EVANGELIST OWEN

The Owens Evangelistic campaign opened with a fine singing Sunday morning. The subject of the morning was Sacrifice. The basis of this stirring subject was the text, "And it came to pass as he was praying." Nothing worth while will just come to pass. Worth while things are accomplished through Effort and Sacrifice.

It cost the pilgrim fathers much to plant the protestant seed on American soil and it will cost sacrifice to keep it growing. The very foundation of our American Nation was built on sacrifice. The Evangelist paid a beautiful tribute to the pioneer spirit of sacrifice which is responsible for the development of this beautiful plains country.

He discussed building beautiful homes, proving the home the very foundation of our government. A Home builded by love and sacrifice where we train up future citizens to fill their place in Christia civilization is worth sacrificing and toiling for. There were many moist eyes as he pictured the sacrifice of our mothers and the homes of our childhood.

A full house greeted the Evangelist in the evening. The subject of Christian Enthusiasm was timely and beneficial and the audience gave rapt attention. Mrs. Owens sang "The Old Fashioned Meeting" which was well rendered and enthusiastically received. It carried us back to childhood days.

A number requested prayer at the close of the service and many were the expressions of interest and appreciation.

Increased interest and attendance is expected throughout the week.

The local church desires the cooperation of all good Christians.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The Laymen's service which was held at the Negro Church Sunday afternoon was well attended and a very good program rendered. Rev. J. M. P. Morrow opened the service and introduced Mrs. E. R. Haynes who spoke at length on Education. Mrs. Haynes talk struck the keynote for the afternoon. She was followed by Mrs. Annie Ramsey of Fort Worth whose subject was Training for Christian Service. Mrs. Tom Moore then brought a message of Salvation. A much appreciated part of the program was the music. Mrs. Ratliff and Mrs. Heim sang a duet and several quartettes were rendered by the young men of the Business Men's Bible Class of the Baptist Church. Rev. Morrow made appropriate closing remarks and led in prayer. There were three conversions.

In the regular morning and evening services at the First Baptist church there were eight additions to the church.

First Methodist Church

With an exceptionally large number of members, visitors and new members, present, a great Sunday school service was conducted by the First Methodist Church Sunday morning, and a noticeable increase in attendance over the previous Sunday gave rise to the opinion that renewed interest is being shown in the work.

At the eleven o'clock hour a Laymen's service was given in interest of the West Texas Children's Orphan Home and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown by those in charge.

Attorney Jno. L. Ratliff made a well-received talk in the interest of the home, setting forth the great field it has entered; and describing the manner in which it is meeting its problems.

He was followed by H. H. Hasell, who spoke of the program that has been carried out and upon which work is now being done. An offering was taken, and together with $100 in cash, pledges amounting to several hundred dollars were made.

Rev. McChiken preached to a large and attentive congregation at the evening hour.

Independent's Race Menaced by Dry Treasury

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The LaFollette campaign has run afoul of financial difficulties that are seriously menacing its cause.

Reports of campaign managers submitted to the executive committee today showed that the treasury is nearly dry and that some immediate means must be found to draw dollars or the project cannot be carried out on its planned scale.

So serious is the situation considered that Robert M. LaFollette himself was called into conference to discuss new plans.

HERRIOTT WINS APPROVAL OF DAWES PLAN

By JOHN O'BRIEN

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Having triumphed in the chamber of deputies by winning approval for the Dawes settlement and receiving a vote of confidence on his negotiations in London, M. Herriot is expected to reach his victory in the senate Tuesday.

At 4:30 Sunday morning after a spirited, nerve-racking racket that endured throughout the day and night the chamber voted its support of the London protocols for effectuating Dawes reparations settlement. It gave Herriot a vote of confidence by 336 to 204. France's dynamic socialist premier had won his first critical battle since assuming office. He not only had scored a personal victory but had travelled a long distance in assuring the success of a new opportunity to bring peace back to Europe. It is generally predicted that Herriot will win again in the senate and obtain final ratification for the Dawes protocols. A sharp clash is expected in the upper chamber, especially if ex-Premier Poincare intervenes, but it is practically certain that Herriot will receive a vote of confidence.

