents a gallon in Pittsburgh and 20 c a gallon in Philadelphia. The standard price in Chicago is 19 cents retail and 18c tank wagon, and oil companies here as in other districts are far from expecting to declare there is no chance for a further slash. The last Chicago cut was one of a cent a gallon about three months ago.

In Missouri where Barrett was starting the latest price war the price is generally 20c, except in Kansas City where a local battle forced it down to 17c. In Atlanta, where a recent reduction of two cents a gallon was effected, the present price of 24 cents and an advance on coupon books indicates that gas soon will be back to 26 cents, according to dealers there.

AT THE CHURCHES

Church of Christ
In the absence from the city of Bro. Carney the pulpit was filled by Bro. Metcalf at both hours Sunday. Sunday School did splendid work reports from every part of the work is encouraging except a small decrease in attendance.
Bro. B. Sherrod as leader of the Young Peoples Bible study at 7:30 is succeeding well in this work.
He not only is a good teacher of the Bible but understands Young Peoples and is accomplishing much good.
The sermon for the morning was "What is a Christian?" At the evening hour "The Mission of the Church" was discussed by Bro. Metcalf in a very able manner. This sermon was to the church and gave all a broader vision of what we can do for Christ in love, in rescue work and in sounding out the gospel.
The prayers and best wishes of the entire church follow Bro. Metcalf in his Meeting at Levelland.
Bro. Sheriffs, a returned Missionary from Africa will speak at the Church Wednesday evening. All are invited.

MEADOR THANKFUL FOR EFFORTS OF FIREMEN

Fully appreciative of the efforts put forth by the Lubbock Fire Department during the conflagration which yesterday totally destroyed the Lubbock Poultry and Egg Company, and for a time threatened the Lubbock Produce Company which was damaged to an unknown extent, W. H. Meador, proprietor of the Lubbock Produce, last night advised Fire Chief Twitty to call at the Avalanche office and receive a check for $50 stating that this would in no wise compensate for their efforts, but would to a certain extent express his appreciation.
Mr. Meador stated that his loss was yet unknown pending a final check up as they yet have been unable to approach the engine and condenser of the refrigeration plant, on account of the Ammonia gas that is escaping from a disjunct pipe leading to the ammonia tank.
The rear of the building, together with much stock, was damaged to a slight extent by the fire and water, but the flames were checked before they had gained much headway. Damaged to the south wall, which bore the brunt of the heat attack from the adjoining frame building, had not been ascertained last night, but it is feared that this will have to be rebuilt.
A final check of the loss is being held up pending the appraisal to be made by the insurance companies.

J. M. MARSHALL WITHDRAWS FROM RACE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Having entered the race for district attorney late, I have been handicapped by finding many people pledged in good faith to support one or the other of my opponents, but of whom entered the race much earlier than I did.
I entered the race with the best of motives, thinking that qualifications and fitness for office would be the only issues. It seems now that the Klux question is one of the paramount issues. I am not a Kluxer, but many people, among them some of my best friends, have expressed a desire that Mr. Dalton or I one get out of the race, saying that we stood for the same principles. While my friends have been kind enough to express their confidence in me and have assured me of their continued friendship, still they say that as Mr. Dalton has been on the plains all of his life and had been in the race three or four months before I got into the race, that I could hardly expect that he get out of the race. The Dalton supporters have urged another question, should Lubbock county claim all the districts of Hockley or let other counties share in that honor.
Since Lubbock county has a candidate for this office and had before I entered the race, and since the name has been sharply drawn on the Klux question, I have decided to get out of the race.
I am glad to state that I have never spoken a word of criticism

FOUR UNDER ARREST FOR ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15.
Four of five bandits who fought a costly gun battle with Paul E. Cole, cashier of the Citizens Security Bank of Englewood, were accounted for by local police Tuesday night. One was dead, from bullet wounds inflicted by the cashier, who singlehanded and without injury to himself successfully resisted their efforts to rob the bank. His body, found slumped at the wheel of an abandoned automobile on the outskirts of the city, was identified as that of Joseph Camarata.
Three others, Alfred Lovette, Connie Clifford, and A. J. Folsom were identified by the cashier and bystanders to the sensational gunfight. Lovette carried a bullet wound in his right wrist. They were picked from a score of characters rounded up by police in underworld haunts.
A fifth suspect, Ed Dickey, was taken into custody tonight. He has a bullet wound in his neck and is unable to talk. Police believe he was the fifth man who took part in the attempted hold up.

