Neff Proclaims Observance National Defense Day Test

BARTON PLANS OBSERVANCE OF DAY IN TEXAS

WILL ISSUE INSTRUCTIONS FOR APPOINTMENT OF LOCAL COMMITTEES

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 26.—Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton, and Lt. Thomas H. Christian, acting aide to Major General Hinds, commanding eighth corps area, U. S. A., headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, in conference here today, got plans under way for observance in Texas of national defense test day in accordance with Governor Neff's proclamation. General Barton, who has been designated as chairman of the Texas national defense committee, will send letters to every mayor in the state requesting appointment of local committees to arrange for patriotic exercises, the mayors to be chairmen of the committees.

"There is absolutely nothing of a military nature in these defense day plans," said Lt. Christian. "It is merely a patriotic revival, which, it is hoped, will impress upon the people the importance of the national defense act of 1920, passed by their representatives in congress with a view of future protection of the country. Service on this ray will be entirely voluntary on the part of all civilians. All that is asked is that the local committees arrange suitable patriotic programs in which speeches, parades, and other efforts of a patriotic character are included. The regular army, national guard, and the organized reserves are directed to cooperate in every way possible with the local committees and will do everything in their power to assist in these programs.

COMIC SECTION LOST.

We regret to state this morning that the comic section of the Sunday Morning Avalanche is missing. Some way or other, it has gone astray and failed to reach us. The shipment is being traced, and may arrive in a few days. But we regret very much the disappointment of the children as they grab for the paper this morning to find no "funny" there. We have invoices for the shipment which left the World Color-Print Company's presses in time to reach us, but is lost. We hope this will never occur again. It never has before, and we are sure that it is purely accidental and is no fault of any person.

In closing, the American ambassador thanked the conference conferees for the compliment extended to America when they invited Colonel Logan himself and other American colleagues to participate in the meetings. He thanked them for "the uniform courtesy and the friendly spirit shown." After Ambassador Kellogg had finished talking, Chancellor Marx, chief of the German delegation, moved before the conferees. He started talking and for 45 minutes discussed the various phases of the agreement which had been reached. The remarks of the German chancellor were greeted with warm applause. "We are much encouraged," Marx said, "by the extensive provisions for arbitrating. I hope they will be used in practice and that wars will come to an end. We hope that in the future the spirit of peace and reconciliation evinced at this conference will be applied to international affairs." Marx promised Germany's collaboration toward the furtherance of peace, and humanity. MacDonald Applauded. The plenary session went off like clockwork. Premier MacDonald entered the room after all the delegates had been seated, and was warmly applauded. "Has anyone anything to say regarding the document before us?" he asked. He called attention to the arbitration provisions which he said although the German people may not be over-happy with the results, "we will show them in the future we will come together in a sincere desire to rectify mistakes." Premier Herriot declared "that France is happy you have accepted the idea of arbitration which we all hope to be general so as to substitute for the atrocious rule of war, a regime of conventions based on right and legality."

DARROW USING STATE ALIENISTS IN PLEA FOR MERCY FOR SLAYERS ROBT. FRANKS STRESSING "IRRESPONSIBILITY"

By United Press
 CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—More and more, Clarence Darrow, chief attorney for the defense in the Leopold-Loeb murder hearing is stressing "the irresponsibility of youth" in his efforts to save Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb from the gallows for the murder of Robert Franks.

Darrow is developing the youth angle for the use as a basis for his plea for mercy. He is utilizing state alienists for that purpose. Today he forced Dr. Harold D. Singer, one of the star state alienists to admit that the period of adolescence is the most trying period for youth. Darrow had secured similar admissions from the other defense alienists.

Today's short session of the hearing was Chief Justice John Cawdry was devoted entirely to cross-examination of Dr. Singer by Darrow.

Dr. Singer's examination added a new medical term to the scores of law breakers which have been hurled about with great freedom by the battery of alienists. "Schizophrenic personality" is the new addition and it is Dr. Singer's version of a phase of "split personality. Split personality, according to Dr. Singer, is a loss of memory of things that ordinarily should be easily remembered.

"Schizophrenic persons" differ from persons suffering from split personality in that they are "odd and cryptic" Dr. Singer said.

Darrow also forced Dr. Singer to admit that split personalities may indicate the presence of mental disease. Previously Dr. Singer said he did not believe it had any thing to do with mental disease.

Today, Darrow entered into the court records a list of hangings in Cook county during the past 10 years. This document contained no record of any one under the age of 19 or 20 having been hanged after a plea of guilty.

Leopold and Loeb are standing up better under the pressure than almost any one else connected with the hearings. Today they smiled, laughed, and chatted as freely as when the hearing opened. During the early part of the week, they exhibited signs of weariness, of ennui. The cross-examination of Dr. Singer seemed to spur their interest and the more Darrow and Crove wrangled the more the youths seemed to enjoy themselves.

Dr. Singer probably will be dismissed Monday morning, after which Dr. W. H. Krohn last of the state's alienists, will take the stand.

FORMER STATE BANK COMMISSIONER TO SURRENDER

By United Press
 OKLAHOMA, Aug. 16.—Fred Dennis, former state bank commissioner will surrender to authorities Monday to answer additional charges filed against him late today, his attorneys said here tonight.

Dennis was charged with having received a $27,500 bribe from Charles L. Engle, former bank president of El Reno, Oklahoma. The information was filed by J. T. McIntosh, state banking attorney.

The former bank commissioner left his office incognito 18 months ago when joint charges were filed against him and former Governor J. B. A. Robertson, under whose administration he was serving.

Today's charges were the third filed against Dennis since he abdicated his office. None of the charges have been tried. He is at liberty under two $5,000 bonds and was to have faced trial at El Reno in the fall term of district court on a charge of conspiracy to defraud. Another charge of accepting a bribe is pending against him at Chickasha.

Keep what you have and reach out for more.

WESTHAVEN IS A NEW ADDITION TO CITY OF LUBBOCK

"You will like Westhaven."
 This line printed upon cards and distributed throughout the city was not readily understood by many, but to those who have visited Westhaven it has its appeal, for they found that it was true.

Westhaven is a large addition to Lubbock which is the location of more than one hundred building sites, all of which have been offered for sale by the West Texas Company, a new institution in Lubbock which is managed and owned by E. G. Grafa and J. M. Crowson, formerly of Fort Worth, who decided to make their homes in Lubbock after having visited the leading cities of the state for their visit here prior to their deciding to make their homes here convinced them that Lubbock offers greater opportunities for the home builder than any other city to be found in the state.

The West Texas Company will see that Westhaven is made one of the most attractive portions of the city. Shade trees will be planted at the front of every lot offered for sale during the next planting season, and already work has started laying off a parkside which will be one of the beauty spots of the addition. The park, which is to be given a place almost in the center of the large tract of land composing the addition, will be 200 by 365 feet in size, and trees, shrubs and grass will be planted about it to make it more attractive.

The West Texas Company has undertaken no small task in improving Westhaven. Messrs Grafa and Crowson are experienced in the business of selling home sites, and having made plans upon these building sites that will make them attractive to everyone they will make quick work of selling these building sites to home builders.

Westhaven is located north of the Tech site, and within only a few hundred yards of the portion of the grounds where the main buildings will be located.

WHAT THE BOYS AND GIRLS THINK OF THE CHURCH.

The Denton Street Methodist Church of Gainesville, Texas, recently conducted an essay-writing contest among the students of the high school of that city. The boys and girls were asked to write on "What I Think the Church Should Do to Make Itself More Interesting to the Boy and Girl of the Teen Age." Forty-two papers were handed in. Many interesting ideas were presented showing the viewpoint of the teen-age boy and girl on the Church and its work.

A careful reading of these papers gives one the impression that the reason the Church loses its hold upon so many of its teen-age boys and girls is because the Church fails to study the teen-age mind and fails to appreciate the teen-age viewpoint. In these papers are to be taken as indicative of the teen-age viewpoint in general, boys and girls think that the average Church service is organized too much around and for the adult. In making out the average Church service program those who are responsible for it take very little account of the boys and girls. One girl put it this way: "We may feel it our duty to stay for the Church service, but it is almost unbearably hard to be interested in a service that is long and has nothing of the things we naturally like in it." Another girl had this to say: "There is only one thing concerning the Church that troubles me, and that is staying for the morning service. Every person, old or young, should have a desire to stay for church. Most of the older ones do stay, but ninety per cent of the boys and girls go home immediately from Sunday school. There is only one way to explain this: The morning service contains no appeal or charm for the boys and girls." One of the boys wrote: "The main thing that the Church should do to interest boys and girls such as we are, is to make us feel that it is interested in us. You preachers get interested in us, and we'll get interested in you. I personally feel that if it doesn't make any difference to anyone else whether I go to church or not it certainly doesn't make much difference to me." One of the girls declared: "As a whole, the services of the Church are not interesting to the young people."