The chambers action may take an important place in European history. It means approval of a new policy for France—a policy which includes evacuation of the Ruhr and the pursuit of peace based on the people's confidence and the acceptance of economic facts contained in the Dawes plan. It means also that the entente would be restored and that Germany will be given a chance to recover economically and pay her debts.

WESTHAVEN LOT AWARDED IN CONTEST

The bean guessing contest which was put on by the West Texas company, owners of Westhaven, a new addition to Lubbock in which building sites are being offered for sale, attracted a great deal of attention throughout the last three days of last week, which was given the attention of several hundred local people Saturday evening when the count was made and the winners of the prizes were named.

A count showed that the jar which was placed in the show window of the A. B. Conley, Jr., store, contained 4,654 beans. Billie Ledford, of Lubbock, won first place by putting his guess at 4666, and received a building site in Westhaven. Mrs. Harry Patislo, 1509 Broadway, took second place in the contest and received a suit of clothes by guessing 4,638.

W. R. Lawler, with a guess of 4,680, won third place and received a pair of ten dollar shoes. His home is at 1317-14th street.

The winners of these prizes are to be congratulated upon their successes as there were several thousand guesses made, and competition was close.

Guessing ranged from one thousand to fifty thousand beans.

EIGHT JURORS WOULD COMMUTE SENTENCE TO PRISON

By United News.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Aug. 25.—Eight of the twelve jurors who found William E. Acker guilty of murder favor commutation of the death penalty to life imprisonment. It was announced here Sunday following a special meeting of the board of pardons and paroles.

Acker was condemned to die for the killing of Ever-Enge, of Phoenix, Ariz., two years ago. The execution was to have taken place Aug. 8, but a reprieve was granted less than 24 hours before the hanging was to have occurred.

Acker is now scheduled to die September 5, unless the pardon board acts to reduce his sentence to life imprisonment.

After an unsuccessful search, they went on to Indiana and then drove back to the Pacific coast, never expecting to see their pet again. Six months after their return, Bob came trotting home, weak from fatigue, foot-sore and with claws worn short. It developed that the animal had trailed the automobile from Iowa to Indiana and then had started back on the long trip to Oregon. The state humane society, after investigation, presented the dog with a medal and school children petitioned the village council to give it the freedom of the streets for the rest of its life.

Weather Superstitions Are Disproved by Science

Several common superstitions concerning the weather have been dispelled by the weather bureau at Washington. In both Europe and America there is an old belief that a severe storm—the so-called "equinoctial gale"—is due about the date of either equinox, that is, March 21 or Sept. 22.

According to scientists there is no maximum of storm frequency either in this country or abroad close to the date of either equinox. Of course, in the long run, storms do occur about these dates, just as they occur at all other times in the year, but there is no reason why they should be especially frequent at the equinoxes.

Commenting on the moon's influence on the weather, the bureau says: "Modern science is unable to find any evidence that the moon affects the weather to an appreciable extent, and is unable to conceive of any reason why it should." The belief in "dry" and "wet" moons, indicated by the position of the moon crescent in the evening sky, and a host of other notions are denounced as merely idle superstitions.

Eliminating Jacks in Receiving Sets

When tuning in stations most people use the amplifiers on the start, turning the filament down low while using the phones and turning them up while using the loud speaker. Therefore, the use of a separate jack for the detector and first-stage amplifier is often unnecessary and a useless expense. Besides this, the use of two or more jacks adds to the complication of the construction and requires much more soldering than if only one jack were used.