Rains Are Needed In The Meadow Community

MEADOW, July 15—Crops in this immediate vicinity are needing rain but are nevertheless holding out mightily well and if the farmers' wishes are fulfilled and rain is received within another week bumper crops will be raised here. Unfortunately this section has been missed by the heavy local showers that visited the plains early in July but due to the fine quality of the soil crops have made unexpected growth despite the comparative dry weather.

STOCK TURNOVER GOES BEYOND MILLION

By EDWARD J. CONDLON
NEW YORK, July 15.—The Tuesday session in the stock market was one of contradictory movements. Evidently a large part of the speculative interest is undecided whether technical reactions due will be of sufficient size to force a wide liquidation in the market. However, with the ebb and flow of prices creating an uncertain outlook for the immediate future of the market Tuesday saw the turnover of stocks mount beyond a million shares.

WOMENS CLOTHES WEIGH EIGHT OUNCES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 15.—No wonder the looks cool, you say as the good looking young lady passes by. Her clothes weigh but twenty-four ounces, while the man next to her weighs in more than four pounds of heat producing raiment.

A model for a clothing firm consented to demonstrate just how much the well dressed modest young lady adds to her weight when fully dressed. Minus the hat and slippers she weighs exactly eight ounces of clothing which is the exact weight of a man's B. V. D's.

So imagine yourself stepping out in only your B. V. D's; you'd have some idea of how cool it is possible for your lady friend to be on a hot summer day.

The lightest clothing that a man can wear on a summer day and yet be presentable on the street is four pounds and fifteen ounces or eighty-nine ounces.

The clothes the well dressed presentable young lady wears, including hat and slippers is exactly twenty-four ounces. Weighed each separately they total as follows:

Shoes, thirteen ounces; hat, three ounces; hose, one ounce; brassier, one ounce; tiddies, one ounce; dress and slip, five ounces.

Shoes of popular cut-out effect, soft patent kid and turned soles. Hat of bangkok straw. Brassier was a life lace and silk thing; the tiddies of sheer crepe de chine; and the dress of tan georgette and lace, over a shadow proof silk slip.

A man's outfit weighed: Hat,

STATES ATTORNEY IN LEOPOLD AND LOEB SAY CITY LABORATORY HELP TO FRAME INSANITY DEFENSE PLEA

By United News.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 15—An astonishing development arising from the murder of 14 year old Robert Frank by Nathan F. Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb was disclosed Monday through an investigation instituted by the state attorney's office.

The investigation revealed that the municipal psychopathic laboratory an agency maintained by the city of Chicago, has been assisting in preparing the insanity defense which Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the two young intellectual slayers, will introduce in the hope of saving them from the gallows. Dr. Wm. J. Hickson, head of the city's laboratory, and chief justice Harry Olson, of the Chicago municipal court, has been assisting attorneys and alienists retained by the defense, it was admitted. And Dr. Hickson, he himself has been assisting the alienists with his store of experience in dealing with physical and mental abnormalities, garnered at the expense of the people of Chicago.

"This is certainly an unprecedented situation," State's Attorney Crowe said. "Here we have two confessed murderers, the sons of rich men, the perpetrators of a most brutal and revolting crime, trying to escape the gallows. Their attempts to escape hanging are being aided by an institution owned and paid for by the people of Chicago. This is beyond me. I don't understand how public servants could lend themselves to such an enterprise."

Local attorneys who have been following the complexities of the Franks case pointed out that a most unusual situation had arisen—one which the people were paying both for the prosecution and for a portion of the defense in a murder case.

Dr. Hickson refused to comment on his efforts in behalf of the defense, beyond admitting that he believed the two slayers—the Franks—would not be hanged for the crime. Both he and chief justice Olson have informed attorneys for the defense that in their opinion the two young murderers should not suffer the death penalty, because they were not responsible for their crimes. Next Monday one of the preliminary skirmishes in the case will take place. The day has been fixed as one for the defense to introduce any preliminary motions it may have. An earlier plan to ask for a change of venue has been abandoned, according to a statement from Darrow's office. Now it is said, that no attempt will be made to delay the trial which has been set for August 4. The decision of the defense counsel not to delay the trial was taken by representatives of the state's attorneys office to indicate that the high priced battery of alienists retained by the multimillionaire families of the two killers had found a basis for an insanity defense. "We are ready for them," Crowe said. "We think we know something about insanity ourselves. If these murderers were insane then all of us are crazy."