The preacher and the sermon came in for a lot of comment. It goes without saying that they want a preacher to be manly and likable on his human side. They want him to be genuine and sincere. They don't want him to preach down at them, and they are quick to detect any kind of evasion or subterfuge. One of the papers had this to say about the preacher: "The minister who goes to the picture show three or four times a week is called a 'good sport'; but who will think he lives his religion when he gets up before his congregation and complains of being such a busy man that he cannot find time to visit his people?" All of those who discussed the sermon agree that it should be short (thirty or thirty-five minutes is long enough), that the preacher's vocabulary should not get out of the range of the teen-age understanding, that at least every sermon should have something in it that would have a particular appeal to the boys and girls, and that frequently the preacher should preach on special themes for their benefit. "Why is it," one boy asks, "that the Church services no longer appeal to the young of today?" He goes on to answer his question by saying: "Because we have no part in the services." He then gives an example by calling attention to the music: "All music is rendered by the adult choir. It seems to me that a junior choir could render one or two songs. It would be an incentive for most of them to stay. The effect would not be so artistic, but what it lacked in art would be made up in enthusiasm." Several of the papers point out that the reason the young people's societies enlist the interest of the boys and girls and the regular Church service fails to do so is because the societies give them something to do and the Church service does not. The music of the average Church service, from the teen-age viewpoint, is too stilted and formal.

Of course the social life of the Church came in for a great deal of emphasis. It goes without saying that the social life of the Church can be developed in such a way as to constitute tremendous appeal for the young.

WHY WORRY.

Twenty years seems an eternity, measured in the slow passing of the days, so why should any service man be in a hurry to send in his Federal Adjusted Compensation application when he won't receive payment until 1945?

We're all going to be alive in 1945, of course. Plenty of time to fill out that blank and send it in. But in Little Rock, Arkansas, a few weeks ago, Legionnaire Walker was killed in an automobile accident. He left a young widow and two small children. He had not forwarded to the Government his application for adjusted compensation, although he was entitled under the law to more than $1,500 of paid up insurance. Had his application been mailed his widow would receive that amount in a lump sum. Now his widow will receive only $625, which will be paid to her over a period of two and one-half years.

DOVE OF PEACE OVER FRANCE AND GERMANY.

The allied and German experts have reached a full agreement on the Dawes program. The last obstacle of a serious character, which might easily have wrecked the agreement, was the difference of opinion regarding the military evacuation of the Ruhr Valley. With the application of the Dawes report, the military evacuation will be hastened and it is hoped will leave the Ruhr district completely in a maximum period of one year.

It is also expected that Germany will enter into commercial treaty with France. It is now generally understood that the interallied conference of debts at which America is to be represented will be held after the American presidential election, and M. Herriot, with the private assurances which have been given him is content with this arrangement.

sas, was drowned in an effort to save a young woman companion; Lavicka served more than two years in the Marine Corps and he, too, or his beneficiary, was entitled to more than $1,500 in paid-up insurance under the Adjusted Compensation Law. But his application had not been made out. He left a widowed mother in Europe who was dependent on him for her support. She will receive $625 in ten installments.

Two sudden deaths of Legionnaires in a single State within a few days! It is estimated that more than 25,000 World War veterans will die before January 1, 1925—and many, many hundreds of them will die as unexpectedly as the two Legionnaires of Arkansas.

Any man should be able to fill out his adjusted compensation application in ten minutes. Can you afford to put yours off?—The American Legion Weekly.

LABOR'S CHIEF GRIEVANCE.

There is every reason to believe that LaFollette's promise of relief from injunctions and curtailment of the power of the Federal courts was what won the heads of the American Federation of Labor to the support of his ticket. Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania showed a recognition of the chief cause of the Federation's present attitude and when he called the attention of the American Bar Association to "the growing bitterness of organized labor toward the Federal courts which if not checked, may easily develop into revolutionary sentiment," and at the same time reminded the members of the bar that Great Britain "recognized peaceful picketing as a legitimate concomitant of a strike." Senator Pepper is said to have had in mind, as the heads of the Federation no doubt had in mind when they decided in favor of the LaFollette ticket, the injunction obtained by Attorney General Daugherty in the railroad shopmen's strike in 1922, which enjoined even "entreaties or arguments" by the railroad strikers to persuade other employes to stop work.

Great bitterness in the ranks of organized labor followed, a bitterness that in all probability has been mingled with something like contempt since the culmination of Daugherty's service as head of the Department of Justice. In the view of some altogether impartial observers the Daugherty injunction, unquestionably extreme in some of its features, provided labor with a just grievance. Accepting this view was correct, and taking into account the fact that neither the Republican nor Democratic platform condemned that injunction or any part of it, the present unfriendly attitude of the Federation of Labor toward both the major parties, and is indorsement of LaFollette's ticket, is not hard to understand. Under the circumstances it is also possible to understand a hostility toward the courts in the ranks of labor that formerly did not exist or was of relatively unimportant proportions. It is not unlikely that now the more embittered elements not only believe that the Federal courts are disposed to deny them their rights but suspect that neither Republican nor Democratic leaders believe in labor's right to organize, and collectively to cease work," although that right has long been established in America as well as in other countries.

The evidence tends to show that the chief cause of the alienation of labor is to be found in the extreme scope the Daugherty injunction, which, according to impartial observers, is a genuine grievance. Accepting this as a true view of the matter, it would seem to follow that the whole story of the blunders—to say nothing of the shady transactions—of "Harry" Daugherty has not even yet been told. It is not too much to say that it will be long before this country can recover from the consequences of the appointment of an inferior Ohio lawyer of doubtful antecedents to the great office of Attorney General of the United States.

It's The Proper Spirit and Will Produce Friendly Relations

(The Slaton Times—Ben Smith's Paper)

As a "newcomer's" views as to Slaton and Lubbock county we wish to say that we find here a real city, nestled upon the broad Plains of Lubbock county, a county rich in resources. Slaton contains many business enterprises presided over by real progressive people. Slaton's beginning only dates back some dozen years. The writer remembers quite well when he first saw the town site of Slaton. It was in 1910 when we came to the Plains prospecting and located over in Floyd county at Lockney. There was nothing here but some white stobs driven in the prairie sod. Then came on the laying out of the town site and the first big sale of lots. We don't remember the exact date of the town sale, but it attracted large crowds of investors. Slaton then grew with leaps and bounds. Progressive men came here and were determined with the Santa Fe aid in locating their shops here, and with the rich soils abundant in this section, that would build a real town at Slaton. They have lived to see their efforts crowned with success.

Others came in to join hands with the pioneer builders of Slaton and the town has steadily forged to the front until today it is the talk of the entire Southwest. Our impressions are that Slaton and Lubbock county has just begun to grow and in the not distant future we will see many two, three and four story buildings erected in Slaton. In our minds eye we can see paved streets for Slaton, which acts as a back ground as it were, to set off the beautiful business district of the city. No greater investment can be made by any town or city than paved streets. Paved streets keeps down the dust and does away with the mud and other like nuisances. All these things will come in time. Among other enterprises destined to come to Slaton is a modern hotel building. Modern hotel facilities is a splendid asset to any community.

Allow us to diverge long enough to say that the first newspaper published in Slaton was printed on a plant we used to own at Snyder. After we sold out there, the printing plant of the old Western Light in 1910 the plant was moved to Slaton. Shortly after it was used to Slaton it was destroyed by fire. The old press that stood out on the prairie was a country Campbell, the first power press we ever owned. It stood on a vacant lot between the present business section and the depot for many years and we used to see it as we passed through the town.

Coming to the question of Lubbock county, and the giant city, the capital of the county, Lubbock, we want to say that Lubbock county has long since attracted the attention of all Texas and the southwest. Lubbock county is noted for its soil and its rich productive values. The water here cannot be beaten anywhere. Lubbock county people have always been loyal boosters for their section, and having been sold to Lubbock people, it has been no trouble to sell their product to other people.

Let us speak of the city of Lubbock and her accomplishments. Many people have been proposing for several years that Lubbock would "cork herself" in her bounding growth, but she has gone right ahead and steadily built until today they have over there as the suburbs of Slaton, one of the most important and attractive cities in the Plains—Panhandle counties. Lubbock has surprised even resource development. The latest edition was her winning the Texas Tech. In this regard she outstripped all comers, and added this magnificent plum to her collection of achievements. Lubbock has far outstripped her neighbors and there is no danger of her taking the back track.

Nation-Wide Search on for Missing Girl.

Mystery surrounds the disappearance from her home in New York City of Alberta Biber, 28. Her case is likened to that of Ruth Cruger, whose body was found buried in a basement a year after she disappeared. Police are searching the entire country for her, and two former suitors have been questioned.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

SUMMER LONELINESS

An empty house, a stuffy smell,
A lonely man comes in at night,
Fumbles about to find the light
And sadly mutters "all is well,"
And "six weeks more for such a plight!"

A flapping window curtain breaks
The silence with a sudden start;
The chill of terror strikes his heart.

And utter desolation makes;
The night and day seem years apart.

The creaking stairway seems to speak,
As if to add unto the gloom:
"There's no one in the children's room!"

It's summer, and they've gone away,
The house is empty as a tomb!
"Six weeks of this!" he mutters low,
"Six weeks of shadows on the walls
And bedrooms bare as empty stalls;
How desolate the house can grow!
When not one restless baby calls!