Handy Orchard Ladder

Picking and fruit picking can be accomplished in a shorter time and with less damage to the trees with the specially devised ladder shown in the illustration, than is possible with the use of an old-style ladder. Upon the upper end of a common ladder a forked extension, made from a length of 2 by 2-in. oak and two lengths of iron, is hinged to swing up and down. It is controlled from below by a lever and ratchet fastened to the side of the ladder, about 4 ft. from the lower end, a discarded cultivator lever being used for the purpose. The lever is connected to the extension by means of a 1/2-in. steel rod, so that the movement of the lever causes a corresponding movement of the extension. The object of the extension is to hold the ladder at convenient distances from the trunk so that any part of the branches can be reached. The extension, being inserted in a crotch, will form a safe support and prevent such damage to the

POSTOFFICE SERVICE UNDER FIRE

It is earnestly hoped that the recent severe criticism of our Postoffice department by Dr. Chas. W. Elliott may result in a few minor reforms that will bring that department somewhere near efficiency for the United States postal service.

Particularly does the first woman governor in the United States want to talk over legislation concerning state economics and reduction of taxes, issues which she stressed during her campaign.

And too, "Ma" wants to forget the strictures of the press, and partisan lines that were drawn in the campaign termed the bitterest in Texas history.

The government is scandalously lavish in expenditures for other conveniences, including automobiles for officials, but pinches the pennies when it comes to a matter affecting every business and professional man in the nation.

COOLIDGE MAY NOW POUNCE ON THE KLAN BUT HE IS ON THE UNEASY SEAT AND MAY STAY MUM

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Whether to pounce the Ku Klux Klan as Davis and LaFollette have done is about the toughest problem President Coolidge has dealt with since he entered the white house because his decision means so much to the political, and therefore the personal fortunes of many republicans who happen to be candidates for office this year.

Looked upon purely from the angle of political expediency, there are powerful considerations in favor of both denunciation and silence. Coolidge's course may mean the success or the failure of the republican-national and state tickets in states like Indiana, Oklahoma, Maine which is now in the heat of a state campaign.

Any course Coolidge follows will hurt him and the ticket in some sections and help in others. The two big reverses which the Klan has met within the month and Mrs. Ferguson's nomination for governor in Texas—have convinced many eastern political observers that the shell of the Klan is broken.

But whether this is true or not, any candidate who offends the Klan is inviting the hostility of a large group of voters. Republicans undoubtedly would have been better pleased had the question never been raised. They are inclined to regard the Davis challenge as a political trick designed to put the president in a hole. It is hardly to be expected that democrats and LaFollette independents will be content with the answer made by Davis at Augusta. Coolidge is certain to be heckled until he breaks his silence.

In a way Davis has forced the president's hand, for it is now more difficult for Coolidge to remain silent when even his own running mate has followed the lead of Davis and LaFollette. Now Coolidge, if he says anything must conform to the view expressed by his partner on the ticket. It would be unthinkable for him and Davis to be out of harmony on this question. But here are some of the tangled state situations that Coolidge must take into consideration. In Texas the republicans will choose a gubernatorial candidate next week to run against Mrs. Ferguson, the anti-klan democrat. There will be a bitter fight between national committeeman R. E. Creager, anti-klan republican and those who will want to put up a candidate sympathetic to the secret order so that the Klan opposition to Mrs. Ferguson will have some logical place to go.

In Oklahoma, the democratic senatorial candidate, Jack Walton, is running on an anti-klan ticket. Pine, the republican senatorial candidate is a Klan endorser. With their narrow margin in the senate, the republicans have no seats to throw away. A Klan denunciation by Coolidge would be presented by Oklahoma democrats as a repudiation of the republican candidate and Walton would gain much benefit from it.

In Kansas, Paulen, the republican nominee for governor was said to have had Klan support. In Missouri, normally evenly balanced, there is a tremendous foreign and negro vote which will be reluctant to support a ticket it believes is friendly toward the Klan.

In Indiana the republican organization is regarded as Klan controlled, yet the negro vote is supported by politicians to be large enough to swing the state either way and a Klan denunciation would win them back, but it would put more ammunition in the hands of the democratic candidates who already have a lot because of the conviction of McCary, former republican governor for misuse of state money.