BROTHER AND SISTER ENTER MARRIAGE ALLIANCE

WHITTIER, Cal., July 12—"It seems as if I never could love any man well enough to marry him except Brother Frank!"

Evaline Faulkner, 19, lithe, graceful, stood before her mother, Mrs. J. C. Faulkner, looking at her out of her big black eyes.

Evaline Faulkner, transplanted Californian, has a way of saying things as though she means them. Also, she has a way of meaning things she says.

The odd statement was made in a recent heart-to-heart talk between mother and daughter about marriage. Mrs. Faulkner admitted that, used as she is to direct statements from her daughter she was startled out of self composure by this one.

"I don't honestly believe I could ever love a woman well enough to marry her—unless it was Sister Evaline!"

Frank Faulkner, 23, square of shoulder and jaw, looked down upon his father, J. C. Faulkner, transplanted Californian rancher as he spoke. He is clear of eye—blue eyes—and fair of hair.

The elder Faulkner "allowed" that his son's statement was something of a solar plexus.

That night Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner, father and mother, talked into the darkness, after son and daughter had retired.

Then they went to an old trunk and took out some documents.

And now Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner and Evaline and Frank are journeying eastward to Rhode Island, where brother and sister are to be married.

No, it isn't a scandal. It's just as natural as can be, real life affair, it is "stranger than fiction."

It all hinges on those musty documents that came out of the trunk. Some years after the Faulknors had been married they became greatly concerned by absence of children. Finally their attention was drawn to a little waif who had been left parentless—a boy of seven months.

That was away back in the thriving town of Pawtucket, R. I. Perhaps you never heard of Pawtucket, but you have heard of Providence, and Pawtucket is just close by—"down the road a spell" as the New Englanders say.

Well, there was a legal adoption and the baby boy became Frank Faulkner. Faulkner took his family to the "range" in Northern Minnesota, to try his luck among the iron mines. They lived a short time in Duluth and a longer time in Superior, Wis., close to Duluth.

Things went well in a financial way but the Faulknors did not like the idea of the boy being brought up as an only child. Then there came to the attention of the activities of the State School at Faribault, Minn., an institution which places orphans in homes. Through a newspaper friend, Faulkner learned of a baby girl, which the State School had to give away.

Minnesota's adoption laws always have been rather rigid as a copy of a paper which Faulkner finally obtained from the district court in Duluth shows. But it gave over to him and his wife the girl baby, after a period of six months probation spent by the baby in their home. Her name was legally changed to Evaline Faulkner and she and Frank grew up together as brother and sister never knowing until a few days ago that they were not really so, nor that they were not the own children of their adopted parents.

But neither cared much for the company of others of the opposite sex. They were the most devoted pair imaginable and finally their lack of interest in other young people of the opposite sex became a subject of serious consideration by their elders.

And then came, in separate statements, daughter to mother and son to father when the young folks were questioned, the amazing admission that they cared too much for each other ever to marry.

Thus far is one permitted to see into this interesting family affair. After that, one was only allowed to know that the musty adoption paper given by the state of Minnesota were shown the young folks, that there was a moment or so of intense silence and that now—

The "happiest quartet in the world" as the elder Faulkner put it, is journeying back to Rhode Island where Faulkner relatives live, and there a brother and sister will marry.

Judge F. R. Swain assured the Faulknors that, with proper proof of lack of actual relationship established, no marriage clerk in the United States would refuse the young folks a license.

SANTA FE SUPERINTENDENT HERE MONDAY ON BUSINESS

Supt. J. F. Anton, of the Santa Fe Railway Company, was here Monday from Slaton on official business.

Mr. Anton stated that no report had been received on the proceedings made in regard to the construction of the tracks on the grounds of the Texas Technological College, but that announcement of this action would probably be made within a short time.

Supt. Anton is one of the big men of West Texas who has keen interest in all matters pertaining to the construction of the college, and he may be depended upon to do everything possible toward advancing the building program and in looking after the interests of the college after it has been completed insofar as its connection with the railroad is concerned.

At a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Lubbock, which was attended by the building committee of the college, Mr. Anton declared that the Santa Fe would do everything within its power toward helping in the development of that institution and his friends in Lubbock appreciate the attitude he has exhibited toward that all important Texas institution.

The work that has been done by the Santa Fe in the development of West Texas and in Lubbock is appreciated by the entire citizenship, and it is fortunate for Lubbock that she has in Mr. Anton one who is alert in all matters pertaining to her development and in the development of all the plains country.