If you believe that peace can stay
And comfort come from things you own,
That treasurers count when love
has flown,
Just send your wife and babes away
And try to live six weeks alone.

"Women and Wives" — Are They Rebels Against Society?

Is Modern Woman a Rebel? Yes, and No

By ETHEL M. KELLEY
Author of "Wings" and "Heart's Blood"

ODDLY enough, the definition of modern is "not ancient," and the modern woman, in spite of the inflammatory connotation of the terms, is, strictly speaking, merely a descendant of the ancient woman. She is, after all, her great-grandmother with bobbed hair and out of a job—her great-grandmother with the rules of the game so changed that she scarcely has to play it at all, if she doesn't want to. But it is the same game. That is the thing she most needs reminding of.

There are two determining factors in our attitude toward our universe—the condition in which we find it when we enter it and the equipment we have inherited from those who dealt with it before us. Whether we are rebels or not depends almost entirely on whether we were pleased with what we found, and whether our grandmother was pleased. It was from her that we inherited the righteous passion that culminated in our demand for the vote, and it was from her that we took our neurotic tendency to divorce one husband in seven! It is a poor heredity that doesn't work both ways.

We forget that it is mostly the courage of our grandmother's convictions that makes us what we are, and the other thing we forget is that the history of civilization is the history of man and woman. Any change in the economic, political and social position of one must involve the other in proportion, even though the statutory record has not begun to show it. Woman can't actually revolt from the man any more than the loek revolts from the key or the egg from the yolk.

Just at present the magnitude of the mechanism that has taken woman's job out of her hands and left her free to write them over the atrocities committed against the Lacy Stone League has also created a wizard's palace for the man. Mere scientific facility has increased the potentialities of life to the point of dizziness. It is this discrepancy between the vision and the actual equipment that is wreaking the damage. If damage there is, Man's (and woman's) reach has exceeded his grasp in the material enhancement of life, and both sexes are a little bored by the daily douse of miracles. So they take it out of one another, which is natural.

Woman is no more an unknown quantity than man is. They are both capable of proving the worthiness and unworthiness of human nature, both respectively and alternately, and the responsibility rests, as it always has done, equally on the shoulders of the two—and the game is the same old game of the struggle for survival, with the instinct of the sportsman for symbols.

Are the Flappers So Foolish?

By FLOYD DELL
Author of "Looking at Life," "The Briary Bush" and "Moon-Calf"

TEN years ago all the intelligent men I knew were feminists; they wanted woman to be free; they scolded her for being too conservative, too traditional, too timid; they urged her to demand her rights; they idealized the Woman of the Future.

They would have gone on idealizing the Woman of the Future all their lives, I suppose, except for an accident of history: the Woman of the Future did not stay nicely and beautifully on her pedestal in the Future; she intruded herself realistically and disturbingly into the Present. And now that she is here, what do these old-time idealistic worshippers of hers have to say about her?

For the most part they have been stunned into silence, and when they speak at all it is generally in accents of alarm. That idealistic male feminism of ten years ago was a highly theoretical affair, and the actual woman's rebellion of today is not in the least theoretical. The woman rebel of today is young; she has not read about woman's rights in some book; she is not trying to live up to an abstract sociological ideal—least of all, one invented by men; she is taking advantage of opportunities afforded her by the rapid changes in the conditions of modern life; she is seizing, right and left, whatever she can of life, love and liberty; nor is she consistent in what she takes, being still uncertain of what she wants; meanwhile, she does not argue—she snatches! No wonder the old-fashioned male feminist is alarmed!

It takes a cool young head to view this actual woman's rebellion with discrimination, and I think Harvey Fergusson has it more than any other of the younger American writers. He seems to me in his novels to be telling the truth about human nature in contemporary life without exaggeration and without using his art to pay off obscure temperamental grudges. I suspect that we shall wake up one day to discover in Mr. Fergusson one of the most significant of our novelists. And so, an immensely pleased to find that his new novel, "Women and Wives," gives some support to my favorite generalization about women. Yes, it is rash to generalize about women, but when you find both of women and of generalizations, can refrain? Not if. Well, then, I confess that I think women are the more practical sex, and usually know what they are about even when they can not explain themselves satisfactorily in terms of the theories and ideals invented by men, and Mr. Fergusson seems to agree with me. Perhaps if the disgruntled male idealists will only wait a little longer, until they can see that this rebellious young womanhood is doing to our stilly old world, in making life gay, freer, happier and—above all—more practically livable, they will be reconciled to the folly of the flappers!

Why are women discontented and rebellious? Harvey Fergusson's new novel, "Women and Wives," which tells the stories of five different types of women has aroused considerable discussion. We have asked four other leading novelists to meet Mr. Fergusson's challenge. It was hardly to be expected that Mr. Weaver, who recently married Miss Peggy Wood, the charming young stage star, would agree with Mr. Fergusson. Who, do you think, wins this interesting debate?

Women's Rebellion Good For Society

WHO is the rebel of modern life and the chief agent of social change—man or woman? Who is responsible for the present revolt against marriage?

"Woman" is the answer to both these questions—and to many others which are stirring the world. But generalizations about woman in domestic and domestic life are not to be taken literally. They are only a rough sketch of the actual situation. The actual situation is a complex one, and it is only a rough sketch of the actual situation. The actual situation is a complex one, and it is only a rough sketch of the actual situation.

most of the book, make up the greater part of attendance at all galleries, concerts and theatres. In every American town they are the leaders of the groping effort to achieve "culture." Women are the chief supporters of the literary revival which has taken place in the United States since the war. Women have more leisure than men, it is true, but the greater cause is that they are more discontented and therefore more eager to educate life.

Radical social theories are propounded by men, most of whom lead conventional lives. Radical things are done by women, who generally do not bother about the fact that they are doing them. The laws and traditions of marriage will have to adjust themselves to what women want.

FALL'S FASHIONS HATCHED

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The fall fashions were hatched in the minds of the designers are now full fledged and ready to take wing. The "infant mode" combines the characteristics of the current mode with those of by gone days as well as seen in the following summary of fall styles.

Colors.
Fall colors will be dull for afternoon and daytime wear, featuring black, browns, and navy blues. Tote de niere will be a popular shade. More brilliant shades that have been sponsored are shutter green, Venetian fuchsia, burnt russet and lip-stick red.

Suits will have seven-eighths length coats in almost all instances and frocks worn beneath them will be straight-lined and unbelted. There is a tendency towards the flare at the bottom of the frock such as the circular flounce which begins below the knee and extended around the skirt. Tailored suits are looked upon rather dubiously and will not be as popular as they have been. Suits show a tendency towards elaboration of trim.

The gown and long coat combination will be very popular, in which case the gown is straight-lined and of the same material as the coat.

Coats.
Evening coats will be more popular than capes. Gold metal embroidery sleeves are embroidered, the rest of the wrap remaining plain.

Skirts will remain short and silhouette will remain tube-like. Fur trimming adorns the bottoms of many of the skirts both in wide and narrow band effects.

Many of the suit-coats, which extend within 10 inches of the hem of the frock have three rows of fur banding placed at intervals about the bottom of the coat. Sleeves of the coats are generally rather snug-fitting from shoulder to wrist, and are finished with four or five-inch cuffs of fur. Upstanding collars of fur will be popular.

Where fur forms the hem-border on the slender frock, the accompanying coat extends just above the fur. Collar and cuffs of the coat match the fur used on the frock.

Buttons.

Buttons are used in numbers on many of the frocks, but do not appear on the accompanying coats. As to sleeves of the frocks, they are either long and snug-fitting or there are no sleeves whatsoever. A few models use the tiny puffed sleeve, but these are not a becoming as either the sleeveless or long sleeve types.

Elaborate trimming is in evidence on the dressier type of suits. Embroidery appears above the fur border at the hem of the coat and is also carried out above the fur cuff on the sleeve. Many of these dressy suits are shown in the latest shades. Shutter green is often combined with gray squirrel. Burnt russet is trimmed with brown fur and lip-stick red is often trimmed with black seal.

The evening silhouette offers more contrast than does the silhouette for daytime. Both the straight, unbelted line and the fitted waist with buffant skirt, is stressed. Many of the straight lined models show heavily embroidered with beads or accentuated at the border with fur. The underskirt is invariably scant and short on these tunic models. The tube-shaped frock in generally trimmed with fur border at the hem and other wise left severely untrimmed.

Long-waisted basque models with full, circular skirts, also use the fur treatment at the hem.

Evening models have a tendency toward the low V-shaped neck-line at the back, although the rounding front neckline remains in vogue.

Chiffon and velvets will undoubtedly rule for evening materials.