In New York and New Jersey the problem is simpler for the Klan element is not so strong and the size of the foreign vote overshadows it in importance. President Coolidge has everything to gain and little to lose by attacking the Klan. These are some of the political aspects of the problem but those who know Coolidge do not believe that he will decide the question solely on these considerations. He will also consider the questions of moral principle involved, whether the Klan is an institution for good or evil, and whether a president of the United States can justly prescribe an organization which includes thousands of patriotic citizens.

Prevailing opinion here is that Coolidge will answer Davis and that he will record himself against the Klan in principle while acknowledging the good motives of many of its members. However, a glance at the political problems involved indicates the amount of conflicting pressure with which Coolidge must deal in reaching a decision.

EYE DIVERSION IS MENACE TO NEAR EAST RELIEF

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Trachoma, dread eye disease of the Orient and most ancient of recognized human ills, is seen as a world menace by Dr. R. T. Uhlis, of Kansas City, noted American eye specialist, who has returned to this country after an extensive survey of the disease throughout the Levant in behalf of the Near East Relief.

Dr. Uhlis, after three years of service as eye specialist of the Relief organization, began his final survey six months ago, travelling from Armenia across Persia and Turkestan to Afghanistan and the Chinese border. Because of his success in combating the disease in Armenia, the Moscow Government which controls most of the territory in which his researches were conducted, opened public health records to him and ordered the cooperation of native physicians.

Infection runs higher than fifty per cent of the total population in all areas visited, according to Dr. Uhlis, with a very large proportion of blindness as a direct result of the disease. The demonstration of native The demoralization of native health services since the war and the tremendous lowering in the standards of living caused by the invasion periods of famine are chiefly responsible for the marked increase, Dr. Uhlis said. He said his researches showed that the disease could be prevented and cured, however, and he pointed to the results obtained by the Near East Relief in Armenia, where eleven thousand cures have been effected among children in the relief organizations orphanages, more than eight thousand having been cured during the past year.

"Relief measures also are contributing indirectly to the fight against trachoma in Armenia by the improved methods of sanitation which Americans have introduced and to the increased interest in healthier living conditions which they have awakened in the people," Dr. Uhlis said. "With the cooperation of the government a public health service has been organized that is carrying on an effective educational campaign among the peasants in the outlying districts and more ignorant people in the slums of the cities."

M'COY DEFENSE FUND INCREASED BY $20,000

By HAROLD E. SWISHER
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Funds for the defense of "Kid" McCoy, indicted for slaying of Mrs. Theresa Moss, last in his list of nine lovers, arrived in Los Angeles today by special courier.

A representative of sporting interest in New York—men of the resin square and other haunts of the red blooded fraternity in which the kid has played such a prominent role—shipped into the city with $20,000 which will be spent in the fight to keep McCoy away from the gallows. The money was raised by old friends of the kid who remember him as the good hearted, well liked fellow that he was, and is, "the New York," who asked that his name be not revealed, told the United Press. "And there is plenty more where that came from if necessary."

One of the city's best lawyers was in conference during the day with the man who held the funds and said he expected to take an active part for McCoy. Added to this a desperate battle to spare McCoy from paying the death penalty for the crimes with which he is charged, was the accusation launched by the kid's attorneys that there are irregularities in the grand jury indictment voted against him. Thorman and a member of the jury have been subpoenaed to appear in court Monday, when a plea will be entered with the probability that an effort will be made to quash the charge.

ASTRONOMERS TELL OF REPORTED DISCOVERY

By United News.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The outstanding new discovery on the planet Mars facial complexion is claimed for Walter Gate, astronomer of Sydney, Australia. Gate announced that he had observed a half circle, 4,500 miles long and sixty miles wide, never noticed before. He also reported the disappearance of a definite "canal" 5,000 miles long.

Observers at Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, through their observations became convinced that the planet has a range of temperature with sufficient heat to support an otherwise adapted form of organic life. The planets polar caps and particular patches of green which have darkened as the Martian spring season latens to summer have particularly interested scientists. It is now May 24 on Mars, with