Professor Carl Kaufmann will soon publish a book which will contain many surprising assertions regarding the discovery of America, supported by what seems to be facts. He claims that there were Chinese in America who pushed as far south as New Mexico, long before the "discovery" of the United States by Columbus. But even this bit of history does not tell us where the Indians came from—or when they came.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS FOR S. P. FAIR APPROVED

DIRECTORS MET FRIDAY LAYING PLANS FOR GREATEST REGIONAL FAIR IN HISTORY OF WEST TEXAS

The directors of the Panhandle South Plains Fair Association held their most important meeting of the year, Friday afternoon of this week, in their office in the court house, when they spent over two hours considering business in connection with this year's fair and made their final plans regarding many important matters.

Among some of the important decisions made, were the following: The employment of an assistant for Manager Davis; the appointment of directors for a number of departments; the instruction of the manager to proceed with the fencing of the grounds and the installation of turn stiles; the final approval of the short course to be held in connection with the fair; an increase in connection with the fair; an increase in the premium list, especially in the cattle and hog departments, in order to secure representative exhibits in these departments; to promote a great Agricultural Pageant in cooperation with the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association; a sufficient appropriation in the budget to secure good football games three days of the fair; the authorization of the manager to immediately contract for the most magnificent fireworks display staged locally; the approval of a contract with Cotton Belt Shows, one of the best carnivals playing Texas, and a number of other minor matters of business.

President Harwell called the meeting to order at four o'clock Friday afternoon, and with all but two of the directors present, the board spent two hours working out final plans for this year's "Show Window of the Plains."

Manager Davis gave an itemized statement as to the progress being had in connection with the Automobile deal, the amount of advertising sold for the premium list or catalogue, and a number of other matters connected with the business end of the Association.

Assistant to Manager. That Davis may devote more of his time to the general direction and management of the Association's business and the handling of the publicity, the directors authorized him to employ an assistant to finish the necessary work in connection with the auto deal, to look after putting the buildings and grounds in "apple pie" order, to supervise fencing the grounds, to help finish the sale of display space in the catalogue, and to assist generally in the detail work so necessary to make a show as big as the local fair has grown successful.

Davis announced yesterday that Frank A. White, formerly with the Texas Utilities Company had been employed and would devote his entire time until the fair in helping make it the success every progressive citizen on the South Plains wants it to be. Mr. White is an experienced engineer and a good business man whose services should prove very valuable in this work. He is also a director of the Association and has been doing considerable work for the organization for several weeks.

Directors Appointed. That there may be no slip up a number of directors were appointed who will be individually responsible for various departments. The directors appointed were: Buildings and grounds, Frank A. White; Pageant, R. E. Overstreet; Amusements and Fireworks, H. H. Griffith, Athletics, J. H. Goodman; Concessions, A. B. Davis; Sanitation, Dr. W. L. Baugh; Transportation and traffic, Lyle E. Moore and Exhibits, R. W. Blair. These men, together with the superintendents of the various departments under the general direction of County Agent Eaton and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Marsh, will see to it that every department, division and details of this year's exposition is looked after to the minutest detail.

To Fence Grounds. The directors have had under consideration for some time the fencing of the grounds with a standard fair or park fence and the installation of turnstiles to handle the crowds, and at this meeting instructed the manager to proceed with this work. This is one of the most progressive steps taken so far by the association and will result in greater protection and convenience to both

MAKING HAY FOR THE COMING WINTER

When May and June proved to be the driest in 38 years, the grasses cured unusually early, and the outlook for the hay crop was not good. But then came a period of rain in July, and it is hoped the crop will be sufficient.

Several from this community attended the lecture by Rev. John Carney at the First Baptist church of Lubbock Sunday evening, including Pro. and Mrs. Jack Ammons, Mr. and Mrs. Shup, Mrs. Akin and daughter, Burcum; Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Rhines.

Up Slough creek, adjacent to the great plateau where the Park's wild buffalo-herd of 800 ranges are two big hay ranches, where wild hay is grown. About 600 acres are cut there. At the Buffalo Ranch approximately 1,000 acres of wild hay, timothy and clover are grown.

TECH. REGENTS TO MEET AUG. FIFTEENTH

President Horn of the Texas Technological College stated on his return here Saturday morning after a tour of the state that Amos G. Carter, president of the board, had returned to the state and that the meeting of the board scheduled to be held in the 27th will be presided over by him.

Bids have been made by contractors for the construction of the stock judging pavilion and have been turned over to the architects, to be opened and read at the meeting to be held on the 27th of this month.

Those interested in the Texas Technological College have every right to be encouraged over the progress that has been made in its development and Dr. Horn stated Saturday that he is confident everything will be in readiness for the admittance of several hundred students at the beginning of the first term in September 1925.

Director Goodman of the Athletic Department was granted an appropriation sufficient to secure a football game for three days of the fair between the best teams in this section of the state.

Goodman has been at work on matching these games for several days and expects to announce the first of next week just which teams will compete. It is known he can get his pick of a number of good teams, including those from Plainview, Floydada, Ralls, Post, Lamesa, Brownfield, Littlefield, Slaton and others.

Gorgeous Fireworks. On the recommendation of H. H. Griffith, director of the Department of Amusements and Fireworks, the directors authorized Manager Davis to contract for one of the biggest most magnificent and gorgeous fire works displays ever staged here. The fireworks program will be the same already contracted by Amarillo El Paso and a number of other large fairs.

Carnival Contracted. A contract with the Cotton Belt Shows, one of the best carnivals now playing Texas, was approved by the directors which assures the patrons of this year's event all of the good clean amusements along with this line that their hearts desire.

This company has also been contracted by the fairs at Amarillo and Childress, which have been working with Lubbock to secure the best carnival possible for this circuit, and the directors of the local association feel that they will have some of the best entertainment of this nature to offer this year's fair patrons ever presented in the section.

Minor Business. Considerable time was devoted to a number of other business matters connected with this year's fair, most of which however were of a routine nature and of no general interest to the public.

the patrons and exhibitors at the fair.

Short Course. The final O. K. was put on the program for the Short Course as outlined by County Agent Eaton and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Marsh, and every director is emphatic in stating that this is by far the most important addition to a fair ever made in the South.

Increase Premium List. Realizing that the live stock exhibits at previous fairs have not been as good as the best, the directors decided to increase the premiums in both the cattle and hog departments in order to attract some of the best show herds in the country to the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

COTTON MEN FROM ENGLAND ON TOUR OF INVESTIGATION EXPRESS SURPRISE AT GROWTH OF STAPLE ON SOUTHPLAINS

Lubbock was visited the past week by two cotton men from England, Mr. Arno L. Pearce, General Secretary of the International Federation of Master Spinners and Manufacturers Association of Manchester, and Mr. Kerr of Liverpool, perhaps the most important cotton men ever to visit this section.

They were sent to this section to investigate its possibilities for growing cotton, and in the words of Mr. Pearce they were more than surprised at what they found.

They spent some two hours with Manager Davis of the Chamber of Commerce getting facts and figures on the South Plains territory and statistics regarding cotton growing and were then taken for an inspection trip of several hours over the cotton fields in this section by H. E. Blocker, a director of the Chamber of Commerce and one of the leading cotton men of Lubbock.

Until shown it was hard for them to believe that this section was already producing as much cotton as it is and that the surface has hardly been scratched as yet. But after seeing the cotton in the fields, visiting the Experiment Station, learning that there are 125 gins on the plains forty of which have been built this year, and other facts, they were convinced that in a few years the plains will grow as much cotton as Texas now produces.

Mr. Pearce has made special study of the cotton situation for the English Government all over the world and is recognized by cotton men every where as an expert on world conditions.

His and Mr. Kerr's visit to this Section is sure to result in much good when their report is made to the British government and the English government of cotton goods whom they represent.

Every foreigner who takes passage for free America consults his own interests—not ours. There's the slumbering volcano.

MEN ESCAPE THE THIRD TIME FROM PARIS, TEXAS JAIL

By International News Service. PARIS, Tex., Aug. 16.—Tom Sales and Jesse Smith alleged burglars and master jail breakers are again at liberty today following their third escape from the county jail here in the past four months. They battered their way out of the death cell Friday where they had been put for safe keeping. No trace of them has been found today.

In these days when the newly weds begin their desperate imitation of the rich, cooing may suffer a slight decline but the billing turns up all right on the first of the month.

There is much involved in the viewpoint. Two men agree not because the objects of pursuit become the same, but because their viewpoints correspond.

TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY

Early Days on The Plains

By J. J. DILLARD

In the first issue of the Lubbock Leader, which as stated in the last issue was established by Bob Rogers on July 21, 1891, contained a few local items that might be interesting to many of the old time people who reside in Lubbock at this time, which I will reproduce.

"J. B. Jones, our county surveyor, has made a map of the West addition to Lubbock." This addition was later known as the Overton addition.

"F. E. Wheelock, Manager and Company, is daily receiving letters of inquiry about our town and county.

"Our young friend, Frank Bowles was quite sick for a day, the first of the week with lead poisoning.

"Romulus Jones is playing the devil with everything in the Leader office.

"W. A. Carlisle left last week for Raymor, Stonewall county, on business.

"J. B. Legette and wife are the proud parents of a fine boy born on the 23."

"E. E. (Tant) Estes has returned from a trip to New Mexico."

"Maj. Felix Franklin, Crosby county Tax Assessor was chatting with friends on our streets one day this week."

"Capt. J. F. O'Harrow was in from the round-up this week to get into some clean togs."

"Judge G. W. Shannon has awarded the contract to build the tower and erect the public windmill to C. W. Mailard."

"Miss Ella Bullion, arrived from Colorado City, this week and will make her home in Lubbock."

"Uncle Jimmie Clark and wife of Thorp Springs, Hood county, has located in Lubbock. Uncle Jimmie is the father of our Tax assessor, W. S. Clark and Albert Clark, clerk for Geo. W. Singer and company.

"Mr. K. C. Burns, manager of the I. O. A. Ranch, subscribed for fifty copies of the Leader and every cowboy on the ranch subscribed for three copies each. Every business man is sending fifteen copies to friends and relations in the east. F. E. Wheelock our enterprising townsite promoter, subscribed for one hundred and fifty copies, with instructions to be mailed to prospective buyers in various parts of the United States. Shortly we will have Lubbock on the map."

"Mr. L. M. Founts, formerly superintendent of the Burlington Railway system, is in this city and at present General manager of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northern, in Texas. The railroad he represents, has twenty-five miles in operation from Weatherford to Mineral Wells and is extending the line into the Central Plains country about one hundred miles south of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway. As proposed the line will run north west from Mineral wells to Albuquerque, New Mexico, crossing the Pecos River by way of Roswell. Mr. Founts in speaking of the road said "We are building from the junction of the Santa Fe and Texas Pacific at Weatherford in a north west direction in order to tap the Central plains country and get into New Mexico, our objective point being Albuquerque. We are developing a great country, which in time to come will be the most productive portion of Texas."

(Rocky Mountain News) Editorial Note:

"This road will come through Lubbock county. Can't possibly miss it if this road desires to come through the best part of the plains and of Texas. Lubbock is almost on the exact line of the most practical route the road could take."

This is the way the first paper published in Lubbock talks This was the Lubbock way of "doing things" more than thirty-three years ago.

Think of the townsite company subscribing and paying for one hundred and fifty subscriptions. Think of one individual paying for fifty yearly subscriptions, and each cowboy working at a salary of twenty five dollars per month, donating 3 yearly subscriptions in assisting to advertise the garden spot of Texas.

This spirit still prevails and is contagious. None but progressive wide awake citizens could remain in Lubbock. The knocker was lonesome. He soon talked himself to death, trying to discourage progress and advancement or moved to other towns, which were already dead.

August 30, 1890. In November, 1892, it was moved to Lubbock and consolidated with the Lubbock Leader, and was published by J. Winfred Hunt.

The Texan-Press Leader was published by Hunt from October 1892 till March 2, 1899, when its publication was suspended and the plant moved to Elginview.

We reproduce the reportorial comment on the Hunt-Green Nuptials solemnized May 3, 1896.

"Mr. L. L. Hunt and Miss Etta Green were united in marriage at the court house on last Sunday evening, May 3rd at 8 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Green acting as best man and Miss Lottie Hunt maid of honor. Mr. Winford Hunt was usher and Miss Myra Hunt was bridesmaid.

The ceremony was public and conducted by Judge P. F. Brown. The arch under which the contracting parties stood, was beautifully decorated with evergreen and roses. At five minutes before eight Miss Nora Hunt as organist began the beautiful wedding march and with a slow and majestic tread the groom and bridesmaids, closely followed by the bride and groom filed into the court room which was crowded and took their places under the arch and while the music was softly thrilling through the building lending a solemnity to the occasion that brought tears to the eyes of many Judge Brown in an impressive ceremony pronounced Mr. Hunt and Miss Green man and wife.

"The bride was dressed in white silk trimmed in chiffon and orange blossoms and presented a picture of loveliness pleasing to the eye and inspiring to the heart. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Green of this town and county and has lived in Lubbock ever since the county was organized. She is one of the most popular young ladies ever in the county and was loved and highly esteemed not only by her young associates but by every one who knew her. She is pretty, intelligent and accomplished having an especial talent for music.

"The groom, Mr. L. L. Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hunt of this county. He is in business here owning one of the best general merchandise stores on the plains. He is strictly a business man and is esteemed and respected by all who have done business with him. He is considered one of the most enterprising young business men of the plains and it has been said of him that it is such men that are required to develop a pioneer country.

"Miss Lottie Hunt, sister of the Groom, acting as maid of honor, was dressed in pink trimmed in lace, ribbons and flowers. Miss Myra Hunt also a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid was dressed in apple green tastefully trimmed in lace, ribbon, and flowers. Immediately after the ceremony while the rich tones of the organ were swelling on the night, the bridal party marched from the room, and over to the Nicolett Hotel where the congratulations were received and then came the supper. Here our pencil pauses at the task before it, as we begin to tell the half of that wedding feast's magnificence! Adjectives fall back with a sigh of despair, description laughs ironically at its inability to describe English language is silent because it cannot furnish words to form a faint conception of the magnificence of the great dining room with its great dining tables and the snowy cloth. On this everything, everything, everything, and at a large number of happy people. Down near the middle at one side sat the bride and groom and on each side sat the bridesmaids and others, at one end sat an elderly lady and gentleman who had lost a daughter and captured a new son, at the other sat another couple who had gained a daughter.

"Upwards of 100 people ate supper at the Nicolett and there was plenty for all. Nearly twice as many attended the ceremony. At a late hour the crowd dispersed. Many beautiful presents were received.

"Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hunt left for Amarillo on a wedding tour early Monday morning. The kindest wishes and most earnest prayers of their many warm friends go with them and will follow till the end of life.

"The Press-Leader extends its heartiest congratulations and best wishes."

Those acting as waiters at the wedding supper were as follows: Mrs. E. W. Estes, Mrs. Geo. M. Boles, Miss Eunice Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Hollandsworth, Mr. Andy Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Acuff, Miss Ida Nelson and Mrs. Meredith.

Will reproduce others in next contribution.

Tremaine Osabe, thirty-six, her house man who is an Australian immigrant is dead with a bullet in his brain having committed suicide after shooting Mrs. Olson.

He fired at her four times but only one took effect.

Doubtless more American women will be seen with little "sport canes" now that Queen Mary is reported as carrying "a long white stick that comes out beautifully in a snapshot."

It is never a mark of greatness to average one's self.

Boll Weevils are Attacked From Air by Planes

International News Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 16.—Five thousand acres of southwest Texas cotton fields have been dusted with calcium arsenate from airplanes this year in the annual war on bollweevils.

Virtually the entire acreage was dusted by one plane, the property of a San Antonio flying school. The dusting was performed at the cost to the farmer of $1 per acre furnishing his own poison included in the dollar average. The fields were covered at intervals of one week apart.

It is claimed that the dusting increased cotton acreage to half a bale per acre.

Says a theatrical critic: "Ten years we did not chuckle over adultery or joke about prostitution." The very assertion itself comes as a terrible note or warning.

SOUTH PLAINS GINNERS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION TODAY; ADDRESS OF WELCOME IS DELIVERED BY POSEY

More than one hundred and twenty South Plains Ginner met here today to attend the annual convention of the South Plains Ginner Association, which is composed of some two hundred members.

The morning session was made very interesting and much valuable information that will be helpful in the more efficient management of the ginning business in this section was given by old timers in the game who spoke deliberately of the cooperation necessary to establish that business on a sound paying basis.

Walter S. Posey, of the Lubbock State Bank, delivered the address of welcome, assuring the ginner that all Lubbock is grateful to them for paying this city such compliment upon holding their important meeting here, and invited them to return here at any time in the future.

The ginner spent most of the time during the morning session discussing the ways and means of keeping the ginning business on a cash basis, designating a standard weight bale, standard baggage and a standard price for all gins having membership in the association, during which time a splendid spirit of cooperation was shown and in some instances ginner who had already made large purchases of a class of baggage not adopted as the standard for use on the plains, declared they would go to the expense of having it changed in order to work harmoniously with their fellow ginner.

Rufus R. Hardburger, of O'Donnell; Bob Neely, of Lamesa; J. A. Nichols, of Floydada; L. R. Brown, of Muleshoe; Abney Davis, of Tyler; O. L. Peterman, of Lubbock; Harrington, of Idaho; W. T. Rayburn, local and district manager for the Fuller Gin Company; H. C. Mc-Cormick, of Lamesa; E. R. Allen, of Tahoka, and W. D. Watkins, of Ralls, were among those who made interesting and helpful talks on the subject above mentioned.

A well prepared lunch was served by Sled Allen of the Busy Bee Cafe, immediately following which the ginner went into session again and the afternoon was devoted to organization and appointment of committees to look after the various interests to be served through the association.

SCIENTISTS BEGIN INTENSE STUDY OF MARS

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 16.—

With the largest telescope in the world trained upon the ruddy glow of Mars, 35,000,000 miles away, scientists at Mount Wilson observatory Friday night began two weeks intensive study of the distant planet.

Walter S. Adams, director of the observatory, will be in charge of the research and will concentrate on a study of the planets temperature. Adams hopes also to learn something of the "canals" of Mars and to determine whether there is the possibility of human habitation.

On August 23, Mars will be at a distance of 34,648,000 miles from the earth, the closest it has been in a century. Usually the planet is removed from the earth by 200,000,000 miles of space and the distance at times grows as great as 350,000,000 miles. Study of Mars and its moons started a week before it sweeps "close" to the earth will be continued for a similar period after the day of greatest proximity.

Speeches Show Personality of The Candidates

By United News.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER. WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Coolidge and Davis reveal their personalities and outlook in their acceptance speeches as completely as La Follette does in his scornful refusal to indulge in this traditional bit of political hocus pocus.

Democrats and the progressives thought that Coolidge was entirely too complacent regarding the scandals and are not disposed to accept his contention, that the adoption of the budget system by the republican administration is an answer to all of the charges of graft and dishonesty in government that have been made.

The contrasting personalities of Coolidge and Davis are clearly revealed in the literary form of their speeches, Davis, the eminent lawyer, spoke in finely rounded sentences, drove home his arguments with hard logic, but jabbed at the republican weak spots with sharp pointed phrases.

Coolidge's on the other hand, talked in strict conformity with the homely, yankee character which he has acquired in the public mind. Yet behind the simple phrases, there was the skill and art of the mature politician.

Going in from Hokum to the real problems of government, Coolidge and Davis are not far apart except on the league of nations and the tariff, and of course the question of whether the republican party is responsible for the corruption during the last four years.

Coolidge opposed centering the question of government, Coolidge and Davis are not far apart except on the league of nations and the tariff, and of course the question of whether the republican party is responsible for the corruption during the last four years.

On most other issues, the two candidates are on fairly common ground though Davis tinges his views with a more progressive color than Coolidge. Davis is for abolition of the injunction in labor disputes. Coolidge is silent on that question. Both favor further tax reduction, though they did not agree as to the form of such reduction. Both are for the world court. Both want another armament limitations conference, though Davis stipulated he wants to see all nations invited to the next one. Both favor farm relief, Davis going a little further in his declarations than Coolidge who proposes a commission to investigate the question of permanent relief.

MAN SHOOTS WOMAN; TURNS GUN ON SELF

By United News.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Lila Olson, 38, was shot and probably fatally wounded in her home here Friday night, by Tremaine Canbe, 38, an Austrian who turned the gun upon himself and sent a bullet through his head.

Both were taken to a hospital. Little hope is extended for the recovery of either.

Canbe, according to information obtained by police, was hiding in the Olson home when Mrs. Olson returned and the shooting followed. Police are seeking a motive.

Disturbance Over De Valera Speech Is Fatal to One

ENNIS, COUNTY CLARE, IRELAND, Aug. 16.—One man was killed by the military in a disturbance which followed Eamon de Valera's first public appearance before his Irish republican followers since his release from a Free State prison. De Valera spoke here on the same platform from which he was Yanked to prison exactly a year ago by Free State soldiers.

The tall dreamy scholar took up his task of pleading the cause of Irish freedom in his old role of president of the "Irish republic." The bloody cause that has dogged De Valera's footsteps as he has sought a path that would lead his people to better times and circumstances still lurks about him and after he had delivered his impassioned words of encouragement to his followers the fire that smolders in all Irish hearts flared up, and blood was spilled once more.

Michael Harnet, a Tipperary man, was the victim. He was shot dead by the troops as he was returning from the De Valera meeting but other details of the killing are thus far unknown.

De Valera warned England and the Free State that the fight is not over and that no blows are barred.

"Our means of achieving our goal are every available means whereby determined men can win their freedom" De Valera said.

Twenty thousand Irishmen and women heard De Valera reiterate his declaration that he would champion the cause of Irish independence. There were delegates present from all parts of Ireland.

The crowd went wild when the lanky leader appeared before them, fit despite nearly a year in a Free State prison and ready to take up the fight at the spot where fierce state soldiers interrupted him last August.

"Our policy of 1917, 1918 and 1921 still holds good," De Valera shouted. The crowd cheered.

"We cannot have our land cut in two," De Valera said. "We can never give allegiance to any foreign power. Kings may be forced on us, we may be forced temporarily to submit to certain things; but our assent they can never have."

TRAPPED KIDNAPPER TWO GIRLS TAKES OWN LIFE

By United News.

KEOKUK, Ia., Aug. 16.—Trapped in a cave by a posse of angry farmers who followed him after he had kidnapped Evelyn and Maxine Lawson, 8 and 4 years old respectively, H. Brown, 45, shot and killed himself late Friday.

Realizing that he had no chance of escaping the wrath of the posse, Brown sent the two girls out to their father, who headed the band of men, and then fired a shot into his brain.

The two girls who had remained prisoners in the cave with their kidnapper all night, had not been criminally assaulted, it is stated. The motive for the kidnaping is not known.

According to the president of the Kansas Wheat Growers' Association "so long as the price of wheat stays up you can count Kansas safe for one of the old parties." Contentment fosters conservatism.

THE PASSING DAY

By WILL H. MAYES, Department of Journalism, University of Texas

The precarious condition of the cotton crop in many parts of the country is causing the cotton farmers and merchants much uneasiness. Where farmers have made cotton the sole crop there is much need for alarm, for a cotton failure for most of them means either that they will have to go into debt another year or suffer for the lack of those things they could as well have raised on their farms. If this condition were unusual the farmers would deserve much more sympathy, but in some parts of Texas every year the cotton crop is disappointing, and it may be expected anywhere any year. So long as the seasons are variable this will be true and the farmers should profit by this knowledge. In no county in Texas can farmers depend on making a full cotton crop every year. Even if a fair crop could be made every season the farmers should not grow cotton to the exclusion of other crops, for it is the poorest business policy to exchange cotton year after year for food and feedstuffs that can be grown at home. Where cotton failure may be expected now and then, as it may be in every county in Texas, farmers owe it to themselves and their families to at least make certain of a living at home for themselves and their stock, aside from their cotton crop. There is not a farm in Texas on which this cannot be done if only the farmer will use ordinary judgment in planting and caring for a variety of crops. The poverty of many farms, rich soils and productivity but poor in crop distribution, is everywhere evident. Texas farmers will not prosper as they should until they grow on their own farms all the food stuffs needed to run their farms except those things that experience has shown cannot be produced there. Cotton will always be the staple money crop of Texas farmers, but in time the farmers will learn that was brought about almost as if by magic. It is not possible for all the wives and daughters of Texas to go to College Station every year, but every county and every community in the State could have meetings planned along the same lines as those held at A. & M. College, at which experiences in home improvement could be exchanged. People like to see and hear just what others are doing to make their living conditions better, and having seen and heard they always profit by it.

Governor Ran Afoul New Traffic Rules And Arrested

By International News Service. FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 16.—Governor Pat M. Neff did an "Alphonse and Gaston" on one of the principal downtown streets with traffic officer McAlin who through his unacquaintance with the governor was prepared to take him the much traveled course of other violators. Neff, visiting the city for the first time since the installation of the new automatic traffic signals, proceeded to run afoul of the law three minutes after putting his foot on Fort Worth soil. Officer McAlin collared him, brought the governor back to the corner from whence he started and proceeded to explain the system. Governor Neff apologized, made known his identity and thanked the officer. The officer apologized, thanked the governor and both scraped and howed in mutual satisfaction. The governor finally ended the affair by admitting he was nothing but a country boy in a big city and bought the officer a cigar.

ACHIEVEMENT----the Mark of Progress! The Reason John Deere Row Binders Are the Sensational Success of THE DAY

JOHN DEERE LEADS TO-DAY

It isn't what used to be that you are interested in to day. The man of the hour is interested in what IS today. To that man and that class of farmers thruout the South Plains we call attention to the ACHIEVEMENT that marks the GREATEST PROGRESS in row BINDERS!

Features Carefully

Binder

—Ease of operation, powerful elevation, wide range of adjustments, together with the proper application of the right materials throughout, make the John Deere Row Binder a most satisfactory binder investment.

QUICK-TURN TONGUE TRUCK—

Relieves the horses of all neck weight. It makes turning at the ends easy. The axle of the truck is flexibly-mounted—the truck conforms to uneven ground—side draft and sluing are overcome. The gatherers are held to their work.

After the feed enters the gatherers the operation is continuous and steady. Any volume of stalks is held in the gatherer chains by the adjustable steel throat springs.

Long, wide lugs on the lower chain extend across the throat and keeps the butts moving vertical with the tops. Chains on both gatherer arms at the top assist in handling long stalks.

THREE PACKERS—

Two working below the needle and one above on the regular binder equipment, insure well-made bundles that are easily handled. Three discharge arms deliver the bundles onto the power carrier in a positive manner.

POWER CARRIER—

Operates without ny effort. By foot lever the bundles are delivered free of the horses path and practically parallel to the standing feed. Carrier is always in position to receive bundles. Seventeen sets of roller and ball bearings in all important points insure light draft and long life. The frame is hot-riveted together and constructed to form one solid piece. The cutting device has a rigid foundation formed by the right-hand front sill. Wide stationary knives re shaped and placed to cut off a large percentage of the stalk before it reaches the sickle. Wear on the sickle head is taken up by means of a adjustable steel guides.

Wheels are made of steel, large in diameter and fitted with wide tires. Main wheel, 36 inches in diameter, has ribbed and flanged tire 10 inches wide. Grain wheel is 36 inches high and has a 4 inch tire which makes it self cleaning. Ample traction is furnished.

The device for raising and lowering the wheels is extremely simple and powerful. In raising the binder the lift is steady and continuous.

FOR EIGHTY YEARS THE STANDARD OF WAGON EXCELLENCE

If you could go through the immense "Schuttler" factory—see with your own eyes the thorough way in which every part of the "Peter Schuttler" wagon is made—you would then know why it is that "Schuttler" wagons cost more and are acknowledged to be the strongest, most durable and lightest running wagons in the world. You would see nothing but the highest grade of hickory and white oak as it receives its natural air-dried seasoning—an enormous blacksmith shop filled with old fashioned blacksmiths, who fit all irons on the gears, hot—the only way of obtaining a perfect fit that will stay and preserve the wood—how the wheels are specially made, in the re-turning of the Hubs, driving out the spokes, putting on of the felloes and shrinking on the tires hot, in the old-fashioned way, the reason "Schuttler" wheels are strong and the tires never become loose—how the gears are assembled and laid out separately for each wagon, the only way of knowing a wagon will run true—how the boxes and bottoms of uniformly choice and extra heavy material are carefully put together to last—how the seats are specially constructed for comfort with extra long seat springs—how the paint is ground in oil and put on with a brush, not dipped—the reason for its lasting so long. These are some of the reasons why the "Schuttler" is not only the best, but positively the cheapest wagon in the long run. There is no more profit in a "Schuttler" wagon than in other wagons—they simply cost that much more to make, and the user gets the benefit.

WE CAN MAKE DELIVERY ON PETER SCHUTTLER WAGONS NOW!

More than 60 men have visited our store to see the Peter Schuttler Wagon in the last ten days. Most of them will buy a Peter Schuttler—just as will dozens of others who came to investigate John Deere Row Binders—the latest and greatest row binder sensation!

Robert F. Skinner, Consul-General to London for ten years, has been transferred to the same post in Paris, succeeding Alexander M. Tackaras, who retires for age. Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican Congressman from New York City, has announced that he will support the La Follette-Wheeler Presidential ticket. Despite the pleas of her manager, David Belasco, that she remain single, beautiful Lenore Ulric, who scored such a success in "Kiki," is reported engaged to Sidney Blackmer, Broadway matinee idol. Mrs. Leslie Carter and Ina Claire are other Belasco stars who defied the tradition to marry and who survived his wrath. Admiral W. L. Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, speaking before the Institute of Politics in Williamstown, Mass., urged America to arm to defend its present immigration policy, and to seize territory from other nations, declaring this country will surely wage a war of aggression when its population reaches 200,000,000.

try and in branch establishments abroad.

In the city of New York alone vastly more building takes place than in the whole of the United Kingdom. The textile industries of the Republic consume considerably more cotton than the whole of this country. In the production of goods made from copper, brass, rubber, wood, leather, etc., America's superiority is overwhelming. In view of these facts obden's prophecy, "England is, and always will remain, the workshop of the world," is ridiculous.

Why are the Americans foremost in the world, not only in the output of food and raw products but also in that of manufactured goods? The reason is obvious to all who are acquainted with economic conditions on both sides of the Atlantic.

England, the former stronghold of individualism and efficiency, has become a stronghold of Socialism. Owing to Socialist influence canny has become universal. The suicidal policy of restricting output has led to hostility to labor-saving machinery. The result is that the average American produces as much as three English workers.

Goods produced must be consumed. They are consumed and enjoyed chiefly by the working masses. Production being three times as great in the United States as over here, workers receive not merely three times as much money but receive three times as much real wages in the form of goods which they can buy. Hence the American workers are infinitely better fed, clothed, and housed than the British workers.

The American worker recognizes that prosperity consists in an abundance of useful goods and nothing else, and that such abundance cannot be created by insisting on high wages in respect of an utterly insufficient output. He recognizes that capital and labor-saving machines are his friends, not his enemies. Hence the American worker can afford a motor car and other things which in this paradise of trade unionism, of Socialism, and of canny are privileges of the rich and well-to-do.

Two are Arraigned For Murder of Rader Girl

By United News. ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 16.—Florence McKinney the 19 year old country girl who confessed to driving an automobile while Emil "Ace" Zupke killed Cora Haber has begun to style herself "a woman against the world"—a woman who through no fault of her own stands accused of murder.

Florence who was arraigned Friday for murder along with Zupke, stood behind the bars of her little cell and made the statement in German when she was told that "Ace" said she had vamped him into murdering Cora so that they might be married. "Ace says now that I knew all about the murder and helped him hide her after he had choked her to death," exclaimed Florence as her dark eyes flashed.

But he's nothing but a yellow dog with a yellow streak and strip a mile wide. He's trying to hide behind my skirts—the liar."

And then Florence softened somewhat and began to relate the grim tale of the murder, a tale that differs essentially from that related by her lover.

"When Ace drove up to my house to have a date with me, I thought he was alone. And when I saw Cora sitting there in the back seat I got mad and wouldn't come out and get in the car. Then Ace came into the house after me. He said he wanted to talk with Cora and give her some medicine and he asked me if I would drive. I didn't want to but finally I said I would.

"As we drove I asked Ace why he didn't introduce me to his lady friend but he just laughed and said 'drive on'. Later I heard her gasp and I asked him if he was hurting her. When we got to the railroad crossing, I stopped but my legs would not hold me and I didn't get out.

"I looked at Cora. She was lying in the seat. I touched her and her hands were warm. Then Ace put his hands under her arms and dragged her into the bushes. Her legs were kinda curved in and her head was hanging down.

"I drove down the road, turned around and came back but did not stop. Ace jumped into the car. Tuesday night I could not stand it any longer and I came down and confessed.

"If Ace said I helped plan it, he's a liar. Oh, I wish I were in Cora's place."

OKLA. ASKS FOR BIDS ON BIG ROAD JOB

By International News Service. NOWATA, Okla., Aug. 16.—The advertisements calling for bids on the $500,000 road bonds have been officially published and everything is in readiness for the letting of contracts immediately upon approval of the bonds by the attorney general. The program calls for a three-year road building campaign, in which 86 miles of hard surface roads will be built in the county.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR MIDDLE OIL CORPORATION

By United News. NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Middle Oil corporation, a $95,000,000 oil concern, which figured in a sensational financial battle on the New York Curb market late last year, has reached the culmination of a series of misfortunes with the appointment of receivers to handle its affairs.

Joseph Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson and Julius M. Mayer are the receivers. Judge Knox, sitting in United States district court, acted in the case late Friday, after hearing evidence in behalf of a receivership which centered around the conduct of C. N. Haskell, stock market plunger and former governor of Oklahoma, who built up Middle States Oil to its big proportions.

It was charged that under Haskell's administration, the assets of the corporation dwindled $77,000,000 in one year, that Haskell has taken important books of the company to Paris and left them there, and that the company's affairs had been manipulated along with the affairs of the Southern States Oil corporation another Haskell concern to pull him out of a $5,000,000 hole.

An appeal to churches, civic organizations and clubs to protest to President Coolidge and John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, against "defense day" plans, Sept. 12, has been made by Robert Watson, president of the International Reform Federation.

WHY AMERICA IS SO WEALTHY

Agitators demanding vast public expenditure on their pet projects frequently tell us that England is "rolling in wealth," that it is "the richest country in the world." That was, perhaps, true decades ago, but matters are very different now. England is poor, very poor, if compared with the United States.

The United States are fabulously wealthy. Although they possess only about one-twentieth of the population of the world, they have half the world's wealth and have more than half the world's gold, diamonds, pearls, and precious stones of every kind.

The true wealth of a nation can best be measured by the condition of the masses. The prosperity of the American workers is almost unbelievable. More or less unskilled men, such as carters, milkmen, builders, laborers, etc., earn 45c. per day. Vast numbers of skilled workers earn 1,000 pounds and more per year.

The assertion that America's wealth belongs to the few, that the high cost of living counterbalances the high wages prevailing, is incorrect. The white population of the Republic is a little more than twice as large as that of this country. However, the United States have not merely twice the number of telephones and motor cars that there are in this country but have fifteen times as many. To every three families there are two telephones and two motor cars. Millions of unskilled workers have not only roomy houses which belong to them but have a telephone, a motor car, and other luxuries of which English working men scarcely dream.

Before the war, England's savings came to about 400,000,000 pounds per year. Although the American people are terribly extravagant, their savings are estimated to come to 2,700,000,000 per year. Last year the Americans spent on motor cars and trucks alone 750,000,000 pounds. If we add the expenditure on garages, etc., the motor car expenditure last year exceeded 1,000,000,000 pounds.

It is frequently stated that the United States owe their vast wealth to the possession of their great natural resources, to the possession of a fruitful agricultural plain, extensive forests, rich mines, etc. That explanation is fallacious.

Every student of American economic life is aware that the bulk of America's vast income is furnished, not by the farms, mines, and forests, but by the factories and work-shops.

The United States are foremost in the world, not only by the productivity of their wheatfields, cottonfields, forests, coal mines, iron mines, etc., but also by the output of their manufacturing industries.

With existing arrangements this country can produce 12,000,000 tons of steel per year. That figure has never been reached. The United States can produce at least 5,000,000 tons per year. They produce far more than half of the world's steel and of products made of steel. Among other things they produce about 90 per cent of the world's motor cars, both in their own coun-

STORE ROBBED

JUSTICEBURG, Aug. 16.—Last Saturday night the stores of Mrs. Pirtle and Ira Elkins at Justiceburg were entered by burglars and quite a lot of dry goods and groceries taken. Five boys are supposed to have committed the robbery and we learn two of them have been caught and landed in jail at Slaton.

Generally speaking, the sensationality is always degrading.

Patents Granted To Texas Folks

COMPILED BY MUNN & CO., PATENT ATTORNEYS.

Of 811 patents issued in the last week, Texas inventors obtained 15. Do you know any of these inventors?

That these inventions are worth while is attested by the number of the patents that already have been assigned for manufacture and sale. In other cases the inventors are planning to manufacture them themselves or still are negotiating for assignments or royalties.

The following information is compiled by Munn and Company, of New York and Washington, patent and trade mark attorneys.

Gideon Morris, of Grand Saline, is granted a patent on a Dirigible Headlight for automobiles. The invention provides a mechanism for controlling the front headlights, whereby they may be automatically turned to the right or left in accordance with the direction in which the steering wheels are turned, so that the rays of light may illuminate the path being followed by the wheels. The lights are operated by mechanism from the dash board of the car within easy reach of the operator. Mr. Morris has assigned one-half his patent to Willis H. Roberson.

William H. Lyne, of Houston, is granted a patent on a Device For Oil and Gas Wells. This apparatus, in controlling and operating deep wells, is designed to prevent blow-outs. Means is provided for effectively closing or sealing the well when high pressures are encountered. The weight of an inner string of pipe is relied upon to prevent outflow of the pressure fluids.

Marion Samuel Bishir, of Canyon is granted a patent on a Valve-Grinding Device. This invention relates particularly to devices for effectively grinding what are known as overhead valves of the type commonly seated upwardly against the lower seats of the valve cages. The invention includes a holder in which the cage may be effectively clamped in inverted position with the stem of the valve, so that by rotation of the handle the valve may be ground similar to the grinding of a downwardly seated valve in engines having what are known as L-type heads.

Wilmer Thredgill, of Laredo, is granted a patent on a Machine for Picking Cotton. The invention facilitates removal or elimination of cotton fibre and seeds from the plants, particularly in cooperation with frames or fenders.

Arnstead E. Triplett, of Dallas, is granted a patent on a Burial Vault. This invention provides a vault especially useful in ground where there is surface water and seepage. It provides a vault which will be impervious to moisture and which will maintain a casket in a dry hermetically sealed condition for an indefinite period. The vault is in the form of a unit complete in itself and of such shape that it may be used as a building brick.

John R. Klug, of Munday, is granted a patent on a Folding Crate for shipping poultry, eggs, fruit and other material. This crate, which may be cheaply manufactured and is able to withstand rough usage, may be folded readily into compact form to be returned to the shipper or stored in a minimum space for future use.

Walter H. Dever, Jr., of Houston, is granted a patent on a Tool Holder for Ford Automobiles. It is so formed and combined with the standard Ford automobile body as to utilize unoccupied space in front of the front seat and underneath the forwardly projecting front edge of the front seat cushion.

Grady E. Faircloth and William M. Mosley, of Fort Arthur, are granted a patent on a Portable Attachment For Conveyers and other apparatus for manipulating cases and packages from storage tiers and delivering them to a continuously operating conveyor. It is particularly adapted for carrying boxes or cases from the top of tall stacks in a storage warehouse, and delivering them at regular predetermined intervals to a continuously operating conveyor. The inventors have assigned their patent to the Texas Company of New York.

Seven Kansas banks which have been in the hands of receivers will reopen this month. The reopening of the banks is attributed to the large returns from this year's crops.

WEEDS MUST BE CUT FROM EVERY VACANT CITY LOT

By International News Service. KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16.—Hay fever sufferers were cheered somewhat here this week when the city health director issued an order that weeds must be cut from every vacant lot.

"This idea that hay fever is all in the head is right, but its not imagination, by any means," the director stated. "I am going to protect the unlucky ones who cannot get away to another climate."

A city ordinance providing fines of from $1 to $500 a day for each day weeds are permitted to remain unmolested after notification is on the statute books here.

Fort Worth Man In Attendance at Convention

T. J. Harrell, treasurer and seed buyer of the Traders Oil Mill Company at Fort Worth, was among those in attendance at the Ginner convention at the community auditorium Saturday.

Mr. Harrell is well known to the ginnermen of Texas and had among those in attendance at the convention a number of personal friends whom he was glad to have the opportunity of meeting again. The Traders Oil Mill Company is one of the big institutions of the state and operates into all parts of the country, and Mr. Harrell had among his friends here some of the big shippers who are regular patrons of his company.

President Coolidge's one year in the White House has been rather rudely disturbed by the oil lease exposures, the notoriety of Fall, Forbes and Daugherty, the conflict with Congress, the reform bloc and other ills, but on the whole he must have had a pretty good time, for he is quite frankly ambitious to secure a lease for four years more.

Over Three Billion Bushels of Wheat In Okla. Pool

International News Service. ENID, OKLA., Aug. 16.—There are 3,250,000 bushels of wheat in the Oklahoma and Texas Wheat Growers association pool, it was announced by officials this week. Present indications show the 1924 pool will exceed the record established last year.

Thousands of bushels are being stored by members who will be stored by the association for storing their own wheat. Two cents per bushel is paid for each month until September 15.

Aged Man Beaten To Death and Robbed

International News Service. FT. WORTH, Aug. 16.—J. N. Biles, fifty-two years of age who was slugged and robbed Tuesday night in Birdville. He died of injuries in a hospital here today after four days of semi-consciousness and failing to revive sufficiently to throw any light on the mystery. Mrs. Florence Berdes his companion is being held on charges of robbery. She claims that she was also robbed and not guilty of the charge.

to the above 6,500,000 farmers, who realize to the last man that we can never hope to get anywhere in a nation-wide sense until we fight our common battles from behind the same breastworks.

Venerable in age and illustrious in its original demand for such fundamental accomplishments in congress as the interstate commerce act, free rural mail delivery and the parcel post, no one has a higher regard for the National Grange than I have—and yet the most ardent friends of the Grange should realize that it can not hope to compactly organize the corn belt states where the other two organizations have more or less firmly established their sphere of influence. As to the American Farm Bureau Federation, which also has to its credit certain accomplishments of which its leaders are very proud, at its last annual convention I believe it reached a decision not to actively engage in marketing as a national organization; and hence, it seems to be that it is n try, who shall be commissioned to support behind one great, universal, unified marketing plan throughout the length and breadth of the land. And just as I have said that there are certain states which the Grange can not hope to organize (so there are certain other states which for the same reasons the American Farm Bureau Federation can not hope to bring into line, because of the well established position of its two great rivals. And the same facts apply to the Farmers' Union, which was the first to invade the great corn belt stockyards with its co-operative livestock commission companies, which have proved so signally successful and which has many other fields of co-operative endeavor behind it—a record that endears it to the hearts of tens of thousands of "dirt farmers." In other words, we have three great scattered armies, commanded by three sets of generals, proceeding in three different directions—and meanwhile facing enemies who are closely concentrated and commanded by a unified leadership; is it any wonder that we don't seem to be getting anywhere? Surely thus far we have not employed the time-tried tactics of accepted warfare. Time and again the great Napoleon had refused to impart to questioners the secret to which he attributed his remarkable success upon the battlefield—a brilliancy of accomplishment that the world had never witnessed before, and which perhaps it will never witness again. Finally, however, during his last days at St. Helena, when he realized that the end was near, he said to his biographer: "I will answer your question now. It was because I tried to have more and better organized forces at the chief point of attack than those of the enemy!" And he added the famous phrase, "The Lord is usually on the side of the heaviest battalions." And could the spirit of the "Little Corsican" return and sit in council with our present-day farm organization leaders, does anybody doubt that his first verse command would be, "Get your forces together?"

And now no doubt the reader wonders whether I advocate scrapping existing organizations and leaderships, and my answer is, "Emphatically not!" On the contrary, what I have in mind is that the organizations as they now stand shall join in the creation of an American Council of Agriculture and a national marketing plan, and that each organization shall wholeheartedly co-operate in its sphere of influence. And if we can ever get the kinks of jealousy out of our necks long enough to sit around a common council table to "talk things over," I venture the prediction that within forty-eight hours the fundamentals of something substantially along the line of what I have suggested will be agreed upon.
